Teachers get telephone threats

SUGAR SHACK — Picketers in front of Youville Hospital yesterday constructed what they called a "sugar shack," ostensibly to protect them from yesterday's miserable weather. If the strike isn't settled soon, however, the heat will really be on and they won't need the shack any more.

By LEWIS HARRIS
LENNOXVILLE — At least three teachers at Alexander Galt Regional High School have received anonymous telephone calls threatening them with violence if they continue to teach during the walkout of some 70,000 teachers represented by the Quebec Teacher's Corporation.

QTC picketers appeared at three Eastern Townships Regional School Board elementary schools yesterday while most ETRSB board members are in Quebec City meeting with department of education officials as the uncertain situation facing ETRSB schools in the Sherbrooke area moves into its fourth day.

"Someone called me about 8:30 last Monday night and wanted to know if I was going to school," a 27-year-old humanities teacher living in Sherbrooke and teaching at AGRHS told The Record. He asked that his name not be used.

"I told them I had every intention of going to school, and he said, 'You need not think you scabs will be able to work. There are thousands of us CSN workers who know your address. I shouldn't even be talking to you in English.'"

"So I asked him what he would do if I did go to my classroom," continued the teacher, "and he said, 'we'll come in and drag you out.'"

"And I said, 'you'll come in and drag us out? Oh, good.' He got teed off and started swearing at me, then hung up the phone," the teacher said.

The teacher said he knows of two other teachers who have received similar phone calls in the past week. In each instance, typewriters and conversation were heard in the background. "It sounded like an office to all of us," he said.

Each of the teachers has reported the incident to the ETRSB and one teacher reported it to the police, though, as the teacher admitted "not much can be done" to stop anonymous calls.

The complex situation revolves around the fact that ETRSB teachers are not on strike while most of their French-speaking counterparts are. The unions representing the striking teachers argue that all teachers will benefit from any new agreement reached with the Quebec government via the strike action and that consequently all teachers should walk off their jobs.

Though most teachers, principals and other ETRSB officials contacted by The Record last night said they sympathized with this view, the teacher who received the threatening phone call expressed a view typical of many.

EXAMS LOOMING
"We have a definite professional responsibility to our students, especially with provincial exams coming up in June. As long as negotiations are going along smoothly and in good faith, I see no reason for a strike. But I do understand their point of view."

QTC picketers also caused minor disruptions yesterday at the Danville, Cookshire and Bury elementary schools. "We had a few visitors," the head teacher and acting principal of Danville Elementary School, Roland Dewar, said yesterday. Mr. Dewar said "about a dozen persons rang the bell for a while and peeked in under one of the windows."

"I think they were trying to see if we were there," he said. Mr. Dewar said the persons arriving at Danville Elementary School were probably QTC picketers because of a similar but "nastier" confrontation with striking teachers some weeks ago during a 24-hour walkout.

But yesterday's early morning visitors "went away and didn't come back," and no conversations were held with them, he said. Danville Elementary School has an enrollment of 205 students and a staff of nine teachers.

CROSS PICKET LINES

Teachers at the Bury and Cookshire elementary schools met up with QTC picketers for the second day running, but this time the teachers crossed the picket lines.

A Bury Elementary School teacher who asked that her name not be used said that QTC picketers arrived at the school early yesterday morning and asked teachers to leave the school. "We didn't put up any argument with them at all. We just went back into the school," she said. They were under the impression that all Protestant schools were being picketed. When we told them they weren't, they seemed a little annoyed and went off to union headquarters in East Angus," she said.

The picketers returned and were again told Bury elementary teachers would not leave their classrooms. The picketers again returned to union headquarters and one of them told the teachers, "If I don't come back you may leave at your leisure," the teacher told The Record. The picketers did not return.

The Bury teacher speculated the picketers might be teachers from the neighboring College d'Alton. "We've always been on good terms with them," she noted.

A largely similar situation occurred at Cookshire Elementary School, but no other trouble was reported at the two regional high schools and 14 elementary schools served by the ETRSB.

CONCLUDING SESSIONS

The 16 schools are today concluding a three-day planning session which obliges teachers to report to school, though the students stay at home. The planning days were originally to have been held next week, but following an ETRSB directive issued Tuesday the days were rescheduled to Wednesday, yesterday and today. Another decision will probably be made by ETRSB officials over the weekend with students due to return to their classrooms Monday.

Neither Clermont Domingue, Julien

Bergeron nor Robert Gagne, the three QTC strike organizers and coordinators for striking teachers in the Eastern Townships region, could be reached for comment last night.

In the meantime, ETRSB regional director Ian McLeay and several board members are attending meetings in Quebec City with department of education officials.

"It's not really a case of them running off while the house is on fire. Richmond Regional High School principal Bruce Taylor explained.

"Just because they aren't here, it doesn't mean they're out of reach. I know where to phone if I have to contact them. Don't think these things weren't considered before they decided to go."

"I have to work under the assumption that it's business as usual. But the situation on Monday will dictate what happens."

"CAN'T MAKE DECISION"

"It might be a very prolonged strike or it might all be over by Monday. We can't make a decision now because we don't know. We'd look very silly if we were to cancel classes now and then find out it was all over."

Mr. Taylor said that prime considerations in making any decisions were "the safety of the kids, the safety of the staff and the school property," in that order.

The situation facing the non-striking ETRSB teachers remains uncertain. Incidents such as yesterday's, while minor in and of themselves, appear to be on the increase, and most persons contacted by The Record either asked that their names not be used or that they not be quoted. Most teachers and other school officials expressed a fear that commenting on the situation might endanger fellow teachers or students by creating ill feeling among the two groups of striking and non-striking teachers.

"It's a potentially dangerous situation. You live with it from minute to minute," summarized Danville Elementary School's Mr. Dewar.

CHU situation 'improving'

SHERBROOKE (LH) — The situation at the University of Sherbrooke Hospital Centre "seems to be improving on a day-to-day basis" though striking common front employees "still have us pretty much at their mercy," Dr. Bernard Perey, speaking for the hospital, said yesterday.

The hospital started cutting admissions March 5, and of the approximately 400 available beds, 300 are now empty, Dr. Perey said. Of the 100 patients still in the hospital, about 40 are "quite ill."

But the type of service these patients receive depends to a large extent on the stand taken by unionized CHU employees currently on strike and the stand "varies from day to day," said Dr. Perey.

Though the unions provided "an insufficient number of workers" to maintain services Tuesday and Wednesday, "communications with unionized employees are improving and we're actually on pretty good terms with them," Dr. Perey said of the situation yesterday.

The unions, however, will not allow patients to receive visitors. Striking union members are forbidding volunteers to cross picket lines and yesterday they "prevented some patients from coming in, and about 10 patients were not allowed to go out," said Dr. Perey.

The normal CHU routine has also been upset because the hospital can now only handle emergency cases. Between 10 and 15 emergency cases, on the average, are admitted every day, and about that number of patients are released from the hospital every day. The hospital does not normally function with "a quick turnover of patients," Dr. Perey said.

TURNED BACK
The picketers are temperamental, he said, and in some instances, scheduled and union-approved workers have had "long delays at the picket line," and "had to go back home and come back four times."

"It all depends on who they meet when they get to the picket line," he said.

Non-unionized staff have worked hard trying to fill in for missing unionized workers but the many long days and nights of work at the hospital has made many employees over-tired, he said. Many of the hospital's directors are spending 24 hours a day at the hospital.

The hospital's teaching facilities are also adversely affected and the 40 or so "severely ill" patients often go without proper care. "Some of these people need to see a nurse every 10 or 20 minutes," he pointed out.

But the relationship between hospital directors and striking employees can change instantly, and the situation is so uncertain that the actual number of unionized workers providing essential services at CHU is negotiated "on a day-to-day basis."

When will it end? "I wish I knew," said Dr. Perey, who yesterday was asked by the CHU medical board to be the official spokesman for the hospital.

Hydro bomb call hoax

ROCK FOREST (LH) — "It was just a false alarm," sergeant Maurice Corbeil of the Sherbrooke detachment of the Quebec Police Force said last night.

According to police reports, an anonymous call was received by the manager of the Hydro-Quebec building on Bourque Boulevard in Rock Forest saying that a bomb had been placed in the building.

The call was received about 10:30 a.m. and police immediately searched the building. They found nothing. But another anonymous call informed the Hydro-Quebec manager that "the police haven't looked in the right place. They should look along the fence."

The second call was received at 2:10 p.m. and an ensuing search by police turned up "a little black box with a detonator cap and wires coming out of it."

Army bomb disposal experts from neighboring Camp Bouchard were immediately called on.

At around 8 p.m., the experts discovered the box was empty. "There was no dynamite in the box," said Sgt. Corbeil.

Pickers hit with injunctions

SHERBROOKE (LH) — Temporary injunctions were issued in Superior Court late yesterday evening limiting the number of picketers in front of striking Catholic Regional School Commission schools, Normand Simoneau of the school commission said yesterday.

The injunctions name Clermont Dominique, Julien Bergeron and Robert Gagne, three union organizers and strike coordinators in the Eastern Townships region, as those who must "collectively and individually" see to it that the provisions of the injunction are respected.

None of the three union officials named could be reached for comment last night. The injunction "amongst other things" limit to three the number of picketers in front of CRSC schools and "allow free access into our schools to school commissioners and employees not implicated in the present conflict," said Mr. Simoneau.

To date, picketers have not allowed school commissioners and other non-unionized employees into schools hit by the strike. Now that injunctions have been granted, the CRSC will take "whatever legal measures necessary" to insure they are obeyed, said Mr. Simoneau.

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec hospitals struggled to provide service as the strike by the province's 200,000 public service workers entered its fourth day today with the government saying it plans no special legislation to end the walkout.

Despite a request by union leaders Thursday for maintenance of essential services, a spokesman for the Association of Hospitals of the Province of Quebec said Thursday night, six hospitals were in a critical state.

In Quebec City, Civil Service Minister Jean-Paul L'Allier told a news conference the government does not plan to legislate an end to the strike.

"We remain determined to let the unions assume the responsibility for their unionism, with its consequences and its abuses," he said.

Injunctions ordering a return to work had been applied only to hospitals for the chronically ill, "which remain occupied to 90 or 95 per cent of capacity."

However, the Association of Hospitals of the Province of Quebec said Thursday night that workers in 30 chronic-care and psychiatric hospitals were still not obeying return-to-work injunctions.

Earlier in the day, leaders of the common front representing the striking employees urged their union members to live up to promises to provide essential services.

The common front, formed by the Confederation of National Trade Unions, the Quebec Federation of Labor and the Quebec Teachers Corp., called the strike to back wage and job security demands in contract negotiations with the provincial government.

Justice Minister Jerome Choquette warned the unions Thursday there would be no deals to drop contempt of court citations against workers who ignored government injunctions ordering them to return to work.

Attention, students Need a job?

SHERBROOKE — Job hunting for the first time this summer? Worked last summer, but found the job wasn't to your liking? Couldn't find a job of any kind? Have you started looking for this year's summer job yet? If not, it's time to get started. Whether you spend the summer working or looking depends on you.

This summer, you'll have tough competition. More than a million students from high schools and universities will be looking for work.

But don't give up before you even start. You have as good a chance as the other 999,999 job seekers. Finding a summer job won't be easy, but then it never is. Here are some hints that could make your job search successful.

APPLY NOW

Some students start looking for next summer's job in December. They know that in June employers are swamped with applications. The only ones who won't be competing with you will be those students who had their jobs lined up long before final exams loomed on the horizon.

VISIT YOUR CMC

Despite what your friends may have told you, last summer Canada Manpower Centres placed a lot of students in jobs. They found work for more than 142,000 students. But first, you have to register.

Even though Canada Manpower Centre for Students may not be open yet, a counsellor in the full-time CMC will accept your application.

In communities without CMCs for Students, the regular Canada Manpower Centre will be matching students looking for employers with employers looking for student workers.

Both federal and provincial governments operate special employment programs for students — programs involving travel, jobs, language training. If you hear about an interesting program, don't wait. Inquire at your local Canada Manpower Centre as soon as possible.

QUESTION PEOPLE

Parents, relatives, friends, neighbors — everyone is a possible contact for a summer job. Ask them if their place of work hires students.

Last year, more than 80 per cent of students who were looking for work found it in the private sector. That means local businesses, hotels, resorts and farms. The list is endless. If you hear that one of them is hiring students, get the name of the person in charge of hiring.

Don't just phone the employer. Go in person — alone. Employers prefer face-to-face meetings, but aren't impressed by someone who needs pals or parents for moral support.

Many employers advertise. So it pays to read a daily newspaper, especially the "part-time" and "seasonal help wanted" columns.

DO YOUR HOMEWORK

Before you head off for that all-important interview with a prospective employer, prepare a concise, one-page summary telling the employer what you have to offer — age, education, experience and any special qualifications, such as equipment you can operate, that would equip you for the job you're after.

Give the employer as much information about yourself as you can in as few words as you can. Then, let the summary introduce you when you walk in the door for an interview.

USE YOUR IMAGINATION

Almost any employer whose business increases in the summer or who has employees on vacation will need part-time help. Try the tourist business, recreation, retail, construction, agriculture or service industries.

If these fail, create your own job. Convince neighbors that you can provide a service they need. Cut grass, wash cars, paint houses, baby sit, sew, garden. They may not be glamorous jobs, but they can be profitable and fun.

Remember what everyone was saying last year — that summer jobs would be hard to find because there were more students than ever for fewer jobs. Early reports indicated about 990,000 would be job-hunting, yet about 80 per cent of the students who looked for summer work were successful for at least part of the summer.

It may take time to land a summer job, but don't be discouraged. Persistence pays.

Seek opinion

SHERBROOKE (LH) — "Everyone present will have the right to speak" at the public consultation meetings being held over the weekend by local organizers of the Unite-Quebec party, according to a statement issued by the party.

The first meeting, under the chairmanship of Sherbrooke alderman Jacques O'Bready, will be held at the science faculty of the University of Sherbrooke starting at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

A second meeting will be held Sunday at the Palestine National building in Sherbrooke beginning at the same time.

The public consultations are being undertaken by the Unite-Quebec party with a view to opening the party to "grass roots opinion," and all members of the public may attend.

CONTRIBUTORS TO SUCCESS — St. Peter's Church in Sherbrooke marked its 150th anniversary yesterday, with many members of the church congregation on hand in costumes representing the period when the church first opened.

HAPPY OCCASION — St. Peter's Church on Montreal Street in Sherbrooke yesterday celebrated its 150th anniversary. The congregation marked the occasion by holding a tea and dressing up in colorful and attractive period costumes of 150 years ago. Antiques and other fascinating knickknacks made the display even more attractive. (Record photos: L. Harris)

Checking sewers

SHERBROOKE (LH) — Some 580 domestic sewers have already been checked in Sherbrooke's west ward, and most residents have been cooperative, according to a statement issued by the city yesterday.

About two weeks ago, Sherbrooke city officials announced that a local initiative project was being undertaken with a view to determining whether residents may have inadvertently hooked up their domestic sewage systems to systems meant to treat only surface waters.

Surface water systems dump their sewage into the Magog River. If domestic systems are connected to them, unnecessary pollution occurs, according to the city.

Under the supervision of Aurele Denault, sewers in the west ward are being checked and residents are told a day in advance of the impending visit of an inspector. The city will soon check the north ward as well.

The public has cooperated so far, and officials are calling for continued cooperation until the project ends May 31.

Inspectors will soon visit the north ward between Vimy and Prospect Streets, extending to the city's western limits.

The city hopes the project will check pollution in the Magog and St. Francis rivers.

Mrs. W.G. Waugh, National President of Anglican Church Women, will speak at St. Peter's Church Hall, Sherbrooke, Tuesday, April 18th, 8 p.m. Topic: "Women in the Church Today." Open meeting. Everyone welcome.

Drop drip dialogue

OTTAWA (CP) — There is a sticky situation in the sugar bushes of Quebec's Eastern Townships region, Henri Latulippe (SC-Comp-ton) told the Commons Thursday.

But his attempt to trick a motion for an emergency debate on the problem past Speaker Lucien Lamoureux was ruled out of order.

Mr. Latulippe said he wanted the House to drop regular business and discuss the lack of manpower for collecting the maple sap and converting it into syrup or sugar.

Many persons are unemployed in the area but they cannot work in the sugar bushes without losing their unemployment benefits, he said.

That was as far as he got. Mr. Lamoureux said a motion for an emergency debate could not be made under the rule Mr. Latulippe was citing. The motion was dropped.

Council restricts parking

SAWYERVILLE — The regular meeting of the municipal council was held April 10 with all the councillors present and with Mayor Lloyd R. French presiding.

It was decided to post notice that parking on the municipal parking lot at the rear of the IOOF Hall would be restricted for more than 24-hour periods and that vehicles violating this restriction would be towed away at the owner's expense. It was decided also to prohibit parking on the hill near the bridge.

The budget for 1972 was discussed at length. Due to the increased cost of material, labor, electricity and fuel oil, an increase in property taxes seems inevitable. It was pointed out that there had been one increase of two mills in the past 12 years, the only increase on property taxes in the town in more than a decade.

Rumors had been circulating that the town was to be without police protection, but the police committee reported that Mr. Vachon would be returning for full duty at the end of the month when his course was completed.

ACW head to be here

SHERBROOKE — Mrs. W.G. Waugh will be the guest speaker at a meeting called by the Quebec Diocesan Board of Anglican Church Women to be held at St. Peter's Church Hall in Sherbrooke on Tuesday evening, April 18.

Mrs. Waugh is national president of Anglican Church Women, and many residents of the Eastern Townships look forward to greeting her in this capacity for the first time. Her topic will be Women in the Church Today.

Mrs. Waugh lives in Toronto. Her involvement in women's work in the Church has included both Guild and WA and diocesan responsibilities on the Ottawa Board, first for Juniors, then as president.

She has also served as diocesan and general synod delegate on the diocesan executive and program committee, and on the National Anglican World Mission Committee. As vice-president of the ACW, she represented the national board at meetings of the national executive committee of general synod.

She has been actively involved in other organizations, including the University Women's Club, Women's Canadian Club, Women's Inter-Church Council, the Community Chest and the Board of Warrendale. It is obvious that she enjoys working with people.

MRS. W.G. WAUGH

It is Mrs. Waugh's firm conviction that men and women should be working together at every level in the church, and to this end she is leading the Anglican Church Women of Canada into new and challenging roles.

Mrs. Waugh will be accompanied by Mrs. J.C. Kirby, who is the ACW regional representative for the Ecclesiastical Province of Canada.

Group meets

SHERBROOKE — Anglican Church Women of St. Peter's Church held their regular meeting Monday at the Church Hall with the president, Mrs. Clifford Allen, in the chair.

The GA Festival for the diocese of Quebec will be held in Sherbrooke this year, May 5-7. A full program is planned and the ACW individually and collectively is planning to help in billeting, transportation and meals for the girls, some of whom are Indians girls from the LaTuque group, with others from Sillery, Thetford Mines and other points where GA groups are active.

A highlight will be the Festival Service at St. Peter's on the Sunday morning when the girls will sing the Eucharist under the direction of Archdeacon Meade.

A rummage sale will be held Wednesday evening, April 19, and Thursday morning, April 20, in the basement of the Church Hall.

The Dorcas group is working on a pretty quilt, which was displayed on the quilting frame. It was decided to have a drawing for it when completed, and plans for the sale of tickets were made.

MEMORIAL DEFACED — For the second time within a few months, this Sherman army tank in Stanstead has been daubed with paint, this time, Saturday night or early Sunday morning, with bright red paint and the markings evident in the picture. Police are investigating. The tank was purchased last year by the Stanstead municipal council as a memorial to the Second World War tank crews. Last Halloween it was daubed with paint but the persons paid in cash for their "fun." This job Saturday seemed more deliberate.

Worlds apart

Astronomers tell us we live in a world within worlds. Politicians, however, would tell us we live in "worlds" within the world. Politics — international, national, provincial and municipal — are built on that premise. Each "world" endeavors to sustain itself independently with as little external influence as possible.

Only culturally are we moving positively towards establishment of a global community. Mention trade and commerce; the politicians wax eloquent and the money-changers and black-marketeers rub their hands together in anticipation of the profit that is sure to follow.

Meanwhile, mankind suffers. Nothing will change until we see ourselves as individual members of a global community with basic responsibilities embracing all people, regardless of their color, religion or nationality.

The resources of Canada — natural and human — should be shared on a reciprocal basis with all countries of good faith in the world with less political squabbling and economic philandering. Only then will we be able to begin to build the best of all possible worlds.

The GNP

Something called the Gross National Product has become a cherished statistic of economists and even more so of politicians, probably because it tends to become larger every year.

GNP is an estimate of a nation's total output of goods and services, valued in its own currency.

Canada's 1971 GNP has been announced as $92.13 billion, an astronomical figure, quite close in fact to the mean distance in million-miles between earth and sun. It is up 9.1 per cent from 1970, which was 7.5 per cent over 1969.

If rising GNP is a prosperity indicator, which some people think it is, these figures should cause gratification.

But others are sceptical about GNP, or at least the way we interpret it. Statistics Canada credits over a third of last year's gain to "price increases," that very inflation so generally conceded to be a bad thing.

Far from signalling a boom in the Canadian economy, this rising GNP the last two years has been accompanied by factory shutdowns, increasing unemployment, a definite recession in the Atlantic provinces and pockets of poverty elsewhere.

Beyond doubting that GNP measures prosperity, looms an even more disturbing thought. Suppose we are reading it wrong way too?

Can it be that increasing GNP actually tallies the amount by which we are consuming our natural resources faster than we can replace them and, combined with similar processes in other nations, is measuring the rate at which we are speeding toward world economic disaster?

Opinion from the French press

Following is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Montreal Le Devoir The working manifesto unveiled by the Parti Quebecois adds considerably to the credibility of the choice the party has been offering the Quebec people during the last five years.

"When we are really masters in our own house" — its title — is surely the expression of the deepest aspirations of all French Quebecers. The Parti Quebecois is the only political movement to proclaim these collective aspirations loudly. That is what gives the party its strength today; it is what will make it perhaps triumph tomorrow.

How can one not see that the Parti Quebecois is gradually taking on reforms that no one seems capable of instilling into Quebec reality — regional reform, municipal reform, reform of voting, of party finances, of administrative procedure? How can one not see that the Parti Quebecois is the only one searching with conviction to define a "new social model."

From the document we know that in an independent Quebec governed by the Parti Quebecois, there would be both public and private enterprise; the financial sector would quickly pass from chiefly foreign control to control by Quebecers and that producers of goods and services would operate within a tighter framework, that the government's chief economic preoccupation would be regional; that an investment code would bind foreign investors to strict rules.

There are still many things we do not know — among them, the exact nature of relations with the rest of Canada and above all what the government would do about the problems of transition — the flight of capital, blocking of investment. These problems are essentially tactical rather than strategic, and their solution will be determined day by day, subject to events.

Unless there is a superhuman effort on the part of its competitors — most of all Robert Bourassa's Liberals — the Parti Quebecois will really be the only political movement to present the people not only with a radically original constitutional choice but, more important, with a complete problematic policy, a coherent scheme of social organization and an economic management strategy that follows from one sentence to the next — Claude Lemelin (April 10).

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste The grand magician of the 1967 world exhibition, Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal, seems to have lost none of his magic touch.

This man, who has made us accustomed to daring in accomplishment of the impossible, has just taken up the challenge again with the unveiling of building plans for the summer Olympic Games to be held in the Canadian metropolis.

It is an Olympic stadium with a 50,000-seat capacity for baseball and football games which can be enlarged to 70,000 seats for the duration of the Games and is usable 12 months of the year thanks to a plastic membrane suspended from a futuristically-designed pillar.

Some will say that Mayor Drapeau has let himself be carried away again by his mania for grandeur.

He has already said that holding the 1976 summer Olympic Games in his city will cost no more than $125 million, a statement which seems absolutely unrealistic when one considers that the Games at Munich will involve expenses on the order of $500 million as of August, 1972.

How will the mayor accomplish this miracle? Categorically refusing to mention any cost figures now for the Games installations, he said he hopes to fall back on "extraordinary revenues" requiring authorization from other levels of government such as special lotteries or issuing souvenir Olympic medals.

Premier Robert Bourassa of Quebec said at the unveiling that his government has "a very open attitude to collaboration" but the federal government was not represented by any of its ministers.

Mayor Drapeau will doubtless succeed in his audacious enterprise because of the fact that he conceived of the plans for the Olympic Games with a practical spirit. The famous stadium is planned in an extraordinarily functional manner, so that it surely will not become a white elephant.

Mr. Drapeau has proved in the past that man's inventive genius, allied with daring, could bring about miracles — Sylvio Saint-Amant (April 8).

Ottawa Le Droit Along with the negotiations between the government and its employees, there exists a certain malaise which cannot be ignored with impunity.

This malaise certainly will not be settled with ultimatums. Negotiations of this nature must take place in a climate of mutual concession.

On the union's part, it was normal to ask the presence of Jean-Paul L'Allier at the bargaining table but it was also normal for him to refuse to reply to this invitation. In previous conflicts, Bryce Mackasey in Ottawa and Jean Cournoyer in Quebec did marvelously in participating in negotiations, but in most cases the state was not implicated as a negotiating partner.

This case is different. It could well be that this form of intervention is foreign to the role that Mr. L'Allier believes he must follow as public service minister.

The minister believes that to intervene personally would be to show a lack of confidence in his representatives at the negotiating table.

This attitude perhaps indicates excessive scruples but it is credible that the government negotiators would feel hurt if, by his presence, the minister appeared to withdraw his confidence in them.

His intervention would also give the debate a political tone which must be avoided.

There must be flexibility in the negotiations. One must remember that it is the taxpayers who would foot the bill for increased salaries. If the state must give in all along the line, union leaders would be the first to criticize it when the provincial treasury hit the public with hefty tax increases.

In Quebec, several political pitfalls could be avoided if a real public service commission were the only spokesman to deal with the unions.

Once the current conflict is settled it would perhaps be wise to rethink totally and modify the system of negotiation. Under the present circumstances, the state is at once judge and party — Marcel Gingras (April 7).

Quebec Le Soleil Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield's recent trip to Quebec City and Montreal had a campaign whiff about it.

During the 1968 general election, certain ideas put forth only in Quebec by Marcel Faribault, like the "two nations" theory rejected by the same party in the other provinces, meant that the Conservatives lost on two fronts.

Mr. Stanfield does not seem to want to repeat the experience. As for Claude Wagner, he would be welcome in the party as spokesman for Quebec but it is not certain if Mr. Stanfield needs a "lieutenant" in Quebec.

It is evident that the Conservatives think Mr. Wagner is a choice morsel. He would not lend himself to the same confusions as Mr. Faribault.

Moreover, he has clearly defined his constitutional position since his run for the provincial Liberal leadership in 1970 by declaring himself point-blank for federalism, something which precluded the fooling around of the 1968 Conservative party campaign in Quebec.

On the eve of the federal election, the Conservatives are looking for a strong man for Quebec. Certainly with Claude Wagner, the Conservatives would have a chance to fit into the province once more, notably at the expense of the Creditistes and maybe even swallowing most of the Liberals.

On the other hand, the authoritarian reputation Mr. Wagner has in other provinces, the reserve expressed about the depth of his "democratic" ideas, could engender mistrust outside Quebec.

There is the danger of losing on one front what has been won on another.

One could also ask if the presence of a leader of his temperament would not be better at the provincial government level where he would be a compensating force, rather than on the federal level where the need for a "strong" man is less urgently felt — Gilles Boyer (April 8).

The sounds of silence

By Lubor J. Zink

OTTAWA — Where are all the demonstrators who profess to love peace and justice more than ideology?

They have now had two weeks in which to organize protests against the open, massive invasion of South Vietnam by Soviet-equipped armies of Hanoi. Not a squeak out of them. Strange.

Would they have been equally silent had the American-equipped armies of Saigon invaded North Vietnam? One is entitled to doubt it.

Cast your mind back, if you can, to spring 1970 when the allies struck at North Vietnamese sanctuaries in Cambodia. The streets of practically every city around the world were filled with demonstrators almost instantaneously. The protest was against invasion of Cambodia. Synchronized slogans called it an international crime and escalation of the war.

Yet Cambodia had been for years the victim of Communist military infiltration. North Vietnam established military bases and maintained some 50,000 troops on Cambodian soil. It was thus Hanoi's disregard of Cambodia's neutrality which constituted an international crime and escalation of the conflict.

Why did the protesters around the world remain silent until the allies took defensive action?

Because, one is compelled to conclude by the evidence, the protesters don't give a damn about international covenants and peace. Their protests, it should be obvious now, are inspired by ideological motives and organized by professional agitators who serve the interests of international Communism.

If this were not so, the well-oiled machinery of internationally synchronized demonstrations would not be producing mass protests against the open invasion of South Vietnam.

Until two weeks ago the dupes of Communist propaganda and the ultra-Liberal ostriches had a tenuous excuse for their selective blindness in Hanoi's official assurances that none of its regular troops had ever been sent outside the borders of North Vietnam. With the open invasion of South Vietnam by whole divisions of Hanoi's regular forces this big lie, which has always been too obvious to rank as a mere "credibility gap," is no longer tangible even by the most naive or misguided.

So what accounts for the silence of the presumably sincere anti-war demonstrators? There is only one plausible answer — lack of sincerity. For no matter how naive or confused a sincere, genuine pacifist may be, he or she cannot remain indifferent to a clear-cut act of aggression which has revived and escalated a virtually dormant conflict presumed by the detestants to be within sight of a negotiated settlement.

When the Soviet Union led the Warsaw Pact invasion of one of its own restive satellites in 1968, the excuse for the absence of any massive demonstrations against the act of international gangsterism was that it concerned internal affairs of one Communist bloc and that Czechoslovakia's army did not fight the invaders.

This flimsy rationalization of what was in fact moral bankruptcy cannot be applied to Hanoi's switch from covert to overt invasion of South Vietnam.

The international status of South Vietnam is similar to that of South Korea and West Germany. It is not a satellite of Moscow, Peking or Hanoi, and its armed forces are fighting the invaders. The long record of Hanoi's thinly camouflaged aggression does not in any way lessen the gravity of a frontal assault. In principle there is no difference between an open Communist attack on South Vietnam, South Korea, West Germany, or any other state outside the Sino-Soviet orbit.

When South Korea was invaded more than two decades ago, the majority of the free nations rushed collectively to the defence of the victim of aggression. The absence of the same response to the open invasion of South Vietnam is a sad testimony of the success of Communist psychological warfare in the past 20 years.

Free men not only have lost the will to contain expansion of Red fascism but have become confused by the brainwashing onslaught of left-wing propaganda that many now regard surrender to "socialist" totalitarianism as the only safeguard of peace. Some have even convinced themselves that Communism is some advanced form of democracy which should be welcomed by honest Liberals.

It is this mental and moral sickness which accounts for the silence of the international army of Red-manipulated "peace" demonstrators.

The Canadian demonstrators will, of course, be out in full force this week when President Nixon visits Ottawa. The protest will be aimed at the counter-measures he can still take in Vietnam without committing political suicide at home.

On the right
 with William F. Buckley Jr.

Once again to the breach. What is there to say about the Vietnam offensive this time around?

Richard Nixon's determination to use air power massively to stay the enemy's juggernaut is not simply a point of pride. Nixon's reaction derives from a commitment to history, annealed by the experiences that led to the Second World War. Namely — if you let a military power which is strong enough to disturb the peace of the whole world underwrite armed aggression against a little power, the fabric of peace and stability is ruptured.

That's it — the whole of it. And this time around, the North Vietnamese have conveniently disclaimed the old fiction that the South Vietnamese War is primarily a civil war. The blitzkrieg from the North, across the DMZ, is of a wholly conventional character — tanks, infantry, artillery. It might as well be the Wehrmacht marching into Poland.

On the other hand, Mr. Nixon cannot help but evaluate the threat also in terms of his political future. People are asking, and indeed are entitled to ask, what has happened to Vietnamization. It is almost three years now since the doctrine was articulated at Guam, and although you cannot create effective armies overnight, three years is not overnight.

If we all lived with a chart — something like the chart that is printed in the daily paper during the Community Chest drive, which shows us every day the ascending level of contributions which we know will soon reach the goal, and if that chart showed that month after month South Vietnam has developed its capacity to resist until now it is, say 85 per cent prepared, while the day after tomorrow it will be 100 per cent — then it would be easier for everyone to understand the necessity for armed aerial intervention by the United States at this point.

But people are asking: Okay, so we succeed this time around. What about next year? What assurances do we have that the Vietnamese are in fact headed towards operational military competence?

On this point Mr. Nixon is in a terrible bind. Vietnamization is his principal doctrinal contribution to the post-cold-war age. Are we now discovering that it doesn't work? Is it only in South Vietnam that it will not work, or is it also elsewhere? Where else?

The U.S. has mutual defence treaties with any number of countries, and we have American troops scattered around the world. Is Vietnamization a chimera? If it is, will the collapse of it bring down the whole scaffolding of Mr. Nixon's foreign policy?

Which brings us, obviously, to the question: what is the enemy up to? The enemy in this instance is quite clearly the Soviet Union, so identified quite explicitly by the Secretary of Defence, Melvin Laird, at his press conference last Friday.

Obviously the North Vietnamese were willing and anxious to go along and let us also concede that there were natural factors that were propitious, for instance the weather. But the scale of it all is Russian — the tanks, the super-modern missiles and equipment. It isn't an absolutely safe rule that the Soviet Union is behind every tactical outburst of the countries it arms, but it is moderately safe to assume that this particular outburst in Southeast Asia was planned and authorized in the Kremlin, that it is designed as a test of Mr. Nixon's will, that it has clearly in mind the effect on American domestic policy, and that it seeks to interrupt whatever reverie was launched at the Peking Summit.

Add to this the Kremlin's dream of receiving Richard Nixon in Moscow in five weeks from now with North Vietnamese soldiers marching through the streets of the capital city towards whose defence the United States offered up 50,000 American lives. Under such circumstances the meeting between Kosygin and Nixon might as well be a meeting between Hitler and Petain.

Nixon cannot allow that, for reasons that go beyond his own chances for re-election. If it becomes that easy to gain American stability, American power and American resolution, the scramble to shed America will become something of a stampede, and all those Americans who are egging on those catalytic developments — Senators Fulbright, Mansfield, McGovern and Kennedy most conspicuously — will find themselves prominent figures in a second-rate nation.

This may have the advantage of nicely complementing their particular talents, but it is a development a non-partisan Richard Nixon now faces the decisive challenge to prevent.

CANCER DRIVES

Danville

Mrs. E. J. Craighead

More than ever before, the public's attitude towards cancer indicates a determination to conquer the dread disease," says the Prime Minister of Canada, the Rt. Hon. Pierre Trudeau, in his message to his fellow countrymen on the occasion of the Cancer Month.

Again this year, the annual education campaign and fund drive of the Canadian Cancer Society, in April, are receiving the full support of the Governor General Mr. Roland Michener, and the Minister of National Health and Welfare, the Hon. John Munro, as well as the endorsement of the Prime Minister, the Rt. Hon. Pierre Trudeau.

The theme "Cancer Can Be Beaten" grows out of the great advances that science has made in recent years in combatting cancer with new drugs and more advanced methods of surgery and radiation. Also it reflects the judgment of many eminent physicians that we may be approaching the staging area for a major assault on this dread disease. "Every dollar that is given to the Canadian Cancer Society helps support vital programs of public education, research, and welfare to patients."

Mrs. H. W. Jones is again chairman of the local fund raising campaign. A meeting will be held in the United Church hall on Tuesday April 25 at 2 p.m. All those who are willing to assist Mrs. Jones in the drive are asked to be present as canvass books will be available that afternoon.

Bedford

Mrs. Margaret E. Frost

Daffodils are blooming again. Symbol of the Cancer Campaign, they remind us that once again the public must respond generously to the annual appeal for funds if this great humanitarian work is to be continued. The Danville branch of the Canadian Cancer Society anticipates an even bigger return this year than in the past, and the canvassers are ready to commence their house-to-house canvass. Remember that this is all voluntary, and that it is through the willingness of these workers that the Society is able to carry on its many projects.

Under the presidency of Mrs. Jerome Olney, this branch has been the most active for the past few years. This year's campaign chairman is Mrs. Ernest Frost, and should anyone be absent when the volunteer goes to the door, any donations would be gladly acknowledged by Mrs. Frost at her home on Maple Grove Ave. There are few homes in this town who have not known the disaster of this disease - especially when early detection was not used. There are also many of our citizens who are leading an extremely active and useful life today because of early treatment. They are living proof that cancer can be beaten. This is the slogan for our campaign and surely there can be none better.

Appreciating your generosity in the past, we are sure that once again there will be excellent response to this one appeal of the year for this worthy cause. It may be one of your loved ones whom you are aiding.

Time will catch the kisser

Dear Ann Landers: As a foreigner in your country I think maybe I should keep my mouth shut, but I would like to repay you for helping me to learn English. When I first came here I started to read your column in the newspaper because it was something I could understand from the very first day. It also helped me know the custom and the human nature of Americans.

I want to comment on the letter from the lady who complained that one of her relatives had an annoying habit of licking the corners of her mouth when she talked. Her tongue was very long and unattractive. This habit annoyed many people but no one knew what to do about it.

Please let me tell you how I cured an uncle of mine of a habit which was driving a few people crazy. He used to be a great talker, this uncle, and because he was so rich, everyone listened to him as if he really had something to say. When he spoke, he would use his thumb to push his nose from left to right and from right to left, never stopping for a minute.

I decided to let him know he was bothering me, so I stretched my neck, got very close to him and my eyes followed his nose, from left to right, from right to left. I just kept staring at him until it made him so nervous he stopped. The whole family thought this was quite remarkable but to me it was only common sense.

-Virginia Admirer

Dear Virginia: Common sense is not so common. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: You gave good advice to the girl whose fiance kept stalling about marriage. I hope she listens. When I was in my late 20's I went with a man who was three years my senior. Every time I broached the subject of a wedding date Alvin disappeared. My friends kept telling me that all men hate to be pinned down, and Alvin's behavior was "normal."

After three postponements I told Alvin to leave me alone because I wasn't going to waste any more time on him. I moved 2,000 miles away and asked him not to call or write. Two years later, guess who appeared at my doorstep? Himself in person. I was sure he was ready to marry me, but the clock stayed in town for a week and never got up the nerve to pop the question.

It's six years later. Alvin still writes love letters and sends gifts. He tells me he has "come close" to marriage a few times but he just can't bring himself to make that final step because I'm the one he really wants. You told the gal with the same problem that the guy was bonkers and to tell him to get lost. I hope she takes your advice.

-Single's Not All Bad

Dear Single: So do I. Women who are content to go with guys for umpteenth years don't really want to get married either - which is perfectly all right, so long as nobody is kidding anybody.

Dear Ann Landers: I am married to a man who claims he is just full of love and good will but I'm beginning to think he's got a screw loose. He kisses waitresses, sales people, musicians, entertainers, barbers, athletes, any one who performs a service which pleases him. This goes for men as well as women. No one seems offended by his outgoing personality but I think it looks odd for a man to be kissing strangers. He was born in Europe and claims this is a warm, harmless custom. What do you think about it?

-Kisser's Wife

Dear Wife: Never mind what I think. One of these days your friendly husband is going to kiss the wrong guy and find himself straightened around but good. Be patient. Time is on your side.

Marilyn Gustin showered

AYERS CLIFF (IH) — About 40 relatives and friends gathered at the Beulah United Church hall, the evening of Saturday, April 1, for a surprise shower to honor Miss Marilyn Gustin, a bride of the month of May.

On arrival Marilyn was presented with a corsage of pink and blue carnations by Miss Colleen Williamson. The hall was decorated in Easter motif and Marilyn was escorted to a chair where streamers were in Easter colors, accented with an inverted umbrella, and confetti balloons. Seated with her was her mother, Mrs. Bernal Gustin and aunt, Mrs. Charles Higginson, the latter of Montreal. The gifts included linens and currency for which Marilyn graciously voted her appreciation.

Two games were played, one a jumbled word wedding quiz, the other a quiz about the prospective groom. The table was centred with a lovely shower cake, sent by Marilyn's sister, Edna, Mrs. Stanley Wark of St. Hubert. A bouquet of flowers from Mrs. Lance Piery added to the decor.

Refreshments were served. Marilyn made the initial cut of the shower cake which was decorated in keeping with Easter and inscribed with good wishes to her. After the cake was cut the bride elect passed it to all

Oswald: "Here is a hand I watched the other day. The bidding is interesting indeed."

Jim: "I see West preempted first and then bid again to push his opponents into a slam. I see that East let South play the hand there after West gave the final push."

Oswald: "I can't really blame either of them. West knew that trumps weren't going to break. East was sure that South would have plenty of trouble with the minor suits."

Jim: "I see that the slam can be beaten. All West has to do is open either single-ton. South will have to try to ruff a spade and if East wins the first spade with his queen he will be able to give his partner a ruff. Did that happen?"

Oswald: "No. West opened the king of spades. Then he shifted to a trump. East showed out, South came to the right conclusion and played the hand out with perfect technique to bring home the slam on a squeeze."

Jim: "I'll go over it. He won in his own hand, ruffed a spade, played three more rounds of trumps while discarding a diamond and club from dummy. Then he played ace and king of clubs and ruffed a club."

This is an excellent opportunity for the girls to learn responsibility and fair play, as the Brownies pair up with an older Guide and sally forth to sell their wares. Each team is allotted certain streets, and it is indeed a sad tale to hear, when they find that others have "poached" on their territory. Please buy generously when they call on you. We need your support.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Health class asks about pregnancy

Dear Dr. Lamb — In our health class we came upon a question that our teacher was not sure of, so a group of us girls thought it would be a good idea to ask you the same question. When does a girl have the least chance of getting pregnant? We would appreciate it if you would answer this in one of your future columns.

Dear Reader—Your phrase "the least chance" is a good term because there is always the chance that a girl can get pregnant. There is some debate about whether ovulation can occur during actual menstruation, but since it does occur then in animals a number of authorities think it is possible for a woman to ovulate at this time.

In the normal cycle of events, there are about 28 days between the onset of periods, although this varies a great deal. The egg or ovum is released about 14 days before the onset of the period. This means it occurs midway between the periods and this is the time a person is most likely to get pregnant.

However, women are noted for being irregular and this is particularly true for young girls when all of these complex mechanisms are first beginning to function. When the ovum is first released, it is called ovulation and if it meets with a sperm cell a pregnancy begins. The fertilized ovum nestles down in the special tissue which lines the womb. In the preceding two weeks this tissue has grown quite a bit to provide an adequate nest for the fertilized ovum. If it implants and starts growing a pregnancy ensues.

When the ovum is not fertilized or does not embed then the extra tissue which nature has built up for the pregnancy is discarded. This dismantling process occurs about two weeks or 14 days after the ovulation. Then it is rebuilt again and gets ready for the next ovulation which should occur midway between the periods.

The rhythm method of birth control relies on the fact that ovulation occurs approximately 14 days before the onset of the period, in a woman who is regular. If this period can be identified it is known that she is most likely to get pregnant at this time, give or take a few days before or after the 14 day midpoint. If she is absolutely regular (which doesn't happen very often) by avoiding intercourse during these periods of time, pregnancy can be avoided, but I would like to emphasize to you again that there is no time that anyone is completely safe from getting pregnant.

This is why so many other methods of birth control have been developed. The best, surest way to prevent an unwanted pregnancy is not to engage in any activity that can result in this unfortunate event.

The second forty forum for mature women

By MARGARET BROOKFIELD STUDENT BENEFITS

Dear Margaret Brookfield: I'm a 41-year-old widow who has never had a job outside the home. My only child, a daughter, is a college freshman who'll be 18 in a few months. Ever since my husband passed away, I've been receiving social security checks regularly, which also include student benefits for my daughter. I understand that if she plans to continue her education full-time after 18 — and she does — she can keep getting those benefits until she's 22. But I'm not clear about myself. I'm not sure if my own benefits will continue. M.H.

Dear M.H.: According to the social security people, the benefits you've been receiving since your husband's death are designed to help a widowed mother support her young children until they grow up and can support themselves. You're right about your daughter's benefits. They can go on until she's 22, provided she continues full-time as a student and does not marry before then. They say, however, that your own benefits will stop as soon as your daughter reaches the age of 18. Later on — if your own marital status remains the same — you may apply for the benefits designed for older widows. For details on this, why not phone or visit your social security offices. You'll find them listed in the phone book.

POSSIBLE PREGNANCY

Dear Margaret Brookfield: I'd like to know if pregnancy is possible after the completion of the menopause. That is, can ovulation still take place after menstruation is no longer evident? Although I'm 52 and haven't had a period in more than four years, I feel very unsure about the whole thing. I'd appreciate any advice you might have. J.C.

Dear J.C.: This question comes up time and time again with mature women, who just don't know whether or not they are safe from pregnancy at their age. Doctors tell us, however, that a woman who has not a period for 12 months is in the menopause and past her child-bearing years. (Since her ovaries are no longer fully operational then, she stops ovulating and is no longer able to conceive.) At the same time, her body's supply of female hormones — which the ovary had produced — may be diminishing and may therefore need to be replaced. That determination must, of course, be made by her doctor. (If he prescribes estrogen replacement, this will help restore her hormonal balance but won't bring back her earlier fertility.) Since you yourself haven't had a period for four years, it would be safe to assume now that pregnancy is no longer a possibility for you. But why not see your doctor in any case and have a complete general checkup?

ers should learn to follow it with all hands.

It isn't hard for South to Analyze the king of hearts lead or to Review the bidding. West clearly has a long strong heart suit and has led it.

South can Count winners and losers rather easily. He must lose a club and has some possible losers in trumps.

In Utopia, South can lead a diamond to dummy; play a spade and finesse his jack. Spades will break 3-3 with the queen in the East hand and South will make twelve tricks. He will make eleven if East holds four trumps to the queen or West three to the queen.

He will make just nine the way the cards lie because West has four trumps to the queen, will win the first trump and shorten South down to the same number he holds. Later on he will be able to keep South from ever collecting a club trick.

All this will be bad luck but South should avoid it. He should see that he can afford to lose two trump tricks. After that he will cash the ace and king of trumps and play nothing but clubs and diamonds from then on.

He will lose two trump tricks but he will have insured his contract.

OBITUARIES

MR. & MRS. W.D. THOMPSON of Ayer's Cliff

It's so seldom that a small community says "Farewell" to two of its oldest residents in the space of four days time; but it happened here when Mr. William D. Thompson passed away on March 6, 1972, and his wife Edna (Libby) Thompson followed on March 10. About a year ago they closed their home at Burroughs Falls and came into the village to live with their son Murray and his wife Ellen. Here they were given every care and both were able to die happily with loved ones around them, neither having to be confined to hospital. Mr. Thompson's funeral was held in Beulah United Church on March 9 with Rev. K. McLaughlin officiating. His bearers were the following Oddfellow Brothers: Messrs. Edward Hyatt, Stewart Bullock of Stanstead, Nelson Pierce, Frank Alvin and Harold Smith of Ayer's Cliff. Mrs. Thompson's service was held on March 11 in Beulah United Church with Rev. K. McLaughlin officiating. Her bearers were a nephew William Curtis of Stanstead, Harold Carter, Beebe, Cecil Tyler, Wendall Cass, Stanley Cooper and George Butler, Ayer's Cliff. Interment was in Ayer's Cliff cemetery. Both funerals were conducted by Mr. H.M. Cass and his staff. William Darwin Thompson was born April 14, 1881 in Bromfield County. He was the son of Alexander Thompson and his wife Kathleen Murray. Edna Myra Thompson was born July 10, 1885, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Libby, sister of Mable (Mrs. Wm. Shuttlesworth) who predeceased her.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were married on Oct. 19, 1904. Three children were born of this union — Miles Alex, deceased, Murray and Wilma. The family have lived in this community for many years.

Mr. Thompson was an active member of the Farmers Club and the County Agricultural Society for many years and was always interested in any community activities. Mrs. Thompson was an active member of the local Women's Institute for many years. They were both members and staunch supporters of the Cassville United Church and when it closed came to the United Church in Ayer's Cliff as long as their health permitted.

They leave to mourn their loss one son Murray and a daughter Wilma (Mrs. Ross Miller) of Noranda; four grandsons, Gordon, Howard, William and Donald; two granddaughters Rosalyn and Penelope Miller and one great-grandson David Andrew Thompson.

Mr. Thompson leaves two sisters, Mrs. Cyrus Finders of Calgary, Alta., and Mrs. Arthur Rudd from Framingham, Mass. Both were unable to attend the funerals because of illness. Also survived by several nieces and nephews and a host of friends.

There were many beautiful floral tributes and cash donations made in their memory were given to the new Coronary Unit at the Sherbrooke Hospital.

Out of town relatives and friends attending the funerals came from Noranda, Littleton and Lisbon, N.H., Fonthill, and Kingston, Ont., Ste. Rose de Laval, Montreal, Farnham and the surrounding area.

IDA BELLA MORRISON of Virden, Man., formerly of Milan.

Ida Bella Morrison passed away quietly, after a lingering illness, in the Brignall Nursing Home in Elkhorn, Man., on March 25, 1972, in her 87th year.

Mrs. Morrison was born in Milan in the Eastern Townships of Quebec on May 29, 1884, where she lived and received her early education. After a final year of schooling in Chicago, Mrs. Morrison took her business course and worked for some time in Chicago, then some years in Montreal and Winnipeg until her marriage in Winnipeg on October 18, 1911, to Angus Alexander Morrison of Eastend, Sask., formerly of Tolsta in the Eastern Townships of Quebec.

The Morrises were among the earliest settlers of the ranch south-east of Eastend, where they lived until the late 1920s when they rented their farm and moved to live in Winnipeg a few years. Returning to Eastend in 1931, they farmed again some years until they sold their farm and retired in Eastend, where Mrs. Morrison lived until September 1964 when she moved to Virden, Man., living there until the time of her death.

Mrs. Morrison was a member of the United Church of Canada and the Order of the Eastern Star of Eastend.

Mrs. Morrison was predeceased by her husband in August 1956, three brothers: Murdo, Norman and George McLeod; and two sisters: Marna McLeod and Catharine Cooke. She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Margaret A. Welch of Virden, and numerous nieces and nephews.

The funeral service was held in Eastend United Church on March 29, with Rev. H. Kennedy officiating, followed by a beautiful farewell service by Sisters of Assure Chapter No. 42 of the Order of the Eastern Star.

it answers questions you may hesitate to ask

Many women have told us that this booklet has been most helpful in answering questions that may arise concerning funerals. It is advertised nationally by National Selected Morticians. The booklet discusses funeral customs, what to expect from your funeral director, obtaining benefits to which you may be entitled, funeral costs and payment, acknowledgements and other considerations involved in funeral arrangements. It includes The Code of Good Funeral Practice to which we are uncompromisingly committed.

Because we want you to be informed about funerals, we would like you to have a personal copy. Please write or call us for "What Every Woman Should Know". There is no charge or obligation.

I got my refund already! How about you?

Hundreds of thousands of Québécois have already received their income tax refunds.

Mind you, I filed my tax return right... I wanted to keep things rolling!

1 — I began by correctly identifying myself
I sent in my personalized "TP1 Short 1971" provincial income tax form... which was mailed to me. First, I checked to see that my name, address and social insurance number appeared correctly. As there was a slight error, I corrected it in the part marked "For Corrections only".

2 — Then I closely followed the guide
After all, the "TP1 Short 1971" provincial income tax form is merely two sides of a single sheet of paper — plus a handy guide to help you. To avoid mistakes, I filled in the working copy and re-wrote all the information on my personalized copy received in the mail. That's the one I sent to the Department of Revenue.

If you use a non-personalized form, make sure that you correctly print your name, address, social insurance number and date of birth where indicated.

To work out properly my TP1 Short return of income for 1971, I filled in first the "Personal Exemptions" section, then the "Pension Plan" and the "Income" sections. Then I completed the "Health Insurance Plan" section, and finally I calculated my "taxable income" and made my "tax calculation". That's when I discovered the government owed me money. Today I received my refund cheque... Great! Do as I did. Maybe you are entitled to a refund too!

Since it has to be done, do it now!

Philip, Amaron Trophy winner Steve Etcheverry and guest speaker Gerry Patterson.

Stanstead athletes get awards

STANSTEAD (IH) — Gerry Patterson, organizing agent and manager for some of the stars of sports, was the guest speaker at the Stanstead College athletic assembly held Monday evening in Pierce Hall.

Mr. Patterson spoke about external marketing factors, his work with such persons as Rusty Staub, Jean Beliveau, Guy Lafleur and many more, and gave a preview of years to come in the sports picture.

"We Canadians are proud of what we are not," were his opening remarks as he spoke statistically.

Canada is the second largest country in the world in terms of land area with a population of 20 million. In French Canada, two thirds of the people speak French only. Almost 50 per cent live in cities, and by 1980 he estimates 60 per cent will be in cities.

The consumers' market is 4,000 miles long and 100 miles wide. The literary rate of Canadians is 97 per cent. Radio reaches 96.4 per cent. Canadians spend an average of 27 hours a week listening to the radio. Newspaper circulation is 4 1/2 million. Five million people spend 43 hours a week watching television. In Quebec, the figure is 46 hours a week.

With these being some of his quotations, he said the sports franchise is selling. "It's an adult market," he said. There is a loyalty to sports and sports heroes.

"Doing things will pay off," he said as he explained about his association with the sports personnel for whom he works.

His preview into the future years, probably within five years, included worldwide professional hockey, an independent sports network, college hockey serving as a training ground for professional hockey as to selection for players and coaches, acceleration in all sports and profits and closed TV circuits in all major arenas.

Mr. Patterson said it has been proved sports leaps cultural bound. "The sports superstars have a great responsibility to meet," he said.

Mr. Patterson was introduced by John Scrim, captain of the varsity hockey squad. On behalf of the student body and staff, he was thanked by Steve Etcheverry.

Jerry Petrie, an associate of Mr. Patterson, was also present, and following the assembly both held a forum in the reception room.

Alex Philip, athletic director, was master of ceremonies. He called upon each coach, who spoke and presented awards.

The two top coveted trophies were presented. The Dr. E. C. Amaron Trophy for all-round excellence and sportsmanship in basketball went to Steve Etcheverry. The Daves Trophy for all-round excellence and sportsmanship in hockey went to Ted Moyssey.

William Walker, coach for the intramural games, said 40 boys were divided into four equal teams. They played ball hockey, basketball and badminton, all featuring keen competition. The season ended with three tournaments won by Team A. Miniature cups were presented to the team of captain Brian Bourne, P. Haggerty, G. Themin, L. Bellrose, T. Deutchman, M. Garon and R. Chesnay.

The badminton doubles award were presented to Bourne and Deutchman and runners-up awards to Rupert Lennox and Dave Fawcett.

Peter Howard, coach of the shooting program, presented medals in bronze, silver and gold and crests to his teams.

Barry Gallant, coach of bantam hockey, said "We were pretty much a typical hockey team," and quoted Mr. Patterson, "proud of what we are not." The 12 games played in the season were, he said, a preparation for junior varsity and varsity hockey.

The Bantam S award winners were G. Casgrain, S. Philip, W. Peckham, D. McKeown, A. Atton, A. Delisle and J. Sabatino. The team of 19 received their shoulder bars.

Mr. Philip, coach of JV basketball, said it had been a gratifying season as the team steadily improved. The season included eight wins and three losses. The boys were disappointed that three scheduled games had been cancelled.

The Junior S award winners were D. LaMonte, R. Foss, B. McCarty, M. Etcheverry and H. Knobovitch.

Team bars were presented to each.

HAD WINNER SEASON
Andre Lebel, coach of JV hockey, said the team had 10 wins, three losses and a tie during the season. There was improved play from start to finish. Junior S award winners were J. Deacon, D. Anderson, R. Hale, B. Cahoon, D. Johnson and M. Layton.

Cross-country skiing coach Anthony Eveleigh said that weatherwise it had not been a good season yet his boys with determination carried on their workouts and improved.

He noted the honors brought to Stanstead College by the teams who participated in the marathon between Montreal and Ottawa. He spoke especially of the "beautiful technique" of Robert Campbell.

The awards included gold medals, in addition to those presented in Ottawa for the marathon event, to four of the junior team. Team bars were also presented.

Roger Smith, coach of alpine skiing, said over 50 per cent of the 200 boys at Stanstead participated in the ski program this past season.

Racing on their part was better, and for the first time Stanstead took part in the senior circuit of the Eastern Townships Ski Zone. "Stanstead ranking within the top 20" is a remarkable showing, he said.

PRESENTED AWARDS
The Major S winners were J. Cowen and G. Kilgour; the Senior S, R. Clark, A. Moisan and M. Durancceau; the Junior S, K. Coutts and P. Lloyd.

Varsity pins went to R. Clark, D. Fisher, M. Giroux, J. Kirby, G. Blunt, A. Moisan, K. Coutts, P. Lloyd, Peter MacLeod and N. Stevenson. Team bars were presented to four of the boys.

Coach Brian Denney of varsity basketball said the season included nine wins and six losses. His remarks were that his team had not played up to their potential.

Major S awards winners were S. Etcheverry, G. Wing and C. Leigh-Smith; and a Senior S award went to P. Roman.

Team managers D. McDade and R. Beauregard also received awards for proficiency.

Peter Boyd, coach of varsity hockey, summarized the season and its highlights. Major S award winners were T. Moyssey, J. Scrim, C. Mitchell, G. Brown, B. Hodge and G. Dowd; Senior S, B. Wright, D. Snook, J. Little and J. Cammaller; Varsity pins, B. Wright, R. Barry, P. Boynton and R. Purvis.

Managers' proficiency awards went to P. Boynton, R. Purvis and P. Wynne.

Habs come up short for last time this year

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens were flying but New York Rangers flew higher Thursday night, beating the Habs 3-2 to take their best-of-seven Stanley Cup quarter-final four games to two.

Walt Tkaczuk of the Rangers scored the winner with 29 seconds gone in the third period, beating Montreal goalie Ken Dryden on his glove side with a 35-foot shot.

Bill Fairbairn scored the other two New York goals and Yvan Cournoyer and Jacques Lemaire scored for Montreal.

The Rangers meet Chicago Black Hawks in a best-of-seven semi-final starting Sunday night in Chicago.

Tkaczuk's goal was his second of the series.

TAKES FAIRBAIRN PASS
Tkaczuk got the puck from Fairbairn, got away from a check and then fired the puck home.

"Billy (Fairbairn) told me to shoot it," Tkaczuk said. "I did. That was it."

"Our line was flying tonight. I was lucky to get the big goal, but my wingers were helping me out all night."

The Canadiens came out flying before 18,196 fans and had several good scoring chances, but Rangers' netminder Ed Giacomin was outstanding. The grey-haired goalie robbed Cournoyer and Claude Larose from point-blank range and did the splits to kick out a drive from Rejean Houle from just inside the blue line.

"Canadiens have put plenty of pressure on me in other games, but the puck soon went into the net," Giacomin said. This time it didn't, but the pressure kept right on being applied."

"They came out flying and really poured it on," New York coach Emile Francis said. "We expected that. We knew they would be up for this one."

STARTS SCORING
But it was Fairbairn who opened the scoring when he slapped Tkaczuk's rebound past Dryden from close in at 9:31 of the first period. Dryden couldn't move on the play as defenceman J.C. Tremblay was sitting atop him in the crease.

Cournoyer tied the score for the Canadiens 121 seconds later when he broke away from two checkers and blasted a shot past Giacomin from 10 feet out.

Fairbairn restored the Rangers' lead at 9:33 of the second when he took a pass from linemate Gene Carr and fired the puck over Dryden's right shoulder.

Carr avoided a weak checking effort by Canadiens' rookie Guy Lafleur in the right corner, scooting behind the National net to the other side and then passing to Fairbairn.

But the Rangers were guilty of a defensive lapse about five minutes later and it allowed Lemaire to tie the score. Lemaire, standing in the clear, took a pass from Lafleur and had time to knock down a bouncing puck and fire an off-balance backhand shot past Giacomin. That set the stage for the winning effort by Tkaczuk.

Montreal had its chances to even the score in the third period, but Giacomin rose to the occasion each time. He stuck out his left leg and just caught a piece of slap shot by Jacques Lemaire with 69 seconds left to preserve the win. With less than 30 seconds left, he kicked out a low drive from Guy Lapointe.

Canadiens had a 5-4 manpower advantage for the last 78 seconds of the game as a result of penalty to Jim Neilson. They pulled Dryden for an extra attacker.

Giacomin lofted a clearing shot down the ice with less than 25 seconds left and it missed the Canadiens goal by a few inches.

"My first intention was to get the puck out of our end," Giacomin said. "I saw I had a chance to get the shot up high and send it really sailing down the ice. I thought I might have been able to score. I wish it had gone in..."

Blues lock series

ST. LOUIS (CP) — The series between St. Louis Blues and Minnesota Stars in the Stanley Cup quarter-finals has so far been a home-ice affair.

The Blues downed the North Stars 4-2 Thursday night to even the best-of-seven series 3-3, forcing a seventh game Sunday in Minneapolis.

But St. Louis coach Al Arbour now is confident his Blues will take the seventh and deciding game on Minnesota's home ice and advance to the semi-finals against Boston Bruins.

"Our guys are confident and they feel they can win it," Arbour said Thursday after the Blues turned back the North Stars, who won all their games at home.

Coach Jack Gordon of Minnesota is inclined his Blues with Arbour about the confidence of the Blues. After praising their play Thursday night, he said:

"They're working. They're working bloody hard. We've got to get something going of our own."

Roberto takes over

Ball strike over, season short

A shortened baseball season will finally get under way 11 days late Saturday, but before the first pitch is thrown the sport has two losers and a count of one strike.

The first general walkout in the history of the major leagues ended Thursday on two fronts—in Chicago, where baseball club owners voted to pick up the season beginning Saturday and cancel all games called off by the strike, and in New York, where the player representatives agreed.

The pennant races thus will be decided on a percentage basis, since not all teams will play the same number of games. Technically, the races always are decided on percentage, but games affecting the final standings usually are made up. In the American League East, Baltimore Orioles have 154 games remaining, Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees 155 and Cleveland Indians, Detroit Tigers and Milwaukee Brewers 156. In the American League West, Chicago White Sox, Kansas City Royals, Minnesota Twins and Texas Rangers will play 154 games. California Angels and Oakland Athletics 155.

Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League East show 155 games left while Montreal Expos, New York Mets, Philadelphia Phillies and St. Louis Cardinals have 156 in the National League West. Houston Astros and San Diego Padres have 153, Atlanta Braves and Cincinnati Reds 154 and Los Angeles Dodgers and San Francisco Giants 155.

All 24 teams will lose at least one home game.

The only dispute still remaining—until the year-end negotiations between players and owners on a new basic agreement—involves Kansas City and Chicago in the American League West. Ewing Kauffman, owner of the Royals, says he will protest any games his club has to play against Chicago this week-end because the White Sox disregarded a league directive and allowed their players to work out in White Sox Park.

This motor holds the World Outboard Speed Record at 131 mph.

So what?

Most of the people who buy our Evinrude Starlite V-4's aren't racers. They just want the best engine they can buy, from whoever makes the best engines.

Setting the world's outboard speed record and holding it for 11 years has taught us a lot about how to build faster, stronger, more reliable production engines. That's why the big Evinrudes (the 85, 100 and the new 125) are all V-4's. The tougher, shorter V-4 crankshaft can take a lot more than conventional in-line crankshafts. And deliver a lot more, too. Evinrude's V-4 design also cuts down on engine height for greater stability when the going gets rough.

We think our 131 mph. record has helped give you a better outboard. And if our competition didn't think so, why are they still trying to beat it?

See the complete Evinrude line, 16 models from 2 to 125 hp., at your dealer's now.
