A BELLBOY NEVER HAD IT SO GOOD AS when a convention of models is held at his hotel, which happens to Jerry Lewis as "THE BELLBOY" in the picture opening tomorrow at the GRANADA Theatre. The film marks Jerry's first effort as a producer, director and writer, making him a rare quadruple-threat guy.

• STAMP CHAT

by Milton Cronenberg

On display in the Government Building at the Canadian National Exhibition this year is a section of the world's greatest collection of Slovenian "chainbreaker" stamps — the first printed stamps of the post-World War I Kingdom of SHS, Serbs, Croates and Slovenes.

Completed during the last 15 years of Julius Korbec of Subatina, Yugoslavia, the collection has won gold and silver medals in international exhibitions throughout Europe.

Mr. Korbec, who is visiting friends in the city, is exhibiting his stamps at the CNE at his own expense. An amiable smiling man who speaks no English but manages a little German, Mr. Korbec, like most true philatelists, is happiest when sharing his stamp treasures with others.

The collection on display at the Government Building totals 130 frames and features the stamp with "chainbreaker" design showing a triumphant male figure breaking the chains that bind him, while the rays of the rising sun in the background promise hope of a better day.

These stamps were printed in 1919 for the first time in Ljubljana, the capital of Slovenia, and due to the lack of proper paper, ink, and perforation equipment appeared in a wide variety of shades and on various kinds of paper. In addition there were changes of colors made necessary by the rapidly revised postal rates. Naturally such a situation was ideal for collectors even though it created headaches for the postal authorities and many attempts were made to collect the varieties and errors that appeared. No one, however, has even approached the completeness of Mr. Korbec's collection.

On display at the CNE are some of the 30,000 stamps of the Korbec accumulation, including strips, blocks and pairs of unique rarities. There are stamps with the wrong colors, wrong gum, wrong perforation, and even stamps printed in red with parts of the same stamps attached printed in green.

The old presses at Ljubljana finally collapsed and the plates were hastily sent to Vienna, where postwar conditions were almost as chaotic as in the new kingdom. Another rash of varieties appeared, although the printing was much clearer and examples of the Vienna printing are also on view at the CNE.

These issues which continued to 1920 were the official forerunners of the stamps of Yugoslavia — which adopted that name in 1929 — and are a fascinating example of history in the making.

Red brass to attend UN talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)

When Nikita Khrushchev makes his second appearance on the General Assembly stage this month, he will have an impressive supporting cast of government chiefs from the Soviet bloc.

Eastern Europe's Communist brass is going to accompany the Soviet Premier to the assembly opening Sept. 20. This led to speculation some Western leaders might attend.

Khrushchev had suggested that the heads of as many nations as possible attend the assembly's disarmament debate. His presence, along with Soviet bloc chiefs, is sure to bring other leaders, but diplomats expressed doubt there will be a full-scale summit meeting of the sort Khrushchev proposed.

President Eisenhower appeared almost certain to appear and deliver a reply to Khrushchev's speech before the assembly.

There were indications in London after Khrushchev made his announcement that Prime Minister Macmillan might change his mind about attending. When the Soviet premier first raised the possibility several weeks ago that he might go to the assembly, Macmillan told Parliament he had no intention of going. But a British official said Thursday night:

"Clearly a new situation has arisen. The prime minister certainly will look at the situation again."

A presidential spokesman said in Paris de Gaulle has no intention of attending the present assembly session, and added: "I doubt strongly if he will decide later to go."

There was speculation Cuba's Fidel Castro might attend. Reports had been circulating in Havana that Castro would make the mission to New York if Khrushchev did.

Informed sources expressed doubt that many Asian leaders would come to the session. Red China is not eligible since it does not belong to the UN. Neither do Communist North Korea or North Viet Nam.

Neutralist Asian leader, such as India's Prime Minister Nehru, gave a chilly reception to the idea of holding high level talks at the UN when Khrushchev first put forward the idea.

The purported reason for Khrushchev's visit is to discuss disarmament, but officials here and in Washington speculated that the Soviet leader might plan to announce some spectacular new Soviet scientific achievement.

Also unanswered was the question of how long Khrushchev plans to stay. The Soviet announcement said he would be accompanied by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, Valerian Zorin, Soviet delegate to recent disarmament talks in Geneva, and the Soviet ambassadors to Britain and France.

Getting model to pose naturally secret of good pin-up pictures

All too swiftly September is here and fast approaching, is Labor Day, but there are still typical summer days to be had, although not too many.

The trees are beginning to have that fall look, but are still green and the sun, if you have noticed, is definitely nearing its winter arc, low in the late afternoon and disappearing early in the evening.

So I thought before it gets too chilly, for this sort of thing, pin-up girls in their summer attire would make a good discussion. Some people may say: "Why pretty girls?" Well, let's face it. The men enjoy looking at them and the girls like being told they look prettier than those used in the photographs, so everybody's happy.

As we are going to be outdoors we will have a lot of room to move around, and we eliminate another problem, having enough light.

The first important point is to have your model at ease and then she will have a natural look. A so-called pin-up must be candid for if she is stiff as a poker and has a blank expression you will be it.

So don't hurry the job. If one pose doesn't suit your model, try another. Each model will have a certain type of pose that seems to give a natural look, then work on the expression to give her that lively healthy look.

When your pose has been completed, have the model point her toes. This will help greatly to give her that needed grace. Props are good as they help the model overcome that feeling of being alone out there in front of your camera especially when she is not used to this business. Also, try and remember another good tip. Have your next pose in mind for if too much time is spent thinking what to do, next you may find yourself left holding the camera. Those girls become impatient quickly.

By

Nuns run Polish children's camp

By ALICE BUCKLAND
(Record Correspondent)

How many in the district know that there is a Fresh Air Camp for Polish children within a mile of Waterloo?

A small white house, a fairly large red barn and a low shed located on a beautiful spot of about 80 acres overlooking Waterloo comprise the camp. A gentle little sister in a black habit, with the Greek Cross hanging around her neck greets visitors warmly. She is Sister Therese and speaks excellent English, as well as French. She has been in Canada nine years, after having endured the war years in Poland. Another nun speaks only Polish and French. She is Sister Stanislas and she suffered great trials in the war. She was taken by the Russians to Russia and to Siberia. Her paths even led to India and finally she was able to find refuge in Canada.

The mail box gives the correct name for the place, CAMP JASNA GORA, named for a Polish shrine, run by the Sisters of the Resurrection.

A long low shed has been converted into a chapel. Old straw matting covers the floor of the chapel. Rough boards make the altar — a portrait of the Christ hangs over the altar and field flowers are in vases on each side, an old shed door separates the chapel from the mass. Every morning, at 7 a.m. mass is celebrated in this humble place which makes one think of the Stable in Bethlehem. The priest has to watch the low ceiling when raising the chalice.

$1,000,000 loss

Privately-owned electricity system for city would lose money, Sherbrooke mayor claims

The city's municipally-owned electricity department would be operated at a loss if it became a hydro-electric company administered by an independent commission, mayor Arm and Nadeau said yesterday at his weekly press conference.

Mayor Nadeau was replying to a suggestion made by the Sherbrooke Proprietors' League at the beginning of the week.

Should an independent group administer the city's electricity department, it would mean a $1,000,000 yearly loss to the city, the Mayor said.

"Instead of making money, the electricity department would be operated at a loss," the mayor said.

The electricity rates would be reduced which would result in a reduction in electricity revenue, the mayor explained.

He said the rates would be reduced because an electricity department administered privately automatically falls under the jurisdiction of the provincial government which has an established set of rates.

"These rates," the mayor said, "are about half what Sherbrooke residents are presently paying for their electricity."

The mayor also pointed out that the independently administered department could not control expenditures.

"The city at present buys as much electricity from the Shawinigan Water and Power Company as it produces itself," he said.

If the department is independently administered it could not purchase this electricity as cheaply as the city does," he said.

exception." The wash rooms are fascinating. Long troughs have been made and lined with tin. Steps lead up to them and 12 taps are spaced at intervals. The bare dormitories hold cot beds for the older children and two small dormitories are filled with cribs for the little ones. Off each is built a cubicle for the nun in charge to sleep in. Five nuns look after the youngsters.

At the house, a big wood stove burns cheerily. A freezer and frigidaire fill one corner. The tiny refectory for the youngest campers is furnished with a trestle table and benches. On the two sides of the verandah, counters are built against the wall, and benches made where, weather regardless, the older children always eat.

Everyone seems happy.

Some of the girls wear Brownie uniforms of blue grey with bright green berets and ties. Most boys belong to the Cub Pack, with tan shirts and shorts and the green berets and ties. They sing Polish songs and French songs to their guests.

Every bit of work on the camp is voluntary by parents and friends from Montreal.

The large well-made stairs leading to the second floor of the barn were the achievement of a tailor in the city, who certainly had a true eye and knew how to measure. Any bit of lumber or material is most acceptable and put to good use. "None of us are rich," said Sister Therese softly.

Canada's Labor Day

Labor Day, the great North American holiday honoring the growth of the syndicalist movement on this continent, is a time for assessing the progress of organized labor during the past year.

It has been an active year for the unions, one of the features being the completion of plans whereby the unions would enter a new political party to be formed next July at an Ottawa conference and backed by the CCF and the Canadian Labor Congress.

In Newfoundland controversy continues over the Legislature's approval in July of amendments which left untouched the province's right to decertify union locals as it did in the woods strike.

Quebec labor can look back on former Union Nationale Premier Barrette's labor bill that prevents employees being fired for union activities.

Manitoba labor has Monday's settlement of the often-violent Brandon packers strike and settlements of strikes at Selkirk steel plants and the International Nickel plants late last December.

However, as Labor Day approaches, two major labor disputes — one actual and one potential — loom.

By Monday, the strike of 4,000 workers in six provinces against the Dominion Bridge Company could be in its second week. The workers, members of the United Steel Workers of America (CTC) employed in Canada, seek higher wages and a national welfare plan.

Brewing on the labor horizon is a dispute involving 118,000 workers and the major railways which could go to a strike threat in the fall.

Demerit System

The Provincial Government would do well to act on a recommendation of the Quebec Safety League and institute a demerit point system for Quebec motorists.

Similar systems have already proved their worth in other Canadian provinces, notably in New Brunswick and Ontario.

As the League points out, the demerit system has as its objective re-education and improvement of careless or unqualified drivers. It also effectively rids the roads of chronic offenders who for one reason or another should not be privileged to get behind the wheel.

Driving on our modern high-speed highways must always be considered a privilege not an absolute right. And a persons must have and maintain the aptitude and attitude that make for safe driving to be granted this privilege.

Loss of these characteristics, for any reasons, should logically result in withdrawal of the privilege.

Here, in essence, is how the demerit point system works: A schedule of offenses is drawn up, each carrying a set penalty in demerit points. When a certain number of demerit points is accumulated by one driver in a given period of time he is judged to have made himself ineligible for driving and his licence is suspended for a set period of time. It's as simple as that.

The demerit system, in the provinces where it has been adopted, has proved an effective method of separating the sheep and the goats of modern traffic.

And with its mounting accident rate, Quebec is in need of such a system or its goats will surely take over.

Nude bathing

It has cost New Canadian Helmut Raetz of Hamilton, Ontario $25 to learn that nude bathing is not an old Canadian custom. Not officially anyway.

Raetz, who has been in Canada only four months, was arrested recently for taking an early evening skinny dip on a public beach near Hamilton.

He told the magistrate through an interpreter that he thought there was nothing indecent about nude swimming. "I thought it was all right — they do it in Germany."

Police said Raetz confided to them: "It's much better swimming without a suit."

And a lot of old Canadians might agree with him. But they would also pick their time and place more carefully.

More rooms and more teachers

Schools expand for more pupils

By CECIL REID
Canadian Press Staff Writer

More children than ever will be starting or returning to public and secondary schools Tuesday, the day after Labor Day—but there are more classrooms and more teachers to handle them.

Most school boards report adequate classroom facilities, and most say they have a satisfactory supply of teachers. A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows that most local school boards will be able to cope with the increase in enrollment.

In some cases, as in Vancouver, portable classrooms will be used to relieve overcrowding in some secondary schools. But in most areas where swing shifts have been necessary, there will be a return to normal school periods.

Many new schools will be open for business, particularly in Newfoundland and Ontario. In Winnipeg, a school-building program is under way to cope with the rising school population, but many of the new classrooms will not be ready until later in the fall.

Ontario will have an additional 4,000 teachers to handle the increased enrollment in secondary schools. The big increase in new teachers is attributed to the reorganization of courses and the establishment of new training schools.

Most of the children starting lessons again after the summer holidays are expected to find little change in the curriculum. But here and there are some innovations — new arithmetic blocks, and conversational French in a Grade 4 class, as at Winnipeg.

Twelve new schools will be available in Newfoundland, where schools are operated by Roman Catholic, Anglican and United Church denominations, as well as the Salvation Army, with grants from the provincial government. An estimated 200 new classrooms are expected to remove any congestion and there will not be any acute shortage of teachers.

Nova Scotia's enrollment increase in the last two years has exceeded 6,000 and school officials say they expect a similar increase this year.

Prince Edward Island officials do not expect classroom congestion or a teacher shortage. No significant change in the curriculum is planned.

In New Brunswick, Dr. F. E. Macdonald, deputy minister of education, said there may be temporary overcrowding in a few primary and intermediate classrooms. However, there will be an increase in the number of teachers.

There will be more new schools in Quebec where 1,000,000 children, all but 100,000 of them in Roman Catholic schools, enrolled last year. Overcrowding is expected in some Catholic elementary schools in Montreal and classes will be held in parish halls. But two new high schools will open in the northeast of the city.

Adventures with God

Need wisdom to apply knowledge

By JANE SCOTT

The Canadian National Exhibition is in progress and there one may examine wonderful inventions. The evolution of business machines is a fascinating story.

The mechanical brain is one of thousands of new inventions that have revolutionized our way of life.

We have lived to see the world transformed from an isolated planet, inhabited by isolated communities, to annex the moon, and bring the remotest areas and peoples of the globe into our living rooms with a turn of a switch.

Knowledge has increased at such a rate that we can travel faster than sound and we can live in ease and comfort undreamed of at the turn of the century. We are grateful for the benefits knowledge has given us but we are alarmed at many of the problems increase of knowledge has precipitated.

We have more knowledge than any earlier generation and more neuroses. We have produced a thousand new wonder drugs and a million more muddled minds than any earlier generation.

INCREASED MORAL PROBLEMS

Scientific knowledge has been hailed as the cure-all for the world's ills but it has not proved effective. Because we have placed too much faith in the efficacy of material benefits, we are faced with the possibility of an increase in moral problems.

teachers from many parts of Canada, the United States and Britain. There is no shortage in the French-speaking schools.

A new science course in the Grade 8 French schools this year will prepare pupils for later instruction.

Curriculum changes in Montreal's Protestant high schools include complete revision of the entire English course, more reading of modern literature and a new basic science course in six high schools which emphasizes methods in science and laboratory work.

Ontario, its school population making big jumps every year, is expected to have an enrollment of 1,399,225—some $9,000 more than last year—in both elementary and high schools.

School officials generally report adequate classroom facilities. Three new elementary schools—two public and one separate—are ready for the new term in Ottawa. The public school board is extending its oral French program in English-speaking schools to cover Grades 2 to 8.

In Metropolitan Toronto 90 new teachers will be available for separate schools and 432 new teachers for public schools.

Winnipeg will continue several experiments begun last year in elementary schools. One of them is the Cuisenaire method of teaching arithmetic by using blocks of various colors. Conversational French will be taught from the Grade 4 level in elementary schools where bilingual teachers are available.

Regina's separate school board reports no classroom shortage. The board has about 22 unused classrooms which are being opened up as enrollment figures increase. This year 12 will be used.

Two new schools will be opened for public school children. In Alberta, public and secondary school enrollment is expected to reach 292,000, an estimated 15,000 more than last year. No congestion is expected.

Vancouver expects its biggest jump in enrollment in the grades from seven up to and including Grade 12. Officials said there may be a decrease in the lower grades because of a decline in the birth rate in the mid-1950s.

Scientific discoveries have left us holding the bag and the bag is full of dynamite or nuclear power that is scaring the wits out of us.

The knowledge which has hailed the cure-all may yet prove to be the end-all for our world and its problems.

Why is this the case? It is so because we have more of the things we wanted and too little of what we most need. Knowledge has increased and so have our chances for self-destruction — our fears and apprehensions, until one out of 33 people is threatened with some form of mental or nervous instability.

Truth is we know so much we are driving ourselves crazy. And we are driving ourselves crazy because we are not asking God to give us the wisdom to apply the knowledge we have to useful ends.

MUCH NEEDED ADMONITION

If ever our world needed the admonition, "So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts to wisdom," it is now. We have become so absorbed in the interesting pursuit of applying our heads to knowledge that we have completely ignored the needs of our hearts and failed to seek "the wisdom that is from above." James 3:17.

When once a man considers that he can get it alone, God leaves him to his own devices, and it is not long before some situation arises which proves him inadequate, and he begins to panic.

It is ironic, but many people who have exceptional knowledge become victims of neuroses.

We are of the opinion that many succumb because they feel themselves too intellectually independent to humble themselves and acknowledge their need of divine help and wisdom. And in their pride they resort to man-made remedies for their fears and apprehensions.

With our superior knowledge, drink and drug bills have reached a new peak and our morals a new depth.

Highly educated people have become a burden to society because they have not had the wisdom to apply their knowledge to solving their own, and the nation's, problems.

They discover that their internal resources are in short supply just when they most need them, and they have lost contact with their divine source of supply.

Solomon learned after long experience that: "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom; and the knowledge of the holy is understanding." Prov. 9:10.

EDUCATED ATHEISTS

Here is a fundamental truth which has been overlooked in modern education. Literally thousands of our children are educated atheists. They know a great deal about many things and nothing about their great Creator and sustainer, who IS the source of all true wisdom, and who WILL give wisdom to those who humbly seek it to walk according to His will.

Most of our trouble stems from conceit. We are wise in our own eyes and estimation, and being wise we become fools. But unfortunately, we are not wise enough to see how stupidly we are behaving in ignoring the Great Teacher who is the source and supplier of all true wisdom.

We prefer to take tranquilizers prescribed by medical science rather than face our problems realistically and get back to first causes.

What we really need is—tranquility—not tranquilizers—and only God Himself can give us a tranquil spirit. And He will give it to all those who will put away their conceited ideas and superior knowledge and humbly seek the help, the wisdom and the strength of God.

SOLOMON'S LIMITATIONS

Solomon is a classic example of a man who knew his own limitations and was humble enough to admit them. In his hour of need he prayed for wisdom and, God heard his prayer and honored it in a special way.

He commended this humble man because he did not pray for riches, wealth, honor or life of his enemies, or even for long life, but prayed for wisdom first and knowledge second.

God said: "Wisdom and knowledge is granted unto thee; and I will give thee riches, wealth, honor such as none of the kings have had before thee."

A humble heart is a prerequisite to wisdom. "So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts to wisdom."

THE BATTLE FOR BRAINS

(Sarnia Observer)

Vice-Admiral H. G. Rickover, long critical of what he terms "shortcomings" of his country, is not satisfied with the way education is handled in the United States. He has made this complaint before.

In previous protests he has credited Russian superiority in the space race on flaws in the U.S. educational system which sacrificed the scientific for the academic.

United States is not alone in the admiral's scolding, in an article written for the United Press. He asserts that all modern democracies have "devalued their educational currency."

Too many college freshmen today are taking remedial course in reading, writing and arithmetic in the United States. These courses are mastered before college in Europe. He finds it "personally humiliating" that European universities also recognize this fact by demanding that American Students have a Bachelor of Arts degree if they wish to matriculate. Europeans, on the other hand, are admitted on a "maturity" certificate which is obtained at the end of the higher secondary year.

Admiral Rickover is concerned with mental rather than military superiority as the threat facing the free world. He believes Russia's threat to the U.S. will come through its educational and not through its military processes. "Military processes and techniques are transitory," he explains. They change every few years. An intelligent and well-educated body of citizens is something you will have forever."

Major complaint about the U.S. system is the insistence of educationists that it is "undemocratic" to separate the brilliant from the ordinary. He wants to know "what is democratic about penalizing God-given talent by letting it go to waste so average children won't feel a sense of inferiority?"

Admiral Rickover may be right or wrong in his thesis. But it is noticeable that he is saying what a lot of other highly-placed men in the United States are saying more and more.

It is noticeable, also, that it is the United States spending most of the money in war material while the Russians, utilizing the comparatively cheap medium of propaganda, is switching its financial and mental efforts toward the equally grim battle for economic markets across the world. This is what Admiral Rickover is talking about.

ATTITUDE TO RAILROADS

(Toledo Blade)

The railroads may, indeed, be suffering from public neglect in an era that has provided government outlays to stimulate truck, air and water transport. But the rail lines also suffer from a public image of railroading as a relic from the past. New York Central's renewed fight against the Seaway serves only to reinforce that image of obsolescence and to create indifference to a system that so denies its future, AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — The warmest winter in living memory ruined winter sports in New Zealand this year. Many ski runs were bare of snow, and high country lakes in the South Island had one of their poorest skating seasons on record.

DOWN ONE IS THE TOP East's ace of diamonds held the first trick against the six club contract and since the club finesse lost South was down one trick.

The slam wasn't a bad contract and if the finesse had worked there would have been no comments but somehow or other North and South got into a violent argument. There was some agreement between them. Each one thought that the other had bid badly. North didn't like South's jump to three clubs; South didn't like North's jump to six.

The argument might still be going on except for one thing. The game was duplicate. The hand was played late in the evening and when the scores came out North and South were surprised to find that minus 100 for one down vulnerable represented a tie for top score.

It just happened that every other North-South pair had reached game but that not one of them had landed at the lay down five clubs at half the other tables. North had played four spades. He always lost the ace of diamonds, the king of clubs and two trump tricks to acquire the same minus score that the six clubs had.

The other half was not so fortunate. At those tables South played three no-trump. A diamond would be opened. South would win the first or second trick depending on whether or not East's ace was played at trick one. The club finesse would fail and five diamond tricks would set the hand two.

You, South, hold: Spades A-2, Hearts A-K-Q-8-7-6, Diamonds 4-3-2, Clubs A-8.

What do you do?

A—Pass. Your partner has shown no interest in a slam and you should respect his judgment. TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding four hearts your partner bids four diamonds. Now what do you do?

QUEBEC IS NOT ALL BLACK

(Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph) Last week we carried a letter from an American visitor who returned to his home in very bad humor because his wallet had been stolen. His complaint was that the police failed to keep pickpockets in check, and his comments on the city were far from complimentary.

We have since learned, however, that he complained to city police at the time, and Sgt.-Det. Gerald Willshe who spoke with him at the time learned that the theft took place at Ste. Anne de Beupre, and not at the bus station in Quebec City as indicated by our correspondent.

Sgt. Willshe referred the victim to the Provincial Police and escorted him to the Provincial Police headquarters. Actually, no complaint was filed with Quebec Police, because the theft did not take place within the city.

It is unfortunate that the gentleman lost his wallet. That the same thing could happen anywhere else, even in his own hometown, does not make the position of this area any better. But in all fairness, it is scarcely proper to blacken the reputation of an entire area for the lack of honesty on the part of one individual.

QUEBEC WEEK

UNESCO's second world conference on adult education wound up nine days of discussion in Montreal Wednesday in a spirit of harmony and without a single recorded difference of principle.

Dramatic highlight was a Canadian-sponsored resolution calling on all governments to work for disarmament and release of more resources for education. More than 200 delegates from 51 countries attended.

A royal commission suggested in Montreal Wednesday that Montreal could be run more efficiently with less than half the city councilors it has now.

The five-man commission headed by municipal Judge Paul E. Champagne turned in a 25-page report to Premier Jean Lesage after six months of study.

The report said city council should be reduced to 46 members and the executive committee—a form of municipal cabinet—to five. At present the council has 100 members and the committee seven.

Executives of 15 unions representing Canada's 118,000 non-operating railway employees Wednesday in Montreal agreed to a conciliation board report recommending a 14-cent hourly wage increase. The railways have made no official announcement but it was understood they will reject the report.

The fire, which has already left 150 persons homeless, was keeping some 20 families in St. Isidore and St. Therese on their guard, ready to move.

The flames were so dense Friday that an observer said "the sun couldn't pierce through."

The wind Friday was pushing the flames towards Grande Riviere, situated at the mouth of Baie des Chaleurs, but Mayor John Baker said the town was in little danger because it was 2 1/2 miles from the woods.

There were no plans for evacuating and most of those already evacuated in other villages had taken refuge there.

NEW MAJOR BLAZES

Two other fires blossomed into major blazes on the tip of the peninsula. As the threat of more fires increased, the Forest Protection Service announced a travel ban in three Gaspé counties.

One of the two fires was just north of Douglastown and the other was between the coastal town of Perce and the inland mining town of Murdochville. There were no communities in their immediate paths, reports said.

The travel ban affected the counties of Matane, Bonaventure and Gaspé North. Gaspé South has been closed to travel since Tuesday.

Premier Lesage said 100 square miles of spruce wood had been burned so far and the damage was estimated at $5,000,000.

THE NEW SYSTEM

Under the new system of forest protection, the province plans to build up gradually a fleet of aircraft capable of carrying large amounts of liquid for bombing places.

Access roads and landing strips would be cut in forest areas and a radio network established around the province.

Premier Lesage said Mr. Arsenault has been authorized to sign an agreement with the federal government under which Ottawa would pay half the cost of buying fire fighting equipment under the Canada Forestry Act. Quebec has $285,000 coming to it this year.

The provinces of Ontario and New Brunswick have also been approached about forming a pool of firefighting aircraft among the three provinces, he said.

OBITUARIES

MRS. ERNEST SEYMOUR, OF KNOWLTON

KNOWLTON — The death of Mrs. Ernest Seymour occurred at her home here on Aug. 24, following a lengthy illness.

The former Agnes Judith Cowin was born in Knowlton on Dec. 20, 1907, the only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Percy Cowin, and had spent her entire life in this community.

She attended Knowlton High School and upon graduation attended Miss Nettie Bradley's Business School at Waterville. Following this she was employed for many years at the local Post Office as well as the town Court House. She also worked in the office of the former Dr. Daniel's Medicine Co. which was operated by her father.

Mrs. Seymour had been a life time member of St. Paul's Anglican Church and had sung in the choir until ill health prevented her from doing so. She was also a member of St. Paul's Evening Guild, the Sir John Fisher Chapter, I.O.D.E., and Pinnacle Chapter, O.E.S., at Sutton.

In 1955, she was married to Ernest Seymour, who survives her. Mrs. Seymour also leaves a brother, Percy M. Cowin, and her stepdaughter, Laura Seymour.

A loving and kind wife, sister and mother, she was held in high esteem by everyone and the flag in the village square was flown at half mast on the day of the funeral as a tribute to a faithful servant.

The funeral service took place at St. Paul's Anglican Church on Friday, Aug. 26, the rector, Rev. T.E.R. Nurse, officiating. The choir rendered the hymns, Breathe On Me Breath of God and Unto The Hills. Bearers were K. C. George, Wm. Huves, Kenneth Patterson, Ray Duboyce, Grayson Cousins and L. J. Cran-dall.

Interment took place in the Knowlton Cemetery.

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends from Knowlton and the surrounding district.

LABOR DAY

A Salute To Every Wage Earner In Our Country

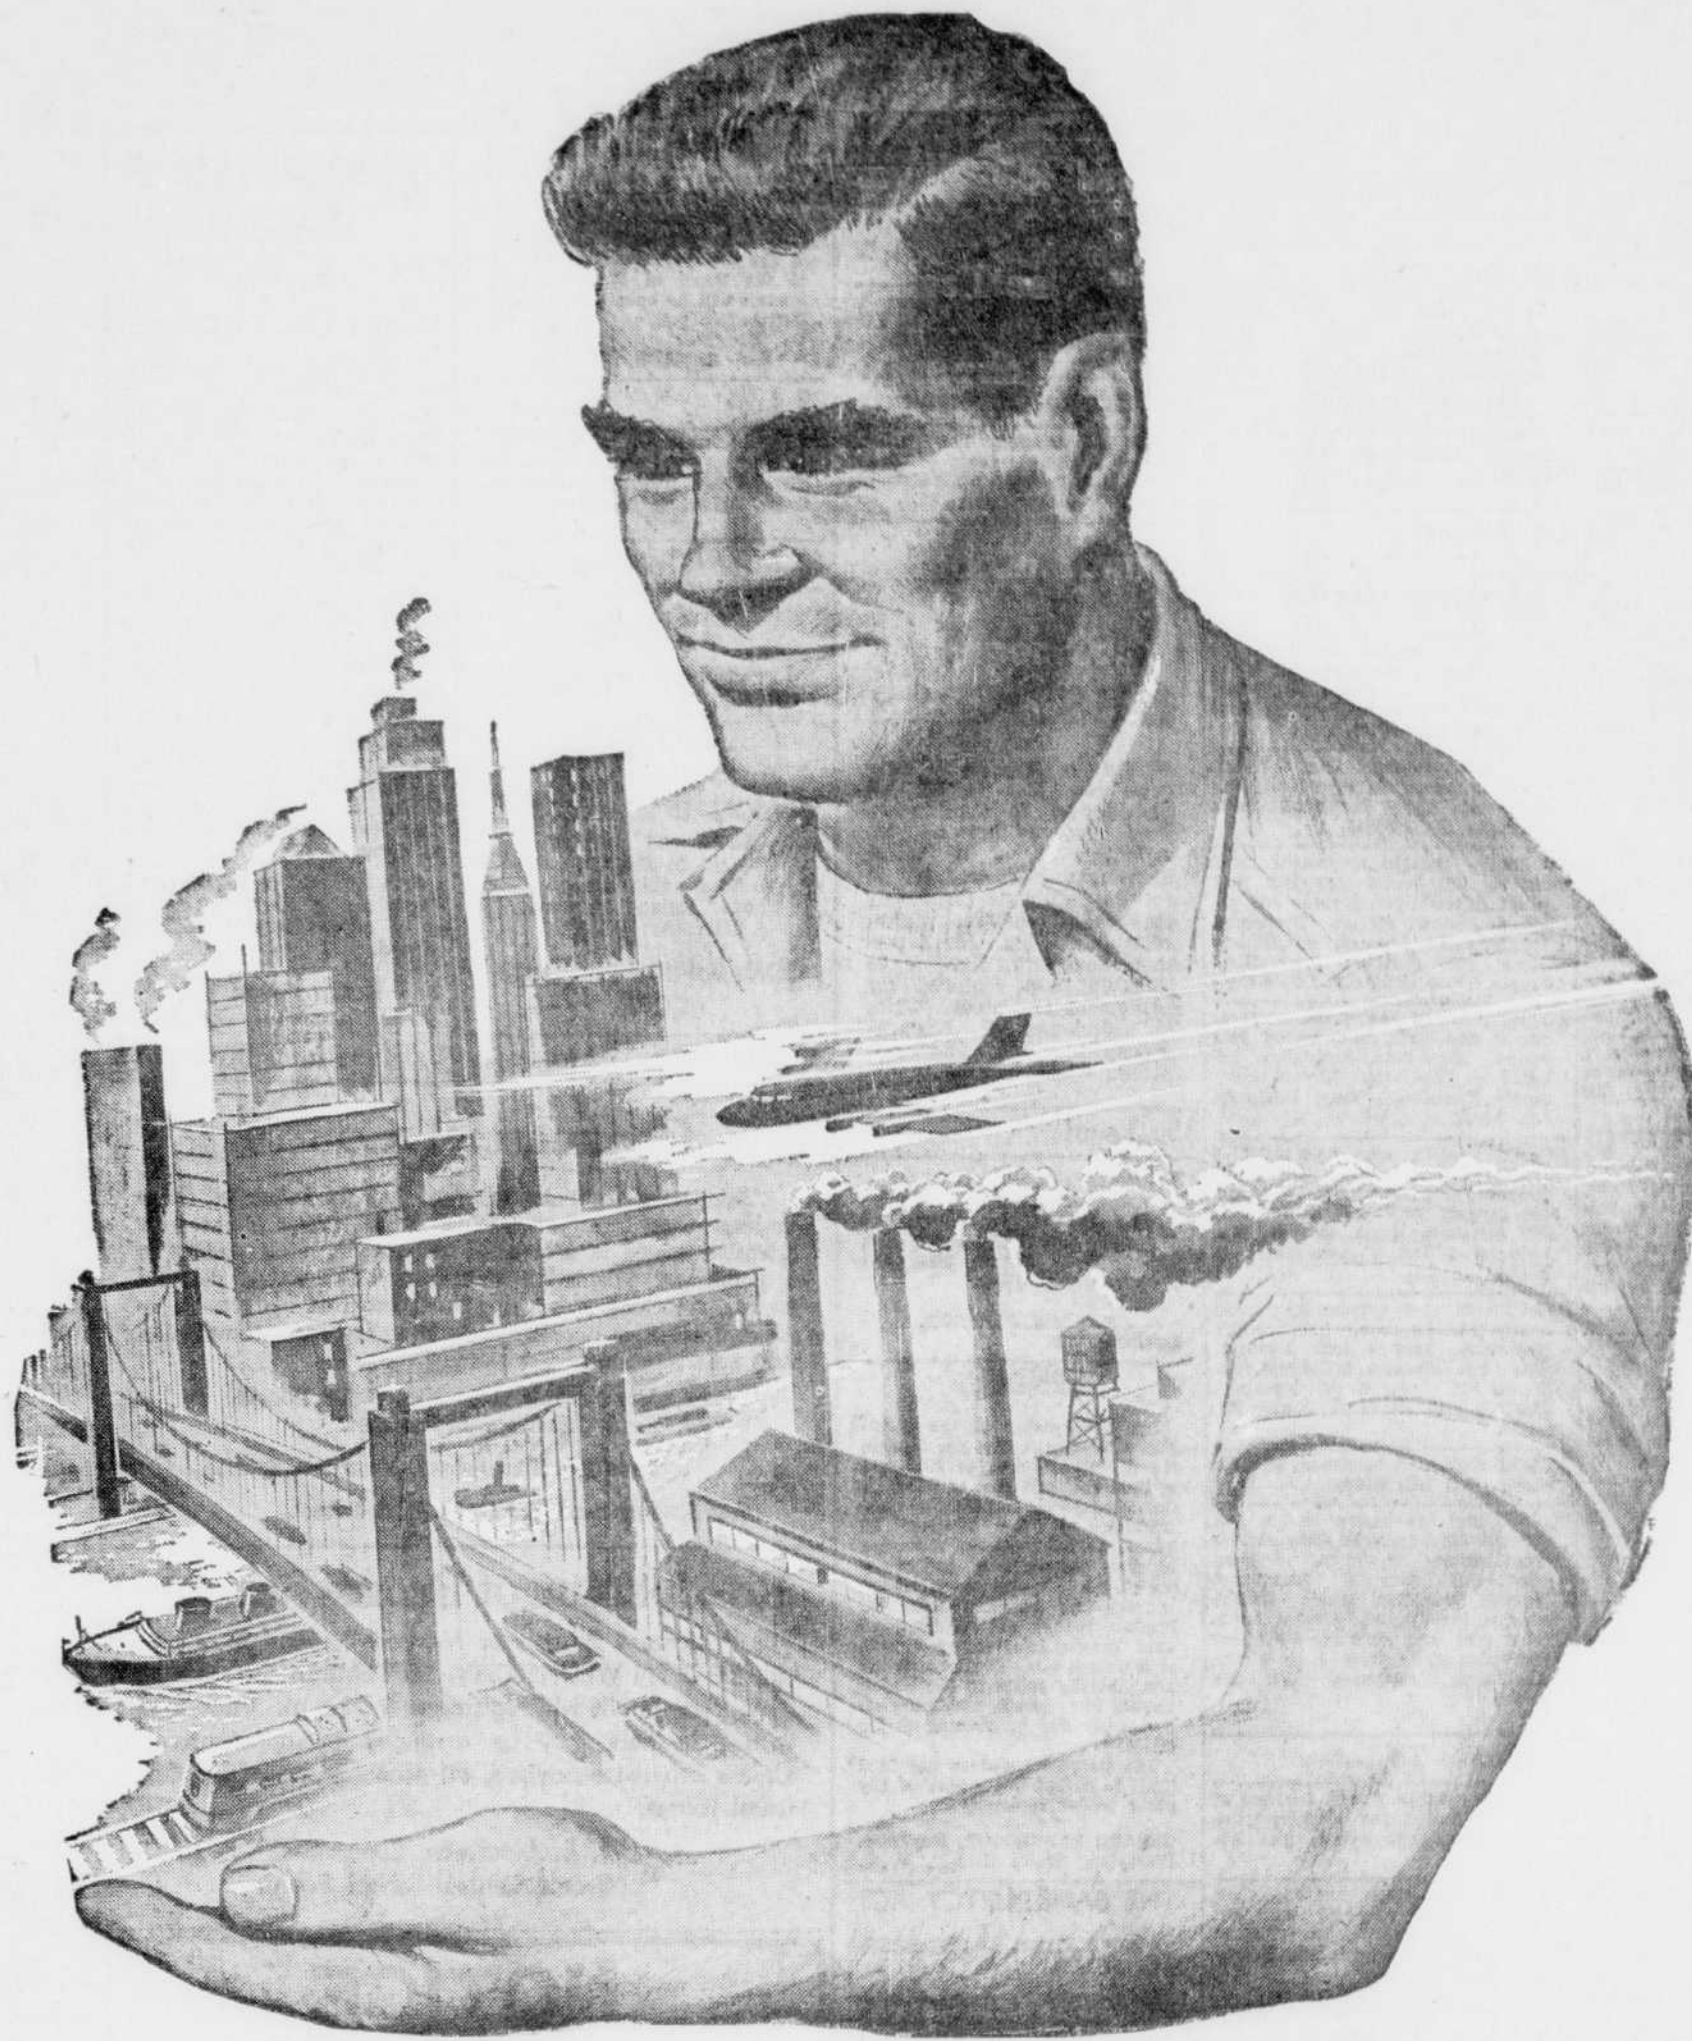

Today, with such an enormous percentage of our population engaged in an earning capacity...Labor Day may well be thought of as a day when we salute not just the individual worker...but our entire Canadian way of life. And it is, most certainly, a good way of life!

Management and labor, men and women, people of every background work hand in hand...to provide every family, directly or indirectly, with an abundance of necessities and the enviable luxuries that we Canadians are privileged to enjoy every day of the year.

Enjoy Alberta from an easy chair

ALBERTA REVISITED by Ken Liddell—234 pages—THE RYERSON PRESS. . . $4.00—I read most of this book while I was holidaying in Alberta—which is obviously the ideal time to read and enjoy a book on Alberta.

However Ken Liddell has so many interesting anecdotes to tell about the stampee province that even if you can't don a stetson and join the crowds at the Calgary Stampede you can still enjoy his book from the comfort of your easy chair.

As roving columnist for the CALGARY HERALD, specializing in stories of the people and places on the rural scene, Ken Liddell has been in an ideal position to write just such a book as this and he has made the most of his opportunities.

One can almost see him driving down a prairie trail hunting out the cairn marking "the site of the last camping place of Chief Crowfoot, April, 1890, where he pitched off for the last time in sight of Blackfoot Crossing" or leaning over a fence talking to a dusty rancher.

Each of the places he visited and the people to whom he talked has found a niche in his book, and for the most part I think he has drawn true pictures although I can't honestly say that the modish, stream-lined Medicine Hat through which we drove early in July bore too much resemblance to the "industrialized cow-town" described by Mr. Liddell.

His description of Edmonton on the other hand, which reads: "Edmonton is a city of low buildings. By day it has the dull appearance of having been ironed into shape, but by night it is made beautiful by lights twinkling clear to the horizon like a tremendous field of pretty bulbs" strikes a responsive chord.

Mr. Liddell's book is crammed with interesting tidbits of information about the province and as such is a gold mine to the researcher or the tourist. My only criticism of the book lies in its writing style.

I don't know whether it was because he wanted to use as much of his material as possible while at the same time keeping the book to a certain size that made Mr. Liddell consistently omit the word "the" and other linking words—or whether it is his customary writing style, but whichever it is, in my opinion, this one small thing spoils much of the pleasure in the book.

In fact I was so irritated at times by this jerking, unsteady flow of words that I very nearly threw the book down—and probably would have had I not found the next anecdote and the next, so very fascinating.

GLADYS TAYLOR.

A rattling good story

THE AFFAIR by C. P. Snow; Macmillan & Co. Ltd., 376 pages, $3.50—This is a rattling good story about a search for justice carried on within the rather narrow confines of an English university community.

It concerns a breach of academic ethics apparently committed by a non-topical Fellow of the university during the course of his research. The breach appears to be the accused falsified an experiment, and drew from it some scientifically startling conclusions.

The plot is bare and familiar enough. What makes this telling of it particularly good reading is the way in which the author has drawn the interplay of personalities as they clash over the pros and cons of the case.

From the affair itself spring revelations of one's man ambitions, of another's narrow-mindedness, of yet another's surprising capacity for fighting for an ideal.

Each character becomes a fascinating study in himself, and holds the reader's interest as much as the main theme.

Some readers may find it difficult to adapt themselves to the peculiarly English college atmosphere in which the book is set.

The attitudes of sacredness and clannishness portrayed as existing within very "ivory tower" walls of learning do not exist here with any near the same intensity.

But even within these limits, the author has fashioned a novel that gathers momentum as it moves along to a climax easily foretold near the beginning of the book.

It is, perhaps, the true measure of the author's ability that knowing what the end must be in no way inhibits interest. On the contrary, the way in which it is reached provides the fullest measure of reading enjoyment.

HUGH DOHERTY

POLISH FOREST

The Bialowieza forest in eastern Poland in former centuries was a favorite hunting area for Polish kings and later Russian Czars.

Tough novel about Wales

RAPE OF THE FAIR COUNTRY by Alexander Cordell, Victor Gollancz Ltd., 288 pp. This is a tough, bitter, and to someone unfamiliar with the Industrial Revolution, an almost incredible novel of the Welsh iron foundries of the early 19th century—pointing up the social progress achieved in Britain in the past hundred years.

More than this, it is the story of an exploited and suffering people, of pregnant women hauling underground trams, of starving children forced to work under pitiful conditions, of men blinded and crippled in their prime by the complete disregard for human safety, the whole to satisfy the greed of the ironmasters.

In order to make his case Mr. Cordell may easily have resorted to some exaggeration and to an annoying plethora of unpronounceable Welsh names.

But even discounting these faults there emerges an unforgettable picture of the impact of the Industrial Revolution on predominantly agricultural Monmouthshire and of the indomitable will to survive of its persecuted inhabitants.

Canadian ballet on tour

MONTREAL (CP)—Les Grands Ballets Canadiens, a youthful dance troupe which sprang from a television series, plans an ambitious stage tour of the eastern United States and Canada this fall.

LUDEMILLA CHIRIAEFF

The company, assisted by grants from the Canada Council, province of Quebec and city of Montreal, is to dance in small towns which normally never see professional ballet. It will travel through Quebec, Ontario and American states as far south as Virginia.

The dancers are hopeful they will repeat the success of earlier tours to small communities in the Atlantic provinces and in northern Quebec.

Organizer Mme. Ludmilla Chiriaeff, Russian-born ballerina and teacher, says: "Even those people who had never seen a ballet before had an instinctive understanding and enjoyment of what was happening on stage to rival any audience in the concert halls of the large cities."

Mme. Chiriaeff arrived in Canada in 1952 with the hope of finding encouragement for expression of new creative dance forms in the invigorating climate of a young, developing country.

Soon after she landed in Montreal she obtained a contract to produce a monthly half-hour ballet for the CBC national television network. The kinescopes were widely circulated and enabled her to open a ballet school in downtown Montreal.

In 1955 she selected the best dancers among her pupils with a few newcomers from Europe and formed Les Grands Ballets Canadiens. The company's debut at the Chateau on top of Mount Royal was an acclaimed success.

Les Grands Ballets now has a repertoire of 35 ballets, many of them Canadian compositions. Such classics as Swan Lake and Petroushka have been specially choreographed for its own dancers.

Prima ballerina is Montreal-born Margaret Mercier, who joined the company in 1958. She studied at Sadlers Wells in London and has toured in Europe and North America with the Royal Ballet.

London-born Eric Hyst, principal male dancer, has been associated with the company almost since its beginning and shares much of the choreography. He studied at the Royal Academy and has danced with Sadlers Wells and Royal Winnipeg Ballet companies.

The Canadian group has a standing invitation to dance again at the international dance festival at Jacob's Pillow, Mass. After the company made two appearances there, Festival promoter Ted Shawn commented: "Canada should feel enriched by this young company which reflects so well the verve, dash and vitality of French-Canada."

Fast moving novel has Biblical theme

THE MANY COLORED COAT—Morley Callaghan—Macmillan—318 pp.—This is a serious novel as well as a fast moving story—the author has chosen a Biblical theme and applied it to a segment of modern life in the heart of Montreal, with interesting but uneven results.

The main character of the book is Harry Lane, Public Relations consultant for a Montreal distillery whose friendship with Scotty Bowman, a bank manager, leads to suicide for Scotty, and social ostracism for Harry.

The pursuit of vengeance, reprisal for injustice meted out in a court of law, obsesses Harry for months; but in the end, just as the way to reinstatement seems clear, after much soul searching and self analysis Harry comes to the realization that revenge in itself offers neither a satisfactory purpose to life, nor its own reward.

Mr. Callaghan writes with the authority and confidence of long experience.

This book must have been especially carefully planned—the plot evolves neatly, one event following another in logical and indispensable sequence.

It is a well written and immensely readable book.

My only query is why such a self-evident and familiar theme was selected as a basis for the story.

Surely the beauty of for-givenness is sufficiently emphasized in our earliest Sunday school days to preclude the necessity of re-emphasizing the point so laboriously now in our maturity!

Children learn French at summer school

By MALCAH SUFRIN

TROIS-PISTOLES, Que. (CP)—The growth of interest in the French language among English-speaking Canadians is reflected in this year's curriculum at the University of Western Ontario summer school here.

Sixty-two Ontario school boards have made application to the Ontario education department for permission to begin teaching French in elementary grades.

With this in mind, the summer school in this St. Lawrence River town of 5,000 introduced a course for teachers in linguistic pedagogy aimed at the lower grades. Instructor is Raymond Duplantie, supervisor of French in the Oakville, Ont., public school system and an exponent of the Tan-Gau method of teaching the language to youngsters.

ORAL FRENCH

"The spoken language depends on different senses than does the written language," said Mr. Duplantie. "Therefore the elementary schools can prepare students to attack effectively the problems encountered in secondary schools."

The Tan-Gau method was devised by Tan Gwan Leong, director of curriculum for the Bureau of Education, and Dr. Robert Gauthier, president of L'Association Canadienne des Educateurs de la Langue Francaise.

Mr. Duplantie uses the children of other members of the summer school faculty to demonstrate the method. It concentrates on oral French. The instructor speaks only French, using objects and drawings as props and making extensive use of expressive gestures.

Students reply in English to questions until their ears become attuned to French. Then they may employ a mixture of the two languages until they are able to find their way in French alone.

"Teachers must be effectively prepared," said Mr. Duplantie. "They must not begin an elementary French program arbitrarily. A teacher must teach a second language according to sound principles of methods, have a firm philosophy of teaching and be convinced of what he is doing."

Trois-Pistoles, 130 miles northwest of Quebec City, was chosen as the site of Western's summer school in 1953.

"The aim of the school," said Theophile Casaubon, associate professor of Romance languages at Western and director of the school, "is twofold—not only the developing of two languages but the mingling of two cultures."

Trois-Pistoles was chosen because the French language of the lower St. Lawrence is of a fine quality.

A happy relationship between the school and the people of Trois-Pistoles has developed over the 27 years.

"Gardez la langue"—take care to speak well—said a notice in the local newspaper before the students arrived in July for the seven-week course. The 125 students, many of them teachers themselves, represent practically every province as well as the United States and South America.

FRENCH STUDENTS

When the school first opened it was confined to English-speaking students. Since 1941 there have been classes in English for French-speaking students. All are placed in groups according to their ability.

During morning sessions the instructors solve language problems. In the afternoons students of both languages mingle informally to discuss topics of interest. "Here a true attempt is being made towards bilingualism," said Carl Theodore, head of the modern language department of Toronto's Forest Hill school system and English instructor here.

"In the morning French is taught in restaurant style; the students are served. In the afternoon it is cafeteria style; the students help themselves."

By GLADYS TAYLOR

This week has been a delightful one for me—and I'm sure it would have been equally so for anyone else who loves books. The reason I found it so delightful is that every day my mail box has been full of publishers' catalogues. And what a treasure of interesting books is in store for book lovers during this coming winter!

For instance virtually every publisher has a fine array of novels ranging from such interesting first novels as THE WOUND OF SPRING by S.

Menon Marath (DOBSON BOOKS LTD.) of THIS SIDE OF JORDAN by Canadian Margaret Laurence (McCLELLAND & STEWART) to offerings by such old favorites as Gladys Hasty Carroll whose COME WITH ME HOME (LITTLE BROWN & COMPANY) is slated for October publication.

This season sees still a heavy trend to books on "personalities" as for example Arthur Barker Ltd.'s November publication of GARBO by Fritiof Billquist and AMBASSADOR BOOKS October publication of CALLAS—Portrait of a Prima Donna by George Jellinek. In addition to these there are those "personality books" purportedly written by the personality themselves as for instance AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF ART LINKLETTER and HARPO SPEAKS, both published by Random House. Many readers will be delighted to know that Maurice Chevalier has written a book entitled WITH LOVE (LITTLE BROWN & COMPANY) while Bob Cummings has revealed his secret of youth to PRENTICE-HALL in a book called HOW I STAY VITAL. Pat Boone has a second book out entitled BETWEEN YOU, ME AND THE GATEPOST which, to my way of thinking, is an even more unwieldy title than his earlier TWIST TWELVE AND TWENTY.

The only ROYAL FAMILY entries on the book seller's lists so far are PRINCE PHILIP: A FAMILY PORTRAIT by Alexander, Queen of Yugoslavia (BOBBS-MERRILL CO.) and inevitably—a book of photographs entitled LONDON by Tony Armstrong-Jones (GEORGE WEIDENFELD & NICOLSON LTD.)

If, as I have already mentioned, the title of Pat Boone's book seems a little unwieldy, it must be admitted this is not an uncommon failing on this year's lists to judge by such offerings as OUT OF THE BUNKER AND INTO THE TREES by Rex Lardner and AUNT JANE MCPHIPPS & HER BABY BLUE CHIPS by Frances V. Rummell. However if many of the titles are long and unwieldy there are others which are distinctly interesting—providing as for example DATEBOOK'S COMPLETE GUIDE TO DATING edited by Art Unger (PRENTICE-HALL), HOW TO LIVE EVERY DAY OF YOUR LIFE by Margaret Blair Johnstone, D.D. (BOBBS-MERRILL CO.), DIARY OF A RUSSIAN SCHOOLTEACHER by F. Vigdorova (GROVE PRESS INC.), HOW TO BE PRESIDENT by Edward Sorel (GROVE PRESS INC.) and NO CRYING IN THIS CRADLE by Elizabeth G. Morrison and Joan Goldman (ERNEST BENN LTD.)

As usual there are numerous books on faiths in this year's lists, the only surprise being the interest publishers seem to be showing in the cult of Zen Buddhism. I noticed at least three new books on this subject, namely: ZEN SHOWED ME THE WAY by Sessue Hayakawa, THIS IS IT AND OTHER ESSAYS ON ZEN by Alan Watts and FAITHS OF AMERI-

TOP THREE-YEAR-OLDS HERE TOMORROW AFTERNOON

Racing fans of Sherbrooke and the Townships will be given another opportunity tomorrow afternoon of seeing the top fillies of the Province in action at the local track. A field of nine have registered their entries and it is expected that a few more may get their horses in on time.

As it stands nine are ready to go for the major share of the $4,483 purse in the Stake. It will be a two-heat affair and should be a good race.

Ivan Dugre's double entry of Fairy Dream and Merry Dream which goes as a single at the pari-mutuels has been installed slight favorites in the event. However owner Dugre isn't too optimistic about his chances as he claims that there are several good three-year-olds in the class.

On the other hand he has yet to win a race before his home town fans. He has started several good horses here in the past but failed to register any victories but we figure that he will break his "Home Town Jinx" this time.

He has two very good fillies in Merry Dream and Fairy Dream and they have been doing well under the guidance of Jacques Larente, who is no newcomer to local fans. He has several other horses in his stable who have been winning around the country.

This event coming on the heels of the Canadian Juvenile Stake Championships last week is a real treat to local racing fans. They will have the opportunity of seeing the coming horses of the country in action. The local club, headed by Adelard Dumas and Sam Fabi, has spared no expense in getting these horses here and we are sure if they get the proper backing they will bring in some more.

A new track record was set last Sunday when Keith Waples drove Russ Miller's two-year-old Mac's Will under the wire in 2:04 2/5. It was a Canadian record also and speaks well for the shape of the track.

It was the first time such a mark has ever been registered. They were clocked in .29 3/5 at the quarter, 1:02 4/5 at the half and finished in the record time. This was moving and it seemed that the young colt was just jogging along. We think if he was pushed he could have gone better and don't be surprised if he breaks his own record within the near future.

So fans don't forget to drop up and see the three-year-olds in action maybe they will be in for another surprise. At least you can be sure that they will be going all out for the major share of the purse and it should be a good race.

This is the weekend for the International Golf Tournament at St. Johnsbury Country Club. This is a three-day event and players can compete any day they wish. There are prizes for classes A, B and C, in both gross and net. Last year 290 players competed and another good field is expected again.

Playoffs in the Massawippi Intermediate Baseball League have commenced and today Magog goes to Waterloo with Beebe at Ayer's Cliff. Tomorrow afternoon the teams will switch sites for the next game of the three-out-of-five series. The winners will meet in the finals.

John Newman of the Knowlton Golf Club, who holds a club handicap of five, is the new Eastern Townships junior champion following his three-round score of 104 to nose out young Marcel Dion of East Angus by five strokes. Pretty good going and both these boys should be congratulated for their fine showing.

Maurice Gingues' death was a blow not only to political circles but the sporting world as well. He seldom missed a hockey game when he was able to attend and presented a trophy to the league a few years ago which is still at stake in the circuit.

He took in all sporting events when he wasn't in Ottawa and was always ready to help in any manner. He loved sports and supported them financially and otherwise and his death is a loss to all. We always enjoyed our short talks with Maurice and will miss them.

To Mrs. Gingues and family we offer our sympathies on behalf of the English sporting fans. His passing is a big loss to our community.

Blaise Hanover walked off with the honors in the Hambletonian at Du Quoin State Fair and picked up $85,019 for his afternoon's work. It was the richest purse ever to be collected and it took four heats to decide the outcome.

He tied the record blazing mile in 1:59 3/5 while a record crowd was on hand. There is no pari-mutuels at the State Fair which sounds funny but it is quite true. They race for the honor and purse down that way.

Milwaukee Braves Still Hanging On Thanks To Work Of Adcock, Spahn

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Staff Writer

Time is running out on the Milwaukee Braves but they continue to hang in there, mainly on the hitting of Joe Adcock and the pitching of Warren Spahn.

Spahn works once in every four or five days and was still setting out his much deserved rest Friday night following Tuesday night's shutout of St. Louis. But Adcock was in there and the slugging first baseman contributed heavily to the Braves' 9-6 triumph over Cincinnati with a home run and single.

The homer was Adcock's third in two days and 22nd of the season. He is the only Brave regular over the .300 batting mark.

The victory inched the Braves to within 6 1/2 games of the front running Pittsburgh Pirates, who enjoyed a day off. With 27 games left, the Braves must win 21 to overtake Pittsburgh provided the Pirates do no better than split their remaining 26 games.

Chicago dropped the third-place St. Louis Cardinals eight games behind Pittsburgh with a 10-4 victory. San Francisco shaded Los Angeles 4-3. Philadelphia joined Pittsburgh on the sidelines.

EVERY BRAVE HITS

Every starter in the Milwaukee lineup got at least one hit as the Braves bombarded five Cincinnati pitchers with 17 hits. Veteran Alvin Dark, dividing his chores between third base and left field, got a double and two singles and drove in two runs. Joey Jay won his sixth but needed help from Ron Piche in the ninth.

Don Cardwell, a pitcher who has had his lumps this season, turned the tables and smashed two home runs and a single as he pitched and batted the Cubs

Nine Fillies Registered In Tomorrow's Stake

Dugre's Merry Dream And Fairy Dream Slight Favorites In $4,483 Stake Sunday Afternoon; Card Tonight

A $4,483 stake for Canadian fillies will headline the weekend racing cards presented by the Sherbrooke Racing Club. The Stake will be run tomorrow afternoon instead of the evening while tonight another card will be presented. Post Time is 8:00 tonight while tomorrow afternoon the horses will go to the gate at 1:30.

Twenty classes have listed for the weekend and this evening four doubles and two singles are on the card. With the completion of the Sherbrooke Fair the Racing Club will swing back into their regular schedule with classes going on the indicated time. During Fair week special permission was granted as it was impossible to run on time.

Nine fillies are slated to be on hand for the Stake tomorrow afternoon and a good race should be witnessed before the winner crosses the line. Ivan Dugre of Sherbrooke heads the list with Fairy Dream and Merry Dream. Jules Giguere of Quebec has Meadow Theresa, H. Soucie of St. Basille has Sure Yankee and E. Cournoyer has Fan Tan Wick of Sorel.

One entry from the local track has been made with Suzanne Clap, owned by Badeau & Fils. Joseannine, the property of the Filion brothers of Aniers, and Abbe Promptly, entry from the Gordon Stable of Montreal complete it. It was expected that a few more would arrive in time before entry deadline.

Fifteen Boxing Referees And Judges Fired In Olympic Boxing Tournament For Incompetence After Complaints

ROME (CP)—Half of the 30 referees and judges in the Olympic boxing tournament have been fired for incompetence, an Italian official said Friday night.

A. Gillardi, a member of the judging panel of the International Amateur Boxing Association, said the wholesale shake-up was the result of vigorous protests from many nations, particularly Britain Canada also had complained about the officiating.

The matter was brought to a head, Gillardi said, by a hotly disputed decision Thursday night favoring Oleg Grigoriev of Russia over Britain's Francis Taylor.

No announcement was made regarding the names of the judges dismissed.

Canada complained of the refereeing early in the tournament after fightweight Raoul Sarrazin of Pointe-aux-Trembles, Que., was disqualified in his fight with Korea's Duck Bong Kim for allegedly using his gloves illegally.

Dennis White, Canada's Olympic boxing manager, said the disqualification was unfair. He disclosed that he had complained a couple of days earlier about the same referee, Nicole of Switzerland, who also handled the bout which Gabriele Mancini of Montreal lost to Shinku Jusuki of Japan.

All four Canadian boxers were eliminated early in the tournament.

After the decision in the Gri-goriev-Taylor bout, a British boxing official threatened to pull out all his remaining fighters.

He was dissuaded by association officials, who promised something would be done to rectify the situation.

W. P. Denton, assistant boxing manager of the British team, said: "It was a clear-cut case of the judges having their pencils ready to mark certain boys even before the bouts were run off."

Gillardi said.

Casey's Warning Proves Justified Baltimore Downs Yankees By 5-0

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Staff Writer

"This is a good ball club and if you men do not know it now, you're likely to find it out by Sunday."

The quotes belong to Casey Stengel. The warning note was part of a speech made by the New York manager to his Yankee players before Friday night's game in Baltimore.

Casey was right but his players didn't have to wait until Sunday. The Orioles won 5-0, extending their winning streak to five straight.

"I can see why you're up there in the race," Stengel told his players. "Their pitchers pitch four and five-hitters."

The Old Perfectionist miscalculated slightly. Milt Pappas allowed the Yankees only three hits, all singles, and permitted only one runner to reach second.

GET DOUBLE PLAY

Baltimore's infield not only played flawlessly but erased the only Yankee threat with a double play. Except for Cleis Boyer and Tony Kubek, who got two hits, no other Yankee reached base. Pappas walked none and struck out nine.

The Orioles now are only three percentage points behind the Yankees.

Chicago's third-place White Sox defeated Detroit 7-5. Cleveland conquered Kansas City 6-2 and Washington swept a two-night doubleheader from Boston 5-1 and 3-2.

Trio Accused Of Trying To Extort Money From Umps

JESSUP, Md. (AP) — Two Washington men and a former Baltimore night club dancer were arraigned Friday on charges of trying to extort money from American League umpires Bill McKinley and Ed Runge.

Magistrate William Boehm set bail at $5,000 each for Donald Anderson, 32, and Robert Waldron, 30, and $2,000 for Mary Jane Spencer, 21, of Suitland, Md.

A second woman, Helen Ela, 24, of Washington, was released on $500 bail as a material witness.

Miss Spencer, a shapely brunette who wore tight-fitting slacks and blouse at the arraignment McKinley and Runge while working in a Baltimore night club and was instructed by her employer to go out with them.

State police Cpl. Gary R. Grant told Boehm that Anderson, identified as Miss Spencer's fiancé, and Waldron later contacted the umpires and demanded $2,000 each under threat of damaging their reputations.

The umpires notified police, said Grant.

In Boston, American League President Joe Cronin said he would "look into the matter and investigate it thoroughly."

United States Track And Field Team Bounces Back Grabbing Three Of The Seven Gold Medals In Olympic Stadium

ROME (CP) — The United States track and field team bounced back Friday from a disastrous black Thursday and captured three of the seven championships at stake in Olympic Stadium.

It was a creditable performance but the gold-medal-conscious Russians were right behind with two championships. New Zealand's ace runners won two more to give their country its first gold medals of the 1960 games.

Four Olympic records were broken in the track and field finals. A world record was tied in the women's 100-metre heats and when Wilma Rudolph streaked to victory in the final in the amazing time of 11 seconds flat it looked as though she had set a mark that would stand for years to come.

But officials quickly ruled no world record could be recognized for the tall Tennessee girl because of a following wind.

HURDLE SWEET

The most solid effort by the United States was a record-breaking sweep of the 400-metre hurdles. Defending champion Glenn Davis flashed in winner followed by teammates Clifton Cushman and Dick Howard.

Davis' time was 49.3 seconds, bettering the 50.1 mark he made in the 1956 games and equaled there by Ed Southern in the U.S. in a semi-final. Cushman's time was 49.6 and Howard's 49.7.

Helmut Janz of Germany, in fourth place, also broke the record with his 49.9 clocking.

The United States came close to another sweep in the broad jump, with Ralph Boston and Bo Roberson finishing one-two and breaking the longest - standing record in the Olympic book.

MIGHTY LEAP

Boston's mighty leap was 26 feet, 7 3/4 inches and Roberson was a shade back at 26 feet, 7 1/4 inches. The old mark of 26 feet, 5 3/4 inches was set by the great American star Jesse Owens at the 1936 games. Igor Terovnevian of Russia won the bronze medal.

Boston in competition earlier this year twice broken Owens' world record. His best was 26 feet, 11 1/4 inches, against Owens' world mark of 26 feet, 5 3/4 inches.

Peter Snell of New Zealand won the Olympic record in winning the 800-metre hurdles, from which the Americans were shut out in heats Thursday.

Murray Halberg, New Zealand's greatest distance runner, won the fairly slow 5,000-metre championship in 13:43.4.

A tireless Russian, Vladimir Goulichnik, won the 20 - kilometre walk, in which former Newfoundland, Alex Oakley of Oshawa, Ont., placed ninth. Oakley's time was 1:38:46.

WOMEN'S SHOT PUT

Tamara Press, muscular Russian girl, won the women's shot put, breaking the Olympic record with a heave of 56 feet, 9 3/4 inches. The old mark, by another
