Gutkind scores council inaction on SARA report

Westmount city council was challenged last night, before an applauding, standing-room-only chamber of some 45 citizens, to make, "a major contribution toward preserving worthwhile segments of urban communities" here as an example to the rest of Canada and North America.

The challenger was McGill Prof. Peter C. W. Gutkind, 23 Winchester avenue, co-author nearly two years ago of a proposal for "The Somerville Residential Area and Victoria Village," who deplored the fact that, thus far, the plan had got nowhere with the city "because we were too co-operative."

Representing the Somerville Area Residents' Association, which presented its report to the city in November 1972, Prof. Gutkind deplored the subsequent findings of the city's hired traffic consultants who, he said, completely misunderstood the SARA ideas in "monumental intellectual confusion."

City council does not understand what citizens' groups—and he included the recently formed Greene Avenue Village Association with his own—are about, he asserted. The two were potentially important and creative.

Sees malaise

He felt it may be "part of a subtle malaise"—a fear that Westmount's time may be nearing its end—that the city failed to recognize how creative citizens can be.

"We don't want to be crushed by experts. We want to be taken seriously. Indeed, we consider ourselves experts, because we live here."

Perhaps, Prof. Gutkind suggested, council does not respond to co-operation but only to screams.

Mayor Paul Ouimet, who with five aldermen listened intently, responded by saying he had great respect for the city's architectural and planning commission, who commanded knowledge and respect, tended to underplay their hand and

Two-hour council meeting

Over 40 spectators—including several standing in the lobby outside the council chamber—were on hand for last night's delayed mid-month city council meeting, which included a lengthy agenda and extensive debate during the question period about both the Greene avenue and Somerville avenue areas.

The formal city council meeting, three minutes late in starting, lasted 32 minutes, much longer than average. The debate which followed lasted until 9:56, after which numerous citizens talked privately among city councillors for another half hour.

Both Mayor Paul Ouimet and Ald. Leeds Nelson noted the presence of Miss Alice Lighthall, president of the Westmount Historical Association, among the spectators; she received a hearty round of applause when singled out by the mayor, as did former Mayor Peter McIntyre.

Ald. Donald MacCallum was the only councillor not present. He was out of town.

Bicyclist, 16, squeezed by car on Claremont

A 16-year-old bicyclist was injured last Thursday evening when he was struck by a right-turning auto on Claremont avenue near Parkman Place.

Mrs. Kathryn Preston, 41, of 544 Claremont avenue was turning into her driveway from Claremont at 8:30 pm in a 1973 Rambler, unaware that Bruce David Anderson of Montreal was bicycling on her right. The young boy was unable to avoid a collision with the car and was thrown from the bike on impact.

Young Anderson was taken to the Montreal Children's Hospital by Westmount Police ambulance, where he was treated for undetermined injuries and released. The mishap caused scratches on the right side of Mrs. Preston's car, along with a broken radio antenna.

House sacked

Thieves broke into a home at 4854 Westmount avenue by breaking a window in the basement door between 10 am Saturday and 6 pm Monday. They ransacked the house and made off with a slide projector, a 35-mm. camera and some jewelry.

Chateau lockers set afire

A fire thought to have been deliberately set erupted in a seventh-floor locker room at Chateau Maisonneuve, 4998 de Maisonneuve boulevard, at 10:20 pm Monday.

The fire, which filled the hallway with smoke and set off alarms on nearby floors as well as the seventh floor, was traced to one locker which was badly damaged; a nearby locker showed some char near the bottom of the door, causing investigators to suspect that arson had been attempted on both.

The Montreal Urban Community Police arson squad was called to the scene and is continuing investigation. Similar deliberately-set fires occurred in the apartment complex last spring and summer, but no arsonist ever was caught.

Arson squad probes blaze

The Montreal Urban Community Police arson squad is investigating a fire which developed in some rubbish beneath a balcony at 12 Oakland avenue Saturday at 1 pm. The fire, which was in full flame by the time Westmount Police and the Westmount Fire Brigade arrived, was confined to some loose wood and garbage.

A resident of the dwelling said he had found other traces of charred leaves and paper beneath the balcony about a week before, giving fire officials the impression both may have been deliberately set.

Glass smashed

Westmount police patrolling lower Westmount at 3 pm Monday found that a large plate glass window in a vacant building at 3401 St. Antoine street had been smashed with a rock.

Youth admits 2 more fires

The 15-year-old Montreal youth arrested and charged with setting a fire at 2106-2112 Claremont avenue and four fires in Westmount Monday of last week has confessed to perpetrating two more Westmount blazes. The Examiner has learned.

The boy will be charged with arson inside a private garage at 363 Kitchener avenue which erupted at 8 pm Monday, as well as a small blaze among construction debris on Hillside avenue at 9:22 pm the previous Saturday.

Local police have not yet received a report of judgement rendered in Montreal Social Welfare Court.

Taxi backs up and runs down would-be fare

A taxi backing up to collect a potential passenger on Greene avenue south of de Maisonneuve boulevard succeeded in backing right into the woman, causing injuries requiring hospital treatment.

Fay Miller, 30, of Notre Dame de Grace hailed the cab, a 1973 Chevrolet driven by Andre Veillette of Montreal, at 11:45 pm. The cabbie stopped upon seeing her and started to back up as she came out into the quiet street. He hit her, knocked her down and caused undetermined injuries.

The woman was taken to the Reddy Memorial Hospital by Westmount Police ambulance and released after treatment.

Berlow fielded by NDP

Peter Berlow

Some 75 Westmount constituency members of the New Democratic Party, meeting in a private home on nearby Grey avenue last evening, chose a 33-year-old teacher of chemistry and academic administrator at Dawson College's Lafontaine campus to be their standard bearer in the July 8 federal general election.

He is Peter Berlow, 2062 Vendome avenue, graduate of Princeton and Cornell universities with a Ph.D. from the latter and a year at the University of Montreal where he perfected his French.

He came here from New York six years ago and recently gained his Canadian citizenship. He is married and has a two-year-old daughter.

The new NDP candidate, who said he did not actively seek the role until nominated last night, beat out by a 5-to-1 ratio vote the only other nominee, Peter N. Smith, a downtown Montreal tax consultant. Mr. Berlow had assisted in the 1972 campaign of his predecessor, Robert Keaton.

He said he saw the likely issues in the election as economics, inflation and unemployment and, possibly, housing and redevelopment.

Extinguishers again target

Eleven fire extinguishers vanished from two Westmount apartment buildings Friday afternoon.

Seven brass extinguishers were stolen from four floors and the basement of The Abbey, 4643 Sherbrooke street between 2:30 and 5 o'clock. Four others, worth $25 each, were found missing from four floors of 250 Kensington avenue at 4:30 the same day.

$60,000 worth of works gear given approval

Tenders for purchase of two new garbage trucks, their compactor equipment and an asphalt roller were approved by city council last night, meaning a commitment of close to $60,000, from a loan by-law which itself has yet to be approved.

A capital works equipment by-law described only as "by-law 436 pro tem" is expected to be brought forward soon.

Four alternative tenders were submitted by International Harvester of Canada, the only company to submit tenders, for purchase of two new motor truck chassis and tilt cabs. The difference between the alternatives, public works commissioner Ald. Douglas Robertson explained, was in types of transmissions used.

The lowest offer of $16,508 per truck was accepted, with the addition of an escalation rate of not more than 9.5 percent between now and the time of delivery, expected in 8 to 10 months. A $4,000 trade-in was subtracted from the price for a city commitment of $34,315.

The tender of SMI Industries limited for garbage compactor bodies—which will be mounted on the trucks—of $9,576 per unit, federal sales tax included—turned out substantially lower than the offer of Inter-Provincial Equipment Ltd. at $10,700, federal tax not included. SMI also offered a trade-in of $3,000 for old city equipment, compared with $2,000 offered by Inter-Provincial.

The city committed $20,685 from the expected by-law for purchase of this equipment.

Ald. Robertson then asked council for another $4,485 commitment to cover purchase of a vibratory asphalt roller from Duke Equipment Co. Ltd., who beat out two other companies to gain the contract. Duke offered to sell the roller for $4,150, below a Halls Equipment Ltd. tender of $4,450. Both were substantially lower than the offer of Pneumatic Equipment Rentals Ltd., which wanted $8,160 for the machine.

The three approvals by city council were preceded by lengthy reports on the opening of tenders, read by Assistant City Clerk Peter Patenaude.

ROAD WORKS

At city council's mid-month meeting last night, approval of funds for street resurfacing and sidewalk and step reconstruction were approved along with money for reconstruction of the Edgemoor road section.

Streets to be resurfaced include Clarke avenue from Montrose avenue north to the cul-de-sac; Roslyn avenue between Cote St. Antoine road and Westmount avenue; Mt. Pleasant avenue from St. Sulpice road to The Boulevard, and all of Hillside avenue. Sidewalks on all of these sectors will be reconstructed, as will the sidewalks on Hollowell avenue north of the CPR right-of-way and on Sherbrooke street's north side between Kensington and Metcalfe avenues.

In addition, the public steps connecting Mt. Pleasant avenue's sections between Rosemount Crescent and Severn avenue will be rebuilt.

proceed cautiously. The commission also had been engulfed in problems, but probably would not be shortly. He asked City Manager Norman Dawe to elaborate.

Mr. Dawe said the situation was not so black, and the SARA group should not lose heart. The Somerville proposals had been on the architectural and planning commission's agenda every month and he could now say that it was expected to have recommendations before city council in less than a month.

SARA consulted

Meanwhile, there had been consultations with SARA on the location of the Metro, which may have destroyed part of the area before being located, and further discussion on the DeLeuw-Cather traffic engineers' report.

Ald. Douglas Robertson said there had been a great deal of competition for the time of council, the commission and the city staff. He suggested that SARA should be calling their aldermen. He drew jeers when he added: "Show get up and go!"

Earlier, Mrs. JoAnn Isenman, leader of the Greene Village group, thanked the mayor for his response to their petition regarding the preservation of the old post office building and the character of the surrounding area and reported that the federal department of public works' representative, J. P. La

Demolition due in week

Mondev Corporation will begin demolition of buildings on the northeast corner of St. Catherine street and Greene avenue June 1, The Examiner has learned, to prepare for construction of a high-rise tower on the site.

Work on the new addition to Westmount Square was expected to have begun in the fall, but increasing pressure for conservation of the area from the Green Avenue Village Association has reportedly been the cause for speed-up of scheduling.

Ferriere, had said his department felt a moral obligation to consult with the city over the post office disposition. The mayor affirmed that he, too, had been in discussion with Mr. La Ferriere.

Miss Alice Lighthall, president of the Westmount Historical Society, said there should be more efforts to save the post office as a valuable historical asset of the city.

Ex-Mayor Peter M. McEntyre, also in the audience, suggested that the Greene avenue group were going to the wrong people on the question. They should be going to the candidates in the upcoming federal election.

Planning is local Architect Michael Fish disagreed. "Town planning is local, not federal." A strong resolution was needed from city council expressing its concern to Ottawa. "Greene avenue is a real rarity," he stated.

Mayor Ouimet said that the architectural and planning commission has Greene under study and had always restricted its redevelopment in the past. He urged the group to continue their discussions with the commission, who were council's trusted advisers.

The SARA discourse was introduced later by John Hodkinson, 10 Burton avenue, who submitted a letter to council (see copy in "You Say," page 5) urging implementation of the traffic-restricting proposals of the SARA report.

At the conclusion of discussion and the two-hour meeting, Mayor Ouimet declared:

"Message received."

New dog-catcher out; stay on leash, Sport

Dog-catcher Daniel Tremblay and his truck

Westmount dogs, beware. Stay on your leash, because the dog-catcher is on the loose.

Daniel Tremblay, who turned 20 yesterday, is going to spend the summer patrolling Westmount's parks, streets and laneways, collecting stray dogs, making sure others are on their leashes, and answering complaints about dogs from Westmount citizens.

Daniel will be using a maroon city pick-up truck during his travels, with two pens mounted on the back. Stray dogs will be taken to the Westmount Police station for identification; if tagged, their owners will be notified. They can be recovered for a $2 fine.

If a dog is not recovered the day it is picked up, it will be sent to the SPCA, where the owner will be charged $1 a day rooming fees along with the $2 fine.

It might be better, dogs, to stay on your leash.

8 offers received for old PO

Eight proposals have been received by the federal public works department for the re-use or redevelopment of the old Westmount post office at Greene avenue and de Maisonneuve boulevard, it was learned this week, after tenders for the proposals were opened last Wednesday.

Six of the proposals are said to suggest a re-use of the present building, while the two others would have the building torn down for new development on the site.

A spokesman for the public works department said it probably would be some time before the government would decide which proposal would be accepted. The department only recently began leasing land for non-government use, and the spokesman admitted inexperience in considering such tenders.

Meanwhile, the second meeting of the Greene Avenue Village Association with the city's architectural and planning commission, scheduled for Tuesday morning, was postponed. The association has been primarily concerned with preservation of the old postal building as well as the character of the entire Greene avenue shopping district.

The question is slated for discussion at a special meeting of the Westmount Municipal Association's advisory council on Tuesday evening, June 11, at Victoria Hall. The new advisory council is to be elected at the WMA's annual meeting next Wednesday, May 29.

The following building permits were issued at city hall during the past week:

May 9

- 568 Claremont: for G.H. Barnes by Hasko Construction and Rochefort and Santos Associates, alterations and plumbing, $1,500;
- 104 Abbott: for F.F. Gavin by J.H. MacIntyre Ltd., to instal two new sinks, $1,000;

May 14

- 225 Kensington: for Trust General du Canada by Robert Plumbing and Heating, air test on a gas line, $200;

We Say

Fear, alarm is on French side

FEAR and alarm are easy to come by in the Quebec Anglophone community this week.

Yet, plans to sell out and head to Ontario, B.C. or other parts are even less heard than the scattered exits contemplated at the height of the FLQ bombings and kidnappings of a few short years ago.

Introduction of a piece of bad legislation Tuesday is unlikely to achieve what high explosive did not.

WHEN we say "bad legislation," it is not to condemn the end for which French Canada has for so long been groping—the preservation of its unique language and culture—but the means.

Bill 22 is poor law. In the words of Westmount's member, Hon. Kevin Drummond, it is a compromise, an attempt to find a middle way.

Mr. Drummond thinks that in these qualities it is moderate.

We think, in its imprecision, in its dependence upon cabinet-decreed regulation, in its creation of more bureaucracy aimed at enforcement, in the arbitrariness it thus can spawn, it may prove to be utterly counter-productive.

IF there is fear, it must clearly be on the side of those concerned for French.

And on the side of the government, having promised its Francophone supporters at the last election that it would act on "the language issue," felt it had to move even though its course was unclear—and still is, in that it expects and invites submissions for possible wholesale amendment of its proposals.

Anger and outrage are possible for those of us whose mother tongue is English or, for that matter, any language but French.

But already it is seen that anger and outrage are being felt by the proponents of a separate, isolated, unilingual state of Quebec. For the moment those emotions can be left to the latter while sane, sensible, reasoned arguments are marshalled to rationalize Bill 22 in the weeks ahead.

LET us remember that the fear and alarm in French Canada over its future has been longer felt and is more deep seated, for good reason, than anything resident Anglos may feel.

Bill 22 is, whatever else, a fumbling and groping in the face of the rest of Canada, the neighboring United States, indeed a world in which the English language has become the lingua franca. Those of us who admire and respect the diversity French Canada brings to the nation's culture should be feeling sympathy and understanding for the predicament of our compatriots.

And in the difficulty of this awkward attempt we should marshal all our constructive understanding to assist in making this a good law.

It is a major challenge, for English and French Quebecer alike, if only to expose and eradicate the negativisms with which the bill abounds and which could be its downfall.

Unhappily, there are few positive avenues for support of the French language in the measure—for assuring its co-existence in the sea of English which surrounds and penetrates Quebec.

If allowed to stand and become law, Bill 22 can only hasten the demise of the culture it is intended to protect.

A rampaging river which erodes and destroys its banks becomes a muddy stream, eventually but a string of isolated swamps.

Better a serene, clear brook.

Dear Mr. Pare:

I am writing to you on behalf of the Greene Avenue Village Association, an association composed of a group of Westmount citizens and merchants who are concerned about the future of Greene avenue district.

For the last 10 years, development and speculation in this area have been allowed free rein. There has been little or no control over what has been demolished or developed. Citizens who have wished to express their concern have not been sufficiently organized to make their feelings known or appreciated. Therefore,

school commissioner
Joan Rothman
says...

The need for more autonomy

The commissioners of the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal have been discussing the issue of decentralization this school year.

The word decentralization can be defined in many ways and I shall try to describe some of the general and more particular views of decentralization.

As you know, the quiet revolution in education in Quebec that began around the 1960s evolved into an immense network of schools throughout the province, fashioned according to official interpretations of the Parent Report and, as is the wont of bureaucracies all over the world, the system became increasingly centralized, after the creation of a department of education in the middle 60s.

Some of the centralization was most necessary. There were small, and in some areas, very badly-run school boards. Outside the Island of Montreal all school boards were brought together into regions, under Bill 27. This same bill introduced elected parent bodies in each school: school committees.

Montreal posed an unique problem in this educational re-organization. Bill 28, which attempted to unify the many school boards on the Island of Montreal, was defeated and finally a form of re-organization took place with the passage of Bill 71.

You remember that Bill 71 reduced the number of boards on the Island to eight, thereby creating larger boards that could be more efficiently operated within the modern structures of education (or so the arguments went). This same bill also created an Island council to co-ordinate finances and over-all planning for these eight school boards.

All-level autonomy

Thus one of the areas of decentralization we have been discussing is the need for increased autonomy for the Montreal Island Council, vis-a-vis the department of education and, more importantly, increased autonomy for the individual school boards under the Island Council.

For instance, the PSBGM officers have written a brief called "The Politique du Livre." Mr. Stanley has presented this brief in Quebec, making a reasoned and valid argument for allowing school boards to buy their own books, as in the past. The government regulation protecting booksellers in Quebec has increased the cost of books and has created great difficulty in efficient ordering.

A welcome form of decentralization could and should occur, if the Island Council gave each board its allotment of money in a lump sum and allowed the board, within reason, the power to spend that money according to its own needs and structures. This kind of freedom would also depend on the government viewing their rations and regulations in a more flexible manner.

These issues go beyond the confines of the PSBGM. But decentralization is an argued issue within the board and sometimes each commissioner has his own definition. As the year ends we find ourselves coming to some conclusions, and one of them is that each school is different! All you have to do is visit the four elementary schools in Ward 4 to realize this: Herbert Symonds, Willingdon, Westmount Park, and Roslyn schools.

We are beginning to believe that most relevant decisions for these schools can be made by the people most involved: the principals, the teachers and the parents. The commissioners have discussed granting a sum of money to each school and letting the principal and staff set their own budget priorities.

As for concrete action, we have tended to "decentralize" the solution of certain problems, and one is the implementation of Regulation 7. This tells us that Grade 7 is to be considered part of secondary school and should be thus organized so that an educational plan called Cycle One and Cycle Two can be co-ordinated for Grades 7 and 8.

This plan was created to humanize the high school schedule for these younger students. It groups them in home rooms where they spend time enough to identify with their classmates and to know a few teachers well, and the plan encourages them to explore a wider range of courses and disciplines before they have to make some serious decisions as to their future in Grade 9.

The Cycle One program seems to be a good one, but depends on space, the high school building and what they can offer, and the needs of the students.

In some areas the Grade 7s are integrated in the high school, as at Westmount High School, and in other areas such as West Hill High School, the student enters at Grade 8. Our few, new, composite or polyvalent high schools can offer the student a wide variety of choices, but other schools must necessarily limit the Cycle One choice. Thus, considering the many variables across the Protestant system on the Island of Montreal, the commissioners in open board meeting on March 28 passed a motion to serve as an interim decision in implementing Regulation 7:

Text of resolution

"Whereas Regulation 7 requires the progressive integration of Grade 7 into secondary school in line with the ministry's wish that all children be offered a Cycle 1 program; and

"Whereas the board recognizes that different communities view this step as more or less desirable, depending upon the local availability of space, facilities, the educational needs of the students and the priorities of the community, and that therefore different solutions may be appropriate in different communities;

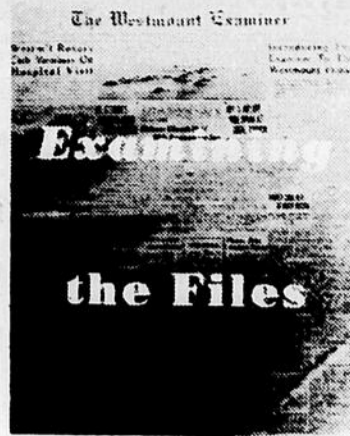

"Be it therefore resolved that the board's officers be instructed to involve each community, (especially the school committees) as much as possible in the decision-making process, in order that the most suitable decision be reached in regard to the organization of the Cycle 1 program in each community."

This resolution will give all of us time to learn about Regulation 7, to observe the Cycle 1 and 2 program in operation in some high schools and enable us, the parents, the taxpayers and the voters, to come to an informed conclusion about another step in school policy.

If you wish to know about this, or any other school matter, attend the open meetings of the school committee of the school nearest you. If your child attends a school, you may stand for election to that school's elected school committee next October.

"Our MP says . . ." has been suspended until after the July 8 federal general election. Starting next week, a weekly forum will be conducted in The Examiner, each candidate writing on the same subject. Readers wishing to suggest topics for this feature are invited to send a note to the editor.

"A proposal that the city erect a monument at the north-east corner of Westmount Park, where the flagpole now stands, to commemorate the visit of the King and Queen, was advanced this week by H.S. Petford, of 7 Park Place. The monument would consist of a combined clock tower and flagstaff extending to a height of 250 feet, supported by concrete base 70 feet square."

"... That it shall be forever free to the use of the inhabitants of the Town, is one of the main provisions in the city by-laws governing the Westmount Public Library and, on Wednesday, it completes its 50th year of operation under this code. First mooted in 1897 as a memorial to Queen Victoria on the occasion of her Diamond Jubilee, the library began to function as such in 1899, in a small building in Westmount Park still in use today."

"Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, in their one-day tour of the city, will swing closest to the Great West End at two points June 26. The second occasion will be the swing of the Royal procession into Westmount, when it is expected that the queen and the prince will arrive at Westmount City Hall at 3:26 pm and spend five minutes meeting the civic officials. Westmount is presenting a gift to Her Majesty on this occasion."

"Boys and girls of the neighborhood got enraptured interest but little more Tuesday night from City Council than a promise to talk about their enthusiastic plans to turn 'barren' Staynor Park through their own efforts into their kind of beautified recreation area. The idea, according to spokesman Architect Steve Mezes, is that the city should give its blessing plus necessary materials. The kids would do the work."

the Greene Avenue Association has decided to incorporate itself under Part III of the Quebec Companies Act in order to provide a rallying point for community interest.

This new legal entity will be the voice of the community which has hitherto gone unheard. It will provide a forum for those interested in the Greene avenue area to come together and discuss their hopes for and fears about the area.

One of the most pressing concerns facing the association is the future of the post office building at the corner of Greene avenue and de Maisonneuve boulevard. The department of public works has asked for tenders to be submitted for the re-use or redevelopment of this site. The deadline for the submission of tenders was to be 3 pm on May 15, 1974.

The Greene Avenue Village Association requested that this deadline be extended in order to give the group an opportunity to prepare a presentation on the proposed re-use of the site, and to permit several interested parties to submit tenders. Despite assurances from Mr. Lalonde, Hon. Mr. Drury's executive assistant, that "it was 95 percent certain that an extension would be granted," the deadline was not extended.

Mr. Drury, in his column in the April 4 issue of The Westmount Examiner, said that it is the policy of the department of public works that local communities would be "consulted in arriving at decisions on how the (surplus federal) land should be developed." Thus far, this does not appear to be the case.

On behalf of the present Greene Avenue Village Association and the legal body which is in the process of incorporation, I hereby invite you to communicate to me a time and place at which our group can meet with you to discuss the community implications of the proposed re-use or redevelopment of the Greene avenue post office site.

I am awaiting your reply.

Yours very truly,
Kenneth F. Salomon

Somerville area report implementation asked

(A copy of the following letter has been sent to The Examiner.)

Mr. Paul Ouimet
Mayor of the City of Westmount in the City Council
City of Westmount

Dear Sir:

A report and study on the Somerville area was presented to this Council in November of 1972. As of this date none of the recommendations in this report have been implemented. Meanwhile a needlessly grave situation continues to endanger our community.

Traffic from the major arteries surrounding the area, Sherbrooke, Victoria, St. Catherine and particularly Claremont, regularly turn at high speed onto these quite residential streets. Corners are cut, U-turns are made in mid-block with cars crossing the sidewalks and tires squeal regularly as speed limits are broken at corners and in mid-block.

The citizens of this area can no longer tolerate this situation which exists merely for the convenience of people seeking free parking and short cuts. For this reason, we once again bring to your attention and demand the immediate implementation of all the proposals in the above mentioned report with particular emphasis on proposals Nos. 3, 4 and 5, which read as follows:

Proposal No.3—That Prince Albert be closed at its southern intersection with Sherbrooke Street;

Proposal No.4—That Somerville avenue be closed at its intersection with Victoria avenue;

Proposal No.5—That Burton, Somerville, Winchester and Prince Albert be made one-way streets in the following directions:

Burton and Winchester from east to west;

Somerville from west to east;

Prince Albert south to north between Somerville and Winchester, north to south between Somerville and de Maisonneuve and south to north between de Maisonneuve and St. Catherine.

We and the citizens of the Somerville area feel that the adoption of these proposals will alleviate the above-mentioned traffic problems, making this area safer and more pleasant to live in without causing anyone any inconvenience. These proposals have been in council's hands for a year during which the City of Westmount has consulted traffic analysts.

At the time of writing we have received no communication indicating that these proposals should not be adopted. We therefore request their implementation forthwith.

Sincerely,
On behalf of the Somerville
Residents' Association
Ann Fuller

Lost journals appeal is made by the Library

The Westmount Public Library subscribes to more than 200 periodicals. Back issues of most titles are kept in the library for reference. A number of these journals are bound in annual volumes so that they may circulate.

Occasionally an issue is lacking due to mail strikes, problems with the library's agent, etc. At the present time the library is missing one issue each of four important journals. All efforts to acquire these back issues have proved unsuccessful; therefore, the library is issuing an urgent plea to individual subscribers so that the 1973 holdings may be completed and bound.

The titles and issues needed are:

Canadian Journal of Political Science, Vol. VI, No. 4 (1973); Connoisseur, January 1973; Dalhousie Review, Vol. 53, No. 4 (1973), and International Journal, Vol. XXVIII, No. 2 (1973).

Commencing Saturday, June 1, the Atwater Library will be closed on Saturdays until the end of August. Library hours are 10 am to 9 pm, Monday to Friday.

Meighen scores proposed bill on languages

Michael Meighen, national president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada and prospective candidate in Westmount, today declared himself in opposition to the Quebec official language act as proposed.

"I will support any measure to improve the position of French in Canada, and my party has consistently supported the provision of bilingual government services throughout the country. However, real progress cannot be made in this area by the use of coercion. Many provisions of this bill are arbitrary and contrary to what most Canadians believe are inherent rights of personal freedom."

Mr. Meighen expressed concern over the amount of power over people's lives that the bill would give to the minister and to various boards and commissions. He also stated that the effect on the economy of Quebec could be severe if businesses from outside Quebec were discouraged from opening facilities here.

"I will continue to support federal assistance to independent French and English language institutions throughout Canada to promote bilingualism and to promote both languages," Mr. Meighen said, "but neither at the expense of the other."

Bill 22: compromise — Drummond

Hon. Kevin Drummond, Westmount's MNA, yesterday described the proposed Quebec official language act as a "compromise" and an attempt by the government to find a middle way.

Depending upon where one sits, he said, it is either not enough or too much.

The Examiner reached Mr. Drummond at his Quebec City office yesterday shortly before the 3 pm sitting of the Assembly—inviting him to write a special column this week on the controversial Bill 22, indicating where he stood.

He said this was impossible because of other pressures but said he would produce such a column in its regular format for next week's issue.

Meanwhile, he said, "Interview me."

He did not indicate opposition to the bill yet did not rise to its defense.

Cites March stand

His position was essentially unchanged, however, from that which he took before the Westmount High School Home & School Association in a meeting in the high school library on March 18 last. The Examiner's lead article that week said:

"Bill 63 should not be changed, Hon. Kevin Drummond indicated Monday night, but the government should find better ways to allow for French Quebecers to become bilingual."

He then felt Bill 63—to be

URIAC skips to June 5; to hear Fish

Westmount's Urban Renewal Implementation Advisory Committee will meet June 5 to receive and consider plans for a park in the southeastern sector of the city, drawn up by architect Michael Fish. Mr. Fish will be on hand to discuss his plans during the public session at Victoria Hall.

URIAC's regularly-scheduled May meeting did not take place last Wednesday, ostensibly due to communications problems and lack of minutes and agenda. The shortened week and postponement of city council's mid-month meeting until last night, when they might have met, meant the members were unable to meet this week. Next week, most members plan to attend the semi-annual general meeting of the Westmount Municipal Association.

Transformer deliveries taking a year

City council approved the purchase of seven distribution transformers at its mid-month meeting last night, then committed money for the purchase of more transformers it will need next year.

For once the lowest tender submission was not approved, since delivery time was cut in half for the $374 higher price the city would have to pay.

Moloney Electric Company of Canada Ltd. won the competition, asking $6,980 for four 112 KV transformers and another $6,315 for three 150 KV transformers. The delivery time of 24 weeks was less than half the 50 weeks asked by Ferranti-Packard Ltd. to produce similar equipment for $6,784 and $6,317.40 respectively.

A tender offered by Westinghouse Canada Ltd. was incomplete. Following approval of the $13,295 purchase, council agreed to commit $19,300 for purchase of distribution transformers it would need to cover general load growth next year. Power and Communications Director Alex Heron told council the commitment was needed now since delays in delivery of equipment have become unusually long recently.

Motion to approve the purchase caused slight confusion due to the absence of the power and communications commissioner, Ald. Donald MacCallum.

Ald. Charles Aspler, who had made the motion to accept the 1974 tender, was asked by Mayor Paul Ouimet to move for the commitment of future funds.

"I don't know what it's all about," Ald. Aspler remarked, somewhat confused, "but I'll speak to it."

The planning and redevelopment commissioner then began re-reading the motion council had just approved, corrected himself, then checked to make sure Mr. Heron was in the audience to correct him should he stumble again, and finally moved the correct motion, which was duly approved.

New floodlighting at the King George Park tennis courts will be installed by the city at a cost of $10,350, it was agreed last night by city council. The appropriation covers the cost of labor, equipment and material. Ald. William Wood told council.

New doors

City council will spend $4,500 for new overhead doors at its Stanton Street fire station, it was agreed Monday night. The new doors were deemed necessary due to the weight, age and excessive repair costs of the present ones.

New pipes go in, pool ready to open in week

Westmount's public works department started its spring schedule slowly this month, having been held up in making repairs to the municipal swimming pool by the cement strike and delays caused by plumbing problems.

The city is putting plastic pipe trenches along the perimeter of the pool so that leaks such as the one which delayed opening of the pool last year can be found and repaired quickly. About one-third of the new installations will be finished by next week, when the pool will be ready to open. The rest of the pipe work will be completed after the pool closes in the fall.

Once work is completed at the pool, crews will ascend to King George Park for completion of the much-delayed croquet courts and wading pools, which will require some five to six weeks of preparation. Both should be open to the public by the beginning of July.

Crews also are working on construction of a bandstand in

Cinema hit

A male adult approached the cashier of the Westmount Square Cinema at 7:30 Monday evening, demanded money and was given about $85. As the culprit walked away from the ticket booth, the manager and another man followed while the cashier called Westmount Police. A suspect was arrested a short time later at the corner of Greene avenue and de Maisonneuve boulevard.

Westmount Park for the coming centennial programs, and expect to have the structure ready for a show by the Little Singers of Granby on June 5.

Sidewalk reconstruction will begin next week, and reconstruction of Edgehill road east of Lexington avenue is slated to commence in mid-June. Repaving of other streets will begin in August.

Installation of new lamp bases in the city's much-debated street relighting program will not resume until fall.

5 leaks found

The Westmount Fire Brigade's annual check of gas lines around the city has revealed five leaks so far, all of which have been repaired quickly by Quebec Natural Gas. The inspection is about 60 percent complete, Deputy Fire Chief Paul E. Motard reported this morning.

Vice-regal visit set

Ald. Leeds Nelson, chairman of the city's centennial committee, had little news to report to city council last night. He announced "informally" what has been known informally for several weeks: that Governor-General Jules Leger would be visiting Westmount Sept. 22 for the golden jubilee ceremonies of the Royal Montreal Regiment, and that he was expected to recognize Westmount's centennial at that time.

Ald. Nelson could not, however, confirm that the governor-general would definitely be participating in the centennial ceremonies.

St. Leo's filled; Ville Emard pupils bussed

Students from Honore Mercier School in Ville Emard are being bused to St. Leo's School in Westmount this month while their own school undergoes renovation.

The temporary condition, running from May 6 to June 6, means St. Leo's is again being used to full capacity, for the first time since the high school began being phased out locally; pupils are occupying every classroom on the second floor and gymnasium, while Honore Mercier administration are using once-empty offices.

No decision has yet been made for closing down other French-speaking elementary schools in west-end Montreal in the fall, pending registration of grade 2 through 6 students May 29, 30 and 31. It has been suggested that children from other parts of the district would be bused to St. Leo's as the demand for French-speaking Roman Catholic public elementary education facilities declines generally in the area. About 50 percent of pupils at St. Leo's this year come from English-speaking families.

Break-in at Library

Staff of the Westmount Public Library entered the institution at 7:15 Tuesday morning and found it had been ransacked by thieves, since its closing at 5 pm Saturday.

The photocopy coin machine had been broken into, as had several drawers at the counter; it was not established how much money was stolen.

There were no signs of forced entry to the building.

Rugger:

Westmount nearly makes second-year sweep

Westmount Rugby Club won every sevens tournament in 1973 but none really expected them to achieve the feat this season.

Well, they won't but, oh, they came so close to regaining the Quebec Cup—one play or less than five seconds close.

Westmount had won their way to this year's final by defeating Ottawa Beavers 10-0; Toronto Scottish 22-6; T.M.R. 6-0 and Barbarians 6-0. The semi-final win Saturday at Westmount athletic grounds over Barbarians was a rough affair with the Barbs finally being frustrated; in the early rounds of the tournament they had won their matches by large scores and the crowd thought that they had a good chance of deposing Westmount of their crown.

Westmount scored early with Garland racing away to score a try and then Westmount literally denied the Barbs the ball.

Frustration set in and that led to stupidity; unfortunately one Barbarian lost control and kicked Garland out of the game and out of rugby for the season. Jay received a badly broken cheek bone and was sent to the General for an operation.

With Garland out of action, Westmount fielded the following squad in the final against Wanderers: Heath, Peacock, Mardinger, Fischer, Howlett, Hector and Nichols. Howlett took over from Garland to be used mainly as a tormentor.

Obvious favorites

Wanderers obviously were favorites and had the look of a top class team; Westmount had other ideas; they were the champions and this champion was not going to die without a great fight. Fight and destroy they did. Any Wanderer with the ball was hit hard and eventually this paid when a broken-field play was set up to send Fischer over for the opening try; Nichols added the extra points 6-0 Westmount.

The game went from end to end with Wanderers failing to pierce the defence of Westmount. Finally they succeeded from a short penalty. Westmount was caught flat-footed and the Wanderers scored with ease and added the extra points with the conversion. 6-6.

Moments later the try of the match was scored by Heath. He received the ball in midfield and Heath just ran through every tackle to score close to the posts, Nichols again adding the extra points for 12-6 Westmount. The lead lasted one play as the Wanderers again used their experience, by playing the short side so causing an overlap which they turned into a score; half time came with the score 12-12.

Ten minutes to play and it was now the survival of the fittest or which team wanted the cup most.

One missed tackle and the game was over. Westmount had a long kick at goal but Nichols' kick went inches wide of the upright; Fischer was causing the Wanderers all kinds of trouble and consequently Wanderers were off the boil. Then a penalty to Westmount. Nichols kicked and with two minutes to play Westmount led 15-12.

Time runs out

Westmount kicked for touch at every opportunity, they ran and they tackled: the sign from the touchline was that time had run out; the referee had other ideas. Overtime for injuries in the game was being played. Wanderers were attacking but still Westmount held on. All Westmount supporters were looking at watches but still no call from the referee. Then the experience of Wanderers took a hand; they sucked three Westmount players into a maul; this was fine if Westmount controlled the ball but, alas, the ball came out the Wanderers' side and all that was required was a couple of passes and the Wanderers had scored. The whistle blew and Westmount had been defeated on the post 16-15.

What a game, what a performance by both teams but what a sad way to be dethroned!

Meanwhile, over at Westmount Park, the club's 2nd XV opened its league schedule in a most decisive manner; they defeated the Bytown Blues from Ottawa 44-0.

Track meet parking

Hillside Lane will be closed at St. Catherine street all day Saturday to make room for the many spectators and participants expected at Westmount's track and field meet, the first city centennial special event.

St. Andrew's United Church eagerly awaits the visit this Sunday at 11 am of the 75-voice junior and youth choirs of Mount Royal United Church. During the service they will present a cantata, "100 Percent Chance of Rain."

This lively re-telling of the Biblical story of the Flood includes songs such as "The Admirable Admiral," the construction of the ark told in choral speech, and the coming of the Flood conveyed by means of special visual and sound effects. The cantata concludes with the rousing song, "There's a 100 Percent Chance of Love."

The visiting choirs have presented this cantata in out-of-town locations such as Toronto and Lennoxville as well as in other local churches. A former contralto soloist at St. Andrew's, Mrs. Jean Minielly, is director.

Waiting list seen possible for Hillside

The Westmount Housing Bureau is getting "a very good response" to its advertised call to Westmounters who may be qualified and are interested in renting subsidized apartments in the Hillside Place project, it was learned this week.

"We may even have a waiting list," a spokesman said.

It was learned that interviewing of this second category of applicants—former Selby street residents had first priority, now closed—may begin before the end of this week. They are to be contacted for appointments and are to be dealt with on a system of points embracing length of residence in Westmount established by the bureau.

Martin Overland, project manager, appealed to would-be tenants not to come to the site without appointments but to apply in writing. He said one morning this week there were 30 persons waiting to see him—some in response to a rumor that renting was taking place.

Mr. Overland said that the people now moved in, 15 families, appear to be happy with their new homes.

Last night in city council Ald. Charles Aspler affirmed that there were 15 tenants, with 33 of the 64 apartments now committed. He said there were some

Traffic on Grosvenor is receiving attention

Public Safety Commissioner Ald. James L. Thom offered mild reassurances to residents of Grosvenor avenue last night that the city was looking seriously into the matter of traffic safety.

Reacting to a petition handed him at city council two weeks ago on behalf of residents of Grosvenor between Westmount avenue and The Boulevard, Ald. Thom said his traffic committee had been examining the prospect of 'silent policemen' at street intersections, along with other options to slow traffic on the three thoroughfares.

"We want to see if we can take advantage of new technology" in the area of traffic control, the commissioner suggested, reporting that new devices had been discussed as recently as yesterday afternoon.

Ald. Thom went on to report that the city hopes to be receiving new "factionnaires"—policemen not relegated to any specific police duty—to man radar patrols in the city on a more regular basis, since citizens have complained about the reduction in radar surveillance.

The reductions, Ald. Thom admitted, were largely due to "union regulations we inherited along with the Montreal Urban Community Police."

Westmount's Director of Public Safety, Insp. E.C. Harper, would be asked to press for procurement of more non-specified personnel; if the need arose, the city would appeal directly to MUC Police Director Rene Daigneault.

The main approach to the problem, however, was to get drivers "to exercise a common-sense, humanitarian approach" while passing through Westmount.

Ald. Thom said that 15 working days of radar coverage this year resulted in issuance of 154 speeding tickets.

CLEAN-AIR PROGRAM:

Marc Turcot, head of the Touring Club of Montreal, yesterday at lunch in Victoria Hall told Westmount Rotarians about the club's summer program of testing cars for pollutants. Equipment and vehicles for two units have been loaned by manufacturers and manned by students and of 1,100 cars tested so far in the metropolitan area, 45 percent have been found unacceptable by MUC pollution standards, he said. Next Wednesday the club is to hear Serge Rouleau, a Bell man who has just been to Australia sponsored by the local service club.

Land rejigged

Two new properties were created out of vacant land on Sunnyside avenue last night, as city council approved one recadastring and one redivision of old lots. The adjacent properties, on the south side of Sunnyside directly north of the Clarke avenue cul-de-sac, were readjusted for Domenico Caporicci, who has bought over 40,500 square feet of land for future development.

Loan okayed

The city's $3,000,000 temporary loan by-law to cover operating expenses and administrative costs was approved by the Quebec Municipal Commission on May 8. City Clerk Ronald Seaman told city council last night. He read a letter signed by the commission secretary, Gaston Lemaire.

City gets bid from province on SE park

Ald. Charles Aspler postponed a report he was to give city council last night on the status of vacant property in lower Westmount now owned by the provincial roads department. He had not had time to study an offer submitted recently by the roads department to rent Westmount the land for use as a park, he said.

Ald. Aspler added that he and Ald. Douglas Robertson walked over the land last week and will add their own views when the report is submitted to council.

The delay of the report meant there was no further news on the status of three housing units still standing on the property, even though at its last meeting council announced it had withdrawn its support from efforts to refurbish the dwellings.

Both aldermen agreed with an appeal following the formal council meeting that a "fire watch" be maintained on the property. Alan Carlisle, 1035A Greene avenue, asked council to reinstate a city employee who had been watching over the buildings until last Friday.

Residents of the building were asked to be on guard as well for vandals or criminals who might set a fire in one of the nearly-vacant units.

Ald. Robertson announced this morning that the fire watch would be resumed immediately until the disposition of the buildings was decided.

Appeals postponed

Meanwhile, three of the six tenants appeared before the Quebec Rental Board Tuesday afternoon but hearings on their appeals of provincial government eviction notices were postponed pending the outcome of earlier hearings in the cases of the three other remaining Greene tenants.

It also has been learned that the provincial authorities have undertaken repair of the boiler which has been broken down for several weeks, depriving the apartments of hot water.

Guy Carmel is appointed

Guy Carmel, 250 Clarke avenue, has been appointed to the city's advisory committee on social affairs, filling a vacancy created by the recent resignation of J. Iain Gow, 258 Metcalfe avenue, due to other commitments. The new appointment was announced last night by the city services commissioner, Ald. William T. Wood, who had high praise for both men and for their "contributions in society's affairs."

Ald. Wood also announced that David Braide, 492 Wood avenue, was appointed vice-chairman of the committee at its meeting earlier this month.

Bowling to open Saturday

The Westmount Lawn Bowling Club will begin the 1974 season on Saturday afternoon, when the carefully-prepared greens at Kensington avenue and Sherbrooke street will be opened for mixed games between members at 1 o'clock.

On Monday the club will begin a week-long open house for anyone wishing to try out the game. Bowls are available but visitors are asked to bring their own wedge-heel, rubber-sole shoes, any afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock or evenings from 7:30 to 9:30.

For club members (who pay a moderate fee) mixed tournaments are held on Wednesday evenings and Saturday afternoons, while women's and men's competitions are scheduled for days and evenings during the week. The greens are open all day Saturdays and Sunday afternoons, weather permitting.

Local clubs hold inter-club competitions for various trophies, and often enter provincial championship games for singles, doubles and for "rinks," or four-man teams.
