SHERBROOKE (DM) — The Minister of Tourism, Fish and Game was in Sherbrooke recently to publicize the beginning of Hunting Safety Week, which ends Sept. 18.

Mrs. Claire Kirkland-Casgrain's visit coincided with the Sept. 11 opening of the small game season.

Mrs. Casgrain revealed the new hunting law contains severe penalties for those who break the law. She pointed out 6,569 hunters were prosecuted before the courts between April 1, 1970 and March 31, 1971 for breaking the numerous hunting regulations.

The conservation law is very severe. Mrs. Kirkland-Casgrain pointed out. Convicted hunters' hunting and fishing licences will be suspended for 15 months and they also will be liable to fines of up to $1,500 and six months imprisonment.

The minister advised all hunters to procure a copy of the government-published Summary of Game Hunting Regulations in Quebec before setting out on the trail.

The following advice is given to hunters on bulletins of public interest published on the occasion of Hunting Safety Week.

—Thousands of hunters will be in the forests during the coming hunting season. Everyone should therefore exercise the utmost care and precaution. It is a matter of good citizenship and of showing a sense of responsibility towards others who have an equal right to practise their favorite sport in complete safety.

—Hunters should observe and practice all basic safety regulations: handle every gun as if it were loaded; unload guns before entering a camp or house; be sure the barrel and action of the firearm are free of all obstructions; and always control the muzzle of the firearm, even if you trip or fall.

Keep the safety catch on until you're ready to shoot; be sure of your target before pulling the trigger; never point a gun at anything you don't intend to shoot; never climb a tree or fence, or jump a ditch, with a loaded gun; never shoot at a hard, flat surface or water; avoid any alcoholic beverages before or during a hunt.

—In the forest it is wise to always wear clothing of bright colors that contrast with your surroundings; phosphorescent orange is the color that offers the greatest safety because it is not found anywhere in the woods.

—The best way to teach hunting safety is to set the example. Parents who hunt should teach children the basic safety rules before hunting.

—A good hunter will keep control of himself, as well as his gun, at all times.

—Keeping control of oneself is a matter of practice. By correctly handling firearms and always waiting for the game to show, the habit will take hold. Such good habits will become instinctive even under emotional stress, when the time comes to shoot.

—Attention, hunters! The forest are full of the game you're after but there could be people working in the woods. Don't risk their lives by hunting too close to them. Follow instructions and don't hunt in territories occupied by forestry workers.

—Hunters, when you are in the woods, remember that there are many foresters working there to earn their living. Be sure before you fire that the target you are aiming for is the right one.

Four-day prison riot sees 28 prisoners, nine hostages killed

ATTICA, N.Y. (AP) — A four-day riot of convicts, most of them black, was put down by massed forces of the state at Attica prison Monday in a furious attack with shotguns, rifles and tear gas. Twenty-eight prisoners and nine white hostages were killed.

One thousand gas-masked state troopers and sheriff's deputies, backed by 70 truckloads of New York National Guards freed 29 other hostages, 25 of whom were injured. The survivors fled shakily through the prison gates one by one as the firing subsided.

"They had lined up and were proceeding to cut our throats," said one of the captive guards, Frank Wall, who stated that sharpshooters saved his life. "They got the man who was going to cut my throat just as he began to pull the knife across."

One state trooper estimated that most of the action took about 10 minutes, although the assault continued for an hour and a half.

"Anybody who resisted was killed—and I didn't see anybody get away with anything," he said.

"We had a job to do," said another trooper.

It was the highest riot toll within prison walls in recent

United States history. Convicts started a fire at the Ohio penitentiary in 1930 which took the lives of 320 prisoners.

"It resembled the aftermath of a war," said a medical aide, Richard Smith, 30, after the lawmen shot their way along tunnels and catwalks into one cellblock still in the hands of rebel prisoners.

Among the Attica guards whose body was found in a pool of his own blood was Carl Valone, 44. His teen-aged daughter, Mary Ann, said he liked his job but had complained that officials were "too lenient with the prisoners."

As gunfire crackled and tear gas drifted through barricaded streets in the prison's vicinity, frightened inhabitants of this dairy centre of less than 3,000 retreated into their home and slammed their windows down tight.

A roll call showed eight prisoners missing—either hiding or dead, officials said.

Reuters news agency quoted officials as saying they feared the eight may have secreted themselves in tunnels that lace the large prison. It said police-men were searching the tunnels cautiously because booby traps and bombs had been found in the tunnels and recesses of the prison.

The violence at Attica spread an aura of tension to others of the state's prisons. Some convicts were kept locked in their cells. Precautionary measures were common against large gatherings of convicts.

A spokesman for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said some of the hostage guards and civilian employees appeared to have been killed hours before the all-out assault. The governor called the sayings of the hostages "cold-blooded killings" by revolutionary militants.

Two of the slain prisoners were found stabbed to death in their cells after the prison was secured by the state forces.

Only one death had been recorded prior to the final storming of the prison yard. A guard injured in the early hours of the riot Thursday died Saturday.

A state spokesman said several of the hostages "had their throats slashed."

Amid the rampage by about half of Attica's 2,284 prisoners, one of the hostages, E. Huehen, found his life spared by a convict assigned to kill him, who whispered instead:

"I don't have the heart to do it. I'm only going to prick you."

Huehen said the prisoner nicked him enough to draw blood, then lay down on top of him so other convicts would not notice he was still alive.

About 85 per cent of the convicts in the 40-year-old prison 40 miles east of Buffalo are Negro or Puerto Rican. Their guards are white.

With Rockefeller's approval, state Corrections Commissioner Russell Oswald gave up efforts to negotiate the hostages' release after nearly four days of trying. He said the mineuters "callously herded eight hostages within our view with weapons at their throats."

President Nixon telephoned Rockefeller Monday to express support for the governor's actions in dealing with the rebellion. The White House disclosed in Washington.

Oswald said the demand for total amnesty was out of the question.

When Oswald's ultimatum to release the hostages was ignored, he unleashed the state's armed forces. They were armed with shotguns and rifles and had helicopter support.

The prisoners, driven back early in the riot to Cellblock D and its adjoining yard, had started out with only clubs and their fists as weapons. But they had since made knives and a state spokesman, Jerry Houlihan, said later:

"We found some had tear-gas guns. They had erected barricades and had electric wire fences."

No new trade measures until U.S. moves—PM

OTTAWA (CP) — The government will not announce any new contingency plan for trade relations with the U.S. unless—or until—the U.S. makes another move of its own. Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons Monday.

But he said Finance Minister Edgar Benson will take specific proposals for action to a meeting this week of the Group of 10—the largest trading nations in the Western world.

He would not say what those proposals were.

Mr. Trudeau was replying to questions begun by Conservative House Leader Gerald Baldwin. He asked whether the government had contingency plans ready in case the U.S. slapped more tariffs on Canadian goods produced under the government's proposed $80-million bill to maintain employment in the face of the four-week-old U.S. additional tax on imports.

Mr. Baldwin referred to remarks made by a high U.S. government official to a subcommittee of the U.S. Senate that such measures were possible, depending on the way the Canadian grants to industry were applied.

Mr. Trudeau replied that the U.S. was free to do what it wished.

"If the worst does happen," contingency plans were ready.

Mr. Baldwin then referred to the report of a U.S. presidential commission urging the removal of special safeguards for Canada in the Canada-U.S. auto pact.

The Canadian government was acting on existing U.S. policy, not to "hypothetical suppositions," Mr. Trudeau replied.

Asked by Ed Broadbent (NDP—Oshawa-Whitby) for assurance that Canada will not barter away any of the export safeguards it enjoys under the agreement, Mr. Trudeau said the government has no intention of drawing away from any of the advantages the Canadian car industry has gained from the pact.

Marcel Lambert (PC—Edmonton West) asked whether the government has decided whether President Nixon's proposal to permit U.S. firms to set up tax-exempt subsidiaries to market exports are illegal under international trading rules.

Canada could not criticize the U.S. plan while setting up an equivalent of its own.

Heated debate begins Government bill to revise taxes enters Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — Either too little or too much, but undoubtedly too late.

This was the contention of Progressive Conservative MP Marcel Lambert Monday as the government's whopping bill to revise taxes came to the Commons floor for what is estimated, at the least, to run to a month of virtually non-stop debate.

Revenue Minister Herb Gray led off the debate, touching on the highlights of the government tax proposals first unveiled to the House in Finance Minister E.J. Benson's budget last June. The measure was given first reading June 30, the day the Commons rose for a two-month summer recess.

Mr. Gray said the government contention is that implementation of the bill, scheduled for the start of the 1972 tax year next Jan. 1, will remove 1 million Canadians entirely from the tax rolls, reduce income taxes for 4.7 million and vary them one per cent or less for another 2 million.

Included in the bill are increased personal tax exemptions and a generally lower rate of corporation income taxes.

But the measure also would institute a capital gains tax—on stock market profits for example. It also proposes to include in taxable income such benefits as employer contributions to medical care insurance plans and payments from unemployment insurance.

COMMISSION SET UP

Mr. Gray noted it had taken more than 10 years to come up with the package, starting with creation of a royal commission in 1962.

That commission reported five years later. Then the government drew up a white paper of suggested proposals. They were discussed before both Commons and Senate committees. Finally, the actual steps the government had decided on were revealed last June.

Mr. Lambert, MP for Edmonton West and his party's financial critic, said many of the white paper's proposals generated wave upon wave of protest. There were decisions by investors not to invest and by some business interests just to take their money out of Canada entirely.

The "foolish steps" taken by the government damaged Canada's business reputation and had caused irreparable harm by putting the country through some "18 months of convulsions."

Canada would continue to pay the price for the government's foolishness in lost investment and vanished jobs, Mr. Lambert said.

CHANGES IN PLAN

The Liberal government had "finally seen the error of its ways" and made a "welcome number" of departures from the white paper in the measures it finally proposed in the new tax bill.

But the bill would not change the fact that the Liberals under Lester B. Pearson had built inflationary factors into the Canadian economy that were still plaguing the country today. Even the actions by the successor government under Prime Minister Trudeau, which overreacted to inflation and hammered at it by increasing unemployment, had not been successful.

Now the whole picture had been complicated by the recent United States economic moves, including the 10-per-cent import surtax and proposals for special export industries with tax relief.

No one was quite sure what the government's revised tax proposals would do in these circumstances.

QUEBEC IN FOCUS

Circus hit for false ads

HALIFAX (CP) — Garden Brothers' three-ring circus of Quebec City was charged with five counts of false advertising in police court Monday.

The circus was charged with failing to produce the world's smallest midget, the world's tallest giant and the world's largest herd of performing baby elephants as advertised in Halifax newspapers and on local radio and television stations last year.

No plea was entered and the case was adjourned until Oct. 1. The charges were laid under the federal Combines Investigation Act.

Brome native, teacher dies

MONTREAL (CP) — Funeral services will be held Tuesday for L. B. F. Beryl Truax, an early battler for improved teachers' wages, who died Friday at the age of 78.

Born June 27, 1893, in Brome Co., Que., Miss Truax received a Bachelor of Arts Degree from Queen's University, obtained a Quebec high school teacher's diploma and in 1912 started a 37-year career as a French teacher in Montreal.

She became increasingly concerned with the plight of teachers whose salaries dwindled during the Depression and she herself sold mops from door to door to supplement her pay.

Through committees of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers and as president of that group in 1939-40 Miss Truax initiated surveys of teachers' salaries in various parts of the province.

Work to upgrade teachers' pay and working conditions was continued with the Federation of Protestant Women Teachers which she helped to found and of which she was president in 1940 and 1941, the Montreal City Council to which she was appointed in 1942 by the Civics League, and the Canadian Teachers' Federation of which she was vice-president 1943-1944 and president a year later.

St. Jean Vianney moves

ARVIDA, Que. (CP) — The moving of remaining homes from St. Jean Vianney 15 miles away began during the weekend as two of the more than 40 homes left there were brought here by trailer truck.

The homes were all that remained in St. Jean Vianney after a mudslide hit the Saguenay Valley community May 4, killing 31 people and swallowing up more than 40 homes.

Heavy rainfall in the area during the last two weeks delayed start of the moving but it is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

Land has been cleared near this town and engineers have said it will not be long before a new community is flourishing.

Arvida is 115 miles northeast of Quebec City.

Will help French newspapers

QUEBEC (CP) — A committee set up to help French-language newspapers outside Quebec held its first meeting during the weekend.

The committee, formed at the instigation of the Quebec department of cultural affairs, has a $20,000 budget and is to help French-language newspapers survive and become profitable.

The three-man committee met during the 39th convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association.

Supports 30,000 troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is supporting about 30,000 troops in special guerrilla units in Laos, Senate testimony reported Monday.

Ambassador G. McMurtie Godley, U.S. ambassador-at-large, said the troops are recruited in Laos and are equipped and trained by the Central Intelligence Agency.

Meet ETRSB's new director-general

By DEBBY CAMPBELL

LENNOXVILLE — The Eastern Townships Regional School Board announced this spring the appointment of Ian MacLay as director-general. Mr. MacLay formerly was principal of Alexander Galt Regional High School during the first two years of the school's operation, 1969-71.

Asked what obstacles he had to overcome during his two years as principal, Mr. MacLay replied that by far the most serious problem was creating a feeling of brotherhood among students that formerly had applied to other schools in the area.

In the first year of operation, many of these students wished they were still attending their former schools, and this attitude on the part of the pupils hampered the growth of school spirit, he said.

It was not until the second year that cliques disappeared, enabling the school to expand academically and socially.

Another difficulty was time. "In the first year, I was closer to the students," said Mr. MacLay, "but in the second year I spent a lot of time away from the school, having taken on the duties of assistant director to Ed Perry, then director-general of the ETRSB."

"I have always believed," he said, "that a principal should be compliments that had given it a good name throughout the province.

If he was staying on as principal at Alexander Galt, there are a few things Mr. MacLay would like to see done. The most important would be individualized instruction for pupils as well as closer contact between teachers and students, such as a joint room where staff and pupils could sit down and get to know each other better.

Talking about individualized instruction and the teacher, Mr. MacLay emphasized that this is a good way for teachers to get to know the students better. Although it means more work for the teachers, most of them are willing to assume the added burden, he said.

Mr. MacLay also said that in the future he would like to see a stronger student council.

"The way it is now, the students don't really know what the council is for."

"The future is bright for Alexander Galt," Mr. MacLay said.

"We are in the final phase of completing a news sports complex, with plans for the construction of a swimming pool and hockey rink."

Mr. MacLay concluded by quoting Ed Perry, who once said, "Alexander Galt is like a rocket on the launching pad and is just about ready to really take off."

well known by his teachers and pupils."

Mr. MacLay pointed out that he felt the parents in the community were far too critical.

"We have a great group of kids in the area. Having travelled over much of North America visiting different schools and meeting various groups, I can honestly say that I've never met a finer group of young people."

He stated that in the future, to maintain a school system such as the one the Eastern Townships has now, it would be necessary for everyone to work together. Mr. MacLay pointed out the school's achievements in sports and other

Magog O for Y project focused on cotton print industry

By CHARLES CATCHPAUGH
A new peak of excitement hits the fashion world, and is another of the numerous fast moving events that sets the pace in today's style oriented way of life. This excitement might have been triggered by a simple change in a cotton print, or a color combination in cotton cloth produced right here in the Eastern Townships, where some of the major Canadian fabric print works are located.

The excitement that usually generates this rise and fall in the fashion world, influenced by a fickle style trade, has decided bearing on the Canadian economy, particularly that of Quebec, and even more specifically the earnings of Eastern Townships textile workers.

Until recently, despite the importance attached to trends in textile prints, no in-depth research had been done on this subject from a historical point of view. This fact intrigued a number of students living in Magog, whose fathers were directly or indirectly involved in the textile industry. The void also presented possibilities for a federal grant under the Opportunities for Youth program.

After lengthy study and a well-planned program originated by Gilles Rousseau, a Magog stylist employed by Dominion Textile Limited, Bob Cooney Jr., the student co-ordinator and nine companions were given the green light from Ottawa, and the $11,000 endeavor was scheduled for the summer months.
Little more than three months from beginning to completion, and Canada's first recorded study in depth on the cotton prints industry was unveiled in Magog this past week.
The study, entitled "History of the Canadian Style Market," features seven large volumes of

And it's in Bishop's modern library that one of the three volumes with slides will be situated. The two others go to the University of Sherbrooke and Dominion Textile Limited, respectively.

Plans for future use of these treasures find people in the textile industry contemplating new ways of evaluating trends, while at Champlain Regional College it's hoped that use of the works will serve as a useful teaching reference.
Regardless of how they are used, one thing is certain, it was time something had to be done simply to preserve the historical value attached to the industry, which would otherwise have been lost unless the Magog project had been tackled.
"It was tuff, but hard work," commented Kenneth Richardson, of the 10 students involved Richardson, with Bob Gambrell and Jean Nicholl handled the photography side of the operation. They shot some 6,000 slides over the three month period, copying actual spotches, some miniatures that would measure less than a half inch wide, and also took pictures of many pantograph plates formerly used in color separations.

Working a 12-hour day wasn't uncommon, Richardson said, noting that his group also tried another experiment which proved quite successful. That was putting in between 10 to 12 hours for a four day week.
"I don't think these books have been looked at in more than 30 years," one of the search trio said, when displaying half century-old spotch sample books, that anyone could see by a glance had to be relics of bygone eras in the textile industry.

Row on row of these antiquities were dug out by Elizabeth Robinson 18, youngest of the group, and companions Michael Hebert and Raymond Thoun. Their job was researching, then the arduous task of sorting.
Christine Hebert's ambition is to excel in the business world, and with a partial secretarial course behind her, this pretty young lady and Miss Lise Lemay acted as group typists. Lise is also hoping to enter the field of commerce.
Not to be outdone by appraisal of work load, those who sorted slides and assembled material also laid claim to credit for hard work. These were Bob Cooney, Jr. and Stephen Gordon.

Today, the 10 students, whose average age was 19, are able to point proudly to their accomplishment, both as a first of its kind and also as a needed effort that will help preserve history and help others gain a more comprehensive idea of what the trend in cotton prints has been over the past decades.
Dominion Textile Limited is also appreciative of the work, and their enthusiasm was quite evident, according to the students, who agreed it would never have been possible without the help and understanding given them by this company.

Plans completed for county, provincial ploughmen's matches

AYER'S CLIFF (IH) — Directors of the Stanstead County Ploughmen's Association joined by directors of the Provincial Match met on Thursday evening to complete plans for the County Match and the Provincial Match, to be held on October 1 and 2 at the farms of Turner Hunter and Douglas McKinnon, in Barnston.

This is the first time the provincial match has been held in Stanstead County and the directors are encouraged by the support of several County towns and municipalities as well as business firms and individuals.

The county match will start on Friday morning and will be held on the same rules as last year. However, three new classes have been added: Open Class for teams; Four Furrows or more; and Visitors Class, open to the province.

That evening, directors will be burning the midnight oil, and they arrange their prizes for presentation to their winners on the following evening.

Saturday morning the provincial match will be officially opened with dignitaries speaking at 10 a.m. At 5 p.m. a civic reception to which guests will be invited will take place at Ripplecove Inn at Ayer's Cliff.

The women of the Ayer's Cliff United Church will be serving a turkey dinner, family style, in the Ayer's Cliff Protestant School starting at 5:15 p.m. and will continue throughout until all are served. The dinner is thrown open to the general public who are also invited to remain for the program.

All committees reported everything taken care of Douglas Johnston has arranged for electricity on the grounds, Wendell Cass and Gerry Letourneau for sanitation at the grounds. The directors agreed to have free parking for spectators at the match both days, and a plot of land will be roped off for this purpose.

To stimulate interest at the provincial match there will be a judging competition; those who wish to enter will be given a score card, and five prizes will be presented those with most points. Keith Rose and Don MacMillan will be in charge of this aspect of the day's events.

The Ayer's Cliff branch of the Quebec Farmers' Association will provide lunches at noon both days of the match at the field.

In preparation of the match, provincial directors held a demonstration on Saturday, Sept. 11 at the Richie Harrison farm on the Burroughs Falls road, which was most successful.

Open financial campaign with ecumenical service

FRELIGHSBURG (PA) — The official opening of the financial campaign of the Federation of Community Services for Richelieu-Yamaska in the Brome-Missisquoi-Shefford area took place Saturday in the form of an ecumenical service in the town of Frelighsburg.

The service, held in the Bishop Stewart Memorial Anglican Church, was a Catholic mass, led by Bishop Monseigneur Albert Sanschagrin, assisted by Archdeacon Desmond Rowe.

The federation, part of the United Appeal, helps people through the work of 23 private agencies: Pre-Kindergarten School (St. Hyacinthe); Volunteer Centres of Granby, St. Hyacinthe, Marieville, Acton Vale, Iberville, and Richelieu Valley; and Training Centre of Richelieu; Brome Missisquoi Shefford Community Services Inc.; Retraining Units in Granby, Iberville and St. Hyacinthe; Diocesan Federation of Scouts; Diocesan Service for Handicapped Children; Camp Richelieu (Pointe aux Fourches); L'Atelier Protege of St. Hilaire, Shefford and St-Hyacinthe; the Association for Handicapped Children (Sorel); Richelieu-Yamaska Council of Social Development; SOS Federation; and the District of Bedford Association for the Mentally Retarded.

Much of the administrative work of these organizations is done by volunteers, but there are many expenses. This year, if the agencies are to survive, $246,000 is needed. This figure is about 83 cents per person in the area served by the federation.

If you wish to help, you may give to the canvasser or donate directly to the Federation of Community Services, Box 426, St. Hyacinthe, Quebec.

Taxation reform

Parliament got back into business in Ottawa last week after the summer recess. Apart from the special measures for export industries affected by the new U.S. import surcharges, the main chore to be faced is that of tax reform. It is a big job.

When they were produced a few months ago the proposals were hailed as a break-through. The reaction, however, had less to do with the real contents of the package than with the fact that it was less repugnant to many interests than the earlier ideas which had been contained in Mr. Benson's White Paper on tax reform.

The people concerned, or at least the better-organized and more vocal among them, have now had the summer to consider new developments and they are muted in their praise. In fact, business organizations from the Canadian Manufacturers' Association on down find much to dislike, and they propose to continue the fight against a body of legislation which, however much it has been tempered by the passage of time, still constitutes a considerable degree of change.

This poses questions. How far should the renewed fight go? After all, the past fights against tax reform have been pretty successful. How far should the democratic process extend itself to accommodate dissent? After all, successive notions of tax reform have been objected to ever since the Carter Commission reported in 1966.

There are still ambiguities in the proposed legislation. A panel of lawyers at the bar convention in Banff last week found many difficulties in assessing the ramifications of policy involved. Other ingredients, in such areas as gift and estate taxes, depend heavily for their national effectiveness upon provincial government response which is not yet clear.

So what is Parliament to do? There are those who advocate still more delay. They would like to see the new proposals submitted to a committee of Parliament for study before the legislative process goes farther. This would mean destruction of the goal of installing the new measures by January 1, 1972. The critics argue that delay does not matter.

Yet, because taxes are computed upon a calendar-year basis, delay does matter. It matters to the extent that implementation of major change during the course of, rather than at the start of, a taxation year would cause untold nuisance to all concerned. Advocates of delay are really saying that implementation should not take place until January 1, 1973 — and, in honesty, perhaps not then.

There are lots of things about the new tax proposals we don't like. Complaints will be registered during coming weeks when the bill will be before the entire House of Commons sitting in committee of the whole.

But it has to be conceded that there comes a time when a duly elected majority government is entitled to go ahead and pass a law. The rights of the minority are entitled to protection but not to the point, in an area like this, where the minority dictates to the majority. Tax reform has been in the air for nearly ten years. It is now time to act, even imperfectly.

All on faith

The United States government is expecting a great deal to be accepted on faith by insisting on going ahead with plans to set off a mammoth atomic explosion underground on an Aleutian Island October 2.

The project has upset many people not only within the U.S. itself, but in Alaska and British Columbia. There is a deep anxiety about the possibility of earthquakes and tidal waves being touched off by the 2.5-megaton blast.

The Canadian government has notified Washington that it is seriously concerned.

The adverse reaction is understandable since the test is to be carried out in the vicinity of a critical earthquake-prone zone. There is also concern about the damage which might be done to marine life by the explosion and nuclear contamination which might occur later.

The U.S. government confidently asserts that no catastrophe will occur as a result of the blast. But Senator Edmund Muskie, a leading figure in the national Democratic party, recently criticized the government for refusing to disclose details of a report on possible environmental effects.

Washington claims the test is necessary in the interests of U.S. defence. But the government has presented no evidence to support the claim. Admittedly, U.S. security might be jeopardized if all details were made public. But it seems that more of an effort might have been made to explain why the test is considered to be necessary.

How Uncle Sam was abused

OTTAWA — Uncle Sam has had enough. He won't bankroll the rest of the world any more, and he won't rush to defend everyone in the shrinking non-Communist world who shouts for help. His power and patience have been overtaxed.

With the steady crescendo over the past decade or so of abuse and vilification of U.S. efforts to buttress the less affluent and to protect those who do little to defend themselves against the totalitarian menace, it was bound to come to that one day.

Following close on the heels of Washington's partial political cave-in to internationally orchestrated psychological warfare pressures, President Nixon's announcement of tough measures on the economic front leaves little doubt that the breaking point of America's endurance is close at hand.

It is not as yet a complete withdrawal into self-protective isolation, not a wholesale retreat into "Fortress America." But it is probably the last warning that the rules of the ball game, in which the U.S. has been played for sucker and kicked, tripped and beaten over the head at the same time, have to be changed if the remaining free countries want America to stay in the field.

Announcing his retrenchment program, with which he hopes to fight cost-price inflation, unemployment and balance-of-payments problems, Mr. Nixon mentioned en passant that the U.S. had poured $143 billion into foreign aid. He did not say so, but the implication was that had the U.S. spent this enormous sum (plus the undoubtedly large cost of defence assistance since World War II) on domestic improvements, there would now be few, if any, economic problems in the United States.

It was American generosity which pulled Western Europe out of economic ruin and political impotence after 1945, which put prostrated Japan on its feet again, which facilitated the transition of scores of emerging new countries from colonial status to independence.

Economic and geopolitical analysts in the recipient countries tend to explain the American aid program in terms of U.S. self-interests. The Americans, they say, needed a politically and economically viable Western Europe and Japan, and a modicum of stability in Africa, Asia, and Latin America, for their own political and economic survival in the East-West conflict that split the world in the postwar years.

While geopolitical (i.e. strategic) and economic self-interests may have eventually come to figure prominently in the U.S. aid program, the magnitude of that program went from the start far beyond these considerations. I think it's fair to say that most American taxpayers who footed the bill saw in the aid policy of their government primarily an effort to improve living conditions in the less fortunate parts of the world. Political and strategic calculations entered the picture only after Moscow had spurned the Marshall Plan and forbade its satellites to participate in the program of post-war reconstruction which was conceived as a joint venture of the Grand Alliance.

It wasn't, therefore, America's fault that the reconstruction aid program assumed connotations of the Soviet-engineered East-West conflict.

But even in the unforeseen and unsought Cold War circumstances, which were forced on the U.S. by Stalin's policy of Communist expansion through military-political exploitation of the chaotic postwar situation, America's self-interests in the huge aid program dovetailed with the self-interests of the recipient countries and with the general desire and need of free men everywhere for a quick return to political and economic stability.

Unfortunately, instead of treating the U.S. help as the temporary relief and stabilization measure it was meant to be, most of its recipients came to regard it as their permanent due. Not having the heart to shut the pipeline when a sufficient degree of recovery was achieved, and probably expecting a bigger eventual return from continued flow of aid, the U.S. role started changing from that of a rescuer to that of a milch cow.

With a steady sharpening of the East-West conflict in the 1950s, the U.S. administrations kept on lengthening the list of America's foreign aid commitments until the richest country in the world could not carry the increasing burden alone without running into serious difficulties.

The measures President Nixon announced recently represent the economic sequel of the U.S. political and military retrenchment he had initiated with his Guam Doctrine.

Since America's allies and friends did not seem to have taken seriously the notice of the partial American disengagement from their own responsibilities that was implied in that doctrine, the notice now is being served in economic terms which no one can pretend not to understand.

What it all amounts to is a frank redefinition of American power and endurance, both of which have been overtaxed by shortsightedly selfish demands of America's allies on U.S. resources, and by gross political and psychological abuses of friendship in the neo-nationalistic, Communist-fanned "hate America" campaigns.

Those who thought that Uncle Sam can be fleeced, kicked and punched without ever saying "enough" and hitting back, now are, of course, screaming "unfair" and watching "retaliation" schemes to the delight of their common totalitarian adversaries.

"Those Canadians back yet . . . ?"

William F. Buckley, Jr.
On the Right

Reagan — the revolutionary?

The increasing cost in welfare subsidies is a factor in the current economic confusion which will take years to fully understand. Many of the maxims we feed on are rooted in the assumption of up pressures and down pressures.

When prices are too high (up pressure), we buy less (down pressure). When unemployment increases (up), wages diminish (down).

What has never been sufficiently integrated in these arrangements is the role that welfare plays. If, as is so widely contended, welfare is a "right," not an emergency benefaction by the majority on the minority, then the down pressures substantially diminish.

I think of someone, known to a correspondent, who is engaged in a strike against his employer. He is receiving welfare and, in addition, is moonlighting in another job. The (down) pressures on him to return to work are substantial.

Meanwhile, the rise in general welfare costs are beyond the common imagination, and resentment and bitterness result as the producing members of society are taxed and surtaxed to look after the non-producing members of society, many of who are employable.

There was recently a dramatic confrontation on the subject. The scene is the summer White House. The principals are: the President, Governor Ronald Reagan; and for Health, Education and Welfare, John Veneman.

The Governor is asking the President for his cooperation. In recent weeks, Reagan has wrested from the legislature in Sacramento its consent to experiment with welfare modes in various parts of California.

In the demonstration areas, a prime roster will be drawn up of citizens whose welfare needs are permanent, or semi-permanent (the blind, the crippled, the very old).

Now a second roster is composed — of people who are not in the first roster, but who apply for welfare. They must first present themselves for work in a county-managed enterprise. No work, no welfare.

The psychological difference is immense between the Reagan plan and others which empower the welfare-distributing arm to require work after someone has been put on welfare. Such a law (for instance) has been on the books in New York City since 1965, and is a dead letter.

People get on welfare — and then, somehow, nothing happens.

A participant in the summit conference at San Clemente interjected that the California plan might well be attempted simultaneously in Illinois and New York, and if that were to happen, the assumption would spread like wildfire that welfare isn't a right.

To which the President is said to have replied: I don't believe that welfare is a "right." Those who get welfare should be prepared to work, if they can.

The subsequent meeting between Mr. Veneman and the press did less than lucidly to communicate the position of the Nixon Administration on this critical point.

Meanwhile, extraordinary things are happening in California. Up until a few months ago, 50,000 Californians per month were being added to the welfare rolls. Under the Reagan barrage, during the last four months, there has been a decrease of approximately 20,000 per month.

The average cost of welfare per person is $56 (paid — roughly — one-half by federal taxes, one-third by state taxes, one-sixth by county taxes). Fifty-six dollars times 80,000 is four and one half million dollars — the monthly saving at this rate.

Add, if you like, what it would have cost if the trend had continued. Add, then, what would be saved if other states did the same thing. Add — if your exuberance is dogged — the value of the work that would be done by those who are able to work. What you get is a social revolution.

Will it be known as the Reagan Revolution? Or will Mr. Nixon co-opt it, as the saying goes? Perhaps Mr. Kissinger should prepare to travel to Sacramento?

"Back to the Bible" creed

Sir: I object to the cliché "no discrimination against race, color or creed." Certainly there should be no discrimination against race or color, as no one is responsible for his race or color, and cannot change it.

"Creed" does not belong in that category, as everyone is responsible for his creed or belief upon reaching the years of understanding and accountability.

"Creed" or belief is responsible for much of the good and ill in the world, as creed or belief influences conduct. False creed or ideology is responsible for wars, inequities, oppressions, exterminations and the various inhumanities throughout the world.

Therefore it is essential that one's "creed" or ideology be correct, and also imperative that contrary creeds or ideologies be condemned and opposed.

All creed or ideology to be correct must correspond with the bulk of the plain teaching of the Divinely inspired Holy Bible (King James version).

Deviation from its clear instruction is the cause of all error and evil. Adherents to its precepts is the only remedy for a befuddled and reprobate world.

Unless there is a return to observance of Biblical authority civilization is doomed.

"drug". Hmmm! Doesn't it seem strange that we should be getting our information from such diverse quarters?

The article on marijuana finally turns to the question at hand and after months of study, Mr. Sonnenreich concludes it does not turn you into a "foaming maniac" and that so far no evidence has been found to indicate that it is physically addicting.

This, from a United States commission to study the "drug". Kinda makes you wonder where the reverend got his dope from?

The reverend gets his dope

Sir: What a strange, perplexing world this is that we live in. Little wonder so many young people are finding ways to tune it out. For instance, in The Record of Thurs. Sept. 9, there were two articles that could not fail to amuse, even though their content was extremely serious.

First, on the front page the Federal marijuana commission executive director Michael Sonnenreich stated that "...the most severe... abuse problem we've got in the United States is alcohol."

Then, on the editorial page, we have the following quote from Rev. T.D.F. Everett, general secretary, Canadian Federation on Alcohol Problems, Toronto.

"Preliminary research indicates that the use of marijuana on a long-term basis results in delusions, perceptual difficulties, and emotional problems."

He goes further to describe the terrible effects of this

Women's groups in the news

Lennoxville WI

Lennoxville Women's Institute heard a historical resume of the Branch history from its formation in 1914, up to 1934.

At this first meeting, invitations had been sent to local farmers' wives, 11 attended, and formed what was known as a Homemaker's Club. This first meeting was held in the office of Mr. Emberley, agricultural demonstrator for this district, in the town building, with Miss Frederica Campbell of Macdonald College in the chair. She explained the objects of such a club.

The first officers elected were Mrs. George Mitchell, President, Mrs. Walter Reid, vice-president, and Mrs. E. Louise Atto, as secretary-treasurer, who served the Club faithfully up until 1970.

Activities during this time included much war work at the beginning, the innovation of an annual school fair for the children, instruction in cooking and sewing given by demonstrations. As time went on, the work broadened, and was divided into sections, each with a convener head, namely, agriculture, citizenship, education, home economics, welfare and health, with a motto, For home and country.

Many interesting events were mentioned, bringing back fond memories to many. This resume was given by the president, Mrs. Sterling Parker, who was thanked by the publicity convener, Mrs. Nelson Beattie.

Mrs. Parker conducted the meeting with the usual opening, and a prayer by Henry Van Dyke.

A tribute of silence was observed for Mrs. A. E. Abercrombie, a member who had served the LWI in many offices at branch, county, and provincial levels, as well as the ACWW and FWCL for which she was honored on several occasions. Her passing was deeply felt by all who had worked with her, and knew her as a true friend through the years.

Members responded to the roll call by giving an important news event of the year.

Mrs. Hugh L. Wallace acted as treasurer in the absence of Mrs. Charles McKee.

Mrs. Neil Tracy will take orders for UNICEF cards, and Mrs. Kathleen Atto will take orders for Save the Children, each having sample folders for anyone interested.

Federated news was distributed and a supplement of the LWI history is available for those having this book by contacting Mrs. Doris Cascadden.

Helpers were named for the annual school fair to be held at the Sherbrooke Elementary School on Saturday, Sept. 18. Families and friends are invited to attend in the afternoon, from 2 to 4 p.m., to encourage the young exhibitors who always make an excellent showing. The sum of $15 was voted for prizes.

Mrs. Kathleen Atto told of her recent visit to Newfoundland, which was most interesting.

Members are taking part in the float for the annual parade on home life in grandmother's day, in keeping with the town's centennial celebration.

Mrs. Hugh L. Wallace reported on the success of the handicraft booth at the Fair and thanked all who gave donations and assisted at the booth. Lennoxville Day, Mrs. Sterling Parker, demonstrated lap loom weaving, and Mrs. Hugh L. Wallace's novelty pleated knitting, which added to the interest at intervals.

Three members from this branch sent exhibits for the county exhibits at Expo Quebec.

Mrs. Parker reminded the members that the roll call next month will be a hand-made article for the pre-Christmas bazaar, and urged all to participate. A discussion will be held on how to improve our WI this year, and members are to have suggestions, as this will be vice-president's day.

At the close, tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Ernest Cote, and Mrs. Earl Findlay.

Lennoxville UCW

Mrs. Estelle Saunders presided at the first regular meeting of the Unit 1 United Church Women, following the summer recess. A cordial welcome was extended to the members, by Mrs. Saunders, and the meeting opened by all repeating the UCW Purpose, followed by the Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. Queenie Draper was in charge of devotions, and her theme was Christianity. The hymn, What a Friend We Have in Jesus, was sung with Mrs. Ella Hay at the piano.

A moment of silence was observed in loving memory of two former members, Miss Frances Crane, and Mrs. Jean Abercrombie.

Because the secretary was absent, no minutes were available, and Mrs. Edith Parsons was appointed to take the minutes of the meeting.

There were 22 members present, and Mrs. A. Norman reported a satisfactory bank balance. A bill for $2.70 was ordered paid.

Thanks were expressed by members who had been remembered in time of illness or bereavement. A card was signed by all the members and sent to Mrs. Gertrude Webster, who had undergone surgery at the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital.

Mrs. Ella Hay, who is always a welcome guest at our unit meetings, and who had attended UCW Summer School at Macdonald College as a representative of Quebec-Sherbrooke Presbytery, gave a most interesting and informative report of the three days spent attending this meeting.

Mrs. Saunders expressed the thanks of the meeting to Mrs. Hay.

It was announced that the Fall Rally for this region would be held at Hatley, Sept. 28.

There being no further business, the meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

The ladies were happy to welcome Mrs. N. Beattie from Edmonton, Alta., and Mrs. Wilson Beattie, who were invited guests at the tea. Hostesses were Mrs. T. F. Cohoon, Mrs. Mildred Andrews, and Mrs. Myrtle Lane, assisted by Miss Bradley. Mrs. Lydia Davidson presided at the lace-covered table which was centred with mauve asters, and yellow tapers in silver holders.

MR. AND MRS. ROBIE LEWIS

Lewis, Price wed

On August 7, at 8:30 p.m., vows were exchanged between Miss Judy Price and Mr. Robie Lewis, at Trinity Church, in Wawa, Ont. Rev. Wiley officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white tulle crepe, featuring an empire waist, round neckline and long sleeves which were fitted tightly at the wrist with white covered buttons. Many layers of tulle formed a chapel-length veil, trimmed to match the daisies on the gown. Judy carried a bouquet of red and white carnations.

The bridesmaid, Miss Linda Johnson, wore a pink dress trimmed with daisies and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Mr. Arnold Jennings acted as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis left on their honeymoon for the Eastern Townships and spent a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Price.

A reception was held for the bride and groom in the Massawippi Town Hall, on Friday, August 13. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Price met many friends and relatives at the door, who came to wish Judy and Robie congratulations, and best wishes for their future.

The bride's cousins, Christine and Heather Moore, were in charge of the guest book.

The hall was gaily decorated with bouquets of flowers, white streamers and wedding bells. The bride's table was set with a linen tablecloth. Crystal candlesticks and white candles adorned the three-tiered wedding cake which was made by Mrs. Kay Little. The cake was flanked by white carnations and red roses in crystal vases.

An enjoyable evening was spent dancing to Ronnie Ward's Orchestra.

At intermission, the bride's uncle, James Moore and his two sons, Stephen and David, played the bagpipes, while Mr. Moore's daughters, Heather and Christine, performed some Highland dancing.

Following this, delicious refreshments were served by the North Hatley Women's Institute.

The groom thanked everyone for the many wedding gifts which were presented to them.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Price would like to thank everyone who helped to make this such an enjoyable occasion.

Tutor service not approved of by all

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I was very much interested in the letter from the mother of the 18-year-old boy who was having an affair with the 35-year-old woman next door. The boy's mother was not only mad at the neighbor but furious with her husband. When she told him what his son was doing he replied, "It's better than fooling around with a dumb 15-year-old. The boy goes away to college soon. He needs some experience." In my opinion the father was right on both counts.

Forty-five years ago, when I was 16, I had a similar experience. A 34-year-old widow who lived downstairs in my mother's apartment house offered to help me with my homework. After my third visit she seduced me. My mother found out about it, went to the woman, thanked her and lowered her rent $10 a month. If all mothers were as wise as mine we wouldn't have so many kids in trouble today. Why don't you spearhead a drive for better sex education via the Experienced-Older-Woman-Tutor System? It would be a public service, not only for the young boys who would profit from the experience, but for the young girls who should be let alone. It would also benefit the older women who are divorced, widowed or married to men who are incapacitated, lazy or busy.

—G.T.A.
Dear G.T.A.: Sorry, but I'm too busy right now to spearhead anything. Furthermore, I can think of a few people offhand who might not go along on the "public service aspect" of your plan.

Dear Ann Landers: You once wrote in your column, "everybody can learn from somebody." It is with this in mind that I write to you. I have been a cleaning woman for 22 years and I have learned something that many well educated, college trained people don't know. I have discovered a 100 per cent foolproof way to tell if people have money. Look in their broom closets.

Rich people have beat-up, worn-out vacuum sweepers, so ancient that parts are no longer available. Their floor mops shed all over because they are worn to shreds. Their waxers don't work and their wiping cloths and sponges are full of holes. Rich people think they are saving money by hanging onto crummy appliances and worn-out junk.

They are wrong. A cleaning woman can get the place twice as tidy in half the time if she has modern, functional equipment. When will those dumbbells with the six-figure bank accounts and the 1931 junk wake up?

—Tired of Working with Relics
Dear Tired: Hopefully when they read this. Are you awake out there, ladies? Check your broom closets and if you need new equipment, get it.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

the following: Only use Blackwood when you intend to bid six if your partner's response shows that your side holds three aces.

Further expansion points out the inadvisability of using Blackwood when you have a worthless doubleton in an unbid suit.

Another good Blackwood rule is not to use it too often. South's four-no-trump call is an example of this. He did have the right type of hand to try Blackwood except that it wasn't quite strong enough. North had limited his hand when he jumped to three spades and unless North held perfect cards for him, South wasn't going to be able to bring home a slam contract.

North was kind enough to show up with perfect cards. The ace and king of hearts were necessary as was the king of spades. The two jacks were extras.

This first rule expands to

Reasons for hair loss are many

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Dear Dr. Lamb—My husband is losing his hair. He has a constant itch and has tried all kinds of shampoos for dandruff. He has gone to a dermatologist and gotten treatment and the doctor said he had no skin or scalp disorder. Doctor, what can be causing this? He is a very nervous person and he is the type that his body needs hair on the head or nothing matters. In other words, he has a phobia against losing his hair. His father and family all have their hair. He has had a complete checkup. Heart, blood and bowels are O.K. Do you know what is causing his problem?

Dear Reader—No, I don't. There are many reasons for loss of hair. A common cause, though, is excessive treatment. This includes too many shampoos and dandruff treatments. There is no shampoo that prevents baldness—regardless of what exaggerated advertising claims you may have read.

Some people think that baldness is associated with virility. You might make your husband feel better by telling him that. It is, of course, true that men are more apt to be bald than women. Aristotle, who was bald himself, noted that castrated men did not get bald. (I suspect this is not a totally correct observation.)

A scalp can get itchy from being dry from too many shampoos. Every once in awhile in medicine (and this is especially true of the skin and hair) the best thing to do is leave well enough alone. Tell your husband not to scratch his head, not to overcomb it, and wash it once a week or less with a very mild shampoo.

Dear Dr. Lamb—About five months ago, I underwent rectal surgery for the incision and drainage of an ischio-rectal abscess. The proctologist also performed a fistulotomy as a result of this condition. What causes this infection and how might I prevent a future recurrence? Might this disease be a form of cancer and how serious a disease can or might it be?

Dear Reader—There is a pocket on each side of the rectum just underneath the skin, filled with fat tissue. The blood supply there is

Meeting held to save Jr. B hockey league

SHERBROOKE (WD) — The Junior B Hockey League held a save-the-league meeting at the Sports Palace last night, intending to see what could be done to encourage sponsorship of junior hockey teams by business in the area.

Len O'Donnell, president of the League, said that he was very concerned about the future of junior hockey in the area. He stressed the importance of giving young boys in the community the opportunity to get out and take part in competitive sports.

"What we need at this time," said Mr. O'Donnell, "is for the business community in the area to take a stronger interest in junior sports."

He said that in the past the business community in Sherbrooke had shown an interest in junior sports and that he hoped that this would be the case in the future.

The Junior B hockey league last season had four teams sponsored. They were the Val Estrie team, sponsored by Val Estrie Auto, the Junior B Beavers, sponsored by the Junior A Beavers Hockey League, the St. Pat's team, sponsored by the St. Pat's Old Boys Association and the Nap Cote Team sponsored by Nap Cote Sporting Goods.

Parks will stay open

SHERBROOKE (DM) — The city's Recreational Services Department has announced that seven parks will remain open to the public even though the school year has now begun and monitors are no longer on guard.

The seven affected parks are the Parade Grounds, Pie X, Couer Immaculee, Marie Reine du Monde, Blanchard, Saint-Colomban and Goyette.

A communique from the recreational services department released Monday reveals playground equipment will remain in place and will be maintained by a roving team of city employees.

This policy does not affect tennis activities as none of the parks contain tennis courts.

Environment minister on E.T. tour Our reporter talks to Dr. Goldbloom

By WILLIAM DILOUIE
EAST ANGLUS — In a press conference held Friday at the start of his tour of plants and mills here and in Magog, Dr. Victor Goldbloom, minister responsible for the state of the environment, cautioned people not to expect too much too soon in the area of water control when it came to the older factories in the Province.

"This is especially true of the pulp and paper industry in Quebec, which has suffered several economic setbacks in recent years," Dr. Goldbloom said.

He was referring to the Domtar mill in East Anglus whose case presently before the courts due to its failure to meet the Quebec Water Board deadline to cut the amount of waste it dumps daily.

Asked what the provincial government planned to do next in the fight against pollution, Dr. Goldbloom said the next step was legislation designed to set standards to control air pollution. He went on to say that at the present time the provincial government is cataloguing all of the industries in Quebec; there are some 11,000 of them, of which at least one-third are significant contributors to air pollution.

As soon as this study is completed, it is expected that the government will then issue directives to companies on fighting air pollution.

1975 is the deadline that will be given to industry to improve the quality of matter released into the atmosphere.

Plans were also released for a public information program later this year to make people aware of what they must do in the fight against pollution.

This program, along with programs between Quebec and her neighbors, is expected by the middle of next year to have raised Quebec to a par with other provinces in the fight against pollution.

On cost sharing programs, Dr. Goldbloom said that at the present time there were talks going on concerning the economics of pollution, and that the main consideration was being given to industries that were in economic difficulties.

He also mentioned that a 15 year program dealing with water purification was nearing completion. The program was designed in three phases, each phase being five years long.

Each city or municipality would be assigned a phase according to what their situation is.

"The reason for this type of program is that we are trying to spread the tax burden for these programs out over a number of years," said Dr. Goldbloom.

In Quebec, over 95 per cent of all sewage goes untreated. The largest problem area is the island of Montreal; after Montreal, there are the cities and towns.

The major sources of pollution in the Eastern Townships, according to a recent study of lakes in the area, are industry, cities and towns that discharge waste into the lakes and rivers, and the cottages that line the lake shores.

The study that was carried out this summer covered some 34 lakes. Among those were Lakes Massawippi, Brome, and Memphremagog.

The study was a water quality study that attempted to isolate sources of pollution. Results concerning Lake Memphremagog showed that there was considerable pollution coming from the Vermont side.

Dr. Goldbloom said that talks concerning this problem had been held with Vermont and that the results were satisfactory.

In the case of Brome Lake the sources of pollution are municipal sewage that goes into the lake and a well-known agricultural institution that runs into the lake.

As soon as this study is completed, a list of recommendations will be issued dealing with what steps can be taken to reduce pollution from these sources.

Dr. Goldbloom said that recommendations for Brome Lake would be ready in the very near future, with lakes Massawippi and Memphremagog to follow soon afterwards.

Applauds council reaction

SHERBROOKE (DM) — The City makes known at the beginning of October the measures of periodic control for the waters of the Magog River and the water classification scale to be used to determine whether a beach should be closed.

The Antipollution Common Front, which unites nine local groups, urged City Fathers Sept. 7 to stage a six-pronged attack on pollution within the Sherbrooke region.

The Front's most recent communique says "we feel no action should be taken until the City makes known at the beginning of October the measures of periodic control for the waters of the Magog River and the water classification scale to be used to determine whether a beach should be closed."

The communique expresses the wish that council's public services commission divulge its working program as soon as possible.

It also reiterates the Front's offer to collaborate with the Public Services Commission in its work.

Must prepare to combat 'Commies' John Wayne defends U.S. nuclear tests

VICTORIA (CP) — Movie actor John Wayne said Monday fears of Canadians and Japanese that the Amchitka nuclear test will "create a chain reaction that could end the world" are nothing but a "bunch of crap."

Mr. Wayne, who arrived aboard his converted mine-sweeper The Wild Goose Monday, said the five megaton blast is "none of the business" of Canada or Japan.

The test should go ahead because the United States should be "better prepared than everyone" to deal with the "Commies" who are always breaking treaties, Mr. Wayne said.

Mets over Expos 4-2 in rainy 5-inning game

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Jorgensen climaxed a three-run outburst in the first inning with a two-run homer that powered New York Mets to a 4-2 victory over Montreal Expos Monday in the rain-shortened first game of a scheduled National League double-header.

The game, halted with the Expos coming to bat in the sixth inning, was called after a wait of one hour and 22 minutes. The washed-out second game was rescheduled as part of a Tuesday twinbill.

Bob Harrelson singled, stole second and scored on Ed Kranepool's single before Jorgensen unloaded his fourth homer off Carl Morton. The Mets added a run in the fifth on singles by Kranepool and Jorgensen and Jerry Grote's infield out.

Ray Sadecki allowed a first-inning run when he hit Ron Hunt with a pitch—the 44th time this year the Expos' infielder has been struck—and gave up singles to Ron Woods and Bob Bailey. They also scored in the fifth on Rusty Staub's double and Gary Sutherland's single.

The use of force and firepower to bring a bloody end to the convict insurrection at Attic prison in New York Monday was supported by some officials, including President Nixon, and decried by others, including a well-known penologist.

President Nixon telephoned Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York to express his approval of the governor's handling of the four-day riot which left 37 dead, Rockefeller supporting his correction commissioner's ultimate decision to go into the jail with troops to free hostages.

But Dr. Vernon Fox, an authority on the causes and prevention of prison riots, said he believed Rockefeller was wrong to use force.

About 400 youths streamed through mid-Manhattan and rallied in Grand Central Terminal to protest the bloody end to the prison uprising.

CARRY SIGNS
They carried red flags and signs with such slogans as "Rockefeller Murderer Tear Down the Jails."

Congressman Herman Badillo (Dem. N.Y.), one of the committee of observers at the prison, said he regretted Rockefeller's action.

"There's always time to die," he told reporters. "But time to negotiate is what is essential in these circumstances."

He said the governor should have provided that time for negotiations before authorizing the armed strike.

Dr. Fox said he believed the motive for the attack, which ended with nine hostages and 30 prisoners slain, was to give Rockefeller's administration an image of strength with the public.

"The primary reason for the use of force is always to create an image for the public," he said in a telephone interview from his office at Florida State University in Tallahassee.

WAS IN MICHIGAN RIOT
Dr. Fox is the author of "Violence Behind Bars: Introduction to Correction and the forthcoming 'When Prisoners Riot.' He was deputy warden and chief psychiatrist at Southern Michigan State Prison when a riot of 2,600 prisoners was quelled in April, 1962, with one death.

Sher-Lenn LL honored at civic reception

SHERBROOKE (DM) — The Sher-Lenn All-Star Little League baseball team, winners of the Quebec and Eastern Canada championships, were guests of honor at a civic reception tendered by City Fathers Monday night.

Present at the reception were Mayor Marc Bureau and the 10 city councillors, the all-star team and members of the Sher-Lenn Little League executive.

Team members were presented with souvenir rings and signed the City's Golden Book.

Coun. Raymond Bergeron, chairman of the Recreational Services and Sports Commission, greeted the Sher-Lenners on behalf of council.

"The success obtained by the Sher-Lenn Little League merits the admiration of the whole population for the members of the executive, the trainers and players," Coun. Bergeron said.

"The exploits of the Sher-Lenn team attracted the attention of Quebec and Canada to Sherbrooke. We are proud of this publicity but even more so of team spirit of a group of talented, courageous, ambitious and disciplined youngsters."

"You are a great example for all Sherbrooke youths," Coun. Bergeron told the team. "We congratulate and thank you."

Sher-Lenn president Harry Kouri told council "we are proud to have had permission to use Amedee Roy Stadium to show Sherbrooke what Little League Baseball is."

He termed the Quebec and Eastern Canadian championships held in Sherbrooke a "fantastic success."

He revealed there is no chance of Sherbrooke being awarded the 1972 Canadian championships since they will be held in Edmonton, Alta., but added "we have shown we want the championships and can support them. Maybe in 1973."

Mr. Kouri revealed he is proud of the 1971 Sher-Lenn All-Star team and attributed their loss in the Canadian playdowns to the fact "we met a five-foot ten-inch giant (Brockville, Ont.'s Dan Collison) who overpowered our kids."

Defensive secondary is key to Gaiters' success

By BRYDEN MURRAY
LENNOXVILLE — Often there is a problem with football intra-squad games—a lack of players. Bruce Coulter and his coaching staff at Bishop's University have faced this hardship a number of times in past years.

With five players out with injuries, a less than spectacular performance might have been expected. However, Saturday morning's Purple and White game at Bishop's stadium was certainly the most spirited practice game in years.

While the score was rather lopsided in favor of Bill MacDonald's White team, the importance of the game lies in patterns which are established. The biggest weakness of the Bishop's Gaiters still seems to be the defensive secondary.

Defence has been the major concern of Coach Coulter since the beginning.

"Defensively, we graduated several fine players including tackle Dave Bridger; linebacker Jack Schneider (Montreal Alouette draftee); and cornerback Doug Scott."

"There is no doubt that our strong point should be our experienced offensive team and if we have a weakness, it should be on defence," Coulter said.

After a week of training, the defensive situation is not all that grim.

With only Bridger gone from last year's front four, and with all star tackles Jim McHenry and Phil Ando back after a year's absence, the Gaiters should put a big rush on a lot of enemy quarterbacks.

At lineback, Coulter has the problem of replacing Schneider, a perennial allstar. With the fine crop in camp, however, this should not prove to be an insurmountable difficulty.

The defensive secondary is probably the area requiring greatest improvement over last year, and the loss of two fine backs in Doug Scott and Terry Bradley only compounded this situation.

On the plus side, however, Gary Berezny is returning from the knee injury which plagued him last year, and Jan Rzyzora is back for post graduate work.

Sophomores Pat Commander and Jeff Salvus will have benefited from a year's experience and should turn in some big plays. Among the newcomers, Steve Morse and Brian Higgins have been impressive throughout training camp. Another rookie, Bob Dunkley, made several key plays in Saturday's scrimmage.

If the going gets too rough, several of the offensive backs are capable of doubling their duties.

Due to experience, the offensive team should be the highlight of the team; however, high spirited competition for defensive jobs should ensure a good product.

The Gaiter defence hopefully will supply all the backbone needed for the offence to make Bishop's a championship calibre team.

The next major effort for the Gaiters is the approaching McGill contest on Sept. 18 at 2 p.m. at Bishop's stadium.

Beavers play two weekend matches

SHERBROOKE (TA) — Sherbrooke Junior Beavers are getting an idea of how things are going to go this season in Junior circles in the two exhibition games played by the Juniors over the weekend. There was lots of action on Friday night against Laval Beavers, who had to go all out to get a tie. Close to 2,000 were on hand.

On Sunday the Beavers took a 6-4 win over Verdun, the game was rough in the first two periods as 24 penalties were issued in the first two frames. Gaston Boulanger showed up well Sunday night as he came up with two goals.

Claude St-Sauveur has rounded up quick in good condition. The lanky center was a going concern all evening, getting the first penalty of the game, a minor, and also getting tagged with a major, both in the first period.

Coach Racette takes his boys out of town Tuesday and Wednesday, but returns to the Sports Palace Thursday night for a game against St. Jerome.

Manager Real Veilleux announces the latest signing, that of Renaud Perron, a left winger. Perron is a native of Thetford Mines, stands at 5' 10" and weighs 170 lbs. He is only 18 years old, and played last year with Thetford Braves, scoring 15 goals and 22 assists in the 27 games he played.

Coach Ron Racette is lining up a more solid defence this season, as he figures that a fast breaking and checking crew behind the blue line is a must in Junior hockey. He states the indications at present are that he will come up with a fast skating team this season.

Canucks hit barber sets

MEDICINE HAT (CP) — Vancouver Canucks of the National Hockey League ran into a snag with their good-grooming policy here Monday.

The Canucks, starting a week-long training session here, found that barber shops in Medicine Hat are closed Mondays.

However, Coach Hal Laycoe said in an interview he has been assured by players that they would have their locks trimmed today.

"We expect NHL players to be well-groomed and I know that our players agree with us," said Laycoe.

"Long hair is here to stay—all we ask is that it be trimmed to a reasonable length."

Yastrzemski sidelined-illness

BOSTON (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski, Boston Red Sox' slugger, was ordered sidelined Monday because of an intestinal virus which forced him out of the lineup in Detroit Sunday night.

Yastrzemski was taken to a hospital Sunday night. He complained of a pain in his right side, and appendicitis at first was feared.

Dr. Thomas Tierney, the American League club physician, said extensive tests disclosed the infection. Yastrzemski was released from the hospital Monday.

Trainer Buddy Leroux said Yaz will be out two or three days.

Cole starts with Rough Riders

OTTAWA (CP) — Jerry Cole, a four-year veteran of the National Football League, starts a five-day trial with Ottawa Rough Riders today, the club said Monday.

Cole, 25, a six-foot, three-inch 220-pound running back, played three years with Baltimore Colts and a year with Pittsburgh Steelers.

Coach Jack Gotta said after the Riders 25-6 loss Sunday to the Montreal Alouettes that former Edmonton slot back and wide receiver Terry Swann will be activated for next Sunday's game against Toronto Argonauts.
