A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION
AND SOFT AND FAIR HANDS AND ARMS are fully realised and sustained by the use of
ROWLANDS' KALYDOR,
An Eastern Botanical Preparation, perfectly free from all mineral or metallic admixture. It is distinguished for its extremely bland, purifying, and soothing effects on the Skin; while, by its action on the pores and minute secretory vessels, it promotes a healthy tone, alays every tendency to inflamation, and thus effectually dissipates all redness, tan, pimples, spots, freckles, discolorations, and other cutaneous visitations. The radiant bloom it imparts to the check, the softness and delicacy which it induces to the hands and arms, its capability of soothing irritation and removing cutaneous defects, render it indispensable to every toilet.
It obviates all the effects of climate on the skin whether with reference to cold and inclemency, or intense solar heat, and affords immediate relief in cases of sunburn, stings of insects, or incidental inflammation. Gentlemen after shaving will appreciate its softening and ameliorating properties.—Price, 4s. 6d. and 8s. 6d. per bottle.
CAUTION.—The words ROWLANDS' KALYDOR are on the wrapper, and their signature, "A. ROWLAND & SON," in red ink, at foot.

Sound and White Teeth
Are not only indispensably requisite to a pleasing exterior in both sexes, but they are peculiarly appreciated through life as highly conducive to the purposes of health and longevity, by the proper mastication of food.
ROWLANDS' ODONTO,
OR PEARL DENTIFRICE,
Compound of Oriental Ingredients. This Powder is of inestimable value in Preserving and Beautifying the Teeth, imparting to them a pearl-like whiteness, Strengthening the Gums, and in rendering the breath sweet and pure.
Its anti-septic and anti-scorbutic properties exercise a highly beneficial and salutary influence; they arrest the further progress of the decay of the Teeth, induce a healthy action to the Gums, and cause them to assume the brightness and color indicative of perfect soundness; while, by confirming their adhesion to the Teeth, they give unlimited enjoyment and fresh zest to appetite, by perpetuating effective and complete mastication.
CAUTION.—The words ROWLANDS' ODONTO are on the label, and A. ROWLAND & SONS, 20 Hatton Garden, on the Government Stamp.—Price 2s. 9d. per box.
Sold in MONTREAL by CARTER, KERRY & Co., and LYMANS, SAVAGE & Co.; and in TORONTO by BECKET & Co.

THE attention of parties intending to insure is invited to the advantages offered by this Canadian Company.
Insurers have the security afforded by the large amount of Capital subscribed by a body of Proprietors of undoubted means, and who are, in fact, equal in standing to those of any of the first Banking Institutions of the Province.—£240,000 of the Capital is held by Proprietors in Central Canada, between this City and Port Hope. The Company is, in every sense of the word, a Provincial Company. The Stockholders being all residents in the Province, who are known to the community, are easily accessible, and have a deep interest in the economical and prudent management of its affairs. Although it has encountered heavy losses, yet, after paying off liabilities, the Company will have, independent of its ordinary annual revenue, which last year amounted to £50,000 Cy., a surplus of £15,826, exclusive of the balance of Subscribed Capital, yet unpaid, of £374,979 19s., or $1,499,919 80.
The Company has one hundred and nineteen Agencies in operation, and does an extensive business in the Town and Rural Districts of Western Canada.
Fire and Marine business of every description transacted by this Company, at as low rates as in any other respectable Office, and all Losses promptly settled, on satisfactory proof being made.

FARM RATES.
The Directors have lately made a considerable reduction of the Rates on Isolated Farm Risks, to which they would draw the attention of Farmers generally throughout Lower Canada.

HEAD OFFICE FOR BRITISH PROVINCES,
TORONTO, March 26, 1857.
AS some reflections have been cast on this Company, we deem it proper to inform the public and those holding its Policies, that, for the further protection of the insured, and to give increased confidence, the President and Directors some time ago, ordered that the Premiums received in the Provinces form an accumulating Fund in the hands of Trustees here, for the security of those interested.
All losses at the different Agencies through the United States have been promptly paid by a Draft on the Head Office, on satisfactory proof of claim, without exacting the time allowed by their Policies: of these facts we are cognizant, as well as that the Stock of this Company holds a respectable position in the Philadelphia Market.
We beg also to assure our friends and the public that any loss occuring at any of the Agencies in the Canadas, will be promptly adjusted and settled by the undersigned at their Office.

Business Notices.

Bogle's Hyperion Fluid, besides possessing superior preservative and revivifying properties for the hair, sheds an aroma the most pleasing imaginable. All the sweets of Flora seem to be combined with a value, which no other article for the hair can pretend to emulate. Sold by all the druggists. r-DC 250

SICK HEADACHE AND DEBILITY.—The Oxygenated Bitters are worthy the attention of all who are afflicted with these or any other symptoms arising from a weakened and deranged state of the digestive system. c-DSC 250

MURRAY & LANAM'S FLORIDA WATER.—An atmosphere of perfume exhales from the handkerchief moistened with this rare floral essence. Its refreshing aroma prevents faintness, and relieves headache and nervous tremor. Gentlemen who use it (mixed with water) after shaving, will obviate all trouble from irritation of the skin. Sold by D. T. Lanman & Co., wholesale druggists, 69 Water Street, New York, and by all druggists, at 50c. per bottle. r-DC 250

TO THE MILLION.—Prof. Wood, of St. Louis, has, after years of deep study and untiring research, succeeded in presenting to the public an article superior to any now in use, and indeed it is truly a wonderful discovery—we advert to his Hair Restorative, the only article that has been completely successful in cheating Age of his gray locks, removing dandruff, itching, scrofula, &c. It restores the gray-headed to more than the original beauty; adds new lustre to locks already luxuriant; having the effect on coarse, harsh hair to keep it glossy and wavy; fastens permanently hair that is loose or falling, and many other qualities that will become known as soon as used.
The pride of mankind is singularly developed in the keeping and arrangement of the hair, perhaps from the fact that it is the only portion of the human body that we can train in any way we choose; how important then, having this portion left to our care, that we should use all the means science has placed in our hands to render it beautiful and permanent. If you would have beautiful hair, glossy hair, permanent hair, with its natural color elegantly preserved to extreme old age, don't fail to purchase Wood's Hair Restorative.—Daily Iowa State Gazette. dm-DC 238

PROF. WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.—This Restorative for making the hair grow, stopping its falling out, and redeeming bald heads from their nakedness, is becoming celebrated. All the quack nostrums are giving way before it. Three-fourths of the mixtures for restoring and beautifying the hair do it more injury than good. They burn it up, destroy the life at its roots, make the hair fall off, and produce premature baldness. But Prof. Wood's Restorative may be relied upon as containing nothing which can in any manner be injurious to the hair, while its success in accomplishing what it pretends to be able to do, has been verified in hundreds of cases. We advise bald heads, and heads getting bald—all who wish to save their wool or obtain a new stock, to get a bottle of Wood's Restorative.—Evansville Journal.

YOUNG IRELAND.—The increasing and progressive party, "Young Ireland," was in a blaze of glory last evening, and her most eloquent defender delivered a splendid eulogium upon the character and origin of her last great effort for freedom—yet we are obliged to say that the young orator was suffering from a severe cold, as he stated. The excellent and inviting compound, Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers, cures all colds and all diseases of the lungs. We trust the orator will avail himself at once of this remedy, and be restored to his usual health. 25 cents per box. For sale at all the druggists. r-DS 250

A SECRET MANY DO NOT KNOW.—The fact is decided that many of those incipient headaches, for which no other reason can be assigned, arise from defects of the capillary action, proceeding from an accession of dandruff or other collection of filthy matter among the hair. The best remover of those unclean influences, and restorer of healthy action of the pores, as well as preservator for the hair, is the Hyperion Fluid, sold by William Bogle, 202 Washington Street, Boston. r-DC 250

CURE FOR WATER-BRASH AND INDIGESTION.
Hartford, March 5.
I hereby certify that Dr. Green's Oxygenated Bitters have proved more efficacious in relieving me from a water-brash stomach, indigestion and costiveness, which has been very troublesome for five or six years, than all other remedies which I have been trying during my illness; and cheerfully recommend it to all who are thus afflicted.

THE MONTREAL HERALD.

MONDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 2, 1857.

The Seat of Government.—As the time approaches when his Excellency may be expected to resume his high functions, and, doubtless, under the impression that he will bring with him, from Downing street, the decision of the Imperial Cabinet as to the locus in quo of the future provincial capital, rumours in reference to that decision have become prevalent here and elsewhere. In allusion to them, our neighbour the Argus, said on Friday morning:—"If, however, we may rely on information that seldom fails us, we should be inclined to credit that the city of Ottawa is, if not already fixed on, in a fair way of being so, as the Legislative Metropolis." Then, we find the following announcement in an extra of the Ottawa Citizen issued on the 24th ultimo:—

The following "telegram" was received here to-day from Quebec. It is addressed to Ed. McGillivray, by William Morris, Esq. of McNab:—

Quebec, 24th Oct., 1857.

To E. McGillivray,—

Private intelligence just received—OTTAWA the Seat of Government.

W. Morris.

The Montreal organ of Messrs. J. A. Macdonald & Co.,—that precious band of incapables, who, to escape the constitutional responsibility inherent in the Administration of every self-governing country, and throw dust in the eyes of the various local cliques in the House of Assembly, by whose combined venality they secure their "majorities," effected the removal of the decision of so essentially local a question from Canada to England—from the "right men in the right place," to the "wrong men in the wrong place"—this organ, also, with singular if not suspicious eccentricity, advocates the selection of Ottawa. In view of these facts—and the possibility of their being the shadows, which are said to precede coming events—we think it our duty thus early to protest, in the name of public convenience, of economy and of common sense, against any such ridiculous location of the Legislature and the Executive of this important colony. Our readers are well aware how great an interest we take in the advancement and prosperity of the Ottawa country—it is, as we have ever maintained, the natural back-country of our own city, and the settlement of its broad and fertile lands, the improvement of its water communications and the general developement of its vast natural resources, must ever be an object of primary importance to the trade and commerce of Montreal. Nay, so far as the individual interests of our citizens are concerned, we have every reason to believe that they would be quite as much benefited by the enormous expenditure, necessarily attending the establishment of the seat of Government in the City of Ottawa, as by its establishment in Montreal itself. But as the people of Montreal have never claimed metropolitan honors for their city, excepting on the one and only ground of the public welfare—of the manifest convenience and advantage of the whole people of Canada, from Gaspé to Goderich,—the prospect of individual gain will never induce them to ignore the manifest inconvenience and disadvantage, which the selection of Ottawa as the Capital of Canada could not fail to inflict upon the people of both sections of the Province. We trust, however, that the rumours, the prevalence of which have induced our remarks, will prove groundless, and that, wherever the Seat of Government is fixed, it will not be in a mere corner of the settled portion of the country to be governed—where accommodation has not only to be provided for the Executive and Legislature bodies, but where an entirely new city must be built for the convenience of the members of the Legislature and of the crowds of strangers, whose duty or interest induces their attendance during the sessions of Parliament—but in one or other of our existing cities and centres of population, where accommodation for the officers of the Government and the members of the Legislature already exists, and where the only buildings to be erected at the public expense would be those of a public character—the Parliamentary Chambers, the Departmental Officer and the residence of Her Majesty's representative.

"Look here upon this Picture and on this."—We publish, this morning, a very pleasing example of Roman Catholic, of Christian charity and liberality, in Count Bathyany's letter to Mr. Vallance. The following detestable, un-Catholic, un-Christian and blood-thirsty contrast to the noble Austrian's letter, we cut from the Toronto Mirror of Thursday last—the italics are ours:—

Who sympathizes with the brigand in his death throes, or pities the murderer struggling with the myrimidons of the law? Yet nefarious brigands and atrocious murderers the English East India Company have been both personally and by their agents in Hindostan. Who, then, can be so shameless as to sympathize with them in their hour of suffering and ignominy? We do, however, sympathize with the British soldiers in the East, but it is not for the cause in which they are battling, but because they are doomed, in all human probability, to double destruction. We would not give sixpence for a life-lease from any of them at present in India. And as to their final doom, we would much rather depart this life in the livery of a felon, than bear with us the impress of the East India Company's Uniform to the tribunal of God.

All our contemporary's (Montreal True Witness) compliments to the Irish insurgents of '98 will serve no useful purpose. These men are in our mouths neither insurgents nor rebels, the[illegible] who, sixty years ago, laid down [illegible] pation, not a lawful authority. [illegible] "mutineers" of Lucknow, and his apologies for their foul murders, (with all due respect we say it,) are simple bosh. The "mutineers" are no mutineers. They were raised and equipped by the East India Company under the authority, sanction, and allegiance of the Mogul Emperor of Delhi. The Mogul, being desirous to rid the country of this troublesome Company, called his Sepoys and subjects around him. They obeyed. For this return to their lawful allegiance, they are shot from cannons and hanged by an English invading force. Defend it oh ye trumpeters of England, for it is a most righteous act! But we have no such intention. And we will have to summon all the Christian fortitude we possess to our assistance, else we shall begin to hate most cordially any Catholics who pull the bell-rope of sympathy for Lord Palmerston, now that such a service is really valuable; but who would consign him to all sorts of unmentionable torments in the moment of success, when their mouthings were harmless, and could be indulged in with impunity. We are almost tempted, in view of some such cases as this, to pray the prayer of the Freeman's Journal—"May the Lord send the English safe out of India—and may they have a jolly hard time to get back again."

This villainous slanderer of our brave countrymen in India; this sympathizer with the ruthless murderers of their wives and babes—Nena Sahib and his beastly myrmidons, the "Mutineers of Lucknow;" this—but we have no language adequate to express our disgust and contempt for a being so base and so false as the Editor of the Mirror "writes himself down,' and shall merely add that, whatever else he is, it is truly sickening to think that, directly or indirectly, he should be connected with and supported by her Majesty's Canadian Government. And yet the Toronto Mirror is one of its favored supporters and organs, the recipient of the Government advertisements, without the profit on which, it is notorious, it could not exist for one month.

A New Fire-Engine.—On a visit to Mr. Wm. Perry's work-shop, situated in Fortification Lane, we were very much gratified at observing a beautiful specimen of skill and workmanship in the shape of a first-class Fire-Engine, constructed by that gentleman on his atent incline action plan, which renders it less liable to freeze, and therefore far more suitable for a cold climate than any now in use. For the benefit of our numerous readers, we will give a short description of this model engine. It is constructed on the end-working system, with 7 inch cyilnder and 16 inch stroke, worked by 44 to 48 men. It throws two streams of water from one side of the box; and on the other side is a gong, attached to the wheel, which is used as an alarm bell, and sounded by each revolution of the wheel. The box is of strong copper, 4 feet 6 inches long, and 2 feet 2 inches wide, by 2 feet deep. On the bed plate is a highly-finished brass air-chamber, with the name "Cataract" passing over it. There is a mahogany tool-box, strongly fastened by brass corner-plates, and also two highly-polished brass branch pipes. The working-beam is polished, with the extention of folding brakes, which are of gas-pipe, and are brass capped, and covered with leather. The rope reel is on the front, and can be let out as may be required. The wheels are 4 and 3 feet high, and are painted white, with green, red, and gold striping. The body is Paris green, with gold stripe, and is decorated by a beautifully painted view of Niagara Falls, by Duncan. On the four buckets are views of Niagara, Chaudiere of Bytown, Montmorenci, and Chauwinigan Falls, by the same talented artist. The lamps are of stained glass, with views of some Indians in a canoe, over a cataract, by Spence. Before we conclude, we would also state, that this Engine is intended for the use of No. 2 Cataract Fire Company, of the City of Hamilton, C. W., and will cost £350, which sum was raised by subscription. Mr. Wm. Perry has kindly consented to let it remain on exhibition, at Tattersall's Yard, from 11 o'clock a. m. to 3 p. m. on Wednesday, the 4th Nov., after which, this beautiful piece of mechanism, which reflects so much credit on its constructor, will be thoroughly tested by the members of the Protector, Neptune, and Union Fire Companies, weather permitting.

The Lost Steamer Pacific.—The Paris Moniteur publishes a note written with a pencil in English, and inclosed in a glass bottle, found on 14th September, on the shore of Melon, department of the Finisterre. "Steamship Pacific, Eldridge, commander; Smith, passenger. The steamer Pacific run between two icebergs, all hands lost, on the 1st of April, 1856. Just going down, 2 p. m." The word April is written over a word effaced, for the author of the note had first commenced with a capital M, as if about to write March.

A New York contemporary thinks the date—1st of April—throws doubt upon the authenticity of the above story. The "Smith passenger" has also to us somewnat fishey flavour as does the "all brused look" before "going down."

Mrs. Ramsbotham (on board the Calais packet).—Oh! Mr. Sailor, do you think there is any fear?

Jack. Sartain, marm, sartain—heaps o' fear, marm, but no danger.

"A circular," says a city contemporary, "has been issued from the Colonial Office, addressed to the Governors of the various British Provinces, calling on them to look to the provincial defences, and take care that a reasonable amount of warlike preparations be everywhere maintained,"—and adds "this looks ominous, seems to forbode evil."

Ottawa Correspondence.

Ottawa, 28th Oct., 1857.

I herewith send you the most reliable statement of the votes polled at the late election in Pontiac that I have been able to lay my hands upon. I found it in a local paper, and transcribe it for the edification of the respectable people who read the Herald. Here it is:—

	Burke.	Bryson.
Sheen	34	3
Chichester	57	3
Waltham	21	14
Mansfield	0	56
Allumette	180	21
Calumet	85	10
Litchfield	58	66
Clarendon	1	663
Bristol	42	119
Onslow	126	90
Total	604	1045

correct, or very nearly so. From it you [illegible] perceive there was 441 more votes polled for Bryson than for Burke (save the blessed mark!)—Burke complains of the number of illegal votes polled in the township of Clarendon. He admits himself that there are at least 300 good votes in Clarendon. Bryson polled 662. Even assuming Burke's statement to be correct, which I have reason to question, and deducting the 363 extra votes polled for Bryson, even then Burke would still be left in a minority of 78 votes! A beaten man always feels bad, and small wonder it is that poor Burke vomits forth the bitter thoughts of a diseased mind. But he may as well, however, take it easy, for the grass will grow just as green in Clarendon, as ever before, notwithstanding the diabolical judgments poured forth upon the heads of its loyal inhabitants.

A great outcry is made about the treatment of Burke's agent in Clarendon. I am sure I regret as much as any man can that he was prevented from attending at the poll on behalf of his employer, even though he made himself particularly disagreeable. But, after all, I cannot see what great harm has been done. The man was well treated—not a hair of his head was damaged; not a scratch remained on his person, except on his nose, and that is not much to be wondered at, for nature has been most liberal to him in the way of a proboscis. Had the man been half-pounded to death, or cudgelled within an inch of his life, or even scalped, then, indeed, there might have been good reason for all the outcry raised. The whole grievance consists in a number of alleged illegal votes being placed on the Poll Book, but that can be remedied, if redress is necessary. To my mind, the men of Clarendon exhibited an appreciation of civilization not often to be met with hereabouts,—no, not even in this fair city of Ottawa. How different the treatment manifested towards Bryson's agents at the Poll at the Calumet Island? Had the humane people of Clarendon sent away their legal tormentor, with a flea in his ear, instead of carrying him off tenderly, perhaps some people would have been better satisfied. Such treatment would have been more genial to the nature and character of some people up the way than the course pursued. This new method of choking a dog with butter they cannot comprehend, and consequently cannot appreciate. Well would it have been for this community had no greater excesses been committed in all times past than that complained of in Clarendon; and well will it be for the community if no greater outrages be committed during the course of the [illegible]. And if such do not occur [illegible] nor an encourager of disorder in any shape, but I detest such mawkish sentimentality, coming, as it does, from the mouths of men who know not how to appreciate fair play or fair dealing, much less to practice it. Out upon such base hypocrisy!

Within the past few years this community has fast been making for itself a good name.—Peace and good order have characterized almost every movement, and harmony of feeling and sentiment has been steadily growing. Our criminal calanders have been for years very light, and during the past 18 months almost entirely nil. The change was most marked and most pleasing to contemplate. In one respect, however, we have still room for improvement. We have too many grog shops,—and so long as they exist in such abundance as they are here, we cannot expect to be altogether free from trouble and even turbulence amongst the depraved and abandoned. A few evenings since an unfortunate occurrence took place, by which an unfortunate man lost his life. As a man named Patrick Ryan early on the Sabbath evening before the one last past, was passing five Canadians on one of the public side-walks, he was shoved off the walk into the gutter by one of them. Instead of passing on he began to remonstrate, when the Canadian gave him a crack of a stick on the side of the head. Ryan called for assistance, and then the Canadians fled. One of them was caught close by, and he told who his companions were. Ryan was taken to his lodgings, but died during the night,—the blow caused the rupture of one of the blood vessels of the brain, and from the effusion of blood which followed the rupture of the blood vessel he died. The five Canadians were arrested, and on their examination they swore that one of their number, named Gauthier or Gougi, was the man who struck the fatal blow. He was lodged in jail to await his trial for the grave offence laid to his charge. This is the most serious offence—indeed, the only one—that has occurred during the past two years or more. The case is a bad one, yet still I cannot think that there was anything premeditated about it—but rather am of the opinion that it was a "chance blow." The dead man had the reputation of being a hard character, and was known as "Paddy the wren"—"the way of transgressors is hard." I do not anticipate that the Canadian will be convicted of murder even were the circumstances more unfavorable to him than they appear to be. There is no place that I am acquainted with where twelve men, solemnly sworn to do justice between man and man, so strongly incline to mercy—doubtless it is from sympathy for the unfortunate, yet from whatever cause it be, the fact is undeniable.—Such an act is likely to beget ill-feeling between the old countrymen (Irishmen) and the Canadian population—the love feeling is small between the Celts and the habitants up here, and it does not take take much blowing to rekindle the latent fires of dislike and hatred which formerly existed amongst this class of people in this quarter, and I should not be at all surprised to hear of an occasional broken head in consequence. But as the operations will almost wholly be confined to the lower regions and to the night time, so the visitor need not be alarmed for his safety.

The "fathers" of this community—the men by whose enterprise and industry this fine city sprang up, as it were, out of the forest wilderness,—are fast disappearing from amongst us. The hand of death has been busy amongst our people within the past year. Last week another fine old man was called to his last account.—John Chitty, Esq., merchant, departed this life on the morning of Thursday last, at the advanced age of 64 years. He was nearly thirty years a dweller within the limits of this city, and during that time constantly resided here. He was a man of good understanding, of plain unaffected manners, friendly disposition, straightford and upright in all his dealings.—He bore an excellent moral character, peaceable, orderly and well disposed. He was a loyal subject of the Crown, a valuable citizen, and a good man. He filled several offices of trust, with credit to himself hnd benefit to his country. He was a respected and highly valued member of the Ancient and honorable order of Free Masons, and stood deservedly high in the craft. His remains were accompanied to the grave by a very large concourse of the most respectable men in the city;—a fitting testimony to the memory of a good and worthy man.

Last week Dr. Strong, Incumbent of Christ's Church, after a ministry for twenty years here, took his departure to another field of labor.—His reasons for severing himself from his congregation were of a private nature, and the charge was becoming too large for a man of his years properly to discharge the duties thereof. Before he left he received several testimonials from his parishioners, and was presented with a very flattering address. He goes West, to the parish of Tecumseth, North of Toronto. He is a man of high abilities. He will long be remembered in this community.

About ten days ago, a fire occurred on the west side of South Street, the one leading to the Railway Terminus in the lower town of this city. It swept down in its course about twelve tenements, chiefly liquor shops, with one exception the houses were of wood, and a miserable rackle of buildings they were. The cost of the houses themselves could not have been much, for they were principally the merest "shells." The destruction of property could not have been great either,—the chief commodity destroyed was rascally bad liquor. The fire began in Saloon. During the progress of the fire various expedients were restored to stop the flames. Gunpowder was used, but to little purpose. We escape the scourge of fire in a most remarkable degree in this city, which is a very great blessing, for our Fire Department is not in the most efficient state imaginable. We have no Hook and Ladder Company, and the want was much felt at the late fire. We have three very fair fire companies, but the engines were much in want of water. The city finances do not admit of prompt pay to the watermen, and they refuse to work for nothine, or slow bills; and the consequence is a deficiency of water at nearly every fire here. During theravages of the fire some of our gentry got considerably elevated. A military dinner had taken place during the evening previous, and some of the gallant sons of Mars approached the fiery element in evident disorder. One or two of them were particularly observable,—their gay uniforms, loud tones of command, and decided course of action, soon brought them into contact with the authorities, much to the amusement of the disinterested spectators. To see a man trying to mount a ladder who could not see a hole in forty feet of it is rather provocative of mirthfulness. Nor had they the fun longto themselves, for soon some of our fast youths were observed to swagger and brawl, too, and when one of the military warriors would give an order, directly one of our civil heroes would pronounce him an ass and boldly contradict it. One of the most laughable farces I witnessed was the sight of two of these gentry, both partially in undress, trying to seat themselves on a stone not larger than a man's head, in a very dirty gutter, with mud and filth up to their knees, and each one issuing his orders, and balancing himself as if all creation depended upon his exertions to keep right end up and make a noise! And at the same time a modern Count D'Orsay, who had become slightly elevated from the emptyings of the cellars, was marching along from door to door, demanding in the most imperious tones imaginable that the inmates should "evacuate the premises!" My dear sir, this is a rich community, and our people are most fertile in their resources. The world outside generally knows little or nothing of the wild grandeur of the Queen City of the Ottawa, or the vast and versatile genius of her people. You should spend a short time here to see nature in undress. You know we are on [illegible] few years, all our local peculiarities and aboriginal virtues will have disappeared, and we will have dropped, perhaps, into the current of genteel rascality and polite scoundrelism like other hum-drum people. You should see us before these things come to pass. But in case the seat of government should be fixed here, and we are all talking over that conclusion for some time past, I would like to know what will become of our local aristocracy? Will they be swallowed up by the crowd of fashionables who will undoubtedly float along on the tide? or will they keep up a sort of native court, as doth the Hindoos in another land? 'Tis true that they are "to the manor born," but, I fear me much, their leases will shortly expire. For their future position I am most gravely concerned!

The rumour is current here that the "Dictator" has, at long-last, been successful in squeezing out of the Government, through the Grand Trunk, the little mite of aid promised for his railway. And at that I am greatly rejoiced. The "Dictator" has had a long and arduous siege, and no doubt has more than once "well nigh eaten his heart with vexation." He is the most persevering and determined man I know of, and his example is a lesson from which many hereabouts might copy with advantage. It is an old saying and a trite one, that labour and persevering industry will have its reward; and on this principle the "Dictator" deserves to succeed, for few work harder or persevere longer in prosecuting his plans than does this same gentleman. By what manner of means he squeezed out the needful I am totally unable to account, but I am satisfied that the pressure must have been more than ordinary,—a somewhat different process than the application of the dead weight of the ponderous member for this city, I'll be bound. I would not be much surprised if his exertions at the late campaign in the electoral division of Rideau gave him some leverage, besides gaining him a friend at court, and if so, then his exertions have resulted in a public benefit in this part of neglected Canada. Believe me the "Dictator" is no fool, and can keep his own in a crowd. If in these hard times he can manage to finish up his railway, I should not be at all surprised to hear of his forthwith becoming popular, and then, who knows but he might be sent to Parliament along with all the honest men of the land. If he is successful, no doubt he will be a great man here for a time,—so long at least as the money lasts. That commodity, and the mode adopted of saying prayers, is the test by which all that is great and good in man is judged in this region. The "Dictator," I am thinking, knows well on which side his bread is buttered, and he will use it accordingly. He is a dry customer, and is otherwise a rich one. He is a hard nut to crack, and the man who can open kernel.

CHAUDIERE.

Fifty Years Since and Now.—A number of the "Anti-Jacobin Magazine for March, 1800," affords a few curious contrasts. The very name is indicative of much change;—the terms Jacobin and Anti-Jacobin, have faded into Whig and Tory, and these again into Liberal and Conservative. The mere time also is eloquent of alteration. Fifty years ago men now well advanced in years were babies or boys;—and many of the fathers and mothers of the present generation were not born; and what multitudes who then figured on the stage or life, are now forgotten. Fifty years is a long time of human existence,—although so brief a period in the history of the world. The magazine alluded to has a summary of the current politics of the day, and the subjects it considers are as follows:

The First Consul of France; Prospects of an alliance between Prussia and France; The French in Egypt, and British policy in reference thereto; a Parisian ball given by Talleyrand, at which the First Consul was present; Political Sermons on days of public humiliations, appointed by George the 3d; Complaints of the return of a Foreign Jacobin, who had been banished the kingdom; Exultation that the Revenue of the American Republic was only nine millions of dollars, while its expenditure was fourteen, and signs of dissatisfaction and disunion prevailed there.

Such were the themes of 1800. Since then the first consul became emperor, and conqueror, and prisoner, and passed away, and was succeeded by Louis, and Charles, and Louis Philip—and now another Napoleon wields the rod of the French empire, and is in alliance with Great Britain. "A royal son of Prussia" now is about to be wedded to a royal daughter of England. The French in Egypt and Talleyrand's doings have the air of remote history, at present. George the III., and George the IV., and William the IV., have disappeared, and now Victoric directs, or approves of, other days of humiliation and prayer, in reference to a very different difficulty. The republic of America has vastly increased its expenditure and revenue, the latter generally leaving a respectable surplus, although, just now, the revenue of its people seems deplorably inadequate to meet their requirements, and symptoms of disunion are again apparent.

Similarities and contrasts appear in reference to the two periods, but everywhere they tell of change, and elcquently remind us of that supplication, "Teach us to number our days, so that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom."—Halifax Sun, Oct. 16.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

(Reported for the Montreal Herald.)

COURT OF QUEEN'S BENCH.

CRIMINAL TERM.

Before the Chief Justice and Judge Aylwin

Saturday, Oct., 31.

The third day of the trial of Eusebe Parent, for murder, began on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

Pierre Mahery was the first witnes examined. He was called up for the defence, and said—I know the prisoner to be a quiet, honest man, and it is to my knowledge he came from the States to give himself up to the authorities; he said he took this proceeding because he had remarked in the newspapers that he was accused of murder, and accompanied by his father he went to deliver himself into the hands of justice.

Cross-examined by Mr. Monk—I am brother-in-law to François Parent.

Jean Bte. Dumond examined—I worked with the prisoner on Parent's farm on or about the 13th of April last, and we were engaged at the spot where the body of Simpson was found.

Joseph Wichon re-examined—I remember having a conversation with the prisoner's father, but I did not say to him that François Parent said to his brother "You pass for the murderer of the fifth range."

Jean B. Parent, the prisoner's father was next examined. He said—I had private conversation with the last witness Wachon, and I asked him when did you hear my children converse together in the jail, and he told me they had a quarrel and that François spoke very badly of Eusebe, and told him he passed for the murderer of the fifth range; the quarrel commenced about a piece of newspaper prisoner had in a book. My son was always obedient, and of a mild character. I was present when he surrendered himself to the authorities.

Julien Monand, a juryman, was sworn to give evidence about the prisoner's character, which he said was unimpeachable.

Mr. McGinn, jailer, deposed that the prisoner and his brother conducted themselves while in prison, as well as could be expected, and he had nothing to say against their behaviour.

This closed the case for the defence.

Mr. Monk, Q. C., then rose and replied on behalf of the Crown, commenting, as he proceeded, on the insufficiency of the evidence adduced for the defence.

The Chief Justice began to sum up; he went over the evidence with care and minuteness, and laid before the jury the leading parts of the case, explaining at the same time how these facts were to be considered and received.

The jury then retired.

A new jury was sworn in the case of James Carrol, charged with robbery.

The prisoner on being asked if he was ready for his trial, replied in the negative, alleging as a reason that he had no counsel.

The Court asked Mr. Carter would he undertake the prisoner's defence.

Mr. Carter replied he would had he not other important business to attend to.

The Court said that the prisoner had been in jail fourteen days, and had ample opportunity to secure the services of a counsel; he was then asked had he any witnesses.

The prisoner thought he had, but they were not in town.

The Court then asked the Jailor had the prisoner ever given notice that he had witnesses to bring forward, and the Jailor having answered in the negative, and the prisoner's equivocation being apparent, the Court ordered his trial to be proceeded with.

Mr. Driscoll stated the case to the Jury.

[The Jury in Parent's case, after a quarter of an hour's absence, here entered Court, and handed in a verdict of "Not Guilty," and the prisoner was then discharged.]

Mr. Driscoll then asked the opinion of the Court about the case of Francois Parent, who was indicted for being an accessory before the fact of the murder of Simpson; he wished to know whether, when the case against Eusebe Parent had broken down, his brother François should be acquitted.

The Court said it would take François Parent's case into its consideration.

The trial of Carrol was then proceeded with, and a young man, named Coleman Henry Senior examined for the prosecution—He said I am a clerk in Mr. Abraham Hoffnung's, of Notre Dame Street, and remember the evening of the 22d of September last. About a quarter to nine o'clock I heard a smash at the window, and saw two persons snatch out something, and run off; I went to the shop door and saw persons pursuing up St. Lambert Street, crying "Stop Thief;" I then returned to the shop to see what had been stolen, when I discovered that a tray containing sixty-four gold rings had been abstracted; I afterwards saw rings at the Police-Station, and identified them as Mr. Hoffnung's.

A man, named James P. Bowan was examined, and proved that at Quebec, on the 1st of October last, the prisoner offered to sell him a gold ring; witness refused to buy it and the prisoner then purchased a dozen of brass rings from the witness, tendering the gold ring as [illegible] ring prisoner had given [illegible] witness gave up the ring, putting a mark on it which enabled him to identify it in Court.

Detective Reyolds deposed that he searched the prisoner at the station house at Quebec, on the 1st of October last, and found on his person eleven gold rings, four small keys, and two shillings and five pence in money; identifies the rings produced in Court, as those found on the prisoner.

Edouard Hubert deposed that he saw two men standing at Mr. Hoffnung's window, on the evening of the 22d of Sept. last, and one of these persons was the prisoner; witness heard two blows falling upon glass, then the prisoner's companion took something, and they both proceeded up St. Lambert street, but as the prisongr observed they were pursued, he said to his accomplice, "drop them;" afterwards saw the prisoner at the police station, in this city, and identified him.

Detective O'Leary was examined and stated that on the 20th of October last, while he was conveying the prisoner from Quebec to Montreal, the prisoner informed him, without being requested to do so, that a person named Walsh gave Mr. Hoffnung's window the first blow, and that he gave it the second; prisoner made other admissions also.

Captain Hayes, Chief of Police, was examined and proved that he telegraphed to Quebec to have Carrol arrested, and that he received a telegram in reply saying that this person had been taken into custody.

Police Sergeant McBride deposed that he arrested Walsh, the prisoner's accomplice, on the 23d of September last, and three gold rings were found in his possession; these rings were proved to be the property of Mr. Hoffnung.—[Walsh is the individual who was sentenced, on Wednesday Evening last, to seven years imprisonment, for being a participator in this robbery.]

This closed the case for the prosecution, and no witnesses having been called for the defence, Judge Aylwin proceeded to lay the case before the Jury.

The Jury brought in a verdict of "Guilty." Sentence deferred.

Mr. Driscoll entered a nolle prosequi against Francois Parent, who was discharged.

The Court then adjourned till nine o'clock, this (Monday) morning.

THE CRISIS IN THE UNITED STATES

We would rather be disposed to attribute the monetary and commercial difficulties, which have been going on in the United States, to an undue speculation, and through the consumption of a much greater amount of capital than has been produced by the venture. In a word, such speculators have spent more money than they were making. Their insolvency might be deferred, it could not be avoided; for sooner or later, such financial recklessness must bring with it the most disastrous consequences. How could it be otherwise? We need not travel from home for illustrations of our argument. Every one knows, that investments in unprofitable undertakings, speculations in hollow and worthless stock and share securities, though they may have the appearance of "legitimacy," and, for a time, assume the aspect of "profit" from the inflation given to credit, by the expansion of worthless and rotten paper, always, and under every circumstance end in ruin to the parties concerned, they having withdrawn their capital from business to "get rich at a bounce," and spend their money in luxuries. Any one who has paid the least attention to the commercial and financial conditiou of the United States, cannot fail to observe, that the system, which we have briefly described, has been going on almost ever since the discovery of Gold in California.

But what most concerns the people of this country is, the fact, that they have from eighty to one-hundred millions sterling invested in American undertakings and speculations. Now, no small portion of this wlll be irrecoverably lost, as it must be swallowed up in the monetary convulsion which has taken place. It is, therefore, to be hoped, that the lesson which recent events in America have taught the British public, who have money to invest, will not fail to have salutary effects. It is bad enough to make ruinous speculations at home, but it is still worse to give away British capital for the purpose of developing the resources of Yankee land. Furthermore, it is impossible for capitalists to have that security for their investments abroad which they have at home. As in America, so also, in all other foreign countries, Stock and Share operations are carried on beyond their cognizance or control. Let moneyed men learn from this Yankee bubble, that they can legitimately invest in England or the British Colonies; and let the country at large take warning how they encourage rash and undue speculations.

Cape of Good Hope.—We have news from the Cape of Good Hope to the 17th of August, The statement of the revenue of the colony for the year ending 30th of June, 1857, shows a nett increase over the revenue for the same period, ending 30th of June, 1856, of £91,319. The Cape Town Mail, of the 15th of August says:—"As the revenue is derived chiefly from customs, transfer, and auction dues, it affords a pretty fair view of the progress of the colony in population, wealth, and mode of living. The value of the colony has been doubled in the last twenty years; but, in the last ten years, the progress has been more rapid, and if the powers now at work are vigorously applied and well directed, the increase of the next ten years will be much greater."

Destructive Fire in Cincinnatti.—About 7 o'clock last evening the Residents in the region of Pearl, Plum streets and Western Row, were startled by a terrific explosion, which was heard for the distance of three or four squares, which instantly brought hundreds to the doors of their dwellings and places of bnsiness. Immediately following the explosion, persons in the immediate neighborhood observed a sheet of flames bursting from the fifth story of the extensive sugar refinery of Kilbreth, McKenzie & Co located on Pearl street, between Plum and Western Row. The main building was five stories high, and was occupied principally as the general Refining Department of the establishment, the machinery and other apparatus all being in the three story building adjoining. The stock of sugars and syrups on hand, in the upper stories, very fortunately, was not as large as usual. The fourth and fifth stories of the large building were entirely burned out, but the second escaped with slight damage, and the first was but little injured. In the upper stories, were the sugar moulds, several thousand in number, which were entirely destroyed. The inner portion of the smaller building was almost entirely burnt out, and the machinery much damaged. It is almost impossible at present to give the extent of the loss, but it will not probably fall short of $50,000, and may even exceed that amount. The large stock of syrups, principally in the basement, 25 feet below ground, fortunately escaped injury. The entire insurance on stock and buildings is at least $60,000. This amount will nearly or quite cover the entire loss, unless the damage to stock and machinery should be greater than can be ascertained at the time we write. That the fire was the work of an incendiary the owners do not express a doubt. No fire of any kind was ever allowed in that portion of the building where the explosion took place and the flames first burst forth. The conflagration, must, therefore, have been the work of design and not of accident.—Cincinnatti Gazette, Oct. 24.

NURSERY RHYMES FOR THE TIMES.

(Adapted from the Original of Mother Goose, for the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.)

Sing a song of specie,
Gotham all awry,
Seven and twenty Bank birds
Knock'd into pi;
When the Banks were opened,
The Cashiers tried to sing—
Wasn't that a pretty dish
To send to Gov'nor King.

The King was up in Albany
Fighting off the brokers,
The Cashiers were in Wall Street,
Working hard as stockers;
Presidents were shinning
Up and down the street,
Out rushed a Brown bear
And knocked them off their feet.

There was a man in our town,
Who was so wondrous wise,
He jumped into one bank,
And drew out his supplies.
And when he got the specie out,
With all his might and main,
He rushed into another bank
And concluded that, all things considered, he might as well deposit it again.

Here we go up, up, up!
Here we go round, round, roundy!
Here we go backwards and forwards,
Here we go down, down, downy!
(Stock reports.)

Ba! ba! Bank sheep, have you any gold?
Yes, marry, have I, three bags told;
One for depositors, one for me,
And one for an old chap that lives across the sea!

One—Two! What shall we do?
Three—Four! Close up the door.
Five—Six! They are coming like bricks.
Seven—Eight! Ask them to wait.
Nine—Ten! Good friends, come again.
Eleven—Twelve! The deposits we'll shelve.
Thirteen—Fourteen! Stop exporting.
Fifteen—Sixteen! Ain't we fixed in?
Seventeen—Eighteen! Keep 'em waiting.
Nineteen—Twenty! Vaults are empty!

There was a Public had a Bank,
And it had naught to give her,
It paid out its notes, and marked its checks,
And bade its folks consider.
The folks considered very well,
But couldn't get their money,
[illegible] Yorkers,
Seventeen times as high as the moon;
When they expected suspension I don't know,
But come the smash did, and remarkably soon;
"Yorkers, New Yorkers, New Yorkers," said I,
"Why do you brag so remarkably high?"
"To keep up exchange while we can," they did cry,
"But we'll fall and be will you by and by."

There was a Teller who had naught,
And drawers cane to spot it;
He stept into the spece vault,
And then they thught they'd got it;
But he creptout thother side,
And then hey cold not find him;
He ran fourtien mis in fifteen days,
And neverlookebehind him.

Pay my check, pay my ieck, Bankers' man,

Then take it and cros itand mark it with G,
And then it will doo Tommy and me.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

The steamer Providence, arrived yesterday from L'Islet, reports a schooner on shore at Point St. Laurant.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To the Curious and Scientific.—We have seen the beautiful specimens of Ceramic Statury exhibited on Friday last at the Bazaar at Mechanics' Hall, and understand they have been removed to Little St. Joseph Street, the Office and Pattern Rooms of Mr. Andrew Hays, agent for the manufacturers, Messrs. John Ridgway Bates & Co., Cauldon Place, Staffordshire, (potters to the Queen). The most prominent objects among them are them are the busts of the Queen and the Prince Consort, received by the last steamer from England, and the first of the kind ever brought to this continent. We are credibly informed that the busts were submitted to the inspection of Baron Marochetti, Gibson, Durham, Theed, and others, by whom they were pronounced perfect, and with which they were greatly pleased. The bust of the Queen is a copy of Durham's last production; that of the Prince Consort a copy of Baron Marochetti's, by whose permission John Ridgway, Bates & Co., were allowed to issue copies in Ceramic Statuary. We have also understood that the above were exhibited in the Queen's private apartment in the grand Manchester exhibition. In addition, there are two beautiful statues of Wallace and Bruce, in armor; a bust of Eve, and another of Clytie, from the antique, in the British Museum. The whole are of exquisite beauty and contribute to make the collection of patterns, which are most most numerous, novel and interesting, comprising China, of the most valuable description and exquisite design, Stone and Earthenware, which can be viewed and orders received through the trade, by which means, we are informed, these goods are only to be obtained. Elaborately cut Italian Statuary Marble Mantlepieces, Sheffield, Bermingham and other patterns—to look through, is really a curiosity which we would recommend to our friends.

CERTIFICATE TO DR. TUMBLETY.

[From the Montreal Pilot of October 21.]

Dr. Tumblety.—This medical practitioner continues to pursue the "even tenor of his way" in curing all curable diseases. The following certificate speaks for itself. We can ourselves testify to another instance, where a young lady, far gone in consumptiou, and confined to bed, by the treatment of the Doctor is now well, and able to attend to her business:—

Montreal, Oct. 20, 1857.

Dr. Tumblety: Dear Sir,—I take pleasure to acknowlege the great benefit your Vegetable Medicine has been to me. I was afflicted with what the physicians called Liver Complaint, for several years. I tried all the medicines which are recommended for that disease, and employed several of our most eminent physicians, but neither their medicine nor the skill of the physicians had any effect on my disease, and I was pronounced past recovery,—and indeed at times my friends supposed I was dying. My life was entirely despaired of, but as a last resource I was persuaded to try Dr. Tumblety's Herb Medicine. I commenced using his medicine according to directions; and in a very short time my strength increased rapidly, and I am now, thank God, perfectly cured.
