

Farmers face high spring prices for fertilizer, fuel

EDMONTON (CP)—Farmers face a double-edged sword of high fertilizer and fuel costs this spring, and the sword is getting sharper.

The reasons are the price increase on crude oil expected this spring, the recent trebling in price of natural gas used in manufacturing nitrogen fertilizer, and the rising cost and uncertain supply of phosphate rock for phosphate fertilizers.

This week, Imperial Oil announced price increases of up to $70 a ton on its fertilizer products.

Anhydrous Ammonia, a nitrogen nutrient spread at about 75 pounds to the acre, increased in Alberta to $265 from $125 a ton. A common phosphate fertilizer, 1148, with 48 pounds of phosphate per 100 of fertilizer, increased by $15 a ton to $195. This compared with the roughly $150-a-ton price farmers were paying last spring. Frank Spencer, public affairs officer with Imperial, said the increases were partly designed to eliminate the advantage of bootlegging fertilizers from Canada to the United States, when prices have ranged between $50 and $60 a ton higher than Alberta prices since the summer.

The fertilizer division of Sherritt Gordon Mines announced somewhat smaller price increases during December. The phosphate fertilizer, 1148, increased to $180 from $160, and anhydrous ammonia increased to $220 a ton from $180.

REFLECT INFLATION
Wille Janke, a company research agronomist and market co-ordinator, explained that the increases reflected over-all inflation, labor costs and recent increases in the price of natural gas.

He warned that there could be "quite a substantial price increase" again before spring, both for phosphate fertilizers and nitrogen products.

The problem with phosphates is the seemingly-diminishing supply of raw material from Florida, traditional source for Canadian fertilizer manufacturer. There are other troubles. The price for the phosphate rock, which requires 1.5 tons to produce one ton of fertilizer, has increased 900 per cent in the last three years. Current prices of about $70 a ton are double what they were a year ago.

Since natural gas is the largest single cost involved in producing nitrogen fertilizers, recent price increases in that fuel—doubled from previous 20-cent levels and scheduled to rise to 62 and 72 cents per 1,000 cubic feet—are drastically affecting these fertilizers.

Some companies with outstanding contracts are protected from these increases, but most contracts have been renegotiated in the last few months.

Mideast arms buildup continues

In another escalation of the Mideast arms buildup, Saudi Arabia announced on Thursday the purchase of $756 million worth of jet fighters from the United States. Authoritative sources in Washington said about 60 planes are involved and Saudi Arabia said the jets "will consolidate the kingdom's ability to defend its territory."

Saudi Arabia, the world's biggest oil exporter, said they will receive "several squadrons" of Northrop F-5E Tigers, a single-seater built primarily for export. The exact number of planes was not announced, but the current Saudi force of 50 F-5Es and F-5Bs is divided into two squadrons. Saudi Arabia's 43 Lightning fighters are also divided into two squadrons.

The Saudi-U.S. agreement was the second major arms purchase announced by Saudi Arabia in five weeks. On Dec. 4, Saudi officials signed an $860-million contract with France for 200 tanks, 250 armored cars and a surface-to-air missile network.

The latest agreement came amid arms buildups in Syria, Iran, Iraq and Israel and followed a Beirut newspaper report that Syria had agreed to station one or more squadrons of its Soviet-built Mig-21 and Mig-23 jet fighters in Lebanon along with Soviet-built missiles. Lebanon has denied this.

SIGNED CONTRACTS
The announcement by the Saudi state radio said two contracts wrapping up the agreement were signed Saturday in Riyadh by the Saudi defence minister, Prince Sultan Bin Abdul Aziz, and U.S. Ambassador James Akins.

Officials in Washington said the agreement was "part of our continuing military assistance program" to Saudi Arabia. They said in addition to planes, the Saudis would get spare parts, training for Saudi pilots and "some research and development."

In other Middle East developments—Diplomatic sources in Washington said Israel believes that another partial peace agreement in the Middle East can be produced only by U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger's direct intervention with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

—The Shah of Iran and Sadat met for nearly three hours in Cairo and discussed the Middle East, bilateral relations and international problems, Egyptian officials said. No details were given.

—Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat met in Damascus with Syrian President Hafez Assad and asked the Syrian leader to mediate with Jordan's King Hussein to obtain permission for the guerrillas to resume raids against Israel from Jordan, informed sources said. Assad's reaction was not known.

Says US asbestos firms avoid health regulations

WASHINGTON (CP)—United States manufacturers of asbestos products are moving their facilities out of the country rather than meet new federal health standards, an environmental group said Thursday.

The Maryland Public Interest Research Group, a private organization, said that by moving production to countries with few or no health regulations, the firms can take advantage of substantially lower costs and export the finished products—much of it produced with Canadian raw material—to the U.S. as a profit.

Asbestos as an alleged health hazard is at the centre of an issue raised by Dr. Morton Shulman, NDP member of the Ontario legislature, who said recently that reports indicate that asbestos in Ontario drinking water "can cause gastrointestinal cancer."

Shulman, who spoke of high levels of asbestos particles in

Licence plates due

SHERBROOKE (RM)—The Quebec department of transport's motor vehicle licensing bureau here says that it is expecting the word from Quebec City that will give the go-ahead to put the new 1975 licence plates on sale.

The bureau's manager said yesterday that the sale of the new plates, which will be white with green numbers, is presently scheduled to begin by the end of January.

The notice from Quebec generally comes a week before the sales begin.

There will be no change in the price of the plates this year.

open the question whether any of the newly-purchased jets would find their way to Egypt. Saudi Arabia's major ally in the Arab world, Egyptian President Sadat has complained that neither the Soviet Union nor any of the oil-rich Arab countries has done anything to replenish Egypt's arms losses in the 1973 Middle East war.

drinking water in communities along the Great Lakes, said the province was taking chances with the lives of Ontario residents by not acting promptly.

United States imports of asbestos textiles increased by 213 per cent during the 1968-73 period.

Of this amount, one million pounds came from countries with relatively stiff health regulations.

The remaining three million pounds, however, came from seven "unregulated" countries which—six years ago—had been shipping no asbestos textiles to the U.S.

HELD 51 PER CENT
By 1973, the seven unregulated countries had captured 51 per cent of the total U.S. import market.

Mexico, which exported no asbestos textiles to the U.S. in 1968, became second only to Canada as a textiles supplier by 1973. Taiwan, which had no exports as late as 1969, grew to become the fourth-largest supplier.

The Maryland group said that large amounts of Canadian raw material—once shipped directly to U.S. producers—now are shipped to Mexico.

Mexico produces no asbestos of its own and has no exposure limits for workers, the group said. The Canadian imports are turned into manufactured goods and shipped to the U.S.

Limits on the allowable amount of worker exposure to asbestos fibres in the U.S. remained static from 1938 through 1970.

The limit was cut by one-sixth of the old level in 1971 and is scheduled to be reduced by another 60 per cent in 1976, to the level adopted by Britain in 1968.

The Maryland body said the departure of asbestos manufacturers to unregulated countries is setting a pattern for the exodus of industries dealing with hazardous materials.

British oil tanker in distress

TOKYO (Reuter)—The British tanker British Ambassador sent out distress calls 180 miles west of two Jima island in the Pacific today and the London owners of the vessel reported the crew had abandoned ship.

A spokesman for British Petroleum (BP), owners of the 44,951-ton tanker, said in London that the vessel has a crew of 18 Britons and 31 Indians.

He said two British wives had also been aboard the vessel.

The spokesman said Captain M. J. Cannell and a small group of the crew had remained aboard the tanker, but the rest had taken to the lifeboats.

Two Japanese ships, a West

German ocean-going tug and Japanese and U.S. air force planes were all heading for the scene. The Japanese maritime safety agency reported in Tokyo.

The agency said a Japanese air force plane spotted the tanker with people still aboard.

The BP spokesman in London said the West German tug was expected to reach the spot Saturday.

He said the engine room of the tanker had been flooded by a leaking salt-water inlet pipe.

The spokesman said the cargo of crude oil, being taken from Saudi Arabia to the United States, was still intact.

LALONDE — 'no causal connection'

Comments on arsenic poison at Yellowknife

OTTAWA (CP)—Health Minister Marc Lalonde said Thursday there is nothing in an unpublished report to indicate that arsenic is responsible for sickness and death in Yellowknife.

"There is no causal connection," he told reporters seeking comment on the report, which indicated that arsenic came from gold mines that used it for refining. "It's purely a statistical analysis."

asked that it be made available to anyone who wants it."

He said the situation has improved since 1965: the Northwest Territories capital now has a water system, installed about the same time the report was prepared, that supplies water from a source far removed from the town's two gold mines.

"There is no arsenic content in the water."

However, he said, there still is a problem in Yellowknife Bay, which "appears to be somewhat contaminated" by seepage from one of the mines last year. The mine is being prosecuted under the Fisheries Act.

Yellowknife residents, some of whom still get their water from Great Slave Lake, are being warned not to use water from the bay at the northern end of the lake.

Strike slows gas supplies

MONTREAL (CP)—At least four service stations supplied by Shell Canada Ltd. ran out of gasoline Thursday, the seventh day of worker walkouts at four oil refineries and at a Union Carbide petrochemical plant.

About 30 other service stations had low supplies of gasoline or were already out of one of three Shell grades by noon, a company spokesman said.

Pickets at the company's marketing plant, not decreased production, were blamed by Shell for the breakdown in deliveries of gasoline to service stations and heating oil to homes.

"If marketing plant entrances continue to be illegally picketed with obstruction, a greater number of dealers, homeowners and industrial customers will be without essential Shell petroleum products within a few days," the spokesman said.

Other refineries affected by the walkout—BP Canada Ltd., Petrofina Canada Ltd. and Texaco Canada Ltd.—reported no similar shortages, but a Petrofina spokesman said pickets at refinery gates made deliveries difficult.

PRODUCTION NORMAL
Spokesmen for the refineries and Union Carbide said supervisory staff were maintaining production at normal levels.

The walkout began last Friday when 311 production and maintenance workers at Texaco, members of the International Union of Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers, went on strike for a $1.50-an-hour wage increase to offset the rise in the cost of living.

About 1,500 workers from two unions now are involved.

"It's one of the most complex labor disputes we've ever been involved in," said Union Carbide spokesman.

The company has received no demands from the United Oil Workers of Canada for wage increases and there have been no formal contacts with the union, he said.

CONTRACT VALID
The labor contract in force is valid until 1976 and provides for an eight-per-cent salary increase April 1 and a further three-per-cent increase Sept. 1.

"It's an illegal strike so we refuse to discuss until the return to work," said a BP spokesman.

The international union represents the Texaco strikers and 120 workers who walked out at BP. Workers at the other three plants—280 at Union Carbide, 250 at Petrofina and 550 at Shell—are members of the United Oil Workers of Canada.

About 360 Texaco employees in Ontario walked off the job at Port Credit and Toronto Tuesday in support of their Montreal counterparts. Texaco refused to permit the men to return to work Wednesday and a union spokesman described the situation as a lockout.

Company officials have declined comment.

11,000 workers to be laid off

More than 11,000 workers in the United States learned Thursday that they will be laid off their jobs indefinitely.

Auto manufacturers and companies that supply them accounted for most of the total, but United Airlines, New England Telephone Co. and Honeywell were among other companies that had bad news for some of their employees.

The announcement affecting the most workers was made by General Motors, which said it will put 2,800 employees at its Lordstown, Ohio, plant on indefinite layoff beginning Jan. 20.

In Indiana, three divisions of General Motors announced layoffs affecting a total of 1,335 employees.

In New Castle, Ind., Chrysler Corp. said 1,055 of the 3,900 workers at its casting division plant will be laid off Monday. Virtually the entire plant had been shut down in December until Jan. 6.

In Muscle Shoals, Ala., indefinite layoffs were announced for 165 hourly workers—about 15 per cent of the force—at a Ford Motor Co. plant where pistons and transmission parts are made.

In Akron, Ohio, a total of 2,948 layoffs across the U.S. were announced by three tire companies—Goodyear, Firestone and Seiberling.

In Eagle, Pa., Gindy Trailer Manufacturing Co. announced indefinite layoffs for nearly 65 per cent of its work force—a total of 515 white-and-blue-collar workers. A spokesman blamed lagging sales of truck trailers.

900 WORKERS IDLE
In Arcadia, N.Y., Motorola Inc. said it will lay off 375 administrative and production workers later this month. The layoffs bring the number of workers idled since Oct. 1 to 900, or more than half of the total employment at the Arcadia plant late in 1974. The plant manufactures parts for the auto industry.

In Winchester, Ky., Rockwell International Inc. said 190 of the 1,370 workers at its truck axle plant will be laid off indefinitely effective Monday. A spokesman said economic conditions have cut the demand for heavy duty trucks which use Rockwell axles.

In Chicago, United Airlines said it is furloughing 599 employees and reducing the number of its daily flights because of the economic slump and energy problems.

In Boston, New England Telephone Co. said it will lay off 75 management employees and 1,000 nonmanagement employees Feb. 1. The company said its growth rate has declined faster than expected.

In Waltham, Mass., the high technology and computer operations headquarters of Honeywell Inc. said about 800 of its 19,000 employees in U.S. computer operations will be laid off during the next six months at plants in the Boston area, Oklahoma City, Phoenix and San Diego. A spokesman said the move is part of "corporate effort to further improve operational effectiveness in an inflationary economy."

In West Bend, Wis., the West Bend Co. announced that it is laying off 140 employees in addition to about the same number laid off last month. The company, which manufactures electrical appliances, said record sales in 1974 had prompted it to expand its work force beyond its normal complement of about 3,000 and that many of the newly laid off employees had been hired as part of that expansion.

TO LAY OFF 180
In Attleboro, Mass., a division of Texas Instruments, a Dallas-based electronic equipment manufacturer, said 480 workers will be laid off by the end of the month. It laid off 440 workers in November out of a work force estimated to total about 5,000.

In one of the few announcements that affected workers for a specified period of time, Chrysler Corp. in Detroit said three of its six assembly plants and one of two truck plants will be closed next week. The cut will idle a total of 14,800 workers. Chrysler already has 47,500 of its 117,000 blue-collar workers on indefinite layoff.

Denmark Liberals win

COPENHAGEN (AP)—Premier Poul Hartling's Liberal party scored impressive gains in Thursday's national elections but still lacked parliamentary control.

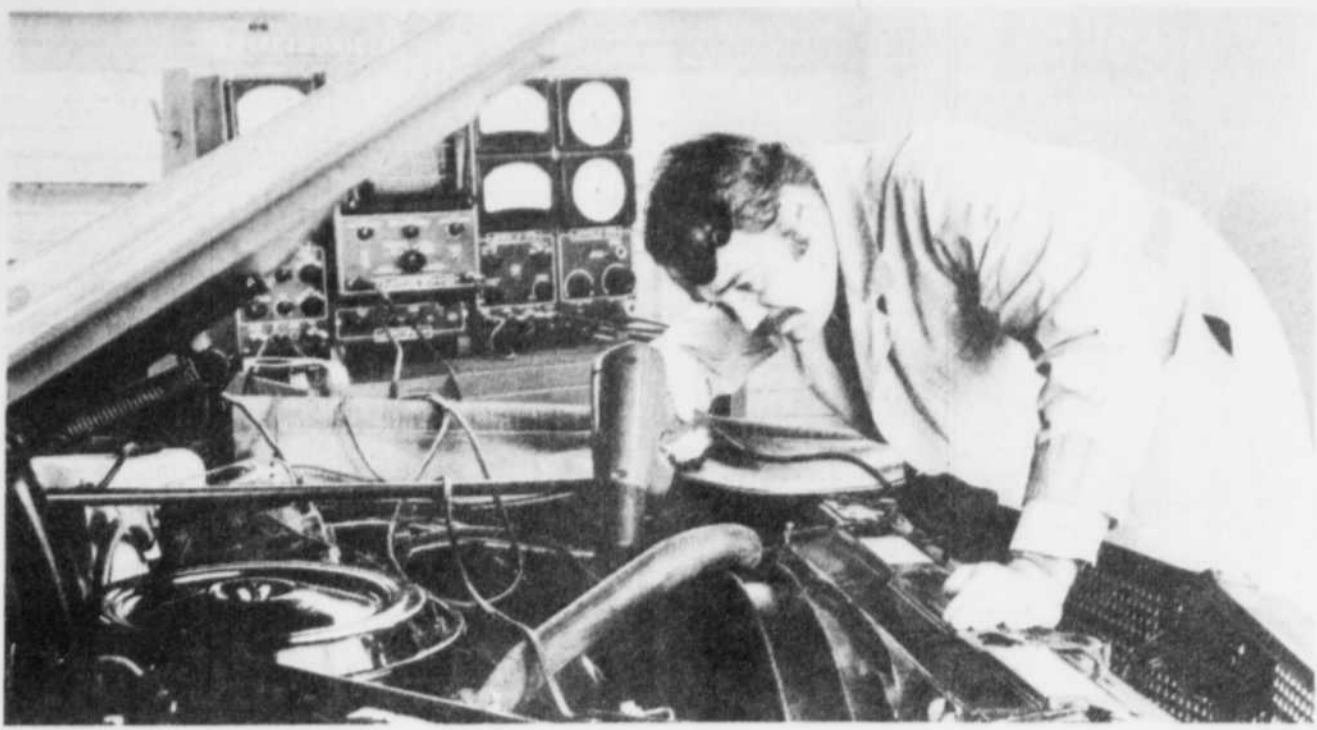

Nearly complete returns showed the Liberals increased their number of seats to 42 from 22 in the 179-member parliament, or Folketing. Their major opponents, the Social Democrats, remained Denmark's largest single party by winning seven more seats for a total of 53. The third-place Progress party lost ground slightly, dropping to 24 seats from 28, but remained a political force.

Other seats went to six minor parties but no workable Socialist or non-Socialist majority emerged from the balloting to break the political stalemate faced by Hartling's minority government.

Hartling called the elections hoping to build a power base to deal with the country's acute economic ills. But his Liberals swallowed so many other non-Socialist votes that the premier was left in a weakened position.

He now must decide whether to resign or try to form a new alliance.

More than 1,000 candidates from 11 parties were running for office, and the voters' scattered support meant more fragmented politics.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — All sectors were higher in light trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange Thursday.

Volume was 539,300 shares compared with 599,600 shares at Wednesday's close.

Industrials rose 3.87 to 169.48, the composite 3.17 to 167.13, banks 3.08 to 224.15, papers .81 to 100.24 and utilities .76 to 128.10.

What stocks did:

	Thurs.	Wed.
Advances	106	83

Declines	49	65
Unchanged	26	31
Totals	181	179

Most active industrial was Imperial Oil A, up 1% to $25% after trading 10,127 shares.

Most active mine was Bison Petroleum Ltd., unchanged at $6% after trading 25,800 shares.

Oil issues were higher. Dome Petroleum rose 1 1/2 to $21, Gulf Oil 1 1/2 to $26 1/2, Pacific Petroleum 1/2 to $15 1/2, Shell Canada 1/2 to $12 1/2, Pan Ocean Oil 1/2 to $7 1/2, Bay Oil and Gas 1/2 to $20 while Husky Oil fell 3/4 to $13 1/2.

Among Montreal Stock Exchange issues to move higher were Great-West Life Assurance, up 3 1/2 to $50 1/2, B. C. Telephone 1 1/2 to $48 1/2, Dominion Bridge $1 to $20, Canadian Arena $1 to $15, Canadian Cable systems $1 to $11 1/2, Provincial Bank 1/2 to $13 1/2, Bank Canadian National 1/2 to $13 1/2, I.U. Among speculative issues, Belleterre Quebec Mines fell three cents to 75 cents on a volume of 23,000 shares traded.

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market closed Thursday with another broad gain in its longest running rally in almost a year. Trading was moderate.

Although lagging somewhat in early trading, prices rose steadily during the afternoon to close higher for the 10th straight session the longest uninterrupted rise since last February.

The industrial index rose 2.26 to 166.98, highest since Oct. 22. Its 10-day gain totals more than 13 points.

The western oil index was one of the strongest in the market, up 5.43 to 134.06, a high since

Nov. 18, and base metals gained 1.41 to 60.37. Golds eased slightly following strong gains on Wednesday, with the index off 1.25 to 386.84.

Advances outnumbered declines by three to one.

What stocks did:

	Thurs.	Wed.
Advances	350	342
Declines	104	132
Unchanged	176	165
Total	630	639

Analysts cite several factors contributed to the rally, including the trend to lower interest rates. They say there has been more institutional activity this week after the lull during the holiday period.

Western oil shares, long-depressed by the dispute between federal and provincial governments on resource taxation, appear more attractive since Alberta's recent announcement of incentives to the industry.

Volume increased to 2.29 million shares from 2.26 million shares Wednesday. Value of shares traded was down to $17.76 million from $18.37 million.

Among the largest gains in industrials were oil refining, construction and material and merchandising shares. Beverages were slightly lower.

In industrials, Imperial Oil A rose 1 1/2 to $25 1/2, Northern Electric 1 1/2 to $18, Dome Pete 1 1/2 to $21, Gulf Canada 1 1/2 to $26 1/2 and Dominion Bridge 1 1/2 to $20 1/2.

Hollinger Mines A gained 2 1/2 to $25 1/2, Pine Point 1/2 to $26 1/2, Hudson Bay Mining A 1/2 to $15 and International Chemical 40 cents to $2.15.

Quebec Sturgeon lost 3/4 to $5 and Camflo 1/2 to $12 1/2.

Namac was up 1/2 to $10 1/2 and Total Pete 55 cents to $4.90.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — A late wave of buying carried the stock market to a solid gain Thursday, reviving Wall Street's New Year's rally just when it appeared to be running out of momentum.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had been on the minus side for the day as late as two hours before the close, wound up with a 9.86 point gain at 645.26.

It was the highest close for the closely followed market barometer since last Nov. 15, when it finished at 647.71.

WHAT STOCKS DID

	Thurs.	Wed.
Advances	973	687

Declines 420 728
Unchanged 379 377
Total 1,772 1,792

Advances outweighed declines 973 to 420 among the 1,772 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index rose .61 to 37.77.

NYSE volume accelerated to 16.34 million shares from 15.60 million shares Wednesday, with most of the increase showing up in the late afternoon.

Prices held reasonably steady a fact which in itself probably helped stimulate the bounce that came toward the close.

Hay baler carrier gives town industry

KILLARNEY, Man. (CP) — An idea, a few friends and some expertise provided through a federal government program have launched a promising business in this southwestern Manitoba community.

The man with the idea was Bob Shaw, a former blacksmith and mink rancher who saw the business possibilities in developing a machine that could conveniently load and carry the increasingly popular 1,500-pound round hay bales.

He went to work and with five friends putting up $30,000 in collateral, the local bank adding a $60,000 loan, and the government providing a team of experts from its counselling assistance for small enterprises (CASE), the venture was launched.

Mr. Shaw recently unveiled his bale carrier and it passed impressively. So impressively that the manufacturer of the round-baler has ordered 60 of the implements for distribution throughout the Prairies and northern United States.

Behind the entire project are the round bales—1,500 pounds large and almost six feet in diameter.

The major problem has been transporting them from the fields back to the farm yard for cattle feeding.

Mr. Shaw had been involved in repairing farm equipment and blacksmithing much of his life. While he was repairing one of the balers, he learned of the need for a machine to transport the huge bales.

FORM COMPANY

With the assistance of co-worker Ken Vandenberg—they formed B and K Industries Ltd.—Mr. Shaw tried several ideas before settling on his latest machine. It is hydraulically-operated and can pick up three of the bales in less than five minutes.

For now, B and K Industries is situated in two buildings on the Shaw farm just south of here. About six men, all welders and metal cutters, are employed and producing three of the carriers a day.

Mr. Shaw said production soon will be up to six a day with each selling for about $2,900.

Jim Winter, regional co-ordinator for CASE, said projections indicate Mr. Shaw's enterprise will be "really in the money" by the end of three years.

CASE is perhaps the forgotten

AMC announces new small car, "Pacer"

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors' (AMC) newest little car is the Pacer, a two-door, four-passenger hatchback that was to go on display today in Palm Springs, Calif.

It is expected to go on sale in March.

The Pacer is the first of a new generation of small cars planned by AMC, which launched the American small-car trend with the Rambler and American in the late 1950s.

Similar to AMC's Gremlin, but slightly longer and with more interior and glass space, Pacer will carry a higher price tag. Industry estimates put the price between $3,000 and $3,500, compared with about $2,800 for part of the new business. It was founded two years ago to assist small businesses in the key area of management. It utilizes the skills and experience of retired businessmen.

Two counsellors were assigned when Mr. Shaw requested help. They were Bill Robertson, former sales manager for a farm equipment dealer, and Jim Martin, who has an engineering background and helped with technical details.

"We will continue to follow up on the general administration of this little factory," said Mr. Winter, "making sure accounting and inventory controls are in order."

Gremlin. It has a hatchback, or third door on the back end.

Sources say AMC is hoping to sell 80,000 of the new Pacers during the last half of the 1975 model year. That is almost 25 per cent of AMC's sales for 1974.

Industry analysts say Pacer is a much bigger financial investment for AMC than Gremlin, which sold well when it was introduced in 1970.

Pacer weighs 2,995 pounds and comes with a standard 232-cubic-inch, six-cylinder engine. The car is expected to get about 16 miles to the gallon in city driving and 23 miles a gallon on the highway.

UAC strike goes on... and on...and on

MONTREAL (CP) — One of Quebec's bitterest labor conflicts, plagued by violence and unresolved by frequent government attempts at mediation, has reached its first anniversary without immediate hopes of an end.

A year ago on Jan. 7, 1974, 2,400 members of Local 510 of the United Auto Workers Union walked off the job at four plants near Montreal of United Aircraft of Canada Ltd., which manufactures jet aircraft engines.

When the men went on strike officially two days later, they had been without a contract for more than three months. Besides wage demands, the company did not agree to the union's request to implement the Rand formula, which requires all employees to pay union dues without being obliged to join the union.

During the last year about 1,400 workers have trickled back to the job while the remaining strikers vow to continue the struggle. The last round of on-again, off-again negotiations ended in December with no future talks planned.

POLITICAL SUBPLOTS

Woven into the strike have been political subplots on federal, provincial and municipal levels.

The community of Longueuil, across the St. Lawrence River from Montreal, became involved when it was revealed the company had been paying $804 daily for special protection from city police.

When discussion on the issue reached the Longueuil city hall debating floor, the special police protection soon ended.

Police had been needed to quell the frequent riots, bombings and assaults that characterized the strike at various intervals.

Several times pickets were blamed for attacking some of the 2,000 office employees who continued working.

The strike has become a nightmare for Jean Cournoyer, Quebec labor minister, who has frequently tried to intervene personally or through his department to arrange resumption of negotiations.

Mr. Cournoyer said in November "the strike is the most difficult problem I've been faced with in the last 10 years."

A month later, Mr. Cournoyer said he had removed himself from personal involvement in any future government attempts to end the strike.

OTTAWA INVOLVED

The federal government also became involved.

United Aircraft, a recipient of about $71 million in federal subsidies in the last 10 years, was shipping some of its contracts to United States-based sister plants during the strike. The company is a subsidiary of United Aircraft Corp. of East Hartford, Conn.

The federal government ordered the company to give it detailed accounts of production shipped to the U.S. and to state plans for its repatriation.

The company maintained it had always been doing just that.

Prime Minister Trudeau hinted the federal government would take over the troubled company but later backed down on the proposition.

During the strike, production at the plants had been reduced by two-thirds but has gradually picked up momentum as workers returned or new ones were hired.

WORKERS RETURNED

Many returned when the company announced wage increases of 23 per cent. This increased the average wage of production workers to $4.75 from $3.85.

The company had already offered a 34-per-cent wage increase in a three-year contract with limited cost-of-living adjustments for the second and third years.

That offer was refused by the union, which had also turned down the original 31-per-cent wage increase. It wanted a $1.25 hourly wage increase and cost-of-living adjustments four times annually with no ceiling on possible increases.

Under a joint program of the Department of Education of Québec, the Council of Ministers of Education (Canada) and the Department of the Secretary of State, 1,585 bursaries are offered to Québec students at the post-secondary level, who wish to follow intensive courses (6 weeks) in French or English as a second language, during the summer of 1975, in Québec and in the other provinces.

Requirements for eligibility

The following are eligible: students who will be completing their secondary-level studies (Secondary V) at the end of school year 1974/75, university students and CEGEP students. Each applicant must meet the following requirements:

- (1) be a Canadian citizen or a "landed immigrant";
- (2) have reached the age of 16 years by December 31, 1974;
- (3) be a full-time student, during school year 1974/75.

N.B.: For the purpose of this program, will be deemed a full-time student, a student of college or university level who registered for the 1974 fall session and the 1975 winter session.

The bursary covers tuition fees, board and lodging and participation in socio-cultural activities. Transportation to and from the place of study must be paid for by the student. The bursary will be paid to the institution the student will attend.

The bursaries will not be granted in the order of receiving the students' letters requesting application forms but in the order that duly completed application forms are received by the department.

Students who obtained a bursary last year may apply again for the summer of 1975.

A number of Québec students will have to follow the courses in Québec itself, as the number of students who can be sent to other provinces will be LIMITED to specific quotas.

Application forms for a bursary may be obtained from:

You deserve a retirement savings plan. You could use a tax deduction.

You work hard for it.

You work hard and you should be getting some of the breaks — you should be getting a tax deduction. You should also be putting money away for your future because, let's face it, you're not going to be able to work forever.

What you can do about it.

What you need is a retirement savings plan — something you put aside every year — that also gets you a tax deduction.

Royal Trust makes it easy.

Royal Trust has a new system that makes having a retirement savings plan easy. You put away as much as you want, whenever you want. Either a lump sum or so much a week, so much a month, just like a savings account. You probably won't even notice it, but it'll build up. You'll have money put away for your future and a tax deduction each and every year you contribute. And we'll go one step further. We'll lend you the money.

Decide what you want. We can help you.
Retirement Savings Plan.

Junior Diary

We're back with Junior Diary after the holiday break. Today we begin a new mind-twisting word-scramble contest.

This contest is only for children of Townships elementary schools. No relatives of Record employees or Radio Shack employees are permitted to take part. Radio Shack is sponsoring this contest and the two contest winners will each receive a ten dollar gift certificate to use at the store located at 41 Wellington St. S., 563-3277.

The contest ends in two weeks: Friday, Jan. 24. Send your entries to The Sherbrooke Record, Junior Diary, Box 1200, Sherbrooke, Que.

So here goes! The following scrambled letters if put in the proper order spell the names of 10 rivers in the Eastern Townships. Good luck!

Women's exhibition planned

SHERBROOKE (RH) — Organizers of a women's exposition, to be held in the Sports Palace between May 14 and 18, 1975 revealed part of their program at a press conference held yesterday afternoon.

Jean-Pierre Bertrand, president of the commercial organization which is holding its fifth annual exhibit here, explained that there will be 125 stands at the event — all featuring a different aspect of women's life. Tentatively planned are fashion and beauty booths, exhibits on family and social affairs, interior decorating, floral design, food, arts and crafts, literature, health and beauty, careers, professions and sciences, leisure and recreation, woman and culture, and women in society.

Seven women and approximately thirty men attended the press conference to introduce the event.

Although the exposition will correspond with International Women's Year, it is an independent function.

Mayor Jacques O'Bready spoke briefly at the reception offering his support of the project and endorsing the concept.

Asbestos mines feel affect of province-wide transport strike

SHERBROOKE — The five day old strike by 2500 truckers in the province has apparently not affected the food and construction industry in the region so far, sources in the industries said yesterday.

However, the asbestos mines in the Townships are beginning to feel the pinch of the walkout by the members of the Teamsters Union, local 106, which has halted work at 40 Quebec trucking firms.

Williams-Aito Construction Ltd. president James Aito said that the strike has had no effect on his company, adding that he has not considered the situation and how it would affect the firm so far.

A major Townships construction material supplier said that as of yet, no comment on possible effects of the strike, which began Sunday night after negotiations between the firms and the union broke down, has been heard from construction people in their office.

FOOD STORES

As for grocery stores, the managers of two large Sherbrooke supermarkets said that they also have not been affected by the conflict thus far, pointing out that their stores are stocked from trucks owned by their store owners.

One of the managers, however, said that stock could arrive late if the strike goes on "for weeks and weeks."

A news release from the employer's negotiating committee issued Tuesday afternoon said that the strike would "prove disastrous" to food product distribution and that "the impact could also be felt in Quebec construction projects" in some areas of the province, including the Eastern Townships.

But the committee's claim that the mining industry would also be affected looks to be becoming reality.

ASBESTOS MINES

A spokesman for Canadian Johns-Manville in Asbestos said that the strike has affected the distribution of mined asbestos from both Asbestos and Thetford Mines.

The mined asbestos is loaded into containers which are usually carried off to plants and seaports on trucks driven by Teamsters members, the spokesman said.

He added that Thetford Mines would feel the effects more than other asbestos mining towns in the Townships, due to the fact that unemployment is already a problem there.

According to Omer Malboeuf, president of Teamsters local 106, which is headquartered in Montreal, there have been no new developments in the strike.

60 PERCENT OF INDUSTRY

The conflict began when four months of negotiations, including a try at conciliation, broke down at the end of December. The drivers then decided to stop work and man picket lines at the 40 companies they work for, which constitute about 60 per cent of the province's road transport industry.

At the negotiating table, the drivers wanted $2 an hour over a two year contract, while the companies offered $1.58 an hour.

In their Tuesday release, the firms said that, "after the effects of inflation on the cost of fuel and rolling stock, among others...the last (shipping) rate increases authorized by the (Quebec Transport) Commission were clearly inadequate and could not possibly meet the demands of the union."

The firms added that the work stoppage "also affects between four and five thousand non-unionized employees in the transportation industry."

UNION POLICY

Asked by The Record what the Teamsters' policy towards those trucking firms not hit by their strike is, Mr. Malboeuf replied that local headquarters does not order the stopping or harassment of working companies and their vehicles on the road.

He did admit, though, that, with so many strikers, it is inevitable that they will take such action upon themselves.

Mr. Malboeuf said that he personally has heard of about 40 incidents in the Montreal area where working trucks have been stopped or damaged by strikers. In Sherbrooke, the largest picket line was at the gates of Sherbrooke Express on Bourque Boulevard, where about 30 strikers acted peacefully while numerous trucks on the highway passed by them.

But police security by the Quebec Police Force appeared to be stepped up in the area, where a number of trucking firms, some of which are not strike-hit, are located.

REPORTERS STOPPED

While following a semi-trailer rig near Sherbrooke Express early yesterday afternoon, two Record reporters were stopped by provincial police officers, who searched over the car they were driving in. They were soon released.

One of the officers at the incident said that there were three or four, "and maybe more," police cruisers, both marked and unmarked, in the area.

A spokesman at the Sherbrooke detachment of the QPF said that only the usual number of officers and equipment were being used in their district yesterday.

The QPF said that, in the interest of remaining equal in the conflict, they are not providing any escort service to any trucks on the road.

He also said that no reports of working trucks being bothered by the strikers yesterday.

IN SHERBROOKE

Sherbrooke police, however, while having no formal report, said that they heard of one Sherbrooke truck company trucks had difficulty out of the city.

A spokesman for the municipal force said that the department was surveilling two or three working truck yards in the city.

Sherbrooke Snow Shoe Club

By LES HUMPHRIES

On Wednesday night some 90 members of the Sherbrooke Snow Shoe Club sat down to a meat pie supper served by the new members who are gaining experience each week - by the end of the season they should be eligible to serve in the best "Hamburger Joint" in town.

Cecil Blenkhorn started the sing-song with a couple of jokes???

Irv. Richards even knew the tunes of the songs picked this week and survived the counter-melody that came from the Red Party corner.

Everyone discarded their Half and Half Tickets when Robert Irving was declared the lucky holder of the winning number.

Two new members, Claude Beauvage and Joe Scott were attending their first meeting and were introduced to the membership after which Honorary President Gordon Dougall explained the purpose of the Club, the rigid adherence to the constitution, and quoting a former Past President, Cliff Bryant, stated "You only get out of the club, what you put into it", in other words, if you want to sit on the side lines and watch, that's your business, but if you want to have fun and enjoy yourself, get involved.

The Red party unveiled a scroll while George Jobel explained that as this is the "Year of the Lion", a listing of Lions Limited would be added weekly. Trust the Red Party to provide interest and keep everyone on their toes.

As this meeting was billed "Sports night", it was the duty of club captain John Hurd and his assistant Louis Simard to supervise the programme. They, in turn, called on Treasurer Al Simons to introduce Andre Coulombe, who is a holder of the Black Belt in Karate and operates a school in that art in Sherbrooke.

Along with Andre were 10 of his students who demonstrated the techniques required for the Yellow, Maroon, Green and Black Belts. Concentration is as important as strength and the Block and Kick must be executed very speedily to defend oneself should an assailant attack. The group was thanked, on behalf of the Club, by President Don Lyon.

Next Wednesday is Tuque Rouge Night. For many years the tradition has been to have inter-club visits. Last year they were our guests, this year we will be theirs. Let's make a special effort to be at their club house on Belvedere Road at 8:15 p.m. and enjoy the Hospitality of our Fellow Snow-shoers.

Stanstead College

By IVY HATCH (Record Correspondent)

Holidays are over and all are back in the swing of mid term. Staff and students are back and classes resumed the morning of January 6 after a pleasant recess.

January 11 there are several games on tap. The JV hockey team will be playing Lower Canada College at 11 a.m. in the city, and at noon, the Bantam A hockey team will be playing there. Three basketball games are scheduled for January 11 at the Seminar at Sherbrooke, the Bantams at 2 p.m.; Varsity, at 3 p.m.; and JV at 2 p.m.

Mid-term break is the first weekend in February and the evening of February 1, the Windsor ballroom in Montreal will be a replica of Rock Island. This is a "Blast in the Past" arranged by the Alumni Association Executive.

The Border Theater, with cartoons and bingo will be depicted, as will be the bar of the Del Monty, the customs crossing, a night hop in the Sunnyside gym, a swinging band with musicians wearing Stanstead College Lettermen sweaters and music of the fifties and sixties. Also the Amoron gym and trusty old smoker, and guess what? Happy's Diner and the P & M with Paul and Mary (Chamberlain) there dishing out hot dogs, curly Q's and pop at the bewitching hour of midnight will also be represented. There will be shared of the past at Stanstead College and many former students will be wearing clothing of those earlier fashions: skirts and blazers, school sweaters, dapper duds as a little nostalgia of the Border takes place in the Windsor.

Friends are cordially invited to go along with Alumni Tickets and more information are available by contact with the alumni business office, 5065 Westmore Ave., Montreal.

Toward Denouement

President Ford's energy-saving policy, to be announced soon, may achieve its immediate objective and reduce the United States' oil imports by a million barrels a day from their current volume of about 6 million. But such drastic measures as heavy gasoline taxes, or even rationing, will touch only the periphery of a problem beyond the control of any single nation. The simple fact is that the world economy, as it is presently organized, cannot long support the burden of the oil-producing nations' huge profits.

In the last year, since prices were suddenly quadrupled, the importers of North America, Europe and Japan were able to pay their bills to the oil cartel at the cost of growing exchange deficits. A group of experts writing in Foreign Affairs warns, however, that 1974 "will surely prove to have been an easy year... Now a denouement, or a succession of denouements, is rapidly approaching." Hobart Rowen, the respected financial editor of the Washington Post, adds that "it may be a matter of just a few months before one or more countries announces that it can no longer pay for its oil, the bankruptcy carrying with it some banks and private companies."

The dangers facing the whole international exchange system overshadow, and almost dwarf, the domestic problems within the nations. Lacking some workable arrangements to recycle OPEC's mountainous accumulation of currency reserves, the separate economic policies of all nations in the Western world will be endangered.

Various plans have been suggested to forestall the common threat. Secretary of State Kissinger proposes a fund of $25 billion, financed by the United States and other rich nations, which would make loans to those already in serious deficit. But a fund of that size, even if it could be created, would not last long when the importers' total deficits in the next five years seem likely to reach $300 billion as things are going now. Clearly a much larger pool of capital, for use over a much longer period, is needed and it cannot be financed unless the exporters are willing to invest their capital in it.

This is the nubbin of the problem — to convince OPEC that it should lend its money abroad on a long-term instead of a short-term basis. While buying into some foreign corporations, on a relatively small scale so far, the producers have refused to participate in any joint scheme which they would not control. They prefer to put most of their surplus profits into bank accounts or other liquid debt instruments with the right to withdraw it at their own convenience. The private banking systems of the world cannot manage such massive money flows, on such erratic and incalculable terms.

If an adequate recycling mechanism is to be invented the producers will certainly demand a full share in its management, assuming that they agree to co-operate at all. In this year's planned conferences between producers and consumers these possibilities will be explored, but as the consumers' deficits pile up the time for action to prevent a financial breakdown is running out.

At best, any arrangement for the next five years or so will only buy time that the consumers can use to conserve their own energy resources and develop alternatives. Meanwhile their debt to the producers, whatever form it may take, will accumulate and, in the end, can be paid only by their exports of goods and services. If they try, individually, to restrict their own imports and export their own troubles, thus bedeviling international trade, all of them, and the producers, too, will suffer a joint catastrophe. And as a great trading nation Canada will be one of the first victims.

President Ford may curtail the United States' consumption of oil but much more than his domestic measures can hope to achieve is urgently required on a worldwide basis.

Opinion from the French-language press

This is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Montreal Le Jour: It is certainly with some worry that a Canadian prime minister goes to Washington to meet a United States president. Very often these "summits" unfold as though the Canadian politician had to operate under the threat of being openly raked over the coals.

One does not know if these feelings were Mr. Trudeau's when he met Mr. Ford, but that surely was the impression gained by thousands of people.

Canada is always at the mercy of the U.S. We are always the first to suffer the consequences of the economic difficulties of our neighbors, and no Canadian finance minister can concoct a budget without first taking into account the factors which direct American economic policy.

This restriction is imposed on us not only by America's incredible power but also by the size of our commercial relations. Oil was in the forefront of the meeting in Washington and it is fortunate that Mr. Trudeau did not bend before American protest against a reduction of our oil exports to the U.S.

The hope which many Americans still entertain, that we will change our minds, must not endure. It must be clearly understood that Canada is to a great degree engaged in survival in this area and that there is no question of compromise.

More basic, certainly, are the prime minister's replies to American worries. It is apparent, in both the White House and the business circles which have access to it, that the new Canadian nationalism often is considered suspect.

They complain about meagre Canadian military participation in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization; they misunderstand Canadian worries about the oil tankers that sail past the West Coast and the fears fostered by the behavior of U.S. businesses polluting the Great Lakes. This misunderstanding, or simple bad faith towards Canada, is in the end only the price we must pay for decades of silence and submission to American interests.

We must not only continue our current level of military participation in NATO but seriously study a reduction; in the area of environmental protection, we must fight continuously, especially to stop the U.S. from reducing already-timid ecological programs in the Great Lakes in the name of measures to protect the economy.

As for energy, we must solemnly declare that the day is gone when Canada was considered the back yard of the U.S.

The response of the U.S. to these patently non-radical policies will demonstrate whether it is possible to imagine normal relations between the countries. —Gil Courtemanche Dec. 6 beginning of a new year we can try to divine the great directions a people will take, the growth curves of various free economies and the unravellings or stagnation of political and military crises.

There is every chance that the months to come will be nothing but the logical followup to those which ended Dec. 31, 1974.

Among the industrialized countries affected by the current economic crisis, Canada no doubt remains, with West Germany, one of the least disturbed.

We can hope for a certain relative stability in the Canadian economy in 1975, with the normal slowdown for a time of crisis. But nothing seems to presage that the recession will reach such proportions that we must take a fatalistic or alarmist attitude.

We surely do not live in a reassuring time, each setback in an industrialized country being felt by our economy. We possess, nevertheless, a margin of autonomy in our natural resources.

How will we live in 1975, after the first chapter of the inflationary psychosis of 1974? We can easily see that the enthusiasm of workers and popular groups to support the purchasing power of small-wage earners through indexing salaries to the cost of living will continue.

It appears that governments in both Ottawa and Quebec City should form firm policies on inflation and indexing.

In reality, changes in the traditional economic balance demand an adjustment of all our concepts of salary and work. We did not speak of indexing until recently, at least not as a kind of universal social remedy.

It is more than time that we analyse all its implications and proceed to a reformulation of the socio-economic advantages to which workers have a right.

For 1975, it seems that political and economic discussion will primarily be about indexing, with all the ramifications that entails. —Jean Desros Jan. 2

Montreal La Presse: How many people admire the members of the Quebec national assembly? Very few, if one can believe the polls.

Three of four Quebecers believe the members do not deserve a salary increase. One must remember that no one can admire that which he does not respect in general. people hardly respect Quebec legislators. How can they? The legislators do not even respect one another. The invective and gutter-language used by members of the legislature hardly differ from that of the underworld. It is true that some among them frequent it.

But a great number of Quebec legislators seem to be incapable of elementary self-discipline. That is why strict sanctions should be imposed against violators, especially when they abuse their parliamentary immunity.

Verbal rashness, however, is not the only fault of the members. While they have to sit only seven or eight months a year, more than two-thirds of the 110 members are constantly absent from the legislature.

Even more than lack of verbal restraint or absence from the legislature, it is deception that undermines the credibility of members. How can union members, for example, believe that their salary demands are exaggerated when legislative members vote themselves increases, including retroactivity and indexing, of nearly 50 per cent?

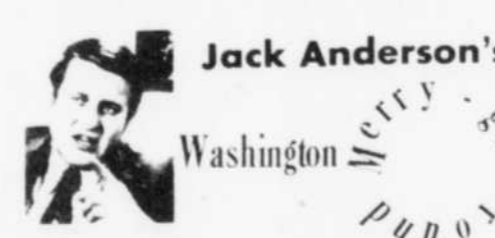

To re-establish their credibility, political parties must eliminate the grave-diggers of democracy, namely legislature members unworthy of their positions. Political cleanliness is even more important than union cleanliness.

But the work cannot be done without serious parliamentary reforms. —Ivan Guay Dec. 28

'GAD... I WISH THE C.I.A. COULD START SOMETHING SOMEWHERE SO WE GET THE DAMN ECONOMY ROLLING AGAIN!'

Files clear CIA

WASHINGTON — The Central Intelligence Agency's secret files on American citizens, according to sources who have had access to them, show no evidence of widespread domestic surveillance by the CIA.

Our sources confirm The New York Times report that the CIA has the names of at least 10,000 American citizens in its files. But most of the names were furnished by domestic agencies as part of an intelligence exchange that was established after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The largest batch of names — a computerized printout listing 9,000 antiwar agitators, new leftists and ghetto militants — was turned over to the CIA in 1969 by the Justice Department's civil disturbance unit.

The unit chief, James Devine, arranged to deliver the names to the CIA's anti-terrorist expert, Richard Ober, who had made a study of radical movements overseas.

From the 9,000 names, the CIA picked out those who had received training or had participated in demonstrations overseas. This information was relayed back to the Justice Department for its guidance in dealing with domestic demonstrators.

The CIA prepared reports, for example, on Black Panthers who had received guerrilla training in Libya and demolition instruction in North Korea. The CIA also identified Arab students in America who had alleged ties with the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Nov. 20, 1972, we reported that the CIA was involved in this exchange.

We quoted from one CIA memo, which offered the latest gossip on Eartha Kitt's sex life in Paris. This information was provided to the Secret Service, which had started an investigation of the entertainer after she had embarrassed Lady Bird Johnson by asking a pointed question about the Vietnam War at a Jan. 18, 1968, White House luncheon.

Quite obviously, neither the CIA nor the Secret Service has any business prying into Eartha Kitt's private life.

The exchange of derogatory information between agencies increased after the Warren Commission, investigating President Kennedy's assassination, complained about the lack of collaboration.

Thereafter, the agencies began to alert one another to intelligence that might be of interest and to request information that might be helpful in their investigations. Information about people was cranked into computers, which could produce detailed life histories at the push of a button.

The FBI sent a liaison man, Sam Papich, to work with the CIA. He worked long hours, straightening out differences over jurisdiction and operational approaches.

This cooperation was abruptly cancelled by the late FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover because of a silly dispute over a missing Czechoslovakian defector. The defector-turned-professor, Thomas Riha, disappeared from the University of Colorado on March 15, 1969. An FBI agent reported to the CIA that he had gone to Montreal to put after a domestic squabble. Hoover demanded to know the identity of the CIA's FBI informant; the CIA refused to reveal it, so Hoover shut off the liaison. Not until several months after his death was the cooperation resumed.

Footnote: Riha never turned up. Subsequently, a woman named Gayla Tannenbaum was arrested for his alleged murder and committed to Pueblo State Hospital as mentally incompetent.

Record Yester Years

20 YEARS AGO TODAY

January 10 — An atomic scientist said that the time for controlled atomic disarmament may have "irretrievably passed" due to swelling U.S. and Russian A-bomb stockpiles.

The Sherbrooke Fire Department answered three calls in what was described as a "very busy weekend". The most serious was a two alarm blaze at a Wellington Street restaurant.

Large additions of French-Language books to the French Sherbrooke Library were announced. The Toronto Globe and Mail was offered for sale.

January 11 — The prime time TV listings offered Milton Berle, Truth or Consequences, and, on the CBC, the NBC Spectacular.

Dag Hammarskold, Secretary-General of the United Nations, returned from Red China, where he met with premier Chou En-lai.

The Progressive Conservatives blamed the nation's Liberal of the lack of a strong fiscal policy for, among other things, the unemployment situation.

The Veteran's Land Act convention was being held in Sherbrooke, "with a full program of discussions and lectures taking place." Topics included "Operational Delays, How to Avoid Them," and a lecture on how to select a building site and its valuation.

January 12 — "Samson and Delilah," claimed the "Greatest Love Story since the Beginning of Man and Woman!" was playing in a Sherbrooke cinema. It starred Hedy Lamarr, Victor Mature and George Sanders.

An "air raider," allegedly belonging to Venezuela, fired bursts from its machine guns into parts of San Jose, Costa Rica, before it was shot down by anti-aircraft batteries.

A mid-air collision between two airliners near a Kentucky airport killed 17.

The Montreal Canadiens were leading the five other National Hockey League teams with 57 points in 42 games. Following were Detroit (with 53 points), Toronto (46), Boston (35), New York (29) and Chicago (24).

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

January 10 — A report from the Inter-Allied Financial Conference read: "After arguing all yesterday afternoon, finance ministers of international powers got lost in such a jungle of figures that they finally turned the problem over to united experts of all nations, who spent the greater part of the night trying to decide, among other things, exactly how much Belgium had received under her priority privilege."

Meanwhile, an eminent British financial authority warned that, unless Germany's reparation indemnity was reduced and the French left the Rhineland, another European war was inevitable.

A new method of treating cancer, which involved the cutting of the nerve leading to the cancerous growth, was announced by a Leningrad doctor.

A picture cross word puzzle competition showed a drawing of a man ringing a bell and wearing a sandwich board reading "Wanted — A Wife. The One I Had Died."

The family

Wrigley-Middleton wed

STANSTEAD — A lovely winter wedding took place on Saturday afternoon, January 4, at two o'clock at Centenary Church, Stanstead, Quebec, when Penelope "Penny" Ann, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E.C. Middleton of Stanstead, became the bride of Mr. Donald Barton Wrigley, only son of Rev. and Mrs. Donald E. Wrigley of Waterville, Maine.

The wedding music was played at the organ by Mrs. Alice McHarg Prior to the ceremony, the soloist, Mrs. Robert Little of Huntingville, sang the New Version of the twenty-third Psalm and during the signing of the register, The Marriage Prayer.

Rev. G.W. Stokes, assisted by Rev. Mr. Wrigley officiated for the double-ring ceremony. After the marriage vows were exchanged the bride and groom holding hands and facing each other sang the duet "More."

The church was decorated with poinsettias, a lighted Christmas tree and red rose arrangements. The bride was escorted down the aisle on the arm of her father and given in marriage by her parents.

The bride's gown was an original model, styled and made by Miss Gail Tucker of Huntingville, of white suede satin fashioned on princess lines with long full sleeves gathered to wide cuffs having self covered buttons, with buttons from the standing collar down the front to an unpressed pleated front panel. Her chapel veil of cascading tulle was held in place by a cluster of orange blossoms centred with silver seeds and nylon strings tipped with orange blossoms having pearl centers. She carried a colonial of red sweetheart roses, white poms, miniature carnations and baby's breath encircled with holly.

The maid of honor, Miss Ruth Batchelder, of Derby, Vt., as maid of honor was in a gown of burgundy crepe, she wore a pink ribbon in her hair and carried a long stemmed pink rose having matching color streamers.

The bridesmaids, Misses Heather and Diane Middleton, sisters of the bride, wore gowns made by Heather, having emerald green crepe skirts with floral printed bodices on antique ivory. They each carried a long stemmed yellow rose tied with yellow ribbons and wore matching ribbons in their hair. The gowns were styled alike with empire dipped at the back waistlines, short puff sleeves and round necklines. The skirts were softly gathered at the hips and back.

Mr. Brent Ross of Lennox, Mass., was groomsmen and the ushers were Richard Searles of Gallop, New Mexico, brother-in-law of the groom, and Roger Teshera of Lennox, Mass.

The gentlemen of the wedding party wore Prince Albert tuxedos and had white carnation boutonnières.

Mrs. Middleton, chose for her daughter's wedding a teal blue polyester knit with matching braid on the wide collar. The gown was complemented by a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses and a cameo pendant, the latter a gift from her husband. She wore black accessories.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Wrigley was in a gown of floral pattern design on holly green. Her corsage was pink sweetheart roses and her accessories toned.

The bride's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Richard Middleton, Sr., of Stanstead was in a gown of rose pink polyester crepe with which she wore a white stole and a corsage of white miniature carnations.

The reception took place in the church hall where the Allegro Unit members catered for the serving of refreshments at long banquet tables.

The bride's table was centered with the wedding fruit cake, made by her parents and decorated by Mrs. Harvey Morse of Mansonville. The triple tiers were in white with red roses flanked by silver leaves and with a red carpet. The top featured a bride and groom within a heart of lace and flowers upon a pearl pedestal. Silver dots centered the tiny white flowers that outlined the tiers.

The bride threw a rose from her bouquet that was caught by her sister, Heather. The couple left by motor for points of interest in the Province of Quebec. She travelled in a pink polyester crepe dress having white trim under a brown and rust fur trimmed wool coat. Her accessories were in black and she had a corsage of pink miniature carnations.

They will be residing in Lennox, Mass. The guest book was in charge of Miss Wendy Hughes, of Lennoxville, a cousin of the bride.

Guests attended from Lennox, Mass., Waterville, Maine, New Mexico, Connecticut, Coaticook, Way's Mills, Massachusetts, North Hatley, Lennoxville, Huntingville, Beebe, Newport, Morgan, St. Johnsbury, Derby, Vt., and the Three Villages.

The bride is a graduate of Alexander Galt High, class of 1971 and attended Berkshire Christian College in Lennox, Mass. The groom is a graduate of a high school in Charlotte, N.C., and will graduate with his B.A. degree in Theology from Berkshire Christian College, Lennox, Mass., this 1975 year.

After the rehearsal at Centenary church the evening of Friday, January 3 the parents of the bride and groom, Rev. and Mrs. Wrigley, Mr. and Mrs. E.C. Middleton entertained at the home of the bride's parents in Stanstead for a party. The bride and groom exchanged gifts and presented gifts to their attendants, Mrs. Arthur Jordan, aunt of the bride and Mrs. Jerry Smith assisted to serve buffet refreshments.

Add color to stews with 'paprikas'

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Hungarian stews or paprikas (pronounced paprikash) are finished with sweet or sour cream. Traditionally the basic meat is chicken or veal but with the high price of veal, a stewing beef fills the paprikash bill quite well. Here is a recipe that may be made with either chicken or beef. Essential to the stew is the colorful "cosmetic spice" paprika. If possible use fresh paprika available in some cities in specialty stores but any paprika will do.

This ground spice was introduced in Hungary by the Turks at the beginning of the 16th century but it actually came from the New World—a member of the pod pepper family called Capsicum. It is now produced in many foreign countries and most of the United States crop is grown in California.

Americanized "paprikash" is hearty, versatile stew.

BEEF (OR CHICKEN) PAPIKASH

- 2 tablespoons instant minced onion
- Water
- 2 pounds boneless beef stew meat OR
- 2½ pound chicken
- ¼ cup flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
- ¼ cup oil
- 2 tablespoons paprika, divided
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon flour

- ½ cup milk
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- Rehydrate minced onion in 2 tablespoons water. Let stand 10 minutes to soften. Cut beef into 1-inch cubes or cut chicken into serving-size pieces. Dredge meat in flour mixed with salt and pepper. Heat oil in a large skillet. Add meat, onion and 1

- tablespoon paprika. Brown meat well on all sides. Add 1½ cup water. Cover tightly and simmer, until tender, about 1½ hours for beef or 45 minutes for chicken, turning occasionally and adding more water if needed. To make sauce, in a small saucepan melt butter. Blend in flour and remaining 1 table-

- spoon paprika. Cook and stir until mixture bubbles. Blend in milk, cook and stir until thickened. Gradually stir in sour cream, beating vigorously. Pour sauce over cooked meat in skillet and heat thoroughly, but do not boil. Serve hot with broad noodles, if desired. Makes 4 to 6 portions.

Glamorizing that leftover chicken

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

An inexpensive and complete one-dish meal combines diced cooked chicken, an herb-seasoned stuffing mix and mushroom soup. This is an ideal way to use that leftover chicken. Serve with a fruit salad and buttermilk biscuits.

CHICKEN AND DRESSING BAKE

- 2½ cups diced cooked chicken package (8 ounces) herb-seasoned stuffing mix
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion

- 1 can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup
- 2 cups chicken broth
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- ½ cup milk
- 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento

Toss stuffing mix with onion, one-half can of the soup, chicken broth and beaten eggs.

Spread mixture in oblong baking pan. Top with chicken. Mix remaining soup with milk and pimiento; pour over chicken and dressing. Cover pan with foil. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes or until set. Makes 6 to 8 servings. (Cost per serving for 6 is 44 cents; for 8 it is 33 cents.)

Ann Landers

Women aren't branded beef

Dear Ann Landers: I was furious when you sided with the husband who resented the fact that his wife was receiving mail addressed to Mrs. Mary Smith. He said her name was "Mrs. John Smith" — that he wasn't dead yet.

When people try to force my husband's name on me — "Mrs. Warren Smith" — I tell them that my name is NOT Warren. My mother named me Ruth. As a woman who refuses to stand behind my husband's image, but rather BESIDE him, on equal footing, I have also dropped my given middle name and replaced it with my maiden name.

I'm glad I married a mature man who doesn't insist that I wear his name like a piece of branded beef. He respects me as a person with my own identity, personality, thoughts and opinions. I Am—Truly Liberated

Dear Lib: You and at least 5,000 other irate females wrote to blast me for my answer. I'd like to set the record straight.

The woman who wrote said her husband questioned the correctness of the procedure—and my response was based on the etiquette books which clearly state that mail sent to a married woman should be addressed to Mrs. John Smith, even if her husband is no longer living. It is Mrs. MARY Smith if she is a divorcee. Some divorced women use Mrs. Maiden Name Smith — or they revert to their maiden name and drop the Smith altogether, provided, of course, they have no children.

People are paying less attention to etiquette books and doing their own thing. If you women out there feel your identity is being threatened and you prefer to be addressed as Mrs. Mary Smith, it's O.K. with me. BUT if your husband hassles you about it, be smart enough to recognize it as a symptom of a deeper problem which needs to be resolved.

Dear Ann Landers: This letter could have come from one of thousands, so I'm not afraid of being recognized, and I'm asking you to please print it.

My husband is a great guy — a wonderful father and terrific grandfather. But whenever we are out, Harry turns the conversation to "When I was in the service." He's talking about World War Two, dearie, and it doesn't take a computer genius to figure out that was over 29 years ago.

I know all Harry's war stories by heart, and so do all our friends and relations. Of course, I keep my mouth shut and let him go on and talk his fool head off, but he's a terrible bore. Any Cure?—Wed To A Broken Record.

Dear Wed: Probably not. Those days were the most exciting in his life and nothing has happened since to equal them. But here's an idea, and it just might work. Buy Harry a camera and encourage him to take pictures of the grandkids. He can then at least bore people with the snapshots and a new subject.

Dear Ann Landers: I am engaged to marry a wonderful fellow. He gave me a beautiful diamond ring last week. The stone looks very much like the one he gave the girl he was engaged to before me. I asked him if it was and he denied it. I don't believe him.

When I show my ring to friends, I get some very funny looks. I keep wondering if they recognize it from previous engagement.

Right now the ring is in my pocket. I'm not enjoying it. What should I do?—Re-Run

Dear Re: Level with your fiancé and ask him to exchange the ring for another one. If he says you are nuts, tell him you agree, but you won't be content until he does this for you.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage — What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Children suffer in divorce

SASKATOON (CP) — The adversary system now used in court cases involving custody of children in marriage breakups is a disadvantage to the children, Mr. Justice E. D. Bayda of Saskatchewan Court of Queen's Bench said Tuesday.

Mr. Justice Bayda, a member of the Law Reform Commission of Saskatchewan, told the annual Farm and Home Week meeting that the adversary system—in which one party must win and the other lose—works well in some cases but should not involve custody of children.

He said the whole area of rights of children in divorce cases should be examined because while each parent might be represented by lawyers there is no one to speak for the children.

Mr. Justice Bayda said it was fortunate that in many cases parents in a divorce situation recognize they should not use their children as "pawns," but there are substantial numbers of cases in which separating parents "cannot decide in a mature way what is best for their children."

Diane Pask of Saskatoon, a research officer with the commission, said orders for the maintenance of children are difficult to enforce and need review. She said studies in Ontario showed that only 20 per cent of such orders were fulfilled in the first year and Saskatchewan statistics probably would be about the same. STIFF PENALTY. Jail can result if such maintenance is not paid but this is a recourse which Saskatchewan courts "use with great reluctance," she said.

She said there are proposals for alternatives including one in which payments would be made from public funds to avoid the often bitter and humiliating situation for wives after a divorce or breakup.

"The state would then seek reimbursement by taking action against the defaulting spouse."

Earlier Tuesday, the audience was told the commission is suggesting changes in Saskatchewan's matrimonial laws based on the concept that marriage is a partnership of equals.

The traditional idea that a man and woman become one in marriage no longer is considered acceptable by society.

Prof. Brian Grosman, commission chairman, said many questions remain to be answered before a final report is made to the government recommending legislative changes.

Prof. Grosman said the commission's first and immediate proposal is that the courts be given wide discretion to order the division of property between spouses in the case of a marriage breakup.

It also is proposing legislation to provide for co-ownership of the matrimonial home to give "some measure of security" to both partners.

Auxiliary meets

The Ladies Auxiliary met on December 11 with 20 members in attendance.

Norma Doyle read the minutes and correspondence. Several Christmas cards were passed around.

Ruby Martin and Rita McComb reported that one application of membership from Mrs. Mickie Povey had been received. The application was accepted.

The Auxiliary members and their husbands were treated to delicious roast beef supper in November. An exchange of Christmas gifts took place following the meal. A cheque was presented to Gordon Westman, president of the Men's Unit, to be used at their discretion. Mr. Westman then presented Mrs. Theresa Murphy, Auxiliary president, with a plaque in recognition of the Auxiliary's support and assistance in the past. A special thank-you is extended to Mrs. Murphy for planning this special evening, to the members who so kindly gave their time to prepare and serve the meal. An evening free of kitchen duties was truly appreciated by everyone.

June Westman gave the financial statement.

It was agreed to give Christmas Food Baskets again this year. A donation of money was voted to the Lennoxville Elementary School for their Christmas Basket fund.

Thelma Wright reported that all arrangements were completed for the Teenage Christmas party and several members offered to be in attendance.

The president reminded those present that membership dues must be paid by January 31st, 1975.

Following the meeting, Gordon Westman conducted the election of officers. Margaret Smith, on behalf of the Nominating Committee, presented the following slate of officers which was accepted: President: Barbara Leonard; 1st vice: Ruby Martin; 2nd vice: Norma Doyle; 3rd vice: Emily Smerdon; Sgt. at Arms: Mayotta Taylor.

Tipper-Lenz wed

A very pretty candlelight wedding took place on Dec. 20 in the Knowlton United Church, when Brenda Lenz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lenz, became the bride of Mr. Ronald Tipper, son of Mrs. Ross Tipper and the late Mr. Tipper of Sudbury, Ont. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Peter Joyce, Mrs. Guy Cousens was the organist and Mrs. Win Badger sang the Hawaiian Wedding Song during the signing of the register.

buquet was of red and white roses and carnations. She was attended by Miss Valerie Breesee who was dressed in a turquoise floor length gown and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

The groom was attended by Mr. Glen Thornton of Sudbury, Ont. The ushers were Mr. George Lenz, brother of the bride and Mr. Ivan Tipper, brother of the groom.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride for about 35 guests. The table was centred with a lovely wedding cake made by Mrs. Gordon Lenz and decorated by Mrs. Ernest Badger. The bride chose a suit of deep rose wool for her going away outfit and the happy couple left on a trip to points of interest in Ont. On their return they took up residence in the former home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lenz, grandparents of the bride, until their own home is finished in the spring.

Fashion and Beauty Tips

Too Much
The impact of a great-looking plaid coat is lessened when you wear it with an equally strong plaid pants design.

Nail Safe
While nails are growing protect them by applying clear polish over and under the top edge of the nail after applying the initial top coats of clear lacquer.

Super Glow
Pressed eyelid shadow gives a special softness to eyes and you can use this in more intensified colors for evening.

Shine Stopper
If you have oily skin keep a bottle of astringent handy to dab on your face during the day. Use a clean tissue or cotton pad. Dab lightly and you won't disturb your make-up.

Topper
A sharp-looking, wide-brimmed felt hat trimmed with a single sleek feather is an eye-catching accessory and very practical in cold weather.

Stratford Festival company shapes up for season

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — In its first week of rehearsals, the new Stratford Festival company found itself in frequent need of divine assistance.

The name of the Almighty was constantly evoked by the 26 actors as they were put through a rigorous program of calisthenics by Robin Phillips, the company's artistic director, and his staff.

The physical jerks, accompanied by hours of voice coaching and exercises in sense perception, left the actors—especially the older ones—who years ago thought they had reached the pinnacle of their performance abilities—bruised, aching, and mentally stretched.

But each morning they arrived at the rehearsal hall filled with admiration for their 32-year-old director. Little time was being spent on actual staging of The Comedy of Errors and The Two Gentlemen of Verona for the festival's spring tour, opening in Winnipeg Feb. 10.

But Phillips was unworried about time. To him, an actor's ability to use the whole body and to be aware of colleagues is as important as being able to speak the lines.

BUILDS UNITY
His first object was to break down any inter-personal barriers of jealousy, suspicion, and rivalry, he said.

The longer-range aim was to build a permanent company.

Co-director David Toguri, a Vancouver-born dancer and choreographer, presides over the muscle-stretching exercises. With long experience in the London dance and drama scene, he is also Phillips' right-hand man at rehearsals.

Designer Daphne Dare runs the workshops, where sets are created, costumes made and properties built.

Phillips watches the calisthenics, listens in on the voice coaching and even attends the fittings in the wardrobe rooms.

Why? He said he is the one person, at this stage, who has a feeling how the plays are developing.

An actress such as Pat Bentley-Fisher, who plays the courtesan in The Comedy of Errors, may not yet have fully developed her role. But Phillips senses in what direction it is developing and can help the seamstresses decide how an elaborate gown should be draped.

ATTEND ALL REHEARSALS
One Phillips rule: Actors attend all rehearsals, whether they are needed for particular scenes or not.

"The whole company does everything," he said. "They not only rehearse their own scenes but they are part of creating everybody's scenes. So, even if you have no lines to say at all, you are part of the conception of the production."

"They all have a chance to criticize and to suggest."

"The thing about live theatre is that four-fifths of the evening's performance is the audience, and that is one part that we can't rehearse. In this way, we do get many varied opinions about a scene is about and what it means."

When Phillips instructs an actor how to say a particular line—which is rare since he prefers individual interpretation—he does so out of earshot of the rest of the company.

Then, when the line is played in rehearsal, he and the actor concerned get the "audience" reaction of the rest of the company.

"If you get two-thirds of the group saying: 'Oh, I got something much nastier than that, or something much more trivial than that,' then you've got a pretty sure sign of audience response."

EVERYONE PARTICIPATES
There's another purpose in Phillips' communal style of directing.

In any production, there have to be actors taking the non-speaking roles. Phillips said it is soul-destroying for an actor to be cast as just a spear-bearer, no matter how much it means to him to be engaged for a season with the Stratford company.

"They want to feel they belong, and they do feel that if they are part of the whole company, working on the whole production."

The group is the nucleus of a permanent company.

"We hope they are going to stick together for more than just a season and they are already beginning to talk about the sort of plays they would like to do and like to explore in future.

"Some will go, and some others will be added. But they know the possibility of a continuing company is there."

"The understanding is that we hope we will go on. Nobody is going to be bound by a contract because if they are miserably unhappy, they would leave anyway. And likewise, if it doesn't work out for me, I'd have to say just that."

The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19): Trying to please everybody is a thankless task — to say the least. Don't waste your time.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Don't spend money as though the well can't run dry. It very well might at the present rate.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Clear up misunderstanding before situation deteriorates further. Make the first move.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Someone may try to talk you into joining a venture which your judgment advises against.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Not a time to rest on your laurels. You have to fight a new fight every single day.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Check household accounts and see just where you stand. Some revisions may be necessary.

© 1975 BY THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. WORLD RIGHTS RESERVED

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): You aren't in the mood for social doings but dislike breaking engagements at the last minute.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Your circle of friends continues to grow. Scorpio popularity is under excellent rays just now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Consider expense, fuel, time and other factors, then decide if trip is really necessary.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Don't push too hard if your energy begins to wane. Slow down and rest. Plan quiet weekend.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Channel your efforts into more constructive areas. Make every minute count while on the job.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): Establish better relationships with neighbors and relatives. Life will be more serene if you do.

The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19): Be sure that someone who makes you a tempting offer isn't thinking of his own interests.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Expend your views, but with tact if in a crowd where the majority disagree with you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Be careful about confiding personal matters. Some people just can't keep a secret.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Don't discount importance of information you hear by chance. Check validity, then act on it.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): You'll get positive results, but only if you start to think less pessimistically.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Older is not necessarily wiser, as you well know. Some good advice may come from young person.

© 1975 BY THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. WORLD RIGHTS RESERVED

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Keep your wits about you so that you won't be "taken" in a financial deal. Check all angles.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): The same old problem rears its head this weekend. Why not solve it once and for all this time?

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): An unfortunate negative aspect early in day accents possibility of family free-for-all at breakfast.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Go along with the wishes of the majority as long as you didn't have any special plans anyway.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Family obligations weigh heavily on your conscience — and purse. Deal forcefully with problems.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): Get a move on or you may lose an advantage to those who get there first. Make decisions promptly.

West looked at dummy's five diamonds and saw that once trumps were pulled they would represent five tricks to declarer. He saw that if he started to give away diamond tricks right off the bat he might kill most of the diamond suit.

He led his jack of diamonds!

South was in dummy and has his choice of any number of ways to go after 10 tricks. All these ways had one thing in common. They weren't going to work. All West had to do was to remember to lead a second diamond when he next got in the lead.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

FOSTER — Members of St. James Evening Guild, accompanied by their husbands journeyed to Granby on December 11th, where they were met by Rev. and Mrs. Tucker and Mrs. Kaye Durrell, a former member of the Guild.

After a steak dinner at the Ponderosa, the ladies returned to the home of Mrs. Ethel Bissell for the business meeting, and the men went to the home of Adrian Whitehead where cards were played.

The business meeting was conducted by the President, Mrs. Muriel Whitehead. Mrs. Dot de Solla read the treasurer's report showing a good bank balance. The corresponding secretary, work convener, and the nearly new convener gave their reports.

The forgotten patient convener had sent a parcel to Virginia for November, and Christmas parcels were turned in by the members to help make Christmas a happy time for Virginia. Mrs. Wendy Grenier offered to deliver these parcels to Douglas hospital the next day.

A bill for painting the interior of the church and a bill for a new oak for the church were voted on.

The President announced that a family Carol Service would be held at St. Luke's Church, Waterloo, on Sunday December 22 at 11 a.m. Members of St. James Church were invited to attend. The Christmas Eve Service was held at 9:00 p.m. at St. James Church in Foster.

Mrs. Frances Johnson presented the slate of officers for 1975 as follows: President, Mrs.

Loys Heatherington; 1st Vice-President, Muriel Whitehead; 2nd Vice-President, Frances Johnson; Secretary, Ethel Marsh; Treasurer, Dot DeSolla; Corresponding Secretary, Margaret Davson; Forgotten Patient, Elvia Johnson; Rummage Convener, Reba de Solla and Muriel Whitehead; Work Convener, Ethel Bissell; Food Convener, Reba de Solla; Drawing, Charlotte Grenier.

Mrs. Ethel Bissell won the lucky package.

Mrs. Bissell served tea, and the meeting adjourned with everyone expressing enjoyment of a pleasant evening.

Stanstead Chapter IODE

STANSTEAD — The first meeting in 1975 of Stanstead Chapter IODE was held the afternoon of January 6 in Le Baron Hall reception room at Stanstead College.

Mrs. Agnes Myers, Regent, opened the meeting with a warm welcome to members and two guests, Mrs. J. Eddy, an IODE member of Chatham Chapter, N.B., and Mrs. Roger Smith of Stanstead. Mrs. Myers also read an item of inspiration from the Tomb of King George VI.

After routine reports were heard, Mrs. Myers again brought up the sale of the IODE rose bushes. She noted Stanstead Chapter should sell about 100 quota but so far only 28 have been sold. She urged members to take the time to sell them now for spring delivery.

She further reminded the members of the February 13

Provincial Chapter IODE luncheon at the Windsor in Montreal. Only a limited number of tickets are available and should be purchased immediately if one plans to attend. Possibly a group of five to seven will be attending. This luncheon marks the 75th anniversary of the Provincial Chapter.

Correspondence included thank-yous from the Douglas Hospital, a farewell from Mrs. John Collins, a guest at the meetings while here in Stanstead from England, and an acknowledgement of the Christmas gifts to the Douglas Hospital.

The Secretaries reports were given. Mrs. George Carruthers, Education noted one Chapter from the proceeds of the IODE rose bushes are offering two bursaries, one for an English student learning French and vice versa.

Mrs. Howard Aikman, Services, reported she and Mr. Aikman had taken another load of clothing and other items to the Cecil Butters Memorial Home at Austin. She further stated the Home is entering a new phase for education of many of the patients there and hopefully plan to have smaller units. "A tremendous program" were the words of Mrs. Aikman. She also noted appreciation from the Dixville Home for materials taken there.

And from the Provincial bulletin, Mrs. Aikman read that one thousand dollars had been sent from a fund for recovery for people of Honduras. Used Christmas cards are much needed by Mrs. Aikman, "for making of scrapbooks," she said. And that used stamps will be greatly appreciated by Mrs. E.J. Curtis, Stanstead, for leprosy colonies assistance.

Echoes, Mrs. Frances Finlayson, noted interesting articles in the winter issue. Mrs. W.T. Greer spoke briefly about membership, and Mrs. Ivy Hatch, public relations, gave a brief report.

Mrs. Merton Davis, a newly elected secretary for Citizenship, spoke relative to this branch of IODE work and outlined some of the aims one can do within the communities and further afield.

Mrs. Margo Skelton, delegate to the Christmas Basket Fund meeting, announced that 29 fine baskets had been packed and delivered in the Border areas just prior to Christmas. Stanstead Chapter IODE contributed $60.00 towards this project.

of nominations gave a brief report and announced at the

As the secretary and treasurer plan to be away for the February and March meetings, Mrs. J.S. McCannel agreed to act as secretary pro-tem, and Mrs. Mabel Wallace, treasurer. The chapter further purchased the book "Glimpses of Canada". Mrs. McCannel gave an introduction of the first chapter which was most interesting. The second review will be about the beavers and fur.

The hostesses Mrs. W.B. Dustin and Mrs. Margo Skelton served afternoon refreshments at the lace-covered and Christmas centered table. Mrs. Ellen Wallbridge poured.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Rand of Lennoxville were Sunday evening guests of Mrs. Geo. Parsons and Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Tribble.

The death occurred on Saturday, January 4, of Albert Royer at the Sherbrooke Hospital. Although he had been in poor health for several years he only entered the hospital about two weeks earlier. Albert was born in Bury, a son of the late Joseph and Lottie (Taylor) Royer and spent most of his life here where he was employed in several different places until his health began to fail and unable to carry on alone, he had been living in various homes, the last several months with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Wells in Cookshire. Funeral services were held at the Bury Funeral Home with Rev. M.C. Jones officiating. Burial took place in the Bury Cemetery. Unmarried, he is survived by three sisters, Gertie (Mrs. Walter Snyder), Ruth (Mrs. Nelson Keiper) and Mrs. Verna Moyer, all of Pennsylvania; a brother Clifford Royer, a Hong Kong veteran at present in the Military hospital at Ste. Anne de Bellevue; a sister-in-law, Mrs. Margaret Royer and several nephews and nieces. He was predeceased by two sisters, Bessie, and Mary (Mrs. Terence O'Hara) of Athelstan, two brothers, James and Thomas of Bury. He was in his 64th year.

OES Owl's Head Chapter

MANSONVILLE — The stated meeting of the O.E.S., Owl's Head Chap. No. 35, was held in the Mansonville Masonic Temple the evening of Dec. 26, presided over by Worthy Matron Jean McNeil, with guest Mrs. Sybil Fecteau, member of the Enosburg Falls, Vt., Chapter, attending.

Doris McKelvey, Grand Ruth, was welcomed and escorted to the East. Mrs. McKelvey read a poem titled One Solitary Life.

During the short meeting the annual reports were given by Sec. Letitia Cousins, Treas., Maybelle Cote and Trustee Rupert Fullerton.

Following the meeting a most enjoyable Christmas party was given with invited guests participating in the singing of Carols, in the various games, and in the special fun dances. An interesting Chinese Auction was held with the prize going to Mrs. Winifred Noon.

Christmas gifts were then exchanged and lunch served by the hostesses, Mrs. Edith McLean, Mrs. Orma Jewett, Mrs. Eileen Eldridge and Mrs. Judy Armstrong and their helpers.

The evening's entertainment was organized by Committee Chairman Jack Waring and Committee members Robert and Ethel Hastings, Bruce and Judy Armstrong, Rupert Fullerton and Eileen Eldridge.

Obituary

GRAYDON AULIS CARR of Beebe
Death occurred at the Sherbrooke Hospital, Dec. 24, 1974, of Graydon Aulis Carr at the age of 64.

Graydon was born at Massawippi, Que., June 13, 1910, son of the late John Carr and Sadie Aulis.

As a young man he spent his life in and around Massawippi. At the outbreak of World War II, he joined the R.C.E.M.E. and served three and one half years overseas. On his return to Canada he took up residence in Beebe, Que., where he resided until his death, being employed for 27 years, at the Haseltine Granite Quarry in Beebe.

He was predeceased by his former wife, the late Gladys Shephard.

Surviving to mourn his loss are his wife Annie Gieves, three sisters, Janice, Mrs. Rex Grainger, North Hatley; Bernice, Mrs. Everett Bayley, Ayer's Cliff, Dorothy, Mrs. Arlington Ayers, Oshawa, Ont., and one brother, Robert, of Lennoxville; also several nieces and nephews and cousins.

Those attending the funeral were from Gulph, Ont., and Oshawa, Ont.

Funeral service was conducted by Rev. Owen Merriman, from Cass Funeral Home, Stanstead, at 2 p.m., Dec. 27, 1974.

The bearers, all close friends of the deceased were: Ralph Munroe, Dennis Corriveau, Ramsay Williams, Al Little, Hector Calloway and Harold Smith.

Interment was in Woodside Cemetery, Beebe.

Combined Lodges hold dance

COWANSVILLE — On Nov. 30, 1974, at the Hotel Maurice in Cowansville, the Fraternal Orders, namely Masons, Eastern Star, Rebekahs, Oddfellows and Encampment all joined together for a special get acquainted evening.

Upon entering the hotel, the ladies in their long dresses were presented with carnation corsages donated by the Oddfellows.

Dancing was enjoyed with Ray Duboyce Orchestra from Knowlton.

During the course of the evening doorprizes were given to lucky winners and a lamp was donated by Vilas Co. and presented by Mr. Toulouse. The lucky winner was Mrs. Maud Murphy of Cowansville.

There were also other prizes donated by the organizations for various dances throughout the evening.

At 12 o'clock a most delicious buffet lunch was served by the hotel management. There were a number of speeches at this time, also.

Dancing was resumed until 1:30 when the party broke up, and everyone left, hoping they would meet again for another one early in 1975.

BIRCHTON
J.A. Murray

At a recent meeting of the Birchton-Bulwer Sports Association plans were made to hold a PAPER DRIVE the latter part of January. Please save all your papers usable for this project; in aid of the above-mentioned group and of the Youth Group.

Mr. S.N. Murray of Montreal was a Christmas Eve caller at the home of his paternal uncle, J.A. Murray and Mrs. Murray.

Miss Thelma Crawford, with Miss Ennals at the piano, touched the hearts of the Seniors in the same home, with their Yuletide music, sprinkled with a bit of Scotch, Scotch songs, that is, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Harbinson and Bobby, entertained Michael's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T.J. Harbinson, and brothers, Conley and Barry.

Mr. John Shepherd and Mrs. Sheila Hemming of Montreal were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Turczyn, and attended the funeral of the late Mrs. A. Learned in Cookshire. And from Quebec City came Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mell and children Sheila, Trent and Heath, to spend the New Year's holiday with the Turczyns. They got a real thrill sliding down the newly-erected slide, as did many others. This added attraction is now ready to welcome folk of all ages, and is the project, along with the rink, of the Birchton-Bulwer Sports Association... more power to them with both attractions.

This Association is sponsoring a Skating-Sliding Party... with a pot-luck supper in the Birchton Hall on Saturday, January 18... eating time set for 7:30... with sports before and (or) after that hour.

Around the Festive Board at the Prescott home on January 1 were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moore, Wanita and Faye and Trevor, also Mrs. Elaine Moore with her family Terry, Andy and Jo-Ann.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rogers were New Year's guests of their son, Mr. Bain Rogers, Mrs. Rogers and Master Robert, at Riverside View, Lennoxville; and were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Rogers in Lennoxville.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Taylor and family entertained Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Wintle and family on the last Saturday of 1974.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Goodwin and daughters of Bury spent New Year's with Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Stowe.

Mrs. C.W. Chute, Sr., has returned from spending the Christmas with her daughter, Almeda, Mr. Comeau and three grandchildren, Lorne, Anna and Sheila Comeau, in London, Ont., and has resumed her work at Combustion Engineering in Sherbrooke.

Bury
Mrs. Geo. Parsons
Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Anderson were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Finlay MacLeod in Stanstead.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McPhatter and little daughters of Barrie, Ont., have returned home after spending the New Year's holiday with Mrs. McPhatter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Tarrant.

Mrs. Arthur Herring and Mrs. Archie Hunting have returned home after spending Christmas and New Year's in Huntingville, guests of Mrs. Perley Herring.

Mr. and Mrs. Orvil Anderson and daughters Caroline and Marilyn have returned home after a most enjoyable two weeks holiday spent in Hawaii.

On Saturday afternoon, the residents of St. Paul's Rest Home enjoyed a program of musical selections given by Mr. Aurelien Quintin of Cookshire, an accomplished violinist. His kindness in making such a pleasing contribution to the happiness of these elderly people is highly appreciated by them.

Miss Joyce Dougherty, who has spent the New Year holiday at her home, has now returned to her duties at Bishop's University.

Mr. Herbert Thompson is a patient in the Hotel Dieu Hospital where he is very ill. It is hoped by all that he will soon be improved and able to return home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Rand of Lennoxville were Sunday evening guests of Mrs. Geo. Parsons and Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Tribble.

The death occurred on Saturday, January 4, of Albert Royer at the Sherbrooke Hospital. Although he had been in poor health for several years he only entered the hospital about two weeks earlier. Albert was born in Bury, a son of the late Joseph and Lottie (Taylor) Royer and spent most of his life here where he was employed in several different places until his health began to fail and unable to carry on alone, he had been living in various homes, the last several months with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Wells in Cookshire. Funeral services were held at the Bury Funeral Home with Rev. M.C. Jones officiating. Burial took place in the Bury Cemetery. Unmarried, he is survived by three sisters, Gertie (Mrs. Walter Snyder), Ruth (Mrs. Nelson Keiper) and Mrs. Verna Moyer, all of Pennsylvania; a brother Clifford Royer, a Hong Kong veteran at present in the Military hospital at Ste. Anne de Bellevue; a sister-in-law, Mrs. Margaret Royer and several nephews and nieces. He was predeceased by two sisters, Bessie, and Mary (Mrs. Terence O'Hara) of Athelstan, two brothers, James and Thomas of Bury. He was in his 64th year.

Party at Community Centre

BULWER — There was a good crowd gathered at the Bulwer Community Centre on New Year's Eve to enjoy the party sponsored by the centre. Those gathered ranged in ages from two years to 7 — after all, the appreciation of good music and a lively party knows no age limits. Music was supplied by Nugent's Orchestra and the rooms were nicely decorated with colored lights, streamers and balloons.

At midnight, after the singing of Auld Lang Syne, the balloons were released and paper hats and noisemakers passed out, while people extended Happy New Year greetings to their neighbors.

A delightful and bountiful buffet lunch was served.

Beavers by USSR, get ready for league

SHERBROOKE (BP) — "Our big thrill was last Tuesday, but now we have to think about the second half of the season," said Ghislain Delage last night.

Delage, coach of the QMJHL Sherbrooke Beavers which defeated the Russian national junior team here on that night 7-0, stated his team will have to knuckle down and get to work to stay on top of the league's west division after the international upset.

"We're really anxious to see if the Russian game helped us," he said, "we want to know if it was good or not." He compared Tuesday's game in the playoffs, but only trouble is, the Beavers have some 30 more games to play before the real season reaches a climax. "Usually you can relax after a big game like that, but we practiced hard both last night and tonight," Delage said Thursday.

Jerre Gillis, the Beavers' 17-year-old forward, said the team was still thinking about the surprise victory, but they also realize that Cornwall and Montreal are closing in on the top spot in the division, so slack moments in the next few games could prove disastrous.

"We (the team) had spirit from the first game this season," Jerre stated, "and that still hasn't changed."

That comment has a lot of significance, because the players and management both agree completely on that subject.

The entire team was awarded the Most Valuable Player trophy after the USSR-Sherbrooke this week and coach Delage feels the selection committee made a good choice. "I think it was good for the team to win the trophy," he said, "it gave us all the proof we needed... it shows we have real team spirit."

Goalie Nick Sanza revealed that he really hasn't thought about Tuesday's match since Wednesday night. "We're still fighting for first place," said the 19-year-old who shutout the Russians, "our guys are ready for the league again."

He feels that discipline is a key factor to their success so far this season. "Discipline... self-discipline, team-discipline, the whole thing," he says, is behind their winning ways. "The guys are pushing themselves, they want it (the league championship), Nick stated, and as for himself, "last year in Montreal, I wasn't as serious about the game, but this season, I haven't practiced so hard in my life."

Such are the trials and tribulations of the Sherbrooke Beavers. But it goes to prove that when a bunch of guys put their heads and skills together, it doesn't matter if they're French or English or anything else, they pull together in a common cause as a group.

While the Beavers were taking a breather from league action for their exhibition contest, the rest of the league, including Cornwall, moved around in the standings.

Cornwall defeated Trois-Rivieres last night in the lone QMJHL match, bringing the Ontario squad within two points of Sherbrooke in the west division. While it looks bad at a glance, closer inspection shows that the Beavers hold four games in hand over the Royals, so local fans shouldn't get overly worried, for the moment at least.

The Beavers game tonight against Laval begins at 8 p.m., while the Sunday contest will be played in Montreal. Claude Larose gets a chance to meet his old team on Monday as the Beavers travel to Shawinigan for a match against the Dynamos.

BU tourney ready

LENNOXVILLE (BP) — The first of probably many invitational women's hockey tournaments will be played at Bishop's University today and tomorrow in the W.B. Scott Arena.

Host Bishop's Polar Bears, Loyola College Tommies, Dawson College Blues and University of Toronto are the four teams participating in the four game meet.

Bishop's coach Tim Manning expects a good all-around tournament, and he feels that the people who will come and watch will see some good hockey.

The Polar Bears have two high scorers back from last year's squad. Sandy MacDonald and Debi Walsh, who scored 14 and 11 goals respectively in 1973-74, will be joined by wingers Judy McCrea and Debbie Mullins to form a potentially dangerous foursome. But Manning says everyone can shoot and score, so the defenders will have more than just those girls to watch out for.

BU and Dawson have one win each in their lone games played to date, while Toronto is even at four wins and four losses. Last year's QUAA champions, Loyola, are missing some of the girls which made the team outstanding in past seasons, but with a record of 4-3 so far, they aren't out of the contention by any means.

The semi-final games start at 7 and 8:30 p.m. tonight, with Dawson and Loyola battling it out, while Bishop's takes on Toronto.

Saturday at noon, the two losers meet in the consolation final, with the victors vying for the championship trophy at 1:30 p.m.

OTHER BU ACTION
 Two other contests mark the first weekend since the local university returned to classes. On Sunday evening at 7 p.m., both the men's hockey and women's basketball squads meet Sir George Williams University on Bishop's territory.

The Gaiters experienced a very poor first half of the season and are looking for the right way to start off 1975. The Gaiterettes, however, are undefeated in four league games to date.

1975 ETWBL action

LENNOXVILLE (BP) — The first game of the new year was played Tuesday night in the Eastern Townships Women's Basketball League here, with Army Navy Ladies Auxiliary, Bishop's University and Lessard Bus Lines coming up with wins.

Humbert Hatchery gave the Gaiterettes a fairly good run for their money in the closest game of the evening. BU won 40-23 with Nancy Knowlton getting 26 points for the winners. Mitch Skena followed with eight points. D. Howell scored 13 for Humbert, while Ann Perrier had six points.

LBL doubled their opposition from Clark's Pharmacy by a 52-26 margin. Sheila Clarke and Sylvia Leach paced the Travellers with 14 and 10 points respectively. Millie Howarth tallied 10, with S. Hoyt and Judy Oxford getting eight for Clark's.

The Rand's Christmas present of a win still hasn't come through as they were walloped 85-4 by ANLA. Debbie Zwicker and Manon Rheume had two points for Rand each, while Wendy Stuart powered ANLA with 37 points. Vicki Crook and Debbie McLeod followed with 20 and 17 each.

Bishop's is still in first place, being undefeated in four starts, while ANLA is second, having four wins and a loss. LBL is third with a record of 3-1, while Clark's is in fourth with two wins and three losses. Humbert Hatchery is in fifth position, having one win and four defeats, while Rand is in sixth place, with five losses.

Both Bishop's and LBL have played four games, due to a postponement of the Dec. 10 contest. It will be made up at a later date.

Next week's games see Bishop's taking on Rand, LBL hosting Humbert and ANLA opposing Clark's. The first game will be played at the BU gym, while the two remaining tilts will be played at Alexander Galt Regional High School. All games start at 8 p.m. on Tuesday night.

WASHINGTON (CP) — The nine Canadian Football League teams went primarily for defensive players Wednesday as they named the 18 Canadian college stars they are protecting under provisions of the league's priority draft.

CFL coaches and general managers are meeting here in conjunction with the annual meeting of United States college coaches.

The 18, two for each club, will be exempt from the general Canadian college draft when it takes place in Toronto on Feb. 19.

Five defensive backs and four defensive tackles made the list, along with three running backs, two quarterbacks, two guards, one linebacker and one wide receiver.

The selections, by clubs:
Montreal Alouettes: Jerry d'Attilio of Montreal, six feet, 200 pounds, a quarterback who played at Northern Colorado University; Pierre Gelinax, Laval, Que., 6-6, 235 pounds, defensive tackle from Iowa State.

Ottawa Rough Riders: Jeff Turcotte, 6-5, 255 pounds, defensive tackle from Colorado; Peter Stenerson, 6-3, 180, quarterback from the University of Carleton. Both are from Ottawa.

Toronto Argonauts: Neil Mairs, 6-1, 180, defensive back from Otterbein, Ohio; Paul Gilson, 6-3, 245, defensive tackle from the University of Guelph. Both are from Toronto.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats: Nick Bastaja, 6-2, offensive guard from the University of Simon Fraser, Vancouver; Angelo Santucci, 5-11, 190, running back from St. Mary's University, Halifax. Both are from Hamilton.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers: Mel Barclay, 6-4, 205, defensive back from Souris, Man.; Doug Melvor, 6-3, 240, defensive tackle from Winnipeg. Both played at the University of Manitoba.

Saskatchewan Roughriders: Larry Remmen, six feet, 205, running back; Ron Moe, 6-1, 215, linebacker. Both are from

Funeral for Don Wilson

HOUSTON (AP) — A memorial service was held Thursday for Don Wilson, former pitcher for Houston Astros who died here Sunday along with his nine-year-old son Alexander when carbon monoxide filled their home.

The 29-year-old Wilson was preparing to start his 10th season with the National League baseball team.

Wilson's widow, Bernice, was released from hospital to attend the service. Mrs. Wilson and daughter Denise, 9, also suffered carbon monoxide poisoning. Denise is in a coma and in critical condition.

Palbearers for the memorial service were Wilson's teammates—Bob Watson, Cesar Cedeño, Ken Forsch, Tom Griffin, Doug Rader and Dave Roberts.

Surprise leaders of the pack

Barry sparks electrifying Warriors

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

OAKLAND, Calif. — (NEA) — It shows right up there in the statistics — that Rick Barry, at the age of 30, has become the outstanding player in the National Basketball Association; and that the Golden State Warriors are the most exciting team of the young season.

Barry leads the NBA in scoring and free throws and is among the league leaders in assists and steals.

The Warriors have been the surprise runaway leaders of the western division of the NBA. And that feat transcends mere facts and figures.

In a complete shuffling of the player deck, the Warriors — operating this year under the control of a new general manager, Dick Vertlieb — traded away Nate Thurmond, one of the great centers of the league for the last decade; lost Clyde Lee, one of the finest defensive forwards and rebounders, in a strange, delayed deal arranged years ago, and watched the defection of Cazzie Russell, their second leading scorer, who had played out his option.

The only recognizable name left in their lineup was Barry, who first broke in with the Warriors 10 seasons ago and, with all his talent, has had a checkered career. When they were drubbed 105-90 in their season opener in Los Angeles, owner Franklin Mieuli was advised to head for open sea, permanently, on his junk or whatever kind of boat he has. They drew a little over 4,000 for their home opener, even with the attraction of Portland's Bill Walton, who was then concentrating on basketball instead of a quest for natural surroundings. That kind of gate will hardly pay to wash the uniforms.

But spurred by the inspired example of Barry, who has been scoring at a rate of 33 points a game, they turned it around and in the Bay area of California, notably lukewarm to pro basketball ever since the Warriors drifted west from Philadelphia in 1962, have suddenly become a hot ticket. There have been two complete sellouts in their home arena, the Oakland Coliseum, with more to come. Average game attendance has risen above 7-

RICK BARRY: The catalyst.

000 and will go even higher once the distraction of pro football has passed. Vertlieb says they need an average home attendance of 7,500 to break even — and they'll get it, the way they've been playing. What turned them around? Coach Al Attles uses one word: "Compatibility." Coach Bill of the Seattle Super Sonics, their pursuers in the division, says, "They're young and they're hustling (coaches' cliches), and Barry's playing super."

Pro basketball is a game of movement, as proved by such dynasties as the Boston Celtics, and when the Warriors had Thurmond, Lee and Russell — all either aging or lead-footed — the other guys stood around waiting for everybody to get downcourt, and then set up as ponderously as a bartender on election day.

Now, however, they run, run, run — with a new backcourt duo of Butch Beard, who was cast off by three teams, and Charles (C.J.) Johnson, a meager six-footer who didn't even elect to try pro basketball his first year out of college. Johnson, who has built in yo-yo's for legs, has learned when to take his shot and not make unnecessary fouls. Beard plays the tough defense and directs the attack.

Joining Barry at forward are Keith Wilkes, the UCLA rookie who's so smooth they call him Silk, and Derrek Dickey, a high-hopping muscle man. Wilkes is slender but hasn't been pushed around and can take up scoring slack. Dickey does everything Lee used to do around the boards and runs twice as fast. At center, they brought in Cliff Ray from Chicago in the Thurmond deal, and the loping 6-9 pivot, who specializes in spectacular dunks, has made the Warriors a more physical team with his tenacious board work in spots, picked judiciously by Attles, he is helped by 6-11 George Johnson, who was picked up from the semi-pro ranks, and can be an intimidating shot-blocker.

Veteran Jeff Mullins, a 19-point career scorer with the Warriors, missed the first few weeks with a broken hand. He can't run with these kids (except for Barry they're all in their prime 20s), but he has the scoring touch for quick spurts. The catalyst, however, remains Barry, playing the best basketball of his career. There is a danger he can wear out, playing more than 40 minutes a night over the long schedule.

"When I was a young kid," says Rick, "I ran all the time. I still run, but I do it for a purpose. I only move and exert myself when I can do things. If the ball's on the other side of the court on a fast break and my man is two feet from me, why go? I've already got him neutralized."

He still picks those fantastic shots out of his memory bank, recall when he was a kid. He recalls practicing suspension shots made famous by Elgin Baylor. Against Houston, with his way blocked on a drive to the basket, he dropped the ball down to his right side while he was in mid-air and hooked a layup with a sweeping sidehand motion.

It was electrifying. The way the Warriors have been in the young season.

Ground game is Super Bowl key

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A consistent ground game ranks as one of the keys to success in Sunday's National Football League Super Bowl match between Minnesota Vikings and Pittsburgh Steelers.

"You have to establish a ground game first and go from there," says Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw, who hopes Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier will keep the Steelers going steadily enough so that he can throw because he wants to, not because he has to.

Coach Bud Grant, bringing his Vikings into their third Super Bowl and their second in a row, agrees with Bradshaw's assessment. "You can't live by the pass," he said. "You've got to be able to run the ball."

Overshadowed by Harris, who gained 1,006 yards during the regular season, Minnesota's Chuck Foreman is the mainstay of both the rushing and passing attack. The second-year pro gained 777 yards on the ground and, added another 586 yards as the Vikings' leading receiver with 53 catches. He also led the NFL in scoring among non-kickers with 90 points on 15 touchdowns.

"I feel that, for us to win, I have to touch the ball 20 times," said Foreman, who carried only seven times for 18 yards a year ago in the 24-7 Super Bowl loss to Miami. "We have to run the ball and we have to gain 150 yards on the ground. If we do, we'll win."

Foreman was offensive rookie of the year last season and it was a thrill to make it to the championship then. But he pointed out: "I'm more excited this time than I was a year ago. Last year, I didn't really know what it was all about. I didn't have the understanding of what it means to be the world champions. I didn't appreciate the importance of the game."

"It's an honor to be here," Foreman added. "But it's more of an honor to win."

The importance of the game is not lost on Harris, either. "It's definitely a different feeling," he said. "This is the one we want. All the others were played to get here. Now we've got to go all the way."

For either team to do that, it comes down to which defensive line will do its job the best. For Minnesota, it means Carl Eller, Alan Page, Jim Marshall and Doug Sutherland closing Harris' rushing lanes, forcing Bradshaw to go to the air, then storming in on him.

For Pittsburgh, it's Mean Joe Greene, L.C. Greenwood, Ernie Holmes and Dwight White or Steve Furness if White isn't fully recovered from a viral infection) containing the wily, dangerous Fran Tarkenton, a 14-year veteran who has passed for at least 2,000 yards in all but one of those years, and has the league's highest season averages in passes, completions, yardage and touchdown passes.

Country Club to hold annual meeting Jan. 14

The annual meeting of the Sherbrooke Country Club will be held Tuesday, Jan. 14th at the club house on Musset Street commencing at 8:00 p.m.

President Aime Gagnon is hoping that a good number of shareholders will be on hand. The annual report and Financial statements for the 1974 season will be discussed.

The election of directors will take place and plans will also be discussed. All shareholders unable to attend are asked to forward their proxies to the club.

New business, legally brought before the meeting will be discussed. Several new changes will be on tap and President Aime Gagnon will outline changes to be made on the course for 1975.

Eagleson heads Canadian pro players

TORONTO (CP) — Alan Eagleson says he has been asked by the federal government to direct the professional end of all Canadian participation in international hockey.

He is interested in the job, but only if given complete control. His counterpart on the amateur side would be Rev. David Bauer, who would supervise a program aimed at providing a non-professional team for the Olympic Games program every four years.

Eagleson, a Toronto lawyer who represents a flock of pro hockey players, met in Ottawa Monday with federal Health Minister Marc Lalonde to discuss the future of Canada's participation in international hockey.

The main question was how Canada would select a team to play in a proposed hockey version of soccer's World Cup in 1976. Included would be teams from the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Sweden and the United States as well as Canada.

Eagleson, speaking as executive director of the National Hockey League Players' Association, said he told Lalonde a primary demand in future negotiations with NHL owners will be for the right of any player to represent Canada in international play if needed.

WILL USE HIS OWN
 He added that the World

Hockey Association will be receiving a similar request from its players.

"Suppose we are denied that right," Eagleson said in an interview Wednesday. "Then I am prepared to compose from among my clients — plus certain non-clients who are loyal to the cause — a stronger team than either Team Canada 72 or Team Canada 74."

Among Eagleson's clients are Bobby Orr of Boston Bruins, Marcel Dionne of Detroit Red Wings, Syl Apps of Pittsburgh Penguins, Paul Henderson of Toronto Toros, Darryl Sittler and Ron Ellis of Toronto Maple Leafs, Yvan Cournoyer of Montreal Canadiens and Bill White of Chicago Black Hawks.

Eagleson says he also can count on Phil Esposito of the Bruins, and Bobby Clarke

Dr. Lamb

Bulk diets are suggested

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Recently I read your article on cereal fiber combating diverticulosis. I developed a spastic colon last February. My doctor put me on a bland diet and Librax. After two months, my condition had only improved somewhat. He took me off whole milk, and now I am starting to see a real improvement.

I'm very confused at this time. I only started drinking a lot of milk a short time before my spastic colon problem started. I have never been much of a vegetable or salad eater, but I did include them in my meals several times a week. I really don't know what brought the condition on.

My doctor said I must stay on a bland diet, but I feel that you need roughage as you explained. I'm 31 and would like to have a second child. I need to be on a correct diet now so I will maintain good health in the future.

The type of diet suggested for people with colon problems is a subject of controversy among physicians. The end result is I'm confused about what to do. Any information or advice you can give would be greatly appreciated.

DEAR READER - There is lots of room for confusion. For years doctors have prescribed bland low residue diets for spastic or irritable colon. Work by a British surgeon, since confirmed by many other doctors, strongly suggests that this was exactly the opposite of what most people in our highly civilized society really needed. This gave rise to the bulk diet concept, with particular emphasis on getting cereal fiber from whole wheat and whole cereal products as opposed to refined flour.

It has since been shown that vegetable fiber is also helpful. Whenever there is a drastic change in thinking like this, there will be a period before there is general agreement. Then there is always the exceptional case that requires a different approach. Still the evidence is very good that the colon needs bulk and that means vegetable and cereal fiber in the diet.

Intolerance to lactose, the double sugar in milk, is still a different problem. Many adults have this condition and it causes the same symptoms as a spastic colon. It is quickly and dramatically treated by simply stopping use of milk and all milk products. These people will need another source of calcium. Milk intolerance will cause digestive problems, even if your diet is otherwise nearly perfect and contains adequate bulk. That may have been your main problem. The milk problem here is the same whether you are using whole or skim milk. It is the double sugar and not the fat that is causing the problem.

You may need a bowel training program. For more information on this write to me at P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019 and ask for the booklet on spastic colon. Send 50 cents to cover costs.

You can always do some experimentation on your own and find out. Stay off all milk and milk products, including cheese, buttermilk and foods that use lots of milk in preparation then see what happens.

You can also try the foods with lots of bulk and see if that improves your condition. Also, stay away from coffee, tea, colas and other caffeinated beverages.

Opens St. Lawrence Seaway

Irish sea captain fulfills 27 year ambition

MONTREAL (CP) - Technology opened the St. Lawrence River to year-round navigation but good weather and praiseworthy St. Lawrence River pilots also helped Irish sea captain Frank Best to fulfill a 27-year ambition. Capt. Best, 43, of Killiney, County Dublin, was formally presented with the traditional gold cane Tuesday for sailing the first ocean-going ship of 1975 into Montreal harbor. The ship, the 9,099-ton Cast Beaver, arrived New Year's Day loaded with 350 containers of general merchandise from Antwerp, Belgium. Capt. Best explained he was set on winning the prize ever since 1949 when the S.S. Ramore Head, on which he served as an apprentice officer, came in second.

In 1949, the first ship to reach Montreal arrived April 19. It was not until 1964 that an ocean-going vessel made it on Jan. 1.

Exceptional weather conditions this year facilitated the Cast Beaver's speedy arrival. "I was pleasantly surprised there was so little ice," the captain said in an interview.

ABOVE FREEZING

Temperature was 34 degrees Fahrenheit Jan. 1, and the water temperature had remained above freezing, "a relatively rare occurrence," said J. R. Galarneau, district manager of marine services.

The Cast Beaver experienced only minor delays in travelling up the river, not as a result of ice but because of regulations forbidding night navigation in winter.

The rule is enforced because moving ice makes it impossible to use lighted buoys to mark the channel, Capt. Best said. Special "spar buoys" are used which, pushed under by the ice, pop up once the ice has moved off.

"The best aid is the VHF telephone," the veteran seaman said. The VHF (very high frequency) telephone permits ships to communicate with Quebec for information on traffic and weather conditions on the river.

City and Montreal for information on traffic and weather conditions on the river. Capt. Best also was quick to credit pilots. "The St. Lawrence River pilots are really well organized now... and worthy of the highest praise."

RIVER 'DIFFICULT'

He described the St. Lawrence as "one of the most difficult rivers to navigate, especially between Quebec and Montreal," mostly because of reefs, ice and strong currents.

Ships used in winter navigation are reinforced to withstand the ice, and the many plying the St. Lawrence channel today help keep it open, he said.

The spell of fair weather has meant the eight icebreakers currently in the St. Lawrence were not needed to clear the way for the Cast Beaver.

Ice control structures, such as ice booms between Trois-Rivières, Que., and Montreal along with the $19-million bridge-like barrier in Laprairie Basin, normally help keep ice out of the channel and the harbor, but have played no significant role this year.

Port Manager Nick Beshwaty said recently that 312 ships carrying 1,919,833 tons of cargo docked in Montreal in the 1973-1974 winter season between Dec. 15 and March 31.

The previous winter season saw 304 ships and 1,938,011 tons to communicate with Quebec of cargo.

The Québec Pension Plan

Pensions in payment in December 1974, and subject to the adjustment provided for under the Plan, have been increased by 10.4% in January 1975.

Amendments to the Québec Pension Plan, which became effective January 1, 1975, involve a considerable increase of benefits payable in the future and recognize the equality of sexes.

Increase of benefits payable in the future

In 1975, you contribute to the Plan on your employment earnings between $700 and $7,400. From 1976 on the maximum employment earnings considered for the Plan will increasingly reflect the actual wage level, which will result in a considerable increase of benefits payable in the future. Thus, the maximum amount of the retirement pension, which is a monthly $125 for those who become beneficiaries in the beginning of 1975, may reach $250 monthly for new beneficiaries in 1980 and $360, in 1985.

Equality of sexes

Another important amendment recognizes the equality of sexes. Female contributors are considered in the same way as male contributors. The widower of a deceased female contributor and her children will be entitled to a surviving spouse's pension and to orphan's pensions. Disabled female contributor's children will likewise be automatically entitled to the pension for a disabled contributor's child.

Application for a Pension

A widower whose spouse died between January 1968 and January 1975 may be entitled to a surviving spouse's pension as from January 1975, if his wife had contributed to the Plan. He must apply for the surviving spouse's pension. Application forms are available from offices of the Board and at the Caisse Populaires.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting any one of the offices of the Board listed below.
