Key ferry crossings seized

Friendly forces reach Cambodia capital

BULL SESSION?? — The bull in the picture, Massalodge Governor Eaton, seems to be indulging in a bit of pre-show conversation with his handler at the 20th Annual Spring Show and Sale which was held in Sherbrooke this weekend. The show was opened by Sherbrooke Mayor

Marc Bureau and conducted by the unsinkable Art Bennett who was performing the honors for the 16th time around. Attendance, according to show organizers, was not as large as had been anticipated despite the fact that there were many good bargains to be had. (Record Photo Service)

UAW President Reuther dies

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers, who go to the bargaining table in mid-July to hammer out new contracts with the automotive giants, have lost their leader of 24 years, Walter P. Reuther. He was killed with five others in a private plane crash Saturday.

Under Reuther, a giant in the American labor movement, the UAW had grown to 1,600,000 members, the largest industrial union in North America.

Reuther had been the UAW's president since 1946 and was a vice-president of the AFL-CIO until he broke his union away two years ago in the climax to a feud with AFL-CIO President George Meany.

He then formed the rival Alliance for Labor Action in an amalgamation with the Teamsters and International Chemical Workers "to organize the unorganized and the poor and get the labor movement moving again."

Those who died with the red-haired, 62-year-old Reuther were his wife, May, 59; Oskar Stonorov, 65, a Philadelphia architect; William Wolfman, 29, Reuther's bodyguard and Mrs. Reuther's nephew; the pilot, George Evans, 48; and co-pilot, Joseph Karaffa, 41, both of Columbus, Ohio.

They were en route to Pellston, Mich., from Detroit for a weekend visit to the UAW's $15,000,000 education centre, which Stonorov designed. It is nearing completion on Black Lake in northern Lower Michigan.

NONE SURVIVED CRASH
No one survived the flaming crash of the chartered twin-engine executive-type Lear jet as it approached the Pellston airport through rain under low hanging clouds at 9.33 p.m.

The charred remains were taken to the University of Michigan Hospital at Ann Arbor for identification. A doctor said Sunday night the bodies of Reuther and his wife were positively identified by dental charts.

A six-member team from the national transportation safety board flew to Pellston to try to piece together what happened in the minutes between Evans' radioed request for landing clearance and the crash 1½ miles from the airport.

In his sometimes stormy career, Reuther had survived an assassin's shotgun blast which crippled his right arm, and had thwarted an attempt to take him on a gangland-style ride.

He was a participant in the then sensational sitdown strikes of the 1930s in which his fledgling union took over auto plants and held them to force its recognition as bargaining agent.

Reuther realized a long-time dream in 1967, when he won a guaranteed annual income from General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

In his tenure he also had seen the average wage at the Big Three rise to $4.02 hourly, with fringe benefits estimated to be worth another $1.75 an hour.

SAIGON (AP) — A South Vietnamese navy flotilla pushing up the Mekong River reached the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh today, South Vietnamese headquarters said.

The navy movement followed gains by the South Vietnamese fighting along the banks of the Mekong farther south.

South Vietnamese marines seized the key ferry crossing at Neak Luong on the Mekong then drove on north and linked up today with U.S.-trained Cambodian forces.

A dispatch from Cambodia said four marine battalions drove a company of Communist troops from Neak Kuong Sunday. They moved on about 2½ miles and met the Cambodians at the village of Kompong Phnom. This indicated that the 37 miles between the ferry crossing and the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh was clear of Communist troops.

Neak Luong lies on Highway 1, which connects Phnom Penh with Saigon.

Reports from Phnom Penh said the South Vietnamese marines seized both sides of the ferry landing. They arrived with a flotilla that moved across the border from South Vietnam Saturday.

Other reports from the Neak Luong area said 20 to 30 South Vietnamese boats were manoeuvring in the waterway between the two sides of the ferry landing.

OBSTACLE REMOVED
The capture of Neak Luong removed the main obstacle on the road to the hard-pressed provincial capital of Svay Rieng, 30 miles west of the Cambodian border.

U.S.-trained strike forces of Cambodians, born in South Vietnam and flown to Phnom Penh, are expected to spearhead the drive to clear the rest of the highway to Svay Rieng, about 40 miles southwest of Neak Luong, the Cambodian reports said.

The official announcement that the naval force would make the drive up the Mekong said the purpose was to provide relief supplies for 200,000 Vietnamese living in the Cambodian capital and to bring back to South Vietnam those who wanted to return.

The movement of U.S. forces taking part in the river operation or the support being provided to the South Vietnamese was couched in vague terms.

The U.S. command stuck by an earlier announcement that American forces were "operat-

Nixon seeks war support

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — President Nixon, trying to ride out a massive wave of protest over his Indochina policy, today seeks the support of the 50 governors, some of whom ordered National Guard troops on to college campuses last week.

The governors were scheduled to meet Nixon at the White House in the afternoon to discuss "the issues that we are facing, both foreign and domestic"—with student strikes and unrest the obvious priority items.

Even as Nixon prepared for the session, anti-war leaders were heading home from a mass weekend rally here Saturday hoping to maintain the ferment against the administration.

The protest leaders served notice that they were promoting a nationwide campaign of economic boycotts, "sick-outs" by workers and more student strikes.

The verdict after the demonstration by 100,000 people near the White House Saturday was that, despite the essentially peaceful nature of the protest, nothing had changed.

450 COLLEGES ON STRIKE
David Dellinger, one of the seven convicted Chicago conspiracy defendants and a leader of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, told a news conference Sunday that 450 colleges and universities now are on strike.

He said students would carry anti-war activity to business and urge a boycott of firms that have defence contracts as part of the tide of protest against the Cambodian venture and the slayings of four students at Kent State University last Monday.

With National Guard troops under control of governors since they are state militia, the posture of the guardsmen in curbing demonstrations—such as

Vote for unilingualism

Unions rap language bill

SHERBROOKE — Linguistic preoccupations dominated a meeting here this weekend of representatives from Quebec's four largest labor organizations as delegates voted to take a stand against Bill 63 then opted for the institution of French-language unilingualism in Quebec.

The delegates from the Confederation of National Trade Unions, the Quebec Federation of Labor, the Quebec Teachers Corporation and the Catholic Farmers Union were gathered for one of a series of regional "colloques" designed to promote a common front of workers.

The delegates' opposition to Bill 63, the Bertrand government's controversial legislation designed to protect language rights in Quebec, centred around what they felt was a tendency for parents to send their children to English-language schools because English is the working language of Quebec.

"If the French language were the only official language in Quebec, this problem would not exist," said one delegate during a workshop.

Also, the delegates maintained that in a province where 82.9 per cent of the population is French-speaking, immigrants coming to Quebec should be made to integrate themselves into the French community.

A total of 170 delegates participated in the workshop, most from the CNTU, but local organizer Gerard Taylor said he was disappointed that only 85 of the 20,000 CNTU-affiliated workers in Sherbrooke attended the meeting.

A number of other resolutions were passed at the two-day meeting which took place at the University of Sherbrooke:

— That the government should modify the charters of finance companies in order to establish a uniform maximum interest rate.

— That the proposed Quebec medicare scheme be run along the same lines as taxes rather than having an overall plan for everyone regardless of means.

— That better adult education courses be set up in order to properly train adults to fully participate in the labor force.

The delegates maintained that existing courses are sadly inadequate in view of the need for educating workers.

— The creation of a prices commission for the province with full worker participation.

— That the government eliminate subsidies to private institutions which are not public utilities.

— That real estate taxes for the support of education be abolished and replaced by a system of direct taxation.

In order to further study the resolutions arrived at by the weekend meeting, a non-partisan regional action committee was formed.

Newport nurse in hospital after two car collision

STANSTEAD — One person was taken to hospital as a result of a two-car accident on the autoroute two miles north of Stanstead late Saturday night.

Police said that Mrs. Margery Buck, a nurse at Orleans Hospital in Newport, was proceeding north along the autoroute, a four lane divided highway, when she pulled over to the side of the road to make a U-turn.

She pulled out into the road to make her turn just as another car, driven by a Mr. Couture, was passing by.

Mr. Couture said he applied his brakes, but was still moving at between 15 and 20 m.p.h. when he smashed into the side of Mrs. Buck's car.

He said he was shaken up but otherwise unhurt by the accident. His car sustained severe damage to the left front bumper and fender.

The side of Mrs. Buck's car was completely pushed in and she was rushed to Orleans Hospital in Newport.

A man from Montreal whose name was not given arrived on the scene five minutes after the accident had occurred.

He flagged down a car in the opposite lane, bringing the Stanstead-Rock Island police to scene five minutes after the accident occurred. The Quebec Provincial police arrived approximately 15 minutes later. The man was joined moments later by Mr. and Mrs. C.W. Morgan, also of Montreal, whereupon the Montrealer departed pleading an urgent appointment in that city.

Mr. Morgan said his wife, who is a nurse, gave Mrs. Buck a preliminary examination and found no evidence of broken bones, but he said that Mrs. Buck "was confused about whose car she was driving — she told the doctor it was her friend's car."

He said Mrs. Buck was looking for the Rockliffe Hotel, where she was to meet the owner of the car, but got on the autoroute instead of Route Five.

Mrs. Buck is now a patient at the Orleans hospital under the care of Dr. E.L. Davis.

Explains Brome medical service

COWANSVILLE — The Record has received the following information concerning service at the Brome - Missisquoi - Perkins Hospital in Cowansville, from its Publicity Chairman Mr. Alan Webster:

Dr. Arthur Douglass, practicing in Knowlton, has full privilege for admissions from Brome County to the hospital.

Dr. Hugh Miller, practicing in Knowlton, but on office appointments, arranges for any of his patients who require hospitalization to be admitted through one of several doctors in Cowansville.

As there are no other practicing doctors in Knowlton there is not any question of admission from such source. However if and when any doctor takes up practice in Knowlton it will be possible for him to obtain full hospital service on application to the hospital.

Ambulance service for Brome County is offered by the Wilson Undertaking Parlor, who are located in Knowlton, as well as in Sutton, and Cowansville. The Desourdy Funeral Parlor, Cowansville, also give prompt and efficient ambulance service to any part of Brome County.

Canadian diplomat strangled

OTTAWA (CP) — A Canadian employee of the International Control Commission was found hanged with his hands tied behind his back in his Saigon hotel room, government informants said here Sunday.

The body of Philip MacDonald, 29, formerly of Dartmouth, N.S., was found Friday about eight months after his arrival in Vietnam. He was a clerk with the ICC, which comprises representatives of Canada, India and Poland.

Officials here could give little additional information about what was officially called the "death by strangulation" of Mr. MacDonald.

Dreams Help Keep Mind in Balance

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—For the last two years, I have been dreaming every night. Mostly I dream about things that happened during the day. Why is this?
 A—Everybody dreams every night but, on awakening, one frequently can't remember dreaming. Dreaming about recent impressions that were forced out of your mind by various distractions is a common and normal occurrence. It seems to help keep the mind in balance and provide maximum benefit from your sleep.

Q—What causes nightmares and how can they be prevented?
 A—Recent research has shown that everyone lives three separate mental lives: (1) The life of wakeful consciousness, (2) the life of normal dreaming, which may be pleasant or mildly unpleasant and is associated with rapid eye movements, and (3) the life of very deep sleep. The latter is characterized by deep, even breathing and calm dreamlessness. If anything happens to cause sudden arousal during this deep sleep, panic and mental confusion occur and you may have a nightmare.

The bad dreams of stage (2) represent controlled anxiety and the nightmares uncontrolled anxiety. Most persons have an occasional nightmare but, if they occur regularly, a short course of a tranquilizer under medical supervision and preferably taken only at bedtime may be helpful.

Q—When a person loses a lot of weight, the fat is burned as fuel and eliminated as water and carbon dioxide. But what happens to the extra muscle tissue that was developed to support the heavier body? For every five pounds of added fat, the body develops three miles of capillaries. But where do they go when the fat is gone? I have found from long experience that I feel just as empty on 1,200 calories a day as on 800. Is there any reason why a diet of 800 calories, consisting of lean meat and vegetables, should not be followed for a prolonged period? I am losing about five pounds a week on such a diet.

A—Extra muscle is built up by exercise rather than as a support for adipose tissue. If the exercise stops, the muscles atrophy, as do any capillaries that are no longer needed.

The daily caloric requirement for a fairly active man weighing about 150 pounds is 3,000 and for a fairly active woman weighing 125 pounds it is 2,500, so you should not continue on your low-calorie diet after you have regained your normal weight. A loss of one pound a week is usually easier to maintain than a more rapid loss.

tion for the lead of any suit. True, he doesn't have a guaranteed spade stopper but that is his four-card suit and it is seldom that you have to worry about your own long suit being used as the weapon to destroy you.

Actually, there are those who would respond a spade with the North hand to look for a 4-4 spade fit, but the two no-trump meets with our complete approval.

South has no problem with his hand. He has 13 high-card points, honors in all four suits and no singleton. He should just raise to three no-trump and let his partner collect nine or 10 tricks, depending on how the defense goes.

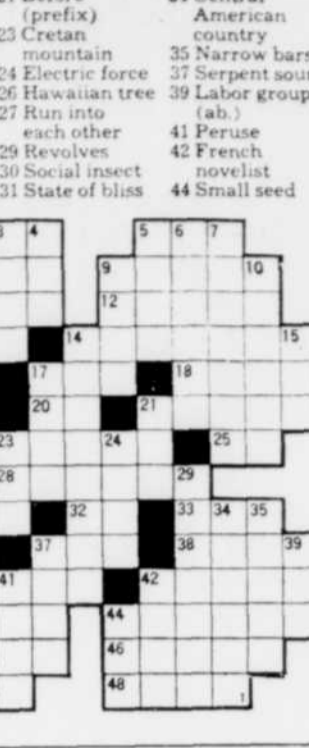

This is too simple for the victim of notrump. He has a four-card spade suit and is going to bid it just in case his partner also holds four spades. He does bid three spades. North looks at his four spades and raises to the spade game. East and West take the ace of hearts and three trump tricks and the rubber goes on.

Of course, if North were also a sufferer he would have bid three no-trump, not four spades and South would undoubtedly have given up and let North play the hand.

Why are we so convinced the Eureka Rugulator is the best upright cleaner on the market? We'll let the product speak for itself.

The Eureka Rugulator adjusts to different pile rugs. So you can go way down for thin patio carpeting. Way up for the thickest shags. Or anywhere in between.

And the Rugulator has its "one of a kind" adjustable controls up on the front of the cleaner. And that makes a lot of difference. Unlike back-wheel-control cleaners, the Rugulator puts the cleaning end of the machine parallel to the nap. So the suction takes everything in. We make it like it's the only way to make an upright vacuum cleaner.

Well, isn't it?

Firemen to check home hazards

Fire inspection service offered

The firefighter wears two uniforms, has two images. One who fights to control the scourge of fire, and one who fights to prevent fire from starting; his uniform and image are those of a fire prevention officer.

To the demands of courage, skill and muscle, he adds those of the trained educator.

This is the best uniform, the best image he presents with pride of service in the saving of lives and property, from fire. He fights fire in two ways by putting it out and, better, by prevention. He is the same man, the firefighter.

On May 12 your Fire Department is starting a home inspection service, which will run until the end of September. The days of visits will be Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, if the weather permits such visits, and they will be made from 9:30 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. and from 1:30 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

This inspection is primarily designed for basements, utility rooms and garages, unless otherwise requested by the occupant.

This work will be performed by regular firefighters, on duty at your nearest fire station. Through means of radio contact they will be able to answer alarms while performing this inspection work, without any delay.

This inspection is designed to show you, the homeowner, various hazards in your home which may possibly contribute to a fire in your home or even the loss of life of someone very near and dear to you.

These inspections are a voluntary basis on the part of the occupant and your co-operation in the program will be greatly appreciated by your Fire Department.

Shame over an untidy house, fear of consequences, ignorance on what it is all about, should all be forgotten.

Welcome the firefighter if he knocks at your door suggesting a "look-see" for fire hazards.

Close your door to fire, keep it open for fire prevention! This neatly describes the aim of this campaign for greater fire safety in homes.

Three-quarters of all fires happen in the home and the basic hazards are quite simple: over fusing, frayed wiring, faulty heaters, rubbish, etc., their elimination will be a big step in fire prevention.

This is the purpose of the firefighters' call, but why wait for the firefighters, check these hazards yourself.

CJAD's Dave Patrick wows alumni at Stanstead College gathering

By IVY HATCH

STANSTEAD — David Patrick, the afternoon man of CJAD, Montreal, was the guest speaker at the 51st annual gathering of Stanstead College Alumni held at the College Saturday evening, May 9.

Mr. Patrick attended the College from 1941-46 and in his talk referred to these years as "the best five years of my life". He reminisced on his days here and said it was a process of learning that he loved. He recalled Dr. Errol Amaron, Principal at that time, a friend of his father, Lloyd MacPherson, and others on the staff.

Addressing his remarks to the graduates he said "until we get to the point that people are more important than things we will be unsettled," adding "I feel it's going to be largely up to you to find the answers, you are the last chance" after making reference to the conditions under which we are now living with pollution, demonstration, rioting and so forth.

He said, "Where we are now we make or we break, and this places it squarely on your shoulders."

With his usual fine wit he told his life story in a most fascinating way that had a point. From the time he left Stanstead and went to Toronto and continued his education there, quitting school on his 16th birthday, going out into the world, much to his mother's concern but approval of his father, and working hard for two years.

He was once employed in a saw mill and although earning good pay he felt there might be an easier way to earn money, so he returned to university, but he never graduated.

However, we know how popular he has been and is on the airways and has been with radio and TV in several points of Ontario and finally over the past five years with CJAD in Montreal.

Dave was introduced by Joel Bonn and the introduction included words of a poem which Dave wrote on the banks of the Tomifobia river when he was a student here about "The Brook".

W. K. (Boots) MacLeod thanked Dave with whom he was a student here at Stanstead in the '40's and on behalf of the Alumni presented him with a silver engraved stein. Dave said he will always treasure this.

The banquet took place in the Le Baron Hall dining room, after the Headmaster, Raymond Lester and Mrs. Lester had entertained for a reception for Mr. and Mrs. Patrick and two of their four boys at the Lester's residence.

Russell French, alumni president proposed a toast to The Queen and the president of the United States. The blessing was spoken by Rev. R. W. Peirce, of staff at the school.

Kenneth F. Simmons and his staff assisted by students served a delicious steak dinner to the good number of Alumni's attending, the graduates of the college this year and the teaching staff.

The head table was centered with a floral arrangement in red and white, the school colors.

Mr. French introduced the head table to include, Joel Bonn, Past President and Mrs. Bonn; J. D. Ferguson, of the College Board of Trustees, and Mrs. Ferguson; Mrs. Donald Prangley, Alumni secretary, and Mr. Prangley; Donald Ross, a trustee and chairman of the Building Campaign and Mrs. Ross; Mr. and Mrs. Lester; Jeff Roberts, Vice president and Mrs. Roberts; Mr. and Mrs. Patrick; Tommy and David, Jr.; Irving Slack, chairman of the College Executive Board and Mrs. Slack; Dr. Kathleen Harper, a former teacher at the College when Dave Patrick was a student; Rev. and Mrs. R.W. Peirce; W. K. MacLeod, Jr.

The reports noted life memberships are continually increasing in the Alumni so now there are 40 paid up and another 16 paying on the five year plan and the membership stands at over 200.

Wayne Meighen, resigned as second vice president and Ross Armitage was appointed to replace him. The officers remain as last year, President Russell French, vice presidents, Jeff Roberts and Mr. Armitage, Alumni Executive secretary, Carl Zimmerman.

Mr. French noted highlights of the Alumni association with the college.

Public fails to show for revealing AA gathering

By PRESTON GURD

COWANSVILLE — "My name is Shirley and I am an alcoholic."

The words are cliché. They have been used countless times before, in many different languages, in every one of the 80 countries that have a chapter of Alcoholics Anonymous, better known as AA. But they retain their impact.

In this case the words were uttered in the Cultural Centre in Cowansville yesterday afternoon, at a regular meeting of AA which was abnormal only in that it was open to the public.

Unfortunately, the public declined to attend. Present for the occasion were Alderman Bourgeois, representing the Mayor's office, Chief of Police Pouliot, Dr. Hugh Miller of the Brome Rehabilitation Centre, and a reporter for The Record.

The rest of the 30 people attending were members of AA. That the public was absent was unfortunate, for there was much to be learned at the meeting.

Alcoholics Anonymous founded in 1934, now has 425,000 members who recognize they are alcoholics and who are dedicated to helping others similarly afflicted to control their problem.

Its sole purpose is to carry its message to Alcoholics and help them. It is independent, has no affiliations, takes no stands, has no figureheads, and, as the name suggests, casts a cloak of total anonymity over the identity of its members.

The Cowansville gathering began with a few words from Alderman Bourgeois, followed by a short talk from the Chief of Police, who emphasized that his department maintains a humane stance in dealing with alcoholism. He said his department should be looked to for help, not prosecution.

Dr. Miller placed the problem in its perspective by noting that while five to seven per cent of the population is involved with drugs and of some sort, 72 per cent of the population drinks.

Of the drinkers, between five and 10 per cent have a drinking problem. He said that the rehabilitation centre uses a variety of methods to treat the alcoholic, including work therapy, group therapy, and milieu therapy, in addition to extensive work by AA.

The next step was the reading of the Twelve Steps and the Twelve Traditions. The Twelve Steps embody the principles by which an alcoholic must acknowledge and cope with his problem. The Twelve Traditions embody the principles of the operation of the organization.

The main portion of the meeting was taken up with 20 minute talks by two former alcoholics, Shirley and Rollie — in AA, members are on a first name basis only.

Shirley, tall, poised and very attractive, stood up and recounted in harrowing detail her personal experiences of drinking, starting off with heavy social drinking, increasing as she encountered the loneliness of the suburban housewife, and reaching its peak with the sudden death of her husband.

She emphasized that "I didn't become an alcoholic over my husband's death — I was just getting sick and tired of everything."

She said she finally had to admit defeat. She called up AA and talked with a woman "who seemed so particularly understanding." She hasn't had a drink in a year and a half, but says "you have to work from day to day, but I have hope now — I can face reality."

Rollie stood up and told a similarly ghoulish chronicle. Before he turned to booze, he had a good job in an insurance firm, but this, along with his wife and family, was swept away by the rising tide of alcohol.

However, after joining AA, Rollie has managed to re-establish and is now doing very well in the insurance business he was barred from not so many years ago.

To someone who is not an alcoholic, the tales one hears of troubles with booze do not quite ring true. The problems are too monumental, the disasters too frequent, the downfall too hard. One has to see and listen to these speakers and watch the reaction of their fellows in the audience to grasp their sincerity and honesty.

And that is what the public missed.

Police seek suspect in $100,000 fraud

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal police are looking for a "businessman" they say had defrauded at least 100 young couples out of a total of $100,000.

Lt. Leo Talbot, of the fraudulent bankruptcies sub-division, said the search for the man began after more than 100 complaints from people who had made down payments on merchandise at a north-end store and had never received any goods.

They had been attracted to the store by advertisements offering tremendous discounts on furniture being sold because of "illness," "death in the family" and other similar reasons.

Many had made down payments of as much as $600 on a $1,000 purchase. When they returned to the store later to make the final payment and arrange for delivery, they found the establishment closed and the owner gone.

EDITORIALS COMMENT

MON., MAY 11, 1970

U.S. dissension widens

The most terrifying aspect of Senator William Fulbright's statement that the United States is facing the gravest constitutional crisis since the Civil War is the absence of contradiction. Certainly there is no lack of evidence that the United States is a country divided — what remains to be assessed is the depth and breadth of the division.

Although the student youth who staged the protest march on Washington over the weekend and the Republican administration of Richard Nixon are the obvious major combatants, it is more than a struggle between youth and maturity, iconoclast and the establishment.

Even within the Nixon cabinet there is dissent, as indicated by Interior Secretary Walter Hickel's rather sensational "heed youth" letter to the President as he plots strategy for dealing with the national protest against his conduct of the war in Indochina.

Perhaps even more significant throughout many of that country's universities is the recent conversion of a growing body of faculty to the cause of their students.

Within the administration, Toby Moffett, 25, has angrily resigned as director of the Office of Students and Youth, blaming "irresponsible statements" by his boss. The President had termed some students protesters "campus bums."

The irony of the present state of massive dissent, opposed by the strident voice of Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew, is that Nixon came to power pledging to "bring us together" and urging Americans to lower their voices.

In the 16 months of his administration, he has staked his presidency on the vast grey area between right and left, between the extremes of liberalism and conservatism — on the constituency that has become known as Middle America, "the silent majority."

But the increasing campus violence — including a student body count of four at Kent University in the very heart of Middle America — has cast a shadow on his calculations and opened to skepticism the allegation that unrest is the work of a mad minority alone.

No one doubts that full-time radicals who want a cause, not a solution, are at work. But in the eyes of many observers the recent unity of many disparate elements on campus and elsewhere would not be possible without a common sense of urgency.

Minor consumer victory

Now that the fight against too much fat in hot dogs is apparently well on the way to being won, the ordinary consumer now hopes that governments and business will co-operate in the eradication of a number of other problems which are plaguing the householder.

For instance, there are those steaks and roasts in sealed packages that invariably are lean on top but too often are mostly fat and gristle underneath. And there are "new" potatoes that have the texture of wet sponges; chocolate bars that seem to have shrunk to half the size of their wrappers; sand still in spinach; limp celery; containers you cannot open, to name but a few.

But the difficulties are not concerned with the products and packaging alone.

Perhaps some attention could be given to those people who work in supermarkets; the clerks who disappear when we need help; shelf fillers who throw soda biscuit boxes around until every last biscuit is in 100 pieces; bag packers who invariably pile cans on top of fresh bread, and store managers more interested in what kind of music is being piped than in the service they are providing.

Probably we have overlooked something, or many things. But if you have some ideas just drop a line to Consumer Affairs Minister Ron Basford in Ottawa. He will be delighted to receive, file and forget.

Meet Frog Lady, Get Pat on Head

By LEE MUELLER

NEW YORK (NEA) — In Barrington, Ill., they call her the Frog Lady because she can fold a square piece of paper 47 times and turn it into a frog. The remainder of the world is not so sure what she is.

Her name is Marcia Walaitis. That's a beginning, Mrs. Edward Walaitis. She has no age. Her hair is black, like spilled ink, and her eyes are amber moons. She buys only floppy Indian clothes, she says, because she admired Gandhi and doesn't want India to starve.

It is doubtful that Mrs. Walaitis will ever win an international prize for art. Besides producing her 47-fold frog with a skill called origami, she also folds owls and makes posters out of construction paper and Elmer's glue. But art is not Mrs. Walaitis' contribution to the world.

Earth mother, philosopher, humorist, bringer of light, Marcia Walaitis is her own contribution.

In her everyday business of being a contribution, she employs what she calls "a pat of affirmation." When someone says something she likes, she rubs that person on the shoulder or arm or forehead.

"So far," she says, "I haven't been arrested."

I first met Mrs. Walaitis at John F. Kennedy International Airport here. We were sitting, waiting for a plane to take us to the Canary Islands. She looked at me with a glint in the amber moons.

"Are you an orphan?" she asked.

Hub?

"You're only an orphan as long as you need to be," she said and looked away.

Edward Walaitis, a staff artist for a Chicago newspaper, walked up to his wife and shook his head, disgusted. "You know," he said, "there's no water in this whole place."

Mrs. Walaitis patted his hand. "It's a conspiracy," she said, rising. Soon she returned with a glass of water.

The airplane trip was kind of a revelation, slivers of humor, paths and kindness.

Mrs. Walaitis is Jewish and likes to tell hasidic stories, all of which carry a soft didactic message. If you nod approvingly, she pats your hand.

"I can put soul in the palm of my hand," she said. "You can't do that, can you?"

We sat there, hunched in the economy section of the plane, cutting out paper bluebirds and pasting them on construction paper. Kindergarten was never like this... well, as a matter of fact, it was.

"I always wanted to be a gypsy and I was jealous of my husband's talent, so I became an artist," she said. "Since Eddie is always working on his paintings, I decided that I, too, should have something to exhibit instead of just sitting there at art fairs." (To date, Mrs. Walaitis has exhibited her works at the Chicago Public Library and at Turkey Run State Park.)

The plane began to circle Los Palmas for our landing in the Canaries. I looked out the window and saw the sun, bright orange, fading into a purple haze. Gorgeous. Mrs. Walaitis saw it too. "Ah," she exclaimed, "it looks like a burnt cookie."

I jerked my head around and squinted at her. "What kind of artistic expression is that?" I demanded. "What would Marc Chagall think about?"

She smiled that mother earth smile and patted my hand. "Do I frighten you?" she asked. "I frighten three out of four, you know."

The Hard Course To Clean Earth

By DON OAKLEY

"Earth Day" has come and gone and the earth yet abides — a little dirtier, a little more shopworn, a little more crowded, a little closer to the environmental Armageddon so many voices warn is inexorably building.

But at least millions of Americans are becoming aware, as no generation before them needed to be aware, of how man has used and abused his natural world and that he cannot continue to do so indefinitely. They have demonstrated that they have a sense of urgency and a vision of the broad goal. What is needed are the will and the hard work and the hard choices to achieve that goal.

Ten years ago America set before itself another kind of goal, something that had never been done before in history and the accomplishment of which required immense expenditures and the co-operative efforts of science, industry and the best organizational and technological brains the nation could muster.

To trot out that old but still serviceable cliché, if we can land men on the moon, if we can transport life across the void to a dead stone in space and bring it back again, why can we not enhance life on the planet that gave it birth by cleaning up our water, our air, our landscape?

No answers but some interesting thoughts on that question were given on the eve of Earth Day by one who played a major role in the moon program, a man who was experimenting with rockets when today's astronauts were still in knickers.

A lot of work in science and technology had to be done to get men to the moon, said Werhner von Braun at the University of Akron. But in one important respect it was simple: There were no conflicts of human interest involved. The moon wasn't owned by anyone. We were not stepping on anyone's right-of-way by getting there.

The environmental challenge is not quite so straightforward. People in Los Angeles, for example, complain about the smog. There is a very simple answer to abolishing smog in Los Angeles, says Von Braun. Make it a law that no one is permitted to drive his automobile and the smog would disappear overnight.

But the city of Los Angeles is structured in such a way that it depends on the automobile, as does a vital segment of the national economy. If you would say no more automobile driving, the smog would go, but you would also have unemployment and famine and industry would come to a stop.

Or take the dumping of refuse in rivers. If the laws were such that a stiff penalty were leveled on anybody dumping unprocessed refuse, we would have clean rivers very quickly.

The question, says Von Braun, is how do you go about implementing these laws without putting some companies out of business and their workers out of jobs?

In other words, we are dealing not just with technology and with things, but with people and the competing and conflicting interests between people.

The same is true in any industrialized country, whatever the arrangement of its economy. In Russia, where April 22 was not Earth Day but the 100th anniversary of Lenin's birth, everyone was urged to work all the harder that day to boost the nation's production. Production means pollution, in a socialist economy as well as in a capitalist one.

It is easy to demonstrate in the streets for a clean environment, especially if one is a student and has the leisure provided by the very industrialized society that has created the crisis.

But now that Earth Day is over and the placards and the gas masks have been put away, what must come next is some very serious thinking, some concerted planning and the anticipation of some very real sacrifices and adjustments in life by all of us.

There were some faddish aspects about Earth Day, but the issue that gave rise to it is no fad that will go away if we ignore it. We are approaching the time when every day must be Earth Day.

Canada Council on the defensive

So far, no politician or party has been tempted into the battle of the awarding of the Governor General's literary awards for poetry announced a month ago.

The argument is an example of trenchant nationalism. It may affect the behavior of our least controversial Federal cultural agency, the Canada Council.

Robin Mathews of Carleton University, is fiercely outspoken and persistent. My joy as a natural dissident in seeing the council leading attacker, Professor dragged into the kind of stew which the CBC has known for a generation is countered by wonder over the merits of the case presented by Mathews.

The literary awards this year were won by novelist Robert Kroetsch and poets Gwendolyn MacEwen and George Bowering. The prizes are worth $2,500. First instituted in 1936, they have attracted little popular attention. There's no reverence, no cachet for the winner, in the sense that a Nobel Prize provides.

There have been mumbles in past years over alleged oversights in some awards, but only from a few. The cultural nationalism of Prof. Mathews changed all this. He and a colleague, James Steele, are best known for their fight against the takeover of Canadian universities by foreigners, especially Americans.

Last year, Mathews initiated a running fight with the Canada Council over the large number of non-Canadian academics who were getting council grants for research in the humanities and social sciences. He prodded the council into admitting that in 1968-69, 61 per cent of academic research grants went to non-Canadians, or at least to persons who had graduated from foreign universities.

If nothing else, Mathews put the council on the defensive. Since there are many more applicants than there are awards, it seems likely that the Canadian ones may get a better break. Some have decried such a reaction, arguing that Canadians have battled for years on awards from foundations like Ford and Guggenheim. The best answers to these arguments are that Ford, as an example, took a share of profits out of Canada and it is not the U.S. Government.

Before this year's literary awards were announced, the council let it be known that the vacancy in the three-man panel of judges had been filled by one Warren Tallman, for 14 years a teacher of English at the University of British Columbia.

Prof. Tallman came from the United States and is still an American citizen. His nationality gave Prof. Mathews a made-to-order issue which improved a lot when the Tallman panel chose George Bowering as one of the poetry winners.

Bowering is a former student of Tallman's. That did it. Out came the pickets around the Canada Council HQ in Ottawa. Leaflets described Tallman, the American working in Canadian literature, "as a U.S. cultural imperialist (conscious or unconscious)."

Prof. Tallman was invited to resign from the panel by the picketers. Failing this, the council and the Governor General were asked by the demonstrators to declare themselves in favor of Canadian content and to banish Tallman.

What sort of man is Warren Tallman? I don't know him personally. I've read one long article he wrote on Canadian novels. There was nothing obviously American in his line of criticism. The author seems a capable, rather erudite man with a general sense of what our country is all about.

Bowering, the award winner, said recently he could not think of Canadian poetry "versus any other kind of national poetry. My Canadian anti-Americanism breaks down where poetry is concerned."

This seems to be close to heresy in the eyes of someone like Mathews.

Prof. Tallman has not revealed much about his reaction to the Mathews onslaught. He's happy with the regional identity of the poets. He has said: "It couldn't happen in the East or in New York. It needs a fairly naive and open site in which things can happen. Things rarely happen in the East, which is why there is such a fuss when they do."

Why hasn't Tallman taken out citizenship after 14 years here? George Bowering has said he has not done so because he is a philosophical anarchist. If this is true, citizenship of any country wouldn't mean much to him.

Mr. Tallman may be naive, to use his word, in thinking that he could now gather a school of poets in violence-prone universities around San Francisco or even Seattle as he has in Vancouver. But it seems even more naive, if not blindly silly, of Robin Mathews to think he can convert many to join his pan-Canadian crusade by a crude attack on a first-class teacher.

The interesting political question is left for the Canada Council. It has shown a witty, worldly knowledge of the arts in its annual reports. It responds quickly with public letters to criticism. Does it believe it can glide past the issue raised by Mathews on the numbers of non-Canadians receiving council funds?

If it won't put the hopes of Canadian scholars and artists first, who will? Prof. Mathews has a valid point to make about the council and its practices, even though his presentation in the Tallman case has been just short of mindless.

Miles for millions

BOUNDARY — Raymond Labbe, organizer for the Miles for Millions is very satisfied with the results.

It was an enthusiastic group of people of all ages assembled at Sunnyside School in Rock Island on Saturday morning, May 1. One hundred persons, minus a few drop outs walked 22 miles. They returned to Sunnyside, blisters on their feet and tired but satisfied that they had done their bit towards the welfare of needy people.

There were check point stations every mile with Mrs. Sylvia Mooney, as circulating nurse. Over $2,000 was offered by the many sponsors of which over $500 has been collected. Mr. Labbe hopes the remainder will pay their pledged sum as soon as possible to the person they sponsored.

Among the marchers were Edouard Girard, mayor of Rock Island who marched five miles. Sponsored at $7.20 he made a total of $36. Edward J. Struthers joined the march and added money by his sponsors. Five nuns from the Ursuline Convent marched the full 22 miles and others a few, including one who used a cane. Several teachers from Sunnyside were sponsored and completed the 22 miles and others from Sacred Heart school. Of course parents joined the march as well, as a morale booster to their youngsters and all in general.

The weather started off fine but before the day was over there were showers.

Mr. Labbe says that Greg Goodsell, of Grantville, age ten years was the best marcher. He completed his 22 miles and collected $2.55 per mile. His sister, nine years old, marched 24 miles, she forgot to stop at the last check point, walked on a mile and returned a mile. Her sponsors pay for the 22 miles and her march collected $2.40 per mile.

The route was from Sunnyside school in Rock Island, to Beebe, Fitch Bay, Tomitobia, Stanstead and return to the starting point.

Mr. Labbe is a teacher at Sacred Heart school. His first few months he lived with Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Prangley. Raymond is now in an apartment. He says that this project did not have time for very much advance publicity but he hopes the march will be repeated next year and he will attend to more publicity so people will know what is going on.

Where does the money go? A portion goes to such organizations as YWCA, Oxfam, Suca and two others in the Sherbrooke areas, (from which Border people derive assistance) and another portion goes to Ottawa for assistance to undeveloped countries.

MR. and MRS. ROBERT HAGGERTY

Haggerty-Gleed

The marriage of Susan Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gleed, to Mr. Robert Haggerty, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Haggerty, of Drummondville, Que., took place recently in St. Francis of Assisi Church, St. Lambert, the Rev. Father Adrian Brennan officiating.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was attended by her sister, Miss Catherine Gleed, as maid of honor, and by Miss Ann Marie Gleed, also a sister, as bridesmaid. Mr. George Haggerty acted as best man for his son and the ushers were Mr. Patrick Haggerty and Mr. Brian Haggerty.

Following a reception at La Souhaitte Mr. and Mrs. Haggerty left to spend a month travelling in Ireland, England, Scotland and Belgium.

Flights in education

MUSQUODOBOIT HARBOR, N.S. (CP) — Grade 10 geography students at the Eastern Shore district high school here are going up in the air for their lessons.

In an unusual departure from classroom routine, the students will get an aerial view of the topography of Halifax County via Air Canada.

The municipal school board has granted the school permission to take the students on three half-hour chartered flights in an Air Canada Viscount aircraft.

Social studies teachers first suggested the aerial study and principal E. J. Levy, who encourages his staff to come up with interesting and different approaches to learning, agreed.

He said since the Grade 10 geography course is basically a study of topography, with map preparation and knowledge playing a prominent part, his teachers felt the flights would be a wonderful opportunity.

GET IT FIRST-HAND

"Through these flights the student will observe first-hand that area which has been singled out throughout the course for detailed study," he said in an interview.

"They will also observe the cultural and environmental changes of man taking place on the Eastern Shore, central Nova Scotia and the city areas of Halifax and Dartmouth."

Most of the students have not flown before, so airborne geography lessons will broaden their experience in more ways than one.

A Viscount aircraft seating 48 will be used for the flights and it will cost each student $4 a trip. School buses will take them to the Halifax international airport, some 30 miles away.

Mr. Levy believes the venture will be a "very worthwhile addition to the curriculum."

"Education doesn't come from textbooks only," he said.

Golden wedding

STANBRIDGE EAST — April 28, was a memorable day for Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tomkinson, who were celebrating their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Tomkinson held "open house" at their home, Gwendale. Over one hundred guests called and offered congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Tomkinson were the recipients of numerous gifts, cards, and flowers. They also received telegrams from relatives and friends in England.

Miss Dorothy Pengelly of New York City, the bridesmaid of fifty years ago was present and poured tea.

Miss Gwen Falk was married to Thomas Tomkinson at East End Methodist Church, Montreal, on April 28, 1920. They are the proud parents of three sons, Grainger and Colin Tomkinson of Montreal, John Tomkinson of London, England, and one daughter, Margaret, Mrs. Stanley McLaughlan, of Toronto, Ont. They have six grandchildren.

SPRING AND SUMMER FASHION — Mid-length camel coat over white trousers and tunic (left), and crepe costume featuring a V-necked dress with cardigan and shortsleeved jacket are two fashions for spring and summer wear. Most fashion experts predict the mini and occasional maxi will dominate fashion for the next six months.

Lives in one society, works in another

EDMONTON (CP) — An Albertan's concern about the treatment of Indians and Metis in court has developed into a full-time job.

He says their usually evasive attitude in court is not due to contempt.

"The vast majority of them hadn't the slightest notion of why they were in court or what was being said to them," said Chester Cunningham, now a court worker with the Metis Association of Alberta.

Mr. Cunningham, himself a Metis, became interested in the situation five years ago and was encouraged by an Edmonton lawyer to act as a liaison between the courts and the Indians.

He said in an interview that native people often think the courts and police are working against them.

At the beginning there was resentment and mistrust.

"I live in one society and work in another, and this caused resentment until they learned that I was trying to help."

When they are in trouble Mr. Cunningham directs them to a lawyer or counsellor.

He also supervises Indians on parole and provides background information for judges.

"Sometimes a $50 fine can mean taking food from the mouths of several children. This is information the judge should have."

Other facets of Mr. Cunningham's job include fitting some Indians into Indian affairs or Manpower educational programs and conducting workshops where various professional people attempt to educate Indians on their legal rights.

Mr. Cunningham has trained court workers for Lac La Biche, High Prairie, Slave Lake and Edmonton.

"I hope to see another 10 court workers in the near future," he said.

TIMELY QUOTES

The church has done a better job of teaching us what not to do than what we ought to do.

—Milton Rockeach, professor of psychology at Michigan State University, commenting on his survey of religious and social attitudes among more than 1,000 adults aged 21-80.

The waters of our rivers run to the oceans and they run in glorious Technicolor.

—Economist Stephen Castle, University of Akron.

To those of my friends who might also think about learning about themselves with mind-expanding drugs — don't. Learn about yourself as you live life — don't try to know about everything at once by swallowing a pill.

—Kenneth Anderson, 20, in a suicide note left when he killed himself after an eight hour drug trip.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Midos Laflamme wish to announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Mary Jane to Mr. Brian Mason, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Mason of Iron Hill. An Autumn wedding is planned.

One hundred and fifty ladies gathered in "the Artist's Studio" at Grace Chapel on May 6th for an informal coffee and dessert party. Palletes and pictures formed the background decorations, together with corner displays of "decoupage" work.

After a pleasant social evening of refreshments and visiting, Mrs. Arthur Hill welcomed the members and their guests. Mrs. Michael Goode of Ayer's Cliff entertained the group with a delightful violin solo, accompanied by Mrs. Emerson Elliott.

Miss Marjorie Beckwith gave a step by step description of how to do "decoupage" work, including many valuable pointers resulting from her own experience with this art form. Mrs. Thomas Young, Mrs. Robt. Beckwith and Mrs. Rodney Mills were seated at tables in the display areas and demonstrated the work as the ladies circled.

From the interest shown, a rash of antique pictures will no doubt appear in the Sherbrooke area!

The devotional section of the evening was opened by Miss Lorna Thompson. Miss Audrey Kemp from Welcome Hall Mission, Montreal, spoke on the reality of the Christian faith, our need to be obedient to the Word of God, and the resulting life of joy and peace to be experienced.

Miss Thompson concluded the evening with a second solo.

The evening was convened by Miss Ruby Campbell with the help of all members of the WMF.

Serving was capably executed by the young girls of the Chapel under the direction of Mrs. John Haffenden.

Headquarters reported that the U.S. command reported two clashes with Communist troops Sunday in Cambodian areas where American troops are searching out guerrilla stockpiles and base camps.

One was the Fish Hook area eight miles southeast of Mimot, and the other was six miles inside Cambodia along the region of South Vietnam's central highlands.

Eight American soldiers were reported killed and 18 wounded in those two actions. While the pushes went on into the Cambodian sanctuary areas, U.S. B-52 bombers Sunday and today kept up their pounding of targets in the Fish Hook.

MONTREAL (CP) — A protest against Canada's abortion laws was staged Saturday by more than 100 young women. The demonstrators, most of them members of the Women's Liberation Movement, marched under police escort from Mount Royal to east-end Lafontaine Park, chanting " Trudeau, assassin, liberate all women" and "abortion is out right."

At the park, the demonstrators distributed leaflets to passersby, condemning what they termed "haphazard and inhuman treatment in hospitals" and "discrimination against abortion seekers."

The feminists charged that only one woman in twenty now can receive an abortion and then only if she can pay "exorbitant" medical fees. They demanded the repeal of all current abortion laws and the subsequent establishment of government-subsidized clinics which would provide birth control literature and supply free abortions on demand.

You may have heard mention that we'll have more prizes on our Saturday night show in the near future. There will be in the neighborhood of 30 records a week given away including LP's and singles. Other prizes are in the offing. So stay tuned.

I've been accused of being survey crazy at times, so I guess I'd better live up to my reputation. Here's another survey for you. Would you kindly take the time to write me at CKIS with your comments on the morning show and the afternoon stint. Also, I'd like your comments on Saturday night's program. Realizing that this will take a bit of your time, and cost you a stamp, I hereby thank you in advance for your co-operation in this respect. Rest assured that your help is necessary and will be put to good use. So if you will drop me a few lines with your comments on the programs with which I'm involved. A little constructive criticism is very much appreciated now and then from you folks out there in radio land.

Short column for this week but we'll be back next Monday—same time, same paper, and probably on the same page.

Till then "Keep smiling, and keep it country"

THE LUCKY ONES — The whooping crane is being saved from extinction by the protection of the Canadian and United States governments. Once numbering only 18, the whooping crane population has now risen to 85. Other bird species are not as lucky. The Eskimo curlew, prairie falcon and golden eagle, among others, are in danger of becoming extinct as their populations dwindle.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Expos' Wegener re-activated

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Expos of baseball's National League announced Sunday that right-handed pitcher Mike Wegener will be re-activated and put on the club's major league roster Tuesday.

Wegener has been on the disabled list since March 30 and has not pitched for Montreal this season.

He underwent an operation on his right elbow last winter and has since been following a rehabilitation program.

The Expos also announced right-handed pitcher Gary Wewerski has been placed on waivers and if he is not picked up within the 48-hour waiver period by another major league club, he will be assigned to Buffalo Bisons, the Expos' International League farm club.

Quebec swimmers cop laurels

WINNIPEG (CP) — Eight Quebec City swimmers, led by 14-year-old Jocelyn Carrier, capped two days of strong individual performances with a spectacular victory in team competition Saturday at the Canadian synchronized swimming championships.

The Quebec City YWCA team was awarded 80.4 points to defeat world-champion Hollyburn Country Club of Vancouver, with Montreal finishing third.

Miss Carrier took the Francis Gale trophy as aggregate winner, finishing first Friday in figures competition and second to Cinde Stevens of Vancouver in Saturday's solo event. Miss Stevens was second in the aggregate.

Third in both solo and aggregate was Karen Rasmussen of Vancouver.

Miss Carrier and Mado Ramsay of Quebec City won the duet competition Friday.

The Quebec City team won both open and closed Canadian team titles.

Brundage spouts off again

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, said today in a speech that "Alpine skiing does not belong to the Olympic program" and declared that the Olympic Games could be doomed if commercialism in the Games continues.

Brundage, octogenarian American president of the IOC, called commercialism a "poisonous cancer" in various Olympic winter sports. Next week the IOC is to vote here on sites for the 1976 Summer and Winter Games.

Montreal is seeking the honor of playing host to the Summer Games and Garibaldi, B.C., wants the Winter Games.

Brundage has had a running fight with Alpine skiing federations over commercialism. Now he has one with hockey, which also has said it favors open competition, in non-Olympic years at least.

Brundage, addressing delegates from the international sports federations, said "ice hockey, football, basketball and alpine skiing" are problems.

TIMES MATERIALISTIC

"We'll be sorry to have them go, but they are the victims of the materialistic times in which we live," he said.

"The public will no longer support hypocrisy. Don't forget that tennis, a popular sport all over the world, is no longer on the Olympic program."

At last... a Stanley Cup in Beantown!

BOSTON — (AP) — Bobby Orr's goal after just 40 seconds of overtime gave Boston its first Stanley Cup in 29 years yesterday as the Bruins defeated St. Louis 4-3, completing a four-game sweep of the Blues.

A capacity Boston Garden crowd of 14,835 exploded as Orr beat Blues' goalie Glenn Hall from up close, bringing the Bruins the Cup for the first time since 1941.

It was the 10th straight National Hockey League play-off victory this season for the Bruins, and one of their toughest. They had to battle from behind twice to tie the score against the inspired Blues.

BLUES DESPERATE

St. Louis, desperately trying to avoid a third straight sweep out of the final round, checked the Bruins tensely in the nationally televised game and led them 3-2 with less than six minutes left in regulation time.

But the Bruins, determined to win the cup on their home ice, pressured Hall continuously until veteran Johnny Bucyk, who celebrates his 35th birthday Monday, deflected a shot in the tying goal with 5:32 left in regulation time.

Then, with the crowd in a frenzy, the Bruins took the opening faceoff of the overtime into St. Louis ice and never let the puck back over their blue line.

GRABBED PUCK

First Derek Sanderson shot wide but Boston controlled the rebound and Orr grabbed the puck at the right boards and skated in on Hall. He took a tremendous check that sent him flying through the air in front of the net but still managed to nudge the puck home.

That set off a spectacular celebration climaxed by the presentation of the cup by NHL president Clarence Campbell to Bucyk, the 15-year veteran and assistant captain of the Bruins. Bucyk skated happily around the ice with the cup held high in his arms.

Sanderson, Boston's hard-styled centre, was the architect on the Bruins opening goal which was scored by defenceman Rick Smith. Twice Sanderson's sweep checked kept the puck in the Blues' zone and the second time Smith grabbed it and fired a rising shot that gave Boston a 1-0 first period lead.

BLUES TAKE LEAD

Red Berenson evened it for St. Louis with just 43 seconds left in the opening period and then the Blues took the lead on Gary Sabourin's goal early in the second period. Phil Esposito tied it for Boston with his record 13th goal of the playoffs midway through the second period. It was his 27th point, also a record. That tie lasted only 19 seconds into the third period.

The Blues buzzed Gerry Cheevers and the Boston goalie was sprawled after a save when Larry Keenan flipped the rebound over him for a 3-2 St. Louis lead.

DEFENSIVE PATTERN

The Blues fell back into a defensive stance after that, trying to protect the edge and hold the Bruins off to force a fifth game. But Boston was having none of that and the Bruins' perseverance paid off in Bucyk's goal to force the overtime.

The final round victory was worth $3,000 per man to the Bruins, added to the $4,500 each of them had earned for earlier victories over New York and Chicago.

The Blues got $1,500 each as losers in the final after reaching the championship round with earlier victories over Minnesota and Pittsburgh.

"... we've waited a long time"

BOSTON (CP) — General manager Milt Schmidt wasn't around for the Boston Tea Party, of course, but he can tell you the celebration that followed Boston Bruins' Stanley Cup victory in 1941 "was a wake" compared to the one in 1970.

"You have to consider we've waited a long time for this one," said Schmidt, who played on the last Boston team to take the National Hockey League playoff title 29 years ago.

The celebration started after Boston defenceman Bobby Orr put the winning goal in the St. Louis Blues' net about 5 p.m. Sunday.

It was chaos after that—released emotions, champagne, reporters, officials, television cables, microphones and fans everywhere.

The bulk of almost 15,000 fans later rolled into the streets and filled the surrounding bars.

"Those bars did a landslide business... and there was quite a bit of hell-raising," a policeman said after eight police wagons, six squad cars and 29 policemen helped quell the celebrations about midnight.

But, back in the emotion-choked Boston dressing room, players and team officials expressed relief and disbelief that their day of honor had finally arrived after almost three decades of frustration.

"My God," coach Harry Sinden sighed. "What a day."

"I still can't believe it," said right winger Ed Westfall, who has labored with the Bruins for nine seasons. "I keep waiting for the coach to go to the blackboard and write, 'practice 10 a.m. tomorrow'."

"That was the way to win it," said defenceman Ted Green, referring to the one-goal margin in sudden-death overtime. "If the score had been 6-1 we wouldn't enjoy it as much."

Green suffered a head injury in a pre-season exhibition game and was sidelined the entire season.

Johnny Bucyk, who will be 35 Tuesday, has had the longest wait. The Edmonton native entered the National Hockey League with Detroit Red Wings 15 seasons ago, one year after the Wings won their last Stanley Cup. A trade sent him to the Bruins, where he has played the last 13 seasons.

LONG, LONG WAIT

"I told those guys I didn't want to go back on the ice again," Bucyk said. "Fifteen years is long enough. Fifteen is a long, long time."

"I never thought it would happen," Schmidt said. "But it did. And now they can't take it away from us, ever."

Jr. Habs win 5-4 on late tally

MONTREAL (CP) — The long junior A Hockey season is nearly over and Montreal Junior Canadiens, after their 5-4 win over Weyburn Red Wings Sunday night, are looking forward to the end with enthusiasm.

"We've played 86 games—it's a hell of a grind," Montreal coach Roger Bedard said after his team took a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven Memorial Cup final series.

"It'll be all over Tuesday I hope," agreed Bobby Lalonde, the Canadiens, diminutive centre who admitted the grind is beginning to wear him down.

Weyburn coach Stan Dunn said he, too, is looking forward to the end of the season. But his Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League champions will be going full steam when the teams meet for the fourth game of the series here Tuesday night.

"I still want to win one," said Dunn. "If we can win one then maybe we can win two."

DUNN BLAMES HIMSELF
Dunn said his team played well despite their last-minute defeat Sunday night and told reporters he might have been partly to blame for the loss. Montreal defenceman Serge Lajeunesse fired the winning goal with only 33 seconds left in the third period following a face-off in the Weyburn zone.

"I might have made a mistake on the last face-off before the goal by not putting Vic Vanasky out at centre," the Weyburn coach said.

Gilbert Perreault, with two, and Richard Martin and Hartland Monahan also scored for Montreal while Eugene Sobchuk, Wendell Bennett, Vanasky and Calvin Booth got the Weyburn goals.

Following defeats of 9-4 and 6-2 in the first two games of the series, Weyburn carried the play to the Canadiens. Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series champions, and held a 4-3 lead until Perreault and Lajeunesse scored late in the game.

WINGS HAD LEAD
After a scoreless opening period, Weyburn came out of the second period with a 2-1 lead on goals by Sobchuk and Bennett while Perreault counted for Montreal.

The Junior Canadiens jumped into a 3-2 lead early in the third period on goals by Martin and Monahan. But Vanasky and Booth replied to put Weyburn ahead 4-3.
