BRITISH RELIEF COLUMN LENDS ARTILLERY SUPPORT TO HARD-PRESSED AIRBORNE FORCE

Armored Unit Drives Through Elst And Attains South Bank Of Rhine In Effort To Reach Paratroopers

Second Army Reported to Have Linked Up With One Airborne Force in Arnhem Area — Isolated Troops Fight on with Bayonets, Bazookas and Tommy-Guns.

Allied Supreme Headquarters, Sept. 23.—(Cable)—A British armored column has driven through Elst and has reached the south bank of the Rhine opposite the city of Arnhem where an Allied air-borne force is encircled, Headquarters announced today.

On the south bank the relief column linked up with one force of paratroopers dropped two days ago.

It still had not joined with the main air-borne force — the "lost division" of British just north of the river—but was close enough to give the hard-pressed force artillery support.

It was not disclosed who now holds the vital Arnhem bridge.

air-borne force in the Arnhem area and today was believed giving artillery support to other isolated groups fighting a bitter battle for survival in the flaming Netherlands city on the invasion route to Germany's industrial Ruhr Valley.

Paris Radio said British air-borne forces had captured Arnhem but this report was without official Allied confirmation. Last direct word from the surrounded British and Polish sky soldiers was in dispatches written at 5 p.m. yesterday.

Canadians Overcome Last Three Big Hun Strongpoints In Boulogne Area

With the 1st Canadian Army, Sept. 23.—(C.P. Cable)—Assaulting Canadian infantry overcame the last three important German strongpoints in the Boulogne area and resistance ended yesterday afternoon with the German garrison commander, a Lt.-Gen. Heim, in Canadian hands.

While Canadian infantry and armored forces across the Belgian-Netherlands frontier pressed toward the Scheldt estuary, the Canadians at Boulogne captured the remaining enemy positions at Wimereux, 2½ miles north of the Channel Port, a fort to the south, and finally the villages of Le Portel, two miles southwest.

The German commander came into the Canadian lines as a prisoner after an attack on Le Portel at 1 p.m.

The end of the six-day Boulogne battle in which comparatively small forces of Canadian infantry fought with distinction came about 4 p.m.

The Le Portel position, overlooking the harbor entrance from the south, was the last position captured by Ontario troops. This morning the Maritime soldiers attacking to the North overcame Wimereux and soon after French-speaking Canadians helped to take Fort de la Creche, about a mile to the south.

In the operation which started Sunday with a heavy and accurate close-support bombing attack by the R.A.F., the Canadians have taken some 7,500 prisoners and the final figure may exceed 8,000. Many officers were among the captives.

At Fort de la Creche 800 prisoners were taken.

Throughout the operation the Canadians have been supported by special armored units, such as flame-throwing crocodiles (Churchill tanks), and by many artillery batteries which gave them strong backing in the assault on German concrete defence works, which had to be eliminated one by one.

Allied Planes Today Following Up Smash At Reich By 1,500 Aircraft

London, Sept. 23.—(Cable)—The weather improved over the Straits of Dover today, giving promise of another aerial battering of Germany such as that delivered by 1,500 Allied planes yesterday.

The German Radio already was telling the people of the Upper Danube Valley that Allied bombers and fighters were on their way.

Air fleets from Mediterranean fields fanned toward Germany's southern approaches.

Planes from Britain and Italy yesterday struck the industrial city of Kassel, the Munich area, and Allied fighters assaulted targets along the blazing battlefront despite heavy cloud conditions. The 650 flying fortresses hitting Kassel were unchallenged from the air, but anti-aircraft fire was heavy and nine bombers and a fighter were missing. Shuttle planes from an Italy-Russian-Britain mission returned to British bases, dropping supplies to Polish Patriots and bombing enemy targets en route.

ITALIANS WILL BE HELPED BY UNRRA COUNCIL

Nations Who Were Once Under the Heel of Italian Fascist Oppression Give Blessing to Bill to Aid Women and Children.

By JAMES MCCOOK, Montreal, Sept. 23.—(Cable)—Nations which suffered under Italian Fascist aggression yesterday gave their blessing to United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration plans to assist the mothers and children of Italy who suffer as a result of the war.

L. R. Pearson, the Canadian Chairman of the UNRRA Council, announced at a press conference that the Committee on Policy, which is composed of the 44 Council members, had approved a resolution authorizing the administration in Italy to provide medical and sanitary aid and supplies, assistance in the transfer of women to their homes of displaced persons and care and welfare services for children and nursing and expectant mothers.

UNRRA expenditures under the resolution must not exceed $50,000,000. The resolution probably will be approved by the Council in the next few days.

The Policy Committee also approved a resolution providing for assistance to persons in enemy or ex-enemy territory who have been obliged to leave their country, place of origin or former residence by action of the enemy because of race, religion or activities in favor of the United Nations.

About 95 per cent of those benefiting under this resolution will be Jews.

The Policy Committee also adopted recommendations of a Committee on Europe summarizing the needs of relief requirements. Under the recommendations, estimates of good requirements will be based on the average consumption for the total population of 2,650 calories per person per day, with supplementary provisions for priority groups and others in dire need.

Mr. Pearson said it was hoped the recommendations of the session, which started last Saturday, would be completed today. Council deliberations will proceed on Monday with the hope of completing the session's work on Tuesday or Wednesday.

Mr. Pearson said that Council members speaking in favor of the limited assistance to Italy still had not made their position clear. They agreed the help should be given for humanitarian reasons but specified that it applied to Italy and to no other enemy country. Spokesmen for Greece, Yugoslavia, France and Ethiopia all recalled their countries had suffered from Italian action in the war but they were prepared to see humanitarian aid given.

Mr. Pearson said that part of Italy now was working on the side of the Allies and to that extent was expiating its crimes against the United Nations.

The Italian resolution was approved without dissent, the Yugoslav representative reserving his vote.

British Take Strategic Rhine Bridge

After a 24-hour battle for the bridge which spans the Rhine at Nijmegen in Holland, shown in a pre-war view above, British tanks and Allied air-borne troops managed to capture it intact. The mile-and-a-half span has opened an escape route for a large pocket of Allied paratroopers trapped near Arnhem.

ANOTHER PHASE IS STARTED IN ADRIATIC FIGHT

Hectic Four-Week Action Brings Allies to 28 Miles from Metauro River and to Threshold of Lombardy Plains.

By DOUG HOWE,

With the Canadian Corps on the Adriatic Front, Sept. 23.—(C.P. Cable)—The second great phase of the Adriatic offensive appeared to be opening today on the heels of the hectic four-week action that has carried the British 8th Army, spearheaded by the Canadians, more than 28 air-line miles from the easily-won Metauro River to the bitterly-gained Marche and the threshold of the Lombardy Plains.

Ahead in broad flat lowlands stretching 70 miles to the Po, and another 40 to Venice, overhead are ominous clouds that already have sent down the first warnings of the ever-nearing rains of autumn.

As much as anything the 8th now is battling against time; against time set by the Allies in the west and by the Russians in the East, and against time and weather that could combine with the Germans to pin the thousands of men and tanks in Italy for another winter if the war does not end on the other fronts.

Behind the four harsh, courageous weeks that have eliminated the Apennines and the narrow coastal belt hinged to them as a defensive keypoint and opened to Gen. Alexander a scope for manoeuvre such as he has never before enjoyed in the long grim fight for Italy.

From its Rimini springboard the 8th could drive along two great axes; one along the lateral road to Bologna, toward which the 5th army now is driving through the mountains from the south, the other along the more or less coastal road running northwest to Ferrara and the Po.

The first offers opportunity to swing a huge hammer around the Germans still fighting in the mountains below the road, the other has

Reach Accord On 90 p.c. Problems

Washington, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Taking the view that peace must be equally as global as war has become, Dumbarton Oaks conference have agreed that any country can call the attention of a future international security organization to a menace of world peace anywhere.

This was learned today after President Roosevelt said British, Russian and American delegates at the conference have agreed on 90 per cent of the problems before them.

The 10 per cent of non-agreement to which the President referred is understood to be primarily on the question of whether a powerful country can veto international action against itself.

The conference still are awaiting word from Moscow on whether Russia will reverse its stand and agree to give up such a veto.

WRITER AMAZED TO KNOW HE WAS LISTED MISSING

CP War Correspondent Charles Bruce Walks into Office to Find Staff Searching for Material for His Obituary.

By DOUGLAS AMARON,

London, Sept. 23.—(C.P. Cable)—Charles Bruce, London correspondent of The Canadian Press, walked into CP's London office yesterday afternoon being reported missing from an airborne operation for 36 hours and discovered the staff searching for biographical material to answer London newspaper requests for his obituary.

A look of astonishment grew on the 38-year-old superintendent's face as two staff members, Alan Nickerson and Ross Munro, jumped from their desks to greet him.

Then when Bruce learned he was reported missing from a flight to Holland September 20 he voiced a hearty newspaperman's "Damn."

The aircraft in which Bruce was a passenger was hit by anti-aircraft fire after dropping canisters of supplies to Allied airborne troops in Holland and it crash-landed in Belgium. The pilot messaged his home base that everyone was safe and when Bruce reached Brussels Thursday he sent a message and a story on the flight to London.

Apparently the pilot's signal didn't get through and Bruce's dispatch and message filed from Brussels didn't reach the London office until after he returned. He had good cause for being amazed that "there was any fun over this thing at all."

Five minutes before Bruce returned to the office, Munro was searching a desk drawer for a photograph for a London press trade journal whose correspondent was coming to collect it and some biographical material.

"I wish Charlie would walk in and tell me to get away from his desk," said Munro.

Then Bruce did walk in, followed a few moments later by the journal's woman correspondent. She was surprised to find the subject of her visit in person but more than satisfied to settle for a first-person account.

FINLAND GULF CONTROLLED BY SOVIET FLEET

Last of Hun Strongholds in Baltic States Threatened by Russian Navy Owing to Capture of Tallinn, Estonian Naval Base.

By EDDIE GILMORE,

Associated Press War Correspondent Moscow, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Capture of Tallinn, Estonian naval base and capital, opened the Gulf of Finland today to the Soviet Baltic Fleet, and strongly impelled all the remaining Nazi strongholds in the Baltic States.

Front dispatches said that Russian troops to the south already were battling within the outer defences of Riga, Latvia's capital, seizure of which would cut off land escape routes for the Germans caught between there and Tallinn.

At the same time other dispatches from Western Transylvania said Red Army tanks were lunging close to the Romanian-Hungarian frontier after seizing Arad, important road and rail junction, ten miles from the border. The campaign for the capture of the Hungarian capital of Budapest, lying directly in the path of Soviet forces rolling across the flat country, was said to have begun.

The Russian war bulletin said Marshal Leonid A. Govorov's Leningrad Army, in addition to taking Tallinn, captured 800 more towns yesterday, including the strategic rail junction of Tapa, 43 miles south-east of the Estonian capital.

Airmen from the Baltic Fleet blasted Nazi evacuation ships in the Gulf of Finland.

Gen. Eisenhower Bares His Policy Of Two-Fisted Firmness For Nazis

By HOWARD COWAN,

Associated Press War Correspondent Allied Supreme Headquarters, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Gen. Eisenhower has bared his policy for dealing with occupied Germany—a policy of two-fisted firmness stamping out the infamous reign of Hitler and the Nazis and already in effect in conquered German towns.

The Allied Supreme Commander minced no words in proclaiming the death penalty for Germans "who aid the Nazis in any way."

Aiming at swift justice for war criminals and threatening the firing squad for those who disobey, the Allies have ordered Nazi party administrative officers to remain at their posts until all funds, records, equipment and property are surrendered.

Amplifying a broadcast to the German people September 18, Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters' announcement said the Allied military government had decreed immediate dissolution of the Nazi political and military organizations.

"German laws involving discrimination on grounds of race, religion, or political opinion are abrogated," headquarters' edict said.

This included laws such as those for "the protection of German blood and honor." The Hitler Youth law, was banished, along with that which enjoined sabotage and the uniforms of the Swastika and the uniforms it granted sacred property.

At the same time, the Allies announced plans for the installation of orderly processes in the defeated nation, once the Germans comply with the unequivocal terms of "unconditional surrender."

Regular courts, when purged of Nazi influences, will be reopened as soon as conditions permit, the Germans were told. The Allies announced they would take over mails, telephone, telegraph and radio systems, and supervise censorship of all civilian communications.

Allied military marks were established as legal tender, not only for soldiers but for all purposes in Germany. It was made clear AMG would have control over transfers of "certain property in Germany, including foreign exchange assets."

Still another task—almost certain to be taken over by the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration with the ending of A.M.G.—will be the repatriation of Allied prisoners of war and an estimated 8,000,000 Europeans in concentration camps, or otherwise displaced from their homes.

English was established as the official language in all official matters relating to military government. There was no elaboration upon this ordinance.

The death penalty was established for any German who acts as spy for the Germans, aids Nazis in any way, engages in looting or pillaging, is guilty of sabotage or theft of Allied war material, or who deliberately misleads Allied Forces.

The War Today

By J. M. ROBERTS, Jr.
(Sub. for DeWitt Mackenzie)
Associated Press War Analyst.

It is hardly proper to refer to the impending "rescue" of the British air-borne troops at Arnhem. You don't rescue men who, deliberately assigned to a difficult post, stand and slug regardless of odds. You don't rescue men who laugh and curse the enemy's surrender suggestions.

Nor, strictly speaking, is the advancing British 2nd Army a "relief" column. It may have that effect on the encircled air-borne troops. But technically the whole operation is part of an offensive, deliberately planned so that Gen. Montgomery's Air Army could help clear the way for the main ground armies in their advance across the Holland water barriers. The 2nd Army is heading for the capture of Arnhem and the invasion of the German Ruhr. It's not a "relief" job.

There is a difference between the air army which deliberately put itself in the German circle and an army which has walked into a trap.

Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday—a week, every day longer than the last, every man a target for German field pieces which can be countered only with comparatively light equipment which could be flown in.

A correspondent with them writes of the German surrender broadcast: "It was a silly thing to do. It made these chaps hopping mad. You should have heard their language."

And another writes: "And though our men, some of them, are hard put to it not to fall asleep over their guns, they go on fighting and go on attacking and one day perhaps the world will learn the full story of what they have done here."

Men fighting unflinchingly for their objective, fulfilling their orders. Men the world will cheer when their support arrives. But not men to be "rescued."

EXTRA EFFORT IS NEEDED TO DEFEAT ENEMY

Citizens of Sherbrooke and the Eastern Townships today were called upon by the National Finance Committee to give more support to the last week of the September War Savings Stamps drive which is being sponsored by the drug stores.

Sales of War Savings Stamps have been reported as "average" during the first three weeks of the campaign, and added efforts will be made next week to sell more stamps in order to make the drive more successful than last year. Slogan for the drive is "Get Behind the Drug Store's $1,000,000 Campaign," which is the national objective. Quota for Quebec Province is $200,000.

Officials of the drive said that General Eisenhower recently called upon all invasion forces to make an "extra" effort to hasten the knock-out blow on the enemy. "We, on the home front, are also asked to make an 'extra' effort to hasten Victory during the month of September," said Albert Charpentier, Chairman of the drive.

Every ship of the navy, every tank, every combat plane and every soldier in the fight is now using ammunition at such a rate that reserves are heavily drawn upon. A call has gone out for more ammunition, and more war workers are urgently needed for shell filling alone.

Answering the call, the druggists have pledged themselves to sell sufficient War Savings Stamps during the present month, to buy at least a million Ordnance Gun shells. The Provincial objective is 200,000 shells at $1 or $200,000.

Winners of War Savings Certificates raffled at The Star Pharmacy today include B. Mjth, 14 Russell Street, and Dr. H. Einbinder, 44 Queen Street North.

He was the holder of the Military Medal (for bravery on the field of action), the Queen's Medal with three clasps, the King's South African Medal and two clasps, the Long Service Medal and the Good Conduct Medal, in addition to having been mentioned several times in dispatches.

A military funeral was held for the deceased at Hixon, Staffordshire.

My Four Years in Hitler's Gray Paree

Life Was Made Difficult By Maze Of Regulations

This is the last of three articles about life in Paris under German rule. Its author is a prominent journalist who lived in Paris throughout the occupation. His name cannot be disclosed because he still has relatives living in German-held lands.

Written for NEA Service
Paris, Sept. 23.—This is what it was like for the average family in Paris by the time the occupation had reached its third winter. Reading about this life, it will seem incredibly different from pre-war Paris. It was incredibly different.

To the Parisians themselves, however, many of the changes came so slowly as to be hardly noticeable. One small restriction gradually was enlarged... another small restriction was added, and it in time was enlarged. Eventually life was bound up in a maze of rules and regulations of which the average Parisian was often scarcely conscious.

UP BEFORE DAWN

"Out of bed, boy. It's half past seven. Time to line up for the bread before you start for school." This was the day started for Andre Durand, aged 7, by the winter of 1943.

Andre found it hard to get out of bed in the middle of the night. The Germans had advanced the Paris time hours in order that their clocks should have the same "European" time as East Prussia. The house was cold, for there was no fuel for heating. The discomfort of going out in the dark was increased by the fact that there were no batteries for Andre's flashlight.

Basically, however, Andre was a happy boy. He did not miss the cakes and ice cream and chocolate and bananas he would have enjoyed if he had reached the age of 7 in a world at peace. He had tasted them and did not know what he missed.

Andre had fun, of sorts. He had distinguished himself in his class at school collecting horse chestnuts in the Paris parks. War-socks were made from his old socks and his old shoes were mended with rags. He was busy collecting old iron, paper, money for "solidarity bonds" for Marshal Petain, clothes for refugees. School had become an or-the obvious advantages of a swift dash straight into the north.

With the ground and air forces at his command it is even possible for Gen. Alexander and Gen. Leese to use both.

To face these threats the Germans are badly positioned, badly depleted and badly disorganized. They are in a situation similar in many respects to that which existed after the last defence line was broken before Rome. But one essential difference lies in the fact that the Allied break-through there was achieved in early summer weather. Pursuit here literally begins with autumn itself.

The 8th Army has achieved twin successes in reaching the plains at a date considered on high authority to be satisfactory if not outstanding, and soundly thrashing the Germans in a decisive battle that if not fought here would have had to be fought elsewhere.

ganized rag shop. Study was neglected.

STATUES MELTED DOWN

Once Andre had started for school, Madame Durand began to stand in one line after another, getting food for dinner. Today, the butcher shop at which she was registered was going to make its first distribution in three weeks — a one-quarter pound of meat per person.

Mr. Durand used to have a clerk's job in an advertising firm. With the occupation, he had to change jobs because the universal business problem was not customers but merchandise. Luckily for Mr. Durand and hundreds of thousands of others who lost their pre-war jobs, Vichy built a gigantic industrial bureaucracy in Paris, and Mr. Durand found work there.

All French economic life was to be fashioned by Vichy into a corporate state, built on fascist models. For each of 158 branches of industry there was to be a Corporation. This Corporation controlled the production, distribution and sale of all raw materials within the industry and its finished products outside. Inevitably, the big firms ruled the Corporations, squeezing their small "partner" firms out of business.

To get to work, Mr. Durand took the subway at Victor Hugo station. The author's famous statue had been taken away long ago to be melted down for cannon. Riding to work, Mr. Durand thought over the advisability of bartering for some red wine, two copper candlesticks which he had inherited from his grandmother. The Germans offered a litre of wine for every 200 francs of copper. It was a temptation. Before the war the Durand family used to drink a litre of wine a day. Now they were lucky if they got one every five days.

When he got to his office Mr. Durand found a new circular announcing that a drastic reduction of paper was necessary. Yearly paper consumption had already been cut from 32 to 10 kilograms per capita. Half of the ton would be taken by the occupying authorities. The paper work of the economic bureaucracy absorbed one-third of the rest and at the same time paper

JUSTICE LANDRY TO PRESIDE AT VOTE RECOUNT

Mr. Justice J. Dalmia Landry, of Sherbrooke, will preside in Superior Court in Montreal on Tuesday at a judicial recount of votes cast in Maisonneuve at the provincial general election last August 8, it was announced today.

Yesterday, Dr. J. F. A. Gattien, National Union candidate, who was declared elected by a majority of 39 votes over City Councillor Edmond Hamelin, Liberal, desisted from proceedings in which he challenged the jurisdiction of Judge Landry to conduct the recount. Counsel for Dr. Gattien contended that Mr. Justice Landry had not the requisite qualification, under the Quebec Election Act, to act in this matter in Montreal, in view of the fact that he was a judge of the judicial District of St. Francis.

John Ahern, K.C., representing Mr. Hamelin, consented to withdrawal of the writ prohibiting Judge Landry to conduct the recount. Initial proceedings were halted before Judge Landry on August 22 when, on Mr. Gattien's petition, Justice Cousineau granted issue of the writ of prohibition against Judge Landry.

Proceedings were then taken in the Court of Appeal, at the instance of Mr. Hamelin, asking for authorization to proceed with the recount notwithstanding the writ, which, it was alleged, was issued on irregular procedure.

A common scene during the German occupation of Paris: school children collecting old clothes to be sent to French soldiers imprisoned in camps in France and Germany.

was more in demand than ever as a substitute for furs, leather and even glass. Mr. Durand was amused to find that a new office was being established to centralize ideas on how to reduce paper consumption. Big rewards were offered for new ideas. As a start a big book was being printed, summarizing all methods of paper saving now in use in Germany.

Meanwhile Mrs. Durand was still standing in line at the butcher's. The women in line all gossiped, passed on latest bits of news. There was only one copy of a newspaper available for every 10 Parisians. No one cared much, because the only things read were the official announcements, such as the latest rationing schemes, deaths, etc. Mrs. Durand, like many Paris women, had long ago started the habit of reading a book while standing in line. Never were books so much in demand as during the occupation.

Late in the afternoon, Mrs. Durand took a walk. There was plenty

Gen. Ivan Maslennikov's 3rd Baltic Army captured 60 localities along the Estonian-Latvian frontier northwest and west of Valga, the war bulletin added.

Other gains in Romania were registered by the taking of Semlac, on the Mures river west of Arad, which put one Soviet column 38 miles from Szeged, Hungary's second city, and 122 miles southeast of Budapest. Another town to fall was Simandul, 18 miles north of Arad and six miles from the Magyar frontier.

In southern Poland the Russians captured 30 villages southeast of Sanok near the Czechoslovakia border, extending the Red Army front opposite Slovakia and northern Hungary.

Moscow remained silent on progress in the fighting for Warsaw. A Polish communique from the capital asserted Polish patriots had made contact with Red Army forces in the northern and southern districts of the city after the Russians had crossed the Vistula.

man could buy without coupons: garters, belt, suspenders, celluloid collar and top hat. Nothing else. Madame Durand sighed. Men did have a tough time of it. They had 20 clothing points a year. That would buy a shirt and a pair of socks; or two pairs of shorts and two handkerchiefs.

NAZIS CENSORED SHOWS

Women were luckier. They could buy various artificial materials without coupons. About 50 of the leading couturiers, their international importance recognized both by the German and Vichy authorities, received small amounts of wool and silk to enable them to continue their seasonal showings. The Nazi plan called for Vienna to be the center of fashion, however, and French models could not be exported to any European country.

The family dinner was small, depending on the day's shopping luck and whether a parcel arrived from Mr. Durand's sister in Normandy. Bread was scarce and inferior; there was almost never butter or oil, seldom meat.

After dinner the Durands usually stayed home. About once a week they went to a movie, carefully avoiding the German films. Once in a long time they went to a cabaret. The shows had always to be approved by the German censors. But often these reviews were salted with double meaning skits, and the Durands rocked with laughter at innocent-seeming remarks whose subtle anti-German laughter had escaped dull censoring ears.

To the Parisian, however, there was little gaiety in Gay Paree during the four endless years of the occupation. The family dinner was small, depending on the day's shopping luck and whether a parcel arrived from Mr. Durand's sister in Normandy. Bread was scarce and inferior; there was almost never butter or oil, seldom meat.

FIRE RAZES TWO INTERNMENT CAMP BUILDINGS

Camp Hospital, Men's Quarters And Administration Office Are Levelled; Court Of Inquiry May Convene Today

Fanned by a strong wind, a spectacular fire today completely destroyed men's quarters and administration building at the local internment camp. The blaze is believed to have broken out in the boiler room in the billet house at 11.45 o'clock last night. Col. H. D. Hedley, Officer Commanding the camp, told a Daily Record representative that a military court of inquiry may convene today to ascertain the origin of the fire, which caused considerable damage.

No damage estimate was available yet, as officials withheld figures, pending completion of a thorough investigation. No one was injured. It took members of the Sherbrooke Fire Department, under the supervision of Director Percy Donahue, more than two hours to bring the raging flames under control. Firefighters were still pouring water on the smouldering ruins at daybreak this morning.

The men's quarters housed members of the Veterans' Guard, a detachment of engineers and army medical corps, including the dental unit, while the administration building contained the officers' quarters and camp hospital. Approximately one hundred men were made homeless as a result of the fire, with being burned to the ground, with the majority losing their personal belongings. Some of the men were asleep at the time of the outbreak, fleeing the burning building in night attire.

Prompt action on the part of the guards and others stationed at the camp led to the carrying to safety of all filling cabinets containing records of the personnel and Nazi internment. Officials said that the German captives, housed in nearby buildings, were unaware of what was happening and slept throughout the fire. There were no discoveries reported, but a heavy guard was thrown around the camp grounds.

The blaze was first detected by Percy Sinclair, Quebec Central Railroad fireman, who was aboard a locomotive when he saw smoke curling from the roof of the billet house. We immediately went and notified those in the building. Some were asleep at the time, and suddenly the flames started shooting through the roof," Mr. Sinclair added.

Authorities lost no time in sound-burned building before midnight," he told a Record reporter, "and Mr. Sinclair, Quebec Central Railroad fireman, who was aboard a locomotive when he saw smoke curling from the roof of the billet house. ARMAND NADEAU NAMED CORONER FOR DISTRICT

It was announced in a telegram from the assistant Attorney General that Armand Nadeau, local advocate, had been appointed to the post of Coroner for the District of St. Francis, Mr. Nadeau will replace Leonidas Bachand, present coroner.

The new coroner was born at St. Agapit, the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Albert Nadeau. He received his early education at the seminary in St. Agapit and Three Rivers, later studying law at Laval University, graduating as an advocate in 1937.

After practising his profession in Three Rivers for two years, he pleaded a number of cases in Sherbrooke, later taking up residence here in 1939.

Local District Leaders' Council Plan Scouts' And Cubs' Activities

The annual meeting of the Sherbrooke District Leaders' Council, which was held at St. Paul's Church last night when various leaders from the Sherbrooke District took part in discussions and the planning of Boy Scouts' and Cubs' activities.

A highlight of the meeting was the election of officers for the coming year. The following were elected to office: President, Fred Hicks; Vice-President, Miss Evelyn Davies; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. D. Barfield; Representatives to the local Association, Cub Representative Les Humphreys, and representing the Scouts, Brother Berchmans.

Extensive plans were laid for the forthcoming "apple day" to be held on Saturday, October 14th, which, it is hoped, will surpass the success of former years. It has been ruled that with each purchase of an apple, a tag will be given the purchaser.

Further discussion centred around the many War Services performed by the Scouts and Cubs, and the awarding of War Service Badges for accumulated credits.

A Church Parade had been arranged for October 8th, at which time a "Litter Trophy Inspection" will be held.

The newly elected President, Fred Hicks, presided over the major part of the meeting, with the assistance of Clarence Blake.

Young Girl Suffered Concussion In Automobile Mishap On Brompton Road

Irla McGinty, seventeen-year-old Sherbrooke girl, suffered concussion and contusions to the head as well as a broken nose in an accident which occurred on the Brompton Road yesterday afternoon. The girl is in the Sherbrooke Hospital.

On her way home, riding her bicycle, the girl endeavored to pass a stationary car which was parked near the City of Sherbrooke incinerator. As she swung out to the middle of the road, she failed to see a car which was approaching in the opposite direction.

A crash occurred and the girl was thrown to the pavement. She was taken to Dr. Hill's office in Sherbrooke, and then transported to the Sherbrooke Hospital by Monette's ambulance.

Hospital authorities today were awaiting X-ray plates to determine the extent of the girl's injuries. An aged woman, Mrs. Louis Gauthier, 68, of 14a St. Edward Street, is in the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital today suffering from head injuries suffered in a fall down the stairs at her home.

Hospital authorities stated today that although the injuries were not regarded as being of a serious nature, the aged woman would be confined to the hospital for two or three days.

EXPLAIN RULES FOR PROCURING GUN CARTRIDGES

Although a limited amount of rim fire cartridges and shot shells are being made available by the War-time Prices and Trade Board to sportsmen, attention is called to the fact that individuals who present gun registration certificates that are dated on or after August 15, 1944, will be refused a purchase permit when they apply for small arm ammunition to the local ration board.

They will be referred to a branch of the Ration Administration for consideration, and if the application warrants a permit, it will be provided.

September 30 is the deadline for issuance of ammunition permits, and application should be made to the nearest local ration board. The ammunition need not necessarily be purchased immediately, but may be obtained any time between now and December 31 of this year.

Non-residents of Canada are not entitled to small arms ammunition for sporting purposes, unless the guns are registered in Canada. Even if they have been given a temporary permit by the RCMP for importation of a gun into this country, it will not alter the situation as regards ammunition, as the permit is not a gun-registration.

Those who wish to obtain permits must take their ration book or card with them when they apply.

SUPPORT ASKED IN PAPER DRIVE BY LIONS CLUB

Canada's waste paper shortage is far more critical than it appears on the surface, officials of the Lions Club Salvage Committee said today in urging local householders to support in every way possible the city-wide collection of scrap to be held soon.

"There is a threat of the maintenance of supply to our armed forces in the European and Pacific war theatres," a spokesman pointed out. "There are overwhelming needs that have to be met in the home front. Actually more than 700,000 uses are now made of waste paper in providing the tools of victory and in packing them to the battlefronts."

Sherbrooke is urged to prepare so that the minimum quota of waste paper may, if possible, be surpassed. All scrap campaigns in the city from now on will be conducted by the Lions Club. The date of the next drive has not been decided upon.

THE BELGIAN PARLIAMENT RESUMES

The resumption of the Belgian parliamentary sessions after four years of suspension owing to German domination of the country marks an important step in the restoration of nations which have been under the Nazi heel. Belgium is the first country of Continental Europe to return to its normal routine of government and the re-opening of the parliament indicates that the democratic system is so imbedded in the minds of the people of the country that the traditional institutions can be carried on despite the fact that King Leopold, the nominal head of the state, is a prisoner of the Germans.

Of course, Belgium is in a somewhat different position from certain other countries, in that its government never did accept the Nazi occupation and that the Empire retained overseas possessions which permitted the refugee government in London to maintain a semblance of national organization. There were few, if any, collaborators in the Belgian political set-up and certainly none in high places. As a result, when the parliament met for the first time in four years on Tuesday, no less than 186 of 202 members of the pre-war Chamber of Deputies were in their seats. Thus there is no possible grounds for dispute as to who is the constituted authority in Belgium. The men who last received the confidence of the people in a democratic election are still there to carry on until such time as it appears desirable to appeal to the electors under the terms of the constitution.

This is a marked difference from conditions in France where the machinery of government was to a large extent smashed by the German occupation. The pre-war politicians are for the most part in disgrace. Many sold themselves out to the Germans, others have proved themselves unworthy of trust while a third group are either in German concentration camps or in their graves. The present government headed by General Charles de Gaulle cannot be considered as anything but a temporary expedient. The French people have for the most part accepted the General as signifying the military resistance of the country, but while they are agreeable that he retain limited control until the nation is to an extent re-organized, it is doubtful if they are prepared to accept him as a permanent leader.

This condition to a large extent explains the unwillingness of the British and American leaders to make any long-term commitments with the present French administration, especially in connection with releasing the extensive gold holdings of France now frozen in the United States. They feel that before any permanent accord can be achieved with France, a new government, elected under democratic processes, must be established.

Whether the people of France favor the return of de Gaulle, or whether they elect some presently unknown figure is essentially their own business, but the Allies are justified in their stand that the government must show it has the confidence of the people.

THE POSITION OF CHINA

The dark spot in the generally bright war picture for the United Nations, is the critical position of China and the big question in the minds of many military and political observers is whether the Americans across the Central Pacific—even though it is months ahead of its old schedule—can open a supply route to Free China, for those arms and materials which are needed so that it can be re-organized for a continuation of its effective resistance against Japan.

Thus close attention is being paid to the progress of the war in Europe, for any long-delayed victory in the drives against the heart of Germany would set back the day for full concentration against Japan and might jeopardize China's continued existence as one of the "Big Four" United Nations.

One of the prime requirements of the military leaders from China is the manpower resources to crush the Japanese armies in Asia, especially if Russia does not enter the war. But in addition there is the need of a strong central post-war government capable of preventing Japanese war-mongers and agitators from going underground in China to spring up during the years of peace and also the need of a nation that in the immediate post-war years will become a dominant power in East Asia.

At present the realization of these aims is threatened by the most complicated set of military and political considerations in any war theatre, the position being outlined by high-ranking Washington Government advisers on China policy as something like this:

Economic difficulties, inflation and shortages have made the lot of the people increasingly miserable. The armies fight without even a minimum of necessary arms. They are in many instances poorly led, and they feel they have less and less to fight for.

The Allied Command set-up is regarded by some as hopelessly complicated. General Stilwell serves two masters as Chief of Staff to Chiang and official representative of the Allied commander in Southeast Asia and Burma, Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten. Lord Louis, in turn, is subject to the decisions of General Auchinleck, India commander, for troops. Auchinleck's primary concern is to preserve order in India.

Recent emissaries from Washington to Chungking have done what they could to encourage Chinese leaders, and through them the people to fight on, but it is generally felt that the only real encouragement will be to prove beyond doubt that the long-awaited supplies are really on the way. Such proof at the moment could come only in the defeat of Germany and the consequent transfer of forces to the Pacific.

POST-WAR MANUFACTURING CHANGES

In any discussion of post-war industrial and economic plans, there is one unpredictable feature which may have an important bearing on the general re-organization of world industry and commerce—the effect of war-developed synthetic products on natural products. In many lines, synthetic products developed from the resources of the consuming countries are proving much more efficient and economical than the natural products which often had to be transported over huge distances. Thus many countries with great natural resources are liable to find their principal markets closed, with consequent economic distress. On the other hand, new markets will be opened for nations which previously played little part in the economic picture.

Cotton and rubber prove cases in point. Raw cotton is produced in comparatively few sections of the world and forms the basis for the prosperity of many countries, and for important sections of other countries. But its markets are generally thousands of miles away from its production centres. But now wood cellulose is rapidly replacing cotton as the raw material for textiles, with the general consensus of opinion among the manufacturers being that the synthetic product is not only cheaper but more serviceable than the natural product it replaces.

The position of the rubber growers may be even more critical. The production of synthetic rubber is expanding by leaps and bounds until it is almost equal to normal world demands. Meanwhile the rubber plantations of the territories now under Japanese domination may have suffered great damage or may even have been ruined as the result of the conquest. Thus in the time it would take to restore the efficiency of these production areas, chemists will be given an opportunity of making even further improvements to the already remarkable synthetic product.

Of course, new uses may be found for the natural cotton and rubber, but economists and planners will have to take into consideration the possibilities that two major industries may find their source of supply in the forests and wheat fields of Canada and other northern countries, rather than in the steaming jungles or the sun-burned fields of the tropics and sub-tropics.

A NEW PROBLEM FOR HITLER

The rapid progress of the Allied armies on the northern sector of the Siegfried Line means that for the first time in one hundred years Germany is experiencing what military invasion on a large scale means. It will be interesting to see how the German people react when their "sacred soil" becomes as much a battleground, as did the soil of Russia and France.

This poses a new problem and a serious one for Hitler and his government. No living German has seen his lands overrun and his cities levelled by attacking armies in the way that he and his kind have seen in other lands and been responsible for. The Germans have murdered, burned and looted more than half the continent of Europe twice in the past thirty years. They gloated in doing it for the aggrandisement of the Reich. Now the big question is: How will they like it themselves?

Many people have been of the opinion that when the war was brought home to the German soil, Hitler and his successors would surrender rather than allow their Fatherland to be devastated as they have devastated other countries. There is no sign of this so far and there are even indications that the Nazi leaders plan to fight on, or at least make their people fight on, in a desperate effort to gain more time and opportunities for the big shots to escape. This escape, more than the invasion and fighting itself, may speed the end of the war. When the people learn that they have been deserted, their will to continue the fight will vanish, regardless of their fear of the horrors of losing the war.

Faith That Is Humble

Prof. Rev. H. C. Burt, M.A., D.C.L., Lennoxville.

St. Matthew VIII, 10: "I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel!"

In the First and Third Gospels we find the story of the Centurion whose servant was sick at Capernaum; and, reading over the two accounts, we get a lovely picture of a man with far more refinement of feeling than might be expected behind the armor of a mercenary soldier, engaged in policing a subjugated country.

We are told that the Centurion had learnt to love the Jewish people and respect their religion, even to the extent of building them a Synagogue. His care for his servant indicates a nature from which neither the harshness of military life, nor the normal indifference to the welfare of a slave, had been able to banish the sweetness.

Strangely enough, all the Centurions referred to in the Gospels were of the same general type of character: Longinus, who stood at the foot of Christ's Cross, Cornelius, too, who is mentioned in the Acts, and the good-natured Julius who was in charge of St. Paul in the ill-fated voyage to Rome, were far more open to the teachings of the Cross than all the Jewish Rulers and Priests.

But what wins for this Roman officer in Capernaum the eulogy of Christ himself is not his benevolence, nor his perseverance, but his Faith conjoined with Humility—a Faith great in its fulness and clearness, great in the difficulties it had overcome, great in its rapidity of growth, and great in the humility it produced. This Centurion was, in some sense, the first-fruits of the Gentiles, and the forerunner of many outside the Jewish fold who were destined to exercise a Faith which would put to shame that of the Children of the Kingdom!

For, the main condition of entrance into Christ's Kingdom is just this which the Centurion had, and the Rulers of Israel had not: Faith in Him.

So speaks the whole New Testament. "By Faith we are justified," says Paul. "Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things unseen." The divinely attributed in the heart of God is Love; and the mightiest, because the most essentially "human," principle in the breast of Man is Faith.

Here we must differentiate between "Faith" in its purely theological connotation, and "Faith" as the dynamic behind all human progress, and high achievement; because Faith is no new strange power supernaturally infused by Christianity, but a principle by which we live from day to day.

When a man says: "Seeing is believing," he is expressing "Faith" in the infallibility of his own senses. Our whole life as members of a community or a State is built upon a substratum of "faith" in our fellowmen. Numberless are the instances of battles being won by a general acting upon information received from a secret-service agent.

The reason why Honesty is the best policy is because dishonesty discovered destroys Faith, and without some measure of reliance upon other people, no one can carry on business. Apart from some principle of mutual trust, Society would disintegrate like a dust-heap before a storm.

As in matters secular, so in the religious sphere, the unifying principle is Faith; we put our trust in Divine probabilities. This is why Faith is the "substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things unseen."

NOISY SHERBROOKE

Dear Sir: Residents of the North Ward residing in the vicinity of the Parade Ground and Brompton Road are having a most uncomfortable time these days on account of large motor vehicles running at all hours of the day and night.

Heavy merchandise motor vans, the size of railway freight cars, run on low gear up Brompton Road and the steep grade on Queen Street North, and they make such a terrible noise that it is surprising they do not awaken the dead lying in the two adjacent cemeteries. In addition to these huge vans, large motor trucks carrying sand, gravel and general merchandise, run to and fro all day and often at night and in the early morning, making a most unearthly racket. The favorite hour for the big van traffic seems to be about 4 a.m. just when one is supposed to be enjoying his soundest sleep and from then on rest is out of the question.

If I am not mistaken the City of Sherbrooke has a municipal by-law prohibiting unnecessary noises, and surely grinding gears of heavy trucks running on our streets at hours when good citizens are supposed to be in bed and asleep, should come under this by-law.

The problem of super-sized motor trucks is becoming very acute in Sherbrooke. It is quite a common sight today to see huge vans completely blocking our public streets in the loading and unloading of merchandise, and other motorists are obliged to take to the sidewalks and private lawns to get by. It is to be hoped that the proper authorities will investigate these matters and see that the abuses complained of are remedied. If we cannot have good water, let us, at least, have plenty of sleep.

QUEEN STREET NORTH.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

The German resistance in the vicinity of Craonne is reported as weakening under intensive Allied artillery fire and the Anglo-French forces have registered minor advances. Three British warships have been sunk by enemy submarines with an estimated loss of 1,300 members of the combined crews of two thousand. Five British aviators have made a daring raid on an enemy camp at Cologne.

Municipal officials have announced that plans for the introduction of a scavenging system in Sherbrooke have been completed and that it will be started on Monday with the city being divided into three districts.

A Patriotic Fund Association has been organized at Bedford with the following officers: Mayor Smith, A. T. Gould, Rev. R. T. Lamoureux, Rev. W. Windsor, Rev. A. J. Ward, A. S. McCaw, Vernon Barry, A. J. Bouchard, W. J. Sheltus and F. C. Saunders.

Officers in charge of the Drummond County Rifle meet which opens at Ulverton today are E. D. Bothwell, M. L. Brady, George Mooney, Ed. Mooney, A. Cote, A. Bothwell, Gordon Atkinson, Fred Weare, F. Walker and J. A. Bothwell.

Damage in excess of four thousand dollars was caused when fire destroyed the residence of Henry Demerise at Notre Dame des Bois.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

The City Council, after studying a large number of protests against the 1924 valuation roll, ordered a substantial number of downward reductions while many more were referred to a special committee for consideration. Another long-standing matter was disposed of when L. A. Desnoyers was appointed to the position of municipal treasurer.

Hon. J. L. Perron, Quebec Minister of Roads, has ordered the removal of billboards and other commercial advertising from the highway right-of-way in the Province in a move to preserve the scenic attractions.

The Marbleton Ladies' Guild has named the following committee to take charge of the lunch counter at the annual fair: Mrs. C. H. Mann, Mrs. E. O. Weston, Mrs. H. Staples, Mrs. Lionel Munkittrich and Mrs. E. J. Westman.

Winston Churchill, an erstwhile Liberal, has returned to the Conservative Party and will seek a seat in the next general election.

TEN YEARS AGO

Work was resumed today in the majority of the United States textile mills which have been strike-bound for a period of three weeks. Much violence has featured the strikes which resulted in the death of at least fourteen persons.

The consecration of Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller as head of the German Church formed the basis of a new outburst against the Nazi party by dissident clergymen who are objecting to the strict control of religion by Hitler and his aides.

The decision of the Russian Government to accept the Manchukuan Government's offer for Soviet half-interest in the Chinese Eastern Railway is expected to ease the tension between Russia and Japan which has become acute during the past few weeks.

The Sweetsburg Village Council has decided to modernize the water supply system of the town, the chief project being the erection of a dam at the outlet of the ponds from which the municipality gets its supply.

Protests and counter-protests continue to mar the progress of the America's Cup races, skippers of both vessels making claims that they had been fouled by the other.

FIVE YEARS AGO

French forces installed on German territory near Saarbrücken are reported to have driven back three separate German attacks, although the Germans are said to be massing their forces for a big offensive. Great Britain, confident of maintaining supremacy over the U-boats expresses concern that Germany may adopt some other method of sea warfare. Warsaw, the Polish capital, is still holding out against strong German attacks. The tightening of food restrictions in the Reich is seen as an indication that Germany expects a long war.

A strict clause in the arms embargo amendments forbidding U. S. shipping to carry goods to belligerents is hoped to win more support to the provisions for cash and carry sale of armaments to the Allies.

Officers elected at the annual meeting of the Coaticook Branch of the Red Cross Society were W. A. Peirce, Albert Rousseau, D. Gerin, L. M. Thomas, William Rogers, A. P. Wallace, Mrs. Elizabeth Nourse, Mrs. W. Wallace, Mrs. E. L. Sleeper, Mrs. Sidney Wood and Mrs. L. Labarre.

The adoption of the identity card system is urged for Sherbrooke to prevent an influx of outside residents who believe munitions work may be carried out here on a large scale.

PASSES UP HONORS FOR DISTRIBUTION

The President's pair event is one of the most interesting contests of the summer nationals. This year only players with 19 Master Points or less were eligible to participate in this event, which was won by Fred W. Hawke, of Jamaica, N.Y., and Luther Hamilton, of Bridgeport, Conn. Mrs. Dora Schwartz, of Washington, D.C., and J. D. Boyd, of Arlington, Va., finished second.

Here is a hand that gave the winners a good score. In making his opening bid, South disregarded his lack of honor tricks because of his excellent distribution. He correctly rebid his hearts as a sort of sign-off before showing his second suit. But when North showed strength with the bid of two spades, the three-diamond bid was justified. South ruffed the second club trick, took the spade finesse and cashed the ace of spades, discarding a heart from his own hand. He then cross-

PAT DANE: Walked a straight line to stardom

WALK NARROW PLANK TOWARD SLIM HIPS, MORE GRACEFUL CARRIAGE

BY ALICIA HART

Many a girl exhibiting her figure in a bathing suit last summer could have put on a better show if she had walked a straight and narrow line.

How about you? Do you walk that way—with your feet parallel to each other—or do you toe in an swing out your heels?

Maybe that doesn't register with you as a grievous fault, but it's big enough to make Hollywood coaches, training starlets to become stars, to haul out lumber and make the girls walk a plank. Having learned to walk that way—on an inch thick plank barely wide enough to hold both feet—Pat Dane, "Dr. Red Adams" starlet, swears by it.

Says she: "Try this method for a month—lay down a plank in your back yard, garage or living room and learn to walk it—then compare present and future hipline measurements on your tape-line."

ACTIVE SEASON SCHEDULED FOR JR. RED CROSS

In a final appeal for increased enrolment in provincial branches of the Junior Red Cross, Mrs. Ruth B. Shaw, Provincial Supervisor, said last night that the organization faces a very active season.

Already a wide programme of home front and war service activities has been planned by provincial organizers, and "only with the cooperation of the boys and girls and the leadership of teachers and teacher-directors in schools throughout the province can we hope to accomplish the work set out for us."

In past years the Junior Red Cross has been vitally interested in the case of prisoners of war, and the shipment of relief supplies to children of Great Britain and occupied Europe. As part of the Canadian Red Cross, the organization plays its own important role in the alleviation of human suffering.

In 1943 the Junior Red Cross supplied more than $14,000 worth of medical instruments for men of the armed forces in German prison camps. The same year Canadian Juniors sent paper, pencils, and class room instruments valued at $2,500 to help the men studying correspondence courses.

Last year, Quebec Juniors alone raised $41,274 for various war activities. This money was spent on many services, including $17,411 for the National Junior Red Cross War Fund; $2,487 for the maintenance of a British War Nursery, $4,127 for the relief of children in Yugoslavia; $2,500 for the children of Bengal, in Greece and in Poland; $2,500 for supplies and relief to be sent to prisoners of war.

Ninety-seven complete outfits, comprising 2,788 articles, were made for children in two of the British War Nurseries. Juniors of Canada support 14 of these hostels, at an annual cost of $49,000.

Maintaining their home-front services in spite of difficulties in securing adequate personnel, the Juniors of Quebec provided medical treatment for 176 children, and dental treatment for 129.

At the request of the Department of National Defence members of the Quebec Division made 14,616 special splints. In addition they gave enthusiastic support to the book and magazine depot of M. D. 4.

"South Of Pago Pago" Opens As Feature Film At New Premier

Jon Hall and Olympe Bradna find love and romance on their native island in the South Seas after many exciting, thrill-packed episodes which highlight Edward Small's new smashing drama of the tropics, "South of Pago Pago," beginning tomorrow at the New Premier.

Against a background highlighted by the breathless beauty and tropical brilliance of the South Seas, Edward Small's new film production, "South of Pago Pago," opens at the Premier tomorrow under the auspices of United Artists. The stellar cast of this new adventure romance is headed by Victor McLaglen, Jon Hall, Frances Farmer, Olympe Bradna, Douglas Dumbrille and Gene Lockhart, and the picture was directed by Alfred E. Green.

The story, "South of Pago Pago" is set in the 1880's when men who went down to the China sea in ships were only a mile removed in character from the pirates and robbers who sailed the Spanish Main a century earlier. Bucko Larson, played by Victor McLaglen, has heard that there is a fortune in rare pearls "South of Pago Pago" and he makes a strange bargain with Ruby Taylor, a Singapore cafe girl, played by Frances Farmer, when they set sail to capture this booty.

As soon as they land in the South Seas, Larson proceeds to trick the natives to dive for him and to stall the fears of young and handsome Kehane, son of the island chief, played by Jon Hall. Larson's plans prosper when Kehane falls in love with Ruby and forgets about his island fiancée, played by Olympe Bradna. But as the natives die off under the whiplash brutality of Larson, Kehane awakens to the dangers and horrors brought about by the visitors.

A series of fast and dramatic episodes follow and the smash action which is unexcelled furnishes the picture with scenes of stirring excitement and suspense. When Ruby Taylor-Mercury.

for intervenes in the tremendous battle which takes place on Larson's boat, the picture draws to a climax of unforgettable power and tempo. The other film is "Fugitive From Sonora" one of the best plotted of the Don "Red" Barry Republic pictures to date.

Very blonde and very lovely Lynn Merrick scores her usual hit in the feminine lead, and such notables as Ethan Laidlaw, Harry Cording, Wally Vernon, Gary Bruce, Pierce Lyden, Tommy Coats and Frank McCarroll round out the cast.

Abbott And Costello "In Society" Best Picture The Boys Ever Made

Abbott and Costello as a couple of hard-working plumbers who suddenly become playboys in their Universal comedy, "In Society," opening Sunday at the Granada Theatre.

Two of the screen's funniest men, Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, who have been absent from the screen for more than a year will be showing at the Granada starting tomorrow, in the funniest picture they ever made—Universal's "In Society," in which they are plumbers.

"In Society" tells the hilarious story of what happens when Abbott and Costello are called to the home of a society woman to do some repair work. They arrive during a costume ball, dressed, naturally, as plumbers, but are mistaken for guests.

The things that happen thereafter could only happen to Abbott and Costello, who find themselves in society with a vengeance. There are many really riotous sequences, including a fox hunt to end all fox hunts, which winds up with the fox chasing Abbott and Costello.

"In Society," produced by Edmund L. Hartmann, is packed with so many laughs, gags and original Abbott and Costello antics, as to compensate for the comedians' too-long absence from the country's screens, due to Costello's illness.

An outstanding cast of supporting players includes Marion Hutton, young, blonde singing sister of Betty Hutton, romantic newsmen, Kirby Grant, Anne Gillis, who not so long ago was playing tomboy roles, and overnight from the coasts out as a glamour girl; Arthur Treacher, Thomas Gomez, Charles Coleman, Will Osborne and his orchestra.

Jean Yarbrough, who demonstrates a thorough understanding of Abbott and Costello comedy, directed. There are a half dozen hit tunes in the picture, too.

East Angus Congregation Marks 45th Church Anniversary By Celebration

East Angus, Sept. 23.—Observing the forty-fifth anniversary of the laying of the corner stone of Emmanuel Church, a special service and entertainment were held.

A large congregation participated in the special worship service, the choir rendering Martin Luther's hymn, "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God." Allen Willard, choir leader, sang a solo "Fear Not Ye O Israel."

The Pastor, Rev. C. J. Gustafson, spoke on the theme "Forty-Five Years of Service." Speaking from the text, "Other foundation can no man lay than is laid, which is Jesus Christ," I Corinthians III, II. The minister told of the laying of the corner stone on August 22nd, 1899. In this service Rev. Mr. Ellis, of the Cookshire, and Deacon William Sawyer, of Sawyerville, participated. The event was pictured in its historical setting. Queen Victoria was Queen of England and Sir Wilfred Laurier was just entering on the premiership of the Dominion. Canada's population at that time was just half of what it is today. He spoke of the rapid technological advance that had taken place, which the church had witnessed. Also the three wars and depressions that the people had suffered. Through all these upheavals and changes Emmanuel Church had carried on its services without interruption.

On the original communion roll were 58 members, twelve of whom are still on the roll. The present membership is double that of forty-five years ago, that is 127 resident members.

The minister referred to the achievements of the Church during these years, particularly along three lines, fellowship, worship and teaching. He challenged the congregation to greater effort along these lines and pointed out that in the years that lie ahead the Church must seek in a vital way to build a brotherly society. "Many people," he said, "regard brotherhood as a sort of decoration on the fabric of Christianity. Something that has been belatedly added to the teachings of Jesus. It is not something added to Christianity. It is Christianity."

ANNIVERSARY ENTERTAINMENT

Continuing the anniversary celebration, an entertainment was held on Monday evening, September 18, in Emmanuel Church. A varied programme of community singing, instrumental and vocal selections was enjoyed.

Following the welcoming of the congregation and guest artists by the pastor, Mr. Allen Willard opened the programme by leading the congregation in singing a group of familiar songs. Mr. Arthur James, accompanied at the piano by Miss

WAIT

Wait for the dawn of deliverance
Wait for the end of the strife,
Wait for the freeing of captives
Wait for the happier life.

Cease not the help sorely needed
Nothing so vital withhold;
Wait not for others to offer
The brains, and the brawn of the bold.

Wait for the coming of loved ones
Back to their own native shore,
Wait lonely hearts Eternity's dawn
For those we'll meet here never more.

Wait for the hush of the gun-fire
Wait for the silence of bombs,
Wait for the sunrise of Freedom
Slowly, yet surely it comes.

--- Bought with the heart-throbs of heroes
Paid for with blood, sweat, and tears;
Wait for the sweet peals of Victory
--- Pray God that glad day soon appears.

What Leaders Say About The Home Services Campaign:

It is my privilege once more to ask all Canadians to support the civilian welfare services. . . the needs are greater than ever. Moreover, it is an essential part of our war effort that the health and welfare and morale of our people at home be kept up to the highest pitch.

— The Governor-General, The Earl of Athlone.

I am very glad of the opportunity to commend and endorse the purpose and achievement of Canadian "Home Services." Since their inception, some twenty-five years ago, they have provided an efficient and humane means by which to render vital services to needy Canadians.

— The Honorable R. B. Hanson, Leader of the Opposition.

The September appeals of the Home Services of Canada have received the endorsement of the Federal Government. To the official endorsement, I should like to add a personal word of commendation and appeal . . . in the midst of war, as in the years of peace, these services and the agencies they represent will continue to merit—and receive—the fullest measure of support from our Canadian people.

FAVOR LOCALS TO WIND UP SERIES SUNDAY

Expect Fedele To Take Mound In Attempt To Knock Valen Out Of Provincial Playoffs

Sherbrooke Notre Dame goes into the fourth game of the finals of the Provincial Baseball League, St. Francis, tomorrow with a 2-1 game lead and determined to wind up the series with a decisive triumph.

Viewing the performances of both teams during the final elimination series, one would be inclined to favor Sherbrooke to take the title, although Acton Vale's strength cannot be overlooked. The Valenmen, though down at the present time, are as likely as not to even up the series with a win tomorrow afternoon. A record crowd is expected to flock into the Park Stadium for what may be the final game of the play-offs. Interest in the battle between the two teams has risen to a high peak and local fans, as well as a strong representation from Acton Vale, are expected to be on hand for the tilt.

Sherbrooke officials are keeping their fingers crossed, hoping for good weather. So far this year, Sherbrooke has been very fortunate as far as the weather was concerned. All games which were to be played here went ahead on schedule, with near-perfect weather all the way through.

Last Sunday at Acton Vale, one would have thought it was July. The hot sun beat down and fans, for this time of the season, suffered no inconvenience from the cold whatever. The series so far has been pretty much taken by Notre Dame. In the first game, the locals edged out Acton Vale 5-4 in what was probably the most thrilling of the play-offs. After repeated attempts by the Valenmen to crush the Notre Dame crew, Sherbrooke finally came out on top to take a 1-0 lead in the series.

The Valenmen, however, evened it up in the second game, which was played at Sherbrooke at night. In this fixture, the Valenmen got off to a flying start to score one run in the first inning, the one and only point of the game.

In the third game, played last Sunday at Acton Vale, the Sherbrooke boys came out strong to chalk up a 5-0 triumph in a game that was definitely not one-sided, as the score might indicate.

Even though his squad was leading, Manager Tony Pinard set in the dugout, biting his nails and wincing inwardly at every ball the Acton Vale cracked out. He warned his men that though they might get the jump on the Valenmen, the game was by no means won, and, that he would concede the Sherbrooke victory when the last man in the ninth inning was out. It seems that Mario Fedele will be the starting pitcher for the Sherbrooke crew in tomorrow's game. Fedele has proved himself to be a top-notch pitcher this year, and is a streak of bad luck in the first game of the series, being yanked in the ninth inning, with Lefty Dube being sent in as relief artist. Fedele was, however, credited with the triumph. A little support and better judgment by his teammates would have left the Notre Dame right-hander on the mound.

Expected to be facing Fedele tomorrow is Jean Paul Tetrault, tall, right-handed Acton Vale hurler. Lamothe is an unlikely choice, although he did hurl a four-hitter against the locals in the second game of the series. In last Sunday's game, he was disposed of in short order and replaced by Tetrault.

In the first and third games of the series, the Sherbrooke batsmen seemed to have acquired an amazing batting and fielding eye. If they can keep it up, tomorrow's game may go in their favor. Some of the fielding in last Sunday's game was nothing short of sensational and several Acton Vale batsmen were robbed of sure singles or doubles through the smart plays of both the outfield and the infield.

JOE LOUIS WASTED NO TIME WITH SCHMELING

My biggest thrill came in Yankee Stadium June 22, 1938. Joe Louis was off his stool at the bell in a headline rush, pinning Max Schmeling against the ropes with a beautiful left hook to the jaw followed by a terrific right to the jaw.

The head, but Louis, bent on the kill, shook it off lightly, bringing both hands into play in the fastest two-handed attack to the head and body that I've ever seen.

Suddenly a sickening left hook to the pit of the stomach spun Schmeling around with his back to Louis. The champion landed an overhand right to the kidneys that brought forth a sound I have never heard again—a feminine scream from a man, one desperately hurt.

Trainer Max Machon chuckled in a towel from Schmeling's corner. Referee Arthur Donovan kicked it out. The German's seconds swarmed through the ropes.

The time—two minutes and four seconds. The damage—something wrong with the Nazi's back. The props—a cot in a neighborhood hospital and a stretcher to carry Max Schmeling from the boat when he finally landed in Humland.

WRIGHT TO BE PERMITTED TO FIGHT WITH PEP

New York, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The New York State Athletic Commission yesterday put its okay on the Chalky Wright-Willie Pep feather-weight championship fight here next Friday over the protest of the District of Columbia Commission, which urged that action be taken against Wright because of his refusal to go through with a Washington bout with Jackie Wilson.

However, the New York state fathers acknowledged Wright's obligation to the Washington promoters by declaring he would be suspended here immediately after the Pep fight until he fulfills the Wilson engagement and his purse from the Pep fight will be withheld until that time.

Wright was booked to meet Wilson last Monday. Due to inclement weather the bout was postponed until Tuesday, then until Wednesday and moved indoors. Wright declined to go through with it on the grounds it was too close to his Pep engagement.

The New York Commission ruled that inasmuch as Wright was recognized officially as the leading contender last August 15, and Pep ordered to meet him this month, the bout should be staged regardless of the Washington incident.

TAMI MAURIELLO CHALKS UP K.O. OVER LEE OMA

New York, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Tami Mauriello, New York heavyweight, knocked out Lee Oma of Detroit last night in 141 of the eighth round of a scheduled 10-rounder in Madison Square Garden. A left hook which did it. Mauriello weighed 194, Oma 193.

Oma, who retired from the ring in 1942 after being knocked out in seven of ten fights in 1941, was on the verge of scrambling the heavyweight situation when the end came. He was far ahead of Mauriello, second ranking civilian heavy, up to the time Tami uncorked the winning punch.

Oma took the bout on a couple of days' notice as a substitute for Joe Bakshi of Kulpont, Pa., who bowed out because of a cold and drew a 45-day suspension from the New York State Athletic Commission.

Hockey Manoeuvres

As wartime conditions continue to handicap professional hockey clubs, managers are going to look the prairie talent over more thoroughly.

Almost every junior club at the head of the lakes—one of the Dominion's greatest hockey centres—has a tie-up with a professional team. Lester Patrick's New York Rangers of the National League will open another hockey school in Winnipeg next week while Eddie Shore of Buffalo Bisons in the American League is seeking ice at Regina or Calgary. Shore is reported to have a prospective big league to suit every prospect book.

Detroit Stage Rallies Twice To Defeat Boston 7-4 And 8-6

Detroit, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Detroit Tigers came from behind twice yesterday to capture a doubleheader from Boston Red Sox 7-4 and 8-6, maintaining their American League lead over second-place St. Louis Browns.

Neither of Detroit's overworked pitching stars, Hal Newhouse nor Dizzy Trout, saw action as Ruff Gentry went the route for his fourth straight victory in the opener, thanks to Dick Wakefield's third homer in as many days, this time with the bases full.

Gentry gave six hits, two in the first inning, when the Red Sox counted twice. The Tigers got 12 hits, nine of them off starter Joe Bowyer, charged with the loss.

Detroit scored six runs on four hits in the first seven innings of the nightcap, driving out Em. O'Neill to tie the score in the seventh with a three-run rally. Walter Becker (Boom Boom) Beck, third Tiger pitcher, singled and the Bengals jumped on Francis (Red) Barrett for three straight hits and two markers in the eighth.

The New Yorkers now trail the American League-leading Detroit Tigers by 3½ games.

Five runs in the ninth inning clinched the contest for the Yankees, after they scored one run in the third and one in the eighth to take the lead. The Tribe tallied once in the seventh and added two in their last victory.

BISONS BEATEN AS BALTIMORE TIES UP SERIES

Buffalo, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Scoring four runs in the ninth after two were out, Baltimore Orioles defeated Bisons 7-4 last night to square the International League semi-final play-off series at 2-2 before 2,309 fans.

Blas Monaco began the rally with a single, Bob Latschaw followed with a double and both scored on Stan Benjamin's single. Howie Moss then came through with his second homer in as many nights.

Mike Roscoe went all the way for the losers, losing his stuff in the final frame, after he had put his team ahead with a run-scoring single in the eighth.

Johnny Podgajny, second of three Orioles hurlers, received credit for the victory.

The teams will meet again Sunday at Baltimore, for the fifth game in the best-of-seven-game series.

TO INAUGURATE ONTARIO RUGBY SEASON TODAY

The familiar and welcome thud of the pigskin will resound in three Ontario cities today—Toronto, Hamilton and London—where two schedule-opening games are billed in the new Ontario Armed Service Football League and one in the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Camp Borden R.C.A.F. Hurricanes and Toronto Navy are billed for the Toronto opener and Hagersville and St. Thomas Air Force teams for London, both before services contests. Tue lone O.R.F.U. game finds Hamilton Wildcats entertaining Toronto Indians. The other Ontario Union teams, Toronto Balmy Beach and Ottawa Trojans, are scheduled for action next week.

With Joe Krol (he's just about a football team in himself) and 14 other players back from last year's Dominion championship squad Wildcats are the team to beat in the Ontario Union although they may get scrappy opposition from the youthful Indians today.

Edmonton promises a pick should indoor ice be available, Canadians, Edmonton Athletic Club, Maple Leafs and the Navy are likely starters.

BOSTON BRAVES DEFEAT CARDS BY 11-2 SCORE

Boston Braves yesterday took the final game of the three-game series with the visiting St. Louis Cardinals 11-2 with Nate Andrews hanging up his 15th victory of the National League season.

The Braves collected fourteen hits off three St. Louis pitchers, featured by a five-run outburst in the fifth inning.

In the big inning, Whitey Wietelmann singled, Tommy Holmes doubled and Butch Nieman singled, scoring Wietelmann and Holmes. Phil Masi walked, Chuck Workman doubled, scoring Nieman and Masi, and Workman scored the fifth run on Dee Phillips' single over Marion's head.

The Cubs sewed it up in the third by scoring three runs on two singles and an error, and with three more in the fifth on five singles. Hank Wyse held the Giants to six hits, while the Cubs combed four Giants hurlers for fourteen blows.

Rival Teams Quit To Make It Easy For Cards To Win Flag

New York, Sept. 23.—The Cardinals simply said "Boo!" in the spring, and the opposition folded up like the dining room table. The result has been the most one-sided and dismal National League race in memory.

A little bit of the old do or die and the situation might have been considerably different. This is made clear by the St. Louis club's slump, with the Red Birds reaching a six-year low by dropping nine straight to Pittsburgh.

The Cardinals will prevail, of course. The Pirates and Reds permitted them to open up too many lengths—20. The Pirates cut it to 13½, but the lukes in the Red Blazers, following the four-game set in Chicago, close the campaign against the second division and softer eastern clubs—the Braves, Phillies, Dodgers and Giants. By that time, Billy Southworth will no doubt have southerened out his pitching and have Stan Musial on two good legs.

The tendency is to loaf when a club is 20 games in front. Beating off a formidable challenger for top money is one thing. Shooting at an all-time mark is another. Billy the Kid Southworth obviously couldn't keep his athletes interested in erasing the record of 116 victories compiled by the from Tinkerto-Evers-to-Chance Cubs of 1908.

Even with the mighty Musial, Harry Pulliam, one-time president of the National League, warned pious, in the thick of things, that against that years ago.

There is no question but that the rest of the league eased the Red Birds' path to their third consecutive pennant. The Cubs laid down and played dead right from the start, dropped 14 straight to the champions, which happens to represent their lead as this is written.

Branch Rickey expressed the opinion that the Cardinals were stronger than a year ago, pointed out that they would be even tougher when the war is won, dedicated the Brooklyn season to the start of a long range rebuilding programme.

Meanwhile rival managers were entirely overlooking the fact that the Cardinals were there to be pitched to.

Bucky Walters of the Reds, no longer the overpowering right-hander of 1939-40, beat the Cardinals six times without a defeat, shut them out on four occasions. The reformed third baseman did this by pitching to spots—dealing what the Red Birds liked least or that which lent itself to the slightest damage.

The trouble with the remainder of the Cardinals' opposition was that it took something for granted in baseball.

Detroit, Sept. 23.—How the Browns could use Walt Judnich now. Their pre-Pearl Harbor center fielder smacked five home runs in one game in Honolulu, and each was well hit.

It is also barely possible that the Yankees could find a spot for Joe Gordon. Pfc. John Alan Berge, our special correspondent in the Pacific reports that the versatile Gordon, Judnich's teammate at shortstop for the Seventh AAF team, surprised everybody by batting left-handed for

C. P. A. Dario Lodigiani is the second baseman. Mike McCormick rounds out an outfield with an established big league center fielder in each pasture. No open holes there. Don Lang of Kansas City and the Reds is the extra outfielder. The pitching staff is headed by Red Ruffing and Johnny Beasley, with the stars of the 1942 World Series backed by handcuuffers from the top minors.

Many of the other clubs possess big league material, especially the Navy, which is assembling an all-star array under Bill Dickey to oppose a DiMaggio-managed Seventh AAF in a best four out of seven Army-Navy World Series.

Recent additions to the Navy group are Johnny Vander Meer, Virgil Trucks and Schuchler Rorer, bolstering a squad which includes Hugh Casey, Walt Masterson, Vern Olsen, Ken Sears, Johnny Mize, Johnny Lucadello, Pee Wee Reese, Al Brancato, Eddie Pellagrini, Barney McCosky and Joe Grace.

Even with all talent, Pfc. Johnny Berge and the other knowing baseball men in the flowery archipelago like the Seventh AAF. They have seen the soldiers assert their authority too often, watched them blast Olsen, Masterson and Casey from the box.

Nothing is too good for the GI's and they're getting none the worst of it in the way of World Series.
