Next week's weather By ERIC NEAL

MARCH 26 TO APRIL 2

Sunny. Days mild. Nights cold and windy, with powder snow. Clouding for gale winds and mixed snow and freezing rain, with thunder. For the north and Gulf regions, wind driven powder snow (3 to 5").

Gusty winds and sunny periods to end the week, with occasional wet snow or freezing drizzle, then much colder.

This is equinoctial gale time, so tornadoes in the States and blustery, tree damaging winds here are normal.

Temperature range: in south, 25 and 50 to 55°F. Laurentians, 20 and 45°F. North, zero and 40°F.

Sampson and making the presentation is Andre Robertson. The award was given to Peter at the annual father and son banquet held in St. Leo's School recently.

'Y' blitz nets 16%

"An interesting tour of the Royal Bank of Canada facilities, Place Ville Marie, launched the Westmount Division of the YMCA off to a fine start, in its annual campaign," stated Mr. William Ridley, Campaign Chairman. "We were able to place 95% of our cards in the hands of our canvassers. By the day's end, 26 canvassers were able to report back 12% of our objective for $1,500.00 with our increased money holding at 16%."

"With this fine effort, we are confident we can meet our objective. This is the earliest we have been able to place our cards and the enthusiasm evident on Saturday will carry us to an earlier completion than in other years."

Rink closes on April 2

The Artificial Rink will be closed for hockey and skating on Saturday April 2nd at 2:00 p.m.

By closing at this time, it will speed up the removal of the ice so that the games (table tennis, shuffleboard, paddle tennis, table hockey, skateboarding, etc.) can be set up for use early in the week for the school children on Easter holidays.

It is hoped that the department will be ready with the games by Wednesday, April 6th at the latest.

Westmount council highlights

Westmount council passed a motion for a commitment of $200,000 to be made this week to cover part of its share of the Greene avenue-St. Emille collector sewer.

The meeting which took place on Monday evening, was told by Alderman Backler that this was the amount due for Westmount's 40% share of the total cost of the sewer. Montreal is paying the remaining 60%.

The total commitment on the part of the city was $300,000 of which $272,895.40 has been spent.

Alderman Fred Gross moved that council make a commitment of $1,200 to cover the cost of demolition of 4202-4 St. Catherine street. This involved the southwest corner of Greene and St. Catherine where the city has expropriated several properties. It was found that the conditions of these properties was considered

An 18-year-old Atwater avenue youth was sentenced to two years in prison for his part in several stolen car cases.

He was arrested in Westmount, just before Christmas last year, when spotted in a stolen car here. He was freed to The John Howard Society.

A few weeks later he was arrested in St. Jerome in another stolen car. This time he was sent to jail.

Library announces tours during 'Library Week'

To mark the occasion of Canadian Library Week, March 28th, to April 8th, the Westmount Library will stage special library tours throughout that week.

Many members have expressed curiosity about library procedures and about various departments of the library, both of which seem very mysterious to the uninitiated. In order to let the public discover what actually goes on behind the scenes at The Westmount Library, a schedule of special library tours will be set up.

These will take place on alternate afternoons and evenings Monday to Friday, March 28th to April 1st and will be conducted in both French and English.

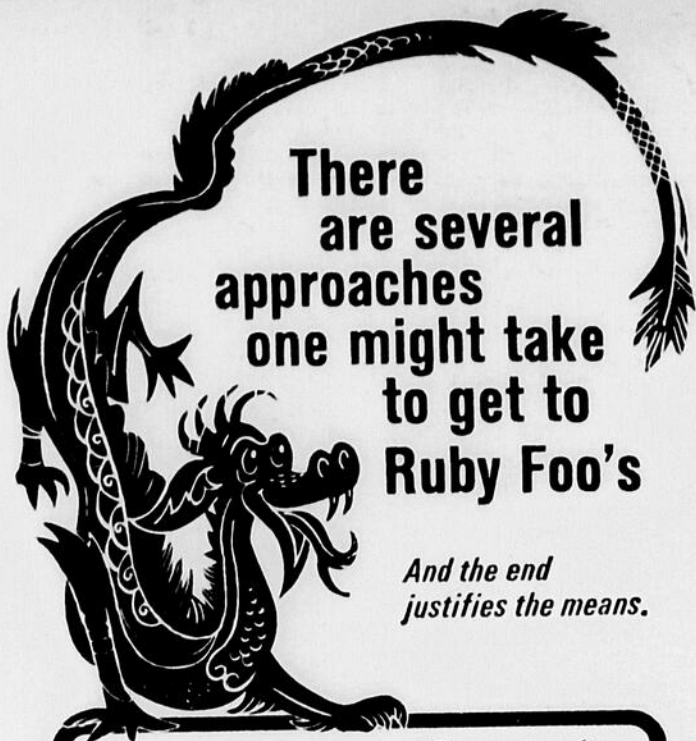

Places of interest to be included in the tour agenda are: the cataloguing room where non-fiction books are classified; the secret spots in the library, the Office and Closed Shelf areas; the book stacks and reference room, where some of the more useful reference works will be indicated; and finally, the Children's Library.

A display, entitled "The book, from publisher to you" will also be featured along the corridor. It will demonstrate the life history of the book, from when it arrives at the library until the final moment when it is ready for circulation.

Library tour schedule — Monday, March 28 to April 1. Afternoons at 4 p.m. — Monday, Wednesday, Friday. Evenings at 8 p.m. — Tuesday, Thursday.

Birdland :

Great horned owl is fearless of elements

Our nocturnal predator, the Great Horned Owl, fears neither cold nor snow, so is a year-round Canadian resident. The big bird looks particularly large because of its thick feather coat. Even its legs and toes are feathered down to the cruel, curved talons. This is one of Birdland's unusual species with the female bigger than the male. She is about 25 inches long; he but 18. The wing-spread is around five feet, and the general appearance mottled brown. The bird looks neckless, and the "horns" are actually conspicuous ear-tufts two inches in length.

The Great Horned Owl is described by some ornithologists as "the evil genius of the wood", by others as "tiger of the air", and "bloodthirsty". All this is because the powerful night prowler feeds on squirrels, rabbits, song birds, and even good-sized game birds. Its only enemies are man and Crows.

Somehow crows have learned that they are able to annoy a Great Horned Owl if they congregate around it all cawing at once, when it is trying to sleep in the daytime. The big bird moves from one tree to another, but the black gang follows. Rarely is a crow caught, but when that happens the vicious talons dig deep and in a remarkably short time nothing is left but a few black feathers.

There is no truth in the statement that Owls cannot see in daylight. The fact is that they can see very well even in sunshine because their third eyelid, a thin membrane at the inner corner of each eye, can be pulled across to shut out the glare. Their sight is particularly keen, so that even the light afforded by stars is sufficient for them to go hunting by night.

The Great Horned Owl is probably the earliest nester in Birdland. Discarded nests of other large birds are frequently taken over, especially those of red-tailed hawks, though some do make their homes in hollow trees like most other kinds of Owls. Two or three white eggs are often laid in February, and it is not uncommon to find Mrs. Great Horned sitting on her nest, covered with snow.

These vicious birds are good parents, and it is wise for us to stay clear of an occupied nest. The soft feathers make their flight noiseless, and before we know it the Owl will be protecting the eggs or the little white Owlets by digging its terrible talons into our scalp.

ACCOMPLISHED SINGER

A little group of birdwatchers stood silent, listening intently. Surely that sweet song could not come from the throat of any Sparrow! Yet the leader had insisted that Fox Sparrows were the best singers of that large family, and that this was just the season when they might be passing through the district. Furthermore, pointing to the thicket a few feet from the narrow path, he had declared that this was exactly the kind of country where Fox Sparrows liked to gather for a rest on their way north from their wintering grounds in the southern states.

The song stopped as suddenly as it had started, and the next sound to be heard was that of dry leaves being raked over. But no human being besides themselves was anywhere near. First one pair of binoculars went up, then another and another as the various members of the party

Last Thursday March 17, the International Club had a special St. Paddy's Day meeting. They invited 4th High, and various teachers. Since the club is bilingual, the speeches on Ireland's geography, economy, people, legends, and so forth, were alternatively in English and French. These were very well prepared and presented. Entertainment, in the forms of song and dance, was provided by Jane White and Veronica Phelan. After the meeting from 3 to 3:45, refreshments were served. Congratulations to International Club's president Ann Nilski, all its members, and especially to its guiding hand, Miss Gabrielle Labbe.

Winnie Beebe, of 3rd High, last Saturday won the Eaton's Sewing Contest! She was chosen first out of 53 contestants. Entries were limited to dresses, coats, or suits. Her winning outfit was a blue-grey, A-line dress, with cap sleeves and a checked tattersall bow; a matching coat was tattersall on one side, and reversed to blue-grey. Her prize was a portable sewing machine; and in addition she will appear on Like Young.

Barrie A. Wilson gets fellowship

The Episcopal Church Foundation has announced its first Fellowship award to an outstanding Anglican Canadian, Barrie A. Wilson, currently completing his S.T.B. degree at Trinity College in Toronto, Canada. Although the Fellowships were established three years ago and have allocated well over $70,000 to grantees, heretofore they have gone to citizens of the United States.

"Because of Wilson's impressive academic record and enormous Christian conviction, The Foundation is honored to be of assistance to this brilliant theological student," said William A. Coolidge of Boston, Chairman of the Theological Education Committee of The Episcopal Church Foundation. Wilson expects to be ordained this summer by The Bishop of Ottawa. The Right Reverend E. J. Read, and will pursue his doctoral program at the University of Toronto in the highly specialized field of mathematical logic and epistemology.

Barrie Wilson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wilson of Westmount, Quebec, and is married to the former Barbara Boyce, daughter of Professor and Mrs. J. W. Boyce, also of Westmount, Quebec. Mrs. Wilson is working on her doctoral program in chemistry at the University of Toronto.

Mr. Wilson's broad educational base includes a B.A. with honors from Bishop's University, Lennoxville where he was the Sir James Dunn Scholar; and M.A. from Columbia University. (Continued on page 7)

We Say

No margin for terror

THERE have been many changes in our concept of parliament over the past hundred years — but probably no single incident has struck such a bitter blow at the institution than the Munsinger situation, triggered by the Federal Justice Minister.

While the hue-and-cry concerning the possibility of an international spy angle to the case has died down more than somewhat; a joint special squad of Federal, Provincial and City of Montreal police are now probing the life of Mrs. Munsinger while she was in this country, in an effort to ascertain to what extent she may have had contact with an influence in the world of organized crime.

Early this week, before the Women's Canadian Club, a panel of experts, including local citizen Leslie Roberts, dealt with questions on the Freedom of the Press.

Two points that came up for particular criticism were: the apathy of the public and the irresponsibility of some newspaper publishers.

The panel of veteran journalists came to the conclusion that "If Canadian papers were saturated with the details of the Munsinger situation it was because the public wanted it that way."

What is happening to parliament in all this — is frighteningly unfortunate.

Prior to 1914 government was a policy-directing force that did not enter very much into the lives of individuals. There was no sales tax, no income tax, no state welfare, no grants that really amounted to anything, and people were allowed to mind their own business

Since 1945 there has been a rapid increase in government intrusion into private life and the operation of all business and industry. Welfare and grants by the Federal government and the provincial government become the order of the day.

As a result there is a conflict of interests — both areas of government are after the same dollars to pay for the welfare services.

At times the pressures become intense — as they obviously have been during the weeks and months of the present parliamentary session, so tense, in fact, that little work was done.

Many people are asking themselves, "What do our highly-paid members of parliament do for their money? Are the backbenchers really useful under the new social, economic and political conditions that exist?"

Parliament has become big and unwieldy. Many are critical of the parliamentarians and of the system.

With Federal provincial conferences, and formulae for negotiation between the levels of government, much of the arrangement is made outside of parliament. Without the details appearing in Hansard, the ins and outs are not properly aired. They smack of deals.

These inter-level conferences are on the right line, no doubt about it, but there must be a re-organization of government to bring the conferences in line parliamentary tradition, and this must be done soon.

Another Munsinger situation or two, and our parliamentary system will be shot from under us, by an angered populace.

QFPHSA announces its first public forum

Confessional Schools, Abolition or Change? is the theme of a public forum to be held at Northmount High School, March 24, at 8.15 p.m., under the sponsorship of Quebec Federation of Protestant Home and School Associations.

Panellists are: Rev. John P. Hilton, Principal of St. Joseph's Teachers' College; Mme Mireille Fortier, a founding member of the Mouvement Laïque de Langue Française; Dr. Peter McGeer, President of the Quebec Association of Protestant School Boards; and Dr. H. Morgentaler, Chairman of the Committee for Neutral Schools. E. Michael Berger, Q.C., will moderate.

This is the first time Quebec Federation has organized an educational forum of this kind. They hope to acquaint interested parents with the history, status quo, and possible future of Quebec's school system so that parents may make recommendations for school reform to the Department of Education through their Home and School parent body.

In 1965 Quebec Federation recommended the establishment of a Canada-wide neutral school system in a brief to the Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism.

Each of the forum's panellists will make a short speech and debate will follow. Monitors will be on hand to assist parents in bringing their questions to the platform.

Northmount High School is located at 6755 Lavoie Street, corner of Vezina, in the Cote des Neiges area.

Biography of Streets

Blenheim Place

Seventh in a series

This street which appears in Goad's Atlas (1890) under the name of Belmont avenue, runs from 4630 St. Catherine street in a southeast direction to the CPR tracks.

An item from the Westmount council minutes of September 1894 reads: "That the Chairman of the Road Committee interview W. D. Ross as to changing the name", and another item in October, "That the Montreal Water and Power Company be requested to put in a water main from St. Catherine street to the tracks."

Gas pipes were laid and a macadamized road was constructed in 1895.

In 1897 it was reported that proprietors on the avenue were willing to cede their property to the Town. In October, "Councillor W. D. Lighthall, after conferences with the Town Solicitor, and with J. Stevenson Brown and other owners, reported that all proprietors having rights and claims were willing to close the agreement as desired by the Town". Councillor Thomas Bulmer, concurred, "provided that the Town, after purchase, close in that portion of the avenue following the sides of the Corporation Yards and that Badenach and owners of lots have no right of way over said portion of the avenue."

In February 1898 the transfer was made.

Named In 1912

In November 1902, notice was given of consideration of a by-law to establish building lines for certain streets. This by-law was adopted in 1903. In 1912, nearly 18 years after it was proposed to change the name, the council enacted by-law 252, "The name of Belmont Place is hereby changed and shall henceforth be known as Blenheim Place."

The name 'Blenheim' has many historical associations. It brings to mind Queen Anne, the War of the Spanish Succession, the famous Duke of Marlborough, and his famous descendant, Winston Spencer Churchill.

John Churchill, 1st Duke of Marlborough, was born in Devonshire in 1650. As a young man he showed promise of being an able soldier. He married Sarah Jennings, the favorite of Princess Anne. During the reign of James II he played a double role. While normally in the service of James, he was helping William of Orange get the throne, as he disapproved of the King's Catholic leanings.

When William III became King, he heaped honors upon him, finally making him the first Duke of Marlborough. As William foresaw the ambition of Louis XIV of France to be the 'Grand Monarque' of Europe, he formed a coalition:

You Say Am I being selfish with my children?

Sir:

I am writing this letter in hope it will be of interest to your readers. I would like to stress that I am not complaining. It concerns the other side of the Foster Children story you had in last week's paper.

I am alone with four young children aged 3-8 years. I receive $140.00 a month from the government for our keep. Sometimes I think my children would be better off in a foster home, at least they would be clothed and never without shoes and small luxuries.

A foster mother would be paid $160.00 a month to look after and feed my children, plus cost of social workers, organization, clothing and medical costs.

Why do they make it so hard to keep our own children?

Surely this would encourage weaker mothers to give their children up.

Am I being selfish in keeping my children?

A Selby resident

Shocked by Cardin and the Liberals

Sir:

I was deeply shocked, as doubtless were many other Westmounters, at the accusations leveled against the Hon. Pierre Sevigny by Mr. Cardin.

The Liberal government has once more proven itself to be bumbling and accident-prone, and now digs up anything they can find bad about Conservatives because we tried to get justice for Victor Spencer.

All who have, even once, met Mr. Sevigny, know he is a man of outstanding character and honour. These ridiculous charges are only a personal attack made by some vengeful politicians.

Let us hope that Mr. Cardin will quickly resign and apologize to Mr. Sevigny for trying to blacken a famous and honourable man's character.

John Aimers

Great Britain, Holland, Denmark, Portugal and some German states, while Louis was supported by Spain, Bavaria and Cologne. Louis placed his grandson, Philip, on the throne of Spain, and, as he had a magnificent army there was fear of the overthrow of 'The Balance of Power.'

Marlborough

When war broke out in Queen Anne's reign, she made Marlborough Commander in Chief of the Forces. After many successes and set-backs, Marlborough won the Battle of Blenheim, (a village in Bavaria, on the left bank of the Danube) amid great rejoicing. Poets and prose writers lauded Marlborough. Joseph Addison wrote, 'The Campaign' in honor of the victory.

In 'After Blenheim' the poet Southey wrote:

"It was the English," Kaspar cried,

"Who put the French to rout,
But what they fought each other for

I could not well make out."

Marlborough won many other battles: Ramillies, Oudenarde, Malplaquet, but they were not such famous victories as Blenheim.

As a reward for his services, Parliament erected a princely mansion for him in Oxfordshire called 'Blenheim Palace'. When Queen Anne and the Duchess quarrelled, Marlborough lost his power. When he died in 1722, he was buried in Westminster Abbey, but later his body was moved to Blenheim Chapel. He was accused of serving two masters, but his accusers were not without sin in that respect.

Queen Anne's Hero

Marlborough was the hero of Queen Anne's reign, and his illustrious descendant, Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill, might be called the hero of the reign of King George VI. As Prime Minister of Great Britain during the Second Great War, he did what no other man could have done to keep up the morale of the people during the darkest days. It might almost have been said of him, in the words of Scripture, "Thou art come to a kingdom for such a time as this."

Rev. P. J. Ambrose calls for more sex education

A call to social agencies to plan for increased pressure brought about by automation; an appeal for elimination of a prudish attitude to sex instruction in a so-called sexually liberated society; a warning to private professional family agencies to get involved with the poor; a declaration of the partnership between private and public welfare; increased vigilance to prevent the abuse and neglect of children, and an amendment to the Coroner's Act and the Law on the Study of Anatomy, thus enabling agencies to bury indigent dead, were sounded last Tuesday by Reverend Patrick J. Ambrose, PSW, Director of the Catholic Welfare Bureau of the Federation of Catholic Charities, Inc., at its 35th Annual Meeting, held at the Bureau, 1857 St. Luke Street.

Commenting on recent developments in sex education, Father Ambrose said, "a program of marriage and sex education necessitates higher professional standards for the marriage and family life educator, and, ideally, requires professionals with multi-discipline training. As it is now, the doctor, nurse, and biologist deal merely with the anatomical aspects of sexuality; the social studies expert stresses group behaviour and overlooks individual difficulties; the theologian usually treats the abstract, religious and ethical implications of marriage and sex. A good course in marriage and sex should include all these aspects and many more. There should be courses for young people, and also for adults, for in adequate young people become inadequate parents, and so basic shortcomings extend into future generations."

A. W. Fogarty, Honorary Treasurer of the Bureau, in presenting his report, said, "the cost of maintenance, especially in relation to the care of children, and the increased demands for professional service, have placed a heavy burden on the Bureau" as he recalled "in every area of our multi-function Agencies, we report increases for 1965. The total of 21,590 individuals were given long term or short term service, in which were included 1120 children in foster home placement, 395 unmarried parents, 284 adult elderly people, the balance being children and adults in families." He said "the budget given to the Catholic Welfare Bureau to operate throughout the year was $1,041,345, in which estimated assistance from the Provincial Ministry of Family and Social Welfare, through the Quebec Public Charities, was $681,000."

PLEASE HELP OUR ANIMAL FRIENDS!

The growing need for humane care and protection of animals in the Province of Quebec puts an ever-increasing strain on the Canadian Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The Canadian SPCA needs a public support for its programme and money to carry it out. Last year, the Canadian SPCA spent $75,000.00 to modernize its shelter as recommended by our veterinarians. To meet the ever increasing demands imposed by our fast growing city and province, the Canadian SPCA needs $100,000.00 NOW! Please give the Society the tools to tackle the job.

At St. Leo's:

Saints take hockey title after overtime deadlock

By ANDY MCGILLIS

When St. Leo's three team intramural hockey league was organized late last autumn, nobody could have predicted that the teams would go through the schedule so evenly matched, that half of the scheduled games would end up in draw matches and that the three teams would end up with the same number of wins.

The sudden death play-off game for the title followed the same pattern as the regular schedule, as the second place Academites battled the first place Saints on even terms and at end of regulation time, found both teams in a four-four deadlock. A sudden death overtime of thirty five minutes was played without resulting in any score and nothing was left to do but award the championship to Murray Sherriffs' first place Saints on the basis of their slim one point margin at top of the league standing.

The play-off game was a thriller, with neither side having any advantage and both goalers Dave Biron and Claude Bonneau rising to great heights with spectacular saves. Mike Kelly was the big gun booming for Reid Sherriffs' Academites, blasting home three goals. Gil Dennis was another eye catcher with Reid's hard luck crew. The winning Saints got unexpected strength from one of their lesser lights, when Russell Pepe notched two goals. Terry Stubbs and Desio Fernandes also sparkled for the new champions.

Academy Shorts

The sports social will take place on Friday April 29th. The feature of the night will be the annual presentation of awards to the school's outstanding athletes. Pat Fennell, Murray Sherriffs and Mike Radoman are three of the hard-working executives for this gala affair.

At a recent meeting of the senior hockey club, Marcel Lefebvre was voted by his teammates as the most valuable hockey player for the year and winner of the Hon. George Marler Trophy. It was also decided to go along with Marcel for the G.M.I.A.A. outstanding player award.

Coach Andy McGillis also announced that Reid Sherriffs will receive the John Rogers memorial trophy for sportsmanship. Reid an eager beaver is always ready to lend his assistance to any worthwhile cause and a sample of this, is the fine job he has done while coaching intramural touch football and hockey. Reid played goals for the seniors during the past season. Pat Fennell celebrated St. Patrick's Day by scoring the winning goal over Wagar High School in an exhibition hockey game played at the Westmount arena. The final score was 3 to 2 and the other scorers for the Saints were Neil Fernandes and Roger Lefebvre. It was a rather dull game featured by the return to top form of Roger Lefebvre, who played a fine two way game. St. Leo's will engage D'Arcy McGee tonight at the Westmount rink and with the playing of this game, the curtain will be drawn across another season of competitive hockey and one that can be truly said a fine year for the second place finishing Saints.

Puppy selection tricky business

In the spring many people make plans to do the things they have been thinking about all winter and one of these is to buy the pet they have been wanting or the children have been coaxing for since Santa missed the signal. Puppies have a habit of being born about this season, which makes it very handy, as no one who has any experience with training dogs wants to go through the puppy stage in the winter time.

The age most puppies are taken away from the mother is six weeks but it is wise to allow a few more weeks at home if this is possible, especially with the smaller breeds. The mother helps to train her brood for one thing, and she also gives them her immunity to such diseases as hepatitis and distemper. The shots which protect your pet for life are given at three months when the animal is better able to take the treatment. These are not expensive, and should never be neglected. Before they were available distemper was the chief killer among canine diseases.

Choice

The choice of a breed is important, and should be considered on many more angles than just personal preference. The sporty little beagle is wonderful for children for instance but he needs more exercise than many sedentary adults are willing to expend. The dachshund is not very good with small children, but is a wonderful apartment dog, and has the advantage of not being able to jump up on the beds.

If you choose the popular poodle you not only pay more but you must consider the added expense of periodic clippings or learn to dit-it-yourself which is quite a chore for the amateur. Cocker spaniels, not so fashionable, just now, are much more reasonable for this reason, and make an excellent pet for children.

The larger breeds, the popular Boxer, the handsome Dalmation, the Retriever, the Alsatian are fine if you need real protection, and if you have a large house with many children and of course if you just like big dogs. They eat much more if this is a consideration, and are correspondingly harder on the furniture.

Of course we must not neglect the mixed breed, and the cross breed (which has two strains) in other words the mongrel. They make wonderful pets but here too there are things to consider. A very "cute" puppy can turn out to be an ugly dog. Of course by that time you love him anyway, and defend him against all laughs, but why not start out knowing what you are raising?

A good dog is a source of pride to his master, and if this makes me a snob then I am a snob. I do not believe that a mongrel is healthier or more intelligent than a pure bred, these factors are usually determined by the dog's parentage. What is sometimes called the overbred dog is often the runt of the litter, or the nervous dog which has not been weeded out, because the popularity of the breed makes it a temptation on the part of the breeder not to. It is very important therefore to buy your pet from reputable dealer, and not to pay as much attention to his noble antecedents as to his fitness and the health of his mother. Check this with your veterinarian if you are in any doubt. If you are buying a purebred you are paying for one, and you must expect proof of his ancestry.

For some of us it is important to have papers which tell all who are shown them that our protégé is descended from great champions. The papers from the Kennel Club will prove this, but they also protect the owner of the household pet from fraudulent claims. If a dog cannot be registered it is because his ancestry cannot be proven, and do not take any excuses unless you just don't care.

Your breeder, whether he is the owner of the dam of one litter, who breeds his female for a little extra money or the operator of a professional kennel, can choose his male from registered stock and can prove the ancestry of his male.

These facts should be recorded with the Canadian Kennel Club, and are part of the Canadian National Live Stock Records, of the Ministry of Agriculture in Ottawa. You can ask to see the records of your prospective pet's parents, which will give you the proof of sire and dam back two generations. You will also receive a certified copy of your dog's pedigree as recorded in the Canadian Kennel Club Stud Book, with the date of his birth, his parents and his parents' parents. If you want to show him or breed him yourself this is an important document to have. An identification noseprint is pasted to back of his record, which is as individual as our finger print would be, and is now used instead of the tattooed number in the ear leather.

If you give or sell your dog in the future, or use him or her for breeding there is room for legal registration of this. The sealed record is made in triplicate one copy left in Ottawa, one with the breeder and one is for the owner of the puppy.

Good luck to all new puppies and their masters, and by the way, you may find the pet you are looking for right here in our classified columns in the near future, under of course "Pets".

Local IODE recommend change

The Municipal Chapter of Montreal IODE recently recommended that a formal request be sent to its national headquarters in Toronto asking that its title be changed. The IODE now stands for Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, and the local chapter would like to see the word 'empire' deleted from its name.

The Montreal chapter spent $9,020 on education during the past year.

It aided 26 elementary schools in Canada, adopted 10 other schools in Canada and two in Jamaica. It gave bursaries to students attending teachers' colleges, university, a school of nursing and the National Ballet School.

It aided, with money, gifts or volunteer services, the Montreal Diet Dispensary, the Chandler Health Centre, the Peter Hall School, the Montreal Association for Retarded Children, the Allcroft Observation Centre, Old Brewery Mission, Friendly Home, Home for Forgotten Children, Welcome Mission, MacKay Centre for Deaf and Crippled Children, the Oral School for the Deaf, Ste. Anne's Hospital, Douglas Hospital and arts and letters festivals.

The Municipal Chapter donated 14,345 books and magazine to the Sailors' Institute and libraries for visiting ships in Montreal.

It gave tape and books in Braille to the Canadian National Institute School for the Blind and Canadian flags to local Cub and Brownie Packs.

All told, it spent $21,237 on services at home and abroad during the past year.

Member of the COMMITTEE OF THE REGIONAL DRAMA FESTIVAL, to be held at the Gesu Hall in Montreal March 28 to April 2, include BRUCE LEDAIN, vice-chairman; MRS. GISELLE DOUCETTE, secretary; TIMOTHY PORTEOUS, festival chairman for '66; and vice-chairman PETER QUINLAN, of Westmount, in the usual order.

Regional Festival coming to Gésû

Placed under the patronage of the Right Honorable Georges P. Vanier, Governor-General of Canada, the Regional Drama Festival of Western Quebec will take place March 28th to April 2nd next, at the Gésu Hall in Montreal. The right honorable Vincent Massey C.H. is a life governor of the D.D.F. Honorary governors for the Western Quebec region include this year Sally Starke of Westmount, Mrs. John H. Molson, Mr. Jack Tietolman and Mr. Claude-Henri Grignon, Mr. Florent Forget, Mrs. Jeanne Landry and Mrs. J. P. Rowat are governors at large.

The committee of the Western Quebec Region lists among its governors Lt. Col. Yves Bourassa, Mrs. Yvonne Heenan, of Westmount, Mrs. F. Picard, George Kinloch, Bruce LeDain, Timothy Porteous, Peter Quinlan of Westmount, and Jean-Guy Sabourin, and Mrs. Norma Springford, C.D.A.

Major sponsor of the Dominion Drama Festival is the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, which presents trophies and scholarships to winners in the regional and final festivals.

Fifteen regional festivals lead to the selection of eight best productions which make up the program of the national final festival, held this year in Victoria, B.C. from May 15 to 21 next.

Founded in 1932 under the auspices of His Excellency the Right Honorable, the Earl of Bessborough, then Governor-General of Canada, the Canada-wide organization of the Dominion Drama Festival is comprised of volunteers working for the promotion of theatre from coast to coast, at both professional and amateur levels, in both official languages of Canada.

Hats run the gamut

Spring hats this year cover a large variety of styles. We found them with smooth and textured straw wide brims and tiny ones, high crowns and shallow. Some dripped with flowers, some are made with stiffened straw veiling a light and airy idea. There are cloth hats in new prints inspired by op art, and they are not just for the go-go set, they should be very good with suits. There are geometric styles in black and white and in navy straw, and one with a diamond shaped brim curled at the edges.

We saw an unusual breton made of navy-dyed bark, its upturned brim edge threaded with matching grosgrain ribbons.

A head-hugging chiffon helmet in colors of pink, lime, green, beige and white, tied under the chin. It could be worn under a simple, wide-brimmed smooth beige straw, with a band of lime ribbon around the crown.

Another with a double brim in white, separated and joined by two-inches of diagonally cut black straw. It looked a little heavy but was, in fact, lighter than some of the floral hats.

A wide-brimmed navy straw with a low crown finished with a band of lime grosgrain ribbon and a long, detachable swathe of delicate grey chiffon — which could be used as a scarf.

We loved a light straw shallow shape which just seemed to be folds of wide fine straw, and it looked well too but we came away disappointed. It wasn't available in navy, only in black and a white with a little blue. The prices? Just like everything else going up.

Reading Clubs hold competition

The Canadian Association of Reading Clubs will hold its 27th annual literary competition in the Melville Presbyterian Church Hall, 349 Melville avenue, Westmount on Tuesday, March 29, 1966 at 8 p.m.

Dr. Joan M. V. Foster will adjudicate the written entries which will cover book reviews and original writing. Professor Jean Ethier-Blais will judge the spoken book reviews and Professor S. S. Lamb will adjudicate the poetry.

There will be a sale of second-hand books. Residents wishing to donate such books in clean condition are invited to leave them at the Church Hall on Monday 28th or Tuesday 29th.

Conveners for the event are Mrs. J. C. Annesley, Mrs. Graham Lawson and Miss E. Williams-Moore. President of the Association, Mrs. B. A. Chalmers will be in the chair. Guests will be welcome.

Reid-Ross exhibit

Marjory Ross and Eileen Reid who are exhibiting ceramic craft at the Pottery club on Victoria avenue have come up with an interesting show.

Mrs. Reid who first started to make pottery when she found clay on the beach of her Laurentian cottage, built a wood burning kiln there and for several years during the time of World War Two, struggled in without instruction to master her new found avocation. She proves herself now to be a very fine craftsman indeed, with a well developed sense of design and a good eye for color and texture. Her glazes are subtle, and we like her use of stoneware and earthenware on the exterior of her pieces. Our favorites were on inner glazed stoneware teapot and a flat stoneware fruit bowl incorporated with a bubbly red and black glaze, the result of fine texture and a pink and dark grey combination. On the other hand a wine jug decorated with a feeling of Japanese calligraphy, we felt should have been better left to the Japanese.

Marjory Ross, who is more ambitious to work in ceramic sculpture is especially strong in her use of terra-cotta and opaque glazes. She shows with much whimsy, owls and pussycats, and an amusing trio of nuns (in terra-cotta and opaque white), which remind us of the late Dora Weesler of Toronto, who used to be accused, of tooth paste sculpture, but who none the less had a great deal of wit. In fact I like a Mrs. Ross better when she was being witty. In her Eskimo mother and her African family, more serious subjects, she would be well advised to go back to the source and to see the largeness that comes out of the stone or wood in primitive works.

Westmount tulips prepare to bloom

We were wondering just lately, now that spring is obviously on its way, just what we were going to do about the garden. It's always like this with us, in the fall there are just too many other considerations, and we feel that just to clean the place up is enough. We have noticed that our neighbors put in their tulip bulbs in the fall for instance, and before we have a chance to clear our so called lawn of the winter's debris, they have not only tulips in bloom but their crocuses are almost over.

We met a most understanding young man called Gerhart Greinke when we searched out the back entrance of the conservatory (the working part of the city parks department) and tackled him on the subject of bulbs. He gave us a flat 'no' when we suggested that the city of Westmount planted tulip bulbs in the spring. "They wouldn't have time to grow roots," he told us, "they need the winter for that..." "What about the local squirrels?" we countered. "They don't account for much in the winter, but we take up the bulbs in the early summer when we put in the geraniums, otherwise the squirrels would have them all." "We thought that tulip bulbs lasted for years," we questioned. "They do," he replied, "but sometimes they miss, and in the show beds of the city we must have a sure show, so we put the old ones into border beds and in places where if they miss it won't be noticed too much, they are not wasted, but we always put new bulbs in the important spots, where we must have a good show."

Zesty marmalade

This is the season of the year when citrus fruits are at their best and for those of us who have families or husbands who love good old fashioned home made marmalade, it is well worth the small amount of time and trouble it takes to make a supply to last till this time next year. For one thing we are not inundated with our local crops of fruits and vegetables, and for another the whole operation is finished inside of forty eight hours, with only a few hours of actual work.

I choose the large juicy Jaffa oranges from Israel for my marmalade, but those who prefer a bitter taste can substitute the Spanish Seville in part or in whole. The California orange is better suited than the juice orange of Florida, as for this purpose we need both pulp and rind.

The Ingredients:

For twelve large Jaffa oranges, use ten pounds of sugar and three quarts of water in a large enameled pot.

The Method:

Pour the water in the pot and drop into it the oranges as you scrub them with a vegetable brush under running cold water. Heat to boiling point turn down the heat to a good simmer and cover. After about two hours perhaps a little longer, (the fruit should not be too soft, so check now and then), remove from the stove and cool very slightly with the lid off. Leave in a cool place, room temperature is fine, with a cloth under the cover, all night. (If an enamel pot is not available and you boil the fruit in aluminum remove it to a crockery or glass bowl, you may need two) to cook overnight covering in the same manner.

The next day the oranges are removed from the juice one at a time, cut in two and sliced very fine, eliminating as you go along the seeds, and chopping the half slices smaller if you wish. Return each half orange to the pot as it is sliced until all are done. In the mean time warm the sugar in the oven in pans or baking dishes at about 300 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes, and when the orange-water mixture is boiling add the sugar gradually, stirring as you do. Reducing the heat slightly, stir until the sugar is well dissolved and boil gently without a cover for about an hour. When the liquid has reduced so that the mixture has a good consistency, (remember that it thickens slightly in the jar) pour into sterile jars, these can be sealed with double pliofilm and an elastic band with the original jar lid added for protection. Wait a while for the open jars to cool slightly before final sealing. Store in a cool place.

Kitchen helps

Quick Dessert

Boil two cups of sugar with one cup of water and the zest of three oranges. Peel the oranges carefully and cut in two. Place the half oranges flat side down in a shallow dish and add the syrup. Place half cherries on top of each orange piece and chill.

Party treat

Dip short strips of bacon in beaten egg, then into cracker crumbs and broil.

Three ideas

A much better taste will be given to your salad dressing if you substitute lemon juice for the usual vinegar and you can prevent a soggy green salad by placing a saucer upside down in the bottom of the bowl. The excess dressing drains away from the leaves, and they stay crisp much longer.

Water substituted for milk makes an omelette lighter and fluffier.

Nuts and Coffee beans

Place nut meats you would like to keep fresh in a tin and keep in your freezer. Coffee beans in a bag or tin can be treated in the same way.

Dieter's help

Mushrooms cucumbers and oysters are probably the lowest-calorie foods there are. In fact they are all supposed to be without calories. They can be used to add variety to the weight loser's diet in many ways without the addition of fattening sauces or oils.

Fresh raw mushrooms finely sliced are excellent additions to green salad, and they can be cooked in a Greque sauce with almost no calory increase. A plate of tomatoes and cucumber in a little tarragon vinegar makes a welcome addition to the dieter's meal, and can be indulged in without a pang of bad conscience. Raw oyster with lemon juice and a little tabasco are wonderful too.

Serum albumin is a product made from blood plasma. It is used in the treatment of shock, certain liver and kidney diseases and for extensive burns.

TALENT PARADE

Maurice Mariasine escorted and M.C.'d the Unity Talent Parade during a recent trip to entertain the Hawkesbury Rotary Club. They were extremely well received when they put on their usual fine production.

When is a folk song not a folk song?

It is the moment when Wade Hemsworth, 115 Irvine Avenue announces that the haunting melodies and lyrics he writes are "just songs. To label them as Folk Songs, Hemsworth claims, is to presuppose they are part of a country's heritage long before they have had a chance to endure the test of time.

If 'Song of the Wild Goose' and 'The Black Fly Song' have not had time to be 'tested', certainly they have taken their place among our folk heritage.

I first became aware that there was a Wade Hemsworth spotted movement on the ground a few yards away. A good-sized, plump, sparrow-shaped bird was kicking about last autumn's alder leaves, using both feet at once in an extraordinary manner. Every now and then the kicking stopped for an instant, and the red-brown bird dug its conical bill into the exposed ground to pick up small animal life found in the rich humus.

Birdland . . .

What a beautiful bird! The back was streaked red-brown and grey; the bright, rufous-red tail had certainly suggested the name "Fox". When it turned towards them and lifted its head for a moment they could see that the pure white underparts were covered with triangles of this same bright colour. Yellow legs and feet completed the picture. No wonder the leader had suggested that they try this route today!

Presently, more music filled the air, this time coming from several throats. The songs overlapped, clear carols coming from all sides. The watchers discovered that this was a whole flock of Fox Sparrows, and that when singing they left the ground and perched on one of the leafless branches. Spring might be "just around the corner" but had not yet put in an appearance here. These birds were exceptionally early.

A Song Sparrow piped up from a conspicuous branch by the footpath, a Robin sang in the distance. But these birds would be around for a long time yet; there was no need to rush after them. Most Fox Sparrows, however, are in southern Canada for a short while only, as the greater part of their breeding ground lies north of civilization. This was the day to enjoy them. when I heard the Tavelers, a folk song group, relating a little of Hemsworth's background as a member of CN's engineering department, before they sang to their own accompaniment "The Black Fly Song". This number they have recorded. It has also been recorded by Pete Seeger and is included in the book "The History of Canada in Song" by Edith Fowke, Alan Mills and Helmut Blume. Hemsworth, too, has recorded this particular song for Folkways Records.

For a person who has no formal musical training he can be commended for having acquired basic theories on his own. But actually Wade Hemsworth, a graduate of Ontario Art College, thought his career was focused on painting. As with so many young men who saw service during the last world war, Hemsworth's experience with the Royal Canadian Air Force stationed in Newfoundland diverted his earlier ambitions. He found his interest sparked by the songs native to the island.

Inspiration for three of his north woods songs was engendered after he became a surveyor for the Ontario Hydro and later for the Quebec North Shore and Labrador Railway, at Seven Islands.

This talented Canadian, whose ability was recognized by the National Film Board, does not usually write his songs quickly. Yet when he was commissioned to create the musical score for "Spring Drive" — a motion picture documentary about a log drive, he accomplished not only the writing in six weeks, but sang and played his own songs for the sound track.

Evidently there was not the same impetus when "The Old Rooster" roamed around in his head for some three years. When it finally came into focus he had this song written within two weeks.

Temperament has something to do with all creative achievement. Wade Hemsworth says he must "feel" a song and experience what it is supposed to say. Sometimes the melody comes first, at other times it is the lyrics. "There is no set pattern. You can catch a melody easily enough, but to convey the content of a song in melody and rhythm I find much more difficult", he informed one interviewer recently.

Wade says, "the trouble with music is that there is too much of it." He regards piped in music as a menace to our appreciation of good music. He deplores the transistor trend. "It is helping to lower our value of music. Like anything else, if you get too much of it, you don't listen", he commented.

Drafting boards must be an ideal medium for inspiration. While he has been busily employed in CN's towering new office building in Montreal, he has found time to record a tape of nine new songs. At present he is waiting for a record company's reaction to it, hoping an LP will be issued. If they have the lilt and story telling potential of the one describing surveyors pestered by black flies, it won't be long before we will see this new album on the record bars of the nation.

At Unity

Robert Vaux, who is heading up our early spring indoor track and field warm up sessions in the gym every Tuesday afternoon, has agreed to arrange another Cross Canada run. This will be a repeat of a very popular event that was held last Spring with Roger Harte being the eventual winner. Each lay around the gym represents so many miles and all runners start from Montreal and "Run Across" Canada and eventually end up in Vancouver. Runs are limited to short periods several times a week. For all track enthusiasts interested in getting into shape for Spring — Why wait 'til then, get running now! !

The RPAQ launches membership drive

The Recreation and Parks Association of Quebec is a bilingual organization founded by a group of recreation leaders from several municipalities in Quebec. This organization received its charter from the Province of Quebec on August 17, 1965. The constitution provides for a full membership for all Municipal Recreation and Parks Directors who are working full time, and an association membership for anyone doing part time in the field or who is related in some way to Recreation and Parks.

Membership has been increasing slowly, and the executive would welcome inquiries from potential new members from any town or city in the province. Further information and application forms may be obtained by writing to or telephoning B. A. (Rocky) Rothwell at the Westmount Recreation Dept., 4675 St. Catherine St. West, Westmount.

Objectives

- For those who have not heard about this organization, the following are the main objectives:
- To raise standards and to further sound principles in recreation and parks administration.
- To promote training opportunities for professional competence.
- To promote recognition and status of the recreation and parks profession.
- To study and take appropriate action in matters pertaining to recreation and parks.
- To promote and/or conduct research in the field of recreation and parks or related fields.
- To establish and maintain liaison with related organizations.

To recruit persons with suitable aptitude and ability into recreation and parks profession.

To promote education of the community as to full value of sound recreation and parks principles.

Projects

Our first major project has already been set in motion, that is, a training course for Summer Recreation Leaders to be held at Marymount High School, 6300 Cote St. Luc Road, Montreal, Quebec. This course will commence on May 11th at 7:30 p.m. with the following dates rounding out the course: May 13, 14, 16, 18, 25, 27, and 28th. All evening sessions will be of three hours duration and the two Saturday sessions will be of six hours duration commencing at 9:00 a.m. Registration for this course is $5. A course of this nature in French is now available at the University of Montreal.

An Association Bulletin is also under study and should be issued shortly to keep members informed of what is going on.

This organization is also looking forward to supplying help and advice to any community who is adding new facilities or introducing a Recreation & Parks. Qualified personnel in Parks Dept. It also is in a position to recommend personnel for new jobs in the field of Community Recreation and Recreation and Parks operation are very few and it is because of this that a university level course is being set up to commence in the near future.

GUEST of Honor at the program will be head of the English Department, Mr. Angus Bernard, retiring after 23 years of service with the Westmount Board. Twenty-six former teachers and many members of the staff will be on hand to pay tribute to their retiring colleague.

A drawing will be made for a painting by retired vice-principal J. Douglas Lawley. President Philip E. Johnston will chair proceedings while old-boy Leslie Roberts will address the banquet. Gifford Mitchell, Supervisor of Music for the Protestant Schools of Greater Montreal and former teacher will lead a sing-song. Special arrangements have been made by banquet chairman John Newman to ensure a large representation of graduates from each decade, with many father and son combinations in attendance. One of the oldest graduates attending is expected to be Claude Ross of the class of 1898.
