NDP announces a Sherbrooke County candidate

Opposition is set, slates are complete

The four political parties have completed their Sherbrooke County line-ups for the June 25 federal general election with the announcement from New Democratic Party headquarters in Montreal that Dr. Jean-Paul Blouin, a local optometrist, would be the party candidate.

He will face the three candidates already nominated — Liberal Paul Gervais, Conservative Dr. Alexandre Kindy and Creditiste Adelard Larose.

But before nominations close on June 10, the list is expected to expand further with the entry of one or more independents of one variety or another.

One important development took place yesterday when a group of Liberals, apparently dissatisfied with the operation of the convention which nominated Mr. Gervais, decided to seek what they described as a strong man to join the contest as a straight independent.

Representations were made to Roger Gingues, Liberal candidate in 1965, to present himself but the latter said he would delay his decision until the beginning of next week.

Campaign 68
by Cuthbert Jones
(Record Staff Writer)

"I do not want to disappoint those who are supporting me," he told the Record this morning, "but there are many factors that must be considered, especially when it involves running as an independent without party support."

Mr. Gingues, who had been a candidate for the Liberal party nomination, withdrew from the race a few days before the convention, claiming that the convention was not democratic, with only 223 electors out of a possible 50,000 being eligible to vote.

Actually only 168 delegates turned up at the convention which gave the nod to Paul Gervais over his only opponent, Jean Tardif.

But the discontent over convention procedures apparently is not confined to the Liberal party and considerable dissatisfaction is being expressed among Conservatives over the manner in which the convention delegates were selected.

There has been no definite indication that an independent may be sponsored by the malcontents but many of the old-timers have indicated they might work for the Creditiste candidate or might even throw their lot in with the dissident Liberals behind a non-party independent.

Dr. Kindy won the Conservative nomination by a narrow margin over Yves Comtois.

For a time reports were current that Gerard Chapdelaine, Social Credit MP for Sherbrooke from 1962 to 1965 but defeated as an Independent in 1965, might consider a comeback effort.

De Gaulle staying on, dissolves assembly

BULLETIN

From AP-Reuters

PARIS (CP) — President de Gaulle said today he is not resigning and is keeping Premier Georges Pompidou. He said he is dissolving the National Assembly.

Speaking vigorously on the national radio network after a cabinet meeting, de Gaulle said he is postponing a referendum on his proposed reforms in the economy and universities. The referendum had been scheduled for June 16. He gave no new date.

PARIS (CP) — France today awaited word from President de Gaulle which could settle the fate of the government and the entire Gaullist regime.

Paris buzzed with rumors following the 77-year-old president's sudden unexplained departure for his country home Wednesday. Many people believed he may announce his resignation or call a general election in place of his planned referendum June 16.

The president will return to Paris from Colombey-Les-Deux-Eglises this afternoon to preside over a meeting of the cabinet postponed from Wednesday.

Gaullist sources warned it would be premature to suppose that the president was ready to surrender without a fight, but the possibility the planned referendum might be abandoned in favor of general elections gained ground in informed circles.

Informed sources said the president could decide to ask the cabinet today to allow Premier Georges Pompidou to put his government's authority to the test in a National Assembly debate immediately following the meeting.

THREATEN BOYCOTT

Pompidou will make a statement to the assembly after the cabinet meeting and the opposition has threatened a boycott if there is no vote on the debate, which would be in effect a censure debate.

Should the president decide on this course, the sources said, there could be little doubt that the government would be defeated, leaving the way clear for elections.

While the president deliberated in the country, left wing plans to replace him took a major step forward when former premier Pierre Mendes-France indicated he would be willing to head a provisional government set up by the united left wing.

Mendes-France told reporters: "I shall not refuse the responsibilities which the united left may confer on me."

PM Trudeau promises clear foreign policy

OTTAWA (CP) — A pragmatic approach to Canada's role in international affairs will be emphasized in a review of foreign policy promised by Prime Minister Trudeau as an election pledge.

He issued a 2,500-word statement Wednesday, which External Affairs Minister Sharp elaborated on at an afternoon news conference.

The nub of the proposal, Mr. Sharp said, is that Canada will jack up its bilateral relations with individual countries, mainly in Europe but including Communist China.

It will mean dealing with Britain, France, and other individual countries more syytematically than in the past when Canada's foreign relations have mainly swung on membership in such international bodies as the United Nations, the Commonwealth, and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Mr. Sharp said the Commonwealth role is changing in the world, but it is still an international association through which Canada can gain much in discussions with other countries of varying racial backgrounds.

POLICY TO BE REVIEWED

A special group in the government has been assigned the job of reviewing foreign policy, but the study will not be limited to the civil service. The government, Parliament, and ultimately the general public will be brought into the review.

It has no specific target date for completion. Various aspects of it may be dealt with at various times.

News in brief

Shift talks?

PARIS (AP) — The Vietnam peace talks which the French welcomed less than a month ago may have to be shifted away from Paris in the next few weeks if France's domestic crisis continues.

So far Ambassadors W. Averell Harriman and Xuan Thuy and their delegations have gone about their meetings without interruption or any serious inconvenience. They live and work in a world apart from the demonstrations of students and workers, the street battles in the Latin Quarter, and the political agonies of a Society in rebellion.

Out of control

INGONISH BEACH, N.S. (CP) — One of Nova Scotia's most scenic areas was being courged by a runaway forest fire early today as flames ripped through the thick woodlands on nearby Cape Smoky just south of the entrance to Cape Breton Highlands National Park.

Four houses and two barns were destroyed in the nearby Wreck Cove area and other homes were being threatened.

Doesn't expect

Burnaby, N.C. (CP) — The Canadian Association of University Teachers Wednesday censured Simon Fraser University but the universits said it does not expect any trouble in retaining or recruiting teachers.

The CAUT's action, announced in Ottawa, followed investigation of differences between administration and faculty at SFU. And differences continued Wednesday night after blacklisting was announced.

Day in court

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two unemployed carpenters were to appear in magistrate's court today on charges laid Wednesday night in the kidnapping Tuesday of socialite Dallis Boultbee, 53.

Charles William Godfrey, 53, and Wilfred Edward Redlac, 37, were arrested after Mrs. Boultbee was found alive late Tuesday, in a bush area in the city where she had been held 16 hours.

Did the Scorpion get through?

NORFOLK, Va. — (AP)—The massive search for the atomic submarine Scorpion and her 99-man crew centred off the Virginia Capes today after receipt of a radio signal from a sender identifying itself as the missing craft.

A patrol plane and six ships reported picking up Wednesday night a "very clear" signal. But a naval spokesman said early today "it could be a hoax."

Cmdr. T. L. Ingraham, public affairs officer of the Atlantic Fleet's submarine force, also told a news conference, however: "The navy still maintains hope."

The submarine, missing since Monday, is the object of the greatest air-sea search ever mounted by the navy—10,000 men, 55 ships and 30 planes.

The radio message was picked up when the patrol plane receiving it was 110 miles east of Norfolk. Search units were concentrated in an area stretching from 110 miles to more than 300 miles east of Norfolk. But no further radio transmissions were reported.

'THIS IS SCORPION'

The sole message said: "Any station this network. This is and then gave the code name for the Scorpion."

The navy said the code name has been repeated numerous times in communications among the search force ships and planes.

Ingraham said the navy did not definitely believe the message came from the Scorpion. He added it could have come from a shore radio.

The Pentagon previously cautioned against overoptimism that a dramatic development had occurred. Like Ingraham, the Pentagon said the message could have been a hoax.

One of the naval craft picking up the message took a bearing of 75 degrees on the signal. But because no other ship could get a second bearing, there was no fix—or point of transmission-available.

Ingraham said: "It is extremely doubtful that a transmission of this type could be originated by a submarine that may be submerged or bottomed in that vicinity"—the general area where the signal was heard.

'SUB WOULD SURFACE'

He said the Scorpion "certainly would know a search was in progress for her" and "she would be on the surface" transmitting.

Mediator could break deadlock

MONTREAL (CP) — The new national president of the 14,000-member Canadian Union of Postal Workers said Wednesday he thinks federal mediator Judge Rene Lippe is the key to a possible settlement of the present government-union deadlock.

William Houle, 50, elected to his $13,000-a-year post at the third and last day of the 10th triennial convention of the union, said in an interview:

"I have few hopes for success in conciliation. The only one who could speed up talks and possibly get a settlement is Judge Lippe. He's a very fast man with a decision and he could avert a strike by forcing the employer to accept some of our terms."

"He can help a lot because he's not tied down by any legislation or set procedures."

The convention previously voted in favor of a legal strike if present conciliation procedures are exhausted with no agreement reached. Strike ballots went out Wednesday to the CUPW membership and the 10,000 members of the Letter Carriers Union of Canada, with which the CUPW is negotiating jointly.

Referring to controversy over the earliest legal time for a strike, Mr. Houle said:

"The exact date is immaterial. What does matter is that we will be going out unless something happens in the way of an agreement."

Talks between the joint union council and the government broke down April 25. The union asked for a conciliation board the next day.

The CUPW quickly named its representative to the three-man conciliation board—Ben Coffey of the Civil Service Association of Ontario.

Wednesday, the treasury board said a CPR vice-president, Keith Campbell of Winnipeg, is the government nominee.

Urges new anti-pollution attack

By PETER VERRAL
(Record Staff Reporter)

A Sherbrooke resident has outlined a bold, fresh approach to combat water pollution on both a city and province-wide basis that would be implemented over a 50-year period.

Louis - Georges Carignan, former president of the Association Quebecoise des Techniques de l'Eau (AQTE), outlined his proposal to the Quebec Section of the American Water Works Association at a meeting last December 15 in Drummondville.

A special task force was named to study the proposal, and a preliminary report was tabled in late February at the annual congress of the AQTE held in Quebec City.

The group hopes to present a formal report to the Quebec government within a year.

Last year, the consulting engineer firm of Carignan and Charron made a preliminary study on purification of the city's used water which included the possibility of constructing a sewage treatment plant.

Mr. Carignan agreed with a recent remark by Mayor Nadeau that it was the forecasted cost of constructing the plant, between $10 and $15 million, and not the actual construction that was holding up plans.

"The problem of financing a sewage treatment plant is not peculiar to Sherbrooke; it is the case with all the municipalities," Mr. Carignan said. And, it is hoped his 50-year proposition to fight water pollution will provide a constructive and practical guide as to how finances can be raised for the construction of sewage treatment plants and collectors.

Collectors are main trunk sewage pipes that collect sewage from branch pipes throughout a city and direct it to the sewage treatment plant.

Mr. Carignan said some $800 million is presently needed in Quebec for the construction of collectors and sewage treatment plants for municipalities only. He also said 70 per cent of pollution is caused by industry.

Mr. Carignan, a youthful-looking man with a greying brush cut, welcomed the opportunity to outline his proposal.

"Suppose we set a deadline," for the construction of collectors and plants, by 1970," he said. "We would then have to start on a province wide scale with all those causing pollution paying their share for the pollution they caused."

Pollution problems in the E. T.
(Fourth of Six)

Mr. Carignan admitted it was obvious at this point that municipalities cannot afford to pay for such a crash program. "Therefore it should be done over a 50-year period and in this way we would get the finances from all the different sources who are responsible for fighting pollution."

He narrowed the "different sources" down to four major ones: municipalities, industry, provincial and federal government.

Mr. Carignan said the municipalities would be responsible for providing finances for the collectors. "On a 50-year period this wouldn't be too much as the municipality could perhaps pay one-fiftieth of the total cost each year."

As far as industry goes, it would be asked to contribute whether it was located in the city or on the outskirts. "Each industry would be expected to bear the cost of treating its own waters," he explained.

He emphasized throughout the discussion that the 50-year plan was solely concerned with the financing of the sewage

About television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The most talked-about series of the new television season is a situation comedy called Julia, about a young Negro woman, played by singer Diahann Carroll.

The show is still four months away from its premier, and only the pilot has been filmed. But already it is the cause of controversy. In a Saturday Review article titled Julia: Breakthrough or Letdown? Robert Lewis Shayon criticized the project for failing to deal with the "two target groups in American life— Negro youth and Negro men."

Shayon noted that the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders reported that unemployment is not a problem with Negro women; the real problem is Negro youth "hustling in the jungle" of their "crime - ridden, violence - prone and poverty-stricken world," many of them deprived of the presence of the "solid citizen" father.

NO MESSAGE

"The Negro female accommodates to the white power structure; the Negro male is aggressive in his demands for responsibility, and such aggression would hardly be welcome in a TV series," said the writer.

Miss Carroll was recently in Hollywood briefly to hunt for a home before starting the NBC series, which was created and produced by Hal Kanter for 20th Century-Fox. She was scornful of the Shayon article.

"I'm sure if I were to review a book he wrote, I would read it first," she commented. "I would think that he might give us the courtesy of seeing our show before he criticized it."

Despite her concern with the civil rights movement, she feels that Julia should not necessarily be devoted to Negro aspirations.

AVOID RACIAL LINES

"We're dealing with an entertainment medium," she remarked." Julia is a drama-comedy; it isn't politically oriented. Because I am black, that doesn't mean I have to deal with the problems of all black people. That's not my sole responsibility."

In the series Miss Carroll will portray Julia Baker, a young nurse whose flyer husband has recently been killed in Vietnam action. She has a young son, and they go to live in a pleasant, predominantly white apartment building. Julia is employed as assistant to a doctor, played by Lloyd Nolan, at a space plant.

When it was suggested that Julia might seem divorced from reality in not coming to grips with racial problems, the actress replied:

"But all TV is divorced from reality. The Beverly Hillbillies don't go back and show you the life they came from in the Ozarks; their business is to make people laugh. The origin of such people was shown in an old Henry Fonda picture, Grapes of Wrath but that was something else.

"It isn't our business to 'tell it as it is. Look at East Side, West Side. That series set out to do just that, and it only lasted a short time. Maybe it was too grim. Maybe people just don't want to see things like that after they've had a pretty grim day themselves."

Friends of Mrs. Bessie Dunsmore were sorry to hear she suffered a fall in her home and was taken to the home of Mrs. Locke, East Angus, where she is being cared for.

Flowers on the altar of St. Paul's Church on May 12 were in memory of James Royer, given by his wife and family.

Miss Lucy Bown, St. Bruno, spent the weekend at her home here. Mrs. C. E. S. Bown, Toronto, who has been visiting friends in the Eastern Townships, was a weekend guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Thos. Bown and nephew Charles Bown. While in the vicinity Mrs. Bown attended the graduation ceremonies at the Sherbrooke Hospital.

Committal services were held on May 13 in the Anglican Cemetery when the ashes of the late Mrs. Ethel Pope Klock, and those of her son, Compton, were interred in the grave of their husband and father, Robert Klock, with Rev. M. Jones officiating. Those from out of town attending the burial, were Mrs. O. L. Pope and daughter, Connie, Montreal.

A meeting of the Bown cemetery committee was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Watson, Canterbury; Charles Bown, secretary-treasurer, read the minutes and gave the financial statement, which was most satisfactory. Several generous donations have been received in recent months. Mr. Erwin Watson was re-elected president, Mr. Prentice Jacklin vice president and Charles Bown, secretary - treasurer. Plans were made to hold a bee for cleaning up the cemetery, shortly. The care of the cemetery will be done as usual, with each member of the committee doing a share of the mowing.

Mrs. Winnifred Kirkpatrick has returned home after spending a few days in Bishopton, guest of Mr. and Mrs. Theron Bennett and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sawyer and family, Lennoxville, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Herring. Mr. Lyle Herring, Bishopton, was also a caller at the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Atkins are spending a few days visiting relatives in northern Ontario.

Melbourne

Brigadier Roy Sargent, Nanaimo, B.C., spent several days a guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Mills and daughter, Sandra, Town of Mount Royal, were Mother's Day guests of Mrs. L. M. Fee, who returned with them to their home where she spent a few days.

Hi-jackers make off with van containing 500 cases of liquor

COATICOOK (Staff) — In the early hours of yesterday morning, a small group of hi-jackers, believed to be from Montreal, made off with a Coaticook Express van here containing close to $60,000 worth of merchandise, made up largely of 500 cases of liquor.

The Coaticook Branch of the Quebec Provincial Police, who investigated the incident Wednesday morning, disclosed that the van was headed towards Montreal and added QPP detachments were sent there to locate the truck.

After a routine investigation, the QPP came up with a few more details of the daring robbery.

Apparently, the out-of-town gang had broken into the Coaticook Express office and stolen the keys to the truck which was parked on the street in front of the office. They then drove down Route 22 towards Montreal.

No witnesses have yet turned up but the incident took a strange twist an hour or so later when a Montreal van was stopped by a municipal policeman for speeding.

The QPP speculated that this second truck may have been used as a decoy to divert the chase from the original hijackers.

Apart from this, no clues concerning the identity of the criminals were picked up.

SAFETY PROGRAM LAUNCHED — Claude Dufresne, left, director of public relations for the Quebec Automobile Club shows Windsor police chief Lorenzo Houle and Sherbrooke's Police Director Edouard Moreau the club's slogan for its summer safety program at last night's press luncheon in the King George Hotel. The police chiefs from five neighboring towns were special guests as the QAC outlined its new program for summer holiday traffic safety.

Quebec Auto club wants to bring 'em back alive in 1968

"Bring 'em back alive."

Wielding this forceful slogan, the Quebec Automobile Club roared into Sherbrooke last night, feting representatives of local TV, radio, and the press to a supper at the King George Hotel, and outlining its plans to make this summer a safer one for Quebec motorists.

Also on hand to launch the program in the area were the police chiefs of four neighboring towns as well as Sherbrooke. The Brass of the Blue included Chief Lorenzo Houle of Windsor Mills, Chief Yves Alix of Marieville, Chief Andre Phaneuf of East Angus, Chief Vital Guertin of Black Lake, and Sherbrooke's Police Director Edouard Moreau.

The club's public relations boss, Claude Dufresne, put forward the program of the association which he represents, while reminding all motorists that Quebec has the greatest highway fatality rate in the country.

Year after year, Quebec leads the pack, even surpassing Ontario where there are nearly one million more vehicles on the road.

Mr. Dufresne explained this chilling statement by the fact that traffic laws in Quebec are generally much more lax than in the other provinces. To alleviate this situation, the club is appealing to police chiefs throughout the entire province to clamp down more severely on careless drivers.

The Automobile Club has already held similar press briefings in Quebec City and Trois Rivieres and today plans to carry its message to the eyes and ears of Chicoutimi.

This program of summer highway safety, explained Mr. Dufresne, originated in the United States seven years ago. Slowly it penetrated into Canada by way of Southern Ontario, then drifted out west to Alberta and B.C. and finally reached Quebec.

Then Mr. Dufresne commented further: "The facts are, four out of every five traffic accidents occur within 25 miles of the drivers' home, at speed less than 40 miles an hour. Modern roadways and defensive driving make long-distance driving increasingly safer."

The Quebec Automobile Club then, he explained, was concentrating on warning the driver about those first 25 miles with which he feels he is so well acquainted and thus exercises less caution.

The program, however, would not "play on fear". Rather, it would strive to acquaint the driver with his vehicle and teach him how to react in tight situations.

Six major points were emphasized. First, plan your route in advance, have reservations in hand early; second, show exceptional caution and courtesy on the roads; third, fasten all seat belts; fourth, keep within posted speed limits; fifth, avoid passing whenever possible; and finally, make a stop every two hours.

The driver should be well rested, the children should be continually distracted by games or other means so the driver can concentrate and the latter should not let himself be aggravated by other drivers.

Through this program, which is sponsored by CAA-AAA affiliated automobile clubs across the nation, the QAC hopes to radically decelerate the rising death toll on our highways and make the summer holidays safer.

The French Canadian slogan "Au revoir a lundi" is perhaps the most appropriate. "So long until Monday," if this program is truly successful, would then be more of a salutation than a wish.

Jonquiere man nets one-month sentence for theft in Brompton

Judge Roland Dugre sentenced Robert Gagnon, of Jonquiere, about 40-years-old, to one month in jail yesterday when the accused pleaded guilty to a charge of theft in the court of sessions.

Gagnon had stolen $45 in cash from the Fabrique de St. Denis in Brompton in February, 1967.

Crown prosecutor Stanley Steinman told the Court Gagnon had recently been released from jail and had a lengthy record.

Gagnon stated he had been in jail for the past four months.

Maurice Renaud and Michel Paquette, both 19 years old and from Montreal, will appear June 5 pro forma on a charge of breaking and entering with theft.

They are accused of breaking into the Leo Champagne Service Station in Melbourne and stealing $40 in cash, tools, a transistor radio and 73 packages of cigarettes. The value of the stolen goods is about $150.

The theft occurred on the night of May 23.

They stated they had retained a lawyer, Robert Lemieux, of Montreal, who was taking over their case.

Mrs. Georges Mesnil represented her husband, owner of the Restaurant a La Bonne Fourchette, and pleaded guilty to a charge of omitting to submit a sales tax report for the months of February and June, 1967.

Judge Dugre fined the restaurant owner $25 on each charge and costs.

Roger Gagnon, age unknown, of Windsor Mills, pleaded guilty to failing to submit all necessary information to the Unemployment Insurance commission when applying for benefits.

He was fined $25 and costs.

Arena turned down

COATICOOK — (Staff) — Citizens here turned a decisive thumbs down yesterday in a referendum vote for a 250,000 indoor ice arena.

Mayor Charles E. Audet, who has referred to the arena as "a must", was noticeably dejected by the outcome of the vote.

"As far as I am concerned," he said, "I'm hurt .Not for myself but for the good of the town and the benefit of the children."

The mayor said it was too early to tell if another effort will be launched to construct the arena but added, "There might still be another way out."

Apparently Couillard Construction Company had already been approached to build the arena which was to have been constructed in the municipal park.

Mayor Audet said one possible factor leading to the defeat of the proposed 1,000 foot indoor arena was the fact tenants were not allowed to vote according to a town bylaw.

He explained there are more tenants than property owners.

The mayor said, "I'm sure the people didn't understand the importance of the referendum".

In a telephone conversation yesterday Mayor Audet had referred to Coaticook, about 20 miles south of Sherbrooke, as a "sports town."

Farmer seek higher prices for farm produce

All the farmers in the Eastern Townships have been invited to meetings to organize assemblies in Quebec where they are waging "Operation Unblock", an effort to prod the government to quicker action on raising the sales prices of farm products.

The meetings will be held simultaneously on Thursday, May 30 at 8:30 p.m. in Bromptonville (Town Hall), at Ham North, Weedon, Lake Megantic (Fatima Hall), Coaticook (St. Marc Hall), La Patrie, Racine, Eastman and Sawyerville.

The laws to amend the prices of farm products is presently under study and has been for many months. The farmers are impatient.

It was a busy year for Junior Red Cross

NORTH HATLEY — (Staff) The present 1967-68 academic year has been a busy one for North Hatley High School Junior Red Cross members.

Early last fall the students launched a project to aid Indian and Eskimo children. This was the major project of the fall and winter term.

This morning President Judy Price and Secretary Geraldine Wilson officially presented two playpens and a maple rocker to Sherbrooke Hospital.

The equipment was purchased from a $100 fund raised by club members. The hospital project was the main goal of this spring term.

Last fall, the North Hatley members held a Hallowe'en party for children who collected funds for UNICEF. At Christmas the students sent gifts to the children at Maplemount Home, Cookshire.

This year the members have knuckled down to such projects as purchasing eyeglasses for two needy children, and supplying food for a needy North Hatley family.

The Junior Red Cross members raised money by sponsoring record hops, a penny race, an auction sale and a Red Cross tea.

President, Judy Price; vice-president, Elizabeth Miller; secretary, Geraldine Wilson; treasurer, Galen Nutbrown; Grade 3 representative, Rocky Mathers; Grade 4 representative, Brenda Bryant; Grade 5 representative, Linda MacDonald; Grade 6 representative, Brenda Hartwell; Grade 7 representative, Mary Smith; Grade 8 representative, Patsy Gilbert; Grade 9 representative, Phyllis Robinson; Grade 10 representative, Joan Swallow; Grade 11 representative, Judy Deacon; staff advisor, Mrs. N. Pike.

Hussars have honorary chief

Brigadier General John Herbert Price, OBE, MC, ED, on the Canadian Armed Forces retired list, has been named Honorary Colonel of The Sherbrooke Hussars, RCAC. The appointment, was announced by the National Defence Minister Leo Cadieux.

BGEN Price's military career began as a cadet at Bishop's College School in Lennoxville. He attended the Royal Military College in Kingston, and was commissioned in 1916 with the Royal Regiment of Artillery. During 1917 he served with the 15th Scottish Division, and was wounded at Paschaendale. In 1918, with the 10th Battery, R.F.A., he earned the Military Cross.

During the Second World War, BGEN Price recruited the 1st (Hong Kong) Battalion of the Royal Rifles of Canada in 1940-41, and served as the Regiment's second-in-command in Canada and Newfoundland.

In 1941 he was promoted to commanding officer, during the battle of Hong Kong, when he was taken prisoner of war, and held until V-E Day, 1945. Following his release, BGEN Price was appointed Brigadier of the 11th Infantry Brigade.

PRICE

In 1961 and 1962, BGEN Price was a delegate to the 16th and 17th Sessions of the United Nations, and Canadian representative on the fifth (Administrative and Budgetary) Committee of the UN. His next appointment with the UN was to President of the United Nations Association in Canada.

In business, BGEN Price retired as vice-president of Price Brothers and Co. Ltd. of Quebec, with whom he was associated between 1920 and 1947. He is presently president of J. H. Price and Associates Ltd., and a director of Saguenay Power Co., Robert McAlpine and Sons (Canada), J. H. Minet and Co. (Canada), and C.H.R.C. Ltd., Quebec.

Brigadier General and Mrs. Price live in Montreal and Magog.

Canada no tax haven,

U.S. writer discovers

Sometimes it is good, as paraphrasing the Scottish Bard, to see ourselves as others see us and Canadian government leaders might do well to study a syndicated editorial appearing in a number of United States newspapers which — unfortunately this time— indicates that the writer has taken the pains to document his facts.

He opens by advising his readers: If you are past draft age but still entertain occasional thoughts of fleeing to Canada to escape not selective service but the tax collector, forget.

And he goes on to explain:

Increases in income, sales, gasoline and diesel fuel, tobacco, liquor, motor vehicle and other taxes have been hiked in eight of Canada's 10 provinces so far this year.

Quebec has slapped a six per cent surcharge on the income tax of individuals and doubled the capital tax on corporations. Newfoundland has upped its corporation tax rate for the third time in two years.

As for the ubiquitous sales tax, it has been notched up another percentage point to five per cent in Saskatchewan and seven per cent in Newfoundland.

Seven provinces have raised their gasoline taxes, by from one to three cents a gallon — except for Newfoundland, whose five-cent boost brings it to a total of 25 cents a gallon, the highest in either Canada or the United States.

Five provinces have made it easier this year to kick the smoking habit. Ontario led the way with an increase from two cents to six cents on a package of cigarettes.

You're just going to Canada to fish and see the scenery, you say?

Well, the writer points out, Ontario plans numerous increases in fees and licenses — an ominous note for tourists, campers, anglers, hunters and just plain nature lovers.

Canadians may get some satisfaction from the knowledge that Americans have their problems with taxes, but clearly this country cannot advertise itself as a tax-dodger's haven.

Summer fun: some lie on the beach, others on the golf course.

Big stride--backwards

To the ordinary individual its subject matter may be the dead and dusty but, as a field of research, archeology is among the most lively and productive on the scene today.

The diggers, thanks in large part to radioactive carbon dating and other boosts from modern technology, keep pushing back the beginning and adding new chapters to man's cultural story.

Recent discoveries in the United States and Mexico put man in the Americas a good many years earlier than long had been thought.

And on the other side of the world, there are indications that some men were giving some thought to the higher things in life, such as art, as much as 22,000 years ago — the tentative dating of a limestone pebble unearthed in Afghanistan.

Human features are carved on a 2½ by 1¼ inch pebble and archeologists call it a sculpture, the oldest by far ever unearthed.

Ironically, increasing knowledge of man's lengthy past comes at a time when he has it in his power to blow his future — and when there is some fear that he might.

Begin each day with a clean slate, and you'll wear out a lot of erasers.

TODAY in history

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
May 30, 1968 . . .

Joan of Arc was burned at the stake after being condemned as a heretic 537 years ago today—in 1431. The Maid of Orleans, one of France's most striking historical figures, led an army of 4,000 men to raise the siege of Orleans. The English army retreated before the French, inspired by her figure dressed in armor, mounted on a black charger. Her enemies delivered her to the English and her death. She was canonized in 1555.

1656—Britain's Grenadier Guards were formed.

1744—Alexander Pope, the English poet famed for his Essay on Man, died.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1918—German soldiers advanced to within two miles of Reims and captured Fere-en-Tardenois; Greek troops advanced against Bulgarians on the Vardar River in the Balkans; a German submarine was sunk by 12 Irish fishing boats.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—the Japanese military headquarters admitted final defeat on Attu Island in the Aleutians, stating its garrison of more than 2,000 men were presumed to have died "on the field of honor."

Bygone days

TEN YEARS AGO

The Sherbrooke Y's Men's Club met at the Magog Hotel last night for its last meeting in town.

President Cliff Lamb said that for the summer months club meetings would be held at the Y's Men's Camp at Shore Acres.

The track meet sponsored by the club last Saturday appeared to be the most successful yet, President Lamb said, with competition among the schools much keener. The president expressed appreciation to all those who had assisted the club in preparations and also to the new trophy donors.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

The Lennoxville Women's League will hold a Royal Tea and Petite Fashion Show in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Hall, Frontenac Street, in Sherbrooke, from 3 to 6 p.m., Saturday, May 30.

Mrs. H. Fowlis and Mrs. A. Mackenzie are conveners for the Royal Tea. Miss Colina MacKenzie and Mrs. H. Turner are in charge of the handmade dresses, playsuits, nightgowns, pyjamas and boys' summer suits which will be sold following the Fashion Show.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Ascot Women's Institute held their May meeting in the Lennoxville W.I. Club room.

Mrs. W. Mitchell, the president, was in the chair. After the usual opening, 23 members responded to the roll call and several visitors were present.

Mrs. Hyatt reported on the usual food parcels sent overseas each month and it was decided to send a special box to an invalid sister of a friend.

Mrs. Garfat, convener of the ways and means committee, reported a good balance on hand and plans were made to cater to a dinner for the beef breeders, who will hold a meeting at the Experimental Farm.

Mrs. F. Ingham gave a report on the address given by John Fisher in Sherbrooke recently.

Afternoon tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. W. T. Pearson, Mrs. D. Savage and Mrs. E. Douglas.

The PRAYER FOR TODAY FROM The Upper Room

You have heard of the steadfastness of Job, and you have seen the purpose of the Lord, how the Lord is compassionate and merciful. (James 5:11, RSV)

PRAYER: Dear Father, may we, like Job, possess an enduring faith in time of adversity. May we, too, know the presence of Thy tender mercy. In Christ's name. Amen.

'Fast Eddie'

Tory organizer is in politics for the excitement of campaign

By CARMAN CUMMING

OTTAWA (CP) — Supercharged Eddie Goodman wakes up at 7 a.m. in his hotel suite and makes "about an hour's worth" of phone calls before he gets up.

His normal working day, whipping together the Conservative election campaign, may include a few hours in Toronto, a few in Montreal and several more at the party's Ottawa headquarters.

"Going by air, you can do business in Ottawa and Montreal and Moncton on the same day. . . . It's wonderful what you can do in an airplane."

Sometimes he flies to Toronto for a meeting and leaves without even taking time to see his wife and two daughters at their Forest Hill home.

His day ends back at the hotel suite, after countless meetings, memos and phone calls ,at about 1:30 or 2 a.m.

Grey-haired, energetic and built with springs in his heels, the 49-year-old lawyer talks fast, smiles fast and is fast with a quip or complaint.

He concedes with a grin that some of the "kids" on his staff have referred to him as Fast Eddie.

BLOWUPS EVAPORATE

To keep up with the pace, he tries not to be too intense about things.

"Every now and then I blow up, which I try not to do . . . it's all gone in about 10 seconds.

"But what the hell—you're not going to last nine weeks of this if you're intense all the time."

His staff learns quickly if they've displeased the boss, but the relationship is easy enough to permit gags.

A glass case beside his desk contains mementoes of past prime ministers and also a battered yellow pencil with the inscription:

"Pencil used by E. A. Goodman during the 1968 campaign."

On the phone, he is brisk and no-nonsense, shooting a rapid fire of questions.

"Gee—I'm glad you gave me all this time," he tells one caller in an aggrieved tone.

"Well, where do I get this guy? Make a note of this, Katie . . ."

Off the phone, he sets up arrangements for a reception with secretary Mrs. Kay Morden and personnel manager Mrs. Louise Hayes.

"We'll get some food from Nate's and some booze. . . . Should it be here or at the hotel?"

LIKE DISASTER AREA

If it's at the headquarters, Mrs. Hayes says, "we'll have to get glasses and everything and the place will look like a disaster area afterwards."

"Forget it," says Mr. Goodman, turning to wording of the invitations.

"Call it a farewell—no that doesn't sound good—call it a bon voyage party for Mr. Stanfield and his staff . . ."

Mrs. Hayes provides a paper cup of lemonade and Mr. Goodman rewards her with an absent, "Thanks, doll,"as he turns his attention to being interviewed.

Why does he spend so much time and money and energy on the political game?

"Realty, I suppose because it's exciting. You feel at the centre of things. It's one way of being of service to the public and enjoying myself at the same time."

Does he ever think about leaving the back room and making another election bid?

"Well, yeah . . . every now and then you sort of think about it and decide against it.

"I just wouldn't want to give up my law practice and give up living in Toronto. This way I get the excitement and experience without a complete drain on my time and without changing the whole structure and fabric of my life."

STARTED AT 12

Mr. Goodman has been tied up with Conservative politics since he started putting up signs for the party in Toronto at the age of 12. But he has made only one try for public office, fighting a provincial campaign in Toronto St. Andrew in 1945.

He was fresh from five years in the army then, with a good war record and the rank of major. He had landed in Normandy on D-Day, had been twice wounded and mentioned in dispatches.

A wartime comrade recalled him as "a cocky guy who always did what he intended to do."

But he lost the election, to Communist J. B. Salsberg, and turned instead to making himself one of the party's main backstage trouble-shooters.

He ran the party's national campaign in 1965, was chairman of the 1966 Ottawa conference where John Diefenbaker's leadership was challenged, and was co-chairman of last year's convention that picked Robert Stanfield as leader.

COMMENT

by Lubor J. Zink

OTTAWA — (TNS) — The talk-and-fight strategy the Asian Communists used for two years during the Korean War is beginning to take its toll in Vietnam.

In Korea, the allied casualty rate increased sharply during the talks. In Vietnam the Americans alone lost 1,111 men during the first two weeks of the Hanoi-Washington talks in Paris — the highest U.S. losses for any two weeks of the war.

Last week's casualty list shows 562 American soldiers killed in action and 2,225 wounded, of whom 1,153 required hospitalization. South Vietnam's armed forces lost 607 men.

This is more than double the average weekly casualty rate of the war. Civilian losses show a similar increase.

Since January this year when Hanoi launched its massive offensive on the cities and towns of South Vietnam as a prelude to "peace" talks, civilians killed (in many cases murdered in cold blood) by the Communists number close to 7,000. With deliberate mortar and rocket hit-and-run attacks on congested refugee shack towns and on the most densely-populated sections of Saigon, civilian casualties are mounting rapidly.

The obvious aim of Hanoi's terror tactic is to horrify world opinion into pressing for peace at any price. The Communists are confident that in the psychological climate created by steady misrepresentation of the conflict their escalation of the war and their slaughter of civilians will be automatically blamed on the allies, and particularly on the Americans.

They figure that their chances of forcing an eventual settlement on their terms improve the intensification of the horror they can create.

In this, I am afraid, they are fairly realistic. Proof of it can be seen in the fact that no matter what atrocities the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops commit (e.g. the mass slaughter of civilians in Hue), they get away with it without protests, without demonstrations around the world. They know that public conscience has by now been thoroughly conditioned to react, and react violently, in one specific direction only.

Slanting

Part of this conditioning can perhaps be attributed to open Communist propaganda. But most of it is the result of systematic slanting of news and commentaries in our own mass media by people who are firmly convinced that they are doing the right "progressive" thing in a fair and objective way.

Here in Canada this peculiar line of so-called progressivism in journalism can be seen most clearly in Maclean's magazine, in the Star Weekly, and particularly in the CBC news and public affairs programs.

After the Seven Days uproar, it seemed for a while that the CBC would tone down its bias. But there are signs that the CBC left-wing boys, probably encouraged by the advent of Trudeauism are at it again with renewed zeal even in straight newscasts.

A good example of the slant has been brought to my attention by a reader in Agincourt who writes:

"On the 11 p.m. CBC television newscast of May 14 there was a blatant distortion of the news regarding Vietnam. While Stanley Burke was describing a recent battle in Saigon, a film clip was shown of the southern outskirts of the city.

Distorting

"In a desolate area a single bamboo and thatch hut remained standing and the TV camera homed in on a G.I. putting a torch to this hut. While the incident was being shown, Mr. Burke's script said that American troops put to the torch those homes not destroyed in battle.

"Treated by itself," my correspondent writes, "the film clip could only be interpreted as a callous and brutal action — an impression the CBC apparently wanted to create. However, the clip, taken from Walter Cronkite's CBC program, was completely out of context.

"On the CBS 6:30 p.m. program, from which the CBC took the clip without showing the rest of the film with its sound track, the newsman on the spot said that in such an area where everything was destroyed, it was impossible for U.S. and South Vietnamese troops to call in with accuracy fire support on enemy positions unless a fixed point was available. Accuracy, it was said, was particularly necessary as some civilians were still in the area.

"Accordingly, to establish a well-defined point of reference for artillery and air support, the grass hut was set on fire.

"All this was left out by the CBC. Since few, it any, of the viewers of the national newscast saw the CBS program from which the single clip was taken, the CBC audience, including myself, was left with the impression of purposeless American destruction of a Vietnamese home."

The whole episode may seem trivial, but when this type of slant is practised systematically, it distorts the picture of the struggle in Vietnam and creates an intense anti-American psychosis.

THE CROWDS LOVE HIM— An enthusiastic and respectful crowd of about 600 persons gathered to meet Canada's Prime Minister at St. Bernardin School in Waterloo, Monday. Mr. Trudeau was obviously pleased with the reception given him and stopped to sign many autographs and shake many hands. Standing with him is Liberal MP for Shefford, Louis Paul Neveu. P M impressed by Waterloo's biculturalism

By BERNICE CHAMPAGNE
(Record Correspondent)

WATERLOO — Prime Minister Trudeau told a group of Waterloo citizens that he hopes to bring the same good will and friendliness of the Anglo-Francophone relationships enjoyed in Waterloo to Ottawa.

The PM spoke to a group of more than 600 at St. Bernardin School here Monday. All age brackets made up the audience which was enthusiastic and yet entirely attentive during his talk.

Mr. Trudeau was introduced by the president of the Shefford Liberal Federation, Louis Jolin, of Waterloo. Mr. Jolin told briefly of the good relationships enjoyed by the people in this town for more than a century.

In reply the Prime Minister said that he hoped to bring to Ottawa, the capital of Canada, what Waterloo, the capital of Shefford County, had in its friendliness and Anglo-Francophone relations.

Mr. Trudeau's stop in Waterloo contrasted with others made during the same day when his audiences some times were infiltrated with hecklers, or inattentive bystanders. He urged the town's support of Louis Paul Neveu, Liberal incumbent, who had served the area well during the last term at Ottawa. Mr .Neveu spoke briefly.

Just before leaving, the Prime Minister shook hands, signed autographs, smiled and waved to all within reach. It was an exciting day for everyone concerned. The last time that a Prime Minister had visited Waterloo was about 45 years ago when Mr. Meehan made a brief stopover.

Previous to his talk outside, Mr. Trudeau met with a few invited guests in the teachers' lounge of the school, including Mayor Guy Poirier, town councillors, school board officials, the clergy, Centennial medal winner David Schaenfield and O. Jolin, the town's oldest citizen.

Sweetsburg Courts

Pair gets two years

SWEETSBURG WARD — (Staff) — Judge Gerard Normandin Tuesday sentenced Gilles Larouche, 30, and Gilles Valcourt, 21, both of Waterloo, to two years in penitentiary after they entered pleas of guilty to charges of breaking and entering in Waterloo, May 1, when an automobile valued at $6,000 was stolen from Desjardins Automobiles Ltd.

The duo then pleaded guilty in Bedford District Court to charges of breaking and entering in Cowansville, May 5, at Bessette Automobile and Warmall Sheet Metals when a total of $960 in property damage was incurred. They also pleaded guilty to having destroyed a watchdog in a brutal manner. The dog was valued at $100.

Defence Counsel Claude Leveille said that they had cooperated with the police agencies involved and asked for the clemency of the court.

Crown Attorney Claude Noiseux said that they had apparently set up a well organized unit and were robbing for commercial reasons. He said the least he could ask for was a penitentiary term.

Judge Normandin said the two year sentence reasonable in view that the charges were liable to 14 years. He said Mr. Leveille's earlier remarks to the Bench that anything over 10 months in jail by his clients would be better served where they could learn a trade helped expedite his decision.

Jean-Pierre Brodeau, 19, of Granby, who previously pleaded guilty to seven charges of breaking and entering in Granby schools, coupled with property damage in the schools, and one charge of breaking and entering in a commercial establishment, May 20 and 24, was given a one-year sentence.

Crown Prosecutor Noiseux said that society must be protected from vandalism, and that this rash of school breakins had possibly incited similar acts in St. Johns and Montreal.

Defence Counsel Jacques Meunier's efforts to have sentence suspended until the autumn for family reasons were ignored by Judge Normandin who said "he gave bad examples to others in the province." Judge Normandin said he considered the Crown's request most reasonable.

The Crown dropped one charge of breaking and entering against Wayne Carter, who had previously pleaded guilty to one charge of breaking and entering in the home of Justice G. Miller Hyde, and one of simple theft, both in Knowlton, during March and April.

Crown Prosecutor Claude Noiseux suggested that the accused be given a one-month term, similar to that imposed on a co-accused. Defence Counsel G. Harris pointed out that Carter had been detained 21 days, and that he had participated in one less offence than the co-accused, and asked that he be freed, with time served, to enable Carter to leave the area and seek new employment.

Judge Normandin sentenced Carter to time served, providing he signed a personal bond to keep the peace for six months. Judge Normandin said that he took into consideration the fact that Carter was seriously injured in a car accident a few years ago, and could not be wholly responsible for his actions.

Rejean Breton, of Granby, stood mute at voluntary statement and was ordered to the next term of the Bedford Assizes, following preliminary hearing on a charge of rape. Bail was set at $1,000 cash, or $2,000 property, pending trial. Breton was represented by Jacques Meunier. Crown Attorney Claude Noiseux called two witnesses pending the hearing.

Jean Lacroix, 21, of Granby, was sentenced to three months in jail following a trial on a charge of grievous assault on a peace officer. Sessions Judge Guy Genest lowered the charge to simple assault on a peace officer following the trial, and said that society must be protected.

Judge Genest told Lacroix that he should be pleased at the brilliant defence his counsel Mr. Leveille presented, but that an example must be set in Granby, due to the current lack of public order among the youth. The judge added that "Infested with the likes of you and your motorcycle gangs and youth the world over are going too far."

Denis Brodeur, of Granby, was found guilty on the same charge as Lacroix, and will be sentenced June 11. A third accused, Yvan Meunier will stand trial June 11. Brodeur and Meunier were represented by lawyer Guy Arseneault. Brodeur was remanded to cells pending sentence.

For and about Women

WHAT'S HAPPENING IN the kitchen? This favored cozy spot in the home reflects major home furnishing trends. Currently quite popular is Spanish-Mediterranean as reflected in the kitchen (left) created by decorating specialists for Cinch. Note the clean arches on wood, wrought iron and pewter hardware and bold print curtain.

Another strong design direction includes the American transitional with its use of simple woods and geometric patterns. The housewife (right) is cleaning her very contemporary carpet tile. It comes in 12-inch squares with latex foam backing. Of polyester olefin, the tiles are vacuumed regularly and shampooed occasionally.

Kitchen designs show Spanish influence grows

By AILEEN SNODDY

NEW YORK—(NEA)—A number of interior decorators have been caught with their home furnishings predictions awry. Just as many decided to write off Spanish as a popular design direction for every room of the house it pops up more strongly than ever.

In fact, Spanish and its cousin, Mediterranean, caused a growing number of furniture buyers to click their heels and shout "ole" during the recent Southern Market introductions. It seems the manufacturers and retailers recognize that the so-called Spanish motifs are quite popular with today's homemaker. Spanish and American transitional styles continue to lock horns and vie for a spot in the home.

The importance of Spanish is confirmed with the rash of accessories picking up grille designs, for example. Behind its popularity is a basic that can't be overlooked. Spanish is easy to decorate with.

Although homemakers are more aware of how to put a room together with a reasonable amount of success they still are insecure about it. Spanish, it seems, gives them more confidence than other period styles, especially the great number still scared to tackle decorating with antiques and the elegant French period pieces.

Spanish decor is moving strongly throughout the house. The kitchen is the current spot honored with the massive, mellow woods for cabinets and trim and the wrought iron or washed pewter hardware that adds to the feeling of comfort women like in their kitchens.

Currently, red and gold is a leading color combination for a Spanish-oriented kitchen with deep gold counter tops, brick or tile design in vinyl and ceramic floors. Some women with apartment kitchens with small or no windows create a special effect with the bold dimensional patterned red and gold cafe curtains or use a tie back treatment to highlight a dado of Spanish arches, for example, or a hand-turned wooden railing.

The wooden railing effect also finds a home as a divider for the L-shaped rooms.

Metal or wood cabinets get into the act even if they do not have arches or other Spanish motifs. It is possible to create the designs with paint or stencils.

With all the detailed and intricate designs it is wise to keep a heavy duty spray cleaner at hand to get into the crevices and hard-to-reach areas to lift out grease and soil and keep your Spanish sparkling.

HOMEMAKERS

For Fluffy Diapers

Dryer tumbling after laundering fluffs diapers to comfortable softness, shakes out wrinkles and makes folding easier. If diapers are to be line-dried, a fabric softener is desirable to prevent chafing and increase baby's comfort. This should be used periodically during laundering.

Leather Clothes

Suede and leather goods must breathe. Do not store these garments in plastic.

Plastic will not allow the air to circulate and the tannery oils will dry up. Store where temperature and humidity are controlled. Treat them as you would a fine fur.

Polly's Pointers®

Brighten Bath Mat With Hair Shampoo

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I suggest that Helen try using hair shampoo, applied with a stiff brush, on her white rubber bath mat. It takes only a little and I have found it works on many things that are hard to clean, like pebbled plastic.—WINIFRED

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Helen that I put my rubber bath mat right in the washing machine as I do my towels and other such things. Regular detergent and hot water gives it a cleaner-than-new look. Do not put it in the dryer. Hang over the edge of the tub to dry.—JEANNIE

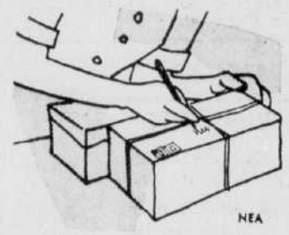

DEAR GIRLS—Both these methods do get the mats spotlessly clean but do not give the really snowy white look that I think Helen is seeking and I am afraid she looks for in vain. —POLLY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—The rear plastic window in our convertible is foggy. Would any readers know what can be done to make it transparent again?—THEODOSIA

DEAR POLLY—My Pointers are for mothers sending packages to their boys who are overseas in service. When using newspaper to cushion the contents of a box, be sure to include the complete Sunday comic sheets and pages with items they may enjoy. My son reads them and passes them around.

In all my packages, I hide a surprise. It need be very little — just something different to look for. I also send him the daily paper to keep him in touch with home.

It is hard to address a package as there is no place to rest one's arm. I put a box or something of equal height at the side of the package to hold my arm so I can write the address easier and better. I do hope you publish my letter because every little thing we at home can do to make life a bit more enjoyable for our boys in the service is so important.—MRS. J. H.

GOOD GROOMING IS MORE than keeping your hair combed and your nails neatly manicured. It's being fresh, feminine and clean all over — the way you feel when DEMURE is part of your beauty routine. Demure is a mint-fresh liquid douche, gently medicated to relieve irritation and help destroy odour-causing bacteria. With Demure, you're sure of yourself, confident in your femininity. Another thing you'll like — the Demure people have just published an informative little booklet called "Feminine Hygiene", covering all the "whats, whys, whens and hows" of douching. It's yours — free — when you purchase Demure at your favourite drugstore.

THE WINNER!... You get a winner every time when you choose Brights PRESIDENT CHAMPAGNE to add that sparkle to any gathering. This is my favourite 'hostess' tip, especially since we can all indulge 'champagne tastes' on a modest budget. Just make sure it's Brights President Champagne . . . as light and lively a wine as you've ever tasted. Everything you want of a good sparkling wine, bubbly and delicious, President Champagne compares favourably with any champagne made anywhere. Yet it costs much less. I urge you to try Brights President Champagne . . . Canada's own prize champagne . . . a winner every time!

WHO'S TO BLAME when the roast disappoints? Perhaps the most common complaint I hear from women food shoppers is about the meat they buy. Who hasn't had the embarrassment at one time or another of starting to carve, only to discover that "special dinner" wasn't so special after all? So . . . a word of advice . . . to be sure of the meat — be sure of the man who sells it. And your best bet for a foolproof roast is likely to be a prime rib. Who sells the best meat? Well, if you're not presently satisfied you might try my butcher . . . "the man behind the meat counter" at . . . ? I won't mention the store, but I can tell you I shop there "Mainly because of the meat".

Attacks Trudeau's policies

MONTREAL (CP) — Louis Laberge, president of the Quebec Federation of Labor, told postal workers Wednesday Prime Minister Trudeau is "a millionaire sportsman who drives the Jaguar of state like a madman" in the fields of federal-provincial and union-management relations.

He spoke before 400 delegates representing 14,000 members of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers at the 10th triennial convention of the union.

"Mr. Trudeau is free to take the personal risk of getting injured in order to take care of his public image, but he has no right to drag the country into a head-on collision with Quebec in the constitutional crisis, nor to risk a confrontation with the postal workers which could further plunge Canada into economic depression."

J. Jacques Beauchemin

The boards of directors of companies of The Sullivan Mining Group have elected J. Jacques Beauchemin, Q.C., as president. Mr. Beauchemin, a member of the Montreal legal firm of Beauchemin & Valiquette, is also a director of National Canadian Bank, of Economie Mutuelle d'Assurance, of The Belmont Park Co. Ltd., F. Pilon Inc. and other Canadian companies. He is a member of the advisory board, for the Province of Quebec, of The Guaranty Trust Company of Canada.

Kissing contest opens up

MONTREAL (CP) — It was bound to happen.

With Prime Minister Trudeau kissing his way across the country in the June 25 election campaign, it was inevitable that kissing polls become a reality.

And so, a new kind of political poll—a kissing contest—was announced Wednesday by J. A. Gilbert, a Toronto lawyer and secretary-treasurer of Environmental Interiors Production Inc.

A second contest, a five-category competition, invites people to express their opinions on the meaning of Mr. Trudeau's phrase "just society." Contestants can submit poetry, a 1,000-word essay, songs, paintings and sculptures.

The kissing contest will test the polularity of Prime Minister Trudeau, Conservative Leader Stanfield, NDP Leader T. C. Douglas and Rene Levesque, leader of a Quebec sovereignty movement and independent member of the Quebec legislature.

NOTICE

By-law No. 1775

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of property owners for zones G-7 and J-4 for the approval of the following amendment of the zoning by-law of the City of Sherbrooke, will be held at the City Hall, on June 3rd 1968, from 7 to 8 P.M.

By-law No. 1775 concerning the closing of a gas station at the intersection of Wellington and Depot Street and the opening of a gas station at the car-wash on St. Francois Boulevard South.

Zones G-7 and J-4 includes lots on Bowen Street and part of Conseil Street and a part of St. Francois South at 100 feet of King East Street all the way to Jubilee Street, (G-7) Grandes-Fourches South and Depot Street (J-4).

Property owners in zones G-7 and J-4 who wish to oppose this by-law must attend the meeting.

Property owners from adjoining zones to zones G-7 and J-4 can request to take part in the consultation by sending to the undersigned, within the next five days, a petition signed by at least twelve property owners of said adjoining zones.

H. P. Emond,
City Clerk.

QUEBEC SCENE:

Apply benefits locally

QUEBEC—(CP)— The government pledged Wednesday that any collective agreement negotiated with the province's primary and secondary school teachers at the provincial level will be applied at the local level by school boards.

Marcel Masse, minister without portfolio responsbile for negotiations in the public sector, told a press conference that he has sent a letter to the Quebec Federation of Catholic School Boards stating the government position.

The pledge comes amid negotiations between provincial representatives of an estimated 66,000 teachers, the government and school boards aimed at providing the teachers with a province - wide collective agreement.

In his letter to the school boards Mr. Masse said the government has informed teachers that it intends to take steps to ensure that negotiations under way at the provincial level will be applied locally.

Mass murder

MONTREAL —(CP) —. The city's chief of detectives said Wednesday a recent wave of gangland-type killings in Montreal could be attributed to several different sets of motives.

Assistant Director Paul Emile Olivier said in an interview some of the 12 killings in the last three months "are related, but no one person or gang is responsible for all of them."

He said that rivalry between two protection racket gangs, internal warfare in a gang of bank robbers, vengeance, and a vendetta apparently imported from Europe may account for 11 of the 12 slayings.

Protests

MONTREAL — (CP) — Dissident delegates to an ecumenical poverty conference made a last-minute protest Wednesday against what one speaker called "authoritarian" conference organization.

They spoke at the final session of a three-day conference which included a "symbolic meal" of plainly-served meat, rice and bread and Bible readings.

Info tax

QUEBEC — (CP) — Suburban Neufchatel Wednesday collected its first "information tax" when it charged a newspaperman 50 cents for minutes of the last municipal council meeting.

The new tax, adopted about two weeks ago, charges 25 cents for 100 words of information given out by the municipality.

Exploitation

MONTREAL — (CP) — Sheltered workshops for the handicapped are financed by public funds, but they are "exploited by unscrupulous businesses," a provincial royal commission investigating Quebec health services was told Wednesday.

In a brief to the commission, headed by Quebec City actuary Claude Castonguay, the Quebec Association of Sheltered Workshops said that at the individual level handicapped workers are being abused by workshop operators who give them work to do at home after business hours.

Recognize rights

MONTREAL — (CP) — Newfoundland Premier Joseph Smallwood Wednesday night told the Royal Commonwealth Society that English-Canadians who love their language and wish to preserve it must also recognize the same rights for French-Canadians.

"Such fair play demands, however, that none of the 10 provinces have greater or smaller rights than any of the other provinces."

Strike vote

MONTREAL — (CP) — Delegates to a postal workers three-day convention head home today after voting in favor of legal strike action and voting in a militant new president who is just the man to lead the walkout.

The 400 men and women representing 14,000 members of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers at the 10th triennial convention voted to call a national strike seven days after present conciliation measures end and if no settlement is in sight.

Montreal livestock

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices for most classes of livestock were steady Wednesday compared with last Wednesday on the Montreal markets. Demand was good with trading moderately active.

Receipts: 107 cattle, 98 calves, one hog, nine sheep and lambs.

Common steers 25.

Good heifers 22.25-22.75; medium 20.50-21.75.

Good cows 19.25-23.50; medium 18-19.75; common 16.75-17.75; canners and cutters 12.50-16.75.

Good bulls 23.25-26.25; medium 21.25-23; common 19.

Good vealers 38-42; medium 28.50-37.75; common 23-30.50.

Grade A hogs 26.75-27.50; sows 16-17.

Lambs required for ritual slaughtering 37.50-38.50 per cwt.

treatment plants and collectors — not with their actual construction.

Mr. Carignan said the farmer must also be expected to contribute to the battle against water pollution, as he is a prime source of it. He explained further that pollution can be caused by washout on lands, and various chemicals used in the soil.

In returning to the question of provincial responsibility in financing water pollution projects, he suggested Quebec might collect $1 per capita on the provincial income tax.

Touching on federal responsibility, he said the government should finance one-sixth of the total cost of the necessary sewage treatment plants and collectors.

With the income from the four sources, Mr. Carignan said, there would be approximately $20 to $30 million a year available to fight pollution. "The income from all the four sources would be deposited in a provincial deposit bank.

"This bank would then distribute the $30 million to each of the drainage basin committees," which although not formed as yet, are seen as a prime necessity by Mr. Carignan who is also chairman of the Quebec Section of American Water Works Association.

He suggested the province could perhaps be divided into six to 10 drainage basin committees. The committees would be comprised of municipal and industry representatives along with intermediaries such as local service clubs. The committees would also have a consultative or executive board.

ELM TREE TREATMENTS

Please note that the City of Sherbrooke, for the 10th consecutive year, endeavours to keep its elm trees in good shape by spraying them to prevent the Dutch Elm Disease.
To render this operation more efficient, it is necessary that all property owners having elm trees on their land have them sprayed to prevent the disease.

All those who wish to preserve their elm trees must communicate with Mr. Armand Desbiens, 569-1044 for further information.

Moreover, in order to protect the trees that are intact, it is necessary to cut down the elm trees whose conservation is impossible and concerning which a notice has been sent during the fall of 1967.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

True Dislocation Of Knee Is Uncommon

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—What would cause a person's bones to go out of joint? First it was my shoulder, then my knee and then my ankle.

A—A dislocation occurs when a long bone is forced into an unnatural position and the joint capsule tears, allowing the bone to leave the joint. True dislocation of the knee is rare, but locking of this joint due to a torn knee cartilage is common and is often erroneously called dislocation of the knee. If you are an accident-prone person, you should learn to relax when you fall, like a professional tumbler, or avoid rough sports.

Q—My husband has water on his knee. What causes it and can anything be done for it?

A—Water on the knee is an accumulation of synovial fluid in the joint, due to inflammation. Various treatments have been used, depending on individual circumstances. These include keeping the knee elevated and applying ice bags for two or three days, withdrawing the fluid and injecting hydrocortisone into the joint or, in chronic cases (those of at least three years' duration), injecting a colloidal radioactive gold solution.

Q—What are the symptoms of a torn cartilage in the knee? What is the best treatment for it?

A—A torn cartilage in the knee will cause intermittent attacks of locking of the joint, pain and an accumulation of fluid in the joint. X-ray films are negative because they do not show soft parts (skin, blood vessels, nerves, tendons, muscles and cartilage). Once torn, a cartilage rarely heals and the only cure is surgical removal of the torn fragment. Whether this needs to be done or not depends on how much trouble the knee is giving you and how well you can manage with ice packs, rest and protective bandaging.

Q—During an operation (arthrodesis), a screw was placed in my ankle bone. How can I tell when the screw should be removed? If some pain returns, would this be caused by the screw?

A—Arthrodesis is a surgical freezing or immobilizing of a joint. When a screw is driven into a bone, it is often left there for life. Any decision to remove it should be left up to your surgeon. Pain in the ankle following this operation might be from a variety of causes but it it most unlikely that it is caused by the screw.

Provincial Baseball League is solid, says President Ellyson, Molson's gives $1,000 to loop

MONTREAL — Since its foundation several years ago, The Provincial Baseball League has directed its efforts towards providing sports enthusiasts with the highest calibre of baseball to be found in Canada, whether east or west. Proof of this fact is demonstrated by the efforts made by the executive of the League and the administrators of the different teams, to establish rules that will assure the survival of baseball in the Province of Quebec. These rules have been established with the view of preserving a quality of game that cannot be found anywhere else in Canada in the exclusively Canadian leagues.

The framework of the Provincial Baseball League has been solidly established with an executive at work the whole year round. Several times a year, representatives of the different teams meet at Drummondville, a fairly central location, accessible to the other teams in Lachine, Granby, Sherbrooke, Thetford Mines, Plessisville and Quebec.

The League operates on a budget that is voted upon yearly, the funds for which are subscribed by the different member teams. In addition to the operation costs of the League itself, the playing cost for the seven teams during the same season comes to approximately $300,000.

It is evident, then, that the League's teams are directed and administered by serious, competent people, people who like baseball and who would like to pass on their enthusiasm to the public at large. If there are profits to be made, so much the better!

Of all the leagues in the province, be it hockey, lacrosse, baseball, or any other sport, The Provincial Baseball League is the best provided for in terms of constitution. After a number of years of experience and many revisions, the League is supported by a constitution which is the envy of several other similar organizations and which has served as a constitutional model on many occasions.

YVON ELLYSON

In 1967, in order to aid the teams in settling their budgets, and in anticipation of the 1968 season and the following seasons, a considerable effort was made to establish the norms that now regulate the players' salaries.

This year, now that the problem of salaries has been settled, the directors of the League plan to tackle an expansion project. Actually, as you know, the seven teams forming the League come from the area between Lachine and Quebec and include the Eastern Townships and the Bois-Francs region.

It is to be hoped that in a few years, if not in 1969, other important cities in our province will be represented in The Provincial Baseball League. Why, for example, can there not be a baseball team representing Three Rivers, St. Hyacinthe, Sorel, and Valleyfield, to name only a few?

After having outlined the situation of our ball-club, it seems fitting to mention that the success of the different teams and their directors doesn't depend solely upon their efforts. It is hardly necessary to remark that the support given by the breweries to the field of sports is almost legendary. But among these breweries, the one which will be of particularly great assistance to The Provincial Baseball League in the 1968 season, is Molson's.

Thanks to Molson's, more than 70,000 schedules were put into circulation some time ago in all the cities taking part in our League. In these cities Molson's Brewery Quebec Limited will donate between $5,000 and $7,000 to support baseball's cause. The supporters of each team will be the ones who derive the benefit from this contribution. To the League, Molson's will give a gift of $1,000, which will be divided as follows: $400 to the winning team, $300 to the team in second place, $200 for third place, and $100 for fourth.

Olympics net two in cash trade with A's, Sorel here tonight

Sherbrooke Olympics last night acquired defenceman Roland "Ti-Mour" Goudreau from the Drummondville Athletics for an undertermined sum of money. Also acquired in the cash trade was forward Terry Kent from the Drummondville team.

Both Olympic general - manager, Rosaire Letourneau and Athletic president, Robert Malouin, have confirmed the trade.

Goudreau, a crowd - pleaser par excellence in the Quebec Lacrosse League, was chosen the best defenceman in the circuit last year and was named to the first All-Star team.

At the present time Olympic management is working on contract solutions with Goudreau and there is a good possibility that he will be in uniform tonight when the Sorel Titans meet Sherbrooke at 8:30 p.m. at the Sports Palace.

THE WORLD OF SPORTS

Goudreau is not young but can be of much help to any team in the Provincial League. His leaving Drummondville was foreseen as the Athletics have a total of five defencemen. On the other hand the Olympics were lucky to get the excellent defenceman especially this time of the season. His presence should give Sherbrooke more authority on the defensive as well as giving Olympic coach Roger Despard a chance to use Richard Dagenais on offense.

The acquisition of Terry Kent on the other hand might prove to be the best of the trade for the local team. Kent didn't have much of a chance to develop with the Athletics as he saw only limited floor time. Time will tell in his case.

The Sorel Titans are steadily improving and are beginning to overcome the many difficulties faced at the outset of the season. The return of Dick Stethen and arrival of Ron Lavigne should be the turning point which will set this team back on the track.

Stethen is without a doubt one of the best players in the circuit and should help Titan offensive stalemates Harry Wooley and Keith Bowen get back into goal production.

Defensively the Titans are solid, while in the nets Alfred Coundell, of Ottawa, and Gilbert Sawyer, of Drummondville, should prove to be tough for attacking Olympic forwards. There is a good possibility that Sawyer will be in the nets this evening.

In other league play Caughnawaga Indians will visit Valleyfield.

John Hansen, of Sherbrooke, played a strong game for Sherbrooke last Sunday in Sorel and if this type of excellent play continues coupled with strong play from Goudreau and Kent the Olympics will be hard to beat. Right now, physically, the team is fit.

ET Motor Club to man check points in area for Shell 4000 car rally

The Eastern Townships Motor Club will be manning a Time Control Point in the vicinity of South Bolton on June 5th as part of the gruelling Shell 4000, a car rally this year running from Calgary to Halifax.

On the morning of June 6th the Auto Club Sherbrooke will man the closed section of the course when the cars will be leaving for St. John, New Brunswick at 5.02 a.m. The rally drivers and navigators will spend the evening at the University of Sherbrooke. At this time the Sherbrooke club will also watch the "Parc Ferme" where the competing cars are impounded for the night.

The Drummondville Motor Club will be assisting somewhere in the Drummondville area.

Naturally, said Vincent Lee, secretary of the ETMC, the route cannot be divulged as competitors do not know the course to be followed until the start of each day. He said two members of the ETMC have checked out the route on behalf of Shell organizers, Jim Gunn and Peter Bone, from about 100 miles west of Sherbrooke. It is felt this portion of the course will be a test of both driver and machine.

Although the Shell 4000 Car Rally is eight years old, the 1968 version of this gruelling event could be considered the "year of firsts". For example, the start and the finish lines of Calgary and Halifax, respectively, are brand new as far as the rally is concerned. In past years this 4000 - mile test of man and machine has started and finished in either British Columbia or Quebec.

This year rally organizer, Jim Gunn, decided to change the route considerably by starting in Calgary and then going into the Maritimes for the first time in rally history.

But that's not all. Even the dates of the event, June 1-7, are new. Past rallies have been held during the months of March, April or May. This year, however, the event is scheduled almost into the summer. And, according to Gunn, it should change the whole complex of the rally.

"Naturally the veteran competitors are going to find a difference in this year's event," explains Gunn. "Mind you, some of them are counting on easier rallying because of the possibility of better conditions which should prevail in June."

A total of 77 cars will leave the Stampede Grounds June 1, with overnight stops also planned for Regina, Fort William, Sudbury, Saint John, New Brunswick and Halifax. Competitors will be after $14,000 in prize money, which has been put up by Shell Canada Limitel.

$14,250 at stake in O'Keefe Quebec pro circuit, amateurs compete for $10,000 in prizes

MONTREAL — The $5,000 O'Keefe Quebec CPGA Championship will be played over Montreal's Municipal Golf Club again this year and organizers hope that once more it will be a stepping stone for a member of the golf playing profession.

Last year Alf Shand, popular assistant pro at Lachute, captured the $1,000 first prize by outscoring some of the Province's top names and a few months after his first major victory was named head pro at Cedarbrook.

"We hope it helped him get ahead in his career and we hope it will happen again," says Yvon Bonin, O'Keefe sales promotion and public relations manager, who announced details of the brewery's golf schedule at the Pro-Press tournament reception.

The 54-hole pro championship August 29-31, will highlight the 12-event schedule worth $14,250 in cash to Quebec pros and almost $10,000 in merchandise prizes to men and women amateurs of all classes from recognized golf clubs in the province.

There will be 10 other tournaments — four including professionals and all but one including ladies — in addition to the O'Keefe-sponsored PQGA Champion of Champions classic and a new unofficial event on the circuit, the Bic Pro-Am at Rimouski.

The Pro-Am events, each of which carries a $2,000 purse for the pros, will be played at Montreal's LaSalle club (June 16), Sorel-Tracy (July 14), Valleyfield (July 21) and Shawinigan (August 4). The Bic event is September 22.

Men of class A, B and C, plus ladies, will play in these events as well as amateur-only tournaments at Gatineau (June 21-23), Murray Bay (June 22-23), Arvida's Saguenay club (July 5-7), Matane (July 6-7), and Val d'Or (July 13-14).

The other regular tournament will be at Lorette in Quebec City, August 10-11, for men only. Date of the Champion of Champions event is September 15 at Beloeil.

As before, professional entry fees will be returned to the Quebec branch of the Canadian Professional Golfers Association and amateur fees will be turned over to the club staging the tournament.

The four pro-amateur tournaments will also serve as qualifying events for the Quebec O'Keefe CPGA Championship at Municipal. Professionals must play at least two of the pro-ams to qualify for the title event.

The provincial pro championship is worth $5,000 — $500 to seniors, 50 years and over (1-$200; 2-$125; 3-$75; 4-$50; 5-$50) and $4,500 to all pros (1-$1,000; 2-$700; 3-$550; 4-$425; 5-$350; 6-$275; 7-$200; 8-$175; 9-$125; 10-11, $100 each; $12-$30; 13-14, $70 each; 15-16, $60 each; 17-20, $40 each).

Prize money in each pro-am is $2,000 with $400 earmarked for the winner. The breakdown: 1-$400; 2-$250; 3-$175; 4-$150; 5-$125; 6-$100; 7-$90; 8-$80; 9-$70; 10-$60; 11-20, $50 each.

O'Keefe also announced that it is continuing its popular Hole - in - One trophy awards. Golfers reporting certified holes-in-one, scored between June 1 and October 31, to the brewery through their club captain or professional will receive a special trophy attesting their feat.

Yankees upset Tigers while Red Sox belt Senators in Yankees in the Sher-Lenn Little League went big game hunting last night and clipped the Tigers claws. Tigers riding a three game winning streak came a cropper to the tune of 10-2 at the hands of the Yankees.

In the other game played Red Sox came up with unexpected power and had a surprising 16-3 win over Senators. Tonight Indians meet the Orioles and Twins play White Sox both games at the Parade Grounds.

Young Tommy Hunting, first man up for the Yankees, in their game with Tigers, knocked out a home run to start things. The Yanks added two more runs before the inning ended. Tigers, in their part, cut this lead to one run as they sent two runs across the plate on hits from Rose and two Yankee errors.

Yankees in the second added three more tallies as Hunting, Goyette and Mitchell all connected for singles. Young Randy Warner, hurling for the Yanks, kept the Tigers off the score sheet for the remainder of the game.

Edgar Dezan's home run in the third gave the Yankees another run and they added one more in the fifth with three in the sixth to win easily over their more favoured opponents by a 10-2 score. Yankees showed in this one that they have power and were up for this game.

The loss to the Yanks should not upset the Tigers, they just didn't have it for this one.

A big 10-run inning put the game away for the Red Sox against the Senators four hits coupled with bases on balls set up the tallies. Red Sox got two more in the second and finished up with four more in the first part of the fourth. Senators got single runs in the first, second and third.

A. Caya was the winner with Murray the loser.

Yankees 3 3 1 1 0 2 10 11 2
Tigers 2 0 0 0 0 0 2 5 3
R. Warner and C. Mitchell; D. Rose and Roy.

Red Sox 10 2 0 4 0 0 16 7 1
Senators 1 1 1 0 0 0 3 3 3
Caya and Joyal; Murray. Provencher (4) and Morin.

Labatt's to sponsor golf tournament

A Four ball-best ball tournament will be held at the Sherbrooke Country Club Saturday, July 6th. The tournament is sponsored by Jean Masenhoelder, local agent for Labatt Breweries.

Each four-man team will be formed of one Class A, two Class B and one Class C player. The teams will be competing for 40 individual prizes or 10 team prizes. This tournament, expected to continue on to be an annual event must be played on a 18-hole course, due to the number of entries expected.

Gordon Harmer and Russel Marois of the Sherbrooke Country Club said that the teams have already begun to be formed. The two will be handling the technical aspects of the tournament such as the draw, tournament marshals, registration and other such items.

Als meet Braves tonight first place at stake

First place in the Provincial Baseball League is at stake tonight when the Sherbrooke Alouettes travel to Plessisville to meet the Braves for the first time this season.

Sporting a three - game winning streak under his belt, Al's mentor Nick Testa will be looking to make it four in a row. Likewise, Coach Andy Pratt and his crew of Braves are not to be counted out by a long-shot.

Both teams are tied for first in league standings and in general the race for the Provincial League pennant should prove to be a tight race all - around. Drummondville haven't shown their prowess as yet, but a gander at the present standings shows Granby a close one game out of first. As yet Thetford or Quebec have failed to scratch out a win while Lachine has managed to win only one of their first three outings. With early season adjustments all three should be in the winning circle before long.

In other league play the Thetford Miners will be looking for their first win when they meet the Quebec Indians in Thetford. Lachine Mets will face the Granby Cardinals in Granby this evening.

Saturday evening Sherbrooke will travel to Quebec to meet the Indians at 8:30 p.m. and will be back home for a two-day homestand. Sunday afternoon the Al's meet Plessisville and Monday evening the locals will host Granby

Manchester United wins European Cup

LONDON—(CP)—It was "the most marvelous night of my life," says Matt Busby as his Manchester United soccer team wrapped up the European Cup with three extra time goals against Benfica of Portugal in the final Wednesday night.

The English contenders defeated Benfica 4-1 before 100,000 at Wembley Stadium to become the first team from England to win the cup.

Scotland's Glasgow Celtic turned the trick last year.

Bobby Charlton, the star of England's World Cup victory against West Germany two years ago, scored twice and set up the other Manchester goals. It was Charlton who headed United into the lead after 53 minutes before Jaime Graca equalized in the 79th minute to force extra time.

Then a Charlton pass met Irish international George Best who dribbled around three Benfica players, including goalkeeper Jose Henrique.

Scotty Bowman gets two jobs with St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sidney Salomon Jr. announced Wednesday a complete restructuring of the St. Louis Blues front office, including the elevation of William "Scotty" Bowman to the position of coach and general manager.

Lynn Patrick, former general manager of the National Hockey League club, was given the position of managing director of the team, Salomon said.

Salomon said Patrick would oversee the entire operation of the club, especially player development and farm system operations. The Blues also announced that Doug Harvey, player-coach of the Blues' Kansas City Central Hockey League farm club, would move to the parent team as a player and assistant coach.

Bowman, who started the past season with the expansion Blues as assistant general manager and assistant coach, took over the coaching duties after 16 games of the 1967-68 campaign and Patrick devoted full time to being general manager.

The Blues, who had spent much of the early season in last place in the West Division moved steadily upward under Bowman, finishing third in the regular season.

In the Stanley Cup playoffs, they beat first-place Philadelphia and Minnesota to earn the finals berth with Montreal. The Canadiens won the Cup in four straight games, although each of their victories was by one goal.
