Goyer promises investigation

MONTREAL (CP) — Solicitor-General Jean-Pierre Goyer said Monday night an investigation will begin as soon as possible into an escape earlier in the day from the maximum security correctional unit at St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary.

One of the men was captured shortly after six prisoners—described as extremely dangerous—cut their way through a 10-foot barbed wire fence, undetected.

Prison officials said it was the biggest escape ever from the penitentiary.

Mr. Goyer said the men to conduct the inquiry would be picked before the end of the week and would start without delay.

"It's about time we looked at the jobs done by the men inside the correctional units instead of supply more and more security gadgets," he said.

Mr. Goyer added that escapes this year have doubled over the previous year.

"I'm sick and tired of hearing authorities say it's because they haven't got enough security gadgets."

GUNS NOT USED

Mr. Goyer visited the centre early Monday evening. He told reporters he was "astonished that six men could escape from a place like this."

He criticized the guards for not using their weapons to prevent the escape.

"The public should know that the guards are equipped with their weapons so they can be used during an escape," he said. "Today, the guards should have fired several warning shots when they spotted the movements in the bush and fired at the escapees if they failed to stop."

The centre, built four years ago, employs 65 guards to look after the 62 prisoners—all described as escape artists by Warden Pierre Goulem.

"These guys have nothing to do but think of how to escape," he said in an interview.

He said the guard in the northwest corner of the yard spotted what he thought to be movement in the bushes near the fence at 10:30 a.m. and sounded the alarm.

ALL ON LONG TERMS

The 23 prisoners in the yard at the time were ordered back to their cells, and a head count revealed there were six men missing.

They were later identified as Michel Lafleur, 22, Andre Ouellette 33, Jean-Paul Mercier, 27, Robert Imbeault, 26, Jacques Mesrine, 35, and Pierre Vincent, 27—all serving sentences of between 10 and 25 years for armed robbery.

The men crawled through a hole measuring one foot high and eight inches across in each of the institution's two 10-foot high fences.

Vincent was recaptured shortly after the escape driving a stolen car towards the Laurentian mountains.

Police from Laval, Montreal and the Quebec Provincial Police force joined in the search which was called off Monday evening.

Two of the escaped prisoners, Lafleur and Ouellette, were named in a list of so-called political prisoners whose release was demanded by the Front de Liberation du Quebec during the kidnapping in October, 1970.

Church says be ready

SASKATOON (CP) — The parliament of the United Church of Canada approved a special commission report Monday that urges members to be prepared for the independence of Quebec.

Consideration of the report, which aroused heated and lengthy debate during earlier stages of the 25th General Council of the church, was completed quickly Monday after the 450 delegates agreed to refer specific recommendations on the church's role in Quebec.

Among the sections approved was a recommendation that "the right should be clearly accepted for either of Canada's two major racial and linguistic units to disassociate from the other."

Another part said the United Church should be prepared to respond "creatively" to either of two possible situations, "a long-term continuance of Canada as a single state or the ultimate independence of Quebec."

In the first instance, the report said, consideration should be given to "the recognition of unilingual French areas within Quebec similar to unilingual English areas elsewhere, if these are locally desired and if no appreciable Anglophone minority exists in these areas."

SHIFT CONTROL

The section of the lengthy report that was referred to the church's division of Mission in Canada suggested more of the church's work among French-speaking members in Quebec should be controlled in Quebec.

The council also passed a resolution asking for an interview with Prime Minister Trudeau to discuss Middle East issues.

These would include "Arab criticism of Israel's administration of the United Nations' human rights commission, and the loan of up to $100 million to Israel from the Canadian Export Development Corp."

Rev. A. C. Forrest, editor and publisher of the United Church Observer, a monthly magazine, said the church may be too concerned about not offending the Jewish community in Canada.

He said Israeli actions, such as reprisals on Lebanese nationals for the bombing of Tel Aviv airport, and Israeli refusal to let children in refugee camps be reunited with their parents who are outside the country has been condemned repeatedly by the UN.

"Does this court do nothing? We are courageous about Rhodesia and South Africa. Do we say nothing about Israel?"

Last week, the general council of the United Church passed resolutions condemning treatment of blacks in the two African nations.

Dr. Forrest, whose editorials on the Middle East have aroused controversy within the church, also said the official Canadian and United States positions on Israel are ambiguous. Both countries supported the UN declaration on human rights but sent jet fighter aircraft and development money to Israel.

Nixon expected to win easily

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (CP) — The Republican party opened its 30th national convention Monday amid growing delegate confidence that Richard Nixon will win a second four-year term in the White House.

With only one small cloud in their political sky—a dispute over delegate allocation at the 1976 convention—many of the 2,700 delegates were late arriving or passed up entirely Monday's gala opening in the sweltering Miami Beach Convention Hall.

Nixon's re-nomination and the party's platform are such cut-and-dried issues that the delegate dispute is the only controversial item on the agenda. Negotiations for a compromise on it were continued Monday.

The controversy involves the system for awarding bonus delegates in 1976 on the basis of Republican victories in the 1972 elections.

The conservative bloc here is supporting a system that would assign bonus delegates to states carried by President Nixon but none for other election victories.

The compromise would add to the formula a delegate bonus for electing Republican governors and senators, which is likely to benefit the most populous states, where the liberal wing of the party is strongest. It is a touchy issue that pits the bigger, more liberal northern states against the smaller, traditionally more conservative, southern and western states.

Although Nixon—if he wins in November—is prohibited by law from seeking another term, the debate would be vital to his successor, Vice-President Spiro Agnew, the darling of party conservatives, is the leading contender.

At the convention opening ceremonies, delegates were shown a film in memory of the late Republican president Dwight Eisenhower and were warned against overconfidence in the face of polls making Nixon the odds-on favorite.

In contrast with the rough-and-tumble of the Democratic convention here six weeks ago, when heated sessions dragged on into the wee hours, Monday's session opened less than 10 minutes late, ended only five minutes behind schedule.

Council plans to renew city centre

SHERBROOKE (WM) — A study committee is to be formed to evaluate and suggest improvements to the Sherbrooke city centre, the city council decided last night at a regular meeting at City Hall.

The decision was taken following a recommendation made in a report to the council that city-centre should be studied with a view to reorganizing it in the form of pedestrian malls with parking lots outside the shopping centre.

A study committee, to be made up of proprietors, merchants, and centre ward aldermen will evaluate and propose alterations and improvements to Sherbrooke's central area ranging from Belvedere to Wellington Streets. Councillor Roger Gingues doubted, however, that it would involve closing shopping streets such as Wellington Street to traffic, but that definite improvements could be made. He suggested sidewalks could be widened and separated from the traffic by grass and trees.

Further recommendations made by the report on improvements to the flow of traffic within the city centre were passed by the council. A motion was adopted prohibiting left turns between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. at the junctions of King and St. Francis Streets, Belvedere and Galt, Belvedere and Rand, Belvedere and Minto, Galt and Olivier, and Galt and St. Pierre streets. Council also accepted a proposal that a system be set in motion ensuring lines on city streets be painted biannually.

GAMES TELECAST FREE

Permission was granted to CHLT television, channel seven, to televise junior league games from the Sherbrooke Sports Palace. CHLT had refused to continue to pay for rights to televise these games which cost them approximately $50,000 for a 39-game series. It was decided after debate that rights should be given to CHLT without payment since the television broadcasts bring the league into the public eye and therefore helps to defray some of the upkeep expenses of the Sports Palace because of increased game attendance. It was agreed that CHLT should pay for the cost of installation of equipment necessary to transmission of the games.

A report was submitted to council concerning the possibilities of recirculating traffic around the present and future campuses of the CEGEP to effect amalgamation of the campuses and to cope with increased traffic when CEGEP's enrolling about 5,000 students are established in 1974. The proposals are to be studied and discussed again at a future meeting.

POLICE COST ESTIMATED

An estimate of the cost of a new general police station to be constructed in the city centre was recorded at $849,000. This was passed over until definite figures are obtained.

Permission was granted by council to Shell Canada to extend the area of the service station situated at the corners of King West and Rioux streets in order to enlarge the garage and build a shop to sell car accessories and by-products. A list of payments made by the council in July, 1972 for municipal services and administration amounted to $2,994,380.95. Accounts to be paid in August totalled $149,236.85.

The meeting ended late and further items were left until the next meeting.

Postal workers stage protests

OTTAWA (CP) — Demonstrations by postal workers across Canada Monday supported the tough stand by union negotiators against a government move to establish a new class of mail-sorting employees.

Workers in 14 Canadian centres marched outside post office buildings protesting the hiring of new workers to run automated sorting machines.

In Ottawa, James McCall, president of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, said no collective agreement will be signed until federal negotiators agree to discuss the mail-sorting problem.

Treasury board—the government bargaining agent—softened its negotiating position by dropping a move to bring in a regional pay system which had been described as "totally unacceptable" by Mr. McCall.

Under the regional pay plan, postal workers' wages would have been tied to pay received by persons in similar jobs outside the public service in various regions.

The postal unions are opposed to the hiring of new employees to operate the automated sorting machines at an hourly rate of $2.94 compared to $3.69 per hour paid to manual mail-sorters.

MACHINES START TODAY

Mr. McCall said creation of new classes of employees should be negotiated. The government said it only has to consult the unions. New jobs were not subject to negotiation.

The mail-sorting machines were to begin operating in Ottawa today after technical difficulties prevented a Monday start.

The postal workers have sought a public service staff relations board ruling on whether the new classification should be negotiated. But Mr. McCall said the government is introducing the new plan before the board decision.

He said the union will attempt to defeat Postmaster-General Jean-Pierre Cote and Treasury Board President C.M. Drury in their ridings in the next federal election. He said Mr. Cote is a "bad postmaster-general."

Latest treasury board offer to the Council of Postal Unions includes a 13-per-cent wage increase spread over a three-year term. The council includes the Canadian Union of Postal Workers and the Letter Carriers Union of Canada, about 28,000 postal employees.

This wage increase would mean a boost in basic pay to a maximum of $8,337 annually for letter carriers. That is about $1,000 above the present maximum. Negotiating started in February. The last collective agreement expired March 26.

Irish border blasted

BELFAST (AP) — A guerrilla bomb blasted the border town of Newry, County Down, today killing at least five persons and injuring many others.

The explosive was planted in a British customs post three miles from the border with the Irish republic.

It exploded within seconds after the armed gunmen who planted it had escaped and before any of the occupants had time to flee.

The explosion shattered a relative calm that has lasted through Northern Ireland since the weekend.

The carnage brought the death toll in Northern Ireland's three years of violence to at least 523.

British Army spokesmen said two bodies were recovered from rubble of shattered concrete and the search was continuing for the bodies of three or four others known to have been in the building at the time.

The army said two of the injured were in a serious condition.

The customs post stands on the main Belfast-to-Dublin highway, about 30 miles southwest of Belfast.

In the only other incident of violence during the night, the shop of a newspaper vendor in Belfast's Ardoyne district was wrecked by a bomb shortly before midnight. There were no casualties, however.

Woman hostage freed

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Two prisoners at the British Columbia penitentiary released Monday night a woman employee that they had been holding at knifepoint since early morning.

The prisoners, who were not identified, released classification officer Jean Young after being assured by penitentiary officials they would be considered for parole.

The release came about five minutes after a statement from the prisoners was broadcast over local radio stations.

The statement, read by Jack Wasserman, a columnist for the Vancouver Sun, read as follows:

"I have been authorized by F.R. Graves, director of the B.C. penitentiary, to make the following statement:

"A hostage was taken at the B.C. penitentiary at 9 a.m. this morning and after a full day of meetings and discussion the inmates involved have agreed to release the hostage unharmed on the termination of this message on the understanding that Mr. Kyle Stevenson of the National Parole Board will meet with them on Tuesday, Aug. 22, 1972, at 1 p.m."

TOO GOOD TO LAST — Yesterday's beautiful weather is expected to last about as long as this young fellow's watermelon. The weather man is calling for showers today and a return to reality for Eastern Townships residents still reeling from a wet winter.

The first step in many squeezes has been given the high-falutin' name of "rectifying the count."

With almost all squeezes you use the squeeze to gain just one trick. Hence, it may be necessary to give away a trick or even two tricks to prepare your squeeze.

Today's hand is the same as yesterday's except that East and West have acquired the queen of diamonds in place of a small card in the suit. The contract is also less. South is trying for six no-trump only.

He counts 11 top tricks. The 12th will come in if either clubs or diamonds break 3-3 or if one opponent holds four cards in each suit and a squeeze can be developed.

South has to lose a diamond trick some time or other irrespective of how the East and West cards divide. The best time to lose it is right away so at trick two South plays low diamonds from both hands.

This way he keeps 10 of his top cards. He had to use one at the first trick. There are 11 tricks to go and he has rectified the count.

He wins whatever suit is returned and cashes his spades and hearts. East has to discard a diamond or club on the last of these spades and hearts and has been squeezed out of his stopper in that suit.

Townships youths restore ancient building

SOON COMPLETED — The restoration of this building on the Macdonald College farm will soon be completed and two Eastern Townships youths are playing a large part in this Opportunities For Youth project. Peter Gass of Lennoxville and David Livingstone of Danville are both active in the project.

MONTREAL — Two Eastern Townships boys are working on a $14,172 Opportunities for Youth project at Macdonald College farm this summer.

David Livingstone, from Danville and Peter Gass of Lennoxville are leading a group of eight young people in the restoration of a 19th century fieldstone building.

The building, built by Simon Fraser in 1820 and later bought by Sir William Christopher Macdonald, founder of Macdonald College, is being made into an agricultural museum. It will be visited by the many visitors who come to the farm and college.

The boys' objectives are to restore the building, collect and display over 250 agricultural antiques donated by the College and donors from Maniwaki area, and to do research on the antiques and building itself.

Dave and Pete together with four other young persons are all taking the Diploma in Agriculture course at Macdonald College. Their job was to fill and repair all cracks in the 26-inch thick walls and replace the floor and roof with the original style. All the cement they used, 35 bags and 5½ tons of gravel, was all mixed by hand and shoveled in the cracks with trowels of the 26 by 40 foot building.

RESTORE RAFTERS

Round rafters, which were obtained from John Ardies of Maniwaki and Howard Dyson of Danville were set in between the two side walls and covered by boards and red cedar shingles. The floor, which was solid cement was knocked out by sledge hammers and picks and then replaced by old wooden planks.

Glass and shutters had to be put on the windows and an old rail fence bought from Mr. Merrick Bernard of Danville was put up all around the old building.

Working with the boys are four girls from John Abbott CEGEP on the Macdonald College campus. They did all the research on the antiques, the building, and also the surrounding land lots. This information was put in pamphlet form and will be given to visitors to the Museum. Among the antiques is a forge donated to the Museum by Phillip Webster of Massawippi.

Between them the 10 young people received $12,900 in salaries and $1,272 for materials. The farm has supplied $1,272 as well.

The building will be finished on September 1 and everyone is invited to Grand Opening ceremonies. They will be held Sept. 1 between 7:30 and 9 p.m. on the Macdonald College Farm. Speeches will be made and apple cider served.

Ayer's Cliff granted $600,000 for sewage works

AYER'S CLIFF (FW) — The town of Ayer's Cliff has just

Power halted briefly

SHERBROOKE (FW) — Many Sherbrooke and area residents had their lunch disturbed by a brief power failure at about noon yesterday. Traffic lights failed, electric stoves stopped cooking and progress in general was hindered for approximately nine minutes in downtown Sherbrooke.

The power failure was a result of a break in a 46,000 volt circuit breaker at the Richelieu station terminal on Galt Street Terrace, Jean Bourassa, director of City of Sherbrooke Hydro services said.

This breakdown, according to Mr. Bourassa, resulted in about one-half of the city's customers being deprived of power. The heart of the city was completely cut off as well as some parts of the East, North and West Wards.

The amount of time each area remained without power varied between five and 10 minutes. Technicians isolated the faulty circuit breaker and restored the power circuit by circuit. Mr. Bourassa said that this is the first time the city's Hydro department has experienced a failure with this particular terminal.

received a grant of $600,000 from the department of Municipal Affairs in Quebec, towards completion of the first phase of the $1,175,000 water and sewage system which is to be constructed in the town, Gordon Booth, Mayor of Ayer's Cliff yesterday explained.

Work on the new system, which will include a sewage treatment plant for the town, began on Aug. 10 and will continue "as long as weather permits" said Mayor Booth. This first phase which involves construction of the system within the town proper will hopefully be finished early next summer. Subsequently work will begin on phase two and three, extension of the system towards the lake and to the outskirts of the town. The by-law ordering construction of the new sewage and water system was approved about a month ago Mayor Booth said. The approval came in the wake of increasing concern among area residents about the pollution of Lake Massawippi.

Ayer's Cliff officials have been working for several years in conjunction with the Massawippi Conservation Society, an anti-pollution group particularly concerned with cleaning up and preserving Lake Massawippi. Before construction began on the new sewage system residents in Ayer's Cliff had depended upon cesspools for waste disposal.

The contract for the project has been given to Couillard Construction Co. in Coaticook.

The main road of Ayer's Cliff has already been torn up and work is well under way. Mayor Booth said that he thought residents of North Hatley located at the north end of the lake were "trying to organize something similar" in the way of anti-pollution measures.

Fair numbers high

SHERBROOKE (FW) — The attendance figures at the Sherbrooke Exposition this year were higher than any year except 1969. A total of 87,458 persons from the Sherbrooke area and other parts of Quebec visited the fair this year in comparison with 81,051 last year.

In 1969 attendance figures climbed over the 100,000 mark but this was largely due to the exceptionally fine weather during fair week that year. Considering the rainy and unseasonably cold weather this season, the 1972 figures are impressively high.

The evening came to a dramatic close when the drawing was held for the two new 1972 Chevrolet Belairs model hard tops at around 11:30 p.m. Sunday. The winners of the two cars were Andre St. Germain of 1823 St. Clement in Montreal and Mr. Prime Dumont of 1912 St. Olivier St. in Three Rivers.

Dedication of rare cannon marks Derby Line ceremony

DERBY LINE — A rare gift of historic value was dedicated on Wednesday, August 16 in the early afternoon. The gift is a cannon which was used in the American civil war of 1860-65. It was presented by Mrs. Florence Baxter (Nelson) Barker, wife of Major General R.W. Barker to the Selectmen, Gordon Johnston, of the Village of Derby Line and Ben Heath, selectman for the Town of Derby.

The cannon, a bronze 12-pounder is set on a base of Derby grey granite. It is only fitting this historic cannon should be in the Baxter Park for this piece of land was given the Village of Derby Line for a park by the Baxter family. The deed of the gift when made stipulated no buildings should be erected and there never has been any. In the park, however, and at the same section where the cannon is placed is a flagpole flying the Stars and Stripes — a monument to the Veterans who laid down their life for their country and a granite piece, and the flower beds.

Mrs. Barker is the daughter of Col. and Mrs. Nelson. She was born in the ancestral home of the Nelson's on Elm Street which is parallel with Baxter Park.

The Nelson family have a photo of the cannon which was set on the original gun carriage taken in 1894. Mrs. Barker, then a little girl was seated on the cannon. For a good many years this relic was placed on the lawn of the Nelson home at first on the original carriage. But with the winters of the North, eventually the wooden wheels deteriorated and could no longer bear the weight so a base of concrete was constructed and used for many years. The Nelson residence was sold about three years later. The cannon has since been in storage until this summer.

A bronze plaque will be placed on the granite base. It reads "A war 12 PDP Gun Napoleon model, presented in 1971 to the village of Derby Line by Florence Baxter Nelson Barker to commemorate the participation of the family of Asa Burton Nelson in the life of Derby Line and the Town of Derby from 1842."

Making the presentation remarks, Mrs. Barker said she regretted that the cannon and base is incomplete, but she promised to come back to Derby Line and see it when it is done.

"It means a great deal to me to have the cannon in the park," she said while recalling her earlier life in the village. She expressed appreciation to all who had made her dreams possible.

Present at the ceremony were Major General Barker, a military man, who during World War 2 served with General Eisenhower's staff in Washington, D.C., Charles Flanders, from Florida, a grandson of Col. and Mrs. Nelson, a nephew of Mrs. Barker and a few friends of the family.

The gun is a model 1897, it is named Napoleon because it is so much like the weapon developed for Napoleon's armies and was used most often in the war of 1861-65 against the Confederate armies.

Gen. Barker explained how it was fired. First powder and packing was rammed into the hole of the cannon, and when fully packed a lighted fuse was inserted at the other end and away went the shot. Gen. Barker said it was amazing how fast the men could load the guns.

This cannon in the park was cast by Henry N. Hooper in Boston, Mass. in 1894. Its actual weight is 1,230 pounds.

Charles Flanders now of Florida, Mrs. Nelson Barker of Southern Pines and Ben Heath of Derby.

First sale soon

Guy C. Gauvin, president of the Quebec Charolais Association announced yesterday that the first Charolais sale in Sherbrooke will be held at the Fair Grounds, 400 Park Street, on Sat. Sept. 9, at 2 p.m.

The animals entered in the sale will be on show from 6 p.m. Friday. There will be some 60 heads of choice Charolais from three-quarter purebred some pure French head of cattle. Some 42 head are purebred. It promises to be one of the most interesting sales in Canada. It was made possible with the help of the Maritimes Charolais Association.

Such a sale will probably continue to be held semi-annually. It is necessary in Eastern Canada to provide the breeders with some first class seed stock. Mr. Gauvin said, Mr. Gauvin and Rodney James, one of the foremost experts on Charolais cattle have visited some prime Charolais herds across Quebec and were pleased with the amount of breeding stock they found available.

West ignored

On the word of Jean Marchand, as reported from Quebec City by the Globe and Mail, there is a fight in progress in cabinet over the allocation of international air routes to Air Canada and CP Air.

Fights in cabinet (any cabinet) are common enough although, for obvious reasons, we seldom hear very much about them. On this occasion we have been given one side — Mr. Marchand's — and a somewhat peculiar view of the other side, which is upheld, we are advised, by misguided western ministers. Mr.

Marchand takes a dark view of his opponents, whose case, he thinks, will be supported by members generally, "even the socialists," from the four western provinces. In his brief summary, "the guys work for CP in the West."

If the western ministers seem stubbornly perverse on this matter, Mr. Marchand should consider the background. The West did not abandon Air Canada; Air Canada abandoned the West. No one is likely to forget the stealthy pull-out from Winnipeg, accompanied at every stage by public assurances that nothing whatever was happening. Certain attitudes became apparent at that time. It may well be true that many people lost some of their possessive pride in the government-owned airline. In the East, notably in Montreal, different attitudes developed. There was general satisfaction that what we've grabbed, we hold. Naturally, the tendency there is to look on Air Canada as the national line, and CP Air, based in Vancouver, as an unwelcome interloper.

The problem now has to do with access to Milan and Peking. Mr. Marchand, doubtless with some eastern support, is proposing to change the rules in the middle of the game and he does not conceal this purpose.

Some consideration of what has happened is plainly in order.

From its beginnings, Air Canada was a chosen instrument sheltered from competition by the government. CP Air was restricted to a few routes — it pioneered the Pacific run, also an across-the-pole service — which were deemed less lucrative, especially when they were inaugurated. But in 1965, when Jack Pickersgill was minister of transport, the world was more definitely divided. Although competition was still frowned upon, an important principle was established. Services provided by Canadian lines were to serve the Canadian interest.

CP Air was explicitly recognized as a chosen instrument with the areas it served. Thus the distinction Mr. Marchand seeks to make between "our airline" and another that "must play a marginal role" is a nonsense. Both are "our" airlines.

Should treatment be ceased?

On the right

with William F. Buckley Jr.

The problems of the aged who are chronically sick inevitably pose problems of social policy. But before social policy overwhelms individual rights, it is worthwhile looking in at the state of the argument, as handled for instance last week before a Senate panel on aging.

There Dr. Walter Sackett, a Florida doctor who is also a member of the Legislature, gave the reasons for having introduced in his own state legislature an act which would empower adults to direct the discontinuation of medical treatment — but only a) in cases of terminal illness (or injury); and b) when such treatment is designed solely to sustain life. The doctor confessed that he had himself "allowed hundreds of terminally ill patients to die." And he informed the committee that under his own bill authority would pass to the patient only after he had been declared terminally ill (or injured) by two licensed doctors. In the event that the patient was incapable mentally or physically of directing his own terminal neglect, the spouse would inherit the authority to do so.

Dr. Sackett made a very strong case. He mentioned the incredible cost of medical care for certain types of illnesses. It would cost five billion dollars in his state alone, he said, to allow "1500 individuals retarded to the point that they are bedridden, diapered, tube-fed and completely unaware, to live out artificial lives prolonged by the marvels of science. This money," he said, "could better be used on persons with illnesses that could be cured as those that need kidney transplants."

Question: Is Dr. Sackett recommending what we are used to calling euthanasia, or mercy-killing?

He was opposed by Dr. Laurence Foye Jr., Director of Education Service for the Veterans Administration, who said: "Neither I nor anyone else knows how to decide when being alive becomes useless. The right-to-die concept implies that if death is certain and immediate we have the right to make it even more immediate. We must never forget that on occasion patients, their families, and their physicians will conclude that a disease has reached the hopeless stage and death is imminent — and be wrong." Correct. But the argument (a variant of which is used against capital punishment) is hardly sufficient to dispose of Dr. Sackett's points.

It is at root an ethical problem, and ethics is best informed by religious thought.

In this connection it is instructive to recall a speech delivered in November, 1957, by Pope Pius XII, who would himself die after a painful illness a year later. He was addressing a Congress of Anesthesiologists, and touching on the role of artificial respiration in medical ethics. The time has come, said the Pope, to ask whether artificial respiration should continue to be used "despite the fact that the soul may already have left the body."

The central contention of Christian medicine is "that man (and whoever is entrusted with the task of taking care of his fellowman) has the right and the duty in case of serious illness to take the necessary treatment for the preservation of life and health." Usually, this is done "by means that do not involve any grave burden for oneself or another." "On the other hand, one is not forbidden to take more than the strictly necessary steps to preserve life and health." The doctor is altogether at the service of the patient. "In general he can take action only if the patient explicitly or implicitly, directly or indirectly, gives him permission." But since "the technique(s) of resuscitation go 'beyond the ordinary means to which one is bound, it cannot be held that there is an obligation to use them nor, consequently, that one is bound to give the doctor permission to use them. . . . There is not involved here a case of direct disposal of the life of the patient, nor of euthanasia in any way; this would never be licit. Even when it causes the arrest of circulation, the interruption of attempts at resuscitation is never more than an indirect cause of the cessation of life, and one must apply in this case the principle of double effect and of 'voluntarium in causa.'"

The question, of course, is whether what applied to artificial resuscitation applies also to such treatment as Dr. Sackett describes as necessary to keep alive patients who are "bedridden, diapered, tube-fed and completely unaware." I hope for their sake and their families' that that will be the ruling.

Reader forum

Criticizes critics

Dear Sir:

I was most distressed to read your article entitled "Riding Camp a Way of Life for Family, Students" on page 1 of the Monday, August 14th issue. Either your newspaper is guilty of slanted journalism or someone cannot differentiate between facts and fiction. I am referring specifically to what was mentioned about the Montreal Hunt Junior Horse Show. The majority of statements about this show were out and out untruths. The Dyers seem to be making a big fuss about the lack of toilet facilities, even though there were acres of woods and they had a horse truck there.

In my fifteen or so years of showing horses, I do not believe I have ever used what public facilities were available, feeling that the sanitation of our horse trailer was far superior. The fact is that very few horse shows I have been to, including top shows, have any toilet facilities to speak of. This nonsense about children being too embarrassed to relieve themselves in public and therefore having to ride with full bladders is just that, nonsense. There was plenty of very private space. No one was told that the "bathroom in the arena" was not for public use, obviously not, as there is no bathroom in the arena. The only facilities in the area of the standard type, so to speak were in the private houses near the grounds which were so kindly donated for the day. As any person knows it is completely unfair to subject home-owners to the hoard of horse show-goers tramping through their houses to the bathroom. As well, it is very hard on the water system.

Concerning the accusations that no doctors were present, I must object. Several doctors were at the horse show all day and besides, the hospital is less than five minutes away.

Granted there was no vet known to be on the show grounds, but neither was it stated in the program that one would be there. We only had one problem that resembled in the slightest the need for a vet although a vet would have been of no assistance in a case like this. One horse cut his tongue. As soon as the judge saw this, she stopped the girl immediately and the horse was taken out, his tongue soaked in cold water and taken home as soon as possible. This is all that can be done in a case such as this. A vet could not have helped further. However we are of course going to look into the possibilities of having a vet present next year.

It is unfortunate that the Dyers were upset with the Montreal Hunt Junior Horse Show but thankfully it is the only complaint that I as a member of the organizing committee have heard of. Most people seemed genuinely pleased with the day's events. This show is run solely for juniors to encourage them to further their riding efforts and when one notes the increase and improvement of the youngsters over the past four years when we have run this show, I tend to believe that we are helping in this interest. The ribbons this year I felt were very well distributed. Many riding camps, schools and individuals were represented in the winners circle. Most of the winners were what Miss Dyer terms as cold-blooded horses, the rank and file of the "not-so-rich" who she says simply don't place in the horse shows around here.

No complaints to the committee have been made as yet on the class list. However we are definitely open to suggestion. When one organizes a horse show, one must take into account the general area, what horses comprise the majority of entries, and thus decide what classes to hold. I feel the classes we had this year were very good and others would not have been as suitable but of course if enough people want another type of class, this can be arranged as was seen by some of the changes made on the program between this year and last. At this show, in order to encourage all horse-owners, we charge only a minimum entry fee for the classes the horses enter and contrary to what Miss Dyer says, no general admittance. The Montreal Hunt Junior Horse Show is one of the only shows in this area solely for juniors and as such definitely should continue to exist. We are always open to helpful criticism which will help us to continue in this pursuit, but unfounded, untrue and derogatory public statements are completely uncalled for and can not be overlooked. If the Dyer's have advice to give why don't they give it directly to the horse show committee?

Yours truly,
Debbie Davis

On the Olympics

By John Freeman

MUNICH (Reuter) — The final showdown is expected today on African threats to withdraw from the Munich Olympic Games if white-ruled Rhodesia is allowed to compete.

After day-long talks Monday, representatives of the 27 African countries and their 430 competitors will be withdrawn from the Games unless Rhodesia is excluded.

This followed the International Olympic Committee's decision to submit a final recommendation on the Rhodesian question to today's full IOC session. The recommendation, hammered out by the IOC's nine-man executive board, will remain a closely guarded secret until the start of today's session.

Monday night's statement by the African National Olympic Committees of their intention to withdraw from the Games if Rhodesia is allowed to compete was the first time they have made such a threat with one voice.

Previously, individual African governments and national Olympic committees had threatened to boycott the Games while some others, including Nigeria, had said they intended to compete.

AFRICA ON BRINK

Now the whole of Africa is on the brink of an Olympic pullout and Abraham Ordia, president of the Supreme African Sports Council, said: "We face a very grave situation."

Ordia said the African nations had trained for the Games and came to Munich only with the idea of competing — "But it looks as if developments may not make it possible."

The African statement accused the Rhodesians of exploiting their presence at the Games for political advantage.

Despite the hardening African attitude, there was no sign of any weakening by the IOC, with president Avery Brundage showing the implacable front which has epitomized his 20-year reign as ruler of the Olympic movement.

Brundage, whose successor as president will be announced Wednesday, said the IOC was "astonished, shocked and surprised" that the problem should have arisen only a few days before the start of the Games after apparent agreement on the terms of Rhodesian participation had been reached at last year's Luxembourg IOC congress.

CLASSED AS BRITISH

With Britain having confirmed that it regarded members of the Rhodesian Olympic team as British subjects, the main condition of IOC acceptance of Rhodesia's Games entry appeared to have been satisfied.

This would make it difficult for the IOC to exclude the Rhodesians, despite the rising clamor of the Africans.

Moss-Gilmartin wed

BEEBE — The marriage of Merry Susan, daughter of Mrs. Patrick Gilmartin, Rock Island, and the late Mr. Gilmartin, to Mr. Larry Bruce Moss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Moss of Beebe, Quebec, took place at the Wesley United Church, Beebe, on Saturday afternoon, July 22 at two o'clock.

Rev. G.W. Stokes officiated for the double ring ceremony. Miss Viola Moranville played the organ music. Mrs. William Peterden, sister of the groom, was soloist, and sang, "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You" prior to the entrance of the bride, and during the signing of the register. "More."

Arrangements of white hydrangea and pink double hollyhocks were used to decorate with white satin ribbon bows faced with white forget-me-nots marked the guest pews.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Cpl. Lorne Gilmartin. She was wearing a gown of white nylon sheer over-net, and peau de soie fashioned on Princess lines. Forget-me-not lace trimmed the gown horizontally with lace at the highrise collar. Lace was also on the long sleeves at the wrist ending with flounce cuffs. Her finger tip veil of silk illusion was held in place by a Juliet cap of lace and pearls. She carried a basket of red roses with the satin streamers knotted with the same.

Miss Jane Gilmartin as maid of honor for her sister and the bridesmaids Mrs. Peter Lett, sister of the groom and Mrs. Bernard Forcier, of Montreal and Burlington, Vt., respectively, were gowned alike in white pin dots on pink sheer taffeta. Lace edged the high roll collars and encircled the highrise waists, the sleeves were puffed to the elbow then straight to the wrists. A wide flounce featured the skirt hemlines. They carried inverted pink nylon parasols edged with ruffles.

Mr. Roger Davis, of Beebe, was best man. The ushers were Mr. Larry Hibbard, brother-in-law of the bride, and Mr. Raymond Moss, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Gilmartin, mother of the bride, chose a light blue lace over taffeta dress, white accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Moss, was in a dress of lilac silk crepe accessorized in white and a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses.

The reception was held at the Three Villages Sports Club in Beebe. A dinner was served to 85 guests. Soft dinner music was played. The wedding cake was made and decorated by Mrs. Horace Doyon with the bridal party on the bottom tier and the triple tier topped with a bride and groom within a flower decorated lacy garden house. Pedestals of the same separated the tiers which were further decorated with pink roses.

The bride tossed her bouquet. It was caught by Miss Donna Flanagan of Sherbrooke. Mr. and Mrs. Moss enjoyed a honeymoon trip to the Gaspé and the Maritimes. The bride travelled in an ensemble of red and white check short pants with a solid red jacket and navy blue coin dot tie. Her accessories were in white and she wore a corsage of red sweetheart roses.

The couple are residing in Beebe. The guest book was in charge of Misses Debbie and Darleen Rover, nieces of the bride. Guests attended from Toronto, Ottawa, Ont., Manchester and Weare, N.H., Toledo, Ont., Sherbrooke, Rosemere, St. Eustache, Hemmingford, Georgia, Vt., Derby Centre, Beebe, and the Boundary Villages.

Following the rehearsal of the Moss-Gilmartin on Friday evening, July 21, Mrs. Patrick Gilmartin was hostess for a party at her West Park home.

The bride and groom exchanged gifts. The bride gave her attendants gifts of pearl necklaces which they wore the day of the wedding. The groom gave his groomsmen and ushers engraved silver mugs.

Mrs. Gilmartin served buffet refreshments. The party was attended by the immediate families, the wedding party and a few close friends.

CRAN-UP TODAY — Let dad put his feet up and enjoy a cranberry freeze while the rest of the family tends the barbecue. Try all these recipes for the most in great eating delights. You'll be pleased with the results.

Cranberries create a delicious change

Summer is bustin' out all over with celebrations and sometimes the special day set aside gets lost in the rush. So this year, who not make a special effort over the barbecue, whip up a long, cool cranberry freeze while the rest of the family tends the spareribs. You can also try this manly barbecue favorite with a cranberry barbecue sauce for a change. You'll find the tangy tart-sweet flavor of the berries a perfect complement to the ribs, or any other barbecued meat, for that matter.

Dad's favorite apple pie, roasted corn and a crisp tossed salad should make a man-pleasing meal. All these recipes serve six.

CRANBERRY BARBECUED SPARERIBS

6 pounds spareribs
Salt, pepper, garlic powder
1 cup whole berry cranberry sauce
Juice of 1 lemon
1 teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon ginger
Trim all excess fat from ribs. Sprinkle ribs on both sides with salt, pepper and garlic powder. Place ribs on grill 8 inches above gray coals and cook slowly for 40 minutes, turning every 5 minutes to permit even cooking. Combine remaining ingredients in a saucepan on top of grill and cook until hot. Brush mixture on top of ribs, turn and brush on other side. Cook 10 minutes on each side brushing with glaze occasionally until ribs are brown and crusty.

CRANBERRY FREEZE

1 quart cranberry-apple drink
1 can (6 ounces) frozen concentrated lemonade
2 egg whites, unbeaten
Chilled vodka, rum, ginger ale, lemon soda or club soda
Combine cranberry-apple drink, lemonade and egg white. Beat slightly to blend. Pour into freezer container and freeze to a mush. Pour into a bowl and beat until light and fluffy. Replace in freezer and freeze until firm. When ready to serve, scrape sherbet and pile into 8-ounce glasses. Fill each glass with 2 ounces vodka, rum or soda. Serve with straws.

ROSY APPLE PIE

8 medium cooking apples
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup cranberry cocktail
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon nutmeg
Piecrust for a double crust

9-inch pie, or 1 package (11 ounces) piecrust mix

Peel, core and dice apples. In a large saucepan, combine cornstarch, cranberry cocktail, sugar and nutmeg. Cook until mixture is very thick. Stir in apples. Remove from heat and cool. Line an ungreased 9-inch pie pan with half of the piecrust. Spoon in apple filling. Cover apples with remaining piecrust. Prick top and crimp edges to seal. Trim edges. Bake in a preheated hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 40 to 45 minutes or until apples are easily pierced and crust is lightly browned. Cool to lukewarm before cutting into wedges. When ready to serve, place pie on top of grill for 15 minutes to warm. Serve warm apple pie with vanilla ice cream, if desired.

GRILLED CORN

6 ears corn
Salt and pepper
6 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon chopped chives
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
6 tablespoons catsup
Pull back corn shucks and remove corn silk. Re-close corn and dip into water. Drain well and place 8 inches above gray coals. Grill, turning occasionally until shucks are dry and slightly charred. Remove shucks and place on plate. While corn is cooking, combine remaining ingredients and heat in a saucepan placed over the coals. Brush hot mixture over corn and serve.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

The Picture Is Bright

What About the Soft Lenses?

Dear Dr. Lamb — I hope you can help our family with an important decision. Our daughter, who is 13, has been wearing glasses for many years. The lenses are quite thick. She wants the soft contact lenses so badly she is willing to save half of her babysitting money. If she wears the contact lenses will her eyes get so accustomed to them and their strength that she will not be able to go back wearing ordinary glasses? I understand you cannot wear the contacts all the time, so will she also need other glasses?

Dear Reader — To obtain the soft contact lenses she'll have to be examined and fitted by an eye specialist. Although there are differences in professional opinions on the use of contact lenses, the general picture reported thus far on the soft contact lenses is very bright. They have been worn for long periods of time as a sort of bandage over the front of the eye when it has been irritated. They do not cause the irritation and problems noticed with hard contact lenses. Studies have been done with the lenses being worn for hours and hours without irritating the eyes, but I would prefer that you rely on the eye doctor who examines your daughter for advice on this point. I only want to reassure you that it's possible that she might be able to wear them for long periods of time without the kind of difficulty normally attributed to hard contact lenses. If she is able to wear them a sufficient length of time each day, it's possible she might not need other glasses. Some test subjects have worn them day and night without experiencing difficulty.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Our son has gone on a health food diet, eating mostly mixed nuts, seeds, wheat germ and lots of milk. Every time he gets up from a sitting position, his bones in his legs and hips pop like they were breaking. Could this be from too much calcium? Please give us your opinion of this diet?

Dear Reader — No, the joint popping that you describe is not too uncommon in young growing people and it can be caused by a number of factors, but not from too much calcium in the diet.

As far as the "health diet" that you're describing, I take a relatively dim view of it. Food fads of this type often result in diets deficient in essential nutrients. If he insists on following this diet, he should take one of the daily vitamin tablets that can be obtained at any supermarket and take one each day just to cover him for a possible vitamin deficiency. A person also needs a variety of different types of protein and he will be getting a variety from the milk, which is a good source of protein, and the seeds, particularly if the seeds happen to be soybean seeds. I would still be happier if he were getting more protein from animal sources. His diet probably wouldn't forbid him using egg whites, for example.

Vegetarians get by with diets devoid of meat, poultry, or fish, but they are usually pretty smart in planning their diets. I am not sure that all these health food diets of the type you are describing measure up to a good vegetarian's diet.

Is sex a 'dirty trick'?

Dear Ann Landers: My husband just handed me the newspaper and said, "Read this." I thought it would be your usual column saying something about how women should let their husbands run themselves bowlegged while the wife looks the other way. (This is what I call the Ann Landers Forgive-and-Forget Syndrome.) But it was even worse than that.

It quoted a New York doctor as saying, "Sex is not only here to stay but it will help you stay here longer." The next went on to praise sex as wonderful exercise for the heart, "also a fine tranquilizer." He said, "If a man is in good health, sex will help him stay well." The author didn't say what it would do for the woman who has done a big laundry, ironed nine shirts and chased after three kids all day.

In spite of all this gibberish about liberation, women are still enslaved and will remain so for biological reasons. It's a dirty trick, played on them by the Creator and nothing can change THAT. Sign me — Pooped in Philadelphia

Dear Pooped in Philly: If you consider sex a "dirty trick" against women, I feel sorry for your husband — and sorrier for you.

Dear Ann Landers: In a recent issue of the Proceedings of the Royal Society of Medicine (Great Britain) the following tabulation appeared. I hope you will print it because you reach millions of people who read your column when they can't find time to read anything else.

What Liquor Costs

(1) America has 9 million chronic alcoholics.

(2) Approximately 200,000 new cases of alcoholism occur every year.

(3) Of the 50,000 Americans killed in traffic accidents annually, 28,400 have alcohol in their blood a 1/2 time of the accident.

(4) Over half a million disabling injuries were sustained last year in crashes involving problem drinkers.

(5) There are 2,000,000 arrests annually for public drunkenness.

(6) Americans spent over 21 billion dollars for alcohol last year.

(7) The time lost from work, the damage to property by drunks, and the cost in welfare was over 15 billion dollars in 1971.

(8) Over half the states report that alcoholism is the most frequent diagnosis for first-time admissions to state hospitals.

(9) One third of all suicides are alcohol related.

(10) Insurance statistics reveal a 10 to 12 year decrease in life expectancy among alcoholics.

(11) Nearly one third of all cases handled in child guidance centers show one or both parents are involved with chronic alcoholism.

How long will it take before the public wakes up to the menace of alcohol? Is drinking liquor worth what it costs? A Reader who Learned the Hard Way

Dear Reader: I don't know how long it will take, but I am not optimistic about the chances for getting nine million boozers off the sauce. What we must do is to find out why so many people must anesthetize themselves against the pain of daily living. Alcoholism is a symptom of other problems.

Grain workers urged to accept conciliator's report

VANCOUVER (CP) — Grain handlers here will be asked to accept a federal conciliation board report if some minor items are clarified by the week-end.

Chief negotiator for the Grain Workers Union, Henry Kancs, said Monday the decision to recommend acceptance of the report was made after a week-end meeting of the union's negotiating and policy committees.

A meeting of the 550 grain handlers has been scheduled for Saturday, he said.

More than 300 of the men have been laid off as a result of the Vancouver port shutdown in the longshoremen's impasse.

"Acceptance of the report was recommended because we realized if we don't it will mean hardship for prairie farmers and jeopardize future Canadian wheat exports," Mr. Kancs said.

"If Canadian wheat exports are jeopardized, our jobs are gone, too."

The union leaders want a letter of understanding that the minor items are definitely part of the final agreement. They include a commitment that contracting out will not lead to layoffs; five cents more in shift differentials to 30 cents an hour; a $20-a-week increase in the sickness indemnity to $110 a week, and Easter Monday as an additional paid holiday.

GET OTHER JOBS

The report recommended workers get preferential treatment for jobs in other elevators when their operations close down permanently but did not recommend laid-off workers get preferential treatment during temporary closures.

It improved the guaranteed wage of $37 a week effective after four years instead of five years service.

It has been paid during layoffs which were not caused by labor disputes of any kind. The new recommendations would eliminate the restrictions regarding outside labor disputes and make the men currently laid off eligible for the guaranteed wage payments.

The wage offer is 40 cents a year for two years on present rate of $4.16 for laborers to $4.93 for top tradesmen.

Terms of the contract are retroactive to Dec. 1, 1971.

Meanwhile, the standoff between maritime employers and longshoremen in the port continued Monday.

The B.C. Maritime Employers Association had said it will not employ Vancouver members on strike by member companies at other ports.

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union had offered to handle all cargo in Vancouver if the workers from the local were dispatched through the New Westminster hiring hall.

Fourteen gangs were dispatched from the New Westminster operation on the 8 a.m. shift Monday. Seven filled by New Westminster men went to work but the other seven were turned away by the employer who said they were filled predominantly by Vancouver men.

The seven gangs went back to the hiring hall and promptly tried again and were turned away from the docks a second time. Before noon the seven gangs were completely filled by New Westminster members of the union and they went to work.

Talks between the two parties broke off Saturday. There has been no indication when they will resume.

The talks broke down over the employers' insistence that the 1,800 of the 3,200 longshoremen return to the docks while negotiations resumed.

Prince Rupert, New Westminster, Victoria, Nanaimo and Port Alberni have all continued to operate throughout the Vancouver port dispute.

The dispute entered its second week Monday tying up 40 ships.

Eskimos seek control

PANGNIRTUNG, N.W.T. (CP) — Education in northern Canada must be changed radically to serve the needs and preserve the culture of the Eskimo people, the annual meeting of the Eskimo Brotherhood of Canada was told Monday.

Complaints were voiced by delegates from all regions of the Arctic that their children now are locked in an educational structure dominated and controlled by white Canadians from the south.

Elizabeth Quaki of Payne Bay, Que., one of only a handful of Eskimo natives who have become teachers, said northerners must gain control of the educational system if they hope to make it serve their needs. As long as southern teachers and southern courses dominate the schools, the Eskimo culture and heritage will continue to erode, she said.

There were proposals from many delegates for more northern-oriented courses such as Arctic survival, hunting, fishing, trapping and sewing.

"These are the things our children must learn if we are going to preserve our culture," said one Baffin Island delegate.

"Southern courses are a waste of time for Eskimos," The complaints were heard by Norman MacPherson of Yellowknife, director of education for the Northwest Territories, who sat in on the conference sessions on education.

NEW COURSE COMING

He said later a northern curriculum has been developed and now is being introduced in schools across the Arctic.

"It's perhaps not being done as fast as it might, but I don't think that there's one settlement that doesn't have Eskimo people coming into the schools and telling the old legends, or showing the students how to carve and how to make bows and arrows or harpoons."

"In some, we have been going out on the land to hunt with an Eskimo guide."

In spite of the changes, he said, there has been resistance from some white instructors.

"We have some, and I hope they are only a small minority, who don't buy this idea of providing Eskimo education for Eskimos."

Many delegates expressed fears that their language would die unless it becomes the language of instruction.

Mr. MacPherson said plans now are being made to teach students from kindergarten to Grade 3 in their native tongue, then switching to English and continuing Eskimo as a second language.

The program will start this September but will take several years to implement.

WANT FRECH REPLACED

Sam Anderson of Nain, Nfld., a coastal community in northern Labrador, said residents in his area want French dropped from the curriculum and replaced with Eskimo.

One man commission studies four day work week

OTTAWA (CP) — A new work pattern may be in store for some employees under federal jurisdiction if a one-man government commission appointed in June agrees that the necessary changes should be made to the Canada Labor Code. Before government-owned or private companies can squeeze the 40- or 37 1/2-hour week into four days, the government will first have to alter the law, Commissioner Harris Johnstone of the labor department is investigating what changes will have to be made.

The labor code decrees that time worked in excess of 40 hours a week or eight hours a day by employees within federal jurisdiction must be considered overtime. About 500,000 employees work under the federal legislation.

Companies that want to fit in a four-day week, or even experiment with it, would have to pay the overtime rate of time-and-a-half, or cut weekly hours to a maximum of 32.

Usual four-day work week schedules include a work day of nine or 10 hours, for a total of 36 to 40 hours.

Mr. Johnstone was chosen by Labor Minister Martin O'Connell to study the requests of companies who want to try the four-day week—termed by some the "compressed work week."

The companies which have expressed an interest include the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, Bell Canada, Defence Construction Ltd., Air Canada, and Survaire Ltd.

But the companies do not want to test the four-day schedule and at the same time have to pay overtime rates. So they have asked for changes in the law.

The tests would involve a total of at least 400 employees of four of the companies. The seaway authority has not yet decided upon a test unit.

BRIEFS ARE IN

Mr. Johnstone has received nearly all briefs from the parties concerned and will be hearing oral presentations starting today. The hearings are expected to be completed by the end of the month.

In each case, the test will apply only to test groups. Air Canada wants to try out the four-day schedule for some of its staff in Winnipeg; Survaire, an aerial survey firm, would test it with 10 classes of employees, including pilots; Bell would experiment with about 200-250 employees in Ontario and Quebec, and Defence Construction Ltd. wants to try new work patterns with office staff in Ottawa.

The seaway authority would probably try the four-day week with operators and maintenance staff, a spokesman said.

Defence Construction Ltd. is thinking of a four-day week which could be opted for by employees. A spokesman said some employees have been interested in it; others have not.

Some union leaders have expressed misgivings about changes to the four-day week.

James Wyllie, vice-president of the Public Service Alliance of Canada, says efforts of his union are directed toward a reduction in working hours. His union is concerned that in a discussion of the four-day week, with the same hours, the goal of a shorter work day may be lost. He and Stan Little, national president of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, say some occupations do not lend themselves to the four-day week.

Asked to reconsider expulsion of Asians

KAMPALA (Reuters) — Student leaders asked President Idi Amin Monday to reconsider his decision to expel Asians who are Uganda citizens along with those who hold foreign passports.

But Amin indicated that he intends to stand by his decision to expel 23,000 Asian citizens of Uganda in a "second phase operation" to follow the impending exodus of 60,000 or more who have British, Indian or other foreign status.

Amin told an assembly of 2,000 Makerere University students, held to mark African Revolution Day, that:

"The president of your guild has asked me to re-examine my decision about Asians with Uganda citizenship."

"But I tell you frankly, and you listen very carefully, that Asian tactics are not in the interest of the people of Uganda."

President Julius Nyerere of neighboring Tanzania, in his first public comment on the controversy, said: "This is clearly racialism and representative of the same thing that Africans are deploring."

CITIZENS SHOULD STAY He said one could understand the expulsion of Asians who are British citizens, but it was impossible to agree with the decision to order out Asians who are Uganda citizens.

The move could easily result in a massacre of those left in the country after Amin's 90-day deadline, he warned.

Nyerere was speaking at the opening of an education institute near Dar Es Salaam and was quoted by Tanzanian reporters.

Amin had heard the president of the Makerere Student Guild, Tumusime Mutebile, make a speech strongly supporting expulsion of Asian aliens but asking him to reconsider his decision on the Asian citizens.

A memorandum making the same point was presented to him by Kisimba Masiko, head of the National Union of Uganda Students charged Uganda Asians with "acts of sabotage," when he answered the students Monday.

INDICATES SABOTAGE

He said he had had reports that Asians getting ready to leave were putting salt in the engines of cars sold to black Ugandans and wrecking radios and television sets.

"They might even put acid in clothes they sell you," Amin said.

Amin told the students that he proposed a 10-phase economic revolution in Uganda of which part one had been the expulsion of Israeli nationals here earlier this year.

Trade minister pays first visit

WINNIPEG (CP) — China's foreign trade minister Pai Hsiang-kuo paid his first visit Monday to the Canadian Prairies, the area that produces this country's growing wheat exports to China.

The trade minister and a delegation of Chinese officials met with representatives of the Canadian wheat board for background talks and visited an electrical plant near the outskirts of the city.

Later Monday, the delegation was to visit a farm southwest of Winnipeg and attend a private dinner given by Supply Minister James Richardson at a downtown hotel.

Mr. Pai, the first Chinese cabinet minister to visit Canada since the resumption of Chinese-Canadian relations, was to fly to Vancouver early today to continue his 10-day tour.

Although the trade minister said earlier Canada will remain China's chief supplier of wheat, the talks with the wheat board were not expected to involve anything as concrete as negotiation of a new contract, a board spokesman said.

This year Canada is selling nearly 150 million bushels of wheat to China and already has signed contracts calling for delivery of another 30 million bushels by the end of March.

The visit to F.P.E. Pioneer Electric Manitoba Ltd., a major manufacturer of heavy electrical generating equipment, also was not expected to result in an immediate burst of export activity.

The Chinese delegation, donning hard-hats and safety glasses, toured the plant in less than half an hour.

Owners oppose Allende

SANTIAGO (AP) — Most of Chile's 150,000 shops closed Monday as shopkeeper went on strike against President Salvador Allende's socialist policies, which they say are cutting their profits and exposing them to "state persecution."

Allende responded by invoking an internal security law that permits the government to take over the businesses.

An executive order authorized government officials "to break into establishments that sell essential goods and sell directly to the public." These include food stores and restaurants.

Shopkeepers of foreign nationality will be expelled from the country under the internal security law, the announcement warned.

Chile's three largest business associations, including the Chamber of Commerce, scheduled the one-day strike to protest policies which they claim have been squeezing retailers out of business through inflation and government controls.

Good cook book can save money

By JEAN SHARP

TORONTO (CP) — If the price of meat makes you nervous, there are some things to consider before you become a vegetarian.

Helen Gagen says they include chicken wings, pork shoulders, liver and kidney, utility turkeys.

Miss Gagen, consumer adviser to Miracle Food Mart, says beef is far the most popular meat and that consumers do not make enough use of other meats and of less expensive cuts of beef.

If you're uncertain how to use some cuts, ask the butcher and consult a standard cook book.

"A lot of people know the regular cuts and how to cook them, but to extend your knowledge and the range and variety of your meals, you need a good cook book."

"Not everyone realizes you can make the less expensive cuts taste simply wonderful. A lot of people are missing flavor by not trying those cuts, though women do need to be aware that if they're saving on the cut of meat, then it doesn't make a lot of sense to add expensive ingredients when they cook it."

USE HERBS

A few herbs, perhaps garlic, and some carrots or onions can be used to flavor most slow-cooking meats. If you are cooking a pot roast, Miss Gagen suggests using consomme or tomato juice as the liquid, or adding fresh tomatoes in season.

If you buy a so-called London broil, usually a flank or chuck steak, she suggests cooking it just to rare, then slicing it diagonally, extremely thin, to serve.

"You can use a chuck-steak cut on the barbecue. Wrap it in foil with vegetables and give it a good, long cooking."

"You can also do braising ribs on the barbecue. I use a meat tenderizer, but you don't have to."

She says the price of prime beef usually rises in summer because of the demand for barbecuing, and says you may find bargains in other beef cuts then.

BAKE CHICKEN WINGS

Those chicken wings can be stewed or baked.

"I put on oil, powdered ginger, garlic salt, soy sauce and monosodium glutamate, cover them and bake them. I've served them to guests and they've been so enthusiastic I've been embarrassed, because it's so easy."

She says utility turkey, Cornish hens and chickens are an inexpensive meat people don't understand.

"A utility turkey is a grade A or B bird that might have lost a part, a wing or a leg, or have a bruise that has been cut out. But it is never less than grade B."

She says pork and frozen spring lamb can both be inexpensive and a change for the menu.

"There's a lot of variety in pork and there's no reason why you shouldn't use it on a barbecue."

"People still think you have to cook it at high temperatures or that it's fat. But they're growing it leaner, and experts will now recommend a roast be cooked to a temperature of 175 rather than 180. I like the longer cooking because I like the taste."

"If you broil it, you should broil it a little more slowly than beef."

PLANNING HELPS

No matter what food you're buying, she says planning helps keep costs down.

"Plan your menus in general, and I think it's good to read the ads."

"It's very true, but I still recommend you take a list. I know people who shop with an estimated price for each item and if something costs more than they expected, they balance it."

"If you have time, do all the cooking from scratch to save; but you have to balance effort against cost. Sometimes it's worth it to pay for the built-in maid service in convenience foods."

"And many advisers say it's not economical to shop more than two stores looking for specials because you lose in time and effort what you may save on prices."

More cheeses available soon

By GLENNIS ZILM
OTTAWA (CP) — When you say "Cheese" in Canadian food stores in the future, it's likely to open the door to a wider range of products than now are available.

The food advisory bureau of the national health department recently modified standards for cheeses in Canada. This will mean an increased number of processed and mixed cold-pack cheeses probably will be available, said Ron Read, chief of the division of food additives and standards.

"The review came about because many new combinations of cheeses now are available, especially from the United States," he said in an interview. "We felt we should set the ground rules (for new products to come into Canada) and help maintain the standards we require in cheeses."

The changes probably won't affect the import of natural cheeses nor alter the standards of "our own excellent cheddars," he said. The changes would come in the processed cheeses and the cold-pack varieties.

NO HEAT USED

Cold-pack cheeses involve cheese mixtures from two or more standard cheeses, such as a hard, flavorful Cheddar and a softer, creamier type. No heat is used, but the mixture or blend could provide a new type that might offer a spreadable, flavorful cheese with advantages from both "parent" cheeses.

A spokesman for Kraft Food Ltd., Montreal, said the firm probably would be bringing in new products in line with the new regulations and cheese importers in Ottawa also said it might increase the number of varieties.

Mr. Read said the changes in standards had come about partly because manufacturers wanted to bring in more varieties and partly because of continuing appraisals of food standards and regulations within the department.

The department wanted to ensure that the standards would cover all possible types of cheeses that might be offered for sale.

DOES SPOT-CHECKS

The division, which tries to keep a watchful eye on all food products, occasionally does spot-checks on foods, Mr. Read said. But the majority of their checks on products, usually amounting to a national survey, come whenever a product is questioned.

As well as the checks that arise because of departmental investigations of old or new products, the division works closely with other federal and provincial government

Mikita out of Team Canada squad game

TORONTO (CP) — Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks is not expected to play tonight when Reds meet Whites in the first of three intra-squad games planned by Team Canada in its preparations for the forthcoming eight-game exhibition hockey series against Russia.

The National Hockey League centre strained a groin muscle in Monday's workout.

"It's not too bad," Mikita said after the practice. "I'll skate in the morning to see how it feels."

Coach Harry Sinden, however, is not about to take any chances that Mikita might aggravate the injury if he plays his regular shift between Montreal Canadiens wingers Frank Mahovlich and Yvon Cournoyer.

The second intra-squad game is set for Maple Leaf Gardens Saturday night and the third the following Tuesday on the same ice.

NHL TEAM READY

Team Canada, made up of NHL players, meets the powerful Russian club in the first game at Montreal on Sept. 2.

The other three Canadian games are at Toronto (Sept. 4), Winnipeg (Sept. 6) and Vancouver (Sept. 8).

The Russian portion of the series is set for Sept. 22, 24, 26 and 28 with all games being played in Moscow.

Sinden, meanwhile, made a quick trip to New York Monday night to help promote the series with the U.S. firm that bought the television rights for that country.

Storer Broadcasting of Boston, an independent sports network that paid $200,000 for the venture, has had trouble selling the series.

Sinden expressed a great deal of confidence in the team he had assembled and spoke of the possible addition to the lineup, at least for the four games in Moscow, of Boston Bruins Bobby Orr.

The young defenceman, who underwent surgery to his left knee early in June, disclosed Monday he would start skating with the team Wednesday but was reticent about when he could start scrimmaging.

"Never count Bobby out if he makes up his mind to do something," Sinden told his American audience.

Alan Eagleson, executive-director of the NHL Players' Association who accompanied Sinden to New York said:

"It will be the most exciting hockey series ever. The interest in Canada makes the Stanley Cup look like peanuts."

Hockey Canada expects to earn more than $1 million from the television rights which are owned jointly by Bobby Orr Enterprises and Harold Ballard, president of Maple Leaf Gardens.

But the money seems secondary to the nationalistic interest the series has stirred in Canada, says Eagleson, who suggested to Sinden that the Canadians had to win all eight games.

Sinden smiled.

Friday going to WHA

TORONTO (CP) — Ian Morrison, referee-in-chief of the National Hockey League, confirmed Monday earlier rumors that referee Bill Friday is leaving his staff to join the World Hockey Association.

"Bill called me at 10 p.m. Sunday to let me know he's going to the WHA," Morrison said. "I've read he was offered $50,000 a year and I assume he must have got it."

Friday, the No. 2 man on Morrison's refereeing staff in seniority behind Art Skov, made $25,000 a year in the NHL, plus bonuses for playoff and exhibition games.

Morrison said a statement attributed to Friday last week that more than half the NHL officiating staff is unsigned and considering the WHA was not true.

Quebec beats Bucs

SHERBROOKE — Bob Babcock pitched a four-hitter in leading Quebec Carnivals to a 4-1 Eastern League baseball victory over Sherbrooke Pirates Monday night.

Quebec opened the scoring in the fourth inning when Larry Lintz singled to left field, stole second, went to third on Dan Schudies' base hit and scored on Jim Cox's single. Barry Foote then loaded the bases with a single. Randy Brown hit a grounder to Sherbrooke second baseman Luther Quinn who threw wild to home plate allowing Schudies and Cox to score. Barry Foote then came home on Frank Hale's sacrifice fly.

Sherbrooke scored their only run in the second inning when Dave Arrington doubled and scored on a single by Luther Quinn. A crowd of 1,380 watched Bob Babcock pick up his sixth win of the season while Brad Meyring (10-9) was tagged with the loss.

Carlton's streak broken at 15

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"It was a curve ball that got me in trouble," sighed a disconsolate Steve Carlton.

Philadelphia Phillies' phenomenal left-hander, who had won 15 consecutive games, finally lost his seventh of the baseball season—his first since May 30 and it took Atlanta Braves 11 innings to do it.

"Sometimes you just get bested," he said after Dusty Baker doubled and Mike Lum singled to give the Braves a 2-1 victory Monday night.

Jim Beauchamp, New York Mets' reserve first baseman, celebrated his 33rd birthday in high fashion against Houston, clubbing his first two home runs of the year, the latter a two-run shot with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning that propelled the Mets to a 4-2 triumph over the Astros.

EXPOS TOPPLED

Elsewhere in the National League, Cincinnati Reds beat Montreal Expos 4-1, St. Louis Cardinals shut out Los Angeles Dodgers 4-0 and San Diego Padres stunned Chicago Cubs 6-5. Phil Niekro, the Braves' knuckleballer, gave up nine hits to Carlton's seven with each pitcher striking out 10 batters and walking three.

Carlton insisted at first that "I really hadn't thought that much" about the winning streak. Then he shrugged and acknowledged: "I wish it had continued. It's a shame. I really wish I could have won it for the fans — the record and the streak."

There were 32,662 fans on hand and they cheered as if their Phillies were in the seventh game of the World Series, rather than the team with the worst record in the majors.

Cats Esks swap

HAMILTON (CP) — Two of three Hamilton Tiger-Cats traded Monday to Edmonton Eskimos left their Canadian Football League futures in doubt.

Not so Jim Papai, a rookie guard from Brantford, Ont., who packed with the expectations of youth and a chance to play regularly in the Western Football Conference.

But a change of scenery for quarterback Wally Gabler and linebacker Doug Dersch called for a little more consideration and as of Monday night, both were still vague on their futures.

The three Ticats became available in the Eastern Conference club's plans to shore up some trouble spots on the team by acquiring linebacker Ken Ferguson and defensive halfback John Wydareny from the Eskimos.

Gabler became expendable when Hamilton signed Bill Van Burkleo, a quarterback-defensive half cut earlier by the WFC Calgary Stampeders.

"I don't know what I'll do yet," Gabler said Monday night. "I've got a lot of things to think about. I've got a good job ... and I've got a home in Burlington."

The soft-spoken quarterback said he had talked on the phone with Edmonton coach Ray Jauch and general manager Norm Kimball.

'SEE WHAT DEVELOPS'

"No arrangements have been made. Not even travel arrangements. I'll go to work in the morning the same as usual and we'll see what develops."

Gabler has been accused in the past of being too gentlemanly for football and, true to the image, had no harsh words for the Ticats.

"I'm used to it by now," he said. "If I go to Edmonton it would be my eighth coach in seven years."

Dersch said the trade caught him by surprise. "I've been traded many times, but this is the first time ... since I've been married. Now I've got to think about more than the present. I've got to think about the future."

Since joining the CFL with Edmonton in 1968, Dersch has been traded away twice by the Eskimos and this is the second time he has been traded back.

However, since the trade that brought him to Hamilton from Edmonton for Ted Page and Charley Turner, Dersch says he's happy with his present job, which offers ample opportunity for advancement.

Montreal hits, including Mike Jorgensen's homer that wrecked his shutout bid in the ninth inning.

Houston starter Jerry Reuss served up Beauchamp's first home run in the seventh inning giving the Mets a 2-1 lead.

CESAR SETS STAGE

But Cesar Cedeño, whose 19th homer of the season had produced the Astros' first run, tied it again with a double in the eighth of winner Jon Matlack. Jim Ray was on the mound for Houston in the ninth and issued a two-out walk to John Milner, bringing up Beauchamp again who promptly parked it deeper into the New York bullpen.

Bob Gibson, recording his 14th victory and fourth shutout of the season, stymied Los Angeles on seven hits, struck out six batters and chipped in with a run-producing double. Bernie Carbo homered for the Cards.

In a wild, see-saw affair in San Diego, John Jeter capped a four-run Padres rally in the bottom of the inning with a three-run, game-winning blast to beat the Cubs before a meager crowd of 4,511 fans.

UP UP AND OVER — Among the brightest prospects on the United States Olympic team currently on its way to Munich is Pat pole vaulting record once using the Matzdorf, 21, who has already held the world unorthodox bent-knee approach.

Riva Ridge being investigated

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y.

(AP) — The FBI is investigating charges by the owner of Riva Ridge, considered by many to be the best three-year-old race horse in the United States, that the colt was drugged when he finished fourth in the $100,000 Monmouth Invitational Handicap on Aug. 5.

Mrs. John Tweedy made public her charges involving the winner of the Kentucky Derby, the Belmont Stakes and the Hollywood Derby, here Monday.

She directs the operation of the Meadow Stable for her ailing father, C.T. Cheney, in whose silks Riva Ridge runs.

Mrs. Tweedy said that a blood test and an urine sample, taken after the return of Riva Ridge to Saratoga from Monmouth Park at Oceanport, N.J., both showed traces of phenothiazine "or what amounted to a tranquilizer."

"It was a great shock. I wouldn't have believed it possible," said Mrs. Tweedy. She added: "It is outrageous and something should be done about it."

Mrs. Tweedy said she and trainer Lucien Laurin turned the matter over to the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau, headed by Spencer Drayton.

Drayton said the TRPB learned of the case last Tuesday and it "was turned over to the FBI and the case is under investigation."

Phil Iselin, president of Monmouth Park, said "nothing can be said until the investigation is completed."

Riva Ridge was the 3-10 favorite in the Monmouth Invitational under top weight of 126 pounds, but finished fourth, beaten six lengths by the $24.40 winner.

Drayton said the TRPB learned of the case last Tuesday

The Ayer's Cliff Fair opens on Thursday

AYER'S CLIFF — Can you think of something more reminiscent of summer than a country fair? Long summer afternoons filled with activity and excitement. Animals and people and great shows and great food... country shows and country food... all combine to create a summer magic which is hard to find elsewhere. Especially in these days.

But that's what the Ayer's Cliff Fair has to offer you, all that and much more. For the residents of Ayer's Cliff, who have made a reputation over the years for the finest fair in miles, understand country and understand summer living. The town reflects this. Ayer's Cliff, on the shores of Lake Massawippi, has a peaceful vacation atmosphere all year round, but in the summer it's at its best. That's when the inhabitants take to the water, fishing, swimming and water-skiing in the clear lake, roaming the quiet fields and woods, breathing that sweet country air, lying in the lazy sun.

What's more, they're not selfish — it's all there to share.

Ayer's Cliff has numerous inns, hotels and motels providing great home cooking and country hospitality to the city weary guest.

The Ripplecove Inn, situated high on a wooded hill overlooking the water, is famous for its gracious atmosphere. And just outside of town, on the edge of the lake beneath the pine-covered cliff which gives the town its name, is an extensive camping area... for those who like to commune with nature just a little more.

If you love the country, don't miss the Ayer's Cliff Fair. And if you like the Fair you'll find the town a hard place to leave.

AYER'S CLIFF IS THE IDEAL SETTING FOR A COUNTY FAIR.

AYER'S CLIFF — This year's fair, the 124th Ayer's Cliff Fair, is a mixture of old and new. There's something for everyone. For those who go to the fairs to see those old familiar shows, and those who go for one more wonderful time the excitement of something different, the fair should be fun again this year. The organizers, who are out to make all the people happy all of the time, are making sure that no one is going to go home without a few more good times to remember to help them through the long, cold winter.

This year's grandstand programme starts out on Friday night at 8 p.m. with the Amateur Show, a chance for all the frustrated artists in the Eastern Townships to get out and show their stuff.

Entries are coming from all over the Eastern Townships to sing, dance and play their way into some of that $100 prize money. People can enter as late as 7 o'clock Thursday and so if you have some talent which you feel no one has ever properly appreciated this is your chance to become a star for an evening and have a lot of fun as well.

Friday at 1:30 p.m. the residents of Ayer's Cliff and other fortunate fair-goers will be entertained by the Coaticook majorettes who will parade up and down the main street of town. These lovely young ladies, between the ages of five and 14 have become a tradition at the Ayer's Cliff Fair over the past ten years and for good reason. Who can resist a baton twirling little lady in white boots and mini skirt with a little red hat and vest, marching down the street on an August afternoon? Now multiply that by 50 or 60 and you can imagine why the crowds flock the streets to watch the Coaticook Majorettes go by. Get there early if you want a good view of this show.

Another entertainment highlight is the wrestling Friday evening. Organized by Claude Genest, who promotes all the wrestling events at the arena and announced by a renowned sports-caster from radio station CHLT, the show features a wrestling giant, Jacques Rougeau, 240 pounds of entertainment for all fans of this sport.

On Saturday evening Kenny Roberts' Stage Show will take over the grand stand. This group of western swingers have come all the way from Wheeling, West Virginia where folks know what country and western is all about. They're going to sing and play for you and your family Saturday evening and give you some idea of what it's like to hear a recording group live and on stage. It's a treat not to be missed.

Finally there will be races for boys and girls on Friday afternoon, a tug of war Friday evening at 7 p.m., flat races for ponies Friday afternoon, and a buggy race Saturday afternoon. There are Horse shows and pony pulling contests Sunday afternoon along with a cattle and horse parade starting at 1 p.m.

Crowds

The Ayer's Cliff fair will come to a close on Sunday evening with an old-time fiddlers contest starring Fritz, the Fiddling Farmer who will actually appear, live and in person, on the Grandstand. Three trophies will be offered for the best fiddler in the three categories, junior, senior and special. What a way to close a county fair... with the best part of country sound!
The Ayer's Cliff Fair offers something for everyone. If you're anyone who likes to have a good time, you won't miss it. Aug. 24, 25, 26, 27 on the Fairgrounds, Ayer's Cliff.
