

NOTES OF THE WEEK

The consideration of the estimates is still the main business at Ottawa, and during the week good progress has been made with them. Supplementary estimates to the amount of over $3 millions have been brought down. The Grand Trunk charter to build a line to the Pacific is before the house and is likely to meet with determined opposition on two points, its excessive capital and its privileges. The government is still considering the demand for a subsidy.

Mr. Tarte, on Wednesday of last week, made a motion in favor of raising the tariff so as to render it "adequately and firmly protective." The motion was lost by 102 to 50. The Conservatives backed Mr. Tarte in a body, evoking from Mr. Fielding the remark that he was now "master of the opposition."

The discovery that the extraordinary spreading of weeds is due not to natural causes but to the impurity of seed bought in the stores, has led to Mr. Fisher introducing a bill to check the evil. The bill provides that any person who shall sell seed containing weeds designated shall be liable to fine or imprisonment. The weeds named are all of a nature whose seeds can be removed by proper screening. Seeds are to be graded No 1, No 2, No 3, and screenings, the difference between the grades being the proportion in each of germinable seed and freedom from weeds. No seed is to be sold, even that graded screenings, which contains less than 70 per cent. of pure seed capable of growth. Packages are to be marked with name of wholesale merchant, or of the retailer if it be seed he has bought from the grower. The bill is necessary but its value, like many other laws on the statute-book, will depend on its enforcement. If it be allowed to remain a dead-letter it will be of no use.

There is a stringent law against the adulteration of food, and there is a yearly report by official chemists showing cases of adulteration, yet we never hear of prosecutions. Unless provision is made that, when adulterated or impure seed is found the government will prosecute, we fear the act will be of little benefit. A farmer who sends a sample to the seed analyst and is notified it is not according to the act, would not be inclined to undergo the trouble or run the risk of loss by prosecuting the offending seed-merchant. The addition of a clause, providing that when the seed analyst reports a case of infraction of the law, the government shall prosecute, is needed.

Evidence taken at Ottawa last week by the committee on agriculture revealed the unpleasant fact that sales of the public domain have been sold to companies at nominal prices, who then retail them to the actual settler at extortionate rates. The proof was made clear in one instance, where a company had got 250,000 acres in the Saskatchewan valley at a dollar an acre, and was now selling it to settlers at from $5 to $6 an acre. When the Liberals were in opposition the principle that public lands should be sold only to the actual settler was accepted as a fixed axiom.

The Ontario legislature is wasting time over a resolution endorsing the report of the judges on the Gamey case. Were the report being considered on its merits no objection could be made, but when its acceptance is a mere matter of party feeling—every Liberal in its favor, every Conservative against it—the discussion is inane and useless. It cannot be that the report is so good that no Liberal can find fault with it, or so bad that some Conservative might see something to praise, but each party leader has passed his watchword and what is altogether white with the Liberal is altogether black with the Conservative. Surely a time will come when more independent will be shown in our parliamentary debates. The most interesting speech delivered so far has been that of Gamey himself. Armed with a voluminous manuscript he made it the text of a speech that flowed through two days. He reasserted his first charges in the most positive form, denouncing the witnesses who contradicted him as liars, and stigmatizing the two judges, especially Sir John Boyd, as being biased against him, unfair in their rejection of evidence he tendered, and of drawing wrong conclusions in their report. Outsiders do not see how the judges can be blamed. One man, with a dubious record, told a story which was flatly contradicted by every man whose name he mentioned. Were the judges to accept the charges of an accuser who had no independent proof against the positive denials of a number of reputable witnesses? Had the judges done so, they would have gone against all rules that govern evidence in a judicial proceeding. Where criticism of the judges fairly comes in, was their limiting the scope of the enquiry and not following up every possible lead as to who paid Gamey the money he unquestionably got and who supplied the money. Gamey's calling Stratton "a drivelling lunatic," a hypocrite who knew he was "guilty right down to the soles of his boots," describing premier Ross as a man whose word was not to be relied upon unless you had his promise in writing, and denouncing Chancellor Boyd as a convicted liar, does not prepossess the public in his favor. A curious piece of alleged additional evidence was produced by the opposition. Frank Sullivan's father-in-law, Wilson, from near Toronto, was met by three residents of Buffalo and Rochester, who declared they had heard him say Frank had told him the Hon Mr. Stratton had given him $5,000 to bribe Gamey. Wilson further declared that, on the enquiry being opened, he had been promised $500 to go to the States so that he could not be called as a witness. These hearsay declarations are interesting but they are not evidence.

At a dinner given by a U.S. society in London, Chauncey Depew was a guest, and in the course of his speech, in referring to the relations existing between the republic and Britain, remarked—

Nothing now separated the two countries except a spoiled child of the empire in the North. This child was a very good fellow in his way, but like all spoiled children he was inclined to shake his fist in the elder brother's face, knowing that his mother was behind him. But the disputed matter had been referred to arbitration, and the decision must be awaited. Meantime the child would grow up and the difficulties would disappear.

Canada is used to being treated in contemptuous fashion by its neighbors to the south. Every effort she has made to protect her territorial rights has evoked a stream of expressions dyed with contumely and disdain. Yet, when her claims were submitted to impartial arbitrators she has always won. Witness the fisheries arbitration and the denial of the U.S. claim to sovereignty of the Behring Sea. In the matter referred to by Senator Depew, the Alaskan frontier, the refusal by the Washington authorities to leave it to foreign arbitrators, is sufficient in itself to show they know they are not a good case, further proved by their appointing, instead of jurists, as required by the treaty, three men who had prejudged the case. In one sense Canada has been a spoiled child—she has been spoiled of the territory that was annexed to Maine, of the strip thrown into Minnesota and Dakota, and of her heritage in Oregon. She has been repeatedly spoiled by a covetous neighbor, and submitted for the sake of peace.

On the 1st of April the cotton operatives at Lowell, to the number of 17,000, struck for an advance of ten per cent. in their wages. The strike ended on Monday by the operatives seeking work at the old rates. The strike has cost the poor people $1,300,000 in wages. The companies probably gained by the stoppage of their mills, for there had been an over-production and the rise in price of raw cotton had reduced the profit in manufacturing it. Several other strikes, such as that of the building trades and of the iron construction workers in New York have ended as unsuccessfully for the strikers. Expenses in court of how union officials tried to blackmail manufacturers under threats of causing strikes among their hands, has done much to discredit the walking delegate and the open-mouthed president, with the airs of a dictator.

A correspondent of an English paper, sent to Ireland to report on the need of the land bill, in the course of his investigations struck an isolated place on the coast of Connemara where the people exist in a condition little removed above the barbarians. Education is unknown among them and their lives are one long struggle for existence. Cattle and other animals share the wretched shelter of their owners' families; the adults are not half clothed, the children are naked. The unvarying food of many families from year's end to year's end is potatoes. Their ignorance was appalling. No land act could benefit them, for their lots are scraps of soil in the midst of granite hills. The only way to relieve them would be to remove them to where the surroundings are more favorable. At other points on the coast he found settlements poor enough, but none so hopelessly sunken. The price of a single man-of-war would transplant these starving people to where they could live as humanly requires. To enroll regiments and build men-of-war is patriotic and a duty of parliament: to hold out a helping hand to half-starved men, women, and children is not imperative. Such is the moral code of nations as seen in the practice of the best of them.

Germany's threat to punish Canada, on account of our preferential treatment of imports from Britain, has been again before the Imperial parliament. Premier Balfour said the government would not regard with indifference any such attempt by Germany to penalize Canada. Replying to a taunt of the Liberal leader he said—

Are we to understand that if other countries penalize our colonies the Liberals would. If they came to power, sit silently by and watch the process of intimidation going on? Would they tell the colonies that they had nothing more to hope from us if they suffered forgoing us preference?

Mr Chamberlain was more emphatic. He pointed out that Germany's threatened punishment of Canada "was less to punish Canada than to read a lesson to any British colony daring to discriminate in favor of the Mother Country," and that was something no British statesman, of whatever party, would submit to.

Unwarned by designs of the times, that the people are galled beyond longer endurance with the burden of carrying armies and navies, the Emperor of Germany goes on singing the praises of military life and boasting they are the instrument by which kings carry out what they will. "My army," he said the other day in a public speech, "will ever remain the instrument that I need to support my party when necessary. Where she pen alone no longer suffices it must be supplemented by the keen-edged sword."

The British government has taken the decisive course with regard to the Serbian murders of recalling its representative at Belgrade and intimating that it will not recognize King Peter until the assassins are punished. Holland and the United States are likely to take similar action. Both Russia and Austria have recognized King Peter, who is suspected of having had a hand in the foul deed which has opened a way for him to the throne.

Latest despatches from eastern Africa are not satisfactory. The Mad Mullah is advancing and is now in British territory. Reinforcements are being hurried from India and General Egerton has been sent to take command. There are most painful rumors regarding the treatment of the wounded who fell into the Mullah's hands on Gough's defeat. A Boer is said to have been tortured to death and two wounded Englishmen had their heads cut off which were carried in triumph on the point of poles.

ORMSTOWN
On Friday the academy closed its term, when Dr. McCormack gave his annual supper of ice-cream to the scholars, in whose welfare he takes such much interest. His beautiful grounds were at their best, and the children spent a happy hour. The academy will resume in September under Principal Rivard, with Miss Hunter of Lakeside as assistant.

Bishop Emard presented Dr. Hall with a gold-headed cane at the Catholic school on Monday. The sum of $2595 was the total raised by three gentlemen, Pierre Reid, Jas. Smith, and Dr. Hall. The latter raised the most and so got the cane.

Mr James Cottingham of Riverside farm, so widely known as an enterprising farmer and stock-raiser, has lately sold seven of his pure-bred Ayreshires. To Mr A. E. Stewart, Malone, N.Y., and Wm. Gruer of Norton Creek, 1-year old bull each; 1-year old heifer to John W. Walsh, Burke, N.Y.; 1-year old heifer to Wm. Patenaude, Anderson's Corners; 1 spring bull to Mr Strong of Lachute; 1 spring bull to Thos. Henderson, Huntingdon-co., and 1 spring bull to Chas. Mos, Ormatown.

The macadamizing of the piece of road on the upper concession is being actively pushed, fully 20 acres being completed. The work is being done in a thorough manner, a bed of 12 inches of cobble stone forming the foundation for 8 inches of macadam.

The Rev Mr Warren left to-day for his new field at Lennoxville. The conference appointment of Rev G. H. Porter is not to be carried into effect, and it is expected the Rev Mr Adams, a retired minister, will serve the circuit for the ensuing year.

HOWICK

Mr Ness and Miss Maggie Ness, who sailed for this side, and are expected home about June 30th.

A well attended meeting of the English river and Howick congregations was held on Monday to decide whether they should continue hearing candidates for the vacant pulpits. As the various ministers already heard were so evenly appreciated as to prevent a unanimous call, it was decided not to give a call till others were heard.

English river and Aubrey S. schools held their annual picnic last week, which was largely attended, in spite of the unfavorable weather. An excellent program of music, recitations, games, etc., was prepared and all enjoyed themselves thoroughly. As usual, a bountiful table was spread for all and was much appreciated. Rev P. D. Muir presided, and pleased all by his happy manner of conducting proceedings.

CHATEAUGUAY

In the absence of the Rev J. D. Anderson, who is at present at the general assembly in Vancouver, B.C., the pulpits of Chateauguay and Beauharnois Presbyterian churches are being filled by the Rev C.E. Gordon-Smith, F.S.Sc., of Montreal.

Crops are coming on splendidly since the rain has set in. We have had decidedly wet weather since the first gentle showers of June 11th.

Mr Drocher, a former pursuer on board the str. Chateauguay, which runs between Beauharnois and Montreal, calling here on its way, has bought the Sorel, a boat belonging to the Richelieu Co., has renamed it the Beauharnois, and is running it on this line in opposition to the Chateauguay. He has built an extension to an old wharf, which is on the upper side of the one used by the Chateauguay, and uses this for his business. On Thursday he made his first trip. On attempting to make the wharf the steamer missed it, and ran her bow into the soft sand of the river shore. The str. Chateauguay, which was in at her wharf at the time, kindly came to the assistance of the Beauharnois and towed her off into the stream again. It did not appear to be an auspicious beginning for the rival steamer.

A tug, belonging to the Montreal company which dredges our river at the Basin for sand, went to the bottom of the river at the wharf early Sunday morning. It was owing to the carelessness of some employe, who left a plug out after finishing some work, and the water running in all night caused the boat to sink towards morning. Fortunately her downward course was discovered by those on board, before any drowning fatality occurred, but not in time to avoid the sinking of the tug. All Sabbath day the men worked to raise it, and on Monday it was taken back to the city for repairs.

KENSINGTON

A pleasant evening was spent on Mr Jas. Black's lawn on Monday evening, when the members of the C. E. society held their annual social. The grounds were prettily decorated with Chinese lanterns, flags, etc. After refreshments were served, an interesting program was listened to consisting of songs, recitations, etc.; Mr D. H. Brown in the chair. The following persons rendered songs: W. F. Stephens, Colin Campbell, David Brown, Jas. Bell, and Ernest Busby; Henry Massam recited. Towards the close Mr Seaward, in the name of the society, presented the Rev A.L. Boyd, who is leaving for Point Fortune, with a sum of money. Mr Boyd, in well chosen words, replied, and the gathering dispersed.

VALLEYFIELD

Senator F. Young, who represents Winnipeg, and Senator R. Watson, representing Brandon, in the federal senate, were the guests of Mr D. D. McBain last week. Thru the courtesy of Mr F. Lacey, the cotton mills were opened to them. The visitors were highly pleased with both the variety and quality of the manufactured products. Senator Young, who is a native of this district, was astonished at the progress made by Valleyfield during the last decade. The only drawback found in the way of the town's further advance, was the deplorable condition of the government's works—the postoffice, the dam, and the encroachment by squatters on the canal banks. The latter is not only a disgrace but a source of depreciation to the valuable surrounding property.

Mr D. F. Smith and family arrived in Valleyfield on Sunday evening via N. Y. C. after a 3 months' tour in England. Mr Smith met with a hearty welcome Monday morning from the officials and staff of the M. C. Co. and prominent citizens of the town.

The ladies' aid society and friends were tendered a lawn party at Mrs D. D. McBain's on Friday evening. The grounds were beautifully decorated with a profusion of Chinese lanterns and flowers, which blended harmoniously with the dark costumes of the mamas and the snow white gowns of sweet sixteen, while the evening dress attire of the sterner sex made a favorable contrast. Refreshments were served on the lawn, and were all the more enjoyed by the accompaniment of vocal and instrumental music from a bevy of young ladies.

Mr John Lowe's (jr) handsome 16 h. p. gasoline yacht "Ripple" was given a trial trip last week. She developed 12 miles an hour, without any hitch, and gave her owner good satisfaction as regards steadiness and steering. The local fleet is not only increasing in quantity but also in quality. There are rumors going, that September will inaugurate Valleyfield's annual regattas.

A party of those interested in the proposed electric street railway visited the Massena power house last week, with a view to secure the necessary power to operate the above system in Valleyfield. What's the matter with untutilized water powers in this vicinity—the Beauharnois canal, St Timothy, Melocheville, L'Isle du Large, etc.?

Two representatives of the Singer Manufacturing Co. of New York were in town last week prospecting for the acquisition of about 25 acres of land for the erection of shops for the manufacture of sewing machines. Valleyfield offers every available facility for such a plant, land can be had at a fair price, the town has unexcelled water and railway communications, and a large laboring class. Nowhere else can the company build more cheaply. It is now Valleyfield's opportunity of a life-time to make a serious effort and use its best means of securing works which would give employment to 700 skilled mechanics. The council must forget its petty bickerings and personal antipathies and prove itself worthy of the responsible position it holds. The town has already lost many advantageous opportunities through the inertia of its representatives. The citizens now rely upon the council to do its best.

Mr John Sullivan, jr., son of Mr John Sullivan, civil engineer, a last year's graduate of Valleyfield college, now student in the law faculty of Laval university, Montreal, has carried off the first prize at the recent law exams, and won the Joel Leduc purse of $20.

A carter named Michel Gendron met with a serious accident Wednesday evening of last week. While driving along the canal bank, his horse got entangled in the lines of a barge moored alongside the bank. The horse, in its efforts to extricate itself, threw the driver off his seat, which resulted in his being severely cut and bruised. No warning lights were placed on the barge, and this section of the bank is very poorly lighted.

Bishop Emard has generously offered, at the close of the scholastic year, a trip to 5 of the most deserving pupils in the college. Last year the trip was to Niagara Falls; this year the trip will be to the Saguenay. The following pupils have been selected: Chs. Leahy, Louis Brown, Edmond Primeau, Chryso. Boyer, and D. Thibert. They will be accompanied on the trip by one of the college professors.

There is a recruiting sergeant in town, plucking up a squad of 25 men to attend the Three Rivers camp, which opens on the 30th inst. Capt. Eugene Sullivan will be in command of the Valleyfield contingent.

The old Pease buildings on Victoria street are now undergoing demolition under charge of T. Belanger, contractor for the new buildings.

N. Languevin's new store and dwelling on Ste. Cecile-st. are nearly completed.

All the old tomato cans, tea-kettles, old rubbers, rags, etc., that are generally carted to the garbage grounds, are being placed on the new court house grounds to raise the level of the same.

GORE

The school of district No 3 closed on Friday. After a short program of recitations, dialogues, etc., the teacher, Miss Diana Ferns, read the marks of the respective grades, and presented 2 prizes in each grade for highest marks obtained, also 2 for general progress. Just before the closing, Miss Susan Gilligan, in behalf of the pupils, presented the teacher with a handsome nut or card receiver with their good wishes for a happy and successful future. The teacher, although entirely taken by surprise, thanked the pupils in a few words which expressed her gratitude for the gift and sorrow at the separation.

ATHELSTAN

Some of the farmers on the 1st concession finished this week unloading 9 car-loads of hay, averaging 12 tons to the car, also 1 car of oats. The quality of the hay was not as good as they expected.

BEITH

On the afternoon of June 12th the pupils of Victoria school pleasantly surprised their teacher, Miss Waterston, by presenting her with a handsome 8-day clock, a dozen silver teaspoons, and a butter knife, accompanied with an address. Miss Waterston replied suitably, and in her turn presented each pupil with a book. The afternoon was agreeably spent by indulging in various games, while refreshments were not forgotten.

TROUT RIVER

John McFarlane has bought the farm of Thomas Clark; consideration $5500.

The St Laurent college, Montreal, awarded a silver medal to John A. McCaffrey of Trout river.

CLYDE'S CORNERS

A successful lawn social was held at the residence of W. J. Smellie on the 19th inst. About 175 gathered to enjoy the beautiful evening together. The grounds were tastefully decorated for the occasion with Chinese lanterns, etc. A good program helped to enliven the evening. The chairman, John A. Smellie, in behalf of the people of Clyde's Corners presented the teacher, Miss S. L. McVey, with a china teaset, half a dozen teaspoons, a butter knife, and sugar shell. She suitably replied. Ice-cream and cake were served during the evening. Proceeds amounted to $27.

BEAVER

At the closing of school district No 11, on the 19th inst., the parents gathered and spent a pleasant afternoon listening to the examination of the various classes, in which the scholars did remarkably well evincing the excellent training of the teacher. After which a good program of songs, recitations, and dialogues was rendered. At the close the teacher presented the scholars with prizes. Afterwards the chairman, Jas. Watterson, in behalf of the parents and children, presented the teacher, Miss Mary M. Johnston, with a toilet case, glove box, and a glass set, for which she made suitable reply.

Miss Nettie Reply lies in a critical condition, as the result of a kick received from a horse on Saturday while she was hitching it to a buggy. Dr Stewart is in attendance, but as the injuries are internal it is difficult to know how serious they are.

DUNDEE

A sort of panic prevailed in Glangarry before the rain, and farmers bought hay at any price. Crossing the lake they bargained for standing marsh hay, paying generally $3 an acre. John T'yo is said to have sold to the amount of $600.

LEGAL INTELLIGENCE.

Judge St Pierre gave his decision on several cases at Beauharnois on Tuesday.

John Davidson vs L. N. Masson. Judgment in favor of Masson.

L. N. Masson vs Alexander McDonald. Judgment in favor of McDonald.

In the second case, arising out of distribution, the judge ordered a new report of distribution according to the terms of his judgment.

A petition was presented to the court asking that the sentence pronounced on A. V. Drew for perjury at the criminal term in 1901, and confirmed by the court of appeals and the supreme court, be now carried out. His Honor ruled that, while sitting as a judge of the superior court, he could not accept the petition, and that it would have to be presented at a criminal term.

Peter McGinnis was appointed bailiff at Huntingdon.

Finnegan vs Huntingdon county council. His honor intimated he would give his decision in August.

The court of appeals decided on Tuesday the case of McGoun vs St Anioet. Plaintiff, dissatisfied with the lower courts, appealed to have it increased. The judgment of the court was that the sum allowed was sufficient.

WORD FROM FAR-OFF GENEVA.
To the Editor of the Gleaner.

The 6th convention of the World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union opened here Monday, June 8th, with upwards of 400 delegates present, representing most of the leading countries of the Globe. From Iceland to the tropics word has come of the good work being done by the united effort of the women of the world. The drink traffic is a mighty problem, but in the children is the hope of the future, and more and more we are realizing, that, by teaching the evils of alcohol on the system, as it ought to be taught in every school in the land, and only so, will the solution of the problem come.

The people of Geneva have welcomed us right heartily, and evinced their interest by attending the meetings and taking a part in the discussions, and no less by opening some of their beautiful homes, and with generous hospitality receiving all the friends for a few hours of social intercourse, and refreshing us with a sight of the beauties of their gardens, with their terraces and blossoms. The waters of the lake, reflecting the blue of the sky, and the snow-capped mountains in the distance, make a picture which will long remain in the minds of all present, and, from reports of the work being done, it will not be long before Switzerland will take its place among the foremost in this great work, for God and Home and every Land.

Geneva, June 10. A. J. JACK.

Rev M. Day Baldwin, who has been supplying the Anglican church at Beauharnois, has been appointed rector of All Saints, Montreal.

In the supplementary estimates appears an additional amount of $2400 for dredging Valleyfield bay.

Ontario farmers are sending to Italy large shipments of goose wheat. Until a few years ago this grain was not in favor with our wheat growers, but one day the Italian macaroni manufacturers found that our goose wheat is richer in gluten than wheat grown anywhere else. Macaroni is largely composed of gluten, and Ontario's summers are hot enough and her winters cold enough to develop the largest percentage of that principle in the grain. The goose wheat grows farther south is too soft to produce anything like the percentage possessed by our grain.

HUNTINGDON W. C. T. U.
The monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held on Friday. Extracts from the Leaflet were read, one being a scientist's testimony given by Sir James Grant of Ottawa, before the Royal Society of Canada, in favor of total abstinence as the following extract will show:

"Young men if you want a healthy brain, if you want to do good intellectual work, if you want all your nerve force for the work before you, never touch alcohol."

Another item was from Mrs Sanderson's letter, written on board ship on her way to Geneva, where the world's W. C. T. U. convention is now in session. Canada is well represented, among the delegates being Miss Dougall of Montreal and Miss Jack of Chateauguay. Our corresponding secretary, Mrs Henderson, gave a delightful report of the Athelstan convention, in which were many choice thoughts and hints from Mrs Boole's lecture. This report will appear in the Leaflet for July. Mrs Asa Gordon of Ottawa at a convention in Ormatown, 2 years ago, offered a gold medal to the boy or girl securing the most new members for the band of hope during the year. No effort being made that year the offer was renewed through Miss Cooper of Chateauguay. Miss Gilberta Boyd having secured 51 new members won the Gordon medal, which is a handsome gold one. Her name is inscribed on the pin, and "Huntingdon Band of Hope, 1903," on the pendant. It was presented to her by the president. The meeting was well attended and 3 new members added. Touching the death of sister the late Mrs Malcolm McNaughton, deep sorrow was expressed and a letter of sympathy was ordered to be sent to the family. The following is the annual report:

In taking a retrospective view of the work done during the past year we find reasons for encouragement and gratitude. Our membership has increased considerably, our meetings, which are held on the 3rd Friday of each month, are well attended, and interest in the cause for which we are laboring, and the attendance has been good, considering the many duties which claim the attention of every member of our society. During the year 2 parlor meetings have been held, at which 4 comfortable cars were sent to the lumber camps of the Inspector-General, to the home mission, to the Quebec branch of the Dominion alliance, and also to help defray expenses of delegates to the world's convention. Literature and comfort bags have been sent to the lumber camps of which the Rev Mr Brown was the charge. The band of hope, which is under the direction of the W. C. T. U., has held its meetings monthly from October to May. At these meetings every effort has been made not only to instill sound temperance principles into the young, but also to keep ever before them a high moral standard. The boxes at the stations have been supplied with good literature. The members of the flower mission have been zealous in their efforts, for during the summer months large quantities of flowers were sent to the hospitals. Our annual concert, held in March, was a grand success. The excellent and instructive address on the "Spirit of the Times," delivered by the Rev A. E. Mackenzie to a large and attentive audience, will long be remembered by those who had the privilege of hearing him. A petition was sent to the council asking that no license be granted in Huntingdon. Leaflets have been circulated bearing on the effect of alcoholic drugs on the human system, the anti-cigarette legislation, etc. How blind we are to the evils that surround us! We treat them as trifles until they become as giants, stalking through our land, then, realizing our danger, we apply to legislation for protection. What we need is more watchful, prayerful legislation against the insidious entrance of the evils which prevail in all our Dominion, that godly heritage, God has given us.

MRS MACDONALD,

that a man named John Eldridge, who is about 70 years of age and who is employed as a sawyer in the toy factory of Lanley & Silkworth at Hogsburg, was crossing the bridge in the village about 11 o'clock at night when he was set upon by the Indian Francis, who knocked him down and otherwise abused him. The old man got up and warned Francis to keep clear of him or he would fix him. The red man continued, and Eldridge drew his knife and made a gash in his throat about five inches long. Eldridge went to the hotel and went to bed. Early in the morning Andrew Foulton, a Hogsburg merchant, heard groans outside his home, and going out found Francis in a dying condition. Dr Shannon was summoned, the wound was sewn up and Francis removed to an Indian wigwam, where he died. Eldridge acknowledged the deed and said he merely defended himself from the attack of Francis. The district attorney from Malone arrived at Hogsburg, but no further developments have been reported. A big row took place Saturday night, in which an Indian's horse was shot dead by the whites and a butcher, named Bacon, was pounced upon by a band of about a dozen red men and badly abused. The Indians have been boisterous of late, and have been drinking excessively and giving the authorities very much trouble. Eldridge will be committed to Malone goal. He has a family of three children.

Cornwall, June 23—The coroner's jury in the case of John Eldridge, who stabbed and killed the Indian, John Francis, of St Regis, at the village of Hogsburg, on the night of the 17th, yesterday acquitted the old man on the ground that he acted in self defence. Eldridge will be released from custody today. The Indians are very much worked up over the acquittal. Three of the tribe have been killed during the past 3 years, and in every case the accused had been acquitted. They feel that the law is not being properly exercised. Two tramps arrested in the Eastern Townships, one without an arm the other deformed, proved when stripped in the jail to be washed, to lack neither arm nor shape, both being strong lull fellows.

The murder of Glory Whalen has started an agitation looking to the abatement of the tramp nuisance in Ontario. The recipe will be found in the treatment accorded two travelling gentlemen who struck Richmond, Que., the other day. They had not been in the town long enough to learn its name before they were bound for the Sherbrooke jail, where they will reside for the next six months. It costs less to maintain a tramp in jail than out of it, and he never asks for a second extension of hospitality.—Montreal Gazette.

New Zealand Presbyterians have taken the lead by appointing a committee to wait on the Methodists and Congregationalists of that country to consider a merging of all three denominations. Encouraged by this example, the lay conference of the Methodist church at Winnipeg has passed a resolution heartily endorsing the action of the New Zealand workers, and instructing a special committee to make enquiries with a view of definite proposals of a similar nature to Canadian Presbyterians and Congregationalists.

UNITED STATES
The case of the Constable creamery receiving Canadian made butter has ended in Edward Pond and Fred Badger pleading guilty and being fined. The amount of fine has not been settled. The 900lb of butter seized is, of course, confiscated with the team and wagon.
On a recent Saturday night, one Albert McDowell, who lives just across the line in Canada, and Andrew Garrow, of Malone, had a little siesta on the fair ground, that is, they were tired and went down there to sleep. Garrow later missed a sum of money and reported it to the sheriff's office, whereupon McDowell was apprehended near the railroad bridge in Malone the following Monday and sentenced by police justice Earle to 6 months in the penitentiary. He admitted the offence in order that sentence might be imposed upon him at once, rather than lie in jail 4 or 5 months awaiting the sitting of the grand jury. It is said that McDowell succeeded in getting more or less whiskey in Malone the Sunday following the theft on which he has been committed, and was still intoxicated when arrested Monday. The Sunday selling matter ought to be investigated.—Farmer.

The dam at Chateaugay chasm was closed on the 18th and it took two days to fill it up to the brim.
On Saturday afternoon the train running north on the New York and Ottawa railroad, while rounding a curve about two miles south of St Regis Falls, struck and instantly killed a man who was later identified at St Regis Falls as Charles Mitchell, whose home was formerly at Danmore, and who at different times made his home in Chateaugay. The man was sitting on the track and is believed to have been intoxicated from the fact that he was in that condition when seen in Santa Clara the day previous.

REGULATION OF BUTTER
Ottawa, June 20—In the house of commons today Mr Fisher introduced a resolution to prohibit the manufacture of process butter. The bill also reiterates the present law which forbids the manufacture of oleomargarine, buterine, or other substitutes for butter. There is a clause that any butter made in a creamery shall be marked as creamery butter, and a clause that butter containing more than 16 per cent. of water shall be considered as adulterated. The use of any acid, alkali, or chemical to cause butter to absorb water is forbidden. Penalties are established for contravention of the act.
Mr Fisher explained that the necessity for this law had arisen quite recently. About 2 years ago the congress of the United States forbade the manufacture of process butter, and it was said that some of the manufacturers designed to transfer their business to this country.
Mr Bell—What is process butter?
Mr Fisher explained that it is poor butter which has been made over in a certain way. The trouble with it is that it will not keep. If eaten at once, no great harm would be done, but if mixed with other butter and sent abroad it would be sure to spoil on the way and thus injure the reputation of Canadian butter abroad. The law was required because it was feared that process butter might not come under the definition of oleomargarine, buterine or any substitute for butter.
Dr Reid, of Grenville, wanted to know how a farmer's wife was going to find out whether her butter contained a fraction over 16 per cent. of water. She might find herself subjected to a heavy penalty and be entirely innocent of any wrong-doing.
Mr Boyd pointed out that of 105 samples of creamery butter examined at the experimental farm, the amount of water ran from 7 to 16 per cent. The great majority contained 12 or 13 per cent., and one sample, made by experts, contained over 16 per cent.

A question by Mr Henderson elicited from the minister the explanation that there is no intention of requiring packages of butter to bear any marks indicating the quality. The provision made is that when butter is marked creamery butter it shall be made in a creamery.
CYRUS H. McCORMICK VISITS HAMILTON.
PRESIDENT OF INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER COMPANY HERE.
Visited and Inspected the Buildings, Formulated Plans for the Future and Returned to Chicago last Evening.
Cyrus H. McCormick, head of the great McCormick firm of harvesting machinery manufacturers, and now president of the International Harvester Company, was a visitor to this city yesterday in company with his brother Stanley, and made a very thorough inspection of the grounds, buildings, and plant of the Hamilton concern. Yesterday's visit finally confirms the announcement made some time ago that there will be only one Canadian plant for all branches of the International Harvester company's Canadian and export trade, and that it will be in Hamilton. The visit was for the purpose of consulting, right on the grounds, as to the extensive additions that will have to be made to the buildings already erected or in the course of construction, and to formulate plans for the new buildings that will be undertaken as soon as spring opens.—Hamilton Times, (Ont) Canada.

London, June 23—A compromise was reached today between the Nationalist landlords and the government, whereby serious opposition to the Irish land bill is withdrawn, and, unless unexpected difficulties arise, the measure, which comes up again in the house of commons tomorrow, is likely to be speedily passed. The compromise consists in the landlords' acceptance of an amendment to clause one, enlarging the purchasing rights of the tenants.
London, June 22—When the house of commons went into committee today on the budget bill, Henry Chaplin (Conservative) former president of the board of agriculture, moved the rejection of the clause providing for the repeal of the grain tax. After a discussion, during which Mr Ritchie the chancellor of the exchequer, declined the tax had been of no advantage to the British farmers and had been a disadvantage to the dairymen by increasing the price of foodstuffs, and pointed out that the whole tax fell on the consumer, the motion was defeated by 416 to 32 votes.
London, June 23—At a private meeting of the Nationalist members of the Dublin corporation, which was held tonight, it was decided by 25 votes to 3 not to vote an address of welcome and loyalty to King Edward on the occasion of his majesty's coming visit to Ireland.

FEEDING WORK HORSES.
FOOD REQUIRED BY THE WORKING HORSE: The horse has a smaller stomach than the ox, and consequently must be fed less at a time. It has less power to digest coarse foods. It eats much slower, as it must do all its chewing before the food is swallowed. For these reasons it requires a longer time to eat, and its food should be more concentrated. It wants only a little coarse food at a time. Most people feed too much rather than too little, especially of hay. According to the tables of standard rations prepared by the German investigators, a 1000lb horse requires 11.4lb of digestible food daily when doing moderate work, 16.3lb for average work, and 16.6lb for heavy work. With a basal ration of 10lb of hay, the grain needed to furnish the above quantities of digestible nutriment, when consisting of a mixture in equal parts of corn and oats, would be approximately 11.5lb., 15lb., and 20lb of the 3 sorts of labor. Lavalard who made observations covering a number of years with 32,000 omnibus, army, and draft horses, came to the conclusion that a horse performing ordinary work requires at the rate of 1.25lb of digestible nutriment per 100lb of live weight. This is equivalent to 12.1lb of digestible food daily for a 1000lb horse, a quantity not inconsistent with the German standard.

SUITABLE FOODS FOR HORSES.
It is necessary, especially with hard working horses, that a large proportion of the daily ration be composed of the more concentrated feeding stuffs. A horse would have to consume over 40lb of hay to obtain 17.7lb of digestible nutriment, the approximate amount required daily by a horse at severe labor. Ten to 12lb of hay daily is quite sufficient for a draft horse. The managers of work horses on many farms are kept constantly supplied with hay, which is not only wasteful but injurious to the animal as well. Recent researches have shown that muscular effort is largely sustained by the carbo-hydrates and fats of the food, and it is probably true that rations composed of the ordinary farm products, meadow hay, straw, silage, roots, and the cereal grains will be found sufficiently rich in protein without the addition of nitrogenous feeding stuffs. Doubtless in cases of heavy labor, the addition of a little oil meal or other nitrogenous food would be beneficial. According to the German standards the nutritive ratio should be from 1.7 to 1.9 according to the severity of labor, the daily weight of protein to be from 1.5 to 2.5lb. Oats are regarded by many as essential to the maintenance of the driving or working horse, but many other foods are successfully used in their place, wheat, bran, corn, barley, dried brewers' grains, etc., are often used instead of oats without any bad results, and frequently with considerable advantage in the cost of the ration. Timothy hay, although not particularly rich in digestible nutriment, is preferred by most horsemen, chiefly on account of the freedom from dust, and the ease with which it may be distinguished from other grasses. With working horses, whose sustenance is largely supplied by the grain ration, timothy is probably the most satisfactory roughage, but bright, clean, clover is excellent for idle horses and colts, and requires very little grain in addition to form a suitable ration.

SOME SAMPLE RATIOMS.
Some good rations for 1000lb horses at moderate work are suggested by Jordan:
1. 10lb timothy or mixed hay 11lb oats
2. 10lb hay 10lb oats and barley equal parts by weight
3. 10lb hay 8lb oats 4lb brewers' grains
4. 10lb hay 8lb oats 4lb wheat
5. 11lb hay 3lb corn 4lb wheat bran 4lb brewers' grains
6. 10lb hay 5lb corn 4lb wheat bran 3lb brewers' grains
7. 10lb hay 5lb corn 6lb wheat bran
8. 10lb hay 5lb corn 6lb brewers' grains
9. 10lb hay 4lb wheat bran 3lb brewers' grains
Silage, roots, and other green food may often be substituted for a minor part of the hay with advantage to the animal's appetite and health.
Where the work is harder the amount of grain in the ration should be increased; but the amount of hay should remain stationary. The increase in feed should be greater proportionately than the increase in the amount of work done, and as a general rule old horses should be fed better than young ones. That judgment which comes of experience will always be a safer guide than any mechanical rules for feeding, but this is certain however, whatever feeding stuffs are used, and whatever order of feeding is adopted, regularity and uniformity should at all times prevail in both feeding and watering. If water is always available, a horse will not take enough to injure himself, but with working horses it will always be found better to give them their regular and largest supply previous to feeding, and it may also be well to supply a limited quantity after feeding. When much heated or fatigued horses should have water only in small quantities.

The Arabs have a proverb, "Rest and fat are the greatest enemies of the horse." Hard labor or an abundance of exercise should go hand in hand with heavy feeding, and when a period of idleness comes for the horse the grain ration should be cut down one half at least, or even withdrawn altogether where the fodder is of particularly good quality.
W. C. EDWARDS METHOD OF FEEDING.
Some years ago the W. C. Edwards Co., of Rockland, Ont., adopted a system of feeding their horses which has proved very satisfactory. Mr Edwards gives the following description of it: "We employ say 40 horses about our mills here in the summer season. In the rear of our stables we have a feed room where our cut straw for bedding and our cut hay, oats, and ground feed are kept; here we have 2 mixing boxes where the rations for the horses are mixed before feeding; the cut hay is put into these boxes and is thoroughly soaked with water 12 hours before it is fed. The ground feed is mixed dry, and before feeding is thoroughly mixed with the wet hay. The ration we started out with was 4lb cut hay, 1lb bran, and 5lb ground oats and barley to each horse night and morning, and 4lb dry oats at noon only. Our horses are generally of large size, and are doing excessively hard work, and we found this ration too small for them and we gradually increased it until we settled down to this: 5lb hay, 5lb ground grain, and 1lb of bran to each horse morning and night, and 8lb of dry oats at noon only (no hay) and this we find ample for the largest horses doing the most excessive work. Our saving is at least 10lb of hay per day for each horse, and 6lb of grain for each. Not only is this the case, but our horses are healthier and better in every way. Under the old system it was a common thing for us to lose from 1 to 5 horses every summer with colic and inflammation, but in the past 7 summers, under our new system, not only have we not lost one horse, but we have not had a sick horse. A much smaller ration than we feed would be ample for farm horses, or for any horses doing ordinary work. We may add, also, that with this system of feeding hay together with free use of wet bran and a little ground oats mixed with it, we find that we can develop colts in a manner that we have never seen them developed before."

HUNTINGDON
—The excursion to Ottawa on Thursday was more successful than could have been expected from the state of the weather. It rained heavily during the night and the morning looked far from settled. Altogether 325 ventured on the trip, of whom 97 were from this village. Had the weather been favorable 600 would have boarded the train. Those who went had no cause to regret doing so, for, while we had a heavy shower on the south of the St Lawrence, it was dry at Ottawa, and an enjoyable day was spent. The majority paid a visit to the experimental farm. By some oversight there was no official to guide the visitors and explain what was to be seen, so the full benefit of the visit was not obtained by those who went to learn. In the afternoon the parliament buildings were the attraction, and all had a chance of seeing the house in session, how business is done, and of getting a sight of the leaders. The train left sharp on time and made a rapid run homewards, reaching here at 9.30. The agricultural society, which got up the excursion, will net a small sum by its venture.
—On Friday at the semi-annual meeting of St Andrew's congregation it was decided to go on with the building of a new church; Archd. Muir, senr., presided. The retiring managers were re-elected, with the exception of Mr Alex. McNaughton who wished to retire. Dr Walker was chosen for the vacancy. The committee appointed to canvass the congregation regarding a new church reported through their chairman, Mr Philips, who stated the canvassers had received much encouragement. They had not been able to see all the families so that a considerable additional sum was to be expected. The following was the result of their canvass so far—
Trout river and Elgin..... 1925
Huntingdon to Dewville..... 150
South side of Chateaugay..... 935
Boyd Settlement and Lost Nation..... 685
Victoria Settlement and New Erin..... 345

.....$7085

This was from 96 families giving an average of $72 per family. $8,000 to $9,000 could be counted upon in subscriptions. He moved that the undertaking of a new church be resolved upon. The motion was seconded by Parlan McFarlane and carried unanimously on the understanding that the new building do not exceed $12,000, exclusive of fittings, which the ladies undertook. The following were appointed as the building committee: W. H. Walker, M.L.A., James Ritchie, R. H. Crawford, Andrew Philips, Archd. Muir, junr., W. J. Smiley, and John A. Hunter, the last named to be treasurer. After a desultory discussion as to the site, David Pringle, Martin Connell, and Robert Blackwood were appointed to make enquiries as to the available lots and report to a congregational meeting, which would decide.
—Sunday evening the Rev Robt. W. Dalgleish preached in the Methodist church, and next day left for the Northwest, where he will engage in mission work. That a young man of his talents and prospects should volunteer for so arduous service raises him still higher in the esteem of all who know him.
—An excursion train of 8 cars passed over the G. T. yesterday from Ogdensburg to the city, the St Jean Baptiste celebration the cause.
—The observance of Academy day on Wednesday next follows pretty nearly the lines of last year. In the forenoon there will be a procession which, starting from the academy, will proceed east along King-st to Cemetery-st., north to Wellington, west to Bonchette, south to Prince, west Lake, along the Front-st. to the fair grounds where the procession will disband. The scholars will wear sashes of the academy colors. The committee invite residents along the route of procession to decorate their houses and give the town a general holiday appearance. In the afternoon there will be games and in the evening a band concert. The Victoria rifles band is considered one of the finest in the Dominion.
