Hospital insurance program

Turns down request for new commission

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Jean Lesage Friday rejected a proposal by labor, farm and social worker groups that an administrative commission representing the public, the medical profession and the hospitals be named to administer Quebec's hospital insurance program when it gets under way in January.

Leon Filion, president of the Quebec Co-operative Council and spokesman for the groups which made the proposal, said later the delegates were pleased with the reception they received but disappointed their suggestion was turned down.

The brief summarizes the views of groups which have a total membership of 1,400,000. They are: the Quebec Federation of Labor, Confederation of National Trade Unions, Catholic Farmers Union, Co-operative Council, Federation of Family Unions and the Montreal chapter of the Canadian Association of Social Welfare.

Mr. Lesage said it might be appropriate to form a commission along the lines suggested in the brief but its function would be strictly a consultative one.

The brief suggested an independent administrative commission would serve to keep politics out of the hospital insurance system.

The premier said there could be no political interference in a universal hospital insurance plan since all residents were entitled to equal treatment.

Later, during a press conference, Mr. Filion said any consultative commission established should be in a position to make its views heard and influence government policies.

Mr. Filion said hospital insurance is everyone's business and all classes of society had a right to its benefits. That was why it was felt that representatives of each social group should have a voice in the matter.

The groups suggested the provincial government levy a tax on electricity production — at the production level. The premier said he would study the suggestion but said he hesitated to raise charges on Quebec's electricity rates which were low and attractive for big industry.

In reply to a request that outpatients be covered in the plan Mr. Lesage said that eventually outpatients would be covered, possibly four months after the hospital insurance system is in operation.

Anger greets speech

By ULYS YATES

PARIS (AP) — Angry outcries from leftist and rightist extremists today greeted President Charles de Gaulle's threat to take emergency powers and call a national referendum on a new course for Algeria.

In a nation-wide radio and television address Friday night the president said his policy in Algeria "no longer leads to an Algeria governed by metropolitan France, but an Algerian Algeria."

In the end, he said, "responsibility for Algerian affairs, at every level, will be assumed by Algerians" and the country will have "its own government, its own institutions, its own laws."

To achieve this, he threatened to invoke powers entrusted to him by the constitution, to take over the French nation in single-handed rule, dissolve parliament and test his policy in a national referendum if he decides extremists pose a "grave threat" to the country.

"If France loses her head she would slide toward chaos," he said, apparently referring to extremist opposition.

Revise penal system

By DON HANRIGHT

OTTAWA (CP)—The complexity of the federal penal system is undergoing a gradual change.

Latest attempts at improvement were announced Friday by Justice Minister Fulton.

Mr. Fulton said the new regulations and programs do not mean mollycoddling the inmates. Chief among the new measures:

Convicts who are now locked up in cells for 14 hours each night, with nothing to do but brood, will be allowed to associate with fellow inmates in evening groups. They can take part in sports or discussions, join choirs, watch movies or television.

LONGER WORK WEEK

A minimum seven-hour work day is being launched. It is designed both to keep the convict busy—and give him a new sense of self-respect in a job worth doing—as well as to make the federal institutions self-supporting. Convicts now spend about four hours a day at work and the rest of the day being fed or counted.

Each new convict entering a federal institution will enter a reception area, where he will spend four to eight weeks. This system has two objectives:

1. The convict will be "diagnosed"; he will be given various tests to determine his character, his aptitudes, his education and background will be studied. He will be examined by a psychologist—or, if necessary, by a psychiatrist.

2. He then will be classified for a certain training program and a certain type of institution. Continuing classification will ensure that the convict advances steadily if he responds properly. If he defies the system, it's back to closer custody.

A GRADUAL RELEASE

As each convict's term nears an end—or when he is ready for parole—he will go through a "pre-release" procedure to re-orientate him with the social and community life from which he was cut off by the courts.

Sees 'sinister plot' threat in Congo

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (CP) — Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld confers today with the head of the UN Congo mission amid charges that the United Nations is trying to place the new African country under its trusteeship.

Pascal Kappella, Congo information minister, told his nation by radio Friday there was a "sinister plot to invade the Congo" and place it under a UN trusteeship.

He said an invasion by Ghanaian, Guinean and Moroccan troops was imminent and called on all Congolese to "defend our republic to the death." He said any of his people who collaborated with the UN would be arrested and charged with treason.

Rajeshwar Dayal, Indian head of the UN Congo mission, has accused Belgian nationals of trying to influence the Congo against the UN.

Dayal arrived in New York.

Smuggled liquor

admiral is fined

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rear Admiral William Erdmann, retired, was fined $15,000 Friday for failure to pay import tax on 504 bottles of liquor brought from Guam aboard an aircraft carrier.

Judge Oliver Carter said he was levying the maximum fine for a non-commercial smuggler. "I'm going to deal with you in the way you dealt with the government," Carter said. "You attempted to evade payment of proper duties."

"This was a substantial and flagrant violation in the area of non-commercial smuggling."

Insist the Queen no fashion slave

LONDON (AP)—A Roman Catholic news paper apologized to the Queen Friday for a charge by a Vatican magazine that she is a fashion slave.

"This statement is untrue, misleading and much to be deplored," said the London Catholic Times. It described the Queen as a model of modesty and decorum.

The magazine is the Italian clergy review. Condemning excesses in luxury, particularly in fashions, it said: "Even the Queen of England is not immune from this form of vanity, having admitted that she never wears the same dress in public more than once."

Would keep art

MONTREAL (CP)—Polish art treasures held in storage by the provincial government in Quebec City should remain where they are, Anthony Pajak, prime minister of the Polish government-in-exile, said Friday. Mr. Pajak said sending the collection back to Warsaw would mean recognition by his government, with headquarters in London, of the Communist regime in Poland.

Brickbats fill air

'this young genius' hits 'coattails' ride

By TOM MITCHELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK (CP) — Verbal brickbats are filling the air as the campaign for the U. S. presidency moves into its last weekend. Nearly everybody got into act Friday.

Senator John Kennedy, the Democratic candidate, said his opponent, Vice-President Richard Nixon, is trying to ride "someone else's coattails" into the White House.

President Eisenhower, plumping for Nixon and the Republican ticket, chidingly labelled Kennedy "this young genius."

Former Democratic president Harry Truman dismissed Nixon as "a second-rate politician" who should not be exploiting Eisenhower's "remaining energies" in his bid for office.

Nixon called Kennedy a "Jackie" — come — lately — and the "Pied Piper from Boston" whose economic policies "represent the cruelest hoax any politician has ever tried to foist on the American people."

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, Kennedy's running mate, ignored some jeering opponents who turned up at a rally at Dallas, Tex., his home-state, saying to his wife: "Don't shout back, let everyone see how Nixon runs his campaign."

The candidates hashed over the same issues that have been the crux of their speeches since the start of the campaign. But the language continued to grow stronger as the Nov. 8 voting day drew closer.

Kennedy wrapped up a drive for Illinois' 27 electoral college votes with a torchlight parade through Chicago and a speech at Chicago Stadium.

He taunted Nixon for appearing with Eisenhower, New York's Governor Rockefeller and others and said Nixon seemed to be offering the voters "a committee."

"Mr. Nixon's running — not President Eisenhower but Mr. Nixon."

Kennedy, apparently encouraged by a survey published Friday that stated he held a six-percent edge over Nixon, made his first prediction of the campaign. "A Democratic tide is rising" across the country, he said.

Nixon covered Texas, Wyoming, Washington and California during the day.

He told a Texas audience he

Cubans eye livestock in Canada

TORONTO (CP)—Cuba is prepared to spend some $1,000,000 for Canadian livestock, a Cuban agricultural official said here Friday night.

Eustaquio Alvarado, 27, said he had been sent to Ontario four days ago to act as purchasing agent for his government. No purchases have been made as yet, he said, but negotiations are proceeding.

Mr. Alvarado said his job is to investigate possible deals and make recommendations to the Cuban agrarian reform institute. He added that he had not been authorized to spend any specific amount himself.

Claim rumor over Mr K U.S.-inspired

ROME (AP)—The Italian Communist newspaper L'Unita said today a rumor in Vienna that Soviet Premier Khrushchev had been overthrown was invented by an American news agency.

The Communist organ did not name the news agency. It said the purpose of the rumor was to help Vice-President Nixon in the American presidential election campaign.

Six armed holdups

Montreal underworld has regular field day

MONTREAL (CP) — Fridays, almost a regular field-day for Montreal's underworld, proved no exception this week.

There were six armed holdups Friday, one mugging, and a goon raid on a downtown nightclub which resulted in $25,000 to $30,000 damage.

The holdups netted bandits a total of $31,800 in cash and cheques but $2,725 was recovered after two suspects were caught by police and taken for questioning.

A bat-swinging mob of between 20 and 30 hoodlums paid an after-hours visit to the Chez Parée nightclub early, smashing everything they could lay their hands on.

Mr. Alvarado said his job is to investigate possible deals and make recommendations to the Cuban agrarian reform institute. He added that he had not been authorized to spend any specific amount himself.

WANTS A REPORT

Mayor Jean Drapeau, elected on a reform ticket, asked Police Director J. Albert Langlois for a report on the goon raid "as soon as possible."

The violence was the first to occur at a well-known, mid-town nightclub. Previous raids, connected with the enforcement of a protection racket, have been staged at clubs in and around gaudy St. Lawrence Blvd., known as "the main."

Two branches of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, one in suburban St. Michel and the other in west-end Notre Dame de Grace, were held up by bandits.

In St. Michel, a man carrying a nickel-plated pistol under a newspaper ordered a bank clerk to hand over $2,235 before fleeing in a late-model car.

But an accountant raced out after him and flagged down a police cruiser which trapped the suspect a short distance away. He was being held at police headquarters for questioning.

In Notre Dame de Grace, three men, one of them armed, lined up 10 customers and 15 employees against a wall, looted two cash drawers and escaped with about $7,000.

A north-end businessman, Israel Hirsch, was returning from a bank when two men struck him across the head and escaped with $3,500 in cash and $16,000 in cheques which Mr. Hirsch was taking to his office.

Four other holdups netted bandits $3,965 but one man who made off with $400 from a grocery store was nabbed by a vacationing detective. The man was being held by police for questioning.

Johnny Horton recording star dies in crash

MILANO, Tex. (AP)—Recording star Johnny Horton, 35, was killed early today in a two-car head-on collision on a railroad overpass in this central Texas town. Horton was driving a car, state police said.

Tilman Franks, his manager, and Gerald Tomlinson were injured, along with the driver of the second car, James Evans Davis, 19. All were taken to hospital.

Labor Congress, joining forces in the New Party, made a stunning political debut Monday by turning a government MP out of office in a byelection for what was once considered a safe Progressive Conservative seat.

Walter Pitman, 31-year-old high school teacher who conducted his personalized campaign with 15 minutes of hand-shaking each morning at factory gates before starting his history classes, pulled off the surprise in Peterborough. Mr. Pitman had 13,208 votes; Conservative Harold Macpherson

10,240 and Liberal Donald Munro 5,393. The New Party won 46 per cent of the vote as against 6 per cent for the CCF candidate in the 1958 general election.

In another byelection at Niagara Falls, the New Party candidate ran third as the Liberals retained the riding but he still polled more than the CCF entry in 1958. Unemployment was the chief issue there and in Peterborough.

Liberals were also elated by the capture of Quebec's Labelle from the government. Gaston

Clichee pulled 8,400 votes and conservative Paul-Emile Lesage's 7,210.

Weekly activities at Stanstead College

Dr. Hutchinson, Headmaster of the College was the guest speaker last Sunday at Stanley Presbyterian church in Westmount when they observed their anniversary Sunday service. The church minister is Rev. J. D. Wilkie, father of Ross Wilkie, a student at the College. Several of the College boys attended the service as well as their parents and friends and after the service joined for a reception with members of the church congregation to meet Dr. Hutchinson.

AMATEUR SHOW

The night before the holiday week end the new boys of the College presented an amateur show they had produced.

Terry Oleksi was Master of ceremonies and the show included skits, fashion show, vocal selections, Paul Williams played his guitar.

Early in the New Year a comedy of Ian Hay will be presented in Pierce Hall. Under the direction of John Cowan, English master, the boys will start this week by choosing the cast.

SERVICES

All Saints day the boys attended the church service of their faith. A special service for the Anglican students was held in Christ Church and at the same hour in Centenary United Church. At the latter Rev. A. M. Rose officiated with Dr. Hutchinson giving the address.

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Producer Collier Young and director-host John Newland disagree on the reason their ABC series about psychic phenomena, One Step Beyond, has been successful.

It now is in its third season and the sponsor has just renewed for another 13-week period.

"I think that it is the ultimate in escape," said Young. "Much more so than adventure or mystery programs."

"And I think that audiences like it because almost everybody has had some experience with psychic phenomena in their own lives," said Newland. "We get about 500 letters a week from people volunteering their own experiences and I think thousands of others appreciate the show because they had thought their own experiences were unique—and odd."

The show started in 1958 mostly because Newland, a successful actor with a keen interest in directing, and Young wanted to produce a TV program but not a western or private-eye series. Both, it turned out, were interested in extra-sensory perception and allied subjects. Newland more or less believed there was something to it; Young was a cynic.

"But we had a hard time selling it," Newland said. "Some sponsors thought such a series would bring objections from religious groups, others were afraid the American Medical Association would complain."

The program was bought, however, by a metals manufacturer who asked only that host Newland in his introduction and closing avoid stating absolutely that the phenomena exists: "I just say that these are the facts and leave the viewers to make up their own minds."

The program is a dramatization of documented, researched real-life incidents in the area.

HIGH TIMES

By SANDRA PICKFORD

CHALLENGED — The male teachers at Lennoxville challenged the Lennoxville Senior Boy's Volleyball team to a game last night. The Sherbrooke High School faculty had a similar game last year which proved to be hilarious. The male faculty appeared on the gym floor dressed in shorts and black tights. In the end the faculty won after being given a generous 20 point lead by the Senior boys. All in all, it kept the audience in stitches to the end. No doubt the Lennoxville game did, too.

SPECIAL PRAISE must go to all the high schools who gave their time and energy in making a successful UNICEF campaign possible. Many of the schools held dances, supervised parties, and looked after the youngsters while they collected the pennies. St. Francis High School, collected $275 for UNICEF, this year. Sutton High collected $204.38.

FOOD FAIR — Sutton High students may have their mouths watering November 12 when a Food Fair will be held by the Home and School Association. The food will first be judged and then sold to hungry by-standers.

COME DOGPATCH STYLE to a Sadie Hawkins dance sponsored by the Sports Committee November 12 at Princess Elizabeth High. Magog, Sutton High held a Record Hop last Saturday sponsored by the Student's Council. Proceeds of $25 will go to CARE, reports Brenda Bailey, Sutton correspondent. Friday night, October 28, St. Francis High's Grade Eleven sponsored a dance and the proceeds were part of Grade Eleven's contribution to UNICEF. A profit of $45 was made.

CAMERA CLUB — Anne Warner, Lennoxville correspondent reports that the Camera Club will hold a meeting on Monday to discuss ways of raising money for equipment needed in the dark room. Do any other E.T. high schools have a Camera Club that could offer suggestions to the Lennoxville club?

MORE YEAR BOOK STAFFS — Cowansville High School has named Ronald Check as Editor-in-chief of their yearbook, the "Hyllite." Carol Rand, Sawyerville High School correspondent, reports that Mahlon Grapes was elected Editor and Judy Larocche, assistant editor of their yearbook, the "White Eagle." The A.D.S. yearbook, the "Fibre", has once again a strong staff with Dorothy Carson, editor; Sandra Gallup, Associate Editor; Peter John Young as business and advertising manager.

STUDENT COUNCIL CONFERENCE to be held November 18 and 19 at the Rosemere High School, in Quebec, will be attended by Robert Mitchell and Judy Griffiths, representatives for Princess Elizabeth High, Magog, and Mahlon Grapes and Carol Rand will attend as representatives for Sawyerville High School.

PERSUASIVE SALESMEN — A.D.S. held an assembly on November 3 for the purpose of awarding prizes to the thirteen top salesmen of their magazine drive. The total sales for A.D.S. were over $1,200. The three most ambitious salesmen were: Linda Lockwood, who brought in $135; Martha Smyth, $117 and Peter John Young, $78. Also at this assembly J. C. Gaw, principal, introduced the new school sweaters and blazers.

PUPILS from Grades Nine, Ten and Eleven at Granby High took an interesting trip to New York City, last week, where they toured the United Nations building, Radio City Music Hall, Empire State Building and the Rockefeller Plaza. The pupils were accompanied by their principal, Mr. Wm. Munroe, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Anderson and Miss Howse.

Court cases

Sentenced to 2 months for store stealing

A 27-year old Sherbrooke man was sentenced to two months in Winter street jail after he pleaded guilty to stealing certain goods from a self-service department store.

Rene Guillemette, 27, was apprehended early this week by the Sherbrooke police following a complaint laid against him. Guillemette had previously been charged for similar offences.

A charge of speeding laid against Claude Gravelle, 29, of Bishops, was dismissed in Court Friday morning when the accused testified that his vehicle was "locked" at 58 miles per hour. His testimony satisfied the Court who also rejected a second charge of driving without a permit.

A Rock Forest man, who testified that he had seen a police constable following him, was acquitted of a charge of speeding in District Court Friday morning.

Roger Leeguern said that he wouldn't have been foolish enough to drive at an excessive speed knowing quite well that a police officer "was immediately behind me."

Constable Ernest Breton, of the QPP, testified that he had followed the accused at speeds up to 70 miles per hour.

The Court was of the opinion however that there was not sufficient proof and dismissed the charge against the accused.

Cigaret carton offer not true

One of the most weird of pranks is making the rounds of Sherbrooke and district.

According to an "offer" a collection of a certain number of empty cigarette boxes or cartons may be turned over to the manufacturer in return for a wheel chair for some crippled person.

Cigaret manufacturers have found the situation in Montreal already most embarrassing because no such offer was ever made. Now the rumor has hit the Townships.

Waiting for winter works

Unemployment meeting to be delayed — mayor

A public conference on unemployment in Sherbrooke called by Mayor Armand Nadeau will be delayed "for a week or two" to coincide with the opening of the winter works campaign, Mayor Nadeau announced at his press conference yesterday.

He has been conferring with Unemployment Insurance Commission Manager Eugene Charette and a date will be fixed shortly, he said.

All Sherbrooke organizations such as the Chamber of Commerce, and the Proprietors' League will be invited to attend as well as businessmen, employers, employees and the public at large, the mayor emphasized.

"The city has taken positive steps towards relieving the unemployment problem with a winter works program, but we are very interested in suggestions of what else we can do," he said.

"There are men not in public life who might be able to offer us some very valuable suggestions and there are others who could provide employment during the winter months," he added.

He noted that a joint meeting of the city council and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, the Proprietors' League and the Eastern Townships Builders' Association had produced some "very solid results" and he expected the same from the proposed public conference.

"Positive steps" which the city will be undertaking this winter are public works costing $160,700 under the federal-provincial program and amounts to 90 per cent of the cost of labor for an approved winter works program. In this case it will be $47,530. No estimate has yet been made of exactly how many men will find employment under this program.

AYLA ERDURAN

OPENING CONCERT — The Sherbrooke Section of the Jeunesses Musicales will present Ayla Erduran and Guy Fallot, violinists, in a concert to be held November 9 in the Auditorium St. Charles at 8 p.m. They will perform works by Bach, Marchand, Handel, Halvorsen and Ravel.

Budget submission

The municipal budget for the year 1961 will be ready for submission to the aldermen at the regular meeting of city council Monday night, city treasurer Olivier Routhier has announced.

It is not known when the budget will be adopted, but it is probable that the various provisions will be made known to the public before the beginning of next month. One of the provisions, according to Mayor Armand Nadeau, will be the increase in the discount rate on electricity bills.

Mayor Nadeau has also advocated a decrease of two mills in the property tax rate.

Unusual results

Take pictures without a camera, use novel 'photogram' technique

How would you like this winter, a legitimate excuse to cover the dining-room table with your entire fishing equipment, and yet not cause undue alarm or brilliant remarks from other members of the family such as: "Seems to me you just got that junk packed away."

Well, here it is, photograms — and if you are successful they will be admired by the whole family and also look well in the den, the sports room, or maybe just the attic. You can inject a little mystery into the whole thing by announcing "you never even used a camera."

Unfortunately, this project is limited to those who are equipped with a dark-room. Photograms are actually abstract designs without the use of a camera — it still is photography but in a different form than we are used to. It has quite a few applications; one use is to wide border around photographs covered with abstract designs that are familiar to the subject in the photograph. By using the designs shown above with a photograph of fisherman in a boat, you can make something different and novel. It may seem a bit early but by purchasing a 1961 calendar pad and gluing it to the bottom of the photograph can make an excellent calendar for a friend. The calendar pads usually can be purchased from your local stationary stores.

By DOUGLAS GERRISH

How do you go about this? It is not quite as involved as you might suspect.

Place a plain sheet of white paper the size of the photographic paper to be used under the enlarger. Tape this down with Scotch Tape at the four corners. On this lay a sheet of thin clean glass. And upon this glass proceed with your design and your objects that you intend to use, using the white paper as a guide to the size of your design.

When this has been completed take a piece of thin cardboard the same size as your plain sheet of white paper and on this draw a 5 to 6 rectangle centered in the middle but closer to the top.

With a sharp knife and straight edge cut this 5 x 6 area out as clean as possible as we need this center piece later on.

Lay this cardboard with cut-out on the plain white sheet. Trace this opening and remove. Now lay the cut-out piece on the area marked, place your glass with the design on top, reduce your enlarger lens to F. 16. Make your exposure. Lift off the glass and center piece. Replace with the cardboard and cut-out area. Place your negative in the enlarger using a red filter under the lens, adjust for size in your open area of cardboard and focus then proceed with the exposure.

Here I might add that it is well to use test strip in both printing procedures before hand and make a note of the exposure time. This all may seem like lots of trouble but after all we are pursuing our hobby and it is all lots of fun — especially when we are successful.

If by chance you wish a few copies of these it is well to make a copy negative of the master and enlarge in the usual way — without going through the double printing effort. The size of the master is limited only by the size of the enlarging paper.

Mitchell School prize giving held in the new auditorium

The annual presentation of school prizes at the Mitchell School was held in the new auditorium Friday.

As parents, friends and school children gathered in the auditorium, prizes were given to classes from Grade 1 to Grade 6. These included prizes for greatest improvements, industry and effort, neatness in all written work, politeness and co-operation, and the B'nai B'rith Lodge Medal and Prize, offered to the boy who exemplified the best spirit of sportsmanship in and out of school.

The program included songs sung by Grade 2 and Grade 3 pupils and two piano solos by Kathleen Smith and Garth Henderson.

The I.O.D.E. prize to the pupil showing the greatest improvement in each class was presented by Miss Margaret Haight, Educational Secretary of the Sir John Sherbrooke Chapter of the I.O.D.E. to:

Grade 1A—Craig Bishop, 1B—Wendell Smith, 1C—Scott Laforge, 2A—Laurie Colborne, 2B—Colin Henderson, 3A—Ellen Truax, 3B—Gordon Munday, 4A—Walter Coombs, 4B—Helen Main, 5A—David Bampton, 5B—Brian Page, 5C—Beverly Atlas, 6A—Susan Fletcher, 6B—John Williams, 6C—Malcolm Bradley.

The Brompton Road Women's Institute donated prizes for the greatest improvement in Arithmetic in Grades 3 and 4. These prizes were presented by Mrs. Hatch, Convener of Education to: Grade 3A—Billy Stolk; 3B—Diane Roarke; 4A—Brenda Boland; 4B—Michelle Bertrand.

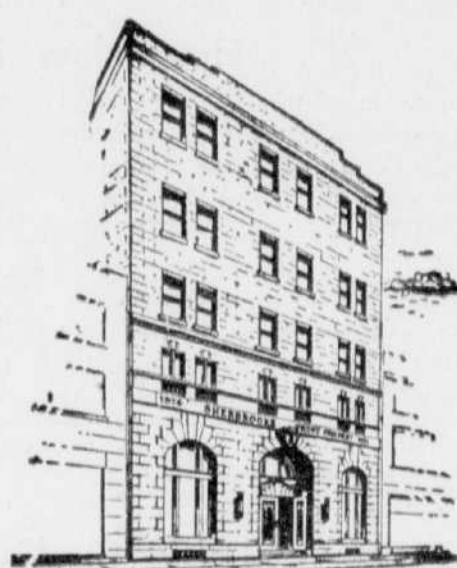

The Sherbrooke Home and School Association offered several prizes in each class. These prizes were presented by Ronald Cotelet, President of the Home and School Association to:

Building on parkland

Cowansville residents go to the polls Nov. 21 and 22 to vote on the question of constructing a new town hall for their community.

Cost of the building is said to be $195,000. Plans call for a two-storey high edifice to contain fire and police stations, garages for protection committee vehicles, municipal library, council chambers, council and public offices, a town secretary's office, an intercom system and a central clock synchronization system.

It is proposed that the site of the new building will be on municipal park land. The mayor argues that this location would save the town $30,000 — the cost of acquiring a suitable piece of land not owned by the city.

While a fine town hall is an asset to any community, it is to be hoped that the idea of taking over municipal park land for building purposes does not represent the trend of expansion in Cowansville.

As any growing community knows, parkland that remains parkland is also a precious asset, and the bigger a town or city becomes, the more precious parks become.

Building on such land now may be a short-term saving, but in the long run, if carried too far, it works to the detriment of a community.

Parkland, once gone, cannot usually be reclaimed. And it becomes increasingly difficult and more expensive to find and preserve other areas for the same purpose as a town expands.

An important meeting

It is interesting to note, particularly from an historical point of view, these facts:

At present many Protestant denominations in the United States are concerning themselves with the religion of the next president of the United States.

And, at the same time, the senior Protestant churchman of the Western world, the Archbishop of Canterbury, is planning to meet with the senior churchman of the Catholic world, Pope John.

The significant thing to note here is that these men represent the two major factors of the Christian Church.

And while their meeting may cause misgivings to many members of both

How slow

The question of what a "slow" sign actually means has been brought up in the Sherbrooke Court of Sessions. The problem arose when a man pleaded guilty to speeding in the city limits where such a sign exists.

The judge has so far refused to sentence the man because he contends the word "slow" has no clear legal meaning. At the present time a driver could be arrested for driving at any speed below the speed limit whether it be 15 or 35 miles an hour. A clarification of the situation is obviously needed.

There is one simple solution. Instead of putting up meaningless "slow" signs, the signs could read "slow to 20 miles an hour" or whatever is the desired speed.

Adventures with God

Reading of Bible creates faith

It takes more than positive thinking to face the frustrations and hardships of life (though positive thinking is the first step toward achievement). It takes faith, and that faith must be centered in God.

We take issue with the well-meaning people who advise depressed and fearful persons to "think positively" without directing their attention to the one object for positive thoughts.

It is much better to encourage troubled men to have faith in God, to think positively about His love for His creatures, His provision for them. His concern and sympathy for them in their moments of weakness and fear.

Positive thinking along this line is the right way to approach the problems of those who suffer from depressing thoughts. An out-of-town reader asks for prayer "I need your prayers to help me stand. I need contact with God."

We are sorry that the reader did not give us her name. But we can assure her (and others) who have written in the same vein that we are remembering them in prayer and asking the heavenly Guest to reveal himself to them.

And may we suggest that one of the best ways to contact Him is by reading His word daily. Through it you may hear His still small voice reassuring you: "Lo, I am with you always." "Call upon me in the day of trouble: I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify me." Psalm 50:15.

There are hundreds of promises in His book which assure us of His presence and concern and His willingness to understand, forgive and strengthen us to face whatever life brings from day to day.

ASK FOR ADVICE

Readers develop confidence in me from reading these columns, and many who have never met me write asking for prayer and advice.

What they have read has created faith in me. The daily reading of the Bible will create faith in God. His word is a revelation of Himself. His loving heart and His compassionate concern is laid bare in the written word for our edification.

The reading of it will give us details of His character and purpose upon which we can think positively and thereby build our faith and confidence in Him.

Here are some positive thoughts upon which to concentrate:

"I will never leave you nor forsake you." This affirmation of His presence can bring peace and comfort in moments of weakness and apprehension.

Always remember that His presence is available at any hour, anywhere. His provisions for our physical and spiritual needs are never-failing.

For eons the earth has yielded its increase, feeding millions of people, and each year producing the seed for greater crops to come.

His promises never fail, so if we have faith in God, the person who knows all about us, cares about us and provides for us now, and promises to continue His love and provision, then we have a sound basis for positive thinking. Something upon which to build a strong faith which will counter-act fear.

It is impossible to think for long periods of the power, the love and the provisions of God and continue in a state of fear. It is only when we take our thoughts off God and focus them on the sights and sounds and troubles that confront us, that we become fearful and depressed.

Our sense of inadequacy overpowers us. Sudden fear magnifies our problems and petrifies our souls until we are incapable of constructive thought or action. At such a time we need the stimulation of such affirmation as Paul used 1 Corinthians 4:13: "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."

It relieves us of the bogey of weakness and loneliness. And, like a frightened child, we find the courage to be brave in spite of conditions. Like a terrified child, we walk through the darkness with our hand in the hand of Almighty God. We cannot experience the same wild fears when we realize that our heavenly Father is with us.

Faith in God is the first essential for a courageous and happy man or woman. But a humble and honest approach of life as we find it is also a factor in attaining peace of mind and stability.

It will please God and ease your tensions if you will accept your limitations of birth, education and wealth without complaint or bitterness.

In the wisdom of God, some of us have been denied some things. Let us not kick against the pricks of pride until we become frustrated and fearful individuals. It eases the tensions of life to be content with the acclaim of a good conscience, rather than the acclaim of the sophisticated crowds.

To work conscientiously and wait patiently for God's acclaim is the way to peace and blessing.

N.Z. elections

Socialism is fighting all private enterprise

AUCKLAND (CP)—In theory, the basic issue in the New Zealand general election Nov. 26 is a straight clash between socialism, favored by the Labor party, and private enterprise, favored by the National party.

But, in practice, the contrast is much less clear cut.

The National party, for instance, favors maintenance of the welfare state at a level which would horrify many conservatives elsewhere.

And Labor in recent months has been talking in the language of died-in-the-wool capitalists.

For example, Labor Prime Minister Walter Nash told an industrial conference recently: "The time has come to lift the emphasis from security and stability and to direct efforts toward growth."

But the government insists that all TV must be under government control. It has rejected appeals for direction by an independent public corporation.

The National party, on the other hand, favors some form of corporation for over-all control of standards. But it maintains that control should be free from political interference and that there should be scope for private enterprise to share in development of TV.

Television seems likely to be the major argument on public ownership in the coming election.

Most of the concessions in this year's budget were designed to encourage industrial expansion, assist industry in raising more capital and give incentives to overseas companies to sink capital in New Zealand.

All this sounds like a private enterprise government rather than a Labor regime devoted to socialism. Indeed, the New Zealand Labor party some years ago eliminated from its platform the classic aim of public ownership of the means of production, distribution and exchange.

The Labor party sounds like a thorough-going conservative party until some strangely-conflicting statements are heard.

Nash, for instance, told a students' meeting recently that socialism meant the socialization of the means of production, distribution and exchange.

"That has always been part of the Labor philosophy and it is the objective now," he said. "But it does not mean taking over these things. It means the utilization of the national resources to ensure that they are available to everyone."

Nash has not explained the difference between this and nationalization.

In their attempts to determine how much more public ownership Labor wants, New Zealanders are obliged to study what is nationalized now and what the govern-

Letter To Editor

The Editor,
Sherbrooke Daily Record,
Sherbrooke, Que.

Dear Sir:

The Emmanuel United Church, (in East Angus) a supposedly Christian organization, is according to Tuesday's Record, attempting to do a most un-Christian like act. They not only are not turning the other cheek, but are trying to strike back in anger. I am referring to the incident involving Dusan Marcevic, a Yugoslav immigrant who did not show up in East Angus to accept a job and home offered by the Emmanuel United Church.

The Emmanuel United Church is attempting to have him deported from Canada because of his defection. The Church's zeal in bringing the man to Canada, a country of plenty, and a country of opportunity, is to be highly commended, but the same church's attitude of trying to have the man deported because their pride was hurt by his "premeditated misrepresentation" is to be condemned as un-Christian.

If this is how Christianity is represented today then I think we would be wise to listen to what Soren Kierkegaard says in his book "The Present Moment" "Whoever you may be, and whatever life you live, my friend: by omitting to attend the public service — if indeed it be your habit to attend it — by omitting to attend public divine service as now constituted (claiming as it does to represent the Christianity of the New Testament) you will escape at least one, and a great sin in not attempting to fool God by calling that the Christianity of the New Testament which is not the Christianity of the New Testament."

Yours very truly
David Snell

In the Congo

United Nations popularity down

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP) — The popularity of the United Nations administration in the Congo appears to be slipping fast amid signs that the Congolese want the Belgians to come back.

This may appear ironic in view of the events of last summer. First there were the anti-Belgian independence riots. Then there was the quick reaction of the UN to try to bring order to the former Belgian colony.

However, in this new republic of 14,000,000 Africans obviously unprepared for self-government, the totally unexpected often happens.

One high UN officer who gets around a lot in Leopoldville's African quarter and says he has a finger on grass-roots thinking declared: "In less than a month they'll all want the Belgians to return."

Hundreds of Belgian settlers who fled the nation during the wave of violence against them in the first days of independence are returning each week to reopen their businesses, shops and plantations. Their arrival provides an increasing number of much-needed jobs and in Leopoldville, at least, Belgian-Congolese relations seem happy.

The Belgian view here is that the UN does not understand the Congolese who are sometimes stubborn, sometimes meek in their day-to-day behavior.

The UN has some able men here who probably could accomplish more than they have if they had greater experience in the Congo and if there was a strong government with which to work.

While not openly keeping Belgian technicians from returning, the UN does not encourage them and tries instead to find recruits of its own in other countries for key technical assistance positions.

This means much time is lost for the UN officials in familiarizing themselves with the Congolese and in planning solutions to problems created by a shattered economy, government administration, commerce and transportation system.

Progress has been slow. For example efforts to provide jobs by means of an emergency public works program produced about 6,800 jobs by mid-October, hardly more than a chip off the solid block of hundreds of thousands of unemployed.

This may be one reason why some Congolese, including Katanga's Premier Moise Tshombe, now are saying they plan to recruit their own technical help—people who already know the country and its people. For Tshombe, who still has Belgians in his government and gendarmerie, this means getting more of them.

Another source of friction between the Congolese and the UN is inflation. The world body is pouring millions into the country, even paying its soldiers and civilians allowances in unconvertible Congo francs. Since the UN force members cannot take their money back home, they spend it all here. The effect is to boost business activity but, combined with scarcity of goods, the extra money is forcing prices up and low-paid Congolese workers are blaming the UN.

Some Belgians, noting that the top UN echelon in the Congo is made up of Afro-Asian nationals, say the Congolese are suspicious of these former colonial peoples.

Press Comment

REASSURANCE

(Christian Science Monitor)

Unfettered throngs gathered in Riviera resort towns to protest any disposal of atomic waste in the Mediterranean call attention to a problem more serious than the repugnance the fashionable feel for the fissionable.

Average people in all countries — even the industrially sophisticated — simply do not know whether packaged radioactive waste is safe or not. It is therefore not enough that local authorities or atomic-energy commissions make half-hearted reassuring statements about safety in reply to quick-spreading rumors — however ridiculous the rumors may seem to nuclear experts.

When Alfred Nobel sought to sell his explosives to the world for constructive uses he was nearly balked by rumors and fears spread among the public. He finally had to make personal demonstrations before large crowds, tossing nitroglycerin about confidently to prove that it was harmless when correctly handled.

It is likewise incumbent upon industrial and governmental producers of atomic waste to prove to the public living near disposal sites that the packaging of this dangerous radioactive material is safe even under the most abnormal conditions.

From uranium and other radioactive sources mankind can extract potentially more than 500 times the amount of energy now available from coal and oil resources. But before this vast benefit becomes possible, the problem of large-scale disposal of radioactive waste must be solved.

The first part of that solution — technical. The second is keeping the public informed.

Definite progress is being made in discussions between Students' Executive Council and administration representatives regarding the SEC's present financial pickle, said President Barry Wansbrough.

Although as yet no details are final, it looks as though the SEC-proposed Athletics Board will be set up. Such a board, as originally proposed, would consist of members from the Corporation, the faculty and the students.

Students would pay for more than one-half of the athletic program, which presently consumes about two-thirds of its budget.

The football Gaiters are in Ottawa today for a return tussle with St. Patrick's College. At the moment the team is at a rather low ebb, having been soundly beaten last Saturday by Loyola.

Loyola had a decided edge in depth and organization, as well as ability. Bishop's hurt themselves with a display of atrocious tackling.

On the soccer front, the Croziers clash with Drummondville this afternoon on the University field. Bishop's beat Drummondville 3-1 on their own home grounds several weeks ago.

The rugged women's soccer team, the Vee Vees, took on a hard-running crew of females from King's Hall, Compton, last Monday and battled them to a 2-2 tie.

The Divinity faculty squeaked out a split-decision victory over Arts and Science Thursday night in the first round of the inter-faculty Skinner debates. They defeated the resolution: Resolved that the Shed (Divinity House) should cease to be a residence for the exclusive use of Divines.

The judges' decision came as a surprise to the majority of spectators.

Arts and Science (the Government), composed of Prime Minister David Murray, Minister of Education Barry Wansbrough and Minister of Integration Norm Webster, at least swept sartorial honors by entering the hall nattily clad in tuxedos.

They built their case on their belief that the Divines could contribute much more to the life of the University if they were integrated into the residences. They also pointed out that Divines would be ill prepared for their ministry to the people if they stuck together at all times with other Divines.

All three Government speakers stressed the sterling qualities of Bishop's Divines and deplored their insular attitude. A bold piece of constructive legislation for the integration of divinity students into the residences was put forward by the Minister of Integration when he unveiled his Master Plan for Divine Intervention.

The Opposition comprised Peter Durrett, Lloyd Reaume and Derek Collett-White.

They emphasized that the divinity scholars at Bishop's had different responsibilities than the average student — "We have an obligation to God before we have one to the University."

They put forward the advantages of living together with other Divines and said that, besides, the Divines do take an active part in University activities.

Essentially however, they felt that the special nature of their calling made it necessary for them to live, work and study together.

Bishop's C.O.T.C. contingent will be on parade Sunday at the Lennoxville Cenotaph for Remembrance Day Services. Second Lieutenant Paul Jones will lay the wreath in memory of Bishop's war dead.

The most common opening gambit in Bishop's common rooms these days is "Who do you think will win the Election?"

The Election, of course, is the U.S. Presidential contest, which will be decided next Tuesday.

Discussion was stimulated by two opposing articles this week in the college newspaper, The Campus. Written by Campus managing editors Bob Smithers and Norm Webster, the articles told why they chose Nixon and Kennedy respectively as the best man for the Presidency.

Friday The Campus polled the students on who they preferred to see elected. At Friday noon, Kennedy was reported to be holding a handy lead among the men, but the unpredictable vote — that of the women — was yet to come in.

Wage increase are called for in new contract

A three-year contract calling for wage increases of 22 cents an hour over the three year period, retroactive to August 2, 1960, was signed Friday morning between representatives of the International Association of Machinists and the Sherbrooke Machineries Ltd.

The new contract calls for a compulsory check-off of union dues for employees with less than five years seniority. No fringe benefits are listed.

Terms were completed recently as a result of conciliation. The union agreed to the contract Sunday and it was accepted by the company the following day.

Original demands by the union included a 35-cent-an-hour wage increase for a one-year contract, plus other fringe benefits.

The terms of the contract specify a seven-cent-per-hour increase retroactive to August 2, 1960, and three-cent-per-hour increases every six months until February 2, 1963, a total of 22 cents an hour over the next three years.

The Opposition comprised Peter Durrett, Lloyd Reaume and Derek Collett-White.

They emphasized that the divinity scholars at Bishop's had different responsibilities than the average student — "We have an obligation to God before we have one to the University."

WREXHAM, Wales (CP)—Postmaster-General Bevins says that telephone bills are uncivilized. He could not find the word "please" anywhere on them.

Shower is held at Bolton Centre for bride-elect

BOLTON CENTRE — Mrs. Katharine Peasley and Mrs. Joseph Terrio were hostesses at a bridal shower for Miss Persis True, prior to her marriage to L.A.C. Geo. Ross.

Upon her arrival, the guest of honor was met at the door of the club-room by Mrs. Peasley and escorted to a chair of honor where she was presented with a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Graydon True, her mother, and Mrs. Charles Farmer, grandmother, were also both presented with corsages of white carnations, and assisted in opening the useful and beautiful gifts, for which the honored guest voiced her appreciation.

The clubroom was decorated with pink and white streamers, balloons filled with confetti, and the bride elect's chair was under an umbrella decorated with streamers. Fall flowers completed the decorations.

Lunch was served to the 40 guests by the hostesses and members of the Ladies Guild. The shower, cake was made and decorated by Mrs. Andrew Marion and carried out the pink and white theme.

Out of town guests were from Wells River, Vt. Mansville, Montreal, Highwater, Dunkin, South Bolton and Austin.

WEDDING DANCE

A wedding dance was held in the Town Hall, on Oct. 31, in honor of L.A.C. and Mrs. Ross upon their return from their wedding trip. Music was furnished by Durwood Darling and his orchestra. Lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Gordon Bryant, Mrs. Andrew Marion and Mrs. Kenneth Elston. The groom voiced thanks on behalf of Mrs. Ross and himself.

NEW PARTY

fact "constituted a new menace to peace and security, and actually inhibited political activity."

Belgian officials and technicians, he indicated, are partly the cause of the UN's difficulties in dealing with Mobutu and Moise Tshombe, president and premier of Katanga province.

"The single most disturbing, even alarming development (in recent weeks) has been a steady and often rapid breakdown of law and order." The prime cause, Doyal said, is the indiscipline of the Congolese army.

THREE DAYS TO GO

In a frantic effort to woo voters before they go into polling booths to pick the next president of the United States Tuesday, Vice-President Nixon and Senator Kennedy hit harder and travelled faster this week.

The Republican camp took encouragement from President Eisenhower's crowd — drawing appearances in New York, Cleveland and Pittsburgh on Nixon's behalf. But many opinion polls showed Kennedy leading.

The vice-president said Kennedy had told a "bare-faced lie" in saying the Republican party opposed social security. Kennedy's rejoinder: "Having seen him close up, and made up, in our television debates, I would never accuse Mr. Nixon of being bare-faced."

ANOTHER TRY

Attempting again to get disarmament talks out of a blind alley, External Affairs Minister Green presented a Canadian resolution to the political committee of the United Nations General Assembly Tuesday. It proposes appointment of 10 or 12 non-nuclear nations to work toward a renewal of negotiations between East and West.

"It's no good," was the Russian reaction.

DEFENCE STORM

Britain will provide a Scottish base for U.S. Polaris missile submarines, Prime Minister Macmillan told the Commons after the formal opening of Parliament Tuesday.

The announcement provoked a storm of opposition from Labor MPs and a demonstration in Scotland by opponents of U.S. bases.

There was an oil boom at Ste. Rosalie, near St. Hyacinthe, when nearly 1,000,000 gallons of fuel oil flowed from a damaged tank of the Irving Oil Company. Settling of the earth is believed to have caused a seam in the tank to open.

Much of the oil was held back by earth dikes around the tank and about 400,000 gallons were recovered. Enterprising individuals made "strikes" from oil that escaped to a roadside ditch. One man pumped 60,000 gallons into tank trucks. Another detoured 20,000 gallons to more jobs' trucks via a ditch to his cellar.

In Montreal a gang of hoodlums, believed connected with a protection racket, wrecked the downtown Chez Paree nightclub. Damage was estimated at $10,000.

STANBRIDGE EAST

On Halloween night, Mr. Murray Blinn was visited by ghosts and goblins of a meaner type, who emptied a tank of gas, which he had in his yard. The tank contained about 50 gals.

Sunday Sermon Subject

How spiritual enlightenment brings a clearer sense of direction and purpose into daily living will be emphasized at the services in all the Christian Science churches this Sunday, in the reading of the week's Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Adam and Fallen Man." Bible selections are epitomized by the Golden Text from Ephesians: "Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light." Correlative citations from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include: "Saul of Tarsus beheld the way—the Christ, or Truth—only when his uncertain sense of right yielded to a spiritual sense, which is always right. Then the man was changed. Thought assumed a nobler outlook, and his life became more spiritual."

BAHA'IS BELIEVE . . .
. . . THAT MANKIND IS ONE RACE.

"This earth is one country and Mankind its citizens". In this age of part-answers Baha'is feel they must state their belief that the only real solution to prejudice is racial unity. It is, we believe, a Command of God that mankind live, and work, pray and marry as one human race.

Today all over the world, some two million people of every race and nation have found in the Teachings of Baha'u'llah the living reality of brotherhood.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEAGUE

Miss A. Hand, president of Our Lady of Good Counsel Council C.W.L. was in the chair for a brief meeting held recently in St. Patrick's Church Hall.

After the opening prayers, the president spoke of the recent death of Mrs. Frank Bussiere, of Silley, Que., past National President. Mrs. Bussiere's death, will be a great loss not only to her family and friends, but to the League throughout Canada.

Miss Hand also thanked the members of the League, parishioners and friends, for helping to make the recently held Parish Supper such a success.

Routine business took place after which the following announcement was made, members were asked to bring or send donations in the way of clothing also small articles, costume-jewelry, etc., to the church hall on or before Monday evening, November 7th. These articles will then be forwarded to the Missions in the Manitoulin Island and Armstrong, Ont.

The meeting was then adjourned.

DUKE OF WELLINGTON CHAPTER, I.O.D.E.

Plans were made for a Dessert Bridge to be held on November 29 at I.O.D.E. House when members of the Duke of Wellington Chapter I.O.D.E. met on Thursday night at I.O.D.E. House, Moore St.

The bridge, starting at two o'clock in the afternoon and seven in the evening will be preceded by a delicious dessert served by the members. As an added attraction a variety table and food table will be held and a prize at each table and door prizes.

Tickets will be in charge of Mrs. R. L. Bishop, the members are asked to report the number of tables to her by the 25th. Telephone committee is Mrs. J. K. Doherty and Mrs. Sam Cohen, sales tables, Mrs. Eric Jeffreys and Mrs. R. Havard. Duties in the kitchen are in charge of Mrs. R. L. Bishop, Mrs. L. Forest and Mrs. G. Richards.

The regent, Mrs. J. K. Doherty welcomed Mrs. Reford Stewart as a new member, who repeated the oath of affirmation. Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. E. Hough, who had joined the chapter at the last meeting, were then presented with the pins of the order.

Mrs. R. L. Bishop, municipal regent, stated a report of the findings of the chapters concerning aid to the Retarded Children's School, will be given at the next meeting.

The regent spoke of the National Ballet on November 9, which is being sponsored by the IODE. She also stated 46 calendars had been sold.

The resignation through ill health of Mrs. Hugh Brown, as secretary, and Mrs. Labrecque, as a member, were accepted with regret. Mrs. P. A. Dauncey will carry-on as secretary until the end of the year.

Mrs. S. Cohen reported milk and clothing sent to needy families and a wreath would be placed on the Cenotaph on Sunday by the Municipal regent, Mrs. R. L. Bishop, and Mrs. R. M. Loughheed. Mrs. C. Varney will carry the standard of the order. Twelve personal property bags have been made, and a shower for the contents will be held at the next meeting on January 5, when a film will be shown.

Twenty-two members gave 43½ hours at the Cancer Dressings Station during the past two months.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. C. Osborne and Mrs. H. Brown.

HUNTINGVILLE WCTU

Plans for a Christmas tea and sale to be held in the Huntingville Hall on November 30, were discussed at the monthly meeting of the Huntingville WCTU held recently at the home of Mrs. Wallace Wingate, Sand Hill.

The president, Mrs. F. Ingham, opened the meeting with the pledge and following the reading of the Clip Sheet, several items were discussed.

The minutes were read by Mrs. R. S. Lipsey and Mrs. A. Fairbrother reported on the Little White Ribboners and the work of the sunshine department. Several letters of thanks were also read.

Mrs. G. M. Sutherland, treasurer, reported that two Sunday schools are competing in Temperance work. She also stated that due to the financial standing of the Union, the members had agreed to pay for their own subscriptions of the Tidings.

The advisability of amalgamating with the Lennoxville Union was discussed. The decision to be made at the January meeting.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. MacDougall have returned to their home in Lennoxville, after having spent a few days holiday with Dr. and Mrs. Daniel MacDougall in Kansas, and Dr. and Mrs. Orrin E. Taulbee in Birmingham, Mich.

Pourers at the Carry-On-Club Christmas tea and sale being held on Thursday, November 10 at the Norton Residence, will be Miss Clara Aitkenhead, director of the School of Nursing at the Sherbrooke Hospital, Miss Claire Lavoie, R.N., Mrs. Warren Gale and Mrs. Dean Bishop.

Marriages

ROSS — TRUE

BOLTON CENTRE — St. Patrick's Anglican Church was the scene of a pretty fall wedding at two o'clock on Saturday, October 29, when Persis Evelyn, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Graydon True, became the bride of L.A.C. George Wm. Reginald Ross, son of Mr. Reginald Ross and the late Mrs. Ross of Transcona, Manitoba. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Gerald Tulk. Baskets of white and yellow mums decorated the sanctuary. Miss Marilyn Cameron presided at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was in a floor length gown of white nylon lace with tulle overskirt and lace inserts. The pearl and sequined trimmed fitted bodice had a high neckline with Peter Pan collar and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. Her shoulder length veil was trimmed with iridescent sequins and was held in place by a tulle bandeau. She carried a satin covered Bible encrusted with white carnations and white satin streamers.

Miss Linda Ross, sister of the groom, was maid of honor and wore a blue embroidered gown of white nylon over taffeta, having a full skirt with blue carnations at the waist. She wore a white bandeau and carried a nosegay of pink carnations.

L.A.C. Alan Goldie, R.C.A.F. Trenton, Ontario, acted as best man, and the ushers were L.A.C. Stuart True, R.C.A.F. St. Sylvester, brother of the bride, and L.A.C. Wayne Hamel R.C.A.F. Clinton, Ontario.

A guard of honor was formed at the entrance of the church by the Ladies Aux. B.E.S.L. Potton Branch of which the bride is a member.

The bride's mother was in a gown of Royal blue orlon wool, with beige accessories and wore a corsage of red and white carnations and a mink stole. The bride's grandmother was gowned in navy blue sheer with beige accessories and wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the club room, where fall flowers and pink and white streamers decorated the room. Lunch was a room where he can roam

Memo to wives of retired men: that his wife won't come in like a whirlwind to make it "presentable."

How about giving your husband, to do with as he pleases, one room in the home he worked so many years to pay for?

Letters come to this column every week from wives who say their retired husbands are driving them crazy by being constantly underfoot and having nothing to do.

Also every week come letters from husbands who claim their wives seem to resent having them around the house.

The solution would seem to be obvious: a room for the man that he can fix up any way he pleases, as a workshop, as a hobby room as a lounge for his friends for playing cards, checkers or just talking.

The wife ought to leave the "fixing up" of the room to her husband and he should be able to keep it in any manner he chooses.

It ought to be a room that she enters only when invited to do so. She shouldn't worry about keeping neat and tidy. He should be able to shut the door knowing his things where his wife would keep hands off and where he could work on a project whenever he felt like it without having to worry about his wife's fussing about the clutter.

Just as much as a young family needs a family room, a retired man needs a room that he can call his own, where he can get off by himself away from 24-hour-a-day "togetherness" which is a little too much for even the happiest couples.

We have the last word in gifts for all occasions. Beautiful genuine leather handbags, lovely two-tone twin luggage sets, wardrobe trunks, complete line of novelties, manicure sets, sewing kits, etc. We also have the lay-away plan, which only requires a small deposit. Saturday's book shelf

Edited By: Gladys Taylor.

While displaying my collection of Roman emperor coins around the country in the last few months, it amazed me how many collectors are genuinely interested in Roman series. But because they think these are too complicated and hard to distinguish or understand, have never attempted a collection. For this reason also they can be bought cheaply.

However, I can assure you it is quite simple, and you need no previous knowledge of Latin.

CONFUSION

Inscription on a Roman coin is a mass of abbreviations, including the emperor's name and his imperial titles. This causes no end of confusion to a Latin student, but to a numismatist, who learns only the meaning of the short forms and how to read them, it becomes a simple matter of memorizing a few imperial titles and phrases, or consulting a chart.

A book called Reading and Dating Roman Imperial Coins by Zander H. Klawns, contains all the fundamentals with charts.

Without knowledge of Roman coins it may seem odd not to see the familiar name of an emperor on a coin as we see our own "Elizabeth Regina." The reason is that the emperors usually used two or three of their names, often in short forms and unfamiliar to us.

For example, the Emperor Caligula was given this odd name by the soldiers in his father's camp because he wore little boots (caligae) like the soldiers.

His real name—Caius Caesar Germanicus—appears on the coins as C CAESAR AUG GERM.

LONG TUNIV

The Emperor Caracalla was so called because of the long Gallic tunic of that name which he wore. His name was really Marcus Aurelius Antoninus and appears on coins as M AUR ANTON and variations thereof.

The simple answer to the identity of these pieces is a list containing "common name and full name" and "name as it frequently appears on the coins and the common name." These lists and many others, along with charts to aid in dating when coins were struck, appear in the little book I have mentioned.

Once you open its pages you will be drawn in, as I was, realizing how easily Roman coins can be identified.

Toastmaster gets help

THE COMPLETE TOASTMASTER by Herbert V. Prochnow 354 pgs., PRENTICE-HALL INC., $4.95. THE COMPLETE TOASTMASTER is a treasury of over 2500 stories, quotations, anecdotes and quips - everything you need for applause - getting, audience - rousing speeches on any subject, any time. - or so the blurb on the dust cover says.

Personally I can add one more recommendation to the above. Reading aloud bits from the TOASTMASTER is a perfect way to dispel your sceptical family's picture of you as a dry old stick and convince them that you do have a sense of humour after all!

THE COMPLETE TOASTMASTER is intended as a crutch to the busy chairman who falls heir to introducing the guest speaker as well as filling in - as humorously as possible - between items. I have no doubt that this book will more than fulfill its purpose - the only thing that worries me is that the potential toastmaster may get so interested in the book as he leafs through it trying to find what he wants that he'll never complete the other plans for the meeting.

STAMP CHAT

by Milton Cronenberg

The portrait of the famous composer Gustav Mahler appeared for the first time on a commemorative stamp when the Austrian post office released a special 1.50 S value in honor of the 100th anniversary of Mahler's birth.

Known as the last of the great Austrian symphonists, Mahler was born in the little village of Kalitz near the Bohemian and Moravian borders, July 7, 1860, second child of a Jewish family of 12.

His musical talent was apparent at an early age and he was sent to the Vienna Conservatory at 15.

In 1880 Mahler left Vienna and in a short time became known as one of the finest opera conductors in the country. In Budapest his extraordinary talent was recognized when he was appointed director of the Royal Opera at 28.

In 1897 he was appointed director of the Vienna Court Opera and during the next 10 years, while also reorganizing the opera, he completed six symphonies.

Each composition a step forward in his exposition of the soul of man, its relation to the world of nature and its battle with circumstances.

In 1907 Mahler went to the United States and was completely successful as conductor of the New York Philharmonic Society. During the next three years he made a number of trips between Europe and the U.S.

Mahler was working on his 10th symphony (several movements were almost completely scored) when he died in 1911.

Court ok's 'nahsty' word Greengrocer at a loss

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—"My young 'un got sent home from school last week for writin' a nahsty word on a wall," said the greengrocer, "an' now a British jury says the word's not obscene."

Puzzled, he shook his head. "I give him the strap, but after Lady Chatterley and her bloomin' lover, what am I gonna tell him? I reckon he'll expect an apology."

He referred, of course, to the jury which Wednesday decided D. H. Lawrence's novel—with its innumerable four-lettered words—is not obscene.

The decision puzzled more than the greengrocer. It puzzled author Lawrence's 88-year-old brother for one.

"I was very fond of my brother," said George Lawrence in an interview, "but I'm telling you that book should not be published for young people to read. I read it and that's my opinion."

The Times devotes its main editorial to the decision. "There is no appeal against the jury's verdict," said the Times, "but on the grounds of decency and taste and even morals, it is still possible to dissent."

Dr. Donald Soper, former president of the Methodist Conference, told reporters:

"My view is that the decision is right, although I deplore what is inevitable—that many people who will not derive any benefit from the book will buy it for what they hope is pornography."

Kenneth Tynan, a well known drama critic, said:

"I am overjoyed. I think this verdict means that it has become possible for serious authors to handle sex seriously."

The trial had one unexpected result.

Mrs. Olive Mendelsohn, one of the jurors, told police today that while she was deciding the fate of the novel, thieves broke into her home.

They stole jewelry worth £4,000 ($11,000), she told Scotland Yard.

Test case

LONDON (AP)—The Guardian of Manchester—one of the most respected newspapers printed in the English language—Friday used THAT word.

It was the old Anglo-Saxon four-lettered word that the prosecutor in the trial of Lady Chatterley's Lover said author D. H. Lawrence used no less than 30 times.

With a daring obviously generated by a jury's clearance of an uncensored version of the novel, the Guardian printed it on the back page.

Veteran British editors could recall no previous use of the word in a daily newspaper.

Shocked, one editor said in an interview:

"We have already been told that a member of Parliament is going to raise the matter in the House of Commons."

The Guardian used the word in a column on the back page summing up, with comment, the Lady Chatterley trial at London's Old Bailey Court House.

Pulitzer Prize winner dies

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — (AP) — Harold Lenoir Davis, 64, who won a Pulitzer Prize for the first novel he ever wrote, died this week in hospital of a heart ailment.

A native of Oregon, his first published work at the age of 19 was in Harriet Monroe's poetry magazine in Chicago. His first novel, Honey in the Horn, won the Pulitzer Prize in 1936.

Other novels, all based on life in the American north-west frontier, were Harp of the Thousand Strings, Beulah Land, Winds of Morning and The Distant Music.

Weird characters lacking in any genuine warmth

MAD SHADOWS - MARIE-CLAIRE BLAIS - McCLELLAND & STEWART LTD. - $1.95 — "MAD SHADOWS" is the English translation of that much-talked-of French novel "LA BELLE BÊTE" written by Marie-Claire Blais, then only nineteen, in the incredibly short time of fifteen days.

It is a most unusual and puzzling book and after reading it one cannot help but wonder what prompted this young writer to create such a story.

All the characters in the book are unnatural in some weird way and consistently lack any genuine warmth making them at once highly incredible.

There is a mother, presumably dying of cancer, who refuses to admit even to herself that her son is an "idiot", and who dotes over his good looks in a disgusting manner.

There is an ugly daughter with more intelligence than her idiot brother of whom she is insanely jealous, but who is so starved for a mother's love and affection she is driven to destroy her brother's beauty.

There is a husband, a pitifully weak and shallow creature. In every case the lives of these people end disastrously.

I do not consider this book the literary sensation that it has been acclaimed to be. I think the writing itself, while said by some to have a certain quality of strength, shows that the novel was written hurriedly and without much thought, and it would have been a definite change for the better if at least one of the characters in the book had showed signs of being a human being.

The only fascination this book held for me was the rather dubious one of making me want to read on in order to discover what the next sordid turn of events would be.

We hope that with this sudden public recognition, Miss Blais will not turn out to be just a flash in the pan, and that as she studies at Laval University and continues her writing career she will settle down to the hard work involved in becoming a truly successful writer and eventually produce something really worthwhile.

HAZEL HALL

jottings

By GLADYS TAYLOR

This week we are blowing out a "literary candle" in celebration of SATURDAY'S BOOK SHELF's first birthday.

To the editor and reviewers it has been a most rewarding and interesting year. If you want to be statistical we have read and reviewed 170 books, introduced 8 Canadian authors by means of MEET AN AUTHOR profiles, mentioned hundreds of books and authors in JOTTINGS and in general tried to keep our readers abreast of events in the publishing, writing and reading world. Above all we've tried to entertain you. If we have succeeded in any or all of these—won't you please blow out a candle with us?

By way of birthday congratulations, perhaps a few extracts from recent letters may be timely and warranted. The Hon. Ray Williston, Minister of Lands and Forests for the B.C. government wrote, "The SHERBROOKE DAILY RECORD would appear to a most interesting paper. You seem to have stimulated a keen interest in books."

Peter Martin, president of the READERS' CLUB OF CANADA wrote, "I must say I was most impressed with your book page which I had not previously seen. I wish there were a lot more like it in this country!" James E. Fritch, secretary of the Edmonton Branch of the C.A.A. wrote, "I thought your (Edmonton) columns were excellent."

G. E. Mortimore, columnist for the Victoria DAILY COLONIST wrote "Thank you very much for your generous reference to me in your column in the SHERBROOKE DAILY RECORD's excellent book page."

These kind of letters make our first anniversary a happy one!

Readers, who are also gardeners, will be pleased to know that Roscoe Fillmore, Nova Scotia author, has a new book coming out entitled THE PERENNIAL BORDER AND ROCK GARDEN, published by RYERSON PRESS.

Her fellow members of the Canadian Authors Association are always happy to learn of new honors being bestowed on Mrs. Kate Aitken by the many groups graced by her presence. Latest of these is the news that Mrs. Aitken has been nominated by her fellow members on the Board of Directors of the CBC to represent them on the National Commission.

A young Canadian poet, Jean-Guy Pilon, secretary-general of the SOCIÉTÉ DES ÉCRIVAINS CANADIENS (French equivalent of the C.A.A.) participated recently in the Fourth International Biennial of Poetry which was held in Belgium. He presented a paper on the theme "Rencontre" and also displayed books by Canadian authors at the Exhibition. His further duty at the Biennial was to report to the Committee on Radio concerning poetry broadcasts on Radio-Canada. The Biennials are gatherings of poets from all parts of the world and the main theme of the Fourth Biennial was "Men of Tomorrow and Poetry." Mr. Pilon received a travel grant from the Canada Council to make it possible for him to attend.

Toronto will be the scene of the Canadian Authors Association's 40th Anniversary convention to take place in early July, 1961. Mrs. Elsinore Haultain, former Book Review Editor for THE RYERSON PRESS will be convention chairman.

McCLELLAND & STEWART proudly announce that their forthcoming book THIS SIDE JORDAN, the story of Ghana just before it became independent, by Margaret Laurence of Vancouver, is a Book Society Recommendation.

Mackenzie King—politician and statesman

THE MACKENZIE KING RECORD — by J. W. Pickersgill — University of Toronto Press - 723 pages - $11.50. This is the first of two volumes by the well-known Mr. Pickersgill based on the hitherto unpublished diary of the late Mackenzie King.

It provides a fascinating glimpse at one of Canada's greatest prime ministers, and one of its most remarkable public figures. Mackenzie King's own private jottings of his day-to-day life serve to reinforce his position of stature in Canadian history.

Mr. Pickersgill, in his preface, points out that he is seeking to present Mackenzie King, the person as a politician and statesman, not the history of his times or the views of his contemporaries.

Inevitably, the late prime minister's record becomes a part of the history of his times, but the volume is intensely interesting largely because of the portrait the author has let Mr. King draw of himself through his diaries.

The author says his purpose was not to present Mr. King's private life, and he has therefore a confined reference to his private life to extracts from the diary which seemed to have had an essential bearing on his public life.

This must have represented a most difficult editing chore, for what comes through most clearly in Mackenzie King's personal reflections is that his private life and public life were almost one.

It was through politics, and the manoeuvring and handling of people this required that Mackenzie King really lived. Other considerations were to him secondary. Yet despite this and his own lack of adult family life, he reveals in his diary a warm understanding of the family life of others. He is at his most sympathetic and most tender when confronted with personal tragedies that have occurred to his friends and political co-workers.

So deeply was Mackenzie

King involved in politics that he was able to rationalize his own political action as being above party politics, even when it must have been evident to all others that it was the astute kind of politicking.

Following a cold reception by the Conservatives in 1940 to his suggestion that representative members from the Opposition be associated with the War Committee of the Cabinet, Mr. King wrote in his diary:

"The truth of the matter is that these men cannot get politics out of their minds... have foolish suspicions, playing party politics for all it is worth..."

Then, the next morning, he blandly writes:

"...the attitude of the Opposition had left the Liberal Party wholly and absolutely responsible of itself and dependent on its majority from now on. It means that if our men stay solid, we need be concerned about nothing in the way of a continuation of power until 1945 if we so desire."

This strong self-assurance runs all through the diary. Mackenzie King is un-ingly sure of himself, whether he is rushing suddenly into the signing of an agreement after long wrangling or whether he is deliberately lying back, doing nothing, waiting for developments to resolve themselves.

His motto, though expressed in other words, is that there is a time for everything, and in politics, what might be the right thing to do in a given situation at one time is not the right thing to do at another.

It requires acute powers of discrimination to determine which time is which, and Mr. King has these powers. He says so himself.

Just about every facet of a vigorous and in some ways contradictory character is revealed in this diary.

The overall self-portrait is that of a man almost fanatically dedicated to advancing Canada as a country and to her role (as he saw it) during the war years) of keeping the United States and Great Britain on good terms.

HUGH DOHERTY

Intense and angry novel

THE GODDAM WHITE MAN—by David Lytton—Ambassador Books Ltd.—224 pages, $3.00—This is an intense little novel fully as bitter and as cutting as its title.

It is the life story of a 'successful' half breed in present day South Africa, and it probes underneath the surface of the tense social situation there to punch home some hard truths which would be just as unpalatable to the colored, voteless residents of the new republic as to the white man.

Main thesis of the book is that the inexorable forces at work in South Africa have created a situation for which there is no solution on either side.

"The vote won't make it any better," says Johannes, the novel's subject, writing for posterity. "The only thing that we need, two things really, are machine guns and fellows well-drilled to use them. Then one other thing is needed; but that will be there, I think, before the machine guns, that will be the cause of the machine guns being there and that thing is one man who can get things done, one man who can lead. Perhaps he is being born now while I write, born down there on the Flats in a pondokkie..."

This may well be a prophetic novel.

Johannes is smart and hard working. He hates all white people with a hate as unreasonable and as undying as the prejudice many white South Africans have for his kind.

He hates them because they are stupid, because not only will they not let a "colored" rise in their own business, they will not allow him to set one up for himself; because not only will they not allow him to swim at their beaches, they will not allow him to have beaches of his own.

But it should be pointed out that Johannes is not a native Negro. Born of a father and a Negro mother, he has almost as much contempt for the "kaffir"—black native—as for the white.

He obviously represents what author Lytton believes to be a new and potentially vigorous class in South Africa, perhaps eventually, the rulers of the republic.

Success for Johannes has been earned through the creation of a huge criminal organization that steals, and murders to raise funds to give its members a decent standard of living, and to send deserving "coloreds" to schools and universities.

And this is what feeds Johannes hate most—that the whites have barred every route to success save crime, and that he has been forced to take it to live like an ordinary person.

Attic voice is fascinating

A VOICE FROM THE ATTIC by Robertson Davies 360 pgs., McCLELLAND & STEWART...$5.00 To this reviewer A VOICE FROM THE ATTIC, is completely fascinating.

However, one must hasten to temper such enthusiasm by a few necessary warnings. First, it is quite possible that, although this book is ostensibly aimed at the reader, as opposed to the writer, some may find parts of it a little heavy going.

This unfortunately, is particularly true of its first chapter A CALL TO THE CLERISY.

To anyone who has been following Mr. Davies' writing, it is apparent that he has a "thing" about the clerisy and although his "call" to them does make very good sense, on the whole his presentation of it is a little too contrived for my taste.

Happily, once Mr. Davies gets off his clerisy soap-box, the book picks up a wonderful, sometimes even frolicking tempo - paced however, one is glad to say, with such splendidly concise and down-to-earth bits of writing and reading philosophy that one feels constrained to underline them for future reference.

Though Mr. Davies may at times seem to deplore the bawdiness of the modern novel as when he writes, "Are we to look forward to another decade or more of novels dealing with such romantic delights as rape, homosexuality, Lesbianism, incest and the furries of fighting men?" At the same time he is not so unaware of the subject most likely to open the purse of a reader of today as to leave sex out of his book entirely.

In fact it might be said that on the pretext of enlightening the reader he has in such chapters as IN PURSUIT OF PORNOGRAPHY and OIDIVIS NOT THEIR MASTER, gathered together in capsule but no less pungent form such books on sex and perversion as the ART OF LOVE written by Publius Ovidius

Naso in 2 B.C., Havelock Ellis' PSYCHOLOGY OF SEX, LOLITA and the inevitable LADY CHATTERLEY'S LOVER and handed them to the reader as a bouquet of Bacchanalia.

However, it is unfair to mention only these highly colored chapters and ignore, for instance, Robertson Davies' priceless comments on the self-help books where he takes potshots at the "fugitive from fat" as well as the "devotee of wifemanship." And then there is his amusing dissertation on THE HUE AND CRY AFTER A GOOD LAUGH in which, among other things, he traces the evolution of a joke from

ROBERTSON DAVIES

Joe Miller's JESTS written in the 17th century to its re-appearance in the repertoire of a modern T.V. comedian.

There is so much about so many things in A VOICE FROM THE ATTIC. There are books mentioned of which the average reader may never have heard. There may be thoughts called forth in the reading of this book of which the reader did not know himself capable.

In short this book will stimulate, elevate, titillate and perhaps frustrate - but I doubt if it will ever bore you.

ALOUETTES AND RIDERS CLASH IN SUDDEN-DEATH TILT

Coach Perry Moss claims he has "several new defensive wrinkles" to stop little Ronnie Stewart when the Als and the Rough Riders clash today at Lansdowne Park in Ottawa and for the sake of the Montreal club and their supporters we hope he is right.

The sudden-death tilt will commence at 1:00 EST and will be carried by national CBC television. Immediately after the TV viewers will have a chance to see the Eskimos and Stamps in action out West.

In the last encounter, between the Als and Riders, Stewart scored four touchdowns and set a Big Four record of 287 yards lugging the ball. So if the Moss crew hopes to meet the Argos in the finals they must "stop" Ronnie but at the same time they mustn't forget that the Riders have some other good men around.

Coach Frank Clair isn't taking things for granted. He has reminded his players that the Als are a hungry club and most important they've got Sam Etcheverry. The Rifle club break up the game very easily and Clair has been drilling his players at cutting down Sam's aerial might.

Moss is confident that his team can beat Ottawa but they will have to come up with their best game of the year, and they are ready to do it. We think that the breaks will be a big factor in the outcome and playing before their home crowd gives the Riders a slight edge.

Out West neither coach is giving anything away but the Eks hold a 23-point cushion for the second game of the total-point affair. The Stamps will be tough with nothing to lose and everything to win. Another case for a tough battle.

The Eks will be without fullback Normie Kwong, who is out with a pulled muscle but there is a possibility he may be around. As for the Stamps they lost two key men and this may make a big difference. No team can afford to lose top men at this time and not feel it.

See where the second game of the finals slated for Toronto has been moved to Sunday, Nov. 20, instead of Saturday as originally scheduled. Lew Hayman, Argos managing director, said a Sunday skirmish would increase the league playoff pool by an extra $25,000. So you can't blame the teams for going along with it.

As for today's tilt we have to go along with the Riders on their past record which shows them winning three out of four played and scoring 114 points to 99 but in a sudden-death tilt it is different. It is a case of the right team being up and having the ball bounce their way. So let's not count too much on the season record which favors Ottawa. Don't count the Als out as yet. It has all the earmarks of being a real old battle the whole way so stay around and watch.

See where the Mount Orford Ski Patrol is in Philadelphia to compete in the International First Aid Competition. It is quite an honor as they were one of the five units picked to represent Canada in the tournament. We hope they come home with the honors and even if they don't we think they deserve plenty of credit for their fine showing in being picked.

Curling is beginning to move into the spotlight once again which is an indication that winter is quickly moving in on us. The Sherbrooke Curling Club is holding their semi-annual meeting Thursday with a supper followed by a meeting. All members who intend to take it in are asked to contact George Chapman for reservations.

The Border Curling Club is opening the same evening with a special oyster feed and all new members are asked to be on hand as well as the old hands. Following the opening event the club will hold the competition for the Kirwin Trophy. This is an mixed tourney and should get the season off on the right foot.

In Sherbrooke we understand that those interested can toss some stones as things are pretty much in order. So curlers don't forget to give George Chapman a call to let him know you will be on hand and don't wait until Thursday afternoon to do it.

The current issue of Sports Illustrated has quite a story on Toronto's "Royal Horse Show" which opens the coming week. It certainly gives one an idea how wonderful a show it is. It combines the ingredients of regal atmosphere, fine horses and the pace of a Broadway revue all in one.

The Royal is rated as the most elegant and attractive show in North America and from the horseman's viewpoint it is tops. The traditional closing ceremony is really something to see with the beautiful colorful background and the riders in their radiant costumes. So if you have a chance don't miss reading the story, we are sure you will enjoy it.

Bob LeBel, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, will be in Sherbrooke Monday evening and will be guest speaker at a joint meeting of the Optimist and Progress Clubs at the New Wellington Hotel.

Bob is the first Canadian ever to hold the position with the Federation which is a world-wide organization. It comprises all the countries who compete in the World Hockey Games and is quite a body.

Bob is well known around the Townships having refereed here years ago. He then moved into the QARA and was president and then took over as the head of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and was named president of the International group last June in Rome. His talk should be very interesting Monday evening.

See where Sports College is coming out with a program for improved fitness in Canada for all ages. It has been prepared in illustrated form and is now available free. It can be obtained by writing, Sports College, Box 99, Toronto 1, Ont.

The Program is based on a survey of the established needs of Canadians and no doubt one will be surprised when you read it. The main idea behind it is to try and raise the standard of physical fitness in Canada and looking at the results of our teams in world competition you must admit we need something similar to this.

Depression Hockey League To Hold First Workout Monday Evening At 9.00, Fifty Players Have Signed

The Depression Hockey League will hold their first practice of the season Monday evening at the Arena. The workout is called for 9:00 and will last until 10:30.

It is reported that about fifty players will be on hand and they are all reminded that they must bring their own equipment. Any others, who meet the league rules, are invited to turn out and try for a berth in the four-club circuit.

Alan Giard, who is in charge of publicity for the league, wish to remind all new players that they must have been out of organized hockey for four years and over 27 years of age.

Among those who have signified their intentions of playing are, Dr. G. Rivard, Dr. B. Drapeau, G. Doyon, L. Breton, M. Morin, A. Tasse, J. P. Savard, C. Beaudoin, Gilles Savard, G. Dona-

Bill Dewitt is Named To Board Of Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bill Dewitt, new general manager of Cincinnati Reds, was appointed vice-president and a member of the board of directors Friday. Dewitt was named general manager last Wednesday. Previously he was president of the Detroit club of the American League.

Dewitt succeeded Gabe Paul, who resigned Oct. 25 to become general manager of the Houston club, which has been given a franchise in the National League.

It Is All Or Nothing For Als And Rough Riders

Clash In Sudden-Death Semi-Finals Today, Injuries May Hurt Roughies With Three Ends Out, Als All Set

OTTAWA — (CP) — A week of psychological warfare between two football coaches ends today when Montreal Alouettes and Ottawa Rough Riders butt heads at Lansdowne Park here to keep their Grey Cup hopes alive.

It is all or nothing for the two teams in the Big Four's sudden-death semi-final, winner of which will meet Toronto Argonauts in the league final.

League president Sam Berger of Ottawa said Friday night that if the teams are tied at the end of the regular 60 minutes, they will have a rest period of 10 minutes and then play two 10-minute quarters in an attempt to break the deadlock. The full two over-time quarters will be played.

If, after that, the teams are still tied, the game will be awarded to the team that had the highest standing during the regular season. This would be Riders, who finished second in the four-team circuit.

CLAIR CAUTIONS

Aware that everything hinges on today's effort, coach Frank Clair of Riders has played down Ottawa's superior season record and the fact that Als were defeated 63-27 by Toronto last Sunday.

Coach Perry Moss has promised Montreal will have new plays and with a forecast of a clear afternoon, 15-mile-an-hour winds and a temperature of about 45 degrees, he'll have near-ideal conditions to try them out.

Moss' main target is Rider searback Ron Stewart who found running room for four touchdowns around the Montreal ends in their Thanksgiving Day meeting, while turning up a Canadian single-game rushing record of 287 yards.

Rider injuries continue to be Clair's main worry in countering possible new Alouette plays.

He fears that injuries to three ends — Ted Smale, Jon Jelacic and Lou Bruce — will limit his power to adjust. Only Bruce will dress today and he is not expected to see much action.

"If they have some new shift, it'll take five minutes or so to counter it," says Clair.

ALS NEED INSPIRATION

With Moss, the drive has been to blot out memories of his team's past failings and to inspire his Larks with the confidence to tumble the titans of the regular schedule.

To bolster the effort, guard Jacki Simpson and tackle Bill Shipp will be back from the injured list.

Ottawa thieves came near to disrupting the whole Rider strategy Thursday night when they broke into the Lansdowne Park dressing rooms.

The club's got half-way out of the building with the club's projector and scouting films of the Alouettes before abandoning their loot in preference of a stock of $150 worth of cigars.

They also overcame a stack of the club's plays that had been left near the projector.

Bishop's Gaiters Travel To Ottawa To Clash With St. Patrick's College

Crippled by injuries to key players Bishop's Gaiters travel to Ottawa for a return encounter with St. Patrick's College today. Gaiters beat the Irish 21-15 in the first game played two weeks ago on the University field.

Last week's 25-0 shellacking by Loyola proved costly. Quarterback John Milligan injured his knee and Bob Stevenson reinjured his back. Both men will be out of the lineup this week-end.

Stepping in to call signals will be Bob Coates, former Sherbrooke High quarterback. Coates has spent his time so far this fall in a defensive halfback position and has performed creditably. Although relatively inexperienced, he has been handling the team well in practise this week.

What could prove most dangerous to Bishop's is the decline in spirit on the squad. Practises have been indifferently attended this week and morale is definitely not high.

This may be all that St. Pat's, basically a sound ball club, needs to pick up a victory. It will be remembered that it was three explosive breakaway runs that won for Bishop's last time, not general all-round excellence.

The Irish have a strong running game up the middle, as well as a potent passing attack which clicked for one of their touchdowns last game.

The game will probably go to the team that wants to win it most. The Irish left no doubt two weeks ago, after their defeat at Bishop's, that they will be fired up and ready to even the score this Saturday.

Black Hawks And Canadiens Meet In Important Tilt Tonight While Leafs Tangle With Rangers In Only Games

The Canadian clubs in the National Hockey League play only one game each this weekend but they are games which could affect their place in the standings.

Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens, who have been swapping first place like a hot potato, meet tonight in Montreal. Canadiens have a one-point lead on Hawks who have two games in hand.

In Toronto tonight the Maple Leafs tangle with New York Rangers. Leafs, with 13 points in 13 games—just three behind Montreal—could go ahead of Detroit Red Wings who have 13 points in 12 games for joint possession with Toronto of third spot.

Rangers are in the cellar with nine points on 12 games.

However, tomorrow Red Wings go against those same Rangers and, on form, figure to tie the whole thing up again with Leafs.

Chicago also gets a second chance tomorrow, taking on lowly fifth-place Boston.

Dodgers Plan To Switch Farm Club To Omaha

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Los Angeles Dodgers said Friday they planned to switch their St. Paul franchise in the American Association to Omaha.

Omaha dropped out of the American Association at the end of the 1959 season. It had been a St. Louis Cardinal farm.

The Dodgers had to move out of St. Paul because the American League recently voted to shift its Washington franchise to Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Boston Red Sox, who operated Minneapolis, also must relocate for 1961.

The association will lose Houston in 1962. That city recently was added to the National League after next season.

Dallas-Fort Worth, recently reported in line for a major league team, still is in the association. Others in the league are Denver, Indianapolis, Louisville and Charleston, W.Va.

Beavers At Home To Rockets Tomorrow, Vics Stage Their Home Debut

Coach Dube Looking For Victory To Put Them Back In Tie For First Spot, Three Rivers Signs Denis Brodeur

Sherbrooke Beavers will be gunning for a first place tie Sunday afternoon when they play host to the Drummondville Rockets at the local Arena. The tilt is slated to commence at 2:30.

This will be the second encounter between these teams this year. The Rockets posted a 5-1 victory on their home ice Thursday but Coach Dube hopes to reverse things tomorrow.

The Beavers held their own for two periods Thursday but in the final frame their condition let them down. After two periods the score was 2-0 and the Beavers posted a goal at the start of the stanza to reduce the margin but the better shape of the Rockets began to tell and they battled in three before it ended.

The Rockets knocked over the Beavers last year to win the championship of the Eastern Townships Intermediate Hockey League but only after a close series. The locals have added a few new players but they all lack conditioning. The Rockets are rolling along in fair shape having been practising for the past three weeks.

Coach Dube may make a few changes for tomorrow's tilt. Normie Dussault is gradually rounding into shape following his operation and it is expected he will be ready within a few days. Albert Moore is another doubtful starter as he is still far from being in good shape.

Moore only joined the team last week as the Beavers picked him up in a trade with the Rockets for Rod Goudreau. Coach Dube doesn't intend to start him until he is in good shape. The rest of the club came through without any serious injuries and should be ready to go.

The Beavers posted a 4-1 victory over the Granby Vics in their opening home debut and they will be put out to try and pick up another home victory to help their cause. The locals are two points in the rear of league-leading Rockets and a win will put them back in a tie at present they are deadlocked with Granby Vics in second position.

The Vics will be opening at home to the Lions of Three Rivers and after posting a 5-1 win over the Dugre clan in Three Rivers Tuesday evening will be after another victory in their first debut before their home fans.

Manager Del Dugre will have a new goalie in the nets Sunday in the person of Denis Brodeur. Last year he performed with the Montreal Meuniers of the defunct Laval Hockey League and his addition will add plenty of experience to the Lions in the nets.

Top-Ranking Iowa Hawkeyes Take On Minnesota In Key Clash, Big Ten And Rose Bowl Hopes Ride On Outcome

Iowa's top-ranked Hawkeyes take on third-ranked Minnesota today in a key clash highlighting the best and most important college football program of the year to date.

Big Ten and Rose Bowl hopes will be on the block in the nation's No. 1 game at Minneapolis. That's the way it is almost down the line for most members of the Top Ten in the first week of decisive November.

All-conquering Missouri (7-0), second-ranked, faces Colorado (5-1) at Columbia, Mo., in a game that could decide the Big Eight title.

Navy, ranked fourth, seventh-ranked Washington, eighth-ranked Tennessee, ninth-ranked Syracuse and tenth-ranked Rice all will have to fight for their lives against rugged opposition. Only fifth-ranked Ohio State (5-1), which is host to Indiana, and sixth-ranked Mississippi (6-0-1), which entertains Chattanooga, can breathe easily.

The Middles (7-0), headed by fleet, powerful Joe Bellino, are rated only a shade over Duke (5-1) of the Atlantic Coast Conference in that area's showpiece at Durham, N.C. The Sailors are being eyed by most of the bowl sponsors.

Washington (6-1) meets Southern California (3-3) in the battle of the Pacific coast. Each is 2-0 in the coast big five and this one at Los Angeles could be the decider for the title and the Rose Bowl loot.

Tennessee (5-0-1) invades Atlanta for a Southeastern Conference clash with three-beaten but still dangerous Georgia Tech (4-3).

Syracuse (6-1), its 16-game winning streak shattered by Pittsburgh last week, hopes to find the victory combination again against Army's strengthened Black Knights (5-2) at New York's Yankee Stadium. The defeated defending national champions are favored by a touchdown to keep in the running for a bowl bid. Pitt (3-2) is favored over Louisville Notre Dame (1-5).

Rice (5-1) journeys to Little Rock for a toss-up tilt with Arkansas (5-2) that could have a vital bearing on the Southwest Conference race and the Cotton Bowl nomination.

Yale tied with Princeton for the Ivy League lead with 4-0 records, are two-touchdown favorites to beat Pennsylvania (2-4) in the bowl at New Haven. Harvard (4-2), another Ivy hopeful with a 3-1 league record, visits Princeton.

Western Hockey League Presents Quite A Study In Contrast Between Goal-Tending With Vets And Rookies

By TOM WATT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Goal-tending offers a study in contrasts in the Western Hockey League this season with four rookies and four veterans at work with the eight clubs.

So far the rookies have fared as well as their more experienced opponents although it remains to be seen whether they will stand up to the long 70-game haul.

While they do, however, they'll give the fans something to get excited about.

Take George Wood of Vancouver Canucks, for instance. He's just 21, a Vancouver native and only a year out of junior ranks. His inexperience shows occasionally.

It was particularly obvious here during a game between the Canucks and Winnipeg Warriors, who have Harry Lumley in the nets. Lumley is a poised veteran with 16 years' experience in the National League and he makes few mistakes. But he has been beaten frequently because his support up front was weak.

PLENTY OF WORK

He lost to Wood in their meeting here, after overtime, but he played his position with cool efficiency and only the force of numbers beat him as Canucks outshot Warriors 40 to 23.

Wood, one of the few Vancouver-bred players in pro hockey, wasn't tested severely as his mates dug in to give him that little extra support they frequently will provide when they're not sure of the man behind them. But the rookie netminder gave his fans some anxious moments.

Twice he lost his stick in goal-mouth scuffles and several times he was caught far out of position — in contrast to the confident display by Lumley at the other end.

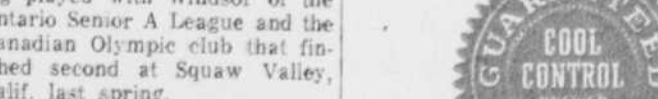

Similar scenes occur elsewhere in the league as Seattle Totems, Portland Buckaroos and Spokane Comets try newcomers in goal.

Jim McLeod joined the Totems from Vernon Canadians of the Okanagan Senior League and Carl Wetzel went to Spokane from Omaha of the International League to give the league three 21-year-old goalies.

Wetzel, born in Detroit and a product of minor leagues there before playing in Ontario Junior A competition, has about the toughest assignment — Comes finished last the previous season.

The oldest rookie netminder is Don Head, 27, with Portland. And he came with a wealth of senior amateur experience, having played with Windsor of the Ontario Senior A League and the Canadian Olympic club that finished second at Squaw Valley, Calif. last spring.

Knowlton High School basketball squads, senior and intermediate, swept an interscholastic series with Cowansville Friday, October 28.

Seniors emerged victors over Cowansville, 69-43, while in the Intermediate class, Knowlton posted 53-4 verdict.

Both of these games were exhibition games.

Princess Elizabeth High School soccer team tangled with Drummondville at Windsor this morning for the league title.

Sutton High School and Granby High split a basketball bill Tuesday evening at Sutton. The intermediates won their fixture while the visiting seniors walked off with their fixture. Both games were close affairs.

Judges Named In Dow Football Press Awards

MONTREAL — Three outstanding personalities in sports and journalism were named today as judges for the Dow Football Press Awards competition which closes December 3, 1960.

Named to the judging panel for the writing section were Frank J. Shaughnessy, Montreal, President of the International League of Baseball Clubs; Leo Dandurand, Montreal, prominent sportsman and former president of the Montreal Alouettes, Eastern Football Conference and Canadian Hockey Club; and John Leslie Wilde, London, Dean of the School of Journalism, University of Western Ontario.

Still to be named are judges for the photography competition who will be drawn from the membership of the Art Directors Club of Montreal.

Winners will be announced in January, 1961, and first, second and third place Awards will be presented, for both French and English game coverage and feature stories or columns covering Big Four football during the regular and playoff series.

First, second and third Awards will be made for the most exciting Big Four football pictures published during 1960.

Edmond Tobin Elected President Of St. Francis Badminton Association; Sherbrooke Regt. Club Opens Today

Edmond Tobin was elected president of the St. Francis Valley Badminton Association at the group's annual meeting held recently in Windsor Mills.

Following the election of officers the plans for the coming season were announced and heading the list of events will be an open tournament to be held in Magog. This tournament, date of which will be announced soon, will be sponsored by the O'Keefe Brewing Company and will be sanctioned by the St. Francis Valley Badminton Association.

Other officers elected for the coming season were: Garth Smith, athletic director of Bishop's University, who will be the vice-president; Gordon Harmer, who was re-elected tournament director assisted by George Corbiere of Magog. Mrs. Lucille LeSalleur of East Angus was re-elected secretary-treasurer and this hard-working executive received a vote of thanks from all those attending the meeting for the fine work she did the past season.

The Sherbrooke Regiment Badminton Club holds their official opening today. Magog has been opened for about a month and 14 other clubs in the district should all be open by this week.

The Eastern Townships senior closed championships will be held at Bishop's University, sometime in March. The Sherbrooke club will hold an open tournament soon and the Victoriaville club will hold an open tournament in January. The junior tournament will be held in Sherbrooke in March or April. The exact dates of all tournaments will be forwarded to the various clubs in the district within the near future.

Dick Stewart, president of the Sherbrooke Regiment Badminton Club, is looking forward to a large turnout today at the Williams Street Armory. This year the executive has planned several interesting events for the members.

Plans for a $38,000,000, 25,000 seat arena were announced Thursday. Admiral John J. Bergen, chairman, and Irving Felt, president of Graham-Paige Corporation, which owns the Garden, said the new centre probably will be ready by 1964.

Battle is shaping up on 'wired' television

OTTAWA (CP) — A battle is shaping up over the so-called "wired" television systems in Canada. It will probably take place before a Commons committee.

Privately-owned TV stations are seeking a legislative change to bring the country's 250 community antenna systems and pay-as-you-view operations under control of the Board of Broadcast Governors.

Such a change would mean that the wired systems, now feeding mostly American programs by coaxial cable to their subscribers, would have to cancel many of these shows to abide by the BBG's Canadian-content regulations.

Vigorous opposition is expected from the antenna and coin-box companies.

Key to the dispute is the 1958 broadcasting act, which defines broadcasting, in part, as "the wireless transmission of writing, signs, signals, pictures and sounds of all kinds... intended to be received by the public."

FREE OF REGULATIONS

Thus any TV operation using coaxial cable is excluded. It is free of the long list of statutory provisions and regulations applying to radio and TV stations.

The position of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters—representing most private TV stations—is that the same controls should apply to the same end result, namely the picture on the viewer's screen, no matter how it gets there.

Unfair competition also is pleaded by the C.A.B. It says the wired systems may carry as many American shows as they like, while TV stations will be required to attain 45 per cent Canadian content by next April and 55 per cent a year later.

Main arguments expected from the wired TV companies is this: Any TV viewer can put up his own rooftop antenna—it's his right. How then can Parliament or the BBG prevent a group of viewers from linking their sets by coaxial cable to one community antenna or the studios of a coin-box operation?

The C.A.B. intends to raise the issue before the select Commons committee on broadcasting, scheduled to meet soon after the Nov. 17 opening of Parliament.

CBC BACKS BROADCASTERS
Supporting its case will be the publicly-owned CBC. A corporation spokesman says that although the CBC is not affected competitively by the wired systems, it understands the private broadcasters' complaint and will back it.

It is understood that the issue has been discussed by the C.A.B. and representatives of the wired systems with the governors and the transport department. But no decision has been reached. More meetings are scheduled during the next several weeks.

At present, there is only one pay-as-you-view system in Canada—the Trans-Canada Telemeter Limited operation, supplying 5,700 homes in Etobicoke, on the northwestern edge of Toronto. For $1 in change dropped into a coin box attached to their own TV sets, viewers get a full-length movie unbroken by commercials.

Each $5 installation gives the viewer three channels. Two of them are devoted to first-run movies and operate only in the evening. The third is for sports and other events not shown on free TV, late-night movies and some free daytime programs.

MANY COMMUNITY SYSTEMS

Community antennae are a different matter. In the last five years more than 250 have sprung up across Canada, some in cities and some outside, with anywhere from a couple of dozen to a few thousand subscribers.

There are some in every province. Quebec has the most. By placing an antenna on one of its many hilltops, good TV signals can be picked up from stations on both sides of the St. Lawrence.

In many cases these antennae are erected in areas where residents otherwise wouldn't get good TV reception—or reception of any kind. But recently many others have been erected in cities, as the financial success of the enterprise has become established.

SOAPBOX ORATORY — A "Hyde Park Corner" has been thrown open Sundays to would-be orators in Victoria's Beacon Hill Park. Here is one of them in action — W. A. (Bill) Scott, colorful Victoria second hand dealer who has run unsuccessfully for civic office and once operated a lighthouse off the China Coast. Despite a downpour many Victorians turned out to see the show involving a number of soap-boxers and seemed amused by it all.
