SHERBROOKE, QUEBEC, FRIDAY, JULY 5, 1946.

Fiftieth Year

World News In Brief

Toronto, July 5.—Ernest Francis McDonald, 26, of this city, was arrested late last night and charged with manslaughter, following the death of John Pendlebury, 29, who was attacked without warning on a city street yesterday afternoon and struck to the pavement.

Sam Wilson, who was walking with Pendlebury when the alleged attack occurred, said a man rushed out from between two buildings, smashed Pendlebury with his fist and ran away.

Pendlebury was unconscious when taken to hospital. He died late last night and his body was removed to the chief coroner's office, where Dr. Julien Loudon made an examination. An autopsy will be performed today.

Vancouver, July 5.—Valencia Dawn Bohmer of Vancouver, former R.C.A.F. wireless operator, was married over the telephone from her home here in Abilene, Texas, to John Hackney, former U. S. navy man.

The long distance wedding occurred Wednesday, the British Columbia Telephone Company reported today, and the ceremony required but 50 seconds. Bride and groom were 2,000 miles apart.

Hackney called from the office of the Justice of the Peace in Abilene and Miss Bohmer stood nervously at the telephone here as they exchanged vows.

Washington, July 5.—The British Board of Trade opened the gates today to renewed imports of 34 miscellaneous types of United States merchandise which had been banned under wartime controls.

High in interest to women in Britain were ladies' felt hats, artificial silk clothing, lipstick and rouge, face powder and other cosmetics, all difficult to obtain when the accent was on "austerity."

United States producers, under an agreement announced by the Board of Trade and the United States Commerce Department, may ship to Britain annually 20 per cent of their average during 1936-37-38. They may ship two-thirds of an annual quota for the remaining months of 1946.

Halifax, July 5.—The assertion that French-Canadians are not "fanatics," religious or otherwise, keynoted a description of his confreres by Jean-Francois Pouliot, Independent Liberal M.P. for Temiscouata, in an address to the Commercial Club here yesterday.

Mr. Pouliot said that in his own town of Riviere du Loup, the population of 9,000 gave 1,500 men to the armed services. He declared that was typical of Quebec and was an answer to the charge that his province had failed to do its part in the war.

Urging closer unity among Canadians, he said "all of us," of all races, have a common interest in this country.

"It is true that we have our fanatics in Quebec, but you could count them on the fingers of one hand."

Benefits May Be Increased In Unemployment Insurance

Ottawa, July 5.—Labor Minister Mitchell yesterday told the Commons the government next year will consider the advisability of increasing unemployment payments under the Unemployment Insurance Act, but warned it also would mean an increase in contributions to the unemployment fund.

Speaking during a clause-by-clause study of a bill amending the act, Mr. Mitchell said the advisory committee to the Unemployment Insurance Commission had recommended a "slight" increase to unemployed with dependents but the government, in view of current economic conditions, had decided to defer the matter until next year.

He added that money values on the North American continent at present were in a "state of flux" and the action of abandoning price controls, "may be moving into an inflationary spiral with the inevitable collapse afterwards."

No one could predict what would happen on this continent.

Peace Conference Is Slated To Open In Paris July 29th

Big Four Foreign Ministers Also Reach Agreement on Italian Reparations, Final Major Point Blocking Preparations of Treaty Drafts.

By LOUIS NEVIN
Paris, July 5.—(AP)—The Foreign Ministers of the Big Four drafted invitations today for a general European peace conference to be held in Paris July 29 for debate on treaties intended to end the Second Great War for Italy and the Axis satellites.

In a seven-hour and 40-minute session which lasted into the early hours this morning, the diplomatic representatives of Britain, France, Russia and the United States reached agreement on Italian reparations—the final major point blocking preparation of treaty drafts — and fixed the date for the peace conference.

An American source said that, after approving the wording and before tackling the German treaty, the ministers probably would clean up odds and ends in the five treaty drafts—for Italy, Finland, Rumania, Hungary and Bulgaria—they will submit to the conference.

The 21-power general conference—composed of Britain, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, the Union of South Africa, Belgium, Brazil, Byelorussia, China, Czechoslovakia, Ethiopia, France, Greece, India, the Netherlands, Norway, Poland, the Ukraine, the Soviet Union, the United States and Yugoslavia—will now have the final say on the treaties.

The ministers settled their last major conflict—Italian reparations—by an agreement providing that Italy must pay Russia $100,000,000 from munitions factories, from her assets abroad and from current production over a seven-year period. Italy was given a two-year period of grace before beginning the payments from current production, however.

The only item now on the agenda which still might cause trouble was the issue of freedom of navigation on the Danube.

Australian Sees Disaster In U.S.

Melbourne, July 5.—The Melbourne Herald today quoted H. F. Richardson, deputy chairman of the Australian War Surplus Disposals Commission, as saying that the United States, after finishing the war as the mightiest nation, "is now rushing towards economic disaster of the first magnitude."

The Herald said that Mr. Richardson, who has just returned from a five month's business tour of north, central and South America stated in an interview that members of Congress were lolling back in their seats on Capitol Hill reading the comic strips "while the United States is rushing headlong towards inflation."

Benefits May Be Increased In Unemployment Insurance

too, would like to see an increase, but only "within the realm of sound administration."

He also disclosed that the advisory committee would consider the possibility of reducing the present period of nine days which an unemployed person must wait before collecting benefits.

The bill, which extends unemployment payments to lumber workers and merchant seaman and makes a number of other changes, received second reading and will be given final approval later.

Several minor government measures also were advanced.

To Correlate World Atomic Groups With UN Function

New York, July 5.—(AP)—The United Nations atomic sub-committee No. 1 set out today on a course aimed at correlating the operations of a proposed world atomic development authority with the peace enforcement functions of the Security Council.

On the agenda for the committee's session today were two subjects:

1. "Measures, systems and organization of control over atomic energy in order to make specific proposals to secure the use of such energy for peaceful purposes only, and"
2. "The relationship between any or all of such measures and the function assigned to the Security Council by the charter of the U.N."

No Insurance For Striking Textile Union

Not Eligible for Benefits, Commission Informs Idle Group—Result of Walkout Affects All Quebec, Official Says.

Valleyfield, Que., July 5.—(AP)—The Unemployment Insurance Commission office here is mailing letters to all workers claiming unemployment insurance as a result of the textile strike at the Montreal Cottons Limited plant here informing them they are not eligible for the benefits, it was learned today.

At a mass meeting last night called by the United Textile Workers of America (A.F.L.), M. Tremblay, union official, said that if the result of the strike "is negative for the textile workers, it will be a complete defeat for all the workers in Quebec (Province) in general." He reported that at the convention of the Provincial Federation of Labor held at Quebec City during the week-end, a resolution was adopted offering moral and financial aid to striking textile workers here and at the Montreal plants of the Dominion Textile Company who are seeking a union contract, a 40-hour week and a 25-cent hourly wage increase.

Madeleine Parent, union organizer, reprimanded newspapers which accepted and advertised the "false" publicity of the Dominion Textile Company.

She thanked a Valleyfield shoemaker, I. Henley, who offered to repair the strikers' shoes at half price and requested that other merchants lend their support to the idle workers.

Trefle Leduc, president of the Valleyfield local of the U.T.W.A., publicly thanked Mayor Robert Cauchon for his work in attempting to bring about an arbitration board to hear the cases of the workers who had been refused unemployment insurance.

Soviet Paper Raps U.S. Capitalists

Moscow, July 5.—(AP)—The newspaper Izvestia declared today that American capitalists had flooded China with "cheap American goods" and wrecked efforts of Chinese textile manufacturers to get back into business after years of war.

"The Chinese firms are not able to stand the competition," declared Izvestia.

"It becomes clear," the paper added, "that some financial circles in America and England are trying to return China to the position of a semi-colonial country. Such a policy is being accomplished despite the fact it is in contradiction of the high aims of the United Nations."

Izvestia said that American engineers were swarming into the Yangtze Valley and American oil men were invading the Gobi Desert.

Bitter Fight As U.S. Tries Price Curbing

Bill to Restore O.P.A. Ceilings Creates Hot Debate in Senate—Taft Declares Open War on Proposed Revision.

Washington, July 5.—(AP)—A bill reviving the Office of Price Administration's price and rent controls for another year headed into a hot fight in the Senate today.

Its fate there, in the House of Representatives and at the White House will determine when and if the ceilings that collapsed last Sunday midnight are to be restored.

The measure, approved 42 to 8 last night by the Senate Banking Committee, differed in only two major particulars from the one President Truman vetoed last week with the comment that it was an "impossible" piece of legislation.

Nevertheless, the changes—both involving profit formulas for manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers—were such that Republican Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio declared open war on the revision and announced he would battle it on the Senate floor.

Sen. Taft had insisted that producers, manufacturers and processors should be entitled to their prices during a pre-war base period, plus average unit cost rises since.

The committee accepted that general formula but, under Sen. Alben Barkley's leadership, hedged it in with restrictions obnoxious to Sen. Taft.

Mother Of Quads To Marry Soldier

New York, July 5.—(AP)—Norah Carpenter and her three surviving quadruplet children arrived from London by plane today for a reunion with the babies' father, former United States Army Staff Sgt. William Thompson of Pittsburgh.

Present instead, was his attorney, Sam R. Keller, of McKeesport, Pa., and a cousin, Jack Warner, of Pittsburgh.

Keller said the mother and father would be married "as soon as possible" but that their reunion would not take place in public. He declined to say where the mother and babies would meet Thompson, or where the father is staying.

Thompson, who served in Britain during the war, had not seen the mother or babies in 15 months. He was divorced by his first wife after the birth of the children in March, 1944.

IN TENSE PALESTINE

Top photograph shows British soldiers standing guard over headquarters of The Jewish Agency in Jerusalem after the British arrested seven officials of the organization and charged the agency with complicity in recent Palestine violence. Tension continued high in Palestine today despite the release of three British officers by their Jewish kidnappers and a British announcement that many of the Jews arrested last week-end were being freed.

Criticizes Bikini As Arms Stimulus

London, July 5.—(AP)—Moscow Radio said last night that the atomic bomb tests at Bikini were "a stimulus to an armaments race—in all kinds of armaments."

"The fog of mistrust and suspicion created by atomic diplomacy is still darkening the political skies," Commentator I. Lenin said, adding that the Bikini test demonstrated that "the United States is striving to preserve the secret of atomic energy for use as a political weapon."

Meanwhile, the newspaper Izvestia charged that the United States was using Pan-Americanism as a cloak for a policy of expansion, and another article criticized American proposals on disarmament of Japan as a "step backwards."

U.K. House Plans Debate On Dominions

Will Review Commonwealth Relations and Defence—Mother Country Said Satisfied With Recent Talks.

London, July 5.—(C.P. Cable)—An early debate in the House of Commons on Commonwealth relations has been proposed, it is learned today. Defence communications and results of recent conferences in London are to be reviewed in the debate.

The government is expected to make clear it is well satisfied with recent Commonwealth consultations attended by representatives of the four dominions—Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa.

No hard and fast decisions were reached and Whitehall now accepts the view that the dominions' own parliaments must pass on such decisions.

The success of consultations probably means there will be no more formal imperial conferences. One Whitehall source said "There will be no weeping about that here."

Government spokesmen indicate that while the dominions have made no new commitments on joint defence.

Jewish Underground Group Frees Kidnapped Officers

Jerusalem, July 5.—(AP)—Tension continued high in Palestine today despite the release of three British officers by their Jewish kidnappers and a British announcement that many of the Jews arrested last week-end in a drive to curb armed violence were being freed.

The three British officers, caged in wooden crates, were dumped unharmed from a truck in Tel Aviv last evening. They had been kidnapped June 18 by members of Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish underground resistance organization, and held as hostages to enforce Irgun demands for the commutation of death sentences imposed on two young Jews for shooting at British troops.

During the 16 days the officers were held they were kept chained by the wrists and were guarded by four Jews armed with pistols and a rubber truncheon, a British communique said.

For 48 hours prior to their release all three officers had been on a hunger strike, the communique added.

British military authorities announced yesterday that 50 of the 2,718 Jews rounded up last week-end had been released from the Rafat prison camp in southern Palestine and said that all innocent persons caught in the drive would be freed as soon as possible.

None of the six executives of the Jewish agency, which the British have accused of complicity in recent violence, have been freed, however.

British military authorities said their hunt for contraband munitions was virtually complete except at the Jewish settlement of Mesheq Yagur, where large quantities of arms and ammunition have been reported uncovered.

Western Tour Commenced By Alexander

Vice-Regal Couple Facing Busy Itinerary—Praises 1st Canadian Corps as "Spearhead of Eighth Army."

Winnipeg, July 5.—(AP)—Parade-square smart, even in civilian morning dress, Viscount Alexander of Tunis, Governor-General of Canada, began a two-month western tour with his arrival here yesterday. He was accompanied by Viscountess Alexander and aides.

Today the Governor-General will do military dress to inspect army, navy and air force establishments in the Winnipeg district, and to present some 59 decorations and awards to soldiers and airmen at a special investiture.

Also included on today's program are a visit to Deer Lodge Military Hospital and an inspection of women's Red Cross work by Viscountess Alexander.

Defence Says Goering Was Victim Of His Own Loyalty

Nuernberg, July 5.—(AP)—Hermann Goering today was pictured by his defence counsel as a "victim" of his own loyalty to Hitler and to Germany, aware of mistakes but refusing to flee the sinking ship he helped fashion.

In this vein, the defence of 22 Nazi leaders opened a final plea for acquittal before the international military tribunal laying the entire guilt for German aggression on Adolf Hitler.

Goering's "loyalty became his disaster and the world for him sank in ruins," Dr. Otto Stahmer told the tribunal in summary defence of the reichsmarshal, second man to Hitler in Germany from the start of Nazi rule.

"He certainly recognized many mistakes of the past but he never showed regret, which many would like to see with him," Stahmer said.

"He thereby remains true to himself as well. In this period which is still threatened by chaos and again searching for firm foundations for life, the positive value of such loyalty should not be ignored."

Stahmer listed some of the charges against Goering and presented these replies:

1. He created the dreaded Gestapo—"a sovereign state has the right under the recognized rules of international law to regulate its internal affairs as it deems fit."

2. He looted Europe of art treasures—"Not one of these art treasures did he take for his own collection. Objects were confiscated

Many Dead As Police Clash With Bandits

Polish Referendum Followed by Riots—Opposition Party Demands District by District Recount.

By LARRY ALLEN
Warsaw, July 5.—(AP)—At least 34 persons were reported today to have been killed and 42 wounded at the City of Kielce in Poland's bloodiest post-war pogrom, which was finally suppressed by government forces in armored cars.

Warsaw, July 5.—(AP)—A Foreign Ministry spokesman announced today that 67 "bandits" were killed and 308 wounded or arrested in clashes between security police, militia and outlawed bands preceding and during last Sunday's referendum, in which early returns gave the government a substantial lead.

Sixty-five members of the militia and the police also were slain in the clashes, the spokesman said. Vice Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, leader of the Polish Peasant Party—one of the opposition, already has demanded a district by district recount of the votes.

The Foreign Ministry announced last night that a "small program" had occurred in Kielce, a city of more than 500,000 population south of Warsaw, in which at least 10 Jews were wounded and some probably killed.

A spokesman said the attacks on Jews began when a Polish lady was reported slain, but that militia units had been sent to the city and that the situation was in hand.

The government announced yesterday that with approximately a quarter of the votes counted the three questions presented to the electorate had a heavy "yes" majority, with the count for the one-house legislature running about three to one. This question was the only one on which the opposition made a fight, urging a "no" vote.

The complete total of votes is not expected to be compiled before July 12 and no claims of victory have been advanced as yet by any party or bloc. The voters were polled on Poland's new western boundaries and upon the government's nationalization acts, as well as on the question of a unicameral legislature.

A government spokesman categorically denied last night Mikolajczyk's charge that 3,000 of his partisans had been arrested in the Poznan district just before the referendum.

Search For Plane In Sudbury Area

Ottawa, July 5.—(AP)—Balked in five days of concentrated searching, the search plane for the Sudbury area yesterday they are closing in on the secret of a jet-propelled Gloster Meteor aircraft, missing since late last Saturday when it took off from Kapuskasing with its pilot, Lt.-Lt. W. H. McKenzie of St. Vital, Man.

Today the searchplanes planned to cover the area south of Sudbury, following reports from an unidentified Sudbury miner that he saw what seemed to be a jet-propelled aircraft close to Sudbury on the evening in question.

by order of the Fuehrer for the benefit of the German Reich."

3. Goering wanted war—"He did not agree with the occupation of the Rhineland and he advised Hitler in vain against war with Russia."

4. He was a race fanatic—"The defendant was not a race fanatic, which became generally known by his expression, 'I decide who is a Jew.' It has been established he aided many Jews."

Counsel called it "tragic" to style Goering's association with Hitler conspiracy. It was instead Stahmer said, "a fight to free Germany" by other than "paper protests" to the League of Nations.

Referring to the conspiracy charge against all 22 defendants, including the missing Martin Bormann, Stahmer commented:

"If such conspiracy had existed then Hitler would have been nobody doubts it—the leader of these conspirators. It has already been emphasized that conspiracy headed by a dictator is a contradiction in itself."

Professor Hermann Jareiss, co-counsel for Col.-Gen. Alfred Jodl, presented the first of the defence summaries, a treatise on international law which amounted to a challenge of the charter setting up international trials. He argued on behalf of all defendants.

Jareiss contended:

1. A breach of peace is a matter between states; individuals cannot be tried and sentenced for

The speaker said that Victoria Lodge had the honor of having the largest number of members serving overseas of any lodge in the Province of Quebec. Fitting tribute was paid to David May, the member who lost his life while in service.

Meat Prices Soar In U.S.

New York, July 5.—(AP)—The American laborer, business man, farmer and housewife paid more for many necessities of life today as the first week's test of a peace-time free-price economy drew to a close and Congress got set for a showdown on whether to hand the cost-control reins back to the United States Office of Price Administration.

Meat prices all but staged a runaway in a majority of cities, butter and milk costs also spurted upwards in a quick getaway but they were far behind the meat price. Rent boosts caused turmoil in many places.
"Meat up" was the reply from almost everywhere—it was up as much as 50 per cent in such points as Los Angeles, New York City and San Bernardino, Cal. The rise at other places: Philadelphia, 23 to 60 per cent; Omaha, beef 40 per cent; Richmond, Va., ham and steak 85 per cent; Washington, D.C., a ten to eighteen cents a pound; Portland, Ore., 50 per cent wholesale and 20 to 30 per cent retail.

Death Toll Is 142 In "Sane" Holiday

New York, July 5.—(AP)—The United States celebrated a comparatively safe and sane 4th of July holiday yesterday. Fireworks caused some deaths.
The toll of violent deaths, a survey disclosed, was far below the estimate which had been forecast by the National Safety Council for Independence Day and the extended four-day holiday.
The survey showed at least 142 persons suffered violent deaths, with traffic accidents leading the list of fatalities with 65. At least 42 persons drowned in holiday outings, while violent deaths from miscellaneous causes totalled at least 35. On the 4th of July last year, a Wednesday, 159 persons suffered violent deaths.

defence there is a feeling of confidence about over-all unity in the future. Before the consultations the government had been asked to see the dominions carried a greater share of the joint defence burden, but the dominions in turn pointed to their limitations and local problems.

Proposals for closer association between Canadian and United States fighting forces were observed calmly by the United Kingdom. Closer integration of weapons of the Allies is looked upon as normal and desirable, and the United Kingdom and the United States to a degree have followed the course planned by Canada and the United States in obtaining uniformity of weapons and equipment.

Commonwealth consultations as opposed to imperial conferences are expected by London observers to prove quickly their effectiveness.
At consultations where no resolutions were passed representatives spoke frankly about their home problems and showed perfect readiness to disagree with the United Kingdom and each other on some subjects.

Another advantage of consultations is that the presence of all representatives of the dominions and the United Kingdom is not essential. Prime Ministers Attlee of Britain and Chifley of Australia, for instance, may continue some discussions when Mr. Attlee visits Australia shortly. The trend of their conversations will be cable to the prime ministers of Canada, South Africa and New Zealand.

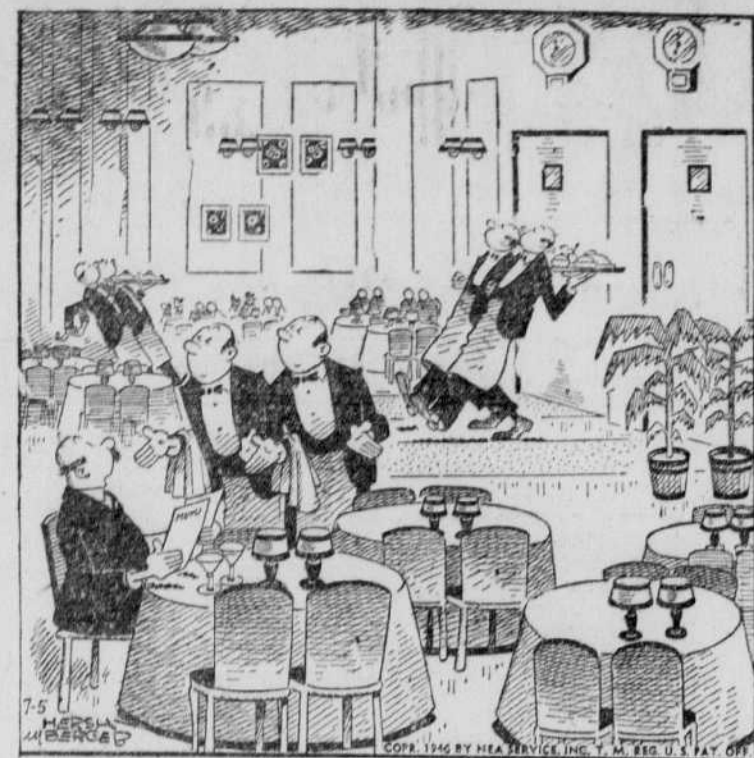

"What we will have is continued face-to-face consultations in addition to the daily exchange of cables and telephone messages on all subjects of Commonwealth interests," one authority said.
"Everyone in London considers the recent consultations a great success and they will continue as necessary."

TWO DEATHS INVESTIGATED BY CORONER

Inquest opened this morning into the death of Claude Labreite, 18, resident of the Montreal Road just beyond the city limits, who died yesterday morning from injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile driven by Roland Nault, 20, of Lawrence, Mass., late Tuesday night.

Early testimony revealed that Nault, accompanied by a friend, also from Lawrence, had spent some time at the Royal Hotel with two girl acquaintances and later the four had decided to drive along the highway.

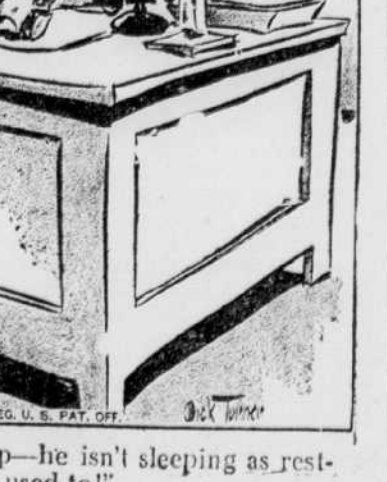

The fatal mishap occurred just as the vehicle driven by Nault was approaching another automobile coming from the opposite direction. Both cars took the precaution of dimming their lights.

An accidental death verdict was returned. S. Brasseur, Provincial Police, stationed in Sherbrooke, is investigating the death of John Mosher, who succumbed Wednesday evening to injuries received the previous day when he was pinned between an automobile and a tree after the car in which he was riding had left the highway.

Mosher had been tinkering with the engine of the car while it was coasting downhill near Pitch Bay. His brother, driving, lost control as the vehicle approached a team of horses. The victim was rushed first to Magog, where all hospital beds were found occupied and then to the Sherbrooke Hospital.

Lennoxville-Ascot Effort For Red Cross Successful

The Red Cross membership drive held in Lennoxville and Ascot during the month of May resulted in a total of 939 members for the Society and the collection of $1,630.45.

It will be remembered that this was not the usual campaign for funds, but was rather a drive to obtain the renewal of annual membership fees from Red Cross members. The average fee paid was one dollar, but there were many who became sustaining members by the payment of larger sums.

The Lennoxville branch of the Red Cross wishes to thank most sincerely all those who have helped in any capacity to make this drive a success. Mrs. Jack Herold gave most valuable assistance in the clerical work necessary in preparing the lists of members and the subscription cards for the collectors.

Zone "A" was in charge of Mrs. Roy Clarke, the collectors being Mrs. Beaudreau, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Parkin, Mrs. Howard Nichol, Mrs. Norreys, Mrs. Henry Downes, Jr., Mrs. R. Blake, Mrs. D'Arcy Bennett and also Mrs. Roy Clarke. Zone "A" collected $445.20.

Zone "B" was in charge of Mrs. R. Lindsou, the collectors being Mrs. L. C. Hudd, Mrs. A. G. Farnham, Mrs. George Dunsmore and Mrs. W. V. Macintosh. Zone "A" obtained $233.75.

Zone "C" was under Mrs. R. C. McPadden and her collectors were Mrs. Charles Hoy, Mrs. Ashley Hunting, Mrs. Shaughnessy and Mrs. Roy Sterling. In Zone "C" the amount collected was $301.00.

Professor A. V. Richardson collected $56 from the University of Bishop's College, and F. R. Pattison obtained $122 from Bishop's College School.

Those who collected in the Township of Ascot were Mrs. LeRoy Bean, Mrs. Walter Ellis, Mrs. Wesley Nichol, Miss Doreen Bennett, Miss Thelma Crawford, Miss Eileen Ennals, Mrs. R. Blake, Mrs. D'Arcy Bennett and Messrs. Chas. Crawford, William Pearson, R. W. M. Green, Clifford Brown, Anson Rowe, J. G. Beattie, Kenneth Hunting, John Orr, W. S. Richardson, John Drummond and Earl Smith. $382.50 was returned from this district and was under the convenship of Mrs. Hugh Wallace and Mrs. Lee Watson.

Mrs. Ernest Gilbey was treasurer for the drive. The collectors deserve great praise and many thanks for their performance of a most arduous task. Throughout the membership drive it was found that the contributors had full cognizance of the great work done by the Red Cross during the war years and that they fully appreciate that the unrest throughout the world offers a strong challenge to all its members for some time to come.

SHOWER GIVEN BRIDE-TO-BE

On the occasion of her approaching marriage, Miss Muriel Getty, B.A., was the guest of honor at a delightfully arranged miscellaneous shower given by Miss Phyllis Statton and Mrs. H. Munkittrick at the former's home on Belvidere Street, Lennoxville.

As Miss Anderson at the piano played "Here Comes the Bride," Muriel, who was taken by surprise, was escorted to a chair nicely decorated in pink and white.

When all were seated a little car bearing the placard "Just Married," and laden with gifts, was driven into the room by Master Dale Munkittrick's groom and Miss Shirley Pope as his bride, wearing a floor-length embroidered white gown with long bridal veil and carrying a bouquet of white roses. A tea wagon loaded with nicely wrapped gifts in pink and white was also brought in.

After the many gifts were unwrapped and admired by all present, Miss Getty, in a few well-chosen words, thanks her friends for their kindness and many beautiful gifts and asked them to visit her in her new home.

After a social hour, dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Munkittrick and Miss Statton, assisted by several friends.

Miss Getty, who spent the last ten months as principal of South Durham Intermediate School, also received several gifts from friends and pupils there before returning to her home in Lennoxville.

THE INDIVIDUAL MUST FIGHT INFLATION

Much has been said of the grave dangers which inflation holds for the people of this or any other country and of the part which the government can or should play in averting the danger. But a fact too often overlooked by the government and the people alike is that the battle against inflation is essentially the duty of the individual.

The chief manner in which the citizen can fight inflation is by conservation in its widest sense. Purchases should be limited to those goods which are absolutely essential and preferably in fair supply, and the money placed in reserve for the day when goods are more readily available. As a corollary to building up savings accounts, wise citizens will maintain their insurance payments and purchase and retain government and other high class securities.

Having accumulated substantial reserves in such securities the cautious investor will not sell them on the first occasion that he or she experiences a cash shortage. The Canadian banks are prepared to lend within reasonable limits against such investments when the prospective borrower has a real need of cash. By effecting such loans and repaying them over such periods as his circumstances permit, the individual retains his investments and ultimately re-establishes his original financial position. In effect they are using their money for a useful purpose and keeping the basis of their savings intact.

The current attitude of the Dominion Government towards the inflation issue apparently overlooks the inherent soundness of the attitude of the bulk of Canadians on financial problems. Finance Minister Ilsley and his advisers seem convinced that the Canadian people will embark on a wild spending spree the minute they have a few spare dollars in their pockets. They are using this argument as a pretext for extracting every possible dollar from the pocket of the citizen and diverting it to the uses of the state. For the most part these purposes are mostly of an inflationary nature, being designed to place into circulation large sums of unearned, or easily-earned, money, which often is for needless purchases.

The best assistance the Government could give to curbing inflation would be a financial policy permitting the individual to save a reasonable amount out of his income and at the same time enjoy a reasonable return upon such savings as he might accumulate.

THE C.B.C. DEMANDS MONOPOLY

The recent actions of the management of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation offer convincing proof of the oft-repeated adage that government operation of any enterprise never likes competition. This is apparent in many lines. The government airways system keeps private companies in the bush. No provincial government permits private competition with its liquor stores. Even in the City of Sherbrooke the municipality prohibits private companies from marketing industrial power to different plants. That the Canadian National has not taken over the choice lines of the Canadian Pacific before now undoubtedly is due to the fact that the Board of Railway Commissioners was established before the government-owned system was created.

The CBC, on the other hand, is the controlling body not only over its own stations and its own networks but over the stations of its competitors. And its present policy obviously is to eliminate competition in the bigger cities. The little stations are not a worry to a government radio service. The little stations have few resources of money and talent and are prohibited, only Ottawa knows why, from establishing their own networks with other little stations, or with big stations either. Three of the largest independent stations have been notified that, come next July, CBC will move in on their wavelengths. At Toronto, CBC already operates a big station on a clear channel and their desire for a second such outlet can only be explained by a desire to delegate competition to the place where it no longer can command the big money from advertising shows produced in Hollywood, New York or Chicago.

This is a far cry from the avowed purpose of the system when Mr. Bennett established it a dozen years ago, the idea then being to carry Canadian programs to the sparsely-settled areas, leaving the large private stations for the cities and towns. However the CBC has become a powerful propaganda agency for the Government and for the crowd of adolescent producers of plays and talks who use the so-called people's system to promulgate their own ideas for a better world. It is not a fact that the points of view of all groups in the community are expressed. The cards are usually stacked against the more conservative elements. The so-called educational forums are often foisted on the CBC listeners in the best evening hours, for the CBC is a socialist enterprise and naturally attracts to its staff those who think that way.

WISE WORDS FROM THE SENATE

Senator John T. Haig, during the course of the Senate vote on the second interim supply bill providing funds for the operation of the country for another two month period while the estimates are under discussion, touched upon an important matter of parliamentary practice when he protested the habit acquired in recent years of voting substantial government expenditures before the budget has been presented to show where the money was to come from. Urging that Parliament be called early in January so that the budget could be introduced early in March, or late in February, he argued with reason that no Member of Parliament outside the government can exercise any real control over expenditures or judge the wisdom of these expenditures unless they know the prospective sources of receipts. He likens the case of the government to certain individuals who run wild and incur obligations without knowing where they are going to get the money to meet them.

If the budget were to be brought down in February or March either House would have an opportunity, before voting a dollar of supply, to see where the money was coming from and to reject any item it did not like. Under the prevailing system, as much as one-third of the annual expenditures of the government have to be approved without debate or discussion.

Traditionally the Canadian Parliament met early in the new year and accomplished most of its business before the month of June. In more recent times the date had been deferred more and more until the new fiscal year is often underway before the House assembles with the result that interim supply bills have to be rushed through in order that the business of the country may continue. Certainly such practices are not conducive to economy or good government, as too often when discussion of departmental estimates occurs on the floor of the Commons it is revealed that some contentious expenditure has already been made, using money appropriated under the interim supply bills.

OBSTRUCTION ON THE HOME FRONT

Three times in a row Andrei A. Gromyko casts Soviet Russia's veto in the United Nations Security Council, and immediately everyone jumps on the Russians for being a bunch of surly, unco-operative so-and-sos. But before getting all hot and bothered around the necktie over that, it might be well to get good and mad at some of the unco-operative souls right here at home in the U. S. Congress.

Standing on their constitutional rights, exercising their individual freedom to act just as Comrade Gromyko has done, these home-grown voters are throwing monkey-wrenches in the domestic peace and prosperity machinery to as great an extent as the Russian Communists are interfering on the international scene. This need not be said in any spirit of defending the Russians, either. But it does give a basis for evaluating the enormity of the crime being committed on the home front. It's just as much against the desires of the majority of the committee and of the Congress as anything done by Comrade Molotov in Paris.

Why should Comrade Andy May of Kentucky and a small group of Republicans in the House Military Affairs Committee be permitted to hold up atomic-energy legislation? That's exercising a veto. It's just as much against the desires of the majority of the committee and of the Congress as anything done by Comrade Molotov in Paris.

Why should Comrade Bilbo of Mississippi be permitted to filibuster the FEPC to death in the Senate, then call on "all red-blooded voters" of his state to keep Negroes from voting in the primary election? That's the equivalent of a veto power, and it haunts the will of the majority.

Why should Comrade E. E. Cox of Georgia be permitted to delay action by the House Rules Committee on a minimum-wage bill? The House Labor Committee has approved a simple bill raising the minimum-wage standard from 40 to 65 cents an hour. Cox said he wanted to vote on it but had to go home and campaign for the July 12 primary. So the Rules Committee took no action. A veto again.

On the same day, the House Rules Committee blocked action on the President's requested labor-control legislation. Mere of the same.

Granted that either House or Congress has the right to vote down any proposed measure. Still, when a single congressman or a small group of congressmen can block the right of the whole Congress to take that vote, they are acting in the same spirit as the Russians who cast their vetoes against majorities' will and action in the United Nations Security Council.

CONGRESSIONAL RULES BLOCK PROGRESS

The fault in the United Nations Council is, of course, in its rules. When the Big Five veto right was in the charter at San Francisco, there were dire predictions that it would not work, that it would block progress.

Similarly, the fault in the U. S. Congress is that its rules of procedure block progress. Before the joint committee on the organization of Congress could be created for its investigation of means of modernizing and reorganizing congressional machinery, obstructionists had to be given their way in an agreement that no change would be made in the rules of the Senate and House. So that committee on organization went to bat with those two strikes against it.

That it played as good a game as it did and scored as many runs as it did is much to its credit. But no streamlining it is finally able to accomplish can mean much until antiquated House and Senate rules, the more fundamental issue, are struck out.

You can argue yourself blue in the face that the exercise of these vetoes protects the rights of the minorities. What it really does is inflict the will of the minority on the majority, and that isn't democracy.

There is nothing new in this situation. It is one of the oldest stories in Washington, but it needs to be retold every so often so that it isn't forgotten. And with all the heat being aroused by, and all the faces being made at, the Russian diplomats because of their hold-up tactics in New York and Paris, this affords an excellent opportunity for a good look into the mirror.

Press Comment

Today, Monday and Tuesday, the Record will publish editorials from other Canadian papers showing the press reaction to Finance Minister Ilsley's budget of last week. The Kingston Whig-Standard, a paper which strongly supports the Government, published by Hon. Rupert Davies, who was appointed a Senator by the present administration, has some faint praise for the budget, as has the Fort William Daily Times Journal. The Ottawa Journal castigates the budget in strong terms.

THE FEDERAL BUDGET. The Kingston Whig-Standard. The budget brought down in the Federal House of Commons Thursday night by Finance Minister Ilsley was received by most Canadians, we think, with rather mixed feelings. They were disappointed that greater relief from taxation was not provided, yet grateful for the relief promised them in 1947. The general expectation apparently had been that this peacetime budget would be marked by a far greater drop from wartime taxation levels, and that the reduction would go into effect immediately. With that impression prevailing, it is understandable that the first reaction to the budget was one of disappointment.

Later to be tempered by the realization that relief will be general throughout practically the entire taxation structure after the beginning of the next calendar year. With regard to the feeling of disappointment, it may be said that Canadians had taken too rosy a view of the situation. This is borne out by the fact that the budget estimates there will be a large drop in expenditures, provides for certain taxation reductions and still foresees a deficit of $300,000,000 on the year's operations. It is an example of the truth of the old proverb that you can't have your cake and eat it, too; as long as Canadians demand extended and additional services from the Government, they cannot expect substantial decreases in taxation. The only means by which taxation may be decreased while maintaining expenditures at high levels, or increasing expenditures, is by increasing the national debt—a procedure which would afford only temporary relief and eventually lead to increased taxation.

The most commendable feature of the budget is the relief it offers to people in the lower income brackets, where relief is most needed. More than half a million Canadians will cease to be taxpayers when this year ends, and an indefinite number will find their taxes reduced by more than fifty per cent. The fifty per cent reduction may represent a very small sum in an individual case, but the mass contribution to purchasing power in the lower income brackets will be considerable. It may be noted in passing that lifting the tax from more than half a million present taxpayers should not mean an out-of-pocket loss to the Dominion of the entire amount they now pay, since administration costs were probably very high for this group in proportion to the amount collected.

Another provision in the budget intended to benefit families in the lower income brackets is the new regulation covering deductions for dependents and the relation of family allowances to taxable incomes. Without going into detail, it may be said that these regulations are aimed at relieving the burden on all taxpayers with dependents below the $2,250 per year level—a development which would be in line with the general aim of the family allowance plan.

Another move toward more equitable taxation is that altering the tax status of a married couple earning or receiving separate incomes. If the income of each is in excess of $750, each will be regarded as a single person. The regulation which granted married status to the husband and single status to the wife was obviously a wartime measure, designed to attract as many married women as possible to industry. The purpose of the new regulation is equally obvious—to discourage married women from retaining jobs which would offer a living to men in need of employment. Those who refuse to be discouraged will at least not benefit by the discrimination which now exists.

Although business in general will be grateful for the reduction of the excess profits tax, it is no exaggeration to say that the Government's failure to discard this tax altogether is one of the most disappointing features of the budget to business men. They had reason to hope that the example of the United States in abolishing the tax, and of Great Britain in promising to abolish it on a fixed date, would be followed in Canada. Abolishing the tax in the case of partnerships and sole proprietorships is an excellent move; it will remove from such business a handicap which should be removed from all business. The announced reduction, with the expectation of future abolition of the tax, should encourage business to plan for the future with more optimism and certainty than has so far been possible. The announced reduction in corporation taxes is another step in the right direction which should produce similar effects.

The regulation doubling Dominion succession duties, we believe, is intended to make taxation in this field equitable throughout the nation. It is provided that provincial duties shall be deductible from Federal duties, up to a maximum of one-half the amount of the latter. The practical effect of this regulation will be that the province may receive a half of a lesser amount of the total tax; the Dominion will be in the same position—but all estates throughout Canada will be taxed at the same level.

Another step toward equitable taxation is seen in the measure which permits farmers and fishermen to pay taxes on incomes averaged over a three-year period, and offers a similar concession to artists and authors. This should help to correct a situation in which people in the above occupations were discriminated against because of conditions beyond their control.

The proposal contained in the budget for an agreement between the Dominion and the provinces is one which cannot be commented on without intensive study. Even the experts are content to wait until they have had an opportunity to examine the Dominion proposal in detail before pronouncing an opinion; there are so many angles to be considered, both from the viewpoint of the Dominion and from that of each of the nine provinces—none of them perhaps free from political implications—that snap judgment is impossible. However, the inclusion of the proposal in the budget is encouraging evidence that the Dominion Government is thoroughly aware of the urgency of concluding an agreement with the provinces at the earliest possible moment.

The 1947 budget clearly reflects the situation facing the people of Canada. A greatly increased and still mounting national debt has brought with it very heavy debt charges; greatly increased demands for services of various kinds has heavily increased expenditures. In such a situation, substantial reduction of taxation is economically impossible. The remedy, of course, may be provided by the people at any time. If they change their demands for increased services to demands for increased economy and curtailment of expenditures, if they insist on a Government which will do these things and refuse to elect any other, they can expect substantial relief from taxation. If they persist in their present course, their only hope of avoiding further disappointment is to expect little more relief from future budgets than they received from that brought down Thursday night.

THE BUDGET. Fort William Times-Journal. Reductions in income taxation which many Canadians were awaiting with eagerness have been granted by the Canadian Minister of Finance in his budget speech delivered last night in Parliament. The reductions will not take effect until the first day of 1947, but they promise a measure of relief which will be felt widely. Exemptions for single persons have been raised from $690 to $750 and for married persons from $1,200 to $1,500. Some had hoped for greater exemptions but it would seem that a fair start will be made next year in getting out from under the heavy load of taxation which was the result of the war.

It seems assured that improvements are to be made in the income tax machinery collection which will be very much to the good. The fact that a board will be established to hear appeals will be a most helpful factor and will eliminate real causes of complaint. Reduction in corporation taxation should result in an impetus in business expansion and production which is needed acutely.

The lesson of the budget is that Canada still has to pay the price of liberty and survival but that there is promise that the way is growing brighter. Many of the statements made by the Canadian Minister of Finance, Hon. J. L. Ilsley, during the budget address he delivered Thursday night were of profound interest to the people of this country who have gone through the hard test of a long and desperate war and whose efforts and sacrifices were no small factor in the achievement of the Allied victory.

The Minister said that Canada today is more prosperous and farther along the road to re-employment and reconversion than reasonably could have been expected last fall when the previous budget was presented. He admitted there had been shortages and interruptions but he declared the Canadian economy as a whole a far better factor in the world from war service and war work to peacetime jobs and peacetime objectives. As a result, he said, Canada is enjoying a level of employment and prosperity never experienced before in peacetime. This view from a man who has at his command full sources of information should be encouraging to those who have been depressed by industrial disputes and interruptions.

The Minister said that in his view Canadians should be thankful that the present prosperity makes many of our problems less urgent for the time. About one Canadian in four who work for a living, he said, has been released from war activities. Several thousand of them, including married women, elderly people and students, have left the labor market. Although there are more than 100,000 unfilled jobs some others are unemployed being unable to find work which they can and will undertake. The majority of the servicemen and war workers now are busy at work in industry, farming or in other fields.

The Minister said that despite shortages and interruptions peacetime production and trade have expanded rapidly absorbing most of those seeking work. The number of unemployed at last report, said the minister is about 200,000 and the best season for employment still is ahead. This 200,000, he added is only about four per cent of the country's total labor force. As concrete evidence of the productive work and activity which is going on in Canada the minister stated as follows: "In 1941 the total market value of all our current production and services—what the statisticians call our 'gross national product'—reached a wartime peak of about $11,750,000,000. Compared with a value, at lower prices, in 1938 of about $5,100,000,000. Thus, the effect of the war, including the effect of price increases, was to produce more than double our gross national production."

"We do not know, of course, what the final figure will be for the current year, but so far it has been running at about $11,000,000,000—although that level may be pushed down as a result of interruptions to production."

The reason for the continuing high rate of production, employment and incomes, is that the demands of war, represented by war expenditures which have fallen from a huge total a year ago to a small fraction of that today, have been replaced by other demands which, though less insistent and insatiable, are nevertheless large and urgent and backed by effective purchasing power."

so the United States. If we go on in our present way we shall continue to lose thousands; lose them because they will want to go to a country where opportunities are wider and there is less penalizing of thrift.

There is something else. Business in this country can't go on competing with socialism, go on under crushing burdens of taxation to subsidize socialism. If side by side with free enterprise we permit in erecting a structure of collectivism, with the first taxed to pay for the last, then, free enterprise must fail. That, it seems to us, is inevitable.

There are other things in this budget, disturbing things, of which more anon. Enough here to emphasize that we have the budget we deserve, and that those who expected much different were in a fool's paradise. We are paying the price of our condemnation of folly; paying for the luxury of a Government which doesn't know how to economize; paying for a tribe of planners who are contemptuous of thrift, unconcerned with human initiative, and more socialist than anything else. That is what this budget means, and that is what future budgets are going to mean, unless the public awakens from its stupor and complacency resolves sensibly on a change.

It won't make sense in the future. For if there is one certainty about what is ahead of us it is that as long as this Government continues to bid against socialism, and as long as it continues in its impotence or unwillingness to economize, taxes will stay up. We have a debt now of more than $13,000,000,000, with annual service cost of between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000; we have doubled and trebled defence costs; we have a tremendous pensions bill; we have commitments of hundreds of millions annually for family allowances and like things; and we have a Government which clearly does not know what retrenchment means. As a result, there is before us no prospect of substantially lower taxes. Next year, and the year after, and the year after that, our taxes will be high. That is what we have let ourselves in for.

It is a poor thing for Canada. This is an expensive country. We are making it more expensive. To burdens imposed by its climate for clothing and shelter we are adding burdens of taxation which make its living costs too high, which work at our talk and hope about getting immigrants. Today we are losing thousands of our best young men

Lot of Widower Is Harder

Sympathy In Abundance For Widow But None For Man

We are all filled with compassion for the poor widow who has her home and her way of life broken up by her husband's death. Especially are we sorry for her when she has a household of little children, or when she is old and has to go to live with her in-laws in whose houses she knows she is an unwelcome guest.

But, strangely enough, we extend no such sympathy to the widower, though the lot of the man who loses his wife and who is left with motherless youngsters to take care of, or the one who has to go to live with his son or daughter in his old age, is even more desperate and pathetic than that of the bereaved widow. Even the Bible makes this distinction between the sexes, for we are adjured to wipe the tears from the widow's eyes, but nothing is said about our duty to cheer up the widower, perhaps on the theory that the widower can always comfort himself.

Yet, in reality, the widower can meet the situation better than the widow can, for, except in extreme cases of poverty, she can make a home for her children and keep her little brood together; whereas, no matter how much money the man has or how hard he tries, he cannot make the happy home or give his children the care that their mother would have done.

No spectacle is more pitiful than that of the widower contending helplessly with hired housekeepers or governesses; coming home tired and worn at night to a house that is no more of a home than a barn would be, eating stodgy meals and worrying over children who are running wild.

Of course, the solution for the widower's dilemma that is usually suggested is remarriage, but that is not always as easy as it seems, especially if the man is choosy. For the kind of woman who would hit the widower's fancy is not always willing to qualify for the hard role of the stepmother.

So what is the poor widower with children to do? If he is young or even middle-aged, the best way to meet the situation is for him to marry again, provided he picks out a sensible woman, in his own age class, for a wife instead of a glamour girl. For the curious thing about marriage is that whether a man's first marriage has been happy or unhappy it does something to him that unfits him for the single life.

He has been house-broken and he can't revert to the wild again. He has gotten used to home cooking and home comforts and a wife bossing and nagging and taking care of him and, although after his wife's death the widower may kick up his heels for a little while, he soon finds out that he has lost his taste for liberty and wants to be a household pet instead of a wolf.

Also it is better for the children to have a stepmother, even if they fight with her, than to have no mother at all to give them a background of a home and the respectability that goes with it. And it is not to be ignored that children grow up so fast in these high pressure times that they soon fly the home nest, anyway, and cease to be a problem.

But if a widower does not want to marry again, or if he is too old to marry, he should preserve his own individuality and make his own life by living in a hotel or club or boarding house where he can have companionship and someone to look after him. If he cannot afford any of these, he should go to an Old Man's Home; but under no circumstances should he go to live with his children, because a father-in-law in a house is even more disrupting than a mother-in-law.

For old men are not adaptable. They cannot change their ways. They can't even occupy themselves, as old women can by knitting or looking after the children. They can only sit and criticize and be pests. Which God forbid that any of us should be.

MARRIAGES

McLEOD—LEACOCK

Lake Megantic, July 5.—In St. Michael's Cathedral, Barbadoes, B.W.I., on Saturday, May 25, the marriage took place of Rosemary Jean, youngest daughter of the Hon. D. G. and Mrs. Leacock of Barbadoes, to Mr. Hector Ivan McLeod, of Montreal, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McLeod, of Lake Megantic. The church was decorated with lilies and other white flowers. Officiating at the ceremony were the Bishop of Barbadoes, the Dean and Rev. Frank Dowlen. The service was choral and the organist played the wedding music.

Bridesmaids were Miss Pamela Fox, who with the bride has been a student at McGill University, Miss Joan Watson and Miss Angela Pile. Mr. Frank Turner, of Jamaica, B.W.I., was best man. Given away by her father, the bride wore a gown of white broad-clothed satin, fashioned with a train. A halo of lace held her veil of net and she carried a bouquet of white anthuriums and orchids.

The bridesmaids were in frocks of turquoise net, with bonnets to match and their ornaments, coral necklaces and bracelets, matched their bouquets of Gerberas. A reception followed at Aberdare, the home of the bride's parents. The wedding was attended by His Excellency, Sir Henry Gratant Bushé, K.C.M.G., Governor of Barbadoes, and Lady Bushé.

The bridegroom, a former flying officer in the R.C.A.F., is a student at McGill University, and before enlisting was a resident of Sherbrooke.

WILKINS—DEAN

Asbestos, July 5.—A pretty wedding took place on Saturday afternoon, at three o'clock, in the Asbestos United Church, when Thylis Gertrude, youngest daughter of the late Wilbur Pearson Dean and Mrs. Dean, was united in marriage to Douglas John, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilkins, of Kingsbury, Que. Rev. A. R. Ross officiated. The church was decorated with white spirea, rocket, pink and blue lupins and blue iris, the guest pews being marked with bows of white satin ribbon. Mrs. Gordon Little presided at the organ and accompanied Mr. Elton Webb, who sang "I'll Walk Beside You."

The bride was attended by Miss Barbara Smith, as maid of honor, and the Misses Velma Craig and Laurel Mastine, as bridesmaids. The best man was Mr. Ernest Wilkins, brother of the groom, and the ushers were Messrs. William Dean and Osborne Wilkins, brothers of the bride and groom.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. E. Howard Richardson, of Montreal, was in a gown of white sheer with lace inserts, having long pointed sleeves, long torso and full skirt. Coaticook, July 5.—The marriage of Dorothy Velma Stafford, B.A., daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Roy P. Stafford, of Coaticook, to Mr. Thomas Lester Taylor, of Dawson College, Que., son of Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Taylor, of Sidney, B.C., took place in the United Church on Saturday afternoon, June 29, at three o'clock, with the bride's father officiating. The church was decorated with pink and white panicles, arranged by the young ladies of the Women's Association.

The bride, who was given away by her uncle, Mr. George S. McFadden, K.C., of Montreal, wore a gown of white broad-clothed satin, having a sweetheart neckline and sleeves ending in points over the hands. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by satin lilies which had been worn by the bride's mother on her wedding day. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls, the gift of the groom, and she carried an arm bouquet of Talisman roses.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Earle Templeton, of Granby, who was in a rose crepe frock with matching Juliet cap and carried a colonial bouquet of pink and white flowers.

Miss Lillian Thorslund, of Montreal, the bridesmaid, wore a dress of pale blue organdy over blue taffeta with a black Juliet cap. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink and blue flowers.

Mr. Lloyd R. Stafford, of Dawson College, Que., brother of the bride, acted as best man. The ushers were Mr. Lloyd Wood, Dawson College, and Mr. Howard Ford, of Montreal.

During the signing of the register Miss Barbara MacDonald and Miss Betty Jack sang "O Perfect Love," accompanied at the organ by Mr. A. E. N. Turnbull.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Stafford, was gowned in queen's blue crepe with black accessories and wore a corsage of pink carnations. Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Taylor were unable to attend.

The reception was held at the parsonage, where the decorations were carried out in pink and white pennies. The bride's table was centred with a wedding cake, smilax and red roses and white tapers. The entrance hall was decorated with pansies given by a friend.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor left by motor for North Hatley, the bride travelling in an American Beauty suit with black accessories, white gloves and wearing a corsage of white carnations.

Out of town guests were Mrs. E. Bernice G. Toronto, sister of the groom, and other friends from Montreal, Sherbrooke and Granby. Mrs. Taylor will continue on the staff of the Granby High School.

The bride, who was given away by her father and entered the church to the strains of the Lohengrin Wedding March, played by Miss Ruth Hamilton, was in a gown of pink rayon chiffon, having long full sleeves and a full skirt. She wore a fingertip veil with coronet of orange blossoms and long white gloves. Her only ornaments were matching pearl necklace and earrings. Her shower bouquet was of tulips, apple blossoms and lily-of-the-valley.

Mrs. W. J. Hall, of Birchton, the bride's only attendant, wore a frock of pale blue rayon chiffon with a small headress of blue chiffon and flowers. She wore long gloves and carried a bouquet similar to that of the bride.

The groom was attended by Mr. James McVetty, brother of the bride, and the ushers were Mr. Malcolm McVetty, brother of the bride, and Mr. Robert Hall, brother of the groom.

The church was decorated by relatives and friends with apple blossoms, lilacs and potted plants. An arch of spring flowers was the setting for the ceremony. Pink and white crepe bows marked the pews for relatives and close friends.

Mrs. McVetty, mother of the bride, wore a gown of brown flowered jersey with matching brown accessories and a corsage of pansies and maiden hair fern.

Mrs. Hall, mother of the groom, was gowned in green crepe with small green hat and bag and wore a corsage of narcissi and maiden hair fern.

MIND YOUR MANNERS

The Situation: You are selecting a wedding gift for a young couple who are going to be college students for a year or two after their marriage. In all probability, they will live in a furnished room or small apartment while finishing their education.

Wrong Way: In selecting the gift, don't consider the recipients' probable temporary living arrangements.

Right Way: Choose flat silver, linen, or some other gift that takes up little room and can be moved about without danger of breakage.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE
By Wm. E. McKenney, America's Card Authority

ONLY WAY TO BEAT HAND: DISCARD ACE
While in Florida last spring I enjoyed several evenings of bridge with Murry Gross of Asheville, N. C. Gross is keenly interested in the Southern Appalachian Tournament to be held at the George Vanderbilt Hotel in Asheville Aug. 23, 24 and 25.

Few people get more fun out of a game or a problem in bridge than Gross. He showed me today's hand, which is an old one, but I think you will enjoy it.

After winning the first spade trick South continues with the eight-spot and North wins with the king. A spade is returned which East wins, and now South must make a discard. What should he let go?

The only discard that will beat the hand is the ace of hearts! The idea is that if South keeps the ace of hearts, declarer can guess the heart situation. He leads a small heart, and if South plays low, a dummy's king wins, another heart is played back and the queen and ace drop together. Then North would have no in-card to cash his spades.

Hand analysis table with cards and dealer information.

While this is a problem hand, it is based on sound reasoning. The discard of the ace of hearts trick, but if his partner has the queen, he can see the possibility of defeating the contract.

REHAB DUTIES ARE DESCRIBED AT WATERLOO

Waterloo, July 5. — At their weekly meeting, the Waterloo Kiwanians were privileged to hear the Casualty Rehabilitation Officer for the Eastern Townships, Mr. Cote, deliver an interesting address on this subject.

Mr. Cote himself a veteran of this war, having fought overseas with the Royal 22nd Regiment, spoke very feelingly on the case of the casualty, who has possibly undergone an amputation, and is seeking his proper place in the world of rehabilitation.

"The idea that a casualty is not fitted for a big job must be abolished, as there are jobs, and good ones, that many an amputee can handle. There are at this time thirteen thousand casualties on the job throughout Canada, with several more veterans prepared to take their jobs when they come along."

A disabled person seeks not, neither does he desire charity or pity. He is a citizen wishing to do his part in the world of finance and industry, and he fully realizes his capabilities, and it is his job as

"A casualty," Mr. Cote emphasized, "is as capable to compete for a specific job as any one, and the sooner this is fully realized, the sooner he will be accepted for what he is worth."

To demonstrate his statements, the guest then presented a fine film on the rehabilitation of casualty veterans, which was very much appreciated by the gathering.

FARM AND LOCAL NEWS

Good Crop Yield Possible Only If Plant Protection Provided

Good crop yields today are impossible without protection against enemies which are growing more numerous and offensive, D. J. MacMillan, Agronomer, Lennoxville Experimental Farm, stated yesterday in an address over Station CKTS, Sherbrooke.

The agricultural expert spoke on "Plant Protection" and pointed out that selection of plants for their hardiness and productivity is of little avail if they are permitted to become the prey of insects and diseases.

Pests have their usefulness in the scheme of life, also, he said, noting that if it were not for the insects devouring leaves and dead wood which fall to the ground and return it to the earth in a decomposed state, it would result in an enormous piling up of this debris and the snuffing out of all vegetation.

However, he continued, these insects, bacteria and fungi develop and multiply so rapidly that "the value of a farmer will depend in a large part on his ability to hold these creatures in check by energetic means of repression, and since science has put efficient weapons in his hand to combat these creatures he should study these means to be able to apply them successfully."

Speaking on insects Mr. MacMillan said, "I do not see the necessity of giving the definition of an insect. Everyone well knows what is meant when one speaks of an insect. But one should not ignore the fact too often, that it is important to know their classification in different categories, as for example, their feeding habits. Therefore, one would not apply the same remedy against the plant lice of the small green pea as it is for the potato beetle. The latter eats the leaves while the other sucks the sap from the interior of the plant."

"Insects are equipped with a beak in different forms. We have biting and sucking insects. It is sufficient to poison the food to kill biting insects and different kinds of caterpillars that we see on cabbages, cauliflowers, apple trees, etc. Complications are presented however, when other insects with biting habits have different customs like the small moths of cabbages, onions or carrots. The corn borer which bores inside the stock, the cutworm which razes the plants near the ground, the white grubs and wireworms which gnaw the roots of a large number of our cultivated plants, all require different methods of control.

"Hence, each insect should be studied individually, to determine its weak points. Is it complete transformation that it might be attacked in the egg stage, larva stage, cocoon stage or adult stage? Is it in complete transformation that one would have the choice while it is an egg, a nymph or an adult? We have means, both curative and preventive. The chemical was on insects employs stomach insecticides, contact insecticides and gaseous insecticides.

"The agriculture worker who knows his trade well, is not excused from ignoring the simple principles, when others who have been taught to do research, have brought this knowledge to his door. "I have not time to give you here the list of all the formulas recommended but simply to name some of the principal insecticides used.

"Paris green has been the pioneer of these ingredients, and although its efficiency was recognized, it is often supplemented today with lead arsenate or arsenate of lime which are also efficient. Lead less and have the advantage of being less toxic for plants, especially lead arsenate.

"There is also nicotine sulphate from tobacco, known in the trade as Black Leaf 40, a marvellous, indispensable product in a great many cases. It kills by asphyxiation and by contact. It is also designed for sucking insects.

"Derris powder and cryolite have the peculiarity of not being toxic to higher animals. Hence, there is the advantage of using it on plants shortly before they are used for human consumption.

"Mercuric bichloride is a very strong, harsh poison since it is applied in only small quantities to be efficient. Calomel is a similar product. "Also there are petroleum and lubricating oils which one can use to spray on dormant apple trees in the spring, to kill certain insects in the egg. All these ingredients ought to be applied in following the plant protection guide."

In respect to diseases, the speaker stated: "In their battle for life, the plants have to resist disease. Their health may be affected by different causes which may be physical, fungicidal, bacterial or virulent. The soil may be corrected to make it more acid or more alkaline, lighter or heavier, drier or more humid. Certain deficient elements may be added to balance the nourishment of the plant, or to neutralize the bad effects of other elements present in too large amounts and the physical conditions being improved, diseases of this nature will be removed. "Mustiness or mouldiness is caused by a fungus often microscopic in size which alters the health of the plant by nourishing on its tissues. It is present in the form of spores, a very fine dust which is the seed. This dust germinates on a vulnerable part of the plant by growing and paralyzing the development of that part which may result in the death of the whole plant. "Naturally, the plants should try to resist these outside agents, but for various reasons, as for example, the improvement in production and quality which we have mentioned already, they will have lost some of their resistance and will become an easier prey to these diseases. "The mycelium or filament which does the work, operates if the interior of the leaves or stems and it is practically impossible to dislodge them once they have entered.

"Hence, one can see that the remedy must be preventive. It should be applied all over from the bottom of the plant and on top and under the leaves if possible to sterilize the spores which land there. To do this, one may use Bordeaux Mixture or Sulphur Mixture or other specific ingredients recommended for the disease to be treated on a given plant.

"Bordeaux Mixture is composed of Copper Sulphate or Bluestone lime and water. Generally, the formulae is 4-4-40, but can vary as needed. Sulphur Mixture is a product of Sulphur and boiled to form and sold in a concentrated form. It is necessary to add water before using. The usual formula, which can be varied, is: one gallon of Mixture in 40 gallons of water. "As with insects, it is necessary to change tactics for different diseases. The remedies mentioned above serve for nothing in the case of fungi which cause scabs on potatoes, on apple-roots or raspberry roots. Against these diseases we have recourse to certified healthy plants or seed, which have been selected or disinfected so as not to sow these diseases in the earth. If they are already there, we may use a rotation of three, four or five years since these germs may live for some time on the roots of other plants.

"Another enemy to contend with is bacteria which presents some more difficulties. Have we not worked enough to remove fire-blight of the apple tree, the bacterial wilt of potatoes? MYXEDEMA SWELLS BODY AND CUTS APPETITE

By William A. O'Brien, M.D.

Persons suffering from myxedema (too little thyroid gland secretion) have characteristic appearances and symptoms. But not every patient with a low metabolic rate (breathing test) has myxedema.

Myxedema may develop among individuals 30 to 60 years of age, and it is most common in women. Friends and relatives often are the first to notice a slowing of the victim's mental and bodily activity, accompanied by an increase in weight.

A change in the appearance of the face, and swelling of the body.

The expression of a myxedema patient's face is dull, the eyelids (especially the upper ones) are swollen, and bags accumulate under the eyes. The nasal skinfolds and wrinkles are leveled out by the swollen tissues. The skin is pale, and the patient may resemble one who is suffering from kidney trouble or dropsy.

The patient usually consults his physician because he observes in himself a lack of ambition. The disease may have been present for some time, yet, unless he has a neurotic tendency, he did nothing about it previously.

Most Victims Are Anemic

Other characteristic features of myxedema are dry skin, dry, thin hair, thinning of the eyebrows, hoarse voice, slow pulse, and cold extremities. Most myxedema patients are anemic and complain of stiff joints and muscles. On hot days they feel cold and wear heavy clothes to keep warm.

Myxedema develops after the thyroid tissue is destroyed by infection, or after an excessive amount has been removed during an operation. Unless a goiter preceded the trouble, the thyroid gland is small.

Because of the similarity of myxedema to several other diseases, the true nature of the condition may not be discovered for some time.

In myxedema, the basal metabolism, which is determined by measuring the oxygen consumption in the morning before breakfast after a good rest, is 30 to 40 per cent below normal. As a result of the low metabolism, the appetite is poor and there is a tendency to gain weight. In some of the mild forms of the disease, however, the basal metabolism may not be lowered so much, however.

Thyroid Extract Is Good

Treatment of myxedema with thyroid extracts yields amazing results. In a short time the patient's appearance returns to normal, and all the symptoms disappear. As a rule, the thyroid extract is given until the lack of thyroid secretion is overcome.

Many women with low metabolism (minus 15 per cent to 25 per cent) do not have myxedema. Some of them are apparently normal, while others have ovarian and menstrual difficulties.

An overweight condition is occasionally associated with under-activity of the thyroid gland, but in the majority of cases, even among women, obesity results from eating too much, exercising too little, or both.

Thyroid extract pills should not be used for weight reduction except under the direction of a physician, for when toxic effects appear the drug should be stopped at once.

Question: Will a change in climate help relieve hives? I never had them until I moved to my present home.

Answer: The hives have developed from your coming into contact with something to which you are sensitive. Find out what it is and avoid it or develop resistance to it by injections. Have your physician prescribe a medicine which will relieve you during attacks.

Food Information Committee of THE GOVERNMENT OF CANADA

In Sporting Vein

By Allan Bryce

One of the clauses in agreements between major and minor baseball teams is that players sent to teams in lesser leagues on option must be given a chance to show their wares.

This, to some extent, explains the big turnover in personnel of the Sherbrooke club in the Border League, although not entirely. Most of the players released or optioned to Class "D" teams by the Canadians did not have enough on the ball to stick here, but the recent changes in the club were necessitated by the arrival of new performers loaned to Sherbrooke by Cincinnati Reds of the National League.

Players like Krasjki, Long, Hamilton and Finzer all came here on option, and "Dutch" Proechel, local manager, must give them a look. He does not have to keep them, but cannot discard them without seeing what they can do.

It cannot be expected, under the present set-up, that Sherbrooke will be able to get one strong team and keep it throughout the season. There will be many changes. All we can hope is that the changes are for the better.

Flashback is going to seem like an old folks' home in comparison with Sherbrooke in a very short time. Right now this city is giving Brooklyn a close race for the title of the town umpires most enjoy staying away from.

In recent days there has been some strictly "bush league" behavior by Sherbrooke fans. It is fine to see the crowd with the Canadians instead of against them, as was the case earlier in the season, but there is absolutely no need for hotheads to take it upon themselves to get a crack at the umpires after the games.

First Smith and Reilly, and then Malcovic had to battle their way through shouting, fist-swinging agitators to get out of the stadium to their cars. This sort of behavior is only going to give Sherbrooke a "black eye" as far as organized baseball is concerned.

If players and managers want to abuse the officials and then pay fines for their indiscretion, O.K. That's part of the game. But the fans should leave the umpire alone.

LEAF'S CAPTURE TWO CLOSE ONES FROM RED WINGS

The light-hitting Toronto Maple Leafs are making serious overtures towards entering the International League's first division due to the continued excellent performance of their mound crew. The Leafs drew closer towards their goal last night as they downed Rochester Red Wings, 2-0 and 6-2, in one of the circuit's four July 4 doubleheaders that attracted 36,238 fans.

The front-running Montreal Royals divided a pair of tilts with Buffalo, Ed Mierkiewicz, paced the Leafs to a 11-7 victory by driving in four runs on a homer and single. Curt Davis, veteran right-hander, set the Bisons down 10-4 on nine hits in the finale.

Syracuse's runner-up Chiefs failed to gain on the Royals as they halved a twin-bill with Baltimore Orioles, winning the first contest, 6-3, and dropping the second, 3-2. Jersey City and Newark also divided their bargain bill, with the Giants taking the initial contest, 3-2, and the Bears the finale by the same score.

Mauriello Better Bring Along His Gang When He Meets Louis

New York, July 5—(NEA)—Tami Mauriello, Bronx barkeeper with the Achilles heel, hilariously conceded to be the next "logical" victim for Joe Louis, is the strongest argument in favor of the champion retiring undefeated — right now!

Mauriello would stand a whale of a chance with Louis—a chance of getting killed.

The fact that Mauriello is probably the best white heavyweight in action today is the only excuse for mentioning him as an opponent for the Brown Bomber but certainly doesn't qualify him as such.

While a pupil in P.S. 45, in the Fordham section of the Bronx, young Tommaso Mauriello jumped off a one-story roof, suffered an injury to his heel which required removing a portion of the bone, leaving his right foot malformed.

Because of his limp other kids picked on young Tami but he had a fighting spirit and was quick to mix with his tormentors and at the end of five terms at Theodore Roosevelt High he was the hero of his popular neighborhood.

Tami joined the Teasdale A. C. in the Bronx, won the 147-pound title in a Golden Gloves tournament in 1937. Following 40 amateur bouts in which he scored 17 knockouts and lost only three, Mauriello fought for money, knocking out Gilberto Vasquez in one round in Long Island City.

A dozen of his schoolboy pals attended the fight, carrying a cowbell along with which to cheer on their champion.

The group swelled as Mauriello won fight after fight, augmenting their mechanical noise-makers with cap pistols, automobile horns, sirens and more cowbells, and when Tami finally fought a preliminary

BROWN TANGLES WITH PETRA IN SINGLES FINAL

Wimbledon, July 5—(AP)—Geoff Brown battles Yvon Petra, the human Eiffel Tower of French tennis, in the men's singles final of the All-England tennis championships today—his supreme effort to repay the Australian fans who regaled in their pennies, shillings and pounds to send him here.

A modest, 22-year-old accounting student in Sydney, Brown was short of funds. When the Australian Lawn Tennis Association rejected a Wimbledon invitation to send entries, it appeared Brown would not get a crack at the chess and oldest title in tennis.

But the fans Down-Under revolted. They had not seen an Australian win the crown since Jack Crawford took it in 1933 and, figuring they had a good chance this year, they contributed to a fund and sent Brown and Dinny Pails, his doubles partner, here by plane.

May Draw 20,000,000 Fans To Ball Games In Major Leagues

The major leagues waded into the second half of the first post-war baseball campaign today virtually assured of establishing a season attendance record before the end of this month. They have hopes of reaching the 20,000,000 mark before the season comes to a close on September 29.

A total of 239,456 fans paid to see yesterday's July 4 bargain bills to boost the total attendance for the National and American leagues to 8,909,352, only about 2,000,000 short of last year's record figure.

Neither the Yanks nor the Cards were able to take advantage of the mediocre performances of the league leaders yesterday. With a chance to gain a full game each, the challengers played follow-the-leader and split their twin bills, as did the Red Sox and Dodgers. As a result, the Red Sox' 6½-game lead and the Dodgers' bulge of seven games remained intact.

The lowly Philadelphia Athletics, with Pennington Marchiondo doing the chucking, shaded the Red Sox, 3-2, in the opener. With Ted Williams slugging his second homer of the day and his 22nd of the season, the Sox had to stave off a desperate Mackenman rally to win the nightcap, 3-8.

After Emil (Dutch) Leonard had blanked the Yankees in the first game for Washington, 2-0, the Bronx Bombers, with Lefty Joe Page pitching his first complete game in more than a month, came back in the nightcap to return the shutout, 5-0.

A three-run ninth inning attack enabled the Dodgers to whip New York Giants, 8-5, before 48,200 paid admissions and earn an even split as the Giants had won the opener, 7-5.

The Cardinals fell into third place for several hours when they dropped the first game to Chicago Cubs, 4-2, but reclaimed runner-up berth by capturing the nightcap, 6-1.

A ninth-inning double play by Cleveland Indians with the would-be tying run crossing the plate prevented Detroit Tigers from sweeping a pair from the Tribe before a crowd of 51,323. Outfielder Roy Cullenbine clouted three home runs, one in the first game which Detroit won, 8-4, and two in the second, won by the Indians 9-8.

St. Louis Browns moved to within half a game of fifth place by downing Chicago White Sox twice, 4-1 and 3-2.

Philadelphia Phillies advanced to within half a game of fifth-place Boston by whipping the Braves twice, 7-0 and 3-2. Oscar Judd, of Ingersoll, Ont., pitched the shut-out, spacing nine hits.

After losing the first game to Pittsburgh, 6-1, Cincinnati Reds executed a squeeze bunt to bring home the run that gave them a 4-3 decision in 11 innings of the night-forces registering a 12-7 victory. Brakeshoe started fast with a run in the opening inning and added five more in the second before the Record's first tally was counted in the third. The fourth frame saw Brakeshoe go out in front by 9-1.

In the fifth, sparked by Warren Berwick's circuit clout, the newspapermen collected six runs, to make it a ball game, but Brakeshoe put the decision on ice in the sixth with three more markers.

EX-NAVAL COMMANDO RESCUES WOMAN FROM TRAM HOLOCAUST!

GEORGE POTTER WINS Dow Award

For several minutes the intersection of Bloor and Bathurst Streets resembled a battlefield. A runaway tractor-trailer had collided with a packed, westbound Bloor Street car... setting off an explosion that created wild confusion.

At passengers trapped inside the car fought desperately to escape from the flames, scores of passers-by and on-lookers rushed to help the victims. There were many acts of heroism... many deserving of recognition. Outstanding among these was the bravery of George Potter... a young veteran who dived through a smashed tram window and dragged a woman from the blazing inferno... saving her from almost certain death.

For his courageous action, we are proud to present George Potter with the Dow Award.

The Dow Award is a citation for outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Victory Bond. Winners are selected by The Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Montreal daily newspapers.
