Food smoke sends woman to hospital

Mrs. M. Nesbet was taken to hospital Tuesday evening suffering from smoke inhalation following a very smoky but not serious fire in her apartment at 201 Metcalfe avenue.

Westmount firemen were called at 9:35 pm to fight the smoke that was coming from a pot of food left on the stove. The smoke was thick enough to require the use of smoke ejectors to vent the building.

Mrs. Nesbet was not seriously harmed but was taken to the Queen Elizabeth Hospital for a check-up.

NOW, THIS IS A RIFLE: Student summer soldiers training at the Royal Montreal Regiment armory on St. Catherine street yesterday squatted on the grass beside the armory, next to the ice rink (Westmount Park United Church in background) to learn their ABCs about rifles.

Rock thrown through glass at Steinberg's

Seventy-two square feet of glass was destroyed at 4:30 Saturday morning by a rock thrown through one of the front windows of the Steinberg's store at 4840 Sherbrooke street.

Clerks were in the store at the time stocking shelves and heard the crash but could not discover from where the rock had been thrown.

The eight-by-nine-foot window was valued at $150.

Thom sworn

James Thom, 467 Mount Stephen, officially became an alderman of the City of Westmount last Thursday morning. The swearing-in ceremony took place at City Hall with City Clerk Ron Seaman performing the honors. He replaces Ald. Ian Craig, who has moved from Westmount to Hudson.

Week's delay for council

The July mid-month meeting of Westmount city council is not to be held until Tuesday, July 25.

Ordinarily it would have been held next Tuesday, the 18th, but has been postponed a week for lack of a quorum.

Only items so far planned for the agenda are the approval of the June accounts payable and the results of the opening of tenders to supply the city with fuel oil for the coming year.

The tenders are being opened at City Hall today.

Wrong-way biking costs a broken leg

That the rules of the road apply to bicycles as well as cars was hammered home Tuesday afternoon to a 10-year-old Montreal boy. He received a broken right thigh to teach him his lesson.

Jean Luc Methot was riding a borrowed bike down the wrong side of Greene avenue and when he tried to turn left to go the wrong way on one-way St. Antoine street he collided with a car turning off St. Antoine to go north on Greene.

The car, a 1967 Chrysler driven by Stanley Millet of Montreal, stopped when the driver saw the bike coming but as the boy turned the corner he lost control and struck the car. He was taken to the Montreal Children's Hospital by Westmount Police patrol car.

The car had about $25 damage and the front of the bike was badly bent.

Stall on hill and roll back bends 4 cars

Minor damages only were the result of a four-car accident late Saturday afternoon on Grosvenor avenue at Cote St. Antoine road.

Miss Marilyn Pereira, 20, of Lasalle, had stopped her 1968 Plymouth at a red light as she proceeded north on Grosvenor. When the light turned green her car stalled and, as Newton's laws dictate, her car started rolling down the hill.

Miss Pereira was unable to put on the brakes and as she coasted back the front and back of her car each hit another car and the one she hit with her rear was forced into another car parked behind it.

The third car in the chain, which was hit in front and rear, suffered $500 damage while the other cars each will need repairs to the tune of about $100.

From heaven?

A bottle crashed through a skylight of the house at 497 Victoria avenue yesterday afternoon. Westmount Police are investigating how it happened, including a check on a helicopter that was flying over the area at the time.

NEXT WEEK'S WEATHER By ERIC NEAL

July 14 to 22

Quite pleasant to Monday afternoon, then we may expect the opening guns of the hurricane season. The early ones stay out to sea, but later a couple may well traverse our regions.

Starting Tuesday or Wednesday we will have our share of inland storms. Summer started early, and in other early Easter years like 1967, we have had as many as 10 serious thundersqualls with hailstones during July, chiefly at moon first quarter and last quarter time.

Morning heat fogs and evening thundershowers must be expected, but clearing generally to end the week and open a splendid holiday period which could last to August 15.

Children's Centre row ends amicably; 11 poor reps. named

The 102nd annual meeting of the Children's Service Centre, 5 Weredale Park, came to an amicable end late Tuesday afternoon, 34 days after it began in a storm of protest and demands from members of the Greater Montreal Anti-Poverty Coordinating Committee.

Census is up 36 to 23,606

A year ago, when the 1971 federal census was being taken, there apparently were more Westmounters visiting other places in Canada than there were other Canadians visiting Westmount.

The first tally of our local population gave us a population of 23,570. That figure was adopted by the provincial authorities as official for various governmental purposes.

Now Statistics Canada has had its computers whirring, putting visitors as of census day back in their home communities.

In the put and take, Westmount has gained 36 souls.

Our population now stands at 23,606.

The ratification by the meeting of a new board of management, which includes 11 low-income representatives, resolved the complaints aired by GMAPCC when the meeting was first held June 7.

At the meeting GMAPCC demanded representation on the board for those who use the centre's facilities as a first step in their call for changes at the centre that would make it more responsive to the community.

The centre subsequently agreed on June 15 to allow one third of the 33-member board members to be from low-income groups and set up a committee to seek nominations for these positions.

Sit-in held

The method of selection was unsuitable to GMAPCC and on the night of June 22 they sat in at the centre to support their demand that at least six of the low-income representatives be chosen by GMAPCC.

At a meeting June 28 between centre officials and leaders of GMAPCC it was agreed to have five members named by GMAPCC and it was this agreement that led to the successful ratification of the new board at the reconvened annual meeting on Tuesday.

Following Tuesday's meeting both J. V. Emory, retiring president of the centre, and Helen Bastien, president of GMAPCC, expressed satisfaction that the dispute was over and that the centre could get back to normal operations.

Neither was claiming a victory and both commented that they felt a successful compromise had been achieved. Mr. Emory felt the situation need not have gone to such extremes but was relieved it had been settled.

Named to national body

Mrs. Hugh Hallward takes over as president. Mr. Emory is to remain as honorary president. Loud applause greeted the announcement at the meeting that Mr. Emory has been named national director of the Child Welfare League of America.

Westmount is again represented on the executive of the centre by F. James Ferrabee, 423 Mount Pleasant avenue, first vice-president.

Mrs. Sandra Thomson, the new secretary, is the only one of the low income representatives on the executive.

Six other Westmounters are on the board as directors, one of them for the first time. The new comer is R. James Plant, 476 Strathcona avenue, while those re-elected are Mrs. J. S. Denton, 288 Grosvenor avenue; Dr. Robert W. Faith, 723 Upper Belmont avenue; Colin Irving, 4335 Montrose avenue; John Kerrigan, 416 Roslyn avenue, and Mrs. W. D. Lennox, 57 Thornhill avenue.

Additional day-camp is arranged

An extra summer day-camp of the Westmount pre-school is to be held July 24 to Aug. 25 at Weredale House for 3, 4 and 5-year-olds of the immediate area. The Office for Community and Social Development announced this week.

Three fulltime workers are being assigned to this additional unit, one for each age group. There will be facilities for 17 to 20 youngsters.

Weredale is available with the boys of the school being away at summer camp.

Memorial service here for Dr. J.A. Johnston

A well attended memorial service which included a broad representation of his close friends, including the clergy throughout the Montreal area, was held a week ago Sunday at Westmount Baptist Church for its minister emeritus, Dr. John Alexander Johnston, who died June 28 at Westminster Hospital, London, Ont., at the age of 87.

Dr. Johnston had been pastor here for 23 years until his retirement in 1954, when he and Mrs. Johnston moved to London. His wife predeceased him three years ago.

Born in Dunblaine, Scotland, Dr. Johnston lived later in Stirling where, as a young man, he decided to enter the ministry and became a member of the Baptist Church in Stirling. He came to Canada following service in the first World War. Upon graduation from McMaster University, Hamilton, he was ordained in the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec in 1921.

With a long and distinguished record of service with the Convention, he was minister of Calvary Baptist Church, Toronto; Talbot Street Baptist Church, London, and from 1932, Westmount Baptist Church here. His dedication and effectiveness in his calling were recognized by the Convention in his election as president for 1939-1940 and by his Alma Mater in conferring upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity.

During the Second World War Dr. Johnston was responsible for selection of Baptist chaplains for the Canadian forces and was himself senior padre-designate for the Canadian 5th Division.

Dr. and Mrs. Johnston had no children.

250 Clarke apartment broken into

Forty-eight dollars in U.S. and Canadian bills was the only thing taken from an apartment at 250 Clarke avenue, broken into sometime early Friday afternoon.

When the woman in the apartment returned after being out for a few hours she found the door unlocked and all the drawers and cabinets ransacked.

There were no signs of forced entry so police suspect the burglary was the work of a lock pick.

Youthful ring smashed; five bikes recovered

Acting on a tip from a citizen who saw three boys hiding bicycles in some bushes, Westmount Police Tuesday afternoon recovered five stolen bikes and arrested the trio.

The boys were found behind Westmount High School and were released to their parents pending appearance in Social Welfare Court.

Four of the five bikes had been stolen in Westmount.

OUR MAN IN CLEVELAND: Among 35 architects, designers and urban officials attending a recent "Light for the City" conference in Cleveland, Ohio, was Westmount's director of power and communications, Alex deF. Public housing ghettos

IN its current study of the social issues making demands on its resources—the money of its taxpayers and the time of its administration—the City of Westmount would do well to examine the latest issue of Transition, the excellent quarterly of the Vanier Institute of the Family.

The June issue features an examination of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation performance by Michael Audain, program director of the Canadian Council on Social Development.

His provocative article is titled Our Segregationist Housing Policies.

It is presumed, of course, that the Westmount study is comprehensive and includes housing, particularly the now-stalled Hillside Place public housing proposal.

Mr. Audain draws from CMHC's own figures to show that, while greater emphasis is being placed on providing more housing for low income Canadians, the programs being utilized "exert a divisive force in Canadian society."

The effect of public housing is to build separate housing for low-income people when the emphasis should be on building good housing for people—devising appropriate financial arrangements, such as subsidies to families where required, so that people can afford to exercise choice in where they live.

CMHC figures show that 85 percent of the occupants of public housing are from the lower-third income group, with a median family income of $3,870. Such developments thus become ghettos and the residents feel a stigma.

"Public housing residents commonly report that they feel labelled as inferior by nearby residents. A public housing address can produce difficulties in establishing credit or even obtaining employment," the report says.

"Stigma can also work in yet more damaging, subtle ways. Children feel it in school and it can affect adolescent dating patterns. Social differences tend to work cruelly when it comes to founding a family, and class rigidity perpetuates into future generations the all too pervasive social inequality that lies beneath the chummy gloss of 1972 Canada. . . .

"The poor house should be historically behind us!"

We hope Westmount's aldermen in their study will ponder these observations with regard to what they may perceive still as a responsibility to the former residents of Selby street.

We never have believed that there was a case for building housing specially for the expropriated people of Selby street. We never warmed to the Hillside site, even though it be the best available in Westmount: why deliberately build homes on top of a railroad track and a high-speed expressway? Obviously, if a high concrete wall is now deemed necessary to ameliorate the site's disadvantage, the wall itself becomes an undesirable feature—quite apart from its cost.

If the city feels it must further assist the former Selby residents, let it examine the course suggested by Audain—pay them rent supplements, for a stated period, with which they find their own, unsegregated dwellings.

Editorial Notes

There are three out-of-town girls sharing an apartment in Westmount. Shortly after they moved in they thought it might be a nice idea to invite all their parents in for a meal and show what fine cooks and housekeepers they were. Then they reflected on the idea and one remarked that perhaps it wasn't such a good idea: her father had a habit of holding forth at great length about his experiences in the war. The second girl was inclined to agree about backing off: her father, she said, being French-Canadian, hadn't thought the war was a good thing in the first place. But what tied the can to the whole affair was the third girl, listening to the other two, declaring that her father, a New Canadian, had fought for the other side!

Want to keep up to date on Canada's population? At noon on June 2, according to Statistics Canada, there were 21,810,485 persons in the country. For each day since, add 720 persons. How do they figure that? Well, since the June 1, 1971, census, there was a birth on average every 87 seconds, an immigrant every 269 seconds, a death every 197 seconds and an emigrant every 555 seconds. That sugars off to 1 population increase every 120 seconds, or two minutes. Take it from there.

The people of STOP, who have an active Westmount chapter, might well campaign for more men to wear full beards. A razor manufacturer has sent us in some facts which could be counter-productive for them when the ecologists get hold of them. It seems the average man spends two-thirds of a year of his life just shaving, during which he pollutes 40,000 gallons of water with over one ton of shaving lather.

There is a note of irony in the fact that, just as the hotly protested proposal was being made that Loyola, the university in all but name, should phase itself out, Father Patrick G. Malone, its president, had put out an appeal to graduates, parents, staff and suppliers to sup-

Hon. C. M. Drury

says...

Toward a new film policy

The last time I wrote on this subject was during the winter of 1970 shortly after the publication of the Saumier report. In December of the previous year, the federal government had appointed a public servant, Andre Saumier, to review the National Film Board's plans to lay-off some employees as a result of the government's austerity measures.

Some adjustments were made in the board's film production branch as a result of this report, and a more equitable balance between competing production units was struck. However, the austerity measures applied to the board were maintained, as they were in the case of all other federal institutions engaged in the production and distribution of films.

These included the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, which had become very active in film production and was at the time and still is the largest producer and the largest consumer of film in Canada. There was also the Canadian Film Development Corporation, established in 1968, which played an important part in the growth of the Canadian feature-length film industry. In addition, the Canada Council and the Public Archives were also becoming involved in the field.

Proliferation of agencies

Since that time, there has been a thorough review of Canada's film policy. The size of the federal government's investment in our film industry as illustrated by the proliferation of agencies and organizations, each with their own budgets, is only one of the reasons why we are anxious to make it as effective and as efficient as possible.

A second reason is the recognition that films are becoming a very popular medium for an assortment of messages—for fiction, documentaries, information and education. And we think that it is highly desirable that control over film production and distribution be retained in Canadian hands. This is consistent with the approach already adopted in regard to broadcasting and book-publishing which are two other important elements of the cultural expression of our national heritage.

Thirdly, the private film industry which is already rapidly developing in Canada is destined to grow even more quickly over the next few years as it absorbs many university graduates who have specialized in cinematography. Like the National Film Board, these private businesses have been producing films of a very high calibre, but the uncertainty about adequate financial assistance has caused a climate of uncertainty and disorder.

The federal government has now decided on some new policy recommendations which constitute a two-pronged approach to rationalizing the Canadian film industry. First, we will try to improve the co-ordination of federal activities to insure a more coherent development in the public sector. This will be the primary responsibility of an advisory committee representing both the public and private sectors and reporting directly to Gerard Pelletier.

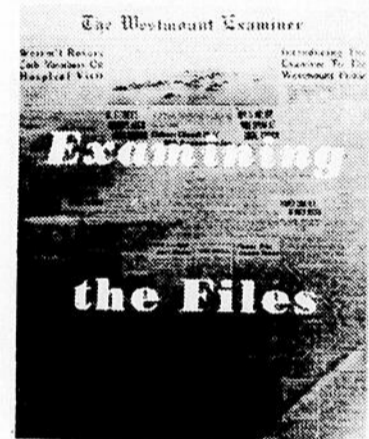

Our 'cultural wealth'

The other approach will increase the access of Canadians to the production and consumption of what I might refer to as plement its funds from government, fees and other sources to continue the growth of its facilities and its capacity to educate young men and women. Construction of a $750,000 campus centre is the current project. A third of this already has been raised from students and alumni; the rest of the community has a golden opportunity, in donating the balance, to show how they feel about Loyola and its future.

our "cultural wealth." Included in this will be some specific measures such as the move to make the National Film Board compete with private producers for all federal film contracts, an increase in the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's use of Canadian films, and the doubling of the Canadian Film Development Corporation's budget to $20 million.

The problem of exerting some control over the distribution of films produced in Canada is still under consideration. Obviously, a policy which encourages more production is pointless unless it can be ensured that the largest possible number of Canadians can see the films here. If this can be guaranteed through a combination of programs and regulations, I can easily visualize the Canadian film industry reaching new heights of international excellence.

"The first tests to be made in Canada of a new type of automotive vehicle which links highway and railway have now been begun on branch lines in the three regions of the Canadian National System. The first of these 'Auto-Railers' which will be tried out on branch lines in Ontario and Quebec is now ready for service. It was given a 'road test' between Montreal and Lachine this week."

Firemen studying buildings

Westmount Fire Brigade this week plans to start its annual pre-planned inspection of the city's large public buildings.

The inspections will be done two days a week during July and August and will familiarize firemen with the layout of all large buildings in Westmount. Knowledge of a building and its fire fighting equipment helps firemen greatly during a major fire.

For the last two months the firemen have been doing their annual in-service inspection of Westmount homes and this program will be continued in September and October.

Late this week the fire department hopes to start its annual check of all its hoses. Every length of hose will be used for at least three minutes in tests to be held at the Westmount Athletic grounds behind Westmount High School.

Wallet, $100 stolen in shop

A wallet containing $100 was stolen Thursday afternoon from a purse left on a desk at the rear of Bonielli Ladies Wear in Westmount Square.

A woman who wandered around the store without buying anything is suspected. Also stolen from the purse were some traveller's cheques and a set of earrings.

Denies it

John Francis Webb, 24, of Napierville pleaded not guilty in Court of Sessions this week to a charge of indecent assault of a woman on Olivier avenue last week. His preliminary hearing is to be held today.

Wisdom is knowing what to do next. Skill is knowing how to do it. Virtue is getting it done.

Library plans shut-in service

Westmount Public Library will start a service for shut-ins sometime this fall that will allow those who cannot get outdoors to benefit from the library's services. The idea is taken from other public libraries in North America which have such plans. The service is still in the planning stage but it has been decided it will be operated by volunteers who will consult with shut-ins and choose their books for them.

Port officer scores do-nothing politicians

A concerted effort to inform both labor and the general public of the vital role of the Port of Montreal in the economy of the region and the country was urged yesterday before Westmount Rotarians at their weekly luncheon meeting in Victoria Hall by Jean Bourguignon, secretary of the Montreal Port Council.

The Belgian born biochemist and agrologist with a wide-ranging knowledge of the political and economic climate of his adopted country did not, in fact, shy away from reference to political factors in the recent illegal harbor strike and its settlement.

He was critical of the members of parliament from this area who chose not to raise their voices in a situation which had serious and widespread repercussions. He twice mentioned Westmount's MP, Hon. C.M. Drury, by name and in his capacity as president of the Treasury Board, as being among the silent politicians. On the other hand, he said it was not all the MPs' fault—the public was not sufficiently concerned to pressure their members.

"If you don't deal with politics," he said, "it will deal you a punch in the nose." And economics are mixed with politics.

He scored the do-nothing approach of the present labor minister and compared his performance to that of his predecessor Hon. Bryce Mackasey. Mr. O'Connell, he said, waited too long and then had to resort to passing a new law to force the longshoremen to obey an existing federal law.

Mr. Bourguignon was optimistic about the Port of Montreal's return to its full importance, though he felt shippers would be out of their minds coming back here without evidence of reliability.

The port has been here 400 years and he expected it would be here another 400.

Pot non-luck

A 22-year-old man arrested on Cote St. Antoine road by Westmount Police, yesterday appeared in Court of Sessions and was charged with possession of marijuana.
