No hindsight?

Mrs. G. F. Davis, 538 Grosvenor avenue, was waiting at the exit of Steinberg's parking lot opposite 372 Victoria avenue, Friday, when a car in front of her started to back-up.

She told Westmount police she put her car into reverse gear to get out of the way, and the next thing she knew she had hit a car parked behind her.

Mrs. Davis' car was undamaged, but the vehicle she backed into received dents in the bumper and hood.

The car in front was not scratched.

Cheque fraud ring alleged in Westmount

Provincial police swooped on a Westmount apartment house recently, and uncovered a cleverly organized cheque fraud conspiracy which is alleged to have netted the operators more than $100,000.

The raid on the apartment at 4085 Tupper street, by police and Bank Investigator Ian Hill, produced equipment, counterfeit blank cheques, and false identification cards.

Preliminary inquiry

Details of the conspiracy were disclosed Friday, at the preliminary inquiry of Robert Hebert, 21, and Marcel Denis, 29, who were sent for voluntary statement on the charge by Judge Henri Masson Loranger.

Provincial police headquarters told The Examiner that the voluntary statements will be heard today. There are several other charges against the accused.

Among the items seized by the police were 337 reasonably convincing off-set process counterfeits of City of Montreal cheques in blank, bearing likenesses of the two official signatures.

There were also phony city Social Welfare Department identity cards, counterfeits of Quebec car registration blanks, and driver's licence forms, and some stolen company cheques.

Blank cheques stolen from printing shops were employed to victimize Canada Steamship Lines, Dominion Tar and Chemical Co., Imperial Tobacco, Consumers Glass, All-State Insurance, and several other firms.

Quebec Hydro and the Quebec Workmen's Compensation Board also suffered considerable losses by the operation, according to Provincial Police reports.

The amounts of the forged cheques which were cashed here in Montreal, and in many Quebec towns, varied from $89 to $290, with the latter figures appearing most frequently.

Acted on instructions

Emile Fournier, a co-accused, testified for the prosecution, and said he had acted on instructions of accused Marcel Denis in cashing some of the cheques here, in Valleyfield, and in Boucherville.

He said it was arranged he would receive a one-third commission on all cheques passed.

Fournier was picked up in a Valleyfield bank last month as he attempted unsuccessfully to cash one of the forged documents. He said he was provided with a set of four counterfeit identity cards by Denis to be used in turning the cheques into cash.

Evidence also indicated that the cashing of the forged cheques was aided by the opening of $3 savings accounts in widely separated banks.

Medicolegal experts, Dr. Rosario Fontaine, testified that the cheques he had been asked to examine by Provincial Det. Sgt. Albert Brouillet, were typed on a typewriter found in the Tupper street raid of the apartment rented by one of the accused last month.

Protectograph machine

Dr. Fontaine also linked amounts on the cheques to a protectograph machine (cheque-writer) which was also seized in the apartment. Some of the written signatures were identified as having been imposed by one of the accused.

Included in the exhibits placed before the Court was a Province of Quebec stamp which was found in the apartment.

The counterfeit blank cheques of the City of Montreal were recognizable as "photographs" of the real thing, but were missing the perforated edges which are a characteristic of the originals. There was also some difference in the quality of the paper.

About the black box

By Larry McInnis

Will pilots eventually become unnecessary, even on commercial airliners?

Right now it does not seem possible, but the day may be nearer than imagined. He will be replaced with a black box.

But not if the pilots have their way!

The de Havilland Trident and the Vickers VC 10, under construction in England, will be equipped with the first practical black box to make automatic landings possible, regardless of weather or visibility conditions, and all hands-off by the pilot.

This, of course, brings up a few interesting problems.

If an aircraft lands in a dense fog by means of the black box, who takes it from the end of the runway to the terminal building?

Who is responsible if the black box fails — the pilot?

In a lawsuit, who will be sued? The pilot? The airline? The black box?

* * *

In England, a new regulation has come out banning aerial advertising of any sort, including barrage balloons, towing banners and sky-writing.

Over Montreal, a light aircraft towing a banner at fairly low altitude is a common sight, especially during football games.

When others are in the air at the same time, it really becomes a game: to spot the tow plane, to keep him in sight, and to try and figure where he is going, when and why.

A DOT regulation here wouldn't do any harm at all!

* * *

Also in England, the Ministry of Aviation recently opened London Airport, under strict conditions, to business aircraft and private fliers.

And back here, it is getting extremely more difficult for a light aircraft to get into Dorval, especially at night.

* * *

A Norwegian boating firm is collaborating with Canadi in Pratt and Whitney to adapt the latter's famous PT6 aero engine to a boat.

The 500-horsepower, 225-pound engine, cut back to lower power for marine use, will give the 30-foot power boat a speed of at least 45 mph.

Canada's CL-41 side-by-side jet trainer is undergoing modifications and is expected to be back in the air in a few weeks.

The aircraft, of which Canadair recently sold 189 to the RCAF, was hastily put together recently so a general from the Mexicar Air Force could try it, then dismantled and work continued on its modifications.

I still hope to get to fly it reasonably soon.

Things I wonder:
When more airfields will be built in Canada, and especially in Quebec. There are few now, and with all this talk about civil defence, a greatly increased number of even small landing strips would seem in order.

Why the TCA-CPA amalgamation rumor seems to have died down so suddenly.

Why the government has not chopped any more routes off TCA lately. And so on!

The UN's new Uncle

By Margaret Aitken

EVERY YEAR at this time I spend a week or so in New York. The purpose is two-fold — to visit the United Nations and to do the Broadway theatres. This column is about the UN.

I spent some months at the United Nations a few years ago as a Government observer. Unbelievable changes have taken place since then.

For instance, in the Delegates Lounge one would say the black peoples of the world now dominate the UN. This is not so yet, but the Africans in their colorful robes are a spectacular group. They stand out in the western world.

Then too, after studying the names of different countries, which are posted in front of each delegation, one is struck anew by the winds of change in Africa. Since the late 1950's, at least 18 countries have become sovereign states. There were five or six I never even heard of before... like Chad, Gabon, Togo, Upper Volta, Mali (that's where Timbuctoo is!) and Senegal. These are all small countries (the smallest being Sierra Leone, which became independent this year) yet they have a vote equal to the U.S. or the USSR or Britain. You can see how the balance of power is all mixed up. But the goal of these countries is to be neutral.

Mr. Oo Thawn

In this sphere Burma takes the Oscar. Which is why Mr. U Thant is now secretary general of the UN. At the moment his prestige is high and I hope he manages to keep it that way. The words used most to describe him are tolerant, honest, imperturbable, detached.

The new secretary general is a small, dapper man with the phlegmatic face of an oriental. In New York he dresses in impeccable western clothes and as he sits at the head of the UN Assembly, his most marked characteristic is quiet aloofness.

His name is pronounced Oo Thawn. Buddhists do not have surnames. Thant was the name bestowed by his parents and the U stands for uncle. After reaching the age of 40 years, every distinguished Burmese man becomes uncle and every Burmese woman becomes Daw-aunt.

Ardent Buddhists

I had a long talk with one woman in the Burma delegation, known affectionately as Auntie Burma. Her name was Daw Myasein. Educated at Oxford, she spoke fast and fluent English. She and Mr. U Thant are both ardent Buddhists and Daw Myasein held forth at some length on the basic principals of her religion, which boiled down to three words — impermanence, unsatisfactory, non ego.

We believe there is no permanence in life," she said. "Everything is constantly changing — man, nature, flowing rivers. What you call suffering, we call unsatisfactory. No achievement, no life is absolutely satisfactory. And there is no I. We are all part of the flowing, fluctuating impermanence of life. Nothing else."

Many picturesque speeches were made after the unanimous vote elected U Thant acting secretary general. Not the least of these came from the spokesman from Ghana, who hailed U Thant as...

"A man who can be tried by both extremes of fortune but he can never be deterred by either. He was walked with destiny."

At a meeting of the City Council it was announced that the tax rate would remain unchanged at 13 mills. The budget for 1936, however, called for a total expenditure of $1,120,732, and was slightly higher than the amount expended in the previous 12 months.

A petition was being circulated throughout Westmount by Dr. Philip Holliday for civic recognition of the Westmount High School senior football team, which had held the championship for seven years.

Another landmark in the history of the Melville Presbyterian Church was passed when adherents and friends, past and present, gathered in the church to celebrate the golden anniversary of the organization of their congregation.

The Children's Theatre was busily engaged on a novel presentation of "Dick Wittington." Children of the School for Crippled Children, and the orphanage on Claremont avenue, were given the opportunity to see the initial presentation.

Members of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association authorized the board of directors, in conjunction with the advisory committee, to sell the club's athletic grounds on St. Catherine street.

The Westmount Health Club opened at 4935 Sherbrooke street west, at the corner of Claremont avenue.

Generally the hair is worn to suit one's personality, and to conform with the styles in millinery milady chooses, reads an article on the Women's Page. For everyday wear a simple headdress, with a slight swirl at the back, is most practical and gives one less trouble. The swirl wave has many variations, and when worn in the extreme with the hair combed directly across the back of the head, and ending in flat pin curls piled on the top and side, gives one a pleasing effect for evening wear.

Obituaries

Harry B. Parker former principal

A former principal of Westmount High School, Harry Benton Parker, died last Thursday in Montreal General Hospital. He was 80.

Funeral services were conducted Friday evening by Rev. R. S. Dunn of the First Baptist Church, and interment took place, Saturday, at Coaticook, Quebec.

Mr. Parker was born in Barnston, Quebec, and was educated at the Feller Institute in Grande Ligne, and McMaster University where he won honors in mathematics, and was awarded an MA degree in 1905.

After teaching in schools at Sutton, the Feller Institute, and Newport, Vermont, he moved to King's School in Westmount as principal in 1910.

Four years later he transferred to Westmount High School as a mathematics teacher. He was named principal in 1927, and held the position until his retirement in 1944.

Mr. Parker was actively connected for many years with the Westmount Lawn Bowling Club, the First Baptist Church, the Montreal Rotary Club, and the Heather Curling Club.

He was predeceased by his wife, Maybell Black, formerly of Thurso; a sister, Sue; and a brother, Alfred.

Survivors include a brother, Ernest, of Coaticook; two nephews, and seven nieces.

Traffic club oyster party

The Traffic Club of Montreal will hold its 18th annual oyster party December 6 at 6:30 p.m. in the Atwater Market Hall.

This event, indicative of the Club's growing membership, is gaining in popularity every year. Last year 850 members and guests attended the affair.

In addition to the oysters, hors d'oeuvre, etc. tickets entitle the holders to the drawing of dozens of festive prizes.

Westmounters set up Honduras Relief Fund

Two prominent Westmount men are among the chief organizers of the British Honduras Hurricane Relief Fund which is attempting to raise money to help the disaster-ridden colony.

They are W. Earle McLaughlin, 67 Sunnyside avenue, who is national chairman of the fund, and C. Rex Stollmeyer, CBE, 107 Sunnyside avenue, honorary secretary.

Mr. McLaughlin, who is President of the Royal Bank of Canada, told The Examiner, yesterday, that he had become involved with the relief fund after hearing reports from employees of his Bank in Honduras.

Asked why he had decided to inaugurate this fund, Mr. McLaughlin replied simply: "It is my civic duty."

The national chairman said it was estimated that destruction and damage in Belize, the capital, following the severe hurricane which struck the colony on October 31, will be approximately $35 million.

He estimates that 85% of the buildings in Belize were either completely demolished or severely damaged.

"As a result, the colony as a whole has been set back about 30 years, and assistance in substantial quantities is urgently needed," he commented.

"It is known at the moment that there is no power available, the water supply has been contaminated, and there is a shortage of food and other supplies.

"While some relief in the shape of medical supplies, food, water, blankets, and clothing, has been provided by certain outside sources, the need for further assistance of this kind, as well as of a more long-term nature, is urgent. And with things as they are, speed in providing assistance is of the very essence," said Mr. McLaughlin.

It's the speeders they are after

By Gordon Eastwood

Speeding cars through Westmount are either on the increase, or Westmount police are making more arrests, judging from the figures issued in the City Manager's report for the months of September and October.

The police department statistics show that radar patrols issued 308 court tickets during the two month period, as against 192 for the same two months last year. Caution tickets totalled 549 as against 369.

This brings the figures for the year, to the end of October, to 1,274, as against 721 for 1960, and cautions 2,442 against 1,845.

Parking tickets for September and October tally 1,600, bringing the total for the year to 5,255. At the end of October in 1960, the figure was 3,486.

One of the reasons for this increase is the decrease in parking caution tickets.

The fire department figures show that the brigade answered 74 calls during the period, of which only 23 were to attend fires.

Communicable diseases handled by the health department totalled 14 for September and October, as against five for the same period a year ago.

Tennis is still the most popular sport in the Westmount district, according to the recreation department.

Over 4,600 people took part in this sport in September, and even 1,493 played the game in October. In 1960, the figures showed 2,864, and 919.

The other sport participation statistics show no sports to have been played in October. In September, the figures were: shuffleboard, 598 (156 in 1960); horseshoes, 126 (290); checkers, 258 (365); and putting, 484 (156).

The public works department report that operations during the two months were essentially normal.

There was some reconstruction and widening of Grosvenor avenue from Sunnyside avenue to the north city limits, to improve the sharp curve, and ease the grades at this location.

Reconstruction work also went on in certain portions of the sidewalks on Somerville avenue.

Repairs completed

Repair work on Western avenue sidewalks was completed, following which the street was resurfaced throughout with sheet asphalt after catchbasins and manholes had been raised to the new grade, and the old concrete gutters filled with asphalt.

Miss Gwyneth Howell; retirement leaves gap

THE resignation of Gwyneth Howell, one of Canada's most distinguished social workers, will leave a great gap, especially with the Montreal Council of Social Agencies.

Her reason was ill health. Allow us to say we hope you are soon feeling better so you can enjoy your retirement, Miss Howell.

Over a period of 20 years, Miss Howell brought a down-to-earth approach to social problems, and organized many more — all the time with a warm sense of humor.

Perhaps, we might say, no one in Canada has made a sounder contribution to welfare planning.

Acts of vandalism are detestable!

THERE is no language strong enough to state that vandalism in schools is to be deplored.

Closest possible would be that such acts are detestable.

The world does not owe anybody a living, and it is a well-known fact that the best of employment these days goes to one with the best education.

Vandalism accomplishes nothing except to disrupt the wheels of the educational machine for a short time, and make citizens wonder just what is becoming of our youth.

The other view on 'upper and lower'

Sir, With reference to your article about the changing face of Westmount.

It seems to me that it is only 'Lower Westmount' which is continually throwing up this idea of a two class municipality. Perhaps our planners would like to see a huge shopping centre right on the top of the mountain itself?

Heavenly junk sailing aloft

I monitored a radio broadcast from NORAD Headquarters, Colorado Springs, the other night and was somewhat impressed by the following information:

There are now 33 artificial satellites sailing around the world — 32 of them fired by the United States and one sent aloft by Russia.

In addition — and this is really intriguing — there are also 89 hunks of junk (that's what the man said!) roving around upstairs, too.

Eighty-six pieces of this junkpile belong to the Americans and the Russians may lay claim to three of them.

The junk, apparently, is made up of booster engines, parts of rockets, bolts and nuts, etc.

It seems the NORAD people, using radar and other electronic devices, keep track of this stuff as the individual pieces whirl around our shaky globe.

About the only moral I can draw from all this information is that, if you get clunked on the head by a stray bolt don't necessarily blame your neighbor — it may be made of some material which resists heat and doesn't burn up in the atmosphere when it eventually drops to earth!

Saturn

There is no lack of recreation facilities for the leisure-time of youth, and most municipalities are looking even more closely at this spare time with the view of expanding existing facilities.

But let's ask the youth to put their time into study, which will help them in the future, rather than in vandalism acts, which will seriously curtail your future, and that of your friends.

My own suggestions for magazine titles that sell
By Pierre Berton

one young couple achieved the impossible through prayer.

ONE THING I MISS about the magazine business (with which I was embroiled for more than a decade) is that I no longer get to write those lively titles and subtitles for articles and fiction stories.

Half the fun of magazine editing was writing titles so compelling that every customer would be forced to read a paragraph at least of the story that followed:

Good titles are usually simple titles and there are some famous examples of successful ones. The best I ever saw appeared in True magazine more than 10 years ago. It simply read: MORE INTENSE THAN SEX. I actually got through the first third of the article before realizing that this was just another, eulogy to bullfighting.

For sheer exploitation value that rivals the famous headline in Britain's mass-circulation scandal sheet The News of the World. The editors still insist that the most famous title they ever ran on a piece of copy consisted of three words only: ON A HAYSTACK. They've never been able to top it.

The British are perhaps more subtle about these things than the Americans. I believe it was Hearst's late, great managing editor, Walter Howey, the prototype of Walter Burns in the Hecht-MacArthur play The Front Page, who nominated an American Weekly title: NAIL-ED FATHER'S HEAD TO FRONT DOOR as the finest example of the art that gaudy publication had ever produced.

It's no secret, I guess, that titles are sometimes written before the actual article is even assigned. I remember that when I was an eager young editor I once tried to get somebody to write an article to fit what I then considered to be the perfect magazine title.

I had just finished taking a course in effective magazine presentation and had been told that magazine readers were interested in five basic subjects: Themselves, Children, Dogs, Sex and Crime. Also that a personal pronoun, especially "you", increased the readership of an article, as did the use of a question mark.

This suggested the following title and subtitle:

Title: IS YOUR CHILD'S DOG A SEX CRIMINAL?

Subtitle: Here's a frank, hard-hitting report that no parent can afford to miss. A world-famous psychiatrist pulls no punches as he examines both sides of the most controversial social problem of our times. His findings may surprise you.

The trouble was I never could find a world-famous psychiatrist willing to put his name to the kind of piece I had in mind.

The well-balanced magazine

Since quitting the business, I have whiled away many a rainy afternoon inventing a series of magazine titles and blurbs which, if gathered together in one magazine, would make it a collector's item. Here are all the ingredients for a well-balanced issue of any typical magazine:

Title: Exclusive!

ADOLPH EICHMANN WAS MY MOTHER.

Subtitle: Here, for the first time, is a little-known sidelight on the bizarre life of the most hated Nazi of our time. Though these revelations may shock you, we publish them here as a revealing human document and a warning to the future. Here's the story you WON'T be told at the Eichmann trial.

Title: I MARRIED A ZOMBIE.
Another true personal experience.

Subtitle: From the steaming jungles of Haiti comes the heart-warming, intensely human story of a strange marriage they said would never work. No young bride will want to miss the inspirational tale of how

Title: DOES CANCER CAUSE SMOKING?

Subtitle: Here's new hope for nicotine addicts. Impressive new scientific tests now suggest that your craving for tobacco may merely be the result of incipient cancer. An exclusive behind-the-scenes report on a major scientific breakthrough.

Title: WE DROVE TO TERRA DEL FUEGO BY CANOE

Subtitle: Here's the rollicking tale of an unusual family who decided to enjoy a holiday that was "different". You'll love this high-spirited and intensely human story of a memorable vacation — told by the sole survivor.

Title: SHOULD TEENAGERS COMMIT ADULTERY?

Subtitle: "Yes!" says one member of our community panel. "No!" thunders another. Between these two extreme points of view the pros and cons of a hitherto hush-hush

I SAY!

An acquaintance of mine over the years was invited to launch ships on two occasions, both of which turned out badly. The first time he drank the contents of the champagne bottle first, launching the ship with a shower of broken glass only. The second time, though, was definitely his last. At zero hour he delayed the whole affair by three hours because he wouldn't let go of the bottle.

Patience:

Patience is the only long-term answer to the continuing struggle between Communism and the free world.

This was stated by Leslie Roberts, 28 Anwoth road, the well-known Westmount author and broadcaster, when he spoke to a meeting of 400 members of the Montreal Traffic Club.

Mr. Robert said the world crisis is not merely the crisis of Berlin. The Berlin issue may continue for the next 50 years.

We can only emerge victorious by the exercise of infinite patience. That the people of Britain have that patience, and will exercise it, I have no doubt. I wish I felt as confident about ourselves in North America," he said.

The speaker also dealt with the over-all problems of Germany, where, he said, "we have moved too far, too fast."

He pointed out that Germany is now the strongest military power on our side in Europe, with a NATO force greater in strength than that of the United States and any other major force combined.

Student attends UN Council conference

Former Westmount High School scholar, John E. Craig, son of Professor and Mrs. Carleton Craig, was among five students chosen to represent Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Maine, at a student conference last weekend in New York City, called by the Collegiate Council for the United Nations.

Principal speaker to the council was Prime Minister Nehru of India, who was anxious to speak with a group of North American student leaders, and to hear their views on the United Nations during his visit to this country.

Also on the agenda were speakers presenting the American viewpoint of the United Nations, briefings by foreign missions to the UN representing several world areas, and panel sessions concerning the role of the nonaligned nations in international politics, African development and the United States, and the problems of Chinese representation.

Westmount students in McGill production

Three McGill University students from the Westmount area are currently appearing in the Players' Club production of "Thieves Carnival" by Jean Anouilh.

Michelle Beausang, 4990 Grosvenor, has been cast as Juliet, the female lead, and taking the parts of the Dupont-Duforts senior and junior are James Khazzam, 44 Sunnyside, and David Francis, 4341 Montrose, respectively.

All three have appeared in several previous McGill productions — Miss Beausang in the English department presentation of "Adam"; James in "The Sacrifice of Isaac"; and David in the Red and White Revue "Got It Made."

"Thieves Carnival" is the most successful of Jean Anouilh's plays. A cast of 15, and a musician, tell the whimsical story of three thieves and their invasion of an otherwise-quiet household where two attractive young girls upset their plans with a romantic counterplot.

The play is filled with the gay characters, irony, and impertinent masquerades often typical of Anouilh at his best.

Directed in arena-style by Stuart Baker, "Thieves Carnival" started Wednesday and concludes tomorrow in the Walter M. Stewart room of the McGill Union, 690 Sherbrooke street west.

Mr. Roberts declared that in his view the Canadian government had adopted an extremely narrow and selfish point of view.

"We are standing in the doorway to a world-trade revolution," he said. "Our job in Canada is not just to think in terms of what the immediate impact on Canada may be, but to prepare ourselves for new world conditions."

Mr. Roberts felt that the common market, to include Britain, will be the world's greatest single economic force in terms of people, volume and money.

"Britain not only should join. She must join. If we Canadians take the broad view, we shall realize that this is the greatest blow we have struck yet at the forces of world communism — the creation of an economic power which, coupled to that of North America, will relegate the Communist bloc to second class status for the foreseeable future.

3-year-old injured by automobile

Kenneth McKinnon, aged three, 465 Argyle avenue, Westmount, received a fractured left leg, and head injuries, when he was knocked down opposite 442 Argyle avenue, Monday, by a car driven by Dollard Bourgouis, 5400 Casgrain street, Montreal.

After being given first aid by Constable Kavanagh, the boy was taken to Montreal Children's Hospital.

Hospital spokesmen told The Examiner, yesterday, that Kenneth was still detained, but refused to give his condition.

Symphony Orchestra campaign

Sixty-five percent of the $175,000 objective has been collected during the current fund-raising campaign of the Montreal Symphony Orchestra, Peter Kilburn, a chairman of the drive told The Examiner, yesterday.

"We need everyone's co-operation in making up the balance," Mr. Kilburn said. "We are slightly ahead of last year's campaign."

The success of conductor Zubin Mehta's performances with the Orchestra this season is reflected in the response to the campaign.

For the first time a strong public appeal is being made for funds in view of the extended activities of the Orchestra with concerts in Quebec and Ottawa and a proposed European tour.

Driver dies at wheel of auto

A St. Laurent resident suffered a heart attack and died while his car was travelling down Victoria avenue, Westmount, Tuesday morning.

The vehicle crashed into a road sign, and a parked truck, before coming to rest against a tree opposite 599 Victoria avenue.

The driver was Urbain Turcot, 57, 1408 De l'Eglise, St. Laurent. He leaves a widow and five children.

An inquest was held on the victim, Wednesday, when Dr. Rosairio Fontaine, who performed the autopsy, confirmed that Mr. Turcot was dead before the car went out of control.

Commented Police Chief, Ed Harper: "It's a lucky thing that the car did hit a tree and stop. If the vehicle had carried on down Victoria avenue there could have been many people killed."

Mayor Cushing at MMC meeting

Mayor J. C. Cushing, of Westmount, was among the civic leaders of 14 suburban member municipalities of the Montreal Metropolitan Corporation who, Monday, held a 1½ hour discussion with Premier Jean Lesage and Deputy Municipal Affairs Minister J. L. Doucet on the future of the MMC, and on the subject of annexations.

Commented Mayor Cushing to The Examiner: "The meeting was strictly in confidence and there is nothing to report at this stage. We simply spent some time discussing municipal problems."

Turntable, or changer?

By Giveon Cornfield

It would be hard to find many record collectors who agree on this subject. The purists will go for a turntable — for them the extra work involved in using one is a pleasure anyway, they don't mind it at all. But let's face it — most of us are lazy, we like automatic things, and our wives are button-pushers from 'way back.

For and against

The turntable man will have two very good points in his favor. First, he will claim, changers are rough on records. The record is dropped onto a moving turntable, or worse still, a turning disc, and this grinds the grooves. And then (shudder) the tone arm and cartridge come crashing down on the poor record, which helps neither.

What's more, the men in favor of the turntable will contend, the machinery in the changer is cumbersome and tends to slow down the revolutions of the table and gives rise to wow and flutter and all those other endearing terms.

The turntable, on the other hand, is free of this paraphernalia, and if the operator happens to run the tip of the stylus across a brand new record, well, he's got only himself to blame. You will agree then that there is a case for turntables.

The gentle touch

But consider the man (or woman) who is not a groove hopper. These people are tired after a hard day's work and went to relax to some music. They want to put on a stack of records and just forget about the machine. On the other hand, they paid a lot of money for those records, and would hate to see them ruined after only a few plays. These factors must have weighed heavy on the minds of certain people, who have come up with an ingenious solution to this dilemma.

Turntable pause

As far as I can determine, there is only one make of changer that will stop turning when a record is about to be dropped onto the turntable. This is the Glaser Steers model GS-77, a truly amazing machine.

that combines in it all the desirable features of the simple turntable, plus all the added conveniences found in most automatic changers, with a few extras for good measure.

The most outstanding feature is called turntable pause, and this alone merits the highest applause, for here is a record handling method that really "babies" your precious discs. The record is dropped onto a stationary platform, and the arm descends ever so gently into the lead-in groove.

Only then will it start. And there is no slow pickup — a full 33 rpm is attained immediately. The tone arm itself is very well designed, and moves easily both vertically and laterally, thus assuring a perpendicular position of the stylus, at all times, so important for proper tracking and stereo. A micrometer adjustment allows precise setting of stylus pressure, and since the arm is acoustically isolated and resonance free, this virtually eliminates tracking error, even at low settings.

I have found my GS-77 will perform satisfactorily at just under 3 grams with a good record. This pressure will not vary more than one gram regardless of the number of records stacked on the turntable. Cartridge changing, too, is made very easy, with a cartridge holder (two provided) that removes with the turn of a knurled screw.

Most good changers will permit mixing of different sized records, but the GS-77 goes a step further with its "Speed Minder", a device that automatically plays 10 and 12" 33 rpm records and 7" 45r's regardless of their position in the stack, at the correct speed.

Needless to say, the motor is a shielded four-pole job and completely hum free. But I was completely overwhelmed when I measured the power cord — it's a full six feet long, and two four-foot shielded wires that go to the amplifier. Here then is one manufacturer who has thought about everything, and successfully designed a changer that is beautifully simple and trouble free.

Musical Sharps, Flats & Naturals

By FRANCES GOLTMAN

Since Liszt has always been a favorite with artists, the only reason he has not been as popular with students is that his music on the whole is far too difficult, therefore only the advanced or serious player can handle the technical problems that are encountered in most of his fabulous pieces.

This being the anniversary year (150th), many easy arrangements have appeared for the hobby players, and records have been selling more than ever. Every pianist with concert aspirations has Liszt works in his repertoire and even if the advanced student does not get opportunities to perform these pieces in public, he is increasing his pianistic ability by studying the many intricacies that Liszt wrote.

The Liszt 150th birthday has also highlighted numerous anecdotes about the man himself. Liszt was a most unusual character and personality. He always helped fellow artists and was the centre of attraction wherever he appeared. This great Hungarian virtuoso possessed the spark of genius three-fold, in his person, as a performer and composer.

My last teacher, Clara Lichtenstein, under whom I graduated, was an authentic pupil of Liszt and frequently, when I was studying a piece by the master, would comment, "He would play it like this," and then demonstrate the section.

I have a very lifelike small photo of Liszt that Miss Lichtenstein gave me that I had framed and it hangs on my studio wall. In another frame I had four pictures, (Liszt as a young man, in middle age and as an elderly man and a picture of the Countess d'Agoult, the mother of his children) all mounted in an oblong frame side by side. So I do not have to wait for an Anniversary to remember Liszt.

II. QUEBEC ORGAN CONCERTS

Interest in the organ has been more noticeable the last few years and noon-time recitals are becoming popular. The Quebec Organ Concerts, formerly known as The Casavant Society is celebrating its 25th Anniversary this season.

During the past quarter century, they have presented over 300 concerts including oratorio piano, vocal and instrumental recitals but on changing its name to Quebec Organ Concerts, they are devoting their efforts solely to the organ.

Many famous names in the realm of this instrument will participate in a series of 30 short (20 minutes) noon-time recitals in Notre Dame Church. The first of these taking place today features Rev. Father Hillaire-Marie Tardif, organist of The Franciscan Monastery, Montreal, followed by Dr. Felix R. Bertrand, formerly of Montreal, organist of the Cathedral Notre Dame de l'Assomption, Moncton, who will be heard on Thursday, November 30. Jean Leduc (winner of the Prix d'Europe, 1957) and presently organist of the Church of Saint-Sacrement, performs December 7.

"Green Gables" goes to Lachine

Under the auspices of the Lachine Civic Theatre, a matinee performance of "Anne of Green Gables" will be presented by the Montreal Children's Theatre, tomorrow afternoon in the Lachine High School auditorium.

The play is directed and produced by Dorothy Davis and Violet Walters, and will feature young Grace McNair in the title role, and guest artist Walter Wakefield as Matthew Cuthbert.

Ted Miller, the well-known radio personality, will again officiate as the master of ceremonies, — a role which delights the children.

The car and rifled safe were recovered the following day in St. Leonard de Porte Maurice, in the north end of the island.

Westmount Police Chief, Ed Harper, told The Examiner that the safe had been blown open by explosives. The monetary contents in the safe totalled about $200.

Many awards and prizes handed out at banquets

By Maurice Mariasine

Seventeen-year-old Linda Vaux, a student at St. Paul's Academy, and 17-year-old Don Vollett, a student at Westmount High School, were honored at the Unity Boys' Club Annual Banquets this week.

Linda was the recipient of a special award for meritorious service to the club and the community, and Don was awarded Unity's top prize — the big "U" and letter of achievement.

Both members have been associated with the Unity Boys' Club since 1951, having participated in a variety of activities. During the past three years they have provided leadership and service to the club, and to the members.

Banquet sidelights

Trophies and awards for athletic achievements were also presented to:

Russ Taylor and Brian McFarlane conducted interviews with sports personalities from the Montreal Canadiens and the Montreal Alouettes.

Arts and Crafts

Some 35 boys attended a special movie on lakeships and the St. Lawrence Seaway. Club projectionist Herb Davies also provided a commentary. Mr. Davies has worked for the Canada Steamship Lines for 44 years, and is an authority on the subject.

Joan Strike, one of Unity's newest of volunteers, has completed her term in the junior games room, and now has started a puppetry class as a regular feature in the club.

Three soap box carts are under construction in the Workshop. Lamps are also being produced in the after-school leisure hours.

Members of the leatherwork class are hopeful that their leader, Roger Desjardins, will recover quickly from his recent illness and be back at the helm one again.

Drive successful

Needy adults and children of the Old Brewery Mission got a good lift last week when the Club staff, and members of Unity's UNTACS group, delivered a large quantity of clothing — the result of an old clothing drive sponsored by the club members. The drive continues, and in the meanwhile we would like to thank all the donors who made this possible.

Clues to Cashword Explained

ACROSS

1. PREHENSION is chosen. It may be unkind to dispute an individual's PREHENSION, or understanding, for he may not be capable of better thinking. It could be a kindness to dispute someone's PRETENSION if he is making a fool of himself.

8. INFIRM, yes. A man's INFIRM desire for success is not likely to lead to any achievement, for it would be lacking in the resolution required to reach a chosen goal. If he has an INFORM, or shapeless, desire, hard work may help to crystallize his goal as his efforts bring advancement.

10. SELL is favored. A man may use a SELL, or hoax, to create an impression, as when he may try to fool people with regard to his station in life. He may merely use a SEAL to fasten something securely.

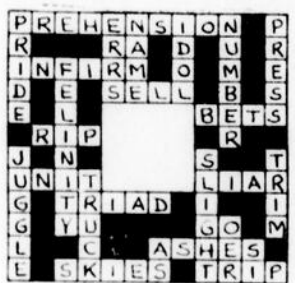

11. BETS is preferred. A strict father may consider BETS out of place in a well-ordered home, for a disciplinarian is likely to regard any form of gambling as a weakness. Strictness might extend to the PETS but not be incompatible. JETS, NETS and SETS are remote.

12. RIP is best. A RIP, as an area of cross-currents, may make a man who is boating wish he were home, for it may create a dangerous situation. A NIP, as a sting in a cold wind, could be exhilarating if he is dressed for it. DIP would need further explanation. HIP, LIP, PIP, SIP and TIP are remote.

18. LIAR, to be sure. In the theater, a LIAR on stage is likely to be a villainous character who would not engage the audience's sympathy. A LEAR, as an actor's representation of King LEAR, may very well be sympathetic because of the tragedy that befalls the character.

19. TRIAD is wanted. A TRIAD, as when he plays a chord, may persuade a prospective purchaser that a piano has a good tone. "May" is weak with TRIAL; this suggests a lengthier opportunity for observing the tone, and could certainly persuade the buyer.

23. ASHES is preferred. An ailing woman may find a lot of ASHES, such as may accumulate in a coal furnace, difficult to get rid of, for she may not be strong enough to collect and carry them. If her ACHES are not chronic, they may disappear by themselves.

25. SKIES is selected. Many dull SKIES, as stretches of bad weather, may force a touring revue to close, for attendance may fall off sharply when rain or snow threatens. A show with many dull SKITS is not likely to have gone over well enough to begin with to encourage a producer to send it on tour.

26. TRIP, yes. It may be best not to hurry arrangements for a TRIP, for given time one may be able to make a better choice for mode of travel, hotels, etc. It may be worse not to hurry arrangements for a TRIO if they are urgently needed for an engagement. TRIM is vague.

DOWN

1. PRIDE is likely. A man may consider his PRIDE in determining whether to undertake a difficult enterprise, for he may not relish the possibility of failure. A good PRICE or PRIZE may not tempt him if there is a good chance of a blow to his PRIDE. PRIME is remote.

4. IDOL is preferred. A mother may tell her daughter not to waste time on an IDOL, as when the girl may be an ardent fan of a popular entertainer. An IDYL could be a poem to be learned for class; a mother would expect her daughter to do her school work.

5. NUMBER is wanted. A swimming instructor may be influenced by the NUMBER in a class who ask that the lesson be shortened, for he won't want a lot of unwilling pupils to coach. The NUMBED, if few, might be dismissed as individuals and the rest of the class held.

6. PRESS, to be sure. The PRESS, or newspapers, may be important at a Hollywood function, for movies and actors thrive on publicity. DRESS may be important at any function. CRESS and TRESS are remote.

9. FELINITY is favored. A discontented woman is not likely to notice the FELINITY, or cattiness, of a coworker who is listening to her complaints, for she may be so glad to find a listener that she may not question the woman's motives in hearing her out. She is not likely to select one whose FELICITY, or happiness, she notices, for she may resent such an individual.

Anyone might penetrate a JUNGLE; it might take an expert to get out again.

14. SLIGHT is best. An individual in a difficult financial situation may be mortified by a SLIGHT, for it may persuade him that he is no longer socially acceptable. His PLIGHT is more likely to worry than mortify him. BLIGHT and FLIGHT are remote.

St. George's Society: a year of progress

A year of progress through expanded community work and revised social activities, were the highlights of twin reports presented to the 127th annual meeting of the St. George's Society of Montreal at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel Wednesday night.

Society President, John M. Merriman, noted that the group "has had a progressive year and that its charitable work in the community is considerable, and is also well and favourably known.

"However, the human side of this welfare work remains with Society members. They have given freely of their time throughout the year to advancing the cause of humanness to the hundreds of people in straightened circumstances who have felt the need for a helping hand, and who have received needed encouragement from our members," he said.

Dinner dance favored

In reviewing the past 12 months, Mr. Merriman noted that for the first time in its long history, the Society had dispensed with its annual formal St. George's Ball in favor of a dinner dance.

"That the innovation was successful is obvious . . . it has been decided to continue in like vein in 1962 in celebration of St. George's Day," he added.

The Society's Ladies' Division had been particularly active, reported Mr. Merriman, particularly in their work of supplying clothing, layettes, and needlework items for hospitals, overseas, and senior citizens.

"Year by year the Ladies' Division makes a solid contribution to the welfare work of the Society and we warmly commend its efforts," he said.

Officers appointed

Division officers for the current year include Mrs. John Cowling, of Westmount, chairman; Mrs. Lewis V. Elvin, Town of Mount Royal, secretary; Mrs. W. G. Mackenzie, treasurer; Mrs. F. E. Regan, Westmount, in charge of parcels; and Mrs. H. J. Williams, materials.

Welfare Officer, Miss Edith Haslam, reported that 10 years ago the Society had received 250 applications for assistance, and financial and other help was given 117 times.

Last year, monetary and material assistance had more than doubled that figure, and applications for help had increased to 451.

"The trend nowadays has been to help families, the aged and the ill, rather than the unattached, unemployed and often unemployable persons who wander from agency to agency for handouts," said Miss Haslam.

Countless visits

During the year, members had made countless visits to private homes, hospitals, and institutions; had assisted the work of various hospital social service departments and the Family Service Association; had provided all forms of assistance to both the sick and aged; and during the last Christmas season, some 160 people benefited from the charitable work of the Society, added Miss Haslam.

During election of Society officers and directors for the 1961-62 season, John Merriman was named President for a second consecutive term.

Elected Vice-Presidents were: F. E. Regan, Westmount; M. R. Hildred, Westmount; and Rev. Stanley Andrews, of Hampstead.

Directors named

Named directors were: H. G. Norman, of Hudson Heights, Que.; A. L. Melling, Westmount; L. H. T. Clegg, Westmount; C. N. Knowles, Royal Avenue, N.D.G.; E. Alan Gordon, of Harvard, N.D.G.; R. B. B. Lansdown, Westmount; Herman Cole, of Dorval; Arnold Heckle; and J. T. Buttery.

Platter Matter

By BOB KEEN

Columbia: Christmas Carols Around The World. The Mormon Tabernacle Choir, Richard P. Condie, Director. ML 5684. Another new Christmas recording from this famous choir, featuring familiar and lesser known carols from England, Germany, France, Russia, Austria and Denmark, all with English lyrics.

We particularly liked 'Here We Come A-Caroling', 'Brother John's Noel,' the 'Prayer From Hansel And Gretel,' the straight choral arrangement of 'We Three Kings Of Orient Are,' 'It Came Upon The Midnight Clear,' 'Up And Awake Thee Peter Lad!', and the beautiful contrapuntal arrangement by Gustav Holts of four famous carols called 'Christmas Day,' well worth the whole record. Recommended.

Prokofiev: Peter And The Wolf. Op 67 conducted and narrated by Leonard Bernstein, and Tchaikovsky: Nutcracker Suite, Op. 71A, Leonard Bernstein conducting the New Philharmonic. Serge Prokofiev's famous musical fairy tale finds yet another well-known narrator in the person of the talented Leonard Bernstein who does another tasteful job in the field of the spoken word.

On the flip side Mr. Bernstein leads the N.Y. Philharmonic in a superb performance of Tchaikovsky's popular and seasonable 'Nutcracker Ballet' to complete an excellent Christmas package.

Columbia: Ode For St. Cecilia's Day. New York Philharmonic, Leonard Bernstein, Conductor; Adele Addison, Soprano; John McCollum, Tenor; John Wummer, Flute; Laszlo Varga, Cello; Bruce Prince-Joseph, Organ; Rutgers University Choir, F. Austin Walter, Director.

ML 5606. Some fine and rare Handel, dedicated to the patron saint of music, St. Cecilia, whose festival is celebrated November 22. Typical orchestral serenity and stirring recitative from this composer performed by a select group of artists with a special mention for the tenor voice of John McCollum.

Epic. Bach — Brandenburg Concertos Nos. 1-3. Netherlands Chamber Orchestra, Szmon Goldberg, conductor. LC 3604. These familiar concertos of Johann Sebastian Bach are noted for their fine combining of strings and wind instruments, deftly woven into pleasant thematic music. This excellent chamber group gives a first-rate transcription of volume one the first three of the six compositions commissioned by the Margrave of Brandenburg in 1719.

Monitor features take award

A group of Monitor features by news editor Larry McInnis received recognition in the form of a special honorable mention last Saturday evening at the first annual Montreal Men's Press Club awards, presided over by club member Gov. Gen. Georges Vanier.

In announcing the special honorable mention to Mr. McInnis in the news feature writing category, Marc Thibault quoted judge William Boss, long-time Canadian Press staffer and famous war correspondent, as saying: "Right up to the end we kept under consideration an entry from The Monitor — one of several really distinguished contributions it made to the contest — in the hope that the final results would enable the Montreal Men's Press Club to recognize publicly and encourage the fresh approach it would appear to be showing in a lack-lustre field.

"That did not work out in our ultimate assessment.

"However, in the event that the other judges may disclose thoughts along the same line, perhaps the organizers of the competition might see fit to award this special honorable mention."

Mr. Thibault then said that the other judges disclosed thoughts along the same lines, and therefore the club was making this additional award.

Mr. McInnis and the president and publisher of The Monitor, J. W. Sancton, were present at the dinner.

'Open House'

Members of the general public who have not had the opportunity to visit the new Westmount High School on Redfern Avenue have a chance to solve this problem, Monday, when the school will hold an "Open House" for any visitors.

Norman Wood, principal, told The Examiner yesterday, that doors will be open from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Special invitations have been sent to the Old Boys' Association, Westmount Alumnae, and the Municipal Association, but anybody will be welcomed.

The public may feel free to wander anywhere in the building, but special rooms are recommended.

They include the library, technical drawing room, chemistry lab, biology, lab typing room, French lab, physics lab, art room, cafeteria, boys and girls gymnasium, auditorium and stage, wood and metal shops, sewing room, home economics room, band room, and geography room.

'Nervous' patients organize self-help

Recovery Inc. is a self-rehabilitation program developed by the late Dr. A. A. Low, University of Illinois psychiatrist for the nervous patient and the emotionally disturbed person.

Recovery was initiated to prevent relapse of mental illness and to handle nervous troubles before they cause a breakdown.

Patients have found a way, through Recovery, to fill in for expensive, hard-to-get psychiatric help, and fight nervousness, panic, and fear of relapse.

Groups are now holding meetings in Chicago, New York, Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton and now in Montreal every Wednesday evening from 8 to 10 at 450 Kensington avenue, Westmount.

Capital punishment: The great divider

There has been much written and talked about capital punishment, but Westmount Rotary Club, at their weekly meeting, Wednesday, heard the story from the other point of view — by the Crown Prosecutor.

Kenneth C. MacKay, Crown Attorney for the District of Montreal, told members of the club that the question of the abolition or retention of capital punishment crosses many party lines, divides police and prison officials, sociologists, lawyers, and layman alike.

"We should put aside emotional and sentimental arguments. We should consider only the logical and unemotional cases for and against capital punishment against the background of the history of capital punishment," he said.

Mr. MacKay illustrated his talk with a number of instances of capital punishment which took place in England through the centuries.

The speaker said to look back at the past history of capital punishment and its gradual restriction to particularly heinous crime, it was an unavoidable conclusion that within 10 years capital punishment would be abolished in Canada, except for treason, and possibly the execution of professional criminals.

Swift detection

Discussing whether capital punishment acted as a deterrent to murder, Mr. MacKay said he considered the greatest deterrent to any offence was the sure knowledge that a crime will be followed by swift and sure detection.

"I think it is only common sense to say that what really decides the criminal is whether on the one hand he thinks that if he does the job he will get away with it, or whether he thinks that if he does it he will be caught and punished," he said.

"The chief deterrent to crime is not the severity of the punishment, but the certainty of conviction. But according to those responsible for law enforcement, the death penalty is an effectual deterrent in the case of professional criminals."

Mr. MacKay concluded his talk by telling members of the Rotary Club that if they were to fulfil their obligations as leaders of the community, they must seriously consider questions such as this.

"The laws of a democratic state are but the reflection of the views of a majority of the citizens. These views, whatever they may be, must be made known to those who represent us, to formulate the laws," said the speaker.

Local girl takes role in college play

Jane MacFarlane, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. K. I. MacFarlane, 64 Forden crescent, Westmount, has an important part in the Archibald MacLeish's Pulitzer prize-winning play "J. B.," which is being produced this week by the Middlebury College Players in Middlebury, Vermont.

Middlebury is the first college in New England or New York, since the premiere at Yale, to produce the famous play, which has been called one of the lasting achievements of art and mind in our time.

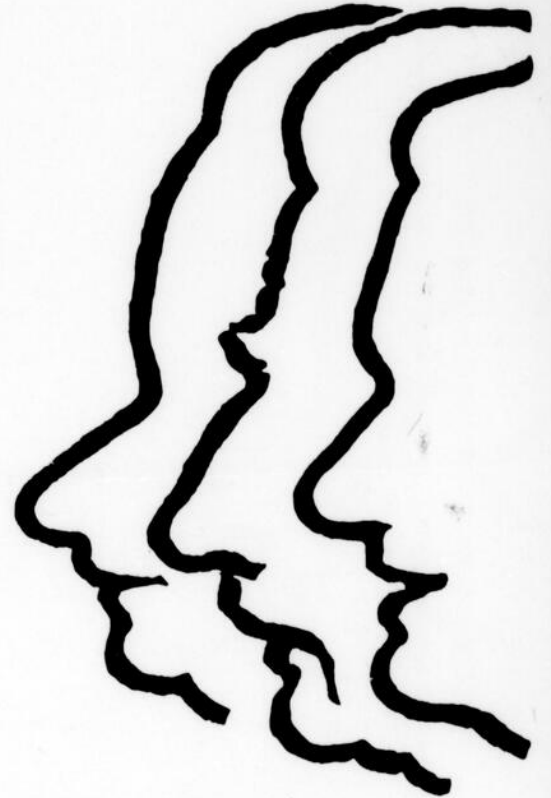

Now a senior at Middlebury, Miss MacFarlane has the role of Miss Mabel in the total cast of 20. She has taken part in a number of dramatic productions of the college.

The play, which re-examines in terms of modern experience the ageless story of the Bible's Book of Job, was hailed with critical superlatives at its Broadway opening.

Its commercial success proved that a literate, lyrical, poetic drama could be a box-office hit. "Production of this play is a tremendous experience for a student group," said Eric T. Volkert, professor of drama and director at Middlebury's Wright Memorial Theatre.

"As they rehearse they are rising to the challenge of Mr. MacLeish's inspiring writing," he added.

"J.B." is one of a series of dramatic productions staged during the year by the Players.

Will the $250,000 needed by the YMCA help produce a Hammarskjold, Schweitzer or Dr. Tom Dooley?

It may, for these men are renowned for their strength of character. And the YMCA is concerned with developing character. Through 18 education and character-growth projects in Montreal, the 'Y' provides opportunities for health, education and personal guidance. All of these projects aim at specific educational and social values. They include 10 city branches, a complete university and four schools.

Rector, Trinity Memorial Church

Last week I expressed objection to the separatist movement in Quebec on the ground that the movement was based on a false reading of the facts. The separatists assert that the French-Canadians have been unfairly treated. On the other hand, a great many English-Canadians from the beginnings of British rule have felt that they were discriminated against. It is probably impossible to weigh the claims against one another, but it should be remembered that there are two sides to the argument.

offence, one can always find it in such a system, for it can only run successfully on the good will of both sides. It should be noted too that the integration is growing and there is every possibility that we may build up a nation true to both its roots.

That, however, is not the principal reason for my objection to separatism.

The fact is that Canada is one country and by its wealth, its size, its frontier hardihood, its independence of judgment and action it holds a place of honor in the family of nations.

It is a pity to hamper such an experiment. Canada is an ideal country in which to carry it out, and by carrying it out we can set an example to the world in tolerance. If separatism wins it will mean not only that Canada suffers from division, but that the whole course of Christian civilization will suffer a setback. There is a great experiment going forward and we Canadians are responsible for its success.

Perhaps it would be better to say that for just two centuries a great experiment has been going on, in which two nations have been learning to live together in mutual respect. There has been no blueprint, and sometimes one nation and sometimes the other has stepped beyond the limits of consideration. Certainly individuals within both nations have done so.

Typical of the pertinent Bible selections will be this verse from Revelation: "He that overcometh shall inherit all things; and I will be his God, and he shall be my son."

But on the whole, both nations have supplied wise leaders to the country as a whole, and a common dual culture has begun to emerge. There have been dual language magazines and papers, tentative perhaps, but none the less real. There have been joint committees speaking both languages. There has been a federal parliament in which both languages are recognized and used.

Correlative passages from the Christian Science text book "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include: "At all times and under all circumstances, overcome evil with good."

There have been public services like postal service, customs, banking where bi-lingualism is the rule. If one is looking for Montreal "Pops" Concerts announces two concerts at the Forum on January 9 and January 23, under the auspices of La Brasserie Labatt Limitee.

At the Evening Service the certainty of Christian experience will be discussed under the title, "This I Know."

The first concert will feature the renowned conductor, Arthur Fiedler, of the world-famous Boston Pops and the distinguished Canadian pianist Neil Chotem. The second concert will feature Lois Marshall, internationally-known Canadian soprano in operatic excerpts with conductor Alexander Brott and the Montreal "Pops" Orchestra.

The mid-week meeting of the Church on Wednesday at 8:00 p.m. will be visited by the Rev. Gerald Ward of Regina, Saskatchewan, the President of the Baptist Federation of Canada.

The Deacons and Deaconesses will meet on Tuesday at 8:00 p.m. in the church; the BYPU on Friday in the Lower Hall at 8:00 p.m.

At the worship Friday evening and Saturday morning, Brian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam King will be called to the Reading of the Torah in observance of his Bar Mitzvah.

These concerts were successfully inaugurated last May and June at The Forum and were hailed as "a welcome addition to this city's music life." Special emphasis in these concerts is placed on the popular symphonic repertoire as well as the presentation of the Canadian artist.

Friendship Club receives aid from the Rotary Club

The Westmount Friendship Club (for the aged) is presently holding a membership drive for new members.

The club meetings take place on Wednesday afternoons between 1 and 3 p.m. in the Park Emmanuel and Calvary Church, 309 Lansdowne. The members, a mixed group with 40 to 50 attending regularly and a registration of 67, arrive at 12.30 and eat lunch which they take with them. Friendly conversation follows and tea and dessert is served. A short meeting is then held along with a sing-song followed by cards such as whist, 500, bridge and rummie. One group of ladies fold and wrap cancer dressings. Then from 2.45 to 3.15 a program is arranged in co-operation with the members. Games, songs, films, discussions and party preparations are planned and carried out.

The Rotary Club of Westmount has provided considerable financial backing through the years

St. Andrew's women honor late founder

The autumn luncheon of the Women of St. Andrew's was held in Clark Hall on Wednesday, November the eighth. Mrs. D. O. Bremner was in the chair and the guest speaker was Dr. Rabbi Harry Stern of Temple Emanu-El.

At the close of the meeting, Dr. D. M. Grant dedicated the new Ladies' Parlor to the memory of the late Mrs. Florence D. Cushing, founder of the Women of St. Andrew's and mother of Mayor J. C. Cushing. The plaque, bearing the inscription, was unveiled by Mrs. A. J. D. Wright, daughter of Mrs. Cushing, who in her remarks said, "This room, like she was, is so sweet and lovely, so attractive and gay, and above all, so very much a part of the church which she loved. Those who knew her will never forget her, but it is good to know that we have a reminder for future generations."

The room will be known as The Cushing Parlor.

Neighborhood House

Dr. Juanita Chambers, the director of psychological services of Harterre House Inc. will be guest speaker at an open meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of Neighborhood House, Monday, November 27, 12.30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Max Feldman, 601 Clarke avenue, Westmount.

Mrs. Alan Finestone, president of the Women's Auxiliary announces that Dr. Chambers' topic will be "Children—In Tomorrow's World."

A sandwich luncheon will be served.

and this year have undertaken the employment of a Social Group Worker to help with the program each Wednesday when the members meet. They also sponsor bus trips in the spring for members who live alone and enjoy recreation and social afternoons together and a welcome opportunity for an excursion away from the city.

Each month birthday parties are held and a special Christmas party is eagerly looked forward to.

Membership cost 50c a year with a charge of 15c per day to cover the cost of tea and dainties. A guest must pay 20c each per Wednesday attended. An elderly person may join the club by coming to the Park Emmanuel Church any Wednesday at 12.30 with the membership fee and a bag lunch.

At the moment, the club is inviting only residents of the City of Westmount.

The Westmount Friendship through interested members for the Westmount Women's Club, who held the first meeting for the aged in November, 1951. Their original meeting place was the Westmount Athletic Grounds Clubhouse at 4350 St. Catherine street and the membership has continued throughout these ten years with the eventual change of location. The committee of women who have run this program have worked diligently together for many years. Mrs. Frank Binmore, immediate past-president, Mrs. B. Brown, a past president and recent president-elect, have been on this committee since the club's inception. Other members of the committee are Mrs. J. Gorrie, Mrs. J. Hellyer, Mrs. P. M. McCuay, Mrs. C. Masterman, Miss Grace Rowland, Miss E. M. Sharpley and Mrs. F. V. Thompson. The group worker, who gives her services one day a week is Miss Betty-Carol Ford.

Blundell-McDonald wedding held in Westmount church

The marriage of Daryl Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. McDonald, to Mr. John Kenneth Blundell, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Blundell, took place in the Church of the Ascension of Our Lord, Westmount.

Rev. John Colford officiated and the organist was Mrs. J. E. Savaria. Soloist was Mr. L. P. Lecours. The church was decorated with standards of white gladioli and chrysanthemums.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an original gown of white peau de soie with a Victorian neckline, full length sleeves and a draped skirt falling into a train. Her veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a diadem of matching peu de soie.

The maid of honor, Miss Nancy McDonald, sister of the bride, wore a floor length gown of pastel gold peau de soie fashioned with a draped skirt and chapel train. She wore a matching head-dress and carried a semi-cascade bouquet of bronze and gold chrysanthemums.

Miss Eleanor McCarthy and Miss Judith McLeod, as bridesmaids, wore similarly styled gowns of Mediterranean blue peau de soie with matching head-dresses and carried semi-cascades of gold and bronze chrysanthemums.

The flower girl, Miss Mary Jorgensen, niece of the bride, was dressed in turquoise organza and carried a basket of baby mums.

The best man was Mr. Vern Saunders, and ushers were Mr. Robert Shallow and Mr. Keith McDonald, brother of the bride.

Following a reception the couple left for the Southern U.S. and Washington, D.C.

The bride travelled in an emerald green suit with a matching draped hat and brown French kid accessories.

A guide to good husbands

Are women getting tired of the "make-yourself-desirable-for-hubby" type of advice?

"Ask yourself," urges a widely-read American woman's magazine, "Am I pleasing my husband?" This is followed by a quiz where you answer yes or no to questions like: "Do I serve meals on time? . . . Kiss my husband every day? . . . Thank him for his kindness? . . . Keep my household budget in balance?" etc.

Another magazine lists "Five ways in which Wives Fail."

At last there are faint signs that the worm is beginning to turn — or at least it's beginning to pop up and ask a few questions back.

Your turn

So now we offer this quiz to husbands . . . DO I:

- Realize quite how madly attractive my wife is?
- Manage to hold her interest for a whole evening without the aid of friends, the television, outings, etc.?
- Thank her for accompanying me to the theatre, parties, etc.?
- Admit that any revolting faults displayed by the children probably come from my side of the family?
- Remember the hundreds of bachelors who would give anything to be in my shoes as I perform my household chores?

Even one "No" in answer to these questions should get you worried. Your chances of hanging on to these gorgeous whimsical creatures are dim enough as it is. Get cracking on your waistline, hairline, and "personality aura" — preferably on your wife's night out — before it is too late.

Mrs. Esther Notkin is chairman of the Exhibition and the selection committee is composed of Mrs. Eileen Harold, Mrs. Jean Withey, and Mrs. Rosalie Namer. Mrs. Nakahima, Mrs. H. Ramza and Mrs. Jean Withey are in charge of display arrangements.

'Turnabout Shop' is run by Study Old Girls' Assn.

Six years ago the Study Old Girls' Association were concerned over the problem of how to have a money-raising project which would keep making money for their charitable activities — not just one day a year, but every day of the year. Many projects were thought up and reluctantly discarded as impractical until the idea of the Turnabout Shop was born. This type of project, they knew, was successful in Toronto, as well as in several cities in the United States, so why not try it here?

Mrs. Joanna Farrell and Mrs. John Stairs undertook to start this original store, and after months of planning and consultation the Turnabout opened its doors for business on St. Catherine street in Westmount in November, 1955. This novel sort of shop, where the suppliers of good used clothing get half the sale price given back to them, and where clothes can be bought at a fraction of their original purchase price, proved so successful that the move to the more convenient location on Victoria avenue took place in a very short time.

Since that day the Turnabout Shop has proved a blessing to many a housewife shopping for herself and family. The customers come from many residential districts besides Westmount, and the shop is often visited by interested people who live far away but have heard reports of the bargains to be picked up there.

Miss Hilda Tapner, the newly appointed manager of the Turnabout, brings a wealth of experience to her position. She, with a staff of volunteers drawn from the Study Old Girls, mothers of past and present students, and women who are interested in the progress of the shop, supervises the running of the store. Miss Tapner, who has done social service work for twenty-five years, came to Canada from England, where she worked with the National Health Insurance. In Montreal she joined the office staff of the Council of Social Agencies, and then worked at the Montreal Day Nursery, where during the depression as many as one hundred children were cared for daily.

Later Miss Tapner went, as a Medical Social Welfare Worker, to the Montreal General Hospital, where in 1950 she undertook to help

Dear Abby...

Kiss is out of place!

By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Last Sunday I attended a wedding, and would like to know if what happened there is customary and proper. After the bride and groom exchanged their marriage vows, he placed the wedding ring on her finger and then came the kiss, which was held much longer than I think was necessary. Here is what got me: After they let loose of each other, everyone started to applaud. What was the reason for it?

HORRIFIED

DEAR HORRIFIED: The guests were probably moved by the "performance", and responded accordingly. That kiss was out of place in church, and so was the applause.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I was practically engaged to a college boy of 19. I am 16. Everything was going along great until I found out he had been seeing two other girls. I asked him to explain himself but he didn't seem to want to, so I told him we were through.

I thought sure he'd call me up and apologize, but he hasn't called me yet, and it's been over two months. Should I write him a letter and ask him to call me? I think he really wants me back but has too much pride to call.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: I doubt if he has too much pride. He's probably having too much fun. Don't write him. Write him off.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I dine out with friends, he will frequently say, "Aren't you going to eat your potato?" Or, "If you don't want to finish your dessert, I'll take it." He is always finishing up someone's salad or steak, and behaving like a human garbage pail in general. He is an executive with a good family background, so don't tell me he doesn't know better. I don't mind his cleaning up my plate at home, but when we are out in public it becomes embarrassing. How can I stop him?

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Tell this "vacuum cleaner with teeth" that unless he stays out of other people's plates, you'll refuse to eat out with him.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Our hearts are breaking with grief. Our beautiful 16-year-old daughter ran away and got married. When they came to tell us we said things in our hurt and anger that we meant at the time, but regret now. They had promised they would wait until she graduated from high school. We had so much faith in them that we kept our home open to this man. We liked him so much. He is over 21. Now we don't even know where our daughter is. She has quit school. They won't even let us apologize. The boy called and told us to stop trying to get in touch with them because they never want to see us again. We just want to know that our daughter is well and happy. Sixteen is so young. What can we do?

HEART-BROKEN PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: Wait. Your daughter will call you.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am growing more and more worried over the fact that I can't seem to get married. I am a good-looking woman of 35, shapely, intelligent, kind, industrious, moral, healthy and vivacious. I don't want to boast but I can't think of one desirable feminine characteristic that I don't possess. Nearly every man I go out with wants to marry me. But I don't want to marry them. Everyone who meets me is amazed that I have never been married. I want to be loved, and have children some day, but I have yet to meet the man I could feel that deeply about. I know, as the years pass, I won't have all these opportunities, and it saddens me. What is wrong with me? "TOO PARTICULAR"

DEAR TOO: There is no such thing as being "too particular." Concentrate more on the desirable characteristics of the men you meet, and less on your own. There is somebody for everybody, but the gate must swing both ways.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I don't suppose many men write to you, but here's a letter from a man who would like to know what to do with an 18-year-old daughter who is strong, healthy and lazy with a capital "L." Her mother can be breaking her back with housework, but this daughter looks right through her. She has never once offered to help with anything. She acts like she is a royal princess who has nothing to do but entertain herself. It burns me up to witness this the few hours I am at home. How can this be corrected?

BURNED FATHER

DEAR FATHER: Your royal "princess" was not trained by her mother (or anyone else) to get a move on and help clean up the royal "palace." Don't blame your daughter for not responding to orders with which she is utterly unfamiliar.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Our 19-year-old daughter has gone berserk over some fellow who lives 90 miles from here. He cannot always come here, so my daughter thinks nothing of getting on a bus and going to his house — with his approval, but neither her father's nor mine. Are we wrong to object? She claims it isn't as though she were "chasing" him, as she already has him. She thinks we are nuts. Are we?

PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: Not in my squirrel bank. Tell your daughter to stay home. She doesn't "have" him until she's married.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: We have in our school a girl who tells the most outlandish lies you ever heard. She told a bunch of us girls that her father had a 90-foot boat. She also said she had a string of horses, and her father had an airplane. She said she has a transistor radio to match every outfit and that she has had $900 worth of skating lessons. You can't prove she is lying because, when you ask to see any of these things, she says she gave them away. The girl is only 13. She is very pretty, and not dumb. What makes her fib like this? Is there any way we can cure her?

ice and full skirt, embroidered with lace, sequins and seed pearls, the full-length sleeves finished in points at the wrist. Her veil of tulle illusion was held by a crown of seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white mums and yellow roses.

Miss Carol Edmonds of Dorval, the bridesmaid, wore a cocktail-length gown of gold peau-de-soie, with a sleeveless, fitted jacket and full skirt. Her headress was a veiled circlet of matching material and she carried a bouquet of gold, bronze and yellow mums.

The flower girl, little Miss Janet Dice, sister of the bride, wore a knee-length dress of gold peau-de-soie with an overskirt of white organza. She carried a bouquet of gold, bronze and yellow mums with a matching circle of flowers in her hair.

Mr. Bob McKay was best man for Mr. Hiscock and the ushers were Mr. Bill Dice, brother of the bride, and Mr. Bob Tadgell, a cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Dice, the bride's mother, wore a gown of Alice Blue brocade with matching hat and navy blue accessories and wore a corsage of white gardenias.

Mrs. Hiscock, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of royal blue brocade with matching hat and accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Out of town guests were, Mr. and Mrs. M. Milton of Toronto; Miss Agnes Davidson and Miss Virginia Larin of Quebec City.

Following the reception at the Maples Inn, the couple left for the United States, the bride travelling in a garnet red cashmere suit with matching pillbox hat and black accessories. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Hiscock will reside in Lachine.

A TESTIMONIAL PLAQUE is presented to Mrs. Anna Raginsky, right, 4250 Sherbrooke street west, by Mrs. Harold Fanaberia, 4 Hudson avenue, Westmount. Mrs. Raginsky is National Chen chairman and honorary chairman of the Women's Division of the Montreal Israel Bond Organization, and received the plaque on the occasion of her 70th birthday. Mrs. Fanaberia is Women's Division chairman.

Interesting Suggestions

Suggestion No. 1

That Companies, Service Clubs and Banks consider the idea of purchasing an occasional painting for presentation for Long Service — Retirement Gift — or Meritorious Service — as a deviation from the stereotyped presentations at present in vogue.

Suggestion No. 2

That people 'making do' with pictures around the house give a thought to improving their surroundings by the addition of one or more really nice Canadian or other paintings at our prevailing low prices.

That certain feeling - be creative about it!

The snow has come, the shops are ablaze with light, there's that certain feeling in the air — Christmas!

And it's time to think about decorating your home, inside and out, to express the festive season in your own particular way. Creating a colourful scene in Christmas lights is not only easy, it is plenty of fun, too, because you can be as creative as your heart desires, and your pocketbook lets you.

Using strings of the new Christmas lights, with flood and spot lights, your home, lawn and shrubbery can take on the air of fairyland, lending a spirit of good cheer to the entire neighborhood.

There are several rules that expensive window decorations is a candle and a bulb within a wreath, a single electric candle on the windowsill, or a candelabra of several graduated candles. Tall glowing candles can be made of stovepipe, mailing tubes, or cut out of plywood, and painted appropriately. These can be placed at each side of the front door to welcome guests with a show of hospitality.

Don't forget to use floodlamps to give the final touch to your home decorating outdoors. This helps to tie the whole project together by supplying a diffused light over the entire area. However, unity can also be obtained by stringing lamps into lines or paths of light which help to tie segments together. Try to eliminate glare, sharp unwanted contrasts, and hazardous shadows.

make it easy: first, decide what general "theme" to use. If you want to appeal to children, then your whole outdoor decorative project should be planned accordingly. Or if you prefer to dramatize the religious aspect of Christmas, many beautiful and moving scenes can be created.

But whatever you do, stay with one theme only. It is a mistake to mix them up as it only serves to confuse passers by. Secondly, make a detailed plan of what you would like to do before you start, including colors of lights to be used, and where they will be placed. This should be done carefully so as to make it gay, but not gaudy. The secret is to choose your colors wisely, and with some regard for the colors of the walls, trim and roof of your house.

Simple

One of the simplest ways to decorate your home, if you have picture windows, is from the inside. Strings of lights of the outdoor type can be used to outline the window. Then place your tree near the window where outsiders can catch a glimpse of it too.

One of the simplest and most in-

Dear Abby...

DEAR FRIENDS: Your schoolmate's stories are too whopping to be just ordinary "fibs". The girl sounds like a psychopathic liar. (One who actually confuses fantasy with reality, and believes her own tales.) It usually stems from a basic insecurity and a desire to be accepted. Psychiatric treatment may be in order. On the other hand, she might outgrow it.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: After a six-month engagement, Bob (24) and I (21) want to get married. We want a simple wedding with only our folks and a few close friends present. We see no reason to wait until next spring, which is what my mother wants us to do. She wants to put on a big, showy wedding with a gown and veil, and have a big wedding reception. Dad hasn't the money to pay for it, and is in debt right now, but Mom says I would get it all back in shower and wedding gifts. Abby, I know my relatives, and their gifts wouldn't total half of what the wedding would cost. I hate to disappoint my mother, but I would rather not have my folks go to all that expense for something that doesn't mean anything to me. Please help me decide.

MARRYING FOR LOVE

DEAR MARRYING: Your judgment is sound. Your Mom may want to do right by you, but she is wrong. Do it your way.

Native rivalry Congo hazard

PEACE RIVER, Alta. — A nurse who was a Baptist missionary in The Congo for 2 1/2 years said here that some of the natives thought "independence" came in a box.

Elizabeth Spinney said in an interview that few of the natives had any idea of what independence would mean. She came here to visit her brother, Rev. Douglas Spinney.

"An idea prevalent among the natives was that as soon as independence arrived, trucks would drive through the villages handing out money to all who wanted it," she said.

Down through the years in the former Belgian Congo fierce rivalry between the tribes led to a great deal of fighting, she added.

"This hatred of other tribes is the strongest thing Christianity has had to face among the natives."

Miss Spinney worked at a hospital at Kikongo which eventually had to close after tense feelings were aroused among the natives over the employment of a native boy from a lesser tribe. The hospital staff moved to a larger centre at Kimpesi, from where they were evacuated to the United States after the turbulence started in the wake of independence.

New bowling lanes

The opening of Pare Lanes, Pare street at Decarie boulevard, opposite Ruby Foo's, with 24 ten pin lanes and 24 duck pin lanes this week continues National Bowling Centres' objective of making bowling truly a family sport.

For those with an eye for mechanics, National Bowling Centres feature the most exciting automatic bowling equipment ever designed—the "Gold Crown" line—supplied by Brunswick of Canada.

The equipment includes pin-finder indicators, subway ball returns, Tel-e-foul and the fabulous Tel-e-score projection system.

By early 1962, National Bowling Centres will have installed 296 automatic pinsetters to serve the Montreal area alone — making it the largest chain in Canada.

For the 1961-62 season, they have the following locations:

Fleury Lanes at Fleury Shopping Centre, Now Open; Pare Lanes, Pare street at Decarie boulevard, Now open; Dorval Lanes, Dorval Garden Shopping Centre, Opening Dec. 12; Chomedy Lanes, St. Martin Shopping Centre, Opening Jan. '62; Boulevard Lanes, Boulevard Shopping Centre, Opening Feb. '62; Cadillac Lanes, Domaine Shopping Centre, Opening April '62.

In addition to the Montreal area, NBC are also in Ottawa and Chicoutimi and opening in Sherbrooke, Que., in September 1962.

St. Augustine's bowlers prepare Christmas party

The St. Augustine's Mixed Bowling League announced this week that they will hold their annual Christmas party on Saturday, December 16, at the Miss Cavendish Restaurant, 3285 Cavendish boulevard, N.D.G.

In play last week, John McCaskell stole the limelight with a high triple in the Men's B Section of 560. He also rolled High Single in the division with 216.

Section A: George Wills, 201; John Cant, 492; Susan Devlin, 173; Kay Haggart, 447.

Section B: John McCaskell, 216; John McCaskell, 560; Rita La Drew, 178; Theresa Di Francisco, 406.

Police shots outclassed

Members of Westmount police and firemen's rifle team met a strong Royal Montreal Regiment team for a .22 rifle competition at the RMR barracks, 4625 St. Catherine street, Monday night.

Due to some excellent shooting by WO1 D. MacDonald, who scored 98, the RMR team beat their opponents by a score of 479-415.

Detective Pilkonis, with a score of 92, was the best shot on the police and fire side.

A return match is anticipated in the very near future.

Elsie Mayo top Mixed Nut

Elsie Mayo regained the first place spot in the Mixed Nuts B Bowling League this week by rolling high single and high triple with scores of 161 and 459 respectively.

Marriette Rheault was second with 336 and 138, while third place high triple of 333 was rolled by Maggie Kay. Renald Boyer rolled third high single with 131.

The Peanuts share top place in the standings with the Walnuts. Both have 22 points.

Ohio ranks third among states of the Union in maple syrup production, with 152,000 gallons annually.

Westmount lose Rugger final to sensational last minute try

A sensational try in extra time by an injured player captured the Quebec Rugger Union championship and the Mair Shield for Ottawa Beavers in a tense struggle with Westmount on Saturday.

Some fine defensive play, particularly by skipper Fred Spence at full back, had allowed the Westies to hold the Beavers scoreless in the regular period.

Playing with a strapped up shoulder, speedy winger George Jones received the ball inside the Westmount half, sprinted down the right wing and punted over a screen of defenders.

The Westmount full back Fred Spence appeared to have the ball well covered when he slipped in the mud, Jones, travelling at express speed, raced in behind him to register the only score of the game.

Personal tragedy

Spence's only error in an otherwise flawless display came at the 10 minute mark of extra time and was a personal tragedy for the Westmount captain, whose deadly tackling and defensive kicking had broken up persistent Ottawa raids.

Westmount kicked off into a biting wind in 35 degree temperature. Ottawa was getting the better of the early play but their frozen fingered backs dropped the vital passes.

At the 12 minute mark John Brebner missed a great opportunity to put Ottawa in the lead when he pulled an easy penalty kick wide of the upright.

Both defences were on top as the game resolved itself into a tough forward battle.

Westmount's Ben Dibben, Jim Adam, Ian Robertson and Bert Wyatt matched the Ottawa heavyweights Graham Sadler, Jack Donaghy, John Russel and Gordon 'Horse' Bennet in a spirited line-out duel.

Rough treatment

Both fly halves — key link men between their forwards and three-quarter backs — were being subjected to rough treatment at the hands of their opposing wing forwards.

Terry Ryan bottled up the Ottawa ace Doug Mitchell while Westmount's Alastair Wittet suffered a bad case of the jitters, repeatedly fumbling the ball and rarely finding the target with his touch kicks.

After a series of dull mauls the game burst to life when Bud Haw charged down a Peter Mond kick and went dashing for the Westmount line in a 25 yard corkscrew run that was stopped close to the line.

The Westmount forwards relieved pressure with a fierce rush that opened the way for Chris Carr to put in bold run and a punt that had the Ottawa fullback in trouble. Only smart covering and a degree of luck saved a trickily position.

Play swung to the other end and the chunky Ottawa wing, T. Davies, menaced the Westmount line with a swerving run before being tossed into touch.

Just before half time John Brebner missed a 20 yard angled penalty goal.

Westmount advantage

With the wind advantage Westmount took charge of the game for long periods in the second half.

Scrum half Martin Lewis and his forwards closed the game up, advancing the ball with short rushes and ground gaining punts.

Ben Dibben was inches short of a touchdown as he extruded his 6 ft. 4 inches in a desperate dive from a loose scrummage near the Ottawa line.

Lewis was showing good form at scrum half, varying his tactics to unsettle the Ottawa defence. Spinning out of tackles he made ground on sneak plays, to bring centres Donaghy and Philpott into action. Philpott in particular made several ground gaining runs in his best performance this season.

The Westmount wings Chris Carr and Roy Hamilton had few chances to show their real form.

Among the Ottawa backs scrum half R. Thompson was a standout, shovelling out a steady stream of accurate passes while under fire. Their wings Bud Haw and T. Davies were determined runners who headed goalwards at every opportunity.

Full back John Brebner turned in his usual polished performance marred only by two missed penalty kicks.

Somerled records fall

The Women's high single and the Men's high triple score in the Somerled House League were broken this week. Women's high single was taken by Barbara Miner with a 209 beating Doris McMullen's 179, and Bart D'Amicantino broke his own triple by rolling a 608.

Heather Ladies Bonspiel won by St. Lambert rink

Curling Club Bonspiel was won this week by a St. Lambert rink, skippered by Mrs. G. Overall. The rink won the Remine Trophy in the competition, played at the Westmount Curling club.

With Mrs. Overall in the St. Lambert rink were Mrs. Rogers, third, Mrs. Lavers, second, and Mrs. Guile, lead.

They defeated a Royal Montreal rink of Mrs. Lindsay, Mrs. Lister, Mrs. Mayne and Mrs. Pratt 10-7 in the final.

In the semi final play, Mrs. Overall eliminated Mrs. O'Donnell of Wentworth 9-6, and Mrs. Lindsay beat Mrs. Baker, also of Wentworth 10-9.

In the consolation final, Mrs. Baker, with Mrs. De Haitre, Mrs. Hore and Mrs. Fraser, beat another Wentworth rink of Mrs. O'Donnell, teamed with Mrs. Gar-eau, Mrs. Sinclair and Mrs. Raper 11-6.

The 'Try Hard' consolation event was won by Mrs. Harris' Greystone rink of Mrs. Rennert, Mrs. Shacter, Mrs. Rosentzweig, who beat the Valleyfield rink of Mrs. McFarland, Mrs. Dickie, Mrs. Dando and Mrs. Bagnell, 8-7.

In the final event, the 'Die Hard' consolation, Montreal West defeated a Greystone rink 14-6.

On the Montreal West rink were Mrs. Smeltzer, Mrs. Muir, Mrs. Ruth and Mrs. Shaughnessy, while Mrs. Tarshis, Mrs. Kravitz, Mrs. Robins and Mrs. Yanow made up the Greystone foursome.
