Student awarded fellowship

Miss Rhoda Suzanne Jack, a student in the fourth year of the B.A. course at Bishop's University, has been awarded a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship.

Miss Jack, who comes from St. Lambert, is taking the English Honors program at Bishop's.

Two other Bishop's students, Ronald W. Crowley (Business Administration) of Waterville, Quebec, and Judith A. Banks (English - Philosophy Honors) Stanstead have been given Honorable Mentions in the same competition.

Miss Jack is one of 93 Canadian students, from 19 colleges and universities, to be elected to Woodrow Wilson Fellowships. She will receive a stipend of $1,800 plus dependency allowances and tuition costs at the university of her choice. She plans to study for the M.A. degree at the University of Toronto.

The purpose of the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship program is to encourage talented undergraduates to give serious consideration to careers in college teaching. Altogether the Foundation, which has its headquarters in Princeton, New Jersey, has elected this year 1507 Fellows from approximately 11,000 candidates nominated by faculty members throughout the United States and Canada. The program is supported by a $27,500,000 five-year grant from the Ford Foundation.

Raps uniforms

TORONTO (CP)—Tight uniforms on waitresses do nothing to increase food sales, Douglas Patrick of Lennoxville, Que., told the Canadian Restaurant Association meeting here Wednesday. Mr. Patrick, a restaurant owner, said tight uniforms "bring in a few people who want to look at the shape of the girls," he said, "but that is not what we are selling."

Take compromise

QUEBEC (CP)—The legislative council, Quebec's Upper House, Wednesday accepted a compromise version of two articles in legislation creating a department of education and opened the way for its final adoption.

The bill now must go back to the Lower House assembly, for the second time, but approval is expected to be almost automatic.

There was no immediate indication when the legislation would come back before the assembly.

Coffin probe

QUEBEC (CP)—There was no animosity among Quebec Provincial Police before the Coffin case, former Sgt. Henri Doyon, 54, testified Wednesday before the royal commission into the Coffin affair.

But he told a tale of events following the shooting of three Pennsylvania hunters in Quebec's Gaspé in 1953. Their deaths led to the hanging of 42-year-old Gaspé prospector Wilbert Coffin Feb. 10, 1956.

Coffin died maintaining his innocence.

Men rescued

HALIFAX (CP)—Two men stranded on an ice field off the northeast coast of Newfoundland since Tuesday were rescued today by a helicopter from the sealing vessel Kyle. They had disappeared while on a short helicopter flight.

The men, Ole Nielson, 41, chairman of Trepassey Shipping Company of Dartmouth, N.S., and Dudley Kirk, 38, of Montreal, the pilot, were flown to the federal icebreaker Sir Humphrey Gilbert, which was in the area battling heavy ice to reach them. They were both in good condition.

Sixty - Seventh Year

Boom should continue says Gordon

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Gordon says he detects no signs of weakening in the current economic upswing, which now has lasted nearly three full years.

In fact he said the late-1963 indications were that the economy was actually gaining speed. At that point it already had outlasted the 1958-60 expansion but still was short of the booming 1954-57 period.

In his pre-budget white paper tabled in the Commons Thursday, Mr. Gordon estimated that last year there was a six-per-cent increase in gross national product—value of all goods and services produced.

That would mean a level of $42,825,000,000 compared with $40,401,000,000 in 1962, when there was an eight-per-cent increase.

Mr. Gordon made no forecast for 1964. Unofficial forecasts are for an advance of five to six per cent.

"Relative stability of most prices and costs" was cited as a key feature of the current growth, which has been going on since the economic trough of early 1961.

PRICES UP 5 PC

Since then prices have risen five per cent, compared with the nine-per-cent increase of the 1953-57 period. Last year consumer prices rose 1.8 per cent compared with 1.2 per cent in 1962.

Mr. Gordon said price increases have been less than in Canada's two previous economic upswings—with the exception of higher food prices, and wholesale prices which have been pushed up as dollar devaluation meant higher prices on imported goods.

Moreover, Canada's price increases were less than those in Britain, and much less than in continental Europe and Japan, and "little more" than in the United States.

The result: A strengthening in Canada's world position as an exporter.

One key point made by the white paper was that in this expansion, compared with two previous ones, Canada has been able to meet more of the steadily rising consumer demand from its own production—relying slightly less on imports than before.

This is illustrated by these figures: In the 30-month upswing starting in mid-1954, imports rose 42 per cent. In 1958-60—an expansion that lasted exactly two years—they went up 14 per cent. But after the first 2½ years of the current climb, imports had risen only 15 per cent.

An added factor in this period was the upward pressure on import prices as a result of the dollar devaluation, in May, 1962.

EXPORTS UP SHARPLY

The white paper said imports rose 18 per cent between 1956 and 1963 but volume increased only slightly, with import prices 15-per-cent higher. On the other hand, exports in that period rose by about 46 per cent and most of this was due to real volume, which was up 37 per cent.

Discount Cyprus reports

NICOSIA (AP)—Greek and Turkish Cypriots were reported moving up to and strengthening positions along the "green line" separating the rival factions in Nicosia, but British peacekeepers in the capital today discounted the reports.

The reports began with a Greek-Cypriot government communiqué saying the Turkish-Cypriots were throwing up additional breastworks along the green line with the help of Turkish army soldiers.

The Turkish army garrison of 650 men, stationed on Cyprus by treaty, moved into Nicosia's outskirts when the communal fighting broke out in December. The Turks had been in camp west of Nicosia.

A British parachute officer with the British troops at the green line scoffed at the report. "They (the Turkish soldiers) would have to pass over our heads if they did," he said, "and we haven't seen them."

Another British officer said a Greek-Cypriot had tipped him that two battalions of Greek-Cypriot police and special auxiliaries had moved up along the green line but this was largely discounted.

VACATE HOUSES

Many houses and apartments along the green line have been vacated and it is difficult to find out what is going on there. It is known, however, that some Greek-Cypriots have established gun posts in the vacant buildings on their side of the line.

The British parachute battalion has mounted several anti-tank guns pointing into the Greek-Cypriot sector.

The division of Nicosia, like other separations throughout the island, is bitterly criticized by the Greek-Cypriots. They say it deprives them of freedom of movement to enforce law and order.

The British believe that any Greek-Cypriot attempt to move into the Turkish quarter of Nicosia would trigger the last phase of a civil war.

Granby student is injured during separatist scuffle

MONTREAL (CP)—A demonstration by Le Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance Nationale was called off Wednesday but a scuffle nevertheless developed on downtown Dominion Square between English-speaking students and members of the French-language separatist group.

Two blocks away and a short time later, a passerby found a Union Jack burning at the entrance to a veterans' social club.

Two students—Dennis Modolo, 22, of St. Catharines, Ont., and Paul Coxhead, 20, of Granby, Que.—were injured slightly in the brief scuffle. Five others were held by police for a "cooling-off" period and were not expected to be charged.

At least 100 policemen were looking on as the separatist leaders cancelled the demonstration during the supper rush-hour, telling their supporters to go home "in silence and dignity."

About 40 members of Le Rassemblement, including a few women, showed up at 5 p.m. for the demonstration, planned to retaliate for a flag-tramping incident at Sir George Williams University last week when Guy Pouliot, president of the secessionist group, addressed students during bicentennial week. Following Mr. Pouliot's FLAG TRAMPLED speech, a Quebec flag apparently was thrown from a college window and a student trampled the blue and white fleur-de-lis emblem.

A large throng was attracted to Dominion Square, a block off busy St. Catherine Street, as people streamed from office buildings during the rush-hour.

Police had circled the area and kept control throughout. The demonstrators, mostly young, seemed unhappy about the cancellation and there were shouts of "that's democracy for you" and "we've been stopped by police brutality."

Jean-Gabriel Maranda, a Rassemblement official, said the executive had decided to call off the demonstration because "the occasion is inauspicious for a peaceful demonstration."

"As separatists it is our duty to show the maturity of our movement. The best thing all of us can do for the cause right now is to disperse and go to our homes in silence and dignity."

While another Rassemblement spokesman told reporters police had asked them to cancel the demonstration, Mr. Maranda would make no comment on this.

Two blocks away from the square, the passerby spotted the Union Jack aflame in the doorway of the social club. The passerby extinguished the fire but the flag was half-burned.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—Teamsters President James R. Hoffa was sentenced today to eight years in prison and fined $10,000 on a charge of trying to fix a federal court jury.

He could have received a maximum of 10 years in prison. The $10,000 fine was the maximum.

Charles Bell, president of the Washington joint conference of Teamsters. When reporters asked if this means Hoffa could not run the 1,700,000-member union from jail, Bell replied: "I know damn well he can't."

Hoffa and three others were convicted March 4 of trying to fix the jury which could not agree on a verdict in Hoffa's 1962 trial at Nashville on a conspiracy charge. The conviction was Hoffa's first in four trials.

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal budget deficit of an estimated $685,000,000 for the fiscal year ending March 31—a slender reduction of $6,600,000 from the 1962-63 deficit—was reported Thursday by Finance Minister Gordon.

The third highest deficit in peacetime history, it followed a string of six consecutive deficits under the former Conservative government. The total red ink on government accounts for the seven years since April 1, 1957: $3,569,000,000.

Mr. Gordon's preliminary accounts for 1963-64 were tabled in the Commons in a white paper which set the stage for his budget speech Monday night.

The reduction in the deficit from the previous year's $691,600,000 marked the second successive decline from the peak peacetime deficit of $791,000,000 in 1961-62.

But the short step towards a balanced budget was considerably smaller than the one Mr. Gordon hoped for in his first budget speech last June 13 when he forecast a $585,000,000 deficit. Last July 8, forced into a major retreat over a new sales tax on building materials and construction equipment, he revised the forecast upwards to $655,000,000—$70,000,000 short of the deficit reported in the white paper.

ECONOMY STRONG — The white paper contained one big sign of optimism for next year—the view that the long-lasting economic upswing which began early in 1961 "shows no signs of weakening."

Barring major tax cuts in his new budget—and these are unlikely—the economic buoyancy will fatten government revenues. Last year's growth in national output, rated at six per cent, pushed federal revenues up 5.6 per cent in 1963-64. Last June 13 Mr. Gordon termed his initial budget the first step "toward balancing our federal budget under conditions of high employment."

On July 8, while announcing major revisions, he said: "We cannot contemplate an indefinite series of budget deficits."

The white paper's preliminary accounts for the expiring fiscal year, with February and March results estimated, showed: —Budgetary revenues up to $6,207,000,000 from $5,878,700,000.

—Budgetary expenditures up 4.9 per cent to $6,892,000,000 from $6,570,300,000.

—The government's net debt up by $1,216,000,000 to $15,136,000,000, with the increase resulting both from the deficit and a write-off of $531,000,000 in long-standing deficiencies in pension funds of the armed forces and RCMP.

The budgetary figures don't tell the whole story of federal tax revenues and spending. Excluded from budget accounts is the old age security fund which finances the universal $75 monthly old age pensions to all

Total defence spending up $99,100,000 to $1,699,000,000—24.7 per cent of spending.

Public debt charges up $73,000,000 to $990,800,000.

Ruby case to jury Fri. 13 — DALLAS (AP)—Counsel for both sides say they expect to put Jack Ruby's fate in the hands of the jury tomorrow—Friday the 13th.

The lawyers agreed that testimony will be completed today. Ruby has not taken the witness stand and there are no indications that he will.

Ruby is charged with murder in the shooting of Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused assassin of President Kennedy. The state demands that he be sentenced to die in the electric chair. His defence is temporary insanity. Because of this plea, his lawyers must prove that he did not know right from wrong when he killed Oswald.

SAY HE DID — Prosecution lawyers contend he did know what he was doing. They have suggested to the jury of eight men and four women that Ruby had some purpose, such as "gaining fame and fortune."

Psychiatric testimony has been given for both sides by specialists.

Wednesday, the prosecution called a parade of psychiatric experts to discuss Ruby's condition, the meaning of the "abnormalities" on encephalograms (tracings of brain waves) taken when he was examined and the critical question of whether he was legally sane Nov. 24 when he shot Oswald.

THE BIRTH OF A POTHOLE

THE BEGINNING — This is how a pothole starts. A little bit of water in a crack in the asphalt, a little overnight freezing and presto, a hole appears in the road. How to minimize its effects? Drive slowly, says director of services Charles Langlois.

Pothole onslaught is prepared; warns motorists to drive slowly

"Potholes are like cancer — they can't be stopped".

So says city director of services Charles Langlois as he prepares for the annual onslaught of cracks, crevices and canyons which are just now beginning to mushroom over city streets.

Mr. Langlois explained that there is no way of preventing the formation of potholes.

They are formed during the thawing-out-and-rapid-freezing type weather which we are now undergoing.

Water from melted snow and ice enters small cracks in the pavement.

When a sudden cold spell freezes the water, the crack is enlarged by the expanding ice.

These cracks are small and hardly visible at first. City crews cannot repair them in time and they soon grow into the annoying holes which cause so much consternation for motorists.

"Twenty years ago we were not bothered by the pothole problem," explains Mr. Langlois.

"The streets were covered throughout the entire winter by a sheet of ice and snow, protecting the asphalt from the quirks of the weather. "But now, this 'protective shield' is melted away by our salting and snow clearance operations, leaving the asphalt vulnerable."

The city doesn't receive too many pothole complaints from city motorists — except when they break a spring or a drive shaft, Mr. Langlois said.

"But then I tell them to be like me — drive slowly!"

"You will never find me breaking a spring," Mr. Langlois said. "This is not Florida, you know."

"Why can't people get that into their heads?"

"Frankly, if Jacques Cartier had been smart he'd have gone south," said Mr. Langlois with a shiver.

Mr. Langlois assures motorists that annual "operation pothole" cannot start until the weather is warm enough to apply asphalt to fill the holes — some time in May.

He launched an appeal for public understanding until then.

More street lights suggested by jury

A coroner's jury in Lennoxville Wednesday recommended in light of the fact that Mr. Paradis was the second person in two months to be killed near this corner.

At present there are 100-watt lights on about every third or fourth pole down to the town limits. Recommended is lighting system similar to the one on Sherbrooke's King Street West.

Mr. Paradis was knocked down and killed March 1 by an automobile on Route 5, driven by Arthur P. Lockley, 60, of 37 Gordon Street here.

Temporary bridge washed away at Montreal-Terrill project site

Damages caused by the flooding waters of the St. Francis River last week mounted steadily into thousands of dollars as mopping up operations continue this week.

The most serious damage was done to a temporary bridge at the construction site of the Montreal-Terrill Street bridge project.

The 150-foot temporary wooden structure was washed away by the rapidly rising waters despite an all-out effort to save it.

Workmen poured 50 tons of gravel on top of the bridge to keep it from being carried away by the powerful floodwaters.

But the move was unsuccessful. Consulting engineer for the project, Jacques Lemieux estimated the losses suffered at $8,000.

He said that a two-week delay in construction schedule would result.

No damage was done to the pier which has been completed.

Mr. Lemieux adds that the contractor, Fabi et Fils will have to assume the losses suffered as specified in the contract with the city.

He said that the pace of work would be accelerated so that the bridge would be ready for the fall opening date.

The Hall Machinery plant on Big Forks Street also have the brunt of some heavy damage, described by one company official as running to "several thousand dollars."

Some 100 electric motors had to be sent to an electrical contractor for drying and rewinding and a number of machine bearings had to be removed.

The official also reported the loss of some office papers which caused a disruption of business.

As a result of the damage done to machinery the machine shop will be closed until next week.

The tank shop and fabricating shop were out until today.

The damage is expected to delay slightly the completion of a multi-million dollar contract with the Russian government, recently signed, company officials said.

Legalized gambling creates problems

Almost overlooked in Tuesday's presidential primary in New Hampshire was the fact that voters in that state also approved state-run sweepstakes.

The victory for this issue was a lopsided one — almost 3 1/2 to one in favor.

Tickets for the first sweepstakes race next Sept. 12 will be sold at race tracks and liquor stores in 42 communities.

There can be no doubt that Quebec will be taking a close look at the operation as it unfolds next door. The Le Sage government favors the operation of a state-run lottery for Quebec to help raise money for the province's coffers.

But while they are watching New Hampshire, Quebec officials should also read a report prepared recently for the state of New York, which has considered legalized off-track betting. Two men were sent to Britain to study gambling there. The report they brought back is far from encouraging.

The two men say that "serious economic and social problems" have been caused by the enactment of legalized gambling in Britain.

They point out that thousands of new citizens now gamble in Britain, and the great bulk of increased gambling turnover has come from those in the lowest economic income strata, contributing to an unhealthy and largely unproductive shift of wealth, via betting, away from lower income families.

They say there has been a sharp increase in defaults of debts owed small shopkeepers as a result of family resources diverted to betting.

They say juveniles are being indoctrinated into gambling habits as a recognized form of entertainment.

The report also says there are strong indications that legalized gambling in Britain has caused a great proportion of social welfare funds being siphoned off into gambling, new strain upon family relationships and new forms of criminal activity.

In other words, as far as these men can see, legalized gambling creates many more problems than it solves.

Coroner's jury has useful purpose

One of the traditions of the Anglo-Saxon judicial systems which comes under most frequent attack from those seeking to modernize legal procedures in this country is the practise of coroner's juries.

Often, it is declared, these juries which are called in to decide the cause of non-natural deaths are time-consuming and produce little that is worthwhile.

It would be better, opponents of the jury system proclaim, to have the circumstances surrounding such deaths investigated by experts who would be responsible for making any suggestions for correcting faults in the future.

Dictators show deep fear of humor

A deteriorating sense of humor seems to be one of the trademarks of any dictatorial regime. For some reason or another the ordinary dictator apparently believes that if the people find anything humorous about a person or incident it must be dangerous.

Humor never has been a strong trait in the Russian people but even their limited forays into the world of lighter criticism are to be further curtailed.

Officials of the office of national culture have just issued an edict that promises much trouble for political jesters.

This is part of a campaign to prove that jesters who make jokes about Georgie Malenkov, the deposed Soviet leader, are really trying to rehabilitate him and keep his name before the public.

Contrast this with the traditional attitude of the British people, the bulk of whose literature, music and even art stems from the jesters with their rapier-thrusts against the ruling powers of their day.

Most Shakespearean comedies were thinly disguised attacks upon the conditions of their time and those in authority managed to enjoy them without undue qualms. In later years Gilbert and Sullivan brought attention to prevailing government evils with their operettas, to the benefit of all concerned.

Old minutes of Granby meeting show men, trustees unchanged

By JAMES F. KING

Who would think that he decayed and crumbling book containing the minutes of the first meetings of the school trustees in the Village of Granby would contain the heartbeat and lifeblood of the men who took part in that initial educational venture in 1854? Yet, as I turned the brown-tinted pages and perused the hand-written records, I felt that I was a witness to the changeable and the unchangeable. Buildings, trustees and salaries change; but human nature remains inviolate.

It was on the crunching-cold night of December 13, 1854, that the revered school trustees met to discuss a complaint tendered to them by the then incumbent, Mr. B., that since the number of scholars under his care had increased past the magic number of sixty (60) it was necessary for him as directed by the trustees to hire an "assistant." This he did not mind since he was allowed to keep the fees that the "scholars" paid—if and when he could extract their dues from them. However, he felt that the situation was intolerable because the amount that he would have to pay an "assistant" was more than he could collect in fees.

The trustees, needless to say, felt that this was Mr. B.'s problem—not theirs.

Thinking to myself that Mr. B. had a great deal of effrontery to demand redress, I was quite willing as I flipped the pages to allow him to sink back into the past. Mr. B., however, did not share this willingness. For I found that he, no doubt still smarting from his rebuff, had become agitated a few weeks later and suffered himself to lose control of his check-reined emotions. He had become sorely upset and to use his own words "he had, under extreme excitement, used improper language in several instances." Mr. B., after explaining the situation, apologized and promised that he would not repeat his performance "as long as was at least in connection with the Academy." The magnanimous trustees accepted his apology and there the matter ended—or so it seemed. In spite of Mr. B.'s state of grace it soon became apparent that all was not well at the Granby Academy. In short, a new teacher was required.

A worthy trustee went south (to Burlington, Vermont) in search of prospects, armed with an especial recommendation for one Mr. W. Upon arriving in Burlington and making a few appropriately discreet inquiries, his ear drums were rudely assailed by all sorts of insinuations about the character of Mr. W. The worthy trustee, remembering his responsibility to the village, concluded it best not to call on him.

However, a Mr. S. was hired and once more all seemed quiet on the educational front.

Those of us who are perceptive teachers are fully aware, however, that a calm exterior can hide an inner seething cauldron of intrigue. With this thought in mind I delved more deeply into the hiring of Mr. S. It seems that he had been one of three applicants considered by the trustees. He was a local boy, while the other two were from out-of-town. The trustees agreed among themselves to select Mr. S. over the other two. The Secretary-Treasurer was directed to offer the position to the two out-of-town applicants only if Mr. S. refused it and was not to increase the offer to Mr. S. unless the other two declined it. This can only be said to represent a high-water mark in board/teacher negotiations, particularly when one considers that the trustees said in the letters to the two out-of-town applicants, which were sent after they had agreed to offer the job to Mr. S., that "if you be the successful one I will let you know as soon as possible."

One of a series of articles on the history of education in the District of Bedford prepared to mark the centennial of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers.

The trustees were not unduly troubled as Mr. S. accepted their initial offer. However, all did not remain serene. Early in the spring of 1856 Mr. S. astounded the trustees by stating that he would not upon any consideration finish out the present term. His health would not stand it and further that he had to go to see about the estate of a relation who was dying. As soon as Mr. S. had withdrawn to return to his lodgings, the chairman and several trustees agreed that they would call on Mr. S. the next morning to demand the funds belonging to the school.

Let us think that the trustees were to get the best of yet another teacher, allow me, dear reader, to point out otherwise. Mr. S. was nobody's fool. He had apparently been feuding with the trustees for some time and his spurious reasons for leaving were the result of this ill feeling. The trustees were not particularly worried, it seems, about Mr. S.'s contract; but they were deeply concerned about the funds that were in his possession.

After numerous letters back and forth, all of which Mr. S. handled with the dexterity of a fencing master, the trustees finally resolved to visit the school in a body, and reveal the matter to the "scholars." Indeed the minutes contain the very question that they were going to put to Mr. S. "Do you consider yourself as disconnected with this school and leave the same to the care of the board of trustees, or will you procure a certificate from the Montreal Board of Examiners? (The school board had taken the precaution of presenting an alternative which Mr. S. was incapable of fulfilling.) Answer: "I will leave it to the board to decide, as they are well qualified to do so."

Mr. S.'s ability to circumvent a thorny question might well act as a guide to those of us who are at the present time engaged in salary negotiations, and indeed in those dark days would represent a bright light in the pedagogical gloom.

Surely, in an age when all forms of dogmatic belief are undergoing a critical analysis, the following extract from the minutes of 1856 provides a refreshing example of clear-eyed assurance and certainty.

Apparently a Mr. W. died in 1858 leaving $320.20 to the Granby Academy. Inspired by gratitude which only unshakable faith can bring, the following minute was recorded: "It was then moved by Mr. J. L. and seconded that the above statement (referring to the amount of the legacy) be placed on record; and also we would express our gratitude to God that he put it into the heart of the late J. W. to appropriate a portion of his means to promote the interests of education."

Where does one end an attempt to portray human nature at work within the framework of public education? The answer is, obviously, anywhere, anytime. I closed the ragged historical remnant heartened and yet saddened by what I had read. How will the curious searcher a century from now respond to the entries made in today's minute book?

The Fabian Society, whose perhaps most famous member was George Bernard Shaw, is a socialist society founded in 1884 by a small group in London who aimed at "reconstituting society according to its highest moral possibilities." The name is derived from the Roman general Fabius Cunctator, whose elusive tactics in avoiding pitched battles secured his ultimate victory over stronger forces.

OTTAWA — Britain's current anguish over its "brain drain", its loss of scientists to the United States, raises the question of whether we in this country shouldn't work up a little anguish too.

And, contrary to my expectation when I started digging into this matter, the answer is "No".

Britain has been losing about 150 PhD's a year to the States. Our brain drain to the US is even greater. US immigration figures show that in the year ending last June the US admitted from Canada 163 scientists, 467 medical doctors and 844 engineers. But in the year that ended March 31, 1962, the last for which figures are available, Canada admitted 410 scientists, 539 medical doctors and 967 engineers, plus 1528 teachers and instructors, some of whom teach scientific and engineering subjects.

The ledger not only shows a profit for Canada in the import-export of brains, but it also suggests that many of our brain exports are not Canadian brains — they're foreigners who have used Canada as a way stop en route to the US.

Moreover, the import side does not include Canadian professional people who have emigrated and then decided to return to Canada. There is reason to believe that a not inconsiderable number of Canadian scientists and others who take jobs in the States return to Canada after a few years and for various reasons — such as preference of the Canadian school system for the education of their children.

And in another sense we haven't done badly in the Canada-US brain trade: how many export PhD's is one C. D. Howe worth? Or one Dr. Wilder Penfield? Both came from the US.

Admittedly it would make Canada a stronger nation if we could employ all our scientific brains at home. But if there's one axiom in this business, it's that scientists, like gamblers, go where the action is. And the action is in the US.

The US is reported to be spending more than $15 billions a year, well over twice the Canadian government's total budget, on research and development (R & D) in universities, hospitals, government laboratories and industry. This buys the expensive equipment that modern research needs. It pays technicians to operate equipment and relieve the scientist of drudgery. It provides secretaries, translation services, travel funds and, not unimportantly, higher salaries.

Total Canadian spending on R & D — university, hospital, industry and government — has been estimated at $250 millions a year. In ratio to national production, this is about one fourth of what the US spends. A recent official survey showed that primary iron and steel spends only about 20 per cent of what US iron and steel spends on R & D; that it employed only 54 professionals on R & D, and that in comparison "the Yawata Steel Co. (in Japan), with an annual production close to that of the total Canadian production, operates two research institutions staffed by 1,000 scientists and technicians."

Obviously Canada should spend more on research. But we can't hope to compete with the US, nor should we try. The 44th parallel is an artificial line. Ideas, dollars and commodities flow back and forth across it to the mutual advantage of Canada and the US, and so must brains.

He watched wildlife for half a century

The story of St. Genevieve's swallows is the story of an unusual man. Zoticque Rivard — who looks like the typical Ken-tucky colonel—is an amateur naturalist described by Mont-real wildlife director Albert Courtemanche as "one of those very rare persons."

Observations put down on paper by Rivard in 50 years of following the fish, birds and animals of his area are in files that take up a corner of Courtemanche's Montreal office.

Rivard has been an observer of St. Genevieve's wildlife — and a lover and guardian of it — since a hot summer day in his youth when he climbed a tree and found a bird's nest.

"From his work of recording what he saw and did, we have been able to compile a pretty complete record of wildlife patterns on Montreal Island in the past half-century," says Courtemanche. "His records are the only ones we have."

Rivard springs into action at the faintest bird-call, racing for his binoculars.

"But today, civilization is killing bird-watching," he says. "Birds have no more place to go. Where once there were fields and forests, today there are none. The fields are getting filled up with buildings. There are trees here and there, but man is nature's enemy. The children go around with rifles shooting birds."

BLUEBIRDS GONE Zoticque hasn't seen a bluebird in St. Genevieve for 10 years. When he was young, they were plentiful. He believes that only man can save the birds, by doing what he and the peo-

Formation of B-M-S regional school board foreseen

By TED BEAUDOIN
(Record staff reporter)

COWANSVILLE — (Staff) — The consolidation of Protestant rural schools in Quebec over the last 32 years might result in the formation of a Brome-Shefford-Missisquoi Protestant Regional School Board.

This point, from one extreme to another, was outlined Tuesday night by Dr. H. S. Billings, Deputy-Minister of the Department of Education, and Protestant Education Director, when he addressed members of the Cowansville Lions' Club, and teachers.

Dr. Billings said the consolidation of rural schools gradually brought about a wider scope of thought among people and government officials.

He said this culminated in a "historical meeting" between the Missisquoi Regional School Commission (Catholic) and Department of Education officials and Protestant school board representatives last week.

Dr. Billings expressed hopes that this meeting would result in the building of a separate Catholic high-school, and a separate Protestant High School on the same plot of land, sharing a common vocational training school. "It would be advantageous to have it this way," he added.

"Between the two, a vocational and technical training school could be used by both, while separate academic instruction would continue in their respective schools."

Speaking on consolidation of Protestant rural schools, Dr. Billings said a committee of the Council of Education asked the Department of Education, in 1932, to carry out a consolidation program to close many rural one-room schools.

"They were inadequate to properly instruct the pupils, who had only one teacher, teaching grades one to seven," said Dr. Billings.

Thirty-two years ago there were 335 one-room rural schools. Today, there are 21, and "they'll have to remain because they are in very isolated outposts," he added.

The consolidation of Roman Catholic Schools took place later, "but fantastic progress took place in the last four years with the formation of 38 regional boards in 500 municipalities."

"Thirty-two years ago pride stood in the way of consolidation — today, the people are asking the Government to consolidate schools."

People are anxious to improve facilities, said Dr. Billings.

Facilities mentioned by Dr. Billings included the more elaborate training of students for the working world, primarily the technical trades.

"The mass of students don't go to university, but to the industries, trades, and we haven't provided for these," he added. "They were unable to obtain the training they needed to earn a living."

He said the government has expressed a strong desire to build such a vocational-training school in the Cowansville district, the heart of the Missisquoi region.

"Education is undergoing a quiet revolution, and discussions to date hold well for the future," he said.

Attended by 6 reigning monarchs

King Paul is buried as Greece mourns

ATHENS — King Paul of Greece was borne to his grave today, attended in death by six of Europe's reigning monarchs and other nobles and dignitaries from around the world.

The dead king's son and successor, 23-year-old King Constantine, walked with his mother, Queen Frederika, directly behind the body of Paul as Royal Greek Navy sailors pulled the caisson that carried the flag-draped coffin.

Behind came King Baudouin of Belgium, Queen Juliana of The Netherlands, King Frederik of Denmark, King Gustav of Sweden and King Olav of Norway.

And behind them came the others who had travelled to Greece to join with King Paul's grieving countrymen and bid him final farewell.

Britain was represented by Queen Elizabeth's husband, Prince Philip, and Princess Marina, the Duchess of Kent. Both are first cousins of King Paul. Industry Minister Drury represented Canada.

PACK ROUTE

An estimated 800,000 persons lined the 1½-mile route of the cortege through downtown Athens to weep, pray and say their last goodbyes.

They started to gather early Wednesday night, whole families bringing blankets to sleep on the curbs.

Harry Truman and Mrs. Lyndon Johnson were there for the United States. Walking with them were 18 princes, eight princesses, seven dukes, two duchesses, two presidents and envoys from Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union.

The mournful procession heading for the burial plot Paul himself chose at Tatoi Palace, where he died last Friday of uremia at the age of 62, began after a 50-minute burial service in Athens' Orthodox Cathedral.

OBTAINS OAR

QUEENBOROUGH, England (CP)—Alderman Richard Sharrock, mayor of this Kent town, regained part of his borough's former regalia at Sotheby's in London when he paid £260 for a water bailiff's ceremonial oar nine inches long. The oar was presented to the borough in 1817 when Queenborough was a major port.

Queen Frederika knelt sobbing before the coffin for three full minutes and was so upset she forgot her purse when she left the cathedral and sent Prince Irene to get it.

At the beginning of the mass, one of the 50 prelates officiating fainted and had to be carried out.

Bells tolled from the twin towers of the cathedral and mingled with the crack of cannon fired at two-minute intervals as the cortege wound away from the church.

Aid comes to victims of flood

CHICAGO (AP) — Disaster headquarters were established in Cincinnati today to assist some 110,000 persons in five states made homeless by the swirling, murky flood waters of the Ohio River and its tributaries.

The floods dealt death, destruction and misery to thousands, closing schools and roads. At least nine persons have died in the flooding.

Some 27,175 families have been evacuated in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. Approximately 12,000 persons are living in 53 Red Cross shelters.

Seven persons have been killed in Ohio, where 15,000 families were driven from their homes. One flood death was reported in Indiana and one in Kentucky.

Kentucky Governor Edward T. Breathitt has asked President Johnson to declare 30 counties disaster areas.

FIXED LEAK

National Guardsmen averted disaster Wednesday when they sandbagged a leak in the Louisville floodwall. But waters from the rising Ohio River plunged into the city, inundating low areas of the downtown section. Hundreds of persons were evacuated from homes outside the floodwall.

Eighty per cent of West Point's 2,300 population was evacuated as the Salt River overflowed and isolated the community.

Workers began a massive cleanup job in Falmouth, hit by the worst flood in the northern Kentucky community's history. The river forced 1,500 of the town's 2,600 residents to move out.

In Indiana, Governor Matthew Welsh asked that disaster areas be declared for 20 counties.

In Ohio, police sought to stop a new fad in Cincinnati's flooded streets. "Hot rodders" were zooming along the inundated streets in motorboats, leaving a wake strong enough to shatter windows.

Track and field may get boost in the Cowansville area soon

COWANSVILLE — (Staff) — Track and field sports in the Cowansville area may soon get a boost - if the Cowansville Recreation Inc. and the Amicale St. Leon (Alumni St. Leon) have anything to do about it.

Tuesday night, Jean-Paul Sirois led a delegation of the alumni to an executive meeting of the Cowansville Recreation Inc. and asked the alumni be accepted and affiliated with the recreation group.

Mr. Sirois said "it is not the intention of the Amicale to have just the French-speaking element take part in this plan to promote and develop track and field sports, but to have the English-speaking take an equal and active part."

A spokesman for the Cowansville Recreation Inc. said "at present the need for this most important branch of sports is urgent as the training of track and field enthusiasts is being done on town streets."

"We'd like to stop this before a serious accident happens to one or more of our high school students," said the spokesman.

George Sirois and Jean-Paul Loisele of the alumni were added to the recreation group's sports committee as a starter.

Liberal opposed to section of bill

OTTAWA (CP)—A prominent Liberal MP and political scientist has joined the three splinter parties in the Commons in opposing a key feature of the government's redistribution bill.

Pauline Jewett (Northumberland), on leave from the political science department at Carleton University in Ottawa, objected Wednesday to the section that would empower the prime minister and the opposition leader to appoint 20 of the 31 persons who will be assigned to revamp Canada's electoral map.

She suggested that the 20 appointments be made instead by the chief justice of Canada, now Hon. Robert Taschereau, and the president of the exchequer court, now Hon. J. T. Thorson. This would show clearly to the public that the next redistribution of Commons seats will be "thoroughly impartial" and out of the hands of politicians.

She had no doubt that the bill was impartial in its present form, but she urged the change "to make it appear to be completely impartial."

POSITION THE SAME

The same position was taken Tuesday by spokesmen for the New Democratic, Creditiste and Social Credit groups. The debate continues today.

Miss Jewett praised the bill as a milestone in Canadian history but suggested a second major change.

The measure provides that constituencies could have a population 20 per cent above or below the provincial average. She urged that this "tolerance" figure be increased to 25 per cent to prevent a sharp drop in representation from rural areas.

Rural districts needed special consideration because their MPs usually were the only link with the federal civil service, unlike city ridings which had government branch offices. Also, most of the pressure groups and the majority of the press were urban-oriented and this influenced the government considerably.

New attack on the wrinkle front

A woman who can sit serenely for 15 minutes without frowning, squinting, laughing or talking soon may be able to shed facial wrinkles for a few hours.

The fountain of youth still escapes us. But, cosmetic firms are doing their darndest to make up for this lack. At least five major cosmetic firms offer creams or lotions to smooth the skin and make us appear younger.

In March another firm enters the fray with a natural protein skin lotion to get rid of those wrinkles.

Test marketing and personal demonstrations show that it does have a smoothing action. Deeply etched wrinkles don't disappear, but the lotion does make the skin more taut and these wrinkles are then less deep.

The protein lotion is not a cover-up cosmetic and actually is a protein extracted from cattle blood with a preservative for the protein, an astringent and a moisturizing agent. (The manufacturer points out that if you are allergic to animal protein, a reaction is possible. If a rash develops, discontinue use.)

Many women should find the new lotion especially useful for evening wear.

But, successful use depends upon proper application. Start with a thoroughly clean face. With your fingertips apply to under-eye lines, crow's feet at eye corners, forehead furrows, lines around mouth and chin. Apply before you put on dry or cake make-up, but after a liquid foundation. Use powder as you normally would after waiting 15 minutes.

You will feel the drawing effect on your skin and this astringent action is one of the ways the lotion helps smooth the lines. But if you frown or laugh while waiting, you counteract the action.

Once applied, the effect should last from two to eight hours or longer after three consecutive days' use. However, what the lotion will do for you depends upon your general skin type and the mobility of your facial expression.

Almost-nothing shoes call for beauty steps

This is the spring of the almost-nothing shoe. There will be more open sandals and sling backs on the fashion scene than before. The result is a new area of décolleté that needs prompt attention.

The revealing footwear is not for feet with pump bumps or heels with calluses. If you want to keep up with the other sandaled sirens, give your feet attention now for their spring debut.

Start with your heels. During cold weather, the skin of your heels tends to dry and crack. To alleviate this, soak your feet in warm, sudsy water each night. Dry them thoroughly and rub in an application of petroleum jelly. Leave it on overnight. Continue until the heels are free from dry, roughened skin.

Aside from getting your feet in shape, open sandals make a once-a-week pedicure a must.

First cut toenails straight across, but not too short. Smooth the edges with an emery board. Massage feet with a moisturizing lotion and continue this relaxing and beautifying motion up to the knees. Wrap each leg in a warm towel for 15 minutes. During this time soak your feet in warm, soapy water to soften calluses. Smooth the rough spots with a pumice stone.

Don't forget to push back the cuticles with a cotton swab moistened with cuticle oil. Brush away excess cuticle with a nail brush.

If you plan to apply polish, insert cotton between your toes to prevent smearing. Select a natural or pale shade to make your toes inconspicuously appealing.

Polly's pointers

DEAR POLLY — After months of trying to open baby food jars by tapping, holding under hot water and so on, I wrote a letter of complaint to a manufacturer. They suggested the use of rubber gloves while removing the caps which really solved the problem for me. I hope they will help the aching wrists of other young mothers. Those of you who hate dishwashing and have not yet discovered rubber gloves will find they make that job more pleasant and enable you to use hot water which, in turn, is more sanitary. MRS. E. D.

DEAR POLLY — Those people who have footstools that slip out from under their feet should measure the legs at the base and buy four rubber cone or erutch caps. They really work. I thought they were rather unsightly, even though useful, before painting them with gold paint. They covered very easily and a 19-cent can of paint did the job. MRS. D. H.

DEAR POLLY — We all know that the linings of coats and suits first show wear under the arms. At the first sign of wear, I sew dress shields at the armholes and my coats look good as new as long as the rest of the lining holds out. White shields can be dyed to match colored linings and the black shields can go in black coats. MRS. J. P. K.

GIRLS — If you prefer covering these newly added dress shields with the same fabric as the coat lining, turn the sleeves wrong side out and cut away the lining from about one inch below the underarm seam and about three or four inches above the cuff. Cut a pattern from this, allowing for seams, and replace the section of sleeve lining with other fabric the same color. Even when the coat is thrown back over a chair, the replaced sleeve lining will not show. I have removed printed silk from a coat sleeve lining and covered a pillow hat to complete the costume. No one was the wiser. POLLY

THE CAPE SHAPE was among the silhouettes featured recently in Montreal. In bright navy banded in white, the free-swinging coat has a removable cape. Matching

"bob" cap is in the same cotton and nylon twill.

Merchants: Read, Heed

A recent study involving 12,000 customers of a chain of supermarkets in 10 states reveals:

When a housewife likes the personnel of a particular food store she is inclined to see everything about the store in a rosy light. The selections seem better, the prices lower, the trading stamps more valuable than other brands, the meat of better quality, and the aisles wider than in other stores almost identical to the one she prefers.

This nugget of information ought to convince ever kind of store that caters to women that nothing keeps a woman customer coming back like gracious good manners and obvious willingness to please.

A woman will wait patiently for a salesperson if, when her turn comes, the clerk looks directly at her smiles and says, "I'm sorry you had to wait. How can I help you?"

She will not blame a store for not having what she wants to buy if the clerk who waits on her says frankly, "We don't carry that brand, but I would like to show you something you might like equally well," instead of dismissing her with a curt, "No, we don't have that."

She will go back time and again to the salesperson who remembers her and tries to find her just the kind of dress she is looking for, instead of insisting that she try on dresses that aren't the type she has asked to see.

She expects to be treated as

Today's recipe

Sometimes the most complicated - sounding dishes are the easiest to prepare.

When you decide to add stuffing to a menu along with buffet baked potatoes, life in the kitchen may appear to be a trying task.

However, a new recipe allows families to enjoy tasty stuffed lamb chops which can be prepared with ease.

And for that extra little dash of flavour, the addition of lemon to the lamb chop stuffing easily complements the rich taste of roasted lamb.

STUFFED LAMB CHOPS

6 loin or rib lamb chops, (cut 1½ inches thick), ¼ cup butter, ¼ cup chopped celery, 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion, 2 cups soft bread crumbs, 1½ teaspoon salt, few grains pepper, 1½ teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley.

With a small sharp knife, split the chops through the middle from the outer edge to the bone. Spread open. Melt butter in a heavy pan (do not brown), saute the celery and onion in the butter over medium heat for five minutes. Add the remaining ingredients and combine thoroughly. Pile stuffing, in even portions, on one side of each chop. Fold over and place chops in a shallow baking dish. Roast, uncovered, for 30 minutes at 350° F. Season with salt and pepper. Carefully turn chops, season other side, and continue roasting for about 20 to 30 minutes, or until chops are tender. Makes six servings.

It's like no other biscuit you've ever tasted

"It's not really a biscuit. We call it a 'Pastry Waffle biscuit'. It's two beautifully glazed halves of French pastry, separated by a touch of pure seedless raspberry jam, made in P.F. kitchens from whole berries.

It's light and airy, crisply tasty in a not-sweet way. You've never tasted a biscuit like it. Like it? You'll love it! Just try it."

TV licence fees are only alternative to commercials - BBG

By RUSSELL ELMAN
OTTAWA (CP)—The only alternative to advertising on television is a return to a licence fee and the public doesn't want this.

This opinion was stated Wednesday before the Board of Broadcast Governors by Don Jamieson, president of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters.

The spokesman for most of Canada's private broadcasting stations defended the role of advertising in giving his views on a BBG proposal which would cut the amount of commercials in the viewing hour to 12 minutes from 16.

"TV is not all that profitable," said Mr. Jamieson, vice-president of CJON-TV St. John's, Nfld. "Many stations still are skating close to the line."

He said commercials are not only the financial lifeline for private stations but also fulfill an important function in fostering the country's economic development.

VIEWERS COMPLAIN
Bernard Goulet, permanent BBG member, said the board has received complaints that the TV screen is becoming too cluttered with ads. The image of clutter was enhanced by the number of station breaks, promotional messages and lengthy credit lists.

BBG vice-chairman Carlyle Allison said he thought the public protested most against having dramatic programs interrupted frequently at crucial moments by commercials. The situation was not the same in variety programs.

Stuart Griffiths, Vice-President of Bushnell TV Company Limited which owns CJOH-TV Ottawa, said it might be reasonable to have the TV industry police itself before the BBG imposes new regulations.

He noted that the programs were also those with the most advertising.

If there had to be a reduction in the time allowed for commercials it should be to 14 minutes an hour. It also might be better to reduce the number of interruptions allowed to perhaps 16 from 20 an hour.

FAVORS REGULATIONS
The Canadian Broadcasting League, an Ottawa-based body of some 20 organizations, said it hoped the BBG will eventually make more use of its powers under the Broadcasting Act to make regulations respecting the character of advertising.

The BBG also heard representations concerning proposed regulations covering FM (frequency modulation) broadcasting. The principal features are limiting advertising content, requiring stations which have both FM and AM (amplitude modulation) operations to have at least two hours a day of separate FM programs, and to require 25 per cent of separate FM programming to be devoted to the arts, letters and sciences.

Both the publicly-owned CBC and private broadcasters recommended there should be a maximum amount of freedom allowed for FM programming while the medium remained in an experimental stage.

Dr. Andrew Stewart, BBG chairman, said the board was determined that FM should offer a different type of programming from the standard AM radio band.

NEW POST OFFICE—The Hon. Jean-Paul Deschatelets, Minister of Public Works, today announced the award of a $18,260 contract to Jean Courchesne of Danville, for the construction of a Post Office Building at South Durham. The contractor submitted the lowest bid of four in response to advertising for public tenders which closed on January 29, 1964. The highest bid was $26,395. The work is scheduled for completion in four months. The building, measuring 32 feet by 35 feet, will be a one storey structure without basement. It will be located on Ste-Anne Street. The building will be frame construction set on a concrete foundation with an exterior finished in masonry.

News flashes from around the world
LONDON (Reuters)—A world record price for a drawing was set Wednesday by the sale for $32,000 ($96,000) of a small red chalk drawing by Raphael of the Virgin Mary with infant Christ blessing John the Baptist.

The eight-by-six-inch drawing was sold at Sotheby's fine art dealers to the London picture dealers, Messrs. Colnaghi.

aged 70 and over.

The fund ran a $64,000,000 deficit this year, compared with a $43,000,000 deficit last year. The shortage is covered by a treasury loan.

The combined budgetary and pension deficits — $749,000,000 — exceeded last year's total of $734,600,000.

Pension outlays jumped to $809,000,000 from $734,000,000, due largely to the $10 pension increase Oct. 1, while revenues into the fund from specially earmarked income and sales taxes climbed to $745,000,000 from $691,000,000.

Altogether, total spending rose by $396,700,000 to $7,701,000,000 and revenues advanced $382,300,000 to $6,952,000,000.

The two biggest items behind the increase in budgetary spending were a $739,000,000 jump in the cost of carrying the public debt, to $990,800,000, and a rise of $99,100,000 in total defence spending to $1,699,000,000. Most of the defence increase was due to a special $76,500,000 payment into the armed forces pension fund.

There was a $53,300,000 boost in payments for the federal provincial hospital insurance plan, which took $390,000,000, and a $50,200,000 rise in the agricultural price support program to $122,000,000.

But in some areas Mr. Gordon found the pinch on his treasury easing.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Marshall D. Gates, a chemistry professor here, reports he has discovered a compound 40 times more powerful than morphine and probably non-habit forming.

The University of Rochester professor said Wednesday: "It is perhaps not too much to hope that among such substances, or their close relatives, will be found the long-sought, non-addicting, powerful analgesic."

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—The European Common Market's trade deficit for 1963 was $2,800,000,000 (U.S.), some $1,400,000,000 higher than in 1962, according to the latest monthly bulletin issued by the market commission.

Mr. Gordon's estimate of a six-per-cent gain in gross national product — value of all goods and services produced — would put 1963 output at $42,825,000,000 compared with $40,401,000,000 in 1962.

He said most prices have been relatively stable during the current upswing.

Average employment rose by 2.4 per cent last year and unemployment averaged 5.5 per cent of the labor force compared with 5.9 per cent in 1962.

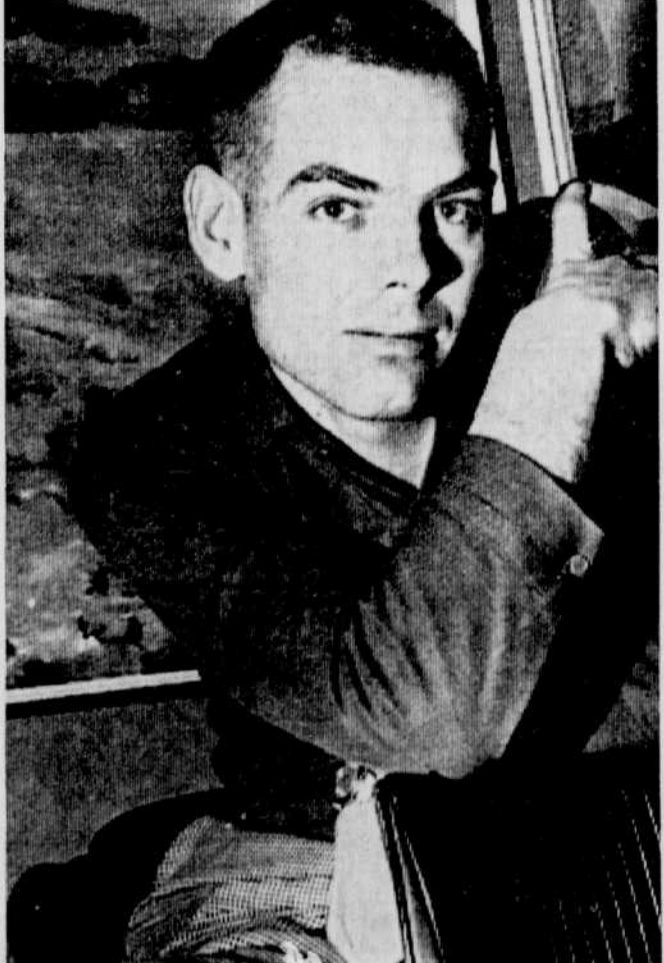

At year end the jobless rate, adjusted to discount seasonal factors, was 4.9 per cent—the lowest since 1957.

The government's over-all cash requirements for 1963-64 were considerably less than the previous year — $519,000,000 compared with $1,464,000,000.

THE LAST SUPPER

POP ART RAISES STORM
—The decision of the Toronto Art Gallery to reject a pop art work showing a crucifixion made of flypaper, top left, and the Last Supper as a can of dog food, top right, has raised a controversy between the gallery and the Ontario Society of Artists. It was part of a 12-panel work submitted for the society's annual show by Keith QaSen, right, an Australian artist now living in Toronto. Society members called it a dangerous precedent and said they may withdraw their own exhibits in protest. QaSen says he feels the work is humor and belongs in a public foyer, not in a gallery. The Doctor Says

CORRECTION NEEDED FOR EXCESSIVE EYE BLINKING
By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT M. D.

Anything which seems to threaten the eyesight of a child is an understandable cause of worry to parents. Even excessive blinking of the eyes can be a source of concern.

Anyone will blink his eyes when suddenly exposed to a bright light. But if your child blinks frequently even when there is no change in light, you must seek another cause. Blinking is frequently seen in children who swim in a heavily chlorinated swimming pool.

If a child has been perspiring freely and the sweat has run down into his eyes or if he rubs his eyes and gets salt from his fingers into the corners, he will blink.

Other common causes include low grade infection (conjunctivitis or pink eye) and allergy. In some children it is just a nervous habit and this is probably the commonest cause of all. So if your child blinks, make sure that no general or local disease is causing it.

If it is a nervous habit, it is best to ignore it. Unless the child complains of discomfort in his eyes, do not use any eye-wash. This only tends to prolong a habit which he may out-grow if you don't make an issue of it.

Q—My 7-month-old boy has been spitting up after his feedings since birth. He does it all through the day but he is gaining weight and is otherwise healthy. What should I do?

A—Most babies bring up mouthfuls of food in the early months of life. This may be a part of the burping that he should do after you have fed him. Or it may be that you are feeding him too much. The fact that he is gaining and is apparently well is an indication that the spitting up is nothing serious.

"My father says a government bureau is where the taxpayers' shirts are kept!"

Q—My 12-year-old son weighs 150 pounds. He is too heavy to be comfortable or active. His hips are covered with thread-like blood vessels. What causes them and what can we do about them?

A—Your son's condition is more likely due to heredity than to his overweight. It is not serious and no treatment is required but an all-out effort should be made to bring his weight down.

Q—I have three children aged 6 months, 3 years and 5 years. In the last three weeks the middle child has been stammering badly. What causes his problem?

A—You can get the best guidance, at the University of Iowa, City. He has some helpful leaflets on this subject. Johnson, world famous speech

Sonny has trials and troubles with law, lawsuits, and fines

DENVER (AP)—Troubles are piling high for Sonny Liston, who lost his heavyweight boxing title to Cassius Clay last month.

Municipal court officials said he will be tried between March 17 and April 10 on charges of speeding, reckless and careless driving, carrying a concealed weapon and driving without a valid operator's licence. He was arrested Tuesday and released on $300 bond.

Liston's former manager, George Katz of Philadelphia, filed suit in New York City Wednesday asking $1,300,000 from Liston for breach of contract.

In another action, federal marshals served Liston with papers Wednesday in a suit for $116,000 filed in Chicago by Ben Bentley, also known as Ben Goldberg, who said he was hired as publicity agent by Liston and Inter-Continental Promotions, Inc.

Bentley said he was hired by Inter-Continental in December, 1962, at a salary of $330 a week. He asked $16,001 in back salary and $100,000 which he said he lost because the firm did not grant him three Chicago outlets for closed-circuit television on the Liston-Clay fight.

ARRESTED FOR SPEEDING — The ex-champ was arrested Tuesday night by traffic officer James Snider who said radar in his patrol car registered Liston's Cadillac speeding 76 miles an hour in a 30-mile-an-hour zone.

Snider said he searched Liston and found a seven-shot .22-calibre pistol in his pocket. Snider said he allowed a woman with Liston to drive his car away while Snider drove Liston to headquarters.

On the way, Snider said, Liston became belligerent and started to get out of the police car at a stop sign. Snider called for help and another patrolman, Gary Kirchmar, came and helped handcuff Liston.

Liston said in a televised interview Wednesday that the report of his belligerency was "a lot of baloney." He also said he was taking the gun from a

Al Kaline uses pitching practise to strengthen weak arm for season

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Al Kaline, Detroit's No. 1 hitter, has turned to pitching.

It's the first step in a conditioning program aimed at strengthening a weak right arm and guaranteeing a quick getaway when the baseball season opens.

"When I was younger," said the 29-year-old outfielder after a workout at the Tigers' training base, "I never had any trouble. But in recent years I've been running into problems with my arm and I've had to ease up on my swing. It's kept me from getting off to a good start."

"So, I've been working out just like a pitcher—throwing, catching, running."

WORKS ON KNEE — Kaline, who challenged for the American League batting title last year and finished with a .312 average, also has been doing exercises on a roller-type system of equipment designed to build up his right knee.

"It's a Mantle-type thing," said Kaline, who agreed he could have suffered serious damage when he banged against a wall during a game at Los Angeles last July. Mickey Mantle of New York Yankees broke his leg in a similar accident at Baltimore last season. Kaline pulled a ligament.

It may have cost Kaline an opportunity to win the batting championship for the first time since 1955 when he was in his third year with the Tigers.

It also sent him to hospital for a complete physical and a long rest period.

HAS DUAL ROLE — Now he's started the extra conditioning while preparing to fill the dual role drafted by manager Chuck Dressen. Kaline will be one of the keys to the Tigers' hit-and-run strategy and still take over the clean-up spot in the batting order vacated by the trade of Rocky Colavito.

"I enjoy playing hit-and-run and I think it's made me a better hitter," Kaline said. "We did it a lot last year—and I wasn't trying to go for home runs. They just came."

Twenty-seven came, along with 101 runs batted in.

"You know, you don't need a lot of big hitters to win the pennant," Kaline added, "just three or four guys who can hit .275 or .280. That's what wins. It does for the Yankees."

Hot-headed Roman fight spectators bring boxing bout to early finish

ROME (AP)—The boos of the fans still range in welterweight champion Emile Griffith's ears today as he declared "I shall never again fight in Italy."

This apparently won't make Roman fight fans as mad as Wednesday night's drab no-decision affair involving the New Yorker and Argentina's Juan Carlos Duran.

Irate fans in the crowd of 12,000 brought a sudden end to the scheduled 10-round non-title bout in the seventh round when they littered the ring with bottles, oranges, shoes and garbage in protest.

At times some fans yelled "fix."

There was so much junk in the ring that referee Fernando Pica couldn't kick it all out. Pica, who had warned both fighters several times to throw more punches, stopped to consult the three judges.

They decided to end the bout because of "the intemperance of the crowd." Police swarmed into the ring to protect the fighters and escort them to their dressing rooms.

The boxers probably will get their purses since the decision to suspend the bout was based on the crowd's conduct rather than on the lack of action.

Griffith, who chased the elusive Argentine most of the way, was leading on The Associated Press scorecard, four rounds to one with one even.

"I'm really mad at the referee," said Griffith. "He warned me but I didn't deserve the warnings. Duran simply did not want to fight. I would have knocked him flat if he had. I shall never fight here again."

The Argentine, who now lives in Italy, also was upset.

"I'm ready to meet Griffith again in Milan without asking a cent," he said. "I have been eager for so long to fight a big name boxer that I am ready to fight for nothing. But if Griffith is a world champion then I am a universal champion."

Duran, 10th ranked junior middleweight, weighed 154½ pounds, Griffith 154½.

Bower in top form

Leafs shut out Canadiens Mahovlich gets lone goal

His mannerisms might be a bit jerky. He doesn't seem to see half the shots that bounce off various parts of his anatomy.

He's fidgety. He doesn't say much. And he appears to be scowling at something or somebody whenever you look at him.

But Johnny Bower has been the most effective goaltender in the National Hockey League this season, advanced years or no.

His Toronto Maple Leafs were no more potent on the attack than they have been all season. But Bower made Frank Mahovlich's 23rd goal of the campaign stand up for a 1-0 win over the back-slipping Montreal Canadiens Wednesday night.

At this point in the schedule wacky things sometimes happen and so it was in another game, BOSTON'S BIG THREE.

Guy Gendron, Orland Kurtenbach and Forbes Kennedy are three fellows who have had more trouble than most on the attack this season. But playing as a unit they collected a total of nine points and Boston Bruins destroyed New York's play-off aspirations—if there were any—by belting the Rangers 5-3.

Before 14,041 fans in Toronto, Mahovlich scored his club's first goal against the Canadiens in four games, tipping in a shot from the blue line by defence-man Tim Horton in the opening period. Larry Hillman also drew an assist.

That helped pad out Toronto's third-place cushion and it was a severe setback to the Canadiens, jostling Chicago Black Hawks for the league championship. Going under for the fourth consecutive game, they remained two points behind the Black Hawks. And no longer is it two games in hand. Now it's cut to one.

"We have to win Saturday night against Chicago (in Montreal) or the race is all over," said Montreal coach Toe Blake after the game.

BOWER 'PRETTY FAIR' — "We had the chances but we couldn't finish off the plays when in close," was his analysis. "And don't forget a guy called Bower in the net. He played a pretty fair game."

Redoubtable old Johnny took a stitch for a cut lower lip suffered in a first-period pileup.

But he lowered his personal goals-allowed average to a tight 2.08 a game with his fifth shut-out of the season. The work for him and Montreal's Charlie Hodge was 26 shots apiece.

Hodge and Chicago's Glenn Hall are well off Bower's 2.08 mark. But they lead in the Vezina Trophy competition. That is in reality a team trophy and Bower is behind because Toronto's alternate goalie Don Simmons has a sky-high mark.

TRAIL CHICAGO — The Canadiens were left with 78 points to Chicago's 80. Both teams have yielded 157 goals with the Hawks having played one more game. The Maple Leafs follow with 69 points—they've given up five more goals—and then four points to the rear lie Detroit Red Wings, who meet the Bruins tonight in Detroit, the schedule's only game.

Why the collapse by Montreal now? Said Frank Selke, the club's managing director: "We have a lot of young players on this team. The pressure of being in a close race for first place is starting to tell on them. They're over-anxious and making mistakes."

SMALL CROWD — In the other game, the crowd of 8,158 was the smallest of the season at New York's Madison Square Garden. And ironically it was the other club outside the playoff circle that knocked the Rangers out although such a blow from some team appeared inevitable.

The Red Wings are 11 points up and the Rangers have only five games to play now, a potential 10 points.

Gendron, a three-goal man going into the game, scored twice and added an assist. Kennedy got a goal and a pair of assists and Kurtenbach three assists.

Murray Oliver and Johnny Bucyk were the other Boston goal-getters. New York's big three, the Phil Goyette-Camille Henry-Rod Gilbert line, accounted for their club's offence, each player scoring once.

New York's veteran defence-man Harry Hawel took five stitches for a cut over the right eye in the pre-game warmup and did not play.

The procedure would be employed should a Chicago-Montreal tie develop for first place or a Toronto-Detroit tie develop for third.

Not only do the positions determine who plays who in the Stanley Cup semi-finals—first and third meet in one best-of-seven series while second and fourth are pitted in another—but a considerable difference in bonus money is involved.

The No. 1 club gets 18 units of $1,500 while for second it's $750, third $500 and fourth $250.

In the playoffs the units are $1,500 for semi-final winners and $750 for losers. The cup winners get 18 units of $2,000 and the losers 18 of $1,000.

Players normally vote fractional shares to team personnel who did not play the full season and others such as the equipment manager and trainer.

NHL Stars — Frank Mahovlich, whose 23rd goal of the season gave Toronto Maple Leafs a 1-0 win over Montreal Canadiens.

Boston's Orland Kurtenbach Guy Gendron-Forbes Kennedy line, who powered the Bruins to a 5-3 win over New York Rangers with a three-goal effort.

Hockey — Wednesday's games: Montreal 9, Toronto 1; Boston 5, New York 3.

American League — Providence 1, Buffalo 1.

Eastern Townships Jr. Championship — Richmond 7, Sherbrooke 2 (Richmond wins series with points of 95).

Western League — Vancouver 2, Los Angeles 8; San Francisco 6, Portland 4.

Long Island 2, Clinton 6 (First game of best-of-five quarter-final).

Sherbrooke-Vics to meet tonight

The Sherbrooke Beavers, trailing two games to nil, travel to Granby tonight to meet the Granby Vics in the third game of the Provincial League finals.

Beavers, who did not show up too well in last Tuesday's game, know they have to win this one to stay in contention. Since the play-offs started the Beavers have had most of their success on foreign ice.

The Vics took last Sunday's game by a 4-3 score after trailing by three goals and in Tuesday's tilt they came up with a convincing 8-3 win. A win by the Vics tonight would give them a big advantage that the Beavers would find hard to overcome.

The teams should be at full strength for the game as no serious injuries have been reported from either camp.

THE SKI WHIRL

By LUCILE WHEELER VAUGHAN

The month of March, in my opinion, can offer some of the most pleasant skiing conditions. The weather is warmer, and the snow is usually soft enough to make turning extremely easy. However, spring skiing does depend on the weather, as some regions have snow longer than others.

Early thaws can ruin any plans for spring skiing, and unusually cold weather will form an icy surface.

During the month of March it is normal for the snow to freeze at night and soften during the day. The ideal time to ski, is just as the sun penetrates about two inches of the hard snow. These conditions are known as "spring snow."

The ski seem to glide over the snow, and it takes little effort to turn. Perhaps the reason I prefer this type of snow is the fact that these conditions occur for only a few days during the season.

SNOW SOFTENS — The snow usually begins to soften between 10 and 11 a.m. Until you have experienced spring snow, you have no idea what you have been missing in this sport. Before putting your ski equipment away, try this bindings probably need readjustment. The release should be a little easier. Also wipe the snow from around the binding when you finish with your skis for the day. Water can cause the binding to rust or tighten up.

HEAVY NOW — Heavy snow will often cause a skier to be afraid. Again approach this type of snow in a relaxed manner, and with confidence. The minute you stiffen up on skis, you may as well forget about trying to turn. The best and easiest way to ski heavy snow is down the fall line.

Whenever possible the skis should be evenly weighted. Edges are usually banked more than a definite movement of edging.

The down-up-down-movement of the knees is exaggerated. Remember to limit the unweighting to the legs not the entire body.

If you can ski down the fall line you will have less resistance from the snow, and in increased speed which will help to make turning easier.

If you do not feel you can cope with the fall-line or with the heavy snow, you can always traverse the hill, do a kiel turn, and traverse back to the other side.

THE WORLD OF SPORTS

NHL deadlock would be decided by wins, goals scored, goals allowed

MONTREAL (CP)—In case they have to involve the tie-breaking machinery to resolve the jostling for playoff positions in the National Hockey League at the close of play two weeks hence, it works this way:

The premium is on wins. Then goals scored count. And if there's still a deadlock it goes to the club that has allowed the fewest number of goals. "After that I guess they have a consultation," said an informed source Wednesday night.

Performance over the full 70-game schedule is considered as the basis for all figuring and not just the 14 games between the two stalemated clubs.

The procedure would be employed should a Chicago-Montreal tie develop for first place or a Toronto-Detroit tie develop for third.

Not only do the positions determine who plays who in the Stanley Cup semi-finals—first and third meet in one best-of-seven series while second and fourth are pitted in another—but a considerable difference in bonus money is involved.

The No. 1 club gets 18 units of $1,500 while for second it's $750, third $500 and fourth $250.

In the playoffs the units are $1,500 for semi-final winners and $750 for losers. The cup winners get 18 units of $2,000 and the losers 18 of $1,000.

Players normally vote fractional shares to team personnel who did not play the full season and others such as the equipment manager and trainer.

NHL Stars — Frank Mahovlich, whose 23rd goal of the season gave Toronto Maple Leafs a 1-0 win over Montreal Canadiens.

Boston's Orland Kurtenbach Guy Gendron-Forbes Kennedy line, who powered the Bruins to a 5-3 win over New York Rangers with a three-goal effort.

Education Week observed by Cowansville students

COWANSVILLE — The special events for Education Week at Cowansville High School started on March 3, when girls of Grades 9A and 9B, under the direction of Miss N. Knowles, invited their mothers to a cooking demonstration and tea.

Beverly Chennell and Darlene Brown acting as hostesses, received the guests. Wendy Bushmiller and Eleanor Archer began the demonstration by displaying a pan of brownies, which they had made in class. They then proceeded to repeat the recipe, explaining each step. Included in their commentary were many Good Cooking Rules, they had learned in class.

Kathy Boast and Linda Lee Pratt poured tea at the attractive tea table, which had been arranged and refreshments prepared by the 30 girls in Grade 9.

The tea was held in the Home Economics room at the school, where some of the products of the High School sewing classes were on display.

Miss Knowles was very pleased with the efficiency in which the girls carried out the project.

On March 4, the High School students heard the second round of the Bedford Regional Council of the Home and School Association's inter-school debating competition. Two debates took place.

The first, on the topic, Machinery has done more harm than good for mankind, was at the intermediate level. Kathy Boast and Ann Dark, of Cowansville, spoke for the affirmative. They were beaten by a close margin, by the Waterloo team of n Irwin and John Hackwell.

In the second debate, a senior event, Danny Glenday and Margaret Clay, of Cowansville, spoke for the affirmative. The Granby team of Peter Heelis and Kathryn Smith won by a score of 148 to 142, the topic being, The Censorship of Reading Materials is Desirable.

The judges were Mr. Flood, of Waterloo, Mrs. Picot, of Granby and Miss Hopkins, of Cowansville. Mr. Flood concluded the event by some constructive remarks. It was felt that all the students had handled their material very well.

G.S.P.C.A. On March 5, Grades one to six attended a special assembly on the care of animals, put on by members of Canadian Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, of Montreal.

Mrs. F. H. Dillingham, of Ste. Anne de Bellevue, spoke to the children on the care of pets, stressing proper living conditions, feeding, grooming and handling.

Miss Dorothy Budge and her two spaniels, Sonny and Trixie, demonstrated how obedience training can make a dog's life happier and safer. The children were thrilled with the dog's performance of obedience to hand signals.

Miss Joan Morgan, of Cowansville High School, demonstrated proper grooming with the help of her Shetland Sheepdog, Ch. Nicht, who was very popular with children.

Mrs. Dillingham introduced a short film that showed the animals of Banff National Park and the animals of the Stanley Park Zoo, Vancouver, also the visiting of a school and the clinic of the Montreal C.S.P.C.A.

The film was followed by a question period, Mr. Bown later thanking the ladies for their instructive and entertaining program.

Junior races will be held Saturday at Mt. Orford

This Saturday will see the annual Junior Olympics Day races for boys and girls at the Mt. Orford Ski Centre, when the young people of Magog and area are given a chance to compete for trophies and medals. A draw was held Wednesday evening, as was done for the Adams Memorial event, and every participant was given a running number, according to his class.

With all the aspects of a major ski race, from draw, starting, marking and timing right through to prize awarding hour, this event resembles a big time race, and for the youthful skiers taking part, it's the climax to their ski season.

Sponsored by Lucien Lavigne of Sherbrooke for the Mt. Orford Ski Club, again under the able direction of Cecil Gaunt and Ernest Fields, this race will be the climax to the club's annual junior training program, which gets under way each year about November.

The ski club has in the past been able to find sponsors who have donated funds that pay for chartered buses to carry boys and girls from Magog to the ski centre each Saturday morning, and return them at noon. The City of Magog contributes to this project, as do several business establishments, including Jacques Audette, who at one time underwrote the total transportation cost.

Once at the ski centre, able

EXCELLENT TRAINING — Boys and girls who take part in the annual winter junior training program run by the Mt. Orford Ski Club are given careful instruction during the Christmas holidays, January and February, with free bus rides from Magog to the Orford Ski Centre and back to Magog each Saturday morning, and free tow lifts donated by the Compagnie Gestion d'Orford. (Record photo by Charles Catchpaugh) skiers serve as instructors, and proceed to teach the young skiers the art of skiing. The Compagnie Gestion d'Orford, the firm operating lifts at Mt. Orford, allow the boys and girls to ride free of charge on their small T-bar until noon Saturdays.

With three hours of hardy work and careful instruction, all are ready for the trip home, and most taking part in the two and half month program carry in mind the big day, which is the race, this year scheduled for Saturday, the 14th of March. The Mt. Orford Ski Patrol (CSPS), despite their heavy schedule, also find it possible to provide instructors for the training program, and this Saturday, as in a big race will be on hand to encourage the boys or girls to ski carefully.

Supervising last night's draw at the Union Hotel was Bob Bousquet, well known instructor and sports equipment dealer. Runners were placed in four classes, A, B, C, and D, each being dependent on ages.

Unlike a normal Saturday training schedule, buses carrying boys and girls will leave Magog at 9:15 instead of 8:15, and will return at 4 p.m. rather than at noon.

René Teasdale, President of the Mt. Orford Ski Club has expressed hopes that Saturday's races will provide the club with the largest Junior Olympics Day ever held at the Orford Ski Centre.

HEADED FOR TOP WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP) — New Zealanders are eating and drinking their way to the top in world statistics. Already among the biggest meat eaters in the world, they increased consumption last year by six pounds a head to an average of 250.2 pounds. They increased consumption of beer by half a gallon each to 22.7 gallons, thus passing Australia, one of the top beer-drinking countries, by 0.2 gallons.
