Algerian mobs battle police

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

ALGIERS — (AP) — Moslems staged a 24-hour general strike and battled French riot squads in many communities of Algeria today to show support for the rebel government and protest against a French threat to partition the country.

Unofficial sources said 13 persons were killed and about 50 wounded.

Arabs and other North Africans, some armed with clubs and knives, fought French Police and soldiers, who responded with rifle fire and tear gas.

The action tended to be most violent in the smaller towns. Massive security forces kept the lid on disturbances in the big coastal cities.

FEAR EXILE

Moslems were enraged at the idea that they might be relegated to the arid interior of this North African territory while the 1,000,000 European settlers took over all the rich and fertile coast.

Two thousand Moslems clashed with police at Telergma, in eastern Algeria. At Miliana, in the central part of the country, some 300 young men, women and children, led by rebel guerrillas in uniform, rushed riot forces who opened fire on them. Five persons, including a French policeman, were reported killed in the two clashes.

One Moslem was reported killed at Constantine. Two Moslems were killed at Castiglione, about 30 miles west of Algiers, when several hundred armed with clubs and knives tried to charge riot police and troops.

Another Moslem was reported killed in Ain Beida, also in eastern Algeria. At Berard, six miles from Castiglione, three Moslems were killed and seven wounded.

The strikers were demonstrating loyalty to the regime of insurgent Premier Ferhat Abbas and protesting President Charles de Gaulle's threat to partition the North African territory.

The first clashes were reported at Telergma, in eastern Algeria, and at Miliana, in the central part of the country.

A French spokesman warned that any large - scale killing would wreck the prospect of negotiations between the French and the rebels, which he said were tentatively scheduled to resume next Monday, July 10.

TROOPS RING MOSLEMS

Other demonstrations seemed to be building up.

At Constantine troops ringed about 300 Moslems waving green and white rebel flags in the main square.

In the Algiers suburb of Point Percade about 100 Moslems gathered but were surrounded by strong riot forces.

Major cities of the country were all but paralyzed economically by the Moslem walkout.

WHERE'S MY BADGE? — Gail Marie Chizmar of Cleveland tugs at the coat of William E. Wyatt, president of the Toronto Kiwanis Club, looking for a badge as Mr. Wyatt pins a badge on her brother, Gregory Allan. The Chizmar family were among 17,000 delegates who are attending an international Kiwanis convention being held in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens.

Govt. can't run a farm Kiwanis rally is told

TORONTO — (CP) — A government can not run a farm and should not try to, Charles B. Shuman president of America Farm Bureau Federation, told 11,000 Kiwanians Tuesday.

Mr. Shuman, head of the non-government farm agency, delivered the same warning in an address to the Kiwanians—at 17,000-strong making up Toronto's largest convention—and in an interview following his speech.

He said that a government can function well in some fields and not at all in others. One of the "others" is farming.

"Economic decisions must be made by those people who can produce a product," Mr. Shuman said.

Mr. Shuman heads an organization that represents some 1,600,000 farm families.

Mr. Shuman predicted that price supports as they now are known in the U.S. may be coming to an end "because farmers are not supporting it and because city people—the taxpayers—are also getting a little tired" of a situation where a farmer can make more money by not planting a crop than by planting one.

Livestock market

MONTREAL (CP) — Morning offerings on the Montreal livestock markets were 81 cattle, 89 calves, 88 hogs and 34 sheep and lambs.

Tuesday 446 cattle, 865 calves, 335 hogs and 117 sheep and lambs were offered.

Price cuts on gas, drugs keep lid on living costs

OTTAWA (CP)—Price cuts on gasoline and drug prescriptions helped keep the lid on Canadian living costs during May and left the consumer price index for June 1 unchanged at 129.0.

These and some other scattered price reductions helped offset higher food and clothing costs, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

The price index — yardstick of consumer living costs—was only two-fifths of a point above the level of 128.6 on June 1 last year. The index, based on 1949 costs equalling 100, hit its peak of 129.3 last Dec. 1.

Prescription drug prices, now under study by the restrictive trade practices commission, declined far enough to more than offset price increases for some other products in the sector of the consumer budget spent on health and personal care. The index of these costs declined to 155.0 from 155.3 between May 1 and June 1.

The index of food costs, however, rose to 123.5 from 123.2.

The levelling - off in living costs during May followed a further increase in industrial wages. The index of average industrial wages and salaries at

Arab League

Confident no attack by Iraq

KUWAIT TOWN (AP) — Arab League Secretary-General Abdel Khalek Hassouna conferred with Kuwait's ruler today about Iraq's claim to the oil-rich little sheikdom and said he thought a peaceful solution could be found to the crisis.

Hassouna, who came to Kuwait after talks with Iraqi leaders in Baghdad, said Iraq would "definitely not" attack Kuwait. But British forces kept a round-the-clock watch on the border.

Hundreds of Kuwaitis cheered Hassouna as he drove Tuesday night to the palace of Sheik Abdullah as-Salim As-Sabah, who requested British help after Premier Abdel Karim Kassem claimed Kuwait and its vast oil reserves as Iraqi territory.

Hassouna made clear he would say nothing for publication about his talks with Kassem and the sheik until he has had a chance to confer with leaders of other Arab countries.

Lady imposes own 'black-out'

GLASGOW (AP) — Catherine McCardle Tuesday completed a six-day jail sentence for painting a book store window black to hide a display of "Lady Chatterley's Lover."

"I don't regret it," the 61-year-old spinster told reporters. "This book is offensive to the citizens of Glasgow. It should be banned. The shop should not be selling such filth. This was the only way I could think of to protest."

Two policemen arrested her two weeks ago. She was sent to jail in lieu of a £20 ($56) fine.

Had she read the D. H. Lawrence work?

"I wouldn't dream of reading it," snapped Miss McCardle.

Missile launched by Israel

TEL AVIV (Reuters)—Israel successfully launched her first multi - stage space rocket at dawn today.

The firing of the missile—described as a sounding rocket—took place from a secret seaside launching base.

Premier David Ben - Gurion watched the operation.

The firing introduced Israel into the small club of space-rocket nations. The United States, Russia, Britain, France, Italy and Japan are the other members.

The weight of the arrow shaped rocket was not disclosed but Israeli scientists reported that its trajectory pierced the ionosphere, at an estimated height of 50 miles.

The firing base was on a hill-top rising from sand dunes on the Mediterranean Coast.

SHOWS 'ABILITY'

Ben-Gurion said "this shows the ability of Israel's scientists . . . It is all-Israeli made."

Part of the information about the multi-stage rocket is still secret but scientists who launched it said it was not guided.

Its head was filled with metallic sodium which exploded into a cloud in the ionosphere.

They said the success of the launching paved the way for firings to greater heights, according to scientists. These rockets will have electronic instruments.

Japan has sent up a three-stage rocket to a height of 220 miles and is reported to be training a monkey for a space flight.

Italy has sent a Nike-Asp rocket 155 miles up to study atmospheric conditions.

France has shot up and recovered a white rat named Hector from a height of 93 miles.

8-hour fire

Town is wiped out

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C.—(CP) — The 90-year-old town of Port Essington was virtually destroyed Tuesday by an eight-hour fire that roared through 21 old buildings, leaving 50 persons homeless.

The 75 inhabitants of the old community, 35 miles southeast of Prince Rupert and 500 miles northwest of Vancouver, escaped unhurt into the surrounding bush. Until a forest service plane arrived that were helpless and without means of communication.

Almost all the residents of the fishing town which was born in gold rush days are members of the Skeena Indian band.

Free schooling is announced

QUEBEC (CP) — Youth Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie announced Tuesday the Quebec government has extended free education to an estimated 16,000 students attending specialized training schools in Quebec.

The measure becomes effective Sept. 1.

A youth department spokesman said the decision will mean a saving of about $100 annually for students attending trade schools, technology institutes, marine institutes, paper, textile and similar institutions.

Mrs. Best had never been on a stage before not even as a child. However, she said, I don't believe that life begins at forty, I think it begins at sixty." "A few weeks ago I'd never even heard of the play and now I'm acting Miss Prism all morning, afternoon and evening. I'll be rather sorry when it's all over," she added.

Mrs. Best was born in Worcestershire, England and came to Canada in 1915 and has stayed here ever since. She has a home in North Hatley but likes to go south in the winter. Last winter she went to the West Indies, but every summer she comes back to North Hatley and is always in demand because of her reputation as an excellent cook. After this weekend she could even be in demand on Broadway too.

Vosburgh to have operation

MONTREAL (CP)—Abel Vosburgh, charged with the murder of his wife and 11 of his children in a fire at the family shack at Noyan, Que., last Dec. 29, has been admitted to hospital suffering from lung cancer.

John Gotlieb, Vosburgh's attorney, said the 63-year-old laberer was taken from his cell at Bordeaux jail last Friday and moved to St. Joseph de Rosemont hospital where he will be operated on Saturday for cancer of the left lung.

North Hatley-ite tries new career

By ALISON SCHOENFELD
(Record Staff Reporter)

NORTH HATLEY — A familiar figure in North Hatley for many years, Mrs Beatrice Best whose usual occupation is cooking has suddenly embarked on another career as an actress.

It all started this way. Mrs. Best was asked to cook for members of the North Hatley Playhouse group this summer and she decided it would be a change from cooking for a family so she accepted.

Mrs. Best quite enjoyed cooking for the 15 actors and actresses but she never thought she'd get any closer to the theatre than this.

A short time ago, however, James Balfour, who is directing The Importance of Being Earnest, the play which will be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday this week, asked Mrs. Best if she'd take the part of the governess, Miss Prism.

Mrs. Best said she couldn't believe he was serious, but soon she found herself combining cooking and rehearsing and getting up at six o'clock in the morning to learn her lines.

Mrs. Best said she doesn't find it difficult at all. "I'm no Marie Dressler, you know, she said," and acting is hard-

Eichmann:

Claims 'barter' proposal

By THOMAS A. REEDY

JERUSALEM (AP) — Adolf Eichmann made the startling claim on the witness stand today that he, and not Heinrich Himmler, proposed the macabre plan to trade the lives of 1,000,000 Jews for trucks badly needed by the Nazi armies in 1944.

The former Gestapo lieutenant-colonel said he devised the idea in Budapest and asked Jewish leader Joel Brand to fly to British-mandated Palestine to try to get the Jewish agency to negotiate with the Western allies.

But Eichmann denied he ever told Brand he would "still the death mills of Auschwitz" or would start them up again if the bargain collapsed.

"I never made such a remark. To still the mills of death or to start them up was beyond the realm of my jurisdiction."

Eichmann told his story of his role in Hungary where he is charged with personally supervising the deportation of 600,000 Jews to their doom. He is indicted by Israel as the mainspring of the whole mass slaughter in his wartime job as chief of "Jewish affairs" in the Gestapo.

The defendant's own view of his job in Hungary was in direct contrast to the evidence submitted by Israel. He did admit "helping" to draw up "travel charts and timetables" for mass deportations ordered by Himmler but contended the main responsibility lay with Nazi Ambassador Edmund Veesenmayer and SS police Chief Otto Winklemann.

Aside from that, Eichmann said he was still an "immigration" officer, even though emigration had been totally banned by that time.

Then he faced into a former colleague, SS Col. Kurt Becher, accusing him of negotiating emigration of Jews in exchange for money and equipment in violation of all of Himmler's directives.

Becher, said Eichmann, had his own ideas of what was good for the Reich and this violated "the police system."

"Here I was, compelled to take part in the work of deportation while others were doing my work emigration," said Eichmann.

"I considered myself an expert. I had enough. Veesenmayer blamed delay in evacuating Jews on transport. This

One of the 'joys' of summer driving

For several miles this usually heavily-travelled highway is a morass and can be used only with difficulty and danger to property and person. Despite warning signs posted by the contractors, garage owners at Chartierville report that a large number of accidents involving serious property damage have occurred during the past few days. Fortunately there have been no deaths or serious injuries.

With no parallel range roads available for use as detours, travellers to or from northeastern New England points wishing to reach south central Quebec must use this road in its present condition or pass by Piopilis some 20 miles to the east or Sawyerville 20 miles to the west.

The problem is further aggravated by the absence of warning signs at road junctions. The first information the motorist has of the condition of the road is a notice posted by the contractor at the site of the work that he travels at his own risk.

Battle rages over Coyne coup de grace is near

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Embattled James E. Coyne clung precariously to the governorship of the Bank of Canada today while furious Commons debate raged around his granite citadel.

But the coup de grace could not be far off.

The government's bill to can Mr. Coyne moved forward one more inexorable step when the Commons Tuesday gave it second reading—approval in principle—by a vote of 153 to 42.

The Progressive Conservatives swamped the Liberals and CCF at this stage after sending to defeat, by a vote of 141 to 37, Opposition Leader Pearson's motion that Mr. Coyne be given a hearing before the Commons banking committee.

The opposition blocked further advance at the three-hour night sitting, however, by continuing to hammer away at their theme that whatever Mr. Coyne's policies the governor was being denied the right to present his side of the case to the body which was being asked to underwrite his dismissal.

HAD LAST WORDS

Liberal Paul Martin, Essex East, had the last words Tuesday night—ominous words for weary MPs anxious to go home.

"We can stay here for weeks," he said.

Today was the 150th sitting of the session. The record, set in 1903, is 155.

The going was hot and heavy all through Tuesday but participants in the debate for the most part merely warmed over arguments made familiar since June 12 when Mr. Coyne revealed the government had asked him to throw in his hand.

Another go-round in the bill's committee stage was scheduled for today. After this the measure gets third reading and goes to the Senate, where the Liberals are in the majority.

There is little or no speculation that the Senate would kill the bill but there is some that it might call Mr. Coyne before one of its committees.

In the Commons committee stage, the opposition ignored the handicap—to them—of the bill having only one clause: "The office of governor of the Bank of Canada shall be deemed to have become vacant immediately upon the coming into force of this act."

MUST LEAVE OFFICE

This means that once royal assent is given the bill, Mr. Coyne will have to vacate the thick-walled bank on downtown Wellington Street from which he has bombarded the government with accusations of "smear," "blackmail," and intimidation.

The government maintains that Mr. Coyne has tried to set himself above the government

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS

LONDON (AP)—Director Leo McCarey, in a censor-defying mood, says he's going to be "the Catholic Otto Preminger."

You'll recall that Preminger did battle with the censors on such films as The Moon is Blue, Man With the Golden Arm and Anatomy of a Murder.

McCarey, the man who gave you Father O'Malley, is the least likely to emulate Preminger. But his Irish is up, and when that happens watch out.

McCarey is here to film Satin Never Sleeps, the story of two contending priests—older and younger. Sound familiar? But this one is different from his classic Going my Way.

AFOUL OF CENSOR

The difference is what ran him afoul of the Johnson office, which censors American films no matter where they are made. McCarey explained:

"I have a scene in the picture in which a young Red Chinese army officer rapes France Nuyen in front of the priest, played by William Holden. The young Chinese does it to taunt the priest, whose spirit he can't break. The scene isn't played for sensation; the rape is never seen.

"I showed it to Roman Catholic authorities, both in the United States and here. Both approved it. But those jerks in the Johnston office wouldn't allow it."

What is he going to do about it?

"I'm going to shoot the scene as it was written," he said. "Why should Preminger have a monopoly?"

HAS TOUCHY THEME

The theme of Satin Never Sleeps is a touchy one. Holden and Clifton Webb play missionaries caught in the Red Chinese sweep. One of the refugees in their charge is France Nuyen, who falls in love with Holden.

"He thinks he can handle the situation," McCarey said, "but Webb warns him he is getting himself into quicksand. And he does.

"I've had no trouble at all with the church on the story. The priests tell me, 'we're no more than human.' They have no objections as long as no physical contact is shown. There won't be any. But that doesn't mean that the ending will be inevitable. I defy anyone to guess what the ending will be."

Files never close on murder

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The files never close on murder.

As the list of unsolved slayings grows, the older cases are pushed farther back in police cabinets. But periodically, investigators blow the dust from the folders, read again the tales of violent death and seek solutions in the light of new techniques and later developments.

Some policemen say there is no such thing as an unsolved murder; that all were unsolved in the beginning and some just take longer than others.

There are more than 100 murders in Canada each year. In the nine years from 1951 to 1959 there were 1,067 murders "known to police" in Canada. Of these, 810 were solved.

On this basis, your chances of getting away with it are about 25 per cent. How long you will get away with it is another matter.

In a Cross-Canada Survey, The Canadian Press found the list of unsolved slayings longest in such crowded centres as Montreal, Vancouver and Toronto.

GOLF COURSE KILLING

Men, women and children have died alone and amid crowds. They have died by mistake and by design. Some were slain with cold deliberation and others in the heat of an unrecallable moment.

In some cases the murderer is known but, for any one of many reasons, cannot be prosecuted.

But the files remain open.

In the last 10 years, police files have swallowed up such names as that of Frank Battaglia, garotted in Montreal in 1956 within an hour of his acquittal on a murder charge.

Nobody has been brought to book in the Jan. 8, 1957, slaying of Clint Burson, 44-year-old bandit stabbed as he mopped the floor in the east block of overcrowded Stony Mountain Penitentiary 14 miles north of Winnipeg.

Still sought are the slayers of Danny Brent, Vancouver nightclub waiter executed in gangland fashion on the 13th green at University golf course.

And still unidentified are the tiny forms of the "Babes in the Wood," a young boy and girl—believed brother and sister—who lay in unmarked, shallow graves for six years in 1,000-acre Stanley Park in Vancouver.

MONTREAL HAS MOST

Montreal, with its history of underworld violence, and Vancouver — struggling with the country's toughest narcotics problems — have the most names on the unsolved list.

Montreal city police list at least 20 slayings in the last 10 years as unsolved. Provincial police show another eight.

They include:

Andre Ochsner, Swiss watch importer, choked to death in his luxury apartment in 1956. Police say the killer is known and turned the name "Cameron" over to Interpol.

The same year an unidentified male torso turned up in a downtown alley. The head was found a few weeks later, wrapped in butcher paper, the features crushed and distorted beyond recognition.

Larry Petrov had just been charged with possession of narcotics when he vanished in 1957. Months later, his leg was recovered from a Laurentian Lake.

Ernest Costello, 38, drank strychnine-laced creme de menthe at a party in Ste. Adele North late in 1958 and died in agony. Police say they believe the poison was intended for another person at the party.

Ken (China Boy) Winford, 32, hanger-on in the Montreal underworld, took a week to die after he was found on a Laurentian highway with three bullet holes.

WOULDN'T TALK

"It's my life," he told police. "I don't have to talk if I don't want to."

Bank manager Royce Smith got in the way when three men held up his establishment on May 20, 1960. The killers stepped over his body on their way out with the loot.

Arsene Malo, 37, and Rejean Raymond, 21, died together on Oct. 4, 1960, in an alley in suburban Ville St. Michel. It was a gangland ritual slaying—each was shot through the back of the head; each had his fists clenched in his hip pockets when the bodies were found.

The year 1958 was a bad one for Vancouver. It left police with six unsolved slayings—three in one case.

David Pauls, 53, was slain as he left his home to pick up his wife, who was working late. Dorothy, their 11 - year - old daughter, was next - she was bludgeoned to death in her bed by the killer who entered the house to wait for the mother.

Mrs. Hellen Pauls, 44, died as she entered the house from work. Rewards totalling $14,000 in this case have lapsed. Police say they have one clue—an unusual type of gun figured in the case and each time one turns up anywhere the Pauls file is pulled from its drawer.

SITTER STRANGLED

Toronto homicide detectives have a file with "murder" in blue capital letters across the cover.

In it are listed such unsolved cases as the disappearance of Marion McDowell, 17-year-old stenographer, when she went for a last ride with her boy friend in 1953. The 19-year-old escort told police they were "cuddling in the front seat" when set upon by an armed man who slugged him unconscious.

Robert Fabian, famed Scotlandland Yard investigator, was called in to help city police; soothsayers and hypnotists wandered through the case, but Marion has not been seen since.

Patricia Ann Lupton, 12, was one of the most tragic cases in the crime record of Toronto, a city with a history of child-slayings.

She posted her name on a supermarket bulletin board for babysitting work. A killer answered the note and her strangled body was found in a snow-covered field. That was in March, 1959.

Today her file bears a notation:

"All leads and possible suspects have been checked out with negative results and, as of this date, the case remains unsolved."

The Walter Hewlett case is a little different. The Brewers' Retail Warehouse manager was slain in a 1955 holdup. Several years later a drifter died of a heart attack in a rooming house. There was little to identify him. Police, noting a resemblance to the description of the Hewlett killer, called back the witnesses.

Some were certain the man was the killer. Others were unsure. Due to the time lapse and lack of certainty — despite a strong feeling that the dead drifter was the slayer" the case remains open."

The whisper "vendetta" ran through Windsor, Ont., the night of Aug. 20, 1958.

Antonio Dipasquali, Italian immigrant laborer, groped to his car in a darkened factory parking lot. At 12:01 a.m. he pressed the starter and died in the explosion he touched off.

"Of course we know what it is all about, but what can we say?" his wife said at the time.

A fellow - employee commented: "It's taken a year coming, but it's come all right."

No clues, case continuing.

ALL SOLVED

Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island and Saskatchewan report no unsolved murders during the last 10 years.

Nova Scotia lists three.

Two unsolved slayings are under investigation in New Brunswick. Two bludgeoning deaths remain unfinished business for police in Alberta.

In Ontario, outside the Toronto and Windsor cases, at least four others are in the police continuing files.

RCMP investigators report each month on all murder cases on their books—if only to say "I have nothing to report this month."

And police admit there are slayings they never hear about—the "Babes in the Wood" lay dead for six years before a gardener stumbled upon their grave.

Others, where the victim is struck down by a killer with little to connect him to the crime, are almost impossible to solve.

But the police philosophy is that in every murder case, somebody knows who did it—or unwittingly holds the key.

And the files are never closed on murder.

Cheryl came out of 11 days' hiding to answer charges she is in danger of leading a lewd and dissolute life. Miss Turner, who turned up at court with her fifth husband, Fred May, said "everything turned out just fine. Nothing was found against her (Cheryl)."

No sun tan month

June wetter, cooler gloomier than '60

Over six inches of rain; an average temperature of a cool 62.60 degrees and only 242.9 hours of sunshine made June, 1961, wetter, cooler, and gloomier than the first month of summer last year.

According to the Lennoxville Experimental Farm meteorological data for the month, last month's rainfall was some two inches higher than June, 1960, and higher than the average monthly rainfall for the past 47 years. Rainfall last year was 4.91 inches and the average monthly rainfall for the past 47 years was 4.09 inches.

These figures are low compared with a June rainfall in 1922 of a record-breaking 10.34 inches. In fact on June 15, 1943 4.08 inches of rain fell on one day, making it the highest rainfall for one day during June in 47 years.

The highest rainfall for one day last month was 1.47 inches on the 21st.

The lowest monthly rainfall for 47 years was 1.69 inches in 1949.

Sunbathers out for an early summer tan were sorely disappointed last month.

The total sunshine for last month fell some 40 hours short of June, 1960. Total sunshine for last month was 242.9 hours while last year June set a record for the higest monthly sunshine in 47 years—282.1 hours.

The average monthly sunshine for 47 years is 217.9 hours.

The month of June in 1922 had the lowest monthly sunshine for 47 years, only 156.0 hours.

The average temperature for June, 1961 proved to be only two degrees below the average temperature for the month of June last year. This year's average temperature for the month is 62.60 degrees while last year's was 64.08 degrees.

The lowest temperature for June this year was 31 degrees on the 7th. This figure is six degrees higher than the lowest temperature for the month for 47 years of 25 degrees on June 8, 1934 and June 2, 1945.

The highest temperature from last month was 85 degrees on June 29.

The average monthly temperature for 47 years in June is 61.92 degrees.

Offers $5 down, $5 a month

Modern day installment plan paying does not apply to court fines.

So a Danville man found out Tuesday when he offered to pay his $160 fine at the rate of $5 down and $5 a week.

Hubert Boissonneault, 21, was fined $100 and costs for driving while under the influence of alcohol; $50 and costs for driving with criminal negligence; and sentenced to pay $10 or spend eight days in prison for driving without a licence.

Sentence was passed by Judge Redmond Hayes in his chambers, Tuesday.

After he turned down Boissonneault's unusual request for installment paying, Judge Hayes granted the young man 15 days in which to raise the money.

Sentence is suspended

A 19-year-old Magog youth was given a suspended sentence Tuesday after he presented the court with receipts stating that he had returned the items which he had previously stolen.

Jean-Marie Thomas pleaded guilty to the charges of theft but showed the judge sufficient evidence that he realized that he had erred and also he was willing to make good his debts to the people from whom he had stolen.

A 17-year-old youth who accompanied Thomas on the robberies has been turned over to Social Welfare Court.

Seriously hurt in car crash

One man was badly injured and two cars were completely wrecked following a collision on highway No. 1 outside East Angus Tuesday afternoon.

Armand Lareau, 55, of La Patrie was taken to the Hotel Dieu following the accident and provincial police said this morning that his condition was serious.

50th anniversary of St. Pat's marked at weekend ceremonies

Some one hundred and fifty former pupils and friends of St. Patrick's Academy, celebrated the 50th anniversary of the arrival in Sherbrooke of the Presentation Brothers, on Saturday and Sunday last at the St. Pat's Old Boys Camp, Stoke Lake.

The celebration also marked the 50th anniversary of the founding of the first school for English speaking Catholics of Sherbrooke, St. Patrick's Academy.

Sylvester Parker, president of the Old Boys Association, presided over the banquet which was attended by representatives of the clergy and teaching profession. In his remarks, Mr. Parker paid high tribute to the work accomplished by the Brothers. Under the guidance of the Brothers, many former pupils have gone forward into various fields of endeavor and have contributed much to their respective communities. Mr. Parker remarked that the present Provincial of the Presentation Brothers, Rev. Brother Philip, was a former student of St. Pat's.

Msgr. J. R. Moisan, Pastor of St. Patrick's Church and Chaplain of the Association, praised the fine work of the Brothers and urged them to continue their work in training of youth.

Rev. Father Quenneville, Rector of St. Pat's, in his remarks, noted the strong attachment the former pupils of the Academy held for their former teachers and the Presentation Brothers in general.

Rev. Brother Philip, Provincial of the Presentation Brothers, thanked the Old Boys Association for organizing this celebration and stated that the memory of the Brothers would be kept alive in Sherbrooke as long as the Association survived.

Henry Crochetiere, Secretary Treasurer of the Association, in his annual report stated that this year at least one hundred youngsters would benefit from the facilities placed at their disposal at the Camp. He also noted that during the past year, the Association had set up a fund to help needy students desiring to further their education. To date six needy students have availed themselves of this fund.

Seated at the Head Table with President Parker were: Rev. Brother Philip, Msgr. J. R. Moisan, W. F. Steele, representing the Catholic School Commission, Mrs. Fred Doherty, who taught at the Academy for more than thirty years, Rev. Father Quenneville, Mr. B. W. Morin, President of the Fathers' Club and Mrs. Morin, Rev. Brothers Benedict, Anthony and Joseph, Mrs. S. Parker Mr. Don Kilgour and Henry Crochetiere.

On Sunday morning Msgr. Moisan celebrated Mass in the Camp Chapel in memory of the deceased teachers and students. Following the Mass many of the guests spent the day at the camp with their families.

First national CGIT conference in 40 years set for Bishop's

For the first time in nearly 40 years, a national conference for some 300 leaders of Canadian Girl in Training (better known as C.G.I.T.) will take place at Bishop's University from July 22 to July 29.

A detailed program of the conference events was released today.

Highlights of the seven-day event will be the official welcome to Bishop's on Saturday afternoon; and the meeting of the Staff, Saturday evening.

On Sunday afternoon an address will be given by guest speaker Dr. G. Baez-Camargo of Mexico. He is the chairman of Program for the World Council of Christian Education and Sunday School Association.

Sunday evening will consist of an informal session on the use of hymns in C.G.I.T. under the leadership of Rev. Gordon Parker.

The same evening a discussion period will be held on how C.G.I.T. leaders can help the girls develop a concern about their vocation. Principals of the Denominational Training schools, will be on hand to aid the leaders in the discussion.

Lectureres, workshops, discussion groups dealing with leadership and the understanding of teenage problems, group work, worship and Bible study will make up the program for the conference and it is hoped that this program will be of help to the leaders and aid them in solving their problems as C.G.I.T. leaders.

A typical conference day will proceed as follows:

9 a.m. Bible study lead by Miss Lois Tupper. Each morning during the conference Miss Tupper will lead the delegates in an hour discussion period on bible study.

11 a.m.— Faith and Life will be the topic of discussion lead by Dr. Katharine Hocking. Such questions are; are we as leaders, facing the big issues of life and are we meeting the real needs of girls in today's world will be discussed.

Immediately following dinner, three hours have been set aside for the viewing of exhibits, committee meetings, C.G.I.T. promotion and free time for sight-seeing.

At 4 p.m. leaders will gather for discussion groups covering four phases of C.G.I.T. leadership.

The first will be on the understanding of the girl in the group. What are the girl's interest and needs, and how does a leader help guide her to develop a program to meet her needs? These and other questions about the adolescent will be answered in this workgroup.

The second workgroup will deal with the problem of understanding the objecttive of Chrisian education. This group is for people with a concern about the program of Christian education in their local churches. The leaders will discuss what the girl's role is in her congregation, her denomination, the world-wide church and other problems.

Workgroup four will discuss the understanding of the development of group programs and workgroup five will undertake the understanding of worship.

After supper delegates will have an opportunity to participate in three different skill groups on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

The first is on Christian drama. Delegates will receive an introduction to Christian drama, and also information about the source material and help available through the Christian drama council.

The music group, under the direction of Mrs. Emma Bresee of Montreal will brief delegates on the use of folk songs, and the importance of using other types of music at C.G.I.T. meetings.

Three other groups have been formed for the conference members. At each of these skill groups, discussions will be centered around use of audio visual techniques; recreation and handicrafts at C.G.I.T. meetings.

International meeting

Vibrant picture of Japanese hospitality painted by delegate to Rotary convention

A vibrant picture of Japanese hospitality was painted at the weekly meeting of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club Tuesday noon by Rotarian Miller Hall as he recounted his activities and experiences at the Rotary International Convention he attended at the end of May in Tokyo.

Mr. Hall was sent to the convention as a voting delegate of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club.

"The 52nd convention had many, many firsts this year." he said. "It was the first such convention to be held in an Asiatic Country and it was the first Rotary International Convention to have such a large attendance.

The convention was attended by 23,666 Rotarians and their wives representing over 11,000 clubs from 74 different countries.

"This record far exceeds that of the 1949 Rotary International Convention held in New York which set the previous record attendance of 15,000 Rotarians." the speaker said.

What impressed Mr. Hall most was the great spirit of friendliness and the sincerity of the Japanese people he met.

"They went all out as hosts this year to make the Convention a success, and a success it was." Mr. Hall said as he described the street decorations and "Welcome Rotarians" signs that dominated Tokyo.

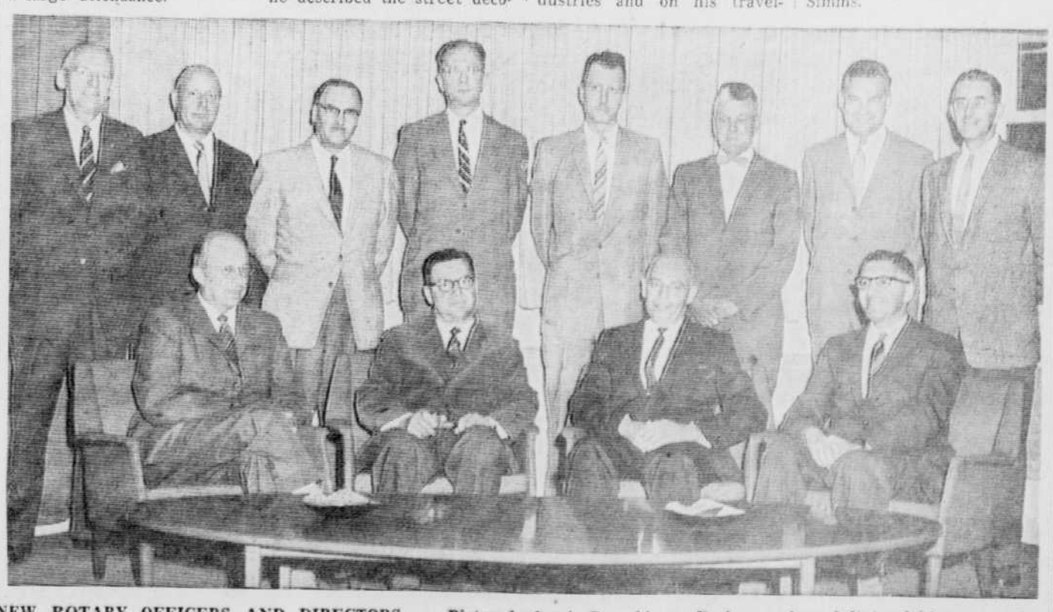

Mr. Hall outlined the highlights of the convention: the parade of flags of all nations; the official welcome by the Emporer and Empress of Japan who were guests at their first meeting; guest speakers such as the Premier of Japan; the governor of Tokyo the president of the Tokyo Rotary Club and the first vice-president of Rotary International.

Mr. Halls reported on his visits to private homes and to Rotary Clubs in Tokyo He reported on visits to industries and on his travellings through the country side seeing the rice fields.

Next year's Rotary International convention will be held in Los Angeles, California.

The speaker was introduced by Lewis Rosenbloom and thanked by Gene Gingras.

The head table included the new 1961-62 officers and directors, Rev. Bill Williams, Lindy Lnidskou, Gerry Miltimore, Forrest Lord, past president Fred Sangster, Gene Gingras, President Paul Theobald, Mr. Hall, speaker, Lewis Rosenbloom, Walter Lefebvre, Norman Welsh, Hawley Griffith and Howard Simms.

For new parks system

Recreation study committee is urged

The Sherbrooke Diocesan Council of Welfare agencies (Caritas-Sherbrooke) has called for a committee of professional social workers be set up to study the recreational habits and problems of the city of Sherbrooke.

This committee would submit a report when it has completed its investigation.

On the basis of this report the parks system in Sherbrooke can be suitably tailored to meet the specifications set forth.

A preliminary study had already been started by Caritas-Sherbrooke but due to a lack of funds it had to be curtailed.

The goal of this study is to give the people of Sherbrooke the necessary space and services to allow them to pass their leisure time in the most enjoyable manner possible.

The study will be accomplished in three steps; first, a report will be prepared on the needs of the population and the existing resources; second, this report will be analyzed; third, a central plan will be prepared to assure that the necessary space and services are available.

Hand of friendship

Valuable help and friendship can be given to underdeveloped countries and newly-emergent nations in many more ways than the spectacular fanfare of President Kennedy's well-publicized Peace Corps.

It is not even necessary to leave one's own country, or indeed, one's own home.

Two Brome county farmers will prove this later in the summer. They will be hosts to two African agriculture students from Tanganyika who are going to study at Macdonald College in Ste. Anne de Bellevue. Before proceeding to the college, the students will spend two months on Brome county farms.

Rudy Dallenbach of Knowlton and John Beerwort of Brome Centre will be hosts to the students. There can be no doubt that they will be able to give the students a close insight into modern Canadian farming methods and our way of life.

But even more than this, by extending the invitation to stay at their farms, the Brome men have stretched out a warm hand of friendship which is as valuable as technical knowledge.

Automation and fishing

The day may not be far distant when a town's shopping district will present, not a row of store fronts but a long, uninterrupted line of vending machines.

A few years ago the automat restaurant was an oddity. Today it is a commonplace.

And where once you could buy cigarettes and chewing gum by depositing the correct change in the slot today's mechanical marvels will not only make change but will supply you with chocolate bars, pies, hot and cold drinks, sandwiches, eggs, perfume and patent medicines to mention only a few commodities.

The machines have also entered the field of personal service in a big way. To some extent they have displaced or threatened the iceman, the dry cleaning man and the shoe shine boy.

And now they are in a business that few would have thought possible a few years ago. They are being used to market fish worms.

Such a machine is in operation at a resort near Asbestos. There, for 25 cents in the slot, you can get a waxed, cardboard tube containing from 15 to 20 large worms all at the presumably correct temperature of 55 degrees.

The next logical step in man's march to complete automation would be to invent a machine that will thread the creatures on a hook for those who have the urge to fish and the funds to indulge themselves, but who lack the courage to do the job themselves.

Bears' place in the zoo

The habit of some service station owners and operators of other establishments seeking the motorist's dollars by displaying bears and other wild animals as attractions for the travellers — and especially children — has resulted in some tragic experiences in the past. One of these occurred recently in Eastern Ontario when a fourteen-year-old boy was so savagely torn by a tethered bear that a physician had to take some 86 stitches in his legs and abdomen.

Two things must be remembered in the keeping of "tamed" wild animals as pets. The animals themselves tend to revert to their wild stage if tormented. And children have the habit of aggravating these beasts, even if only with the idea of giving them pleasure. In this particular case, the boy reportedly goaded the bear by pulling its ears while the animal was eating — and anyone knows what happens when even a well-disciplined dog is bothered when gnawing on a bone.

If bears and other wild animals are to be kept in captivity, they should be confined to a properly-built zoo, adequately fenced, and not left tethered at a roadside filling station.

Ceylon's woman prime minister

Grappling with racial crisis

By SIDNEY WEILAND

COLOMBO, Ceylon (Reuters) Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike, the world's only woman prime minister, is grappling with a racial crisis which could plunge Ceylon into island-wide disorder and bloodshed.

This usually tranquil island faces tensions which twice in the last five years have led to bloody riots and race killings.

Since April, Ceylon's 10,000,000 citizens have lived under a state of emergency.

Officials say violence has been checked only by vigilant military patrolling and the threat of heavy penalties.

But the tension remains, only just below the surface. Five years of open conflict have produced deep-rooted bitterness between the island's two main communities, Sinhalese and Tamils.

Many Ceylonese fear that there is a threat of permanent division, and with it the danger of trouble at any time.

TAMILS INVOLVED

Language is the crux of the problem: How much official status should be given to the Tamil language, spoken by the minority community of about 2,000,000 Tamils? The question has been unresolved since Sinhala, used by 7,000,000 Sinhalese, was declared the island's official language in 1956.

Since then, politicians have wrangled constantly in attempts to define the rights and limitations of the Tamil language.

In 1956, Sinhalese-Tamil rioting caused at least 80 deaths. In riots in 1958, the official death toll was about 160. Unofficial estimates for the two riots gave the total as more than 500 killed.

On Jan. 1 this year, the 1956 decision took legal effect and Sinhala became Ceylon's official language, with supremacy over both English and Tamil. It promptly was challenged by a non-violent agitation launched by the Tamil Federal party.

For two months, Tamil pickets paralysed administration in the Tamil northern province by squatting outside government offices and preventing civil servants from getting in or out. The number of squatters rose to 1,500 a day.

GOVERNMENT ACTS

The state of emergency, imposed April 17, followed clashes between demonstrators and troops.

Worried by the risk of serious violence in the north and the possibility of Sinhalese reprisals against Tamils in the south, Mrs. Bandaranaike ordered general mobilization, put the Tamils under curfew restrictions, imposed press censorship and banned the Federal party.

The government's strong action brought artificial calm to the northern and eastern provinces, the main Tamil areas.

Tamil spokesmen claimed that the army's success was due to Draconian measures, including brutality against the civil population. This was denied by the government, although officials admitted a few "excesses."

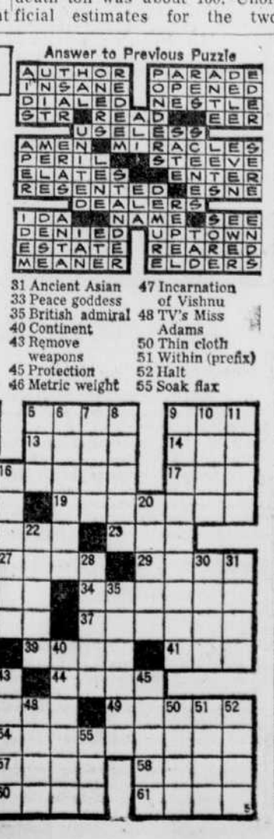

Although the Tamil areas are quiet, resentment and anger remain strong: Local officials say that trouble could blow up overnight if the outlawed Federal party so decided.

The government claims the Federal party, by demanding a federal system to give the Tamils local autonomy, wants, in effect, to set up a separate state on this 25,000-square-mile island.

The Tamils say the government, by openly favoring the Sinhala language and official supremacy for the Buddhist religion, is trying slowly to force the Hindu Tamils out of key jobs and reduce them to second class status.

My road to space: Part IV

First Sputnik poses: 'What next?'

(Distributed by Toronto Telegram News Service, Copyright United States and Canada, 1961. Reproduction in whole or in part prohibited.)

By YURI GAGARIN
Cosmonaut of the U.S.S.R.

The flights we made at the training camp grew more and more interesting. Now it was military aircraft that attracted me. I had read of the sound barrier and of supersonic fighters equipped with the best radar. I dreamt of being an air force pilot.

Autumn surreptitiously stole near. We had the last few sunshiny days of an Indian summer. At night in our tents we shivered from the cold. Examination time came round. Again examinations—for the umpteenth time. Again I passed them with top marks for all subjects.

Some of the trainees joined the civil air fleet, attracted by long-distance cross-country flights and flights abroad.

I wanted to be one of my country's defenders. Article 132 of the Constitution of our state, which declares service in the Army to be the honorable obligation of a Soviet citizen, called me to the ranks of our armed forces.

I was sent to the Orenburg air force school.

"The future belongs to your generation," my instructor had said with a firm farewell handshake. "You will fly planes we could not even dream of."

The steppe-land city of Orenburg met us kindly. It was a city of straight and even streets, small cottages and gardens and orchards, the grounds of which were strewn with fallen autumn leaves. On the markets there was a plentiful assortment of collective farm products and a jumble of horses and camels.

Our task was to learn to fly the jet planes which had already become part and parcel of Soviet aviation. As recruits, we had our heads closely cropped. Uniforms, consisting of a khaki blouse, blue breeches, high boots and a trench-coat, were issued to us. On our shoulders we wore the blue, wing-ornamented straps of a cadet.

January 8, 1956, was a day I will remember all my life. There was a nippy frost outside. The trees creaked and the snow shone a dazzling white in the sunshine. All the recruits were lined up to take the oath of allegiance.

* * *

We did most of our flying in summer, when "in the field". Our 5th squadron pitched its tents on the picturesque banks of the Urals river. After a hard day's sweltering in the heat we went bathing.

Our squadron was the first to complete flight training. As we had some spare time left the commanding officers approving of the Komsomol bureau's initiative allowed us to go off to a collective farm to help dig potatoes. It was a bleak and drizzly autumn but we worked with a will.

At the collective farm we got no mail towards the close of our "harvesting campaign" I felt a nostalgic yearning for Valya, a girl I had met in Orenburg. I liked everything about her — her character, her daintiness, her limpid brown eyes, her braids, and her little nose with the freckles on its tip. Out of secondary school Valya Goryacheva had become a clerk at the city's telegraph office. I made her acquaintance, way back when we passed through quarantine — the girls nicknamed us "the baldies" then — at a dance at the school. She was dressed in a plain pale-blue frock and seemed shy and timid. I invited her to a waltz and that was the beginning of our fast friendship.

Valya is a year my junior. She was born in Orenburg and before she met me had never been out of it. Her father cooked at a sanatorium while her mother was a plain housewife.

I remember the first time I called — straight from a skiing trip. We sat round the table and cracked a bag of forest nuts. My teeth were pretty good and Valya's mother expressed astonishment on seeing how deftly I cracked the nuts open. Valya laughed and said of me:

"He's sharpened his teeth on the granite of knowledge. He's been studying all his life."

Valya and I had much in common. We shared a common affection for books, skating and theatre-going.

* * *

When our potato digging ended the squadron went back to winter quarters at school. However, I had no chance to see Valya, because we were now training for the October parade.

I spent the holidays with Valya and then went off home on furlough. At last I reached Gzhatsk. My father and mother were quietly growing old. My sister and the older brother were doing what they could to help them along. Junior, Boris, had already grown into a young man of 20.

Although I was at home with the family, I couldn't help but feel a longing for Orenburg. The air school had become my second home and then, of course, there was Valya. I told Mum about Valya.

"Are you planning to marry her?" Mum asked.

I shrugged my shoulders in reply. "If you love her, marry her, only for all your life, like dad and me," Mum said. "And go shares in everything, for better and worse."

I didn't stay till my furlough was up and went back to Orenburg. Valya was overjoyed. She knew why I had come back.

On my birthday she gave me two photographs of herself. On one she wore the white smock of a nurse and on the other her Sunday's best. On the reverse she had written: "remember, Yuri, that we ourselves forge our own happinings. Don't bow to fate. The art of waiting is a great art. Preserve this feeling till your happiest moment. March 9, 1957, Valya."

At last came the long-awaited day of my first flight on a MIG jet. It went off just in the same way as my first solo flight. It was with the same thrill that I took off, described a broad circle in a cloudless sky, and pleased as punch, returned to the airfield, convinced that faster speeds made flying still harder.

Graduation exams drew near. It was at this time that a world-staggering event took place. I remember, as if it were yesterday, how Yuri Dergunov ran up and shouted:

"Sputnik! It's our Sputnik in the sky!"

Again that familiar thrill coursed through my blood.

When we got back from the airfield in the evening we gathered round the radio-set to greedily drink in the accumulating news flashes about the movements of the world's first "cosmonaut."

Sputnik was the main topic of conversation and its round-the-earth flight had the entire school on tenterhooks. All of us, cadet, instructor or commander were asking: "What next?"

In some 15 years from now, fellows," my pal Valentin Zlobin exicitedly declared, "a man will go up in a space ship."

We argued as to who would go up first. Some said it would surely be a scientist, an academician. Others claimed it would be an engineer. There were some who thought it would be a doctor, others who fancied a biologist, and still others who believed it would be an underwater diver.

I hoped it would be a test pilot.

The Berlin problem

Like a slow waltz on an old record

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's like playing a slow waltz on an old phonograph record.

Almost move by move, statement by statement, Russia and the West are going through a repetition of the Berlin problem of 1958-59.

That time Premier Khrushchev threatened a showdown in six months but let it melt away. Now he's set another six-month deadline.

Maybe now it will reach a crisis. Maybe it won't, since neither Khrushchev nor the West wants war.

It's possible he's stirring the Berlin kettle, with all its dangers, just to get concessions later from the worried West on something not now guessed.

* * *

Here's a run-down on a few of the parallels:

1. Khrushchev proposed West Berlin be made a "free city" with the Allies pulling out their troops Nov. 27, 1958.

Khrushchev at the Vienna meeting with President Kennedy earlier this month proposed the same thing June 4, 1961.

2. President Eisenhower said the U.S. had a firm obligation to defend the people of West Berlin Jan. 7, 1959.

Kennedy said the Allies are determined to maintain their Berlin rights "at any risk" and their obligation to the Berliners Jan. 6, 1961.

3. The Russians called for a 28-country conference to negotiate a peace treaty based on reunification of Germany Jan. 19, 1959.

The Russians proposed calling a peace conference on a German peace treaty June 11, 1961.

* * *

4. Walter Ulbricht, Communist boss of East Germany, pledged there would be no blockade if the West "respected" East Germany's "sovereignty," although the West doesn't recognize East Germany as a sovereign government Jan. 18, 1959.

Khrushchev said there would be no blockade of Berlin June 27, 1961.

5. Khrushchev warned it would be the "beginning of war" if the Allies tried to force their way through to Berlin ment since Jan. 18, 1959.

Khrushchev warned the Western powers they'd get their come-uppance if they tried any rough stuff June 27, 1961.

6. Eisenhower told the Russians to cut out making threats Jan. 1, 1959.

Kennedy told the Russians to cut out making threats June 27, 1961.

7. Eisenhower said the United States would be glad to join Russia in "any talks that deal fruitfully with the differences between our different people and our different governments Jan. 28, 1961."

High government officials said they're considering proposing a new round of East-West talks on Berlin within the framework of the over-all problem of divided Germany June 28, 1961.

8. Soviet and Western foreign ministers—at the suggestion of the West—met from May 11, 1959 to July 13, 1959 to talk about Berlin and Germany. About all they agreed on was to give up trying to agree. So they went home.

There'll probably be a foreign ministers meeting in 1961.

JACOBY On Bridge

WHEN TO LEAD TRUMP SUIT

When should you consider a trump opening? The answer is, "Any time you hold a trump."

When should you actually make the trump opening? This is the big question. If you can answer it, you can win at bridge in any company.

The trump lead usually gives declarer the initiative, but it also can start to eliminate dummy's ruffing power.

West has an ideal hand for a trump opening against South's two spade bid. He is pretty sure that North will eventually be able to ruff some suit and the trump opening will kill one ruff immediately.

South won the trump lead in his own hand and led a low heart. East overtook West's nine with the jack in order to lead a second trump. Now West won the next heart and played his third and last trump, whereupon declarer was left with two losing hearts and no place to get rid of them. All he could make were five trumps and two diamonds. He was down one.

Suppose West had made his alternate opening of the diamond queen. South would win and lead a heart. Now the defenders could play another diamond, shift to a trump or whistle a merry tune. It would not make any difference.

South would be able to ruff at least one heart in dummy and would make his part score instead of going down.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1 Heart	Pass	2 Dmds.	Pass
2 Hearts	Pass	2 Spade	Pass
3 Hearts	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
Spades A-K-4-2, Hearts 7-6, Diamonds K-Q-9-7-4, Clubs Q-2.
What do you do?

A—Bid four hearts. You have 14 points opposite an opening bid and your partner surely holds at least six good trumps.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of rebidding to three hearts your partner has jumped directly to four hearts over your two spades. What do you do in this case?

Revives dead pet

WINDSOR, England (AP)—A 66-year-old widow breathed into her pet pug dog's mouth for two hours to revive the animal after it had collapsed through heat exhaustion. The pug, VI Queen Black Violet, was prostrated after a 100-mile trip for exhibition in a local dog show. After a heart injection the dog was on the way to recovery.

Red China profits in food deal

HONG KONG (AP) — Relief for Communist China's hungry millions has been turned into a profitable business on both sides of the bamboo curtain.

The Peking regime always turned a tidy profit on food packages sent from abroad. Now that crop failures are spreading hunger across the land, more food packages than ever before are arriving and Peking's take has soared.

Hong Kong merchants are making money with special offers to get food packages to the hungry Chinese. Overseas Chinese foot the bill.

Under normal conditions, Red China permitted the individual Chinese to receive one food package of one kilogram (2.2 pounds) a month from abroad. It profited on these packages three ways.

Most of the food came originally from Communist China and was sold in Hong Kong. The Chinese Reds collected in badly needed hard currency on the original sale of the food here.

When it returned to the form of food parcels they levied duty on it, ranging from 25 to 200 per cent of the value of the contents.

RELAXED RESTRICTIONS

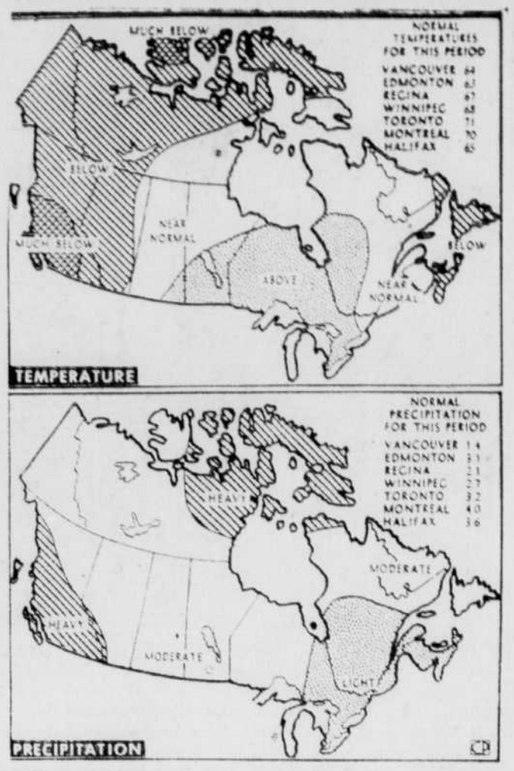

In a sense they collected a third way—the recipients were fed at no cost to the government.

Early this year—under pressure of rising hunger at home—the Chinese Communists relaxed restrictions on the size of food parcels.

Hong Kong started specializing in food packages to Red China and the Communists themselves opened special stores in Hong Kong dealing in food parcels. Several hundred stores now handle food parcels.

There is no reliable estimate of the amount of relief food going into Red China. For January it was officially estimated at more than $2,000,000.

The mark-up ranges from 50 per cent to 500 per cent a package. In other words, you have to pay from $15 to $60 to ship $10 worth of food to China, depending on the contents.

WARM OUTLOOK — Above normal temperatures are predicted for most of Canada in the 30-day outlook of the United States weather office. The west coast will have below normal temperatures. The outlook is based on long-range predictions. It is not a specific forecast and a change in weather pattern may produce major errors. Light precipitation is forecast for central Canada but heavy rain is expected in Southwest British Columbia.

Cookshire couple marks 50th wedding anniversary

COOKSHIRE — Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Morrow were At Home on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary on June 28.

Relatives and friends called during the afternoon and evening to offer their congratulations and best wishes.

Mrs. Morrow was presented with a corsage of Orange Delight roses, and Mr. Morrow a carnation boutonniere, gifts of their granddaughter, Barbara Learned.

Refreshments were served by their daughtter, Mrs. Ruoert Learned, assisted by Barbara Learned and Mrs. Charles Picard.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with baskets of summer flowers and the tea table, which was covered with a lace and linen cloth, a wedding gift of 50 years ago, was centered with a three-tier wedding cake, flanked by low bowls of golden yellow pansies. The cake was made by their daughter Mildred, Mrs. Learned.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrow were the recipients of numerous cards and gifts, and expressed their thanks to all who had made the occasion such a happy one.

Out of town guests were from Bury, Birchton, Eaton, Lennoxville, Sawyerville, Lancaster, N.H., and Gagnon.

PRICE CUTS

May 1—latest date available—was 182.0 compared with 180.7 a month earlier and 176.9 a year earlier. The index is based on 1949 wages equalling 100.

HOUSING WAS STEADY

This wages index, computed from a survey of firms employing more than 10 persons and covering a wide range of industries, represents an average of total wages paid.

The largest item in the price index — housing costs — held steady at 132.9 during May. Lower gasoline prices in some areas pushed down the index of consumer transportation costs to 141.2 from 141.8.

The clothing index edged up to a record 112.5 from 112.4. The index of recreation and reading costs declined to 145.8 from 146.0, and the index of tobacco and alcohol prices held unchanged at 115.8.

Wholesale price indexes also have been fairly steady. The index of 30 industrial materials stood at 242.9 June 23, unchanged from four weeks earlier. In the same period the index of Canadian farm products at terminal markets edged up to 214.1 from 213.5. Both indexes are based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100.

Mrs. Courville served tea and ice cream. She presented a gift for the new baby from the staff and patients.

and Parliament and has refused to co-operate in carrying out government policy.

The opposition contends that the government has not proved this and that Mr. Coyne and Finance Minister Fleming should testify before a committee.

A side issue developed Tuesday night when Mr. Fleming revealed the international monetary fund was informed—in confidence—of the government's intention to lower the exchange rate on the Canadian dollar on the afternoon of budget night June 20 when this was announced.

Mr. Regier said that under the Canadian system of government Mr. Fleming "owed" his resignation to the Commons because he had divulged certain contents of the budget to the fund before making them available to the Canadian public.

Mr. Regier said the issue was so important that the Commons should discuss it immediately. His motion to adjourn the Coyne debate was overwhelmed 132 to 6.

Search for water

HONG KONG (AP)—The Chinese communists are digging wells in their arid northern provinces in a desperate search for water. The official New China news agency reports thousands of drills are working day and night in drought-stricken north and northwest China in an effort to locate underground water.

Tax men pay visit to priests

MONTREAL (CP)—The Montreal French - language daily newspaper Le Devoir says Tuesday income tax inspectors visited two church presbyteries last week and asked parish priests to sign a statement "to modify or even to annul charity receipts given in their parishes."

Le Devoir does not name the parishes or the priests.

The newspaper quotes one parish priest as saying he told income tax inspectors he would not sign a statement "without a letter from the archbishop's palace."

The other parish priest, Le Devoir said, refused to sign the statement but signed one he modified himself. He would not reveal the contents of the statement he signed.

Approximate wording of the letter the two priests were asked to sign, Le Devoir says, was as follows:

"I, the undersigned parish priest, do allow income tax officers to modify, to annul or to change charity receipts given in my parish."

of the states agreed while Saudi Arabia—Kuwait's chief backer in the league—abstained. Iraq has said it will oppose Kuwait's admission.

The British here feel that if the league fails to solve the Kuwait crisis, they may have to hand over the sheikdom's defence to the United Nations. The British defence force has been welcomed in Kuwait, but there were fear a prolonged stay would allow Iraq to whip up anti-British feeling throughout the Middle East.

The first public Kuwaiti criticism of the British intervention was expressed Tuesday by the nationalist paper Hadif which represents Kuwait's wealthy merchant class. It repeated the claim of a Cairo newspaper that the British put Kassem up to claiming Kuwait so they could bring troops in.

Foreign Secretary Earl Home said in London Britain will keep a force in Kuwait big enough to protect its independence "but no larger than that."

Air Marshal Sir Charles Elworthy of the RAF now has about 10,000 British regulars under his command here plus 10,000 Kuwait regulars, desert tribesmen and Saudi Arabian volunteers.

DEVISED A PLAN

Then, said Eichmann, he devised the "mass emigration" plan. He sent aides to the Jewish community to sound them out.

"I knew I had to come up with a definite program for my superiors."

Brand call on him. Eichmann testified, and was told that 100,000 or 200,000 Jews could be saved. Then Eichmann raised the figure to 1,000,000.

"I raised it to a million in order to psychologically succeed with my superiors. SS Gen. Heinrich Ueller would not be swayed by mercy or small numbers. But the figure of 1,000,000 I knew was too big for him to reject."

MAGWOOD — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, William Robert, Magwood, who passed away July 5th, 1950.

There comes a time for all of us
When we must say goodbye.
But faith and hope, and love and trust
Can never, never die.
Although the curtain falls at last
Is that a cause to grieve?
The future is there, then the past —
If only we believe
And trust in God's eternal care;
So, when the master calls
Let's say that life is still now fair
Although the curtain falls.
Always remembered by,
WIFE and FAMILY,
Thetford Mines, and Montreal.

SWEET — In sad and loving memory of Douglas R. Sweet, who passed away a year ago July 3, 1960.

We are thinking of you today dear,
But then that's nothing new—
We think about you every day

RICHMOND

For 70 years there has been no Richmond Catholic School Commission election. However, we will see what happens this year.
We are pleased to give herewith a resume of the activities of Romeo Marcotte of Richmond, a man who has established a fine reputation in this community.
Mr. Marcotte was born in Grande-Clariere, Manitoba. After completing his studies at College St. Frederic in Drummondville, he accepted employment with the C.P.R. for four years, then became a furniture merchant in Woonsocket, Rhode Island, for two years, after which he established himself in the furniture business in Richmond. He has continued in this line for 35 years.

Mr. Marcotte is active in religious and civic groups. He has been president of the Senior Chamber of Commerce and a member of the chamber for 42 years. He is honorary president of the Junior Chamber; a past president and honorary member of the St. Jean Baptiste Society; a co-founder, president and director of the Richmond Development Company, which was formed to give financial aid to industries wishing to establish in Richmond and which has added substantially to the economy of the district. He is a co-founder and past president of the Richmond-Melbourne Golf Club; a member and former director of the Eastern Townships Forestry Association; former urban president and director of the Sherbrooke Diocese School Commissions; a Fourth Degree Knight of Columbus and member of K. of C. Council 1950 for 43 years and a school commissioner for 12 years.

Mr. Marcotte is pleased to present himself as a candidate; he encourages all eligible voters to cast their ballots. He asks for your confidence and your vote, and assures you that he will take pleasure in continuing to serve the population of Richmond.

Voting will take place July 10th, 8 A.M. to 6 P.M., at Richmond's Notre Dame School.

So, eligible voters, you are asked to support and vote for a man who has worked for the good of Richmond for the past 35 years; a man who has given of his best for the well-being of his fellow-citizens. He is asking that you allow him to serve you for another term on the Richmond Catholic School Commission.

R. A. MARCOTTE,
Richmond.

Tigers Split To Retain One-Game Lead

Detroit Tigers emerged from the July 4 firing in the American League with a one-game lead by surprising even manager Bob Scheffing with a steal of home and a squeeze bunt against the second-place New York Yankees.

After slipping to second place when they blew the opener of a showdown doubleheader at New York, losing 6-2 as southpaw Whitey Ford won his 15th for the Yankees, the Tigers bounced back on top with a 4-3, 10-inning decision in the nightcap.

Scheffing admitted he "was as surprised as anyone," when pinch runner Chico Fernandez stole home in the ninth, for a 3-2 lead. Winning righthander Frank Lary then clinched it with a two-out, two - strike squeeze in the 10th.

That put Detroit in first place on July 4 for the first time since 1950. It gave the Tigers a 6-5 lead in the season series as they kissed the Yankees goodbye until Sept. 1.

ORIOLES ADVANCE

In other American League games, Baltimore Orioles moved within 1½ games of third-place Cleveland by clubbing the Indians 5-1; Washington Senators belted Boston Red Sox 7-3; Minnesota Twins beat Chicago White Sox twice, 6-4 and 4-2, and Los Angeles Angels fled the cellar with a 12-5 and 7-5 sweep over Kansas City that plunked the Athletics into 10th place.

During the past 60 years, 41 July 4 leaders have gone to win the pennant in the American League. The Tigers, incidentally, finished second to New York in 1950.

Lary's perfect bunt came with two on against Bill Stafford (6-4), the loser in relief. Then relievers Hank Aguirre and Terry Fox saved it for Lary (12-4), Fox getting Bill Skowron to fly out with the tying run on third base.

Lary, now 26 - 9 lifetime against New York and 3-1 this season, had a three-hit shutout until the eighth inning, when Roger Maris tied it two-all with his 31st home run and moved 17 games ahead of Babe Ruth's record-60 pace of 1927. After Fernandez' steal of nome against rookie Roland Sheldon, the Yanks tied it on a pinch single by Hector Lopez.

OUTDREW NATIONAL

The crowd of 74,246—largest in 14 years at Yankee Stadium, biggest of the year in the majors and 8,000 more than the entire National League drew—saw what they came to see when Ford (15-2) won his ninth in a row in the opener. The little lefty gave up five hits, one a home run by Dick Brown and fanned 11 to raise his strikeout total to 119. Elston Howard's three-run triple was the big blow against loser Don Mossi (9-2) in the six-run fifth.

A pair of homers by Gus Triandos, good for four runs against loser Wynn Hawkins (5-8), and a solo shot by Earl Robinson won for the Orioles. Lefthander Steve Barber (9-6) was backed by four double plays.

Gene Woodling drove in four runs, three with a first-inning homer, for the Senators, who got the clincher in the sixth on a double by bonus shortstop Ron Stillwell off loser Don Schwall (6-2). Tom Cheney won his first for the Senators with relief help.

HIT GRAND-SLAM

The Twins took the opener on a pinch-hit grand-slam home run by Julio Becquer in the ninth inning that gave the decision to reliever Chuck Stobbs (2 - 3). Harmon Killebrew's three-run, inside - the - park homer wrapped up the nightcap for Jack Kralick (8 - 5). Frank Baumann (5-7), working in relief, and Cal McLish (4-8) were the losers for the White Sox, who have dropped seven of eight since winning 12 straight and 19 of 20.

George and Leroy Thomas, unrelated Angels, hit three-run homers in the opener as Ted Bowsfield (5-2), the Penticton, B.C. pitching product, beat Lew Krausse (1-3), the $125,000 right-hander who shut out Los Angeles on three hits in his pro debut. Rocky Bridges' first home run in two seasons brought the Angels behind in the second game in a six-run seventh. Tom Morgan (2-1) was the winner and Ed Rakow (1-3) the loser, both in relief.

Jacques Monette Clouts His 12th Homer, Claude Prud'Homme Posts 7th Win, Locals Quit Loop Cellar

Sherbrooke Als romped to their fourth straight victory by downing Acton Vale 9-4 last night at the local stadium. The other Provincial Eastern Townships Baseball League fixture saw the Coaticook Canadians batter the Drummondville Royals 8-3.

The Als registered their fifth win in six games and Jacques Monette belted his twelfth home run of the season. This win enabled the Als to vacate the cellar of the league. Sherbrooke now is situated in fifth spot one half game in front of Drummondville.

Claude Prud'Homme started for the Als and went the full distance thus earning his seventh victory. Although Prud'Homme allowed twelve hits, his fine control usually enabled him to retire the side before any damage was done.

Prud'Homme also did his share in the hitting department. In the sixth inning he collected two RBI's on a single giving Sherbrooke a very comfortable 7-4 lead in the game.

Andre Vaudry was the starting hurler for Acton Vale, but he was unable to go all the way. He was given the loss after allowing five hits for seven points before being relieved in the sixth by Corbeil. Tetrault finished the game by pitching the eighth but it was too late to turn the tide.

Monette's homer, Bill Mastin's two singles, Wojey's double, plus singles by Claude Prud'Homme, Yvon Dubois and Normie Jacques paced the Als to their victory.

Sherbrooke committed three errors to Acton Vale's two, but the fact they kept putting men on the bases is responsible for their good showing.

Although Acton Vale out hit Sherbrooke 12-7 they did not have the necessary men on base to capitalize upon opportunities when they presented themselves. Rene Valois was the big man at bat for Acton Vale as he belted out three singles plus a homer in the ninth. Groulx, Boucher, Desordy, Banville, Vaudry, and Charron produced with hits, but all was in vain.

Paul Molloy's Canadians inflicted a 8-3 defeat on the Royals in the other game played last night. The victory gave them sole position of third place in the league standings.

Bill Marston pitched the entire game for Coaticook, and is credited with the win. Dominique Chabot suffered the loss for the Royals. Marcel Durand put the Canadians into an early lead by hitting a homer in the first inning. His team mate, Marcel Benoit, was also a stand out getting four for four.

This was the Canadians' second consecutive victory as they defeated the Granby Knights 3-2 last Sunday. Their next tilt will take place next Sunday when they will play host to Acton Vale.

Concordia Ties Espanol 1-1

MONTREAL (CP) — Outside right Sam Lawrie played an outstanding game Tuesday night to enable Montreal Concordia to earn a 1-1 tie with highly-rated Espanol of Spain in an International Soccer League game.

Lawrie scored Concordia's goal at 22:00 of the second half after outside left Antonio Camps put Spain ahead at 7:00 of the first half.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Pitching — Joey Jay, Reds, shut out Pirates on three singles, giving up two walks and striking out three, for 2-0 victory.

Redlegs Hold First On July 4th, A Position That Is Supposed To Give Pennant, Retain Two-Game Lead

Cincinnati Reds still hold first place by two games over Los Angeles now that the smoke has settled on July 4 in the National League race, and that's supposed to be a position that promises a pennant.

Tradition has it that the Fourth of July leader wins the flag, yet the Reds have been able to cash in on that bit of folklore only once in three chances. They were on top on July 4, 1957, and finished fourth. Tradition held for the Reds in 1939. But when they repeated in 1940, Brooklyn led on July 4.

Win or lose, the Reds have opened up a 5½-game spread over third-place San Francisco, lead fourth-place Pittsburgh by eight and fifth-place Milwaukee by 11½.

The Reds retained their two-game edge by beating Pittsburgh 2-0 on the three-hit pitching of Joey Jay while the second place Dodgers won their fifth in a row, 6-5 at Milwaukee. San Francisco split a pair at Chicago, winning 19-3 before the Cubs made off with a 3-2 decision. St. Louis and Philadelphia split, the Cards winning 10-7 and the Phils taking the nightcap 10-6.

Jay (11-4) gave up nothing but singles, walked but two and struck out three as the Reds won their fourth in a row. A fifth-inning home run by Gene Freese broke up a shutout duel with Earl Francis (1-3).

WILLIAMS WON IT

The Dodgers handed the Braves their fifth defeat in six games by getting all their runs in the first inning off Bob Hendley and reliever Don Nottebart. Stan Williams (8-7) was the winner with relief help from Dick Farrell, who gave up a home run by Hank Aaron.

Ed Mathews of the Braves and Daryl Spencer of the Dodgers suffered injuries when Spencer slid into Mathews while being tagged out at third.

Orlando Cepeda drove in eight runs for the Giants in the opener with five consecutive hits, including a three - run homer. Billy O'Dell (4-3) was the winner, giving up just two hits after relieving Ed Fisher in the first inning. Don Cardwell (7-6) lost.

Ron Santo's eighth - inning home run broke a 2-2 tie in the second game and beat reliever Dick Lemay. Jack Curtis (5-2) and reliever Bob Anderson held Cepeda to a pair of singles in this one, but Willie Mays belted his 100th home run for the Giants.

Stan Musial drove in four runs with a triple and a homer for the Cards in the first game as Curt Simmons (3-7) beat Don Ferrarese (1 - 4). The Phils ended their losing string at seven in the nightcap, overhauling a 6-0 Card lead on a three-run homer by Jim Coker in the seventh inning off losing reliever Craig Anderson. Jack Baldschun won in relief.

Last Inning Rally And Infield Error Gives Senators 5-4 Win Over White Sox, One Game Tonight

An infield error, in the sixth inning, allowed what proved to be the winning run to give the Senators a hard earned 5-4 win over the White Sox in a Little League encounter at the Parade Grounds last night. Johnny Vear hurling for the Sox, couldn't work any harder to win a game and had a one-hitter until the last inning. Tonight Indians and Tigers clash. Senators' win last night gives them a solid second spot in the league standings.

A hit, by Don Hutchison, coupled with two walks got the Senators away to a 2-0 lead in the top of the opening inning. No runs, no hits went to each team in the second and third. Tip top infield play by both teams kept the score down. Michel Brunet, the Senator second baseman, and Daniel Labonte, the Sox shortstop, were brilliant in these innings.

Senators it was noticed changed their pitcher in the fourth. Peter Palmer replacing Bob Nolet on the mound. The Sox greeted Palmer with three hits that were good for four runs the hitters being Daniel Labonte, Alain Duplesses and George Meisener. These runs put the Sox ahead by a 4-2 count.

Each team went scoreless in the fifth though the Sox got two hits in the inning. Top of the sixth Michel Bergamin started the inning off with a single. Ricky Walker also connected and Robin Neil's short hit to right field sent home the tying run. Neil, resting on second, and when Palmer, next up, was safe on an infield error he tallied the third run putting the Senators ahead 5-4. The game ended this way as the Sox went hitless in their part of the last inning.

The two teams put up what was probably one of the best games so far this season. Johnny Vear, Bob Nolet, Michel Brunet and Daniel Labonte all deserve stars in a well played game. Mullin, R. Lacasse and Webb were the umpires.

Chuck McKinley And Mike Sangster, Two Powerhouse Players, Clash In Semi-Finals Of Wimbledon Tourney

LONDON (CP) — The men's semi-final round took centre court prominence at the 75th Wimbledon tennis championships today.

Second-ranked Rod Laver of Australia was to meet sixth-seeded Ramanthan Krishnan of India in the first match and eighth-ranked Chuck McKinley of the United States was scheduled to take on unranked Mike Sangster of Britain.

Laver, the fireball lefthander, has reached the finals in the last two Wimbledons only to go down to defeat—to Neale Fraser of Australia in 1960 and Alex Olmedo of Peru in 1959. He says it will be different this year.

Laver made the semi-finals Monday dropping Luis Ayala of Chile 6-1, 6-0, 6-1. His opponent today, inscrutable Krishnan, entered the semi-finals with a big 6-1, 6-4, 6-4 upset Monday over Australian champion Roy Emerson.

McKinley Monday defeated Briton Bobby Wilson, who had dumped top - ranked Neale Fraser of Australia, to enter the semi-finals 6-4, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

GIRLS MOVED ON

Two girls from South Africa and two from Britain moved into women's semi-final round Tuesday in an afternoon of surprises.

Unranked Renee Schuurman of South Africa upset eighth-ranked American Karen Kantze 6-4, 2-6, 7-5.

In another upset, Christine Truman of Britain beat second-ranked Australian champion Margaret Smith 3-6, 6-3, 9-7.

South Africa's Sandra Reynolds, last year's defeated finalist and top-ranked this year, overcame Yola Ramirez of Mexico 4-6, 6-3, 6-0.

Miss Reynolds is favored to take Brazilian Maria Bueno's undefended crown.

In the other quarter - final match Tuesday, Angela Mortimer of England beat Mrs. Vera Sukova of Czechoslovakia 6-3, 6-4.

The women's semi-finals will be held Thursday with Miss Schuurman and Miss Truman meeting in one match and Miss Reynolds and Miss Mortimer in the other.

O'Keefe Tourney To Be Held At East Angus

EAST ANGUS — June 30, 1961—The East Angus Golf Club will play host to an O'Keefe Quebec Circuit Amateur Tournament, next Saturday and Sunday, July 8th and 9th.

A large turn-out is expected from Clubs in Sherbrooke, Thetford Mines, Lennoxville, Asbestos, Drummondville and Windsor Mills.

Charlie Laverdiere, the East Angus Club Pro, declared the area could field a brilliant roster of top seeded Amateurs. Some 250 entries are anticipated.

Commenting on golfers from his own Club who could possibly win the competition, Charlie thought young Andre Maltais, a junior and course record-holder with a 67, who won three tournaments last year, would be the man to beat.

Other top home contestants like Yvon Gendreau, Frank Reid, Gerard Bernier and Bertrand Trepanier are seasoned players and should provide exciting competition.

East Angus is a par 70 for a double nine of 5750 yards. The course is very hilly and features several "blind" holes where a player often has to play approach shots without being able to see the pin.

Three more O'Keefe Amateur Tournaments are slated for the month of July: Noranda on the 22nd; Chandler in Gaspe, on the 22nd and 23rd and Anjou, near Montreal, on July 29th and 30th.

Whitey Ford's "Nickel Curve" Is Giving Yankee Lefthander One Of Greatest Seasons, Wins His 15th

NEW YORK (AP) — The slider, scornfully referred to by baseball minds as "a nickel curve," has become Whitey Ford's new money pitch which may carry him to the greatest season ever recorded by a New York Yankee left-hander.

The brilliant southpaw Tuesday pitched the Yankees into a brief grip on the American League first place with another superb performance, a five-hit 6-2 triumph over Detroit Tigers. If was Whitey's ninth straight victory, giving him a season mark of 15-2. He fanned 11 and permitted only one earned run.

Tigers won the second game of the holiday double-header 4-3 in 10 innings and reclaimed first place by a game.

"I had good stuff," said Ford, "much better than last Friday night. My slider was working beautifully. I'll bet I struck out at least eight of the 11 with the slider."

In the years that Ford established himself as one of the top southpaws in the American League, he relied mainly on the elementary pitches, the fast ball, curve and change-up. He rarely experimented with unorthodox deliveries.

"The slider is a new pitch for me," he explained. "I developed it this spring and I've been using it a lot this year. Johnny Sain, our pitching coach, helped me. I experimented with the slider once before, but I stopped when I found it put a strain on my shoulder. I used to snap it off with a short follow-through. Sain showed me how to follow through without strain."

Ford, 32, was the complete master, although he pitched with only three days' rest, a schedule he is following for the first time in his long career. The ace, despite the best won-lost record among active pitchers, never has won 20 games in a season, largely because he usually pitched every five or six days.

At his present pace, Ford has a chance to surpass Vernon (Lefty) Gomez' 26-5 mark in 1934, best by a Yankee lefthander.

Field Of 200 Entered In Quebec Open

MONTREAL (CP) — More than 200 leading amateur and professional golfers from Quebec and eastern Ontario were to tee off today in the opening round of the 36-hole Quebec open golf tournament at suburban Laval - sur - le - Lac Golf Club.

Leading the list of entries for the two-day tournament over the par-71 course was defending champion Bill Kerr of Montreal who won the tournament last year with an even-par 140 for 36 holes over the Montreal Summerlea course.

Among the pros vying with Kerr for a total $1,500 in prize money were former champions Jules Huot, Jack Kay and Ray Haines, all of Montreal, veteran Stan Horne of Montreal and Stan Kolar of Ottawa Chaudiere.

Top amateurs entered include Claude Dufour of Montreal, winner of the Quebec spring open, veterans Brian McGuigan of Montreal, Don Doe of Granby, Que., and junior sensation Gordon LeRiche of Montreal.

$483.10 DOUBLE PAID

TORONTO (CP)—Loma Linda and Mermaid's song won the first two races at New Woodbine Tuesday to combine for a daily-double of $483.10. Loma Linda went to the post at odds of 5-to-1 but Mermaid's Song was overlooked completely by the crowd of 7,500 and paid $91.10, $25.40, and $13.

Canadian Champion G. Chuvalo Ordered To Defend His Title With Bob Cleroux By Boxing Commission

QUEBEC (CP) — Gene Letourneau, national commissioner of the Canadian Boxing Federation, said Tuesday Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo of Toronto must defend his title against Montreal's Bob Cleroux.

"Chuvalo, as heavyweight champion, should defend within six months like any other champion. We don't care where he defends it as long as he does," Letourneau said.

Letourneau said he has received a letter from Al Bachman, manager of Cleroux, the number one contender, asking that Chuvalo be "forced" to meet Cleroux.

Letourneau said his reply would be that Chuvalo "must" defend his title since the six months are up and that it must be against Cleroux.

Chuvalo's last championship fight was against Cleroux in Montreal, Nov. 29, 1960, when he regained the crown. Letourneau said Chuvalo has shown he is in condition to fight by veating Germany's Willie Besmanoff in Toronto recently.

In Toronto, matchmaker Deacon Allen and promoter Frank Tunney said they had been trying to get Chuvalo a match with Cleroux for months.

Bye Bye BOGIES by BOB ROSBURG

No. 36 — Bad Weather

A STANCE so open the body is almost facing the target.

There's no use trying to tell a dedicated golfer that the best thing to do about rain is not to play in it.

Playing in rain, the main thing to worry about is keeping the club handles dry. It also is advisable to wipe clubheads after each shot. It is difficult to grip a wet handle properly. Cotton gloves help. Wet the hands and gloves after putting them on. This gives the player a good grip.

Start every hole with a clean ball. Wipe off mud before putting. Use one club higher than you would ordinarily. Rain will retard the ball's flight and cause it to stop on landing. Approach a wet green with a high ball as close to the hole as you can put it. A low shot tends to skip across the green like a stone skimmed across water.

The best protection is an umbrella. Rain jackets are bulky and hamper the swing. Spiked shoes will help prevent the player from slipping. Some rubber-soled shoes become very slippery when wet.

There have been many injuries and deaths from lightning on golf courses. Don't get under a tree. Stay away from isolated buildings, wire fences, hilltops and open areas.

If you must take shelter in a thunder shower, dense woods and depressions are the safest places if you can't make your way to a big protected building.

NEXT: Cut shot.

Eddie Arcaro And Kelson Keep Their Winning Streak Intact, Wins Top $111,900 Suburban Handicap

NEW YORK — (AP) — The winning streaks of Eddie Arcaro and Kelso are intact.

The 1960 horse of the year increased his prestige and the bankroll of his owner by winning the $111,900 Suburban handicap at Aqueduct Tuesday for his 10th straight victory.

At the same time, he carried Arcaro to his fifth consecutive victory in the 1¼-mile classic and his eighth overall.

The Aqueduct event was the highlight of a busy July 4 holiday turf program which saw the Jacnot Stables' Oink squeak through with a victory in the $34,525 Stars and Striples handicap at Arlington Park, the Circle M's I'm For More take the $25,750 Dover stakes at Delaware Park, and Marion R. Frankel's Call the Witness win the $29,800 Longfellow turf handicap at Monmouth Park.

George Proule's Gold Sky scored in the $5,000 feature at Rockingham Park, and the Travis B. Kerr Stable's Prince Blessed took the $55,800 American handicap at Hollywood Park.

Kelso ran what Arcaro said was "probably his best race" in carrying a crushing 133 pounds to an easy victory. Elmdorf Farm's Nickel Boy was second ,a neck ahead of Ada L. Rice's Talent Show.

Kelso, who earned $72,735 for Mrs. Richard C. Dupont to run his career take to $486,425, covered the distance in 2:02 and paid $3.20.

Johnny Sellers piloted the Jacnot Stables Oink over the 1⅛ miles of rain-softened turf in 1:50.6.

Prince Blessed, with Johnny Longden aboard, paid $11.60 and ran the 1⅛ miles in 1:47.6.

Howard Beissinger drove the former free-for-all pacing star. Overlooked in the wagering by a crowd of 19,049, Champ Volo returned $12.10, $6.70 and $5.50. Muncy Hanover finished third.

ANGLING AROUND

WATCH WEATHER

Despite unmistakable signs that the weather was going to get worse instead of better, two fishermen strapped a 3½-horsepower outboard on the boat and started out.

They made their way across the open stretch of the lake and finally eased into a long finger bay protected for the time by hills. They fished for two hours, unmindful of the rising wind. It was not until they started back and had moved out of the bay into the frothing lake that they realized their danger.

With waves now higher than the boat, they had to keep going. With the small motor, they lacked the power to turn and retreat to the safety of the bay.

Only skill kept them afloat. Even that failed when the small motor, overheated in its battle against the waves, gave out. Only luck saved them as the wind swept them to a small island and dashed them unceremoniously on the shore.

This true story points up an important rule for those who fish in boats on big water.

Maintain a healthy regard for the weather.

Plans For Coming Season Discussed, Drummondville's Future Pending As New Bid For Franchise Is Shelved

The first meeting of the Eastern Townships Intermediate Hockey League was held last night at the New Wellington Hotel with three clubs officially represented. Three Rivers failed to send a representative.

Plans for the coming season were discussed with the future of Drummondville operating a question mark. The executive of the Rockets had officially asked the league permission to suspend operations for a year. However last night they requested a delay of time in order to give their definite answer.

The team executive is slated to meet the Drummondville City Council next month at which time the fate of the team will be decided. The future of Three Rivers is still doubtful as the league hasn't been officially notified they have withdrawn. The league secretary will contact them to seek further information.

One very imoprtant item which came out of the meeting was the unaminous adoption that all clubs must sign three players who haven't reached their 21st birthday. This was discussed thoroughly and the clubs figured it should be adopted for the good of all concerned.

This rule was orginally in the league, President O'Donnell pointed out, but it was broken to help one club. In the future a special fine will be imposed to make it more binding. This will be discussed further at the next meeting.

President O'Donnell gave a report on last season's activities and supplied attendance figures which surprised all. Considering it was a four-team circuit it was encouraging to see that the fans around the loop turned out in such large number to take in the games.

A total of 29,538 took in the playoffs while during the season 65,000 paid their way through the turnstiles. Granby topped the league with 26,500, Sherbrooke was next with 23,521, Drummondville 21,695 and Three Rivers 13,265 for the fifteen home games.

The Intermediate Hockey Club of Montreal made a formal bid for a franchise and were ready to deposit the $1,000 requested by the league. It was decided to ask the club to first forward the money and then their case would be decided. This move was taken when it was brought out that last year they were admitted but then withdrew at the last minute.

It was also rumored that maybe the Canadiens Juniors of Hull-Ottawa would seek entrance in the loop playing their home games at Asbestos. Connie Dion, general manager of the Civic Centre, wasn't available for comment. He is to contacted this week.

It goes with out saying that this may be one chance in a lifetime so all those interested are encouraged to turn out Saturday morning at 9:30.

North Troy Posts Decisive 11-3 Win Over Bolton

North Troy posted a decisive 11-3 victory over Bolton Sunday in a regular fixture of the Massawippi Valley Intermediate Baseball League played in the Vermont, community.

A fourth inning scourge of runs by North Troy enabled them to breeze on to victory. A home run by R. Cortu plus a couple of double baggers by B. Hanson and R. St. Marie contributed significantly to the explosive fourth inning in which North Troy scored six runs. Other top hitters were D. Starr, of North Troy, along with F. Cote and J. Renaud of Bolton. Each credited with double baggers.

Ironically, Bolton out hit North Troy 10-8 but they also lead North Troy in the miscue department by a count of 5-2.

L. Young, going the full distance, was credited with the win for North Troy. D. Goyette, the loser, was knocked out of box in the fifth and E. Peasley was called upon to relieve. He lacked the necessary control. T. Brennan entered the box for Bolton in the sixth, but the damage had already been done, and he was not able to come up with a win.

Ron Stewart And Gary Schreider Join Workouts, Argos Having Trouble With Cookie Gilchrist

Ron Stewart and Gary Schreider have joined workouts and are expected to come to contract terms today, so all is well in the camp of the Grey Cup champion Ottawa Rough Riders.

Montreal Alouettes, whose defence was porous last year, are working on a new line that will average 242 pounds per man and the word out of the training camp at Winooski, Vt., was as cheerful as could be expected.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats, toiling quietly at a rebuilding project, reported nothing worse than impending rental negotiations for a football field.

But Toronto Argonauts? From a team whose outlook for the 1961 Big Four season was exceedingly bright a week ago came outpourings of gloom.

Temperamental Cookie Gilchrist, 26, who has played for five professional teams in Canada and lasted no longer than two years with any, refused to sign a 1961 contract and declared he wanted to play out his option.

WON'T JOIN TEAM

Barring a change of mind, which some teammates predict, the versatile fullback, lineman and placement kicker who led the league in scoring the last two seasons won't be in this year's Argonaut lineup.

Coach Lou Agase said he won't play Cookie on a one-year basis unless it is absolutely impossible to find a replacement and said he would consider a trade.

Gilchrist, from Tarentum, Pa., was reported to be demanding a $20,000 deal and couldn't come to terms Tuesday in a talk with managing director Lew Hayman.

His stubborn stand came only a day after it was revealed that Stan Wallace, Toronto's ace defensive captain, had returned home to Illinois in a huff after failing to find housing accommodation. His status also remained in doubt.

To make matters worse tackle Tony Polychronis of Utah, regarded as the pick of the Argos' U.S. college acquisitions this year, faces a national guard physical this week if accepted won't be available to the team until September. End Bill Stribling hasn't reported and defensive halfback Bobby Dehlinger is a doubtful starter because of a knee injury.

CLOSE TO TERMS

At Ottawa, general manager George Terlep said the Riders and Stewart are close to agreement. The speedy halfback and co-captain Schreider are reported seeking substantial pay increases.

Quarterback candidate Don Ferkovich from Wisconsin State departed Tuesday but Terlep indicated the Riders would have cut him any way. Ball-handling wizard Russ Jackson and passer Ron Lancaster are expected to alternate at quarterback in the system used successfully last year by coach Frank Clair.

Clair figures the Riders are at least as strong as last season but isn't sure that's strong enough.

Montreal coach Perry Moss has built his big line around middle guard Ray Baillie, a 275-pound native, and figures five positions are set until something better comes along. All the others are newcomers.

The Ticats practised quietly while the executive, headed by president Jake Gaudaur, prepared to meet the Hamilton parks board Friday to conclude a rental contract for Civic Stadium where the team has been working out.

If there's a dissenting voice, it comes from Hamilton Cardinals of the Inter-County Senior Baseball League who use the same field.

Cardinals president George Goodrow complained Tuesday that while he isn't blaming the footballers, their cleats already have started to make a mess of the outfield turf. Two outfielders were hurt by the ruts last year and Goodrow urged the parks board not to let it happen again.

Soviet Union Gunning For Five Trophies

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (AP)—Oarsmen of the Soviet Union, determined to take five of the ten trophies in the Henley Royal Regatta starting today swarmed along the regatta course Tuesday, carefree as schoolboys. They were boatsmen without boats.

Their eights, fours and sculls were still in London, entangled in customs regulations concerning the importation of boats into Britain.

"They were promised us this evening and when they come we will make them wet immediately in the River Thames," said one of the few Russians able to speak some English.

Favorites of the regatta fans were Alexandre Berkutov and Yur Tukalov, familiar figures at Henley. They are two-time winners on the double sculls challenge cup. They were victors here in 1957 and 1958. Tuesday they had a spirited reunion with Stuart A. MacKenzie, powerful Australian sculler who they said, is a most respected sportsman in Russia.

American crews had a final easy workout, and their coaches had mixed emotions. Three of them get opening tests today in the Thames challenge cup for lightweight eights.

Ted Williams Takes Part In Frontier Week

ST. STEPHEN, N.B. (CP)—Premier Louis J. Robichaud of New Brunswick, Governor John H. Reed of Maine and Ted Williams, one of baseball's most distinguished veterans, take to the softball diamond this afternoon.

Premier Robichaud will pitch for a team of New Brunswick Legislature members against one of Maine senators and House of Representatives member with Governor Reed at third base.

The game is a highlight of frontier week in the international community consisting of St. Stephen and Milltown, N.B. and Milltown and Calais, Me. being staged as an interpretation of the mutual friendship and co-operation among the border communities of two nations.

Coach Perry Moss Picks Five Tough Big Linemen As First Unit For Als, Newcomers Showing Up In Fine Style

WINOOSKI PARK, Vt. (CP) Coach Perry Moss, out to shore up the Montreal Alouettes defence, has picked up five linemen of the hard-ribbed school as his first unit at the club's three-week training camp here.

Average weight: 242 pounds.

"Each has the job until someone good enough comes along to take it away from him," said Moss in an interview. "They'll have to be beat out."

Four of the five are newcomers.

Ray Baillie, 26, a 275-pounder from Montreal and an Alouette holdover, is middle guard.

Moss has flanked Baillie on the left side with the Canadian seasoned pair, Don Paquette from Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Bobby Jack Oliver from Toronto Argonauts.

On the other side are Ed Meadows and Ed Nickla, a couple of 28-year-olds who sat out the last football campaign after salary hassles with National Football League clubs.

PLAYED FOR BEARS

Between 1954 and 1959, Meadows played for Chicago Bears, Pittsburgh Steelers and Washington Redskins. Bickla did his stint with the Bears.

"In addition to giving us the defensive toughness we so sorely lacked last season, these four guys also have good speed," said Moss.

Paquette, at 21, is the youngest of the four. The 225-pound end joined Montreal in a swap for pass-catching star Hal Patterson, part of the famous Sam Etcheverry deal.

Oliver, 25, an all - star selection, weighs in at 245. Nickla is 240 and Meadows 225.

Backing the big five as linebackers on the first unit are holdover imports Jack Espenship and George Deiderich with Ron Brewer, also from the Argonauts.

The halfbacks are Howard Cissell, Ed Learn, Billy Wayte and Gene Gaines. Import Cissell and homebred Learn are holdovers.

Wayte, 23, appears to be one of the club's top finds. He is one of the fastest men in the camp and qualifies as a Canadian although he was born in Fresno, Calif., and played college ball at Fresno State. His father comes from Winnipeg.

Gaines, a year younger, comes from UCLA, where he starred as a wingback.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers Running Into Trouble With Players, One Quits As Three Want More Money

WINNIPEG (CP) — There is discontent in the ranks of the Canadian players with Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

One has informed the Western Football Conference club he is quitting and two others may follow suit. Three others are holding out for more money, leaving 22 homebrews sweating it out in an attempt to earn or retain jobs on the 1961 team.

Also on hand at training camp opening Monday were 22 Americans trying for the 12 import spots.

Canadian linebacker Walter Bilicki says he is quitting after five years with the Bombers.

The 25-year-old Bilicki says he has "a regular daytime job and I want to take a commercial art course at night. I can't do three things so football has to go."

Coach Bud Grant said he's sorry to see Bilicki go. "We'll have that much less depth without him," he added.

HAVE JOB PROBLEMS

Grant may have even less if Canadian quarterback Mike Davies and fullback Rick Potter fail to solve their job problems.

Davies is reluctant to ditch steady, year-round employment in Vancouver to knock heads again on the club which lost to Edmonton Eskimos in the league final last year.

Potter has an outside chance of working out an arrangement to allow him to rejoin the Bombers and still retain his job in Winnipeg.

Fullback Tony Kehrer and defensive backs Nick Miller and Norm Rauhaus are the holdouts.

General manager Jim Ausley said the club has negotiated at length with the players, "but they think they are worth more than we are willing to pay them."

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHT

Sacramento, Calif — Terry Smith, 159, Sacramento, stopped Govan Small, 159, Sacramento, 7. Fred Roots, 158½, Sacramento, outpointed Dave (Schoolboy) Brown, 158, San Francisco, 8.

THE MACALLISTER LIVING ROOM is filled with the paintings and ceramics made by Mrs. MacAllister. Above, Mrs. MacAllister is surrounded by some of her finished art which fills the kitchen, dining room, upstairs bedrooms and her husband's den. Over the fireplace is her painting of Perkins Grove in Portland; on the mantel, only a few of her ceramics of a lady, humming birds around a honeysuckle, two swans, and a flower bowl. The smaller ceramic at the extreme right of the mantel is especially dear to Mrs. MacAllister. It is a tiny figurine of her youngest grandson. On the extreme lower right is one of seven lamps with a hooped-skirted lady and a large bowl of flowers. Mrs. MacAllister is holding a bone china cup which she painted, inside by hand. Ceramics, painting provide full hobby

Lennoxville housewife is busy filling home with handiwork

By SANDRA PICKFORD
(Record Staff Reporter)

Enameling in copper; both oil and pastel painting; making ceramics; giving lessons three times a week in ceramics and painting to friends; painting china cups, plates and jugs; engraving designs on large and small aluminum trays; needlepoint; plus keeping a large, lovely home spotless leaves Mrs. Lawrence E. MacAllister of 12 Clough Street, Lennoxville, little time to be lonely now that her three sons are grown up and married.

When Jean MacAllister's three sons married and her husband was away from home a good many hours of the week as a travelling salesman until he retired a year ago. Mrs. MacAllister was faced with the problem of sheer boredom.

She decided to take lessons in ceramics, which eventually, opened up a whole new world of recreation for her.

Looking over the numerous ceramics in the MacAllister home and admiring the minute detail of each figurine which range from a doorstop to a tiny ashtray it is hard to believe that Mrs. MacAllister has only taken four lessons in ceramics.

Mrs. MacAllister couldn't begin to count the number of ceramics she has made and said it was impossible to count the number of hours spent on them. "When I'm keyed up or worried, fussed or bothered, off I go to my little room and work for hours on the potter's wheel." she said, "In fact, sometime I get so interested in what I do I forget to stop for my meals. I usually work on some figurine until my aching back can't stand it anymore."

Mrs. MacAllister's ceramics have that strictly feminine touch. Most of her works are of hooped-skirted, eighteenth century ladies, with petticoats and tiny slippers showing. In minute detail she has made bowls full of flowers for the dressing table or dinning room table; tree stumps with birds flying around them, even the yellow pollen in the petal of the flower is done with painstaking care.

Particularly lovely are two white swans with their wings filled with spring flowers.. The figurine closest to Mrs. MacAllister's heart is a tiny replica of her youngest grandson.

Mrs. MacAllister has made seven ceramics for a base of a lamp and they have been valued at $45 each.

Mrs. MacAllister's numerous friends have urged her to sell her ceramics or put them on exhibit. However, Mrs. MacAllister doesn't publicize that they are for sale. "I don't really like to sell them and I don't have enough time to make them to sell." Mrs. MacAllister said. "A lot of my finished ceramics and paintings, I've given to my sons for their homes. Of the seven lamps I have made, I have given three of them away to relatives instead of selling them." she said.

Expaining how one of her lamp bases was made, Mrs. MacAllister gave a good idea of the work and time spent on making a figurine. "On the lamp in the living room, I spent four steady weeks working on the clay, then, of course, it took three weeks to dry." she said.

But Mrs. MacAllister is not only gifted with skilled nimble fingers for making ceramics. Even more outstanding are her oil paintings. "I've always dabbled with a paint brush since I can remember," she said.

Mrs. MacAllister has captured many natural scenes on canvas, some of which are of the Eastern Townships.

Her oil paintings include a scene of Perkins Grove in Portland which she painted from memory; an autumn scene on the Compton road; Kennebunk Beach in Maine; the covered bridge in Compton, a horse pulling a sled in a sugar camp; two of her dogs; and her favourite, a Winter Sunset. She has also done a pastel painting of Queen Elizabeth.

"I have only done one portrait," she said, "but I think portraits are above me." Many of her paintings are of flowers.

Mrs. MacAllister has been asked to sell her paintings but she is trying to get enough together to have "a one-man" show in Sherbrooke, possibly under the auspices of a charitable organization here.

"What I need and I don't think I have enough of, is imagination" she said. "I must have some little thing to guide me and give me inspiration. I think if I had a better imagination I would do much better." Mrs. MacAllister learned to paint by working from some good studies that were being stored by a neighbour in her home. "I learned to get the idea of colors and how to mix them by myself." she said. "But probably that imagination will come as I do more and more."

Three times a week Mrs. MacAllister teaches a few friends the art of oil painting in her small one-room study. "I have my pupils enlarge paintings from a book." she said. "I believe in a pupil using free hand. I encourage them to change their colors from those of the original copy and to take out or add what ever they like. In general I let the student use her down judgment." Mrs. MacAllister said.

"It builds up confidence in the student painter, and, when I send them out on their own to do some sketching, they know just what to look for and they aren't lost without a copy to go by." she said.

While living in Coaticook, Mrs. MacAllister gave courses in engraving in aluminum which she still does today. She is particularly proud of one of her students, who after only a seven week course was asked to engrave commercially for a company.

Mrs. MacAllister's china cabinet is full of china cups, plates, and jugs which she has hand painted, the majority with floral designs. Her enamelling in copper has led her to make many small rounded bowls and ashtrays.

KENNEBUNK BEACH — With a brush in one hand and a palette in the other, Mrs. MacAllister puts the finishing touches on an oil painting of a scene at Kennebunk Beach in Maine. Mrs. MacAllister has only done one portrait and prefers to do paintings of flowers, and country scenes. Mrs. MacAllister can't begin to count the number of hours she has spent on painting but she estimated she had made over 100 paintings which fill her home and the homes of her three sons. Eastern Stars, Cookshire, hold June meeting

COOKSHIRE — The regular meeting of Cookshire Chapter, O.E.S. was held in the Masonic Chambers with Sister Wilda Robinson in the East. Two members from Lachine Chapter were welcomed.

All outstanding bills were ordered paid. The secretary was ordered to purchase a banquet ticket for the local Worthy Matron, for the Grand Chapter Session in October.

Those wishing to take the efficiency test should contact Sister Idell Griffin.

The rules for children of the O.E.S. members wishing to obtain loans from the Educational Loan Fund of Grand Chapter, were read and explained.

It was reported that flowers had been sent to two members in hospital. The ways and means committee will plan a program for the near future.

The Worthy Matron thanked the substitutes for the evening, and read a poem dealing with the loyalty and faithfulness of members.

Refreshments were served in the lower hall by Sisters Robinson and Griffin.

More beauty tips for torrid days

SUMMERTIME COMFORT can be achieved in hot weather with tricks like these. Fill a hot water bottle with ice and slip it into bed shortly before you go to sleep (left). At the end of a hot, humid day, relax in a tub of soapy, tepid water. This will both cool and refresh you. This girl uses an inexpensive foam headrest to make herself comfortable (center). In the morning, light spraying of cologne is a spicy touch that makes you feel and look cool (right).

The gal who looks cool, clean and pretty on a humid summer day captures many an admiring glance. And there's little doubt that she feels a lot more comfortable than her shiny-faced, wilted companions.

There's an art to keeping cool that is easy to master once you know the facts.

Your eating habits play a big role. For example, cold snacks and drinks can actually make you feel hotter unless they are combined with balanced hot foods. Your body must expend energy to warm up and assimilate chilled foods. This process warms you up, too.

Warm baths cool you more effectively than cold ones, for warm water causes blood vessels to enlarge so that body heat comes to the skin surface and disappears. A half hour spent soaking in a tub of comfortably warm soapsuds can keep you cool for hours. The most effective times to bathe on hot days are the first thing in the morning, before dressing for a social engagement, and before bedtime.

After your bath, dust with powder to absorb any traces of moisture. As a final cooling aid, try a light spray of cologne from an atomizer.

You'll never look or feel cool if your hair is stringy and limp from the humidity. So for the summer months, at least, wear your hair in a short, simple fashion that is easily cared for. If you don't want to cut your hair, it's best to pull it back from the face in a cool-looking chignon or French twist. Perspiration and salt water must be washed away to preserve an attractive setting. So shampoo every few days during the summer swimming season.

Wash your face often during the day, and keep your make-up toned down. Heavy make-up will only run and smear on a sizzling day. The result will be most unattractive.

A good trick for keeping cool is to fill a hot water bottle with ice water and slip it between the sheets a short while before you go to bed. Your bed will be comfortably "air conditioned" when you climb in.

Remember, too, that cottons, linens and blends with these natural fibers are more absorbent and porous than clothes made of 100 per cent synthetics. Choose your summer wardrobe accordingly. You'll feel and look comfortable.

Beauty Tips

Protect Skin

A good way to deep your face from getting the brunt of the sun's rays while lounging around the swimming pool is to wear all your make-up requisites. Cream-type make-up usually gives the best results.

Tips for parents

By EDITH HENRY
Parent Education Associates

The first few days out of school tend to be unsettled for a child of any age. Out of them, however, is apt to come the pattern for the next two months.

We do well, therefore, to think of the child's needs and plan for them wisely. Two months is a long period in the developing life of a child. Physically and mentally he can be influenced for good or ill.

A fairly regular routine will suit him best. Children as well as little animals thrive on regularity as the child is unable to arrange a program for himself, it becomes a parent's responsibility to do so.

For young children the day will begin with washing, dressing and breakfast. This is followed by a small share of work — it might be tidying a bedroom, or making the bed, cleaning the wash basin, etc.

PLAY PERIOD

A play period at home comes next, preferably with little friends since frustrations are best met in the early part of the day. Supervision may be needed if the children are small.

Mid-morning offers a break when a glass of juice and a cookie can be quietly enjoyed.

If mother can sit down, too, her conversation can have a balancing effect to the play which may have become strenuous.

She may read a story — with older children part of a continuous story. Or she may help set up a project such as paper cutting, drawing, modelling, dress-up, etc.

This quieter play means the child's need for rest and change is met.

Lunch time will soon arrive to be followed by a quiet hour when the child is indoors, alone, perhaps asleep.

RELAXATION

It is believed that there is relaxation in being, for a short time, away from outdoor noises, bright light and constant companionship.

Fortified by a snack, the child is once more ready for active play, or an expedition with mother

After the evening meal, a rule to stay on the home property offers a chance for family enjoyment whether it is games or gardening

Bedtime is more readily accepted after a day's regular wholesome routine. Tucked away happily, the little body can relax in quiet sleep ready for the activities of a fresh day.

MAPLE COPSE CHAPTER I.O.D.E.

At the June meeting of Maple Copse Chapter, I.O.D.E., contributions of $20.00, $10.00 and $5.00 were voted to the Korean Projects fund, the Shipping and Overseas relief funds, and to the Peace Garden. Bills were ordered paid and the treasurer, Mrs. Cecil Skinner, reported sufficient money on hand to meet these expenses and to leave a small balance for the summer months.

It was decided to hold a rummage sale on October 14 to raise funds for the chapter's educational work coming up in the fall.

Mrs. R. C. McFadden, secretary of Services at Home and Abroad, reported that a shipment had gone to headquarters valued at $44.75, that cigarettes had been donated as usual and books for troops in Germany collected by Mrs. George Sutherland.

It was noted with regret that Mrs. Sutherland had recently been in the hospital and Mrs. McFadden was asked to send the chapter's greeting and sympathy.

Wool for summer knitting had been received and Mrs. McFadden would be glad to supply any members who felt able to do some knitting during the holidays.

A request from the Provincial chapter for $2.00 towards National life memberships was covered by some additional contributions from those present when the tea money was collected.

A handsome set of coloured bed linen was on display and it was decided to make the raffling of this gift the summer project instead of the usual "talent money" donations.

There being no further business, refreshments were served by Mrs. M. O. Knutson and Miss Florance Wark.

MRS. JOHN DUNN, convener of the Fashion Show in aid of the School for Retarded Children, which will take place during the week of the Festival of Sherbrooke, on July 19 at 8.30 p.m.

Fashion Tips

Sprightly Bow

A big hair bow, mounted on combs, is one solution to the summer hat problem. They come in black patent leather, strawcloth, capeskin and black velvet.

Costume "Drama"

Drop earrings provide drama for late day dresses in black. But to wear them well, keep your hairdo short and simple.

Thought for today

Of all earthly music, that which reaches the farthest into Heaven is the beating of a loving heart. (Ward Beecher).

Freshly-baked bread in a farm kitchen...

The sweet forgotten fragrance can carry you back

By PEGGY MURRAY

MORRISBURG, Ont. — (TNS) — It's sweet forgotten fragrances that take you back first.

There's fresh-baked wheat bread, spicy herbs and garden flowers — the smells of the farm kitchen.

That's Upper Canada Village, a town typical of those settled by United Empire Loyalists, near Morrisburg, on the St. Lawrence River.

It's really a creation by the Ontario Government to preserve the flavor of early Canada. The people living there are costumed in authentic garments of the times. Guides with history at their fingertips are ready to show you around.

Blankets, rugs and carpets produced at a woollen mill will be on sale and artisans in the village will weave and spin, make quilts and rugs and butter and brooms — everything that the housewives made in Upper Canada days.

The buildings are all 19th century homes, moved to this site — and under the operation of the Ontario-St. Lawrence Developement Commission. The Village tourist seasons opens on the 24th of June.

The time is back in the mid 1800s.

VILLAGE LIFE

We cross the 1850 toll bridge and the 20th century melts away. We're engulfed in the village life of days gone by.

Listen! You can hear the thump-hiss-shuffle of the looms in the woollen mill — and the splash of water from the wheel that provides the power.

The blankets turned out are the pride and joy of Upper Canada housewives.

There's the bake house. If we say "Prithee" to the baker we can have a sample of bread.

Or, better yet, we can stop for lunch or dinner at Willard's Hotel (1850 motif). But we can only imagine the warmth and bonhommie of the tavern Ghosts of scullery maids and travel-strained guests seem to haunt the kitchen.

FROM THE SOUTH

You can almost hear discussions of the latest events from south of the border.

Travelers to 1835 Cook's Tavern come by bateau or King's Highway stagecoach. Sometimes the evening air is set a-dancing by the music from the second floor of the tavern. It's the ballroom.

Down at the end of the street is the house of our good pastor William Sharts.

"They say he has a 16th century Lutheran Bible that he brought from Germany. His wife's pewter spoons and dessert set of Viennese ware are greatly admired hereabouts.

DRONE OF WORK

From the schoolhouse (The Old Glengarry School), across the square comes the drone of the boys reciting their memory work. Next to it is the older schoolmaster's house — it's of later vintage, 1860 — complete with globes and maps cut into jig saw puzzles for geography lessons.

"Look, from here you can see the oxen at the Loucks' Farm! And see how strong those Canadian horses are." (They have been specially bred to resemble early Canadian horses.)

Here we can see the homes of a farming family. The original shanty was put up in 1790 — followed by three more homes. The final fine stone home was built about 1860.

"And there's the little Louck's boy. He's all dressed for company in striped skirts. The beautiful piano in the parlor and the blue transfer Persian pheasant china in the dining room are the pride of the farm."

We stroll back to the square — past the doctor's house where he has his office. He's John Keogh from Dublin and well loved in the district — and highly successful.

The instruments in the office are terrifying but the fine horse racing prints that line his study are much admired. Racing is one of the doctor's hobbies.

IN THE BREEZE

Up the leafy country lane — watch the humps in the corduroy road! On either side of us fine fronds of weeds blow in the breeze. (They almost all got cut down by mistake last week).

There are ducklings on the millpond and baby birds flutter and chirp overhead.

As we re-enter the square we can see some of the Village women in their crisp ginghams and cottons strolling to the General Store for provisions.

They chatter and examine the merchandise at the store — a new shipment of dress goods arrived by bateau this morning.

The pillars of Crysler Hall provide good leaning for some of the farm boys. The Hall was built by John Pliny Crysler, a descendant of the farmer on whose land a decisive battle of the war of 1812 was fought.

THE PARK

Beyond the village is the Park, commemorating the men who died in the Battle of Crysler's Farm, 1813, the early settlers and Loyal British Regiment of America.

Here the Memorial Mound and the original obelisk honor the fallen whose graves are under the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Sunbonnet styles win as Diane Simmons portrays the doctor's teen-age daughter in costume of mid 19th century. She is one of the guides spending the summer at the Village.

DENNIS THE MENACE By Hank Ketcham

What you see above is known as "white space." It's what newspaper advertisers buy. It's what they bought to the tune of $3,650,000,000 in 1960. They bought it for one purpose—to sell more goods and services. Must be a good investment, because advertisers put more money into newspaper white space last year than ever before, more than in television, radio, magazines and outdoor combined.*

An all-time high of almost 59,000,000 newspapers are published on an average day and 9 out of 10 families get a daily newspaper on an average day. It follows that practically every sale of every product or service is made to a newspaper reader.

Television	$1,595,000,000
Magazines	938,000,000
Radio	672,000,000
Outdoor	203,000,000
*Total	$3,408,000,000
Newspapers	$3,650,000,000

BEEBE —

Mrs. Milton Bullock has returned home after spending some time in Inverness, where whe was called by the death of her brother Mr. Prescott Walker.

—"I loved your article but I certainly had to chuckle at your statement that social contacts with medical students, internes and visiting physicians are encouraged. Nothing at our school could be further from the truth. One instructor was so angry at what you wrote that he went to the director and said that any student who even went out with a doctor should be kicked out of school. He said he realizes doctors have got to be married, too, but they should stay away from nurses. I respect his opinion but I have an aunt and uncle who are nurse and doctor and they couldn't be happier in their marriage."

I'm sorry to have upset your instructor, dear little sister. But, unless conditions have changed since the days of my youth, I'm afraid he's fighting a losing battle. I can't think of a better preparation for marriage than that of a working together in the common interest for the worthiest of causes.

And I doubt that any intelligent director of a training school would kick a trainee out of school because she dated a medical student, interne or member of the attending staff.

READER' NOTES ON CHOICE OF NURSING AS A CAREER.

My recent recommendation of nursing as an ideal career for young women, eager for an opportunity to obtain professional training without sacrificing the opportunities for marriage, child-bearing and domesticity has aroused some constructive comments.

The son, husband and father of nurses contributes, in his words, "these few corrections to an otherwise excellent article".

After four years of education and at the cost of $5,000 plus, the R.N. gets $300 to $375 a month or as much as she could earn as a typist or clerk without being responsible at times, for a human life.

"This same R.N. could take a six-week course (some states have much more stringent requirements) and be a licensed practical nurse and male almost as much money.

"In other words, the education for a nursing career is fine. But the pay is not."

I agree thoroughly with my correspondent. The salary figures he gives are, of course for institutional nursing. The other side of the coin is the considerably higher rate of $16 to $24 a day that is the prevailing scale paid by the patient or family for private duty in and out of hospitals.

Writes a freshman student, at "about the best hospital and nursing school in the country":
