Vic Hall piano clinic scheduled for Tuesday

By VALENTINA RAHR

Douglas Scott, 68 Columbia avenue is a member of the Society of American Magicians. At the annual contest night held recently, seven performances were given in an effort to win the annual trophy. This year the trophy, a hand holding a fan of cards, was presented to Paul Gelin, whose stunning mental effect was chosen as the best in the show.

Freda Pemberton Smith, Metcalfe avenue, whose 32 oil paintings are being exhibited at The Artlenders, 4225 Melrose avenue until February 29, spent the summer of 1959 painting in Newfoundland. Among the collection is one of an old shipwreck off the coast of Avalon. The old rusted hull is all that remains of the "Torhamvan" and has been there for thirty years. A smaller painting shows the old Colonial building presently being used as the Legislative Assembly, and is from the older section of St. John's. This building will soon be incorporated in the plans for the new Confederation Buildings, soon to be completed, which will house the new parliament buildings of Newfoundland.

Edna Marie Hawkins, Sherbrooke street west, and Rose Goldblatt, Elm avenue, have been playing a two piano repertoire for their own enjoyment for years. These two Westmount pianists, members of the teaching staff of the Faculty of Music at McGill, have been asked to present a two-piano recital in the faculty series of open concerts arranged for students and general public. This recital, which will take place at Redpath Hall, on Monday, February 22, at 8:45 p.m. will feature the first Montreal performance of a new Canadian work "Suite for two pianos" by Violet Archer. Works of nine other composers including Bach, Poulenc and Shostakovich will also be presented.

Eudice Garmaise, King's School art class, has started a new project. The pupils in her group are making puppets to go with characters from some of Aesop's fables. When the puppets are ready, complete with dresses and trimmings, the children will act out the stories.

The seventh Piano Clinic will be held in Victoria Hall on Tuesday, February 23, at 8:30 p.m. Francis Goltman, founder of the series, has arranged for two well known personalities to appear as speakers. Gilbert Hill, resident of Westmount, and Eva Corker, whose subjects will be: "Musical Shrines" and "Artists I have interviewed," respectively. Solos and duets will be presented by young pianist students who study with Miss Goltman.

Journalists chaplain to speak at Gesu

"The Roman Church — God's Work or Man's?" is the topic of a public lecture to be given Tuesday, Feb. 23 at 8:15 p.m., by a noted English Jesuit, Rev. Joseph Christie. The talk, to be held in the Gesu Hall, 1200 Bleury street, is sponsored by the Catholic Inquiry Forum.

Father Christie, remembered by many Montrealeers for his talks here two years ago, will answer such questions as these: If the Church is Infallible, What Room is There for Error? Can it be a Church of Saints and of sinners? Can it be at the Same Time Divine and Human? Where do we Draw the Line? Do Scandals Imperil the Divine Claims of the Church?

Now a well-known London speaker, writer and broadcaster, Father Christie is a native of Scotland. He studied at the University of Glasgow, joined the Jesuits in 1930 and was ordained priest in 1942. Possessing the rare talent of feeling at ease with any audience, he can adapt himself to a university debate or to an open air meeting in Hyde Park.

Among his many current assignments, he is chaplain to the Catholic newspapermen of Fleet street in London. Tickets for the lecture are obtainable at the Catholic Inquiry Forum, 1182 Bleury street, or at the door.

Gas question? In suspension until March

The so-called "gas station question" and the "gentlemen's agreement" of City Manager T. J. Hughes and the owner-oil companies has not come before council, and will be held in suspension until sometime — "probably in March."

Representations were made by gas station lessees to the Westmount Municipal Association.

Obituaries

NELSON E. GRANT

Nelson E. Grant, area equipment engineer for the Bell Telephone Company prior to his retirement last August, died Monday in St. Mary's Hospital. He was in his 65th year.

Born and educated in Montreal, he began work with the telephone company in Montreal as a draftsman in 1917.

During World War I, he enlisted with the signals branch of the Royal Canadian Engineers and served in France.

Following demobilization, he re-entered the Bell Telephone Company and in the succeeding years, due to his wide knowledge in communication and years of study, became equipment engineer and later area engineer in charge of toll equipment. He was widely known in communications circles in both Montreal and Toronto.

In his youth Mr. Grant played lacrosse with the old MAAA team and also hockey for the Bell team in the Railway-Phone Hockey League.

He retired from active work last August and went to Florida for the winter months. For years, he and his family lived on Columbia avenue, Westmount.

His first wife, the former Vera Gibson, died some years ago. He is survived by his second wife, the former Eva Joly-Nantel, one daughter, Pauline (Mrs. Douglas Shantz) and one granddaughter, Virginia Shantz.

The funeral service was held from the William Wray Chapel, 2075 University street, Thursday.

Unity Boy's Club

By MAURICE MARIASINE

The Unity Quiz Contest, now in its third week, gained impetus with the announcement that a Montreal radio station has donated a radio to be used as first prize for the contestant who has achieved the highest aggregate score at the completion of the ten week series.

The knowledge that a radio was offered as the first prize, drew greater participation from the club members, and as a result, nearly 100 contestants have now entered the contest. In the first week, eleven contestants received perfect scores (10 points) and the average for the over-all entries received was eight points, indicating that considerable research and thought was being exercised by the contestants.

Interest is high. The Quiz Contest continues to be the main topic of conversation at the club. Because of the belated announcement that a Radio would be offered as first prize, club officials have decided to extend the availability of the first week's questions, and those who failed to enter the contest at the very beginning can, even at this late date, pick up their entry forms.

TENTH ANNIVERSARY: A reunion of all club members who joined the Unity Boys' Club 10 years ago, plus those who were members before the present building was erected, will be invited to attend a 10th anniversary get-together late in April of this year. A committee composed of Chairman Sylvia Rosvold, Colin McDonald, Douglas Brambell and Mary Slaney meet every Wednesday at the club to discuss plans for the event and also compile a mailing list to send out to former members.

The committee would appreciate assistance from former members with reference to locating those who have moved away from the district since their membership enrollment days.

TALENT CLUB ENTERTAINS: The Unity Boys' Club Talent Parade will provide entertainment at St. Matthias Church on Wednesday, February 24, and Friday, March 4. The group will entertain at the School for Crippled Children for the handicapped.

BROWNIE CLUB: A photography class under the direction of Noel Ryan meets every Monday evening starting at 7 p.m. The class, called the Brownie Club, has been developing films for some time now, and is expected to work on enlargements in the near future. In the spring-time, the group will take their own out-door pictures and carry out the process of development and enlargement.

LITTLE LEAGUE BASEBALL: The call to "Play Ball" is being heard at the Club. Coach Manny Barnoff has announced that "spring training" has begun and Saturday morning training sessions have started for all boys who are interested in playing baseball this year. The players are asked to meet in the gym at 9 a.m. and Wednesday evening.

$11,000 robbery

Thieves netted nearly $11,000 in cash and cheques in a daring daylight robbery at the corner of Notre Dame street and Atwater avenue on Monday afternoon.

Shortly after 3 p.m. an accountant for the Atwater Beef company, 205 Atwater, was accosted by a man who seized a briefcase which, according to company officials, contained $300 in cash and $10,690 in cheques.

The accountant, Rene Huot, was on his way to the bank when stopped and assaulted by the individual. The thief took the small briefcase after striking Huot in the face.

Restriction number one

Lansdowne is closed to all truck traffic

By LARRY McINNIS

The long-standing perseverance of Lansdowne avenue residents has finally triumphed — trucks will not be allowed on the street between St. Catherine and Sherbrooke in future.

Residents have been complaining bitterly over the amount of heavy traffic on the street. They had recently appealed to the Westmount Municipal Association for help in presenting their case to City Council.

In the end, the volume of individual letters to city hall brought the matter to the attention of council.

At a general session of council on Monday night, Alderman Drury submitted the proposal that special regulations and restrictions be put into effect by police under article three of by-law 501, and that administrative steps be taken to amend article 12(a) of the by-law to provide for the prohibition of through truck traffic on the street between St. Catherine and Sherbrooke streets.

Lansdowne is considered a residential area. Until 60 years ago a deep ravine and creek ran along just east of where the present street is located. For some years the city engineering department had trouble keeping the street from caving in.

The underground river crosses Lansdowne at Western. The same little river caused trouble with foundation construction of the new artificial ice skating rink.

A modern sewer system now encloses the river, so the city does not foresee any possible trouble with cave-ins of pavement and sidewalks in future.

The city's assistant general manager, N. T. Dawe, said the motion to council was made because the city received so many individual complaints from residents over a long period of time. "There was no individual petition, as such," he said.

At a recent meeting of the WMA, president L. C. Harper expressed regret that the matter had come before council without benefit of participation by the association.

Liberals to hear Marler

George C. Marler, former Minister of Transport and former Member of Parliament for St. Antoine-Westmount, will speak to the Westmount Young Liberals on Monday, February 22 at 8:30 p.m. in the Oak Room, Victoria Hall.

George Marler:

Three basic tests for constitution amendment

Any Canadian constitutional amendments considered by the Conservative government should stand up to three tests established by the previous Liberal government, George C. Marler, executive vice-president of the Canadian Liberal Federation, told the Montreal Rotary club Tuesday.

The amendment procedure, Mr. Marler said, should meet "these most exacting tests:

"It must protect minority rights absolutely.

"It must preserve the federal character of the Canadian nation by preserving the autonomy, within their respective spheres, of the legislatures and parliament.

"It must have sufficient flexibility to enable our country to go forward as a dynamic nation."

Mr. Marler, former liberal member for St. Antoine-Westmount, and former transport minister in the St. Laurent government, said the Liberals tried in 1950 to get provincial heads to agree on such an amendment procedure.

"The discussions that took place make interesting reading," he said.

Outlining the history of the British North America Act, he called it "the first dominion constitution to be enacted by the British Parliament."

The BNA Act, he said, made no provision for amendment.

Common practice has been for cannot personally avoid the conclusion that the Parliament at Westminster would take whatever action it was requested to take by our own Parliament. Thus, it was given as a reason by residents for their letters. They also wanted to stop MTC buses from using the street, but the new amendment does not "and cannot" provide for this.

At a future date, if the city recommends, the MTC can be approached to re-route the line now using the street.

both the Commons and the Senate to vote an address to the Throne requesting an amendment.

In 1949, the then-Prime Minister, Louis St. Laurent, made a statement to the effect that London could not reject a constitutional amendment supported by a majority of representatives of the Canadian people.

"He merely posed this as a question," Mr. Marler said. "I seems, the power to amend the constitution rests in Ottawa. Now must consider ways to achieve the amendment procedure in Ottawa also."

Restriction number two

Council meeting brief — Inglesiders make gain

At a brief meeting (for lack of sufficient business) Westmount City Council last Monday night bowed to the wishes of residents of Ingleside avenue by proposing necessary amendments to existing by-laws to change the parking regulations on the street.

Chris Wiggins and Kay Tremblay, playing the title roles in the Montreal Repertory Theatre production of The Great Sebastians, attempt to frighten General Zandek, played by Henry Ramer, with some fake mind-reading.

Under authority of article 46 (1) of by-law 501, parking restrictions on either side of the street have been reduced from four hours to two between the house of 8 a.m. and 7 p.m. Monday to Friday, inclusive.

The restriction will, in itself, be slightly further restricted during the winter months. From December 1 to March 31, called winter months by the city, no parking will be permitted on the south side of the street.

Like the Lansdowne avenue decision, the case came before council as a result of numerous complaints from Ingleside avenue residents that they could not find parking space in front of their own homes.

A police survey revealed an average of 12 cars parked on the street, when about four would be the normal number owned by residents.

Also on the council agenda was approval for expenditure of $6,513.62 from by-law 436 to provide for expenses in connection with the alterations to furnaces and heating units of Victoria Hall.

Arithmetic favors Heart Fund drive

HERE's a simple arithmetic lesson with a compelling conclusion:

Eighty million in lost salaries and wages;

One hundred twenty million for treatment and care of victims.

Added together, that's two hundred million dollars — the estimated annual cost to Canadians of heart disease.

Meanwhile, the Heart Foundations of Canada currently have a campaign going for one million, two hundred forty-six thousand dollars for the Canadian Heart Fund, to support a nation-wide program of research and education to reduce this tremendous loss.

Looks like an obvious answer: give.

If the big dollar figures don't impress you, try it in human terms:

One and a quarter million Canadians have some form of heart disease. Some 300,000 of these are seriously disabled. More than 17,000 children suffer from preventable rheumatic fever and its product, rheumatic heart disease—which cause some 1,500 deaths annually!

Whatever you give toward the research and training necessary to cut this toll will reap a big return.

BY THE WAY

"MUSIC-LOVERS," writes an enthusiastic critic, "will wish that this record could go on for ever." One way to avert this catastrophe and to scatter the devotees to the four corners of the room is to substitute a pancake for the record. See how the morsels fly in every direction. Another trick is to light a fire of damp twigs on the floor and let the smoke do its work.

A former resident says editor callow

Sir: What sort of callow reporters, or photographers, have you on your paper? I am referring to picture, front page, Jan. 15, 1960, of Mr. and Mrs. K. Kennedy.

For your information, the "hearing aid" so wittily (?) referred to, is a result of World War I, also Mr. Kennedy's cane, and worst, probably, his white hair. He is not senile, which one could soon find out in any controversy!

I am a former resident of Westmount and know of this gentleman — also your paper. I doubt very much if Mr. Kennedy will see, or has seen, the above item, and am sure he'd be greatly amused.

Also, page 17, "Senior citizen — beaver coat and all" — What terrific humour (sickening) don't you agree?

I would like to get a look at reporter, or editor, who finds something so overwhelmingly funny about older people "—to see ourselves as others see us" has been denied them, evidently.

Yours truly,

Lauds government on education plan

Sir: No preceding Government prior to the coming into office of the Union Nationale has been so generous to educational institutions on all levels as that of the late Maurice Duplessis, his immediate successor, the late Paul Sauvé and the present Premier the Hon. Antonio Barrette.

The hundreds of millions voted for the benefit of school commissions, classical colleges and universities is the most convincing proof, that the government is anxious to do all it can to financially help these institutions in order that they may function without being worried because of likely deficits. Since Premier Barrette will adhere to the policy of his late colleague the Hon. Paul Sauvé the administrative directors of schools, colleges, and universities will be able to proceed with their plans to maintain and expand their curriculums as well as meet salary needs of their teaching personnel.

A full measure of credit is due to the present Premier for his interest in the welfare and future of the youth of the province in the facilities provided by the splendidly equipped trade schools. It will be highly gratifying and welcome news to parents throughout the province that free books will be provided for pupils in the elementary schools.

Regardless of what its opponents may say every fair minded person will admit, that no government could do more

Efficiency is his byword

IN April of 1958 local newspapers reported that a reduction of the deficit at the Queen Elizabeth Hospital had been achieved for the third successive year. This was attributed in large part to more efficient methods of operation that reduced the net deficit from $71,554 in 1956 to less than $30,000 in '58.

The president, in his annual report, expressed the hospital's the almost radical change in hospital operations.

How was it done, and can their techniques be applied to other similar organizations?

A. H. Marden, vice-president of the Queen Elizabeth Hospital and chairman of the executive committee, and president of the School For Crippled Children, says yes.

"We were faced with a deficit which we felt was unnecessary," he explains. "We felt that if business principles and practices were applied a great saving could be effected. However," bines knowledge of hospital administration gained from many years of service on the executive committee with a long history of business experience. His decision to serve as administrator was one of the most valuable steps forward in our reorganization of hospital operation and administration."

Mr. Marden shares a similar background of experience in business and charitable work with Mr. Dalziel. He has been actively engaged in charitable work for nearly 20 years and has devoted a good percentage of his time to hospital and School for Crippled Children since his retirement as vice-president of Dominion Tar and Chemical Company in 1958.

To these organizations he brings 46 years of experience in administration and organization.

Arthur Hollis Marden was born in Portland, Me., in 1894. He came to Canada at the age of 18 to work for Barrett Co. Ltd., spending several years in the bookkeeping department until given charge of the Cost Department. A few years later he was assigned to special work in the factory, to devise more efficient methods and eliminate waste so as to effect lower costs in the production of products.

He was appointed assistant to the general manager and in 1916 was transferred to Toronto as acting manager in charge of Ontario territory. He then became manager.

He returned to Montreal in 1923 where he founded and organized a new company for Dominion Tar and Chemical Co. Ltd. — the Alexander Murray and Co. Ltd. He continued as vice-president and general manager of this firm until 1947 when he was appointed vice-president of the parent company.

As vice-president of Dominion Tar and Chemical Mr. Marden was responsible for sales, advertising and industrial relations. He also was chairman of the senior management committee, dealing with policies covering all phases of the operation of the business.

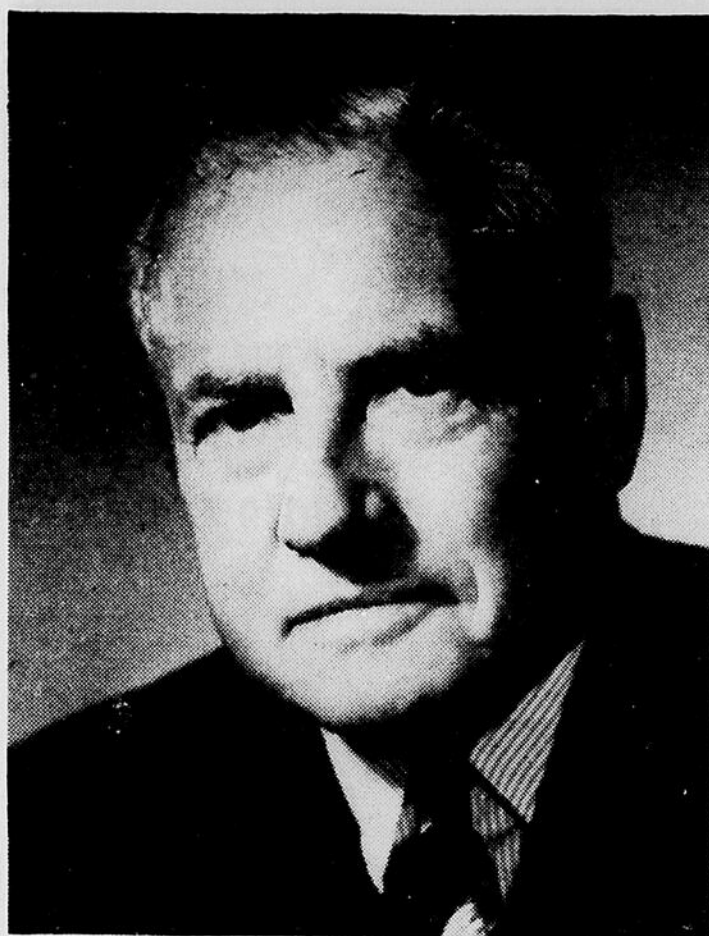

One of Mr. Marden's major projects at present is the attempt to get a new School for Crippled Children.

"We have 211 pupils, 32 of them chair cases. We need a one-storey building because of the handicapped children and this requires a great deal of land. Moreover," he added "we should locate near the Children's Hospital because of our bedside teaching program we have to have an easily accessible location because of the transportation problem (all children are brought to school by buses), and, most of all, keep within our pocketbook."

Mr. Marden's activities in the past two years have seriously curtailed his favorite hobby, golf. He is a member of the Beaconsfield Golf Club and the Seignior Club, as well as a director of the Engineers Club and member of the Advisory Leaseback Committee of Westmount Realities.

Somehow we had the feeling after interviewing him that Mr. Marden would not only get his new school for crippled children and continue to lower hospital deficits, but also find time in his busy schedule to get out on the links and pare a few strokes off his golf "deficit."

—H.L.

A. HOLLIS MARDEN

pride in this achievement, accomplished without sacrificing "the good service to our patients and the friendly atmosphere between staff and patients for which this hospital has been known for many years."

The terse newspaper reports made no mention of the group of men, working in preferred anonymity, who brought about to aid education than the existing regime.

The leaders of Governments seldom get that measure of appreciation to which they are entitled. No matter how solicitous they are in all that relates to the well-being of the people, fault is found with them by the opposition and those who do not favor its policies. No one can better appreciate what education means to the children of the working class than the Hon. Antonio Barrette, entirely self-educated, yet possessing a high degree of culture. The blessings and advantages of a sound elementary education is now possible for the children of even the humblest laborer.

The talented youngster of either sex can look forward to a successful career that will permit a contribution to the educational, artistic, scientific and professional activities that will enhance the prestige of our province as a centre of culture and learning.

The Hon. Antonio Barrette is a loyal son of Quebec, proud of its history and will, following the example of his distinguished predecessors make a constructive contribution towards the welfare and the happiness of its inhabitants.

he adds, "we recognized the fact that a hospital differs from a business in that it is concerned with sick people, not commodities."

The first move was to set up an executive committee which worked extensively for over a year analysing every phase of hospital operation.

Catering experts were brought in to study kitchen operation and improve it. The same was done with the problem of hospital housekeeping and the laundry.

"In the laundry, for example," Mr. Marden said, "we sought the advice of a man who was in charge of a major hotel chain. He made recommendations that cost approximately $35,000 to implement, but resulted in a saving of nearly $13,000 in the first year."

The same approach was used with every department of the hospital, and with the same results — substantial savings.

To achieve such results requires, primarily, a group of men who are able businessmen, capable administrators, and willing to devote a great deal of time to charitable work, Mr. Marden stressed, "Hospitals and other organizations devoted to public care and assistance can't afford to compete with industry for such people on a salary basis. They must rely on volunteers."

The Queen Elizabeth Hospital has been fortunate in that its administrator for the past five years has all the necessary qualifications to effectively implement the programs suggested by the volunteer executive committee, Mr. Marden added.

Mr. G. M. Hobart extended greetings on behalf of the YMCA of Montreal, as Chairman of the Metropolitan Board of Directors.

A series of slides and a tape commentary illustrating the various aspects of the branch program was presented by the staff.

G. L. Welton, executive secretary, in presenting a summary of the annual report, stressed the importance of volunteer leaders and thanked the entire membership for the work of the 107 persons who gave freely of their spare time to the betterment of members.

Mr. Welton also stressed the importance of "Values for living," a document which has been adopted as a guide for branch boards, committees, leaders, officers, and staff as they seek a more balanced life for its membership.

War amp keys being mailed to car owners

Each year for the past three years more than 1,500,000 Quebec car owners have been receiving miniature replicas of their auto licence plates from the War Amps Key Tag Service, an organization formed 13 years ago in Toronto to give gainful employment to soldiers who lost limbs in the wars.

Purchase of the tags—35 cents for the first and 25 cents for each additional—is voluntary. The Service reports that in Quebec only 40 percent of those who received the tags in the mail acknowledged and paid for them. In 1960 they hope to increase this to over 50 percent.

While the service is designed to help war amps, their main idea is to aid owners who might otherwise have difficulty recovering lost car keys. In 1959 in Quebec, the Key Tag Service recovered 2,660 lost keys.

Residents are forced into cold

A 2:30 a.m. Sunday morning alarm sent firemen from Montreal's number 34 station rushing to the Claremont apartments, 2050 Claremont avenue, where a fire had broken out on the roof of the four storey structure.

Tenants of the building, some wearing only their night clothes, were forced out into the cold.

One injury was reported to authorities. One of the tenants, going through the building to warn other occupants, cut his hand on a glass door. He was taken to Queen Elizabeth Hospital, and released soon afterward.

The cause of the fire was not known, but the Montreal Fire Department is investigating.

MUSICAL

Sharps, Flats and Naturals

Surprising Statistics — Part III

By FRANCES GOLTMAN

IN EVERY PROFESSION one cannot detect talent immediately, except in very few cases. Intelligence is the prime factor. You never saw an intelligent child (comparing with school reports who was not able to do music well if he practised. I am not speaking of string or wind instruments as it is my opinion that one has to be more musical to find the notes. The piano has them right there.

NO ONE COULD practise dentistry, be a doctor, a lawyer, an architect, an engineer, a nurse or any other recognized profession or trade without the proper credentials. School teachers cannot teach without graduating.

THE ONLY PEOPLE who take the liberty are those who can play a musical instrument and decide to teach. That is why the music profession has such incredibly low standards in its teaching section. Parents do not bother to find out whether the teacher is a recognized member of the profession who has proper qualifications or just someone nearby who decided to make a few extra dollars because she can play. Or because little Sally's friend is going to a teacher who says everything is good when it isn't. This pleases parent and child and progress is not what it should be.

MANY TEACHERS TELL the parents their children are talented soon after they have started lessons. This is a fallacy because

AS FAR AS THE WORD "MUSICAL" goes one can be musical and not play a note. "Musical" means (1) pleasing to the ear; (2) of or pertaining to music; (3) a musical comedy; (4) harmonious.

ONE CAN TELL a more musical child by his touch — it is like the voice — we can all use correct grammar but God gave some people more pleasant voices than others. Even so, those with less pleasing vocal cords can improve the tone by taking diction lessons from a qualified teacher.

THERE IS NO LAW passed that prohibits people from teaching music. Parents should investigate before putting their child with someone not qualified and then make the unfortunate discovery they have wasted time and money. It is doubly difficult to undo habits already deeply rooted.

Panel discussion

Teachers, students, parents—all talk on high school life

In the age of panel discussions, Westmount High School Home and School Association held one that could only be called "unusual" in that the subjects had a chance to offer their opinion—the high school students themselves.

Chairman and moderator, Dr. L. J. Adams, called the topic: High school life — opinions of parents, teachers and students. Specifically sub-divided, the panel talked of homework, allowances, use of the family car, television and sleep, and extracurricular activities.

The panelists:

Parents: Colin Anderson and Mrs. F. V. Elkin.

Teachers: J. K. Snyder and Miss Catherine MacKenzie.

Students: Roland Cohen and Miss Linda Guthrie.

J. K. Snyder: "Homework is work assigned to be done at home by the student. The schedule at senior high allows four subjects, half hour each, nightly. A parent should be interested enough in his child's homework to observe what's going on. The homework schedule is a guide."

Mrs. Elkin: "Homework is a habit development, and stays for life. Parents should encourage this habit, and see that homework is done under supervision."

Roland Cohen: "A schedule for homework is only a leg to stand on for the teacher. As Senior High actually few students follow it. Some manage to get ahead. The student who is behind and continues back subjects from before never seems to catch up. In a short time he is on the down-grade. If a student did not develop a good attitude toward homework, he could be helped with a little push" to realize he is only harming himself. Good study habits remain for a lifetime."

On the subject of reading required novels Biss Mackenzie commented: "Sometimes students come in near the end of the month, and ask for a novel that can be read in one night, because they haven't read one for that month; when the deadline approaches, more boys than girls ask 'give me a book I can read in a night.'"

ALLOWANCES:

Mrs. Elkin: "Allowances usually vary according to the income of a family, and according to how many members there are in a family, and according to the age of each child. Sometimes parents decide how much and where the money is to be spent. Having a child to handle money is something they should learn early in life. Some children spend all their money on combs, movies or in the corner drugstore."

Mr. Anderson: "I have four children, and allowances for them are arranged according to their ages. How to handle money is important for children to learn."

Linda Guthrie: "Clothes allowances are sometimes given to students. They are not to buy big items like sports jackets, but to pay for smaller items girls may buy. Allowances are not large enough to pay for clothes items. Children always have less money than anyone else anyway."

Ronald Cohen: "Money seems to go a lot faster than before. There are so many new things to spend it on. Learning to save is a part of home environment, and is very important in life."

Dr. Adams, moderator, here interjected: "A teenager once said to me, 'The only trouble with allowances is that there is so much left of the week after the allowance is gone.'"

Mr. Snyder explained results of a survey of high school students: "Grade 10 received about $2 weekly, and grade 11 about $2.25 average. Some received more, but 85% said they were satisfied with what they got. About 10% said they would like more. The usual comment seemed to be: 'What we get is what our parents think we are capable of handling. If we got more money we would have responsibilities like feeding the dog.'"

THE FAMILY CAR:

Mr. Anderson: "Children should be permitted to use the family car for dates, for the day, or for normal driving, not to go somewhere 14 mile away from home. Provided the child has had adequate training and driving instruction and experience, he should be allowed to use the car when the parents are not. Insurance rates are usually high for teenage drivers."

Ronald Cohen: "Insurance

Two Long Cruises Scheduled

Two outstanding luxury cruises by the new flagship Rotterdam—one to the Mediterranean, and the other around the world—have been scheduled for the Holland-America Line's 1960-61 winter cruise program, it has been announced.

Sailing from New York on December 9, 1960, the Rotterdam will log 12,826 miles on her forty-seven-day voyage to the Mediterranean. The seventeen-port itinerary will include Constanta, Rumania and the Russian resort cities of Odessa and Yalta. The Rotterdam will be the largest cruise liner to have visited Russia. Her namesake predecessor, Rotterdam IV, also visited Russia a quarter of a century ago.

The full cruise itinerary is as follows: Casablanca, Morocco;

Malta; Rhodes, Aegean Islands; Haifa, Israel; Port Said, Egypt; Athens, Greece; Yalta, and Odessa, Russia; Constanta, Rumania; Istanbul, Turkey; Messina, Sicily; Naples, Italy; Villefranche, France; Barcelona, Malaga and Cadiz, Spain; Lisbon, Portugal.

The Rotterdam's around the world cruise will be completed in seventy-seven days—the shortest world cruise by the largest and newest cruise liner. The Statendam made world cruises in 1958 and 1959.

novelty, many families found disturbed homework patterns in their children. Now TV is a wonderful asset to education. We should have less cowboy programs."

Ronald Cohen: "TV does not interfere very much with studies. There are so many studies to follow up that very little time is left for TV. It dulls the senses and robs people of sleep, and takes away working abilities. Generally students at Senior High don't spend much time looking at TV during the week."

Miss Mackenzie finds that students are reading more books since the advent of TV. "Circulation has risen in libraries in Canada and the U.S. Often children ask for books because of something they saw on TV. But children's morals are definitely being affected. The villain is often glorified on programs."

EXTRA ACTIVITIES:

Linda Guthrie: "There are about 14 different extracurricular activities at Junior High, and more at Senior High. They should be encouraged at home and at school. But they should remain secondary to the school curriculum."

Miss Mackenzie: "We have two kinds of extracurricular activities here, a great deal to the curriculum at school to develop good citizenship, which can only be learned by practice, and social experience. Both are of great value to children."

Mr. Snyder commented: "When any extracurricular activity crowds into school work, it must be curtailed. Great success at extracurricular work very often means failure on report."

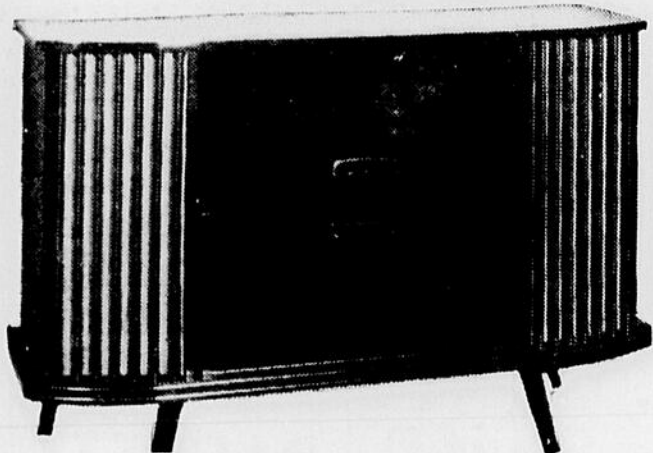

TV AND SLEEP:

Mr. Anderson: "When TV was a novelty, the biggest problem was the effect on homework. There was no sleep, while the TV was new. Now the novelty has worn off, and children do not watch TV so much. They do their homework instead, watch TV later, and mostly watch chosen programs."

Mrs. Elkin: "TV brings families together. In our family, we have a TV dinner, with the whole family together. When TV was a

Junior symphony at LCC Friday

The Montreal Junior Symphony Orchestra will move into Lower Canada College Friday to present a program as varied as the ages of the young musicians — everything from Withers' Baroque Suite to Leroy Anderson's Blue Tango.

The orchestra, formed in 1945 as the Interschools Orchestra of Montreal, is comprised of school-aged children, 15 of the 75 players are from Westmount.

Three years after its formation the orchestra participated in the Ottawa Music Festival, taking first place in nine classes. At the Toronto Festival in 1950 it took seven first class and five cash awards.

At that time the adjudicator, Dr. C. S. Lang of London, England said: "The orchestra is a good team of disciplined players who were extraordinarily accurate under the vigilance of their first class conductor."

The founder-conductor, still with the orchestra, is Lewis V. Elvin who studied in England, Boston, New York and Montreal.

The fame and achievements of the orchestra are not limited to the local scene. In 1954 it toured England, including in its itinerary a performance for Royalty at St.

The Study stages bazaar to help Italian children

Students of The Study, a private Montreal girls' school, have contributed $1,000 to help equip a playground for Tricarico, southern Italy, by staging a bazaar as their effort to add to the total of a $55,000 objective here in the Canadian Save the Children Fund.

James Palace. They also gave a performance on the BBC television.

Membership in the Montreal Junior Symphony Orchestra is open to all serious students of music who possess sufficient ability.

Next Friday, February 26, the group will play in the Town of Mount Royal. Proceeds obtained from the concerts will be used to aid Dr. Florence Murray's hospital for lepers in Korea.

Co-chairmen of the Quebec Committee, R. O. McMurtry and William Gittes, state there are more than 600,000,000 children in the world who live in destitution. Thousands of these are being aided by SCF.

The fund was founded in England in 1919 by Eglantyne Jebb to aid child victims of war, famine and poverty.

Hundreds of SCF workers and thousands of volunteer helpers around the world help in the collection and distribution of food and money. Their great trouble is finding all the children that need their help.

The town of Tricarico is hidden away in the southern Italian Hills. It would probably be practically unknown if persons associated with SCF had not been on the look-out for such places where children need, and can be given, help.

"We provide a greater variety of service to the child than any other organization in the world," an official said. "Children are not only underprivileged because they have no food, clothing or shelter, but also if they have not the proper recreational facilities needed to vent their emotions and energies. That is why every playground equipment is necessary as well as food and clothing. Children have minds as well as bodies that must be looked after."

The Study, now located on Seaford avenue, is moving to new and larger quarters on Braeside avenue in Westmount early in April.

Adman says ethics not going down

A leading Canadian advertising official denied Wednesday that morals and ethics in his profession are deteriorating.

John P. B. McCormick said advertising is particularly exposed to public evaluation and that loose comments about some ads are unfortunately broadened thoughtlessly to include all.

Mr. McCormick, executive director of the Federation of Canadian Advertising and Sales Clubs, was speaking to the Rotary Club of Westmount.

"Payola and rigged TV are new expression. In spite of them, I suggest our morals and ethics are not deteriorating."

"I also suggest an entire advertising industry should not be condemned by the deceptions or moral derelictions of a few producers or participants in the television industry."

"That would be the same as condemning all accountants because of the manipulations of a few, or the denunciation of the legal and medical professions because a few proved unworthy."

Mr. McCormick said advertising, aside from ethics, today is in better taste than years ago.

"The upgrading has come from a demand for better presentation, improved artwork and self-regulation — not laws."

He argued that advertising plays a vital role in the life of a community. One example, he said, was the outdoor poster.

"They don't stop the development of a city. If property is required for other purposes, a five-year advertising contract can be cancelled with 30 days."

"It is easier to condemn than to think and realize our responsibilities as citizens to get all of the facts. A man might condemn any one of the media but when he is personally in need, he wants to use them all."

THE CURTAIN FALLS ON WELL-KNOWN SICK BIRD CLINIC "Unfortunate and Sad"

These are the words of the judge when passing judgement on Mr. Chas. A. James, well-known Canadian expert on diseases of caged birds, whose advice has been sought on occasion by Dr. Sommerville, chief of the virus clinic, University of Glasgow, Scotland, on virus diseases of birds and their relation to humans.

Mr. James has been forced to abandon his life's work by order of the court through an action brought against him by the College of Veterinary Medicine because he did not hold a license from that organization.

Mr. James, who is decidedly hurt over this action against him, wishes to thank all those who have written him such comforting letters. These letters have, he says, strengthened his faith in human nature and have vindicated his profound love of birds.

Who, or whom, made the complaint is not known to Mr. James but it was established in the court by a Mr. Brooks that the little canary that was used in the case against Mr. James was picked up from and returned to a Dr. Villeneuve, a veterinarian of Victoria Avenue, Westmount, after a successful removal of a tumor by Mr. James.

Says Mr. James, "Dollars and cents can never replace that which has been taken away from me but I have to carry on and I hope all you good friends will remember Victoria Pet Supplies for your pets' needs".

Mr. James, being relieved of his clinical duties, will now have more time to devote to his store and meet his customers personally.

Anti - Semitism

I

By

The Venerable

R. Kenneth Naylor, D.D.,
Rector, Trinity Memorial Church

The world of decent men and women was shocked seven weeks ago to hear of an outbreak of Anti-Semitism in Western Germany, followed by other outbreaks in New York and Australia. Twenty years ago I bought a copy of Maritain's "Anti-Semitism," but about five years ago I gave it away on the ground that I did not need Maritain's argument, for Anti-Semitism was dead and was not likely to come to life. However, it has come to life and it is time for Christians to examine the situation and to find why we as Christians should utterly abhor Anti-Semitism.

In the first place, to adopt any anti — like Anti-Russianism, or Anti-Americanism, Anti-Communism, or Anti-Capitalism — as a creed is wrong, for each of them implies that we are basing our life and actions on a hatred. The only anti — we can safely adopt is an anti-evil. Apart from that our lives must be based on love and not hatred. The other reasons why Anti-Semitism is abhorrent are perhaps simpler. They run like this:

1. Jesus of Nazareth was a Jew, born of a Jewish mother, circumcized on the eighth day when He received His Name; made a Son of the Law when He was twelve; accepting the obligations of the Jewish Law. To dishonor Judaism is to dishonor Jesus. Further, He was a peculiar kind of a Jew; He was a Jewish prophet, recognized as the Prophet of Nazareth of Galilee. His teaching was solidly based on the Jewish Scriptures, the Old Testament; He deliberately fulfilled the prophecies of the Old Testament; He criticized the rulers of His people, yet He upheld their authority. He told His disciples to respect the Scribes, and the men whom He healed to show themselves to the priests, for a testimony. And He suffered the fate of many of His predecessors. It was a dangerous thing then as well as now to be a prophet.

2. It should also be remembered that the disciples of Jesus were all Jews; the Early Church was thoroughly Jewish. They frequented the Temple; they inherited the Scriptures without question and they followed the worship of the Synagogue. All the writers of the New Testament — with the possible exception of Luke — were Jews. They adopted Our Lord's idea of His fulfilment of the Jewish Scriptures. It can be said with assurance that if there had been no Israel there would have been no Church; there would have been no salvation. When we dishonor Judaism we dishonor the daughter of Judaism, the Christian Church.

Summit hopes noted at Fellowship dinner

Jerome T. Gaspard, U.S. consul-general in Montreal, warned Wednesday night it would be "unrealistic" to expect that all of the differences between east and west will be solved at the coming summit conference.

But, he added, "we can hope and pray that real progress will be made so that the people of the world, on the other side of the Iron Curtain as well as on this side, can be freed from the menace of a kind of conflict which can only be described as total."

SCOUT-GUIDE NEWS: Parents and friends are cordially invited to attend the annual Scout-Guide Sabbath on Saturday morning, February 20 when the Boy Scouts, Wolf Cubs and Brownies will attend with their leaders in full uniform.

Miss Jeanne Rosenthal, Chairman of the Scouting Group Committee, extends a cordial invitation to parents and friends to attend an at-home Boy Scout Girl-Guide afternoon on Sunday, February 21 at 2:30 p.m. in the community hall with the scouts, cubs and brownies and their leader. Come down and enjoy the afternoon. Social hour will follow.

MEN'S ASSOCIATION: The annual Brotherhood luncheon sponsored by the Men's Association will be held on Thursday, February 25 at 12:30 p.m. in the Community hall. THE LEGACY OF YOSELE ROSENBLATT: Dr. Samuel Rosenblatt, son of the late Yosele Rosenblatt, world renowned Cantor, will present the special musical recordings of his father's immortal voice with his commentary and interpretation. Birth and distinction make his comments unusual in character.

This evening with the legacy of Yosele Rosenblatt will take place under the auspices of the Men's Association on Wednesday, March 2 at 8:30 p.m. in the community hall.

Dr. Rosenblatt is Associate Professor of Oriental Languages at

He spoke at the 33rd annual fellowship dinner meeting of Catholics, Jews and Protestants, sponsored by the Temple Emanu-El Men's Club.

C. H. Peters, president of The Gazette and The Canadian Press, also addressed the meeting.

Mr. Gaspard, speaking on the United States and the International Community, said that until such time as controlled disarmament becomes effective, "we must maintain a strong military posture . . . if we are to remain free."

Citing Canada-U.S. relations as an example of "neighborliness" in the world, he said the numerous differences of opinion between the two countries "show that coercion has no place" in the relationship.

"We do have differences but we settle them and we settle them the way differences should be settled — by patient, intelligent negotiation, with give and take on both sides, in an atmosphere of mutual respect," he asserted.

He said that what the United States and Canada have been doing for less-developed lands, "though unprecedented in magnitude, is still not enough."

"We are faced with a great challenge," he went on. "Hundreds of millions of people in Africa, Asia, Latin-America and the Middle East, who have known nothing but poverty, hunger and disease, are striving to achieve political independence and economic growth."

"They are taking their first steps by themselves but they need help. If we do not help them, they will look elsewhere."

"These people, I am sure, want to remain free but if we fail them in their need, they may succumb to the blandishments of international Communism."

He said it would be unrealistic to believe that "we can ever achieve complete understanding between peoples—for instance, I shall never be able completely to understand a man who prefers cricket to baseball—but we can learn to tolerate and respect differences in beliefs and customs."

Members' SOS for clothing and bedding

Share Our Surplus (S.O.S.) is the call going out this week to the people of Westmount Baptist Church. Members and friends are being asked to do something about brotherhood as well as to talk about it.

Good clothing and bedding is required for use among new Canadians and to be sent to the Baptist World Alliance Relief Agency among the Arab refugees in Jordan. Articles should be clean, individually marked as packed to reduce handling.

The BYPU Service Commission is sponsoring the project and a call to Miss Mona Ajram at RE. 9-5754 will give information. Clothing and bedding should be left at the church on Saturday, February 20.

The topic at morning worship will be "Look Larger" with the Rev. E. J. Bailey in the pulpit. The Rev. Kenneth McMillan, General Secretary of the Bible Society, will preach at night.

Preparations are now well in hand for the coming of the Taylor Brothers, March 27-April 11, for a two-week mission.

Rabbi Stern at Calvary

In keeping with Brotherhood Week, Rabbi Dr. Harry J. Stern, Temple Emanu-el accepted an invitation from Rev. Charles R. Plaskett to speak in Calvary United Church, Sunday morning, February 21, at 11 a.m. Rabbi Stern will speak on "Breaking down the barriers."

Rabbi Stern has become a devoted builder of goodwill between Jews and Christians. His untiring efforts in this work have put him in a place of high esteem in the city of Montreal.

Temple Emanu-El is a recognized witness of his vision and leadership. It is meaningful in architectural design, rich in color, and lively in religious and social life. It is an expressive testimony of faith in God and a fellowship within the Jewish community.

'Brotherhood Week'

Four prominent churchmen will discuss the moral aspects of brotherhood at a special meeting celebrating "Brotherhood Week" tonight at 8 p.m. at the Negro Community Centre, 2035 Coursol street.

Senior High cheerleaders win over all competition

CJAD was the scene of a mass cheerleader demonstration recently when teams representing twelve Montreal and district high schools competed for the 1959-60 Cheerleader Trophy awarded by CJAD.

Some 700 teenagers attended the colorful competition and, in what proved to be a very close race, top honors went to Westmount Senior High.

Since last October, the individual groups have been featured on consecutive Saturdays broadcasts of the Hi-Fi Club. On these occasions, the groups were awarded points for presentation, audience response, appearance, popularity, attractiveness, ability, costume, neatness, and cheer.

These points, added to those awarded by Saturday's panel of judges, determined the winner. Judges were Sally Price, Janet Champion and Richard Dwyer of the Ice Follies, Noel Moore of the Gazette and Gerry Brown of CJAD.

YOUR GUIDE TO MO

A trip through Germany's enchanting Moselle Valley

By HELMUT BENECKE

The wondrously wandering valley of the Moselle is a favorite with those who prefer to enjoy wine in a truly romantic atmosphere. It is a mysterious valley, for the winding river is not where one might expect it, and appears suddenly where you do not look for it. Bending and twisting back and forth ever so often, this gentle valley has a great number of slopes facing south and east, thus supplying that much more terrain for vineyards bathing in the sun. Where the river's banks lie in the shade, they are covered with woods, meadows, orchards.

Villages cling to the hilly slopes, one house piled above the other, with steep zigzagging lanes. And above the precious vineyards rests the grey-blue of the slate characteristic for the region. Magnificent stretches of landscape follow one another from Trier, Germany's oldest city endowed with well-preserved Roman structures, to Coblenz at the confluence of the charming Moselle and the mighty Rhine.

Said Goethe of the Moselle: "The views of the banks were extremely varied. The many villages on both sides offered the most cheerful aspect." Here, a 2,000-year-old culture has remained a continuously active factor in towns and smaller places. The burdens and blessings of history have been faithfully preserved in stone monuments and popular customs. Ruined castles on the heights, remains of monasteries along the river add to the fascination of history, and the settlements, the world-famous wine villages are full of architectural gems of past centuries. Nothing, however fateful, ever changed the natural and happy disposition of the people of the Moselle. They live for and with the wine...

This wine is distinguished from all others by its special quality, its delicate flavor of slaty soil rich in minerals and sunshine, its spiciness, acidity and sweetness, its "bouquet" enchanting and delighting the connoisseur. Among the castles one may see upstream are such notables as Oberburg and Niederburg near Koblenz, Thurandt Castle at Alken, Ehrenburg near Brodenbach and Bischofsstein Castle near Burg. 1,000-year-old Eltz Castle with many interesting treasures at Moselkern and Coraidsstein Castle near Klotten, proud Cochem Castle, of course, at Cochem and Metternich Castle near Beilstein, Arras Castle (Alf), Marienburg (Bullay), Gravenburg Trarbach, Landschut Castle near famous Berncastel-Kues, home of one of the finest wines there is.

Camping sites and youth hostels, hotels and inns cater to the visitor in the true spirit of hospitality, be he rambler or motorist or arrive by train (amiably called the "Booze Railway" because of the abundance of wine along the route).

The city of Trier (Treves) is a very special attraction indeed. The Romans founded it as Augusta Treverorum when they conquered the Moselle area and its tribes whom they named Treveri. Towards the end of the third century A.D., Trier became a Roman imperial residence and, at about the same time, see of an Early Christian bishopric. In the 5th century, the Franks took possession of Trier and in 870, it passed to the East Frankish Kingdom, the predecessor of the German Empire. The archbishops of Trier were German Electors from the 12th to the end of the 18th century. When the Electorate was dissolved, the city was capital of a French departement for a short period and, in 1815, once again incorporated into Germany. Located about 6 miles from the German-Luxemburg border at an altitude of some 425 ft., Trier is surrounded by the Moselle heights, the Eifel foothills and the Hunsrueck range rising to 1,300 ft.

Among the many places of interest one should not miss are, from Roman times, the colossal gate Porta Nigra, the Imperial and Barbara Baths, the Amphitheatre, Constantine's Basilica, once an imperial palace and now a Protestant church, the nucleus of the cathedral and pillars of the Roman bridge. Reminders of the Middle Ages are the Market Cross, west and east choirs of the cathedral, St. Matthias Abbey Church, the Church of Our Lady and St. Gangolf, the Frankish Tower, the Moselle Crane, the Steipe House as well as the one of the Three Kings. Simeonstift's cloister is open all day, too.

Witnesses to the Renaissance and Baroque periods include the Market Fountain, Jesuits' College, Kornmarkt Fountain and St. Paulin's Church; the Electoral Palace boasts a marvellous staircase, Trier Cathedral, by the way, harbors one of the most precious relics: the seamless Tunic of the Lord. The Cathedral Treasure represents an amazing valuable collection of historic mementos and works of art.

It is here at Trier that the enchanting Moselle commences the capricious course, adding the magic of southern brilliance to the glorious characteristics of the ancient city.

Collection of ceramics at the Potters' Club

A collection of ceramics created by Mrs. Hermina Thau, a member of The Potters' Club, will be exhibited in the window of the Club at 346 Victoria Avenue, Westmount, for two weeks, beginning Tuesday, February 16.

Mrs. Thau, a native of Poland, took her first sculpturing lessons from the famous German artist Richard Lange. Interested also in other handicrafts, she studied at Vienna and Warsaw until she and her husband were forced to leave Poland with the Polish army. She spent two years in a Russian concentration camp and arrived in Canada in 1944, via Teheran, Persia and India. The following year she started as a typist at the Canadian Red Cross and soon returned to her hobby, metal work (hand hammered copper and silver), receiving two awards from the Canadian National Exhibition in 1948 and 1950, one for silver work and one for copper. In 1952 she returned to ceramics, taking a course at the Montreal Potters' Club. In addition she attended the summer courses given by the well known Canadian potter, Gaetan Beaudin, of North Hatley, for several years. Mrs. Thau has taken part in several exhibitions at Stratford and in the Potters' Club.

Mrs. N. E. Cooke, in a gown of scarlet Japanese brocade with a fitted bodice and a full skirt, and wearing damascene jewellery.

Edna Marie Hawkin and Rose Goldblatt in 2 piano program

Music for two pianos is the particular diversion of the professional pianist. The reason lies simply in the fact that only a performing pianist or a piano teacher is likely to have two pianos in the same room, and tuned identically. In this spirit, the two Montreal pianists Rose Goldblatt and Edna Marie Hawkin have been playing the two piano repertoire for their own enjoyment for many years past. Both are also members of the teaching staff of the Faculty of Music's piano department at McGill University. It was inevitable, then, that they should be asked to present a two piano recital in the Faculty series of open concerts arranged for students and the general public. This recital will take place at Redpath Hall at 8:45 p.m. on Monday, February 22.

Both Rose Goldblatt and Edna Marie Hawkin are very well known to the Montreal musical public for their many recital and broadcast appearances. In choosing a program for this recital they have borne in mind the chamber music quality of two piano music, selecting old and new works that contrast the two instruments and their individual styles of playing. To further enhance this atmosphere, the artists are having their own instruments transported to Redpath Hall for the recital.

One new Canadian work is being programmed in its first Montreal performance, the Suite for Two Pianos by Violet Archer. Other works to be performed are by Frescobaldi, Froberger, J. C. Bach, Saint Saens, Vaughan-Williams, Bax, Field, Poulenc and Shostakovich.

THIRD ANNUAL CONCERT presented by St. Matthias' young folks and their guest artists from Unity Boys Club is taking place Wednesday, February 24 at 8 p.m. in the parish hall, 10 Church Hill, Westmount. Refreshments courtesy of AYPA. Proceeds to go to Missionary Funds.

Series of ten lectures at the Allan Memorial

Miss A. I. Vail, executive director, St. Laurent Neighborhood Association will be guest speaker at the first lecture of the third annual series of weekly "Lectures in Living" for patients and discharged patients, their relatives and friends, and for staff members of the Allan Memorial Institute of Psychiatry which will be held this year in the evenings starting Tuesday, February 16th at 8 o'clock.

These lectures given by prominent business and professional citizens have been planned by a committee made up of patients, staff and volunteer workers. For the most part the topics were suggested by patients who will share the responsibility of introducing and thanking the guest speakers. Professor Helmut Blume will discuss music, Dr. Arthur Lismer, art; Helene Gougeon formerly of Weekend Magazine, "That All-Important Subject Food"; and Mr. Munro Brown, or the Bank of Montreal will suggest how to handle money wisely. Other speakers will discuss such diverse matters as choosing a home, making the most of leisure, law for the layman and insurance.

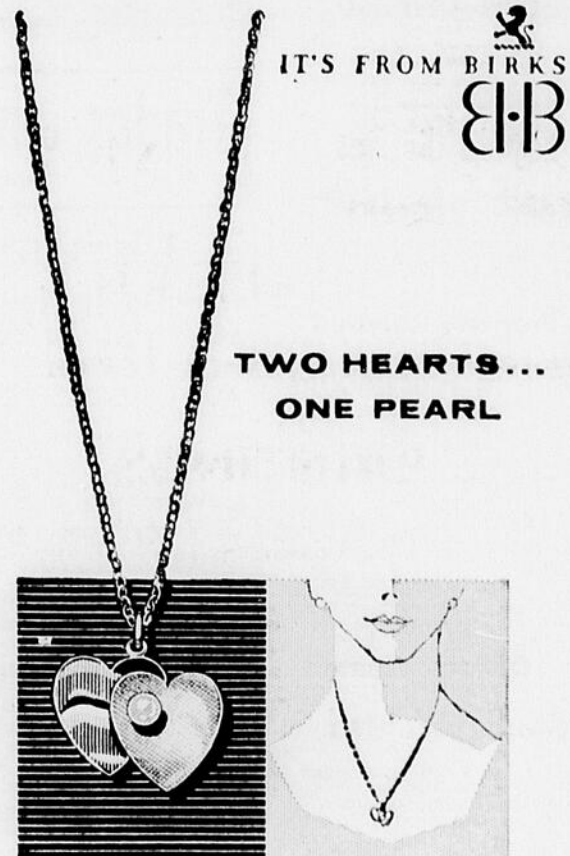

This educational project is part of the Allan Memorial Institute's expanding rehabilitation program for patients. People who become mentally ill are frequently withdrawn. They not evening recently. There was a only need medical treatment but also encouragement and education so that they may build a more meaningful, and therefore more mentally-healthy, way of living.

The series of ten lectures has been designed to broaden the patients' interests and to give them a few pointers in coping with some of the practical problems which arise in everyone's daily life. The meetings are held right after the visiting hours at the Allan so that family and friends can stay on to hear the speaker of the evening.

MRS. PAUL DRUMMOND, of Westmount, who has been named chairman of the Central District Committee of the VON. The committee announces that its 1960 money-making project will once again be the annual VON Art Show and Sale, which, this year, will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 2. — Posen Photo

What do you think about sweepstakes?

By SHIRLEY FENTON

Citizens surveyed as to their opinions on sweepstakes and lotteries revealed that (1) they have no dreams of glory or pie-in-the-sky and (2) they are, in 'large measure', cautious.

Asked three questions — What do you think about lotteries and sweepstakes — Have you ever bought a ticket — What would you do if you won — those polled were 42% pro, 0% con and 30% neutral. 28% declined to comment. In this last group, varying degrees of firmness were noted, from "I don't know anything about them," to the adamant, "Please!"

Of those in favor, 7 out of every 10 stressed the necessity of suitable controls, and 8 out of 10 the desirability of aiding hospitals and charities. 2 out of 10 have tickets on the sweepstakes to be decided at Aintree.

Asked what they would do if they won, 90% answered in respect to sweepstakes, 10% in respect to lotteries. Of the total number, 90% had never thought about it, 5% wouldn't know what to do and 5% would give it away.

The 90% soon gave the matter some thought, however, and came up with these findings: 3 out of 10 would take a trip, 3 would have a holiday, 1 would buy a house, 1 would save part of the winnings and 1 would expect to make a more congenial life in general.

The neutrals claimed ignorance of the subject matter in the ratio of 10 out of 10. 3 out of 10, however, had bought tickets with a view of winning something by chance at one time or another.

Here are some evaluations of the pink tickets on the bake sale cake and the pale green passports to the sport of kings:

Mrs. J. H. Allen, 15 Winchester avenue: "It's a form of gambling — they're better lawed than outlawed if they're going to do it undercover." She said she had participated "but that was years ago. I haven't bothered since." She would give most of it to charities.

Mrs. R. Baker, 333 Selby street: "Well, I don't know — I'm never lucky so I never buy any tickets. I suppose they do some good if they have them for the hospitals. It would be a very good thing if the money really is used for hospitals." Mrs. Baker has participated in the past, however. "A few years ago I bought all kinds of tickets on everything — turkeys at Christmas and so on, but as I say, I never won." Asked what she would do if she did win, she said, "I've never thought about it. I might take a nice trip. You know, have everything comfortable and not have any worries."

Mrs. P. Masella, 5 Springfield avenue. "Well, I try it." She laughed and said "It's good for the winners." She has had the odd ticket and would take a trip if she won.

Mr. W. A. Hunter, 4902 King Edward avenue: "I think they're good if they're properly handled." Had he ever bought a ticket? "Yes. We have an Irish Sweepstake ticket at present." Mr. Hunter thinks buying a chance is all right "if you can do it without hurting yourself. Now that pool business in England — you know, the football pools? They seem to be very popular and the people enjoy it." He then said: "If it can be done in an orderly fashion then I think it's all right." He doesn't expect to win but "I can always hope." He would buy a house, take a holiday and put some of the money away to use in the future.

Mr. N. Marcus, 5350 Cavendish boulevard: "They're a wonderful thing. They should be had in Canada." Why? "Because the money goes to a good cause. It's been done in England for years. It's been a very successful thing there and it should be just as successful here." Asked if he had ever bought a ticket he said, "Sure." Mr. Marcus was amiable and wanted to cross-question the pollster. "Well, what would you do if you won?" He said, "I guess it would be used to get what a person has wanted all his life — to make living a better thing."

Mrs. Albert Laurie, 653 Victoria avenue: "They're good." Does she, then approve of sweepstakes and lotteries? "I think I do. They have to do something silly and that's one way of doing it. It's harmless," Mrs. Laurie said, she had bought tickets in past years but "I never got anything." As to what she would do if she won, she answered, "I'd be so flabbergasted I wouldn't know what to do."

The survey disclosed the heartening fact that not one of those who answered the questions wished for anything they might now do for themselves. On the other hand, none, apparently, wants to finance a Polar expedition, search for buried treasure or travel down the Mississippi River on a raft. Not a gambler in the bunch!

Big names and big events head McGill's Winter Carnival 1960

Big names, big sounds and big events will herald McGill Winter Carnival 1960. In fact, plans are so attractive this year that the carnival will run from Thursday, February 18, to Saturday, February 20, to minimize the time out of class of students.

Highlight of the carnival will be the annual ball with music provided by the famous society orchestra of Lester Lanin.

The 100 man glee club and quartet from West Point will be featured at a carnival review on Saturday afternoon.

Westmount students are playing a leading role in the monumental organization job for the carnival. Assistant chairman of the entire program is Jim Reilly, 3778 Westmount boulevard.

The carnival got off to a colorful start Thursday with a torchlight parade up Mount Royal to the Chalet. Chairman of the event, Richard Duke, 566 Beaumont, assisted by Jim Berwick, John Cleghorn, Dave Binmore and Judy Robb, plan a monster fireworks display followed by a skating show, toboggan and snow-shoe races, and dancing at the Chalet.

All of which will probably leave little interest in regular classes today for those not participating in the sporting competitions.

In a battle of wits, 35 top universities from Canada and the United States will vie for the McGill Carnival Debating Cup today. This will be the first year that the cup has been up for competition.

Today will also be busy for athletes. Mike Alexander, 3660 The Boulevard, has arranged bus transportation to Mount Habitant, St. Sauveur, where slalom, men's downhill, cross country and jumping skiing events will take place.

Buses are scheduled to return in time for the Forum Ice Revue, produced by Peter Darling, 68 Aberdeen avenue. The revue will feature top Canadian amateur figure skaters and a hockey match between McGill and the University of Montreal for the Birks Trophy.

The climax of the revue will be the crowning of the carnival queen. Five candidates are eligible: Joan Van Boven, Janet Martin, Vivien Lee, Renie Pennachiotti and Sandra Sherman.

Included in the big carnival revue on Saturday at Moyse Hall will be outstanding acts from university productions. Besides the West Point Glee Club, McGill's Red and White Revue and Vassar's G Stringers will be featured. Two shows will be given — one at 2 p.m. and one at 4 p.m.

As always, the grand finale will be the Carnival Ball from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at Sir Arthur Currie gymnasium with music by Lester Lanin and his society orchestra.

And all McGill students are expected to wearily trudge back to class on Monday morning and try to catch up with their learning.

'Challenge to our integrity'

Foster mothers are urged to adopt Negro children

By LARRY McINNIS

A paid classified ad in The Monitor, placed last week by the Children's Service Centre, a Red Feather agency, asking for foster homes for Negro children brought a letter from Mrs. Margaret Edgar, 5720 Rand avenue, Cote Saint Luc, stating that the majority of these children are in desperate need of homes of their own; "they need to belong to the community into which they were born."

Mrs. Edgar said: "A group of us in this city who have adopted children with an inter-racial heritage are working together to persuade others to do the same."

The group, as yet to receive a proper name, was formed last October by Mr. and Mrs. Edgar, a couple from Pointe Claire, and another couple from St. Hubert. They have, so far, adopted five children of multi-race, and Mrs. Edgar is in the process of adopting another.

"There are 60 children available for adoption," she said. "They are four years of age and under, all in poor circumstances in foster homes."

People who have made applications to adopt children through the Children's Service Centre are being interviewed with the hope that they might consider taking one or more of these unfortunate into their homes. So far only three couples who make up the group have done so.

At one point the group thought of making a motion picture to be shown to prospective applicants, but the idea was abandoned because of lack of professional help in scripting, editing and filming.

"But we know, and you know," Mrs. Edgar stated emphatically, "the needs of children are the same everywhere. They need to be cared for with love."

She feels the reason more people do not adopt multi-raced children is "they are afraid of what other people will think."

They ask the group about the problems resulting from this adoption policy. "There will be some problems," Mrs. Edgar replies. "We don't know what they will be, but prejudice should get easier as the time goes by. The main thing children need in bringing-up is love and understanding."

Of the 60 multi-raced children available for adoption, most are partly negro. Many are so light skinned they would not normally be suspected of having a negro origin.

"It is surely a challenge to our integrity as citizens of a democratic country that there are in this city children who are without homes," Mrs. Edgar stated in rather strong tones. "These children are homeless merely because they are of multi-raced background, and so look superficially different from the majority of us."

The group feels that, by adopting these children, they are helping to make worthwhile citizens of people who otherwise would not have a chance.

The "mother" of four adopted children, Mrs. Edgar stated her reason for adopting a child of negro origin was "because we had never thought of it before — so we took a little girl!"

The Children's Service Centre is still making every effort to acquaint prospective "parents" about the multi-raced children, calling in the three couples to tell of their experiences in everyday home life.

"Children have no prejudices," Mrs. Edgar said. "A child is a child to other children."

Cameron Grout honored as top Montreal athlete for 1959

OF THE four major awards and three merits presented at last night's dinner by the Sportsmen's Association of Montreal, six came from the west and north end of the district.

Two hailed from Saint Laurent, one from Westmount and Cote des Neiges, and another two from Notre Dame de Grace.

To add a little more NDG flavour, Ken Copland, association president chaired the annual event. In all, 135 awards were presented to athletes and sportsmen alike.

Cartierville Boating Club came in for Dominion honors after winning the top paddling prize at Ottawa last year. Lakeshore Baby Als was another Dominion winning team in football.

MORE AND MORE GROCERS SELL MORE O'Keefe

Grocers everywhere are noticing this new sales trend. Everyday more and more people are discovering mild O'Keefe Ale. Next time you order beer from your grocer, make it O'Keefe — you'll enjoy its natural mild flavour.

THE O'KEEFE MILDNESS SECRET

Ever bitten into a grape seed? It's bitter, unpleasant. Grape growers found by experiment that they could develop seedless grapes with nothing to spoil the delicate flavour. It's the same with hops.

Ordinary hops contain seeds which give an unpleasant bitterness to ale. However, O'Keefe master brewers insist on costlier "Seedless Hops"; result—there's no unpleasant bitterness, just the right, natural mild flavour.

Fusiliers triumph 14-9 over Guards

Fusiliers made it five wins without a setback when they trounced the Guards at the latter's armory 14-9 in a Military Football League contest.

It was a free-slugging joust with Paul Gollette and Andre Vaillant each collecting four hits in five tries as their mates went on to collect 22 safe blows off pitcher Dick Steward.

On the hill for Fusiliers, Gaston Proulx kept 19 hits scattered well enough to curtail the scoring.

Bob Strange had a good outing with five for five and Ian Fraser, Guards' catcher, made four hits in five bows at the plate.

S T. LEO'S SPORTS

By PETER RASSENTI and RAY MAYNARD

The team of the week is the pee wee representative in the Westmount Public School hockey league. These pint size hockey players came through with two fine wins and at present are setting a sizzling pace. They have won 10 out of their last eleven games.

From goals out they have pretty some fine rushes from his defence spot but was caught up the ice on a few tries. A little more desire on part of the forwards and some honest blocking by the defense would have prevented a few goals.

Barnoff is a rugged youngster but needs lots more skating to realize his potentiality. Led by John Donnelly, Dougie Muncy, Mike Farrell and Louis Fortier, these forwards pack scoring punch. John Donnelly looks like a natural when he hustles but shows a tendency to loaf. Mike Farrell, another one of those fine Farrell boys, possesses a lightning burst of speed and like his holder brothers Dave and John who have graduated, will do justice to his school.

Dougie Muncy is perpetual motion on skates and what he lacks in size makes up in spirit. Bouncing Bobbie Brault is an aggressive little package that throws around what little weight he has around making his presence felt. Dave Kellehr is the popular coach of this club and is assisted by Jimmy Erly and both should be given a nod for their fine efforts.

In their last two games Kellehr's kids won 8-2 and 3-0 with King's and Queen's schools the victims.

The Seniors were humbled 10-0 by a superior Loyola team at the west end Stadium. It was a fairly close game up until the half way mark, then the collegians' superior skating and depth began to take its toll and from here in it was only a question of how many goals the winners would rack up.

Mike Johnson and Allan Keith were the only two Saints who could match strides throughout the contest. Pierre Leduc made

Loyolans drop St. Leo's 10-0

The high-flying Loyolans, aided and abetted by their two starry centre men, ran roughshod over St. Leo's to post their eighth win in nine starts. The score was a lop-sided 10-0.

Dineen, who is making a shambles of the individual scoring race by collecting points at a better than three-a-game clip, notched three goals and three assists to extend his lead atop the ladder to 12 points. Gary boasts a 13-16 — 29 mark.

Hicks, with a mere two goals under his belt going into the fray, chalked up four yesterday to move into a second place tie with teammate Paul Leblanc. Each has 17 points. 'Whitey' scored twice against St. Leo's, while Gary Morley was Loyola's other sniper.

House is haven for poor and needy

THE taxi driver looked at the drab building on a street which had seen better days nearly a century ago. He checked the address again — 308 Young street. "You sure this is the right address?" he inquired of his fare, and when assured that it was indeed, he looked dubious and muttered, "Well, I hope it doesn't fall down on you". He drove off shaking his head in consternation, leaving the two ladies standing on the sidewalk laden with cartons smelling of stew and other items of food which they had brought along to supply a dinner for the men already lining up and looking forward to a hot meal.

In the city of Montreal, with its bright air of prosperity, its beautiful buildings, lovely parks, elegant stores and fine homes, poverty seems far removed, a thing apart. But every large city has its slums, hidden away like a cankerous sore behind the facade of affluence. Montreal is no exception.

Down near the waterfront, where the city had its beginnings, the drab houses of the poor stretch out, crowded one upon the other, intermingled with factories and warehouses. Here, poverty-ridden families eke out a precarious existence. Most of them, for some reason or other, are ineligible for help from any of the Social Agencies which normally take care of the unfortunate families in need of help. Many of them are unemployed. Perhaps on account of their inability to hold down a job, or because they are unreliable, or addicted to drink or drugs. Whatever the reason, they are human beings in need of help, and if the Social Agencies cannot offer them assistance, there must be someone, somewhere, to whom they can turn in their misery.

Aware of this situation, and anxious to help in whatever way they could, five people met one evening in 1952 and discussed ways and means whereby they could reach out and offer comfort to these forgotten ones.

Dr. Magnus Seng, Steve Hagerty, Tony Walsh and the late Patricia Connors, laid their plans, and late that same year acquired a shabby house on one of the poorest streets. Having, through some mysterious grapevine, made it known along Skid Row that help was available here, no questions asked, no discriminations made, Tony Walsh moved in and donned the humble cloak of voluntary poverty, so that he might be accepted by the shiftless, troubled men who roam the dirty streets and make no effort to drag themselves out of the hopeless rut of insecurity.

Now known as Benedict Labre House, it has become a haven for all kinds of human flotsam and jetsam. Here they can be sure of a welcome, a bed to sleep in, a hot meal and warm clothes. The convict just released from prison and not yet ready to face the world; the confirmed alcoholic; the sick with no-one to turn to; the old age pensioner who has a hard time getting by on his meagre allowance. All are accepted, no questions asked and human dignity is respected. Sometimes a little help of this kind is all that is needed to set a man on the right road. Just Grace Clavelle, dedicated to lend a helping hand in any way possible. Every Thursday, a team of two prepare a hot meal at home, and bring it down to Young street by taxi. They supply a dinner for ten, or more, men, which usually consists of meat, bread, potatoes, vegetables, dessert and tea. Often, too, they will bring along items of clothing, for used clothing is always needed, especially during the cold days of winter.

This group is only one of several which offers its services. The need is great, and, as Tony Walsh sadly declares, many poor people have to be turned the feeling that he is not alone in his loneliness and despair may be the straw he grasps at to help him face the world again.

This good work could not be carried on without help of some kind, so Tony Walsh sent out a desperate plea and response was quick in coming from various groups.

For instance, members of St. Monica's Ladies' Guild in N.D.G. formed a committee, under the leadership of Mrs.

away because of the limitations of Labre House and its associates.

Sometimes the father of a large family, down on his luck because of sickness, or because he has lost his job, and unable to get enough help from any other source, turns to Benedict Labre House. A few phone calls, and soon someone is at his door to find out what type of assistance is required. A few more calls to friends who rally around with offers of food and clothing, and perhaps a few dollars to tide them over the rough spots until the situation is straightened out.

The house at 308 Young street may be poor in worldly goods, but is rich in the spirit of brotherly love. Here is practised the true spirit of Christian charity. The arms of love are stretched out to embrace the poorest of God's creatures, and the light of hope and encouragement shines forth to dispel the darkness of despair when the rest of the world seems to have turned its back on the destitute and poverty-ridden souls who inhabit the crumbling dwellings of our city slums.

Don't feel too complacent in your warm security. Turn your thoughts occasionally in the direction of the waterfront. It might just help you to count your blessings.
