President And Vice-President

Francois E. Cleyn, left, of Huntingdon, Que., and James G. Smith, of Hamilton, Ont., who on Friday, were elected president and vice-president respectively of the Canadian Woollen & Knit Goods Manufacturers Association for the ensuing year at the close of the three-day 36th Annual Conference in Quebec City. Mr. Cleyn is president of Spinners Ltd., Huntingdon, and Mr. Smith is president of Mohawk Mills Ltd., Hamilton, Ont.

Francois E. Cleyn Elected President Canadian Woollen And Knit Goods Manufacturers Association

QUEBEC CITY — Francois E. Cleyn, of Huntingdon, Que., was elected president of the Canadian Woollen & Knit Goods Manufacturers Association, on Friday, October 17th, succeeding George H. Dobbie, of Galt, Ont. James G. Smith, of Hamilton, Ont., was chosen as vice-president.

Election of officers for the ensuing year brought to a close three days of business meetings at the 36th Annual Conference of the Association.

Mr. Cleyn is president of Spinners Ltd., Fawcett & Grant Ltd., and of Model Dye Works, and vice president of Leach Textiles Ltd., and of Chateau Dyers Ltd., all located here in Huntingdon. He is regarded as one of the most versatile men in the Canadian textile industry a leader in the field of economics and administration and a technical expert.

Mr. Smith, who is president of Mohawk Mills Ltd., Hamilton, comes from a textile family. His father, Harold G. Smith, OBE, was three times president of the CW&KGMA, an organization he helped found.

Feed Mill Operating In Conjunction With Athelstan Sash And Door Factory

Mr. Donald N. Racine, the present owner of the Athelstan Sash and Door factory is a man who believes in progress and since he has had this plant, he has been improving it and adding to it.

For about two years he rented the grist mill from Mr. J. D. Dunn, who now owns it, but now he has added new machinery to the Sash and Door Factory and the grist mill is operating from there.

The Sash and Door Factory has been operating since 1844, when organs and caskets were made in the upstairs part and there was a tannery on the ground floor. This went on for a number of years, when Boyd & Co., took it over and made small threshing mills. In 1920, MacDonald & Laberge took possession and started to make sashes and doors and other mill work. The late George Eder took over the plant in 1925 and operated it until ill-health caused him to hand over the reins to his son Jim in 1947. The present owner, Donald Racine took over in 1954 and later rented the grist mill which had been purchased by Mr. Dunn. That is a brief history of this plant until the present.

Donald Racine was born in Casselman, Ont., on his father's farm and went to school there. After he left school he later joined the Cornwall Township Police in 1950. In 1951 he joined the R.C.M.P. and served with this force until 1953, when he purchased his discharge and came to Athelstan. He married a Huntingdon girl and has a family of two children.

He has operated the Sash and Door Factory as stated since 1954, but he has tried to make improvements that will lead to better service to his customers since that time. Today, this is the only plant of its kind operating in a very wide area of Athelstan and thus it is called upon to do work for a number of people and concerns. There used to be plants of this description in several points nearby, but they are not operating now. Ten employees are on the permanent staff and when the plant gets too busy, extra help is put on. Three of the original staff of the late George Elder are still employed, but the others have been trained by Mr. Racine who had as his teacher, the late Mr. Lindsay Watson as far as the woodwork goes.

Mr. Racine has also done a lot of work with regard to the water power which operates all the machines in this mill. He has cleaned the mill pond of a lot of refuse which had accumulated in it and by so doing has increased the flow of water and the horsepower of the drive of the water. He has made a raceway for the water in the winter time, which will be a decided improvement as it will allow the water to get away and keep up the supply of water power.

After operating the Grist mill for a couple of years, Mr. Racine decided that there was one end of the Sash and Door Plant that was not being used and it might be better to install grist mill machinery in this plant and have the whole under one roof. So he decided to add another story to the back end for the purposes of elevation and to turn the unused lower floor into the actual operating end of the grist mill. This he has done and he can now crush and mix feeds and also put liquid molasses into the feed. The actual crusher and grinder is installed below the floor, while the mixer is on the Ground floor. The bags can be filled from the mixer and taken out onto a platform at the side, for easy loading into trucks or other means of transportation. A large tank holds the liquid molasses and this can be fed into the mix as required. The mill also operates a fanning mill for cleaning seed and Mr. Racine expects to do a lot of this work before spring seeding time rolls around again.

In the Sash and Door Factory, Mr. Racine has the contract for all the windows and mill work for the new addition to Huntingdon High School. The plant is busy making the windows at this time.

On Friday, Mr. Racine held open house for the people to inspect the new grist mill and to look over the other parts of the plant. A number availed themselves of the opportunity and no doubt others will visit the plant to learn of what has been done. Mr. Racine will be glad to meet anyone who has a problem of what to make from wood, or who has need of a good feed mix, or seed cleaning.

Winners of prizes given at the opening of the mill were: Mrs. E. M. Wood, Powerscourt and Miss Hattie Shearer, Glenelm. A 21 piece aluminum cookware set was awarded to each.

Delinquency Features Talk To Rotarians

Mr. Arch. J. MacDonald, who is a corporation lawyer in Montreal was the guest speaker at the Huntingdon Rotary Club on Monday. Mr. MacDonald held the rapt attention of all as he spoke about "Imdividual Responsibility". In the course of his talk he impressed upon the audience how individuals just acquiesced to a great number of problems that should be taken well in hand in the early stages. Muct of his talk dealt with juvenile delinquents as to how parents just made a poor attempt in the way of reprimands to their sons, or daughters, who may have committed misdemeanors. Too often it was a case of parents being ready, and wished to immediately settle the matter in question by paying in cash for the misdemeanors of the son or daughter. In a great many cases the parents make no attempt to reprimand members of their family for misdemeanors performed. Mr. MacDonald was very much averse to such attitudes by parents.

Mr. MacDonald was at one time chairman of the Penal Reform Committee. From what he had learned of the inmates of reformatories he at the present time is not impressed with results attained. The inmates as they leave the reformatories, in some cases may be men or women who wish to go the right way in life, yet other inmates who come out of the reformatory are quite likely to practice blackmail upon the fellow inmate who was endeavouring to make good in life. Such blackmailing may quite easily be the undoing of the good intention of the ex-inmate number one.

Mr. MacDonald reviewed in a brief manner a great number of cases where juveniles had inflicted torture upon adults. When brought before the courts, guilty of the misdemeanor as the youth might be, the presiding judge practised leniency. Mr. MacDonald was inclined to feel the manner of appointing judges had reached a point where the method of appointing them could be profitably reviewed. The speaker evidently thought the appointments should be on a more warranted basis, than from what we might call political patronage.

Metropolitan Government Likely For Montreal Of Future

Quebec (CP) — Crowded Montreal Island, its 1,800,000 residents governed by a welter of Municipal groups, is slated for Metropolitan Government.

Premier Duplessis said in an interview draft legislation outlining a metropolitan government for the province's most densely populated area will be introduced during the legislature session which opens next month.

Services likely to fall under metro control would be traffic control, health, police, fire protection and water administration. The Premier said a Montreal committee has worked out details of the legislation.

The Quebec Government has long favored adoption of a metropolitan government for the city. The main aim is to cut costly overlapping in the services supplied by the many separate municipal governments. But Mr. Duplessis has also insisted that strictly local problems should be handled by the local governing bodies.

A 70-ton freighter sank during a raging storm on the St. Lawrence River Oct. 10. One crew member is dead and the Captain and two other crew members are missing.

Provincial police said this week they were first alerted about the disappearance of the motor-driven schooner Mechins by the Transport Department Signals Service. Sunday the body of one crew member wearing a lifebelt was washed ashore at Sault-au-Mouton, 170 miles east of Quebec City.

He was identified as Adrien Boucher, 51, of Les Escoumains.

Missing and believed drowned are captain Gilbert Mansour, 45, of Les Escoumains, Paul-Henri Fortin, 30, of Anse-St. Jean, and Horace Dufour, 28, of Ile-aux-Coudres.

The 80-foot schooner left Escoumains, 150 miles downriver from Quebec City, late Friday afternoon and was expected to reach Forestville, 50 miles downriver from Les Escoumains, in about five hours.

When the Mechins failed to arrive at Forestville with its general cargo Friday night the Signals Service reported the delay. A lifeboat, identified as belonging to the Mechins, was found Saturday on the north shore of the river.

Quebec Province Progressive Conservatives plan to form a Provincial Association and organize local party organizations in all ridings in the Province.

The decision was announced this week following a caucus of Quebec Federal Conservative Leaders and commons members presided over by Hon. Mark Drouin, Senate Speaker, and Robert Perron, Quebec District party organizer. Transport Minister Hees, here on a speaking engagement, attended.

Mr. Perron said the proposed Association and the local organizations would aim for consolidation and strengthening of support in Quebec Province for the Conservatives in the Federal political field.

Premier Duplessis said it is "evident to all persons who are in good faith" the popularity of his Union Nationale party is increasing.

In a prepared statement issued from his legislature office the Premier said the people of the province "condemn the statement, the insulting tactics and contradictions" of the Liberal opposition and of the man who "very wrongly claims to be its leader".

Quebec Liberal leader is Jean Lesage.

Mr. Duplessis' 800-word statement followed his party's victory at the polls in Wednesday's byelection in Roberval Riding.

Mayor Jean-Joseph Turcotte of Normandin was elected in the Lake St. John constituency, defeating J. Augustin Fortin, business agent from Chambord who ran as a Union Nationale Independent candidate. No Liberal contested the seat.

"All the government's opponents underhandedly united to defeat the Government candidate and the Government candidate was elected with a majority... of close to 3,200 votes. This represents a 300-per-cent increase compared with the majority of 1,038 votes obtained by the Union Nationale candidate in 1956".

Of Interest To Farm Forums

Do you every worry about the fact that your freedom as a citizen seems to be slipping away from you?

Have you wondered what will happen to farming, when the packing companies and feed mills take over? If they take over.

Is a lack of credit to run your farm stopping you from doing the things that you'd like to do?

Could farmers borrow a leaf from the book of Labour Unions, and use stronger organization as a means to more freedom?

These are just random questions picked from the list which sparked the 1958-59 National Farm Forum topics. They represent questions asked of farm people, and by farm people, over the years. And they hit on some of the most crucial problems of farmers today.

Take the subject Vertical Integration, for instance. In the United States, where its growth has been charted, whole countries, and even States have gone into contract production, while the little farmer's living has dwindled. Men who got into the integrating early; as far back as 1937, now control millions of broilers, thousands of hogs, and literally hundreds of thousands of laying hens.

What does this mean for Canadian Agriculture? Well, during January, every Monday evening, at 8:30, National Farm Forum will try to find out.

Then, very shortly .. on November 3, we have the subject of "Freedom". Can we have personal freedom today? Or should it be replaced with a stronger, more useful kind .. Freedom through an Organization? That programme is also at 8:30 and it will feature some thought-provoking panelists.

And on the 17th of November, Farm Forum invades the Show-Ring. What has it done for Agriculture? What will Performance Testing do to the Show-Ring? Is show livestock out of date? We are expecting a fiery debate that night.

As we've intimated, there are more. In fact, over a dozen subjects will be touched by Forums this year, during the fall and winter. All of them are of immediate interest to you. So find a radio at 8:30 on Monday nights, and sit down for a stimulating half hour.

Oh, by the way, if you want more information on these subjects, write to 113 St. George St., Toronto ... to National Farm Radio Forum. A sample Farm Forum Guide on the subject in which you're interestered will be sent along, free of charge. It contains a wide variety of information on the topic, and will enable you to follow the show and to discuss it with your neighbours.

Special Services At Zion Church, Dundee

The Session of Zion United Church, Dundee, has completed plans for a special series of Wednesday evening services to begin on the twenty-ninth of October. The theme of the services will be "The Mission of the Church" and the Rev. Robert Beal will be the guest preacher. His messages on the three successive Wednesday evenings will highlight the missionary activities of the United Church at home, abroad, and in a world of international tensions. The services, which will begin each Wednesday evening at a quarter past eight, will be held in the church and a warm invitation is extended to all of the members of the community to attend.

A Message From The Canadian Legion

Canada has lost over 100,000 men in wars. On November the 11th, the anniversary of the armistice which ended World War 1, Canadians from coast-to-coast will pay tribute to these dead. Out of respect to their memory, wreaths will be laid at war memorials and two minutes of silence will be observed.

The Huntingdon Branch of the Canadian Legion will commemorate the Remembrance Day services on Sunday, Nov., the 9th, at 3 P.M. at the Cenotaph in Prince Arthur square, from there they will proceed to the Roman Catholic and Protestant cemeteries.

The two minutes of silence is a custom which began in 1919. The late King George V asked that all normal work and other activity cease for a period of two minutes, starting at eleven o'clock in the morning.

You will notice that many Canadians wear red poppies during the Remembrance Day period. Canadians first came to associate the poppies with the war dead during the bloody 1914-1918 campaigns in Flanders. Each spring poppies sprang up over the graves of the dead, like a silent word of remembrance. A Canadian soldier-physician, Lt.-Col. John McCrae immortalized the poppy in his poem, "In Flanders Fields". John McCrae pleaded with the living to remember the dead and what they had done. He himself died in France, but his plea, and the poppies he wrote about, lived on.

In 1926, the poppy was adopted as the symbol of remembrance. These poppies are manufactured by disabled veterans. Funds raised by their distribution go to help other needy veterans and their dependents. So today the poppy serves two very important purposes: It is a symbol of remembrance and a symbol of help to those in need.

You are earnestly invited to join other citizens at the monument at Prince Arthur Square, Sunday, No. 9th, at 3 P.M., as they pay tribute to those who died for freedom. You are also asked to wear a poppy, and observe a two-minute silence for the dead of all nations who fought for freedom.

Employer-Employee Relations Study

S. Herman Macy

A study of employer-employee relations in New York State, Quebec and Ontario will be conducted through Rotary Club District 704, Governor S. Herman Macy said at Lake Placid, this week.

Macy, who is secretary of the Lake Placid Club, internationally famous resort and cultural center, said Rotarians in every club in the district would be asked to fill in a questionnaire. The vocational survey, he said, will make it possible for local businessmen to compare their practices with the average of communities in the district. To be included in the survey will be weekly hours of work, holidays, pension plans, incentive and training programs, civic cooperation and retirement policies.

"This information", Macy stressed, "will be a valuable aid to small businessmen in meeting the changing needs of the fast-growing North Country."

He predicted that the resort business and industrial expansion would double in the next five years because of (1) the St. Lawrence Seaway and power development; (2) the northway highway; and (3) closer cooperation between the U.S. and Canada.

"As Rotarians, "Macy told the club, "you are leaders in your community. You can make this future come faster and build on a more solid foundation by establishing guide posts for sound employer-employee relations. And, most important, you can take the leadership in your community by putting into daily practice the spirit of cooperation, of unselfish service, and of individual and club dedication to the best interests of the area."

The Montreal Cottons Ltd. To Produce Salesyarns Quicker In Salaberry Mill

Textiles and the City of Valleyfield have been partners for many generations. In 1873, construction started on Valleyfield's first textile mill, a small cotton manufacturing plant that was completed the following year. This organization, THE MONTREAL COTTON COMPANY, was formed by a group of Montreal businessmen led by two historical figures, Alexander Cross and Sir Hugh Allan. Cross was the company's first president, followed in this post by Sir Hugh Allan. Later, in 1911, it became THE MONTREAL COTTONS LIMITED as known today.

Some would wonder why Valleyfield was chosen as the site for textiles. In those days, Valleyfield was a town of 3000 souls. The old Beauharnois canal was in operation at that time but the bigger Soulanges canal on the north shore of the river had not yet been constructed. All river traffic on the mighty St. Lawrence skirted the rapids of that river by the south shore, going right past Valleyfield's front door. Boats of the old Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company churned up and down the canal carrying freight and passengers between Toronto and Montreal. Valleyfield was ready to blossom forth as a big river port.

But it needed industries, and these industries needed handy markets and power. Valleyfield offered both, for water transport to the big Montreal market was speedy and economical, and the flowing waters of the Beauharnois Canal, sweeping past the grey stone walls of the first MOCO mill, provided the water power.

The first plant started with power for an old water wheel. But it was not long before Hydro-Electric power from this same water flow came to serve the purpose of industry.

The Montreal Cotton Company Mill was, of course, what is known as "the old mill" today. It employed 260 citizens of Valleyfield, not many in terms of today's employment figures, but a healthy start for a community.

In 1880 and 1893, additions were built to the original plant and five years later the big EMPIRE MILL was built onto the Moco unit. This same year, two more storeys were added to the Louise Mill, the cotton warehouse was built and the building known as the Main Gate was erected. The years between 1893 and 1895 also saw the erection of the dye house and bleachery, which with their storage and shipping facilities, turned the mill into a fully integrated textile plant.

In 1901, the Gault Mill was built and Valleyfield continued to expand. Since then other additions have been built and machinery equipment replaced. In 1957, a complete and full modernisation of equipment in the Gault Mill was done and now makes it one of the most effective cotton producing units in the country.

And now to take another forward step in the search of business for Valleyfield, comes the ultra modern Salaberry Mill, latest and most modern plant on the continent.

Textile men are calling the new Salaberry Mill "the most modern on the whole North America continent".

And it is.

This latest addition to the Valleyfield industrial scene is a one-storey, controlled-air windowless plant with nothing but the latest textile machinery in it. It will manufacture "salesyarn", that is yarns rather than woven fabrics. These are delivered to other mills that weave fabrics, or sold to manufacturers who produce knitted goods.

Construction, which was under the guidance of Chief Engineer Ernest Jubien of Dominion Textile Company, is designed to provide for the processing of raw cotton in orderly stages, the departments being laid out in order to maintain a steady flow of cotton through the mill with a minimum of moving materials back and forth.

Full laboratory facilities will assure constant control of the quality of products.

Clean and modern throughout, the new plant is fully air-conditioned including office and service space. The roof deck of the plant, which is insulated to keep a constant temperature within the mill, was fashioned from British Columbia spruce and the timbers have been specially treated to make them rot-proof and almost entirely fire-resistant. The building has a steel frame with concrete block walls and is settled on concrete piles which are based on a rock bed 15 feet below the marshy top clay of the region.

It is 869 feet by 288 feet at its widest dimensions and offers a floor-space of nearly quarter of a million square feet.

Total cost of the Salaberry mill was in the neighborhood of $6,000,000 and of this amount some $3,500,000 was spent on the most modern machinery available. The investment represents an expenditure of $35,000 for each of the 170 employees who will be employed there when it is operating at capacity.

Hope of the company is that the new mill with its modern machinery (and the recent complete remodernisation of equipment in the Gault Mill of The Montreal Cottons) will help meet the onslaught of foreign goods which are pouring into Canada at depressed prices.

As explained recently by G. B. Gordon, president of the company:

"Our industry is being swamped by imports from foreign lands. And this has, as we all know, had a drastic effect on textile employment. We cannot simply stand by and wait for things to improve by themselves. Our only hope is to fight hard for the business of the Canadian consumer. To do this we must produce the best possible textile products at the most reasonable prices. Keeping our manufacturing facilities in efficient operating condition is not only a policy with us — it is an essential for survival".

Employment at the new mill will reach about 170, though some of these will be employees who formerly worked in the older MOCO plants.

Modern machinery and modern methods, keys to productivity and competitive costing, are essential to Canadian textile mills in today's stiff battle for our own Canadian market. These are the tools we must use to meet competition from foreign producers in low-wage countries and in mass production nations whose big over-runs make the cut rate unloading of surpluses in Canada very tempting.

The new Salaberry Mill of The Montreal Cottons Limited, a Dominion Textile plant in Valleyfield, Québec, is an example of the effort and investment being expended by a Canadian enterprise to win a fair share of the Canadian business.

Back of the modern machines is more than a half-century of Dominion Textile know-how in producing Canadian materials for Canadian consumers.

The Salaberry Mill with over $3½ million of the most modern machinery in North America is capable of producing the finest "Salesyarns" under the best conditions, the following is a description of each operation of the plant operation from the raw material to the finished product.

Process 1 Blending

The purpose of these machines is to mix or blend a number of layers of cotton taken from several bales in order to obtain a more uniform product. This is accomplished when the cotton passes through a series of spiked rolls and lattices. The cotton is then fed onto an horizontal apron and fan condenser where it is blown to the following operation which is Opening. You will notice that these machines are arranged to deliver the opened cotton from four Blenders into one common delivery station.

Process 2 Opening

In this process the cotton is

Msgr. Geo. Cassidy Celebrates Golden Jubilee In Priesthood

An outstanding and long-time prominent person in Roman Catholic Diocesan Affairs, Rt. Rev. George Leo Cassidy, P.A., V.G., V.F., Pastor of St. Patrick's Parish, Hamilton, Ont., observed the 50th Anniversary of his ordination to priesthood on October 11.

Held in high esteem and recognized as one of the leading clerical figures in the city of Hamilton, Monsignor Cassidy has been Vicar General of Hamilton Diocese since 1948. He was named Dean of Wentworth-Halton Deanery when he received his pastoral appointment to St. Patrick's in 1918. In 1934, he was made a Domestic Prelate, being raised to Protonotary Apostolic in 1949.

Monsignor Cassidy was born in St. Antoine Abbe, Que., the son of the late Hugh Cassidy and Mary Flanagan. He studied at Valleyfield College, and received his liberal arts course at Holy Cross College, Montreal. He received his baccalaurate degree in 1895 and was ordained in 1908.

The jubilarian is noted for his interest in Catholic education. A member of the Hamilton Separate School Board for many years, he has also held the post of treasurer for a lengthy period.

Since becoming pastor of St. Patrick's, Vicar Cassidy has held many important diocesan posts. In addition to his appointment as Vicar General, he has been diocesan CWL director, diocesan Holy Name Society director, chaplain of the 4th Degree K. of C., member of the diocesan building commission, a diocesan consultor and erstwhile priest-director of the annual Marian Day rally. He also initiated the first Christain Culture Series.

Always taking a keen interest in community affairs, Monsignor Cassidy has represented the church on many a community committee. At one time, he was a director of the Children's Aid Society.

To mark the golden jubilee, a quiet family celebration was held. Joining Monsignor Cassidy were the other living members of his family, Charles Cassidy of Franklin Centre, Mrs. Thomas (Laura) Donner, Miss Linda and Miss Irene Cassidy, all of Montreal.

Boy Scout Activities

The First Huntingdon Boy Scouts Troop resumed its activities three weeks ago with a membership of twenty-four. Sixteen new "Tenderfoot" have joined the ranks of the Troop, 7 of whom were members of the Cub Pack last year. Four patrols have been formed: the Lion; the Wolf; the Seal; the Bull. By the looks of things the Scouts are going to have a very profitable year, since they have already started to pass their tests with success.

The Troop sincerely regrets the loss of its able Scoutmaster V. Johnson who was replaced by A. S. M. Conde Crepeault, and all the members unite to offer their most sincere thanks to Mr. Johnson for the great job he did during the past two years.

The new Scoutmaster, Mr. Crepeault, will have for Assistants Messrs. Ralph Watson and Jacob Ykema, who both started in their new functions on the 14th of this month.

Last Friday and Saturday, October 17th and 18th, the Boy Scouts organized an Apple Day, to raise funds for the Troops' various forthcoming activities. Although at the time of this writing, the amount they made is not yet known, it looks as if they had a huge success with this enterprise and they thank the population of Huntingdon for giving so generously. A special note of thanks goes to Mr. Wm. R. Wilson, Customs Broker, who so generously gave the Troop all the delicious apples; Mr. Wilson's Good Turn was certainly responsible for this most successful Apple Sale.

Scouts Darryl Johnson and John Gardiner were Invested Tuesday night and they have now become full fledged members of the Troop. Kenneth Merson received his Second Class Badge and he is now working hard to be the first member of the Troop to attain the rank of First Class Scout.

The Cub Pack seems to have a little trouble in getting organized due to lack of leaders. If any of the readers of this column would like to devote some time to the youth of the community by helping the Cub Pack, be assured that any assistance will be much appreciated. You may contact the President of the Group Committee, Mr. A. Hunter at CO-4-5595, or the Secretary, Mr. R. McArthur, Tel. CO-4-5172.

Good Scouting !

Howick

Riverfield and Georgetown Churches Observe Laymen's Sunday

HOWICK — Laymen's Sunday is now observed by almost 100,000 congregations in almost every denomination in Canada and the U.S.A. This is an occasion on which the ministry of the individual is stressed, and the call of Christ to all of His people is sounded with special emphasis.

The Sessions of Riverfield and Georgetown decided to adopt the General Assemblies suggestion to set aside Sunday, October 19th., as Laymen's Sunday, when men of the congregation would take a major part in conducting the worship services.

The theme for these services is based on Matthew Chapter Six, verse thirty-three, "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God", and on Sunday morning, Mr. W. G. Brown, the Mayor of Howick, spoke on this theme in Riverfield Church. Mr. Kenneth Roy conducted the Order of Service assisted by the Rev. W. M. Brown.

At Georgetown, the same theme was followed, but the entire worship and service of praise was carried through by men of the congregation. Mr. W. Wallace Elliot, Harry Cullen, and Ian Watson conducted the service, and Mr. Alister McArthur of Cherry Bank Farm delivered the sermon.

A fourteen voice choir, composed of men from the congregation, led the praise, with Mrs. Wallace Logan at the organ.

The services were conducted with dignity and reverence, the sermons were appropriate and of high excellence, and many were the expressions of appreciation heard from the large congregations attending these services.

On Thursday evening, Oct. 9th, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Craig were pleasantly surprised when a number of relatives called at their home to celebrate their 10th wedding anniversary. A social evening was spent and after delicious refreshments served, Mr. Alvin McClenaghan presented Clif and Glenna with a pop-up Toaster, and extended the good wishes of everyone present for many more happy years.

Robson

ROBSON — Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Barr and Mr. Duane Sargent of Randolph, Vt., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Cleland and other relatives and friends the latter part of the week. While here they attended the United Church Supper Thursday night at Hemmingford and the Dinner and party in honour of the Sixtieth Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Sample in the United Church Hall, Hemmingford, on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Lukas and Mrs. Lukas' mother have returned to Montreal for the winter.

On Sunday morning Laymen's Sunday was observed in Knox Church. Mr. Warren Fewster preaching the sermon while Mr. Kenneth Sample read the Bible reading. The flowers on the table were placed there by the Brooks Family in memory of their two mothers, the late Mrs. Alexander and the late Mrs. Brooks.

Mrs. Mary Jackson is spending a few days at her home here.

Several from here attended the dinner and party in honour of the 60th Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Sample of Plattsburg, N.Y., Saturday evening, in the United Church Hall, Hemmingford. This worthy couple lived here until about eleven years ago when they moved to Plattsburg.

They have five daughters, Gladys (Mrs. J. Perras), Ethel (Mrs. A. McNaughton), Reta (Mrs. C. Gale), Evelyn (Mrs. Donley) and Phyllis and one son Wilmer. One daughter (Mrs. Harold McNaughton) and one son Melburne passed away a few years ago.

They also have 12 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

Congratulations and best wishes for many more happy years of married life together were extended to them.

Dundee

DUNDEE — A rash of bad barn fires around Fort Covington brings in the report of another big loss last Tuesday morning when the large farm barns of Mr. James Holden on the Cushman Road went up in smoke. Consumed by the raging flames were two structures one 120 feet long and the other 85 feet filled with 8000 bales of hay and 1500 bales of straw. Also lost were an almost complete set of farm equipment including hay baler, mower, 3 sets of milking machines, etc., also 3 calves.

The Fort Covington Fire Dept. who came in response to a call from the State Police who discovered the fire about 2 A.M. and the Bombay Fire Dep. who came under Mutual aid saved a horse barn and granary about 20 feet away from the burning buildings and also the Holden farm home and tenant house which were just across the road. Also saved were five head of young stock in the barns. The Fort Fire Dept. with 20 men stayed at the scene of the fire for eight hours to extinguish the outbreak and keep it from spreading. Plenty of water was at hand from a nearby brook, or the flames could never have been checked. The loss is estimated to be in the neighbourhood of $40,000.00. Reports also state that the amount of insurance carried was not high. Spontaneous combustion was given as a possible cause for the outbreak.

Mr. and Mrs. Adrien O'Reilly, recently enjoyed a 3 weeks vacation and during their time away visited Mrs. O'Reilly's brothers and sisters in Canton N.Y., also her brother Wilfred Rushman of Carthage and her sister Sister Mary Hildegarde of Kingston Ont.; her brother the Rev. Clifford Rushman, S. J. of Loyola College, Montreal. Mr. O'Reilly is Customs Collector at the Dundee Port of entry and during his absence Mr. Donald Fraser of the Dundee Staff was in charge.

Miss Doris Fraser and her friend Miss. Priscilla Carter of Boston, spent a few days over the week end at the home of Miss Fraser's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Fraser.

A recent guest for a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O'Reilly at Dundee Lines, was Mrs. J. Flynn of Denver, Colorado, an aunt of Mrs. O'Reilly. Mrs. Flynn and the O'Reilly's motored to Finch, Ont., where she visited Mr. and Mrs. William Moriarty and Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Shane.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Barber of Farnham are spending a few days visiting their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fraser.

Mr. George Mariner, of South Braintree, Mass., and Mr. Frank Derick of Lacolle, Que., were guests during the week end of their cousins Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Fraser. While in Dundee they put in a day of duck hunting on the Lake. As the duck season progresses the birds are not too plentiful, but with perseverance in locating their hide outs most hunters are having a fair amount of luck.

Mr. Ronald Fleming, who was badly injured in a car accident recently and was a patient in the Huntingdon County Hospital for a couple of weeks, was removed by ambulance the latter part of the week to the Montreal General Hospital. His badly fractured left leg was operated on and placed in a plaster cast. He will be hospitalized for some time. Miss Fern Sutton who also was injured in the same accident is still in the Huntingdon County Hospital, but is reported to be improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gardiner motored to Copenhagen N.Y. on a recent Sunday, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ross. Mr. Ross is confined to bed continuously following a shock which he suffered 5 yrs. ago. He is a complete and total invalid.

A considerable number of farmers and others from the Dundee district attended the International Plowing Match which was staged at Chrysler, Ont., about 30 miles from Cornwall, Ont., on Oct. 7-10 inclusive.

Thursday and Friday Oct. 9-10 saw crowds of some 15,000 persons each day in attendance.

The total attendance for the 4 days was said to be over 40,000. There were dozens of industrial exhibits in the tented city located over a wide area of farm land to which the crowds were drawn from the parking grounds for cars on farm wagons drawn by tractors. There were so many contestants for the plowing contests both in seed and stubble classes that a guide was a necessity to get to see what was actually going on in the various fields.

Helicopters and conventional type planes were on hand to take up passengers to get a better view of the whole surroundings. On a special stand on the exhibition grounds the "Craig" family of C. B. C. radio fame gave one of their regular broadcasts which sounded very realistic of more than passing interest was a tented display by the Ontario Hydro of relics of bygone days used by the early Eastern Ontario pioneers during the period of the settlement of Glengarry and Stormont Counties.

Old churns, dugout canoes, washing machines, grain separators, looms, spinning wheels, scythes, cradles, wooden hay forks and a huge home made stone and stump lifter featured the display. This is the first time for a number of years that the International Plowing Match event has been close enough to Cornwall to make it easy of access to residents of the District of Beauharnois. Judging by the number of persons recognized as being residents of Elgin, H'don. Ormstown it was evident that they were taking advantage of having a day off to witness the big yearly event. Even as one event for the year finishes it is said plans are being laid at the same time for the next year's International. It is said that when the Match is held in the environs of Toronto the crowds are much larger. At any rate judging by the amount to be seen and the fact that everything has to be laid down and built up on open farm land several miles from even a large town a terrific amount of planning must be done and carried out by the management.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Fraser on Sunday, were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lang and son Garry also Mrs. Bennie, all from Ormstown. They also called on Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ferguson.

Last Thursday the W. M. S. met at the home of Mrs. Ernest Watterson. During the afternoon two bales were packed, one for Overseas and the other to go to Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gardiner and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Currie of Fort Covington motored to Plattsburg, N.Y., on Sunday, and visited points of interest on the way. Coming home they crossed to Isle LaMotte.

Mr. Edward William McCaffrey World War II veteran and a former resident of St. Agnes, passed away on Tuesday, October 7, at the Veterans Hospital in Toronto following a cerebral hemorrhage which he suffered two weeks previously. Mr. McCaffrey and his family left St. Agnes in 1936 and resided in Kirkland Lake for a couple of years before moving to Toronto where they have resided ever since. Requiem mass for the deceased was conducted on Friday morning, Oct. 10 at St. Anthony's Church, Toronto and burial was in the Holy Cross Cemetery in the same city. Mr. McCaffrey was about 66 yrs. of age having been born at St. Agnes the son of the late James McCaffrey and his wife Catherine O'Reilly.

He operated a general store at St. Agnes for quite a long time before moving away in the 30's. His wife the former Miss Henr. Mayhew of Fort Covington still survives. As well as one son James of Los Angeles Cal. and two daughters (Vivian) Mrs. Stephen Smythe of Massena also (Frances) Mrs. Roy Englehartt of Toronto, also nine grandchildren. He also leaves one sister Miss Kathleen McCaffrey of Montreal one brother Harold of Huntingdon. Another brother Leon died in 1936.

Among those attending the funeral were his brother Harold of Huntingdon his son James of Los Angeles his daughter Mrs. Smythe of Massena; Mr. Adrien O'Reilly of Dundee. His sister Kathleen of Montreal visited him during his last illness but was unable to attend the funeral. Also present were Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Creighton and son William of Fort Covington, and Mr. Robert McCaffrey a nephew of Rochester Mr. Terry Smythe of Youngstown N.Y. Another nephew went to Toronto to see his uncle before he died, but did not attend the funeral.

Farmers' Take Computed

Canadian farmers last year received just over 44 cents of the dollar spent by consumers for farm foods, according to Z. Y. Yankowsky, Canada Department of Agriculture economist, in an annual study released by the Department.

The 1957 decrease in farmer's share was less than one per cent from the level of the pervious year. The farm share of retail food expenditure has been declining since 1951, when it was 51 per cent.

Increases Compared

More detailed calculations for 14 selected food products, which represent roughly 70 per cent of the retail cost of Canadian farm food domestically consumed, showed that in 1957 retail prices of these products increased 3.7 per cent. Farm prices increased only 1.4 per cent and marketing margins were boosted by 8.2 per cent.

The increase in farm prices in 1957 was the first since 1951 and resulted mainly from higher prices for dairy products and meat animals, particularly hogs.

IMPERIAL HELPS YOU FEEL SECURE WHEN THEY FLY

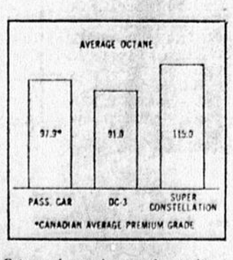
For as long as Canadians have flown, Imperial's leadership in aviation fuels and lubricants has helped make flying safer, surer

Canada's earliest airmen depended on Imperial aviation products, in war and in peace. Imperial gasoline powered Canada's first air mail flight, in 1918.

As more modern planes flew, Imperial research provided them with the new fuels they needed. For many years, Imperial was the only Canadian manufacturer of aviation alkylate, an essential ingredient of aviation gasoline.

The special skills and technical knowledge acquired over the years make Imperial the nation's major supplier of aviation fuels.

These skills and experience pay dividends to the motorist today when premium grades of gasoline are approaching top aviation octane standards.



Octane of premium grade gasolines approaches top aviation requirements.

Dodgers Win Little League Title

The Huntingdon Little League has ended another season, and the winners of the Benny Coccia Trophy for 1958 are the Dodgers, coached by Lou Marton of Marton's Shoe Store.

The Dodgers placed first in the League, and without any decent weather in the past few weeks, it has been decided not to have any play-offs this year.

The other teams, the Braves and the Indians were coached by Leonard Tremblay and Herbie Tremblay, the funds for the league operation were supplied by the Huntingdon Rotary Club.

Shower for bride to be

On Friday evening, October 10th Mrs. Charles Brown, Mrs. Grant Whyte and Mrs. Raymond Taillefer were joint hostesses at a miscellaneous shower given at the home of Mrs. Taillefer in honor of the approaching marriage of Miss Thelma J. Kelly.

On entering the Taillefer home Miss Kelly was very pleasantly surprised to find some twenty-five neighbours and friends gathered in the living room. Amid showers of confetti, Thelma was escorted to the chair of honor, where she was presented with many beautiful and useful gifts. After opening the gifts a very pleasant social hour was spent, following which the hostesses served refreshments.

Miss Kelly was also guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower in Montreal at the apartment of Miss Betty Hampson, where Miss Hampson and Miss Mary Flynn were joint hostesses. Thelma was the recipient of many beautiful gifts from her friends and co-workers. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Home and School Meeting

The business meeting of the Huntingdon Home and School Association on Wednesday evening, was well attended and the discussion centred upon the Student Teachers' Loan Fund. A motion was made that a permanent committee of five people responsible to the Home and School be appointed to distribute these loans.

The library committee headed by Mrs. George Boyce and Miss Mabel MacMillan has been busy working in the library repairing the books, and the library will soon be open.

Mrs. R. Watson and Mrs. A. Milne were appointed to head the refreshment committe.

Mr. Melnyk introduced the members of the staff to the meeting and the parents, guests and friends then adjourned to the various classrooms, where each teacher outlined the course of study and answered questions.

After the classroom visit the gathering adjourned to the Gym, where light refreshments were served. There were about 70 people in attendance.

Harvest Dance, Huntingdon County Hospital Ladies' Auxiliary.

The Harvest Dance, sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary, held at Huntingdon Chateau, on Friday evening, October 17th, proved an enjoyable as well as profitable event.

Much credit is due the Co-Convenors of the Ways and Means, Mrs. Roy Goodfellow and Mrs. Gordon McLean, who had charge of the plans for the dance. Excellent music was supplied by Mr. Don Moore and his four piece orchestra. The Dining Room, where the dance was held, was attractively decorated in a Harvest motif by Mr. Raymond Sauvé of the Chateau. Mrs. Goodfellow wishes to thank those who donated the various items of Harvest produce for the decorations.

Thanks are due Mr. A. C. Carisse, Manager of the Chateau, for donating the dining room, for his co-operation with the committee in arranging the dance and to Mr. Sauvé for the fine work done in the decorating.

Though not all proceeds have been received, at least $300.00 has been realized, and the Auxiliary is most grateful to all who bought tickets, attended and in any way contributed to the success of the event.

Teatime Topics

The Canadian Association of Consumers is campaigning for longer bed sheets. In its most recent bulletin it urges housewives to insist on a sheet 108 inches long, instead of the more usual 90 inches.

Flannelette sheets, much on the market as cooler weather comes, are the ones most involved in the "shortie" complaints, the CAC says.

"Because so many consumers express dissatisfaction with the lengths of flannelette sheets available in many stores, we must strees that manufacturers do make longer sheets, and are anxious to sell them", says the bulletin, "but they are slightly higher-priced than the so-called popular size. If the retainer does not stock longer sheets, the consumer should request a special order".

Canadian Cheese

Canada's October cheese festival is here. The foremost national cheese product is cheddar cheese. Colors may be rich cream or yellow, the difference being added vegetable coloring.

Cheddar is marketed and sold according to its age. "Mild cheddar" has been ripened only a few weeks. "Medium cheddar" is aged for several months, and "old nippy cheddar" has been ripened for a year or more.

Careful storage is essential to retain the flavor of cheddar cheese. Wrap it in heavy waxed paper or foil or pop it into a covered container and store it in the refrigerator or other cool place. In storing a large piece of cheese, protect the cut side with a coating of paraffin or a piece of waxed paper pressed on with a hot iron.

Remove cheese from the refrigerator long enough before using to allow it to reach room temperature.

Save the scraps after cutting cheese, grate them and store in a covered jar.

To mix cheese evenly with other ingredients, the cheese is usually melted, grated or ground.

Obituary

The Late T. A. McNair

Funeral services were conducted in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Huntingdon, Quebec, by Reverend J. M. Grant on Saturday, September 27th, 1958, for Thomas A. McNair, who passed away at his home at Clyde's Corners, near Huntingdon on September 24th, at the age of 85 years.

Thomas McNair was the son of the late James McNair, Jr. and his wife, the former Elizabeth Warden. His grandparents were James McNair, Sr. and Elizabeth Crawford, who emigrated from Inverary, Argyllshire, Scotland and were among the first settlers in this district in 1822. They lived to 107 and 111 years respectively.

Thomas was born May 17, 1873 on the old homestead where he lived until his death. In earlier life he was a prosperous farmer and raised cattle and sheep. He was a member of a large family, all of whom have predeceased him excepting one sister, Jane, wife of the late Alfred Pepper of Vankleek Hill, Ontario.

Others left to mourn his passing are many cousins, nephews and nieces living in Ormstown, Quebec; Malone and Bombay, N.Y.; Vankleek Hill, Ontario and other locations.

The pallbearers were John Caldwell, Willard Caldwell, James O'Hare, Edward Dineen, John Stirling and Leo Curran.

The many beautiful floral tributes were borne by Winston Murray, John Curran, Robert Stone and James Curran.

The funeral was largely attended by both relatives and friends.

Interment was at the Huntingdon Protestant Cemetery.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to Reverend J. M. Grant, the choir of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, organist Mr. Ivan Heath and all the kind friends, relatives and neighbours, especially the John A. Caldwell family, for their acts of kindness, expressions of sympathy, floral tributes, sympathy cards, etc. in the passing of a dear Brother and Uncle.

Mr. and Mrs. Raeburn Orr whose marriage took place in St. Antoine Abbé, Que. Formerly Miss Rose Ocenas, the bride, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ocenas of Franklin Centre, Que. Mr. Orr is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ewart Orr of Riverfield, Que.

ORR—OCENAS

The marriage of Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ocenas of Franklin Centre, Que., to Mr. Raeburn Orr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ewart Orr of Riverfield, Que., took place Saturday October 11th, at eleven o'clock, in the Sacristy of St. Antoine Abbé Church, Que.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a cocktail length gown of chantilly lace over taffeta with a scooped out neckline and sleeves ending in points over her hands. Her fringer tip veil of tulle illusion was held by a cap of lace trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses and stephanotis.

Miss Irene Kosturik, as maid of honour was in a ballerina length gown of blue lace over taffeta with matching feathered hat and shoes. She carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Joseph Ocenas, mother of the bride wore a royal blue flock with matching hat and black accessories with a corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. Eward Orr, mother of the bridegroom was gowned in a laurel green crepe ensemble wearing a black hat and accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Mr. Willard Orr, the groom's brother acted as best man.

The reception was held at the Rod and Gun Club. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Orr left for New York, the bride travelling in a dress suit of peacock blue wool, wearing a winter white hat with feathers and black patent accessories and a corsage of white carnations. They will reside in Cornstown.

In cooking cheese, just take it easy. Treat it gently when beating — don't shock it into a rubbery mass by using high temperatures.

Old Furniture

"Old furniture for new" is the latest cry in the upholstery market.

According to the men in the trade, salvaging structurally-sound old frames can save up to 50 per cent on the retail price of factory-constructed furniture.

Worn upholstery can be replaced by fabric which will stand more wear, chesterfields can be sliced into sectional pieces, the puffy contours of an over-stuffed living-room set can be changed to the lean lines of a contemporary suite.

If furniture was produced during the war when curved bits of wood substituted for metal springs, the first set of coils can be installed.

The re-upholstering process usually takes about three weeks.

Huntingdon United Church Activities

The Explorer Group of Huntingdon United Church held their annual election of officers at their meeting last Friday. The results of the election are as follows: Chief Explorer, Bonnie Bryson; Keeper of the Log, Donna Kelly; and Keeper of the Treasurer, Ellen Bulow. Mr. Beal installed the officers and the groups began their first explorations of the fall season. The nine year old girls are preparing for their initiation into the group and the ten and eleven year olds are beginning an exploration of "The Christian Home".

The Council of Christian Education of the Province of Quebec has announced that the C. G. I. T. groups of Huntingdon United Church have been granted Chevron standing for their work last year. The chevrons were presented to the girls at their meeting last Friday afternoon. The annual election of officers was held during the business meeting and those elected to office included: Dorothy Sherry, President; Judy Graham, Vice-President; Ann Rutherford, Secretary and Susan Ferns, Treasurer.

The Junior Boy's Club of Huntingdon United Church held their regular meeting in the Church Hall last Friday evening. Following a period of recreation Mr. Beal introduced the study theme: "Growing as a Christian Boy". The evening was brought to a close with refreshments being served by the members of the social committee.

Death of Playwright's Son Spotlights Home Dangers to Tots

A famous playwright's son has died to teach parents a lesson which may save some other children.

Six-year-old Peter Oboler, son of Arch Oboler, tumbled into a rain-filled ditch next door to their home and drowned. That tragedy, Oboler writes in a November magazine article, opened his eyes to three great areas of danger to small children — areas which many people overlook, with tragic results.

One is the danger of the Familiar Menaces, tnings so common around the house we don't see their threat to inquisitive tots: the attractive brass-covered fuses in the open fuse box; father's fishhooks in the available drawer; the upstairs bedroom window with shelves under it, handy for a child to climb up on — and tumble out. These Oboler writes, are the million-to-one-shot menaces which can and do cause tragedy.

The second danger is the error of unconsciously giving one's youngest child credit for more maturity than he has. The first child is told everything, perhaps over-protected. The second gets not quite as much attention, and younger ones even less — until the youngest gets far too little attention in the simple area of do's and don'ts — warnings of what is dangerous and what is safe.

The third danger is the possibility of giving warnings in terms that go over the child's head. Just a few days before young Peter died in the pit, Oboler writes, he had led the boy to it, and explained the dangers of a fall: he talked of panic, shock and drowning. The youngster appeared puzzled at first, but then he nodded, and his father thought he understood. But those words had little if any meaning for a six-year-old.

Little Peter was always a generous child, Oboler writes, and "perhaps by bringing you, through me, an awareness of those dangers around our homes Peter has performed his final act of kindness and generosity."

Watch Frost Killing In Low Planters Growing Tulip Bulbs

The raised planters common to many modern homes where winters are severe pose a few problems to the gardener hoping to grow tulips or other spring-flowering bulbs in them.

If the planter is too shallow, its contents will be frozen. If the first row is planted too near the brick wall receiving warmth from the house it will grow first and give the bed an uneven and unsightly appearance. If the outside row it too near the edge of the planter it may be killed by frost.

The Horticultural Division at the Central Experimental Farm found that bulbs planted between the middle of September and the middle of October give more uniform blooms than those planted later under garden conditions. Under artificial conditions bulbs were not damaged until soil temperature fell to 10 degrees Fahrenheit. Under natural conditions soil temperature does not go so low four to six inches below the soil or away from the planter edge.

Nitro

NITRO — Mrs. Frank Burke entertained her bridge club on Wednesday. The first prize was won by Mrs. J. Clandinan with the hostess winning second prize.

Mr. and Mrs. D. K. McMullan and son David spent the Thanksgiving weekend at Newport, Vermont, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. McMullan.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Kennedy and daughters Deborah and Leslie motored to their cottage at Mountain View, N.Y. for Thanksgiving.

Mrs. J. Thomas of Purvis St. and her brother, Mr. J. L. Garneau of Montreal, motored to Noranda recently to visit their sister, Mrs. A. Charest.

The four members of a local bridge club, Mrs. J. Halliday and Mrs. C. Paige of Nitro and Mrs. B. Haines and Mrs. B. Campbell of Valleyfield, spent a very enjoyable weekend away. With Miss E. Collins, Mrs. Paige's sister, they motored to Burlington for a weekend of shopping and sight-seeing.

The Willing Workers held a special meeting on Thursday to finalize arrangements for their bazaar to be held on Saturday, October 25th at three o'clock. It was decided to change the meeting night, for the remainder of the year, to the second Thursday of each month. The next meeting therefore, would be November 13th; with the December meeting on the eleventh. Hostess for the evening was Mrs. Frank Burke. Due to the resignation of the group's secretary, Mrs. Champ, Mrs. Evelyn Maithers will keep the records for the remainder of the year.

Mr. Art Brown, Vic Bartlett and Ted Kennedy spent the weekend at Duhamel, but they were unsuccessful with their hunt. Wild life came to the Clandinan's however when a partridge flew through the window of their cottage on Lake St. Frances — this goes to prove that a bird in a cottage is worth more than three hunters in the bush!

A Macdonald College Reunion was held on Saturday, October 18th. Mr. and Mrs. F. Dilabio motored up for the day and enjoyed visiting with other graduates. There was a foot ball game — Macdonald vs Bishops with Macdonald the victors. A general meeting followed the game, then a reception, chicken barbecue dinner and a dance.

The Christening of little Gina Elisa Dilabio took place on Sunday, October 19th, at 3.00 p.m., in the St. Joan of Arc Church, Nitro, with Father Tessier officiating. God Parents were Mr. Ernie Dilabio and Mrs. Mary Dilabio of Ottawa. Other guests from Ottawa were Mrs. R. Bouchard and Mrs. O. Lupiano, Mr. F. Dilabio's sister. Following the Christening, Father Tessier and the guests were received at the Dilabio home for a dinner. Many beautiful gifts were sent to the baby.

Sincere sympathy is extended to Mrs. Greta Campbell on the recent death of her father Mr. Earl W. Lang of Aylmer, Quebec.

During the past several weeks the sad news of the deaths of relatives and friends has come to the Hill.

Mr. Ben Gordon of Methuen, Mass. was an old friend of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Perry at whose home he was a guest in former years.

Mr. Al. Collins was a brother-in-law of Mrs. W. W. Lowden and often visited in this area.

The death of Mrs. Leslie Austen occurred in Vancouver. She was the former Miss Pansy Gilmour, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Gilmour.

Glenelm

GLENELM — Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hay of Flushing, Long Island, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hay of Baltimore, Maryland, were weekend guests at the Hay home.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kane and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Kane of Montreal and Mr. Michael Kane of Ottawa were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hay and Roy.

Mrs. A. W. Stewart of Oelwein, Iowa, and Mr. and Mrs. Seymour G. Platt of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, were guests this past week of their cousins Mr. Wm. H. Graham and Misses Catherine and Bessie, and visited other cousins and friends. They enjoyed the beauty of the autumn colours on the maple bushes, and were much impressed by a drive east, through the apple orchards on Highway 52 and to see the trees so heavily loaded with lovely red apples.

Mr. Wm. H. Graham and sisters motored their Iowa cousins to Massena, on Saturday, and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Benson Elder from whose home their cousins will leave the end of this week to return to their homes in Iowa.

GLENELM — Mrs. E. Watson spent a week visiting her sisters-in-law, Mrs. Florence Elliott and Mrs. Netta Hutchins of Saranac Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Barr and Mr. D. Sargeant of Randolph, Vt. were Sunday guests at Honey Bee Farm.

Athelstan

Thank-Offering Meeting

ATHELSTAN — The Autumn Thank-Offering meeting of the Southern Division Womans Missionary Society was held last Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Reese with a good attendance present. The Worship Service theme entitled "Living on Thanksgiving Street", based on the writings of St. Paul whom at all times was mindful and truly thankful, noting the wondering surprise that God had been so good to him, which runs all through his letters and nowhere more clearly than when he writes to the Corinthians from which the Scripture Readings were taken. Mrs. Robert Beal of Huntingdon was the guest speaker and took as her subject—"The Challenge Facing the W.M.S. Women of Today." On her address she cited four things necessary to measure up to this challenge viz—Pray, Work, Learn and Give. A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Beal by Mrs. C. Rabidoux. The Thank-Offering received amounted to $36.50. Refreshments were served by the members, after the meeting.

The Presbyterian Womans Missionary Society met Thursday last at the home of Mrs. Wm. Bernhardt for their Autumn Thank-Offering meeting. Despite inclement weather the attendance was good. Mrs. Stanley Ruddock of Huntingdon, was the guest speaker. Her general theme was based on John 12, 24, 25. "Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone, but if it die it bringeth forth much fruit" and "He that loveth his life shall lose it and he that hateth his life in this world shall keep it unto life eternal". Using the story of Jacob, the speaker showed how a life could be changed, redeemed and used for the furtherance of God's Kingdom. It was a stirring message which should lift all out of their petty selves, and bring all nearer to the God whom we so imperfectly serve. A social hour followed when the hostess served delicious refreshments.

Mrs. Mythle Stewart returned this week from Como, where she has been the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George Jesty.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel Tully and sons Robbie and Jamie have returned to their home in Kapuskasing, Ont., after spending their holidays at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Tully, Ridgeroad.

Mrs. W. D. Hamill, Mrs. S. Moneypenny and son Dick of Franklin and Mrs. Fergus Moore and family of Covey Hill, have been recent guests of Miss Margaret Dunn.

MARSHALL—O'HARA

The marriage of Miss Pauline Carolyn O'Hara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terence O'Hara, of Athelstan, Que., to Harold F. Marshall, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Archie Marshall of Elgin, took place in Huntingdon United Church on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 11th 1958. Rev. Robert Beal officiated. Mr. E. Yates, organist, played the wedding music. The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white nylon embroidered in seed pearls, her shoulder veil of tulle illusion being held in place by a bandeau of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses. Mrs. George Lorne, as matron of honor was gowned in pale green nylon, with cap and short veil of matching shade, her bouquet was white carnations. Darleen Marshall little daughter of the groom wore a floor length gown of pink nylon, her nosegay being of small pink flowers. Mr. George Lorne was best man and Mr. Brian O'Hara and Mr. Archie Marshall were ushers. Following the ceremony. A reception was held in the Church Hall. The newlyweds left for a motor trip through Northern New York State, the bride travelling in navy blue dress, white top coat and navy blue accessories. On their return they will take up residence in Huntingdon. Out of town guests who attended the wedding were from Toronto, Montreal, Verdun, Bury and Sherbrooke.

You may not notice it in your own home . . . but day by day rugs get dirty.

Soot and household fumes cause stiffness and discoloration, tracked-in grit cuts fibres, making rugs look thin and patchy. The damage dirt does shows when your friends look at your rugs.

Let us give new life and glowing beauty to your rugs with personal care, skilled hands make your rugs bright, springy, and fresh again.

Call HUNTINGDON DRY CLEANERS now . . . so you'll be proud the next time friends look down. For prompt and courteous pick-up, Phone CO. 4-5440.

Franklin Centre

FRANKLIN CENTRE — Mrs. Earl McNiece returned home after spending the past month with Mr. John and Miss Libbie Waddell.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hope and family of Allans Corners, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray McMillan.

A High-C. meeting was held at the Manse on Saturday evening. Miss Dorothy Rivers was the guest speaker at the regular meeting, after which refreshments were served, including a specially decorated Cake made by Mrs. Sherrington, Jr. in honour of President Billy Stevenson who is leaving shortly for Macdonald College.

Mr. Ross Goldie of Aylmer, Que. spent Thanksgiving holiday with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hewson of Montreal, spent Saturday with Mrs. Clarence Blair and Miss Cora Blair. Evening guests at the same home were Mr. and Mrs. Fergus Moore and family of Lacolle.

Mr. Walter Hope of Sudbury, Ont., is spending some time with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Hope.

Mr. Dan Leahy returned home from Montreal General Hospital, on Tuesday, much improved in health.

Guests over the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Clarke Sr. were Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Lewis and Mrs. Mason of Huntingdon, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Smith and son Tom of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Clarke Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. David Green of Sherbrooke.

Miss Patricia Mathers returned home on Monday from an enjoyable trip with her parents and brother, Tommy to Toronto, Niagara Falls, The Thousand Islands and other points of interest.

Miss Nina Dickenson, N. I. T., spent Sunday night and Monday at her home here.

Mrs. Ada Ryan of Montreal is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Leahy.

Recent guests of Mrs. E. M Sharpe and daughter Miss Dorothy were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McNiece, Mr. and Mrs. Buckingham from the Town of Mount Royal Mrs. Don Doe from Granby, Que. Mr. and Mrs. Chester Waddell and Mr. Clinton Waddell from Covey Hill.

The regular monthly meeting of the Franklin W. I. was held on Friday evening, Oct. 3rd, at the home of Mrs. R. J. Blair with a good attendance of members and guests present.

It was announced that Lois Ann Moneypenny is the recipient of the $50 Bursary this year. Lois Ann is now a student at the Montreal High School for girls, the Franklin W. I. wish her every success.

The Treasurer, Mrs. P. Baxter reported that $79 was realized from the Booth at Havelock Fair.

Conveners Report followed : Agriculture — Mrs. Robt. Barr. Home Economics, Mrs. Frank Rowe and Publicity Miss Frances Eccles.

Current Events — Mrs. F. H. Clarke spoke on the United Nations, its meaning and the work it does for the betterment of mankind. A debate followed Do modern women work harder than did our grandmothers ? Mrs. Edmund Sproule then introduced Mr. R. J. Blair, Mayor of Franklin Centre, who gave a very interesting outline of the recent trip, along with the Mayors of the various Quebec municipalities, on the S. S Tadoussac, up the Saguenay River, to the Lake St. John District and spoke of the various places of interest visited on this trip, such as Roberval, Alma, and Norandin. Mrs. Sproule, on behalf of the members and guests present thanked Mr. Blair for his address.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

On Tuesday evening Sept. 30 1958 the Bible Society meeting was held in the Franklin Centre United Church. The Executive which is Mr. J. O. Gamble, president and Mr. Stanley McNeil, Sec.-Treas. were present to represent the Rockburn-Rennie Branch. The Franklin Officers were re-elected for the coming year, viz-President Mr. Thomas Greenway, Sec.-Treasurer, Mrs. Ralph Johnson. Mr. Stanley McNeil resigned as Sec.-Treas. and Mr. Keith Rennie was appointed in his place.

Mr. T. Dale Jones, District Secretary of the British and Foreign Bible Society, Montreal, was present, and gave an interesting talk on the work of the Society and also showed a film.

A very small attendance was present.

The Collectors for this year were as follows.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Johnson	$28.75
Patricia Mathers	18.50
Shirley Dunn	6.50
Shirley Stevenson	5.50
Mrs. Howard Blair	4.00
	$63.25
Evening offering	3.35
TOTAL	$66.60

One of the oldest Franklin Centre buildings, the blacksmith shop, was completely destroyed by fire early Wednesday morning, Oct. 1st, about 1 o'clock, cause unknown.

The original builder and owner was the late Alex McMillan who sold it when unable to work at his trade any longer, to Mr. Philip Prevost who in turn sold to Mr. Simon Bourdon the present owner, who built an addition to the old building and installed different machinery for different kinds of work; all of this machinery was completely destroyed, nothing was saved. Some insurance was carried. His house across the highway was saved by the use of apple sprayers. Some of the telephone wires were burned which closed the Franklin circuit for a few hours.

On Friday evening, October 4th Miss Muriel McCartney was guest of honour at a Miscellaneous Shower held at the home of Miss Shirley Dunn.

On arrival Muriel was surprised to find some 35 classmates, teachers, relatives and friends awaiting her arrival. After being presented with a pretty corsage Muriel was escorted to her gaily decorated chair.

Mandy, the minature bride, made up of many kitchen utensils, was next presented to the bride elect, with Mrs. E. Campbell, Ormstown, reading a humorous poem describing Mandy, the miniature bride.

Miss Betty Lindsay then drew in a wagon bearing three decorated boxes. These were topped with a small bride and groom and represented a huge wedding cake. Muriel graciously thanked all for the many varied and useful gifts which she found inside the imitation cake.

Previous to a game of fashioning a modelling "going away" hat, for the bride, Mrs. Murray McCartney and Mrs. Alan Hooker favoured all with a duet.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses, assisted by Lyla and Betty Lindsay and Mrs. Stanley McNeil.

All departed wishing Muriel much future happiness.

The Harvest Thanksgiving service was observed in the Anglican Church on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 5th, Rev. Buck of Beauharnois - Chateauguay Church was the guest speaker.

The Ladies Guild of the Anglican Church made $63.82 at their Booth at Havelock Fair this year. This was a remarkable success from so few members.

Mrs. Mildred McMillan left the hospital a couple of weeks ago and is now spending some time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Smith, at Valleyfield.

Mrs. Kenneth Brooks returned home from the hospital a couple of weeks ago and is now convalescing at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Allen and 3 children of Montreal and Mr. and Mrs. Harley Parkingson of Chateauguay, spent the week end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Brooks.

Mrs. Harold Stevenson entertained six of her daughter Shirley's classmates on Tuesday evening, in honour of her birthday. Several games were played, refreshments were served with the usual birthday cake and a very pleasant time was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Kenneth McNiece held a birthday party for her little daughter Judy on Thursday afternoon. A very pleasant time was enjoyed by all the little ones, also the refreshments and treats.

The C. G. I. T. met at the school on Tuesday, Helen Rowe led the meeting. Sheila Stevenson played their hymn and Pat McMillan led the Devotional.

Mrs. J. Manning read a very interesting story of how the C. G. I. T. group originated.

It was decided to buy 50 new Hymn Books for the Church.

A committee was picked for selecting games for the Hallowe-en party viz: Margaret Manning Sheila Stevenson and Mary Dunn. After a few games the meeting closed.

Mrs. J. W. Ryan of Montreal is spending a few days with Mrs. Dan Leahy.

Dulles To Talk With Chiang Kai-shek On Major Policies

U.S. State Secretary Dulles intended to seek a clear understanding with President Chiang Kai-shek this week on major policies in countering Communist China's political offensive against Formosa.

Officials at Washington predicted the result of the meetings at Taipei will be to strengthen relations between the Nationalist government and Washington. They also expected the talks to reduce the chance that the Chinese Communists will be successful in driving a wedge between the two allies.

These officials said the Communists' purpose in maintaining a ceasefire around the offshore island of Quemoy undoubtedly was to break up the alliance between the Nationalists and the U.S.

Dulles left Washington last Friday to represent the United States at the funeral of Pope Pius XII in Rome. He was due in Taipei by midweek.

There was speculation that Dulles would try to persuade Chiang to reduce the size of Nationalist forces on the coastal islands of Quemoy and Matsu, now totalling more than 100,000 men. President Eisenhower and Dulles both have said recently they think Chiang's present troop deployment is wrong — Dulles used the word "foolish". He was prepared to argue that the defence of the offshore islands could be made more efficient if the garrisons were smaller.

Nationalist Stand

But in Taipei, on the Nationalists' island stronghold of Formosa, Chiang was expected to reiterate the Nationalists' determination to hold the offshore islands.

Kiang Yi-seng, the nationalists' foreign ministry spokesman, said the purpose of Dulles' visit is to "further implement the existing U.S.-Nationalist China mutual defence treaty." Article 4 of this treaty provides for constant consultations between foreign ministers of both countries on matters relating to the defence of Formosa, the Pescadores and related areas.

Nationalist sources said Chiang would make it clear he will not give up the Quemoy island group. The Quemoys, just off the mainland China coast, were under heavy Communist artillery bombardment from Aug. 23 until the Communists declared a ceasefire Oct. 5.

Cardinal Dies

As world diplomats were gathering in Rome for the funeral of Pope Pius XII, cardinals of the Roman Catholic church saw their numbers reduced to 52 by the death of Celso Cardinal Constantini, 82-year-old Italian prelate.

The cardinals on Saturday will start their conclave to elect a new Pope. A two-thirds-plus-one vote is necessary.

Troops Withdrawn.

The defence ministry at London announced the withdrawal of British troops from Jordan would start this week. About 3,000 British troops had moved into Jordan at the request of King Hussein following the coup in Iraq on July 14.

The British announcement said the withdrawal of the British troops should be completed by the middle of November. The troops will be transported to Cyprus and Kenya.

De Gaulle Victory

Premier Charles de Gaulle appears to have crushed the strength of European extremists in Algeria and asserted his control in that French territory.

He told the army to keep out of politics and ordered officers to resign from the committees of public safety that had successfully defied the Paris government during the crisis last spring, helping de Gaulle to become premier.

The civilian elements on these committees in Algeria, knowing the army was their real strength, ordered a general strike and a protest rally in Algiers. Both fizzled out, as the army continued to obey de Gaulle. Elections are to be held throughout the French Union on Nov. 23 to pick a new president — de Gaulle is widely predicted as the choice — and a new national assembly.

Great Achievement

The United States' rocket to the moon didn't reach there; it went about one-third of the distance, fell back into the earth's atmosphere and disintegrated.

But in less than two days flight, the pioneer space vehicle reached an altitude of 79,120 miles, more than 27 times greater than any previous mark; attained the fantastic speed of 23,450 miles an hour, and marked the first time man has been able to measure radiation above 25,000 miles.

The achievement was still the greatest in the space age. Scientists, jubilant at the results, prepared for another rocket firing next month which they hope will achieve an orbit around the moon.

Air Patrol Epic

A U.S. Navy Atlantic radar patrol plane crashed with 29 men aboard in Placentia Bay, Nfld., on Friday night.

One crew member was killed and 18 were rescued. Listed as missing were the other 10, trapped inside the plane which remained floating in choppy waters a half-mile offshore, with only one wing tip showing above the surface, as rescue boats struggled in fog and rain.

The big four-engined Super Constellation nose-dived into the bay after missing the runway at the U.S. naval base at Argentia, 75 miles southeast of St. John's.

This particular plane was engaged in transferring personnel from the naval air station at Patuxent, Md. Normally, an undisclosed number of such planes are used on 14-hour patrols of the Atlantic radar barrier, heavily loaded with radar and other electronic equipment. They cover an area from Newfoundland to somewhere near the Azores, in a constant watch for unidentified ships and aircraft.

South African Invention Used By Russians In Sputnik III

The "Spinning Jimmy" invented at the University of the Witwatersrand in Johannesburg, is whirling around the earth in Russia's Sputnik III — telling Soviet scientists about conditions in outer space.

The "Rand Daily Mail" reports that an announcement to this affect was made by the University on October 8.

According to a Russian report, the "Spinning Jimmy", or electrostatic fluxmeter, is part of the key equipment in the Sputnik.

It was invented ten years ago by Dr. D. J. Malan, Senior Research Scientist at the Bernard Price Institute for Geophysics in Johannesburg, and Dr. Basil Schonland, who was Director of the Institute and is now Director of the Atomic Energy Institute at Harwell in England.

"We are proud," Dr. Malan said. "The Russians must have picked it up from a paper we published in Britain in 1950. It took us about three years to develop — and a lot of trouble. We needed something to measure the very quick changes in static electricity which occur duirng a lightning flash".

A translation of the Moscow report, which was issued by a special committee of the International Geophysical Year, lay in the Bernard Price Institute for several weeks before the Director, Professor A. L. Hales, read it. "I came across it quite by accident", Professor Hales said. "So much material comes from the International Geophysical Year that one cannot read it all. If this had not been the first write-up from Russia I might have missed it altogether".

There are two "Spinning Jimmys" in the Sputnik. They may, according to Professor Hales, solve the mystery of the aurorae, the Northern and Southern lights. These coloured lights have been described as "staggeringly beautiful, changing, moving, melting". And while the "Spinning Jimmys" circle the earth in the Sputnik, the prototype lies on the roof of the Bernard Price Institute in Johannesburg.

RE: POPPY FUND

This year instead of our usual letter to friends of our "Poppy Fund" we are making this appeal through the columns of The Gleaner.

Your contributions provide quick help for needy veterans and their dependents in time of need and emergency.

We hope that we can thereby raise sufficient funds to maintain this "Worthy Fund" and we feel sure that all those who have generously supported the Poppy Fund in the past will do so again this year.

As you are aware, the Fund is administered by a Board of Trustees comprised of Messrs. W. K. Philps, Robert Rolfe and R. C. Morrison.

Huntingdon High School Notes

Magazine Campaign

The annual Magazine Campaign which was run from September 29 to October 15 proved to be extremely successful due to the efforts of several students and the co-operation of local citizens. A sum of $957.25 was brought in, in comparison to $505 last year. Special mention should be made of students who sold over $30 worth of subscriptions. These students are Lillian Moore, Sandra Leggett, Doreen Rutherford, Marsha Hooker, and Dorothy Forget.

Student Council Assembly

On October 17th the Students' Council of Huntingdon High School held an assembly. The Assembly was opened by the singing of "Come Ye Thankful People Come". Kerry Johnson then led in prayer, followed by the Scripture Reading by Susan Ferns. Gordon Ferry introduced this year's council members as follows:

Pres. Dawn Graham; Vice-Pres., Kerry Johnson; Sec., Susan Ferns; Treas. Billy Middlemiss; Social Convenor, Susan Faille; Gr. 6A, Barry Sadegourksy; Gr. 6B, Daryll Johnson; Gr. 7, Marsha Hooker; Gr. 7 and 8, Lindsay Watson; Gr. 8, Dorothy Forget; Gr. 9, Frank Wilmot; Gr. 10, Gordon Ferry; Gr. 11, Sandra Stark.

Millie Caldwell, this year's manager of the Magazine Campaign, then announced the prize winners of the Campaign, who came forward to select their various prizes. The singing of the hymn "Sing to the Lord of Harvest" followed. Mr. Melnyk was then called upon to say a few words, followed by a report of Coming Student Council Activities, by Dawn Graham.

The Assembly closed with the singing of "God Save the Queen".

UNICEF

This year the Students of Huntingdon High School are participating in the UNICEF project.

MONTREAL (CP) — The parks department reported attendance at the Lafontaine Park children's zoo exceeded 500,000 for the summer season, a record.

What Makes A Woman Buy?

Sellers not only have to study consumer preferences but the degree of such preferences in order to press for more business, Dr. L. E. Drayton of the Economics Division, Canada Department of Agriculture, told an audience at the National Dairy Council annual Convention, held recently in Montreal.

Preferences vary considerably in intensity at different times, he said.

A housewife buying milk in a store where two brands are sold may have tried both and found no recognizable differences between them. Nevertheless she buys one of the two and thereby makes a choice.

The most trivial thing may have determined her decision, such as a desire for variety. Many so-called "impulse" purchases are so motivated, showing that low intensity preferences are prevalent in shopping practices.

The same housewife choosing between butter and margarine may have strong convictions that butter is better for her and her family in choosing that commodity. She will probably continue to buy it instead of margarine even if it costs 10 times as much as the substitute because her intensity of preference is high, said the economist.

The forces leading to changes in buying habits are several, including merchandising practices, advertisements and social pressures. Becoming accustomed to specific foods is another powerful factor which indicates that the present strong preference for butter over its substitutes will weaken as time goes on, said Dr. Drayton. He thought it possible that housewives induced to use margarine for a few weeks would continue to buy it.

He described taste panels, sales tests and random sampling used as means of finding the characteristics of consumer preferences. Pyschologists have recently entered this field claiming that the housewife does not know why she buys what she does buy so that direct questioning such as used in some surveys are useless.

They advocate questioning in depth in a kind of motivational research using tools borrowed from the psychiatrist and the clinical pathologist.

Such a method would be dangerous in unskilled hands thought Dr. Drayton, but motivational and general survey methods do have their uses, depending on how far a planned campaigns is to go.

opened and cleaned. The material passes through a cleaning chamber which consists of a shaft to which is attached a number of blades or beaters. The cotton passes through a chamber and is beaten against grid bars which is part of this chamber and here the impurities or heavy particles are removed or extracted. It then passes through two other machines of air cleaning type and here heavy particles and impurities are removed by the blowing of the cotton onto a screen and the holes in the screen are large enough to permit droppings of the above-mentioned impurities. It is then fed by fan to the Pickers.

Process 3 Picking

By passing through a process of beaters, the cotton is given an additional cleaning and opening which makes it fluffier. It is then fed onto a lattice and formed into a uniform sheet of a given thickness and wound onto a roll to form what is known as a lap. To control quality, these sheets must be uniform throughout. The average weight per yard of this material is approximately 15 oz. with very slight tolerance.

Process 4 Carding

These machines comprise a large cylinder, a small sylinder and a series of tops or flats. These machine parts are covered with very fine steel wire teeth and are designed to give the cotton a vigorous combing and cleaning eliminating small impurities and a number of short fibres or what is known as waste. At this operation the cotton takes the form of a web and then it is formed into a sliver or rope form which is deposited into a can ready for the next operation which is Drawing.

Process 5 Drawing

The purpose of this process is to lay the slivers parallel and also to bring the fibres parallel and into a more uniform sliver. To get the best results and a more even product, two sets of drawing is used. At the first process, the card sliver is fed at the back of the drawing, eight ends which are drafted into one at the front of the drawing, then eight of these are accumulated and processed through a second line of drawing in order to finish up with as even a piece of sliver as can be expected. In other words, the total number of ends required to get a finished piece of drawing sliver is 64.

Process 5 A Sliver Lap

Where comb sliver is required, the process here is sliver lap machines. These machines take 20 ends of sliver from the card and places them parallel to each other on a roll which is called the sliver lap and this put-up is ready to be fed in at the Combers.

Process 5 B Combers

The comber is used where high quality weaving, especially knitting yarns, is required. The comber takes the parallel sliver lap and by passing through a series of rolls and comb, the fibres are combed so that they are all parallel and here also some of the short fibres are removed, also foreign matter which has not been removed up to this stage. The amount of short fibres removed is governed by the quality of the product required. Six of these laps are fed into one which is 120 ends of sliver, then drafted and condensed into one and it is now ready for the Drawing frame. This sliver then receives the same treatment as in Process 5.

Process 6 Roving

These machines are used to draw the sliver into a smaller form and here for the first time a slight twist is added. After going through a series of rolls, it runs through a flyer and is wound onto a bobbin which is a satisfactory package for the Spinning frames.

Process 7 Spinning

Here is where the yarn is made. — By passing one or two rovings through a series of rolls with one running faster than the other thus permitting the required draft, as the yarn leaves the front roll and the speed which the spindle is turning with the speed delivered from the front roll, the yarn is wound onto a bobbin by the yarn travelling around a ring by means of the yarn hooked up through a steel traveler running on a steel ring. This yarn is then ready for other put-ups depending on its final use.

Process 8 Spooling

In spooling, the yarn from the spinning bobbin is wound onto a roll or cheese as it is called and at this process, a snick plate device is used to remove any slubs or heavy pieces which may be in the yarn. The yarn is now ready for the following process.

Process 9 Warping

The job of warping is to take a number of ends and lay them parallel onto a beam or large spool as it could be called. This is generally used for weaving and normally it is the length of the cloth that is known as yarn on warper beams.

Process 10 Twisting

The job of twisting is to take two, three or more threads together and form them into one single strand thus making it stronger. This means that one single end of 10's which is equivalent to three ends of 30 and the latter being twisted together would be stronger than the 10's even though they are both equivalent in size.

Process 11 Winding

At this winding process, the finished yarn in whatever state it may be, twisted or single, is put up on a satisfactory package conforming to customer's specification depending on the end use of the yarn.

Inspection

After the yarn is wound on cones, it is picked up by a yarn man and brought to an inspection table. The inspector puts his mark on the cone and makes sure that every cone is labelled and that no defects are seen on both top and bottom of cone. If any cones have defects, they are sent back for rewinding to have the defects removed after being shown to the operator. All inspected cones are then wrapped and packed into cases which are weighed, stored and ready for shipping.

Re-Inspection

An inspector takes fully packed cases and opens them and inspects every cone and re-wraps them. This is to detect any discrepancies on the part of the inspectors.

Ormstown High School Notes

Grade XII Class :

O. H. S. is fortunate this year in having the largest Grade XII Class in the history of the school. Realizing that, in our present stages of economic development, an additional year of high school training is practically essential to success in the work-a-day world, twelve students are registered in the studies of this grade. With calibre to match their determination all members of the class are diligently endeavouring to make a success of their year. An interesting factor to be noted in the situation is that the students have arrived from various localities, both far and near. Peter Sutton, Joyce Begbie, Mildred Bryson and Mrs. Roberta Brocklehurst are from Ormstown; Joe Davignon from Huntingdon; Preston Roberts lives in Brownsburg; Don Robinson came to us from Lacolle; Grant Rogers from Lachute; Murray Shapcott, coming from St. Eustache sur la Lac; Dick Webster's home is in Three Rivers; Jolene Denison from Denison's Mills; and Norma Dunn from Franklin Centre. O. H. S. wishes Grade XII the best of success in its worthy endeavour.

Excursion :

Wednesday, October 4th, Miss Davidson and Mr. Greenbank accompanied quite a few of the Grade 8 and 9 students, on an 95 — mile trip to Chrysler, Ont., to view the International Ploughing Match and Farm Machinery Demonstration.

Travelling by charter bus, we arrived there around 10 A. M. where we saw a veritable tented city. In one tent there was a very exciting sight, The Dancing Waters. In another, we saw the Craig Family give their broadcast.

Before dinner, however, we spent most of the time watching the ploughing, some of which was excellent, while some was of a lower standard. In either case, it took them a long time to plough a small piece of land. The farm machinery exposition, too, caught our attention, but there was not too much time to inspect it properly.

We were all tired and footsore when we arrived back at O. H. S. It was a day well spent and some of us at least will remember it when we are ploughing on our own farms. Contributed by Phyllis Todd and McRae Nussey.

7-2-11 Club :

The 7-2-11 Club held its first meeting of the year on Tuesday evening, March 14th, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Roland Anderson, the President. Quite a large representation of parents and teachers was present at this meeting.

After the business session, an outline of the courses offered to students in Grades 7-12 inclusive was given by the principal, Mr. C. Moore. Following this, teachers and parents assembled in their individual class rooms for a general discussion period.

At the conclusion of the meeting, delicious refreshments were served by the Executive.

Prize Giving :

On Saturday evening, October 25th, the annual prize-giving exercises will be held in the Auditorium of the High School commencing at 8.00 P.M. Mr. Wendell Roberts, Principal of the Beaconsfield High School, will be the guest speaker. All parents and friends are cordially invited to attend this function.

The Young Parents' Club will hold their first meeting of the year on Tuesday evening, October 28th, at 8.00 P. M.

Valleyfield

VALLEYFIELD — Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Johnson, Dorothy and Charlene, spent the Thanksgiving holiday with Mrs. Johnson's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. George Platt of Berwyn, Pa. Mr. Johnson who is President of the Institute of Power Engineers for Canada attended a meeting in Toronto on the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Carr attended a reunion at Macdonald College, on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric King and Bobby of Pointe Claire, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Ferris on Sunday.

Attending a meeting of the Provincial Assoc. of Protestant School Boards at Shawinigan Falls, last week were Mr. John Ferris, Mr. R. D. McEachern, Mr. Norman Clifford, Mr. Robert Lang and Mr. Percy Parry.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McCuaig and Bruce and Mrs. Wm. White have returned home from a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Rose of Sherbrooke.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clifford and Joan attended the Rice Petty wedding in Cornwall, on Friday evening.

Beware Of Fallen Leaves

With late autumn now upon us, the motorist must always be on the lookout for the hidden dangers of fallen leaves, strewn across the streets and highways, says Prudentia. The hidden dangers lie in the fact that though the leaves appear to be dried out, the underneath side is wet and a very possible danger of skidding, and an eventual accident. When approaching a stop-light or an intersection or when following another car, if you spot any patches of leaves then beware. The advice is worth your while, Mr. Motorist.

FREDERICTON (CP) — The 50th anniversary meeting of the Canadian Institute of Forestry here Oct. 5-8 will be presided over by G.W.I. Creighton, deputy lands and forests minister of Nova Scotia.

Editorial Notes

The Butter Stocks

WE note from a recent news item that butter stocks in Canada have reached a high proportion in relation to the demand and the government is offering butter to the trade for distribution at a price of 64c Montreal. This means that the Government will return to the trade the butter they have accumulated at the same price that it was purchased during the season of heavy production, without the usual carrying charges, which is reckoned at about ½ cent per month. This should mean a reduction of at least 2 or 3 cents per pound at the retail level.

However, in the past when these stocks got unwieldy, they have been usually sold to countries overseas at a loss to the Canadian Government. We feel that any benefit to be accrued, should be given to the Canadian consumer. Our reason for this is that the support price paid in the first place came from taxation and if there is money to be saved, the Canadian consumer, or taxpayer, should be given first priority. That is a ruling should be made that any butter sold to the wholesaler at a lower price, should be sold to the consumer at an equally lower price. This should not be allowed to be a chance for the in-betweens to make a larger slice of profit at the expense of the consumer and the taxpayer. If such be allowed, then the consumer is paying twice for the same product.

No one minds the farmer having a fair price for his product and this the support price is supposed to do. However, the consumer does mind being charged more than is due when it comes to a supported priced product being sold for less at wholesale level and this amount not being passed on. The reason for the price being lowered is to gain more sales for the product and so unload the stocks in storage before they have to be sold for soap or some other such product because it has become unfit for human consumption. We believe it is wise on the part of the government to reduce the price of an overstocked product to such proportion that it will readily sell, rather than it should go stale and be wasted. Too much food is wasted and this should not be allowed. If butter can be sold abroad at a low price, we maintain it can be sold at home on the same basis. The thing is, it should be made known that for a certain period of time present stocks of butter held in storage will be sold at a certain price. If this is done we feel that the people will be pleased to co-operate in buying up these stocks in preference to many of the butter substitutes that are being sold.

There is no need for butter to be held in storage until there is danger that it might not be fit for sale. We feel sure that people prefer to use butter and especially so if a special offering is made and they know about it. To do this is common sense salesmanship and will avoid a waste that may cost the government and the taxpayer a considerable amount of cold hard cash. It is in these things that the government can show economies. That there will be a loss, is a foregone conclusion in cases like this, but it need not be a total loss. Furthermore if the taxpayer, or the consumer, is given the benefit of the lower price, then the ultimate loss is much lower.

It is to be hoped that the government will make the point of price much clearer in the future, in order that the consumer may know about what he should pay for butter that has been so released. Our belief is that with the government releasing this butter in this way, that the price to the consumer will be a few cents per pound less and thus present a saving.

The important fact which should not be lost sight of is, that it is the taxpayers' money that is paying the support price in the first place.

Those Stamps And Premiums Again!

SOMETHING which this newspaper has mentioned many times, is in the spotlight of an investigation being carried out by a Royal Commission on Price Spreads of Food Products at the present time. This is the use of Trading Stamps and Premiums as an urge to consumer purchasing. It is being lashed out at by the Canadian Association of Consumers, who charge in a brief being presented, that these items boost prices.

Time and time again this newspaper in its editorial columns has said the same thing. Some of the greatest users of the premium-offer schemes are the makers of soap and soap powders and the makers of cereal foods. Other manufacturers of other commodities and food products have fallen into line because of the pressure of competition and the smaller store keepers have taken on the stamp idea for a similar purpose. Everyone is familiar with the saving of box tops, bottle caps and so forth, which together with a small sum will secure some sort of premium which is never sold in the stores, or again which might be sold in a store, but at a much higher price. Or perhaps a small premium is packed in the package with the goods, but at a slightly increased price. There are a number of ways in which these offers are made, all with the idea of getting the consumer to purchase a certain brand of goods at a certain time. Sometimes the appeal is made through the children, knowing that most parents will buy the goods for the sake of the child.

We do not say that these offers boost the price of a product in all cases, but we do feel that they tend to keep the prices of goods at a higher level. If the goods offered need an extra premium in order to induce the consumer to purchase them, it does not say much for the product. It would seem to point out that the price of the product is too high for the value received and therefore a buyers' resistance is against the sale of the product. Thus, the thing to do would be to offer the product at a lower price and pass any savings on to the consumer as a fairer practice. Or if the idea is to increase sales and be fair about it, then why not one at the regular price and two for price and half or price and two thirds. Instead then of the consumer buying only one, he would buy two and really be conscious of getting a saving. However, this should be entirely optional and not as in many cases now, two are packaged together and must be bought that way.

The idea of special prices on certain lines of goods is a fair one — a buyer knows he pays regular a certain price for a certain brand of goods, but on occasion this brand is offered a few cents less than regular and known as a "special", he knows he is getting a bargain, or a saving. Shrewd buyers are naturally on the look out for these savings.

In the case of Trading Stamps, there is apparently no extra cost to the consumer to receive these stamps and by saving them over a period he can obtain a certain article in exchange for them. In a sense there is no extra cost involved and except for the inconvenience of saving the stamps and pasting them in a book, keeping track of the value and then either taking them or sending them to a premium store, they are obtained for nothing. The cost is involved with the store doing business in this manner. These stamps and these premiums do cost something and the people handling this business get paid for the stamps and the premiums, they would have to, for they all cost them something too. They also expect to make a profit out of it, or they could not stay in the business. Who pays? The store which is giving out the stamps as premiums to its customers. How is the cost absorbed? Well it is supposed to be absorbed in the additional volume of business which accrues to the store through the offering of the stamps and the increase in gross profits. This extra profit is supposed to take care of the additional cost of doing business. What it does not do is, there can be no reduction in prices of goods because it is costing the storekeeper more to operate his business. If his costs keep up he cannot lower prices.

You may depend upon it that no one is giving something away, commonsense tells you this could not go on for very long and the stores remain in business. A quick turnover will earn a business more in profits so that it may be able to sell at a lower price and still retain a fair margin of profit. Anything which tends to increase the cost of operating a business is not going to lower prices. Thus when premiums of any kind are offered, there is a tendency to increase operating costs, even though the sales volume may be increased. Fair values and fair prices are much more likely to induce satisfied customers and keep them coming.

We shall not know for some time, but it will be interesting to learn the results of this investigation now being carried on by the Royal Commission.

The Banks Getting Into The Consumer Lending Business

AS the years have progressed insofar as banking is concerned, people have come to have greater faith in this method of dealing in money. In earlier years, a bank was just a place to keep money where it would be protected and safe instead of keeping it in boot boxes and under mattresses. Today it is hard to say just what would happen if all our banks were suddenly to close down, so important have they become. In those early days there was always the possibility of a bank failure and the people using such a bank would possibly lose much, if not all of their deposits. This oftentimes meant the loss of a lifetime's savings. If word of an impending bank failure leaked out, a run would be made on such bank to withdraw the money that had been deposited. This also would cause a failure, even though there need not have been, for banks did not always have a sufficient supply of money to pay out all its depositors in cash at one time.

Government regulations came into effect with the idea of protecting people's deposits and to prevent failures. Today a bank failure is an almost unheard of event. During the depression of 1929, our banks remained strong and were able to meet the demands of all depositors. Much of this strength lies in the fact that the banks were very careful in the investments they made and have built up strong reserves to meet emergencies if they should come about. As a result, people have a great confidence in the banks today and our banking institutions are considered of the very best.

Large firms and people in lesser circumstances use the banks for their financial transactions in numerous ways. Many loans are made to people who can prove ability to repay them, but this means that there must be reasonable security for such loans. By means of these loans and other such transactions, the banks make their profit and the expenses of doing business.

Money lenders have been in existence for many years and many are the stories about these people in earlier days. So bad were these tales, that anyone getting into the grips of the money lenders was considered to be hopelessly lost. It was to this type of person that the desperate borrower would turn, when unable to obtain money from a bank. Today there are institutions which will lend varying sums of money to people on signature alone, which is repayable over a period at small monthly sums. These companies have found that most people are honest and repay their loans, so there is a very small amount of actual loss. Cars and other such things involving a large amount of money are financed through such companies, or similar concerns.

The banks hitherto have had little to do with such types of lending, but the time has come when they too are gradually entering into this field of financing. Security for such loans is usually against the article being purchased, or on the furnishings, or other chattels of the person receiving the loan. This type of loan business has reached large proportions and is big business today. No doubt the banks feel that they have been losing out on this business and should place their facilities at the disposal of those desiring to obtain loans of this kind. Banks have been restricted by regulations as to the amount of interest that can be charged for loans, but apparently a scheme has been worked out whereby they can enter this field with a degree of safety. The interest rate charged by finance institutions is usually much higher than that charged by a bank, the risk involved is much greater and these institutions must protect themselves against possible loss from bad payers and so forth. However, people are willing to pay the higher interest rates in order to obtain that which they feel they require. It is quite possible that more people will turn to the banks for this type of financing in the future in the belief that there may be savings in such transactions.

Banks in England recently announced that they would be making personal loans up to £500 to responsible persons on signature alone. This is certainly an innovation in that country, where the banks have always maintained a stiffness in all their dealings. The so called poor man had to rely upon the Post Office Savings Bank, or the so-called "Penny Banks" for his dealings in banking — far different to the advantages offered in this country. There is no doubt that many people there will take advantage of the plan to make loans and there is great possibility that it will provide stimulus to business in all parts of England.

Credit has always been used extensively in Canada and without it, it is doubtful if the country would have progressed as rapidly as it has. The so called consumer credit is a more or less new phase, but it has become a regular part of practically all business dealings today. It too has been a stimulus to general business and it is very doubtful indeed if so many cars and other articles would be sold, if such credit were not extended.

"I had it all arranged", exclaimed Purdy with indignation. "I have a practicable bridge made of logs and trees picked up along the river bank, and all I need to save my men is a regiment to prevent attack while they step over it. Once in line on the other bank we would fear no foe. But no! the General disregards my request, selfishly retires to camp and leaves my command to perish".

"Not so bad as that", interjected Vanderberg.

"Yes", retorted Purdy, as he tightened his belt and more firmly fixed his hat, "you know not what we came through last night — but I will fight it out".

Ordering soldiers to lift the wounded man and carry him along, the word to fall in was given. Morton was lost in a maze and did not move. In assisting the soldiers to lift her patient Maggie saw him and blushed deeply. In response to Vanderberg's cry to hurry he started to leave, when there appeared at the doorway the frail form of Mrs. Forsyth. "God be gude to us, if this is no Morton. Oh, but I'm glad to see you and sa will the gudeman who is oot now. You're no for leaving! You will bide wi' us?"

"I am sorry, I cannot".

"But ye maun. Ye dinna ken hoo yer takin' awa' concerned us and pit us aboot".

"You forget I am a prisoner".

"Prisoner! You are nae prisoner. You're noo in oor house an' you'll just stay here an' let thae Yankees gae their ain gait".

"I am afraid they would insist on taking me with them".

"Hoots, man, I'll haud ye. Maggie, do you ken Morton's come?"

"Yes, mother; I saw him".

"Weel, come ower and mak' him stay, an' no gang back to be bullyragged by a wheen Yankees".

Maggie made no reply, but turned to avoid the gaze of the Americans, who halted, attracted by the scene at the door and her mother's words. Morton also felt mortified at the situation.

"Thank you, Mrs. Forsyth, but I must go; and tell your husband and sons I never forget them and never will". Eluding her grasp he followed Colonel Vanderberg, who stood outside the door with laughing countenance. He had not gone far when a swift step was heard behind and his name was uttered. Turning he saw Maggie, who held out her right hand. "Take this", she said, "I may not see you — again". There was a sob as she uttered the last word. He grasped what she held out to him, and before he could say a word she had turned and fled to the house. Morton held the object up to the light of the first camp-fire. It was his signet-ring.

More perplexed than ever, angry with Maggie, angry with himself, he braced himself and followed the Colonel in silence until the spot was reached where they had landed. The raft was there, but not a soldier in sight. "We shall have to navigate ourselves", said the Colonel, as he jumped on the raft and lifted the pole. A bullet wizzed overhead. "That is why our boatman left. Jump on, Morton, the enemy is creeping up the opposite bank". When they reached the centre of the stream another bullet splashed the water some yards below

The Week At Ottawa

OTTAWA, Oct. (CP) — Some 21,000 men and women in Canada's prisons are to get a new deal.

Attorneys-general or other appropriate ministers from 10 provinces gathered in the Capital last week and came to agreement with the federal government that some major changes in the country's penal system shall be made.

The main decision at the two-day meeting was that eventually — over perhaps a three-year period — the federal government will take over responsibility for all offenders sentenced to a year or more in prison. It now handles only those serving two years or more.

And all sentences of between six months and one year will be eliminated, so that provincial jails will handle only sentences up to six months. Federal penitentiaries would increase emphasis on reform, reducing the punitive element, and it was felt a proper job of reform could not be done in less than a year.

Terms No Longer

Justice Minister Fulton said elimination of six-to-12-month terms would not mean generally longer sentences. Judges would have to learn, by study of each convicted person, whether reform and the longer term is needed, or only punishment and the shorter sentence.

Possibly the most important outcome of the conference was unanimous agreement in principle that virtually all 44 recommendations in the 1955 Fauteux committee report on penal reform should be accepted as the basis for changes. These include broad suggestions for improvement of parole methods, for special institutions for alcoholics and for criminal and sexual psychopaths, and for a general switch of emphasis from punishment to reform.

Some 2,800 prisoners would have to be transferred from provincial to federal institutions raising the federal proportion of the 21,000 total prison population to 8,700. The federal outlay would be in the millions, providing better and specialized accommodation for its present and prospective increased penitentiary population.

New Member

Nova Scotia signed a hospital insurance agreement with the federal government to become the seventh province in the federal-provincial scheme.

The others are Ontario, British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Newfoundland. Nova Scotia's program becomes effective Jan. 1, the same date as Ontario's. Those of the other signatory provinces have been in effect since July 1.

Under the terms of the agreement, Nova Scotia's plan will not only provide insurance coverage for services in hospital but also will include one of the broadest ranges of out-patient services made available so far in any participating province.

Atomic Blast

The federal cabinet is expected within two or three weeks to give the go-ahead to advanced planning for a proposed nuclear blast under the rich Athabaska oil sands of Northern Alberta — reputed to be the world's biggest untapped oil reserve.

A mines department spokesman said Mines Minister Comtois will bring the proposal before cabinet. It is felt permission for the blast would be refused only if it could be construed as a violation of some international agreement or as dangerous.

Similar underground blasts have been set off in the United States, but this would be the first atomic blast ever produced in Canada and could come within two years.

It is expected, according to expert opinion, that the heat and pressure from a nuclear blast would melt the tar-like oil in the

"My Life Insurance man did a grand job for me, Ed"

All talk over the back fence isn't about sport, or politics, or television programs. Very often it's about such vital things as looking after the family and having enough money to retire on.

Your life insurance man is well equipped to solve these problems. He is trained to analyse all the facts about a family's future requirements. He serves Canadian families by offering practical plans to meet individual needs.

Life Insurance representatives have exceptional training opportunities today. Their own companies provide them with basic courses covering a wide variety of subjects.

Through the Life Underwriters Association of Canada they have access to the experience of many able men who have helped to make Canadians the world's best-insured people. This Association has a 2-year training program for its members. And, in addition, for those who desire to pursue more advanced studies, there is a 3-year university extension course leading to the Association's designation of Chartered Life Underwriter (C.L.U.)

This thorough training plus practical experience in helping people explains why millions of Canadians welcome the services of the modern Life Underwriter.

A Good Heating System Needs No Pampering: But Don't Neglect It

Nothing is taken more for granted these days than an automatic control heating system This aid to comfortable living, so much a part of modern living in Canada, is given mighty little consideration by many who buy a new house or by those who live in older homes.

That is, until the wintry winds start blowing.

Then, if for one reason or another, the house doesn't seem to warm up sufficiently, or some rooms remain ice-box cold, or if fuel costs start mounting, then dissatisfaction begins.

With winter on its way, it might be well to give a thought or two to things you can watch for or do to your heating system in order to make this winter a much more pleasant one.

You need not pamper a good heating system to keep it functioning well. But there are a few things you should do.

In hot water systems, for example, vent the radiators every fall and oil your circulator every three months. In forced warm air systems, change or clean your filters two or three times a year and oil your blower and blower motor.

It's also not a bad idea to check your system occasionally to see if it is functioning well. For example, check for soot in the combustion chamber if you have an oil burner and if there is a layer of black soot, then you know the fuel and air mixture is incorrect. This is a job for an oil heating serviceman.

If your blower doesn't run during most of the day in the heating season, lower your fan setting to get more nearly continuous fan operation. This gives better distribution and eliminates cold air layers.

The most important thing to do, however, is to have the heating system checked thoroughly once a year by a competent heating company.

Some Facts Of New Salaberry Mill

The new Salaberry Mill, Valleyfield, is the most modern textile plant in the world.

The Salaberry Mill was built for The Montreal Cottons Limited at a cost for construction and equipment of $6,000,000 — an expenditure of $35,000 for each employee.

Production at the Salaberry Mill is devoted to the manufacture of "sales yarns" — cotton yarns primarily for delivery to the knitting trades and also other sources.

Unique features of the new mill are the insulated wooden roof decks and three 250 ft. wells to ensure a constant supply of refrigerated water to the plant.

The building is fully air-conditioned throughout, including office and service space, an example of The Montreal Cottons policy of making clean, modern and pleasant surrounding for its employees.

The roof deck of the Salaberry Mill, insulated to keep a constant temperature within the mill, was fasioned from British Columbia spruce and the timbers have been specially treated to make them rotproof and almost entirely fire resistant.

Of steel frame with brick and concrete block wall construction, the Salaberry Mill is settled by concrete piles on a rock bed 15 feet below the marshy top clay. $3,500,000 of the total cost of the Salaberry Mill was absorbed in new equipment considered to be the most modern textile machinery today.

The 869 feet by 288 feet building encompasses some 232,892 square feet of floor space and houses a modern laboratory equipped with delicate instruments for rigorous product testing.

Notes From The Police Blotter

Two Accidents at Week-end

A car driven by James Kenneth Mahoney, Constable, N.Y., collided with two cows of the herd of Gilles Quenneville, St. Anicet on Sunday, October 19th, about 7.50 p.m. The car was proceeding along Route 3, in a westerly direction and the cows were being taken across the highway. One of the two cows valued at $200 sustained a broken jaw and will have be be slaughtered, the other apparently escaped injury. Damage to the car amounted to about $375.00.

An accident happened on the Black River Road on Sunday, October 19th, at about 12.45 p.m., involving a car and a truck both travelling in the same direction. The truck owned by Arthur Chartrand and driven by Jacques Chartrand, of St. Chrysostome, was proceeding west on the Black River Road, while a car driven by Rudolph Chartrand, also of St. Chrysostome, was travelling in front in the same direction. The car made a right hand turn and the truck hit the rear of the car, causing $75 damage to truck and $25 to the car. Constable Hirsch investigated both accidents.

Car Stolen in Hemmingford

A car belonging to Eddie Berthiuame of Hemmingford was stolen on the night of the 17th and reported to the police on the 18th. I was a 1949 Mercury and was recovered by the owner, but was found to have been stripped of several parts. Police are investigating the case.

Get Lights on Trucks in Order

With earlier hours of darkness, truck drivers and owners are warned to check the lights on their vehicles to see that all are in proper working order and the required number are installed. There must be three identification, clearance and two tail lights at the rear. Three identification, plus clearance lights in green in the front. All vehicles must have two tail lights, regardless of age. Police officers ask your co-operation in these matters and in order to avoid trouble from this source.

HOW TO SELECT BULBS FOR YOUR FALL GARDEN — They're easy to grow; no bother once they're planted and their display of spring colour will be your favourite attraction. Bulbs can be planted any time between the first of September and the last of November. The types of spring-flowering bulbs you plant depend on your personal preferences. Dolly Craig, our lovely mother prefers the fringed beauty of Parrot tulips and the ruffled loveliness of peony tulips. Dianne, her little daughter prefers the tall stately Darwin tulips, often called the Aristocrats of Tulipdom and the single early tulips, which are always the first out in the spring. Dutch bulbs are reasonably priced and so easy to grow that everyone can have all of their favourite varieties.

MALAK, Ottawa

How To Select Bulbs For Your Fall Garden

by Frances Baldwin

From September through November, gardeners all over Canada plant bulbs that will announce the end of winter in a heart-warming riot of colour. The bulbs you plant this fall will, if you plan your plantings, bring you a steady wave of colour from March when the crocuses start to the middle of June when the last of the tulips bloom.

Once, only the wealthy could afford these Dutch flowers, but today, tulips, daffodils, crocuses, even hyacinths, grow in anyone's garden, and they are such a foolproof flower that even the novice can grow them.

For best results, especially with daffodils and tulips, don't wait too long to order your bulbs. Especially if bulbs are purchased by mail, early ordering is important. Orders are filled in the order in which they are received, so if you order your bulbs early, they will be delivered in good time, and you can get them in early instead of planting them in bad weather.

Besides ordering your bulbs early and planting them promptly, be sure you get good quality bulbs. Bargain bulbs are usually no bargains. Sometimes, they're not even large enough to produce blooms the first year they're planted. And since large, top-quality, inspected Dutch bulbs sell for as little as $1.50 a dozen, you're better off buying top-quality bulbs from a known dealer.

If you're planting your bulbs in beds or borders, be careful not to plant them in rows like soldiers on parade. They'll look prettier and more informal if you drop a handful of bulbs onto the ground and plant them roughly where they fall, as long as there's about six inches between the daffodils and about four inches between the tulips.

Your little bulbs... crocuses, grape hyacinth and so on should be planted about three inches deep; your early tulips about five inches deep, and narcissus, daffodils, hyacinths and late tulips about six inches deep.

The nicest thing about a spring bulb garden is that once your bulbs are planted, they will bloom for a good many years without any further care except for an occasional watering and feeding. No need to dig up your bulbs every year... just leave them where they are.

Do, however, keep a lookout for colour combinations. Plant your yellows and oranges together, and put a group of white tulips in between the oranges and the reds. The pinks can go together and the cream-coloured tulips might be nice combined with the deep purples that are almost black.

If you do get a colour combination that you don't like, however, mark the tulips that you want to move, and move them after the foliage has withered.

them. In another minute the raft was across, when they jumped and ran for the camp. "That was a close shave, Morton", exclaimed the Colonel. "Ten minutes more and the scouts would have been between us and the camp. I don't wonder at Purdy's indignation that a regiment was not sent to hold the bank until he crossed".

Supper awaited them, and that disposed of, the Colonel, wearied with his day's exertion, flung himself on the ground and fell asleep. Morton tried in vain to do likewise; the meeting with Maggie made his brain throb.

At daybreak the army was astir and the expectation of the men was an order to renew the assault upon the British position. No such order was issued, but the men of Purdy's command came straggling in. They had spent the night in the woods, attacked several times by Indians and owing their escape to the rain that drenched the priming of the redman's muskets. With daylight they had resumed their weary way to Spear's rapids and forded the river. Another such night they would not undergo to win all Canada.

It was well into the forenoon when the commanding officers were summond to attend at the General's tent to hold a council-of-war. Among others Colonel Vanderberg went. Morton watched eagerly for his return, and when he came his questioning eyes told what his tongue, from courtesy, would not ask. "Well, Morton, you would like to know what has been decided upon. As it is no secret, I will tell you. The campaign has been abandoned and the army goes back to the United States to go into winter quarters. We marched into Canada in order to co-operate with Wilkinson. Last night the General received a despatch that Wilkinson had not yet left Sackett's harbor, while we supposed he was now steering his triumphant way down the St. Lawrence, and might even be at the mouth of the Chateauguay waiting for us. It was argued that, as Wilkinson had not moved, and it was uncertain if he would, nothing was to be gained by our army going on, for, without his boats we could not cross the St. Lawrence to take Montreal.

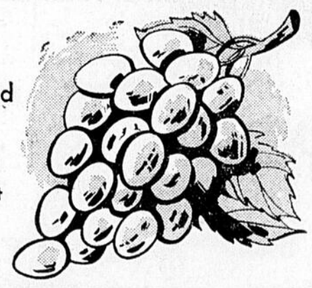
WHY "seedless"?

Have you ever bitten into the seed while eating a grape? The seed is bitter, unpleasant to the taste.



With seedless grapes there is nothing to spoil your enjoyment of the delicate flavour.

It's the same with HOPS

Hops give ale its characteristic flavour. Ordinary hops contain seeds which give an unpleasant bitter taste to ale.

"Seedless Hops" bring out just the right taste and flavour in an ale.

Every drop of O'Keefe Ale is brewed with costlier "seedless hops" to give you the mild flavour that has made O'Keefe... the mild ale!

DRINK O'Keefe ...THE MILD ALE!

Franklin Centre

FRANKLIN CENTRE — The Centenary of the first stationed Ordained Methodist Church Minister, at Franklin Centre, was observed on Sunday afternoon, October 12, 1958, at the United Church with Rev. J. S. Nickerson, minister in charge.

There had been services held in the old church before 1858 by ministers from other charges and students, but Rev. John Webster was the first to become an ordained residing minister.

The Service was well attended from neighbouring churches, as many kindly cancelled their services to take part in this great event.

After the "Organ Prelude" the last four verses of the 24th Psalm was read responsively, followed by Doxology, prayer and hymn.

Rev. J. S. Nickerson gave the address of Welcome, Historical Note and Roll of Ministers from 1858.

Dr. Allan Reed of Rockburn gave the Anniversary Prayer and Remembrance of Departed, followed by singing the Lord's Prayer and Commemoration Hymn.

Greetings from the Presbytery and other churches in the Chateauguay Valley were given by Rev. Robert S. Beal of Huntingdon.

A Solo, "He Smiled On Me" by Mrs. H. A. Rivers, was much enjoyed.

Rev. H. M. D. Westin minister of the Ormstown and Franklin Centre, Anglican churches, read the Scripture Lesson.

"Beneath the Cross of Jesus" was sung by a trio composed of Mrs. J. S. Nickerson, Mrs. F. G. Sherrington and Mrs. Omar Harvey.

The sermon "What the Church Can Give to the World", was given by Rev. H. A. Rivers of Grace Church, Lachine.

The C. G. I. T. and the Explorers were present in uniform and Sheila Stevenson was presented with her graduation pin by Mrs. F. G. Sherrington.

Rev. J. S. Nickerson acknowledged the gift of 50 new hymn books presented by the C.G.I.T. He also spoke of the other churches in the Franklin and Hinchinbrooke municipalities, which were also in existence in those early days.

The closing hymn was no. 402 followed by the National Anthem and benediction.

Besides the above mentioned ministers present, were Rev. Kenneth Murray of Hemmingford and Rev. Chester Sutherland of Howick.

Letters were received from Rev. J. Travis of Banff, Alta., Rev. L. O. Bunt of Banesville, Ont., Rev. Gillingham of Montreal and Rev. H. Allenby of Valois.

The church was decorated for the observance of Thanksgiving by the Sunday School pupils and teachers.

Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Nickerson held a reception at the manse after the service for the Clergy and Mrs. E. Leslie Taylor whose husband the late Rev. L. Taylor was a classmate of Rev. H. A. Rivers and who had assisted at the 75th anniversay of the present church.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray McMillan, Mr. W. Sitifur and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Smith of Valleyfield, attended the Ploughing Match at Chrysler, Ont., recently.

Mrs. Hilda Smith and Mrs. Keith Dickenson and baby Kevin, accompanied Mr. Leslie Smith to Belleville, Ont., to spend the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Steven Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Dickenson spent Tuesday, October 7th, at Brushton, N.Y., with Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Saxton and called on Mr. Roy Saxton at the Malone Hospital.

The guest speakers at the Church of the Nazarene on Sunday afternoon, October 12th, at the Thanksgiving Service, were Rev. Christensen and Mrs. Christensen of Syracuse, N.Y. Special Singers were also present and the church was nicely decorated for the occasion.

Mrs. Howard Farley of St. Lambert and Mrs. Lawrence Parham of Woodbury, N.Y., spent a week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Dunn recently.

Mr. Otis Blair and daughter Janet of Farham, spent the holiday week-end with his sister, Miss Cora Blair and Mrs. Clarence Blair.

Miss Dell Robertson of Montreal, visited at the home of Mrs. Lewis Blair over the week-end.

Mr. Billy Sandie R.C.M. of Halifax, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. Stuart Goldie also Miss Dolly Holbrooke of Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jackson and Barry spent the holiday week-end at St. Eustache and Cookshire.

Mrs. John Goldie left the Barrie Memorial Hospital on Saturday October 11th and is convalescing at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Howard Blair.

Miss Ruth Denham of Springfield, Mass., and friend were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Towns on Saturday, October 11th. They also visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Blair on Sunday before leaving for home.

Obituary

THE LATE E. P. BURKE

The community was shocked and saddened on Thursday October 2nd, to learn of the sudden death of Emmett P. Burke. Mr. Burke had been in declining health for some time and a sudden heart attack brought about the end.

The deceased was born in the town of Ellenburg on July 25, 1899, the youngest son of the late John and Anna (McDonough) Burke. He attended Chateauguay High School and when a young man went to Lima, Ohio, where he made his home for ten years and was employed as an insurance agent. He returned to Chateaugay in 1941 and since resided here. The past few years he operated a grocery store in the town of Clinton.

The deceased was well known and highly respected resident of this community and his unexpected death is deeply mourned by everyone.

On October 9, 1930, his marriage to Miss Mary Callahan took place at St. Rose Church in Lima. Her death occurred in 1933.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Kathryn Mellon, Mrs. William T. (Ella) Ryan, two brothers, Michael and William Burke, also many nieces nephews and cousins.

The body was in repose at the home of his sister, Mrs. Kathryn Mellon at 14 Lake Street and funeral services were held at St. Patrick's Church on Monday morning, Rev. Donald Gallagher officiated. Burial was made in St. Patrick's cemetery.

The pallbearers were: Bernard Ryan, Michael Curran, Walter Clark, Arthur Jones, Clarence Ryan and William Cosgrove.

Chateaugay Record.

Elgin

ELGIN — The Turkey Supper sponsored by the Ladies Aid and Women's Missionary Society of the Elgin Presbyterian Church on Thursday evening, was an outstanding success.

Through the generosity of the ladies of the Congregation and the efficiency of the young people, supper was served to over two hundred in a short time.

The total proceeds of the supper was $275.60. With the purchase of the turkeys being the only expense, both societies realized a nice profit.

Motorists Should Winterize Now

Motorists Should Winterize Now

Motorists have had the benefits of beautiful days throughout the summer months but now must think of fast approaching Old Man Winter, with his hazards and his fickleness. None can be sure that tomorrow will dawn without snow making a thin and dangerous cover on the streets and highways across the province. Now is the time to winterize your car or truck, urges Prudentia. Have your winter tires put on and don't take the chance of a dangerous skid. And remember that a cautious and prudent motorist is the one who gets through the winter without accident. Plan now for the months ahead.

Striking Men Out Of Jobs

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

"Ontario labor leaders last night rapped the federal and provincial governments for ignoring unemployment. In a two-hour meeting, delegates to the Ontario Federation of Labor convention charged those governments with 'filling away' labor pleas for action".

The above is the first paragraph of a report in the Toronto Daily Star. In other columns of the same paper there were reports of strikes organized by the same labor leaders which had put many thousands of men out of employment.....

The Federation unanimously adopted a statement which said: "Government spokesmen have failed to point out that a rising wage level and increased consumer buying can make a dynamic contribution to economic recovery. There has been no effort by business or government to reduce prices and so stimulate the demand for consumer goods".

Consistency is a rare jewel in the arguments of labor leaders, and in their actions they entirely contradict themselves. In the above statement they said: "We deplore the bankruptcy of government policies that can neither prevent a recession, nor control it". They said there was immediate need for a "crash" program to provide jobs and pointed out that on August 21 there were 133,000 unplaced job applicants in Ontario, "some 33 per cent more than a year ago".

And what action did those labor leaders take to relieve that situation? They added 10,000 to the number of unemployed in Toronto alone by a strike in the building industry. In Hamilton, at the time of writing, 8,000 workers have been deprived of their jobs and regular wages for ten weeks by a strike in the steel industry. In Sudbury a month-long strike at International Nickel had put 14,000 men out of employment.

Even assuming that the union demands for wage increases were justified, there was no justification or horse sense in putting those men out of their jobs and leaving them without any wages at all. Millions of dollars were lost by those strikers, and their consumer buying power has not only been reduced to the pittance of strike-pay for the present, but when the strikes are over they will be poorer in consumer buying power than before. Very few of them with families could maintain them for a month without going into debt.

A strike is indeed a "crash" program, which removes men from their jobs, impoverishes their families, and at the present time can only add to the recession.

Children Should Be Taught Now

The days are fast approaching when children will once more start the very dangerous practice of "hanging" on to the rear of cars and trucks for a quick slide along snow covered streets. Prudentia calls parents and teachers attention to the consequences which can result from this ever-dangerous mischief, and urges them to start teaching their children now to practice safety and get into the habit of observing rules set down not to hamper them but to protect them from an accident in which they could be maimed for life or even be killed.

From Here To California

Saturday, September 20, was a memorable day, as a party of four, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Walker of Lasalle Blvd. Verdun and Misses Evelyn Macfarlane and Marie Nagano, former nurses at B.M.H. left Huntingdon. Our destination — Los Angeles, California. It was a beautiful fall day as we crossed the border at Trout River, New York through rich farming land and into the fruit-growing areas of Penn., and into the cornbelt of Ohio.

We drove late that first night and found a big motel in Toledo where four tired vacationers fell fast asleep. Sunday morning, we were on the road at 6 and we were still in the corn belt as we sped by the states of Indiana and Illinois.

It wasn't until we crossed the mighty Missisippi River and into the state of Missouri that we saw any beautiful landscape once more. Rolling hills, abundant green trees and excellent roads added to this state of beauty. We spent that night in Rock Village motel, in Springfield, Missouri, and as we settled to sleep, it was nice to know that we had nearly travelled half of the way to our destination.

Six a.m. greeted us much too soon and we were in the state of Oklahoma and by some slight error spent about 10 minutes in Kansas. Oklahoma was another state of beauty with endless miles of red soil, hills and it was here we saw our first oil-well. Expecting a few rugged cowboys to come galloping up on their steeds in the vast Texan soil, well, we were disappointed, for we never saw one. By 8 p.m., we found a sweet motel in Tucumcari, New Mexico, with a heated pool to add to our comfort. It was a real treat getting ourselves in this warm pool. Believe it or not, we were up long before sunrise at 4 a.m. as we had the hot journey of having to cross the deserts of New Mexico and Arizona that day. Just before we hit the mountains around Albuquerque, we saw the famous Yucca testing grounds for Ford cars. Mudhuts, cavedwellings and several advertising signs were about the only sights for miles and miles. We drove over 800 miles that day leaving about 120 miles for the following day. We spent the night in Barstow, California and it was such a pleasant thought as we were informed that we would be allowed a sleep in till 7 a.m. After we crossed the worst desert in Cal., we encountered some hills and a few cactus, and another unique looking tree known as Joshua trees. It was a warm, dry, sunny day and rich vineyards, orange and lemon trees were a strange but wonderful sight. Palm trees lined the streets and as we entered the Hollywood freeway, cars sped from all sides. At 10.30 a.m., we separated from the Walkers who went to visit their friends in Studio City and we headed for my (Marie) cousin, Tyrus's home. Mr. and Mrs. Walker spent several days in Las Vegas, Nevada and the remaining time in R. A.

After a quick change, we caught a streetcar downtown and the temperature was a soaring 88: Despite the heat, we saw some people dressed in woollen clothes and a shocking sight was a lady who had her hair dyed pink. Our first stop was the tourist information where we obtained tickets for a boat cruise to Santa Catalina Island for Friday and also learned we could catch a bus for Disneyland the following day. That afternoon, we enjoyed the film version of "Damm Yankees" starring the original broadway cast with the exception of Tab Hunter. A hot day of 95° was in store on Thursday, as we boarded a bus for Disneyland which is about 22 miles from the downtown area. About an hour later, we reached this "Magic Kingdom" which was opened in 1955 but will continue to grow as long as imagination still exists in the mind of Mr. Disney.

Our one day here was spent in riding in a canal boat to Storybook land, flying with Peter Pan boarding the stagecoach cruising on Mark Twain's steamboat, boarded a rocketship, went on a jungle boat ride where we saw life-size wild animals and delicate orchids. A visit to the 1½ million dollar, all plastic "House of the Future" was different and made us think if there will be such homes in the future. Somewhat dazed and tired we left main street U.S.A., frontierland, adventureland, tomorrowland, and fantasyland and back to L. A. and to bed.

Friday, proved to be an even more exciting day as we hopped a train for Long Beach and onto a boat across the Pacific Ocean and into the harbour of Avalon the only town on romantic Catalina Is. The boat ride was fairly smooth as we took the salty voyage of 30 miles to the island but the trip back was a little rougher and huge waves were seen everywhere but our stomachs were able to take it and we thoroughly enjoyed every minute of it. We took three tours here: first a glass bottomed boat out to sea to view the many fish and varied sea-life and the hi-lite came when a well built seadiver dived and explored the ocean bed and we watched as he fed the fish and later showed his collection of eels, giant crab and squid. A short cruise to the "Seal Rocks" was next where we saw hundreds and hundreds of seals in various shades of brown and black. The last trip was the tour of the island by bus where we saw the home of Mr. Wrigley the famous chewing-gum millionaire, situated on top of the island and several breathtaking views of the harbour. A few banana, olive and eucalyptus trees were other attractions of this place. Our day ended with a delicious meal of seafood. This visit is a "must" for any California tourist for it is truly an "Island of Enchantment".

We reached Long Beach around 7 p.m. and so decided to look around but we just about lost our lives in a giant roller coaster ride. We spent Saturday and Sunday fairly quietly as we needed the rest. After church service, Tyrus took us driving. Our first stop was at Forest Lawn Cemetery the most beautiful we had ever seen. No tombstones are seen as they are only flat granite footstones at each grave. After this, we drove up Sunset Strip, and onto Hollywood and saw some mansions in Beverly hills. An outdoor bar-b-que dinner of chicken and spareribs were served at my (Marie) cousin, Jack's home that night and since we were all quite famished, the food was most appetizing.

Monday was our shopping day and so we spent 6 hours walking in the smog, buying a few gifts for the family. That night cousin, Ty, took us around Chinatown, The famous Olvera Street which is the oldest steet in L.A. where Mexicans are selling leather goods and handicrafts and one can enjoy a meal with a charming Senor, serenading at your table. We tried "taquitas" which resembles a hotdog, but which is much hotter. The evening ended in Little Tokyo where we had shrimp fritters and sukiyaki.

Our last day in L. A. was spent in San Francisco. Up very early we took the bus to the airport where we were to board Western Airlines at 7.30 a.m. Were we excited? WE certainly were as we had never flown before, and in two hours and 400 miles behind us we reached this wonderful harbour. Arriving downtown just in time to catch a 3½ hour bus tour of the city, we were greatly impressed by the cleanliness. The homes are situated fairly close to each other but each one is different and beautiful. We visited the original Indian church built in the 18th century, a huge aquarium, the Golden Gate Park, where we saw buffalos and we viewed the city atop Twin Peak Mts. The only disappointment which was in store for us was that we were unable to see the famous Golden Gate Bridge due to fog. Unlike L. A. everyone here is very well-dressed and wearing the latest styles. Because we didn't have time to eat at their famous Fisherman's Wharf, we enjoyed a plate of shrimp, crabmeat, lobster and oyster downtown. Our flight back was just as smooth and we were greeted by the same two stewardesses. Well we knew it would have to come, but why so soon? Yes the time to say "au Revoir" to sunny California and head back home. At 4 a.m., we met the Walkers in front of Union Station and to make the trip interesting we made an effort to sleep in different states, played games such as "I Spy" and had sing-song sessions. The thruways were smooth and as we neared home the scenery was even more colourful due to the changing leaves. So, in two short weeks we had crossed 12 states and spent 1 week in Southern California and were home again.

We hope you had just as much fun reading this as we had relating it to you, but to get the real enjoyment you must visit this Vacationer's Paradise yourself.

Howick

HOWICK — Mrs. Calvin McCartney, Mrs. Herbie Pilon and Mrs. Arthur Buchanan were joint hostesses recently at the home of Mrs. Buchanan at a miscellaneous shower for Miss Dora Allen of Havelock, whose marriage took place recently. Dora was taken greatly by surprise to find about 24 of her friends and relatives to greet her. Mrs. Calvin McCartney pinned a corsage of roses on the bride-to-be after she had opened her lovely gifts. Dora thanked everyone for them. A game of The Bride's Trousseau was played, Mrs. Armand Maynard winning the prize. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Angell, spent Thanksgiving week-end in Ottawa and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Graham, spent the holiday with their grandchildren at Riverfield.

sands thin enough to flow freely and collect in the crater. The experts say the only way to know for sure is to try it.

Army Shuffle

The Canadian Army has neatly got around a manpower problem in forming a new tank regiment. It had only three and needed one more so that one each could be provided in support of each of Canada's four infantry regiments.

The army will simply withdraw within the next few months one four-tank troop from each of the three fighting squadrons in each of the tnree armored regiments and, presto, a new regiment. It will be known as the Fort Garry Horse, perpetuating the name of a regiment formed in Winnipeg in 1912.

The shuffle will mean that each armored regiment now will have 36 fighting tanks instead of 54 as previously. In addition, each regiment will also have the usual eight to 10 tanks in its headquarters squadron.

The army already is at its 49,000-man maximum strength set by the government and it could not enlist more men to form a completely new armored regiment.

Noted Visitors

Governor-General and Lady Hailes of the West Indies Federation were among dignitaries visiting Ottawa last week. They spent four days at Government House, the guests of Governor-General Massey, with social functions and high-level talks interspersed.

Shortly after their departure, Government House welcomed Sir Grantley Adams, prime minister of the West Indies Federation — newest member of the Commonwealth — and Lady Adams.

The weekend previous, Prime Minister Walter Nash of New Zealand was a visitor at Government House for two days. And late last week Lord Home, Britain's secretary for commonwealth relations, and Mrs. Golda Meir, Israel's foreign minister, each spent two days in Ottawa looking in on Prime Minister Diefenbaker and other officials.

Main purposes of the various visits were to promote good relations and trade and economic exchange.

Record Housing

At least 153,000 housing units should be started in Canada this year, an all-time high, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation forecast. The present record for housing starts is 138,000, established in 1955. The figure last year was 122,300.

Looking at the position regionally, the CMHC statement said that in the early months of 1959 the Prairie provinces showed the greatest increases in starts, but the position changed in mid-year, when Ontario showed the largest increase, with the Prairie region a close second.

Mrs. Ernest Bourdon spent a few days in Montreal visiting Mr. and Mrs. Urbain Bourdon and Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Bourdon and attended the marriage of her granddaughter, Miss Aline Bourdon.

Miss Gertrude Keddy of Valleyfield visited her uncle, Mr. Charles Collings at the home of Mr. James Williams. Mr. and Mrs. A. Maynard Champlain, N.Y. were also recent guests.

Mrs. Reid Elliot, St. Lambert and Mrs. Robert Curry entertained at a birthday party, Oct. 12th, in honor of their father, Mr. Malcolm Brown, several guests attended.

Misses Evelyn and Lillian Elliot entertained in honour of Mr. and Mrs. A. Rankin; the occasion being their 35th wedding anniversary, Saturday, Oct. 18th, several guests attended.

Miss Hazel Hadley, Toronto, is spending a two weeks holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hadley and Mrs. S. Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Jackson, Cabri, Sask., are guests of Mrs. T. Jackson and Mrs. Robert Brownlee.

Miss Susan Brown has returned home from Montreal, where she was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. O. Perry.

Mr. Perry, South St. is on the sick list.

Sympathy is extended to the family of the late Michel Hebert, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hebert. His Libera was sung in St. Roman's church. Interment in St. Roman's cemetery.

Powerscourt

POWERSCOURT — Quite a number of people from this district enjoyed a day's outing at the Ploughing Match at Chrysler, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Elder motored from Toronto, and were week-end guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ross.

Week-end guests at the McHardy home were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clarke of Montreal.

Jimmy Ross accompanied Mr. Mike Carrigan and Mr. James Hutchings to the Ploughing Match and all were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hutchings at Cornwall.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Scriver of Montreal were week-end guests at the Taylor home.

Mrs. Bertha McGowan and Jack were week-end guests of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Sargeant at Athens, N.Y.

Miss Dorothy Taylor, spent the week-end with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Scriver, at Hampstead, Montreal.

Guests during the past week of her parents were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cruchon and three boys of Sherbrooke, Que.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Myatt enjoyed a motor trip to Kimball, Mass.

Mr. Arthur Taylor attended the Ploughing Match, then went to Lancaster, where he visited for a few days with Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Fraser.

Thanksgiving guests at the Taylor home were Mr. and Mrs. Smallman, Dundee.
