VOL. XXXIII. No. 177 MONTREAL, TUESDAY, JULY 30, 1901. PRICE ONE CENT.

THE RAIN STORM WAS A DELUGE.

NEARLY THREE INCHES OF RAIN FELL IN ONE NIGHT.

Cellars Were Flooded and Much Damage Done in All Parts of the City — Point St. Charles Subway Choked — Is the City Responsible for Damages?

The Road Department, Sewer Department, and Claims Department were simply deluged this morning with claims for damages for floodings on account of the phenomenal rain fall last night.

Hundreds and hundreds of stores and dwellings were flooded.

According to statistics at the City Hall there has not been such a rain fall since 1885, when in thirty-six hours a little over three inches of rain fell. But last night practically three inches of water fell between the hours of twelve and three. Mr. Gauthier, of the Fire Alarm Department, who takes the temperature, rainfall, etc., says the rain last night was one of the heaviest falls he remembers ever happening in the city. According to his measurement about three inches fell.

ROADS WASHED OUT.

The City Surveyor said this morning that the roadway on Cote des Neiges Hill, and on St. Lawrence street, between Sherbrooke and Ontario streets was practically washed away. From the claims for damages it is shown that houses and stores were flooded in all parts of the city. The streets that suffered the most severely were St. Catherine, both east and west; Colborne, Wellington, Common, Chaboillez square, Notre Dame street, Metcalfe street and many streets in Hochelaga Ward. In fact, except in the very high portions of the city, there was floodings nearly everywhere.

Among the many big buildings flooded is the Y. M. C. A. building, Murphy's store, the Cold Storage building on Wellington street, the London House, the St. James Hotel. Reports have even been received of the basements of churches being flooded.

A VISITATION OF GOD.

The chairman of the Road Committee, Ald. Martineau, said this morning: "I consider that the great rainfall last night was nothing more or less than a visitation of Providence, meaning that the city cannot be held responsible for it. Such being the case, the Road Committee will protest against any damages being paid to those who were flooded. So heavy was the downfall that no sewers could ever take it away. The rain rushed to the mouth of the gullies in such a body as to completely overpower them.

"No sewers could possibly be constructed to meet such an emergency.

"If we constructed sewers on the plan that would have carried off the rainfall last night, they would be useless for ordinary purposes. It is all right for persons to rush in claims for damages against the corporation; but in this instance it is impossible that such an occurrence could have been guarded against.

"Some time ago they had a similar rain in London, leading to some of the underground railways being washed out, but no claims for damages were made; it was seen the catastrophe was a visitation of Providence, and so the matter was accepted philosophically."

WHAT CITY SURVEYOR SAYS.

Mr. Barlow, City Surveyor, said: "The storm last night did an immense amount of damage to the streets. In some places the asphalt was actually washed away; while the macadamized roads were literally torn to pieces in many places. It will cost considerable to put the streets in order again. Like Ald. Martineau, I think the city should not pay a cent for any damages that occurred. The city could not possibly provide against such an unlooked-for occurrence. No corporation is liable when the cause of destruction is due to the elements. If we had to pay damages for last night's storm it would cost the city an immense sum."

Mr. Sadler, one of the city's experts in damages, said that he had been out all morning inspecting places that had been flooded. The damage done was certainly serious; at the same time he did not see what right any one had to claim damages. The fault was not the city's. One big grocery store, in the west end of the city, had suffered very severely. In the basement there had been stored a lot of valuable groceries. Near by were two big tanks of coal oil. The water came in with such power that the tanks were floated, upset, and their contents reached the groceries. In Point St. Charles the subway was so badly flooded that cars could not get through it for a time. The storm was certainly one of the worst he ever remembered seeing.

McGILL READING.

At the McGill Observatory this morning the total rainfall for the night was said to have amounted to 2.51 inches. This is quite a phenomenal record, when one takes into consideration the fact that the rain did not commence to fall until half-past nine o'clock last evening, and stopped shortly before four o'clock this morning. The downpour was heaviest between the hours of one and two o'clock, although there was little let-up to the storm from the time it began until it ceased.

Such a heavy downpour for so continuous a time has very seldom occurred in this vicinity. It is remarkable that for upwards of over an hour last night the rainfall was as heavy as that which generally accompanies thunder-storms. In fact, the rain as it descended was converted into vast sheets of water, and the roads bear evidence to-day of the drenching they received. In a great many cases householders were awakened by the fury of the storm as it beat against the shutters and window panes of their dwellings. In some instances a trip downstairs into the basement revealed the presence of several inches of water on the floor, the rain having choked the drains and caused a backwash into these departments of the city's homes.

To-day a very high percentage of humidity was recorded at McGill, no less than 97 degrees being registered at half-past eight o'clock.

Encourage Patriotic Hackmen.

The hackmen on Place d'Arms Square would like to hear from the Road Committee in reference to painting the "rest" on the square. They say it is a disgrace to the city, and must be renovated before the Royal visit or it will give the distinguished visitors a wrong impression of the Montreal hackmen. The hackmen are willing to do the repairing and painting if the city will furnish the material. All hacks are to be cleaned and decorated for the occasion.

WANT INCREASE BORROWING POWER.

YET A NUMBER OF CIVIC IMPROVEMENTS ARE PROMISED.

Expected There Will be Funds Next Year to Lay Down Permanent Sidewalks Instead of the Wooden Ones—Ald. Laporte on the City's Financial Position.

It will be heard with much satisfaction by real estate owners, and by taxpayers generally, that there is a likelihood of more civic improvements next year, without an increase of the consolidated debt.

This news was made known to a representative of the Star, this morning, by Ald. Laporte, chairman of the Finance Committee. It has been known for some time past that the leaders of Council were considering plans whereby civic government would be much bettered in 1902. The impression had got round that the contemplated improvements next year, which are numerous, would be the result of an appeal to the Legislature for permission to increase the consolidated debt, which to-day stands at twenty-seven millions.

WILL NOT GO TO THE LEGISLATURE

Upon being asked this morning if numerous improvements were contemplated next year, and if the consolidated debt was to be made still more heavy, Ald. Laporte replied:

"Any fear that we shall go to the Legislature for power to increase our present consolidated debt is without foundation. Personally I feel the debt is heavy enough, and that it would be unjust to force increased taxation upon real estate owners by such a high-handed proceeding. As to improvements next year, yes, many are contemplated."

"How can they be effected without increasing the borrowing power?"

"In the first place we hope to have a natural increase of some three million dollars next year in real estate. If we are not disappointed in this it will mean that, according to the charter, we can borrow three hundred thousand dollars upon the increase for permanent improvements. Then again a scheme is favoured for the submission of a by-law to real estate owners, asking them to approve of a loan of say half a million for permanent and new civic works."

DEBT WOULD NOT BE INCREASED.

"If this sum is voted by the real estate owners it would not mean increasing the consolidated debt. A sinking fund would be provided for this amount, and it would be paid off say in forty years. The consolidated debt would remain the same, twenty-seven millions. There would be, of course, a small special tax for the half million, but it would be so very small that real estate owners would never feel it."

A HOPE OF SIDEWALKS.

"Upon what new works would you spend the half million?"

"It would be spent upon making new permanent sidewalks, opening up new streets, putting down new sewers and water pipes where there are none at present, improving the water system, etc. All such new improvements would mean a considerable increase of new taxes to the civic treasury; thus the benefit would be twofold."

"And how do you contemplate spending the quarter of a million or so which you expect the city will have next year on the increase of the value of real estate?"

"This should be spent upon the many permanent repairs which are needed to the streets, for the improvement of the fire service, etc. With these two amounts it might be possible, too, to erect a new Civic Hospital, put up new fire stations, etc. As shown, the consolidated debt would not be increased by either of these projects."

THOSE OLD WOODEN SIDEWALKS.

Continuing, Ald. Laporte said: "The antiquated wooden sidewalks in the city should be done away with for good. They are never seen now in any modern city. They are a constant expense on account of the repairs they need. If permanent sidewalks were put down the city would present a much finer appearance, while the cost of administration would be much reduced. These permanent walks could easily be laid if the half a million were approved of by the real estate owners. It must be remembered, too, that the city will soon have about seventy thousand dollars a year less to pay for its electric lighting; already the offers to light the city mean a reduction of more than half what we are now paying. This saving of seventy thousand dollars annually will mean so much more to spend upon general civic administration. Then money is being saved in certain civic departments where, in the past, not a cent was saved. One department alone this year will be administered at a reduction of twenty-five thousand dollars. This very nice sum will also be available for civic improvements."

IS NOT IN DIREFUL WAY.

"Then you do not consider that the city is so badly handicapped with its present revenue that new and heavy taxes are necessary?"

"Frankly, I do not. I do not mean to say that we have any too much money, but with the temporary loan I have mentioned, with the increase we expect on real estate, with the saving that has been effected this year in some of the civic departments, and, finally, with economy, there is no need to run to the Legislature and force an additional heavy debt upon the citizens. It is not unlikely that certain members of Council may propose to go to the Legislature again, but I trust there is a good majority in Council who will not countenance any such move. I am intimately acquainted with the financial conditions of the city, and I have faith in its revenues, with careful administration, to get along with it very nicely."

Such is the policy outlined by the reform element of Council for the future, and it is expected that it will meet with very warm approval from citizens.

THE ECUMENICAL CONFERENCE.

Revs. Dr. Shaw and Dr. Rose as Delegates Will Sail on the Parisian.

The Rev. Dr. Rose, of Ottawa, formerly pastor of Dominion Square Methodist Church, and president of the Montreal Conference, has taken passage on the Parisian and will sail on August 10th for England with Rev. Dr. Shaw, of Montreal, and Dr. Cruthers, of Belleville, who are delegates to the Ecumenical Methodist Conference to be held in City Road Chapel, London, from September 4th to 17th. During Dr. Rose's absence, Rev. J. Mavety, of Kemptville, will act as president of the Montreal Conference, and Rev. W. Timberlake as chairman of the Ottawa district.

Veterans and Land Grant.

The Veterans' Association of Montreal have decided to request the Ontario Government to grant 160 acres of land to the Quebec veterans who fought in the Fenian raids. They say the Ontario Government have promised this amount of land to the Ontario veterans. Some of the members are of the opinion the land will only be given to the Ontario men.

APPEAL TAKEN AGAINST A FINE.

STE. CUNEGONDE WON'T ALLOW DELIVERY IN ITS LIMITS

Of Goods in a Waggon Not Licensed by it—Montreal Biscuit Company Fined Therefor and Has Taken the Case to the Court of King's Bench.

An appeal was entered in the Court of King's Bench to-day by the Montreal Biscuit Company against a judgment rendered last June by the Recorder's Court of St. Cunegonde, under which the Montreal Biscuit Company was condemned to pay a fine of $15 and costs, for delivering their goods to customers in that town without paying a license and obtaining permission from the municipality of the town to drive their delivery waggons through the streets of St. Cunegonde.

The appeal will come on for hearing at the September term of the court, and promises to be one of the most interesting cases that has come before the courts for a long time.

It is the intention of the Biscuit Company to thoroughly test the right of the municipality of St. Cunegonde to pass or enforce a by-law compelling persons doing business outside the town to pay taxes in the shape of a license for simply delivering goods to customers inside that municipality.

The corporation of St. Cunegonde claims that it has the right to pass and enforce the by-law in question under the charter granted by the Local Legislature. The section of the charter, under which the by-law stipulating that all vehicles using the streets of the town and owned by persons residing or doing business outside the town must pay a license, says, describing what the council can do under by-laws: "To authorize and regulate the granting of licenses to carters, owners or drivers of vehicles for hire, or to owners of vehicles used in the city for the delivery of meat, bread, milk, ice, vegetables, groceries or any other goods, effects or merchandise, whether such owners reside in or outside of the city, to provide for the good government and discipline of the drivers of such vehicles for hire; to fix a tariff of the rates they shall be entitled to charge and to punish persons who use vehicles and refuse to pay the fare established by tariff."

In taking appeal against the judgment of the Recorder's Court of the city of Ste. Cunegonde, compelling it to pay a fine for delivering goods within the confines of the municipality of Ste. Cunegonde without first obtaining a license to do so, the Montreal Biscuit Company will plead that the by-law upon which this fine was imposed is ultra vires of the corporation of Ste. Cunegonde, and that as non-residents of the town duly licensed to drive delivery waggons by the corporation of the city of Montreal, in which the company does business, it is exempt from the license imposed by the municipality of a city in which the company does not do business beyond the incidental delivery of goods to its customers. The head offices of the Montreal Biscuit Company are in Montreal, where the company carries on its business. It has no branch in the city of Ste. Cunegonde. All its teams are kept in the city of Montreal, and there is no delivery branch of the company in Ste. Cunegonde.

During the year 1896 several cases similar to the present came up before the courts in Montreal. It seems that the charter of the municipality of St. Henri gave that corporation power to tax both residents and non-residents much the same as the charter of the city of Ste. Cunegonde does. Under these powers the corporation of St. Henri passed a by-law levying an annual tax upon certain persons resident and non-resident. The by-law was much the same in many respects as the one in question adopted by the municipality of the city of Ste. Cunegonde.

Under this by-law two actions were taken in the Circuit Court, in the city of Montreal, one against the Christie Brown Biscuit Company and the other against the Montreal Biscuit Company, for amounts due under this by-law. These actions were both contested on the ground that the defendants being non-resident and not doing any business in St. Henri except as an incident connected with the business they were carrying on in the city of Montreal, the by-law was not applicable to them. Judgment was rendered by the Circuit Court, dismissing both actions and maintaining the plea of the companies. The questions raised in the present appeal seem to be closely analogous to those raised in the cases taken by the corporation of St. Henri under one of its by-laws upon practically the same question. The result of this appeal taken by the Montreal Biscuit Company will be watched with a great deal of interest by scores of Montreal business houses who have to deliver goods in the city of Ste. Cunegonde and are compelled to pay a special license or leave themselves open to being fined before the Recorder's Court.

The appeal on behalf of the Montreal Biscuit Company was entered by Messrs. McCormick & Moffat, who will conduct the case on behalf of the company when the court meets in September.

KNOCKED DOWN AND ROBBED.

Louis Marcil, now in his 48th year, has spent more than half that time in gaol and penitentiary, and it looks much as though he is going back again for many years to come.

He faced Judge Choquet this morning, when he boldly declared that he was not guilty of highway robbery. Eyewitnesses of what happened yesterday afternoon say that he committed one of the most daring and brutal crimes on record.

He was drinking in a bar on Craig street east when a man named Napoleon Legault entered, and bought a drink paying for it out of a wad of fourteen dollars which he had in his waistcoat pocket. It is alleged that Marcil watched him puting the money away, and then followed him out. Marcil is a man who weighs close on to 250 pounds, and he can hit a blow that would almost fell an ox. But he was not satisfied with the power that nature gave him. Eye witnesses whom Marcil did not know were looking saw him put a pair of steel knuckles on his right hand, and as soon as Legault reached a spot that seemed fairly secluded Marcil sprang at him and struck him a fearful blow on the right temple. Then he bent over the prostrate man and took the money from his pocket, making off before the witnesses to the assault and robbery could catch him. Legault was cared for, and when he appeared in court this morning he showed many evidences of the attack. A warrant was quickly issued for Marcil, and he was captured and locked up.

He put in the most earnest plea of not guilty to-day, and the case was set back for a few days for the collection of the witnesses. Marcil's record is one of the worst in the history of Montreal criminals.

LAW OFFICERS' HOSTILE REPORT.

AGAINST CLAIM OF THE MONTREAL TERMINAL COMPANY.

A Special Meeting of the Council Called for August to Consider This Report—Mr. Mullarkey's Contention is Not Upheld as By-Law Had Not Been Read Second Time.

A special meeting of the City Council has been called for the middle of August to consider the protest, filed by Mr. Mullarkey, manager of the Terminal Company, that as the City Council passed the second reading of the Terminal Railway by-law the vote which declared the by-law was null and that no streets could be given the company, had no effect, owing to the by-law having been approved in its second reading. In other words it was contention of the manager of the Terminal Railway Co., that as the by-law had not been killed before it had passed its second reading the City Council had practically approved of it, and that the company, legally, had the power to construct lines in the city.

It is to hear the opinion of the City Attorneys, on this important contention, that the special meeting of council was summoned for the middle of August.

WILL BE CAST OUT.

The Law Department has been carefully considering all the facts in connection with this matter, at the meeting in August a report will be made, by the Law Department, that the contention of the Terminal Railway Company could not be maintained. According to information received by the Law Department, from the office of the City Clerk, the statement is plainly made that the by-law had not passed its second reading. In fact the by-law was only "receiving" its second reading when a vote was taken which practically meant the killing of it.

With an opinion such as this the aldermen will declare the contention of the Terminal Railway Company is without foundation and cannot be considered. At the same time it is expected certain members of Council will contend that it is in the public interest that the Terminal Railway Company should be allowed to run a line or two into the city. The company asked to be allowed to operate cars in dozens of streets.

The opinion of the City Attorneys, in question, will entirely alter the Terminal Railway question as it is now before Council.

SERIOUS CRIME BY JUVENILES.

FOUR BOYS SENT TO THE REFORMATORY TO-DAY.

Two Were Remanded Until After Consultation With Their Parents—Their Crime Was Thieving and Disposing of the Goods—All About Twelve Years Old.

Judge Desnoyers dealt out some severe sentences to-day, in the hope that they will prove of some use to the Police Department in the effort to stop the immense number of crimes now being committed by boys.

Six of them faced His Honour this morning in the Court of Special Sessions. Two of them were remanded pending the appearance of their relatives, with whom the judge will have a chat before pronouncing sentence.

Alfred Bourguignon, Napoleon Guerin, Charles Desjardins and Alfred Bessina were each sent to the reformatory for four years. They are all boys of not more than about 12 years of age, their heads hardly coming up to the rail of the prisoners' dock. Their crimes were all similar. The whole six have been thieving and selling the goods they got. The police are much bothered with the boy burglar, and all who are caught are to be given a stiff sentence.

Mr. Parham Was Re-elected.

The election for school trustee yesterday in Outremont caused considerable excitement. The contest was between Mr. Louis Parham, who has been trustee for some time, and Mr. Robertson. The voting was open and there was no such a thing as promising one candidate and voting for the other. At 2.30 p.m. the candidates had received an equal number of votes, but at 5 o'clock, when the poll closed Mr. Parham was four votes ahead of his opponent, and was declared elected.

BASEBALL

MONTREAL AGAIN THE VICTORS.

JOYCE'S BRILLIANT WORK SHUTS BUFFALO OUT.

Only Five Hits Did the Bisons Get and Only in One Innings Had They a Chance of Scoring — The Success of Worcester Leaves the League Standing as Before.

The Bisons' joy has vanished like a lamp
Which goes out in the evening's chilly damp,
Their hopes just flickered and then perished when
That Royal outfit took them into camp.

The coming pitcher of the Eastern League, Michael Joyce, shut out the Buffalos yesterday afternoon.

Never, from the beginning to the end, was there the slightest indication that they could bat him, and if Buffalo does hover around the lower end of the alley it is not because they are wanting in batters.

It is true that there was an inning when they had the bases full and only one man out, but that is just one of the occasions when the strange reserve power which marks Joyce's work arose like a ghost and gave a sepulchral chill to the hopes of the enemy.

The necessary two scalps were taken with the relentless certainty of an Indian on the war path. Buffalo need not worry, more pretentious teams have had similar experiences at his hands, and there will be others.

Amole was in the pulpit for the Bisons

..an Delehanty coach? Well, I guess! Dooley thundered down to third and thought he would try home. Del. saw his danger and simply picked the "Cap." up and placed him back on third.

and he was hit with sufficient frequency to enable the home birds to score in three out of the eight innings, which was all they had to put up. Eleven hits were made off his pitching and several of them were timely. Amole also had some cause to complain of his support.

On the other hand, Joyce had gilt edged support yesterday, something which has been lacking in one or two of his games, and had handicapped him.

The game was devoid of sensational features. The first scoring was done in the second, when Odwell started with a single. Dooley bunted, and Andrews who got the ball at third, sent it to second to slaughter Odwell. It was a low throw and both the Montreal men were safe. Both advanced on Sheehan's sacrifice. Odwell was thrown out at the plate when trying to get home off Johnson's hit to Carey. Dooley scored off a double steal with Johnson.

In the fourth Odwell drew a pass, advanced on Dooley's single and Sheehan's sacrifice. Then Johnson and Quinlan made safe hits and two runs were scored. An attempt at a double steal, which failed, owing to Vooght's quick fielding, retired the side.

In the sixth Sheehan sent a grounder, rolling out to second, which Hayward gamboled with while Sheehan went to first. Johnson made a two-bagger, and two runs were scored off Quinlan's lively single.

Conn was wild, but effective up to the seventh, when, after two were out, Hargrove's double, Bannon's triple and Toft's single scored three runs. Both teams fielded very fast. Base Hits.

Another from Buffalo.

Joyce has turned out a find.

Dooley steals a base occasionally.

Montreal plays gilt edged ball at home.

He had Buffalo doing all kinds of guessing.

Tommy Raub is doing good work behind the bat.

Toronto has knocked Rochester out of first place again.

Wilson will be able to go in and catch again in a day or two.

The inability of Ganzel to hit is causing murmurings in New York.

Dooley keeps up his good stick work and remains among the top knotchers.

Joyce pulled out of another hard hole yesterday when the bases were full.

Jimmy Collins has been getting lots of bouquets for his work for the Boston Americans this season.

The Crescent baseball nine would like to arrange matches for Saturday afternoons with any team under fifteen years. J. Mucci, 1833 Ontario street.

WRESTLING.

Dan McLeod Won.

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 30.—Dan McLeod, middleweight wrestling champion last night at the Lyceum Theatre threw Ed. Atherton, of Portageville, two straight falls. McLeod gained the first fall in 28 minutes and the second in seven minutes, the style being straight catch as catch can, strangle hold barred. McLeod was always the favourite, as good as $25 to $16 being offered on him at the start with no takers. It was a brilliant exhibition of wrestling replete with splendid plays. The house was packed, fully 3,000 persons being present. The match was made by James E. Kinney, Walter C. Kelley, acted as referee, and Charley Mitchell as timekeeper.

Jenkins Won Two Falls.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 30.—Tom Jenkins won two out of three falls from Charles Wittmer, of Cincinnati, last night, at League Park. The contest involved the mixed style championship and a purse of $1500. The first fall was won by Jenkins in 15.28, the second by Wittmer in 21.48, and the third by Jenkins in 2 1-2 minutes.

ENTRIES FOR THE C.A.A.O. REGATTA.

THE LIST IS NOT A VERY ATTRACTIVE ONE.

Columbia Beat the Constitution Which Will Now Go Into Dock for An Overhauling—Columbia and Independence Will Race at the Newport Regatta.

TORONTO, July 30.—Mr. S. P. Grant, Secretary of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen, gave out last night the entries for the National regatta at Ottawa on August 3 and 5. There is nothing sensational in the entries. In the senior fours, two crews of the Argonauts, of this city, are the only entries. There should be a keen fight in the pair oars, senior, between Joe Wright and W. R. MacKenzie, of the Argonauts, and Walter Mower and D. B. Duffield, of the Detroit Boat Club. In the senior double sculls, the entries are: Argonaut, Toronto, Wm. Bright and J. C. Mason; Brockville Club, F. I. Ritchie, bow; E. Carr, stroke; Detroit Club, Walter Mower, bow; Divie B. Duffield, stroke; Don Club, Toronto, Lou Scholes, bow; Len Marsh, stroke; Torontos, E. J. Minett, bow; W. J. Nelson, stroke.

In the senior singles will appear W. Bright and J. C. Mason, of the Argonauts, and L. Marsh, Lou Scholes and W. Durnan, of the Dons, ensuring a great race. In the junior and intermediate single sculls, D. Scott and G. B. Green, of the Ottawas, are entered. The clubs competing in the various events will be: Junior single, Argonaut, Brockville, Don and Ottawa. Junior double sculls, Argonaut, Brockville, Don, Ottawa, and Toronto.

Junior fours, Argonauts, Brockville, Ottawa.

Intermediate singles, Ottawa and Toronto.

Intermediate fours, The Argonauts and Ottawas are the only entries, the crews being the same as in the junior fours.

Regatta at Ste. Anne.

Ste. Anne de Bellevue will be en fete on Saturday, August 3, when a regatta will be held, followed by a bounce-hop and fete de nuit.

The following will be among the events on the programme :

Sailing skiff race.
Flat bottom boat race.
Tandem canoe race.
Single canoe race.
Four in canoe race.
Double scull race.
Gasoline yacht race.
Swimming race.
Hurry scurry race.
Tub race.

Single Scull Championship.

TORONTO, July 30. — Thomas Sullivan and Geo. Towns, who sailed on the Allan liner Parisian, from Liverpool, on Thursday, go direct to Montreal, whence they will at once proceed to Rat Portage, where Towns is to race Gaudaur. They are accompanied by George Pierson, a New Zealander, who is somewhat of a sculler; and possibly Sullivan may try to get him a race with some Canadian sculler. Sullivan is bringing three boats with him, one of which is a double scull.

COLUMBIA DEFEATED THE CONSTITUTION.

The Old Defender Proved the Faster in the Contest for the Astor Cup.

NEW YORK, July 30.—The Columbia yesterday defeated the Constitution boat for boat, in a splendid race, by two minutes and 54 seconds, and won the $1,000 cup presented by Col. John Jacob Astor. Her victory was decisive and convincing. The behaviour of the Constitution, on the other hand, was disappointing in the extreme, and last evening Mr. Duncan announced that his boat would not take part in further races until her rig had been altered. He declared that the Constitution is not doing herself justice; that she is not going well, and that there is no use in racing her further until she is put in proper shape. The Constitution will not participate in the Newport yacht racing events of Thursday and Saturday of this week as a competitor of the Independence. The Columbia, however, has been entered for these races, and will sail against the Boston boat.

The Constitution will go to Bristol at once to have alterations made. If this change in the plans of the Constitution does not prevent, the next races in which she will start will take place over the Newport course on August 12 and 14. The regatta will be under the auspices of the New York Club. The races take the place of the postponed July series, and also of the annual sweepstakes, and will include all classes. Special cups will be offered for the 90 footers.

In one of these races the cup offered by Sir Thomas Lipton will be sailed for. The regular trial races for the purpose of selecting the defender of the America Cup will be held here on August 31, and September 1 and 3.

Cadillac Takes Seventh Race.

CHICAGO, July 30. — The Cadillac won the seventh trial race yesterday, beating the Illinois by one minute and five seconds over a 21-mile course. At the conclusion of the race, the judges announced that they considered the results so far obtained indecisive and ordered three more races. The race yesterday was triangular, seven miles to a leg.

Three Boats Even Up.

CHICAGO, July 30. — The Cup Committee in charge of the trial races for the selection of a defender for the Canada's Cup allowed the protest entered by the Illinois against the Cadillac. In consequence, Saturday's race, in which Cadillac crossed the line a few seconds ahead of Illinois, has been given to the latter yacht. This puts Illinois, Cadillac and Milwaukee on the same footing, having two victories to her credit. The seventh and deciding race of the series will be sailed to-morrow, the three boats only taking part.

THE TURF

AMERICAN TRACKS ARE TOO HARD NOW

AND INJURIOUS TO GOOD RACE HORSES.

Fine Trotting at Columbus, Ohio, on the Grand Circuit Yesterday—Himself, Winner of the Fifth Heat at Brighton Beach, Disqualified.

While the stockholders of the Brighton Beach Racing Association have no reason for anything else but congratulations among themselves on the healthy size of their prospective dividends, the meeting has, from a sporting standpoint, suffered greatly from the shipment of horses to Saratoga. There has been a steady deterioration in class, and the last week will, it must be feared, be a good deal worse than any that has gone before. Not that this makes much apparent difference to the public. Last Saturday showed the greediness for racing that is rampant most forcibly, for even with the cup race an absolute failure and the rest of the card most ordinary the crowd was of huge dimensions. With nearly a month's enforced abstinence from racing ahead of him the average New Yorker will be getting in as many days of racing as possible during the coming week.

To-morrow has the Montauk, which has a fair lot of two-year-olds eligible. On Thursday the Brighton Derby, at a mile and half, will be run, but unfortunately, though it is a $10,000 stake, the representation is likely to be of the poorest. The Parader, Bonnibert and Blues are not eligible, while Commando being on the shelf it looks as if Watercolour has something very like a mortgage on the money. The best of those he is likely to meet are Mortallo, All Green and Hand Work. Smile is presumably still on the ailing list, while Bellario, even if he were going as well as at any time this year, would hard ly be dangerous.

The last stake of the meeting is the Neptune, for two-year-olds, on Saturday. A number of those engaged have been shipped to the Spa already, but as the event is worth $5000, presumably enough horses to make up a field of some merit will be kept over for it.

While it was a thousand pities that the Brighton Cup was such a dismal failure, this was due solely to natural causes. To raise a howl because owners will not have their horses trained to go a cup course when these horses are laid by for good and sufficient reasons is absurd. Considering the tradition of dislike to sending horses over long distances that was growing on us up to a few years ago, the history of the Brighton Cup and such other events of the same character as have been instituted has been successful.

As to what has caused the large amount of trouble with our horses there seems to be only one opinion among the trainers. Our track superintendents have gone from one extreme to the other. Whereas a few years ago they had their tracks perniciously deep and so calculated to put an undue strain on a horse's tendons, they now have them so flinty hard that unless a horse has extraordinary strong and healthy feet he can stand but little galloping on them. At Sheepshead Bay this was particularly the case. Rowe had five horses go lame in his stable in one week, and the complaints were general. That such talk is not exaggerated any man can see for himself, for this spring the Sheepshead Bay track was more like a macadamized road than the usual conception of a dirt race track, and the noise of the horses galloping fully carried out this idea. It is to be hoped that Superintendent Clarke will have some of the "bone" out of it by the fall meeting.

THE RACING AT THE BEACH.

NEW YORK, July 30.—A good-sized crowd was on hand at Brighton Beach yesterday and saw three odds-on favourites go down to defeat, and the disqualification of Himself, winner of the fifth, for alleged foul. Himself, after running second to Malden to the stretch in the fifth, came on and won easily, but the stewards allowed O'Connor's claim of foul and disqualified the winner. James J. Trotting at Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 30.—The Columbus Grand Circuit races opened auspiciously at the Driving Park yesterday afternoon, with fair weather, a good crowd, and some excellent racing. The 2.14 pace was the first race on the programme, and 13 side-wheelers answered the bell. Martha Marshall, driven by Andy McDowell, was installed favourite at $25 to $20 for the field. Captain Sphinx won the first heat in a drive from Winfield Stratton and Martha Marshall. The favourite took the next two heats, pacing the second in 2.07¼, reducing her record a full second. In the fourth and fifth she caused trouble while scoring, and got away badly each time, giving Nouamie and Shecan a chance for a heat each. Only the four heat winners appeared for the sixth heat, and Martha Marshall stepped to the front at once and kept her position to the wire, though hard pressed by Shecan in the stretch.

The 2.23 trot was a disappointment, in that it had only four starters. Country Jay was looked upon as a sure winner, but May Allen, an Indianapolis mare, took his measure, out-trotting him and winning three straight heats. The last race was a gift to Dan Patch, the handsome son of old Joe Patchen, who easily beat his field, and was never forced to the top speed. Summary:

TO SEE A SPANISH GAME YET NEW HERE

TO INTRODUCE PELOTA, NATIONAL PASTIME OF DONS.

Is Now Very Popular in Cuba and Being Not Unlike Irish Handball, Its Origin is Traced to France's Famous "Jeu de Paume" the Game of Kings.

NEW YORK, July 30.—Senor Galbis, a Havana lawyer, has been sent to America by various Spanish merchants, to make arrangements for introducing the national Spanish game of ball in the United States and Canada, and to erect a "fronton," a wall from which the ball rebounds, near Central Park.

In Havana a fronton and court have been built at a cost of $100,000, and formally blessed by the Archbishop. To most Americans the fact that Cubans cling to the national ball game of Spain will be a disappointment, for the possibility of Americanizing Cuba through the kindly influence of American baseball has vanished. Great crowds go to see the game in Havana, and it has created a large amount of interest throughout the entire island of Cuba.

Pelota, as this game of ball is called, has its own peculiarities, and has existed for many centuries in Spain. It is no more purely Spanish, however, than baseball is purely American. The latter can be traced to an English ancestry somewhere during the thirteenth or fourteenth century, and the former was evolved from the "jeu de paume" of France, famous as a game of tremendous historical importance. In its turn, also, "jeu de paume" resembles closely the Irish game of handball, and the old English play of fives.

GAME PLAYED IN HAVANA.

To introduce the pastime an exhibition game was played in the new fronton of Havana by Basque professionals, called "pelotaris." As given in despatches, the dimensions of the Havana court are considerably larger than those usual in Spain, the latter being about 30 by 200 feet. The court itself is rectangular in shape. The two lesser sides are formed by the walls against which the ball is played, the third side is closed by another wall, and the fourth is left open for spectators. At this point a large grand stand has been erected. Two horizontal iron strips, four and thirty-four feet from the ground respectively, are fastened upon the shorter walls. These mark the limits of play. The balls used are small, elastic, and exceedingly hard.

What gives the Spanish game its odd character is the propelling implements, somewhat similar to a tennis racquet, which it employs. It is a curious spoon-like affair of wickerwork, is slightly curved at one end and fastened securely to the hand by a glove. Another peculiarity is the way in which the game is opened. Turning his back to the wall at which he aims, the pelotari strikes the ball with a backward swing from the hollow of his racquet.

METHOD OF SCORING.

Every failure of one side or the other to return the ball on the rebound to the walls between the iron strips scores a point for its opponents. Fifty points make a game.

Pelota is regularly played with two on a side. As a rule, the fashionable dress of pelota enthusiasts consists of loose white duck trousers and a shirt waist of some bright colour, each side wearing suits of different hue. In recognition of the game's origin, the head covering of the players is called a "boynia," which is a Spanish cap brilliantly coloured, like a Tam o'Shanter, but without the ribbons.

Won the Ninth.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 30.—"Young" Peter Jackson, the California coloured lad won from "Jimmy" Handler, of Newark, N. J., last night in the ninth round of the fiercest slugging match ever held in Baltimore. The contest was to have gone 20 rounds.

CONDENSED

The Point St. Charles Football Club will practice on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 6.30, and Saturday afternoons at 3.30, on the club grounds, Queen's Park.

The members and players of the Montreal Football Club are requested to attend practice to-night at the grounds. It is imperative that there be a large turnout as the committee will meet afterwards to choose the team to represent Montreal against Lachine in the final for the Caledonia Cup.

The third race of the series of this season's sailing skiff races for the Fortier trophy took place on the Richelieu under the patronage of the St. Johns Yacht Club. The three boats, Gazelle, Canadian and Dina, entered the race. The Gazelle started first, and kept its lead to the end of six miles. The first buoy at the first mile was rounded by the Gazelle with one-eighth of a mile leading the Dina, and one-quarter of a mile the Canadian, but the Gazelle gradually increased its lead until the finish, with 8 minutes 37 seconds ahead of the Dina and 9 minutes 3 seconds of the Canadian. The series will be continued during August. Three out of five races of the series has to be won by one boat to win the season's race. The Gazelle is the only boat till now who has one season's races to its credit.

Chicago Won at Whist.

MILWAUKEE, July 30.—Chicago carried off the honours in the first day's tournament of the American Whist League by capturing the Brooklyn trophy. It required but four rounds to arrive at decision, Chicago winning four rounds in succession. Six teams were entered for the events, made up of auxiliary associations affiliated with the league. The participants in this contest were as follow : New York, Chicago, Michigan, Atlantic Association, Wisconsin and Northwestern.

IT IS EASY WORK

when you are well, to rub and scrub, but when the back aches and the head throbs, a woman's work is hourly torment.

No woman can be strong and healthy of body who is the victim of those womanly diseases which are often responsible for feminine sufferings. Women who have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of diseases of the womanly organs, say that work doesn't tire them any more. "Favorite Prescription" regulates the periods, dries enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription," neither opium, cocaine or any other narcotic.

"I had poor health for nine years (ever since the birth of my child)," writes Mrs. Armintie Watkins, of Acme, Kanawha Co., W. Va. "Had female weakness, was very irregular and would suffer untold misery. Our family doctor did not do me any good and I concluded to write to you. When I wrote I had no idea that I would ever get well, but when your letter reached me I began to have hope. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's medicines as directed and began to improve in strength. I was soon able to do the work for my family of six. I think there never were such medicines in the world. I took eight bottles, three of 'Favorite Prescription' and five of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two vials of 'Pellets.'"

SEAWANHAKA CUP; HOW IT WAS KEPT.

Senneville Was Too Much for Greyfriar in the Last Race Also—Mr. Currie, His Boat and Crew Will Now Sail the White Bears at St. Paul—The White Bears Have Again Challenged for Cup.

The Seawanhaka Cup is still ours.

The fifth attempt to wrest it from us, thanks to the designing skill of Mr. George Herrick Duggan, and the excellent seamanship of our Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club sailors, has proven abortive.

Of the losers nothing but good can be said. That they were sportsmen of the first water was shown by their manner in crossing the sea to take part in a struggle in which they knew that on account of their unfamiliarity with the surroundings, they would be handicapped to a certain extent. Their stay here and the manner in which they have waged the nautical battle has gained them the friendship of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club sailors, and their respect, as sportsmen worthy of their best endeavours.

It is unfortunate that they will have to leave the Lake, unsatisfied to a degree, because they have been unable to try their boat against ours in a heavy breeze, and none are more sorry for this than our own sailors.

GREYFRIAR GOES TO ST. PAUL.

There was a proposition on the part of Mr. Currie to have the Senneville and the Greyfriar raced against one another, each in charge of Canadian crews, for the purpose, if possible, of showing which boat was the best, on the assumption that the management of the boats would be more equal in a case like that. Although our sailors would do almost anything to oblige the visitors, the proposition when thought over carefully, was found to be not feasible, and as Mr. Clarke of the White Bear Club of St. Paul, Minn., promised solemnly to arrange for a big blow on the White Bear Lake, Mr. Currie decided to abandon his first idea, and to take a little trip, with his crew, bag, baggage and all, which in this case comprises a forty-six feet o.a. sailing yacht with all the necessary rigging, and a rigger to look after it, with a valet thrown in, to look after the rigging of himself and crew.

Those White Bears, by the way, are wonders. They tried to bring their boat down here to sail the Greyfriar, and when they found out for various reasons that this would be impossible, they sent a delegation composed of Mr. Douglass and Mr. Clarke to try and see if they could not get Mr. Currie to bring his boat up to the White Bear Lake. Mr. Douglass was obliged to leave for home on Saturday, but he left Mr. Clarke behind, and the latter did not give Mr. Currie any rest, till the latter agreed to go West.

TWO WHITE BEAR CHALLENGES.

Not only was this Mr. Clarke's mission, but he was secretly instructed to remain till the races were concluded in one way or another, and had been provided it seems with two challenges, which he constantly kept in his two respective coat pockets, the one on the port side being for the Island Sailing Club, and the one on the starboard side being for the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club. The latter was duly presented to the officers of the home club as soon as he could get off the Wildrose, which was being used as an official boat, and reach any of them.

As to a race between a boat from his club, and the Greyfriar, Mr. Currie kept him on tenterhooks till just before the race started. It was evidently not till late in the morning, that Mr. Currie became convinced, that his idea of a race between the boats, with Canadian crews could not be arranged, and as he was manoeuvering for the start, he saw Mr. Clarke on the Wildrose, and shouted out to him, "I will go to St. Paul." From that moment Mr. Clarke was on pins and needles till he could get hold of the Star boat, when he asked the latter to inform Mr. Ordway, of the White Bear Yacht Club as soon as possible by wire of Mr. Currie's decision. This decision was final and reiterated by Mr. Currie when the race was over and his chances on the cup were gone

Mr. Duggan as usual had very little to say. He looked pleased, however, and remarked. "The only thing that I am sorry for is that we could not have furnished them with the heavy wind that they have been longing for so much."

Mr. Currie was seen after the race while he was changing from his working duds into his gala uniform, in his sleeping quarters in the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club house. What he said was:

"I must reiterate that we have never since we arrived here had the heavy wind we wanted. Our boat was not built for light weather, and, therefore, we have been in hard luck. As to our treatment by the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club, it has far exceeded our expectations. We are glad we came, and although we lost, the trip to Montreal has paid for itself. We expect to have some more good fun when we go to visit the White Bears at St. Paul. We will spend Tuesday night in town, and probably leave on Wednesday morning. Mr. Clarke has promised us a blow, and that is what we want."

WHITE BEARS WILL BE GLAD.

Mr. Clarke said: "I am more than glad that I have been able to convince Mr. Currie that it would be interesting for him to visit St. Paul, and that we really have some good blows on the White Bear Lake. The White Bears and all the yachtsmen will be immensely pleased. In all probability, Dr. McLaren's Highlander, or Mr. Grigg's Minnazitka will be selected to sail against the Greyfriar."

One remarkable feature about the races of this year was the continual changing of the crews on the Canadian boat, and the fact that in addition to Mr. Duggan, Messrs. Routh and Shearwood, for the first time, handled the stick in an international race, for the Seawanhaka Cup. The crews were at different times composed of Messrs. Duggan, Routh, Shearwood, Ross, Angus, Davidson, and Macdonald.

The work of the judges, Messrs. Ward-Humphries, Phillips and Stephens, was most satisfactory to the competitors, and the officers of the club did all they could to make the series a success.

The last race of the series for the defence of the cup was sailed yesterday under the most favourable conditions of any of the championship races this season. The wind was fairly strong during the entire afternoon, only dying down a few times, and that not for long. It held true, too, save for the shifts which took place before the boats had completed the first round. One of these shifts was very much against Greyfriar, while the other was slightly in her favour.

Owing to the wind being from the east at the time the race was started, the course was laid out directly down the lake, so that the full two miles could be included in each leg. The lower St. Claire buoy marked the turning point, the starting line being placed two miles up the lake in order to have the first leg of the course a beat to windward.

A considerable delay took place before the judges had completed the arrangements for the start. At this time the sun was very strong and its glare caused a reflection upon the water, which made it extremely difficult to watch the manoeuvres for more than a short time at a stretch. The wind blew the sounds of the signals away from the shore, and they could not be heard, so that the only warning was the sight of the steam as it issued from the whistles. As a matter of fact, the Star was the only paper which succeeded in getting the start correctly.

GREYFRIAR STARTS FIRST.

The signal was given at 2.25, and Greyfriar got away first. She only held this position for a few minutes, however, for by the time the racers had got well clear of the fleet, Senneville had worked out into the windward position, and was leading. From this out, she remained ahead, though several times on the first leg it looked as if Greyfriar would be able to hold her pretty well to the first buoy. In this case she should have been able to finish the first leg ahead, as her speed before the wind was almost invariably greater than Senneville's. At first Senneville drew ahead pretty rapidly. Both boats held along on the starboard tack till off the bay above Nun's point. Then they went over to port and for a few moments Greyfriar moved much more rapidly than Senneville. Both boats then went back to the starboard tack.

The boats were now off Nun's Point and Greyfriar was doing better windward work than usual. Just below the point she went about to the port tack and was followed a moment later by Senneville, which for the moment did not appear to be doing as good work as Greyfriar. At this point the latter did not appear to be more than a few hundred yards behind Senneville, with the turning buoy less than a mile away.

GREYFRIAR MEETS REVERSE.

Greyfriar now went off to leeward rapidly and met with a most unaccountable loss before making up with the buoy. Even the shift of wind which presently took place and went dead against her, would hardly account for the fact that Senneville was able to round 5.02 ahead of her.

Senneville was able to carry a spinnaker for some time after rounding. It was run up rapidly and was drawing in 25 sec., but the position it occupied forward showed that it was difficult to carry it. In fact, before Greyfriar succeeded in making the mark it had to be taken in and for a time Senneville went along under her balloon jib. Greyfriar evidently got the wind more favourably, almost for the first time during the races, for she was able to carry her spinnaker right from the buoy for a mile and a half up the lake.

A SHIFTY WIND.

Meantime Senneville made another attempt to carry larger head sails and at last proceeded under her little spinnaker. When about half a mile from the end of the first round she took this in also and completed the leg under her working jib. Greyfriar, also, when about half a mile from the end of the leg had to take down her spinnaker and travel under her working jib. She, however, gained 47 seconds on this leg.

The leg down the lake, which at the outset had been a heat dead to windward, was now a close haul, or perhaps a little freer. At any rate, the boats only required to stand upon the one tack to make it. The wind came over their starboard bows out of the S. E. and although it was quite light they made good time.

Senneville took exactly 20 minutes to travel the leg, Greyfriar requiring 2.35 longer was consequently 6.50 behind, though the race was only half over.

From this out, however, Greyfriar gained on every leg. Both boats carried balloon jibs on the leg for the home buoy, the course being now a reach. Greyfriar was able to clip off 15 seconds by the time she had rounded the 8 mile buoy. Both boats then held down the lake, on the previous round, on the starboard tack.

SENNEVILLE OVERSTANDS.

Senneville now made an unaccountable move. She carried on past the buoy some considerable distance, probable for a minute. At first it looked as though she had met with a shift of wind which compelled her to stand on the port tack before making the buoy, but this explanation was hardly admissible when it was seen that upon going about on the port tack she hoisted her balloon jib. It was afterwards explained that she had mistaken another buoy for the turning one. At any rate, Greyfriar was enabled to gain 8 sec. on this leg though she had lost 2.35 on it in the previous round. She made the buoy on the one tack, still 6.27 behind.

Senneville was now a good half mile ahead, she having at one time led by about three quarters of a mile.

On this leg, the last one of the race, Greyfriar made her greatest gain of the day. She may possibly have brought along a better wind but in any case she gained 1.31 on Senneville, finishing 4.56 behind. This was 8 sec. less than she lost on the first leg of the course when she got the shift of wind against her.

SENNEVILLE WINS CUP.

Senneville won the cup at 4.52.42, official time, Greyfriar finishing at 4.37.38.

Both crews received a splendid ovation from all the boats on the course. A start was then made for the club house and in an hour or two Greyfriar was completely dismantled and almost ready to go aboard the car for the struggle with the sporting White Bears of St. Paul.

The crews were: — Senneville — Fred. Shearwood, at the helm; J. K. L. Ross, main sheet; G. H. Duggan and Thornton Davidson, forward; and Cecil Gordon. Greyfriar — Marmaduke Pike, steering; Lorne Currie, mainsheet; A. Maudsley and Fletcher Forward. The judges were Mr. W. P. Stephens, of New York, selected by the two competing clubs; Mr. Ward-Humphreys, of the Island Sailing Club, and Mr. W. Q. Phillips, of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club.

ANOTHER FISH FOR HIS STRING.

UNCLE SAMUEL—"Say, John, Our Bait's No Good and We Don't Know How to Fish."

University Instruction in Municipal Government.

In a special report of the United States "National Municipal League Committee," is an article upon the important subject of "University Instruction in Municipal Government." In the article the argument is put forth by the writer, James T. Young, Ph. D., of the University of Philadelphia, that so important have become municipal affairs for the public weal that there should be special chairs endowed in all universities to give instruction on municipal matters.

There should also be a fund for the encouragement of the study of municipal problems; and there should be a standard of instruction upon municipal government, which should reach the entire country.

The article takes up the burning subject as to how far the Legislatures should interfere in municipal matters. This subject is of much interest to Montreal citizens on account of the way the Legislature has, during the past few years, given electric light, gas, and other companies the right to tear up the streets and to use them in other ways without saying "by your leave," to the corporation.

The following is the article:

The necessity for university instruction in municipal affairs has received tardy recognition in most modern countries. When in 1894 the first American lectureship on municipal government was established at the University of Pennsylvania, under the direction of Professor L. S. Rowe, the subject had been treated in only a few books on government and was generally regarded as an unknown and forbidden field. The consensus of opinion at that time was admirably summed up in Mr. Bryce's well-known sentence, "The government of cities is the one conspicuous failure of the United States." Nor is the subject given that attention even at the present time which its importance warrants. The statistical results contained in the valuable and interesting report of the committee are somewhat flattering. The distinguished chairman of the committee has pointed out that many colleges returned answers stating that they had separate courses on municipal government when there was reason to suspect that the expression "course in municipal government" had been most liberally used. Yet separate courses dealing with municipal affairs are necessary if we are to secure for the subject a fair and adequate share of public attention. At the present time the various studies which make up the college curriculum are in a state of keen competition with each other and so long as we are content to see city conditions discussed incidentally as a subordinate part of a general course on government, we need expect no great development of municipal studies. What is most needed at present is the endowment of special chairs or lectureships on this subject.

When we consider the proportion of political, administrative, economic and social questions which have their foundation in city life, and which are inextricably bound up with distinctly urban conditions, it must be confessed that the relative importance of courses upon municipal affairs has not been realized. Let us take for example half a dozen modern questions at random in the fields named, questions which are in the forefront of public discussion at the present time, such as public charities, public health, transportation, or the various questions which are gathered together under the labour problem. Here we have philanthropy, administrative organization, medical science and general economics all represented, yet each one of the questions named arises from, and must find its solution in a distinctively urban environment. We have courses in sociology in nearly all our colleges and universities, courses in economics, in government and administration and in finance. Why not devote at least one special and distinct course to that set of conditions which lies at the foundation of so many of the problems dealt with under the other departments.

A second thought suggested by the returns from our colleges in answer to the committee's circular is that we have devoted our attention too exclusively to government, to mere administrative machinery. We have divorced the mechanism of city government too much from the social and economic conditions underlying it, and have given too little study to the fundamental aspects of municipal life. In our anxiety to learn the details of municipal administration, we are in danger of neglecting the objects of administration. Is it conceivable that any one should study intelligently all the intricate parts of a machine without first understanding clearly the purpose for which it is used? Should we not lay special emphasis upon the peculiar conditions of modern city life, even at the risk of neglecting the description of some detail of administrative machinery?

To be more explicit in the statement of our present tendency, it may be said that we lay great emphasis upon the central fact in modern municipal organization — the concentration of power in the hands of the mayor. We mention in passing that this is caused by the demand for a more definite responsibility, and then we proceed to the detailed study of this peculiar system of organization. But on examination it must be evident that this concentration of power is intimately bound up with certain fundamental conditons of modern urban life. We find that every organization, whether it be church of sporting club, requires a certain fund of energy to run the machinery of its government. If all the members can contribute a small amount of energy and attention the governmental power is divided rather evenly among the members. If anything occure to diminish the available quota of time given by each member, then a concentration of power in the hands of a few is inevitable. The less the interest of members, the greater the concentration of power necessary. Furthermore, the amount of power devolving upon the association influences directly the degree of concentration in the government. If the functions are comparatively limited the government is likely to be democratic in substance; but if the powers increase to such an extent as to make it impossible for the individual members to carry on or supervise directly the business of the organization, the concentration of power in the hands of the few again results.

Now these principles are seen in the operation of business corporations, clubs and associations as well as in political governments of whatever description. If anything occurs to diminish the amount of time which citizens will spend upon city government, or to increase the functions of the city beyond the control of its citizens we may expect a concentration of power. It is, therefore, of the highest importance in studying municipal government to consider not alone the fact of concentration but to discover what the conditions are which attract the citizen's attention away from politics and lessen his interest in governmental affairs. If these forces be permanent in their character, then we may expect a permanent change in the organization of our governments. If the forces are only temporary, then we may diagnose the conditions with entirely different results.

Another example of the exclusive attention paid to the mere machinery of municipal government is seen in our discussions of Municipal Home Rule. The question of how far our cities should be controlled by the state administration is a highly complex one. It involves the additional inquiry, Which branches of city government should be subject to state control? Should it be the schools, the police, the health bureau, the franchise-granting power, the finances, the method of accounting, the street-paving or the elections? In nearly all of these we already have state legislation but the question is, shall state administrative officials supervise the city's activity along these lines? The solution of this problem can only be secured after a most careful examination of the influence which the city exerts upon the state at large. In the measure that the education, the health and the crime of the city reach out beyond the municipal limits and directly affect the conditions of the surrounding country, just in the same measure should the state administration be in a position to control city conditons or to hold the city authorities up to a fixed standard of efficiency. In the arrangement of our municipal studies we should, therefore, pay particular attention to the powerful, one might almost say the controlling influence exerted by the city upon the state as a whole. Every agency of city influence, whether it be a suburban trolley road or a daily newspaper should be carefully studied in its relation to this question. We shall then be in a position to consider intelligently the arrangement of administrative machinery best adapted for state control.

In brief, we should devote more and more study to those peculiar economic conditions in our cities which so directly influence the thought of the people respecting government. In this connection it is highly important for such an organization as the National Municipal League to encourage by every means in its power the investigation of the economic basis of political reform movements, of those underlying conditions which cause municipal reforms to succeed or fail. We have passed beyond the stage where we might be satisfied with the explanation that such and such a movement could or could not secure enough votes to succeed, or that such and such a man led the movement in one case and did not in another. We are slowly coming to the conclusion that there are certain definite circumstances under which nearly every movement for change and improvement is bound to fail: that there are other conditions of an economic character which lead very rapidly to the formation of a distinct municipal patriotism. It is this side of municipal life which has perhaps been neglected hitherto and which, notwithstanding, offers the most fruitful field for investigation at the present time.

In order to avoid innocuous generalities, let us outline more particularly the relation between what have here been called the primary, fundamental conditions of urban life and the general progress of municipal government. To begin with, the central fact of urban life is the physical phenomenon of a dense population. Whether we call this propinquity or physical contiguity, or what not, we find that it is the starting point of all distinctively urban influences. It is caused by commerce and manufactures, as has been so admirably shown by Mr. A. F. Weber in his valuable book on the "Growth of Cities." From this density of population, from the frequent contact of man with man, there results first of all contagion,—contagion of disease, contagion of thought. If we contrast the rural with the urban environment it is seen that the rural is, by reason of the lack of frequent contact, perhaps more favourable to independent meditation, reflection or generation of thought, whereas the communication of thought is most easily executed in the urban environment. Again, the frequent contact with a dense population produces a quick, nervous temperament. Conditions are not only more favourable in a general way to the communication of thought, but even under similar conditions, thought is, by reason of our greater nervousness, more rapidly and habitually communicated in the city than in the country. There arises a new psychic type of human being, possessing a much greater susceptibility to influence from other human beings, nervous, impatient, irritable, at times almost ecstatic or hysterical, one who depends for stimulus habitually upon his social surroundings. The impatience, the nervousness, the irritability of the urbanite explain, at least in part, the violence, the intolerance, the periodicity, the temporary character of anti-vice crusades and reform movements generally. These facts also explain why that gigantic turning of the world upon its mental axis, which we call the social movement, has taken place primarily in the cities. If man is a social animal the urban man is a socialistic animal. To the destiny of population and the frequent contact of individuals we must also trace the rapid development of modern reform movements of all kinds and the growth of liberty in the fifteenth, sixteenth and seventeenth centuries as a pre-eminently commercial or city phenomenon, in which the cities bought and paid cash for their liberty, while the country districts were yet unacquainted with the word. In the face of this immense field for the investigation of the primary conditions of city life it seems almost like a travesty upon teaching to direct our attention exclusively to the mere mechanism of city government.

Finally, the report brings to mind the necessity of encouraging independent research in municipal questions by affording an opportunity for immediate publication to such writings as are meritorious in character. There should be a considerable fund devoted to the publication of valuable monographs in this field and no organization is better adapted to the establishment of such a fund than the National Municipal League. Such a set of publications would probably be more widely read and more easily supported financially than any other printed matter now dealing with political or social science.

To sum up briefly the conclusions suggested by the valuable report of the committee on instruction in municipal government, it should be said, first, respecting the substance of instruction, that more attention ought to be paid to—

(a) Causes of municipal growth,
(b) Analysis of urban psychology,
(c) Urban social conditions,
(d) Urban economics.

Second, with respect to the method of instruction, it appears desirable, wherever possible, to recognize the great importance of municipal questions by establishing separate courses of instruction in the subject. To this end an organized effort should be made to—

(a) Endow separate chairs or lectureships in municipal or urban science,

(b) Establish some general publication fund for the encouragement of a series of monographs upon special subjects dealing with urban conditions,

(c) The National Municipal League should seek, through the activities of its various committees, to establish and maintain a standard of instruction throughout the country, and should encourage and guide the investigations of students into the most profitable fields of research.

BLIND TYPISTS.

Remunerative Means of Employment.

(From the London Daily Mail.)

It may seem strange to the fortunate sighted people that the blind should be able not only to write shorthand, but to manipulate a typewriter with perfect ease and considerable speed.

Yet this is the case, and there are already several blind typewriters' offices, where authors' MSS., letters, circulars and general copying are attended to by sightless operators.

The shorthand is taken down on a special machine, which embosses in the "Braille" system of "dots." There are only six type keys and a spacing key. The matter is recorded on a roll of tape-like paper, which travels along automatically into a basket, somewhat after the manner of the ordinary "tape" machine.

With the aid of the machine verbatim reports can be taken down at as high a speed as 140 words a minute, and thus a very remunerative and pleasant means of employment is afforded for the blind.

The transcribing is done with any typewriter, the user having once mastered the position of the keys. There is, however, an attachment for those who are deaf as well as blind, to indicate with the end of a line is near. Instead of the usual "tinkle," a wire is so fixed that it falls on the fingers, no matter in what part of the keyboard the hands may be.

The London Society for Teaching the Blind have recently made a feature of this shorthand machine in their institution. A blind clerk has been instructed in the new system, and has already done some good work.

A Daily Mail representative saw the blind typist yesterday at his work. He is twenty years of age, and has been blind from birth. Although it is less than a year since he first began, he has already attained a speed of 75 words a minute. The sample of typewriting which he submitted was perfect as regards clearness, correct spelling, and even spacing.

STRANGE STORY OF MEXICO.

An extraordinary story of an Englishman's treatment in Mexico is told in the Cornish Post, published at Chamborne.

Mr. Godfrey Vivian, a native of that town, after spending his Christmas holidays at home, returned to Mexico for the purpose of winding up his affairs, having arranged to settle in Cornwall. All went well until one eventful day when his valet committed suicide by shooting himself outside the house near Pachuaca. Mr. Vivian was arrested, and underwent a preliminary trial on the charge of murder. There were several witnesses to prove his innocence; but on one pretext or another they were not allowed to be heard. The authorities held that one being an Englishman "would be sure to lie." Another being only twenty years old, was legally an "infant." Mr. Vivian's protests were of no avail; he was refused bail and told that he would probably be shot. Ultimately the British Consul, Captain Frank Rule, contrived, in some way not yet explained, to get Mr. Vivian released, and the young Cornishman lost no time in getting out of the country.

Mr. Vivian had had two narrow escapes in Mexico. He was fired at one night while on horseback; and on another occasion was shot in the thigh in the strong room of a bank by robbers.

A MERCHANT TAILOR.

Robert Custor, 64 York St., Hamilton, Heartily Endorses Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Another witness to the many thousands already enrolled on the side of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets is Robert Custor, the well-known merchant tailor, of 64 York street, Hamilton.

All over Canada Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have a reputation unequalled by any other dyspepsia remedy. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are the most successful treatment for Dyspepsia before the public at the present day, and have been since their first coming on the market, several years ago.

It is remarkable how many people in this country seem to have troubles of digestion, and it is no less remarkable to note the astonishing number who have ended their Stomach troubles by the use of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are an absolutely harmless compound of pepsin, diastase and other natural digestants, mixed in sugar. But they act so perfectly on the food in the stomach, they do their work so thoroughly, that the actual process of digestion is gone through, utterly independent of the stomach.

This rational, sensible way of treating Dyspepsia insures the nourishment of the body and all the blessings of well-digested food, while it at the same time allows the tired, over-worked Stomach the rest it must have to grow strong and healthy once more. People who have used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are the people who have the warmest praise for them.

"I was troubled for three years," writes Mr. Robert Custor, of Hamilton, "with Dyspepsia and Heartburn, and could get no relief. I was persuaded to try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and as long as I live I'll be thankful that I did so. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets proved a blessing to me, and I endorse them with all my heart."

BRITISH LIBERALS.

One result of the renewed split among the groups which now form the Liberal party of Great Britain has been to infuse new bitterness into the relations between those Liberal Unionists—who, up to 1886, constituted the backbone of the Gladstone following—and those former colleagues who once thought a reconciliation possible. The Duke of Devonshire and Mr. Chamberlain have been given vent to some very plain post prandial speaking. The Duke, who, as Lord Hartington, held the leadership of the united Liberal and Radical forces during Mr. Gladstone's temporary retirement —1874-1880 — reminded his parliamentary supporters that when he joined the ranks of Liberalism, nearly 50 years ago, Lord John Russell, Palmerston, Gladstone, Clarendon, Sidney Herbert, Cobden and Bright, were its leaders, and that of the prominent men who survived in 1886—Mr. Bright, Charles Villiers and the Duke of Argyll —refused to follow Mr. Gladstone in his new departure upon Irish policy and were supported in their determination by the flower of the younger generation of Liberalism, in the persons of Mr. Forster, Mr. Goschen, Mr. Chamberlain and Sir Henry James, whom he claimed were shining lights in comparison with Lord Granville, Sir William Harcourt and the men who made up Mr. Gladstone's short-lived Cabinet of February-August, 1886.

Mr. Chamberlain, at the same Liberal Unionist banquet, held on July 11, made an interesting revelation which has attracted much comment in Britain. He said:

"It was while I was still a member of what was subsequently known as the Home Rule Government of 1886, and when our discussion upon the immediate subject was over I ventured to say to him, 'Mr. Gladstone, I suppose you are now conducting that enquiry into the demands of the Irish members which you have undertaken to make! I do not know at what conclusion you will arrive, but I think it my duty to tell you what is my honest and sincere conviction if you should decide to introduce a measure to establish a separate Parliament in Ireland. You will be beaten in the House of Commons and you will be beaten in the country.' Mr. Gladstone said to me, with all that emphasis which we remember when he was interested in the subject, 'I shall never go to the country upon this subject. I do not know at what conclusion—I have not made up my mind—I ought to arrive. But if it should be the one you indicate I will put my views and propositions before the House of Commons and accept their decision. But I would never appeal to the country on such a matter. I would not take that responsibility, knowing it would break up the Liberal party, that it would dissolve old friendships and be a calamity.' Six weeks afterwards he dissolved Parliament upon that question. I am not for a moment suggesting any blame to him or that he was not absolutely within his right in changing his opinion. He had persuaded himself that righteousness was on his side, and he was grievously deceived by his advisers as to the opinion both of the House of Commons and of the country. But in taking that fatal step he did do those things which he deprecated and was the first to foresee: he did break up the Liberal party."

A perusal of the speeches made by Mr. Asquith, Sir Vernon Harcourt, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman and other prominent members of the Opposition, since the conclusion of the truce under which the last-named gentleman continues the titular leadership, makes it perfectly plain that the arrangement arrived at would cease to be effective the moment any one of these gentlemen had to construct among themselves a Cabinet to administer the affairs of the Empire. So long as they are on the Opposition benches, the milk and water pact may hold good, because their first duty is to criticise. The men who agree with the foreign policy of the Ministry may limit their attacks to domestic matters and vice versa.

Mr. Isaac Ford speaks in the New York Tribune of Lord Rosebery's isolation, ridiculing his statement, that he will be content to "plough his own furrow" until others follow him, but Lord Rosebery has to-day as large a personal following as either Mr. Asquith, Sir Vernon Harcourt, Mr. Morley, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman or any other possible Liberal Premier, and is, moreover, a far more striking figure in the public eye. Mr. Ford and his kind forget that we live in an age when "measures not men" has ceased to be the great rallying cry of Liberalism anywhere. The extent of the following of the successful political leader depends upon his personal magnetism, or his "sunny ways," and Lord Rosebery is more magnetic and "sunny" than any one of his Liberal rivals. We may also point out that the British—in contrast with the United States public—want something more than political eminence from their Premiers; they must have other attractions.

Palmerston was a wit and a sportsman; Disraeli shone in literature as well as in Parliament; Gladstone was a connoisseur in old china, an eminent scholar, a theologian, as well as a great financier. The fact that Lord Rosebery has won two Derbies and is a prominent figure outside the political world, makes him more popular with the masses than all the Asquiths, on the one hand, and the Campbell-Bannermans, upon the other. Indeed, it is Mr. Morley and Lord Rosebery who are to-day the most prominent figures in the disunited party which calls itself Liberal.

It is hopeless to expect its return to power until the issues raised by the war are settled.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman seems to have an idea that the Boers in South Africa are a majority of the white population, and likely to increase that majority. Even this would be no excuse, on Liberal principles, for handing over South Africa to the Boers, for the black races have rights and claims on the people of Great Britain, and especially on the Liberal party, which decreed their freedom from slavery, that cannot be ignored, and the black races are as five to one of the whites. Before the war there was no such preponderance of the Boers, however, as Sir Henry suggests. Ignorance of facts is a fatal defect in a leader.

Some people named Jieseje, two others named Scrindinguch and a lady named Pippul were out driving together near Chicago, when there was a runaway accident, and damages will probably flow therefrom. They probably tried to call each other by name under the influence of the air, and then the horses realized the unspeakable load they were expected to carry and bolted in terror from the awful aggregation.

The Hartford Times has discovered that bathing produces hiccoughs. Exactly why no one has yet determined, but it seems that the summer girl is threatened with such a plague, for a number of cases have been reported, some of them quite serious. The hiccoughs seem to attack the bathers just as they leave the water. Now, it strangely happens that in this part of the country it has been discovered that yacht racing produces hiccoughs. It seems principally to attack the spectators, but it was not generally believed that it was water they had been leaving last.

The London Sportsman refers to Rat Portage, where there is to be an international boat race, as a place in Wisconsin. The London Daily News, the Pro-Boer collector of any unconsidered trifle of an anti-British character, has a letter from a correspondent complaining that the volunteers for Baden-Powell's South African Constabulary are being recruited in Canada through "a war fever which has been created by misrepresentation and ignorance." The Daily News heads the letter "U. S. A. Constabulary." When the proposal was made to offer prizes in the schools of England for knowledge on Canadian subjects there was an objection raised. A knowledge of geography might unfit a man as a farm labourer (as was feared), but it should not damage him as an editor.

Yesterday there was the remarkable scene at El Reno, of a government disposing by a drawing for of some thirteen thousand free homesteads in Oklahoma. Over a hundred thousand applicants had registered in advance of the drawing, some of them suffering the greatest torture with the intense heat and all submitting to hardship and privation to be on hand and get one of the chances. While this is going on, Canada has millions of acres of still ungranted lands with a fertility and excellent climatic conditions, such as would make Oklahoma hide its diminished head in shame. If those who join these rushes for the very few remaining acres the United States has to offer for free settlement would enquire as to the conditions of those who have settled on the finest farming country in the world on this side of the line, they would wonder why they had been so foolish as not to come to Canada before. We still have lots of free farms in our great fertile prairies, for settlers, but not for land speculators.

DOCK LABOURERS MEET

And are Addressed by the Vice-President of the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada.

A meeting of Dock Labourers was held last night, at 1240 Notre Dame street, when Messrs. John A. Fleet, of Hamilton, Ont., vice-president of the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada, and Joseph Ainey, organizer of the Federated Trades and Labour Council, explained the workings of the Longshoremen's International Association. Mr. E. Boudrian occupied the chair, and those present took great interest in the proceedings. Mr. Flett said their were about three hundred unions of longshoremen and each local has home rule. The American Federation of Labour endeavoured to unite all classes of wage earners under one head, so that class, race, creed and political and trade prejudices could be abolished and instead that support, moral and financial, may be given to each other. Continuing, the speaker said that it is the duty, as it is also the plain interest of all working people to organize as such, meet in Council, and take practical steps to effect the unity of the working class, as an indispensable preliminary to any successful attempt to eliminate the evils of which they, as a class, so bitterly complained. That this much desired unity has never been achieved, the speaker claimed, was owing in a great measure, to the non-recognition of the autonomy, or the right of self-government, of the several trades. The American Federation of Labour, however, had avoided the fatal rock on which previous organizations, having similar aims, have split, by simply keeping in view this fundamental principle, as a landmark. Continuing, the speaker said, that the labour movement of the continent is expressed in the American Federation of Labour, and all local movements, expressed in central bodies, should be in touch with the national desire and demand. A link in the chain of communication, fellowship, and solidity is wielded by such connection. Its seal certifies the genuineness of purpose, attests the work, entitles respectable hearing, and commands recognition for organized labour. In concluding a spirited address, Mr. Flett urged on his hearers the value of unity and advised them all to join the American Federation of Labour. The local union had a right to say what dues and initiation fees should be charged and by contributing a small per capita tax per member to the International Union, would give their members recognition in all the parts operated by the I. L. A., as well as enjoying the protection and the experiences of the larger body, who are a part of the American Federation of Labour, with its million and a half of members and is comprised of eighty-four National and International unions.

Mr. Ainey spoke in French. He extended an invitation to the local longshoremen's union to send delegates to the Federated Trades and Labour Council, and to take part in the parade with them on Labour Day, as that organization represented 95 per cent. of the bona fide labour unions of Montreal.

THE PASSING HOUR.

THE BALANCE OF POWER.

You take some States, not less than three;
We'll call them A and B and C—
Not Russia, France or Germany,
But each a simple letter.
Supposing A should buy a gun,
Then B must purchase more than one;
And C, who cannot be outdone,
Will go a cannon better.
Now A, if not entirely mad,
Another gun or so must add,
As many as the others had.
Until he overtops them;
And B and C will order more,
Exactly as they did before,
And lay up implements of war
Till lack of money stops them!

For this is the Balance of Power,
Humanity's loveliest flower;
If we were not afraid
Of the guns we have made
We should all be at war in an hour.
The war clouds may threaten and lower,
But never will break in a shower,
For we haven't the cash
To do anything rash,
Upsetting the Balance of Power.

Then B, on some convenient day,
Will make a secret league with A,
In which they practically say,
They'll go for C together;
The secret, being one of State,
Is certain to evaporate,
And C may soon anticipate
Extremely sultry weather!
So C his neighbours will fatigue
With patriotic base intrigue
Until he makes a secret league,
With each of both the others;
So any two to fight are loath,
Because the third is bound by oath
To fight against and for them both
As enemies and brothers!

And this is the Balance of Power,
Diplomacy's climax and flower;
If we did not surmise
We were all telling lies
We should all be at war in an hour!
The war clauds may threaten and lower,
But never will break in a shower,
For you cannot depend
On a foe or a friend
When it comes to the Balance of Power!

SLIM CHANCES.

"Let me congratulate you. I hear you have become the only heir of your millionaire brother."

"Yes; but he's twenty years younger than I am."

GOT WHAT HE WAS AFTER.

Harry—"My Uncle John has just died and left me over a million."

Tom—"Lucky boy! Now you can afford to marry."

Harry—"Now I don't need to."

THE WAY OF IT.

Mrs. Smith—"Katie, this watermelon isn't cold at all."

Katie—"Well, 'tain't no fault o' mine, mum. Mr. Smith, he got sich a big one that when I put it in th' ice-chest I had ter take the' ice out."

A BAD-LUCK STORY.

She—"Don't you love to hunt four-leafed clovers?"

He—"No; I hunted them with another girl once; and we ran upon one in a jeweller's window—green and white enamel—diamond dewdrop in the centre—$25."

A BLUFF.

It was 4 a.m., and Mr. Toper was fumbling around for the keyhole of the front door, when his wife stuck her head out of the window.

"Who is it?" she asked.

"Ish me—hic—m' dear," he replied.

"Well?"

"Can I come in, m' dear?"

"Not on such a hand as that, you can't," she said.

SNAP SHOTS.

There's many a slip 'twixt the Cup and the "lip."

Crooks claim our judges ought to take
To epigram. It's wrong
Of learned gentlemen to make
Their sentences too long.

From the fact that permanent coops are being built at Shanghai for the French and German troops, it is inferred that these gallant soldiers are going to become Shanghai roosters.

A really forgivable pun is one published by the Philadelphia Ledger when it ascribes the suicide of the diabolical governor of Shansi by swallowing gold-leaf to "a consciousness of inward gilt."

An Amsterdam Dutchman is in Winnipeg for the purpose of ascertaining whether Manitoba is a good place in which to settle a Boer colony after the war is over. The fact speaks volumes for the confidence of the Boers and their friends in British rule.

Recorder Weir yesterday fined a man ten dollars for swearing in the streets. Granting that there is much in the condition of Montreal streets just now to make a man swear, still swearing is a luxury that ought to be paid for, and on the whole the Recorder's tariff seems a reasonable one.

REASONING FROM A CLUE.

"What is an orphan?" asked the teacher. None of the children seemed to know. "Well, I'm an orphan," said the teacher, as not too plain a clue. A hand popped up, and the owner exclaimed, "An orphan is a woman that wants to get married and can't."

THE NAME THAT WAS NOT REAL.

A Philadelphia captain of detectives tells of one of the Malaprops of his force, who, despite his deficiency in education, is a clever operator. Responding to an inquiry, he explained to a friend the possession of two names by a prisoner by saying: "Jim Henry is his real name; Percy D. Klyne is his ananias."

PROGRESS BACKWARD.

"I'm glad to observe that Mr. De Kanter has turned over a new leaf," remarked Mrs. Borden.

"How do you mean, ma'am?" inquired the observant chambermaid.

"He hasn't left his shoes on the hat rack these last few nights."

"No ma'am, but you ought to see how muddy his sheets are."

HOW TO GET THERE.

Mrs. Weddle—"Doctor, I hope you will find I am suffering from the same sickness as the Misses Gompers."

Doctor (who sees a light)—"I really think you are, Mrs. Weddle, but I forget for the moment what ailed the Misses Gompers."

Mrs. Weddle—"So do I, but I remember you prescribed Newport."

DEFINITIONS NOT IN WEBSTER'S.

A girl, when asked how beef tea was made, answered, "Buy a pot of beef extract and follow the directions on the lid"; and a second gave "Cayenne pepper and Jamaica ginger" in reply to "What are warmth-producing foods?" But it was a boy, who was asked what "celerity" was, and who, from experience, defined it as "something to put hot plates down with."

EASILY EARNED.

An election petition was being tried, and a witness was called to prove "bribery."

"One of the gentlemen says to me, 'Hodge, you must vote for the Tories,'" said the witness.

"And what did you answer to that?" asked the counsel.

"Well, says I, 'How much?'"

"And what did the agent say?"

"He didn't say nothing. The other gentleman comes to me, and says, 'You must vote for the Liberals, Hodge.'"

"And what did you answer?"

"I said, 'How much?' So he arst me what t'other gentleman offered, and I told him 5 shillings."

"And what did the Liberal agent do?"

"He gave me 10."

Counsel sits down triumphant, and up starts the other side.

"Did you vote for the Liberals?"

"No."

"Did you vote for the Tories?"

"No. I ain't got a vote."

This evening, weather permitting, a fete de nuit will be held at the St. Lambert Boat Club House, for the benefit of the Fresh Air Fund. A concert will also be given. The entertainment is being organized by Miss Sara Morris. Visitors from the city can return to town either at 10.10 or 11.30 o'clock.

The town of Outremont has seldom been the scene of so much excitement as it was yesterday over the election of a school commissioner. Several of the leading citizens of the town had made the outcome of the election a personal matter, with the result that the issue was always in doubt. The candidates were Messrs. Geo. A. Robinson and L. D. Perham. In all, fifty-eight votes were polled, thirty-one in favour of Mr. Perham, and twenty-seven for Mr. Robinson. The former was therefore declared elected by a majority of four. The election of the Catholic School Commissioners resulted in the return of Messrs. Joseph Beaublen and Narcisse Lavallee.

Rev. Dr. Rose, of the Dominion Methodist Church, Ottawa, left for England on Monday to attend the Ecumenical Conference of the Methodist Church. Dr. Rose's holiday was the outcome of the generous action of the church trustees and some of the wealthy members of the congregation.

ANOTHER ROW IN BRITISH HOUSE.

REDMOND AND O'BRIEN SUSPENDED BY THE SPEAKER.

Mr. Redmond Shouted "Police" and the Speaker Considered it a Highly Disorderly Expression — Votes Taken on the Motions to Suspend the Two Members.

(Special to the Star.)

LONDON, July 30.—There was another Irish row in the House of Commons this morning, which ended with the suspension of William Redmond, member for East Clare, and Patrick O'Brien, member for Kilkenny city. A dribbling discussion of the Agricultural Rating Bill had filled the weary night until long past midnight. Mr. Walton was then talking and being constantly interrupted by Government supporters.

Mr. Redmond ironically shouted "police," intending as a reference to the last Irish disturbance. The Speaker immediately called him to order, saying it was a highly disorderly expression, and he warned Mr. Redmond not to repeat it.

Mr. Redmond answered: "Why don't you keep order;"

The Speaker rebuked him, and requested quiet in the House during the rest of the session.

Mr. Redmond rose, and wanted to raise a point of order, but the Speaker refused to listen to him, and as the offender would not stop the Speaker named him, which the rules provide as tantamont to suspension, although a motion to suspend the member must be made immediately after the naming.

When the motion was made, the Irish members, amid the noise of cheers and counter-cheers, tried to raise a discussion, contending that the method of naming was not in accordance with the procedure, and Mr. Redmond, who was sitting began to explain that he had not intended to disobey the Speaker. The latter, however, cut him short, and the House decided to suspend him by a vote of 303 to 71.

John P. Hayden, member for Roscommon, then raised a quibble, declaring that the division bell had been improperly rung, and that he had been unable to vote.

He wanted the vote to be taken again. This the Speaker refused, whereupon Mr. M. J. Flavin, member for North Kerry, cried: "It is most unfair."

Mr. O'Brien challenged the Speaker's action, to which the Speaker replied: "I have given my ruling."

Mr. O'Brien persisted, and ignored the Speaker's direction to be seated. The latter then characterized Mr. O'Brien's conduct as and requested him to leave the House. This request called forth derisive laughter and cheers from the Nationalists.

Mr. O'Brien made no movement to leave, and the Speaker asked: "Does the honourable member refuse?"

To this query Mr. O'Brien promptly responded: "Most decidedly."

The Speaker then named him, and he was suspended by a vote of 307 to 55.

The debate was then closured, and the bill passed its second reading by a vote of 247 to 129, after which the House adjourned.

Disturbance in Belgian House.

BRUSSELS, July 30. — The Socialist members of the Chamber of Deputies made a disturbance in the House this morning, during which the "Internationale" was sung to the accompaniment of slammed desk-lids. Taking exception to the refusal of the President of the Chamber, M. de Sadeleer, to put a motion for adjournment, a section of the deputies commenced a noisy demonstration which made it impossible for the president to maintain order. The din was terrific and the disorder culminated in the Socialists and Leftists lustily shouting the revolutionary song mentioned.

DIVORCED PEERESSES AFTER REMARRIAGE

May Still Bear Their Divorced Husband's Titles—So Decided by the House of Lords in Countess Cowley's Case.

LONDON, July 30.—The House of Lords has finally settled the moot question whether or not a peeress after divorce and remarriage, is entitled to retain her divorced husband's title. The point was raised by Earl Cowley, who objected to the lady who divorced him continuing to call herself Countess Cowley after she had married again. The verdict of the lower court was in favour of the Earl, but that of the appeal court favoured the lady, and now the House of Lords has upheld the latter's right to the name of Countess Cowley.

San Francisco Shipping Strike.

He is a nephew of Canon Duckworth of Westminster Abbey.

A Most Virulent Type.

Hay Fever this Year is of a Very Virulent Type, and Many in this Locality are Suffering From It.

This season promises to be exceptionally severe for Hay Fever victims, and of the large number who have been attacked many state that there appears to be an excessive irritation of the eyes, nose and air passages, and the cough and difficulty of breathing are much more pronounced than usual.

This is a warning that prompt treatment is essential. Catarrhozone is the best remedy. It cures the disease by removing its cause, which is germs that invade the air passages and breathing organs of the body. Catarrhozone is sure death to all germ life; it reaches them wherever located, and is the proper treatment to employ. No remedy affords such prompt relief as Catarrhozone, and a case has yet to be found in which it was used that it did not permanently cure.

Dr. Johnson, in the Medical Journal, on Hay Fever, says: "I prescribe Catarrhozone because I find it relieves quicker than anything else with which I have met. I can rely on Catarrhozone ultimately curing every time."

No remedy is so safe, so pleasant, so speedily effective as Catarrhozone; it cures Hay Fever in three to ten days, and a trial will convince you of its unusual merit. Price $1.00, at druggists. Small size, 25c. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., or Hartford, Conn., U.S.A. 177 1

TWO DROWNED AND ONE IS MISSING.

Whaleback Sagamore Sunk in a Collision With the Steamer Queen at Sault Ste. Marie Yesterday.

MILWAUKEE, July 30.—A special from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., says: "The whaleback barge Sagamore was sunk in a collision with the Northern Line Steamer Northern Queen, near Point Iroquois, yesterday. Of the crew of eight men two were drowned and one is missing. The dead are: Captain E. J. Joiner, master of the Sagamore lived in Henderson, N. Y.; Ira Ives, cook on the Sagamore, lived at Sacketts Harbour, N. Y.

The missing man is Durley Smith, seaman on the Sagamore, who lived at Woodville, N. Y.

A dense fog covered the water at the time of the collision. The Sagamore was bound down in tow of the whaleback steamer Pathfinder, both being loaded with iron ore. The Northern Queen was bound up with a general cargo for Duluth. The Queen struck the barge on the starboard side near the after turret, breaking in the plates. The Sagamore filled rapidly and soon went down.

NO FEAR OF BUBONIC PLAGUE.

Dr. Kemster, of Milwaukee, Condemned for His Alarmist Views.

(Special to the Star.)

NEW YORK, July 30.—The fact that the spread of bubonic plague throughout the American continent has been discussed as a probability by Dr. Walter Kemster, of Milwaukee, Wis., has brought out adverse opinions from a number of New York physicians of more than local prominence. They condemn the views of Dr. Kemster as those of an alarmist and calculated to cause a panic, though the fact that he spent some time abroad studying the origin and spread of plagues and scourges, under the Harrison administration, gives added weight to his statement to the effect that there is danger under existing sanitary conditions, unless immediate measures are taken to stamp it out. Dr. A. H. Doty, Health Officer of the port, said that while the plague might be destructive to people in India, the conditions were different here. In India people slept with rats and vermin. In the last three years the plague had been in Rio Janeiro, Lisbon and San Francisco, but there had been no devastation at any of those places.

Dr. Doty declared he had no fears whatever, of the plague gaining any foothold here, and he did not think any practical sanitarian had. It was possible for the plague to get here in mild form, because in its early stages a passenger might be suffering from it and the symptoms of the disease would not be apparent.

THE OUTBREAK OF ANTHRAX.

Innoculation of Cattle Suspended Owing to Scarcity of Vaccine.

(Special to the Star.)

OTTAWA, July 30. — The Pasteur Institute at Chicago has run out of Anthrax vaccine. This was learned by the Department of Agriculture here on applying to the Institute for 500 fresh doses. The Department obtained 500 doses a short time ago on the discovery of the anthrax outbreak in Stormont County, and the herds of cattle there are now being innoculated in the hope of preventing the disease from spreading. The supply is, however, nearly exhausted, and application was made to Chicago with the result stated. Unless the Pasteur Institute obtains vaccine very soon the innoculation of cattle in Stormont County will have to be temporarily suspended. The disease has not only appeared in Stormont County but also in Russell County at Vars. A veterinary surgeon is now in each place putting in force all the precautions which the situation calls for. It was reported that anthrax had developed at Iroquois, but the case now turns out to be black leg which is nearly as bad.

Unique Educational Suggestion.

(Special to the Star.)

LONDON, July 30.—Ambassador Choate, in distributing prizes at the University College yesterday, said he wished the experiment could be tried of sending prize winners to the United States and distributing them among the various schools and colleges, while an equal number of American prize winners were sent her to attend schools or colleges. He added that he believed the experiment, if repeated for three or four years, would greatly promote harmony and kindly feeling between the two countries, and that "altogetherness" of which the head-master of the college had just spoken.

New Hydrographic Surveys.

(Special to the Star.)

OTTAWA, July 30. — The Hydrograph Survey on Lake Huron, which is being conducted by the Marine Department, will be completed this season. The last survey of Lake Huron was made sixty years ago, when the vessels of the inland waters did not draw more than twelve feet of water. The work was done very hurriedly and the soundings were neither numerous nor complete. A hydrographic survey of Lake Winnipeg is also proceeding and will be finished before the close of navigation. Next season a survey of Lake Superior will be undertaken.

Sir Louis and the Joint Commission.

(Special to the Star.)

TORONTO, July 30.—Sir Louis Davies' appointment to the Supreme Court Bench which will take place before many weeks are over, would in the ordinary course of events create a vacancy on the Joint High Commission. But it does not follow that there will be any vacancy in the present case. His appointment to the Bench would not interfere with his acting as a Commissioner and the Government may see fit to continue him in the latter capacity in order to retain the benefit of his knowledge and his counsel.

The Transporation Problem,

NEW YORK, July 30.—Transportation from the lakes to foreign ports is discussed by Lieutenant Raymond, of the United States Board of Engineers, in a letter to the superintendent of the Maritime Association. He says that if a twenty-one-foot ship canal is constructed from the lakes to the sea, in accordance with the plans and estimates of the Board of Engineers on Deep Waterways, it will undoubtedly be necessary for the State of New York to transfer the Erie Canal to the Federal Government.

Renewal of Boxer Outbreaks.

SHANGHAI, July 30.—The North China Daily News announces that there has been a recrudescence of outbreaks by the Boxers in the province of Shan Tung, in consequence of the success of the allied villagers, in Chili Li province, against the troops of Li Hung Chang.

The notorious Yung Lu (who was Imperial Treasurer, and later generalissimo of the northern army) has been appointed to the lucrative post of Controller-General of the Revenue Board.

Congress on Copyrights.

(Special to the Star.)

OTTAWA, July 30. — J. B. Jackson, Registrar of Copyrights, learns from Europe that George N. Morang, the well-known Toronto publisher, was elected one of the vice-president at the Leipzic International Congress on Copyrights.

ARCHBISHOP BRUCHESI COMMEMORATES CADILLAC.

He Preaches at the Detroit Celebration—Though Detroit is Lost to Both France and England, the Cross Remains.

(Special to the Star.)

DETROIT, July 30.—The old church of St. Anne's was filled with worshippers at the mass which was celebrated to commemorate the first missionary mass said in Detroit 200 years ago.

The celebrant was Monsignor Falconio, and among the distinguished clergy present were: Archbishop Bruchesi, of Montreal, Archbishop Elder, and Bishops Foley, McAvoy, Messnier, Horstman and Spaulding.

The sermon was preached by Archbishop Bruchesi. He said it was not Detroit, in all its present splendour, that was being celebrated. It was the spirit behind all this progress and beauty, the spirit of Christian civilization which challenged admiration.

"It isn't Detroit alone that is celebrating" he said. "The state of Michigan celebrates with you, Canada, the entire United States and France. Descendants of the same race, you French people of Detroit, I grasp your hand in hearty welcome, proud to be of the same nationality."

The gifted orator then took his audience back 200 years ago, when Cadillac first arrived on these shores and, first of all, assisted the good missionary priest in building a modest little chapel and erecting the cross, simultaneously with the planting of the flag. He paid a glowing tribute to the French nation as a Christian, civilizing power. "I fear not," he said, "to proclaim here that she (the French nation) has been the most apostolic nation in the history of the world."

Then referring to the present anti-Catholic attitude of the French Government, which he designated as "a painful hour," he expressed his faith in the French nation. "For me," he said, "the past is a guarantee of the future. The present clouds will be dispelled and the sun will once more shine as brilliantly as ever.

"France has lost its colonies, conquered by England, but England, too, has lost them, and though the flags have changed, the cross remains."

The Archbishop closed by admonishing his hearers to prove themselves worthy descendants of their illustrious fathers and to guard the archives of their church as a priceless remembrance of the early history of the Catholic church in this part of the country.

THE NAVAL MANOEUVRES.

Theoretically the English Channel is at Present at the Mercy of the Enemy.

(Special to the Star.)

LONDON, July 30.—For the purposes of the British naval man, war was declared yesterday morning, and the struggle of the opposing fleets to try and obtain command of the English channel and of the approaches to it and St. George's channel commenced. Before many hours had elapsed a great naval battle was fought off the Scilly Isles. The result of the encounter was the annihilation of the defending squadron, and the English channel is now apparently at the mercy of the enemy. The fleet representing the home defence force, lost the whole of its squadron of cruisers, while the enemy's fleet lost eight vessels out of twelve. Eighteen splendid warships has been theoretically destroyed in less than an hour.

REV. DR. MACKAY LAID TO REST

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL SERVICE IN CRESCENT ST. CHURCH.

A Number of Brother Clergymen Took Part and the Funeral Oration Was Pronounced by Dr. MacVicar, An Old Friend, and a Former Pastor of the Church.

The funeral of the late Rev. Dr. Mackay took place this afternoon at half-past two o'clock, from the family residence, Dorchester street, to the Crescent Street Presbyterian Church, of which the deceased was pastor, and was very largely attended by his brother clergy of all denominations, the members of his late congregation, and citizens in general.

At the church a very solemn service was engaged in, among those taking part being the Rev. Principal MacVicar, the Rev. Dr. Shaw, the Rev. James Fleck, the Rev. J. H. MacVicar, and the Rev. D. MacLeod, Moderator of the Presbytery of Montreal. The service was opened by the choir, who rendered very feelingly "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is staid on thee."

This was followed by the singing of Psalm 103, at the conclusion of which the Lord's Prayer was recited by the Rev. D. MacLeod. The reading of the Scripture lesson by the Rev. J. H. MacVicar, of Fergus, Ont., followed, and then a prayer was offered by the Rev. James Fleck.

After the hymn, "A few more years shall roll," the funeral oration was delivered by the Rev. Principal MacVicar, a former pastor of the Crescent Street Church, and a very warm friend of the deceased.

The peroration was followed by a prayer from the Rev. Dr. Shaw, and the closing hymn, "Peace, perfect peace," which was the concluding hymn sung at the last church service at which the deceased officiated.

The church was draped in black for the funeral exercises, the sombre effects of which were relieved by palms and flowers, which completely filled the pulpit platform and adjacent aisles. After the service the remains were taken to Mount Royal cemetery, where the interment was made.

Among the mourners were the two sons of the deceased, Dr. Malcolm Mackay and Mr. Eric Mackay, and his sons-in-law, the Rev. J. D. Anderson, and the Rev. G. MacGregor. The members of the session of Crescent Church were also among those who followed the remains as mourners.

DR. MacVICAR'S EULOGY.

Dr. MacVicar delivered the following address:

It may be truly said of Dr. Mackay that he died at his post, with his hand upon his Master's work. Nothing could be more in keeping with the general tenor of his ministerial career than the events of the closing days of his life. While taking his annual summer vacation at his country residence on the Lower St. Lawrence, he preached every Lord's day at Cap a l'Aigle and also at Murray Bay. His last service there was on the 14th of this month. On the Monday following he sailed in his yacht to the Seven Islands, and engaged actively in missionary work, visiting the sick, and delivering the message of salvation from house to house. On the evening of the Lord's Day, the 21st inst., he gathered the people in the neighbourhood into the house of Dr. Ross, and there conducted his last service. The little congregation was one of unique character, composed of persons of very diverse religious beliefs and attainments, and not much accustomed, at least some of them, to the sound to the simple Gospel. The meeting closed by singing a hymn rich in Gospel truth and peculiarly expressive, in his case, of what was near at hand.

Peace, perfect peace, death shadowing us and ours?
Jesus has vanquished death and all its powers.

It is enough; earth's struggles soon shall cease,
And Jesus call us to heaven's perfect peace.

On the Thursday following, after less than an hour's illness, his spirit passed from the enjoyment of that peace on earth to its full and eternal realization in glory. And now that he has been taken home his memory will live in the undying affection of his household and relatives, and will be cherished with becoming honour and gratitude by his bereaved flock and by his brethren in the ministry.

Dr. Mackay may be fairly characterized as a strong man gifted intellectually, of a poetical nature, active imagination, and resolute will. He held and expressed his beliefs with unmistakable force and decision. His fidelity to Biblical truth, as he understood it, was most pronounced and outspoken. He had no sympathy with the idea that the Bible is to be regarded with suspicion or uncertainty as to its Divine origin and supreme authority in all matters of duty to God and man. To him the book was from God in all its parts, a revelation of the nature of God and man, and pre-eminently of the great redemptive work of the Divine Saviour, and the enlightening, quickening, sanctifying and comforting agency of the Holy Spirit.

As a preacher Dr. Mackay was decidedly evangelical, and the same may be emphatically said of all the books which he published. He appeared at his best when dealing with the central themes of the Gospel—the infinite compassion and love of God in the gift of His Son for human redemption—the unfailing efficacy of the atoning sacrifice of that Son and of the grace of the Divine Spirit in the hearts of men.

As he took his place at the foot of the Cross and viewed the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world, his whole nature was roused to the manifestation of its fullest energy, and he poured forth his personal convictions with enthusiasm and power. It is unnecessary, however, to dwell upon the quality of his sermons, or to enter into particular analysis in this respect. And I feel confident that the reverent and effective manner in which he always read the Word of God can hardly ever be forgotten by the members of his flock.

While faithful and firm in his adherence to the formulated beliefs of the body to which he belonged, embraced the whole household of faith, and he rejoiced to work with those who, like the late D. L. Moody, showed in the fullest degree catholicity of spirit. As a practical illustration of this I mention his Saturday afternoon class for Sunday school teachers, so largely attended for many years by members of all evangelical denominations. By this admirable work, in which he persevered with laudable persistency, he laid all the churches under obligations which were duly recognized.

HIS CHRISTIAN SYMPATHIES

In the Presbytery of Montreal he exerted himself to good purpose in favour of what is known as the augmentation fund, the design of which is to aid weak congregations in making the stipends of their pastors what they should be. He manifested also a deep practical interest in all departments of the vast home and foreign mission work of the church in the several provinces of the Dominion, and especially in the North-West, British Columbia, India, China, Formosa and the South Sea islands.

Dr. Mackay came to us as pastor at a time in the history of the congregation which may be correctly described as a crisis. Our former esteemed pastor, Dr. Burns, was called to another charge, and the pulpit remained vacant four years. The old church on Cote street, with which so many hallowed memories were connected, was found to be inconveniently situated, and it was deemed necessary to move to a more central place. The difficulty of procuring unanimity of action in such a case has nearly always to be encountered. Ultimately the present site was selected, and during the four years of vacancy in the pulpit this church was erected.

This was a time, for various reasons, which need not be mentioned, of sore anxiety and trial which proved to the utmost the excellent Christian qualities of elders and deacons. The crucial question really was, Can the historic unity of the congregation be maintained, or must it suffer disastrous disintegration? At this juncture Dr. Mackay appeared upon the scene and the people unanimously and cordially called him to the pastorate. He declined the call. It was promptly repeated, and then accepted, and the whole flock, with only a single exception, entered into this edifice as their ecclesiastical home.

From that day, during the last twenty-one years, under his pastorate, by the good hand of God upon us, we have gone forward, and the record of what has been accomplished, so far as can be presented on the printed page, has been published in our annual reports. The record of the best of the work, however, in this temple and from house to house, among the sick, the sorrowing and the dying, is visible only to the eye of Him in whose hand is the Book of Life which shall be opened in that day when we shall all stand with out pastor before the Great White Throne.

Meanwhile it is our duty and privilege to continue to strengthen and enlarge every form of Christlike activity in which he engaged. We shall thus best do honour to his memory, and glorify God, in whose presence his spirit now rejoices. Surely the suddenness with which he was called to close his services upon earth has in it an emphatic voice of warning to all. Many of us looked forward with hopeful anticipation of seeing him a month hence stand in this place to testify with the accustomed fervor of past years of the saving grace of God. Our loving Heavenly Father, who doeth all things well, ordered otherwise. We shall hear his voice no more. What means this disappointment, this sudden separation? Is this designed to remind us of the truth and to impress it indelibly upon our hearts that the Lord reigneth, and fixes the bounds of our habitation which we cannot pass?

Is this God's way of giving additional force to His written Word, of saying as if in audible accents from His Throne in heaven, "Be ye also ready: for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of Man cometh."

Up, then, and redeem the time. Work while it is day, for the night cometh when no man can work. And this is the work of God that we should believe in Him whom he has sent, and who cheers our hearts in this hour of bereavement and sorrow with the glorious assurance, I am the Resurrection and the Life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die. Amen.

The Death of Charron.

In the case of the man Charron who died under suspicious circumstances at St. Eustache, the Provincial police are making careful enquiries. In view of the fact that the body is not in a fit condition for a post mortem examination which would determine just how death came about, Coroner McMahon will wait the result of the enquiries now being made. Should the evidence collected not warrant the Coroner in holding an inquest it is possible that the Provincial authorities may order an arrest so that the facts may be all brought out. In any case the Coroner does not feel at present that he can take up the matter.

Savoy May Change Hands.

Some important changes are pending at the Savoy Hotel, and it is quite possible that Mr. Dunham will retire from the house, which he established four years ago. If his present intentions are carried out, he will direct all his energies towards making a success of the Theatre Francais cafe. An application is to be made in a few days for the transfer of the licenses from the Savoy to the Francais. This would mean the removal of the license, which was the first of the several granted for up-town cafes, after a fight of many years.

Death of Mr. W. W. Taylor.

The death occurred last evening of Mr. William Ward Taylor, a well known conductor on the Canadian Pacific Railway, at his residence, 107 Osborne street. He had been in the employ of the company for the last fourteen years, and for a number of years past had been running on the transfer train from the Windsor station to St. Martin's Junction. He had been ill for a couple of months. He leaves a widow and one daughter.

The Cape Breton Enquiry.

The evidence in the commission to enquire into the grounding of the steamships Cape Breton and Bogstad was concluded yesterday afternoon, with the brief examination of Pilot Prudent Beaudet. Messrs. Allan and DeLisle addressed the court in a few words, and Commissioner Guerin said that he would carefully consider the evidence and prepare his report as soon as possible.

Charged With Stealing Zinc.

Ernest Lafrancois is in prison awaiting trial on a charge of stealing eight hundred pounds of zinc from a shed on one of the wharves. The stolen property belongs to Contractor Gorman, and it is alleged that it was taken by four men. Warrants are out for the arrest of the other three. Lafrancois pleaded not guilty to-day and was remanded pending the search for the other men.

Judge Rouleau Seriously Ill.

Judge Rouleau, of Calgary, who has been in the city for some time, is seriously ill at the residence of his sister, Mrs. John E. Barry, of St. Denis street. It is understood that the judge is suffering from a combination of heart disease and bronchitis, and that his condition is causing his friends and relatives much anxiety. He is being attended by Dr. James Stewart.

Mr. T. G. Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, returned to town this morning from St. Andrews, N.B.

FLOOD AT POINT SUBWAY BLOCKED.

NO STREET CAR COMMUNICATION WITH THE CITY

As the Water Was Six Feet Deep in the Subway—Point St. Charles People Want Another Means of Access to the City—Flood at St. Paul Also.

(See also Page 1.)

The residents of the upper portion of Point St. Charles were surprised on starting out to their work this morning to find that the street car service to the city had become demoralized through the complete flooding of the Grand Trunk subway on Wellington street. The heavy rains of last night washed down so much earth into the sewers beneath the subway that they soon became clogged. The water, however, kept pouring down till by six o'clock this morning it had reached a depth of six feet. Not only was the street car system tied up, but all the heavy traffic was also delayed for several hours, as this is the only road that connects the upper and lower portions of the point, unless the round of a couple of miles is made to Hibernia road.

The Water Department sent out a gang of men early this morning, but it was not until 10.30 o'clock that the road was cleared. A prominent resident of the Point, in conversation with a Star representative, stated that it was accidents of this kind that showed the utter absurdity of a place as large as the Point having but one connection direct with the city.

A CAR LEFT THE TRACK.

This morning about 7 o'clock a street car left the track on Notre Dame street, near St. Paul. The cars were blocked for some time. Many citizens who commence business at 7 a.m. were half an hour late in consequence. Those who were successful in getting a car expressed satisfaction at the entire line being cleared and were not obliged to transfer two or three times and walk a half a mile besides. It is supposed the heavy rain washed the dirt from under the rails, and it is fortunate no person was injured. People who reside at Montreal West are pleased that the Notre Dame street line is now clear.

AN OFFER FROM CHICAGO

Made to Mr. Horace W. Reyner, But it is Likely He Will Remain in Montreal.

Mr. Horace W. Reyner, A.R.C.O., Mus. Bac., organist of Douglas Methodist Church in this city, has under consideration an offer from the Church of the Messiah, in Chicago, to become organist of that church.

The offer came to Mr. Reyner through the pastor of the latter church, the Rev. W. Hanson Pulford, who was at one time connected with Emmanuel Congregational Church in this city. At that time Mr. Reyner was organist of Emmanuel Church. Mr. Reyner was Rev. Mr. Pulford's organist from 1890 to 1892 in Montreal. Rev. Mr. Pulford has always desired to have Mr. Reyner with him, with the result that after taking a church in Chicago in April, the trustees, through Mr. F. A. Delano, offered Mr. Reyner the position of organist. Mr. Reyner is loth to leave Douglas Church, as his work has been much appreciated there. Dr. Griffiths, the pastor, and the church desire him to remain. Mr. Reyner is considering the offer, and it is likely that arrangements will be made whereby he will remain in Montreal.

QUEBEC TENNIS TOURNAMENT,

It Commenced This Morning on M. A. A. A. Grounds, But Was Somewhat Spoiled by Rain.

The rain somewhat interfered with the annual tournament of the Province of Quebec Lawn Tennis Association, which was to have commenced in full glory at 11 o'clock this morning on the M. A. A. A. grounds.

As it was, the wet only permitted one court to be used, and on this Mr. Peiler defeated Mr. Anstey by 6—1, 6—3.

In the contest between Messrs. Semple and Dunlop, Mr. Dunlop scored 6—1, 4—3.

There were quite a number of interested spectators on the grounds.

The Royal Commission.

The Royal Commission to enquire into the alleged paper combine sat this morning.

Mr. Hugh Graham having been subpoenaed was placed on the stand. Mr. Graham testified that his current paper contract was made in the spring of 1899. That it was made at a figure under the prevailing prices of to-day, and before the rise in the price of labour and chemicals.

Mr. Graham on cross-examination stated the price was $1.90, that at the time it was made the contracting parties did not pretend that it was made at a losing rate, but since the rise in cost the makers contended they were losing upon every pound delivered. The witness when asked the quantity used by the Star, stated "approximately twelve tons a day."

Mr. Aylesworth — That is the largest consumption of any paper in Canada, is it not?

Witness—It is so stated.

Mr. Aylesworth—Was the size of the contract a factor in price?

Witness—Yes. Being the largest consumer in Canada, and buying for cash the contract was considered by paper makers a desirable one and there was keen competition for it.

Mr. Graham declined to exhibit the contract as it was a private business affair, and while not so specifically stated it was acting only in good faith to respect the document as private.

Judge Taschereau ruled that the contract need not be exhibited.

Argument of counsel was then proceeded with.

IN AND AROUND THE CITY.

ANNUAL PICNIC.—The Grand Trunk Railway Fire Brigade will hold their annual picnic to Iberville on August 17.

LEFT FOR WEST.—Mr. Grant Hall, brother of Hon. J. S. Hall, who has been appointed master mechanic of the western division of the Canadian Pacific Railway, left yesterday for Revelstoke, B.C.

A STOLEN BICYCLE.—Herman Charbonneau and Henry Demers pleaded guilty to-day of stealing a bicycle, the property of a man named Lachance. It is claimed that Demers actually took the wheel and passed it over to Charbonneau, who purchased a suit of clothes and gave the wheel as security. They were remanded for sentence.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—A letter has been received at the Navy Department from Admiral Kimberley, asking to be excused from the Schley court of enquiry on account of the state of his health. The Admiral is understood to be suffering from heart trouble.

Admiral Schley has made answer to the precept. The letter was mailed by his counsel last night, but Navy Department officials say it has not yet been received at the Department.

YOUNG WOMAN SHOT IN HAND.

MYSTERIOUS SHOOTING AFFAIR ON DUFFERIN STREET.

Miss Houle Shot While Standing at Her Window, and the Police are Unable to Find Who Fired the Shot—She Was Also Wounded in the Face.

A mysterious shooting affair, by which Miss Permelia Houle, daughter of Mr. Omer Houle, received an ugly bullet wound in the hand, occurred at a quarter to twelve o'clock to-day, at the young lady's home, 112 Dufferin street.

She was standing looking out of an open window, when the report of a gun was heard in the neighbourhood.

At the same moment the cries of Miss Houle were heard, and the neighbours hurried to her assistance.

Dr. Richer was immediately called, and found that besides the bullet wound in the hand, she had also been injured about the face.

The members of the family are entirely at a loss to know who fired the shot, but believe it came from a neighbouring yard. The police of No. 14 station were immediately notified, but up to the time of going to press had been unable to find out who had fired the shot.

CHINAMAN EXONERATED FROM RUMOUR'S CHARGES

Evidence Showed That Cecilia Mathieu Was Burned by Trying to Light a Cigarette.

Coroner MacMahon held an inquest on, the body of four-year-old Cecilia Mathieu this morning, and the evidence showed that as a result of watching little boys' smoking cigarettes she tried to emulate them, and, as a result, set fire to her clothes, and was burned to death. An interesting feature of the inquest was the presence of half a dozen Chinamen, who were there to watch the interests of a brother Celestial, who, it was rumoured, had either given the child the cigarette and showed it how to smoke, or had thrown a lighted cigarette upon its clothes. The evidence of a child who was with the victim showed beyond any doubt that the unfortunate little one picked up the cigarette, and, striking a match, tried to light it. She dropped the burning match on her frock, and the next moment it was in flames. A passer-by extinguished them as well as possible, and the little sufferer was taken to Notre Dame Hospital. This was, on Friday afternoon, and she died early the following morning. The jury brought in a verdict of accidental death. The Chinamen all left in a body, greatly pleased over the exoneration of their fellow-countryman. They propose to send a present to the little witness, whose testimony cleared the suspected man of any blame whatever in the terrible affair.

STORMY MEETING OF MINE SHAREHOLDERS.

Astounding Revelations Made at a Meeting of Those Interested in Whittaker Group — Shouts of "Lynch Him" Were Heard.

LONDON, July 30.—At the first meeting of the creditors to-day and at a subsequent meeting of the shareholders of the Standard Exploration Company, one of the mining concerns known as the "Whittaker Wright Group," the official receiver made such astounding revelations that he drew from the excited shareholders demands for the lynching of the persons implicated. The receiver said that the estimated assets were farcical. The fourteen mines, valued at £767,000 had earned nothing. The company started with a cash capital of £500,000, but the directors took little interest in the company's mines, and devoted themselves to Stock Exchange speculation. "And that's where your money is gone," said the receiver. Two hundred and twenty-eight thousand pounds was lost in differences, in Lake Erie speculation, and £255,000 was lost in differences in Caledonian copper. The total profits from speculation are £38,000, and the losses are £536,000."

After a few more such statements, which a shareholder said would "stagger humanity," another shareholder asked the receiver to prevent the directors from making away with their property, as it was reported they were doing.

"And these men still at large?" shouted another shareholder.

"Yes, they are," came the answer, and immediately those present at the meeting rose to their feet, somebody shouting "lynch him."

It was an exciting moment for Lord Pelham-Clinton, General Gough-Calthorpe, and others, who were attending the meeting. A storm of angry cries and hisses broke out, but the receiver finally succeeded in calming the shareholders by promising them every protection possible.

UNCLE SAM'S GAMBLE.

EL RENO, O.T., July 30. — Scenes about the lottery platform to-day, where the drawing for lands on the Kiowa-Coumanche reservation is being conducted, were a repetition of those of yesterday. When the second day's drawing commenced, it was estimated that over 30,000 people were on hand.

Yesterday's drawing had given to 1,000 homesteads the privilege of selecting the best claims in the reservations. This left 12,000 claims and 166,000 applicants. It was decided to draw 2,000 names from the wheels to-day, one thousand each from El Reno and th Lawton land districts.

The Yacht Races at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, July 30. — A four-days' regatta began here to-day for yachts from different ports on the great lakes.

Races for three classes were on to-day's programme. In the special class, Merry Thought, of Toronto, crossed the starting line first, followed by Vreda, of Toronto; Surprise, of Detroit, and Aggie, of Toronto.

In the 40-foot class, Chinook, of Hamilton, crossed the line first, followed by Clytic, of Hamilton, and Vedette, of Toronto.

In the 30-foot class, Hazard, of Hamilton, was the first across the line.

There were eight starters in this race. There was a 15-mile breeze at the start. The course is triangular, three miles to a leg, to be sailed over twice.

STEEL STRIKERS IN SESSION.

AMALGAMATED ASSOCIATION CONSIDERING COMPROMISE.

The Provisional Agreement Between President Shaffer and the Steel Combine Under Discussion — The Last Chance for Compromise—The Point at Issue.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 30.—That the greatest steel strike would be declared off before the close of the day was the general impression here this morning, and the feeling of exultation manifested among the manufacturers as well as the strikers was the best indication that both sides were glad that an amicable agreement of the differences was in sight.

The hour fixed for the meeting of the general executive board of the Amalgamated Association was ten o'clock, but an hour earlier than that President Shaffer was conferring with the western members of the board; and at 9.40 o'clock the entire committee was called together.

Immediately after the committee had filed into the room, the doors were locked, and a sentinel placed outside. Previous to the meeting, all efforts to get an expression from the officials as to its probable outcome were unsuccessful.

Secretary Williams stated that they had all been pledged to secrecy and to say anything whatever would be a breach of faith.

When the committee assembled President Shaffer placed before it the terms upon which the United States Steel Corporation will settle the strike and the concessions the Amalgamated officials agreed to make when in conference with J. Pierpont Morgan last Saturday. A long discussion then ensued.

If the deal is approved, there will be a conference with the combine officials later. Little doubt is entertained, however, that the action of President Shaffer and Secretary Williams will be ratified. The representatives of the steel interests are in easy communication by telephone and a conference will at once follow.

The combine conferees will probably be the same as at the previous conference and will include Veryl Preston, late president of the American Steel Hoop Company; vice-president, W. M. Leeds, of the American Tin Plate Company; John Warner, general superintendent of the American Sheet Steel Company, and I. W. Jenks, manager of the American Steel Hoop Company.

THE POINT AT ISSUE.

The important question to be decided is what constitutes a union mill. The Amalgamated people claim a mill is union as soon as they have secured a foothold in it. On the other hand, the steel people argue that a mill is not union until at least a majority of the skilled workmen have joined the Amalgamated organization. Upon the settlement of this question, it is thought will hinge the settlement of the strike.

The combine conferees are located at the Hotel Schenley, where they were met this morning by W. E. Corey, president of the Carnegie Steel Company, but like all the others interested in the strike, they also refused to say anything as to what will be done to-day.

Secretary Joseph Bishop, of the Ohio Board of Arbitration, and M. M. Garland, joined the conference shortly after 11 o'clock. Bishop came out into the hall but would not say anything, waving the newspaper men off.

PROCEEDINGS AT THE CONFERENCE

Secretary Williams is frequently called to the telephone and he has had several long talks, presumably with New York. From the building across the street, Shaffer was seen to open the meeting with a speech lasting twenty minutes. Then Secretary Williams read a long type-written document, which is supposed to be the proposal of the Steel Corporation officials. After this there was a discussion participated in by all of the vice-presidents and trustees. Shaffer frequently has the floor, but not a word can be heard.

At 12 o'clock, Garland left the conference but nothing could be learned from him. He hurriedly went up street.

ADJOURNS FOR LUNCH.

The conference adjourned for lunch to meet again at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon. Just before the adjournment there was loud laughter. When the men came out they were apparently in good humour but they were silent when approached on the question of the proposed settlement.

President Shaffer said he could not say anything at this time, further than that he thought the entire afternoon would be taken up in discussing the propositions and it would probably be late before a decision was reached.

THIS CONFERENCE IS FINAL.

NEW YORK, July 30.—It was learned here to-day, upon high authority, that the action of the executive board of the Amalgamated Association at Pittsburg to-day when it has passed upon the peace proposals agreed upon at the conference here on Saturday, will be decisive. There exists no arrangement for further negotiation, and peace or a continuance of the strike hinge upon the vote.

The agreement of Saturday was complete and its force depends upon its ratification by the Amalgamated Association and the subsidiary companies of the U. S. Steel Corporation. The latter action is, however, a mere formality. If the Amalgamated Executive Board approves the basis of settlement, the strike will be over, if it disapproves it will continue in effect and in the same state that existed before Messrs. Shaffer and Williams met Messrs. Morgan and Schwab.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—Owing to the strike of the Water Front Federation, which was inaugurated to-day, the business section of the city is completely tied-up, and indications are that business stagnation will ensue. Although a large number of men were hired to fill the places of the strikers, little merchandise has been moved. No disturbances have been reported.

Charges Against Chief Powell.

(Special to the Star.)

OTTAWA, July 30.—In the Police Commissioners enquiry into the charges against Chief Powell this morning, the whole session was taken up by the addresses of counsel. At 1.30 the court adjourned, to meet this afternoon and take the matter into deliberation. Mr. Dowling pressed for the dismissal of the Chief on the ground that the charges were proven. Hon F. Latchford, in an able defence, claimed that no substantiating evidence had been given.

Killed From Kick From Horse.

CHESLEY, Ont., July 30.—Thomas Bagg, a farmer near Chesley was kicked by a horse in his own barn yesterday afternoon, and died half an hour after of the injuries which resulted. A similar case occurred in this village last night. George Patterson, a farmer from Sullivan township, while having his horses shod, was kicked in the bowels by a horse belonging to another man and so badly injured that he died this morning.

Rain Saves Ohio Crops.

OMAHA, Neb., July 30.—A heavy rain fell here for over an hour early to-day. This and the good rains of the two preceding mornings has caused a wonderful improvement in the crop situation. In Northern Iowa half an inch of rain fell over a large area.

Cutting Wheat in the West.

SOURIS, Man., July 30.—John Best, a farmer, two miles south of Souris, commenced cutting a fifty acre field of wheat to-day.

TO SAIL IN ST. PAUL IN AUGUST

THIS IS WHAT MR. CURRIE AGREES TO.

The Races Will be for a Special Cup, and Mr. Clarke, of the White Bears Leaves To-night for the West—Currie and Crew Go To-morrow.

On his arrival in town this morning from Dorval, Mr. Lorne Campbell Currie, owner of the Greyfriar, who yesterday intimated his intention of taking his yacht to St. Paul to race against a yacht representing the White Bear Yacht Club of that city, on White Bear Lake, was met by the representative of the St. Paul people, Mr. Homer P. Clarke, and had a long conference with that gentleman regarding the arrangements.

Mr. Clarke announced afterwards that everything was satisfactory and that the Greyfriar would be shipped from Lachine by rail to St. Paul this afternoon.

Mr. Clarke was asked what yacht would be pitted against the Greyfriar, but this was a question he could not answer with any degree of certainty. It would not be the Minnesota, however, for she was a light weather boat, and as the White Bear people wanted to give the Greyfriar a fair argument, they would put one of this year's heavy weather creations up to defend their challenge, and it would probably be the Highlander or the Minnezeitka. These boats have been sailing a series of races, but what the results have been Mr. Clarke has not heard.

GOES TO WHITE BEAR LAKE.

Mr. Clarke leaves the city this evening satisfied with his mission, and, according to the arrangements made with Mr. Currie at the conference this morning, the first race will take place on White Bear Lake on Friday, August 9. Mr. Clarke goes to Boston this evening and will take a run down to Newport to see the races on Thursday between the Columbia and Independence. He will return to St. Paul via Buffalo and Chicago.

Mr. Currie and his party will leave to-morrow, and they will also visit Niagara, the Buffalo Exposition, and perhaps call on some friend at Newport, after which they will go to St. Paul via Chicago, arriving there on the seventh.

The work of dismantling the Greyfriar was done so quickly that by the time the supper bell rang at the Yacht Club last night she was entirely bare.

CHICAGO SERVANTS MAKE RULES FOR MISTRESSES.

The Newly Organized Union Demands Good Wages, Two Hours Each Afternoon and Evenings Free, With Monday Shopping Privileges.

(Special to the Star.)

CHICAGO, July 30.—When the housewives of Chicago return from the gayety of the summer resorts to their domestic charges they will find that their servant girls have been merged into "Union Help." Officers have been elected, and three hundred members are ready to commence the work of proselyting among their sisters.

It is expected that the union will be in full operation within a month.

The rules for the regulation of their work and of their mistresses are now being concocted by the members of the organization, and this is to be their tenor:

"Rule I.—Work shall not begin before 5.30 a.m., and shall cease when the evening's dishes are washed and put away. Two hours each afternoon and the entire evening twice a week shall be allowed the domestics as their own.

"Rule II.—There shall be no opposition on the part of the mistress to club life on the part of the domestic. Entertainment of friends in limited numbers shall not be prohibited, provided the domestic furnishes her own refreshments.

"Rule III.—Gentlemen friends shall not be barred from the kitchen or back porch. Members of the family of the house shall not interrupt the conversation arising during said visit.

"Rule IV.—Domestics shall be allowed such hours off on Mondays as will permit them to visit the bargain counters of the stores and enjoy on that day the same privileges enjoyed by the mistress and her daughters.

"Rule V.—All complaints shall be made to the business agent of the union. The question of wage shall be settled at the time of employment, and no reduction shall be allowed.

Large Clearances of Wheat.

(From the Star's Special Correspondent on the Chicago Board of Trade.)

CHICAGO, July 30. — Wheat had a natural rally from the break of 5⅛c a bushel, without special feature. Trade was moderate in volume. The firmness of Liverpool after our decline yesterday helped the market, and the advance in corn was influential. The most encouraging feature is the large clearances, over 600,000 bushels to-day; and New York reported 200 boat loads taken for export.

Corn showed a decided tendency to rebound from the break of yesterday, some of the weak long lines having been eliminated, and the first effect of rains being worn off. It is expected that the rains will result in saving a moderate crop outside of Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska. In those states but little recovery is possible. It is probable that scalping fluctuations will prevail in the corn market for a time till market conditions become more settled.

PACIFIC NOT SO BUOYANT.

AFTER ADVANCING TO 107 5-8 AN EASIER TONE ENSUED.

Story Revived That American Financiers Wish to Acquire An Interest in the Road—The Rest of the Market Was Dull With An Easier Feeling in Several Cases.

The special correspondents of the Star in Wall Street and on the Chicago Board of Trade report in this column that stocks were easier, while wheat and corn were stronger. In the local market trading was narrow, being confined to Canadian Pacific, which was strong. Sales on the New York stock market yesterday were 570,148 shares.

Canadian Pacific, which has been monopolising the bulk of attention for the past few days, went a small fraction higher this morning, but afterwards eased off under the highest somewhat. From the bullish talk in the market yesterday, a considerably higher price might have been expected to-day, but it did not materialize. New York's highest price was 107¼, compared with 107⅝ here.

The story has been revived in Wall street that there is a desire on the part of the "community of interest" financiers, presumably headed by Mr. Morgan, to get a couple of their men on the C. P. R. directorate, so that the road may become less of a thorn in the flesh in the matter of transcontinental rates. In that connection, Mr. Hill's name is mentioned. It will be remembered that every time there has been an upward movement in Pacific that gentleman's name has been made use of and as often has the matter been put down to stock market exigencies.

That, however, does not place any obstacle in the way of a large number of people believing that there is something in the reports and it is held by a good many that the purpose is a reasonable one and the plan quite feasible. No encouragement is given to stories of that kind at the headquarters of the road in this city.

After closing at 107½ yesterday, the market opened at the same figures this morning, and ⅛ higher was paid for over 800 shares, after which the price slackened off to 107¼. Over 2000 shares changed hands during the morning. In New York there was not much activity and 107½ was the highest. It is still held in some quarters that the present movement is a squeeze of shorts.

Outside of Pacific, the trading was without much interest or price changes. Twin City declined a point to 93, while Toronto Rails were unchanged at 109. Street Railway lost what was gained yesterday, selling off a point to 291. The Steel issues continued weak, common at 29⅝ and preferred at 81.

There were light dealings in stocks at the opening and changes were small. The principal railroads were up a fraction, but some of those that were strong yesterday, sagged off. There were 8000 shares of United States Steel taken at 45 to 45¼, compared with 45 last night, but the preferred stock fell a half.

Messrs. L. J. Forget and Co.'s London cable to-day quoted: Grand Trunk first 95¼, second 79½, third 33½, Canadian Pacific 109⅝. Anaconda £9 1-16.

Toronto Street Railway earnings last week compared with a year ago were:

Detroit United Railway earnings for the week ending July 24th were $64,272.08, an increase of $12,903.88. Earnings from July 1st to July 24th show an increase of $41,013.69 or an average of $1,706.90 per day.

DULL IN WALL STREET.

A Great Dividend Paid to First National Bank People.

(From the Special Correspondent of the Star in Wall Street.)

NEW YORK, July 30.—To-day's stock speculation formed a marked contrast to that of yesterday. Dulness prevailed in nearly all directions, and fluctuations as a rule were trivial. Prominent operators took very little part in the transactions, and the same was also true of commission houses. This market was left largely in the hands of traders. Still the undertone was generally firm, and prices improved in most cases. Amalgamated Copper rose 1 7-8; Colorado and Southern first preferred, 1 3-4; Pacific Mail, 3, and St. Paul and St. Louis South-Western preferred each 1. This comprised the list of notable changes. All other variations were confined to fractions, and even United States Steel stocks moved within narrow limits, although a fair amount of business was done in them. The common declined 1-4, and rose 3-4, while preferred fell and advanced 5-8. London was featureless.

The most remarkable dividend ever declared in Wall Street district was made public yesterday. A sum approaching $5,000,000 was given as a special dividend to a few men owning stock in the First National Bank. This is approximately 1,000 per cent. The men who received the money owned stock in the bank before the increase of the capitalization from $500,000 to $10,000,000. The increase announced July 20 with the creation of a surplus of $10,000,000 made the First National in point of resources the greatest bank in the western world. The bank is controlled by the Morgan clique, and it is said John D. Rockefeller has been attempting to get a footing in it.

CUBA AND HER CONSTITUTION.

CONVENTION CONSIDERS THE ELECTORAL BILL.

Universal Suffrage Adopted — But Office Holders are Required to be Able to Read and Write — Congressmen Must be Over 25 and Senators Over 35 Years Old.

HAVANA, July 30.—There was a good attendance at yesterday's session of the Cuban Constitutional Convention, when the electoral bill, as drafted by the electoral commission, was submitted. The measure provides for universal suffrage, but restrictions as to ability to read and write are imposed in the case of office holders. Governors of provinces and provincial legislators must be of Cuban birth, or have been naturalized for a period of eight years. They must be at least thirty years of age. They must also be heads of families of property owners, or they must possess by public decree, or have filled office by popular vote.

The same restrictions regarding citizenship are laid upon Congressmen, who must be 25 years of age. Senators must be Cuban by birth, and 35 years old. The President must be a Cuban, or naturalized. In the latter case, as provided by the constitution, he must have served in the Cuban army for ten years. He must be at least 40 years of age. The same conditions apply to the vice-president.

Senators shall be elected by provincial legislators, and an equal number of citizens, One-half of the latter must be Cuban by birth, or have been naturalized for a period of eight years. They must be at least twenty-five years of age, and able to read and write. They must have resided in the province for two years, and be among the largest real estate taxpayers. The other half must have professional degrees or must have held public office.

Presidential electors shall be Cubans by birth, or have been naturalized for a period of eight years, and they must be thirty years of age. In the provincial legislatures minority representation is provided for, Havana having twenty members, Santa Clara 17, Santiago 17, Matanzas 15, Pinar del Rio 12, and Puerto Principe 8. Havana will have 17 Congressmen, Santiago 13, Santa Clara 14, Matanzas 8, Pinar del Rio 7, and Puerto Principe 8. Four Senators shall represent each province. Havana will have 21 presidential electors, Santiago 17, Santa Clara 18, Matanzas 12, Pinar del Rio 11, and Puerto Principe 8.

The project provides for two elections. At the first will be elected governors of provinces, provincial legisaitures and senatorial electors. At the second, to be held eight days later, Congressmen and presidential electors will be chosen. Thirty days after the second election, the presidential electors will meet in Santa Clara to elect the President.

THE CHINESE INDEMNITY.

Further Particulars as to the Details of Its Payment.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 30. — Some of the arrangements in respect to the Chinese indemnity which have not heretofore been published are disclosed in cable despatches which have been received from the United States' special commissioner at Pekin. Mr. Rockhill reports that the interest on the indemnity began to run on July 1 of this year, and the payments will become due semi-annually, the first to be met January 1 next. China will be allowed three years before making the first payment on account of the principal of the indemnity. The moneys, both on account of principal and interest, will be received by a financial committee located at Shanghai, to be known as the committee of "encashment." This will be composed of the heads of foreign banks at Shanghai, selected by the Governments interested in the payments. The committee is to distribute the funds turned in by the Chinese Government among the various powers in proportion to the interest payments due them.

The diplomatic corps at Pekin favours the immediate application of the new tariff, the effect of which will be to abolish the free list except as to cereals. Mr. Rockhill has been instructed by the State Department to urge the exemption from the new rates, of cargoes now afloat. He is also to try to secure a postponement of the application of the tariff until importers have had an opportunity to complete contracts.

Grant for Ontario Men Only.

TORONTO, July 30.—A number of members of the Montreal company who turned out during the Fenian Raid under Capt. (now Col.) Bacon and Lieut. Davidson (now Judge Davidson) have made application for grants of 160 acres of land under the Ontario law. Hon. E. J. Davis, Commissioner of Crown Lands, has already intimated that only persons now resident in the province of Ontario can participate in the grant. This, at any rate, was his answer to a number of former Canadians now resident in Michigan. This bill confines the land grant to Ontario men.

Receptions to the Duke.

OTTAWA, July 30.—The Secretary of State has a very heavy correspondence these days in connection with the schemes for the entertainment of their Royal Highnesses. In his letters to the various municipalities which have written him, Mr. Scott urges the desirability of freeing receptions as far as possible from burdensome ceremonial with which the distinguished visitors must ere this have been well nigh surfeited.

Pictou Election Petition Dismissed.

HALIFAX, N.S., July 30. — In the Supreme Court yesterday, Mr. Justice Magher dismissed the Pictou election petition against C. H. Tupper.

Fighting Around Panama.

KINGSTON, Ja., July 30.—Reports from Panama assert that the insurgents are operating in large numbers in the vicinity of the city, and that an order has been issued by the Government calling upon the citizens to concentrate in order to repel attacks, and to protect property. Panama is guarded from the sea by a gunboat.

The Government is exercising the strictest precautions to prevent news of developments leaking out.

THE OKLAHOMA LAND LOTTERY.

An Eager Throng of 25,000, of Whom 23,000 Must be Disappointed.

EL RENO, Okla., July 30.—Oklahoma's great land lottery was begun here in earnest yesterday, and when the commissioners appointed by the federal government adjourned the drawing for the day 1,000 of the choice of the 13,000,160 acre claims in the Kiowa-Comanche country had been awarded.

The first name drawn from the wheels was that of Stephen A. Holcomb, of Paula Valley, I.T., for a homestead in the El Reno district, and the second, Leonard Lamb, of Augusta, O.T. These two men select the two choice claims in this district. The capital prize-winners, however, proved to be James R. Wood, of Weatherford, O.T., whose name was the first to come from the Lawton district wheel, and Miss Mattie H. Beals, of Wichita, Kan., who drew the second number in that district. They will have the privilege of making the first fillings in the Lawton district, and will undoubtedly choose the two-quarter sections adjoining that town. These are considered the most valuable in the territory and are it is estimated worth from $20,000 to $40,000 each.

The day was one of keen excitement, replete with interesting scenes. It is estimated, that fully 25,000 persons witnessed the drawing. The immense throng was wrought up to the highest pitch. The drawing of the first names was followed by a mighty shout.

Each succeeding winner for a time was met with shouts of applause, and merriment. All was pleasantry. Every man, though he did not draw a prize, from the wheels to-day, had steadfast faith that to-morrow, or next day will surely see him the possessor of a slip reading him a title clear to 160 acres of Oklahoma's land.

The crowds fairly exhausted themselves, and when the close of the drawing for the day was announced at 6 o'clock, hundreds who had neither eaten nor drank during the day, sank to the ground where they stood from sheer fatigue or dragged themselves to better places for rest or to refreshment booths up town. The day was remarkably free from quarrels, and general satisfaction with the Government methods of disposing of the land was felt. It has been found that many hundred applicants have "repeated," and that others have applications so illeligible that they will be thrown out. Over this much discord has resulted, and the outcome may be an appeal to the courts.

Pigs Rescued From Deep Hole.

(Special to the Star.)

WOODSTOCK, Ont., July 30.—Several weeks ago, when the United Gas and Oil Co. abandoned a well on the farm of Adolphus Fox near Olinda a 12 inch hole 45 feet deep was left exposed. Four of Mr. Fox's pigs while wandering about in search of a cool spot, found the opening and proceeded to investigate with the result that all fell to the bottom; at the bottom a cave had formed where he quicksand caved in. In this small space 45 feet below the earth's surface, two of the young porkers lived for more than a month. Mr. Fox had no hope of saving them yet he dropped corn down the hole every day because he could hear the pigs grunting. An effort was made to secure the pigs which resulted successfully. The hole was enlarged and suspended by a strong rope Joe Fox was lowered. The four pigs were brought to the surface, but two of them were dead, the other two soon recovered strength and are now very much alive.

ITHACA, N.Y., July 30.—Mrs. Hannah Smith, aged 73, committed suicide in Fall Creek Gorge, near Fall Creek mill yesterday, by jumping from a ledge of rocks thirty feet high into the shallow creek. Thirty years ago this month her husband was killed in practically the identical spot by falling from this bridge with a heavy engine. Formerly Mrs. Smith was an extensive land owner in Ithaca and very wealthy.

A Western Suicide.

WINNIPEG, July 30.—J. Strorer Brown, a well known character living in the Steep Creek settlement, near Markley's Crossing, Prince Albert district, committed suicide by hanging himself from a beam in the shack he occupied. The reason for the rash act was due to bodily discomforts, affecting his mind. Brown was an Englishman about 65 years of age, of superior education and intelligence. He leaves a wife and son in Ireland and a son in the United States.

A Deserter Surrendered.

WINDSOR, Ont., July 30.—Alfred Pugh, 35 years old, a gunner who deserted from the Royal Canadian Artillery, Kingston, last April, yesterday afternoon gave himself up to Officer Elliott, in Windsor. His regimental number was 4,833. He enlisted five years ago. His home is near Komoka, Ont. THE EMPEROR'S FLAG DID NOT SAVE HIM.

Colombia Authorities Arrest a Man Who Had One of Them Wrapped Around His Body.

NEW YORK, July 30.—The Hamburg-American line steamer Allegheney, which arrived here yesterday, reported that she was held in the harbour of Cartagena for twelve hours. Passengers on the Allegheney report that Abel Murillo was arrested on the ship Cartagena and taken ashore by the Colombian authorities. Murillo protested against his arrest, claiming that he was entitled to the protection of the German flag.

Murillo is said to be the secretary of Gen. Uribe-Uribe. He went to Colombia, it is reported, with a passport given by the representative of the Colombian Government at Washington, on the understanding that his mission at Colombia was a peaceful one.

When the vessel arrived at Cartagena she was ordered detained by the authorities there. The captain protested that he was sailing under the German flag, and that no official of Colombia had a right to stop the vessel for any purpose whatever. This protest was unheeded, however, and search was made for Murillo, who was found on deck. He declared that he would not be arrested, and running to one of the ship's masts, he seized the German flag which was lying there and wrapped it about him. Then he stood forward and cried out:

"I am under the protection of the German flag and you have no right to arrest me."

According to the passengers on the Alleheney, the Colombian officers, notwithstanding the protest, seized the man and dragged him from the vessel.

Mr. Radcliffe will need to make fast time in order to reach Dawson in time.

He will remain in Manitoba two months, and if his report is favourable a Boer colony may be established here.

That Japanese Legislation.

(Special to the Star.)

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 30.—As the British Columbia National Act against Japanese is to be disallowed by the Dominion Government, Capt. Tatlow, its father, is to bring in legislation that all bills are not to become operative in British Columbia until gazetted by order in council. In the interim Capt. Tatlow says the parties in whose favour the bills have been passed will be obliged to undertake with the provincial authorities not to employ Japs or Chinese. Capt. Tatlow says he cannot see that the federal authorities interfere with such a "Civil Rights" proceeding and that not a member of any legislative body dare vote against such legislation in the present temper of the people.

Morgan After Lafayette Relics.

LONDON, July 30.—J. Pierpont Morgan before his recent departure for the United States, says the Paris correspondent of the Daily Press, left a cheque for £10,000 with General Horace Porter to be paid on delivery at the United States Embassy of certain valuable relics of Lafayette, said to be in a pawnbroker's shop in London. How they got there is not known, but the story is that among them are the sculptured gold juh and sword carried throughout the American campaign which Lafayette left to his heirs.

THE TRADE IN LAMP CHIMNEYS.

It Gives Employment to Thousands.

(From the New York Sun.)

"The lamp chimney," said a man acquainted with the trade, "seems a simple sort of thing, but there are not many things of more common use the world over, and in the aggregate the number sold is enormous. In this country there are 12,000 men and boys employed in making lamp chimneys, and the chimneys produced number millions annually. The greater number are now made west of the Allegheny mountains in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana, where the majority of the glass works of the country are located, many of them in the natural gas regions.

"The first glass works in the country was established in Boston, and formerly the glass making industry, was principally in the East. Now there are not nearly so many glass factories here as there once were.

"One not familiar with the business might be surprised with the great variety in which lamp chimneys are made. Lamps are made in these days in very great variety by many makers, and, of course, there are made chimneys suitable for all of them. There is one American lamp chimney maker who, counting sizes and styles, produces 600 varieties. Among the great variety of chimneys made there are some that are of common use everywhere, and then there are some that are specially suited to demands in this or that part of the country, and are not in demand in other parts.

"Lamp chimneys are not only made in far greater variety than formerly to fit perfectly every sort of lamp, but they are also made better than ever. In fact, lamp chimneys have advanced with everything else. But, enormous and increasing as the production is, the demand scarcely keeps pace with the increase in the population, this being especially true of cities in which gas is more and more used, and here in New York, for instance, by users through slot gas machines, which have some influence on the sale of lamp chimneys. Still the number of lamps used here is enormous. There are plenty of people burning gas, for instance, who have as well three or four lamps, and the number of people here who use lamps alone for the purpose of illumination is very great. There are used in New York and its vicinity millions of lamp chimneys annually.

"There are received in this city from western manufacturers, for domestic consumption, I suppose about four car-loads of chimneys weekly, running from 1,500 to 2,000 dozen chimneys to the car. These are sold to jobbers, who distribute them through their trade to customers in the city and hereabouts and to customers at greater or less distances away. Perhaps half of these chimneys, or rather more, are used in the city or within 50 miles of it. To the chimneys thus brought here are to be added those produced here, the eastern chimneys being made chiefly for the local trade and for export."

CHAPTER XIII.

THE PRINCESS'S ROOM.

The Princess Coronna was trailing her black draperies through the convalescent ward of the hospital in Capetown which, with her dead husband's money she had endowed. She was one of the most beautiful women on earth, and never had she been lovelier than she was now in her widow's weeds.

News of the Prince's death had reached her in Capetown months ago when she and her father had been on the eve of departing for England, their visit to Mr. Rhodes having been cut short by the breaking out of the war. Instead of sailing for hone the Princess had let her father go without her, and had stayed to be a ministering angel in the hospital which she had endowed.

She was thinking to-day of a latter which had been sent to her, enclosed in a short, pencilled note signed "Wilhelmina Winkelmann."

The letter had been a dying message from her husband, and it had excited her strangely, for it had nearly concerned the one man whom she had ever really loved.

He had been accused of cheating at cards, and of blackmailing the man who had made the accusation. Everybody had believed him guilty, and Isabel Dorr had not been the woman to link her fate with one on whom the world frowned. Still, she had cared for D'Arcy as much as it had been in her nature to care for any man, and this letter, telling of his heroism, hinting that, after all, he had been misjudged and might yet be acquitted, stirred the old feelings so long lying dormant. Prince Coronna had made, at the end, a strange prophecy, almost a suggestion; and though it was impractical her fancy caught and played with it.

The Boer woman who had enclosed the letter in her own queer, pencilled note, said it had been in the possession of a British spy, condemned to be shot—a spy whose name was supposed to be D'Arcy. She went on to relate that the commanding officer, her husband, had opened the letter to make sure that it was what the spy, who asked to have it forwarded, had represented it to be. When he had seen that it was no more than a message from a dying man to his wife he had been inclined to grant the spy's request, but a friend of his who was half-English and a very great man had advised him to tear up the letter. The writer had saved it, and now, upon her own responsibility, forwarded the torn envelope with its contents intact. But though she went into these details Vrouw Winkelmann either forgot, or did not wish to mention whether the condemned spy had actually been executed or not.

This doubt, and the romantic thoughts of a lost lover, gave a wistful droop to the Princess's red lips as she went through the wards of "her hospital," as she called it bestowing a word or a pensive smile here and there. She was not a nurse, and only came to the hospital as a visitor, welcomed and almost worshipped by all. This morning some wounded men had been sent down by General Buller. She had visited two or three, and was on her way to see the others who had been assigned to the convalescent ward.

Suddenly she stopped beside an invalid's chair, where a pale, hollow-cheeked young man with a bandaged head, lay stretched out.

"Captain D'Arcy!" she ejaculated.

It was the old title by which she had known him in the past, and it had slipped from her lips in her surprise at sight of him before she could stop to remember that he was a Captain no more.

He raised a pair of dreamy dark eyes that had been gazing into space as if they saw some beloved image.

"Princess Coronna!" he exclaimed. Then he added quickly: "But I am only Private D'Arcy."

"Thank Heaven you are alive," she said, softly. "I was afraid that you had been shot."

"I was shot in the head as you see, crossing the Tugela river the other night," he answered.

"I mean shot as a spy by those terrible Boers," she explained, half whispering, for her words were for his ears alone.

"You've heard of that affair then? I didn't know that it had got as far as Capetown."

"I heard from the wife of the commanding officer in the Boer camp," replied the Princess. "She enclosed me a letter from my poor husband which was to have been delivered by your hand. I was afraid from what she said that—that a terrible thing had happened."

"I assure I wouldn't have parted with the Prince's letter if I had not been certain it was going to happen," said D'Arcy. "It's a great relief to my mind that you have the letter."

"Have you—any idea what was in it?" asked the beautiful woman, her lashes downcast as she played with her rings. "I mean—did my husband tell you—what he meant to say?"

"No, Princess, he told me nothing."

She sighed, whether with disappointment or gratification, perhaps even she herself could not have explained.

"How did you escape," she questioned, "when death seemed so certain? You can guess how interested I am, because—we were friends once; and besides, you were so brave, so noble to my husband at Elands Laagte. Long ago I heard of that night, though his letter only came to me two days ago."

"I escaped because—a friend helped me," said D'Arcy; "a friend who was already a prisoner in the Boer camp. We got off together."

He spoke the last words slowly, for he was thinking of Nora and what she had done for him; and he seemed again to hear the sobbing cry she had uttered when he had been shot while swimming the river. It had been that cry which gave him hope that, if he could fight the battle with pain and weakness, there might be something to live for after all.

"What a splendid fellow your friend must be!" exclaimed the Princess Coronna. "Was he wounded? Has he come with you to Capetown?"

There was nothing for it but to tell the truth. The whole extraordinary story of Nora's kidnapping and retention among the Boers was already known in General Buller's camp, and doubtless had been brought to Capetown. The Princess would presently hear everything with embellishments, and it would be better if she had the plain truth from his lips now.

"It wasn't a 'he,' Princess," D'Arcy confessed. "My friend was a lady who had been with me in a travelling theatrical company, playing in Johannesburg just before the outbreak of the war."

The Princess's lovely cheeks grew red, perhaps with interest in the story. "Oh—an actress!" she commented. "I hope for the sake of romance, she is young and pretty?"

"She is both," said D'Arcy, faintly smiling.

Still, the Princess knew that a girl might be very, very pretty without being in the least comparable to her. And an actress seemed such a long way down the social ladder from a Princess Coronna or even a Lady Isabel Dorr.

"I am sure your friend must also be brave and clever, or she would not have known how to help you in such a perilous crisis," the woman he had once loved went on. "Do you mind telling me her name? As she is an actress I may have heard it, as I hope to hear all about her strange adventures in South Africa."

"She is a Miss Nora Anson," said D'Arcy, dwelling caressingly on the name.

He did not think it probable that the Princess had heard it, for Nora had been acting mostly in the provinces or abroad, while his old love had spent much of that time out of England. But, to his surprise, she gave a little start and repeated the name again.

"Nora Anson! Why, surely that is the girl about whom there was so much gossip with Louis Van Wyck? She was engaged to him and heard something about him which disgusted her, or they had a quarrel. At any rate, she changed her mind at the last moment, and said 'No,' instead of 'Yes' at the altar-rail. That affair was before—before I knew him, years ago. She can't be so very young."

"She is one-and-twenty," D'Arcy answered, gravely. "She was seventeen then, poor child, and during those four years, she has suffered cruelly from that brute's vindictiveness, never more than during the past three months. She never loved him but for the sake of her father—dead now, she would have married the man if, at the very last moment, as you truthfully say, she had not heard a thing which made it impossible that a self-respecting girl should give herself to such a scoundrel."

"You seem very much in your friend's confidence," said the Princess, smiling with dangerous sweetness.

"If I am ever in a position to join a woman's life with mine, Miss Anson will be my wife," quietly replied D'Arcy.

The silence which followed was electrical; but it scarcely lasted the length of a moment, and it was broken by the Princess.

"Forgive me for raking up an old scandal," she exclaimed. "I spoke on the impulse, not knowing that Miss Anson was anything to you."

"There never was a scandal, Princess Coronna," he said. "It is very noble of Miss Anson to be kind to a man like me, whose reputation has been torn to shreds."

"Oh, but it is on the fair way to be mended again now," she cried, smiling. "And, of course, I wish you every happiness. Is Miss Anson in Cape Town?"

"Yes," said D'Arcy rather abruptly. "Unfortuntely for me I am invalided home. There's been something the matter with my eyes since I was shot, and it seems I'll be useless even when I feel all right, for a good long time to come; so I'm packed off, and I hope that Miss Anson will wait until I go, and sail in the same ship."

"Naturally," cooed the Princess. "But you haven't told me how it happened that she was in the Boer camp, all ready to save your life—or is that a secret?"

D'Arcy well knew that it could not be kept a secret, and he answered boldly.

CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES.

PROF. GOLDWIN SMITH DISCUSSES FREE TRADE.

He Recalls Former Conditions and Discusses the Situation of To-day —People, He Says, are Ready for Reciprocity on Both Sides of the Line.

(Special to the Star.)

NEW YORK, July 30.—The current number of the Dry Goods Economist, contains the following article, written for it by Prof. Goldwin Smith:

That the representatives of American commere are declaring in favour of reciprocity between the United States and Canada will be glad tidings to all who, amidst the barren wrangling of political parties and worse than barren wars, study the material welfare of the people.

If ever man put asunder what Providence had joined together, he has done it in the commercial severance of Canada and the United States from each other. The severance of Scotland from England, or of the North of England from the South, would not be a more flagrant contravention of the beneficence of nature.

CANADA'S NATURAL PRODUCTS.

Canada has the natural products which the United States want. She has forests, now to a lamentable extent left to the ravages of forest fires. She has great wealth of minerals, gold and iron. She has abundant water-power.

On the other hand, she wants the manufacturers of the United States, where, the market being so extensive, manufacturing can be carried on upon the largest scale, and, therefore, on the best and cheapest footing. Canada, consisting of four separate blocks of territory divided from each other by wide spaces or great barriers of nature, is split into four markets, not one of them large enough for the establishment of manufactures on the most extensive scale.

PHYSICAL MAP THE KEY.

The key to an understanding of the Canadian question is the use of the physical instead of the political map. The political map shows a vast and undivided expanse of territory, including the North Pole, and equal in size to the rest of the British Empire. The physical map shows the four separate blocks of cultivable and habitable territory, geographically and commercially disunited from each other, though politically united; while each of them is manifestly drawn by nature to commercial relations with the territory adjoining it on the south.

INTERCHANGE IN CANADA.

Of commercial reciprocity among the Provinces of Canada there is little by nature, though more is forced by the tariff. Nor is there much interchange of population.

With the United States the interchange of population is large and constant. There are stated to be about a million of native-born Canadians south of the line. Canadian youths seek employment at New York or Chicago as freely as a Scotch boy seeks employment in Manchester or London.

"Talk of bombarding New York," said an old Canadian the other day, "I have four sons living there." A fiery letter by a Canadian against our foemen "on the other side of the line" appeared not long ago in a Canadian paper. The date of the letter was New York. French-Canadians go in great numbers to the factories of New England.

TARIFF WALL O'ERLEAPED.

So strong is the behest of nature that trade overleaps the tariff wall which monopoly has created, and the trade of Canada with the United States, as it is, is greater than that with Great Britain. Whenever an opening is made in the tariff wall, trade at once rushes through.

FORMER RECIPROCITY TREATY.

Canadians look back to the days of the old reciprocity treaty as a time of great prosperity. The treaty was abrogated, not on grounds of economical policy, but in a burst of anger provoked by the attitude of Canada's Mother Country, or, rather, of the Tory section of it, on the occasion of the war of secession. The damages for the Alabama have been paid, and that feud has long been buried.

About fourteen years ago a strong movement in favour of reciprocity or commercial union with the United States was on foot in Canada. Our great producing interests favoured the movement; but it was defeated by protected interests and appeals to political sentiment on our side, and by coldness on yours; though Mr. Hitt's resolution in favour of commercial union was virtually adopted by Congress.

IDENTITY OF INTEREST.

If we had reciprocity there would be no more to be said about the defence of Canada against the United States. Identity of interest would be defence enough.

That commercial reciprocity would involve, on the part of Canada, a resignation of political independence need not be feared. Can an instance be shown in which political independence or nationality has been impaired by freedom of commercial intercourse? Did any such consequences follow the commercial treaty between Great Britain and France? Has any such consequence followed the other commercial treaties made by European nations with each other?

Irish Demonstration in Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 30.—The programme for the Irish demonstration in this city, August 15, has been completed at a meeting of the United Irish Societies. Michael Davitt will deliver two addresses, speaking in the afternoon on Irish questions, and in the evening on England's treatment of the Boers. The other speakers will be Colonel John F. Finerty, M. V. Gannon and P. H. O'Donovan.

Spain and Germany.

MADRID, July 30.—The Premier, Senor Sagasta, in an interview just published, scouts the idea of any political outcome resulting from the visit of the German squadron (commanded by Prince Henry of Prussia, now at Cadiz) to Spain. He says Spain has nothing to offer. She must reorganize her army, navy and internal administration before dreaming of alliances.

Killed a Policeman.

HOUSTON, Texas, July 30.—Early today John F. Vaughan, a money lender, shot and instantly killed Patrolman William Weiss. Vaughan fled. Later, as he endeavoured to reach his room, he was mortally wounded by a detective. Vaughan's brother was locked up but refuses to talk, and no one knows the cause of the killing of the patrolman.

The Boss Coming Back.

NEW YORK, July 30. — It is stated definitely in a despatch to the Herald from London that Mr. Richard Croker will sail for the United States early in September, and will take an active part in the fall campaign.

Consolidation of Salmon Canners.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 30.—R. Onffroy, promoter of the consolidation of Alaska and Puget Sound canneries, known as the Pacific Packing and Navigation Company, has arrived in the city with the announcement that the sale of the different plants to the new concern will take place at Portland next Thursday. The new company will then enter into full control of the canneries.

WHEN THE WAR MEDALS ARE PRESENTED.

The Recipients Will Appear Before the Duke in Plain Clothes — Such is the Order.

(Special to the Star.)

OTTAWA, July 30. — Major-General O'Grady-Haly was seen yesterday respecting the strong and repeated expressions of opinion in the Canadian press on the subject of the order that members of the Canadian contingents, not belonging to existing military organizations who served in South Africa, are to be in private clothes when the Duke of York presents them their medals. The general said the order was the same as was issued in London on the occasion of the presentation by the King himself. It must be borne in mind, he said, that whilst some of the gallant Canadians who served so bravely in Africa had returned home in uniforms not much the worse for wear, beyond ordinary hard usage, others were not so fortunate, and would not care to present themselves to the Duke before a large assemblage of people in such habilaments. In any case, the matter is one among many which may be brought before the Minister with the view of considering, from all points of view, the expressions of opinion that have been published.

HUGE SKELETON DISCOVERED.

Remains of a Prehistoric Animal Found Near Williamstown, Ont.

(Special to the Star.)

WILLIAMSTOWN, Ont., July 30.—A skeleton has been discovered here, supposed to be that of a deinotherium, an animal long extinct. Some few days ago a farmer named Bonneville, who lives about two miles from Williamstown, in digging a well, at a distance of 13 feet, came across the fossil remains of some large animal in a fair stage of preservation. It is thought by men of science who have viewed it, to be the remains of the deinotherium. The bones of the head are about the size of and resemble those of an elephant. The vertebrae are from 8 to 9 inches in diameter, and the teeth about 2 to 3 inches in length, and are much worn on the crown. Much excitement and interest has been caused by the find, and the bones, which are now in the possession of Mr. William Macpherson, postmaster, are viewed by large numbers.

A New Kind of Crank.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 30.—Capt. W. Johnston, of New York, has arrived here and announces that he proposes to navigate the whirlpool-rapids and whirlpool in a boat of fire. The boat will be sixty feet long, thirty feet beam and will draw three or four feet of water. It will be schooner rigged and in place of sails will have a network of asbestos, which will be converted into a seething mass of flame. Three trips will be made as far as the cantilever Bridge and the fourth and last one will be continued through the rapids and whirlpool.

Was An Ex-Kingstonian.

(Special to the Star.)

KINGSTON, July 30.—William A. Long, who dangerously wounded his wife and then killed himself at Sea Breeze, Rochester, N. Y., on Friday evening, was a former Kingstonian. He left here about five years ago. Long was a private in "A" Company, 14th Regiment. By trade he was a waiter, having served in several Kingston hotels, on the Folger boats and in military camps. He was also a jockey for P. McLaughlin. On July 12th he was in the city.

Teh South Pole Expedition.

(Special to the Star.)

BERLIN, July 30.—The Official Gazette publishes the Emperor's appointment of Prof. Erich Drygalski to command the German South Pole expedition. The objective point of the expedition is Kerguelen, and thence southwards. A rescript says that in case South Polar land is discovered a scientific station is to be erected and maintained for at least one year. The expedition must return in the spring of 1904 at the latest.

(Special to the Star.)

KINGSTON, Ont., July 30.—Mr. C. F. Errett, now in Ottawa, has been appointed Technical Instructor of the Collegiate Institute at a salary of $800 per year. He has had an extensive experience, as a teacher in high schools in Ontario, and has lately been attending the McDonald Training Institute at Ottawa.

Winner of Stewards' Cup.

LONDON, July 30.—A. M. Singer's O'Donovan Rossa won the Stewards' Cup at the Goodwood race meeting to-day. Lebison was second and Forfarshire, third.

English Cricketers Come.

PHILADELPHIA, July 30.—A visit from a team of English amateur cricketers, captained by B. J. T. Bosanquet, is now practically assured for next fall. A meeting of the associated cricket clubs was held here for the purpose of considering a letter received from Captain John P. Green, a Philadelphia patron of the game, stating that Mr. Bosanquet was willing to bring over a gentlemen of England team, provided the legitimate expenses of his party were guaranteed.

The local committee cabled to Captain Green accepting the terms. This action insures a series of international matches for the autumn. Mr. Bosanquet will bring with him a number of the most expert amateur players in England. It is doubtful whether the Philadelphia players were ever better prepared for an international series than the present time.

Sharkey Meets Jeffries.

NEW YORK, July 30.—Tom Sharkey, according to his present plans, will start next week for San Francisco, where he will remain until the fight arranged with champion Jeffries is concluded. He appeared to be very much pleased when the fight had finally been arranged. He says he will probably put himself in the hands of Jack Root, of Chicago, and, in good shape now, he would enter the ring weighing 185 or 190 pounds.

May Die on the Cycle Track.

NEW YORK, July 30.—Physicians are said to have warned Harry Elkes and Johnny Nelson, the crack bicycle riders, that they have what doctors now call the "bicycle heart," and that in Elkes case, in particular, he is liable to die on the track at any time during a big race. The bicycle heart is given as the cause of Elkes' collapse on the Manhattan track on Saturday last.

Fruit Crop is Damaged.

(Special to the Star.)

HALIFAX, N.S., July 30.—W. C. Archibald, a fruit grower, of Wolfville, who is in this city, reports that the drought has greatly damaged the fruit crops in King's County and through the Annapolis Valley. Should the dry weather continue through the week, he estimates the total crop will be cut down fully one-third.

Labourers for the West.

(Special to the Star.)

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 30.—Latouche Tupper, of Winnipeg, is here to-day, seeking farm labourers for Manitoba with fair success. Mr. Tupper says forty thousand men are wanted in Manitoba alone to harvest the sixty million bushels of grain.

DOESN'T THINK GRAY IS GUILTY.

NOT THE MAN WANTED BY FOSBURG FAMILY.

This is the Opinion of the Detective Employed by the Family to Run Down the Murderer of May Fosburg—Gray is at Present Held at New York.

WILLIAM LEWIS GREY.

NEW YORK, July 30. — William R. Hazen, employed by the Fosburg family to hunt down the murderer of May Fosburg, gives it as his opinion that William Lewis Gray, now detained here pending further investigation, is not the man wanted.

Mr. Hazen, who was formerly chief of the U. S. Secret Service, had a long talk with Gray yesterday and decided that the man was telling the truth when he said he knew nothing about the murder.

Gray is still held in custody by Captain Titus, who does not feel justified in releasing Gray until word comes that the Pittsfield police doesn't want him.

In the Police Court yesterday Gray was held at the request of a detective. Gray said he was innocent, and had no objection. Unless the police get something to corroborate the statement of the woman who caused the arrest of the prisoner, he will probably be discharged when brought into court again on Wednesday.

The Future of the Great West.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 30.—In his address at the opening of the Winnipeg exhibition yesterday President F. W. Thompson declared that here in the Canadian North-West lay the future grainery of the world. He hoped to see the day when the province of Manitoba would be producing more wealth than the entire spring wheat crop of the United States, which promised to-day some 250,000,000 bushels. He said also that he expected to live to see the day when farmers' grain known as Manitoba No. 1 hard wheat would be a prime factor in the prices of the world's bread stuffs. This year's exhibition is larger and more attractive than ever. The exhibit of live stock is far ahead of previous years, while the dairy and poultry exhibits are the best in the history of the exhibition.

Child Coughed Up a Brooch.

TORONTO, Ont., July 30. — The four months old child of George Billinghurst, 76 Wellington ave., yesterday during violent coughing coughed up a brooch, which it had in its stomach for exactly 2 months, 13 days, and 3 hours. The child suffered no pain and is none the worse for its strange experience. At the time the child swallowed the brooch, which was an inch and half long, every effort was made to extract it from the stomach, but without avail.

Hamilton and the Duke's Visit.

HAMILTON, Ont., July 30.—The recommendation of the reception committee that a grant not to exceed $10,000, be made for the reception to the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York was withdrawn at last night's council meeting. The aldermen believe there should be a big demonstration, but some regard $10,000 too large amount to be expended. The committee will meet again in a few days to consider the matter.

Ministers Away From Work.

(Special to the Star.)

OTTAWA, Ont., July 30.—The only Minister in town again is the Hon. R. W. Scott. All the others have gone north and south and east and west to rest. Nothing has been done with the military arrangements for the royal visit, and probably nothing will be done until Dr. Borden is back in town.

Ontario Crops Damaged.

NEWMARKET, Ont., July 30. — The heaviest storm experienced here in years struck Newmarket yesterday. So heavy was the rain fall that the sewers were unable to carry off the water and cellars that were never before known to have water in them were flooded. The damage to the crops in the vicinity cannot be estimated as yet, but it is very serious.

Sold Cool Comforts on Sunday.

HAMILTON, Ont., July 30.—Summonses have been issued against. A Delaney and Charles Israel, charged with selling icecream and cooling beverages on Sunday. The prosecution is at the instigation of the local committee of the Lord's Day Alliance, complaint about law breakers having been made to Chief Smith.

He Would Like Samples.

(Special to the Star.)

OTTAWA, July 30.—An English correspondent applies to the Department of Trade and Commerce to assist him in opening a connection with Canadian firms of boots and shoes. He calmly suggests that the firms responding to his letter should send samples.

The Minister of Agriculture.

(Special to the Star.)

OTTAWA, July 30. — Hon. Sidney Fisher is now at his country home in the county of Brome. He is expected here today or to-morrow.

General Wood Returns.

NEW YORK, July 30. — The steamer Morro Castle, from Havana, passed Sandy Hook this forenoon. Among her passengers is General Wood, Governor of Cuba.

Toronto Metal Workers.

TORONTO, Ont., July 30.—The forces of the striking brass moulders and workers have been augmented by nearly 40 machinists in the employ of the Northey Manufacturing Co. These men have struck nominally because of the introduction of non-union material, but practically out of sympathy with their fellow workmen.

Pill Sense.—It stands to reason that Dr. Agnew's Little Liver Pills will crowd out of the market many of the nauseous old-timers. A better medicine at less than half the price is all the argument needed to keep the demand what it has been—phenomenal—40 doses 10 cents. They cure Sick Headache, Biliousness, and allay all stomach irritations.—5.

THE LIVE STOCK MARKET.

An Easier Feeling in the Local Market in View of Heavier Receipts.

Live stock shipments to the English market from the port of Montreal for the week ending July 27 were 2,293 cattle and 1,313 sheep. London reports the cattle trade fair, with no changes in prices, Canadians being quot l at 12 1-2c. Sheep advanced to 12 1-2 to 13c. Liverpool advanced 1-2c, with sales at 12 1-2c. At Liverpool sheep were quoted at 11c.

An increased supply at the Eastern Abattoir caused an easier feeling to develpp, and trading was on the slow side. A few prime steers sold at 4 3-4 to 5c, choice at 4 1-2 to 4 3-4c, good at 4 to 4 1-4c, and lower grades at 2 1-2 to 3 1-2c per lb. The demand for sheep was fair, and prices were unchanged at 3 to 3 1-2c per lb. Lambs met with a good demand at from $2.50 to $4.25 each. The demand for calves was good at prices ranging from $2 to $10 each. A fairly active trade was done in live hogs at 6 1-2 to 7 1-4c per lb.

TORONTO, Ont., July 30.—Thirty-seven loads in to-day, including 285 hogs, 952 sheep and lambs, and 14 calves. Export cattle, choice, $5 to $5.15 per 100 lbs.; export cattle, light, $4.60 to $4.80; export bulls, choice, $4 to $4.25; butchers' cattle, picked lots, $4.25 to $4.50; butchers' cattle, medium mixed, $3.75 to $4; butchers cattle, common, $3 to $3.25; feeders, heavy, $4 to $4.25; feeders, light, $3.25 to $3.50; stockers, $2.75 to $3; milch cows, each, $30 to $50; export ewes, $3.40 to $3.50 per 100 lbs. Export bucks, $2.50 to $3; culls, $2 to $3; lambs, $2.50 to $3.75. Calves, per head, $2 to $8; hogs, singers, $7.25 per 100 lbs.; fats and lights, $7 per 100 lbs., off cars. Trade slow for everything on account of big runs last week. There is very little wanted to-day.

COUNTRY PRODUCE MARKET.

Cheese is Firm and Butter Steady — Eggs are Unchanged and Other Lines Dull.

BUTTER—At the wharf yesterday 19 3-4c was paid for a few hundred packages Quebec makes; in one case 20c was paid. Local exporters, however, are not prepared to pay over 19 1-2c for finest, though others think 20c would be conceded for fancy goods, which are very scarce.

Shipments from the port of Montreal during the past week amounted to 23,881 packages, or 16,504 more than for the same week of last year. Shipments since the first of May were 140,210 packages, or 66,307 more than for the corresponding period last year.

CHEESE—At the wharf yesterday some 7,000 boxes of Quebecs sold at 9 5-8 to 3-4c to a shade higher for a few. The general idea in the local market appears to be from 9 1-2 to 3-4c for easterns, and 10 to 10 1-4c for Ontarios.

Shipments from the port of Montreal during the past week amounted to 90,701 boxes, or 8,901 more than for the corresponding week of last year. Shipments since the first of May were 603,281 boxes, or 273,573 less than for the corresponding period of last year.

EGGS—The British and European Produce Company, of Liverpool, report the following prices for Canadian fresh eggs: Selected stock, 16 pound, 6s 2d to 6s 4d per 10 doz., and for ordinary 15 pound, 5s 6d to 5s 9d. The demand was poor, and the weather very hot. The circular is dated July 20.

The market is dull and unchanged at 9c for No. 2 candled, 11c for straight receipts, guaranteed not over 2 per cent. bad ,and 12c for No. 1 candled. The loss thdough bad stock is generally heavy.

HONEY—Stocks are light, and it is difficult to find any comb out of retailers' hands. Dark strained is quoted at 9c to jobbers and light strained at 10c a lb.

MAPLE PRODUCTS.—Kegs are being offered at 5c a lb., though tins are still held at 6c. Good sugar, 8½c.

BEANS.—Primes in 6-bag lots are worth about $1.30 to $1.35 a bushel, hand-picked being 10 to 15c more.

POTASH.—Firsts quoted at $4.25; seconds at $3.80; pearl ash nominal at $6.

The steamer Three Rivers has been engaged for the occasion and will leave at 9 o'clock.

STONEMASONS' UNION.—The regular meeting of the Stonemasons' Union was held last night in St. Joseph's Hall. The president, Mr. L. Pilon, occupied the chair. Notwithstanding the wet weather the meeting was largely attended. Two new members were initiated. Mr. Durocher, corresponding secretary of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, delivered an address He advised the workingmen of Montreal to buy only boots and shoes bearing the union label. The Labour Day celebration was discussed. It was decided to engage a brass band and make a big turn-out. The delegates to the Federated Trades and Labour Council were instructed to notify the Council to this effect. It was also decided to hold a special meeting next Monday evening to discuss the semi-annual report of the International Union.

FAVOURS ARBITRATION.—A special meeting of the Rubber Clothing Workers was held last evening at 1796 St. Catherine street, for the purpose of forming an Arbitration Committee that will seek to adjust disputes, without resorting to extreme measures. Mr. Bernard Rose, president of the Tailors' Union, who was present and delivered a short address, said that he was greatly pleased to find that the union had decided to form an arbitration board; as the surest way to prevent strikes was to calmly and impartially hear both sides, in order to bring about a satisfactory settlement, and that he was at all times ready to give the members the benefit of his experience in the field of labour.

A PICNIC AT IBERVILLE.

AROUND HOTEL CORRIDORS

While the long line of guests from the Toronto boat slowly filed up to the register of the Windsor last evening, a small-sized, genial-looking gentleman, with neatly trimmed brown beard, sat in his chair near by, and quietly smoked his briar pipe, as he philosophically contemplated the bright picture about him in the rotunda. Though small in stature, intellectually he was as big a man as the Windsor has accommodated for many a long day, being none other than the newly appointed professor of natural philosophy at Edinburgh University—Dr. James Gordon MacGregor—who will in future fill this great position in succession to the late Professor Tait. Perhaps no other colonial has ever achieved so high a position in the university world, the chair of natural philosophy at Edinburgh being one of those posts to which only the very greatest scholars are elected. Dr. MacGregor, who was recently elected to the chair, returned from Great Britain yesterday by the Numidian, and proceeded to Halifax last evening, where for the past twenty-two years he has filled with signal ability the chair of physics at Dalhousie University. When the news of Dr. MacGregor's appointment to succeed Professor Tait was cabled a short time ago, a thrill of pride went through the hundreds, and even thousands, of the doctor's old students, to think that the man whom they had so highly appreciated during their old college days had been selected for this post—one of the most coveted collegiate positions in the world to-day.

Dr. MacGregor's name for the past fifteen years has been prominently before the scientific world. He is a Bachelor and a Master of Arts of Dalhousie College, a D.Sc. of London, England, probably the most difficult degree to obtain in the world to-day, an LL.D. of Glasgow University, as also F.R.S.C., F.R.S.E. and F.R.S. He has written a valuable treatise on Kinematics and Dynamics, which is used as a text-book at both Harvard and Edinburgh. He has published several papers on Fundamental Hypotheses of Abstract Dynamics and also a number on Densities, Viscosities and Conductivities of Solutions, several of which have been translated into the German. These papers have principally appeared in the Transactions of the Nova Scotia Scientific Society, in the Transactions of the Royal Society of Canada, and in the Philosophical Magazine, Lord Kelvin's journal. The number of Dr. MacGregor's students who have taken fellowships in the colleges of the United States and Europe is extremely creditable to the teacher.

** ** **

Professor MacGregor chatted about his trip abroad at the Windsor Hotel last evening, and looks the picture of health after his visit to Scotland. He was warmly congratulated by many friends in Montreal upon his arrival yesterday, and in the afternoon paid a visit to McGill University, being escorted over the various buildings by his friend and pupil Dr. Douglas McIntosh, demonstrator in chemistry, and by Dr. Barnes.

In speaking of his appointment, Dr. MacGregor said:

"The appointment was very much of a surprise to me, as I had imagined the chair would go to another one of the candidates. In fact, I had drafted a letter of congratulation to the gentleman whom I regarded as the most likely to receive the honour. I was engaged in this work when, to my surprise, a telegram arrived announcing that I myself had been appointed. There were fourteen candidates in all, among them being Dr. Carl Pearson, of London, whose chances for the post were regarded by many as being exceptionally good, as he is a well-known author on scientific subjects and very highly gifted. With the exception of myself and a gentleman from Cape of Good Hope, the candidates were all from England and Scotland. The brilliant attainments of the late Professor Tait will make it very difficult for his successor, but, as I have been selected, I owe it to Dalhousie University and my old pupils, to do my best in the new environment. I shall return to Edinburgh to enter upon my new duties about the first of September."

"Will you modify or change to any extent the scope of the work covered by Professor Tait in his professorial capacity?"

"I had intended," replied Professor MacGregor, "to have started a class to pursue original laboratory research work in connection with the regular curriculum, but I found upon making enquiries into the subject that it would be impossible to do this under present condition. The adjustment of such a matter, I find, is a matter of some difficulty, owing to the fact that the university is under Act of Parliament, and unless Glasgow University would consent to join Edinburgh in such a demand upon the Commissioners, very little good would in all probability result. One is handicapped considerably by such conditions.

"Yes, I have been for twenty-two years connected with Dalhousie University in a professional capacity—ever since 1879. Since the late lamented Professor McDonald's death, some months ago, I have been the senior professor of that University.

"The future of education in Nova Scotia. Well, I think things are at a turning point now in this regard. I think that there are many things which might be improved in order to permit us to get better and more practical results from our educational system. We want, for instance, technical education, and it is time now that money should be spent upon this line of work. The first thing, however, which must be done is to consolidate the colleges already existing in Nova Scotia. Until this is done very little genuine progress can be made. It will be a task of some magnitude, but I am of the opinion that the time is about ripe for this to be done, and there are no really insuperable barriers. Dalhousie would be willing, the University of New Brunswick is already under Government control, and I think King's and Acadia would enter the scheme. There might be some objections urged by the governors of some of these institutions, but I am sure that they would see, when the subject was thoroughly investigated and discussed, that consolidation is most desirable—nay, indispensable, at the present time, if genuine progress, consistent with the age we live in is to result.

Consolidation once accomplished, a scheme of technical education might then be introduced and made a feature of the University curriculum. It would hardly be worth while, or, indeed, practical, doing this while the universities remain isolated."

"Where would the money come from to carry out such a scheme of technical education?"

"Well, I was talking with the Premier of Nova Scotia lately," replied Dr. MacGregor, "about the advisability of applying some of that Eastern Extension Railway Indemnity, which the province now seems fairly sure of getting from the Federal Treasury, to this purpose. Of course, the matter was only discussed, but here are over half a million dollars which the province will likely get, and I am sure I know of no better way of expending it for the good of the province of Nova Scotia than by applying some or all of it to the introduction and maintenance in the province of an enlightened system of technical education. The good it would be the means of doing to the youth of the province is simply incalculable.

"Yes, the death of Professor McDonald, who for so many years was Professor of Mathematics at Dalhousie University, has left a great blank. His was a delightful personality, and his memory will long remain green at the university. As a man and as a teacher his equal will be very hard to find."

Referring to the Boer war, Dr. MacGregor said: "The people on the other side seem thoroughly disgusted with the war—disgusted with its long continuance and disgusted at the heavy price they will have to pay. Of course, it is impossible to do anything now but prosecute the struggle to the bitter end. It seems fairly well shown that the Boers intended to drive us out of that country, and their plans for doing so were able and extremely well matured. The Boers failed, and the war must be concluded as quickly as possible, but one cannot help admiring the Boer in the magnificent struggle he is making for his country's independence. It cannot be comfortable for him—this guerilla fighting in which he is at present engaged. It cannot be pleasant for him to contemplate the position of his women and children, but he continues the struggle with a courage which is superb.

"Of course, it is hardly war now which the British troops are waging, and, I think, from our standpoint, the refugees camps are a mistake. The Boers would approach peace negotiations in a different spirit if they knew that the women and children were not being taken care of by the British. It is a humanitarian war now, I grant you, but its tendency is to prolong the struggle. Perhaps, however, it is better to wage such a humanitarian war and we shall have better after effects."

"What do you think of Sir William Macdonald's gift of schools for the manual training of children?"

"An excellent thing. I believe in every boy being taught while young to use his hands."

Dr. MacGregor, who is in excellent health after his sea voyage, left by the C.P.R. for the Maritime Provinces last evening. He remains in Halifax until the autumn, when he returns to take up his work in Edinburgh.

WOMAN TOOK PARIS GREEN

And Died in the Hotel Dieu as a Consequence—An Inquest to be Held.

Johanna Doyle, the wife of a baker named Michael Towner, died at the Hotel Dieu last evening. She went there early in the day, and told the sisters that she had taken paris green. Everything that medical science could suggest was done for her, but she gradually grew very ill, and died last night. An inquest is to be held by Coroner McMahon. When Mr. Towner was told of her death last night he did not seem at all surprised, but stated that she had been despondent for some time over ill health.

Proctor's.

The performance at Proctor's Theatre this week is one of the most thoroughly enjoyable and entertaining that have yet been produced by any of the sections of the stock company

In the way of a curtain-raiser a very pretty little play entitled "Meadow Sweet" was put on. It is one of those wholesome and delightful tales in which the sweetness of the character of the heroine is even increased by the little heart shown by the man who was supposed to be her lover. The work of Miss May Blayney in this part was very convincing. She was ably supported by Mr. Wilson Deal as Benjamin Barnes; Mr. Charles Fleming, Mr. Robert Milton, Mr. B. Barbarette and Miss Florence Leslie.

The performance of Mrs. Romualdo Pacheo's comedy, "Incog." was also very satisfactory. It contains a number of characters that might easily be overdrawn, but no sign of anything of the kind could be seen in the performance given last evening at Proctor's. The leading roles were in the hands of Mr. Frederick Truesdell, as Tom Stanhope, alias Jack Darling, his father's heir, and Miss Helen MacGregor, as Kate Armitage, companion to Miss Howard, an heiress. Tom and Kate are lovers, much against the will of General Stanhope,, and to thwart the old warrior's ambitions, the former disguises himself as Dick Winters, who, at the time of this action, is under treatment in a private sanitarium. Complications are increased by the fact that Dick has a twin brother, Harry, who resembles him in every way. Mr. George C. Staley, in the character of the general, who has a very sour temper, owing to constant attacks of dyspepsia, was capital. Miss Lea Lestina as Mrs. D. Winters, and Miss Helen Harrington as Miss Mollie Somers, were very clever.

From a local point of view, the interest in the programme was added to by the appearance of Miss Bessie Neilson, who has just returned from England, and Mr. J. S. McCarrey, already well-known for his clever work as "the Habitant" in Dr. Drummond's selections. Miss Neilson, who has a very pleasing soprano voice, was heard to advantage in "Dear Heart," "Leave me Not," and "Down Where the Cotton Blossoms Grow."

Among the views shown on Paley's kalatechnoscope was a splendid one, showing the recent Columbia Pennsylvania boat race.

The Danites at the Francais.

McKee Rankin's well-worn play, "The Danites," was reproduced at the Theatre Francais last night. It is undoubtedly the best of the California-gold-digging-days dramas, and with a story founded, at least partially, on fact, it has taken a place with standard plays that will be presented long after some of the more pretentious efforts of to-day are lost and forgotten. It deals with the band of Mormons, called the Danites, or destroying angels, who were commissioned to kill the principals or the families of those who were concerned in the death of a Mormon prophet. Nancy Williams, Miss Linthicum, is the last of a certain family, and it is around the efforts of two Danites to take her life that the play is written. It is a serious undertaking for a company which receives the manuscript on a Thursday morning to come out almost perfect on Monday night, and none but a company well trained in stock work could have done it. It is full of tricky situations, cues that are so sharp that to miss one would upset the action of the scene, and several parts that are so long that they must stagger an artist when first looked upon. Though the company as a whole gave a really splendid performance, there were individual hits worthy of special notice. Mr. Kolker's Sandy suggested that he had never seen the part played before, and thus, in many respects, he gave us a new Sandy. The conception was pleasing. Of Miss Linthicum's Nancy Williams—afterwards Billy Piper, played in male attire—everything that is good may be said. She too branched out from preconceived ideas of the role and made it more real, more likely than the average Billy Piper, who has been an impossible character. Miss Moore runs away with a whole lot of laurels in the part of the "widder." None wonder the whole camp fell in love with her. Mr. Baldwin knew what he was doing when he enticed this clever woman to go with his company to New Orleans. Mr. Deming made the Chinaman do all sorts of funny things, and Mr. Hart's judge was admirable. Among the best work of the production was that of Mr. Day, who played the "parson." Miss McGregor was as boisterous as ever; she can be heard over any gang of howling gold diggers that ever lived. A lot of special scenery was prepared for the performance, and the stage setting in every detail was good.

When the Baby Cries at Night

there is a cause for it. Perhaps it is gas on the stomach, maybe cramps or diarrhoea. Don't lose sleep. Anticipate such contingencies by always keeping handy a bottle of Polson's Nerviline. Just a few drops given inwardly, then rub the little one's stomach with a small quantity of Nerviline, and perfect rest is assured for the night for both mother and baby. You may not need Nerviline often, but when you do need it you need it badly. Get a 25c bottle to-day. 177 1

Pictures of Queen's Funeral.

"Our Navy," the photographic reproduction of life in the royal navy, continues to attract large audiences to the Arena. In spite of the threatening weather last night, there was a good attendance, and apparently every one went away thoroughly satisfied with what they had seen. The performance is better and more interesting this week than it was last, as a number of new features and views have been added. Almost all of the naval pictures seen last week have been retained, and, in addition to these, views depicting yacht races in the Solent and pictures of the late Queen's funeral at the Isle of Wight, London and Windsor, are given. The latter are different from those which have already been seen in Montreal. Especially interesting are the first two views representing the funeral procession in the Isle of Wight, and the passage of the royal yacht between the channel fleet on its way from Osborne House to Portsmouth. The former gives the procession in its entirety—the massed bands, the body guards, the royal mourners, the foreign representatives, etc.—and forms a most effective picture. The latter shows the last water voyage of the good Queen, and the manner in which the men of the royal navy took leave of their Sovereign. The sky effects in this picture are exceptionally fine. All the funeral scenes are accomplished with appropriate music, including the marches played by the massed bands at the funeral.

At Sohmer Park.

An enormous crowd of people assembled at Sohmer Park last night, despite the rain storm, and they were well rewarded with a programme of all round general excellence. The feature of the performance is the appearance of the famous family of acrobats, the Dammans. They are six in number, and do an act that in many respects is the best of this class of entertainers now before the American public. Much of their work is new. Gallardo, the clay modeller, is clever in his peculiar line of work. He moulded several well known faces, among them being some local celebraties. McCart's dogs and monkeys are kept over for a week, and it was certainly a good move for they are an attraction that is bound to draw. Their act is somewhat changed this week. Ocellier loses none of his power as a baritone. His songs yesterday were well chosen and they brought encores that must have been gratifying to the artist. Mae Taylor is a splendid comedienne, and her songs made a hit. She is sure to become one of the yearly attractions at Sohmer Park. The band has a programme this week that must appeal to all musicians. Several of the number give evidence of much careful rehearsing.

Emerson as a Model.

Mr. D. C. French, the sculptor, tells with much relish, the story of his experiences when he was commissioned to make the bust of Ralph Waldo Emerson, which is now in Memorial Hall of Harvard University.

At one of the sittings, says Mr. French, Mr. Emerson rose suddenly and walked over to where the artist was working. He looked long and earnestly at the bust, and then, with an inimitably droll expression, he said:

"The trouble is the more it resembles me the worse it looks."

After the sculptor had finished the bust, he asked Mr. Emerson to inspect it. The philosopher's opinion was characteristically terse.

"Well," he said at last, "that is the face I shave."

Mr. Emerson, Mr. French relates, made one of his quaint observations about another bust, the work of another artist. It was a characterless kind of thing, and showed not the slightest hint of the Emerson character. After looking it over, Emerson said:

"It looks as armless as a parsnip, doesn't it?"

CANADIAN SCOUTS ARRIVE ON NUMIDIAN.

Another Party Still in England — Some are Strong, Others Ill.

(Special to the Star.)

QUEBEC, July 30.—R. M. S. Numidian, which arrived at Quebec at 5 p.m. yesterday, had on board, besides 331 Barnardo boys, who sent up a lusty cheer as they reached the wharf, 34 of the Canadian Scouts, who have been doing yeoman service in South Africa, which place they left in the middle of April. They were Lieuts. Gallaghan, Ross, McDonald, Ryan and Thompson, and the following non-commissioned officers and men, whose ranks are not shown on the passenger list: M. Cummings, S. M. Gordin, S. M. Seward, C. J. Joness, A. McQuarries, T. Branch H. Colbert, C. K. Cunard, E. D. Tyler, A. B. Craddock, J. B. Fradet, E. Carter, J. Pilgrim, E. H. Quarnback, J. T. Randell, W. J. S. Stinson, E. R. Shore, W. Sprott, R. W. Spicer, H. Burns, W. Ferguson, W. Hamill, Geo. Howe, J. Hobson, R. Harrison, F. A. Jackson, J. Vine, M. E. Wherry, J. Kinnelly, Geo. McClear, J. E. King, R. McIntyre, A. E. Miller, W. B. Muirhead, R. McLean, D. S. Hayden, W. E. McDonald, J. S. Duvall.

The last named is not properly speaking one of the scouts, having only been attached for the homeward trip. He is in reality an American hailing from Detroit, but his mother was a Canadian. He went out from New Orleans as assistant veterinary surgeon, and once in South Africa, enlisted in the Prince Albert Guards. About twenty more men of the scouts returned to England with this lot, but have remained to see the exhibition. There are still many of the scouts in South Africa.

A great many of the men remained on the Numidian, which proceeded to Montreal at midnight, and several of them were met here by friends. Most of them look strong, but others are decidedly ill-looking, having been invalided. One big fellow started "The Maple Leaf" as the ship drew in.

N. J. Peterson, a rancher near Medicine Hat, N.W.T., committed suicide while haying, cutting his throat with a penknife.

The Queen has consented to receive in a few days the Countess of Aberdeen, who will present to Her Majesty a noteworthy address from the women of Canada. The first signature to the address is that of the Countess of Minto, and this is immediately followed by those of many thousands of other ladies, including the wives of Ministers and the leaders of the Opposition, leaders of society, and the wives of the chief men in the scientific, artistic, literary, educational, and industrial life of the Dominion. The signatures occupy two large volumes, bound in red morocco, bearing the Royal arms, with quarterings of red and dark green kid. The volumes are provided with a case, which is fastened with a strap, the buckle of which represents the Order of the Garter, which was recently conferred on the Queen.—London Times.

The marriage of Miss Evelyn Jacques, eldest daughter of Ald. Jacques, to Mr. David Laberge, of Montreal, took place this morning at eight o'clock at the French Catholic Church at Point St. Charles. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. N. Jacques, cousin of the bride, in the presence of a number of friends. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a tailor-made costume of gray cloth, with cream silk blouse, and hat of pale blue chiffon, and carried white roses. There were two bridesmaids, Miss L. Jacques, sister of the bride, and Miss M. Murphy, who wore white muslin, and white hats, and carried white roses. Mr. E. Cabot was best man. The wedding party partook of luncheon on the mountain. Mr. and Mrs. Laberge leave this evening on a trip to the Saguenay. The bride received many handsome presents, including a gold bracelet from the groom.

A Very Unlikely Story.

NEW YORK, July 30.—The possibility, even the probability, that Osborne House, on the Isle of Wight, where Queen Victoria died, may pass into the possession of an American is suggested in a despatch to the World, which goes on to say:

"King Edward wants to get rid of it because of its inaccessibility and because it costs $60,000 a year to keep it up.

"William Waldorf Astor is said to have offered to pay any price the King might fix, desiring to present the famous Royal residence to his daughter when she marries the Duke of Roxburghe, but it was found that under Queen Victoria's will the King is only given a life title to the palace. Rumour says Mr. Astor now wishes to lease the property.

"Senator William A. Clark, of Montana, is reported to have written to the King asking him how much he will take.

"Charles T. Yerkes also is reported to be a bidder."

CHANGE OF POLICY IN SOUTH AFRICA.

NEW DEPARTURE ON LORD MILNER'S RETURN.

Work on the Mines Will be Resumed —Irritation at the Censorship—The Mail and Mr. Brodrick—Kipling's Alleged Poem Does Not Increase His Literary Reputation.

NEW YORK, July 30.—The London correspondent of the Tribune cables:

War news remains meagre, under the senseless application of the censorship, but there is general agreement among those who have come recently from South Africa that there will be a change of policy as soon as Lord Milner returns and confers with Lord Kitchener. This change will be effected by a resumption of work on a large scale in the Johannesburg mines. Dr. Jamieson, for example, considers that a mistake has been made in keeping miners out of Johannesburg, and that this will be rectified as soon as Lord Milner reaches South Africa. He asserts that the true policy is to concentrate an adequate garrison there and to facilitate in every possible way the return of the mining population and the transportation of supplies needed for it. When the way has been opened for the resumption of ordinary mining operations in that quarter, the Boers will begin to settle down and carry their pumpkins and farm produce into market. If shooting goes in for a while in the eastern or western Transvaal or in Orange River Colony, it will not offset the moral effect of the resumption of business in the chief mining centre. Johannesburg will soon be fully populated and employed, and this will be practical evidence that the war has ended and peace has been restored. Guerilla operations will gradually disappear with adequate police work. Dr Jameson believes that peace in this sense is close at hand, and that Lord Milner fully understands the situation.

THE MAIL AND THE WAR OFFICE.

The view is shared by the best informed South Africans here. Their hopefulness contrasts strongly with the pessimism of the press and the depression prevailing generally respecting the war. For this discouragment the War Office is largely responsible. The public needs information and newspapers are not allowed to publish it. The Daily Mail, while getting from Mr. Brodrick the best advertisement it has ever secured from any source, is rendering a great public service in exposing and condemning the arbitrary conduct of martinets in the War Office. Mr. Brodrick in the House of Commons yesterday repudiated the suggestion that in ceasing to give official information to the Daily Mail he had been actuated by a desire to punish that journal for reporting the shooting of British wounded at Vlakfontein. He explained his action on the ground that the Daily Mail had on two occasions published information based upon official documents of a confidential nature.

THAT KIPLING DOGGEREL.

Mr. Rudyard Kipling's poem, "The Lesson," has caused much irritation among English readers, and will not increase either his popularity or his literary reputation. He is reported to have written another poem, in which he attempts to mete out rough and ready justice to various British generals. Those who have seen it in manuscript do not look for its premature publication.

KING RECOMMENDS $500,000 FOR ROBERTS.

Lord Salisbury Reads the Royal Message to the Lords — Winston Churchill Gets a Medal — 33,000 Boers Have Surrendered.

LONDON, July 30.—In the House of Lords yesterday, Lord Salisbury, the premier, read a message from King Edward, to the effect that, in consideration of the eminent services of Field Marshal Lord Roberts, in South Africa, His Majesty, recommended that Parliament grant him the sum of £100,000 ($500,000).

King Edward distributed further medals yesterday afternoon at Marlborough House. Winston Spencer Churchill, the war correspondent, former hussar officer and now member of Parliament for Oldham, was among the recipients.

Lord Stanley, financial secretary to the War Office, replying to a question in the House of Commons to-day, said the number of Boers made prisoners or who had surrendered, since the declaration of war, totalled up to July 1st, 33,000.

CAPE TOWN, July 29.—A cavalry force of over 1,000 men has returned to Naauwpoort after ten days' patrol south of Middelburg, Cape Colony. They also made a big detour to the west. No Boer invaders were seen.

The first distribution of the mines fund which was established as a result of the conditions imposed in connection with the payment of miners has been made for the month of June. The rate is a shilling a day for an adult, and sixpence per day for each child in the families of mine employes.

Death of Percy F. Tabb.

SHERBROOKE, July 30.—Mrs. Tabb, of Sherbrooke, mother of the late Percy F. Tabb, has received the following letter from Gen. Baden-Powell, which though much delayed in transmission, by some accident, has finally reached its destination:

South African Constabulary, Zuurfontein, Transvaal.

Dear Madam,—I am deeply sorry to have to inform you of the death of your son, P. F. Tabb, who was on his way to join my force in the Transvaal. He seems to have contracted pneumonia on the voyage, and though everything that was possible was done for him at Cape Town, he succumbed to the disease there on the 26th April.

He is buried in the Woodstock Cemetery, close to Cape Town.

I am very sorry to have lost so promising a young soldier from my force, and I beg to tender to you my sincere sympathy in your sad bereavement.

Boers on Portuguese Territory.

LISBON, July 30.—A despatch received here from Lorenzo Marques, Portuguese East Africa, announced that a Boer commando, accompanied by women and children, has entered Portuguese territory in the neighbourhood of the Limpopo River. Troops have been sent to disarm the party.

Stock Exchange Peace Rumour.

(Special to the Star.)

LONDON, July 30. — Apparently the Stock Exchange has not yet had a sufficient number of peace rumours. It was reported yesterday that Dr. Leyds had arrived at the Dutch Embassy. The rumour was naturally taken to indicate that the Boers were at an end of their resources; but it did not receive much credence in official circles.

BOERS OPERATING AMONG THE ZULUS AND SWAZIS.

They are Defeated by the British in Zulu Territory—A London Journal Says They Would be Justified in Raising the Natives.

(Special to the Star.)

LONDON, July 30.—Following the recent engagement between British and Boers in Swaziland, when Bremersdorp was captured, it is now unofficially reported that there has been a sharp encounter near N'Qutu, Zululand, the British defeating 400 Boers. There were losses on both sides.

The Daily News regards the fact that the Boers are operating in native territory as serious. It suggests that they are trying to raise the Zulus and Swazis against the British, and says that if they are trying to do so they may plead justification, as the British authoized the Swazis to arm. The paper fears new and repulsive developments in the South African situation.

CANADIANS ENGAGED

Chasing the Boers From a Position at Zuurfontein.

(Special to the Star.)

LONDON, July 30.—A despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Vereeniging, on the boundary between the Transvaal and the Orange River, says:

On the 11th inst. Captain McDougall, commanding a post at Houtskop, eight miles to the north-west of this place, took fifty Canadians, with a seven-pounder mountain gun, to dislodge some Boers who were known to make a farm-house at Zuurfontein, three miles to the south of Vereeniging, their rendezvous. Sixty Boers were in the house, and they are said to have suffered severely, as they exposed themselves to a heavy fire. It is estimated that they lost twelve men killed and wounded. Some small commandoes are reported to be in the neighbourhood.

THE BOERS IN DESPAIR.

Facts Revealed in the Steyn Correspondence Recently Captured by the British.

Amongst the documents left behind him by ex-President Steyn in his recent flight were two letters bearing on the question of surrender, which have just been forwarded by Lord Kitchener and issued by the War Office. The first is a letter from State Secretary Reitz to ex-President Steyn, dated May 10, stating that Commandants Botha, Viljoen and Smuts had held a meeting, and arrived at the following conclusions:

First.—Numbers of our burghers are continually surrendering. This means more and more to unsuccessful termination, as Government and officials left without burghers entails heavy responsibility on Government.

Secondly.—Supply of ammunition so nearly exhausted that we shall be unable to engage enemy in another big fight; we shall be brought to a state of helpless flight, unable to protect stock. In immediate future we shall be unable to feed our commandoes.

Thirdly.—On account of above, Government becoming weaker, losing support becoming disorganized.

Fourthly.—Not only our nation will be destroyed, but it will also be considered that leaders have erred, and all hope of continuation of national sentiment will be lost.

Fifthly.—Hitherto nation and Government awaited result European complications and mission of our deputation. Government feel most strongly their duty obtain definite assurances.

Having considered above points, the letter continues, Government has determined—

To obtain permission to send messenger to President Kruger point out terrible condition country.

If request refused, we will ask for armistice to obtain opinion both nations of future policy to put an end to present state of affairs. We leave it to you to suggest other solutions, but you must carefully consider that this Government is convinced that the time has passed for us to let matters drift on as at present, and that the time has come to take the final step.

President Steyn's reply (dated May 15) acknowledges receipt of letter, and continues:

Great blow to me. Month ago discussed matters with your Government; agreed not to ask for armistice until things reached utmost extremity. Shall we obtain armistice? I think nothing has happened entitle us to armistice to obtain opinion of our nations. It is true Boksburg commando lost laager; General Viljoen was obliged to burn his and blow up his Long Tom; but in spite of this we have not come to last extremity.

Free State has been four months without cannon; I also know of men laying down their arms, officers becoming cowardly. Our ammunition has long been scarce enough, still (some) left to continue. You ask what prospect of successful termination. I ask what chance was there for two small Republics when they declared war against mighty power of England? You will answer. We have trusted in God's help and foreign intervention. "What reason have we for refusing to place further reliance on God?" I have seen last European papers; I firmly believe complications will take place in Europe within the next few months, which will gain our good fortune. Knowing leaders of our deputation, I cannot believe they would sit here without hope of intervention, knowing how we struggle and strive, for I know they love their fatherland sufficiently to frankly ask the British to end the war if in their opinion intervention is hopeless. The fact that these men remain in Europe convinces me that our case is not hopeless. When armistice comes I shall ask opinion of my nation. If they refuse to give in their determination will be mine also. I do not approve of sending messengers to Europe, it shows our hand.

Hope you received Natal newspapers stating Milner going nominally on leave; truth being he not allowed a free hand. In later English papers I have seen Kitchener and he cannot pull together.

I enclose cutting Natal Witness: "Public mind in England getting very uneasy about South Africa. There are possibilities which we are not at liberty to mention, and would, if we were, we could not (sic.)."

Following upon this letter of ex-President Steyn's, Botha, De Wet, and Delarey held a meeting, the result of which was embodied in the documents which we published on July 9. It will be remembered that those three leaders arrived at a resolution, which was published by Messrs. Burger and Steyn on June 2, to the effect that—

No peace will be made and no peace conditions accepted by which our independence and national existence, or the interests of our colonial brothers, shall be the price paid, and that the war will be vigorously prosecuted by taking all measures necessary for the maintenance of independence and interests.

A PAPER MILL BURNED DOWN.

$125,000 FIRE AT WINDSOR MILLS LAST NIGHT.

The Largest of the Three Structures Owned by the Canada Paper Company Burned to the Ground—Eighty Hands Employed in Building Which Was Insured.

(Special to the Star.)

SHERBROOKE, July 30.—The new St. Francis mill, the largest of the three Canada Paper Company's mills, at Windsor Mills, was burned to the ground last evening. Fire broke out in the basement at 5.45 p.m.. When the mill was in full operation.

It spread with lightning rapidity, and within an hour the whole building was in ruins.

The mill was supplied with a modern fire-fighting apparatus, but so quickly did the fire spread that it was useless.

The origin of the fire is a mystery, but is believed to have been due to combustion. The loss is estimated at $125,000, well covered by insurance.

Everything was destroyed with the exception of the two steam boilers, which were not much damaged.

The new St. Francis Mill was built in 1897. It was perhaps the best equipped and thoroughly modern paper mill in Canada, and was employed exclusively in the manulacture of newspaper paper.

Eighty hands were engaged in this mill. The fire will not interfere with the operation of the two other mills at Windsor.

Mr. MacFarlane, general manager of the company, arrived last evening. The mill destroyed will, no doubt, be at once rebuilt.

The Canada Paper Company has once before suffered by fire. In 1886 the Springvale mill was burned, and immediately rebuilt on a larger scale.

DEATH OF MISS McCORMICK.

Further Particulars of the Demise of the Prince Edward Island Girl.

(Special to the Star.)

NEW YORK, July 30.—Elizabeth McCormick, twenty-five, died at the German Hospital, at Seventy-seventh street and Park avenue, at 2.30 o'clock Sunday, and the cause is believed to have been arsenical poisoning, although it will take an autopsy to determine the fact.

Miss McCormick was brought to the hospital on Monday, the 22nd, by Mrs. Daut, who kept the boarding-house at No. 236 East Seventy-eighth street, in which she roomed. She complained of stomach trouble, and was admitted to the hospital and placed under treatment.

On Wednesday she lapsed into unconsciousness and remained in that state until Saturday, when she recovered consciousness for a short time.

Supt. Kurton had come to the conclusion that the case was one of arsenical poisoning, and in her conscious moments he asked her if she had taken anything. She then admitted taking poison, but the superintendent has ordered the autopsy to make sure, as the woman was unable to say more.

WANTED TO SEE NEW YORK.

Last September, in company with a sister, Lizzie McCormick, the girl left her home in Canada to visit another sister named Margaret, who is a nun in Boston. After visiting this sister, it had been the two girls' intention to return home, but Elizabeth concluded that she would like to see New York before she returned home, and proposed the excursion to Lizzie. Lizzie would not go, and so Elizabeth ran away from her and came on to New York alone.

Arriving here she took a room with a family named Denner, at No. 235 East Fifty-eighth street, to whom she represented herself as being a hairdresser. The Denners speak of her as a good, refined girl, who never had any callers or went out at night.

About six weeks ago the girl's money gave out and she told the Denners she could not pay her rent and would have to leave. They permitted her to stay till a week ago Tuesday, when she left and went to a room she had taken with Mrs. Daut.

SUFFERED FROM CRAMPS.

On Sunday last Miss McCormick went to Mrs. Daut and told her that she was suffering from cramps, and asked her to get something to relieve her. Mrs. Daut did so, but on Monday the girl was worse, so Mrs. Daut took her to the hospital.

In the room the girl had occupied at the Fifty-eighth street house she had left a valise, which on being opened was found to contain a number of letters from a man who signed himself "John B." The letters came from St. Dunstan's College, Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island. Miss McCormick had often spoken to the Denners about a young man whom she called "John" to whom she was engaged. She had also told them that her family was in good circumstances, and that her father was in the Canadian Custom House service.

BROOMS AND BRUSHES.

A Sweeping Increase in Their Price Determined Upon.

CHICAGO, July 30.—The Chronicle says: Prices on all classes of brooms will be advanced at a meeting of the broom and brush manufacturers of the United States, which is being held here to-day. The broom trust has been forced to charge the dealers more because of the advance in broom corn. The factories that are not represented by an agent are bound by an agreement to accept any changes in price that the meeting sees fit to impose. That the prices in brooms, including whisk brooms and brushes, will go upward, is acknowledged, and the increase will range all the way from 25 to 50 cents a dozen.

Premier's Trip Down the Gulf.

(Special to the Star.)

OTTAWA, July 30.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier left for Quebec last night, and before returning will make a voyage of the river and gulf of St. Lawrence. The Premier has been greatly concerned over the possible injury to the St. Lawrence, resulting in the recent wrecks at Cape Race and in the channel between Quebec and Montreal. He has, of course, every confidence in the reports of Government officers as to the adequacy of the lights, buoys, fog alarms and other aids to navigation, but it has been impressed upon him that a personal inspection of the route will enable him to decide more satisfactorily the dispute between marine officials and shipping interests as to the adequacy or inadequacy of the present equipment. Sir Wilfrid will therefore embark on one of the Dominion steamers at Quebec probably to-morrow, and will visit the principal lighthouses and signal stations along the north shore of the Gulf, going as far as Cape Race. The trip will take about two weeks.

Russia's Minister of Finance.

(Special to the Star.)

LONDON, July 30. — A St. Petersburgh despatch to the Pall Mall Gazette says M. DeWitte, the Minister of Finance, will shortly go to Berlin to negotiate with German financiers in regard to electric tramways and other municipal enterprises in Russia. While in Berlin, M. DeWitte will probably confer with Count von Buelow, the Imperial Chancellor. Afterwards he will visit London.

Prisoners Planned to Escape.

(Special to the Star.)

WOODSTOCK, Ont., July 30. — To-day the gaol officials discovered what appears to have been a well laid plan of certain prisoners in the county gaol to escape. Among the prisoners confined in the gaol are three young men charged with burglary. Shots were exchanged between them and the police before they were arrested a week ago. The gaol people think the three men planned the escape. Turnkey Forbes went into the cell occupied by 18-year-old Albert Kipp, accused of counterfeiting, and he found the bed up against the wall, whereas it should be in the centre. Pulling the bed away the turnkey found a hole in the wall made by several bricks being taken out. This would have allowed egress down the cold air shaft to the cellar of the gaol, and once there the prisoners could have escaped. Kidd, when questioned, said he had knocked the bricks out while sweeping his cell this morning. The escape was planned for to-night, the gaol people think. Kipp was only brought here Saturday.

DISAPPOINTED LOVER TO ACT AS BEST MAN.

Ex-Prisoner Returns From St. Helena in Time to Claim His Promised Bride Who Had Become Betrothed to Another.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 30. — The marriage of Miss Viola Porter of this city, to Thomas D. Winsor, of Rockland, R. I., set for August 12, is off. On that day Miss Porter will become the wife of Frank Leontine Hicks, of Pittsburg, and Mr. Winsor has consented to act as best man.

Hicks, three years ago, was an avowed aspirant for Miss Porter's hand, but her parents objected because he was thought to have consumption. The father, however, said that if Hicks could be cured, he would consent. When the Boer war broke out Mr. Porter sent Hicks word that if he would join the Boer forces and serve to the end of the war he would permit the marriage. "If you can undergo the hardships of soldiering out there you can stand anything," said he. "No man with consumption could range those kopjes."

Hicks started at once for South Africa, and fought with honour and enthusiasm, until, with General Cronje's force, he was captured and sent to St. Helena. There he was lost track of, and was finally reported dead. Miss Porter then became engaged to Winsor, and the wedding was set for last June, but at the last moment Mr. Porter asked for a postponement.

"I gave that boy my solemn word," he said, "and I would like some positive proof of his death before I give Viola to another."

Again the wedding was set, this time for August 12. Last Thursday evening Hicks arrived in Providence and went at once to the Porter home. He had just returned from St. Helena, having been released by order of Lord Roberts, at the request of the commandant, who had learned Hicks' story. There was a family council, and Winsor, cheated of his bride, warmly congratulated his rival, and asked the honour of serving as best man at the wedding.

BENEDICTINES BUY NAPOLEON'S HOUSE

Former Imperial Residence in Elba to be Distillery for Famous Cordial.

(Special to the Star.)

ROME, July 30.—The Benedictines of France, owing to the Law of Associations, are going to Elba, and have bought the residence of the Emperor Napoleon. They are going to convert it into a distillery.

Napoleon, when he landed in the little Island of Elba, after his abdication of the throne of France, first went to the City Hall of Porto Ferrajo, the chief town of the island. But this was meant only as a temporary place of abode. He left this for a pretty private dwelling situated on a rock between two forts in a bastion, called the Bastion des Moulins.

It was composed of two pavilions and a main building, which joined them. From its windows one commanded the city and the port lying at its feet in such a way that no new object could escape the eye of the master. He had also a country house, situated at San Martino, a cottage which he had reconstructed. It was situated at the foot of a high mountain, and had a view of the city lying below it, the port and the shores of Tuscany, across the six or seven miles of water. Between these residences the Emperor passed the period of his exile in Elba, from May 4, 1814, to February 26, 1815, when he returned to France for the Hundred Days and Waterloo.

The Benedictines have long been famous for the liqueur which they manufacture.

OUIDA'S FAIRY TALE.

The True Story of the Imprisonment of Olive Schreiner.

LONDON, July 30.—By her fantastic story of the sufferings inflicted on Mme Olive Schreiner by brutal British officials Ouida has merely added to her reputation as a writer of fiction.

In a letter which Mr. Theophilus Lyndall Schreiner—who is a brother of Mme. Olive Schreiner—has sent to the Daily Mail the true version of the matter is given.

"It is not a fact," says Mr. Schreiner, "that Olive Schreiner 'has been transported to a strange place, and been imprisoned within a fence of wire netting.' She was living by choice in Hanover for her health's sake for some time before—and at the time when—martial law was proclaimed throughout the Cape Colony, and of course martial law hampers everybody's movements. Her husband, Mr. Cronwright Schreiner (who, by the way, is not 'the brother of the ex-Premier of the Cape Ministry,' but his brother-in-law), was at the time in Cape Town from choice.

"I regret that Ouida should mention Olive Schreiner's cooking for herself,' etc., as if the military ordered these private personal arrangements. What hardships she has endured have been those shared by all persons under martial law."

Mr. Schreiner adds that his sister has for many years suffered much from asthma, which prevents her from residing for any length of time in the coast districts.

"It is a matter of deep regret to all of us who love her," he continues, "that her usual sufferings have been lately much accentuated by serious heart symptoms, especially since the sudden death of Mr. Fred Schreiner, of Eastbourne; but I enter my indignant protest against the way in which people's private and personal affairs are misrepresented by pro-Boer writers and editors to serve their own ends.

Finally, it appears from a letter written by Olive Schreiner on June 21, that she and her husband were leaving Hanover next day to stay at a Boer's farm near De Aar, in the hope that it would benefit her health, and she adds: "If the place does not suit me we will come back here soon, but there is fighting going on near here, and travelling may be difficult."

BIG SHIPPING STRIKE.

The City Front Federation Paralysis Business at San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—The labour troubles in this city reached their culmination late last night, when the City Front Federation ordered a general strike on the docks of San Francisco, Oakland, Mission Rock and Port Costa to go into effect this morning. The resolution to strike, which received the unanimous indorsement of every delegation to the Federation, was short, but its effect will be to cause a temporary paralysis of the shipping business of San Francisco such as has not been known before. It read as follows:

"The full membership of the City Front Federation refuses to work at the docks of San Francisco, Oakland, Port Costa and Mission Rock. The steamers Bonita and Walla Walla, with mail and passengers now in the stream, will be allowed to go to sea."

The meeting of the Federation was a long one and there was much heated argument, but when the resolution came to a vote every delegate present voted in favour of the strike. The following unions were represented, comprising all the workers on the water front:

Sailors' Union of the Pacific, four local unions of 'longshoremen, marine firemen, brotherhood of teamsters, ship and steamboat joiners, porters, packers, warehousemen, ship clerks, pile drivers, and bridge builders; hoisting engineers, steam and hot water fitters and coal teamsters.

This action, which is a direct outcome of the lock-out of the teamsters, will have for its immediate effect the cessation of all labour in and around the great docks about San Francisco Bay. The sand teamsters' union and the Oakland teamsters' union also ordered a strike. This will make a total of over 25,000 union workmen who have stopped their labour since the middle of May last, divided as follows:

City Front Federation, comprising 14 organizations, 15,000 men.
Machinists and iron workers, 7,000.
Cooks and waiters, 1,500.
Sand teamsters, 600.
Oakland teamsters, 1,000.

The tie-up will be complete if the plans of the labour unions are successful. They hope to stop the loading, and even to prevent the moving of ships that are now almost ready for departure. Unless the proprietors and managers are able to secure sufficient non-union help to load and man their vessels, the strike will practically mean the closing of the port and the suspension of business in the wholesale and manufacturing sections of San Francisco and Oakland.

Flour Millers Firm.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 30. — At a conference yesterday between representatives of the Packers' and Nailers' Union and the flour millers, the latter, while granting the advance in wages asked, absolutely declined to sign a contract for a year or any other period. The union representatives withdrew to consider the situation.

JEERED TO DEATH.

A Striker Who Returned to Work Driven to Suicide.

NEW YORK, July 30.—George McCabe, 43 years old, committed suicide yesterday. He cut his throat at his home. Members of the man's family say that McCabe was driven to desperation by the jeers of his fellow-workmen at the Worthington hydraulic works in Brooklyn, where a strike has been in progress. McCabe went out with the strikers early in May, but returned to work July 18. As a result, it is said, he was reviled by men and women, and his neighbours would have nothing to do with him. Even the children hooted him as he passed. For days McCabe has been gloomy, and it is thought his mind gave way under the strain.

Toronto Masons Quit Work.

TORONTO, July 30. — A number of stonecutters at work on the new million-dollar hotel struck yesterday because they said the stone was being cut in Chicago by a non-union firm, Jacob Fuerst & Son. The men object to the importation of cut stone, which they say is machine dressed. Very little stone is to be used in the structure, and the architect says there will be no trouble in getting non-union masons. So far the bricklayers have taken no part in the dispute, but if they refuse to lay brick on the objectionable stone, the trouble will involve several hundred men of various trades.

British Opinion on Steel Strike.

(Special to the Star.)

LONDON, July 30.—The collapse of the steel strike is regarded here as a great triumph for organized capital. Business houses in this country that meet American competition, derived a melancholy satisfaction from the news of the strike. A long keen struggle from which the South Wales trade would materially benefit had been anticipated, and the failure of the men has consequently caused a feeling of disappointment in some quarters.

Tailors Still Out.

NEW YORK, July 30. — It was said yesterday at the headquarters of the striking garment workers and tailors that no definite day could be set for the men to return to work. At least 15,000 would have gone back this morning, but the action of the Contractors' Association in making demands upon the manufacturers blocked the programme. Until contractors and manufacturers reach an agreement, a big majority of the strikers will have to remain idle.

THE ROSSLAND MINERS.

The Big Mines Refuse to Comply With Their Demands.

ROSSLAND, July 30. — The management of the big mines here have made the first definite announcement as to their intentions. That statement is contained in a communication forwarded to the miners, blacksmiths and helpers and carpenters and joiners' unions. The letter, which was the same to all the unions, is as follows:

"We beg to inform you that your communication of 15th instant has been duly referred to the respective directors of our companies, and that these directors have instructed us that they are unable to comply with the demands you have made."

This is signed by the Rossland Great-Western Mines; the Le Roi, No. 2; the Le Roi Mining Company, the Kootenay Mining Company; the War Eagle Consolidated, and the Centre Star Mining Co.

It is agreed now that the strike will be lengthy.

The Rossland Miner will say in the morning that the indications are that the struggle will be protracted, and will review the situation at considerable length, with voluminous correspondence and other interesting data.
