Mexico waiting with open arms

OAS welcome out to Canada

MEXICO CITY — (TNS) — The welcome mat is out for Canadians in Mexico, and hope is running high that Canada will now join the Organization of American States.

Mexicans at almost every level of society appear to hold a particularly high regard for their guests from the far north. Canadians here are quick to realize this, too, and will unobtrusively seize almost any opportunity to disclose their nationality.

Why should this be? Just what do Mexicans see in Canadians that they don't see in other visitors?

"Well," said Luis de Lara, operator of one of the biggest tour organizations in Mexico. "Maybe it's because we're a lot alike in many ways. In our political history we have both shared similar experiences as the smaller nations of the continent. Like Canadians and Americans, we too, were once a colonial territory."

"To speak quite frankly," he continued, "it seems a shame to me that when such two-way good-will exists, we do not exploit it to the fullest — commercially, culturally and in every other way. I know that we here in Mexico do not hear enough about Canada and I'm told that you in Canada may hear even less about us. That is sad indeed."

Mr. de Lara said that precisely because of this reciprocal good feeling between Mexicans and Canadians, he is shooting especially for new Canadian business. In so doing, he is working in close cooperation with Canadian Pacific Air Lines, which operates a direct jet service to Mexico City from both Toronto and Vancouver.

Mr. de Lara expressed the belief that there should be more joint commercial enterprises between Mexico and Canada.

complements the others. You have your wonderful salmon, we have our tuna and other southern fish; you have your maple, your oak, your fir, we have our teak and bamboo. Before long, I am sure, both our countries will see the wisdom of working together in such similar enterprises."

Announcement of joining to come from Pearson?

By GORDON DONALDSON

future we are inextricably bound," The Diefenbaker government reached the brink of membership then retreated.

The now-famous purloined position paper could have affected that decision. The paper, prepared for the 1961 Kennedy-Diefenbaker meeting by presidential advisor Walt D. Rostow fell into Canadian hands and suggested Kennedy should "push" for Canadian membership in the OAS and support for the Alliance for Progress.

This pushing may have shoved Mr. Diefenbaker the wrong way.

For the 73-year history of Canada and Pan-American union has included a lot of pushing both ways.

For more than half of this period the United States, which dominates the other 20 Central and South American republics insisted Canada be kept out as a tool of British imperialism. In 1941 Canada tried to get in but was edged out. As Lester Pearson said, we were "blackballed by Washington and others."

Since the war Canada has resisted appeals to join because she was wary of U.S. control and didn't want to get involved in Banana republic politics and revolutions.

Now everybody wants Canada in. The "have-not" Latin Americans would like to see another "have" country join to counteract overwhelming Yankee influence. "You'd like it," said an OAS spokesman "and the Latins would like another northern to help balance the U.S."

The U.S. wants its northern friend to share some of the responsibility, expense and hideous problems involved.

Britain leaves the decision entirely up to Canada but would rather see us in the OAS than out. "If she de-

Record snowfall

A record-setting 9.9 inches of wet, heavy snow, mixed with freezing rain, fell in southern Quebec overnight, the Dominion Weather Bureau at Dorval's International Airport, reported Saturday morning.

Officials said that the snowfall broke a 1936 all-time record for May of 1.3 inches. Temperatures overnight were reported at 32 after a high Friday of 43.

Warheads here?

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (CP) — Informed sources said Prime Minister Pearson and President Kennedy have reached a firm understanding on the provision of nuclear warheads for Canada, opening the way for technical negotiations on custody and control agreements.

These informants said the understanding was reached at Friday's talks and that the joint communiqué to be issued this afternoon will confirm the Canadian commitment to accept the warheads, an issue which boiled into a major political controversy during the last Canadian election campaign.

Insure police

MONTREAL — (CP) — The bombings and terrorist work of the separatist Front de Liberation Quebecois have led the city of Montreal to guarantee life insurance benefits for policemen who might have to dismantle bombs or handle explosives.

The administration announced the guarantee Friday at the request of Police Director J. Adrien Robert who said one of his men was informed recently by an insurance company that the policy does not cover fatal mishaps in such work.

Blamed in death

MONTREAL — (CP) — A French war hero, boss of Canada's toughest penitentiary, and two guards have been found criminally negligent in the death of a guard grabbed as a hostage May 2 by four prisoners.

Warden Michel LeCorre, 43, holder of the French Croix de Guerre, and two guards at St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary were implicated Friday night by a five-man coroner's court jury.

The verdict came as a surprise.

Earlier this week statements supporting the warden's action in the crisis were issued by Allen J. MacLeod, federal commissioner of penitentiaries, and Roland LeFrancis, president of a civil service association local representing 600 guards.

Ban weapons

NAIROBI (Reuters) — Clubs, sticks, knives and machetes — the grisly weapon of the Mau Mau rebellion — have been banned for the duration of this month's general elections in Kenya.

Anyone found in possession of one of these weapons is liable to two years in prison, a £500 fine, or both.

In this tense, sombre atmosphere some 2,500,000 Kenyans, the great majority of them Negroes, will cast their votes between May 18 and May 26 to elect the government which will take them forward to full independence sometime next year.

To be confronted with Norris report

May month of decision for SIU chief Banks

For Hal Chamberlain Banks and his tottering maritime labor empire, May is the month of decision — perhaps the most important since he came to Canada 14 years ago.

Within three weeks, Banks will be confronted with the exhaustive report of the Norris probe of waterfront labor violence, which devoted two weeks to a first-hand look at his own big spending, high-living career as a labor leader.

Banks, still the prototype of the tough union leader who fought his way to the top in the toughest of all labor fields, the waterfront, is now 54 years of age and fighting desperately to hang onto his position as monarch of the docks.

As though anticipating the storm signals that may fly after the Norris report is handed to Allan J. MacEachen, the new minister of labor, Banks pulled his lawyers out of the probe without giving them a chance at a final argument.

But this is not expected to hinder Mr. Justice Thomas G. Norris from trying to issue a prescription not only to end the wave of terror on the waterfronts but to bring lasting labor peace and some measure of morality to the maritime labor field.

With eight months of hearings behind him, Mr. Justice Norris is still confronted with the perplexing problem of just what to do about the waterfront and its sailors, longshoremen and other workers.

His main task is the sailors — a group depicted as a helpless, dragooned legion in the final arguments by the C.I.D.L. against Banks and his Seafarers International Union of Canada, which it labelled a racket and a hoodlum empire.

If Banks is a tyrant and the monarch of a hoodlum empire, how does Mr. Justice Norris liberate 10,000 Canadian sailors?

If Banks is the hoodlum charged by his foes, then what does Canada do about the sailor's labor czar, still an American citizen?

Banks own rise to power from an obscure SIU official to get African friendship in the same way the United States tries — through the no-strings-attached offer of advice, education and technical assistance. To this end, Israel has fielded the best diplomatic corps she can muster.

In addition, there are about 1,000 Israeli technical experts working in Africa and about 1,000 African leaders and potential leaders studying in Israel.

For a struggling agricultural nation of little more than 2 million people, Israel's program represents a heavy commitment.

On the diplomatic level, Israel's position is probably the strongest of any nation represented on the continent. In one key West African country, a U.S. observer said that the Western world's position was still secure thanks largely to the personal friendship of the Israeli ambassador with the nation's prime minister.

In part, this diplomatic success is the result of sizing up emergent African nationalism correctly. While African leaders are highly sensitive to insult or slight, they are also informal to a point that sends some European diplomats into a frenzy of frustration. African statecraft is much more likely to be practiced at the breakfast table or on the street corner than at the conference table. One can frequently find the Israeli ambassador on that street corner or at that breakfast table — a place many U.S. and other foreign diplomats do not find with ease.

In part, Israel's successful relations can be traced to her approach to technical aid in Africa.

A day in Birmingham

Where no one likes the Negroes

"Y' know the best way to fix everything, Mister? Kill a few of 'em." These words, spoken casually, and without any particular emotion by the young man who had just filled my tank with gas and was now cleaning my windshield, just about answered the question I had travelled all the way to Birmingham, Alabama, to find out for myself.

Was this so-called racial problem as bad as the newspaper radio and television made out? Were the Negroes really trying to move in on the sacred and segregated lunch counters and washrooms of the whites?

I wanted to find out first hand, and this remark by the filling station attendant underlined the fact that all was not well.

"Yes sir, Mister, since that guy, what's his name? King, Luther King (anti-segregation leader Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King), came into our town with a gang of his northern niggers, we've had nothin' but trouble. We never had no trouble with the niggers in this town before they came here, and I tell you, the sooner a few of them northern nigger SOB's is killed off, the sooner things will be all right around here again."

IT WAS DIFFICULT for me to believe that he wasn't kidding, but I'm quite sure he wasn't. I would have liked to pursue the issue further, perhaps reminding him that integration was now a fact in many southern cities — in indeed in cities and towns in his own state — and on top of that, it was federal law. But I was anxious to have a

SAFETY COULD SAVE CONTRACT
South's four spade bid is not recommended as a steady diet for good bidders. Even though his partner has passed to start, there is no reason for South to abandon the idea of a slam. In fact, it is possible for North to have the right cards for a grand slam.

This time the four spade bid worked pretty well. No one would bid against it.

West opened the king of hearts. South ruffed and promptly led the king of spades. West took his ace and South had no way to avoid losing two more spades and a club and he was down one.

South complained bitterly about his bad luck and the result was bad luck, but it was bad management as well.

South had a simple safety play at his disposal that would have guarded against the bad break he ran into. He should have led a low spade at trick two!

This play had practically nothing to lose. No matter how spades split, he would have to lose at least two trump tricks and thus he could have afforded the immediate luxury of the low card lead.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been:
South West North East
1 Spade 2 Clubs 2 Spades 5 Clubs
5 Spades 6 Clubs Pass Pass

You South hold:
Spades A-K-Q-J-10-6-5, Hearts A-3-2, Diamonds K-4, Clubs 4.

What do you do?
A—Bid six spades. You can't hurt six clubs and maybe you can make six spades. In any event it is a pretty good gamble.

TODAY'S QUESTION

What is your opening bid with:
Spades 10, Hearts A-K-7, Diamonds Q-J-10-9-8-7-5-4, Clubs A-2.

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I look at it this way," said Bob Hope over a 3:30 p.m. breakfast of bacon, toast and marmalade. "I've been on television for 13 years doing the same thing. It's time I had a change."

He was talking about his reasons for undertaking a weekly Bob Hope Show next season—six of his regular variety shows, two "book" shows (musicals or comedies with plot), and the rest an anthology which he would host.

During his 13 years of specials, Hope has been defeated in the ratings only once (this season by the upstart Beverly Hillsbillies). So why would he want to venture into the weekly rat race?

The answer would seem to be connected with Hope's fondness for cash.

WANTS CHALLENGE
"No, it doesn't make that much difference," he said. "I'm doing it mainly for myself—to give me a new challenge, a new dimension. It puts me into a different field, and I think I can do some good there."

"I'm really serious about getting some shows of quality in the anthologies we're going to do. There is a lot of talent around and I want to use it."

Rose care topic of address at Bedford meeting

BEDFORD — A meeting of the Horticultural Society was held in the high school on May 1, when Miss Marion Sawyer was appointed as director of the society.

The guest speaker was J. G. McIntyre of Montreal, executive vice-president of the Montreal Park Memorial Cemetery. His address dealt with the cultivation and care of roses in all forms. Much interest was added by the showing of excellent colored slides.

Mr. McIntyre was introduced by Mr. Normandeau and thanked by Mr. T. Bird.

A drawing for rose bushes was held, the winning tickets being held by Mrs. Lyall Rhiard of Stanbridge East, and Mr. T. Bird, of Bedford.

A project has been started by the Rotary Club of Montreal, which is to send out rose bushes to test gardens, of organizations and societies in different towns, these will not be sent to individuals.

By 1967 they hope to have developed a rose, which will symbolize the centennial of Canada. People in the district are asked to suggest a suitable name for the centennial rose.

Mr. McIntyre, who extended an invitation to visit the Memorial Park rose garden, when a guided tour would be arranged, is compiling a booklet to be called, "Loving Care, dealing with the care and nature of roses."

The meeting closed with the serving of refreshments.

Since this will be the Bob Hope Show, I'll have a hand in determining what will be on it. I want it to be good."

He already is wrestling with approaches to his Loring duties. Since he will be introducing serious dramas some weeks, it wouldn't do for him to come on with the usual Hopian monologue.

"A lot of my introductions will be straight," he commented. "I am trying to get the right formula. I think the way Dick Powell introduced his show was about the best it has been done."

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—When Vincent Edwards, who had been around Hollywood a long time trying to get a foothold, finally found his ladder in Ben Casey, he delivered what has become his most famous line:

"Sure," he commented, "I'm an 11-year-old overnight success."

Big Al Hirt, often called the No. 1 trumpet player of his generation, has a success story that makes Edwards' rise seem meteoric.

"I've been playing for 30 years, and a professional musician for 18," said Al. "So how do you explain what happened to me about two years ago as anything but luck?"

Hirt, a New Orleans boy, had a good musical education, chose the trumpet as his instrument and for a while played with some of the big bands — the Dorsey Brothers, Ray McKinley and Horace Heidt. Then he quietly went back to New Orleans.

No one really paid much attention to him, although he was playing the same kind of music that has all the experts flipping.

"It started when an agent, Gerald Purcell, dropped in one night and heard us," he said. "He was interested and came back to offer me a job in Las Vegas. I'd had offers before, but never anything that paid enough."

In Las Vegas, Hirt and his horn were heard by Dinah Shore's producer, who booked him.

"And that was it," the 300-pound, bearded musician said. "We went from there to Ed Sullivan and then to all the shows."

To set aside land for park

A part of Gordon Street, Lennoxville, is to be set aside for future development as a park area, council decided in passing a resolution at a special meeting held April 11.

The resolution was passed after considering a request from Deacon Construction for permission to use a part of Gordon Street, as building lots.

Council resolved that the extension of Gordon Street, south of Warren to Speid Street, and from there west to Deacon Street be set aside for future development as a park area.

Gordon Street at present is a one block street. It was originally intended to be continued two more blocks south. Council felt these two blocks should be set aside for the future park area.

Youth jailed for abducting teenage girl

An 18-year-old Sherbrooke youth was sentenced to four months in jail Friday when he pleaded guilty to abducting a girl under the age of 14.

The youth told Judge Evender Veilleux that he had gone to Montreal with the girl, a 12-year-old also residing in Sherbrooke, after he had arranged to meet her Sunday evening.

The girl in question returned to the home of her parents Thursday afternoon.

The youth said she had gone with him willingly, but without the knowledge or consent of her parents.

AID HOMES — High School students in the Eastern Townships have taken under their wings many homes for handicapped, retarded or unwanted children in the past and the homes still continue to be pet projects of the students. The students, through various fund raising projects, have sent school supplies, clothing or donated furniture and furnishings for these homes. Among the favourites are the Dixville Home for Retarded Children and the Maplemount Home in Coaticook.

This week Cookshire High School correspondent says the Red Cross Council is planning to buy a set of swings for the Maplemount Home for orphans. Other sports equipment will be purchased if funds permit, says Deborah Todd.

SOUTH SEAS is the theme of the Ayer's Cliff High School senior prom to be held at Ayer's Cliff High School May 24, says correspondent Nancy Robinson. Grade 10 students are organizing the evening. Dancing will be from 9 to 1 a.m. with music by the Reg. Sayer Quartet.

LAST REPORTS — Parents of students attending St. Patrick High School, Sherbrooke, will receive their child's last progress report of the year at the fourth parent-teacher meeting May 14. The meeting begins at 8 p.m. at the school.

COMING EVENTS at Sunnyside High School at Rock Island include a fashion show May 28 and the graduation dance May 31, sponsored by grade 10 students. Music will be provided by the Stardusters. The Baccalaureate service will be held June 2. A graduation tea will be held in the principal's, Dr. K. Harper, garden.

TO BILINGUAL SEMINAR — Harold Murphy, senior student at Notre Dame High School, Richmond, has been chosen to represent the school at the bilingual United Nations Seminar at Macdonald College. The seminar is to be held in August.

BURMA REPRESENTATIVE — Marjorie Swan of Sherbrooke High School was the representative of Burma at the model United Nations Assembly held at Plymouth, New Hampshire, May 2, 3 and 4. Marjorie took part in a panel discussion on colonialism at the assembly, says correspondent Janet Baker.

SODALITY OFFICERS — The new officers of the Notre Dame High School Richmond Sodality have been elected. Prefect is Niels Hodsman and secretary of the boys' section is Charles Smith. Prefect is Colleen Doyle and secretary of the girls' section is Michelle Simmonneau.

TOUR DORVAL — Students in grade nine at Sunnyside High School, Rock Island toured Dorval airport May 10. The trip included a two-hour tour of Trans-Canada Airlines, lunch at TCA, a visit to the weather bureau, Mount Royal and the Wax Museum on Queen Mary Road.

VISIT OTTAWA — Also travelling were grades ten and eleven students of Cookshire High School who spent a two-day holiday last weekend in Ottawa. Under the supervision of Mrs. Burns and Mr. Garneau, high school teachers, the students visited Rideau House, the Houses of Parliament and the planetarium as well as other places of interest.

YEARBOOK AT PRINTERS — Advance orders for the Sunnyside High School yearbook, The Strobe, are being taken by grade nine students. The magazine is now at the printers and should be ready early in June.

CAR WASH SUCCESSFUL — Grade nine students of Sunnyside High School collected $43 in a car wash they held last weekend.

SPRING CLEAN-UP — Students of Lennoxville High School are sponsoring a spring clean-up today, says correspondent Tom Rothney. Residents of Lennoxville may hire student volunteers to do odd jobs. The proceeds are to go to the Students' Council. Also today the Lennoxville High School Association is holding a bottle drive in Lennoxville. Residents are asked to leave empty bottles on their doorsteps and volunteers will collect them during the day.

SUMMER HOURS — Students attending Lennoxville High School begin classes on their summer schedule Monday. Classes will begin at 8:30 a.m. and end at 2:45 p.m. An hour is allowed for lunch.

Spring sale consignors

The consignors of two classes of champions in the annual spring sale of the Quebec Beef Cattle Association, held May 2, Jack and Leslie Lavallee of Loretteville, for $700. It was not sold by Pierreferonds Farms as reported.

The grand champion female Hereford was consigned by 16-year-old Donna Taylor, the daughter of Albert Taylor R.R.1, Lennoxville, not by John Nichol and Sons Registered as reported.

Judge Evender Veilleux of Sherbrooke bought both the champion and reserve champion females for $425 each.

Coin collectors' convention

Brisk trading is expected

Alderman Pinard, representing Mayor Armand Nadeau, officially opened the convention Friday at the New Sherbrooke Hotel. He is seen above with, left Lionel Lessard, president of the Sherbrooke Numismatic Society, and right, Eddy Echenberg, Provincial Association's president. The displays at the convention are open to the public for viewing. (Record photo by Gerry Lemay).

One thousand coin collecting enthusiasts from across Canada and the United States converged on the New Sherbrooke Hotel today to take part in what is expected to be the brisk trading that the Quebec Numismatic Association has ever seen.

Association president Eddy Echenberg said, following Friday's successful activities in which about 300 coin dealers participated in auctions, that "Saturday will be the biggest day of the three day convention."

Mr. Echenberg said about 3,000 collectors, dealers and visitors are expected during the convention which will end Sunday. It's the second annual convention of the provincial group and the second time it has been hosted by the Sherbrooke Numismatic Society of which Lionel Lessard is president.

Describing Friday's activities, Mr. Echenberg said that "the remarks of the dealers indicate that they are satisfied with the progress of the convention."

Highlight of Friday's auction held in the Carousell room and packed by over 50 people was the sale (to a Canadian from Western Canada) of the Chrysler Farm, Canadian War Medal.

This "extremely rare and seldom offered" medal sold for $375 (estimated price was $350) and commemorates the battle of the War of 1812 between Canada and the United States where Canada repulsed an attack, although greatly outnumbered.

The highest bid of the day came for a set of Canadian fifty cent pieces—and sold for $530 (the set was estimated at $600). It was a "complete set in bookshelf album 1935-62 including all varieties as listed in the Standard Catalogue, plus extra 1935 and 1961 for obverses. The 1936, 39, 45, 49, 52 no W.L. 58 and 59 are Unc. The 1960 and 1961 and 1962 are proof-like, the others are A.U. 32 pieces," according to the auction list.

The third highest bid that was drawn at Friday's auction, conducted by J. E. Charlton, was the sale of a 1947 Canadian fifty cent piece "M.L., 7 curved to right F.V.F." estimated at $350 and sold for $325.

Another sale was one of $300 for a 1948 uncirculated, mint set of $1 to 1 cent. It was estimated at $300.

Three proofs of Canadian Chartered Bank bills were auctioned. All three were Traders Bank of Canada's 1909, in denominations of $20, $50 and $100 and each.

In 1961 it went up to 6.07, and in 1925 down to 0.96 inches. On April 3, 0.86 inches of rain fell, highest for the month, but not as high as April 20, 1950, when 1.43 inches fell.

Experimental Farm says

April, 1963, was a bit wetter, but not even close to record

April showers were a bit wetter than average this year, but not as wet as last year or anywhere near the record.

The Lennoxville Experimental Farm reports 2.8 inches of rainfall for the month, against 2.83 in 1962, 4.62 in 1920, and a 49-year average of 2.43.

April snowfall, on the other hand, was sharply down from '62. There were 5.8 inches this April, against 13.4 a year ago April. In spite of which the winter, now declared over by the Farm, was one of the snowiest on record.

Snow had fallen to the extent of 148.5 inches by the end of April, against 153.3 by April 30, 1962, and a 48-winter average of just 97.9 inches.

Other April statistics recorded by the Farm:

Average temperature for the month was 39.10 degrees, against 39.93 last April, and 39.34 over 49 Aprils.

The highest the mercury went was 69 degrees (April 29) against a record 87 on April 20, 1941. The lowest temperature was 11 on the first day of the month, against five below, which was no joke on April Fool's Day, 1923.

Total sunshine for April was 158.2 hours, against 152.6 last April and an average for 49 years of 154.6. In 1927 it went up to 236.9 hours; in 1951 down to 92.

The least showery April on record was in 1930, when just under an inch of rain fell — 0.94, to be exact.

Average snowfall for the month over 49 years was just above this year's total, at 5.9 inches. In 1961 there were 25.4 inches, and there have been several years in which no snow fell in April.

Total precipitation for April, calculated by the Farm's formula of 10 inches of snow to an inch of rain, was 3.36 inches. Last year it was 4.12, and over 49 years it has averaged 3.02.

In 1961 it went up to 6.07, and in 1925 down to 0.96 inches. On April 3, 0.86 inches of rain fell, highest for the month, but not as high as April 20, 1950, when 1.43 inches fell.

Chief Paul Clair released his report for the past month which included 82 various calls answered.

There were five investigations of robberies made in the region; four accident reports; four complaints by local citizens and 11 persons who sought police protection.

Chief Clair also said that the police officers were increased by $224. Of this amount, $82 were taken in for traffic tickets; $24 for dog license fees; and $15 was received for bail.

Other infractions included 11 traffic tickets which will be heard by the municipal judge; one animal was destroyed on request of a citizen; five funeral escorts were provided.

Eliminate fog from films

Condition of camera is important for good results

With holiday-time coming along, more cameras will be exposed to the bright sun rays.

If equipment is faulty, this can mean fogged film. Fog, or veil, is any visible deposit or density in the negative or print not forming a part of the photographic image.

Loading or unloading in brilliant sun carries a similar risk. To avoid it, handle the film in subdued light.

Light leaks in the camera itself produce irregular fog patches on the negative. The shape and position of these patches usually gives some clue to the position of the leak. By holding the negative upside-down with the glossy side toward you, you will be able to tell from what direction the light leak is coming.

(The film must be turned upside-down because of the optics of the lens, which invert the image in the camera.)

The most common light leaks occur from folding bellows-type cameras, which may eventually cause pinhole leaks on the creases of the bellows. Leaks may also be caused by faulty lens mount, or unsafe exposure-number windows.

Sometimes a fog or veil covering the whole negative, though light in density, is produced by black paint wearing off and exposing shiny metal next to or around the film area. This seems to scatter light coming through the lens, and will tend to produce negatives that are flat or lack sparkle.

A dirty lens or a greasy fingerprint on the lens will also cause this scattering of light, and will give a veiled negative.

All these types of fog are characterized by the fact that they extend across or around the film on the image area only. Usually the margin or border is clear.

Worn felt at the back of a camera can also cause a fog similar to that caused by partial unwinding of the film, but this will also fog the margin. The felt may have to be replaced, but may only require a slight brushing to bring up the fibres and make it an efficient light trap once more.

Also part of the three day convention are displays of coins, paper money, medals, tokens, and medallions in showcases. Among them are the displays of three local youngsters, members of the Sherbrooke Coin Club—Gail Lynch 10, Danny Raban, 13, and Ricky, Raban, 11.

Also among the coin enthusiasts and collectors is the Sherbrooke Daily Record's coin columnist Winifred Mather author of The Coin Box, featured in The Record Saturday. In the non-competitive displays she has entered a personal one containing a variety of distinctive medals including one of King George III and her most prized one of the lot—a medal of Princess Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier, commemorating their wedding.

Air Cadet inspection is held

Wing Commander G. L. Robertson, officer commanding RCAF Station St. John, reviewed about 100 cadets Friday at the annual inspection of Number 67 Sherbrooke Rotary Air Cadet Squadron.

Following the inspection, the Walsh trophy for general efficiency was presented to Cadet Warrant Officer Robert Bachand.

The band trophy went to Cadet Flight Sergeant Marcel Leclerc, while two trophies for the best recruits were won by Leading Aircraftsman Daniel Bouchard, and Aircraftsman First Class Jacques Aubert.

Representing the Air Cadet League of Canada was A. R. Grafton of Montreal.

Assisting Wing Commander Robertson were Squadron Leader G. N. Fregeau, CO of the Air Cadet Squadron, and members of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club's Air Cadet committee, Forest Lord, Cliff Bryant, J. D. Joslin, B. D. Lyon, D. F. Watson and M. W. Williams.

Canadian car plant picture changes

The statement in Sherbrooke this week by Gerard Filion, president of the General Investment Corporation, that a French automobile producer may set up manufacturing facilities in Quebec province is another indication of a quiet transformation now underway in the Canadian automobile industry.

From the earliest days of the industry, Canada has been regarded as something of a preserve for the United States car builders. Virtually the entire automobile production in this country comes from plants wholly owned or controlled by United States manufacturers.

But in the past few months there has been a growing interest by European producers in the Canadian market.

Announcement was made in Halifax this week that a French company would begin turning out cars within the next few days at a plant acquired recently in the Nova Scotia capital. The company said that the installation of machinery had been completed and that the program of help training was well underway.

In addition to the negotiations now being carried on by General Investments with the unidentified French company several other continental manufacturers reportedly are investigating the possibility of setting up their own facilities in this country.

These new plants may have an important bearing on the Canadian economy if President Kennedy's plan for widespread across-the-board tariff reductions find general acceptance.

The traditional Canadian plants may lose some of their domestic markets if Canadian duties are reduced but some of the employment slack may be taken up by sales of Canadian-produced European-type cars to the United States. Significant in this respect are the declarations by the French and Italian companies that they are not interested in establishing United States subsidiaries. Apparently they believe the U.S. demand can be adequately served from Canada.

It doesn't improve a golfer's game when he expresses himself to a tee.

Bureaucrats reveal education lack

The stories of blunders by Canadian bureaucrats are legion but apparently this country is not alone in suffering from boobies committed by its public servants.

Recently a prominent New York publishing house, which prints the works of hundreds of authors, some famous, some little known, some living, some dead, received a letter which must have caused its employees to shake their heads in wonder. It read in part;

U. S. Treasury Department

It's s'dom your dearest friends who cost you money.

Haydn S. Pearson's COUNTRY FLAVOR

Sounding those willow pipes of Pan

Do you remember willow whistle time and the high-pitched piping of country boys as they tramped a dirt road to school? Remember those varied-pitched trills on a sunny spring day when the robins were carolling in the old orchard and the orioles were whistling from the elms?

The willow is a tree of ancient lineage; for nearly 100 million years it has been growing in the Potomac Region of the U.S. The Black has single-scale, dark red buds; the Swamp has a distinctive orange-purple hue; and the Pussy has a blue-black bud with flecks of red at the top. It is the Pussy which country boys chose for their whistles.

The juice of life runs rich and strong in all trees in spring as food tubes carry nutrients from the leaves down to the branches, buds and blossoms. These tubes with the jelly-like food run just under the cambium layer, and in the spring flush is easy to twist off the bark. Pussy willows near water have the easiest bark to loosen.

With his Barlow knife, a lad cut the V-shaped notch, and then tapped the bark loose. The size and length of the whistle and the notch, determined the tone. A boy liked a small pea in the notch to give a satisfactory trill. Naturally, well-outfitted young citizen needed several whistles.

A group of boys with willow whistles was the ultimate proof of true spring. The pipes of Pan sounded along country roads and perhaps if you are out on a hillside one of these mellow May days, you may hear the sweet trills passing by on an overhead breeze.

Other papers say:

Unionists can't be herded like sheep

The Canadian union member is a sturdy individual, who is not going to let the union bosses tell him how to vote. This is one of the conclusions that sticks out prominently from the columns of figures produced on the night of April 8.

From the point of view of the hopeful people who married the old Co-operative Commonwealth Federation to the Canadian Labor Congress, the results of the 1962 and 1963 elections are discouraging. The marriage has not produced politically healthy off-spring. Ten years ago, in the election of 1953, the old

Stratford Beacon-Herald

CCF political party did about as well in the popular vote, all by itself, as the union-supported New Democratic Party has done in the election of 1963.

The unions have not been stingy with money, in support of the NDP, and have even had the financial help of unions in the United States, toward campaign costs for the union-supported party in Canada. Members of union local have agreeably consented to cash donations from the union treasuries to the NDP political campaign, and have then gone off and quietly cast their secret ballots as each individual saw fit.

A striking example of the individual independence of union members, when they go to the polls, is to be found in Ontario riding, which centres on Oshawa. The United Automobile Workers union has 11,000 members in its Oshawa local, of whom more than half live and vote in Oshawa. If they were all willing to accept union guidance in political matters, a New Democrat candidate would be unbeatable in Ontario riding. What happened was that the Conservative, Labor Minister Michael Starr, was re-elected without much difficulty, and the New Democrat candidate ran third in a three-way contest.

In Essex East, part of the Windsor-area stronghold of the United Automobile Workers, the New Democrat candidate was the president of the UAW local. Not only was he defeated; he got fewer votes this time than the New Democrat got in the same riding in 1962.

The lesson to be learned from the election arithmetic appears to be that the typical union member in Canada is not ready to take political orders from his union leaders. When he gets behind the curtain in the polling booth, he keeps his political opinion separate from his union loyalty, and votes as an individual.

The PRAYER FOR TODAY FROM The Upper Room

Let us offer the sacrifice of praise to God continually, that is, the fruit of our lips giving thanks to his name. (Hebrews 13:15)

PRAYER: We thank Thee, Lord for families that pray together. Grant that Thy children all over the world will practice family prayer, that together we may witness to the beauty of fellowship with Thee and the power of Thy love. In Christ's name we pray. Amen.

Adventures with God

Prayer can provide strength for serving with new vigor, zeal

There are similarities between old cars and old people. Both usually require much servicing to keep them operating with any degree of efficiency. Sluggish spark-plugs need to be cleaned offener, wheels re-tired and generators recharged.

Some of the old models have well kept chassis. They have been painted and polished and on the surface look dependable. But they are really deceiving. They are bits and pieces of many old cars.

Were it not for regular visits to the used parts dealer and the service garage their well preserved chassis would be in the junk yard. But their owners know that with the addition of used parts and a recharged battery they can stay on the road for a long time.

In the human sphere modern science has set up eye banks, blood plasma, skin grafts and other means of extending the life and usefulness of the models that function on the road of life.

LIFE AND DEATH

We have been shocked in recent months as a number of our younger, acquaintances, all healthy and seemingly vigorous people in middle life, have died suddenly while at business, church or social gatherings without early warning.

Hearts ceased to function and before the doctor could reach them and administer a stimulant to recharge the heart, life had flickered out.

Conversely, we have been amazed to see frail members of society, who by the law of averages should have given up the ghost long ago, burst forth with a new zeal and vigor and function efficiently for years after they have passed their allotted span.

Their youth is renewed and they mount up with wings as eagles. How come?

I sat in the old rocker reflecting on these things. I was considering retirement when I was reminded of the number of times when I believed I had come to the end of the road and suddenly I revived when faced with a new challenge to serve.

PRAYER FOR STRENGTH
A member of the family became ill and helpless infants challenged me. In weakness and distress I began to pray, encouraged by a quotation I had read sometimes somewhere.

It was like this: "Pray not for a burden to fit your back but pray for strength in your back to fit your burdens." That may not be the correct phrasing but it does convey the meaning.

When the idea gripped me I began to find new strength to carry the heavy load that fell upon me. As the busy years slipped by the once chronic invalid was recharged again and again.

Here the similarity between an old car and the old lady ends. The old car lacked something the old lady possessed.

It had no mind or spirit that gave it power to consider and understand its plight. It knew nothing of prayer or of the God who answers prayer and "giveth power to the faint and to them that have no might He increaseth strength." Isa. 40:29.

I recalled the names of the fine "healthy young people who were my contemporaries. Many of them went out to the far places of earth. Now they are coming home bringing their sheaves with them.

Over and over again they have recharged and have served long after reaching the retirement age. I met some of them at a class reunion a while ago. Many were still light which "lighteth every man that cometh into the world."

But a candle is expendable and extinguishable. It can burn itself right out. But God has made provision to keep the light within us burning brightly by breathing on us anew.

Cover a candle and shut out the air and the light goes out. But the human candle that reaches up its tiny flickering arms of flame to God and prays:

Breathe on me breath of God,
Fill me with life anew
That I may love what Thou dost love,
And do what Thou wouldst do,
Will have a resurgence of light and life.

And so we pray daily:
Breathe on me breath of God,
So shall I never die,
But live with Thee the perfect life.
Of Thine eternity.

Dr. Norman Peale has a saying that expresses my sentiments: "Lord, help me to stay alive as long as I live."

God does not retire anyone while He can still use them. He recharges men with resurrection power and puts them back on the road.

It is not a matter of age, but of obedience and the will to serve.

Moses was retired when he was 120 years old. "His eyes were not dim nor his natural force abated." Deut. 34:7.

But he was no longer useful and was removed from the scene. He stayed alive as long as He lived for the glory of God.

Is there a lesson in his experience for some of us?

Despite UK anti-smoke drive

Cigarette makers are not worried

LONDON (AP)—The British propaganda campaign against cigarettes seems to have every-body worried but the cigarette manufacturers.

The anti-smoking drive started in earnest more than a year ago when the respected Royal Society of Physicians published a report linking smoking with cancer, the most damning document ever issued in either Europe or North America.

The reaction was immediate and widespread—but not sustained. The report became a best-seller and tobacco sales graphs went crazy.

So, almost, did many of the thousands who took the pledge to quit and set out to make good their word.

Many smokers, even women, turned to cigars and pipes which the report said were not as harmful as cigarettes. Sales of miniature cigars zoomed and petite, lady-like pipes appeared in tobacco shops.

The government accepted the findings in full and gave its support to the campaign by issuing posters—"Cigarettes cause cancer, you have been warned!"—which, as it turned out, went on show mainly in doctors' offices and government buildings.

To discourage youngsters from taking to smoking, the government also pressed manufacturers to advertise on television only after 9 p.m. Several large firms also voluntarily removed their brands from vending machines so that children under 16, barred from buying cigarettes over the counter, could not get at them.

And the commercial TV stations and manufacturers agreed on a new set of ads which do not show people actually smoking. Many of them are animated cartoons. A few got pretty close to the real thing—a hand, a cigarette, a match, a great sigh of contentment, a puff of smoke—but still not a smoker actually smoking.

Navy personnel were used in some advertisements until an officer, also vice-president of the National Society of Non-Smokers, complained to the Admiralty.

In London, a young housewife threw half a crown (about 35 cents) down the drain every time her husband lit up. "I threw away £17 17s 6d before I cured him," she said, "but I looked on it as a long-term investment."

"It didn't matter where we were," her husband complained, "she would disappear to search for a drain."

Shortly before the report appeared the tax on cigarettes was increased, bringing the price to 4s 6d (about 67 cents) for 20 king-size filter tips. The combination of these two blows caused sales to plunge, temporarily. But sales of cigars, pipe

The Metis under Louis Riel were defeated by the militia 78 years ago today in 1885—during the second northwest rebellion. After the defeat at Batoche, Sask., Riel gave himself up and was charged with treason. Although he was French-speaking, he was tried before an English-speaking jury and was convicted. He was executed at Regina Nov. 16, 1885. The divisions aroused by Riel's hanging took many years to heal.

1880—Sir A. T. Galt was appointed Canada's first high commissioner to London.

Gerald Waring REPORTING

OTTAWA — One of the hottest questions facing the government, "Where do we go from here in trade?", is high on the agenda of today's Hyannis Port talks between Prime Minister Pearson and President Kennedy.

It's vital for Canada to find a satisfactory answer to the question. Work for the people depends on it—the million new jobs that both Liberals and Conservatives say Canada must provide in the next four years.

Everyone admits that the only way these jobs can be provided is through the expansion of manufacturing industry. But industrial expansion is limited by the small size of the domestic market and by foreign tariffs against our manufactured goods.

It's a vicious circle: Canadian industry can't surmount foreign tariffs unless it produces more cheaply. It can't produce more cheaply because its small domestic market can't absorb the vast volume of goods that flow from adoption of low-cost mass-production techniques.

The government is studying President Kennedy's tariff reduction proposals as the only feasible way to free Canadian industry from this chicken-or-egg situation.

But at the GATT meeting which begins at Geneva May 16 the US will propose that the "commodity approach" to tariff reduction be replaced by a bolder "across-the-board approach" to tariff cuts.

The US Trade Expansion Act empowers the president to reduce US tariffs by up to 50 per cent, and to abolish those tariffs that are not more than five per cent, in return for compensatory tariff reduction by other countries.

The US will argue that this is the route the GATT nations must now tread to restore bounce to national economies and to disseminate more widely, through exchanges of goods, the economic advantages of specialization in low-cost production.

The fact is, GATT has got about as much mileage as it can out of the "commodity approach", where one country agrees to cut its duty on cars by five per cent, say, if the other country will lop 10 per cent off its duty on dressed lumber.

In concept the Kennedy plan parallels the Common Market and EFTA approach of equal multilateral tariff cuts within to the market zone. Indeed, it was intended strengthen trade links between the US and a Common Market including Britain, without formal US association with the Common Market.

Now, with Britain barred from the Common Market, the Kennedy approach seeks to encourage trade expansion with a series of bilateral across-the-board tariff slashes among GATT members, who of course include Britain and the ECM members.

The Pearson government believes that if Canada were left out, it would be disastrous to our industrial expansion hopes, and to our chances of finding a million new jobs in four years. But how to avoid this fate? The key may be at Hyannis Port today, or in Geneva next week.

(Editor's Note: Mr. Waring will deal in his next column with the problems of Canadian participation in the "Kennedy approach.")

Four minor traffic accidents occurred in April, police say

By WM. H. LUNAN

(Special to The Record)

DANVILLE — The police department report for the month of April shows four minor traffic accidents.

The patrol made 240 hours of duty. Five escorts were made for funeral services. Four investigations were made for domestic disturbances. One major break-in is still under investigation and the QPP are handling this case. 28 complaints were received with the majority for dogs running loose; 37 persons were received at the station for various information.

The fire department was called out for four grass fires; one chimney fire and one minor cause. The brigade held a practice on April 15.

Chief Breton made one trip to the welfare court in Sherbrooke; one to the magistrate court and four trips to Pierreville.

Dog owners are advised to comply with the bylaw which is in existence and to keep their animals tied-up or to walk them on a leash.

Bicycle owners are reminded that their licence for the current year became due on May 1 and may be had by calling at the police station.

Council approved the purchase of 20 gallons of paint for marking traffic lines. Approval was given the chief to purchase a new uniform.

To facilitate the contacting of the services of the police and fire department, an additional radio receiving and sending unit and telephone connections have been set up between the station, the patrol car and the home of reserve constable Hertel Boisvert on College Street. The station is also connected with the private home of Chief Breton, for off-duty calls.

Council passed a resolution to prohibit parking on the right-hand-side of Grove Street, between Crown and Pine Avenues.

The Lions Club of Danville will hold its monthly meeting, May 16 at 7.00 p.m. at the Mar Lodge on the Asbestos-Danville road. President Henry Lodge requests the members to turn out at this all-important gathering. A needy child from Danville will be presented with a pair of eye glasses, during the evening.

The Mothers of Danville are to be honored at a dance to be held at the Mar Lodge, Saturday evening, when one of the mothers will be crowned, "Mother of the Year." The programme is being organized by the youth group of Danville, the same group which was responsible for the Danville Winter Carnival and the evening set aside for The Mayor and Mayoress of Danville, which were both a great success.

Mrs. George N. Letendre, (nee Eva Martel dit Cote), wife of Dr. Letendre, died May 2, at the age of 82 years, eight months.

The funeral service was held at the St. Anne parish church in Danville, Monday, May 6, at 10 o'clock. Interment was in the church lot.

REV. DAVID FORSYTH

The speaker at the annual anniversary service of the Lennoxville United Church will be Rev. David I. Forsyth, D.D., well-known in Canada for his work in religious and educational institutions.

He will speak at the three services held Sunday at 9.30 a.m., 11 a.m. and at 7 p.m. Among the organizations to which Mr. Forsyth has belonged are The World Youth Committee of the World Council of Churches, and the World Council of Christian Education.

He also served on the Board of Managers of World Council of Christian Education and Sunday School Association, and in various capacities on the National Council of Churches of Christ of America.

Mr. Forsyth has served for over forty years with the church in different parts of Canada. Among the positions that he has held from 1923 to this year are: minister of the Town of Mount Royal United Church Minister of the United Church in Waterloo, Ontario.

Mr. Forsyth is presently secretary of the board of education of the United Church of Canada. He received part of his education at the High School of Montreal and McGill University and the United Theological College where he earned his Bachelor of Divinity degree. Mr. Forsyth did his post graduate studies at the Yale University Divinity School and was awarded his Doctor of Divinity from the United Theological College in 1950.

Fire damages storage silo

ASBESTOS — (Special) — Fire caused an estimated $40,000 damage to the storage silo at the Canadian Johns-Manville factory, early Wednesday morning.

Asbestos firemen were called out to fight the blaze at 1.30 a.m., under the direction of Chief Adrien Larivie, when the "general alarm" was sounded, for help.

The brigade was handicapped in fighting the fire due to the fact that the structure was completely enclosed and the only entry to the silo was through a connecting over-head passageway to the main factory building.

Firemen were on the scene for four hours. A short-circuit was believed to be the cause of the out-break. The outside of the structure was not damaged due to the protective asbestos covering.

Auxiliary meets in Farnham hall

FARNHAM — The Ladies' Auxiliary Lodge to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers held its regular meeting in St. James Church Hall, with a good attendance.

Due to the illness of the president, Mrs. L. Lesperance who is still in hospital, Mrs. Elnora Banks presided.

One new candidate was initiated.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by the committee.

ANNOUNCEMENT

cides to join we'd wish her godspeed as a good influence in South American affairs," said an official.

So what do we get if we join?

Firstly we get a seat in a handsome white marble building in Washington, nicely situated between the White House and the State Department and next door to the daughters of the American Revolution.

Inside is a tropical patio of rolling palm trees, squawking parrots and macaws, little chirping birds and a pleasant fountain.

This is the headquarters of the Pan-American Union which is the secretariat of OAS and the parent organization. Names of hemispheric heroes engraved on the walls include Columbus, Bolivar, O'Higgins and our own Champlain.

Much has been written about the famous Dominican mahogany chair with Canada engraved on it which has stood vacant since 1910.

I was assured it was hidden so far away among the junk in the attic that it would take a safari to find it.

"Anyway," said one official, "That's passe, now. We've put in modern Swedish furniture instead."

The old mahogany chairs are still used in a committee room and there's a spare one with one name on it just in case.

There is also a space for a 22nd flagstaff—Canada's.

However no new members have joined the organization since the early part of the century—the last were Cuba and Panama.

A committee is now considering procedure for enrolling newcomers—Canada and possibly Jamaica and Trinidad-Tobago.

The charter forbids recruitment of countries that are not independent and self-governing, so the last two may not be admitted. It once forbade countries other than republics but this was changed expressly to allow the Canadian monarchy in.

And an OAS booklet points out that Canada "would doubtless be welcomed as a member at any time."

The OAS boasts of being the oldest international organization in the world, the Western Hemisphere's regional agency within the United Nations and a very successful instrument for settling small disputes.

There have been no inter-American wars since it was founded and although there have been revolutions aplenty, no country has quit. Cuba, the one absentee, was thrown out by vote of the others, as a Marxist state.

What does membership cost? Probably about the million dollars a year for Canada. The total OAS budget is 14 million of which the United States pays nine.

Canada would probably fit in between Brazil which pays $1,120,000 and Argentina with one million.

In theory, Canada could simply join, pay its million dollars and agree to the principles of the Alliance for Progress, a voluntary, self-help organization which happens to have President Kennedy's promise of twenty billion dollars behind it.

Canada would merely have to agree to try to improve economic conditions, literacy, etc., within its own borders, as the South American countries have done.

In practice we would be expected to chip in to help the other states. It has been suggested Canada pay one-tenth of the U.S. contribution which could cost us up to one hundred million a year. But it needn't be as bad as that.

stopped in to have something to eat in a cafeteria in one of the stores.

At the entrance a floorwalker type gave me a pleasant good day as I passed on through.

I selected by meal and proceeded to a table. As I sat there I noticed this man at the entrance was leaning over the railing talking to a woman diner, but every few seconds he'd move away and look up and down the aisles as if expecting someone.

It was disconcerting to say the least, and I finally decided he was a guard. Then I noticed a sign behind him that read: "We reserve the right to refuse service to anyone." That convinced me. He was a guard.

I went back into the line to order again so I could stick around without being too obvious and see if anyone was refused service.

Ahead of me were a couple of women and I overheard one of them saying excitedly to her friend, "Yes, I just came from there, and they're sitting in there brazen as brass and they won't move. Of course the waitresses won't serve them."

This was what I was looking for, so I tapped the woman on the shoulder and said: "Excuse me, ma'am, where did you say they were?"

"Over at the five and dime, and it's awful. I just couldn't stay in there."

"Yes, it's a terrible thing to have to put up with Ma'am," I said. "Thank you very much."

I hurried over to the five and dime and, sure enough, there, alone at this 50-foot counter was — a Negro.

He was a chubby, pleasant-looking fellow — his friends probably called him Fatso — but at this moment he didn't have a friend in sight.

Indeed, on the contrary, he was surrounded by the enemy, in the aisles behind him, and on either side. And he was being called all right — such things as "filthy nigger" and "black SOB." But he didn't blink an eye, or give any indication that he heard — just sat there, with the waitresses staring at him as if he were a bug.

I had never thought that such an event could cause such consternation, but that poor lonely guy sitting there was sure upsetting years of tradition.

"HERE THEY COME"

One of the agitated whites — and he was by no means the type you could class as "white trash" — came over to where I was standing and spluttered, "It's a crime we can't tear that black b—d out of there."

He stood there looking alternately at me and the colored boy, obviously expecting some kind of an answer. So I said, "There's no way you can do that, Mister. You've got to admit he's got guts."

Card of Thanks

ARMSTRONG — The family of the late Mrs. Hazel Armstrong, wish to thank their relatives and many friends for their kind expressions of sympathy, in their recent bereavement.

STEVENS — We wish to take this opportunity to thank our relatives and friends for many kindnesses during the illness and death of our husband and brother Reginald Stevens. Especially do we thank Dr. Quintin, nurses and nurses-aides, on the third floor of the Sherbrooke Hospital, Rev. J. Truquart, choir and organist of Chalmers Church and the bearers. Thanks also for the floral tributes and sympathy cards. These will always be remembered.

MRS. REGINALD STEVENS AND THE STEVENS FAMILY

GATLEY — I wish to thank all the nice people who were so kind to me in sending Get Well cards, gifts and games, etc., while I was in the Brome Missisquoi Perkins Hospital at Sweetburg also since I have been home. Also my appreciation goes to Dr. Blisson and all the nurses on the second floor.

FREDRICK GATLEY

MRS. NELLIE WEDGE

WEDGE — I wish to express my sincere thanks to my friends who made my 96th birthday such a happy one with their gifts and cards. Also Mrs. Barnes for opening her house, and for my two birthday cakes.

MRS. NELLIE WEDGE

In Memoriam

LEMOINE — In fond and loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Sussie Lemoine, who left us so suddenly on May 12th, 1962.

They say time heals all sorrow, And helps us to forget, But time so far has only proved How much we miss you yet.

God gave us strength to fight it, And courage to bear the blow, But what it meant to lose you No one will ever know.

Sadly missed by:

BETTY AND GORDON SANDRA AND KAREN

Plans made for bean supper by Colfax Rebekahs

KNOWLTON — Sister Eleanor Tibbitts, Noble Grand, presided over a busy meeting of Colfax Rebekah Lodge, No. 29, on May 2, when many activities were arranged for to take place within the month.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read by Sister Florence Sanborn, in the absence of Sister Nellie d'Artois.

Plans for a Bake Bean Supper were made and food was solicited.

Sister Muriel McInnis, of Dunham, was welcomed by the Noble Grand.

On May 16th, a degree team from Lansdowne Lodge will be present and will confer the Initiatory Degree on a member.

A motion was passed that all the lodges of this district be invited to attend the meeting, as well as the Rebekah Lodge from Richmond, Vt.

Due to Sister Mabel Tibbitts being confined to her home with illness, Sister Beulah Whitcher was named to replace her as delegate to the Rebekah Assembly taking place in Sherbrooke later in May. Sister Evelyn Partridge is also a delegate.

The meeting was brought to a close and refreshments were served and a pleasant social hour enjoyed.

Over 100 attend closing dinner and meeting of Bedford Home and School

BEDFORD — The closing dinner and annual meeting of the Home and School Association was held on April 30, in the United Church hall, with over 100 guests present.

Grace was said by Rev. H. Hatt, pastor, of Wesley United Church.

Guests at the head table included, Lee A. Martin, Mrs. H. Hatt, J. Davidson, representative of the Bedford Town Council, Mrs. R. W. Craighead, Mrs. Fred Gilman, Rev. P. D. Hansen, of Stanbridge East, Mr. and Mrs. J. Shower, Cowansville, Mr. and Mrs. Copeland, Waterloo, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Clark, Farnham, Principal Bruce Kirwin and Mrs. Kirwin, Miss Margaret Cokerline, B. W. Draper, representative school board, Fred Gilman.

The social committee, Mrs. Albert Proctor and Mrs. John Cook were conveners of the dinner; the kitchen committee, consisted of Miss Lottie Casey, Mrs. Austin Campbell, Mrs. L. Landon, Mrs. Raymond Wood, Mrs. L. Near, serving committee, Mrs. Irving Loney, Mrs. Eric Kemp, Mrs. John Ewing, Mrs. J. Davidson.

Fred Gilman, president of the local association, gave the report of the year's activities, thanking all who had helped during his two year term of office. There was an average attendance of 70 at the monthly meetings and a membership of 108 families; a student loan fund had been established; $33.30 received through UNICEF canvass; the library had a most successful year, an average of 200 books per week being given out, with 4069 books in the library; a donation of books was received from the Strathcona Trust; a bicycle safety test was held in connection with the Roman Catholic school board, at which 208 children took the test.

Mrs. Shower of Cowansville was the guest speaker and was introduced by Mrs. M. S. McCaw. Mrs. Shower spoke of the student loan fund, which has proved so successful in Cowansville. This fund, which started out as a bursary, was changed in 1948 to a student loan plan. The initial contribution was $25, today the fund stands at $8,600.

Funds are loaned to students, interest free, with the understanding that the loan be repaid, within two years after graduation. Methods mentioned of fund raising were canvassing of local businesses; cards sent out to students parents, asking for a contribution of five cents per week; memorials are also given. Funds loaned, range from $100 to $500 per year, with an average application from four or more students. At present there is $4,775 out on loan.

Wednesday, Friday, 3 to 5 p.m.
Sunday Sermon Subject for May 12th., 1963.

Man's search for his real place in the universe will be taken up at the services in the Christian Science churches this Sunday, in the reading of the week's Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Aquam and Fallen Man." Scriptural selections for this occasion are typified by this verse from I Corinthians: "For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive."

Correlative passages from the Christian Science denominational text book "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include: "Christ presents the indestructible man, whom Spirit creates, constitutes, and governs. Christ illustrates that blending with God, his divine Principle, which gives man dominion over all the earth."

"Isn't it the truth!"

Have you ever noticed that: The woman who has "a way with flowers" usually has a way with people, too?

The first neighbor to come to call when you move into a new house may be the most neighborly — but it may be she is just the most curious?

The mother who has the most patience has the happiest children?

By the time a woman has reached 50, you can tell by looking at her if she has led a selfish, self-centered existence?

The woman who tries desperately to conceal her real age hasn't done much with year she has lived?

The good cook is overweight, while the good housekeeper is thin as a rail?

The most beautiful yard in the neighborhood is rarely filled with playing children?

The mother of five takes motherhood more lightly than the mother of one?

The woman who tells you what a fine girl her son married isn't just lucky — she's a good mother-in-law?

The real friend in need isn't the one who says grandly, "Let me know if there is anything at all I can do," but the one who ups and does something on her own?

The less possessive a woman is, the more devoted her husband?

Polly's pointers

by Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY—Make your straining bags for jelly of muslin or several thicknesses of cheesecloth with the opening large enough to fit over a pair of embroidery hoops. With the hoops holding the opening wide, the bag is easy to fill and the hoops are easy to remove for washing the bag.

Every time my husband waxes our car, the children want to help, so he lets them wax their own wagons, bicycles, etc. They are then satisfied, stay out of his way and are, at the same time, protecting the finish on toys that might be left out in bad weather.

When applying iron-on tape, put a piece of aluminum foil under the hole in the garment so the tape does not stick to the ironing board.—MRS. H. W. C.

DEAR POLLY — Last year I bought an expensive white feather hat and wore it once before storing it for the summer. When I got it out in the fall, I was astonished to see big yellow marks every place the feathers had been attached to the hat. I took it back to the milliner to see what had happened. She told me I should have been advised by the saleslady to store the hat in the freezer during the hot, humid summer to prevent this spotting. I would suggest sealing the hat in an airtight plastic bag and putting in a box first. Do you or any of the readers have any suggestions for making this hat wearable? Is there a dye suitable for feathers?—MRS. N. C.

GIRLS—My feather hats always survived the summer without freezing them. Sounds to me as if the glue used on the hat was causing the trouble. If such a hat is not wearable, nothing is lost by experimenting a bit. I know of no dye specifically for feathers but I tried brush-ing ordinary dress dye on some feathers with a toothbrush. The center "spine" did not take the dye but the feathers came out very well. In fact, should there be a variation of color in the different feathers, the effect would be very nice, I think. All sorts of shading could be worked out, using different colors, if one so desired. Brush only the feathers with the dye and do not wet the glue that attaches them to the hat. Pull out a feather or two and experiment first before tackling the entire hat.—POLLY.

DEAR POLLY—Put the left-overs from balls of knitting wool in glass jars and store in the cellar. This method keeps the moths out and you can see at a glance the colors on hand.—MRS. C. J. B.

DEAR POLLY — I have a hint for teen-agers. Store your beauty paraphernalia in a large tote basket. I use an old Easter basket. You can carry it with you to the bathroom and then take it right back to your dressing table. Other members of the family are not annoyed by clutter in the bathroom and all your things will be together in one place.—TEEN-AGER.

GIRLS—I am sure many of you mothers will want to pass this hint on to your girls. The entire family should certainly give her a round of applause.—POLLY.

DEAR POLLY—When I order any fountain drinks for my children at a drive-in restaurant, I ask them to cap the containers as if the drinks were to be taken out. I leave the cap on the drink and with a pencil (or anything in my purse) punch a hole in each cap, just right for a straw to fit in. Even by tilting the drinks way over, they do not spill. I have completely done away with any spills by using this method.—M. G.

Mary Brooks Pickens on sewing

SEW UP SOME SUMMER MAGIC

Spring has come and the fabric departments are featuring bold prints and vibrant colors in both natural and synthetic fabrics. So many of the miracle fabrics have beauty and yet are so practical—some less expensive than the natural fibers.

The blends also are important this season—silk with nylon, lightweight wools with orlon—such a variety that you need to take the time to look.

My theory is . . . choose a simple pattern, one with good lines, but no intricate detail to complicate the design. Then buy the very best fabric you can afford.

I'd rather pay $6 per yard for fabric, buy three yards and make a simple silhouette than have six yards at $3 per yard and make a complicated design.

Your good sewing will show up to better advantage on a starkly simple dress that will hold its shape through cleaning or washing. Such a dress will be easier to press and you will wear it twice, yes, three times as often as you will a too-complicated design.

If you use trimming, buy the best you can afford. Beautiful buttons can enhance a costume in much the same manner as the use of jewellery. Accessories including novelty belts, scarves or stoles of silk chiffon in the most flattering fashion colors do much to complement a simple design. Or add a matching sweater, either classic cardigan or an elegant embroidered or beaded novelty.

Do not hurry your cutting. Remember the old adage, "a garment well cut is three-fourths a success." Match thread color carefully. Use a just-right machine stitch—too long or too short is not attractive. For finishing, use true bias or fitted facing of the same fabric when possible.

V-NECK FACING — Cut a true-bias strip several inches longer than the neck opening and 1/2-inch wider than the facing will be when finished. Lay the facing pieces on each side of the neck, right sides together. Baste and stitch the edges to within 1/2-inch of the miter, as in A. Miter the facing at the point of the V and stitch the mitered seam, as at B. Cut away the extra fabric at the miter; press the seam open; and finish the stitching along the V edges, as in C. Turn the facing 1/2-inch to the wrong side; turn under the raw edges and slip-stitch the facing down, as in D.

Pattern No. 8101 features a basic dress which can be accessorized with a stole, as we have shown here. Use a beautiful quality fabric and this design will be a standby, not just this season but for several. Try my plan and see.

No. 8101 is available in sizes 12½ through 26½. Bust 33 to 47. Size 14½, 35 bust, 3½ yards of 35-inches.

Beauty Tips

Powder Pointers

Face powder is one of the keys to a flawless look. Puff it on properly and you will be as close to the velvety complexion we all want as anyone can get.

A clean puff is essential. Have a generous amount of powder on the puff. Start with the lower part of your cheek and puff the powder on gently clockwise around your face. Powder around your eyes and the nose last. You can fill in lines on the forehead and around the mouth by spreading them apart and gently pressing on the powder.

Whisk away excess powder with the back of the puff or a face powder brush. This final touch-up will also distribute the powder evenly.

ST. MARGARET'S GUILD CHURCH OF THE ADVENT

The monthly meeting of St. Margaret's Guild was held at the home of Miss F. Knapp, Hubbard Ave., with nine members present.

Members were pleased to have present Mrs. Arthur Gray and Miss Ada Hatcher. Mrs. F. Saunders was unable to be at the meeting.

The president, Mrs. R. M. Loughheed, opened the meeting with prayer, minutes of previous meeting were read and adopted.

The financial report was given by Mrs. J. H. Wark and showed all commitments met. The members were reminded of a rummage sale in the Church Hall, May 30.

The next meeting will be held in Church Hall on May 30. Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. A. Carrier.

SANGSTER MEMORIAL

Mrs. D. Breese conducted the opening devotional period at the recent meeting of Sangster Memorial U.C.W. The theme was The Love of God covering another chapter from The Word and The Way.

Mrs. R. Larrabee, president was in the chair for the business period.

Mrs. J. Hosking, treasurer, read the financial report followed by minutes of the previous meeting read by the secretary.

A report was given on the Layette being prepared to be sent overseas in June. Mrs. H. Joliffe, supply secretary, is in need of more articles to complete this layette.

Members were again asked to save used nylon hosiery. Mrs. E. Morel consented to look after these and forward to Korea where the Korean women re-make them into rugs and quilts.

The date of the rummage sale previously planned for May 18th, has been changed to May 30.

Members are reminded of the annual meeting of Presbyterian U.C.W. in Trinity Church, May 16.

Hostesses for the lunch hour were Mrs. R. Gallup and Mrs. J. Hall assisted by Mrs. F. Gelinas. The next meeting will be held in the Church Hall, May 29.

Fashion borrows new look

Tulips bloom in spring wardrobes

NEW YORK — This spring, place your tulips where the rabbits can't get at them — right in your own clothes closet.

Fashion has borrowed a new look from the spring flower and an entire designer collection has been created with a tulip motif. Tulips are represented in color, silhouette, embroideries and prints, all adding up to a flower garden enchantment in fashion.

The most exciting news is color—pink, peach, white and, of course, tulip stem green. There are bold over-all tulip prints and exquisite tulip embroideries on solid grounds. Other styles in the line have ruffles cut in the shape of tulips and attached to the hemline.

MUSIC ON RECORDS

By HUGH DOHERTY

BEETHOVEN: Trio in D major, Op. 70, No. 1 (GHOST); Trio in E flat major, Op. 70, No. 2; The Alma Trio (DECCA stereo DL 110064) — While the "Ghost" trio is the more well-known of these two trios because of the astonishingly slow second movement from which the work derives its name, the other trio is a richer composition as a whole. The Alma trio gives a fine performance of both, but are particularly impressive in the 1 flat major work.

CASCARINO: Sonata for Bassoon and piano; LIEBERSON: String quartet; GABURO: Line Studies; ETLER: Sonata for Bassoon and piano (COLUMBIA stereo MS 6421) — One in Columbia's modern American music series, these performances are not for everyone. The more esoteric of the lot is Gaburo's Line Studies, but the others, too, have their obscure aspects. Two, however, are easy to listen to — the Cascarino bassoon sonata which is a pleasant, melodic fragment, and the Etlar bassoon sonata, composed along more or less conventional lines.

SAINT-SAENS: Concerto No. 4 in C Minor for piano and orchestra, Op. 44; FAURE: Ballade for piano and orchestra, Op. 19, Preludes in D-flat major, G minor, D minor, Robert Casadesus, pianist; Leonard Bernstein cond. New York Philharmonic; (COLUMBIA stereo MS 6377) — Saint-Saens' concerto speaks of misty, wooded hollows and quiet-running streams in a lilting melody. There is a certain heaviness to the interpretation and a blurring of a few passages as if Mr. Bernstein had momentarily confused Saint-Saens with Beethoven. The works of Faure, a pupil of Saint-Saens, are handled much more confidently and more of the delicacy in the pieces is lost.

The coin • • • • •

by

box

As numismatic writers continually emphasize, an old coin may be rare, but not because of its age; nor is an old coin necessarily valuable. For example, there are the half-cents of 1861 of the provinces of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, one worth from $25 up and the other only $1.25 and up, depending on the condition.

The New Brunswick 1861 half-cents were not officially issued by the province as the province claimed it had not ordered them from the Royal Mint in England. It said one cent pieces only had been ordered. However, a few did get into circulation but they are scarce and the prices comparatively high.

The province of Nova Scotia, on the other hand, put 400,000 half-cents into circulation in 1861. As the demand on the part of collectors has not been very great, this coin is not nearly as scarce as the New Brunswick half-cent, and the premium value is therefore much lower.

A Toronto reader, J.E.T., has enquired about the value of a New Brunswick cent of 1864 which he states is "in perfect condition—a lovely specimen." There were 1,000,000 of these cents put into circulation so they are not scarce, nor is there any great demand, so the value is around 50c.

B.I. of Renfrew has enquired about a Queen Victoria coin of Newfoundland, but says that only the name of the Queen and the word "Newfoundland" are legible. Even if this coin were minted as early as 1865 it would have no premium because of the excessive wear.

Deciding how to die is the man's problem

THE GREEN FIELDS OF EDEN by Francis Clifford, Hodder and Stoughton, 192 pp., $3.70.

What would you do if you were told you had, at best, three months to live, that lung cancer was rapidly destroying you? Throw away your cigarettes? Spend your last days trying to give your family courage and a happy memory of your own fortitude and kindness? Use your hours in an effort to find a deeper meaning to life and a more rewarding relationship with God?

Francis Clifford's English businessman, Loader, tries to find the green fields of Eden, a kind of Adam-recognition of the God who had somehow escaped from his life since his early days as an Anglican. All he has retained from his youth are a few remembered lines from the prayer-book. The careless years and a time-consuming business have left him no time for either religion or God.

Loader, only 42 when he is informed of his impending death, feels he must leave his wife Catherine if he is to find what he is looking for: good, but sentimental and cloying Catherine would stifle him with tears, with talk of his "passing"—she would leave him no time to think of metaphors, nor to find his way back to God.

So he escapes to the island of Galilee near Africa, where, completely isolated from human ties, he can search for Truth and end his days in peace.

But Loader finds that leaving his wife, his friends, his business acquaintances does not cut him off from human beings; against his will and in spite of his isolationist determination, the Englishman finds himself involved with people.

First, he rather unwillingly—wanting to preserve his strength and so prolong his life—exerts himself to save the life of a blind orphan boy, and even more unwillingly finds that saving a life imposes further obligations. His heart is moved to compassion and compassion leads to his visiting the orphan, taking him gifts and receiving in return affection and gratitude.

And though he resists, he is swept into the lives of Frankie, the aging mistress of Galilee's only claim to fame, the young bull-fighter Gaudiola, the Canadian assassin Snyder and his unwilling paramour Anna Meunier, and Father Maura and the Roman Catholic Mission.

The Green Fields of Eden is a magnificent story, unsentimental but compassionate. There is nothing more dramatic than a man's search for the eternal verities as death stares him in the face, and Francis Clifford shows with conviction and understanding how the search for God is inextricably woven into the cloth of man's relation with man.

BLUEBELL PHILLIPS.

Faulkner, Edle Pulitzer winners

NEW YORK (AP) — The Reivers, a novel by the late William Faulkner, won the 1963 Pulitzer Prize this week for fiction.

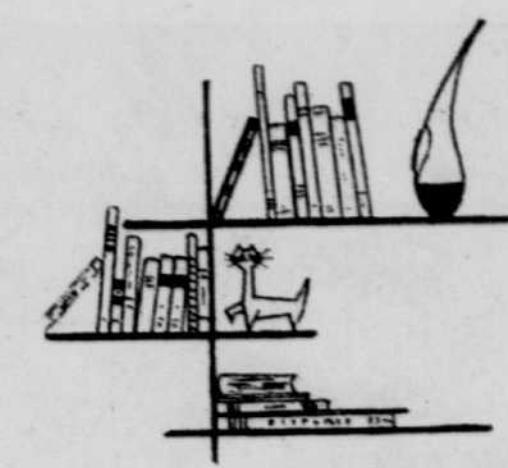

The Columbia University Pulitzer trustees skipped any award for drama, thus provoking the resignation of two judges who had recommended Edward Albee's Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?

In biography, the prize went to Canadian-raised Leon Edel of New York University for Henry James, Vol. II, The Conquest of London, 1870-1881, and Vol. III, The Middle Years, 1881-1895.

Poetry winner was physician-poet William Carlos Williams of Patterson, N.J., for Pictures from Brueghel, and women historians took two other prizes — Barbara Tuchman for The Guns of August in general non-fiction, and Constance McLaughlin for Washington, Village and Capital, 1800-1878, in history.

Saturday's book shelf

Edited by GLADYS TAYLOR

By GLADYS TAYLOR

According to a bookseller's report published recently in QUILL AND QUIRE, the best selling titles in Canada in 1962 were: A HERD OF YAKS, ANATOMY OF BRITAIN, HIGHLAND HERITAGE, INCREDIBLE JOURNEY, MEMOIRS OF FIELD-MARSHAL EARL ALEXANDER OF TUNIS, MY LIFE IN COURT, SHIP OF FOOLS, SILENT SPRING, THE AGONY AND THE ECSTASY, THE ROTHSCHILDS and THE WHALE PEOPLE.

It is interesting to note that all except three of these books were favorably reviewed on this page. It is also gratifying to note that four of the books, A HERD OF YAKS by Eric Nicol, HIGHLAND HERITAGE by Grace Campbell, INCREDIBLE JOURNEY by Sheila Burnford and THE WHALE PEOPLE by Roderick Haig-Brown, are by Canadian authors.

Incidentally, just how did this list compare with your personal "best seller" list for 1962?

Nicholas Monsarrat's newest book is a love letter. Titled TO STRATFORD WITH LOVE, it recalls what the Stratford Shakespearean Festival has come to mean to him during his 10 years of attendance. While this is a seemingly slight theme for the author of a book such as THE CRUEL SEA, Monsarrat fans will undoubtedly look forward to this book, which is to be published in June by McCLELLAND and STEWART.

Mrs. Doane Hatfield, member of the Nova Scotia branch of the Canadian Authors Association, is now editor of Tidings from Kings, the alumni magazine of the University of King's College at Halifax.

Grace Irwin's book SERVANT OF SLAVES, published by McCLELLAND and STEWART, is to be published in England and Germany this fall. Already a popular writer in the United States as well as Canada, Miss Irwin is to address the Chicago writers' conventions this spring on the subject of her writing.

Dr. Gustave Lanctot's book A HISTORY OF CANADA has been described as the culmination of 35 years of work and experience in documentary material. In its original French edition, it was awarded the Queen Prize for 1961 and the Montclair Prize, granted by the Authors' and Journalists' Association in Paris, for 1962.

PRENTICE-HALL of Canada announces the publication of SOVIET MILITARY STRATEGY by Marshall V. D. Sokolovskii. Originally published in Moscow last September in a limited edition of 20,000 copies, it was hailed by the Russians as their first comprehensive work on strategy in 36 years. The publishers feel this English translation will be carefully scrutinized by all persons concerned with Western military operations.

A highlight of recently celebrated Mental Health Week in Canada was the awarding to Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg, Rabbi of Beth Tzedec Congregation, author and columnist, of the first "Citation for Leadership" to be presented by the Canadian Mental Health Association. Dr. Rosenberg is author of a recently published book MORE LOVES THAN ONE: The Bible Confronts Psychiatry (Longmans Canada).

HIS FLOCK GROWS INVERCARGILL, New Zealand (CP) — The minister of Mossburn Presbyterian Church near here can report his flock is growing satisfactorily. Two years ago his parishioners bought 140 ewes and distributed them to farmers of the congregation to tend in aid of church funds. There now are 270 sheep.

Daphne du Maurier

Revolution breaks the glassware

THE GLASSBLOWERS by Daphne du Maurier, Doubleday, 348 pp., $5.95.

The Glassblowers is an historical novel set in France from the time of the ancien regime to the ascendancy of Napoleon.

It is the story of the Busson family, whose members have long been associated with the production of fine French crystal.

In honor of a visit to the Busson foundry by Louis XV, Mathurin Busson creates a crystal goblet which eventually becomes a symbol of the heritage which he passes on to his five children. To Mathurin Busson and his wife, Magdaleine, the Louis XV goblet represents the pride which they have in their craft and it is impossible for them to accept the attitudes of indifference with their children assume towards the family art.

Robert, the eldest, is a master craftsman trained by his father, but he cares little for the glass trade other than the fact that this talent may possibly gain him a position of social prominence. An irresponsible gambler, Robert cares more for the gossip emanating from the court at Versailles than he does stab his own responsibilities at the glass foundry.

The reader will find that Miss du Maurier has achieved a pleasant balance between the domestic conflicts within the Busson family itself and those moments of uncertainty which grip the national scene.

Through the eyes of Sophie the reader views the French Revolution and the Civil War which follows it from a different vantage point, for here Miss du Maurier has relied not only on the opinions of political historians, but also the suppositions of social critics. Thus a more intimate account is given of a great historical event and its effect upon the rural rather than the urban communities.

Pierre, an idealist and a dreamer, is interested only in the philosophy of Rousseau and the possible effects that it will have on the politics and economics of his country. Michel, while embittered by an impediment in his speech, attempts to carry on the family tradition, but he lacks his father's interest and ambition.

Edme, while always loyal to her family and aware of their heritage, is the product of an insecure state. She looks always towards a new France, and is never really satisfied with the rural life in which she has been raised. Finally, there is Sophie, from whose point of view this story is told, and it is she who appears to be the only one of the Busson children who remains unaffected by political upheaval. Together with her husband Francois Duval and her brother Michel, Sophie carries on the Busson tradition at the glass foundry.

I suppose that the real test of the success of a novel comes not when one is reading, but after one is finished reading. Is it with relief or regret that a novel is completed? As far as The Glassblowers is concerned, I turned to the final page with great reluctance, and I am certain that all who read this novel will experience somewhat the same feeling.

Born to be a rancher

THE RANCH ON THE CARIBOO by Alan Fry, Doubleday, 281 pp., $5.

"Being somebody," in the eyes of his mother, "had nothing to do with ranching."

But to her 14-year-old Alan, this was wrong. Rigors and hardships of life on the cattle ranch forged a steadfast conviction that "no man is more successful than that one who, whatever his calling or education, fulfills his duty to himself, his family, and his community, living in peace and dignity with all three."

The contours of his manhood were clobbered and cut by the elemental tools of his wilderness; and Alan Fry tells his story in terse descriptions, brief, pithy characterizations and swift-moving accounts of the day-by-day struggle to gain even a foothold on the road to success by working on a cattle ranch in British Columbia in the 1940s.

Rootless and unhappy during the months he was compelled to attend school in Vancouver, Alan sought diversion on the streets of the city at night. Shuffling poverty, wasted lives and futuristic vice became familiar, but only in the eyes of an observer; for the more he saw of the city, the greater became his longing for the hard life of the ranch.

Although the diary style comes close to becoming monotonous, the author's integrity awakens excited interest in the development of a growing purpose. And in this personal experience story, Alan Fry does not disappoint his reader.

Libraries make authors paupers

LONDON—(Reuters)—British authors are finding it more difficult than ever to make a living by writing, even though Britain publishes more new books each year than any other country except Russia.

Sir Alan Herbert, writer, former MP, and member of the Authors' Society, has calculated that over 20 years, 36 copies of one of his books were borrowed by 2,160 people from one public library alone.

This earned him a total of one pound, 16 shillings in royalties.

What is a Jew?

DAMNED IF YOU DO—DAMNED IF YOU DON'T by Marjorie K. Osterman, Chilton, 397 pp.

"Damned If You Do—Damned If You Don't"—the title immediately spells controversy and I was curious to find out the reason for the damnation.

This book by Mrs. Osterman is her first novel, although she has had short stories and poems published in magazines. I felt that she must have a strong message to deliver after such a forceful title.

The story centres around a Jewish family named Simons. Originating in Germany, the family saga moves to America in the early 1900s and grows in prosperity from hard work and tenacity.

Although Mrs. Osterman strongly defines the individual family characters through three generations, marking each person with identity and individuality by reason of their background and upbringing, I did not find the family as a whole very convincing. To me, they were just the meat within a sandwich of probable existing circumstances and paradox, bringing us to the main point of the book: that anti-Semitism within the Jewish race is as strong as that from without.

The explanation of the book's title is that a Jew can be damned by others of his race for using the title but admitting no other differences, and damned by Christians for the same reason. Damned by other Jews for denying his heritage, and by Christians for losing the courage of his convictions.

CHOSEN PEOPLE?

In the words of the author, the "damned if you do—or don't" admit their faith because either way they must be able to prove their worth. As Mrs. Osterman says—"Chosen for what? For being 'kicked around, that's what!'"

Is being Jewish a privilege or a curse? A Christian would not understand a Jew's lack of faith or an explanation of his faith itself. Most Jews are proud to be Jews but ashamed to be Jewish.

The book has no neat and tidy ending because the whole life of the Simons family is lived within this paradox with its many facets, and the paradox still exists. A factual problem brought to our attention in fresh manner by a fictional family, I found that the factual problem overshadowed the fictional family completely, and left me thinking very seriously. What author could wish more of a book?

Collecting

in the

Townships

The City of Sherbrooke will welcome the coin collectors, or more correctly the numismatists, of the Townships and Canada, with many, many from the United States, this week-end.

Numismatics, or the science of coins and medals, is indeed extremely popular these days, and those who would belittle the collecting of coins with minor dots and misplaced figures would do well to remember that there are people who want them, and stamps are the same. The "cock-eyed king", and the "weeping princess" are merely misprints from damaged plates.

The writer knows nothing about the art of collecting coins although it would seem that coin collectors and stamp collectors are of the same kin, and that both strive to enter the charmed circle of philatelists and numismatists, but where does one draw the line? Surely it goes beyond the mere accumulating of stamps or coins, and must be a desire to know and appreciate the printing of stamps or the striking of coins.

A hobby founded on the desire for pleasure and love for the things collected will always survive. Collecting for monetary gain alone is of little value, for such an outlook can only cause harm in the final analysis.

However, we do extend to all coin collectors our welcome. May your stay in the Townships be enjoyable and profitable in every way.

The Crown Agents have announced a number of new issues for the coming month and several colorful sets will be available to collectors. Dominica will have her definitive set on May 16 and Ascension on May 23. Jamaica will issue the Freedom from Hunger commemorative set on June 3, and Singapore the annual National Day stamp on the same date.

Trinidad will have her Freedom from Hunger set on June 4, and this date will see issued the stamps from 37 colonies and territories for the same event.

The stamps from the colonies will be in a variety of colors and not all in blue as previously announced. New sets in the coming months will consist in part of sets for Fiji to commemorate the South Pacific Games, Kenya for the East African University and the same country for the Red Cross.

There will also be definitive issues for Aden, British Solomon Islands, Pitcairn Islands, St. Kitts, St. Lucia and South Georgia. Another large issue will be forthcoming for the commemoration of 100 years of work by the Red Cross.

Canadian covers are still sought avidly by many collectors. It seems to me there were never too many first day covers when I consider the thousands of collectors. There probably are some real scarce items and collectors should endeavour to complete the collection of modern issues as soon as possible.

This does not mean that all covers will advance in value overnight, but a steady increase of four or five cents a year does count. A well known philatelist advised the writer that he considers the high prices being asked for earlier Canadian stamps has helped the cover dealers. Collectors still desire to add to their collection and covers are within their reach.

Commercial covers are fascinating and these have a place in your collection too. Cancellations can be added, and slogans, so there is still much to be added to a complete collection after the stamps are obtained.

We have tried to form a collection of the new one-cent issue, plate blocks, singles, plain corner blocks, mint and used for both, singles, blocks, sheets, pairs, then adding multiple pieces as time goes by, first day covers with a single, plain blocks and matched plate blocks. The field is a challenge. Try it with any common stamp. You will be able to fill a fair sized album with a minimum of expense.

High drama stalks hospital corridors

THE SURGEON by W. C. Heinz, Doubleday, 245 pp., $4.75.

From the moment of waking from unconsciousness drowning at 6:45 a.m. by a "voice" with a reminder of the routine for the day, including a challenging bout with death, The Surgeon takes the reader through the varied daily experiences of a prominent thoracic surgeon as he goes about his business of saving human lives.

Dr. Matthew Charter faces the constant challenge of the present and of the future; relives the satisfactions and defeats of the past and continually feels the thrill of accomplishment.

The reader is given an understanding of what it is that impels a man to dedicate his life to his fellowman.

In this book the foundation of Dr. Carter's religion unfolds—in reminiscences of his early life, in the development of his attitude toward death, in the progress of his skills, in his compassion for his patients and his understanding of the distress of relatives of the patients.

He is certain of the proof of a living God, who nurtures and provides and takes unto Himself, in blessed peace, where "only the survivors suffer."

Although continuous use of medical terms adds drama, it might be difficult for the average reader were it not for the addition of a good deal of easy-flowing dialogue recognizable to any who have been patient or worker in a large hospital.

To sum up, the author has given an effective picture of a highly talented, dedicated surgeon and his associates.

Byron subject of diary?

VICTORIA (CP) — A diary believed linked with the life of the poet Lord Byron has been discovered in a Victoria attic.

It is being investigated by Prof. Grant McOrmond to determine whether the book actually was written by the person whose name appears on the inside cover—Augusta Leigh, Byron's half-sister.

The small diary—about the size and thickness of a pack of playing cards—may unlock some of the mystery.

Foolish footnotes to current history

MORE WHO'S IN CHARGE HERE? by Gerald Gardner, Musson, 80 pp., $1.

More hot-rod lingo coupled with limousine-set pictures which will undoubtedly mean another best-seller for Gerald Gardner.

COIN COLLECTING & STAMPS

This is not our field but we would like to collect some of the coins of the realm in exchange for our stamps. We can offer proof-like sets of new issues from your favourite country as well as good copies in used condition from all corners of the world. In stock are bright, uncirculated stamps from faraway Japan or the United States. We have tried to be collection builders for over fifteen years to a host of collectors and at the same time have maintained a personal touch that you will appreciate. By the way, we will accept well worn coins and shabby dollars for our stamps.

MISS IDA R. CHAMPOUX, OF MONTREAL,
Formerly of Asbestos.

Funeral services were held on April 24, for Miss Ida R. Champoux, who died at the Royal Victoria Hospital on April 21. Rev. Ernest Barratt, conducted the service at St. Paul's United Church, Montreal. The hymns were all favorites of Miss Champoux. The Lord is my Shepherd, Rock of Ages, and When I survey the Wondrous Cross.

Following the service the cortege left for the interment at Danville, where her friends in the area joined the mourners.

Miss Champoux was the daughter of Louis Champoux, of Mount Orford, and his wife, the late, Mrs. Ida C. Champoux. She was born and brought up in Asbestos, attending the High School there and singing in the choir of the Asbestos United Church for many years.

Following her schooling she moved to Montreal, where she was employed by the Northern Electric Company for over 20 years. During this time Miss Champoux was very active in church work, serving on the committee of stewards, of which she was secretary at the time of her death. She sang from time to time in the choir and also did special solo work on many occasions.

Her work with the adult department of the Y, both in the service and social aspects, had been a great pleasure over the years and she had served on several executive teams within the past few years.

Miss Champoux is survived by her father, Mr. Champoux, her half-sister, Mrs. Alfred W. Smith, of Cote St. Paul, Montreal; and a brother, Louis Champoux, Jr., of Pointe Claire.

RILEY HALDEN DREW, OF WAY'S MILLS.
WAY'S MILLS — The death of Riley Halden Drew occurred April 11 at the home of his father after many years of ill health.

The only child of Frank L. Drew and his wife, the late Myrtle (Pope) Drew, the deceased was born March 1, 1907, in Baldwin's Mills. When he was two and a half years of age, he was a victim of polio, which left him crippled. With the help of crutches, he was able to walk about and attend schools in Coaticook, Hatley and Barnston.

For a number of years, he was employed as an accountant with the Philip Carey Co., in Lennoxville, until failing health forced him to give up this work.

An ardent stamp collector, much of his time was spent in pursuing his chosen hobby. For the past two years, he had been confined to a wheel chair, being bed-ridden only a short time prior to his death.

He is survived by his father and step-mother and many other relatives.

The funeral was held on April 13, at the funeral home of J. H. Knapp in Coaticook, with Rev. G. Joyce of Ayer's Cliff conducting the service.

The bearers, all cousins of the deceased, were: Austin Drew, Rodney Brand, Lester Drew, Roy Markwell, Roland Drew and Weyland Pope. The remains were placed in the vault there, awaiting interment in Mount Forest Cemetery at a later date.

GEORGE HENRY MILLER, OF SWEETSBURG.
SWEETSBURG — George Henry Miller died suddenly on April 16, following a heart attack, at his home in Sweetburg.

Mr. Miller was born August 26, 1908 in Mystic, one of a family of eight children of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Miller. His boyhood was spent in Mystic, and later went with his parents when they took up residence in Morrisville, Vt.

The greater part of his life was spent in Bedford and the surrounding district. He carried on a garage and sales station for a time in Mystic in conjunction with Leon Guthrie. The business was afterwards transferred to Bedford. For the last few years Mr. Miller had lived in Sweetburg.

He is survived by his wife, the former Claire Miller, of Bedford; four sisters Mrs. Bohana, Annie, Hyde Park, Vt., Mrs. Bhurling Wightman, Lillian, Bedford, Mrs. Sheldon Miller, Pearl, White River Junction, Vt., and Mrs. L. Towne, Helen; a brother, Clarence, and a half brother, James Miller, both of Morrisville.

Two brothers, Warren, who was killed overseas in France in World War I, and Kenneth, and a half-brother, Guy Miller, both of Morrisville, predeceased him.

The funeral was held on April 19, from the Wilson Funeral Home in Cowansville to Christ Church, at one o'clock, the rector, Rev. John Peacock officiating. Interment was in Morrisville.

TOWNSHIPS REVEL

Approximately 100 Brownies from the Eastern Townships gathered at St. Patrick's School Hall, on April 20, to take part in a Brownie Revel, the Brownie term for a rally which began at 11 a.m. and lasted throughout the day.

This marked the first time such a gathering had taken place in Thetford Mines. Drummondville, Richmond, Danville and Asbestos, as well as the Thetford group, were represented.

Beginning with a welcome and fairy ring, they then danced around the toast, in traditional ceremony. With Peter Pan as its theme, the program consisted of games, handicrafts and a treasure hunt.

During the day a floral bouquet was presented to Mrs. Clarence Kenney, camp advisor, of the Richmond Division, representing Mrs. Margaret Doull, commissioner from Drummondville, who was unable to be present.

At midday lunch was provided by the women of the Ladies Association, with Mrs. Lucien Lavigne, president, and Mrs. B. Assels serving. At the completion of the festivities, afternoon tea was served to the leaders, soft drinks to the Brownies.

The Revel terminated with the Brownies taking part in a Pow Wow Sing Song.

Border couple annual meeting

STANSTEAD — At a reception of about 100 relatives and friends, held on April 27, in the Rock Island I.O.O.F. hall, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Curtis were guests of honor on their 45th wedding anniversary.

On arrival, Mrs. Curtis was presented with a corsage of yellow and white poms and Mr. Curtis, with a carnation boutonniere.

To the strains of the wedding march, played by Ed. Stiles, of Waterville, the couple was escorted to white decorated chairs, by their son Clyde, and daughters, Mrs. H. MacLeod and Mrs. Bruce Phillips.

The evening was spent in dancing, music being supplied by Mr. Stiles who also led in group singing.

Rev. A. M. Rose, pastor of Centenary United Church, on behalf of guests, some of whom were unable to attend, presented Mr. and Mrs. Curtis with a box decorated in white, containing cards and gifts of money.

The guests of honor also received a basket of yellow chrysanthemums and mauve stocks from the grandchildren and an anniversary plate from Stanstead North Women's Institute Branch.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Clyde Curtis, Mrs. MacLeod and Mrs. Phillips, assisted by friends.

The three tiered wedding cake, was made by Mrs. Clyde Curtis and decorated by Mrs. H. Doyon.

A guest book, made by Mrs. Velmore LeFlore, of Beebe, and later presented to Mr. and Mrs. Curtis, was in charge of Mrs. Charles Crawford, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Keith Armstrong.

Mr. Curtis and Ada Gill, were married on April 24, 1918, at Olivet Baptist Church, in Montreal, and came to reside in Stanstead in 1921. Mrs. Curtis is active in many organizations as well as Centenary United Church. They have three children, Clyde, Stanstead; Florence, Mrs. MacLeod, Camp Borden, Ont.; and Effie, Mrs. Phillips, Ottawa.

Among those attending the reception were, Mrs. MacLeod, of Camp Borden, her son, Burns, with the RCAF, at St. Johns; Mrs. Phillips and family, Diane, Ian and Keith, of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Curtis, and two children, Christina and Mark, Stanstead; Mrs. E. Curtis' sisters, Mrs. Effie Smith, Verdun, Mrs. Grace Nichols, Notre Dame de Grace and sister-in-law, Mrs. Violet Gill, Verdun, and many from the Boundary Villages, Beebe, and surrounding areas.

Roland Bowen of Hatley named Sugar King

HATLEY — Roland Bowen, Maple Sugar King of 1962, accompanied by Clifford Curtis and Howard Ayer, were in Plessisville on April 25, to attend the Annual Maple Sugar Festival.

They were shown through the plant, where over 12 million pounds of syrup, a year is handled. They also visited the Festival Centre and viewed a large display of maple syrup and sugar on exhibition, in competition by farmers in the surrounding districts. In the same building, an interesting sports show was held.

The highlight of the evening's event, during the reception in the St. Louis Pavilion, was the presentation of a large trophy to Mr. Bowen in recognition of his accomplishment in attaining the rank of Sugar King of 1962.

GORDIE HOWE SETS ANOTHER NHL RECORD

Veteran Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings has won the Hart Memorial Trophy for the sixth time to set a record. The 35-year-old right winger polled more than twice as many points as the runner-up Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks. Terry Sawchuk of Detroit was third.

Howe polled a total of 111 points out of a possible 180 in capturing the trophy presented annually to "the player adjudged to be most valuable to his team", while Mikita polled 54 points and Sawchuk 44.

Sawchuk was the leader at the half-way mark with 37 points while Howe had 30. In the second-half voting it was the veteran Howe the whole way as the 1962-63 scoring champion earned 81 out of a perfect 90. Mikita had 19 while Sawchuk polled only seven.

This was Howe's 17th year in the National Hockey League and his 17th with the Red Wings. He picked up a total of $5,000 from the NHL for outstanding individual achievements in 1962-63 and was named to the All-Star squad.

His aim is to play 20 seasons in the NHL and it is expected that when he retires he will be the owner of almost all the scoring records in the league. Last season he drew near Maurice Richard's record of 544 goals in league play, finishing the season with 540. Barring accidents he should break the former Montreal Canadiens' star's record by early November.

In the late stages of the schedule Howe carried the team and in the playoffs he certainly was their big sparkplug. He was outstanding and from the look of things should be good for quite a few more years.

The first Qualification races of the season are on tap today at the Sherbrooke Race Track. These are the first of several which will be held during the coming season. The majority of the starters are young colts and it should be interesting to see just how they will stand up under the acid test.

President Roger Trudeau and his board have been working hard getting things ready for the official opening next Sunday, May 19. Something new are tests to be made on horses after each race. Louis St. Cyr will be in charge of this under the supervision of Amalab Ltd. of Montreal. This is necessary this year under the new rules.

The Club will stage several stakes during the season. The colts will race for a purse of $500 while three-year-olds will compete for $750 and a free-for-all will be worth $1,000. These should add considerable interest to the local scene.

The local golfing season will officially get underway today at the Sherbrooke Country Club when President Tony Turmel will lead his squad against vice-president Tom Hansen and his crew. This will officially open the season although members have been playing for the past two weeks or so.

George Beaulieu, chairman of the greens committee, and his crew have done a fine job in getting the course in shape. In fact we believe it is in very good shape considering the time of the year. Never before have members played on all the greens so early. With a break from the Weather Man a good list of players should be on hand. Starting time for the president-vice-president foursome will be 1:00 p.m.

The Massawippi Country Club at North Hatley opened officially yesterday.

Wrestling resumes this evening at the Arena and judging from the look of the card the fans, who follow the sport, are certainly in for a fine evening. The first bout is slated to commence at 8:30 p.m.

The Tolos brothers will be making their first appearance of the season and they take on Cowboy Ron Reed, Houston, Texas, and Gene Kelly, Australia. This is a team combat and should be real had-hitting affair since the Tolos brothers are noted for their rough-house tactics. They know all the tricks of the trade.

The main bout brings together Bobo Brazil of St. Louis and Killer Buddy Austin of San Francisco in a two-out-of-three duel and it should be a tough battle. Bob Bedard of Quebec takes on Chat Wallick in one of the preliminaries while in the other two Montreal boys, Gerard Dugas and Claude Gosselin, both these are one fall, twenty minutes.

Hockey tonight. This may seem hard to believe but it is true. Edmonton Oil Kings and Niagara Falls Flyers clash this evening at Edmonton in the sixth game of the best-of-seven Memorial Cup finals.

The Oil Kings lead the series 3-2 and a win this evening would end the battle. From all reports it seems to be just that, a real tough affair. Coach Happy Emms threatened to take his team back East but after the win Thursday he changed his mind. He has had plenty of trouble with President Art Potter of the CAHA regarding just about everything.

The foolish thing about the whole thing is that the NHL finished their playoffs and the juniors are still going at it. It just don't make sense. Too much of anything is bad and for youngsters still playing hockey well that to us is foolish. Let's be reasonable and cut out these 70 game schedules.

Als open training this afternoon

20 players to report for 2:30 at Park Avenue Stadium, several new players to try for berth on club

Sherbrooke Alouettes open training this afternoon at the Park Avenue Stadium and around 20 players will be on hand. The practice is slated to commence at 2:30 p.m. while Sunday afternoon it is booked for 2:00 p.m.

Gaston Bergeron, chairman of the ticket committee, will be on hand Sunday afternoon to accommodate fans wishing to secure reserve tickets. The Als will play an exhibition game with the Beavers of Acton Vale next Sunday at the local park.

The majority of the veterans with the team last season will be back. Jacques Monette, Guy Robichaud and Connie Mandala, who held down the outfield, will be back. Lillas Poole and Fern Dube, both catchers, while third baseman Chet Wodjick and Frank Kurty, the second sacker, will be around.

Coach Claude St. Vincent will have Giles Bernier, Ernie Drole, Claude Prud'Homme and Andre Bessette, all pitchers, on hand. Some of the boys have yet to reach agreement with Manager Ellyson but will report for the opening workout.

Several new players have been invited to attend the workouts over the weekend. Bill Conroy, former member of the Quebec team in the old Provincial League, who lives around Boston will add plenty of experience to the staff.

Eugene Henry a colored hurler from Porto Rico, will report. He has played in the Winter Ball League in South America. Jacques Belanger, Giles Cardin, Jacques Lariviere and Gary Marley, just out of the Montreal Junior League have been asked to attend. It is expected that several from Montreal will be on hand.

Chet Wodjick, the Als' outstanding third sacker last year, is the seventh player to accept terms with the local club. He signed his contract with Manager Yvon Ellyson this week. Wodjick was a standout on defense as well as his hits at the right time and his speed on the bases. He finished the season as the league's eighth hitter and was the team's second best right after Monette.

He appeared 220 times at the plate and batted 66 hits, including nine doubles and a homer. He drove in 28 runs and stole nine bases while registering 38 himself and finished with a .300 average.

His 66 hits placed him a tie for second place with M. Dion of Granby just behind Johnny Mentis, Granby, who had 74. His official times at bat, 220, was the highest for any player in the Provincial League last season.

Games half-mile at Perth, Australia. This time she won the 800 metres.

"One day, while walking in the athletes' village," recounted Twigg, "Abby saw Leah Ferris of the U.S., the girl she had to beat in the half. Abby didn't say a word. She just stared and glared at this girl and the American became so flustered and confused she walked into a lamp post."

"That was one way of getting her number and Abby did it. The American knew right then and there that Abby was not afraid of her and that stare told her more vividly than words that Abby was going to run her into the ground."

The two girls had posted times of about two minutes 10 seconds in previous races. When the big one came along, Abby won it easily in 2:10.2 — two seconds faster than the American who took the second-place silver.

There have been many other cases, perpetrated by men and women who have ice water running through their veins after experiencing the hard knocks of international competition. They employ various methods — starting out opponents, telling them they are the greatest, or sneering at them. Another is to awe your opponent by some unorthodox training.

So, it comes as a surprise to hear of a couple of teen-aged Canadian girls—one in her first shot at international competition, the other her second—working the old confidence game. They applied different techniques.

Nancy McCredie, the 18-year-old whiz from Brampton, Ont., and the only track and field double gold medal winner in the Pan-American Games at Brazil this year, did a masterful job in the women's discus, which she won handily.

In practice before her event, she worked out with Americans and others and threw from a standing throw. Her distance was just about equal to that of the American women who had made the full turn before letting go.

"She went out there and didn't take a full windup before throwing at any time," said Ken Twigg of Toronto, manager of Canada's track and field team, on his return this week. "When the Americans saw this they were frightened to death of her and we knew it. It was a real good psychological manoeuvre."

Nancy who had never competed outside Canada before, also won the women's shot-put. Then there was 16-year-old Abigail Hoffman of Toronto, who finished a well-beaten last in the 1962 British Empire

REMEMBER WHEN

War Admiral won the Kentucky Derby 26 years ago today with jockey Charley Kurtzinger up. Man O'War's son covered the mile and a quarter in 2:03.2 — till then the second fastest time in the history of the race. It was Kurtzinger's second win; the first was in 1931.

GLAMORIZED

Since then fashions have changed and the sheath knife, glamorized by western movies and TV, has gained a place, ousting the more simple folding knife. And some of the knives being sold these days are purely and simply fancied-up glamor merchandise of little practical value.

In my own outdoors kit, I have quite a number of knives, all with a set purpose. First and most important is a heavy, two-bladed pocket-knife with a buckhorn handle that I use for clean work like cutting line, trimming rope in camp and a hundred and one jobs.

It has one heavy duty blade 3 1/2 inches long and a slimmer and more delicate blade of the same length. It's a Boker made in Solingen in Germany and it cost me about six dollars new.

This is just a plain knife, with no fancy attachments and I bet it gets at least some use every single day in the outdoors.

HEAVY DUTY

Now, for camping and on the trail, I own a heavy duty sheath knife with a 7 1/2-inch blade and a leather washer handle topped with a stainless steel knob. This is a custom made knife presented to me by two brothers who Trainer-driver Jimmy Larente takes the promising two-year-old trotter, Miss Speedster, for a training spin around the main track at Saratoga Raceway.

Owned by Ivan Dugre's Charter Oak Stable of Sherbrooke, the bay Speedster filly has been training impressively and is among the nominees for the Spa's northern-trained two-year-old trot series this summer.

The most difficult piece of equipment to buy for outdoors living these days is a good knife.

It's not that there are few around, but rather that the good ones are hard to find among the rubbish being sold.

This is a different situation from a few years back. A man needing a knife went down to his local hardware store and made a choice from the three or four quality jobs on display and he came out with a tool that could handle anything from paring his nails to skinning a deer.

But in those days every man and boy carried a pocket knife from the time he first wore long pants. He kept it sharp and clean. And just about everybody knew what a good knife looked like.

The pocket folding knife was about the only type used. Sheath-knife styles were limited and regarded rather as a toy to be worn by Boy Scouts or dudes.

made it up as a gift. I don't know what steel they used, but they made surgical instruments. This job can really take an edge and keep it.

This I carry on my belt over my right hip and it does most of the heavy cutting work on the trail from cutting back brush to splitting wood for the fire.

For my fishing box, I bought one of the cheap Japanese fish knives that come in a wooden sheath. The blade is stainless steel, has a serrated back for scaling, has a bottle opener groove, and the cutting edge is razor sharp. I use it for cutting bait, skinning catfish, filleting and all the wet and dirty jobs. It cost 85 cents and was a bargain.

Now those three alone will answer every need in any field of outdoor activity, and I keep them sharp on a smooth oil-stone and have a cutter put an edge on them whenever they need it.

NO GADGETS

A knife should be a simple tool. The multibladed and gimmick loaded monstrosities sold these days are a waste of money. Look for fine steel, simplicity and sturdy manufacture.

Johnson to meet Pastrano

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The Harold Johnson-Henry Hank light heavyweight title fight scheduled for June 1 in Las Vegas was cancelled Friday and a new match made. Hank has an injury.

Champion Johnson will defend his title instead the same day against Willie Pastrano.

"We hope to match the winner against Hank over the Labor Day weekend here," said matchmaker Mel Greb.

Hank decided to withdraw Thursday after suffering a hairline fracture between his left eye and nose during training in San Francisco.

ALWAYS bear in mind that accuracy is the big object when shooting with irons. Even with long irons it is desirable to pinpoint the target.

To achieve accuracy, you must select the club in which you have confidence — the one you feel will take the ball as far as you want it to go and as near as possible to the target without pressing. Underclub and you'll probably either fall short or lose accuracy.

As you progress to the longer irons, it would be well for you to spend time on the practice tee, finding out just how far you can get the ball accurately with each iron from the 9 through the 2.

There is, of course, an average range for each club, but it may not be yours. Only through constant practice can you learn which club to employ to greatest advantage for any given distance.

While you shouldn't underclub, don't overdo it in the iron direction. The longer the iron the longer the shaft—and long shafts are more difficult to control than the shorter ones.

Finding the exact club for each distance, presents more of a problem than it would seem at first glance. But it can be worked out by experimentation and practice.

SILVERSTONE, England (AP)—Graham Hill, world champion auto racer, clocked a fantastic lap time of one minute 35.4 seconds in a BRM in time trials for today's British international trophy race.

Driving over a wet track Friday, Hill averaged 110.45 miles an hour. His time was one second faster than Jim Clark's official record, but a second slower than the time set by Innes Ireland in a BRM-engined Lotus in dry conditions Thursday.

Ireland and Hill won places on the front row of today's race, along with Bruce McLaren in a Cooper and Jack Brabham in his own Brabham racing car.

Maple Leafs cut three from roster

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League have cut two pitchers and an infielder from their roster.

Left-hander Jim Flynn has been sent to Austin of the Texas League and right-hander Dennis Ribant goes to Denver of the Pacific Coast League. First baseman R. C. Stevens, who played in the majors a couple of years ago with Washington, was released outright.
