FRESH PLANE DISASTERS CLAIM MANY LIVES

World News In Brief

Lake Success, N.Y., Oct. 27.—(P)—Russia's "warmonger" resolution, key Moscow proposal of the 1947 General Assembly, comes up for vote today with no prospects of passage and little chance of mustering any support outside the Soviet bloc.

Also before the U.N. assembly's 57-member political committee for balloting were counter versions submitted by Australia, Canada and France condemning war propaganda.

The United States was opposed to any of the four resolutions as they stood. However, there was a possibility that the Australian, French, and Canadian proposals might be blended together to form a plan acceptable to the majority.

Vancouver, Oct. 27.—(P)—Business leaders in this West Coast port today blamed what they termed a "drastic drop" in the retail business on the week-old strike at 2,800 transit workers in Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster.

They also disclosed that a "number of employees" had been laid off by "smaller business establishments."

With no sign of an early agreement being reached in the hours and wage dispute between the Street Railwaymen's Union and the British Columbia Electric Company, officials of various downtown establishments, running from night clubs through to department stores, reported that business had fallen off from 25 to 60 per cent during the week.

A survey of other downtown business officials showed that taxi companies alone were benefiting from the strike. Cab owners' only complaint was—"too much business. We can't handle it all."

New Delhi, Oct. 27.—(P)—An official source said today a battalion of Sikhs were being flown to Srinagar—capital of embattled Kashmir—to help forces of the princely state repel some 2,000 Pathans who have crossed the border from Pakistan and indulged in an orgy of looting, raping and killing.

The decision to dispatch military aid to Kashmir was reached by the Indian Cabinet early today when word reached here that rebel forces were within 30 miles of Srinagar.

A correspondent for the newspaper Statesman said that panic had gripped Srinagar and that many of the inhabitants were fleeing on foot to Jammu—a predominantly Hindu area bordering the junction of the Indian-Pakistan frontiers.

Kashmir has no gasoline, the correspondent said, and most horse-drawn conveyances have already left the city.

Fear Seventy-Two Dead In Crashes In Greece And Alaska

No Hopes Held For Survival of Forty-Four Persons Aboard Swedish Liner Which Crashed in Greek Mountains—Poor Weather Conditions Prevent Search in Alaska.

Athens, Oct. 27.—(P)—The Greek air force said today that a Swedish Airlines transport, officially reported carrying 44 persons, including two Americans, crashed last night into Mount Hymettos southeast of Athens.

Airmen who flew over the wreckage said all aboard were believed killed.

The airline, ABA, announced in Stockholm that 36 passengers and eight crewmen were aboard. The crew, it said, was made up of Swedes headed by a Priton, Capt. Kenneth John Douglas.

Air force headquarters said the Skymaster struck the 3,000-foot peak of the mountain, which extends north and south in the Attica plain and rises sharply only a few miles east of Hymettos airport, forming a barrier to plane entrance from the east.

The plane, flying its scheduled route from Istanbul to Rome, flashed its last message at 7:12 p.m. (2 p.m. EST) last night. An R.A.F. officer who flew over the wreckage said the tail of the plane was precisely on the ridge of the mountain and the forward part of the transport had dropped from 50 to 100 feet below the ridge. The forepart of the plane was believed to have cleared the peak, but the tail was caught.

Wreckage of the plane was located this morning by a Greek army plane. The pilot of the Greek plane said he could see only one person moving near the wreckage and believed the figure was that of a shepherd.

It was feared that all aboard the plane were killed.

(In Stockholm, where the plane earlier had been listed as missing, an ABC official said the craft carried an all-Swedish crew of eight in addition to the passengers.)

The plane was on a regular flight from Istanbul to Rome and was scheduled to have landed at the Athens airport at 7 p.m. GMT (2 p.m. EST) last night for a one-hour stopover.

The last radio message from the plane was received by the airport here at 7:12 p.m. At that time the plane reported that it was 25 minutes out at 9,000 feet and was coming in for a landing.

Juneau, Alaska, Oct. 27.—(P)—A land, sea and air search for a missing Pan-American World Airways plane with 18 aboard was organized in southeastern Alaska today as a lashing wind and rain storm continued to grip the area in which the four-engined clipper vanished Sunday near Ketchikan.

Rain-soaked clouds scudded low over the rugged inland passage, threatening to hamper plans to send dozens of planes aloft in hope of finding the big DC-4.

The weather bureau here said prospects were for continuing heavy gusts, with conditions gradually improving during the day.

The 44-passenger transport, carrying only 13 passengers, including one infant, and a crew of five, disappeared Sunday after radioing the Annette airport at 1:44 p.m. (PST) that "extreme turbulence" prevented a contemplated instrument landing.

Gusts of 40 miles an hour were being recorded then at the Annette field, 12 miles from Ketchikan. Winds gradually increased during the day until they reached 63 miles an hour by 9:30 p.m.

Hopes that the P.A.A. clipper may have survived the storm and made an emergency landing hung on the reputation of the pilot, Capt. A. L. Mosen, 47, of Juneau, one of Alaska's best-known fliers before he joined Pan-American's Alaska division in 1932.

Mosen said in his last report he was heading into the storm to Juneau, approximately 230 miles northward. His plane had gasoline enough to last until 8:40 p.m.

Disappearance of the clipper "Talisman" with the greatest number of persons aboard of any civilian plane yet reported missing in Alaska set into motion one of the territory's largest and most widespread searches.

Bombers and a long-range transport from air force bases at Anchorage and Fairbanks took off on the reputation of the pilot, Capt. A. L. Mosen, 47, of Juneau, one of Alaska's best-known fliers before he joined Pan-American's Alaska division in 1932.

Three coast guard cutters put out from Southeastern Alaska ports late Sunday and were to extend their operations during the day.

Five vessels of the Alaska forest service and two planes and three ships of the fish and wildlife service were ordered to join the hunt today.

Cannery boats were alerted to be on a lookout for any trace of the missing clipper, and logging camps were asked for any clues.

Ten light planes were scheduled to comb the area within 40 miles of Annette, and six other planes will range farther out under the direction of the coast guard.

The Talisman, first DC-4 to encounter trouble since P.A.A. put the four-engined craft on its Alaska runs, disappeared only two days after 52 persons lost their lives in the crash of a unked air lines DC-6 at Bryce Canyon, Utah.

Pan-American has had only three fatal accidents, with 23 persons killed, in its 15 years of Alaska operations. Three civilians died in a crash near Fairbanks in 1933, while 17 military personnel and three crew members perished in two 1944 crashes while under United States Navy contract.

2,000 Elect Chosen For Ceremonies

Barely One-Third of List of Eligibles to Receive Invitations to Attend Royal Wedding in Westminster Abbey.

London, Oct. 27.—(P)—The Royal Family, after much pruning of lists and worrying over many necessary exclusions, has finally made up its mind about Princess Elizabeth's wedding guests and dispatched the coveted invitations to some 2,000 of the elect, it was learned today.

For months the Royal Household has been combing through columns of eligibles, knowing that three or four times the number of persons that can be fitted into Westminster Abbey hoped to make the grade and that widespread disappointment was inevitable.

The bids went out piecemeal, under a news blackout imposed by the Lord Chamberlain's department which is in charge of this turbid side of the wedding preliminaries.

Until today even the style of the invitations was an official secret but now it can be told that the invitation is a copper-plate engraved card measuring five by six inches, with the Royal Arms at the top and this text following:

"The Lord Chamberlain is commanded by Their Majesties to invite (two lines open for the name of the lucky person) to the ceremony of

New Forest And Brush Fires Rage In E.T. As Woods Thirst For Rain

Hundreds of Men Thrown Into Effort to Halt Blazes from Spreading — Fearful of High Wind Which Would Spread Flames.

New forest and brush fires have broken out in the Eastern Townships area and near Quebec City while fighters of previous blazes are hoping for a heavy rainfall to extinguish the remaining smouldering embers, but are fearful of a possible high wind which would whip the now dormant flames into renewed destruction.

The new fires are in the border area, near Dixville and Hereford, near Bromie and 30 miles northeast of Quebec City.

Today, the fire which broke out in the border area Saturday morning was under control following a fight by more than 100 men. Truckloads of volunteers were rushed from Coaticook while the fire department of Canaan, Vt., pitched in to stop the flames from spreading to the American side of the border.

The fire was on land not thickly covered by standing timber and actual property damage is not expected to be heavy. The properties affected were those of Leopold Desbiens, Aime Oulmet, Philias Tremblay and L. Garneau. Mr. Desbiens also had a camp destroyed by the fire.

At Georgeville, five or six miles from Magog, about 15 men using tractors cut roads through the woods at the crossroads to Crystal Lake to check a fire which broke out Friday. From 75 to 100 acres of land was affected. It was owned by W. Hamel, who suffered heaviest, and Arthur Lange.

At Austin, near the Shonyo Mountain, a fire has been brought under control but the flames have penetrated up to two feet into the ground. Firefighters believe the flames will die out unless a high wind springs up.

The fire at the base of the Shonyo Mountains, also near Magog, which threatened to destroy farmers' homes before farmers using tractors brought it under control, is still smouldering and watchers believe it will die out unless a wind occurs.

At St. Joachim, Que., about 30 miles northeast of Quebec City, a serious forest fire is raging in the thick and richly wooded section of Quebec Seminary property in the mountains behind the town.

Fire fighters are battling the flames which broke out Thursday in a forest of pine, maple and birch. During the past three days a wide area of pine has been destroyed.

The seminary has a farm and a number of buildings in the St. Joachim region but they are believed to be out of reach of the fire.

On the Canada Paper Company's limits, about 10 miles northeast of Windsor Mills, a handful of men were patrolling the eighth range where stumps are still smouldering and in some places the fire has burned two feet underground.

M. Ewing, woods superintendent of the company, said the "fire is under control but it won't be out until the ground is completely dry. The fire is still burning in some places and the fire has burned two feet underground.

De Gaulle made his demand in a prepared statement issued to the press—the first declaration from the former wartime leader since his anti-Communist party, rassemblement de Peuple Français (Rally of the French People-R.P.F.) piled up 40 per cent of the popular vote in the country-wide municipal elections a week ago.

His statement came as the small town elections returns were being counted. Early returns put former premier Edouard Herriot's Radical Socialists out in front.

As Socialist Premier Paul Ramadier prepared to go before Parliament tomorrow and request a vote of confidence in his reshuffled cabinet, railway and postal employees affiliated with the Confederation Generale du Travail were summoned to meetings to decide whether they would strike for higher wages.

Their decision promised to have an important bearing on the debate which will precede balloting Thursday on Ramadier's call for a vote of confidence.

Murder Case At Kingston Nears Close

Defence to Offer No Testimony in Case of Man Charged With Murdering Companion During Dice Game.

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 27.—(P)—The case of Leon Stafford, 24-year-old Negro from Waterloo, Ga., charged with murder, was expected to go to the jury today.

Defence counsel said Saturday that no defence witnesses would take the stand in the trial which resulted from the fatal stabbing of Gerald Harrison, 24, during a dice game in the pavilion at Lake Ontario Park here late on Aug. 2.

Consequently J. Spencer Pitt, K.C., of Toronto, for the defence, and Crown Attorney T. J. Rigney, K.C., followed by Chief Justice J. C. McRuer, were to address the jury today.

Joseph Edwards and Rose McCabe, the last two Crown witnesses before adjournment Saturday, told the court of the jack-knife which had been entered by the Crown as an exhibit last Thursday with no indication of its origin. Edwards said he was driving through Portsmouth early on Aug. 3 when he saw the knife lying in the road and turned back to pick it up. Later he handed it to McCabe, his neighbor.

It was the following day that he read of the dice game stabbing and remembered the knife, which he secured from McCabe and turned over to police.

The Crown showed the knife to Edwards and asked him if its condition was different to when he found it. "Yes," Edwards replied. "All the blades have been filed or sharpened. They had not been

Fate Of Polish Opposition Leader Still Deep Mystery

By LARRY ALLEN
Warsaw, Oct. 27.—(P)—The whereabouts of Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, Polish opposition leader, remained a mystery today as the government-sponsored left-wing faction of his Polish Peasant party took over the editorship of his newspaper Gazeta Ludowa and acted swiftly to reorganize the party along leftist lines.

As yet there was no official comment on where Mikolajczyk—who was probably watched more closely by security police than any man in Poland—might have fled or how he, his secretary and three aides might have crossed the Polish border.

Government officials were openly delighted that Mikolajczyk apparently had fled from Poland's political picture. They said his disappearance had relieved the government of having to take action on its charges that the opposition leader was connected with underground activity.

Meanwhile Peasant Party left wingers, headed by former Minister of Education Czeslaw Wysech, prepared to call on the Peasant Supreme Council to take over power.

Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz—scheduled to deliver an "expose" of the internal-international situation before Parliament Wednesday—was expected by many to reveal what the government knows about Mikolajczyk's Polish Peasant party followers—stunned by their leader's disappearance—predicted

GREER GARSON GETTING COMEDY ROLE

Hollywood, Oct. 27.—I'm glad to hear that M-G-M will star Greer Garson in a comedy. I suggested it in this column two years ago. Greer's latest, "Desire Me," took a terrific beating from the New York film critics. Alton Cook of the World-Telegram wrote this priceless gem:

"The M-G-M casting director must have had a lapse of consciousness when he cast Robert Mitchum and Richard Hart opposite Greer Garson. Not that Miss Garson is grandmotherly, but in some of the sequences it's hard to decide whether she contemplates marriage or adoption."

"Desire Me" doesn't even list a director in the credits. Mervyn LeRoy tried to salvage what someone else botched up. Greer is taking the rap for a studio's errors. Sophie's Wedding Off

Sophie Tucker has cancelled plans to wed Marion Scooby, the rich hotel man. . . Jimmy Zito will fight June Haver's divorce, so she's seeking a church annulment. Meanwhile, June will go to Evanston, Ill., soon to adopt a baby from The Cradle. . . Paul Henreid will play a dual role in his next, "Hollow Triumph." He'll be a murderer and his victim.

The meeting adjourned to meet with Mrs. Harvey Reynolds, on November 5. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by some of the members.

The recipients will include electricians, wardrobe mistresses, hair dressers, prop men, assistant directors, make-up men, assistant cameramen, the set policeman—all those little people who contribute to a film's success.

My congratulations to William Goetz. I sincerely hope this plan to honor Hollywood's little people will become industry-wide.

Flash: Greer Garson just had her telephone number changed—to avoid telephone calls from Richard Ney.

Money-Maker "Merton"

There are 3000 turkeys on his ranch headed for the chopping block at $1 a pound. . . Another film star's offspring has taken wing. Vic McLaglen's daughter, Sheila, is battling out stories for national magazines in New York.

So you think things are expensive in the U.S.? Director Delmer Daves, filming "To the Victor" in Paris, sent a suit out to be pressed. It came back with a $48 bill. Dennis Morgan and Daves went to a cafe one night, had a bottle of champagne and the bill was $17.

Jean Crawford is the first Hollywood star to sign up for sponsorship for one of the Hollywood Guild's Saturday afternoon parties for the war wounded. She'll pay all the party expenses and will also dish out the hamburgers. . . Fox will soon have a fleet of planes flying stars to location. . . Larry Stevens, last heard in "Centennial Summer," was such a hit on a nation-wide theater tour that the studios are frantically bidding for his services.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

by Billy Rose

BILLY ROSE

Hugh Taylor is a fattish, balding little man, and a sucker for an inside straight. Maybe you've seen him on the stage. He usually plays the sad-eyed shorty who winds up with the neck of the chicken. Hugh has made himself a lot of white meat playing these roles and has a fairish bank account and ten acres in Westchester to prove it.

There has only been one clam shell in his chowder—a lady named Mrs. Hugh Taylor. In most ways, Ruth is a nice enough gal. She keeps the house reasonably clean and has a light touch with a strudel. But she hasn't made Hugh happy. Shortly after they were married, she developed a fixation. She convinced herself that her husband wasn't to be trusted. When Hugh was a few minutes late getting home from the theatre, she would sniff at his coat for tattletale perfume. When he was playing cards with boys at the Lambs Club, she'd call every hour and see if he was really there. It got so silly that one morning when Hugh nicked himself shaving, Ruth accused him of having strange lipstick on his neck.

Recently the actor arrived home almost an hour late. He told his wife that the stage manager had kept the company after the show to brush up one of the scenes. While Hugh was in the kitchen uncapping a bottle of beer, Ruth sneaked out the car to look for evidence of philandering. She found nothing. Even the ashtray was empty. But fixations are funny things. Ruth marched into the kitchen and snapped, "You cleaned out the ashtray to get rid of the evidence."

Our nag-happy hero sighed and finished his beer. Then he did what he had done in the third act of so many of his plays. He went to his room, threw some things into a bag and drove off.

"Good riddance," thought Ruth. "No man is going to two-time me." The next day she located him at a hotel in White Plains and went about the business of getting evidence for a divorce. A week and two hundred dollars later, a detective reported that his snooping had only uncovered a tryst with six poker players.

A month passed and no word from Hugh. Ruth began to lose interest in the divorce evidence. Rattling around the house alone wasn't much fun. One night she got Hugh on a backstage telephone and told him she wanted to talk things over. The actor told her he'd rather skip it. He suggested she go out and have some fun, and hung up. That night Ruth looked up at the ceiling until she knew every brush mark in the paint. By 5 a.m., she had worked herself into a fair case of jimmies.

She dressed and phoned for a cab. But at the door of the hotel in White Plains, she lost her nerve. For the next hour she walked up and down trying to figure out what she'd say to Hugh when she saw him. Then she spotted his car in the parking lot across from the hotel. She climbed in and decided to wait for Hugh 'til he came out.

In the car, Ruth found the evidence she had always been looking for. The ash tray was loaded with lipstick cigarette butts. On the rug she found some bobby pins.

There it was. No doubt about it. Her fattish kweepie dol. looked good to some woman and Hugh had gotten himself involved.

For quite a while Ruth sat and sized up. But about the time White Plains woke up, so did the lady with the fixation. Ruth realized she was stuck on her sad-eyed shorty. Hugh had been unfaithful. So what! Somehow it didn't seem important. What did seem important was that some other gal had discovered how cute he was.

At ten that morning when Hugh opened the door of his car, Ruth was still inside waiting for him.

"To what do I owe this honor, Mrs. Taylor?" the actor asked.

"I've been sitting here since five o'clock," said his wife. "I'd like you to drive me home."

The actor liked what he saw in Ruth's eyes. It reminded him of the first few days of their marriage. "How about this other woman?" he asked cautiously.

"I know there's another woman," his wife said, "but I don't care."

The actor smiled. "Maybe I could break it off," he mused, "but it'll take time. You'll have to be patient."

Late that afternoon he kissed Ruth good-bye and set out for the theatre. Just before he got to the parkway, he stopped at a bungalow and picked up a middle-aged woman.

"I can't tell you, Mr. Taylor, how much I appreciate these rides," she said as she got into the car. "When I took the job as wardrobe mistress I didn't know it included a ride into town every night with the star."

The wardrobe lady mashed a lipsticked butt into the ash tray. "I hope you don't mind my smoking," she said.

The actor grinned. "Not at all, Mrs. Wilson," he said. "In fact I was thinking of buying you a carton of cigarettes."

GOLFING STARS GET SET FOR FAMOUS MATCH

Portland, Ore., Oct. 27.—(AP)—The stars of British and United States golf were warming up today for the week-end test of skill in the seventh play of the International Ryder Cup matches.

Members of the challenging British team arrived this morning and most of the 10 United States' professional stars, who will defend the Gold Cup emblem of golf supremacy, were expected by nightfall.

Team captain Ben Hogan of the United States, who has been looking over the site of the event for several days, said last night that the Pacific Northwest's seasonal "heavy air and the rain-sogged Portland Golf club would slow any power drives this week."

The weather forecast for continued rains this week would retain the course conditions that are familiar to the British players.

Half of the members of the United States team have played over the Portland course in previous tournaments here, but only two—Byron Nelson and Sam Snead—are veterans of previous Ryder competitions of the Britishers, Captain Henry Cotton has competed twice and won his singles matches in both events, and Dai Rees, now kingpin of the Island golfers, played in 1937.

One singles match the golf fans would like to see paired here this week-end would pit Nelson against Rees, and a sequel to their 1937 meeting when, then comparatively unknown Welshman upset the Texan, 3 and 1.

The American team has captured four of six matches since the initial event in 1927. The United States successfully defended the cup in 1937 at Southport, England. Britain won twice, in 1929 and 1933.

The war in Europe interrupted the alternating year schedule, although the cup was not held in 1939 and 1941, but did not play.

Two-ball foursomes open the matches on Saturday with one point scored in each of the four matches. On Sunday, eight match-play singles carry the competition, again over the 36-hole route, with a point each for the victors.

In outlining the activities of the past year, the chairman mentioned that a total of nine meetings had been held with the average attendance of 13 members each meeting. Two recreational evenings were held, one Parents' Night and a special Scout supper were also held during the course of the year. Mrs. Rene Hebert, secretary-treasurer of the group, gave the financial condition of the committee and this showed a balance of over one hundred dollars still remaining in the funds.

Annual Catholic Charities Drive Opened With Dinner

Under the joint chairmanship of Joseph Labrecque and Frank J. Conway, the annual Catholic Charities Campaign, which has an objective of $22,000 this year, was officially opened by a largely attended dinner held at the Sacred Heart Hospital last evening.

Principal speaker of the evening was His Excellency, Right Reverend Philippe Desranleau, Bishop of Sherbrooke.

His Excellency stated that in September of this year, the School Commission was faced with the problem of 1700 more children than were enrolled in 1946. He pointed out that with the rapidly increasing population, there is always a poor element which requires the continued help of the more fortunate citizens. He urged that the people of Sherbrooke continue to be generous as they have been in the past and reminded his listeners that if there is less misery in Sherbrooke, it is due to the contributions of the public.

"The only fault I can find with the Sacred Heart Hospital," said His Excellency, "is the fact that it is too small. When one old person is called to rest, there are always 12 or 15 waiting to replace him. When a child grows up and leaves the institution, there are more than can be accommodated, who are hoping to be accepted."

In a brief review, His Excellency spoke of the other charitable organizations which benefit from this drive, and dwell on the marvelous work accomplished by the rehabilitation school and the Little Sisters of the Assumption, who work entirely among the poor.

He congratulated the organizers in their large number present at the opening dinner and said that auspicious beginning spoke well for the ultimate success of the campaign. He asked the donors to make the task easier for solicitors by receiving them pleasantly and giving cheerfully, according to their means.

Alderman Albert Charpentier, representing Mayor Guy Bryant, wished the organizers and solicitors the greatest possible success. He said that with the experience acquired by the workers in the previous years, and the great charity of the local citizens, he was certain that the drive would surpass even their expectations.

Short addresses in French and in English were given by the joint chairmen, after which Canon Irene Pinard, pastor of St. Michael's Cathedral, was called upon for a few words.

He also declared himself well pleased with the large attendance and expressed the thanks of the committee and those present, to the Misses Marie-Anne and Blanche Couture, who were responsible for the musical entertainment.

Those taking part, all pupils of Miss Marie-Anne Couture, were Miss Therese Fedneault, Jean Paul Fortier, Gerard Normandin, Prof. Maurice Lacroix and Gerard Benoit, Miss Blanche Couture acted as accompanist.

Seated at the head table, in addition to the chairman, were His Excellency, Right Rev. Philippe Desranleau, Canon J. Pinard, Mgr. O. Z. Letendre, Judge Dorais Panetier and Mrs. Panetier, Alderman and Mrs. Albert Charpentier, Alderman and Mrs. A. Trudeau, Mr. and Mrs. A. Cote, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bouffard, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Hebert, Mr. and Mrs. R. Choyer, Pierre-Emile Couture, Mr. and Mrs. E. Cadieux, Rev. Canon Napoleon Codere, Rev. Canon Charles McGee, Rev. Rosario Moisan, Rev. M. Mathieu, Rev. A. Larouche, Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. Codere, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lemieux, Rev. M. Lavreol.

The campaign will close on Tuesday, November 4th and a dinner, followed by a broadcast, will be held every evening at the Sacred Heart Hospital.

Officers are Selected for Irish Scouts

At the annual meeting of the St. Pat's Boy Scout Group Committee held at St. Patrick's Academy, Henry Crochetiere was re-elected chairman of the group for the coming year.

In outlining the activities of the past year, the chairman mentioned that a total of nine meetings had been held with the average attendance of 13 members each meeting. Two recreational evenings were held, one Parents' Night and a special Scout supper were also held during the course of the year. The chairman also mentioned that the troop now numbered 26 Scouts and that the last were doing a fine job. The Scouts attended camp during the month of July at the new district camp-site.

Mrs. Rene Hebert, secretary-treasurer of the group, gave the financial condition of the committee and this showed a balance of over one hundred dollars still remaining in the funds.

Pat Timmons acted as president of election, being helped in his work by Laurier Lapiere.

Among those elected were: Honorary patrons, Rev. Canon J. C. McGee, D. J. McManamy, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lamy; honorary chairman, Maurice Parsons, president of the St. Pat's Old Boys' Association; honorary vice-chairman, Frank Chene, chairman, Henry Crochetiere (re-elected); vice-chairman, Tom Palmer; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Rene Hebert (re-elected); chaplain, Rev. Father L. Tierney.

Prior to the close of the meeting, Mr. Laurier Lapiere resigned the position of assistant Scoutmaster of the troop. It was decided at the meeting that for the next few months the regular monthly meeting of the committee would be held on the second Monday of the month instead of the second Wednesday.

THE MEMBERS OF THE GROUP COMMITTEE include the parents of the Scouts, the members of the executive of the St. Pat's Old Boys' Association and members of St. Patrick's Parish who are actively interested in Scouting.

LESLIE ROBERTS AND THE UNITED STATES

Published elsewhere on this page, under the "Press Comments" column, is an excerpt from Time news magazine, which refers to a recent column by Leslie Roberts, of Knowlton and Montreal. The story does little credit to Mr. Roberts, who seems to have dreamt his ideas as to the Canadian attitude towards the United States.

Mr. Roberts calls the United States, says Time, "an inept, conceited selfish country, drunk with power." He then goes on to say that in the past two years friendship between Canada and the United States has greatly deteriorated, and says that if the U. S. would admit Britain's post-war travail "stems from what she did for us in 1940 and 1941" Canadians would feel better disposed toward their southern neighbor.

A perusal of Time's report of Mr. Roberts' mouthings will create a feeling of mixed amusement and annoyance in the minds of those men who heard him speak a year ago, to the Sherbrooke Rotary Club. His defence of Britain's war effort—an effort that needs no defense, and has been continually praised by all responsible U. S. newspapers—is very belated, in view of his statement in Sherbrooke that "the defence of Stalingrad was the turning point of the war."

Cast against the background of Mr. Roberts' speech in Sherbrooke, which was a stirring defense of Russia's actions up to that time, and an explanation of Soviet suspicion of the Western Powers—a suspicion Mr. Roberts found quite natural—his blast against the United States appears very close to the usual Communist propaganda.

A COMMONSENSE SETTLEMENT

In view of the long record of peaceful solutions of wage differences between the Canadian railways and their employees, the idea of a strike tying up the country's transportation system seemed almost fantastic to the average Canadian. However, this does not diminish from the relief felt throughout the Dominion over the week-end announcement that an agreement on the matter of paid holidays for railway workers has removed the threat of a nation-wide walk-out next week-end.

Any serious dislocation of the rail transport system would have been a serious blow to the economy of the Dominion which is carrying on under many obstacles. The situation would have been even more critical in view of the approach of winter, the fall months witnessing an additional burden upon the railways who are seeking to rush as much freight to its destination as possible before snow and cold weather adds to the difficulties of normal operation.

The manner in which the railway employees approached the question of longer paid holidays offers a striking contrast to the attitude of certain other unions and demonstrates effectively that, when reason and goodwill are apparent on both sides, the differences can be adjusted to the advantage of all concerned. In this particular case, through the due processes of arbitration and negotiation as provided by law, the union members gained the greater part of their requests. There was no disruption of the movement of freight or passengers and there was no lost time for the men.

For more than a third of a century, there has been no major strike on a Canadian railway. Yet, through the ordinary processes of collective bargaining the wages of the Canadian railway workers have steadily advanced until they are among the highest paid of any group of employees in the Dominion. At the same time there has been a consistent improvement in working conditions.

With the threat of a strike definitely removed, the Canadian roads can now tackle the problem of handling the record traffic which is promised for the coming winter, while business generally can plan for the future without the fear of a disruption of their supply and distribution system.

A NEW FRENCH CRISIS

The sharp gains registered by the followers of General Charles de Gaulle in yesterday's French municipal elections indicates that the Communist wave in that country has passed its crest for the time being at least and that it is now receding. But the outcome of the voting does nothing to relieve the critical position in which the government of Socialist Premier Paul Ramadier finds itself. Lacking a majority in the National Assembly, Premier Ramadier has been seeking to carry along with the support of other groups whose ideologies are somewhat similar to those of his own party. No coalition of these groups can hope to establish a majority government, with the result that the Cabinet is in danger of imminent defeat, a danger which is accentuated by the uncooperative attitude of the national employees who are refusing any compromise in their wage demands which the government considers inflationary.

The entire French situation offers a grim warning against the dangers of the bloc system in parliamentary affairs. Here we find one or two groups enabled to impose their will upon the vast majority of the people because those elements representing the leading parties cannot find a common basis for action.

The set-back to the Communists may be considered as something of a rejection of the advances made to the French voters through the recently re-established Comintern, the aggressive expansion agency of the Soviets. Taken in conjunction with voting in Italy and Switzerland, it can be assumed that the people of Western Europe still believe their best hope for economic restoration is through the Marshall plan. However, it is essential that aid given by this means be forthcoming without undue delay, as any deferring of the assistance will only strengthen the hand of the Communist agitators.

Washington Column

BY PETER EDSON

MARSHALL PLAN WILL BE TOUGH

Carrying out the Marshall Plan to aid Europe is going to be no breeze. The outlook for getting the Europeans enough to eat is bad, but the outlook for getting them enough steel and manufactured goods is worse.

This is shown by comparing import requirements of the 16 western European nations with American surpluses available for export. The things Europe needs worst are things the U. S. is also short of. The Paris Report of the 16-nation Committee of European Economic Co-operation admits there will be a four-year shortage of 12 million short tons of ingots and semi-finished steel.

This assumes that Europe will be able to import all the coke it needs, plus 15 million tons of rich iron ore, eight million tons of scrap and three million tons of manganese. There is no assurance this can be done. The U. S. is now exporting steel to Europe at the rate of 1.5 million tons a year. This is about half of the three million tons required.

The U. S. may be able to supply all the coking coal that's needed. There is, however, a U. S. shortage of cokes and scrap. Before the war, this country had great surpluses of scrap which were shipped all over the world—Japan as well as Europe. It's no longer here. Scrap collection drives may have to be re-instituted, as in wartime. As shown by Secretary of the Interior J. A. Krug's new report on national resources and aid to Europe, U. S. domestic steel consumption is now at peacetime peak. Steel production is running at 97 per cent of rated capacity, but still can't produce enough for home needs.

CAN OUR STEEL INDUSTRY SUPPLY DEMAND? There is a first-class fight on whether the U. S. steel industry is big enough to take care of today's demands. The big steel makers insist it is, and they oppose expansion. One of their arguments is that there are not enough raw materials to feed increased steel-making capacity. Another is that any contemplated expansion would, itself, consume needed steel. Europe apparently needs all three—raw materials, steel and steel-making capacity.

The Krug Report indicates there is plenty of American plant capacity to manufacture all the freight cars, tractors and new machinery needed by Europe—if the steel is available. The Paris Report says Europe will need 103,000 freight cars in the next two years. European freight cars are only half the size of U. S. cars, so the need is translated into 51,500. It is no great order, considering that the U. S. car-building industry turned out 80,000 cars in 1941 and has an annual capacity of 204,000 cars today.

But in the first half of 1947, only 54,000 cars were turned out and it has been impossible to get production up to 100,000 cars a month.

Industrial equipment Europe needs includes electrical, petroleum and steel plants, agricultural and mining machinery. The Paris Report puts the needs at $4.5 billion over the next four years.

U. S. PRODUCTION STILL LAGS The Krug Report says U. S. production reached a peak value of $18 billion in 1944, but is now running at a rate of only $11 billion. The volume is a fourth less than indicated, because prices are now 28 per cent higher than in 1940.

Exports are now 10 per cent of total U. S. production of industrial equipment, or about $1 billion worth a year. Theoretically, it would take little increase in volume to meet European requirements. But again the things that Europe needs are the same things that American industry wants—increased electric generator and line capacity, more or bigger steel plants, greater petroleum refining capacity and more petroleum to run through it.

Agricultural and mining machinery requirements for Europe can probably be taken care of without depriving American farmers and mines already mechanized of needed equipment.

Looking at the whole picture, as Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman's Committee of 19 will do when it meets again, it will be apparent that aid to Europe under the Marshall Plan will be no cinch. Smart management and the exercise of considerable government control over exports and allocations will be necessary to put it over.

A Congress not too sympathetic to the Marshall Plan concept can easily find plenty of reasons for sabotaging it. And U. S. labor disturbances or crop failures of any magnitude during the next four years could easily wreck the whole business.

EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

Time News Magazine "See Here, Uncle Sam." Less than a month after the picture monthly New World proposed political union of the U.S. and Canada (Time, Oct. 13), another Canadian voice sang a different song. The U.S. wrote Journalist Leslie Roberts (in a series of articles to be syndicated next week in Canadian and U.S. newspapers), is an inept, conceited, selfish country, drunk with power. Two years ago, said he, friendship between the two countries was at an all-time high. But "in recent months, this feeling has changed sharply. If it has not become hostile, at least it can be described as edgy."

"Where Is Your Respect?" The man who leveled this blast was no third-rater. Gregarious, greying Leslie Roberts, 51, a longtime newsmen, was executive assistant to Canada's Minister of National Defence in the early years of the war, later a war correspondent. Currently, he free-lances for such publications as the Saturday Evening Post, Reader's Digest, Collier's and Canada's top slick, Maclean's. On the side, he turns out a three-weekly column for the Montreal Herald.

Some of the things which have tended to alienate Canada's affection for the U.S., wrote Roberts, are pretty small: "In 1946, an expedition recruited by the U.S. Army... was on the point of sailing from Boston under U.S. Navy escort to carry out scientific experiments on Canada's Melville Island, without so much as by-your-leave. Where is your respect for the sovereignty of (your)..."

"(Your) Office of War Transportation in Washington banned shipment of American coal into Canada... in a dispute over unreturned freight cars... (It was) a picturesque incident which reflects a state of mind." "You think that anybody who doesn't act like an American, think like an American, or want to become an American... needs a psychiatrist."

Such attitudes, said Writer Roberts, "infringe proud people." But there have been other things, even more infuriating: "If Uncle Sam had come into World War II at the outset... if you even had the gallantry to admit that Britain's post-war travail stems from what she did for the rest of us in 1940 and 1941... Sam would not be what it is today. As Canadians see it, Uncle Sam's new status as dictator of the free world's economy derives directly from the Great Hangback of 1939."

Worst of all, said Roberts, has been the U.S. adoption of "atomic-dollar diplomacy," the "starkly American" idea that in advancing international credits the banker should be permitted to call the borrower's political and economic shots. "Because you don't like Communism (Canadians don't like it either), you came up with the idea of using the dollar to 'contain' Russian expansion... Because you do not like socialism, many of your leaders assert that the price of helping Britain, or giving the French a lift, must be an undertaking not to carry on ideological experiments with the dollars of the American people."

"Your technique... It has not worked, said Roberts. 'No-worse is this more clearly shown than by what happened to Canada, your close neighbor, good friend... Canada has been lending money to nations in need, to restore world trade. But at the same time, Canada has been paying cash for purchases in the U.S. 'Now Canada is forced to give serious consideration to sharp restriction of imports from the U.S. and curtailment of Canadian travel south of the border... In short, you are driving us back to economic nationalism... Canada is caught in the pincers of America's new power."

Down to here you have not shown aptitude to use it with wisdom, consideration or humility... You move in on people, not just people in Europe but on your own good neighbors, militarily, economically, and by indirection, politically... "You can't run other people's lives, Uncle... We simply do not enjoy being pushed around... Your technique is terrible."

"SOBER, REALISTIC AND UNDRAMATIC"

Canada's Minister of National Defence has declared that the Government's defence measures in the Arctic are sober, realistic and undramatic. Though few would question their sobriety and lack of drama, many may doubt their realism. For in the vast Arctic Canada is content, as the Minister of National Defence says, to follow a civilian rather than a military program.

The Government of the United States has adopted a different attitude towards its northern outposts of Alaska. There, it is true, a great program of civilian development has been instituted, with the aim of developing the pulpwood, oil, agriculture and other natural resources. But together with this civilian program there is also being instituted one of military preparation. Massive airfields, with permanent installations, are being built at a number of points, with a special development at Fairbanks, which is considered to be one of the strategic locations in polar defence.

Yet the value of defence in the Western Hemisphere lies, in cooperation between the nations involved in the same problems. The military development of Alaska will be rendered largely futile unless similar developments take place in the adjoining Canadian territories. Yet so far from northern defence of the continent taking a comprehensive and coordinated pattern, it is characterized by a combined civilian and military program in Alaska and a primarily civilian program in the Canadian northland.

Much of the curiously involved conflict and contradiction of attitude towards Canadian defence in the north appears in the pamphlet entitled "Canada's Defence," which has been published under the authority of Hon. Brooke Claxton. In certain sections the pamphlet emphasizes the seriousness of the problems of defence, and pledges the Government's resolute action. Yet in other sections, the pamphlet tends to diminish apprehensions and to suggest that a very elementary policy wholly adequate and justified.

Certainly public concern is roused by the warning on page eight that "distance and space have been drastically reduced and are still shrinking; and the shaping of world events and the changing centres of power have put Canada in a more important strategic position than she has ever been in before."

And confidence in the alertness and activity of the Government is invited by the statement in a special introductory note on the objectives of the Department of National Defence. It is declared in this note that "the object of Canadian policy is to do all that we can to prevent the outbreak of another world war, or, failing that, to ensure that we and our potential allies are in a position to win it, and win it quickly, if and when it does start."

Yet the statement of actual policy seems oddly muted and moderate after these preliminary warnings and assurances of preparations. It would seem that the warning about the shrinkage of space and the new importance of Canada's strategic position would have special reference to the Arctic, and that preparations to win the war quickly in company with our potential allies would have special reference to joint preparations with the United States in that region.

But on page 40 of the 42-page pamphlet, Arctic defence is treated in such terms as to suggest that it is not in the north-land that the new danger lies nor is it there that the Canadian policy of doing all it can is to be carried out. The passage reads: "In conclusion, I should like to comment briefly on the problems of northern defence. The subject has naturally engaged the attention of many people both here and abroad and some quite unfounded suggestions have been put forward. There is a persistent rumor, for example, that the United States Government has asked for bases in the Canadian north. This is a rumor I should like to deny emphatically. There has been talk of Maginot lines, of large scale defence projects, all of which is unwarranted and much of it fantastic. What we are trying to do is to view the situation soberly, realistically, and undramatically... Canada's program is thus primarily a civilian one to which contributions are made by the armed forces. This has been the pattern for many years."

On his return from his recent tour of inspection of the Alaskan bases, Gen. Eisenhower, the U.S. Army Chief of Staff and the supreme commander of the Canadian forces in the Second World War, said that the only fault he had to find with the new U.S. defences was that they are not enough. The Philippine islands, at the outbreak of the war, he said, were a fearful example of what can happen when such outposts are not properly defended. In short, the northland, if insufficiently defended, could provide the scene for another Pearl Harbor. And when the news of Pearl Harbor came to North America it was very sobering, very realistic and quite dramatic.

READING BY A SYSTEM

Fort William Times-Journal. A man in Winnipeg has systematized the reading of his paper. When he first picks it up, he goes through the pages quickly, from front to back. On this trip, though, he is little more than a headline glancer. But he has a pencil in his hand with a thick black lead. This he uses to put a circle around the headings of the news stories, editorials or articles in which he is particularly interested. In doing this, he has taken a hasty glance at a day's history in the world. He has found out what happened on the market, who won the hockey game, what occupied the attention of parliament, the latest word on crop prospects and the last minute situation on the international front.

Then he goes back to pore one to read carefully the items he has marked. In case he hasn't time to cover all the ringed subjects at the first sitting, he keeps the paper to finish later in the day or evening.

In almost all walks of life, the man who is well-informed does a better job, gets more enjoyment out of living. Happily, he becomes well-informed, one needs only to buy a paper every day and to choose wisely what he reads in that paper.

WINE RESISTS MACHINE AGE

New York Journal of Commerce. The bitter tang that has crept into much of the imported Italian wines is the result of mechanization of the wine industry in Italy. Italian wines earned their reputation while they were made by the age-old process of treading the juice out of the grapes by foot. Now modern presses have been introduced to mass produce the wine. The heavy presses crush not only the pulp of the grape but also small particles of the stems and the seeds. These impart the bitter tang to the flavor of the wine.

BETTER YOUR BRIDGE IN "LESSON SERIES"

With the increased interest in tournament bridge, this coming winter undoubtedly will be the biggest in the history of contract. In my travels I am impressed by the number of good bridge players both in the United States and in Canada.

I am devoting this week's articles to pointers which will give you a better understanding of the game, and every Thursday from now on I will give you a hand which I believe will improve your bridge.

First of all let us study the bidding of today's hand. Some players might pass the South hand. However, most tournament players will open the bidding with one spade. When North bids two diamonds, South will take the hand and four spades.

If South does pass on the first round and North opens up the bidding with one diamond, South should bid two spades, not one, in order to tell his partner that he practically had an opening bid. Four spades is the normal contract to arrive at, even though it can be defeated.

West is confronted with a problem on the opening lead. Naturally he does not want to lead away from an ace-queen. North bid diamonds, so it will cost him a trick to lead that suit. Therefore the selection of the doubleton club is a wise one.

Should East win the first club trick? He should not. The lead of the eight of clubs indicates a singleton or doubleton, and East should play to defeat the contract in case West has a doubleton.

Declarer wins the first club trick, and you can see his predicament. He could take three rounds of trumps, but he would then lose three hearts and the ace of clubs. His only chance is to lead a heart hoping to ruff one. But West wins this trick and plays the six of clubs, which East wins with the ace. A club is returned, West trumps and cashes the other heart trick, defeating the contract.

Canterbury Dean Has Altruistic Picture Of Russia

By DEWITT MACKENZIE AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Very Rev. Dr. Hewlett Johnson, much publicized Dean of Canterbury, who has just returned to England after a tour of Eastern Europe, tells us that the United States can make Yugoslavia its friend "with just 2,000 trucks."

The Dean said in an interview that there's a shocking lack of tools in Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Romania and Bulgaria, and added: "All they're anxious for is to make friends with the west."

Well, well! Even Yugoslavia—for these 2,000 trucks! And these are among the countries which make-up the nine-nation "cominform" recently created under direction of General Zhdanov, powerful member of Soviet Russia's Politburo, to fight the United States' effort to rehabilitate Europe economically. Zhdanov declared that "the U.S.S.R. will put all effort into seeing that the Marshall plan is not realized."

If Dr. Johnson's observations are accurate, then he has given us further striking proof that the small nations of Eastern Europe are indeed under Moscow's domination. For all these countries, and Russia herself, were urged to participate in the Marshall plan. The Soviet Union turned thumbs down on the invitation, and little Czechoslovakia, which had accepted readily, reserved its decision.

The Dean says the chief complaint among the people of Eastern Europe against the United States is that America wants to colonize them. He asserts that this feeling is based on the belief that the U.S. doesn't want these countries to build up industrial production which would make them more independent of highly industrialized countries.

"But you can't blame America for that," says the doctor magnanimously. "America wants a market for its goods."

We wish the good Doctor might have thought better of the United States. However, it apparently hasn't occurred to him that the United States might have had some altruistic intentions. It seems that all the United States is after is to increase its foreign markets and so acquire more gold. The only saving grace is that it can loan some of that gold to Britain—at interest, of course.

Dr. Johnson says he's coming to the United States next month to tell Americans about his observations in Eastern Europe. He will lecture from coast to coast. A couple of years ago after a trip to the U.S.A. the Dean said his visit had confirmed for him an opinion advanced by a predecessor as Dean of Canterbury—that America was 100 years behind the rest of the world in everything except religion, and in religion was 150 years behind.

"I agree with him completely," Dr. Johnson declared at a rally for the London Daily Worker, the Communist organ. About that same time the Dean addressed a London meeting of the British Soviet Society, observing the 29th anniversary of the revolution. He said Russia contained "a deep-rooted moral power equal to any known in the world—a power which is not going to be dominated, but benevolent to be used for the world's good."

It looks as though we backward, money-grubbing Americans have entirely the wrong slant about the benevolence of Russia. Anyway, it will be interesting to hear what Dean Johnson has to tell us. Perhaps he can help us better to understand the benevolent operations of the Soviet Union in the United Nations.

communities voting gave these results: Radical Socialists—4,007 councilors elected.

Socialists—2,610. Rightists—1,287. Communists—1,258. R.P.F.—993. Mouvement Republicain Populaire—379.

Various—722. Despite the R.P.F.'s comparatively poor showing in these returns, political observers believed that when the popular vote for the two elections was tallied de Gaulle's party would retain a clear majority.

The voting yesterday was not regarded as being so direct a bearing on the R.P.F.-Communist struggle as that of the previous Sunday, for local issues remained paramount in contests in the small communities.

The voting a week ago was final for all places having a population of more than 9,000. Yesterday's small town elections were to fill posts for which no candidates previously had obtained majorities. Only a plurality was needed.

The elections generally were reported orderly. Violence flared, however, in some Paris suburbs and in other cities as newly-elected municipals councils met to vote for

Fire Turns Bar Harbor Night Into Day—And Terror

This remarkable photo of Bar Harbor, Me., aflame was taken at 10 o'clock at night. But there was no darkness; the brilliant light from a 10-mile-long wall of flame that swept across Mt. Desert Island and Bar Harbor lighted the sky and left the city a ghost town.

This air view shows fire still eating away at Bar Harbor's famous summer colony although the section of the city in the foreground appears to have escaped serious damage. The battle to control the flames still was going on when the photographer flew over the scene in a Coast Guard plane.

mayors and other city officers. The worst outbreak was reported in the northern industrial city of Lille, where a crowd of Communists forced their way into the city hall through a cordon of police and interrupted the voting. Police restored order and a de Gaulle follower was elected mayor with a backing of Socialists and the M.R.P., but the Communists again surged into the building and forced suspension of the session.

A number of de Gaulleists and Socialists were reported beaten as they left the building. Similar riots occurred in Bateaux, a suburb of Paris, at Villeurbanne, near Lyon, and several other cities. At Lyon, Herriot was re-elected mayor—a post he has held for 36 years. The 75-year-old Radical Socialist leader had said he would not be a candidate, but finally yielded to the urging of friends.

centry Bryja, treasurer of the Polish Peasant party; two Peasant party Members of Parliament—Stefan Korbowski and Kasimir Bejinski, and their wives.

When Mikolajczyk's disappearance was reported, the government ordered an immediate investigation, but an informant said the check led to naught and that apparently the opposition head had long since crossed the Polish border.

Mikolajczyk clashed with the government over the parliamentary elections last Jan. 19. He charged pro-government parties with arresting and intimidating his followers and declared his party was cheated out of victory.

(U.S. and British officials supported Mikolajczyk's position. A statement from the United States State Department Jan. 28 said the Polish Government had used "coercion or intimidation against democratic elements" of Poland.)

"The square-jawed opposition leader has consistently fought in parliament against what he termed the 'lack of freedom of the press and speech in Poland and terrorism' by the security police.

Recently left-wing Peasant Party members—supported by pro-government political organizations—have attempted to oust Mikolajczyk as president of the party.

Meanwhile security police have gradually been liquidating the Polish Peasant organizations on charges that underground forces fighting the government were directly linked to Mikolajczyk's party. Thousands of his supporters have been jailed and 36 of his district headquarters have been closed by police.

Mikolajczyk had been appointed Vice Premier of Minister Agriculture in the "Provisional Government of National Unity" following the big-power discussions in Moscow in June, 1945.

When a new Government was formed last February by Premier Cyrankiewicz, Mikolajczyk and Polish Peasant party members were excluded from the cabinet.

Another Crown witness, John Harris, of Talahe, Fla., was Stafford's companion on the night Harrison was snatched. Harris said that during an argument Harrison had hit Stafford and a group gathered but as Harris himself went around the table someone hit him, knocking him to the ground. As he walked away he saw Stafford running away.

Harris went to his car and was starting it up when someone hit him. "You had better get out of here." A second man came up and told the first man not to let Harris go. This man said that his brother—Gerald Harrison—had been stabbed.

Detective Vincent McQuaide asked Harris to drive him to the police station and they were en route when Stafford was seen running along the road towards the car. Stafford came up and was searched by the detective, after which Stafford got in the car and they all drove to the station.

Seek Added Victims In Rail Crash

British Railway Officials Fear That Several Persons Missing in Latest Wreck May Have Met Death.

Goswick, Northumberland, England, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Rescue searching for additional bodies today in the wreckage of an Edinburgh-London express train which jumped the rails near here yesterday, killed at least 21 and injuring 71 in the second disaster in three days on Britain's war-worn rail-ways.

(Dispatches from Edinburgh placed the casualty figures at 23 dead and 70 injured.) The accident occurred on a stretch of track under repair near this northern England coastal town.

While workmen pried their way into telescoped coaches and tangled dining cars, a spokesman for the London and Northeastern Railroad said: "We know several persons are as yet unaccounted for and find their bodies may increase the toll by another two or three."

The express piled up at noon-time along a golf course whose clubhouse was transformed immediately into an emergency hospital.

The engine buried itself in a ditch and passengers extricated the injured crew members. Four coaches immediately behind it were telescoped. Seven others were overturned and badly battered. Only the three rear cars escaped damage.

Last Friday 31 persons were killed and 60 injured in a collision of two commuter trains at Crawley, a London suburb.

There have been six rail wrecks during the last year in Britain, with a death toll of 82—highest since 1915.

Melbourne, Oct. 27.—(Reuters)—The last Japanese soldier at large in the South Pacific area was captured today on Guadalcanal Island, the Melbourne Herald reported.

He had surrendered with the 19th Japanese Regiment at Bougainville at the end of the war, but escaped before his regiment was reorganized.

Recaptured 18 months ago, he escaped again and hid in the jungle. Native police ambushed him today and paraded him before their command.

His feet were wrapped in rags tied on with telephone wire, his uniform was in shreds and he had nothing but a waterbottle, a broken American bayonet and a Japanese trench shovel.

New Forest

until some rain falls. The fire is not spreading.

Portland, Me., Oct. 27.—(AP)—A forecast of rising winds augured fire flare-ups today in New England's exhausting battle against widespread forest fires that already have cost 20 lives and $32,000,000 damage.

For the first time in a week, the foggy army of fire-fighters held the line yesterday. "Under control" reports came from nearly all fire zones.

Meanwhile, Joseph A. O. Flynn, chief of Maine's state arson division, said it definitely had been established that three forest fires were set.

He added that a juvenile had been committed to the State School for Boys for setting fire behind buildings in Wisconsin, and that a man was being held at Bath on charges of breaking and entering, larceny and arson in connection with fires at a home and in a woods patch. Bath police reported, however, that the arson charges against the man were dropped.

Maine, which had 13 deaths and $30,000,000 of the property loss, still was the prime danger spot. Fires had blackened 100,000 of the state's 16,000,000 forest acres. The blazes were reported from the New Hampshire line to the Canadian border.

They were well in hand last night, however, except in York County, where flames moving slowly west from Union Falls, on the Saco River crept to within half a mile of the village of Clarks Mills.

Besides 13 dead, there were 14 injured seriously enough to be in hospitals and 17 listed as missing by the Red Cross.

The Red Cross, in charge of relief work, also listed 2,500 homeless, another 3,500 displaced, 830 permanent homes and 220 summer places destroyed, another 109 permanent homes damaged.

Suspicion that some of Maine's many fires had been set mounted to the point where "hundreds" in the estimate of York County Sheriff Everett A. Knight, went armed in that stricken area seeking alleged arsonists.

Knight called on these citizens,

House Seeks Early Close In Ontario

Ontario Legislature Holding Night Sessions in Effort to Clear Order Paper During Present Week.

Toronto, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The Ontario Legislature tonight holds its first night sitting of its resumed session in an effort to complete its business by the end of this week.

Whether it will reach adjournment by then depends largely on the amount of time taken up in discussion of non-Government bills and the zeal with which Opposition members offer resistance to passage of Government-sponsored measures.

Since the resumed session started last Wednesday, C.C.F. and Labor-Progressive members have spoken at length on their proposals and have forced several divisions.

With the Progressive Conservatives holding 66 of the 90 seats, non-Government bills which do not commend themselves to the Government have no hope of passage on a vote.

So far, four non-Government labor bills and one dealing with provision of milk to school children have been voted down. Approximately 14 more are on the order paper.

Still to come up for second reading are close to a dozen Government bills including amendments to the Milk Control Act, to the Power Commission and Public Utilities Commission Acts, the Liquor Control and Liquor Licence Acts, a new securities brokers-dealers bill and a Royal Ontario Museum bill.

All these Government measures are expected to be given early consideration and so far Opposition members have given no indication of their attitude toward them.

Bills sponsored by the Liberals all were considered before the six-month adjournment last April. Thus far the party members, led by Farquhar Oliver, have said comparatively little during debates.

Mr. Oliver obtained from Premier Drew a statement that the Government does not plan to institute the Kennedy report of the Royal Commission on Forestry during the resumed session. Mr. Drew told Mr. Oliver one of the report's suggestions, stopping of the export of pulp to the United States, already was being put into effect.

whom he called self-appointed vigilantes, to "put their guns away" lest some innocent person be killed or injured.

Gov. Horace Hilgirth said authorities were "watching closely" all persons they suspected might be firebugs.

Re-entry of the first evacuees of Bar Harbor, which lost scores of swank summer estates as well as 300 year-round homes, appeared probable today.

Police Chief George C. Abbott said some of 2,200 women and children might be permitted back in town, two-thirds ruined by one of the state's worst fires. Power service had been restored and the Board of Health reported "no unsanitary conditions."

At the same time, influential citizens predicted re-building of the town—perhaps on a less lavish scale.

"We have lost our larger homes," said Banker Sheldon Goldthwaite, "but the enthusiastic younger generation (of wealthy summer families) will rebuild here... although their homes will be on a smaller scale."

A few seconds later mechanics at the Athens airport reported they saw a bright flash of yellow light illuminate the sky on the other side of the mountain range about 15 miles southeast of Athens.

A heavy thunderstorm was raging at the time, however, and they thought the flash might be lightning.

SMOKE SIGNALS!

In early pioneer days smoke signals meant only one thing—Indian communication. As the eye sweeps over the panorama of Quebec's rich "Production Valley," it is greeted by thousands of great chimneys pouring forth the smoke of industry. Today, these smoke signals speak plainly and clearly of the rapid industrial growth of the Province of Quebec, of the progressive nature of its people; of the wealth of raw material and electrical energy which has drawn to this Province industries of every size and nature; of the many new jobs opened to the workers of Quebec and of the increased prosperity gained by the citizens of this Province. The Shawinigan Water and Power Company, by its development of "Production Valley" and by its distribution of low-cost hydro-electric power to industry, is one of the important factors which go into making Quebec's smoke signals among the most eloquent in the world.

PRODUCTION VALLEY

Industry must eventually locate in a district where it can operate most profitably. In "Production Valley" the 25,000 square miles served by The Shawinigan Water and Power Company, manufacturers have found not only the average unit selling price of hydro-electric power the lowest on the continent, but governmental co-operation and encouragement, sound civic administration, low taxes and contented and dependable workers. These factors, and its ideal location, have made "Production Valley" one of the most prosperous and attractive industrial areas in all Canada.

This advertisement is designed to show the importance of industry to the economic welfare of Quebec Province. It is one of a series dealing with industries located in Quebec's "Production Valley."

Unwise Marriage

Girl's Fiance Should Break Off With Older Woman

Dear Dorothy Dix: My boy friend and I are very much in love with each other. We are both in our late twenties and could be married and live happily ever after except for a curious problem that confronts us. It is this: When he was 16 he began seeing a woman who was 11 years older than he. She advised him and helped him with his school work. During the war he proposed to her, but she put him off until peacetime and now he realizes that he never loved her but admired her for her intelligence and helpfulness. She worked her way through school and things weren't so easy for her, and that is why he hates to hurt her by telling her that he is in love with me and wants to call the whole thing off between them.

DOROTHY DIX

What should he do? Answer: There's nothing to be confused about, for the situation is perfectly plain and there is only one sensible solution to it. That is for your boy friend to do the honorable and honest thing by telling the woman the truth.

What happened is just what is always happening with young boys. Nearly every lad's first sweetheart is his teacher. It is a hangover from the mother-complex. The boy feels more at ease with the older woman, who mothers him and helps him with his studies, than he does with girls of his own age. It is part of the education, but it should not be taken seriously, for a few years change the situation and the boy's fancy turns from teacher to a little cutie in his own age class.

Eleven years, anyway, is too much difference in the ages of a husband and wife when the wife is the older. It is not very likely that the older woman is in love with your boy friend, so there need be no hesitation about avoiding the tragedy it would be if he made the mistake of feeling that he was obligated to marry her when he is in love with you.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a desperate woman, so depressed I fear I will go mad. The reason I am so bored is because I have nothing to do. I am 34, married to a fine man. We live with my mother and she runs everything her way. The only way we get along with her is to let her do it, without any interference. But that leaves me with no home of my own and nothing to do. We have no children.

What can I do when I feel that life isn't worth living and the years ahead are empty?

Answer: All idle people are miserable and the simple remedy for you is to get a job that will keep you so busy you won't have time to dwell on your feelings. If you have no need to earn money and are not trained for any occupation, the best thing you can do is to leave your mother and set up a home of your own. Nothing is more fascinating than housework if you put your interest in it. You can have a lot of fun in buying new furniture and draperies and learning to cook.

The Record will be pleased to receive any letters to this Dorothy Dix column. These will be forwarded to Miss Dix who will answer them as quickly as possible.

In The Women's Sphere

MODERN MARRIAGE

SYNDICATE FOR "SITTERS"

Dr. Paul Popenoe

Women can save themselves a lot of time and money, if they'll learn to co-operate. Mrs. de G. is an illustration. She and her husband aren't getting enough social life. "Lately we hardly get out an evening a month," she complains. "We can't leave our little girl, two years old, alone in the house. It's hard to get a baby sitter, and you never know whether you can trust them or not. I don't mean that one will run away with my husband, like I've been reading about lately; he isn't that kind. But the expense of a baby sitters doubles or triples the cost of an evening's entertainment. We can't stand it. Yet we need an outing occasionally. Why doesn't some organization provide help for the thousands of young mothers in my situation?"

Why don't you thousands of young mothers, or at least half a dozen of you, form an organization to help yourselves, Mrs. de G.? Your difficulty is a real and serious one, but the way out isn't mysterious. The address on your letter is in a section of the city that is densely populated. I'm certain that within five minutes walk of your home there are five other young mothers with babies of about the same age. All of you face the same problem.

Why don't you get together—even two of you, as a start—for mutual benefit? Take Isabel Jones and her husband, just around the corner to begin with. Tonight you and your husband go to her house for the evening, take your baby along—the can sleep there till they come home from the movies and meantime you are looking out for Junior Jones. Tomorrow night the Jones will come to your house and reverse the process, so you and your husband can go out in comfort and safety.

How are you going to get in touch with Isabel Jones? Send out a general alarm! Ask the policemen what families have small children. Put a notice in the neighborhood paper. Canvass the Sunday Schools.

It may be easier than you think to create a little "syndicate" through which four or five mothers can each get a couple of afternoons off each week, and an evening whenever they want it. You'll be pioneers in an important enterprise, and it won't cost you a cent!

Questions and Answers

Q—Is there any truth in the statement that many divorced persons would like to remarry the partner they lately discarded?

A—Dr. C. W. Schroeder, a University of Chicago sociologist, canvassed several hundred divorced men and women in Peoria, Ill. One in every four expressed a desire to remarry the former partner "if circumstances were favorable."

Q—Do you think so-called companionate marriages bring real happiness?

A—Burgess and Cottrell, University of Chicago sociologists who studied intensively more than 500 marriages, say that "if companionate marriage be defined as a marital union where children are neither present nor desired, it is one which on the average grades very low in marital happiness."

Mr. Harrison Jones, of Montreal, cousin of the groom, presided at the organ. The front of the church was banked with cedar and autumn leaves, baskets of yellow and bronze pompons and maiden hair ferns. The guests pews, marked with white satin bows completed the decorations.

The bride, given away by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white blush satin, with train and an heirloom veil embroidered with silk net extending beyond her train and held in place with orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, gift of the groom. She carried a semi-cascade bouquet of orchids and white roses. FALL FOOTPRINTS... High Climbing Shoes Step to Style

Stepping into the autumn fashion scene are the high climbing shoes, above. For the city suit, center, gray suede footgear has double ankle straps, closed toe and heel. Starting at lower left, clockwise around the central picture are: brown suede daytime shoes, styles in evening footwear are often criss-crossed with straps from toe to ankle. In between straps and shoe-soles, however, these Cinderella slippers of gold or silver kid are apt to look as open as a Roman sandal. Newest looking fashions in footwear, of course, are the closed styles. But because of the fit and feel of the shoe that opens up at toe or heel or at both ends, this

Ayer's Cliff, Oct. 27.—The family of Dr. C. L. Brown, entertained on October 19, in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of his professional service in Ayer's Cliff and district.

The spacious and attractive home was en fete for the occasion with autumn flowers. The bronze mums were gifts from the family; the American Beauty roses, the gift of Dr. Richard Gaudet, of Sherbrooke; sweet peas a personal gift from Mr. Knud Henriksen, of Henriksen's Nursery, Ayer's Cliff, and yellow and white potted mums.

Upwards of two hundred and seventy-five guests registered in the beautiful guest book, made by the Doctor's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Glen C. Brown, of Coaticook. This was on the beautiful desk presented to him the evening before from his friends in the Eastern Townships, together with the gift book with innumerable names printed by Miss Mildred Paul.

Receiving with the guest of honor were his sons and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Brown, of Coaticook, Mr. Galen Brown, his sister-in-law, Mrs. S. S. Worthen, Jr., and her son, Mr. S. S. Worthen, Jr.

Tea was served from the dining room, where Mrs. H. P. Stockwell, of Stanstead, Mrs. Evelyn Knutson, of Lennoxville, Mrs. F. O. Rand, Mrs. Earlie Libby and Miss M. L. Kezar poured alternately at the lace covered table, which was centered with dark rose snap dragons in a cut-glass bowl and matching tapers in silver holders.

Mrs. David Young was in charge of the serving of teas and drinks and refreshments. She was assisted by Miss Elaine Knutson, of Lennoxville, Miss Gertrude Ketcham, of Rock Island, Mrs. H. Nelson Pierce, Mrs. L. O. Piercy, Miss Kay Dohs, Miss Jean Chadsey and Miss Leta Dustin, who very ably served all the guests who called to pay their respect to their loyal friend and kind doctor. The many who were unable to be present sent their profound regret by letter or telegram, all of which contained words of commendation over his long years of practice in this community and of the very good friend he had been to them. All extended congratulations and best wishes that he may for many years more continue to enjoy good health.

Doctor Brown's interests through these many years have varied but the welfare of his people has at all times been nearest his heart. His profession first, education second, not forgetting that "Home and His Family" were first and foremost. It is known by all that it was the love in his home that made it possible for Dr. Brown to carry on such a successful career and to be widely called by generations the dearly loved family doctor, friend and adviser.

That Dr. Brown's only daughter, Mrs. B. S. Hamilton (Marguerite), Dr. Hamilton and Bob, of Port Angeles, Wash., were unable to be present was most regretted.

but while here in August they completed all the plans for this "At Home," and all who know Mrs. Hamilton realize how much she was present in thought.

Many pictures were taken during the afternoon and one unique feature was when Dr. Brown posed with his oldest patient, Mr. D. B. Keet, who is in his ninety-fourth year. It was to the Keet home on Brown's Hill, that the doctor was called soon after his arrival in Ayer's Cliff. It had been hoped it would be possible to have had the second oldest patient, Mrs. D. L. Paul, in her ninety-second year, in this picture but she was unable to attend.

The guest of honor received another floral gift of gladioli from Mr. R. E. Fisher, of Bolton; and a beautiful Coburn painting of the "Country Doctor in Winter," which was the gift of Mr. H. A. Norton. For all gifts and for every last effort made by each and every one who made such a celebration possible Dr. Brown is most grateful, but he who has given "this all" is modest enough to claim he was not deserving of so much. But the people know and feel differently and express the hope that the years ahead may hold only Life's best things for him, "Our Country Doctor."

Among those from a distance were Dr. and Mrs. George Stevenson, of Danville; Dr. and Mrs. T. Wells, Lennoxville; Dr. and Mrs. M. Stalker, Ormstown; Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Stockwell, Montreal; Dr. and Mrs. George Wood, Magog; Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Spier, North Hatley; Dr. and Mrs. R. V. Whyte, Stanstead; Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Quintin and Dr. H. S. Commencement Exercises Held By North Hatley Consolidated School

North Hatley, Oct. 27.—The North Hatley Consolidated School held its "School Opening" in the Town Hall and presented a program, which embraced all grades, which in the opinion of many was the most interesting of recent years.

The program was opened by the entire assembly, student body and audience, singing "O Canada." Grades three to seven next, sang three French songs.

In the absence of the chairman, of the School Board, Mr. Farquhar, inspector of education, for Stanstead County, acted as chairman. He greeted the audience on behalf of the school, and presented the rest of the program. A play, in the interest of Fire Prevention Week, entitled, "These Matches Speak," was given by Grades three and four, followed by choral reading and round singing by Grade five.

Mr. Burton Hersey, principal of the school, addressed the audience, and gave a summary of the activities of the school year. In addition to their studies the school is active in the Junior Red Cross work and sports, such as track, hockey and skating, and all the teachers are

INCREASE OF BODY FLUID CAUSES EDEMA

By William A. O'Brien, M.D.

When the amount of fluid between the cells in a part of the body increases, the condition is known as edema; when the whole body is affected, it is called dropsy. Edema is a common symptom of many diseases, and there is a special treatment for each form.

The fluid in the spaces between the cells is in direct communication with the blood, so that whatever affects one will change the other. When the heart muscle becomes weak, for example, the blood is not pumped rapidly enough, and the fluid backs up in the tissues from the too-slow exchange.

An obstruction of the veins which pass to the liver may cause an extra amount of fluid to accumulate in the abdominal cavity, a condition known as ascites.

Some forms of kidney trouble produce swellings of much of the body. Following infection with scarlet fever or streptococcal sore throat, the kidney may become so swollen that blood-flow through the organ is blocked. This results in an accumulation of fluid in the tissues which would normally drain off through the kidney into the urine.

In inflammation of the tissues, edema develops from several causes. The blood slows down in order to fight the germs and, as this raises the pressure, tissue fluid is not absorbed into the blood. Lymph vessels at the site also become plugged and the arteries are injured by the germ poisons and these add to the fluid accumulation. The extra fluid is absorbed when the infection heals.

Adrenalin Eases Swelling In allergy, the fluid accumulation is caused by a substance known as histamine, which paralyzes the arteries. Smaller swellings, called ordinary hives, or large ones, known as giant hives, are the result. Injections of adrenalin, which quickly eases the swelling, may be life-saving, if vital parts are affected.

In famine, swellings of the body from insufficient food are

SHERBROOKE COPS INITIAL FIXTURE BY SWAMPING CRANE 19-0

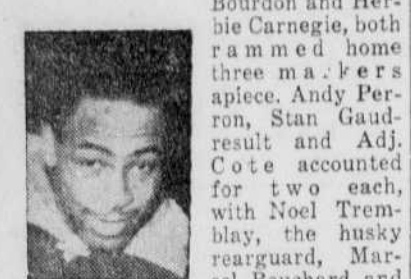

Locals Display Too Much Power For Visitors; Tony Demers Leads Parade With Four Goals In Wide Open Tilt

Displaying too much strength the Sherbrooke St. Francis Hockey Club made their initial appearance, before the local fans, by overwhelming the Crane squad, from the Metropolis, yesterday afternoon, at the Arena, by the score of 19-0.

The light crew from Montreal were no match for the heavy, fast skating local squad and if it had not been for the outstanding work of Boudreau, who played two periods, and Campeau, who performed during the last stanza in the nets, the score might have been much higher.

Sherbrooke banged home four tallies in the first frame, bounced back with six in the middle stanza and then finished matters off in the final period by making the red light flash nine times.

Tony Demers led the scoring parade with four tallies. Armand Boudreau and Herbie Carnegie, both of whom had home pieces, also scored.

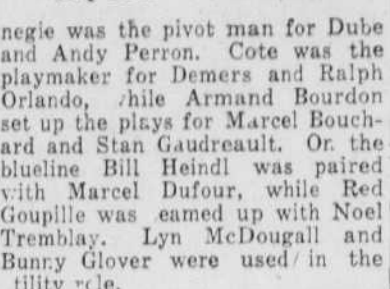

H. Carnegie

Coach Dugre presented a smooth, skating outfit backed up by a robust, fast breaking quartet of blue-line defenders. The goal keeping chores are in the hands of a very capable back-stop, Paul Leclerc. Leclerc did not have the opportunity of showing the local house, but they gave a good account of themselves, and presented a fast skating, light bunch of hard workers. Boudreau, who worked for two periods in the nets, gave a very good account of himself and turned away many a real threat on his citadel, and was one of the shining lights of the afternoon fixture. His replacement, Campeau, had his hands full at turning aside the avalanche of rubber that descended on him, and for the larger part of the afternoon it seemed that both goalies were left stranded, as the local boys banged away at rebound after rebound, with the defence men standing by giving no protection whatsoever.

Gilles Dube and Adj. Cote took part in the tilt after being reinstated Saturday by Frank Selke, general manager of the Canadiens, and made their presence felt, during the afternoon. Herbie Carnegie...

LESNEVICH AND MAURIELLO TO CLASH FRIDAY

New York, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Brusil cowboys moved out of Madison Square Garden today and fight fans were eagerly hoping for some assorted mayhem at the swat salon Friday night when light heavyweight champion Gus Lesnevich and tough Tami Mauriello clash on the fourth time.

Lesnevich has beaten the Bronx jockey three times in the last six years and ordinarily it's three strikes and your out, or three sets and match. But their non-title fight last summer brought in a large chunk of cash for the Damon measure of excitement for the faithful, enough by Twentieth Century S.C. reasoning—to bring them together again.

The Cliffside Park, N.J., champion won a clear-cut decision the last time out at Ebbets Field but Mauriello was coming up fast in the end. Gus will be favored again in this non-title tilt, although the hyphen could end it quick if he tags there is a strong chance that Mauriello's Navy carpenters mate with his right.

Tami, who was a light heavy when he dropped his first two decisions to Lesnevich back in 1941, staggered Joe Louis with a right-hander from the bleachers before the heavyweight king decided the curtain down quickly in '46.

Besides bringing boxing back to the Garden after a six-weeks run by the rodeo, the show will mark the 10th anniversary for the Mike Jacobs organization at the big sports arena.

In the decade the 20th has featured 25 present and former world champions from all divisions except the heavyweight. Sol Strauss, acting director of the 20th, plans to remedy that with a title bout between 112-pound champion Rinky Monaghan of Eire and Hawaiian Dado Marino. Strauss now is dickering for the fight.

Along with Lesnevich, two other champions will see action this week. Willie Pep, the classy featherweight king from Hartford, Conn., takes on Archie Wilmer of Philadelphia in a non-title 10 at the Quaker City Monday night and Sugar Ray Robinson, welterweight titleholder from Harlem, clashes with California Jackie Wilson in an over-the-weight 10 at Los Angeles Tuesday night.

Also slated for combat during the week are Marcel Censario, Charles and Charlie Fusari. Cerdan, the Moroccan mauler who holds the European middleweight title, faces Anton Taadik, the rugged Bostonian, in a 10 at the Chicago Stadium Friday night. Charles, Cincinnati light heavy contender, takes on Clarence Jones of Buffalo, N.Y., in a 10 at Huntington, W. Va., Monday. Fusari, a disappointment in recent showings, hopes to get back among the top welterweights at the expense of Boston's Johnny Cesario in a Newark, N.J., 10 Thursday night.

N.H.L. LEADERS Standing—Montreal, Boston, won three, lost one, points six. Points—Richard, Montreal, seven points. Goals—Lach, Montreal, J. Conacher, Detroit, four. Assists—Richard, Montreal, four. Penalties—Brown, Chicago, 12 minutes. Shutouts—Durnan, Montreal, Lumley, Detroit, one each.

WEEK-END STARS Glen Harmon, Montreal, whose brace of second period goals gave Canadiens a 4-2 victory over Detroit.

Joe Carthy, Boston, whose third period tally gave the Bruins a 3-2 decision over Chicago.

Ted (Teeter) Kennedy, whose three points aided the Leafs in defeating Chicago Saturday, 5-1.

P.H.L. Will Remain An Amateur Circuit, Says Ernest Compte

Montreal, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Ernest Compte, President of the Provincial Hockey League announced last night following a special league meeting that the P.H.L. will remain an amateur circuit under the jurisdiction of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

This meeting was called after several league directors requested a "break" with the C.A.H.A., because of raiding tactics by professional clubs, was attended by representatives from Lachine, Victoriaville, Ve r d u n, Sherbrooke and Cornwall.

Compte said that the league was satisfied with a statement made by Azaire Choquette, president of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, that "both the Q.A.H.A. and C.A.H.A., will continue to work in the interest of amateur leagues and will discuss the P.H.L.'s protest at the annual meeting.

League directors were assured by Choquette that all possible protection would be given by his association.

At the same time, Choquette said that the suspension imposed two weeks ago on Gilles Dube of the P.H.L. Sherbrooke St. Francis Club for breach of contract with Montreal Canadiens of the N.H.L. had been cancelled at the request of Frank Selke, Canadiens General Manager.

Canadiens had Dube suspended when he left his tryout camp and signed with Sherbrooke. Dube's case was one of several incidents that prompted the P.H.L. meeting.

Dube, Cote To Play Here Due To Generosity Of Montreal Officials; Locals Fortunate

"Through the generosity and goodness of Frank Selke, general manager of the Canadiens Hockey Club, Gilles Dube and Adj. Cote will play this year for our hockey club," stated Forest Keene, business manager of the Sherbrooke St. Francis Hockey Club, upon his return from Montreal today.

Mr. Keene and Coach Ivan Dugre travelled to the metropolis Saturday morning to confer with Mr. Selke regarding the status of both Dube and Cote. Previous to this Mr. Keene and Mr. Dugre had made a visit to Montreal to see President Campbell, of the N.H.L., and were told by Mr. Campbell that they would have to see Mr. Selke, as far as he was concerned the contracts were signed and were in order.

Upon their visit to Mr. Selke, where they were given a very favorable reception, Mr. Keene and Mr. Dugre, accompanied by Mr. Dube, father of Gilles, stated their case, whereupon Mr. Selke remarked on Gilles Dube's case, "Anything that a father comes to me and asks permission for his son to return home it will be granted." Immediately following Mr. Selke sent a letter requesting President Campbell to lift the suspension on Dube and Cote.

Mr. Selke further stated, "The Canadian Hockey organization is not in the time to sign players under adverse conditions, and this is the first time that I have ever had any players suspended. But upon hearing both sides of the story I will give you permission to use both boys, but they will remain on our list and will be our property."

Loyola Blanks Bishop's Squad 28-0 To Remain In Top Position Of Loop

The power-laden Loyola College football team rolled on to its fourth straight victory in as many starts when they defeated the Bishop's University squad, 28-0, Saturday at the Loyola grounds.

The victory leaves the Irish in undisputed possession of first place in the Intermediate Intercollegiate Football League, while Bishop's is still ensconced in the No. 4 slot tied with Dawson College.

The Montrealers showed a very strong and well balanced squad featuring a heavy and hard-hitting line backed by a shifty backfield. Their only weakness seemed to be in the aerial attack as they attempted only three forwards, completing two of these and having the other intercepted. Bishop's on the other hand showed a potent passing combination, completing six out of nine attempts. This passing also paid off in the "statue of liberty" plays which were good for considerable yardage in the early parts of the game.

In the ground-gaining department, however, Loyola had the upper hand, making 17 first downs to Bishop's five. Most of their gains were also for greater distances than those made by the locals.

The Purple and White were up against their usual problem of a reserve shortage, and with Bill Price, Pilgrim, Sutherland and Harrington being out, the backfield was staffed with several new men. This proved quite noticeable, especially after Harry Andrews was hurt early in the second quarter. The newcomers tried hard but with the exception of Brig Day, Williams and Wilson lacked the experience shown by the Montreal backs.

Day, Andrews, Wilson, Blevins and Macfarlane were the pick of the Bishop's squad, while Cowan, Kisielus, Shaughnessy, McCarney and Blackburn were best for the home team.

Paul Shaughnessy's scintillating run midway in the opening quarter set the stage for the first when he brought the ball down to Bishop's 12. From there, Billy Cowan crossed the line, taking it through centre, McCarney converted to put the Montrealers six up.

Loyola started a strong downfield drive near the end of this quarter and at the start of the second this was stopped when Don Wilson recovered a Loyola fumble well in Bishop's territory. The ball then moved to Loyola territory but the Montrealers soon recovered and started moving up.

VICTORIANVILLE EDGES OUT MCGILL 4-3

Victoriaville, Que., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Victoriaville Tigers of the Provincial Hockey League defeated McGill's Senior Inter-Collegiate squad 4-3 in an exhibition game here yesterday.

The teams matched goal for goal in an exciting game until 17:27 of the final session when Roy whipped home the clincher for the Tigers.

A gifted touchdown on a debatable decision by referee Harold Platt, in the last quarter with six seconds remaining and the A's holding a 5-2 lead, disaster came. Lawless kicked from midfield at mated placement which went wide but bounced behind the line and while the locals were passing the ball around they fumbled it. Baktis fell on the leather for a major which was unconverted. Actually the horn had gone on the play before Baktis took the ball but apparently the officials thought since Eastward are winless and the A's need the win for a playoff spot then it is a touchdown. The game is under protest by the locals.

With Six Seconds Remaining E's Score Gifted Touch; Officials' Decisions Were Often Debatable

In the last quarter, Hovey bootable decision by referee Harold Platt, in the last quarter with six seconds remaining and the A's holding a 5-2 lead, disaster came. Lawless kicked from midfield at mated placement which went wide but bounced behind the line and while the locals were passing the ball around they fumbled it. Baktis fell on the leather for a major which was unconverted. Actually the horn had gone on the play before Baktis took the ball but apparently the officials thought since Eastward are winless and the A's need the win for a playoff spot then it is a touchdown. The game is under protest by the locals.

The game saw little action from both sides. The first frame ended with the A's holding a 1-0 lead. Highlight of the quarter was a 25 yard run by Bertie Rice who was playing his first game of the season. Blue then plunged for 4, and Clarke, on an extension play, picked up 12 yards. Hovey then hoisted the leather 45 yards for a singleton. Towards the end of the canto Eastward began to march up the field but the rush was stopped when E. Nelson, who played a brilliant game on the line, recovered a fumble by the Eastward crew.

For the locals the line played erratic football but at times they played head-up. Berwick, Spalding, Drew, Jackson, Regimbal, Scott and Ross were towers of strength to the local contingent. In the backfield Potts, Blue and Rice played well.

In the second quarter Eastward found themselves on the A's 9 yard line but a placement kick failed and the A's regained possession of the ball. The home team picked up two points in the second canto and Lawless and Simpson booted singletons.

The third canto was a repetition of the second with both teams relying on two backs and kick. Cote, Rice and Blue went for substantial gains, and a pass from Potts to Clarke netted 10 yards. Hovey kicked a rouge, tying up the game 2-2. Potts toed to Berwick for 15, and for awhile the locals showed a little life.

Monday Matinee More than 4,000 reservation already have been granted for the American Bowling Congress tournament in Detroit starting in March and late requests are arriving at the rate of about 100 a week. Joe McCarthy and Bill Meyer, the only major league managers who never played major league baseball, both were members of the same Louisville club years ago.

Wichita's Ray Dumont, who recently proposed a United Nations sponsored global baseball tournament, now suggests that Joe Stal in should be asked to throw out the first ball. It's one chore when a big-shot politician can attract attention but doesn't have to open his mouth, Dumont explains.

HOCKEY'S BIG SEVEN Canadian Maurice (Rocket) Richard picked up three goals over the week-end and vaulted to first place in the National Hockey League standings while Chicago's Max Bentley, with a goal and an assist, took over second slot, one point behind Richard. Third place is held by Montreal's E. Merz Lach whose two goals and one assist in week-end contests gave him five points. Tied for fourth place was Hector (Toe) Blake of Canadiens, Jim Conacher of Detroit and Doug Bentley of Chicago. Nine players were in a tie for the last spot with three points apiece.

Playoff positions were all decided today in senior football circles, even if the week-end results were upsetting to most of the clubs who earned berths in the preliminary elimination skirmishes leading to the Dominion final.

Four of the five games in the East's two Grey Cup leagues ended in upsets. But the one team that had to win, Toronto Indians, came through in fine style to capture the only berth in doubt—the last place in the Ontario Rugby Football Union's four-team post-season series.

That means the Indians will meet the league-leading Hamilton Wildcats in one league semi-final while Toronto Balm Beach and Ottawa Trojans will clash in the other after the O.R.F.U. goes through with the formality of winding up its schedule next Saturday.

Ottawa Rough Riders and Toronto Argonauts clinched the two 8, at Ottawa to hurdle over them into second place in the standings.

The last-place Tigers surprised at Hamilton with a 14-8 victory while Montreal, ... Argonauts eliminated the previous week, gained a measure of revenge by preventing Argos from taking over first place with a 17-12 setback at Montreal.

The biggest surprise in the O.R.F.U. came at Windsor when the Rockets defeated Hamilton Wildcats, 10-5—the Wildcats' first loss in nine starts. But Windsor's game attempt to overtake the Indians for fourth place went for naught when Indians sure-footedly turned back the winless Sarnia Imperials 18-0, at Toronto.

The O.R.F.U.'s third game proved a minor upset, with Balm Beach defeating the Trojans 15-8, at Ottawa to hurdle over them into second place in the standings.

Hapless Hawks Lose Fourth Straight As Canucks Win Two To Tie Boston

It may be that every cloud has its silver lining but Chicago Black Hawks are still waiting for proof of that observation.

The plight of the Hawks is so sorry today that it serves as an ideal topic of conversation among National Hockey League fans. As a point of gossip it rates on a par with the atomic-like return to form of Montreal Canadiens.

To put it bluntly, Hawks haven't shown any indication to date that they belong in the same league with the other five clubs in the N.H.L. They have played four games and lost all four, incurring a pair of the defeats during the week-end when they bowed 5-1 to Toronto Maple Leafs and 3-2 to Boston Bruins.

The Habs need Bruins 5-0 in Montreal Saturday night, ending a Boston victory run of two games, and then outlasted Red Wings in Detroit Sunday night for a 4-2 triumph. Wings had won two and tied one in three previous games.

Canadiens used these two victories to move into the first place with Bruins. Bruins have the edge, though, in that they have compiled their six points over four games against the half-dozen points Canadiens have picked up in five contests.

Of almost as much significance as Montreal's twin victories was the emergence of Maurice (Rocket) Richard into the scoring limelight for the first time this season. Held goalless in Canadiens' first three games, Richard ran up three tallies in the week-end games.

Richard and Glen Harmon shared goal-getting honors against Wings, each scoring two. Harmon's two goals came less than two minutes apart in the middle period, and both were scored on long shots. Richard batted in a 10-foot backhand in the 10th minute of the first period and counted again with only 21 seconds to play.

Jim Conacher scored both Detroit goals, one towards the close of the first period and the other midway through the second session. Both Conacher's scores came while Canadiens were short-handed. Canadiens lost the veteran Murph (Hardrock) Chamberlain early in the first period and preliminary reports said he had suffered a broken bone in his left leg. His post up front was filled by Harmon for the remainder of the game.

Against Bruins, Canadiens started off with goals by Richard and Elmer Lach in the first period, added another by defenceman Ken Reardon in the middle period, and then piled up two more by Chamberlain and rookie Doug Harvey in the final period. It was the first N.H.L. goal for Harvey, who played with the Allan Cup Champion Montreal Royals last season. Bruins downed Hawks on the basis of Joe Carveth's third-period goal. Prior to that, the teams had battled fairly evenly with Ken Smith and rookie Eddie Sanford counting for Bruins and the Bentley brothers—Doug and Max—notching goals for Hawks.

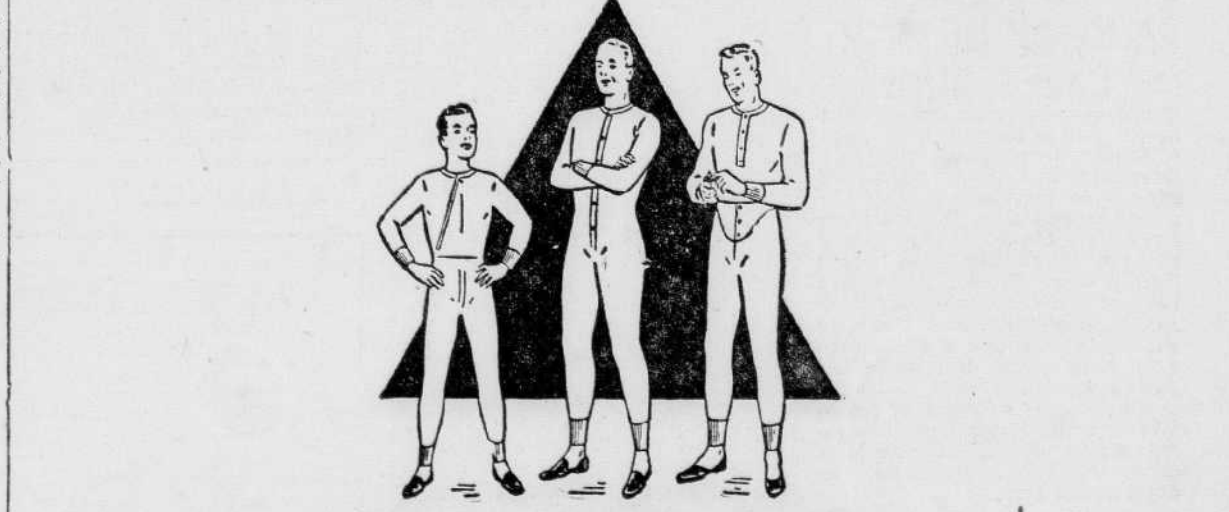

Hawks displayed better form against Leafs Saturday night. After Adam Brown had put Hawks in front with the only goal of the first period, Leafs took command in the second session. Ted Kennedy, Bill Ezinicki, Gus Morison and Howie Meeker jammed in goals and Joe Klukay fired the fifth tally in the middle of the third period.
