CHILDREN'S DAY AT FAIR HUGE SUCCESS

World News In Brief

London, Aug. 28.—(P)—W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's special negotiator in the Anglo-Iranian crisis, said today the present cooling off period may lead to a settlement satisfactory to both countries.

"I believe a solution is possible," he told a press conference at the United States embassy. "A cooling off period may be valuable."

"The next move is up to Iran," Harriman said.

London, Aug. 28.—(P)—Novelist-playwright Eric Linklater has been commissioned a lieutenant-colonel and assigned to write the official story of British fighting men in Korea.

The admiralty disclosed today Linklater now is on a tour of duty with the British fighting men in Korea.

The admiralty disclosed today Linklater now is on a tour of duty with the British army and navy in the area.

Among Linklater's novels are "Private Angelo," "The Art of Adventure" and "Mr. Buryell."

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—(P)—A funeral with full civic honors will be held Thursday for Grenville Goodwin, 53-year-old mayor of Ottawa, who died suddenly early today following a heart seizure.

The man who became the capital's chief magistrate last December was stricken while shopping yesterday. He was taken to a doctor's office and then to hospital where he died six hours later.

Controller Dr. Charlotte Whitton, designated by the council earlier in the year as deputy mayor, will take over the mayor's job until council chooses a new mayor.

Pont Saint Esprit, France, Aug. 28.—(Reuters)—Fear gripped this village today because three of its people are dead and 24 in hospital through a mysterious poison which made them think wild beasts were chasing them.

The poison is believed to have been in locally-made bread.

Officials at a post-mortem examination today were trying to find out whether the cases were caused by a fungus containing a violent poison. In the middle-ages, it was called "the burning death."

Hallucinations have been a feature of the poisoning. Four hospital cases have tried to commit suicide. One woman died after she jumped out of a hospital window.

Soldier's Threat To Throw Grenade Described At Trial

Seoul, Korea, Aug. 28.—(P)—One of three Canadian soldiers charged with murder testified today that he heard Pte. Glen Blank of Winnipeg say that he was going to throw a grenade into a farmhouse in which three South Korean soldiers were later found dead.

Pte. Donald Mitchell Gibson of Ottawa told a Canadian general court martial trying Blank that he had heard the Winnipeg private shout outside the farmhouse: "I am going to throw a grenade."

Gibson said he told Blank: "Don't be a fool, don't throw it."

Blank, 27, is on trial for the grenade killing March 17 of Lieut. Ee Chong Sung.

The three Canadians, members of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, are being tried separately. Gibson, 22, and Pte. Alan Roy Montgomery Daviss, 24, son of a Vancouver physician, are to face a court martial later.

Daviss told the court he recalled drinking beer at a party at the camp the night of March 17 and recalled going on a jeep ride.

He said he did not recall how many persons were in the jeep but thought he remembered two British soldiers.

Daviss said he knew Blank but did not recall seeing him on the night of the party.

Pte. Donald Mitchell Gibson, 22, of Ottawa, testified he had a conversation with Blank that night but did not recall what was said. He first said the conversation was during the first jeep ride but later said it was between the first and second jeep rides. He testified he carried a weapon that night.

The defence officer, Lt.-Col. J. A. Hutchins of Regina, objected to some of the questions put to Gibson by Capt. L. B. Hanway of Amherst, N.S., the prosecutor, on the ground they might incriminate Gibson.

Eisenhower Urges Union In Europe

By RALPH L. HOWLAND

Washington, Aug. 28.—(P)—Gen. Eisenhower has told Senators he is "very hopeful that many of our problems would disappear if Western Europe were one federal union."

"I believe it so strongly," he said, "that I do not believe real security is going to be felt in the United States, in the British Empire, and other nations of the globe until that comes about."

He said he believed once the whole area of Western Europe is united in a federation "the Soviets will never be able to hold the East Germans out of it—I believe that with all my heart."

Eisenhower, supreme commander of North Atlantic treaty organization powers in Europe, made those statements to a Senate foreign relations sub-committee which toured Europe last July. It was studying U.S. economic and arms aid programs. Testimony was released yesterday after deletion of portions the group felt might involve security.

The general told the Senators: "I realize that a lot of my professional associates are going to think that I am completely crazy, but I will tell you that joining Europe together is the key to the whole thing. And if you can do it with a European army, I am ready to put a lot of work in it."

American leadership, help and armed forces, Eisenhower said, are restoring the confidence of Western Europeans, and he added: "The faster they regain their confidence, the faster they will do the job of defending themselves. In my opinion, the one thing that can break the United States and give us nothing in return is to drag this thing out. We must go to the limit of our productive capacity and of the power of Europe to absorb our military assistance, and get it done now."

Speaking of possible moves by the Kremlin, Eisenhower said: "I honestly believe that if you make a Western Europe strong enough, the Russians will just turn somewhere else where the picking is easier because they have got a whole world over to choose from."

He remarked on the combined effort that goes into making a fair a success. The exhibitors, he said, cannot get by without the entertainment side of the program which is the money-making part of the show. On the other hand, the exhibitors all combine to make the exhibition the success that it is.

Mr. Ste. Marie urged the breeders to take an interest in more than just their own exhibits. He advised them to visit the various other departments, take in the grandstand show and the midway.

Some figures on the number of exhibits were announced, showing 125 horses, 350 cattle, exclusive of the calf clubs, 57 swine, 149 sheep and 877 poultry. The quality of the exhibits this year was described as being higher than ever.

Among other speakers at the banquet were Mr. Ives, who spoke of the help the press can give the farmers, and Joe Hughes, in charge of the George Hamid grandstand, who said that "we, like you, (the exhibitors) are always trying to improve our show."

The children really were the whole show yesterday and they had the time of their lives. They thronged the midway and the kiddieland, cheered the horses on at the races, visited the cattle, sheep, swine and poultry sheds, tramped through the industrial, floriculture and agricultural buildings, clapped and cheered at the Shell Oil puppet show.

Faces were grubby with candy floss and ice cream; they were smeared with mustard from hot dogs, had pop spilled down over their dresses and suits. But they, and their parents, all loved it.

When the children left the grown-ups took over. The grandstand show in the evening was Cattle Judging Starts Today — Grandstand Attractions Again Are Popular.

Another big boost in attendance over the figures of 1950 marked children's day at the Sherbrooke Fair yesterday as the weather was in co-operative mood for the second day in a row and rain was limited to a sharp but brisk early evening shower.

Paid attendance yesterday was 6,945, compared with 4,382 on Monday in 1950. This is only an inkling, however, of the actual attendance because fair officials estimate that at least 10,000 children were on hand.

Being children's day, the youngsters were admitted free to the grounds and no record of attendance could be kept. Veteran fair-goers agreed, however, that rarely has there been such a turnout of boys and girls.

Yesterday's good crowd, plus Sunday's record opening, boosted total attendance for the two days to 30,305, compared with 20,605 on the first two days of 1950.

The grandstand yesterday also did a rushing business with 3,372 admissions. This was well above 1950's figure of 1,986.

Today's program will be featured by the start of the cattle judging. Heavy horses and sheep also will come under the eyes of the experienced adjudicators.

There will, of course, be horse races this afternoon, interspersed with grandstand acts and the full grandstand review will be given tonight. The midway is unlikely to be as noisy as it was yesterday, with thousands of children drowning out even the barkers, but it will be humming none-the-less.

Tonight the City of Sherbrooke will be host to members of the junior livestock clubs and the Eastern Townships calf clubs at a dinner at the agricultural school. Mayor C. B. Howard is expected to be present and prizes won in the judging and calf club competitions will be distributed.

In the provincial exhibition of the boys' and girls' livestock clubs, the two-man Brome team of Robert Miller and Garth Hadlock took first place in the cattle judging competition, earning the right to represent the province at the Royal Winter Fair.

Roger Soucy and Louis St. Hilare of St. Edouard won the swine judging contest and Denise Chalfoux and Jeanne D'Arc Millette, of Ste. Anne du Lac, won the sheep judging event. The E. T. calf club competitions will take place today.

Among other highlight events on yesterday's program were a dinner for the press in the evening, at which C. S. Ives, chairman of the advertising committee, presided.

A dinner for breeders was held at the same time, presided over by W. G. MacDougall. The president of the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association, J. A. Ste. Marie, spoke to the combined groups and said that the Sherbrooke Fair, once considered the best in the province, was gradually regaining its former prominence.

He remarked on the combined effort that goes into making a fair a success. The exhibitors, he said, cannot get by without the entertainment side of the program which is the money-making part of the show. On the other hand, the exhibitors all combine to make the exhibition the success that it is.

Children Pack Grounds At C.N.E.

Toronto, Aug. 28.—(P)—The Canadian National Exhibition, moving into its fourth day today, is showing signs of settling down to a regular stride.

Crowds which officials estimated might reach the 200,000 mark poured through the mechanical building—its automotive and electrical day—admiring the snappy new European and American cars and the intricate displays of sports and home appliances.

Sports events included dart and archery tournaments, and an international air cadet drill competition. A Canadian team, last year's winner, is defending the trophy against cadets from Scotland and the United States.

Yesterday was children's day. In some ways it was the most exciting day to date at the "big show," with a brazen $222 robbery and an accident during the "hell drivers" automobile stunt performance in front of the grandstand.

Just before closing time two men walked into Waller's cafeteria and told Mrs. Lucy Dee, cashier, that the manager wanted to see her in the kitchen.

When she left, they calmly scooped $222 from the cash register, sauntered out and disappeared.

In front of the grand stand, driver Chuck Breit of Miami Beach, Fla., was badly cut about the face when a stunt went wrong. He was performing an act in which one automobile roars up a ramp and crashed on a second auto 40 feet away.

In yesterday's Canadian amateur swimming championships, Vivian King, 20, and George Bevan, 18, both of Winnipeg, won the women's and men's amateur championships.

Bruce Poole, 16, of Bobcaygeon, Ont., won the boys' Canadian closed water skiing championship and Norma Gordon, also from Bobcaygeon, won the women's closed championship.

Canada won the Babson international sailing trophy after piling up an 18-point lead in the first five matches against U.S. rivals.

And Some Cried

All was not smiles at the Sherbrooke Fair yesterday as some 10,000 boys and girls overflowed the grounds for children's day. For instance, Gerald (left) and Gerard Lussier, 1 1/2-year-old twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lussier of London Street, were anything but happy as they rode the car in the kiddieland. Once on solid ground, however, they were beaming again, ready for another ride and maybe some more tears.

U.S. Copper Workers Quit Jobs

Denver, Aug. 28.—(P)—A country-wide strike of copper workers continued today while President Truman and federal officials awaited union replies to their appeal for an end to the walkout.

Defence officials said the strike was hitting the United States mobilization drive at its weakest point since copper is the scarcest of the major metals. The strike also affects zinc, lead and silver production.

The leader of 58,000 striking international mine, mill and smelter workers (ind.) told reporters in Denver last night that the strike, which began yesterday, would not be called off "unless and until" the government presses the industry to accept a federal proposal for ending the wage dispute.

The U.S. conciliation service has proposed that the companies raise wages 6 cents an hour and increase pension benefits an additional 4 1/2 cents to settle the strike. The I.U.M.M.S.W. said that is acceptable to the union. Present pay ranges from $1.31 for service laborers to $1.62 for miners.

The I.U.M.M.S.W. was expelled from the C.I.O. on charges its leaders followed the communist line. In addition to the 58,000 I.U.M.M.S.W. workers, there are 3,400 members of the metal trades union (A.F.L.) in Utah who joined in the walkout. The I.U.M.M.S.W. headquarters said members of the railroad brotherhood were respecting their picket lines.

Three Rivers Bridge Probe Is Reopened

Three Rivers, Que., Aug. 28.—(P)—A Quebec government official was to be cross-examined today at the reopening of an inquiry into the Duplessis bridge collapse.

Yvan Vallee, deputy public works minister, was the sole witness heard at yesterday's first session of a two-man inquiry board headed by Judge Rene Lippe of Montreal.

He was questioned by Lucien Gendron, board member who represents the Dominion Bridge Company, Ltd., of Montreal, and by Louis Pigeon, counsel for George Marier, Liberal opposition leader in the Quebec legislature.

Four passengers were killed when the $3,500,000 bridge collapsed early last Jan. 31, sending four automobiles to the bottom of the St. Maurice river. Another man was drowned some days later when his tractor slipped into the river while he was trying to recover one of the cars.

Yesterday Mr. Vallee told the board that a cracked girder caused the collapse. He said the crack was 15 feet from the fourth concrete pillar. None of the pillars moved before the collapse, he said.

He denied a charge by Quebec government counsel Leon Methot that his department knew there was danger of collapse. He said fissures in the steel girders the previous winter had been repaired to the satisfaction of his department.

The hearing was interrupted in mid-afternoon while the board visited twisted debris of the bridge, opened in 1949, and two Bailey bridges erected as temporary links.

U.K. Labor Party Declares Peace Is Its 1st Priority

By ALAN HARVEY

Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, Aug. 28.—(P)—The Labor party's high command has affirmed that peace is its No. 1 priority.

"Our first duty is to save world peace—no other aim can take priority over that," the party's executive committee said in the opening sentence of 3,000-word manifesto released last night.

Thus, from the start, the committee laid down an official line which makes no pretence of concealing differences of opinion within the party.

In effect the statement is an answer to a left-wing rebel group, headed by former Cabinet Minister Aneurin Bevan, which argues that Britain's three-year armament program is bigger than it should be.

In reply, the policy document says the arms bill cannot be changed unless the world situation changes too, and adds that the cost of preventing war will be just a fraction of what would be needed to win it.

The Bevan group has already urged its opinions in a pamphlet entitled "One Way Only," which

Higher Rates On Telegrams Are Asked

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—(P)—Higher rates on telegrams were sought by the two railway telegraph companies yesterday in an application filed with the Board of Transport Commissioners.

In the types of messages commonly used by the public, they asked increases of 10 and 15 cents on standard wordage telegrams, plus varying increases on the charges for extra words.

The familiar 10-word telegram carrying full rate—both day and night—would go up by 10 cents for the first 10 words, and there would be an additional one cent a word on the extra wordage. At present, the minimum on this type is 30 cents day and 20 cents night on the first 10 words, with extra wordage charged for at two cents a word day and one cent a word night.

The proposed new charges, which the railways want made effective Oct. 1st, would apply on telegrams within Canada, not including Newfoundland. Newfoundland telegraph rates now are higher than those of the rest of Canada.

The increases would not apply on messages to the United States. However, U.S. telegraph companies now are seeking an increase of their own and, if it is granted, there likely will be a corresponding one on international messages.

The companies—the telegraph divisions of the Canadian National Railways and Canadian Pacific Railway—asked the new rates to offset "in part" higher cost of labor and materials. The two firms handle all Canada's commercial telegraph business.

Their application did not estimate how much new revenue they expect to get from the increase. Their gross business of this kind is estimated to run between $13,000,000 and $20,000,000 a year.

Besides the boosts on full-rate telegrams, they asked for these increases:

1.—On day letters, 15 cents per 50-word message, plus two or three cents on each additional 10 words or fraction of that.

2.—On night letters, 10 cents per 50-word message, plus two cents on each additional 10 words or fraction.

3.—On sports bulletin returns, 10 cents on the basic 15-word message plus one cent on each additional word.

4.—On money order telegrams, 20 cents on the basic 10-word message plus two cents on each additional word.

No increases are proposed on press rates and rates on commercial news service such as market quotations, and on election returns service.

The last previous increase obtained by the telegraph companies was a 15-per-cent boost in July, 1949.

Washington, Aug. 28.—(P)—The United States, Britain and France have agreed to provide $50,000,000 in economic aid to Yugoslavia to support Marshal Tito's "contribution to the security of the free world."

The Economic Co-Operation Administration, announcing this today, disclosed it already has allocated $29,800,000 as an initial instalment to help the Yugoslavs buy cotton, coke and steel.

Britain shortly will announce its decision to make available $11,500,000 to help bolster Yugoslavia's economy, E.C.A. said.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

SAMBA VARIES FROM CANASTA
By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
A good many people have asked the same sort of question recently about Samba. That is the game, as most Canasta players know, in which you use three decks and in which you are allowed to meld sequences.
The question boils down to this:
When are you allowed to pick up the discard pile?
Let's suppose that the player at your right has just discarded the nine of spades. Let's discuss all the situations in which you are allowed to pick it up.
You are allowed to pick up that nine of spades if you have a pair of nines in your hand. You must then meld those cards as a meld of nines. If you already have a closed canasta of nines, you must start a new meld. In this game you are allowed to have two canastas of the same rank.
You are never allowed to pick up that nine with just one matching nine and a wild card. That kind of meld is allowed in Canasta but is impossible in Samba.
That covers all the cases in which you want to start a new meld. You are never allowed to start a new sequence with that nine of spades. Now let's discuss the cases in which you want to use that nine of spades with a meld that is already on the table.

cretary, to attend all the sectional meetings and speak briefly on their departmental work.
Mrs. Fuller read the program suggested for the "School for Leaders" which is sponsored by conference branch. It was held at L'Orignal, Que., this year. Delegates were appointed from each section to attend this school.
These delegates are named at the fall sectional meetings. Mrs.
K. Armstrong, of Ulverton, gave a full report of the fund for the School for Leaders.
Miss L. Knowlton, the Presbyterial treasurer, gave a gratifying report of the finances and urged the Auxiliary and affiliated gested that two rallies be held at central points to enable many more Mission Band members and leaders to attend.

The winter executive meeting will be held on Feb. 6 at Ply-

The log-sawing contest was won this year by the Blumenthal brothers, Ludwig and Kurt.
Another pleasant event was the who has been attending the school for the blind in Montreal for several years.

This year a new feature was added, a display of local handicraft. Prizes went to Mrs. Ethel
Bailey for a crocheted bedspread;
Mrs. Desmond Charters, oil paint-

This annual event is eagerly looked forward to by young and old.

Brome Boys Win Cattle Judging Competition At Local Exhibition

Two young farm boys from Brome, Robert Miller and Garth Hadlock, yesterday won the cattle judging contest at the 25th annual exhibition of boys' and girls' livestock clubs.

This marked the third time since 1934 that teams from Brome won the major prize for young breeders. Herman and Wilfrid Hadlock won that year and David Turnbull and John Beerworth were the winners in 1948.

Prizes for the two Brome boys and other winners will be presented tonight at a banquet the city of Sherbrooke is giving to the livestock and calf club members at the agricultural school.

This is the first time these future farmers of the province have been guests of the city.

Victory for Miller and Hadlock means they will represent the province in the junior livestock competition at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto.

Winners of the swine judging competition were Roger Soucy and Louis St. Hilaire of St. Edouard, while Denise Chailoux and Jeanne D'Arc Millette, of Ste. Anne du Lac, won the sheep judging event.

Top scorer in the cattle judging contest was Robert Miller with 543 points, Garth Hadlock had 538 points, giving the Brome boys a total of 1,081.

In second place were Bernice Ness and Kenneth Roy, of Howick, with 1,072.5, followed by Real Michon and Hermel Gird, of St. Hyacinthe, with 1,040.

Other scorers in the cattle judging event were:

St. Clet, Raoul Gauthier and Gerald Gauthier, 1014.5; Banlieux, Trois Rivières, George H. Denoncourt and Claude Montour, 1007; Forterville, Clement Toussaint and Gatien Toussaint, 969; Shawville, Edgar Russell and Doris Hayes, 961; Vaudreuil, Gail Hodgson and Hugh Simon, 958; Cacouna, Roland Plourde and Guy Plourde, 943; St. Augustin, Marcel Girard and J. Marie Cote, 937; Ste. Marguerite, Denis Panneton and Guy Beaudry, 936; Ste. Emelie, Michel Auger and Lucien Beaudet, 931; St. Nazaire, Pierre P. Benoit and Lucien Berard, 923; Trois Pistoles, Raoul Rioux and Roger Lagace, 920.5; Ste. Claire, J. Paul Laliberte and Marcel Lavallee, 849; Dupuy, Laurier Trotter and Willie Berrouard, 833; St. Roch des Aulnaies, Richard Lebel and Marcel Lebel, 814; Chambord, Jean M. Boily and Ludger Larocque, 779; St. Alphonse de Granby, J. Paul Desroches, 460.

In the swine competition, Soucy and St. Hilaire compiled 1,041 points. Second were Georges Tremblay and Maurice Tremblay, of Coaticook, with 893; Pierre Philibert and Gaston Bussiere, of St. Justin, were third with 697, and Guy Patry and Joseph Bouchard were fourth with 653.

There were only two teams in the sheep judging event.

The winner had 619 points and the runners-up, J. Marc Giguere and Real Rouleau, of East Broughton, had 584.

Coaches for the youngsters in the competitions were Gaston Marcoux, of Sherbrooke, federal livestock promoter, and L. D. McClintock, agronomist.

Don't Burden Police With More Painting

The many persons coming in from all parts of the Townships and the Province for the Big Fair this week are taxing the traffic-control facilities of the Municipal Police Department to the limit.

This week, above all, Chief Edouard Moreau states, motorists should take more precautions than usual in order to prevent injury and death, and not add to the existing signs which tell that "someone died here as the result of a motor accident in 1951."

Two of these signs are already placed, one at Bowen North at the Terril intersection, the other on King street East, just below First avenue. Actually three persons died in Sherbrooke as the result of street accidents in 1951, but the Police Department has been too busy to place one at Belmont and Seventh avenue.

The signs are the work of Police Constables Arthur Couture and Joseph Lajeunesse, who do the painting when they are not burdened with police duties.

The boys are also responsible for the beautiful, luminous, sign, near Olivier's restaurant on the Montreal Road, which cautions motorists: "You are now entering Sherbrooke, drive slowly and carefully."

Support For E. T. A. A. Urged By President

J. A. Ste. Marie, president of the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association, describing the Sherbrooke Fair as the show window of the Eastern Townships, yesterday urged greater public support for this exhibition and for the E.T.A.A. generally.

Mr. Ste. Marie spoke at the noon luncheon meeting of the Sherbrooke Lions Club of which he is a member.

The exhibition, he said, is something which belongs to Sherbrooke and the people of this city should be more like the people of other districts, California for example, who are always boosting their own good points.

Boosting is needed if the exhibition is to regain its former status as the best in the province of Quebec. It will lose even its present rating if it does not get more support from the public.

Mr. Ste. Marie said many people are critical of the E.T.A.A., but this is an organization which exists only because of the public spirit of its directors. There has never been a dividend paid in the Association's 66 years and no individual is making any money from it.

There is no reason, he said, why there should not be year-round activities at the fair grounds and there will be if the public gives the Association, proper support. In the past there has been plenty of criticism, but not too much backing.

Alberic Julien, club president, presided at the meeting and announced that night meetings will start on Sept. 10, which will be ladies night. There will be no meeting next Monday, Labor Day.

Hugh Rose, attendance committee chairman, announced that a five-week attendance contest, with a clock for a prize, will start Sept. 10.

Ladies' Guild Of Brome Holds Meeting

Brome, Aug. 28. — The Ladies' Guild of St. John's Anglican Church held its meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson, with ten members and two visitors present. Rev. F. W. Gedy opened the meeting and Miss D. Barton presided.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. J. C. Sales, and approved. Following the business session, delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Miss Gladys Johnston. It was announced that the next meeting will take place at "Rockledge Farm," the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Barnes.

Industry On Parade Is Keynote Of Exhibits In Main Building

By LOUIS CASSAR

"Canadian industry on parade" is perhaps the best way to describe the many and varied exhibits in the main building, centre of the big Sherbrooke Fair.

Originality and simplicity are the rule this year and the result—more attractive and striking displays than ever.

An excellent example is the Theford Mines Asbestos Products exhibit. A large map shows the numerous world markets for asbestos mined at Theford while samples of the product in its various forms round out the rest of the display.

Something new has been added to the usually brilliant furniture displays in the way of a rustic living room set shown by Le Meuble Rustique. Made of cedar, the entire set was built in this city.

Among the most beautiful booths in the main building is the one occupied by Hector Landot Furniture. The booth has been sectioned, one side showing a bedroom set in the sort of atmosphere that must have made strong men like David Waver, and the other a living room set.

The many other attractive displays in the same line include those by Deschenes and Fiset's Engage with stoves, electric refrigerators, washing and sewing machines; Raymond Bergeron Meubles, Bromptonville; Donahue Electric with a large television set, the only one shown in the main building; J. E. Lacasse, with varied types of sewing machines; Centre Electric, and Talon Lee, showing electric refrigerators, stoves, kitchen sets and other household furnishings.

Other attractive booths are occupied by L'encyclopedie de La Jeunesse; Gestetner, with various types of office machines, and P. E.

Carey Building Materials and the National Wallpaper Company set-ups are somewhat similar, the former showing the various types of shingles in production and the other samples of wallpaper, paints and general household articles.

A really original product shown this year is "Big Stinky", a contraption manufactured by the A. Currie Company and designed to trap flies outdoors; the principle, get 'em outside before they get inside.

All types of aluminum kitchen utensils make up the Wear-Ever Aluminum and Supreme Aluminum displays, while Nesco products are featured in the booth occupied by Marieville Stainless Steel.

Free samples of sea food and an Abbott and Costello movie on a miniature screen featured the Provincial Department of Fisheries booth yesterday afternoon. Two federal agencies also have displays this year, one shown by the Department of Agriculture and the other by the Department of Labor.

Various types of oil and gas burners center the displays by Fairbanks-Morse and the Quebec Propane Gas Company.

Attractive handicraft articles are on sale at the Sherbrooke County Women's Institute's booth with the proceeds all marked for a charitable purpose. Linen articles are shown by the Co-operative Centrale des Producteurs de Lin du Quebec, while the Lingerie La Fontaine exhibit highlights hope chests and trousseau necessities.

Other attractive booths are occupied by L'encyclopedie de La Jeunesse; Gestetner, with various types of office machines, and P. E.

Genest Engg., also with office supplies.

Small Bros., of Dunham, Que., have a large exhibit showing a Lightning maple sugar evaporator, sugaring-off arch and pans, syrup storage tank, syrup settler and a sap bucket, spout and cover.

The Bible House, Montreal, which has toured every fair in the E. T., has a fine display featuring all kinds of religious books and material.

The Biscuterie King exhibit, its first at the fair, consists of a very colorful arrangement of delicious tid-bits, all for sale.

Fair souvenirs of all shapes and sizes are sold at the booth occupied by M. Laforest, of St. Hyacinthe. Gerber's, of Niagara Falls, not only display their baby food products but are handing out free samples of it. Recently developed types of plant fertilizer and animal feed concentrations highlight the Canada Packers' exhibit.

The center of attraction of the large motor vehicle exhibit by Gingras Automobiles is a Buick sedan floating in a sea of colorful balloons. Pontiac cars, and a G.M.C. truck and station wagon make up the rest of the exhibit.

Oldsmobiles and Chevrolets feature the large Webster Motors display. Thibault and Bouchard show Studebaker cars and trucks, while Mercures, Meteors, Chevrolets and a 4 door Lincoln sedan round out the Cyr and Allard showcase.

Other exhibits will be described in tomorrow's Record.

Top Quality Exhibits Are Feature Of Poultry Display At Exhibition

"For top quality birds and real cleanliness, it is hard to beat the poultry division at the Sherbrooke Fair," Leslie Ridler, of Guelph, Ont., said yesterday. Mr. Ridler judged the exhibits this year.

There are 877 entries in the poultry division compared with 1,028 last year but the quality is slightly better.

Raymond St. Marie, building superintendent and Mr. Ridler, were especially pleased with the Rhode Island Reds.

There are 430 hens, 66 rabbits, 48 turkeys, 32 geese, 40 ducks, 35 pigeons and 200 bantams on exhibit.

More than one of the many visitors stopped at the cage of pheasants. These lovely birds are being shown by Dominique Dostie, of Sherbrooke.

Some attractive and choice quality silver, golden, seabright and black rose comb old English game cock bantams are being shown by Provincial Police Traffic Officer Arthur Denault.

Mr. Denault has 28 birds on exhibit and he has been showing his bantams and other fowl for the past 30 years.

Parents were busy keeping their children away from the rabbits and cages of turkeys, ducks and geese attracted the eye of the fair-goers.

Exhibitors who vied for the prizes included: W. J. Denison, Denison's Mills; Lorne and Harold Kydd, of Richmond; George A. Booth, of Waterloo, who has a large number of turkeys, geese and ducks on display; Leslie L. Healy, of Richmond; Powell Snell, of Granby; Gilles and Claude Langlois, of Little Lake; Alfred Poulin, of Sherbrooke; Alphonse L'Heureux, of Sherbrooke.

Incorporation Of Final Tribute Ives Cemetery Is Paid To Near Magog

Magog, Aug. 28.—The Ives cemetery situated on the Georgeville road in the township of Magog recently became incorporated, with W. N. Brookhouse, president, J. Nelson Partington, secretary-treasurer, V. G. Rexford, Douglas Wills, and O. B. Carr as trustees.

The adjoining Ives School house property has been added to the cemetery, and will be cleared, graded, fenced and lots will be sold; in addition to this, the existing cemetery is to undergo improvements.

Anyone wishing to become a member, make any contribution, or purchase a lot, should communicate with the secretary-treasurer, J. Nelson Partington, R.R. No. 3, Magog, Que. The membership fee for one year is $1.00.

Final rites were held yesterday afternoon for Nelson D. Cascadden, for many years proprietor of the Sherbrooke Fruit Company, whose death occurred early Saturday morning at the age of 77 years.

The service at Johnston's Funeral Chapel was conducted by Rev. R. C. Tait, Minister of Plymouth United Church, and the bearers, all old friends of the deceased, were P. Dauncey, T. MacKenzie, T. Keeley, Edward Shortt, Frank Norcross and S. H. Bachelder.

Interment took place in Elmwood Cemetery.

A native of Melbourne, Que., Mr. Cascadden moved to Sherbrooke at the beginning of the century and established the Sherbrooke Fruit Company which he operated until its sale to Thompson and Alix a few years ago.

Since then he has resided at his home on Montreal Street.

He is survived by his wife, nee Wilhelmina Armstrong, formerly of Karnak Temple, Montreal, of the Sussex Preceptory and of Victoria Lodge, A.F. and A.M., Sherbrooke. He was keenly interested in sport, especially fishing, and was a member of the Sherbrooke Fish and Game Club, Weedon. He was also a life member of the Sherbrooke Curling Club and the Sherbrooke Snow Shoe Club.

Waterloo Lady Injures Ankle At Local Fair

Mrs. Stanley Copping, 37, of 10 Dufferin avenue, Waterloo, became the first reported casualty at the Big Fair when she fell while stepping off the merry-go-round, after completion of her ride, and fractured her right ankle.

She is a patient in St. Vincent de Paul Hospital where she was taken by ambulance.

Optimist Club Will Play Golf At Waterville

The Optimists will hold a club golf tournament on the Waterville course, it was decided last night at the weekly dinner meeting, held in the LaSalle Hotel.

Maurice Hudon is in charge of the program and it is expected that many members will be on hand for the event which is set for September ninth. Members who don't play golf will caddy.

Because of the holiday next Monday, the next Optimist meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, September fourth.

Laurier Lapierre, supervisor of the Optimist-sponsored recreation center at Victoria Park, known as Boys' Town reported on this project which ended last Saturday.

He touched on the highlights of the Boys' Town year and made recommendations for an even bigger and better Town, next year.

He said that the Club should investigate swimming facilities in conjunction with Boys' Town, that more outings be held for the lads, that a baseball team should be completely equipped, that more athletic competitions be arranged, that the Club sponsor a city-wide field day and that the Boys' Town council be accorded a civic reception.

Mr. Lapierre said that Boys' Town drew 2,275 youngsters this year, although nine full days were lost because of bad weather. He thanked the members for their support and co-operation.

Henry Crochetiere, boys' work chairman, said that the number attending Boys' Town this year was 275 more than in 1950, although the term was one week shorter than it was the previous year. He and president Jacques Laliberte warmly thanked Mr. Lapierre for his efforts, which were applauded by the whole Club.

Ken Ross reported on the Optimist Night baseball game for boys and said that 1,000 youngsters were guests of the Club that night.

Mr. Laliberte presided at the meeting and seated with him at the head table were: Mr. Crochetiere, Mr. Lapierre, Vito Scheib, Marcel Bernard and Jean Louis Dupuis.

ANTICIPATE THE WORST

Foremost experts in Washington on Russian affairs are agreed that Moscow made a major miscalculation when it spurred North Korea to attack South Korea last year. They believe the Kremlin did not foresee the bold Western response to that invasion, nor did it anticipate the vast rearmament program to follow.

From the fact that the Communists agreed to talk truce with us in Korea, these experts now conclude that Russia is anxious to offset this mistake. They argue that Soviet leaders, at the very least, seek a breathing spell, an easing of tensions that may lull the West back to sleep.

By the same reasoning, they conclude that Russia is unlikely in the near future to take any aggressive step which might arouse the West anew, perhaps on a far bigger scale than Korea.

Thus they believe there will be no early attack upon Germany, Yugoslavia, or Iran, prime targets in the Russian strategy of conquest.

Yet there are disturbing signs that actual Soviet thinking may not be following this line. In Yugoslavia, especially, the situation is not promising. Marshal Tito recently declared that for the first time satellite armies ringing his country are superior in strength to his own stubborn force.

Since Russia itself is obviously responsible for the satellite build-up, it cannot be unaware of the changing balance of forces. A notable increase in Soviet-inspired incidents along Tito's boundaries is another straw in the wind. These affairs are manufactured to provide excuse for attack.

Furthermore, the material state of Tito's army is not good. It sorely needs new equipment. With more U. S. money in prospect, that handicap may be corrected. But right now it makes Yugoslavia, land of the heretic Communists, a tempting morsel to Stalin.

All these factors notwithstanding, Moscow should hesitate to initiate attack on Tito, if the reasoning of America's Russian specialists is accurate. Because that assault would carry with it grave risk of embroiling Russia in World War III.

Yet some U. S. newsmen in Europe raise doubt that Russia sees it that way. They suggest that the Kremlin may be more impressed by talk of Western unpreparedness for general war. Moscow may therefore conclude that the risk of war is NOT great, and that the satellites could with impunity jump on Tito.

If that really represents Politburo thinking, then the top Communists are less affected by the rearmament we have achieved than by the distance we still have to go.

In the welter of fact, rumor, misrepresentation and calculated falsehood which comes to the surface in Europe, how can one be sure what Stalin's conclusions are on this or any vital issue? Suffice it to say that if he did order an attack on the guess that the West wouldn't spring to Tito's aid, it would be an error dwarfing by a hundred times the mistake of Korea aggression.

We dare not assume Washington experts are right and American reports from abroad are wrong. To be safe we must anticipate the worst. We must notify Russia in unmistakable language that an attack on Yugoslavia, however disguised as civil war or defensive retaliation, will be met by the full force of Western arms.

JUSTIFIABLY ANNOYED

It is no wonder authorities in Ottawa are annoyed at the United States sub-committee on internal security, says The Windsor Star. First, it bandied about the name of a prominent official of the Department of External Affairs, Mr. E. H. Norman, who is acting as Canada's permanent delegate to the United Nations. The suggestion was Mr. Norman had at one time been associated with Communists. When Ottawa investigated, and found no basis for the aspersions, no more was heard about it from the committee.

Since then another incident has arisen, of a similar implication against another Canadian.

Attempts by Ottawa to find out his name, or any basis for the rumors placed before the committee, have been unavailing. Certainly, if the committee is serious about its task and more than just a rumor factory, it should provide the Canadian Government with any information it has—or even rumors—so the R.C.M.P. can go to work to prove or disprove the accuracy of statements made before the committee about Canadians.

As we have stated before, there should be a complete interchange between friendly democratic nations of data on any subversive activities one may uncover concerning individuals, or incidents, in another. Canada, the United States and the United Kingdom all have had their own nests of spies and traitors. It requires cooperative effort to combat this menace.

The preferable method would be, if suspicions are aroused, to tip the other country off confidentially. This would enable the most effective investigation to be made, and also avoid the smearing of innocent men.

BARUCH, THE HISTORIAN, WOULD AMEND HIS COMMENT ON IKE

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—When Bernard Baruch returned from his recent trip to Europe, he got a call from a New York reporter who asked for comment on the burning of a Ku Klux Klan cross near the Baruch Carolina estate. This demonstration had been accompanied by some uncomplimentary remarks by a klanman on Baruch's ancestry.

Anyway, when Baruch heard about what had happened at home while he had been away, he smiled at the quizzical smile of his and asked the reporter if he had ever heard of Balaam's ass? The reporter allowed that he had. Balaam was the Old Testament prophet whose king wanted him to put a curse on the Israelites. But the angel of the Lord came in a vision to the ass which Balaam rode. And the ass argued with Balaam.

Baruch commented that this fellow down in Carolina had only proved what Balaam proved: "Any ass can speak. But, having spoken, he is still an ass."

Baruch got in another historical allusion in referring to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's new crusade in Europe as similar to that of Peter the Hermit. He was an 11th century Frenchman who is reported to have sold the idea for the crusades to Pope Urban, and who led the first crusade to recapture Jerusalem from the Turks. Some say, however, that when the Holy City fell, Peter was back in Paris.

When Baruch was reminded of this, he admitted that his comparison to Eisenhower had not been so good. He had wanted to compare Eisenhower to Joan of Arc, but decided he'd better not bring a girl into it. So he settled on Peter the Hermit, which he thought would be a nice compliment to Eisenhower's present, second crusade in Europe. If he had the comparison to make over again, Baruch declares, he would make it to Richard the Lion Hearted.

MUST BE INSPIRATIONAL LEADER

On General Eisenhower himself, Baruch is as high as always. He has known Ike ever since post-World War I days, when Eisenhower was a mere major under the then Chief of Staff Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Baruch was President Woodrow Wilson's director of mobilization. Eisenhower always had the answer.

In Europe today, Mr. Baruch believes, General Eisenhower has to be the leader through inspiration. He can't be what Baruch calls "the wicked partner." He can't go around raising Cain, driving European military leaders to greater effort.

Mr. Baruch took on some of his role of the wicked partner during his visit to Europe. In talks with British, French and German leaders, Baruch emphasized repeatedly that the United States was in no mood to do the whole job in Europe.

Since returning to the United States, Baruch has told everyone that he did not talk politics with Eisenhower, and never has. Eisenhower's job in Europe is more important than the Presidency, he believes.

BELIEVES U.S. MISSED OPPORTUNITY

The whole defense effort both at home and abroad is moving like glue, Baruch believes. He is extremely distressed over the lag in aircraft production. As soon as the Korean war broke out, Baruch wanted the United States to start all-out defense production. He believes that by not doing so, the United States missed its great opportunity to show Russia Baruch has long been an advocate of tight, across-the-board wage and price controls in time of emergency. He's also for tighter credit controls and greater use of priorities controls.

While Mr. Baruch has not made full peace with President Truman, the two men did meet before Baruch went to Europe. It was at Gen. George Marshall's Leesburg, Va., home, where Mr. Baruch was a guest and President Truman was invited in for an afternoon call.

Baruch told Mr. Truman then that he had noted the President had been conniving with the Republicans again.

Suspiciously, the President asked how? Baruch explained it was by getting the Republicans to oppose inflationary controls so that he—Truman—could be re-elected.

'SPORT OF CROOKS'

Brookville Recorder and Times
Horse racing in Ontario and in nearby affiliated American tracks has come this year to be a sorry state. The talk in racing circles is not, in this year, of thoroughbred blood lines, of tracks speeds and purses, but rather of go-betweens, gangsters, bribed jockeys, crooked racketeering bookmakers and even of marijuana smokers. The "boat race" which is race-track jargon for a fixed race seems to have become the order of the day on a lot of tracks. And all of this, mind you, concerns the inner workings of a sport which has long been referred to as the "Sport of Kings."

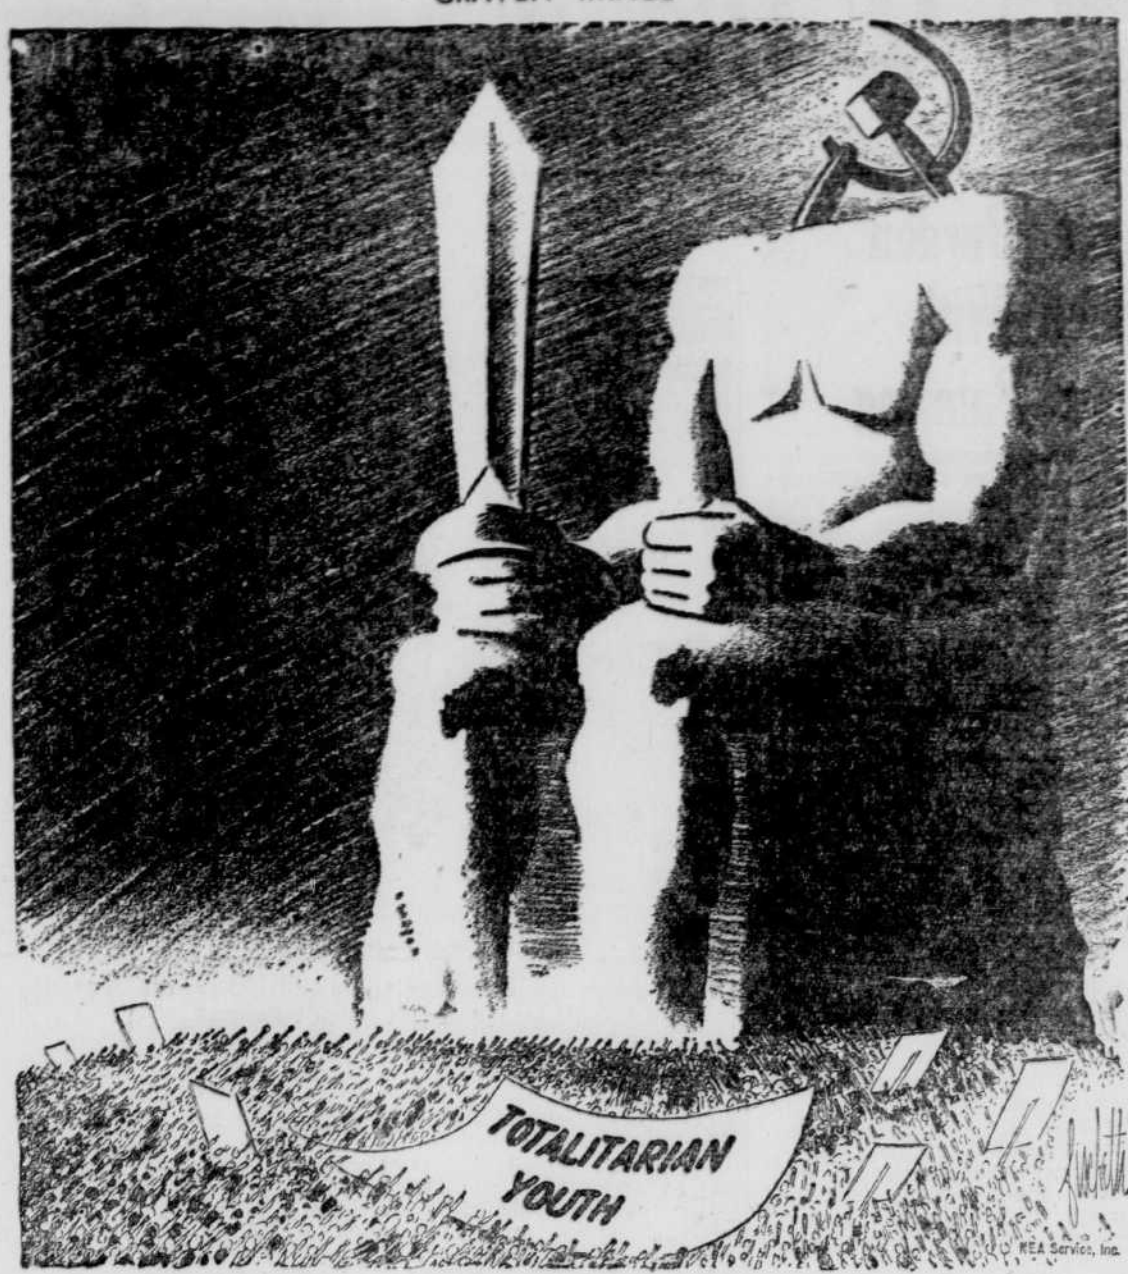

Unless the Ontario Racing Commission is successful in its present probe and can clean this whole ugly mess to the satisfaction of the public, horse racing is going to be rightfully regarded as the "Sport of Crooks."

SLAVERY ON FORMOSA

Nagasaki Daily Review
China has a recorded civilization going farther back than that of any other people; but yet has a long way to go to reach the concepts of freedom enjoyed in democratic lands. That is seen in the need for formation of "The Foster Daughters' Association," which has been formed on Formosa to work for the abolition of the centuries-old Chinese system of selling girls into slavery.

It has been the custom for ages for poor families to sell their daughters to others, better off financially, and such girls are called foster daughters and have been used as unpaid servants. On reaching maturity, most of them were sold as prostitutes or concubines, and the extent of the system is seen in Formosa alone where there are estimated to be 120,000 slave girls. That system has been supported for many years.

British Co-Sponsorship Boosts Japanese Peace Pact Strength

Editor's Note: Behind the Japanese peace treaty, which will be signed in San Francisco starting Sept. 4, is the story of 13 months of hard work and diplomatic salesmanship by one man—John Foster Dulles. Here's the last of five dispatches by NEA's Washington correspondent that tell how that treaty was born.

By PETER EDSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—A vital but little understood feature of the proposed Japanese peace treaty is its joint sponsorship by the United States and Great Britain. There is now much better co-operation between these two nations on Far Eastern affairs. This gives the pact double strength and a double chance for success.

Ambassador John Foster Dulles was largely responsible for this happy relationship. Today he likes to emphasize how the English-speaking countries are pulling together. But relations weren't nearly so cozy at the start of negotiations.

In the Fall of 1950, Dulles filled in the British on American ideas for a treaty. He got no reaction then. But when he went to Japan in January, the British government cabled its Tokyo representative at General MacArthur's headquarters, Sir Alvary Gascoigne, to protest against some of the U.S. proposals.

For one thing, the British wanted Japan's excess shipbuilding capacity destroyed. Australia and New Zealand backed this, too. Dulles inquired and learned Japan was then carrying only 17 per cent of its ocean trade in its own ships. A fair proportion for any country is 50 per cent.

Of Japan's 800,000-ton capacity shipyards, 130,000 had been destroyed by the war. The remainder was no more than Japan needed. Furthermore, Dulles asked the British if they thought the Japanese should destroy their surplus shipyards. As a first act after signing the treaty, that was sure to antagonize Japan.

In the end, limits on shipbuilding capacity were left out of the treaty.

When Dulles left Japan for Australia and New Zealand to talk over the peace treaty, he found that Sir Esler Denning, British Foreign Office expert on the Far East, was also in those countries. Officially, it was explained away as coincidence. But it was obvious that the British were suspicious of American motives in the Pacific.

There was British fear that the proposed Pacific Pact—a defense alliance between the U.S., Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines—would incite the Russian and Chinese communists to greater aggression against Hong Kong and Malaya.

Another concern was that the United States would take over Britain's pre-war dominance in Far Eastern trade. Coupled with this was a fear that Japan might become too closely allied financially with American dollar exchange. Before the war, Japan had been in the British sterling area of trade.

These and other differences appeared in all their ugliness when a team of British diplomats came to Washington last April to help the U.S. State Department team draft the treaty. The group was headed by Charles Johnson, British Foreign Office expert on Japan.

They produced a treaty draft early in May. But it was satisfactory to neither the British nor the Americans.

In this situation, it was decided Dulles would have to go to London. It was essential to get complete agreement on the Japanese treaty with top British officials. The mission was critical. A split between the two powers would play into Russian hands and be world-shaking.

Dulles was in London from June 2 to 15. He met most frequently with Foreign Minister Herbert Morrison. He had an hour's talk with Prime Minister Clement Attlee.

There were long meetings in House of Commons conference rooms. Since the Labor government had a majority of only six votes, it was essential that British officials stick to their Parliamentary knitting.

Talks boiled down to three main points of difference: Nationalist Chinese or Red Chinese participation in the treaty, disposition of Formosa, and limits on Japanese rearmament.

China was the big problem. The British maintained that since the Reds held the mainland it was realistic to invite their participation.

The U.S. said in rebuttal that all negotiations thus far had been with Nationalist China. It was a member of the Far Eastern Commission, controlling the Japanese occupation. Most important, Red China was at war with the UN and its member governments.

Dulles argued that Japan as a sovereign power ought to make the decision on China. The British said a majority of the Allied nations should make it. Dulles countered with the thought that such differences should not be allowed to delay the pact. Eventually he won the British cabinet over to his view. So neither Chinese side will participate in the San Francisco meeting.

The ultimate fate of Formosa likewise is left to the future. Japanese rearmament was argued for one whole day. Dulles reminded the British that Japan had lost all the territories from which she formerly drew raw materials.

The Record Short Story

THE MOTHERS

By DOROTHY BARNESLEY

Back in her own home again, after nearly five years of living in somebody else's house, Laura Tompkins was surprised to find it was not the thrill of contentment she had expected.

It was actually her first taste of loneliness. The kind of loneliness she might have known immediately after Valerie's marriage—except for the company of Martha Blake. Loneliness had taken a long time to catch up with her thanks to Martha. Thanks to Martha. Doubtless Martha was as glad to be rid of her, as she was glad to be home again. What had happened to be thinking—of returning was gone? Laura thought of Martha Blake, she knew it inch by inch—was suddenly alien ground too, to Laura. Not that Martha was not kindness itself, and genuinely fond of her friend, now that she had scored her victory.

Perhaps Martha felt a sense of guilt over Laura's sacrifice. Lest there should be any feeling of martyrdom in her friend's mind, Martha wanted it known that she was making a sacrifice, too. Her home would not be her own any more. It was a shared proposition. They would both have to make many concessions to adapt themselves to each other's ways.

She and Laura were both sacrificing themselves for their children.

And so it was with a mutual feeling of martyrdom that the two ladies began housekeeping together.

The rent that Preston and Valerie paid to Laura more than covered her share of expenses in the Blake home, also adding neatly to Martha Blake's own small income. As for Valerie, she was better off financially because of the arrangement, besides the advantages of shared work making their days' burdens lighter. But because of the stubborn streaks they also shared, neither one of them would have admitted it.

Even while they enjoyed each other's tart companionship, and occasional stimulating bickerings, they both sighed for the good old days when they each had a home they could call their own. They told everybody they couldn't wait for the emergency to end.

It took Preston Blake nearly five years to work himself up to a position where he was able to build his own house. Now he and Valerie with their child were moved into it.

Martha Blake was able to call her home her own again, and Laura Tompkins was back where she belonged.

Now that the good old days were with her again, Laura found herself thinking with a new sort of nostalgia for other days which were good old days, too. Funny she hadn't realized it at the time.

Her small income did not seem to go as far as it used to. Housework—alone—was becoming an increasing burden. She missed the brisk presence of Martha. She missed, too, the frequent visits of Valerie and Preston, with everybody together under one roof. The children had a divided duty now, with two homes to visit, and always the problem of which mother rated the first consideration.

Laura sighed. It was some weeks later on a fine summer day that Martha Blake came to visit. After she'd settled herself she announced—

"I've had a good offer to sell my house, Laura."

Laura Tompkins looked at her friend. "You wouldn't really consider selling—after all these years?"

Preston wants me to. He says the place is too much for me—alone. Besides, I can use the cash. My money doesn't seem to go as far as it used to. And I may never get another offer as good as this one."

Laura leaned forward with an excitement she would not have admitted to anybody.

"Where are you planning to live?"

A little color touched Martha's cheeks. "This is an emergency, Laura. I welcomed you into my home once—in another emergency. I thought perhaps you might be willing to do the same for me."

Laura Tompkins smiled. This time the victory was her own—but she did not see it as a victory. She saw it simply as a solution to the loneliness which had proved too much for both of them, whether they would admit it or not.

BIDDING OFTEN GIVES KEY CLUE TO CARDS

Sherlock Holmes once solved a mystery from the fact that a dog failed to bark. Bridge players do this all the time, as today's hand shows.

West led the deuce of spades, dummy put up the ten, and East won with the jack. East continued with the ace of spades and then with the king. South ruffed the third round of spades, drew two rounds of trumps, and finessed the queen of diamonds.

East won with the king of diamonds and got out safely with a low diamond, whereupon South made the rest of the tricks without the slightest trouble. Do you think South should have had trouble with the clubs? That's because you've forgotten about the dog that failed to bark.

The opening lead showed that West had four spades. The play to the first three tricks showed that East had the ace-king-jack of spades. East later showed up with the king of diamonds. Yet East failed to open the bidding. Is it possible that East would have passed if he also held three or four clubs headed by the queen?

The dog would have barked if he had held the queen of clubs. Therefore it was clear that West had the queen of clubs.

South therefore began the clubs by leading the jack through West. If West ducked, South was determined to let the jack ride. If West covered with the queen of clubs, declarer would win with dummy's ace and finesse through East for the ten of clubs.

This "backward finesse" is usually a very poor play. It is usually better to play East for the queen no matter where the ten is than to play West for the queen and East for the ten. But when you

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been:
 North East South West
 1 Spade Pass 2 Diamonds Pass
 2 Hearts Pass ?
 You, South, hold: Spades K-6-4-3-2, Hearts J-4, Diamonds A-Q-J-6-3, Club 5. What do you do?

A—Bid four spades. This bidding shows your very strong spade support and hints that you have 10 cards in diamonds and spades together. You also have at least average in high cards, because with less than average strength and with such fine distribution you would jump at once from one spade to four spades.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades J-4, Hearts 9-6-3-2, Diamonds K-Q-J-6-3, Clubs K-5. What do you do?

Quebec Braves Upset Drummondville While Farnham Ekes Out 5-4 Win Over Granby In Close Fixtures

Sherbrooke Athletics, third-place holder in the Provincial Baseball League, Monday night swamped the cellar-dwelling Three Rivers Royals in both ends of a doubleheader, 4-2 and 11-0. In the other game reported, the Braves fought hard to down Drummondville Cubs 3-2 and 3-1. In the other game reported, Farnham Pirates rapped two runs off Cecil Jones in the eighth to take a 5-4 victory over Granby Red Sox.

At Three Rivers, the first game saw two Royals pitchers give out seven hits with Mel Nee being the loser. Sherbrooke's Norm Gosse-llin allowed only four hits.

The nightcap was a lopsided affair with Sherbrooke outthrusting Royals 11-0. John Nantsteel lost the tilt with his ragged pitching.

Quebec's Gene Stemm allowed four hits in the curtain-raiser at home to notch his 15th win against seven losses. He helped his own cause with a single in the sixth to score the winning run.

Conrado Perez accounted for one of Drummondville's runs with a homer in the fifth inning. In the second game, Manager George McQuinn homered with one on in the first inning to put Braves ahead. His eighth inning double put Frank Neri on third base and Neri scored on an out-field error.

Cubs scored their lone run in the eighth on three singles and a Quebec error. Carleton Willey, the winner, allowed five hits for his 16th victory against five defeats.

The game at Farnham was added to the schedule to make up for recent postponements. The second-place Granby bunched all their runs in the sixth inning to take a 4-3 lead over the Pirates. Farnham came back in the eighth to push two batters across home-plate and take the victory.

Granby fielded three hurlers and Jones was charged with the loss. Huberto Robinson worked all the way for Farnham to take the victory.

Junior Tennis Stars Vie For Honors; Semi-Finalists To Be Decided Today

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—(C)—Semi-finalists in the junior men's singles competition will be decided today at the 1951 Canadian junior tennis championships at the Rideau Lawn Tennis Club.

Eight players yesterday completed the fourth round of the event and hope to use today's fifth round as a stepping-stone into the semi-finals.

Of the eight eliminated in the fourth round, four were top-seeded United States and Canadian players.

Jean Dussault of Montreal defeated Ray Wideliski of Buffalo, N.Y., third seeded in the foreign group, in straight sets 7-5, 7-5.

Grant Logie, third in the Canadian seeding, went down to defeat before Paul Lefrançois of Montreal, 6-3, 6-4.

Frank Nolan of Halifax, fourth seeded in the Canadian players, was beaten by John Griffith of Regina, and Jim Streeter, of Rothesay, N.B., was defeated by Ken Lawson of Calgary. Scores were 6-2, 6-1 in each case.

Four others will move into the fifth round are Fred Reame, Hamilton, Alfred Levy, Buffalo, N.Y., Dudley Johnson, Jacksonville, Fla., and Jim Killen of Vancouver.

There were no upsets in the junior women's singles event with the favorites continuing to head the list. Probably the most outstanding girl on the courts was Mariette Lafrençois of Montreal, 15-year-old top seed in both the junior women's singles and the girls' singles.

She moved into the fourth round of the junior women's singles by defeating Marion King of Calgary, 6-3, 6-1 and advanced into the third round of the girls' singles by beating Marie Lapointe of Ottawa, 6-1, 6-0.

Jeff Arnold of Coral Gables, Fla., U.S. favorite in the boys' singles, advanced into the third round, defeating Tommy Fagan of Cornwall, 6-0, 6-2.

In the second round of the junior men's doubles, John McLean and Ray Olear, among the top U.S. players, from Buffalo, N.Y., defeated Jim Florian of Sydney, N.S., and Stewart Dyson of Wolfville, N.S., 9-7, 6-4.

Barbara Evans of Fredericton, and Jim Streeter of Rothesay, N.B., paired to defeat Mary Heron and Jim Shetler of Montreal 10-8 and 7-5 in the mixed doubles event.

Connie Ioanidis of Portage la Prairie and Willena McCullough of Winnipeg defeated Allison Burns and Mary MacLaren of Ottawa 6-4 and 6-1 in the junior women's doubles to advance into the second round.

Barbara Ann Joins Hollywood Ice Revue

Chicago, Aug. 28.—(C)—Barbara Ann Scott will replace Sonja Henie as star of the 1952 Hollywood Ice Revue, Arthur M. Wirtz of Chicago, producer of the show, said yesterday.

Mr. Wirtz, also an owner of the show, said that the former world ice-skating champion, now on her second ice show in England, has been signed for the role at a salary considerably in excess of $100,000 a year.

Barbara Ann's performances with the Revue will start in early November and will include appearances in Madison Square Garden, New York; Chicago Stadium; St. Louis; Detroit and Indianapolis.

First attempts to secure Barbara Ann for the ice show were made when Sonja Henie failed to confirm the contract she has held with the Hollywood Ice Revue for 15 years. It is believed that Miss Henie has other plans.

The 23-year-old ice queen, formerly of Ottawa and now living near Toronto, is expected to fly here from England about Sept. 28 to start rehearsals.

Don Richmond Out To Win I.L. Batting Title

Only once in the history of the International League which dates back to 1884, has a player captured the batting crown two years in a row. That happened 25 years ago, and now Don Richmond of Rochester Red Wings is aiming to make history repeat.

Richmond, last year's batting champ with a .333 average, and the current leader this season with a mark of .354, would like to inscribe his name in the record books next to Jim Walsh, a former Buffalo player.

Walsh accomplished the feat during the 1925 and 1926 seasons when he led the league with averages of .357 and .388.

Mr. Marler asked that he be allowed to name one of the members of the inquiry committee. Premier Duplessis replied that the government wasn't going to pay for Liberal playing politics; the Liberals had plenty of opportunity to discuss the collapse in the Legislature but had been afraid to do so.

At Montreal last night, Mr. Marler issued a denial of this statement, made by Mr. Duplessis at his weekly press conference last Friday. He said the eight-man Liberal opposition will bring up the matter when the Legislature meets Nov. 7.

Pusan, Korea, Aug. 28

(Reuters)—The South Korean National Assembly has asked the government to increase army rations following the death of 1,234 defence corps trainees last year.

Assembly members said the men died from malnutrition and that 10,000 more became seriously ill.

At present, army trainees live mainly on rice with the equivalent of four cents a day for seaweed, fish and other local produce.

The assembly recommended that this supplementary allowance be increased to the equivalent of eight cents.

The Rochester third baseman leads his nearest competitor, Marv Rickert of Baltimore Orioles, by 32 points. Baltimore tallied twice in the 12th inning to lick the first-place Montreal Royals 5-3 as Lou Possehl outpitched Tommy La Sorda to register his 15th victory. The defeat reduced the Royals' league lead to 10 games. Marv Rickert, who tops the league in homers, walloped his 31st for the Orioles.

Jack Griffiore of Syracuse Chiefs turned in a brilliant mound performance as he blanked Buffalo Bisons 1-0 on two hits. It was his 12th triumph. The Chiefs tallied the only run of the contest in the fourth inning on a walk to Loren Babe, a double by Eddie Shokes and Hank Workman's ground out.

Springfield Cubs rallied for five runs in the seventh inning to defeat Ottawa Giants 6-4. Bill Padgett went the route for the Cubs to win his 15th game. The victory moved Springfield to within one game of seventh place.

Maintenance workers at the 50 strike-bound plants in 15 states remained on duty in preparation for a quick reopening of operations when the strike ends.

President John Clark of the I. U. M. S. W. said the telegraphed return-to-work request from the wage stabilization board had not been received last night. He said "we want to co-operate with government agencies involved in every way that is consistent with the interests of our membership and of the general welfare."

Clark added: "we cannot, of course, agree to call off our strike unless and until we receive assurances from the government that it will press for acceptance by the companies of its own proposal for settlement of the dispute."

The four major companies affected by the strike are the Anaconda Copper Mining Company, Phelps Dodge Corporation, Kennecott Copper Company, American Smelting and Refining and their subsidiaries.

Rome, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The highest officers of the west's southern flank defenses went into conference today to determine how soon Italy will be strong enough to hold her own northeast frontier.

Sources close to the Italian defence ministry said that the target for completion of Italy's new defence program has been fixed for 1953. But the Atlantic pact command expects Italy to be strong enough by next year to hold her mountain-studded front long enough for help to get here.

Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, deputy supreme commander of Atlantic pact forces, came here for the talks after two weeks of examination of the Alpine defences and daily inspections of Italian forces there.

Allies Charge

Wednesday.

It could mean a conditional offer to resume armistice talks which the Reds broke off Thursday while a sub-committee was trying to reach agreement on a demilitarized zone across Korea.

The note told Ridgway: "Only when your military aircraft violated the neutral zone over our delegation as its target, attempting to murder them, was our delegation compelled to suspend the meetings and wait for your side to take responsible action about the incident."

"We hereby once more propose to you that this grave act of provocation should be dealt with by your side with an attitude of serious responsibility. Then the continuation of the negotiations for a just and reasonable armistice agreement can be guaranteed."

"At the same time we demand that you order your liaison officers to proceed to Kaesong to carry out a reinvestigation jointly with our liaison officers of the incident that occurred on Aug. 22 when your military aircraft bombed and strafed the vicinity of the residence of our delegation in order once again to suspend the full validity of our protest."

A high-ranking officer at general headquarters commented: "If Gen. Ridgway accedes to the enemy demand to investigate the bombing incident, he will have to eat his own words, for he has already declared the whole affair absolutely false."

"I don't think Ridgway will do it—unless he receives definite instructions from higher up."

Ridgway consistently has received strong support from his superiors.

Monday Washington announced it had given Ridgway approval to bomb the Red supply port of Rashin, only 17 miles from Soviet Siberia.

Gen. MacArthur, Ridgway's predecessor here, has testified he was denied approval for such a bombing raid for fear bombs might be dropped on Siberian territory, precipitating an international incident.

Thirty-five B-29 Superforts blasted Rashin Saturday with 300 tons of bombs.

U.N. plans have been attacking motor convoys moving along highways toward the front. Bad weather cut down U.N. air attacks Monday and provided cover for Red truck movements.

The rains also helped screen growing Red counter-attacks on the ground, which forced some limited U.N. withdrawals.

U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Aug. 28.—(C)—An all-day battle raged today in the rain-soaked hills north of Yangu on the east Korean front.

The rest of the front, which had flared with increasingly heavy clashes Monday, quieted under low clouds that often obscured entire ridgelines.

Rain and mist dampened the entire battle lines. Ground action was limited largely to scattered artillery barrages and sporadic fights between patrols. Most planes were grounded.

Reds took advantage of the weather and slipped small groups of infantrymen into position north of Yangu for assaults on allied ridge positions. The communists troops attacked at 9 A.M. (7 P.M. EDT Monday). By noon two reinforced companies were trying to crack United Nations positions.

The attack was in the same general area where a Red attack Monday forced U.N. troops back nearly two miles. The fight lasted until midnight.

Yangu is seven miles north of the 38th parallel.

Ships of a U.N. task force duelled for the third successive day with communist shore batteries hidden in the cliffs near Wonsan.

The U.S. destroyer Hopewell scored 10 direct hits in this action on a communist bivouac area. Communist fire came close but did not damage any of the allied ships.

On the west coast, the British frigates Mounts Bay and Morecambe Bay steamed up the Han river estuary to shell communist troops and big gun positions near Pungdogni, headquarters said.

H. H. Bishop, for two weeks has returned home. Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bishop have been visitors at the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Weston and two daughters, Priscilla and Shirley Ann, Miss Dorothy Heath and Miss Sheila Bishop attended the Cookshire Fair.

DOROTHY DIX

Keep Your Friends

Engaged Couple Should Not Sever All Former Ties

DEAR MISS DIX: Am I selfish to expect my fiancé to give up his friends for me? We always seem to be arguing over this problem, as he feels free to go out with them the night he is not with me—which is about three or four nights a week. I think we should both give up our friends except for an occasional visit or a double date. I can't understand how a man who is engaged can go out for good times with the boys. Will he settle down when we are married?

GINNY

ANSWER: A happy medium is the best solution to your problem—as it is to almost everything. Most engaged couples become so wrapped up in each other that all former friends are neglected and eventually lost—a most unwise policy. The glamour of romance doesn't last very long and it soon becomes apparent that two people cannot be as self-sufficient as they were in courting days. No friends ever fully take the place of old ones, who grow more dear as the years go by.

THEY TAKE SECOND PLACE

With marriage, the companions of our youth should be relegated to second place, of course, but not abandoned completely. Your fiancé may be overdoing the good time he has with the old gang, but the real error here is his insistence that you give up your friends. This you should absolutely refuse to do. On the nights he is out without you, you should be free to go to movies, for walks—even skating or bowling—with other girls.

It is, to say the least, unusual for a man in love to willingly his temperance by now, and it is up to you to judge whether or spend so much time away from his sweetheart. You should know not his devotion will carry over to the restraint of married life. If he is too set on having good times now, you do well to question his stability.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: How can a group of office girls cope with a co-worker, whom I shall call Jane, who is constantly bragging about the wonderful work she does and how indispensable she is? She always has to have the best of everything—if one of us has a new dress, she boasts of one she has that's ten times better. Then, she has a boy friend with whom she is very much in love. We are constantly told how wonderful he is, but he is always breaking dates with her, sometimes neglects her completely for days on end, never gives her a gift—even on her birthday. We have to listen to all these details, but she pays no attention to anyone else's stories.

THREE GIRLS

ANSWER: Jane is a very confused girl, and a little help from one of you girls may mean a lot to her. Sometimes—perhaps the miserable treatment she is receiving from a man she loves, or perhaps something earlier in her life—has given her a very warped outlook on the world, and her only sense of security comes through the importance she acquires in her own eyes by constant bragging. This is the simplest, and most frequent, form of self-delusion. Be assured, behind this false front of braggadocio lives a very hurt and very bewildered young lady. Dependable friends could help overcome her inferiority. Change your attitude towards her; instead of seeing Jane as an obnoxious interloper, try to understand her difficulty and by helpful suggestions you might even succeed in getting her a new boy friend and a new interest in life.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 16 and am forbidden by my parents to go with boys. They are going on a vacation this summer and I will be staying with relatives. I am sure these relatives will give me their permission to go with boys, and since they are taking care of me wouldn't it be all right for me to go out under these circumstances?

LORRAINE

ANSWER: It most certainly would not! Since you are perfectly well aware of your parents' attitude on the subject, you'd be guilty of willful disobedience to take advantage of their absence.

W. A. Holds Garden Party At Ayer's Cliff

Ayer's Cliff, Aug. 28 — Mrs. K. Cooper, with Miss Vivian Richardson as joint hostess, assisted by the ladies of the Heathton Women's Association, planned a Garden Party at the "Cooper Farm" but due to the bad humor of the weatherman, who gave them a down pour of rain, the plans had to be altered and a delightful "Gallery Party" took place.

The Food Booth was wonderfully well patronized and the food vanished in a very few minutes.

The large display of fancy work was sold down to the very last article, and from these a satisfactory sum was realized.

The bountiful supper of baked beans, and salad was served to a large number of guests, especially summer visitors at Lake Memphremagog, and Lake Massawippi. Rev. McKindley Rose, and Mrs. Rose, of Stanstead, were present, and despite the dreary cold weather, the cheery atmosphere of the hostesses and seasonable flowers in profusion, a most enjoyable evening was spent.

The Children's Corner

Mouth-Watering Legend

Upon Boston-Made Pie

BY LEE PRIESTLEY

THE goodwife of colonial Boston looked at the breakfast table. Breakfast was a hearty meal in those long ago days. Hasty pudding, codfish cakes, samp, rashers of bacon with eggs, crullers and—

"Oh, my soul!" said the goodwife.

Where was the pie? No self-respecting New Englander could do a day's work unless he anchored his breakfast with a slab of dried apple pie swimming in maple syrup. But she had forgotten the pie and there was no time to bake one.

There would be time to whip up a sweet cake. But the Goodman did not like cake for breakfast. Only last week he had said so.

"Laws, husband," the goodwife had said as she cut another quarter of pie for him, "do you never tire of pie for breakfast?"

"Why, no, Martha," the Goodman had said, looking surprised at the question. "I don't feel that I've had a substantial meal without a piece of your good pie to top it off."

"But wouldn't you like a change? Would not a nice cake be tasty?"

"Cake for breakfast?" The Goodman shook his head and took another bite. "Oh, no, I wouldn't like cake for breakfast!"

The goodwife came to a decision and reached for her batter bowl. Quickly she mixed and baked two fluffy layers of cake in the round pie tins. When the cake came hot and fragrant from the oven, she spread home-made jam between the layers and covered the top thick with sugared cream. Then she cut her new invention into pie-shaped pieces and served the Goodman.

He smacked his lips and returned his emptied plate. "I'll have another piece of this new pie, Martha," he said. "What kind is it?" Martha cut another wedge and turned her head to hide her smile. "Boston cream pie," she said, naming her new cake.

The Goodman cut into the second piece. "This is very good. I always say there's nothing like pie for breakfast!"

So we still call a plain cake with a jelly or custard filling a Boston cream pie just as did the housewives who smiled and served it to their Goodman who would not eat cake for breakfast.

ASBESTOS CAN BE VERSATILE

• Another outstanding example of Johns-Manville engineering and ingenuity! Asbestos and portland cement processed under terrific hydraulic pressures into an all-purpose building board that becomes literally "a sheet of stone"... immune to moisture, easy to work and practically imperishable.

J-M Flexboard can't burn, rot or decay. It is easily painted yet needs no paint for preservative purposes. Light in weight, J-M Flexboard is incredibly strong; yet with all its toughness, is readily worked with ordinary tools and can even be curved if desired!

J-M Flexboard has a hard, smooth gray finish that resists scuffing and is easily kept clean. For indoor and outdoor building purposes, it has countless uses. For free folder on Flexboard, see your J-M dealer or write Canadian Johns-Manville, Dept. N-23, 199 Bay St., Toronto.

ASBESTOS in action

Asbestos is truly one of nature's miracles — it can't burn, rust, rot or wear out.

Through Johns-Manville research, asbestos has been "harnessed" to serve in countless ways. For example, one of the more recent J-M accomplishments is Transite asbestos-cement Pipe.

Today, hundreds of forward-looking municipalities count on Transite Pipe for clean, sparkling drinking water... it is also widely used for safe, efficient sewage disposal, house connection and drainage purposes. Industry specifies Transite Pipe to solve tough venting problems and to carry electrical and telephone cables.

Yet, every day new uses are being found for this product of asbestos research!

Spanish-American Talk Of Interest At Derby Line

Derby Line, Aug. 28. — "The United States has always been reluctant to start a war because we know the horror of it," said William Dailey, of Derby, in the course of a talk about various aspects of the Spanish-American War, at the regular meeting of the Rotary Club of the Boundary, held at the Del Monty Hotel.

The main subject of the talk was Lieut. Rowan and his delivery of the famous "Message to Garcia," but Mr. Dailey also spoke of several of the other aspects of this short war. The people of Cuba requested the United States to protect Spain over their treatment, said the speaker, but it was only after repeated requests that a diplomatic note was finally sent. The reply, in essence, said that we should mind our own business, and the whole matter might have ended there but for the sinking of the battleship Maine, in Havana harbor.

"Three hundred Americans were lost when the battleship was sunk," said Mr. Dailey, "and though the Spanish government protested that it was an internal explosion that caused the sinking, it was later proved that the ship was destroyed from an outside explosion, probably a mine."

Admiral Dewey, a Vermonter, who lived in Montpelier, after he retired, and whose home was purchased for him by the people of Vermont, was one of the heroes of the war. His winning the battle of Manila Bay, where he sank or captured eight Spanish warships without one loss of an American life or boat, was a feat that brought him world-wide fame.

"The Spanish fleet near Cuba, stayed in Havana harbor, and the entrance to the harbor was so narrow and well fortified as to make it almost impossible to enter, and the enemy ships would not come out and fight. The American ships were needed at Santiago, but some way had to be devised to either destroy or bottle up the ships at Havana. Thanks to Lt. Richard Hobson, a ship was brought into the narrow passage at night, sunk in such a manner as to plug the harbor, and enable the American vessels to aid the army at Santiago. The result was that Hobson also became a famous hero."

"It was felt that the aid of General Garcia, who led a group of Cuban insurgents, would be needed to aid in the attack on Cuba, and finally a message from President McKinley was given to Lt. Rowan, who, after a hazardous trip by boat and land, was able to deliver the message."

"It was after the war when Elbert Hubbard, then publisher of the Philistine, a monthly journal, and the head of a small printing plant in East Aurora, N.Y., was talking with his son about the war that ended a short time before that the idea for the famous 'Message to Garcia' was born. The son said that his teacher had told him that she regarded Lt. Rowan as a true hero, and that evening, Elbert Hubbard sat down and wrote the short piece that just filled the blank space in the issue of his magazine that was soon due from the press."

"The 'Message to Garcia' aroused great attention and requests poured into East Aurora for reprints. Finally, the New York Central Railroad secured permission to make reprints, as Hubbard's plant could not take care of the quantities required. Printing in lots of 100,000 at a time, they supplied the demand. The message made Hubbard famous, enabled him to enlarge and increase his plant, and made East Aurora, a tourist center as the headquarters of the Roycrofters."

"No one actually knows how many copies of the famous piece were printed, but Hubbard's son estimated the quantity at over one hundred million. Elbert Hubbard and his wife died when the Lusitania was sunk during the first World War."

President David Goodell presided at the meeting, and was presented with a Rotary pin by past president, C. R. Darby. A letter of thanks from the Crippled Children's Camp at Ayer's Cliff for a

Gosselin And Manning Hurl Locals To Victory; Gain On Leaders In Close Fight; Braves Pay Last Visit

Sherbrooke Athletics last night made a big gain towards reducing the margin by the two top teams when they swept a doubleheader from the Royals of Three Rivers 4-2 and 11-1.

The twin win enabled the locals to gain considerable ground on Granby and Drummondville, who lost out last night. The A's trail the Red Sox by two and a half games and the Cubs by three hits.

This evening the Braves of St. Johns will pay their final visit of the season to the Park Avenue Stadium to tangle with the A's and Gladu's squad will have to be on their toes if they wish to maintain their present pace.

So tonight's game between the Athletics and St. John's is really important. The first division teams have had to suffer quite a few setbacks lately at the hands of the second division teams. The first mentioned are anxious to improve their play-off positions, whereas the latter want to finish as near first division as possible and prove to their fans that Lady Luck really prevented them from being in the play-offs.

St. John's will be here with its renowned pitchers, Mizera's crew know very well that their stay in St. John's is not so sure for next year. The players are therefore trying very hard to impress the management. In St. John's many believe that if young Monette had been used regularly, he would have shown that he was a sure bet in the Provincial League.

Since he has played regularly, Monette has shown lots of class both at bat and in the field. His long hits have helped the Braves in all their recent wins.

In Sherbrooke, Garcia, Duany and Gladu are waging a hot fight for the batting crown of the team. Sherbrooke still entertains hopes of finishing in the first two spots of the standing. Since the beginning of August, the team has played excellent ball, and Granby and Drummondville will have to play good ball if they do not want the Athletics to squeeze past them before the end of the scheduled.

Last night "Goose" Gosselin tossed a four-hitter in the opening tilt while in the closing game Maxwell Manning came through with a three-hitter while the locals pounded out an over-total of twenty-eight hits.

In the first game Gonzalez picked up three hits while Garcia, Duany, Ballester and Gosselin accounted for the hits. In the nightcap the roof caved in on the Royals when they pounded out twenty-one hits. Ballester was the pace setter with five, Gonzalez had four with Duany and Metzger gathered three. Gladu registered two while Garcia, Pages and Manning accounted for singletons.

Ballester had a circuit blow in the second game and a double in the first. Gonzalez, Metzger, Garcia and Duany had doubles in the assault.

Upsets Mark First-Round Play In Canadian Amateur; John McCormick Ekes Out One-Up Win Over Weslock

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—(P)—There isn't a sure bet in sight for the Canadian Amateur Golf Championship, thanks largely to the giant-killing of a freshman.

John McCormick of Toronto is pretty much of a giant himself in size. A 27-year-old blonde, he's six feet four. But in the golf world up to now he's been just another four handicapper.

When he came up against husky Nick Weslock of Windsor in the opening round yesterday of the Canadian Amateur at the Royal Ottawa, the experts literally shattered for him.

For Weslock is to Canadian amateurs what Ben Hogan is to United States pros. The wedge expert broke the competitive course record Saturday in a par-shattering display which paced Ontario to the Willingdon Cup. Even his practice rounds were sensational par-breaking performances.

So what happens? McCormick, whose home club is the nine-hole Toronto Humber Valley course, knocks off the tournament ace, one up.

Walt McElroy of Vancouver was the only British Columbia Willingdon Cupper to play and he defeated R. C. Duchemin of Sydney, N.S., 2 and 1.

Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver, the defending amateur champion, drew a bye and is drawn against a defeated player in the second round.

Gerry Kesseler of Kitchener, Ont., former Canadian Junior Champ and Ontario Willingdon Cupper, boosted his stock as outstanding contender for the title by defeating Jim Gibson of Toronto 5 and 4.

The most lopsided victory of the round was posted by veteran J. G. (Sonny) Adams of Toronto, a 7 and 6 win over R. B. Prescott of Lake Placid, N.Y.

Another American to be eliminated was Dr. T. N. Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., brother of

E.T. Golfers Advance In Canadian Amateur

Royal Ottawa Golf Club, Aug. 28.—(P)—Two Granby, Que., golfers were drawn for today's second round of the Canadian amateur golf championship.

Dr. W. K. MacDonald was to tee off at 10 a.m., against A. W. Carter of Dartmouth, N.S., the latter having moved up after a first-round bye.

Don Doe, Granby star who was a member of the Quebec Willingdon Cup team, was to play at 12:37 p.m., against Jimmy Doyle of Winnipeg. Doe also moved to second round following a bye.

Local Attendance Reaches 93,789; Five Games Left To Obtain Objective

SIX THOUSAND, TWO HUNDRED AND ELEVEN fans must attend the remaining five scheduled games at the Ball Park, if the $1000 is to be drawn.

93,789 persons have attended the ball games so far this season and 6,211 fans have to go through the gates before the 100,000 objective is reached.

The weather in August has not been favorable to the fans in their effort to win the challenge of the ball club to have 100,000 fans at the Stadium in 1951.

Many games have had small attendance on account of the weather. However, everything is ready for the drawing of the $1000 and as seen as 100,000 attendance is reached the fans will take part in this most unique drawing of $1,000.

Each person attending a game at the ball park should save the ticket that is handed to him for this drawing, as this may be worth a nice sum of money to him before the end of the schedule.

Jack Jacobs Paces Bombers To Victory

Winnipeg, Aug. 28.—(P)—Sharp-shooting Jack Jacobs last night passed Winnipeg Blue Bombers to a 34-24 victory over Calgary Stampeders for their first win in the young Western Football Union season.

The victory, before 10,000 fans, gave the defending Western champions an even split in a week-end doubleheader. They lost Saturday to Edmonton Eskimos. It was Stamps' second loss in as many starts.

Jacobs scored one touchdown, passed for three others and kicked a single to the deadline.

Milwaukee — Paddy Demarco, 36, New York, outpointed featherweight champion Sandy Saddler, 128 1/2, New York, non-title 10.

Grace Lenczyk, two-time Canadian Women's Champion, lost 3 and 1 to Ernie Bentley of Toronto.

McCormick, a chain-smoker who doesn't bother removing his cigarette when he shoots, used a hot putter to take command in his match with Weslock. He was two up at the turn.
