Valleyfield Unemployed Protest to Council by Launching Strike, Thursday

Three Hundred Unemployed March to City Hall, Seeking More Work and Better Wages—Leaders Arrested and Later Released—March in Group to City Hall to Seek Agreement

More than three hundred unemployed, who were working at Park Sauvé and for the City of Valleyfield, went on strike on Thursday morning due to the fact that the Valleyfield Council had failed to give due consideration to a petition they had handed the Council at their regular weekly meeting. In their petition, the unemployed had asked the Council to pay them so much an hour and to give them work during six days each week.

The committee of the unemployed marched to Valleyfield City Hall on Thursday morning to protest to the Council of the manner in which they were treated.

The strike was stirred up on Wednesday afternoon when the committee in charge of the strike, under the leadership of Fred Pridmore and Bruno Girard, urged the municipal employees to discontinue their work for the City until such a time as they were given more work and at better terms.

The municipal authorities, warned of the strike, had the leaders arrested later for abusive language.

Following the arrest of Pridmore and Girard, the unemployed appointed another leader in a certain Mr. Faubert, of Belleville. After this appointment they summoned all the unemployed at work at Park Sauvé to join their ranks. They all marched to City Hall and deliberated on the plight of their comrades arrested earlier in the day.

After interviewing the Recorder of the City, the Chief of Police and the members of the Council, it was agreed to release the two prisoners after they had been condemned to the time spent in jail.

The unemployed reported to work on Friday morning but it was stated at Valleyfield over the week-end that work would immediately cease at both Park Sauvé and for the City of Valleyfield until such a time as a definite arrangement has been concluded between the interested parties.

The unemployed at Valleyfield received six days per week of work at a fixed price of 35 cents per hour or they would not work in conjunction with the unemployed program as arranged for the City of Valleyfield by the governments.

Urge Co-operation of Institute In Educational Opportunities

R. J. M. Reid, B.S.A., Hemmingford, Outlines Programmes Offered by Government For Instruction Of Youth, Before Huntingdon Women's Institute Meeting at Dewittville

Over fifty members and friends of the Huntingdon Women's Institute met on Tuesday, July 4th, on the beautiful lawn of the President, Mrs. William Graham at Dewittville. The vice-president, Mrs. Hood, called the meeting to order for an interesting programme.

Mrs. Ada McCartney, Convener of Agriculture, gave a paper on "Gardening Problems," and many of the ideas presented, she said, were suggested by J. L. Pelletier, County Agronomist. R. J. M. Reid, B.S.A., of Hemmingford, outlined in a short but most instructive address, the various programmes offered by the Government for instruction of youth. He requested the co-operation of Institute members in promoting interest in these educational opportunities, which include School Fair work, for young children from 10 to 14; Junior Farmer work, mainly the culture of grain, corn, potatoes, fruit, etc.; Club work and Short Courses such as that held last winter in Huntingdon, and finally the Short Courses in Co-

Youths Delight In Hot, Sultry Days

The hot weather which prevailed over the week-end found thousands of children in the Chateaugay Valley seeking a place where they could cool off with ease and satisfaction. To those who were not privileged with being able to take a dip at the "Lake," the good old Chateaugay River could not be surpassed. The Gleaner photographer, always on the lookout for the new in life, snapped the above photos on Saturday afternoon. Top photo shows a group of children having a grand time at Miss Russell's Island. The water at this spot varies from six inches to seven feet, thus giving both young and old opportunity to bathe with their hearts content. Lower left photo was taken at the dam in Huntingdon. This is a popular spot where the good swimmers meet. Lower right photo was taken at Hayter's farm where the younger generation gather in the afternoon for a swim.

RUSSETTOWN CHURCH CELEBRATES ITS 113th ANNIVERSARY

Old memories were recalled and old acquaintances renewed on Sunday, July 2nd, when Rev. H. S. Lee, P.A. of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, St. Lambert and Moderator of the Presbytery of Montreal visited Russettown. The occasion was the 113th Anniversary of Russettown Church. The Minister of the Church welcomed old members and interested friends; and in the name of all who were present he tendered to Mr. Lee a hearty welcome to the scene of his boyhood days and to the Church in which his father was ordained. The symbol of his religion is a cross. He calls for sacrifice—sacrifice for that which is worth while.

Our loyalty as Christians is loyalty to a person. Loyalty must be proved. Patriotism is more than singing "God Save the King." Loyalty to Christ will manifest itself in character and life.

While it was felt that it would be difficult to surpass the morning service yet the evening service was looked forward to with intense eagerness. Long before the hour of service people began to arrive and when the minister entered the pulpit he found an exceptionally large congregation awaiting his message. The choir of Athelstan United Church led in the worship of praise and rendered very effectively three anthems.

The subject of Mr. Lee's evening sermon was "The Glory of the Christian Church." He said that in spite of indifference, criticism, and opposition, the Church still stands because of her inherent worth and because of the service she renders and the influence she exerts in the world. No one can estimate the value of the Church in any community. Every right thinking man will support his church, put his best into it, strengthen it in every way that he can.

Mr. Lee congratulated the congregation on the completion of one hundred and thirteen years of service to God and the community. He challenged the congregation to make the 114th year a great year in the history of the Church. With that challenge ringing in our ears we look towards the future.

Mr. Lee, who expressed his pleasure in being present, took as his morning theme "Foundations of Religion." He mentioned three motives to which appeal can be made for Religious Service: the instinct of Fear, the instinct of Self Interest and the instinct of Loyalty. The first two he discarded as unworthy and inadequate. Neither of these has appealed to a man at his best. But loyalty is the noblest possession we have. To the instinct of loyalty we owe what is highest and best in man. To the spirit of loyalty Christ makes his appeal. The symbol of his religion is a cross. He calls for sacrifice—sacrifice for that which is worth while.

Huntingdon High School Tenders Aggregate Too High A Figure For Acceptance

Architects Are Studying Tenders and Hope to Have Plans Sufficiently Altered to Have Aggregate Tenders Reduced at Least $15,000—Aggregate of Lowest Bids Total $95,135.34

The special meeting of the Huntingdon School Commissioners was held on Thursday evening when tenders for the building of the proposed new school were duly opened.

Nine tenders were received for the building of the school building. The tenders were all higher than expected. One of the reasons for the tenders being high is credited to the fact that the contractor would be obliged to tear down the Jubilee School and make use of the serviceable material contained therein.

Contractors claim that in this building there are some 70,000 bricks, yet used cleaned bricks can be obtained in Montreal at $8 per thousand and which is considerably less than it will cost to salvage the bricks from the school.

Of the nine tenders received only two contractors viewed the school property and studied the plans in Huntingdon. Had the contractors done so, it is believed more of the tenders would have been placed at lower figures. Some of the contractors were led astray by an item that appeared in the city press which informed the new school was to cost $30,000 and in addition there would be the plumbing, heating, and electric wiring contracts. It is all evident this had an effect upon the tenders, and the bids were to a certain extent based accordingly.

The original plans of the Huntingdon School were considerably altered when submitted to the Department of Education in Quebec for approval. The improvements would certainly make for a better school and cope with the educational requirements many years from now.

The nine tenders were duly opened and that of L. C. Parton, Montreal was the lowest, being $70,966.65. Mr. Parton was one of the two bidding contractors who visited Huntingdon to study the plans and local situation. The other bids ran up to as high as $95,135.34.

12th Annual Conference at St. Andrew's

Largest Recorded Attendance Attend 12th Annual Conference of Leaders

The 12th annual Conference of Leaders in Sunday School and Missionary work in the Synod of Montreal and Ottawa, was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Huntingdon, from July 3rd to the 9th. The Conference was under the direction of Rev. Dr. A. S. Reid, Clerk of the Synod. Classes were held each morning, beginning with devotional exercises at 8:30 and carried on until noon. The afternoons were left free for recreation, and there were evening sessions from 8 to 9 o'clock. The attendance was the largest recorded for several years. Throughout the week the first lecture hour was taken by Dr. A. S. Reid, who gave a series of studies on the life of Jesus, the apostles, and the early church. He was followed by Rev. Dr. Norman MacLeod, who gave a course on the Need of Religious Education. On two mornings Miss Irene Stringer, of Jhansi, India, spoke on the work of Missionary work in that great land where she had spent thirteen years. Miss Barbara Dougherty, of Montreal, gave one morning to the work of the young women of the Church. Mr. Gordon Partridge, of Montreal, gave one morning to the work of the young men of the Church. Rev. Dr. A. S. Reid, gave three lectures in his course on Literature and Religion. On some of the days of the week the heat was intense, but this did not interfere with the attendance and great interest was shown by all the young people in the programme set for them. A break was made in the programme of the week by the regular concert on Saturday evening at the Presbyterian Residence by several gifted members of the Conference, assisted by little children.

Blaze Sweeps Sheds of Vt'd Powder Works

Damages at Valleyfield Plant Estimated at $6,000—Covered by Insurance—Fear Explosion

Fire of undetermined origin broke out Sunday morning in the aluminum shed of the Canadian Bronze Powder Company, Limited, 3 East Park street, at Valleyfield. The damage was estimated at $6,000, covered by insurance. The flames were allowed to burn themselves out in the shed while water was thrown on other buildings to protect them.

The flames started in the same place as the disastrous blaze of April 2, 1938, when several firemen narrowly missed being killed in an explosion that followed the pouring of water on the burning aluminum powder.

Watchman Napoleon Martin discovered the fire at 8:25 o'clock and the firemen, under Chief Hebert, were summoned to support their cause. The danger of pouring water on the flames and they allowed the blaze to burn itself out. The shed was badly damaged. At 11 o'clock firemen left the scene, the blaze extinguished.

Huntingdon Votes in Favor Of Eastern Standard Time

255 Votes Were Polled in Wednesday Voting, With 173 Citizens Opposed to Daylight Saving Time—Change of Time Will be in Effect in 1940—Eighty-two Favor D.S.T.

255 votes were polled in the vote which was held at the Huntingdon County Building on Wednesday when ratepayers voted in favor and against Daylight Saving Time. The result of the voting was as follows: 173 citizens voted in favor of Eastern Standard Time and 82 in favor of Daylight Saving Time, thus giving a majority of 91 votes for the "old time".

The question of Daylight Saving Time and Eastern Standard Time has always been more or less of a bother and nuisance here. The change of hour became effective for the first time in many years in 1938 and at a meeting of the Town Council on Monday, April 3rd, 1939, a petition was presented to the Council asking that Daylight Saving Time be abolished. Naturally, the Town could not take any immediate action as the change of time had to be in force for one complete year after it had come into force. However, at its June meeting the Council declared that the vote in regard to change of time would take place on July 4th, to comply with the petition presented earlier in the year. The change of time will not become effective until 1940 and Huntingdon will continue to operate on Daylight Saving Time until September 30th, 1939.

Voting started early on Wednesday and it was not until the polls closed that the supporters of both Daylight Saving Time and Eastern Standard Time ceased to bring in ratepayers to support their cause. When a vote was taken on the change of time in 1938, 104 votes were cast in favor of Daylight Saving time while 53 ratepayers were opposed to the change. Three votes were also split.

That this question caused a great deal of interest was evidenced by the fact that the voting on Wednesday was greater than in 1938. What will be the final outcome of this Daylight Saving Time and Eastern Standard Time question cannot be ascertained although the immediate answer is that Standard Time will be in force when May, 1940 comes around.

W. Nicholes, Robson Home Nearly Burns

Lighted Lamp Left on Table Believed to Have Exploded

Mr. Willard Nicholes and his sisters nearly lost their home by fire on Tuesday night.

Luckily Mr. Nicholes awoke and seeing the room full of smoke and flames managed to get out and as lots of water was handy got busy and threw it on the fire. Miss Maybelle came to Mr. Nicholes assistance and in a few minutes had it under control. The damage was confined to two rooms. It is thought that a lighted lamp left on the table exploded.

For the next few months Mrs. Petch will be kept very busy attending W.I. meetings throughout the Province of Quebec imparting the impressions she gained when attending the world conference.

Athelstan Couple Feted On 58th Wedding Anniversary

An event somewhat unique in the annals of our village took place at the home of Mrs. Duval on Tuesday night, when over sixty of their friends and neighbours gathered to celebrate with them the fifty-eighth anniversary of their marriage. The gathering was held on the lawn of their home and all present admired the lovely well-kept grounds and garden of the aged couple.

When all were assembled Mr. H. A. Hampson called on Rev. Father Pigeon, who spoke briefly in both French and English, and told of the good influence the exemplary conduct of Mr. and Mrs. Duval should have on the lives of their children and grandchildren, and wished them many more years of happy married life. The gifts presented were a convertible couch and two conglomeration rugs. Little Miss Rita Duval, a great-granddaughter, offered a beautiful bouquet of red roses, saying with all the sweetness of her six-year-old voice, "I wish you much happiness, Grandpa and Grandma."

Mr. George Elder spoke a few words of appreciation of the fine workmanship of Mr. Duval during the long years of association with his father, the late Mr. John Elder in his contracting business. Miss Josephine then addressed the aged couple, speaking in French. Mrs. Reese led in a short, complimentary song. Ice cream and cake were served and all left for home feeling that they had participated in a most unusual and enjoyable evening.

Cabinet in Weekly Session

The eyes of Ottawa, like all other capitals, are these days directed to world affairs, which are being watched with the keenest anxiety. A situation with such dire possibilities must of necessity cast its shadow everywhere. At the same time the administration of domestic affairs must go on, and the cabinet at weekly sessions is getting into operation measures passed at the close of the last session. It is expected that the personnel of the new defence purchasing board will soon be announced. There is no intimation whatever as yet who the members will be, but the greatest care is being taken in the selection of this board which will have the duty of making all contracts for equipment and material for the country's defence. The cabinet is also engaged in making arrangements for the creation of the central mortgage bank, not a light task either, as this measure aims at cutting down mortgages on farms and dwellings to reasonable figures and at reducing interest to more uniform rates. The work of setting up the machinery of appraisal of property in various parts of the country will be one of

Firemen Save McEwen Home In Ormstown

Lightning Strikes in Ormstown, Causing Damage to Grandstand, Trees and Radios

The clang of the fire bell at four o'clock on Monday afternoon brought a rush of volunteer helpers to the home of Mr. Jack McEwen. The fire was confined to the kitchen where Mr. McEwen, in heating a vessel of water to repair the roof of the house when it suddenly boiled over and in a moment the whole room was a mass of flames.

Swift workers with fire extinguishers soon got the blaze under control but not before a good deal of damage was done. It will be necessary to put in a new ceiling, and floor and all the glass in both windows was broken by the heat.

Ormstown was visited last week by two severe electric storms, that seemed to be centered right over the town. On Wednesday about 5:30 p.m. the lightning struck two trees in the old St. Paul's cemetery, gouging out a splinter that was 15 feet long and about two inches wide, another bolt struck a tree in the garden at the home of Dr. W. S. McLaren. Many radios in the town were out of order. On Thursday the grand stand at the Show grounds was glazed by a bolt that grounded itself. No fires resulted.

PROVINCIAL POLICE TO INVESTIGATE HEMMINGFORD ROBBERY

Petty thieving has again come to the fore at Hemmingford but the supposed thieves were foiled in their attempt to take away goods from Stringer's Store at Hemmingford, on Sunday evening.

Returning home between 9 and 10 o'clock that evening, Mr. Stringer discovered that intruders had made their way into his store by breaking a screen. On investigating further, he found that the would-be robbers had left a white bag which contained some $15 worth of cigarettes, near this window.

The Provincial Police were told of the incident and will make an investigation. It is thought that this was the work of youths as there was money in the safe and in the till which was left untouched.

A Fatal Accident is Brewing

ONE hundred and thirty-three youthful offenders of the road laws, when operating bicycles, were lectured to by Recorder Leonce Plante in Montreal and also fined $1.00 each. A definite war is on against cyclists who are careless in how, when or where they ride their bicycles. In the course of the Recorder's lecture to the youths he emphasized that hundreds of boys and girls had been killed and thousands injured right in Montreal. The grief brought to the families and others who unintentionally struck the bicycles was also emphasized. What is true in Montreal is also true in rural Quebec and the towns and villages of the Beauharnois District are no exceptions. The circulation officers of this District and the town police are going to exercise their authority and endeavour to educate the cyclists as to road laws and see to it that they observe them, so that possible fatalities may be avoided. If your son or daughter rides a bike, take heed and co-operate with the officials.

Hints towards safe cycling include:

Only one person is to ride on a bicycle. Two on a bike is an offence against the law.

Ride Indian file at all times, (one bike behind another).

All bicycles on the highways at night must carry either lamps or reflectors. The rear light or reflector to be red and the front one white.

Drive on the right hand side of the road and should the cyclist wish to pass a conveyance from the rear, pass on its left hand side.

Another wise precaution to take is never try to race ahead of a motor vehicle, as so many boys try to do.

So much for the cyclist, now let the pedestrians take heed. Since the "Log Lodge" was built west of Huntingdon a great deal of pedestrian traffic is to be noted on Highway No. 4. If a fatality were to occur on this stretch of highway it would materially affect the popularity of "Log Lodge" and at the same time cause much pain to the bereaved family. Pedestrians for their own safety should walk on the left hand side of the road, facing on-coming traffic. If the public will fall in line, and all act accordingly the likelihood of accidents will be greatly reduced. Autoists driving where there are many people walking on a highway should certainly drive at a moderate rate of speed, even slower than in a town where sidewalks are provided for the pedestrians.

An Opportunity For Exporting Apples

A YEAR ago Mr. E. J. Wadley, representing a number of fruit importers to England visited this community hoping to be able to buy apples for export. No apples were purchased, due to the fact that orchards had not then been passed the necessary Government inspection. We believe a number of orchards have since so qualified.

At the present time Mr. Wadley is preparing to place orders for four hundred or more carloads of apples. A year ago orders were placed for a like quantity and the apples found ready sale in England and Scotland. This year the fruit crop in England is going to be much better than a year ago, especially in regards to plums, peaches and pears, whilst the apples will likely be small in size. Mr. Wadley now has instructions to place orders for 225 cars of British Columbia apples and he hopes to buy another 150 cars in either California, Oregon, the Buffalo, N.Y. area, Quebec and in Nova Scotia. Mr. Wadley feels the Quebec apples would find much favour on the markets of England and Scotland, due perhaps to the fact that our apples have good color and are luscious.

The Quebec Pomological Society has a membership of aggressive apple growers. They are good marketers and are expanding in every direction. The apple orchards are continually being increased. The demand for Quebec apples in Montreal is enhanced through advertising, the money for this advertising is provided through each grower contributing at the rate of one cent per box of apples. This year $3600 or more will be so spent on apple advertising in Montreal.

As the new and enlarged orchards come into bearing it may be that in big crop years the Montreal market will be offered too many apples, as is the case with oranges in the states of California and Florida. Our Quebec apple growers might be well advised to get an established connection with the export market now, and avoid having to suffer the consequences for such neglect in a few years' time. Flooded markets are always detrimental to profitable production.

Is Relaxation Easy For You

DR. WALTER B. PITKIN, the man who made "Life Begins at Forty" a household phrase, says that if you can answer the following questions with a "yes," your powers of relaxation rate high. If you rate low, he warns it is time to take stock of yourself.

"A few having a perfect score may still be victims of tensions of one kind or another," he adds, "but, in general, a high score reveals a fairly restful body and mind."

Here is the Pitkin personal-efficiency check-list:

1. Are you in reasonably good health?
2. Do you sleep well?
3. Do you adjust your diet to fit the amount and kind of energy you use?
4. Do your muscles feel relaxed?
5. Do you work easily, passing on to others as much responsibility as your job allows?
6. Do you forget your daily problems when you have locked the office door?
7. Do you get out of doors much?
8. Do you easily forego smoking and hard liquor?
9. Do you take short and frequent rest periods during working hours?
10. Do your leisure activities interest and relax you? And, unless you are a single-track mind, finding your greatest joy in your work, are your activities reasonably varied?
11. Do you put ideas and problems out of your mind promptly and easily when this is useful?
12. Do you regard worry as silly and useless?
13. Do you refuse to fight difficulties and obstacles, when, after studying them, you find them at least temporarily insurmountable?

These questions, he believes, are all closely related to one's philosophy of life, or way-of-thinking, for one's philosophy of life largely determines health and happiness.

"A tense philosophy keeps your body tense, and tensions, if unrelieved, lead to illness. A restful philosophy, on the other hand, makes a relaxed body; and relaxation is a sure aid to health.

"The old 'success' philosophy," he continues, "is going on the scrap heap. We have and will have more leisure. We must build ourselves for this new world, as well as we build the factories, dams, forests, parks, and machines that we need. The philosophy that will help us to fit readily into the changed environments may be summed up in the three words: Take it easy!"

Private Enterprise Real Solution

IF PRIVATE enterprise is the real solution of the employment problem, why should business interests be constantly harried and attacked. Those who have recourse to such methods are only retarding recovery and curtailing employment. Fiery speeches of a radical nature generally accomplish one purpose, namely to frighten away capital and of course without capital there can be no employment. We quote the Telegraph-Journal's editorial:

"The real solution of the unemployment problem must come through the expansion of private enterprise. This is Mr. Dunning's dictum. Others have said it. Still more will now repeat it. May it be declared again and again with intelligent appreciation of the value of the words. There may be other apparent solutions of the unemployment problem. They may even offer quicker and easier relief. Nevertheless on examination and test they will usually be found to be unpermanent. They need not necessarily be brushed aside provided their limitations are recognized. They are salves, possibly to be used wisely and in moderation in allaying the worst manifestations of the disease. They are for temporary and local application."

"These expedients have, however the failing of their kind. Unfortunately they have also a misleading attractiveness. It may seem simple to inaugurate public works. The public, of course, pays; but somehow the individual identifies himself with the public only when immediately confronted with his taxes and then he blames somebody else. It is easy to pass on payment to posterity. Posterity is not here to protest."

"Some degree of state help moreover may be justified by urgent necessity. It is not to be dismissed utterly and peremptorily; but it should be used sparingly and cautiously. It is an insidious practice. It is a postponement of the day of reckoning, always a welcome escape for people harassed more by present needs than by fundamental faults in a system. When these matters crop up be it recalled what Mr. Dunning has laid down. The real solution must come through the expansion of private enterprise."

"The words real and private should be underlined. State enterprise is largely artificial, resting on the basic fallacies inherent in socialism. That is a disease which attacks liberal democracy. It weakens the individualism on which democracy is founded. Individualism, however, in this sense is not narrow. Nowadays there is little one-man business, but the corporate effort of private enterprise is the modern expression of that individualism which has built up our entire social and industrial system. Corporations are a wise adaptation of individualistic spirit to that of the times. Paradoxically most private enterprise is conducted by firms whose capital is drawn from a wide range of the public. Sometimes it is the direct investment of individuals, but more often the accumulated funds of say, insurance companies or banks. It is nonetheless private enterprise as opposed to state enterprise, and in it anybody with a single dollar of savings may win. It is this that must be expanded if we are to find the real solution of unemployment; and expansion of private enterprise, be it accentuated, is largely a matter of overcoming the fears that still retard recovery."

Are Concurrent Sentences Justifiable?

THE King's County Record, of Sussex, Nova Scotia, calls attention to the anomaly of concurrent sentences, so common under present Canadian law procedure. A man is found guilty of four distinct crimes, for instance. He is sentenced to four years on the one charge, and perhaps two years on each of the three other charges. But the sentences are imposed as running concurrently. In effect, the man is only penalized for the one crime, and practically goes free on the other charges. The Record suggests that it would be a better plan to impose smaller terms for each offence and make the convicted man serve a term for each crime, even though the total imprisonment might not exceed that given under the concurrent plan. There are cases, however, where the concurrent sentences are only logical. For example, it would be absurd to impose consecutive sentences on a man convicted of thirty or forty different thefts. As he is being penalized for theft—with the number of cases, of course, having a bearing on the severity of the sentence necessary—the concurrent plan works all right. Even in such cases, however, use of the suspended sentence plan might be the best procedure. Under such a plan appropriate sentence could be made on one conviction, with proper sentences suspended in the other cases. In that event the suspended sentences would act as hostages for his good behaviour when his one term was served.

TOUGH BRONC DIES

Earthquake, who became a famous bucking horse because he disdained to plow, is dead at the age of 26. Of draft horse ancestry, Earthquake gained a reputation among top rodeo riders as one of the biggest and meanest bronzes. Leo Cremer, rodeo stock owner, bought him 24 years ago from a disgruntled farmer who could not break the horse to plow. Big Earthquake, 1535 pounds at bucking weight, was not retired until he was 20. Only the year before he had bucked off Burel Mulkey, of Salmon, Ida., now world champion cowboy. A stone with an epitaph will mark Earthquake's grave.

3 MEN—50 SHARKS

Surrounded by a shoal of about 50 basking sharks, three men had a remarkable escape when their motor fishing boat, Magic, was struck by one of them off Penllyn, six miles from Campbelltown, and hurried high out of the water. Hugh Cameron, the owner, who had taken the boat out for an engine test, said: "Suddenly the sail-like fin of a shark appeared in front of the boat, and to my horror I saw a huge shark rising under us. The propeller was struck by the shark and was flung out of the water. I was almost blinded by the flood of spray, but managed to bring the boat back to an even keel when she struck the water again."

STILL CAN BE DONE

When K. R. Fyles, Ferndale, Wash., lost his job a year ago due to an injury he decided to become his own boss and not let that happen to him again. With his wife and two sons he homesteaded a 23-acre tract near Alger, Wash., on the Canadian border on a low future instalment plan. The land was uncleared and a wilderness of timber, brush, stumps and fallen trees. The first thing the family did was to build a log cabin for a home. Next, they built a poultry house and then a cow barn, all without outlay of cash. They traded wood for hardware, windows, doors and other needs. In one year's time, the Fyles family of father, mother and two sons, have cleared an acre of ground and by the sale of wood and trade now have six cows, a flock of chickens and are producing all their staple foods. So it still can be done just as in pioneer days.

TIDE CREPT HIGHER

Lowered by a rope from the top of the 300-ft. Shakespeare Cliff, Dover, Police-Sgt. McLeod soothed and chatted to six children until the lifeboat came along to rescue them from the sea. The children, whose ages range from four to eight years, had been cut off by the tide at the foot of the cliff. Their cries were heard by two young men who gave the alarm to the Naval signal station at the top of the cliff. While Sgt. McLeod kept the youngsters amused the sea crept up higher and higher threatening to engulf them. When the lifeboat arrived he waded into the sea and carried them one by one to the vessel and safety.

ENLIST CUPID, TOO

Even cupid is to be "called up" now as the result of a decision by British and French military chiefs in recent staff talks. They have agreed that an essential part of British army training must be annual manoeuvres on French soil. Following reports of this decision, a number of influential people in France have just formed an association which will aim at bringing the "Tommy" into direct contact with French families in the hope of promoting marriages. It is claimed that this plan may serve the double purpose of arresting France's birth decline—in the event of the couple eventually taking up residence in France and becoming virtually French citizens—and at the same time result in a closer bond between the two countries. The president of the French republic has expressed his sympathy with the idea, and it is believed that the state will subsidize social centres near the area of the annual manoeuvres where "Tommys" can meet French girls of the more serious type. British soldiers leaving for the annual manoeuvres will be furnished with the names and addresses of French families where they can count on being welcomed. They will also be given free tickets of membership of the association, which will be known as the Franco-British Social Fellowship. Care will be taken to ensure that only French girls of the highest character are admitted to membership, and commanding officers of British units will be asked to see that membership tickets are only issued to non-married soldiers of good repute.

"They builded better than they knew..."

CONVENTION AT CHARLOTTETOWN, PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND, of delegates from the Legislatures of Canada, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, to take into consideration the union of the British North American Colonies, September 1, 1864.

Seventy-five years ago delegates appointed by the Legislatures of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, and by the Parliament of Canada (Upper and Lower), met at Charlottetown to lay the foundations of the Confederation of Canada. This year Canada's Gracious King and Queen, in their Royal Tour of the Dominion from sea to sea, were acclaimed by millions of men, women and children in this "great free Nation of the North", and saw how truly the Fathers of Confederation had "builded better than they knew".

The history of Life Insurance in Canada precedes and parallels Confederation. From small beginnings this great co-operative enterprise has grown until it is an economic bulwark of the nation, and its more than 3,500,000 policyholders, with Two Billion Dollars of their savings invested in the Dominion, are a vital force for economic stability and progress. Linked together for their mutual welfare, they help to bind Province to Province and maintain the unity of the Dominion.

No institution could so endure and prosper if it had not given private and public service of the first quality. As with the Fathers of Confederation, so with the Fathers of Life Insurance in Canada — "They builded better than they knew."

Life Insurance in Canada salutes Charlottetown in its commemorative celebration—July 16 to July 21—of the historic Conference seventy-five years ago.

TEMPTING THE SUMMER PALATE

How often during the summer one hears such expressions as "I'm not hungry; I haven't any appetite in hot weather." It is natural that there is neither the desire nor the need for much heavy, fat food at this season of the year but at the same time enough of the right kind of food should be eaten to keep a person physically fit. With so many Canadian fresh fruits and vegetables on the market during the summer months the problem of desserts, salads and accompaniments to the meat course are easily solved. With meats, fish or poultry as the basis for dinner they may be served cold to suit the summer palate. Cold roast lamb, cold baked ham or cold meat loaf served with fresh, well-cooked vegetables are delicious. Eggs are also a good summer food. Scrambled eggs or omelettes are not too heavy for summer fare and, if preferred, hard-cooked eggs may be combined with fresh vegetables to make an inviting and satisfying supper or luncheon main course. Cheese, including cream and cottage cheese, is another food which may be served often during hot weather. Nourishing, and at the same time thirst quenching, well-chilled drinks are popular in summer and frozen desserts including ice creams and sherberts are also in general favour.

Lamb Moulded in Mint Jelly

1 1/2 tablespoons gelatine
1/4 cup cold water
1 1/4 cups boiling water
1/4 cup vinegar
3 cups cold diced lamb
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup chopped mint leaves
1/4 cup diced sweet red or green pepper

Soak gelatine in cold water. Combine water, sugar, vinegar, salt and mint leaves. Boil 3 minutes in covered saucepan. Strain out mint leaves. Reheat to boiling point and add gelatine. Allow to partially set. Add lamb and pimento. Allow to set in one large or six individual moulds. Serve on crisp lettuce. Garnish with fresh vegetables.

Note—This jelly is more attractive if green colouring is added to mixture before jelly set.

Devilled Eggs in Tomato Jelly

2 cups tomato juice
2 tablespoons gelatine
Seasonings
1/4 cup cold water
6 hard-cooked eggs (devilled).

Heat tomato juice, with seasonings to taste. Soak gelatine in cold water. Add to boiling tomato juice. Cut hard-cooked eggs in half. Remove yolks. Mix with salad dressing and add chopped ham or bacon. Season. Refill whites and put two halves of each egg together. Half-fill six moulds with partially set tomato jelly. Place eggs in jelly. When thoroughly set, add remaining jelly, and chill. Unmould on cups of lettuce. Garnish with water cress.

Lettuce Rolls

1 1/2 cup cream or cottage cheese
1/2 cup chopped ham or nuts
Salad dressing
6 large lettuce leaves

Add ham or nuts to cheese. Mix thoroughly with sufficient salad dressing to make mixture soft enough to spread easily. Spread lettuce leaves with generous layer of cheese.

FOR VACATIONS

If you're a fashion-wise junior size, with a budget to watch, why not make yourself this tiny-waisted frock (8500) to take on your vacation—or to wear around town in?

It's so young and gay, with the square neckline, extra-wide skirt, grosgrain bow and bands. Buttons straight down the front like a waist—has the very essential broad-shouldered look.

You've never done any sewing? Oh well, it's time you tried—and this is an absurdly easy pattern to work with. Includes a step-by-step chart telling you exactly what to do. Get some plique, calico, percale or gingham and see what a good dressmaker you really are.

Pattern 8528—The transfer pattern for lively little dresses that children love to have on their belongings, is intriguing enough.

But this generous pattern also includes the brief and flaring play suit, and the scoop bodice. The play suit, is just about as cool and air-conditioned as any energetic youngster could wish. The bodice is a back-button style easy to iron.

All three are very quick and simple to make. The transfer pattern as you know is really fun to embroider, and the play suit and bodice pattern is accompanied by a detailed sew chart. Make the play togs of gingham, linen, pique or calico, any sturdy, tubfast cotton.

Place Names.

It would be interesting at present and might serve as a source of useful information in the future if people who know the origin of the names of localities would record such facts. Who knows how Huntingdon, Franklin, Geraldine, Stockwell, Russelltown came to bear their names?

Miss Isabel Dowling of Covey Hill tells me that her grandfather, the late Mr. William Barrett, former owner of "The Lilacs", was responsible for naming Vickers after Sir Hedley Vickers. He also gave the Township of Hawke's name in honour of Sir Henry Hawke whom he greatly admired.

Mr. Barrett had a considerable gift for poetry, observing his wife's birthday regularly by composing a poem addressed to her. Many husbands would do well to imitate his example by simply remembering their wives' birthdays, even if poetry is beyond their prosy ability. It is a pity that the idea of one of Mr. Barrett's relatives to make a permanent collection of his verse was never acted upon. The appended poem in honour of Sir Henry Hawke was arranged so that it might be sung to the air of "The Old Mariner." It contains a word probably obsolete now, "innumerable," but Miss Dowling has hunted it up in an old dictionary.

On India's parched and burning
A dauntless vet'ran stood
Who oft had quelled her heathen bands
And braved the ocean's flood.
Through years of crushing, cold neglect
His onward course he trod.
And (wanting earthly friends) reposed
His steadfast trust in God.

When pagan fury spread dismay
O'er that polluted land,
His firm example reassured
The small heroic band.
His whitened foes innumerable,
Upheld their country's flag.
And Lucknow stands a monument
Of their enduring zeal.

Youngblood-Darby

A very pretty wedding took place on Monday, July 3rd, at one o'clock in the Chapel of Erskine and American Church, when Bernice Adeline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Darby, of Oldfield Ave., Montreal, was united in marriage to George Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Youngblood, of Washington, D.C. The bride was given away by her father, Rev. Leslie Pidgeon of Erskine and American Church officiating. The church was decorated with ferns, white and pink peonies and orange blossoms. The wedding music was played by Mr. W. Hislop of Montreal. Mr. Rupert Hawley acted as usher.

The bride wore a street length dress of Elizabeth blue triple sheet with matching redingote, large blue hat, blue sandals and blue lace mitts, and carried an arm bouquet of deep pink roses and baby's breath. Miss Dorothy Darby, sister of the bride, who acted as bridesmaid, wore a street length dress of salmon pink with matching redingote, shoes, hat and gloves of white and carried a corsage of flowers and white sweet peas. Mr. Kenneth D'Alembert of Valois acted as best man. Mrs. J. M. Darby, mother of the bride, wore a Mulberry sheer street length dress with white accessories with a corsage of white sweet peas and baby's breath.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's residence on Oldfield Avenue where the decorations consisted of white and pink peonies, orange blossoms and canterbury bells.

Britannia's honour he maintained
And his integrity.

What though too late his country knows
His unassuming worth?

What though his Sovereign now bestows
Posthumous rank on earth?

'Twas not for rank he fought and died,
For riches or renown.

'Twas duty led and he has gained
An everlasting crown.

The author's admiration for his fellow-Englishman's heroism may remind their friends of the following members of Mr. Barrett's family connection: his grandson, Lt.-Col. P. Minden-Cole, his grand-daughter's husband, Capt. Lamontagne, his great-grandson, Kenneth Steele, and his great-grand-daughter's husband, Claude Gough. All four served their country well in the World War. Capt. Lamontagne making the supreme sacrifice. Mr. Gough is now President for the Dominion of the C.N.R. Veterans.

MILIZA KORJUS

Miliza Korjus was born in Warsaw, Poland, on August 17. Miliza Korjus' early life takes on the aspects of a travel book.

Although the more important years of her education took place in the Conservatory at Moscow, she attended schools in Kiev, Warsaw, Berlin, Vienna, Dresden, Hamburg, Lucerne and Amsterdam.

From the time she was a tiny child she loved to sing. Her parents, realizing the fact that her voice was distinctly not an ordinary one, put her in the hands of expert instructors. As a result, every concert of importance programmed her for several numbers.

Quite by chance, one such affair was attended by Max Schilling, conductor of the Berlin State Opera.

Schilling, amazed at the girl's voice, requested an introduction. Impressed still further by her beauty and histrionic ability, he immediately engaged her as a new star of the Berlin Opera.

From the day she arrived in that city she was a prime favorite with music lovers.

Her great popularity thrust her forthwith into starring roles. Quickly she added entire operas to her repertoire, appearing in such offerings as "Rigoletto," "The Magic Flute," "Barber of Seville," "Cavalleria Rusticana," and dozens of others.

Miss Korjus is slim and blonde, with deep blue eyes and heavy lashes.

She shares a beautiful home, home on a bluff overlooking the sea, with her husband, Kuno Poelsch, and her four-year-old daughter, Miliza.

Two major ambitions occupy her mind. One is to be "like Jenny Lind," the other to bring to the screen her favorite operatic character, Gilda.

Her greatest fear is loneliness, and partly because of this, but more because of a charming personality, she has gathered about her a group of interesting friends since taking up her residence in the film city.

Musical evenings, to which these friends are invited, make up an important event of every week.

She made her Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer debut in "The Great Waltz," starring Luise Rainer and Fernand Gravet.

"SOUL-MATES" BUNK

Don't bother whether she's your soul-mate; just marry the girl. This is the advice of Dr. Paul Popenoe, director of the Los Angeles Institute of Family Relations. Girls who wait for a Prince Charming are likely to die spinsters, says the doctor, and the dream that, somewhere, there is a special soul-mate for everyone is just so much childish bunk. There are 30,000,000 married couples in the United States now, and a million marry every year, he points out. Of that number, about 200,000 each year get a divorce, and others, while staying together, are miserable. The reason for the high divorce rate, declares Dr. Popenoe, is that the married people don't try. "Too often the husband regards himself rather as the star boarder than the lover. Naturally, the wife gets careless in her appearance and her disposition."

Huntingdon lost another trying contest in the Southwestern Quebec Softball League on Tuesday evening at home when they dropped a regular league game to Ormstown by the score of 4-2.

The game undoubtedly the fastest played here this year, lasted less than one hour and was featured by smart play on the part of both teams. Huntingdon successfully completed the only double play of the game in the fourth inning of this game when Andy O'Connor, star moundsman for the locals, picked a grounder, threw to second to cut off the runner and the throw was relayed to first on time to have the runner called out.

Ormstown scored their first run of the game in the first inning out Huntingdon tied the score on a hit and an error in the last half of the same frame to make the count read 1-1.

Huntingdon took a one run lead in the third inning when Andy O'Connor singled to left field and came home when Smith fled out to center field. The local team continued to play errorless ball and in the seventh inning Ormstown started a rally which netted them two runs to take a two point lead which was sufficient to assure them of another victory in this major circuit.

Andy O'Connor, who officiated for Huntingdon, pitched a nice game and deserved a victory. He struck out nine Ormstown sluggers while his opponent, Howie Brockwell was credited with retiring eight Huntingdon batters at the plate. This contest was the best played here this year and it was not until the last ball was thrown across the plate that Ormstown was assured of its victory.

The line-up—ORMSTOWN—French, Boyle, McAdam, McLean, Brockwell, Martin, Scully, Money Penny and Carter.

HUNTINGDON—Senecal, Hunter, Smith, Wilson, F. Lalonde, J. C. Lefebvre, E. Dumant, E. Lefebvre and A. O'Connor.

Umpires—Money Penny and P. Ross.

Score by innings:—Ormstown 100 001 2-4 Huntingdon 101 000 0-2 Batteries—Brockwell and McLean, A. O'Connor and M. Smith.

URGE SUPPORT OF CURLERS AT SOFTBALL GAMES

The members of the Ormstown Softball Club regret that they are not given the whole-hearted support of the fans directly connected with this sport organization. At each game played under flood lights at Ormstown, the same faces are seen from night to night. Softball in Ormstown is sponsored by the Ormstown Curling Club and one would not be led to believe so. The Ormstown Curlers have approximately 80 members enrolled on their list and of this number a mere ten or less attend the softball games. It is the duty of the members of the Ormstown Club to attend all the games played at home by their winning aggregation as it will mean more profits and revenues for their curling activities.

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER WILL RECEIVE TROPHY

A trophy standing approximately eight inches in height will be awarded the most valuable player in the Huntingdon Town League, the Gleaner was informed on Tuesday, by the directors of this organization.

It is hoped that the trophy will be presented during the final series in August. This trophy is donated by P. E. Cartier, Jeweller, Huntingdon, and is exhibited in his store.

Chateau Tennis Club Wins First Loop Game Of Season—Defeat Beauharnois, 4-3

The Chateau tennis club won its first game of the year in the Beauharnois - Valleyfield - Huntingdon tennis league on Thursday evening when it defeated Beauharnois four sets to three.

Miss Thora McWhinnie continued her brilliant playing in the ladies' singles with Dr. Brison and Mervin McCartney stealing the show in the men's doubles. Miss McWhinnie defeated Miss Y. Laplante, 6-1, 6-1 to never endanger her chances. The winner is the only member of the Chateau team who has not met with defeat since the opening of the league.

The reorganization of the local teams seemed to add more zest to the games that evening and although Beauharnois played hard they were unable to cope with the smart tactics of the Huntingdon tennis teams.

Following is the result of the games:

Ladies' Singles
Thora McWhinnie vs. Y. Laplante, 6-1, 6-1, in favor of Huntingdon.

Ladies' Doubles
Miss M. Marchand and Miss S. Leduc vs. Eleanor Hunter and Cecil Cappelletti, 6-4, 6-5, in favor of Huntingdon.

Mixed Doubles
E. Sullivan and Miss J. Leduc vs. Bernice McCartney and Larry Hampson, 6-5, 6-2, in favor of Beauharnois.

Men's Singles

SUMMER SPORTS IN HUNTINGDON

Citizens of Huntingdon most emphatically voted in favor of Eastern Standard Time last week. The change of time will be in effect in May 1940 unless unexpected developments occur in the interval. The result of the voting appears elsewhere in this issue.

Huntingdon has been faced with many serious municipal problems in the past year, such as the proposed water main, the Chateaugay street sewer, borrowing money to defray administration expenses of the Town, etc., etc., but none of these questions seemed to interest so many ratepayers as did Daylight Saving Time and Eastern Standard Time. It is quite true that Huntingdon lived as well and securely today as when it operated on the "old time." However, and to the regret of many sportsmen the situation is to be different. Huntingdon youths have become accustomed to the "new time"; they plan accordingly and act in the same way.

In 1937, it may be recalled, the only active softball team in Huntingdon was that of the Huntingdon Girls. The boys' teams did not operate because they were not given any support. They lacked this support because citizens would not leave at meal time to see a ball game. When it became known that Huntingdon might operate on Daylight Saving Time in 1938, a group of sportsmen, interested in the welfare of our younger generation, decided that they would "do something about it." The great success of the Huntingdon Town League is known far and wide. In 1939, a new board of directors continued to operate the Huntingdon Town League and picked stars on each team in this local loop to play in the senior circuit.

What will be done in 1940? A few of the remarks heard at the poll on Wednesday afternoon—"How are you voting? In favor of standard, of course. I believe in God's time and not man's." "If it did not alter the mail service, I would vote in favor of Daylight Saving Time. I hate getting my mail so late."

If all the reasons given for voting one side or the other, were printed, the Gleaner would necessitate a special edition solely for this purpose. Those who strongly uphold Standard Time are in many cases retired farmers, living in Town or retired business men, having nothing else to do but retire with the sun and rise before dawn. It makes one feel sometimes that the older generation seems more or less jealous of successful sports undertakings. It must be stated, however, that the merchants were handicapped to a certain extent with the change of hour, but not all of them.

What will be the consequence of this vote, as far as sports are concerned? Will the Town League be formed again? Will the district team cease its operations in the major league? 1940 will probably solve these questions.

If the Town League teams cannot play their games in the evenings, they will have to play them during day time and the only day these youths can get together is Sunday. Sports have never been supported on the Sabbath day in Huntingdon and it is the duty of one and all of us, especially those who favored Standard Time, to see to it that Sunday ball will not be featured here in 1940.

How can this be remedied? Standard times can probably offer a solution to this by getting into a league, not for the purpose of voting, but to make arrangements to find amusements for more than 125 youths and young men, aged from 15 to 30 years, in 1940!!!!

Since 1940 is several months away, it is only logical that this question should be dropped but not permanently. Sports are compulsory in Huntingdon as in other centers. A Town can often be judged by the interest that is taken in sports by players and fans alike.

HUNTINGDON EXTENDS LOSING STREAK, LOSE 6-0

Huntingdon lost another game in the Southwestern Quebec Softball League on Thursday evening at Valleyfield when they were defeated by the Falcons, 6-0.

Although the Falcons won by a comfortable lead, none of their tallies were registered in the scoring book as being earned runs. Three hits were pooled against each pitcher with the Falcons collecting two in the fourth inning.

Andy O'Connor officiated on the mound for Huntingdon with Merle Smith behind the bat. This combination is assured of being a great asset to Huntingdon in the senior loop and should make considerable difference in the local team's standing. Nick Brozell was credited with his first no run game since joining the Valleyfield team a few weeks ago.

VALLEYFIELD BOWLERS DEFEAT HUNTINGDON IN DIST. LEAGUE GAME

Valleyfield bowlers visited Huntingdon on Tuesday evening and played a league game. The first three quarters of the games were very evenly contested, neither side at any time having a lead of more than three or four points. During the last four ends of the games Valleyfield piled up a lead of 20 points. The teams and scores were:

Chateau and Shawinigan Increase Lead in Town League; Cleaner Downed

24-15—Many Errors in Latter Contest
Shawinigan in First Position as Result of Victory At Expense of Leach—Chateau Trounces Gleaner

The Chateau team and the Shawinigan nine proved their might and their possibilities of reaching the play-offs in the Huntingdon Town League when they defeated the Gleaner and Leach respectively in regular loop games on Monday evening.

As a result of their victory, Shawinigan are tied in first place with Leach with a total of eight points each. The Juniors, who were inactive on Monday, lost ground when the Chateau accumulated two points at the expense of the Gleaner to take second place in a tie position with the Juniors. The Gleaner is in last position, having won but one game in six starts.

The Chateau team showed a great deal of enthusiasm in their game with the Gleaner. Taking a four run lead in the first inning, they piled up five more in the first half of the third to make the count read 9-1 against the Gleaner. The biggest surprise of the game occurred in the last half of the third inning when seventeen Gleaner batters faced the Chateau moundsman. When the side was retired and the Gleaner took the field they were leading 13-9 and all indications pointed to the fact that they were well on their way to another victory.

Consistent and timely batting by the Chateau was the downfall of the Gleaner in the remaining frames. The winners scored sixteen runs in the remaining four innings while the Gleaner was successful in scoring its 14th and final tally in the last half at bat. The final score was 25-15 in favor of the Chateau.

Many errors were made by the members of both teams with the outfielders in the limelight in this category.

The second game that evening was played between the Shawinigan and the league-leaders, Leach. After battling hard through seven innings of play the Shawinigan nine chalked their first victory of the year against Leach when they scored five runs and held the losing team to one run short when the final runner was retired at first base.

This game, played on Diamond No. 2 was a pitcher's duel from the very first inning. John Houle handled the mound duty for Shawinigan while Merle Smith officiated for Leach. Both pitchers were very steady with Smith having a slight edge.

After leading until the seventh inning by a 4-3 score, Leach made an error with runners on bases to score the tying run and later chalk a victory on another error. The final score was 5-4 in favor of Shawinigan.

The score by innings in the Gleaner-Chateau contest was as follows:
Chateau 4 0 5 3 3 4 6-25
Gleaner 1 0 13 0 0 1-15

Verdun and St. Henry in Lacrosse Game at Ormstown

Flood Light Game Will Feature Leading Lacrosse Teams in Montreal—Aces Are Undeclared in Senior Lacrosse Circuit—Fast, Clean Game is Assured

Last summer, Ormstown sport fans had the opportunity of seeing a first class lacrosse game between Chateaugay, Indians and the Verdun Big Leafs who were at that time leading the Provincial Lacrosse League in Montreal. This year local sport fans will again have the opportunity of seeing another lacrosse game.

Arrangements have been made to bring the St. Henry Aces and the Verdun Big Leafs for a game at the Ormstown Fair Grounds Saturday evening, July 15th. Both teams are leading the strong Provincial Lacrosse League and the Aces have not yet been defeated. The Big Leafs lost one game, and that was to the Aces in the opening of the schedule by 7 to 6 after ten minutes of overtime.

The Aces have a strong team, with Armand Boyer and Herve Lafrance who played for Canadians last year, the latter being the playing-coach of the Aces. This team is the only senior or intermediate lacrosse team which is entirely composed of French players.

Other players with Aces are G. Bourbonnais, Fernand Chabot, Rene Mongeau, Gaston and Armand Bourgon, Paul Acquin, Leo Cote and others.

Such players as Russ McCarthy, Chick Monahan, Buster Halbert, Red Kelly, Tommy McCormick, Clarence Ainsworth who were with the Big Leafs last year are again with the team along with big Bill Cox, Jimmy Bulger, Eddie Pilkington, Frank Aube and Willard Anderson.

These two teams are fast and composed of players not exceeding twenty-two years of age.

Jimmy Tracey who managed the Big Leafs at Ormstown last year has assured the committee that local fans will see a better game on Saturday evening.

It will be the second meeting between these two top lacrosse teams.

Metallurgists have developed metals that lack only one-tenth of an ounce of being absolutely pure.

This year, these two teams will not meet again until the end of the month and the Verdun Big Leafs are looking forward to avenge their only defeat to date.

I Live In a Town And Like It

(By R. J. Deachman, M.P., in Financial Post)

For years I lived in cities—large, medium and small. Now I live in a town and like it. There are reasons why I should. Truth to tell I was never enamoured of the big city with all its mechanical forces of action, its massed fass, its feeble accomplishments. We should mold to our needs the place we live—but this can't be done in the city—the city fashions our lives to its own varying whims.

In the town living costs less—one gets more for what one gives. In the cities we pay much for little. In the town we get a run for our money. A lot of 100 feet wide and 200 feet deep, seems like a farm in a city. It would cost almost as much. In the town it costs relatively little and it gives more joy and satisfaction. It is open to the air and the sun. Grass, fruit and flowers grow better if you doubt my statement come up and see me sometime, when strawberries and raspberries are ripe, or when the new corn is ready for the pot.

Housing Costs Less

Then building and maintenance cost less in the town than in the city. Taxes may be nominally high, especially of late years, but valuations are lower and that all important item of existence is not so great a burden in a town as it is in a city. Transportation costs less. Street cars and taxes are scant items of the expense account. You are closer to the sources of supply of food and necessities of life, and there are ways of cutting costs which cannot be done in the larger centres.

In the city you are called upon to keep up with the Jones family. Personally, I don't like them. They think more of their clothes than they do of their thoughts—quite frequently I wonder if they really think. The larger the city the higher the standard of living for those who can afford it, but to the man content with a reasonable life, the higher the standard of living, the lower the standard of comfort. In the city you pay for the things you do not get.

The greatest things in life are difficult to purchase with money. The list would include: Breakfast alone with a morning paper, time to think, a quiet place to sleep, and friends capable of understanding, visible in the town—not always in the city.

Then I like the way things are organized in the smaller places. They meet the needs of the people who use them.

Almost every town has a bowling green. The fees are low so that everyone may play.

Now these things succeed in the town because there are men of executive capacity who direct and encourage them and do it not for what they get but for the joy of doing something which adds to the joy and happiness of life in town. All this serves to encourage a community spirit, a competitive enthusiasm which survives without bitterness or rancor. The human race may live without government of any kind, but it is lost if it fails to hold its capacity to play. Victory is the game—the major part of life.

There is more gossip in the smaller places, but it is rarely malicious. Everybody knows if you have been to church or out of town, or under the weather. It all rises from a closer intimacy which brings a keener interest. The man in the town knows that business is better because John Smith's crop yield will be higher. In the city measures things by curves and graphs. In the town the question is—what of the growing crops.

The farmer is close to the soil and the town is close to the farmer. Mass impulses sway the city, but individual initiative begins further back. There is in our cities an intensive localism which sees nothing save that which they deem to be their own immediate interests—it's a choking influence on our nation's life. The city knows little of the country and cares less. It cannot be interpreted to the country nor the country to the city—one is too far from the other, but the town knows the country and the country knows the town because their interests are the same—they dwell in unity together—at least, in unity of thought.

Yes, I am glad I live in a town. But a tale without a morale is not a tale at all. Economic circumstances modify conditions. All over the United States the movement of manufacturing industries is from the large cities to the towns. Trucks and electric power have altered conditions. The towns are coming into their own. The next census will reveal a similar trend in Canada—a healthy happy movement towards a better life.

Street-Corner Investigation

Of the 1938-39 Annual Report, Dominion Textile Company Limited

"Look, Jack, I've been reading the annual report of Dominion Textile, and I can't understand it. You've been working in the mill a good many years longer than I have, perhaps you can tell me why the management sends us such a confusing report. Maybe they are trying to hide something from us."

"Let me see that report, Harry. Well, now, what is so very puzzling about it?"

"Lots of things! For instance, what does 'Accounts Receivable' mean?"

"That's simple. It means money owed by customers."

"Well, Jack, why doesn't the Company come right out and say so? I tell you, the way they use these fancy phrases makes the whole report look mighty suspicious. Here's another thing: It says, 'Accounts Receivable, less Reserve.' What does 'Reserve' mean? Looks like the management is holding something back?"

"You're right. They are holding something back, and it's well they do. If they didn't keep something in reserve the whole business might fail, and we'd all lose our jobs. The management would lose their jobs just like the rest of us. The 'Reserve' means the company isn't optimistic about the future. It's a safety net for losses. That's all a reserve means—allowing for losses. It's the same with the reserve for securities and raw cotton and depreciation: all these reserves protect against disaster when things go wrong, and they help to keep the mills running."

"It sounds clear enough, the way you say it, Jack. But if you know so much, how about those 'Fixed Assets'?"

"It says in the report that the 'Fixed Assets' are land, buildings and machinery, $30,996,714.02."

"Those thirty-one million dollars represent the value of our jobs, Harry. If these lands, buildings and machinery are the things that we seven thousand Dominion Textile employees make use of in manufacturing cotton yarn and cloth, they are the tools that we use. They have to be up-to-date and first-class tools, or we wouldn't be able to make yarns and fabrics that the customers would buy. You know, we have to meet competition from outside Quebec Province and from other countries. Each one of us employees needs three or four thousand dollars worth of mill equipment to use in meeting that competition."

"I never thought of it that way before, Jack. Who puts up all this money for the machinery that we use?"

"No one person has enough money to pay for all this machinery. It takes thousands of people to put up the money. Most of them live right here in Quebec Province and the rest of Canada. I'm one of them myself, Harry—I bought two shares in 1935."

"So you paid for part of that machinery, eh?"

"Yes, I suppose you could say I was one of the owners of the company, along with thousands of other shareholders. They are bond-holders who put up money too; but they don't own the company, they only lent money to the company and can't boss us unless business gets so bad we fail to pay them rent for the use of their money."

"So that is where this money for land, buildings and machinery comes from, Jack! A whole lot of all kinds of people put their money together and buy what is needed to manufacture cotton."

"That's right. But there's another way we get some of the equipment. The management holds out part of the money that it might have paid to the shareholders and it uses this money to buy more materials. That's what is known as 'earned surplus,' and it means that shareholders' money is put back into the business to help us meet competition."

"Well, what about these items at the top of the right-hand page of the balance sheet? I suppose these 'Liabilities' mean Dominion Textile's debts. Quite a lot of them?"

"Yes, it costs money to be in the manufacturing business, Harry. More than a quarter of a million dollars for taxes! Then there is $174,100.00 for our wages in the fortnight when this balance sheet was made up."

"I see something more on wages in this speech at the first part of the report, Jack. It says wages paid to the workers in the mills are by far the most important item in the cost of production. Do you believe that, Jack? It says the cost of labour involved in turning a pound of raw cotton into a pound of manufactured goods is less than the total of all other manufacturing costs. What do you really think about that?"

"There's no question about it! And why shouldn't we mill employees be the most important part in all these manufacturing operations, Harry? If it wasn't for the millions of dollars that the company pays us in wages every year, these towns where Dominion Textile has plants wouldn't be the fine places that they are today. The farmers and merchants around here wouldn't do much business if it wasn't for us people. Now, anything else in the report puzzle you?"

"No, and thank you for answering so many questions, Jack. The management ought to get you to write

Figures are the language of business. But figures are often dry as dust. Elsewhere in this issue Dominion Textile Company Limited has a financial advertisement that makes use of figures in an interesting way to show the relation of the wages and dividends paid out by that company during the fiscal year ended March 31, 1939.

This advertisement might well be taken as an example by other progressive corporations of how to speak with figures—the language of business—and yet present these figures in an understandable manner.

As one drives about the rural districts you cannot help but be impressed by the great amount of new roofing and general repairs being made to farm buildings and homes.

It is estimated by the fire insurance brokers that at least ten times as much repairing is being done this year as at any time during the past decade. Many of the repairs are necessitated through neglect in recent years, that have not been inoperative, and then again the dairy inspectors have demanded much in the way of repairs. Much of the work has been done in many cases by the farmers on their own, but undoubtedly some from Government Loans, and been wisely spent on maintaining the farm buildings. The amount of fire insurance carried by farmers on the new barns or those renovated have in many cases been very materially increased. Dealers who sell building materials report trade as good and sales have been for cash. The excellent crops sown well for our farmers coming into their own in a more commendable manner than has been the case since the beginning of the depression years. Hay is now in full swing and good crops are being garnered. Hay crops in some sections of Quebec and Ontario are not up to the average.

R. R. Ness and Sons are again preparing for one of their Ayrshire Auction sales to take place early in August.

At the auction sale of John L. Murphy, O'Neill's Corners, on Monday, everything offered for sale was sold at commendable prices. The entire sale was sold for cash.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith of Cornwall, Ont., were visitors at the home of Mr. Allen Harrigan, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Todd and three children of Tetreaultville, Que., were visitors at the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Todd and Mrs. Wm. McCartney motored to Burlington, Vt., and spent a few days visiting friends and relatives last week.

Mr. and Mrs. John McWhinnie of Ormstown were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Todd.

Mr. Leopold Nadeau returned to his home in Montreal on Sunday after having spent a week's holidays at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Senecal.

RATTLES USED BY ADULTS AS WELL AS THE BABIES

Almost 5,000 years ago, babies in the old city of Kish in Mesopotamia were kept happy with rattles, according to Richard A. Martin, archaeologist of the Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago. Yet, rattles have been used more by adults than by children in most lands explored by science.

Soldiers in ancient China were stirred by music of bronze rattles in military orchestras. African tribes devised many kinds of rattles for use in magical rites. Egyptians had a kind of rattle called a sistrum, made of a staff with metal rings dangling at the end, and used in solemn religious ceremonies. American Indians used rattles in religion and magic.

Modern Europe and America stand out as exceptions in using rattles mainly for amusing babies.

Rattles unearthed at Kish include some shaped like goats and hedgehogs, to catch the babies' eyes, as well as amusing them with the jingle of pebbles inside the hollow toys.

"Doc," said he, "if there is anything the matter with me, don't frighten me half to death by giving it a scientific name. Just tell me what it is in plain English."

"Well," said the doctor, "to be frank with you, you are just plain lazy."

Increased Rate In Dividends Announced

Canada Life Assurance Co., Has Paid Out Dividends For Past 90 Years

For the third successive year, the Canada Life Assurance Co. has announced an increase in the rate of dividends paid to policyholders. Effective for the dividend year July 1st, 1939 to June 30th, 1940, the increases are on much the same basis as those made in the two preceding years, and mean that policyholders will receive approximately 10% more in annual cash dividends.

The Company points out that dividends have now been declared for every year without exception over the past 90 years. A few years ago the amount so distributed was reduced considerably in order that payable contingencies—economic or otherwise—might be even more fully provided for. This has been accomplished to the point where officials of the Company state that never in its 92 year history has it been more secure financially sound. And consequently the upward dividend trend has been resumed. In actual dollars, the rising scale has meant that in the three years ending June 1940 the Company will have distributed over three-quarters of a million dollars more than if the increases had not been made.

A Kindly Man Passes on ...

hour or two for enjoyment you usually found him with his neighbours, and he would be doing something to provide pleasure for one and all. Being such a friendly man meant he had their confidence. He was an ardent conservative and spent much time reading and discussing the political problems of Canada, and when it came to election time he never did such views interfere with his friendship, and that is something that cannot be said about all, especially at the time of a heated election campaign.

Nine years ago Mr. and Mrs. McCormick moved to Huntingdon. During this interval of time Mr. McCormick proved to be one of Huntingdon's most valued citizens. He gave of his time for the benefit of the municipality through being one of our Aldermen, a valuator, and after he left the council he gave generous assistance to the Council whenever his advice was sought. As appeals might be made for charity he gave freely and as he learned of poor folks being in need of fuel he provided fuel so that none would suffer from the rigors of our Canadian winters.

Mr. McCormick, to some may be considered a man who retired young in years; in reality he never retired from life. His time was taken up with real estate work. He purchased and improved property and when short of work would do some building. Only last summer he built a fine new home on Huntingdon St.

Mr. McCormick was a member of the Knights of Columbus fraternal society of Malone. He was a devout Roman Catholic and in connection with his church he was most highly esteemed. Religion defined no lines of friendship for Mr. McCormick, and likewise for his loving and affectionate wife who is a member of Huntingdon United Church. Whether it was a Roman Catholic or a United Church society that was holding a social festivity, Mr. and Mrs. McCormick were found lending their united support to same.

The funeral service will be held on Thursday morning from St. Joseph's Church at 10 a.m. D.S.T. and will be one of the most largely attended for all of his many friends will wish to pay their last respects to a man amongst men who will never be forgotten.

The sincere sympathy of the community pours out to the bereaved and loving wife, who so tenderly cared for her husband throughout his long illness. Mr. McCormick entered the Montreal General Hospital the day before Christmas and from that date has been confined to his bed or home. The deceased was 55 years of age.

New methods of lighting have made the sky surrounding London so bright that certain types of astronomical work have had to be abandoned at Greenwich. It is said it may be necessary to move the Royal observatory.
