Malone Airman Finds Lost Child At Hemmingford - Happy Ending

Hemmingford came very much into the news spotlight at the week-end, when a small child was lost in the bush and a frantic search was made of the area.

The child, 2½ year old Lise Lariviere, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raphael Lariviere, had gone with her brothers and sisters to a neighbouring farm of Mr. Hector Coupal to pick vegetables. The children were taken by tractor and were quite happy. Upon leaving to return, it was noticed that Lise was missing. A frantic search of nearby buildings and other surroundings, where it was thought the child might have wandered, did not reveal any trace. This happened about noon on Friday, and within an hour the alarm had been given and about 200 neighbours and friends had gathered to take part in the search. The father had also notified the police and Sgt. John Ross and Const. Fred Kyle, of Hemmingford organized the search groups. Later New York State Police troopers Dan McDonough and William Thompson, of Malone barracks, came with trained bloodhounds. They came in response to a call from the Provincial police. As the hours passed and there was no trace of the child, the searchers became convinced the little girl had been picked up by a passing motorist. Meanwhile the parents were becoming more and more alarmed and distraught.

Night came and there was still no sign of Lise. The volunteer searchers had increased in number as people from both sides of the border joined in the search over a four mile square area.

At noon on Saturday, Const. Roland Goyette of Huntingdon, thought of having the search made from the air. He phoned Miss Viola Lallemand of Huntingdon, who he knew was taking up flying. Miss Lallemand phoned her instructor, Don Mageean, a dispatcher for Eastern Air Lines in Malone. Mageean took up his four seater Piper Tri-Pacer from Malone, accompanied by Miss Lallemand and a Montrealer, Nick Tsadilas.

Getting over the area where the child was lost, Mageean spotted a brightly colored object in a small clearing. He banked his plane steeply but lost sight of the object. He tried twice more and the second time the object reappeared. He saw no trace of the child herself, but flew back to the nearest group of searchers and he and Miss Lallemand waved to the ground party. One of the searchers got the meaning of the waving and they soon found the clothes. Two R.C.A.F. volunteers, Bertrand Beaulieu and Richard Angers, from the St. Johns, Que., base, went further ahead. They found Lise, naked except for her shoes and socks. The father brought the little girl to his wife in a grand and happy reunion. Lise was unharmed except for being fly-bitten, she was very hungry and thirsty and her first request was for a drink. Otherwise she was unperturbed by her adventure in the dense bush. Her father seized her in his arms and wept for joy. Police sirens wailed the happy message that the search was over after a 28-hour period. Hector Coupal, the neighbour was also a very happy man that the little girl had been found alive and unharmed.

Thus, this story has a happy ending, although it caused many hours of anguish from not knowing what might have happened. All sorts of fears were entertained as the hours went by, so it was a relief to everyone that the child was found safe.

Miss Lallemand's Story of Air Search

Miss Lallemand's story of the search by air gives times and other details as follows; It was about 12.30 (noon) when I received a call from Const. Goyette and he asked me if I could get a plane to make a search. Immediately I put a call in to Don, but he was not at the airport as it was his day off. The telephone line was kept open as an emergency precaution. Meantime, Miss Lallemand left for Malone and asked her mother to deal with the call. While travelling to Malone the call was received and when Miss Lallemand arrived it was to find the plane being made ready. Fifty minutes after the call had been received by Miss Lallemand, she was in the air and proceeding toward the spot where the search for the child was going on.

The spot where the child's home in Hemmingford is situated is about two miles east of the village of Hemmingford and the place where the child was sighted is about two and a half miles north of the farm home in a very thickly wooded area.

Miss Lallemand said when they arrived over the spot, they made it known to the ground searchers and then went to work to see what they could find. It was about 2.30 when they began and for about an hour they kept circling the spot at an altitude of 75 and 50 feet from the ground at low speed. It was terribly rough flying, but they managed to spot the clothes of the little girl and finally the little girl herself. They used glasses and finally when they were sure, they signalled the ground searchers, but had quite a time making them understand. Finally one man in the group got the idea and went straight to where the little girl was.

The dogs which were being used on the ground in the search were all around where the child was, but they were still on the outside of the woods. It was this which caused the air searchers to keep circling over the clearing where the child was and to attain the success.

Miss Lallemand said it was particularly gratifying to be on this search because it was a success. It was her first of this nature as she has only lately taken up flying. Mageean had been on several such searches, but it was his first successful one and he was also highly pleased. Miss Lallemand said they could not see if the child was alive when it was found, but they judged by the way the people on the ground were acting that is was. They did not know the child was alive until they received word from the State police on their arrival back in Malone. It was about 4 o'clock when the child was brought out of the woods, but Miss Lallemand said it was a much longer experience for her. She did not realise how much until she returned to her home and found how tired she was.

Later, on Sunday, Miss Lallemand and Mr. Mageean went to the farm home of the Lariviere's and talked with the little girl and her parents. The parents were most grateful to them that they actually had led the searchers to where the child was, or it is likely she may not yet have been found.

Huntingdon Fair Opens With Good Attendance And Good Show

Huntingdon Fair opened on Monday evening with a parade through the streets of town to the Fair Grounds as an opening night attraction. There were several very good floats upon which much work had been done for the occasion. The parade was led by the Huntingdon Citizens' Band, followed by the Fire Truck and several floats. The floats were by Maple Leaf Grange, D. G. Rennie representing Cotts Beverages and four couples of Old Time Dancers and a four piece band, The Huntingdon Rotary Club, Boy Scouts and Cubs, Ponies and decorated bicycles, Business cars, Fred Moore Float representing the old and new ways of life.

The parade attracted a deal of attention and cars were parked and people lined the route which was from the Fair Grounds, Fairview Road, Lorne Avenue, Chateauguay Street, Wellington Street, Bouchette Street, Prince Street and across the bridge to Henderson Street and return to the Fair Grounds.

The Floats were judged at the Fair Grounds and the following prizes awarded. The Moore Float won first prize; The Rennie Float took second and the Grange took third. Merrill Murray on his Palomino horse was the parade marshal. Mr. Jon Proudfoot was responsible for organizing the Parade.

Following the dismissal of the parade, the night show, The Roller Skate Revue was staged and thrilled the large audience that flocked into the Fair Grounds from all surrounding points. One unfavourable point was the weather which was rather cool for sitting outside. However the first evening was a great success.

For the first day, the exhibits were not as heavy as expected, with the exception of the poultry, which was very good. While all booths for the industrial exhibits had been taken, only a few were occupied as of Tuesday morning. A small midway had been secured, but was a bit disappointing to the patrons.

Tuesday, was Black and White Day at the Fair and judging for this took place in front of the grandstand, starting at 1 p.m. instead of as previously announced for 10.00 a.m. Results of this will be given by Mr. Frank Napier in his column. Between the judging, several acts of entertainment were given and enjoyed. The afternoon brought another good attendance of patrons.

The prize list will be published in our next issue along with further comment on the Fair in general. As the prospects look at this time, the Fair should be another success this year.

STEEL FRAMEWORK ERECTED

The above shows an early start on the erection of the steel for the Memorial Skating Arena. Only a few spans had been erected at this time and it shows the large crane that was used to lift the heavy spans into place while the workmen bolted them together. The crane was used all the way through to hold the steel in place while workmen fitted the pieces.

In this photo is the completed steel framework of the Memorial Skating Arena, at Huntingdon Fair Grounds. Specially trained workmen were in charge of this work and the erection of the steel has now been finished and gives some idea of the size of new structure. Visitors to the Fair were able to see what has been done toward erecting the Memorial Skating Arena.

Mayor And Aldermen Meet To Discuss Proposed Presentation Of A Public Bill

Members of the Huntingdon Town Council, Mayor Cappiello, Aldermen Lalonde, McWhinnie, White, Gaw and Fournier (Tremblay absent) met with Mr. G. Meloche, of Valleyfield, on Monday evening, to discuss procedure with regard to a private bill.

The idea of the bill is to allow the council wider powers of administration and to impose new taxes. As Mr. Meloche explained procedure, he advised the council that what they wanted was not a Private Bill, but a Public Bill. Preparation and so forth for this type of bill would be cheaper and it would stand as a charter.

Those things for which the council sought to implement were: Remuneration for Mayor and Alderman $600 per annum for Mayor $300 per annum for Aldermen a total of $2400.00 per annum. This is provided for by recent legislation. Dividing the Town into zones. Alternating the terms of office of Council members. Levying a sales tax. Levying a Tenants Tax. Making provisions for a Town Manager. Provision For Annexation.

Mr .Meloche explained that the bill would have to be printed in pamphlet form for presentation and later it would have to be reprinted after the bill had been passed. There were several expenses in connection with its presentation to the Legislature. He was asked as to the cost of all this and said it would be in the neighbourhood of $2,000.

The zoning might prove to be an expensive item as it was required that the whole town be surveyed and the zones designated by the lot numbers of the lands and properties. Mayor Cappiello said he was of the opinion that the zones could be made according to streets on a map of the Town. He thought there was only sufficient for the town to be divided into three wards with two aldermen to each ward. He suggested that the secretary prepare a plan showing the divisions, or zones and if this could not be accepted, it would have to be dropped for the time being.

Alderman Gaw was opposed to two items for the proposed bill the remuneration and the sales tax. He felt that the town was not big enough for this sort of thing and that it would work hardships and interfere with the business in the town. If all towns all around were adopting a sales tax, it would not be so bad, but when it was one in the midst of several, it would have a bad effect. Alderman Lalonde and Alderman Fournier thought that the remuneration clause would result in more people being willing to serve on the council. Alderman Lalonde felt that the sales tax would result in increased revenue for the town and it was needed for the many services which are demanded. Alderman Gaw said he did not think the Town needed money that bad and these two items should be left out. Mayor Cappiello said he did not think the town needed the money that bad, but it might need it when the Valade case decision had finally been given. Alderman Lalonde said to lower the tax rate, but to charge the sales tax. Mayor Cappiello said he felt that the tax rate was not too high and could easily go to 20 mills. The remuneration cost would only be about one mill on the total valuation and this was not excessive. Alderman Gaw still maintained that for him, these two should be left out and especially if the money was not needed.

Mr. Meloche suggested that anything that might be included in the bill need not be put into force, it was there if it should be needed.

Alderman Gaw felt that if it should be left in the bill, there was the temptation to put it into effect and he was sure there would be much re-action to it if it was ever put into effect.

It was finally decided to retain the services of Mr. Meloche and to go ahead with the presentation for a Public Bill, leaving all the proposed clauses in the draft. However, it was felt that before actually imposing the sales tax, note should be taken of the public re-action.

Alderman Gaw pointed out that there were several businesses which under present conditions were considered a part of Town, which in the case of a sales tax, would be outside the limits. Such meant that all the people had to do was to go to these to avoid paying the tax.

This would work to the detriment of the businesses that were actually within the Town.

A resolution will be passed at the next regular meeting to authorize procedure on the Bill.

Montreal Delinquents Arrested For Stealing Car In Huntingdon

Two youths spent a day out on Wednesday, August 7th, and used stolen property to assist them.

The youths, juveniles from Montreal, decided to spend a day in the country, so stole a motorcycle in Montreal and rode out to Huntingdon. The day turned cool and the two decided they should have a car to return in. Thus D. Pringle had his car parked on King Street, near the Park, and the boys thought it would suit their purpose. Mr. Pringle was surprised to see his car take off in the direction of Ormstown, but could do nothing to stop it. He notified the police and Const. Goyette of Provincial Police and Const. Brooks of the Town Police took after the car. Pringle found the car abandoned near Dewittville.

Meanwhile the policemen continued on in search of the car and picked up two hitchhikers in Ormstown, who proved to be the guilty ones. They were brought back to Huntingdon and later taken back to Montreal. One was from Montreal, the other from Chateauguay Park, and both well known to police here and in Montreal. The recovery of the car and the arrest of the youths was considered good police work on the part of the officers. These youths are wanted for other thefts in the Montreal and Chateauguay area.

The Sequel To A Crime

The Family Herald and Weekly Star of August 15th, 1957, contains an article which will be of interest to Huntingdon people. The article is entitled "Let Heaven Through" and is part of a book written by Bluebell Stewart Phillips, wife of the chaplain who interested himself in behalf of two boys who murdered a taxi driver here a few years ago.

Most people are acquainted with this story and what happened both as to the murder and with regard to the reprieve to a life sentence for the two boys, instead of them being hung. The story cites the reason behind their actions and tells of their improvement while they have been in prison. It gives some idea of the intelligence of the boys and helps to prove that justice was done by saving the lives of these boys. It brings to mind the words of Jesus Christ on the Cross when he said "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do". For after reading this story, all will realize that these boys were not truly responsible for their actions.

The book is entitled Adopted Derelicts, and no doubt can be bought from bookstores, or ordered through a bookstore.

The boys both illiterate, have learned to read and write and have a trade, since being in prison. They have learned the gospel from the chaplain and have come to see that what they did was not right according to God and society. In other words they are being given the chance that was previously denied them.

Level Crossing Accident Injures Two People

A bad accident occurred at the level crossing of the N.Y.C. just west of Huntingdon, on Route No. 4, on Thursday morning, August 8th, at 7.45, when a car was struck by a freight train.

The car was being driven by Mr. Pasquale Saintarelli of Cleveland, Ohio, U.S.A., who was returning home after a visit with his parents who live in Montreal. He was accompanied by his wife Yolanda, and both suffered injuries and were taken to Montreal General Hospital. Mr. Saintarelli said he never saw or heard the train until the collision occurred. The car which was a total wreck, caught fire and the crew of the train were most co-operative, securing fire extinguishers from the train and putting out the fire.

Mr. Saintarelli, suffered a broken right arm and leg; his wife suffered serious face injuries and cuts. Drs. McCrimmon and Cameron were both at the scene and rendered first aid, Kelly's ambulance took the injured pepole first to the Huntingdon County Hospital and later to the General in Montreal.

Const. H. Hirsch investigated the accident.

First Donation Received In Barrie Memorial Hospital Campaign

Barrie Memorial Receives $100.00 From Absentee Well Wisher!

A stranger to The Barrie as far as having been within its doors is concerned, yet acquainted with its reputation which is not confined to the area its serves, a gentlemen from the Eastern Townships, upon learning of the forthcoming financial campaign, sent a certified cheque for $100.00 together with his good wishes for the success of the campaign.

In a letter to a member of the Board of Governors of The Barrie, enclosing the cheque, this genlemen said in part:

"My gift will not be large as I am a contributor to our own local hospital, and my wife is, for the second time, ill in that same hospital, but I do wish your campaign every success".

We would like to think that, apart from the generous response which is anticipated from those living in the areas served by "The Barrie", there will be a goodly number of public-spirited citizens from outside who will want to help in this worthy cause.

1st General Campaign Since 1957

It is ten years since a general appeal was made for the Barrie Memorial Hospital and, so far, The Barrie has managed to carry on, and even to build a portion of the Nurses' Residence without going further into debt, thanks to the generous annual support of a number of individuals and firms, together with bequests from estates of people who had given prior thought as to how some of the mony they were leaving behind might be put to the best purpose of serving others.

But the time has inevitably come when a general appeal can no longer be deferred. The interest payments on the capital indebtedness remaining from the building of the hospital itself, constitute a severe strain on the hospital's financing, and absorb funds that could be used to great advantage in many other ways; an unhealthy condition that must not be allowed to continue.

Up to 1955, following the completion of the new Barrie in 1950 murses had been housed on the third floor of the hospital, but the demand for more beds made it imperative that a start should be made in providing other and adequate accommodation for them.

Hospitals today have to compete for nurses from the very limited number available, and it has been proved beyond doubt everywhere that good accommodation provided by the hospital itself not only serves to attract nurses but also to hold them longer. This is the Barrie's own experience even with the limited accommodation already made available, and it is believed that with ample accommodation provided for the number required to keep the Third Floor of the Hospital open, the nurses needed may be more readily secured.

The campaign will open on September 16th and close on September 30th., during which time an intensive canvass will be made.

The work of organizing the campaign is under way, and a meeting of team captains is being held this week in The Barrie Memorial Hospital board room, to be followed later by a general meeting of all canvassers. The campaign is being directed by C. V. Curtis, the Business Manager of the hospital.

What Farm Organizations Are Doing For Farmers

To The Editor,
Huntingdon Gleaner.

Dear Sir:

The majority of farmers, who with their families are working long hours to secure the season's crops, very likely feel that such meetings of farm leaders, as reported in last week's Gleaner are just so much wasted effort. The same farmers are, however, realising that despite their hard work they are not exactly satisfied with the returns they are getting.

They see people in almost every other line of endeavour, without a fraction of their capital investment, enjoying shorter hours of labour, and higher monetary returns. Your farm leaders recognize, these conditions and try to do what they can to improve them. The solution, however, is no simple matter. These conditions are not something that have appeared suddenly, but have been building up over the last ten years, only recently the pressure has become more acute. Basically they stem from the great industrial and development boom that has taken place in Canada, and on which labour and industry have been able to capitalize, in proportion to the degree in which they were organized to take advantage of it. This has practically reached the point where labour dictates the hours it shall work, and the rate of wages paid. Industry goes through a process of bargaining, but generally agrees, maintains its own position, and passes on the increased costs to the ultimate purchaser.

With agricultural products this works in reverse, of which we had an illustration recently where a judge acting as chairman of an Arbitration Board setting the price for milk for manufacturing purposes in his written award made the following statement "The value of 100 lbs. of milk cannot be placed on its cost of production, but on what it ultimately sells for, after all transportation and processing costs have been deducted".

The general structure of agriculture in Canada, comprising as it does, some half a million individual farm units, cannot do what industry does. The food producers position is further complicated by the fact, that the volume of their production is often determined by the weather, and other natural causes beyond their control. These factors create the instability and insecurity with which farmers are constantly faced and which we think entitles them to special consideration at the Government level.

The solution of these problems are beyond the scope of the individual farmer, or even a single group to deal with, hense the need for National farm organizations.

Two of the acute problems at the moment, are that of the Grain Growers in the Prairie Provinces, and that of the dairy farmers in all of Canada. The grain growers are faced with unmarketable surpluses, due to several years of above average production, and changing policies in other countries, which has deprived them of their traditional markets.

The dairy industry is faced with an exactly opposite problem. Unless there is some improvement in the milk producer's position, we may not have enough people interested in staying with this arduous job to meet the needs of our increasing population for dairy products. If this happens lower priced imported products and cheaper substitutes could ruin the industry. Producers for some whole milk markets with a third of this product surplus to their outlet may not agree with this, but I must point-out their milk is only surplus to their own special market, and is not surplus to the overall picture. What needs to be realised is that Canada cannot afford to loose either of these branches of her Agricultural industry.

It is for this reason that so much attention is at present being devoted to marketing problems, in the hope that some means can be found of strengthening the food producers position. This is also the reason for farm organizations insisting that the Agricultural Price Support Act, designed for the adjustment period following the War, be made a permanent policy, unless the general condition can be otherwise corrected. This Act has been of very great help in many cases of considerable hardship to producers. Due to the work of and, the Dairy Farmers of Canada, and Can. Fed. of Agriculture, the Government was persuaded last winter to bring skim milk powder under the power of this Act, which has resulted in an increase of about 30c per hundred pounds in the price of all milk for manufacturing purposes in 1957. As some ten billion pounds of milk is manufactured this has been of great help to the dairy industry. These are some of the many problems Canadian farm leaders are trying to deal with, even though this may not be fully realised at the farm level, due to the fact that we have no weekly farm paper in which these things can be reported, while they are still news.

Yours very truly,

GILBERT MACMILLAN

The Flower Building which formerly stood here was removed to a new location to make way for the arena. The arena has been placed near to Fairview Road and when completed there will be ample parking space for cars when activities are held at the rink and during Fair time. The size of the ice will be regulation, thus there will be plenty of surface for skating, hockey games and other such events. The steel has arrived and most of it has now been erected, as other photos will show.

FORMS FOR PIERS AND FOUNDATION

Take a second look . . . get the true picture

There's nothing new about a schoolboy dashing out at the last minute. But that big yellow bus is something new . . . something important to you even though you'll never use it. For this is a district high school bus picking up its morning load of farm children.

Not so long ago, the "little red school house" was the end of education for the majority of these children. Now they ride the yellow bus to high school—and may go on to an agricultural college afterwards.

Parents are encouraging their children to get more education so that when they have taken over the farm they'll have a thorough knowledge of agricultural sciences and business management, both so necessary to the production of good and plentiful crops, on a profitable basis.

The prosperity we all enjoy would be impossible if today's farmers weren't doing such a fine job. But those bright, eager children on the yellow bus, tomorrow's farmers, will make an even greater contribution to this country's progress. They'll be able to do this because they will be trained in newer and better farm practices, including the use of farm machinery which will be "revolutionary" even by today's high standards.

Editorial Notes...

What Is Your Reaction?

IT is the intention of the Huntingdon Town Council to apply to the Quebec Legislature by means of a Private Bill, for a charter to give the Council wider powers of administration. While all the facts as to what will be applied for are not known, we understand that permission will be asked to divide the town into zones or wards, to pay the aldermen and Mayor a salary as granted by legislation passed at Quebec and it is hinted that a 3 per cent sales tax will be incorporated as an additional means of raising money to pay for the increased expenses.

We believe that the dividing of the Town into zones would work to the good as each zone would elect its own representative at elections, while the whole of voters would elect the Mayor. For a financing point of view the zoning would be better, as a budget could be prepared each year for each zone to cover the work to be done, etc.

A salary for the aldermen and the Mayor could be a good plan too, and might result in better candidates coming forth for nomination to these offices. However, it would mean an increase in the overall expenses for the Town and the Ratepayers. However, for a town the size of Huntingdon, this is doubtful, and perhaps the electing of aldermen according to wards would solve the aldermanic question.

On the matter of the Sales Tax, we are not too enthusiastic. As we see it, we, in Canada are fighting inflation and higher costs of everything today. The price index has risen more in the past few months than ever before. If a sales tax was imposed in Huntingdon, it would mean that all people trading in this area would have to pay increased costs for the articles purchased here. The position would be similar to that when purchases are made in Montreal. In the case that a purchase is made by someone out of town, and the goods are sent out to the purchaser, the 3% tax is eliminated. Should you make the purchase and carry it away with you, you pay the provincial tax of 2% and in addition the city tax of 3%, thus 5% on such purchase. Of course all goods are not taxable, there are some exemptions. The storekeepers and business people would be the collectors of the tax and have to remit to the municipality at specified periods throughout the year. There is no doubt that such a tax would result in a fair sum being collected throughout the year and would help the town to overcome some of its financial difficulties. But is a town with a population of a little over 3,000 the size where such a tax should be adopted?

There has only been a hint of this so far, but before such a plan is adopted, it would be well for all members of the council to weigh it well and truly to see if the advantages outweigh the disadvantages. Such a tax would not only be applicable to the residents of town, but also to those who do business in this town from surrounding and outside points. The only way outsiders could avoid paying the tax would be to have their purchases delivered to the outside points, as is done in the city.

The storekeepers have decried the loss of business through parking bylaws, what effect would a sales tax have on business in this town? Before a private bill is introduced, we believe its full contents should be made public in order that everyone will know what is being sought and the possible consequences that may arise from it. The members of the council are elected to look after the interests of the taxpayers and the general prosperity of the town not to damage the prospects of such. We feel sure the people of this town do not want to feel that they are being called upon to pay higher prices than those paid in other nearby towns, and paying a sales tax in this town only, would amount to that. True the burden of the cost of administering the town affairs now falls on the taxpayers, while many others using the facilities get away without paying any tax whatever. However, in a case like this the taxpayers would be inflicted with an extra burden along with the many. If a sales tax is introduced then the regular taxpayer should be entitled to a reduction in his property, business and other such taxes.

As stated, nothing official has been stated regarding a sales tax for Huntingdon, but rumblings have been heard that such a move is in the offing.

A Hand Of Bridge -- Honore Mercier Bridge

THIS is the season for bridge — more bridge and better bridge, but it is not the type of bridge played by the ladies and at social gatherings. It is much more important and while playing the game, it is much more annoying because all the participants have the dummy hand. There is plenty of bidding, but no one yet has held the game hand, or scored very high as a winner.

This "game" is played at the Honore Mercier Bridge every day and practically all day until late in the evening. Hundreds and hundreds of cars try to pass over this bridge into Montreal and also to come out of Montreal. There is a hum of the motors as they purr or sputter away awaiting a chance to move on their way. The motors get hot and the tempers of the motorists get hot. In the case of motors, they can stand so much and then they conk out and the blood pressure of the motorist begins an upsurge as he tries to get the motor going again just as the traffic makes another move. The motorist behind also bothers him as horns are honked for him to get moving and he is struggling with a stalled motor. Exasperating — Why No! It is very funny? It is the way the "game of Bridge" is played at Mercier.

It is about time the authorities made some announcement regarding their intentions to alleviate the situation that has been going on at the Honore Mercier Bridge, not just in a while, but all the time and for months and months and which is becoming increasingly worse. If the authorities do not know of it, it is time they took a trip out this way and saw for themselves.

On Wednesday afternoon of the past week, several motorists from Huntingdon were business visitors to Montreal and on their return were caught at the Bridge by the traffic jam which can almost surely be looked for. One reported starting over the bridge at about 5.30 p.m. and reaching the Chateauguay Motel at 7.30 p.m. He says he had to stop there to get refreshed after the exhausting time of making that distance. He says there were thousands of cars waiting to get along. Another motorist from this part said he was one hour and fifty minutes coming from "Mickey" McLean's service station to the underpass at Caughnawaga. For some time no traffic moved until a policeman came along and stopped the traffic on the south side of the bridge from coming on and made the bridge one-way out of Montreal. Motors ran hot and then stopped and refused to start. Imagine what this is doing to those engines, think of the miles it is taking out of those engines just idling away the time. Trade-in time will come much sooner than might be expected. Life expectancy is shortened by the emotional upset experienced by the motorist — all because there is not enough road space for all who use it. Another bridge is needed at Honore Mercier and needly badly and without delay.

Now is the time for something to be done. It is time for an announcement from the Provincial Government that something will be done. It has been suggested that the present Honore Mercier Bridge be used for one way traffic, either into or out of Montreal and that another bridge be built alongside, or near, for the opposite flow of traffic according to decision reached. This may change the present plans somewhat, that is why it is necessary to act without delay. We are not engineers, thus we cannot say what or how it should be done. But it does not take an engineer to know that something needs to be done and real soon. It would be folly to wait until the present work has been completed and then have to do half of it over again. The need is there and will always be there untill a remedy is made. In fact as the seaway progresses, the need wil be greater. It is fully expected that there will be plenty of development on this south shore of the river and this will mean even more traffic than is trying to cross this bridge at present.

It is the voice of the people that is being raised in protest and several councils have passed resolutions at their recent meetings for something to be done. Surely this outcry cannot be ignored?

Crossing Signals Would Help Prevent Accidents

IN and around this area, we have level crossings and from time to time we are called upon to record accidents which occur at these crossings. This past week an accident occurred at the level crossing on Route No. 4, just a short distance west of town.

Three Americans and their car were involved in the collision with a N.Y.C. Train and required them to be hospitalized. While passenger trains have been reduced in number over this line, there are many freight trains during a day. Local people more or less know when to expect a passenger train, but they are not so familiar with freights. Strangers have no idea when a train might be expected. This, however, is not an excuse for not making sure if a train is approaching or not, the signs are there that a crossing is near.

Several times representations have been made to both railways to install wig-wag or similar signals at all crossings in or near the town. The reply has been received that the cost is prohibitive and in any case the municipalities requiring such would have to foot a large part of the bill. The costs of this are such that the municipalities did not think they were able to comply and thus the matter has been dropped.

However, in the interests of safety and

Looking Back Along the Trail

"Echoes of The Past"
Georgetown Church

The organizing of congregations in the English-speaking settlements of Quebec deserves to be studied, for the circumstances attending their formation gave shape to conditions observable in the present day. The bending of the twigs gives form to the future tree, and the spirit that shaped the formation of the first congregations is that which still gives them their character. This being so, the pity is, that none of our churches owe their origin to deep spiritual feeling. It was not a group of settlers, sparing from their poverty the means of establishing among them in their new home the ordinance of public worship, joining seriously yet gladly in raising a rude church in the midst of the forest, and contributing from a deep sense of duty towards the maintenance of a minister. The truth is, the rearing of places of worship was long delayed, and the support of ministers was shameful. A burning sense of obligation to the God who had led them across the ocean and provided new homes for them in a new land, would have given different results then and now. There is nothing so painful in those early days as the evidence of the grudging spirit in which the merest pittances were given towards the founding and maintenance of the public ordinances of worship. When churches came to be built, the motive was worldly, it was a decent and proper thing to have one in their settlement, and their contributions were pared to the lowest point with which they could escape. When a minister was secured, he did not get the small amount agreed upon. That sense of duty and obligation towards God, which impels vigorous action and cheerful giving were not characteristics of the early settlers.

The building of Georgetown church was due, as has been shown in pervious articles, to the unlooked for appearance of a minister.. The settlers built a meeting-place and when as related, they were disappointed in their man, they were slow to take the needed steps to secure a successor to McWattie when he was demitted at the end of 1824. This was not because they were few. In 1827 count was made of the Presbyterians when it was found there were 133 above fifteen years of age, resident on the Chateauguay, yet all these would promise towards the securing of a minister was $120 and a house. How long they would have remained without a minister it is impossible to say had not Dr. Mathieson visited them. Stationed in Montreal he made summer excursions into the surrounding Scottish settlements, baptising, marrying, and preaching and finding they had already a church urged the Chateauguay and English river settlers to get a minister. A society had been formed in Glasgow to assist in providing ministers for Canada, and to it the settlers looked. On their being canvassed the Dr. found only $240 was subscribed, which was, of course, insufficient. They asked the presbytery for occasional supply, and on Sunday, September 11, 1831, a licentiate newly come from Scotland, Wm. Stewart filled the pulpit and so satisfactorily that a meeting was held after service and he was tendered a call with a stipend of $320 and the glebe. Mr. Stewart declined, Ormstown was asked to join, on the understanding that they would have preaching on alternate Sundays, but even with them, enough was not subscribed to keep a minister. On being appealed to in a long memorial, prepared by Robert Robertson, the Glasgow Society replied, if the settlers would guarantee an annual stipened of $400 for two years, payable half-yearly in advance, a minister would be sent. A guarantee was sent, promising the required amount, and in the fall of 1832 the Rev. Archd. Colquhoun arrived and entered upon his labors. In a few months there was trouble. The stipend promised was not paid and no manse provided. The minister resented this as a breach of faith and took his grievances into the pulpit. The end was that he withdrew from Georgetown and confined his services to Ormstown. Here the same difficulty recurred. He was not paid the little that had been promised and he left in 1835, after a brief sojourn on the Chateauguay of little over 2 years Georgetown was without a minister until the spring of 1836, when one of the ministers the Glasgow Society sent, Dr. Muir, arrived and was inducted in the fall. The 110 families who composed the congregation promised a stipend of $360. Dr. Muir told the writer that he did not get of that over $200 in any year, and that had it not been a share of the clergy, reserves was obtained for the Presbyterians he could not have stayed. From that fund he was paid yearly $120, to which the seignior added $80 when he married.

The Georgetown congregation in its givings was neither better nor worse that any other in the district. Everywhere no matter what the denomination, contributions for the church and minister were given reluctantly and with a grudge, and every minister of those times had to submit to broken promises and endure the privations that followed. This was deplorable in every sense alike for the people themselves, the cause they represented, and their descendants, for the present generation has inherited the idea that the less given for religious purposes the more money saved. It will be found, on examining records that what the grandfather subscribed is frequently the amount contributed by his grandson, despite greatly improved means and the fall in value of money. A comparison of several lists shows that the average subscription of farmers of the district of Beauharnois is $6 yearly and that coppers are still called an "offering". Is it to be wondered at, that Protestantism in the rural parts of Quebec is not aggressive, that it is a declining force, that it can attempt nothing of moment for lack of means, and that its future is dark? Were is not for the efforts of the women, it is open to question if a third of our churches would be open. Only a revival from the formalism which prevails, a keener, livelier appreciation of the value of Gospel truth, a deeper sense of duty to the Unseen, can remedy a condition that is to be viewed with regret. There are enough Protestants left to make themselves felt and respected by the majority, enough to constitute them a power for good, if they would only act up to their convictions and stand forth to maintain the cause of their fathers with just contributions of their substance and the testimony of their lives.

Round Byre AND Ring

By Frank Napier

The International Sale of Ayrshire Champions, sponsored by the Mid-States Federation of Ayrshire Clubs, was held at Huntington, Indiana on July 27. A sale which attracted breeders from 14 States and Canada.

New Record

The 40 head sold in the International Sale grossed $32,885.00, and averaged $822.12, breaking an 11-year-old record for averages on all Club sponsored Ayrshire sales. For sales this year, it was second only to the Grand National Ayrshire sale held in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, when 39 head averaged $847.00.

The top 10 animals in the International sale averaged $1,850.-00.

High Seller

The highest selling individual was the imported and "Approved" Scottish-bred sire, Lessnessock Raff, consigned by John Kilgour and John Stiffler, Jackson, Ohio, and purchased at $6,-000.00 by Central Ohio Breeding Association of Columbus, Ohio.

Incidentally, Lessnessock Raff was imported from Scotland by R. O. Biggs, Barberry Lane, Dundas, Ont., and was subsequently sold to an Ohio breeder. He also subsequently qualified as a top-ranking "Approved" sire through the performance of his daughters.

Other Top Prices

Other top prices included Windrow Stormy Goldie, "Very Good", with a record of 560 lbs. F. (305 days, 2x actual) as a first calf heifer. She was consigned by Charles E. Wilson (United States Defence Secretary) and E. E. Wilson (of Chevrolet Motors), Woodrow Farms, Birmingham, Mich. Her selling price was $3,000.00.

Toll Gate Marjorie's Mistress, consigned by Preston J. Davenport, Litchfield, Conn., was sold for $1,675.00. She had been undefeated as a 2, 3, 4 and 5-year-old at Eastern States Exposition; was grand champion at Eastern States Exposition and the National Ayrshire Show, Waterloo, Ia., in 1955.

Anchor Mere Bob's Jean, consigned by Ernest Forrest & Son, Litchfield, Conn., was sold for $1,450.00. She was grand champion at the 1956 Eastern States Exposition.

Incidentally, Ernest Forrest, the senior partner of the above named firm, is one of that coterie of Scotsmen who brought Ayrshires from Scotland to Burnside Farms, of R. R. Ness & Sons, Howick, who made their debut there as herdsmen on this side of the Atlantic; who subsequently crossed to the United States to make names for themselves as Herdsmen and Managers, some of them subsequently as owners of herds.

Ontario Entries

There were four entries from Ontario in the International Sale of Huntington, Indiana, and one of them, consigned by Hamilton Health Association Farm, Hamilton, Ont., sold at $975.00 the sixth highest price of the sale. Seventh high seller was a heifer consigned by Stansell Bros., Aylmer, Ont., at $900.00. Another Stansell entry sold for $700.00.

The fourth animal, one of the youngest in the sale, was consigned by Alex. Sutherland, Paris, Ont., and sold for $325.00.

Letter to the Editor

Dear sir:

Allow me to take a little space in your paper to ask the responsible persons a few questions about the Little League. As far as I can see, it seems to lack some organization. Two or three years ago, if I am correct, there seemed to be enthusiasm and the teams were doing well. It was nice to watch those little fellows play and quite a number of people did go to the games.

Two weeks ago, my children wanted to go and watch them play, so, I took them. Besides us, there were three grown ups, a dozen children in the stands.

About twenty young lads, with no uniforms, (what happened to the nice ones they had?) were engaged in a game. The umpire, who acted also as coach and whatnot was the regular coach of one of the teams. It was pitiful to see the lack of organization. Last night, (Thursday Aug. 8) a team from Athelstan with coach, linesman, and other advisors, came to meet one of our teams. These boys were all wearing their uniforms, they had all the necessary equipment while the Huntingdonians looked like a group of orphans without any uniforms, bats or ball. However, the game got under play and our boys played their part as best they could against a well organized team.

Are there not in Huntingdon a few men who have at heart to see our young boys enjoy themselves in a healthy game of ball? All they need is someone to encourage them and show a continued interest. It was done two years ago, why was it not kept up?

How can we expect children to keep interest in what we start when we the grown ups can not keep up the good work? Think it over.

Thank you for your cooperation.

A Huntingdonian

The Week At Ottawa

OTTAWA, (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker has announced two new cabinet appointments, a new government whip in the Commons, and the names of eight parliamentary assistants. He also said he would name the holders of at least one other cabinet post and six more parliamentary assistants before parliament opens Oct. 14.

His Aug. 7 announcement added a third Quebec member to the ranks of his cabinet. He is Paul F. Comtois, 61-year-old winner of the June 10 election in Nicolet-Yamaska, who takes on the mines and technical surveys portfolio.

Douglas Harkness of Calgary, holder of the northern affairs portfolio, was named to the key post of agriculture minister. Mr. Diefenbaker said that the 54-year-old livestock farmer would step out of the northern affairs job in the near future after completing certain projects and negotiations he had started.

The Progressive Conservative prime minister indicated to reporters he has no present plans to drop the external affairs jorfolio which he himself holds.

However, he said he will fill the post of health and welfare minister before parliament opens. The job now is filled by Veterans Affairs Minister Brooks.

He added that Justice Minister Fulton will remain acting citizenship and immigration minister in the next parliamentary session, and the appointment of a defence production minister—a job now handled by Works Minister Green—was "not in contemplation."

By Mr. Comtois' appointment Mr. Diefenbaker fulfills a commitment made the day he assumed office that he would choose another cabinet member from Quebec. Mr. Comtois joins Solicitor-General Balcer and Postmaster-General Hamilton as Quebec representatives in the cabinet.

Parliamentary Assistants

Mr. Diefenbaker also named L. Elston Cardiff, member for Huron, Ont., as chief government whip in the Commons, and announced appointment of the following parliamentary assistants:

Labor—Arthur Maloney, 37 criminal lawyer and member for Toronto Parkdale, Agriculture—John A. Charlton, 47, member for Ontario's Brant-Haldimand.

Health—G. Ernest Halpenny, 54, manufacturing chemist and new member for London.

Mines—Raymond O'Hurley, 47-year-old timber estimator, who won Lotbiniere, Que., from Liberal Veterans Minister Hughes Lapointe.

Defence—Mercel Lambert, 37, who won Edmonton West from the Liberals following the retirement of Liberal Mines Minister Prudham.

Trade—Thomas M. Bell, 34, member since 1953 and president of the Young Progressive Conservative Association.

Transport—Angus R. MacDonald, 55, merchant who won Nova Scotia's Antigonish-Guysborough from the Liberals.

Public Works—Clayton W. Hodgson, 60, lumber company operator and MP for Victoria Ont., since 1945.

Parliamentary assistants draw $4,-000 a year in addition to the $10,000 received as a Commons member. Cabinet members receive a total of $27,500. Party whips get no special pay for their job.

Account Switched

The new Progressive Conservative government has taken the $1,200,000 advertising account of the Canadian Government Travel Bureau away from the agency which handled it for the Liberals and split it among three firms.

A party source said switches in the advertising accounts for other government departments would be made shortly.

Resources Minister Harkness announced the change the day following Prime Minister Diefenbaker's announcement that Mr. Harkness was taking on the agriculture portfolio and would drop the resources job after completion of certain negotiations he had begun.

Mr. Harkness said Dalton K. Camp, Toronto public relations executive and a major campaign strategist for the Conservatives in the June 10 election, will act as account executive for the three firms. Mr. Camp is a former Conservative party director of public relations and had general charge of the party's campaign in the Maritimes.

The travel bureau account under the former Liberal government was handled by Cockfield, Brown and Company of Montreal. Executives of the firm handled public relations for the Liberal party in the last two federal election campaigns. H. E. (Bob) Kidd, a Cockfield vice-president, is general secretary of the National Liberal Federation.

In 1956-57 the travel bureau account amounted to about $1,200,000 in advertising Canad's tourist attractions, all of it in the United States.

Mr. Harkness said Locke-Johnson and Company Limited, Toronto, has been appointed to handle general magazine advertising for the bureau. In the last fiscal year this amounted to about $600,000.

Harold F. Stanfield, Limited, Montreal, was designated to look after the bureau's general newspaper campaign which last year cost about $300,000.

F. H. Hayhurst Company, Limited Toronto is to handle the special Atlantic provinces advertising campaign, inaugurated this year at a cost of about $300,000.

One informant said this switch is to be followed by others for other departments. Where the Liberals had four agencies handling about 90 per cent of government advertising work, the informant said, the Conservative government plans to use about 14 agencies.

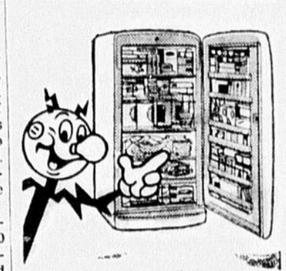

WATCH ESPIONAGE

Justice Minister Fulton said last week that Canada is taking every precaution to prevent the Russians from rebuilding a Canadian espionage ring. He added he knows of no new Soviet attempt to rebuild the ring smashed in 1945 following disclosures by former Russian Embassy code Clerk Igor Gouzenko.

Mr. Fulton was commenting on the indictment by a federal grand jury at New York of Rudolf Ivanovich Abel, 55-year-old Russian colonel, as a Soviet spy. The indictment named four Russians as co-conpirators, but not defendants. One of them is Vitali Pavlov, second secretary to the Soviet embassy here in 1945.

Crossing Signals Would Help....

under present day conditions, we believe the railways should install these warnings at their own expense. If the cost of this prohibitive, perhaps it would be less so to build the tracks up over the road, or tunnel beneath the road and thus eliminate the crossing altogether. The later two suggestions would be a permanent remedy to the situation.

Road traffic today, is such that everything possible in road construction is being done to try and prevent accidents. The level crossing went out with the horse and buggy, yet little has been done to eliminate them unless pressure has been brought to bear. It is not only here that level crossing accidents happen, articles in the newspapers report them somewhere every day. Blame the motorist if you wish, for not taking precautions, but part of the blame must be laid to the railways for not modernizing their systems to cope with present day trends. Such should be an important part of the modernization scheme as much as railway cars and locomotives.

We do not want to do anything that would burden our railways more than they are, but systems must be improved as the trend demands. It should be a fairly easy matter to either raise the tracks over highways, or put them under the highways. In any case it should be the duty of the railways to take such precautions as are necessary to prevent accidents which may be caused through the fact that their lines cross highways. No. 4 highway is a busy one on a route from Montreal to the Border of the U.S.A., yet it has several level crossings that have been the scene of accidents and more in the latter years. The diesel drawn train is much more quiet than the old steam engine and there is not that long seen signal of smoke and steam and neither is the warning as piercing as the old whistle. It is therefore that trains are not noticed as quickly as formerly and many crossings are hidden until almost upon them. All this makes it more imperative that level crossings should be eliminated entirely, or at least suitable signals installed. The horse has been let out of the barn too many times of late, for the locking of the door to be ignored — it is time something was done.

The Late James M. Wallace

This community was saddened on Tuesday morning, Aug. 8th, to learn of the passing of Mr. James M. Wallace at his home on the first concession of Hinchinbrooke.

Mr. Wallace, only son of the late Matthew Wallace and his wife, Nancy Hamilton, who born January 19th 1881, on the farm where he spent his entire life; he was educated in the Powerscourt Public School and the Huntingdon Academy.

Apart from his busy farm life he contributed many years to public service, several years as councillor, mayor of the township and warden of the county. He was a devout member of Huntingdon United Church having served on the board of Session there and previously in Athelstan, for approximately 40 years. He was representative elder to the Montreal Presbytery on several occasions and also the elected representative to the General Council of Churches in Hamilton.

He was prominently identified with all association work for the betterment of Agriculture and the farming industry. In 1940 his farm won the honor of receiving the "Order of Agricultural Distinguished Merit Diploma" for the Province of Quebec. A prominent Ayrshire breeder, he was a member of the Howick-Huntingdon Ayrshire Breeder's Club for many years, having served as director and president of the club.

The funeral service which was held on Saturday afternoon at Huntingdon United Church was conducted by Rev. Robert Beal; the solo, so beautifully rendered by Mrs. Marion Reese, "Jesus Calls Us O'er The Tumult", had been requested by the deceased; the Huntingdon United Church Choir assisted by Mr. E. Yates as organist, in singing the hymn, "The King Of Love MY Shepherd Is".

Pall bearers were Messrs. Wallace Rennie, Bert Rennie, Harold McCracken, Francis McCracken, Erle Fennell and Lorne Fennell, nephews of the deceased. The flower bearers were Messrs. Albert Rosevear, Ernest Boucher, John McHardy, Russell Myatt, George Taylor and Allan Wilson.

The floral tributes were beautiful and numerous, including wreaths and sprays from the Session of the Huntingdon United Church, The Hinchinbrooke Council, The Howick-Huntingdon Ayrshire Club, The neighbours, relatives and friends from Verdun, Toronto, Montreal, Fort Coulonge, Malone, Ottawa, Merrickville and Wyoming.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife the former Addie F. Rennie, four sons, Alex, John, Matthew and Henry, their wives and nine grandchildren, also two sisters, Mrs. Mary Rennie and Mrs. Jean McCleery. A sister, Mrs. Norman Fennell predeceased him last year. The funeral was largely attended and interment was in the family plot in Athelstan Cemetery.

The Late Mrs. Ernest R. Moore

On Sunday, August 4th, the Community of Hemmingford, and surrounding District, was shocked and saddened when it was learned that Mrs. Ernest Moore, had passed away in her sleep at dawn.

Mrs. Moore, nee Sarah Edith McNaughton, was born at Hemmingford, on November 20th, 1894, and was the oldest daughter of the late William N. McNaughton and his wife Jane Latham.

Sadie, as she was affectionately known to all, was united in marriage to Ernest Moore, on April 29th, 1914 and immediately settled down on the Robert Moore homestead, where she and Mr. Moore farmed until a few years ago, and where their three daughters, (Clara) Mrs. Ernest Merlin, (Euretta) Mrs. Sidney Stewart, and (Doris) Mrs. Leslie Akester, were born.

About twelve years ago, much to Mrs. Moore's delight, Mr. Moore purchased the old property one mile west of the village. The old brick house nestled at the foot of the hill, had been built nearly a hundred years previous, by Mrs. Moore's paternal great grandparents; she had been born there, and it was in this house that she spent her childhood and adolescent years.

Moving there in the spring of 1947, both worked together to make it the comfortable and beautiful home which it is today.

Mrs. Moore was a bright and happy woman, a devoted wife and mother. Although her interests centered around her family and home, she always found time for the community and school activities and her love of the young people increased with the years, instead of diminishing as one might expect.

Mrs. Moore was an active member of St. Luke's Womens' Auxiliary, a member and past President of the Hemmingford Branch of the Quebec Womens' Institute, and a life time member and faithful attendant of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, where the funeral services, largely attended, were held on Tuesday, August 6th, at 3:30 p.m. being conducted by Mr. Coombes of Montreal. Three favourite hymns of the deceased were sung—Hold Thou My Hand, O Master Let Me Walk With Thee, Abide With Me.

The pall bearers were the Messrs. Grant Thompson, Charles Smith, Wm. J. Curry, Charles Wood, Wm. J. McKay, and John Cleland.

The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful and amidst the profusion of their beauty and color, interment took place in the family plot of the Hemmingford Cemetery.

The late Mrs. Moore leaves to mourn her loss, her husband and three daughters, two sisters, Mrs. Beatrice E. Orr of Montreal and Mrs. James Akester of Hemmingford; six grandchildren, Mrs. Andrew Somerville and Linda Merlin of Hemmingford, Ivan Merlin of Banff, Alta, Brenda and Bonnie Akester of Montreal, and Donald Stewart of Lachute, P.Q., as well as two great granddaughters, Sharon and Nancy Somerville.

Four brothers, Percy, Keith, Harold and William McNaughton predeceased her.

With the passing of Sadie Moore, the family, relatives, neighbors and community, have lost a friend who truly did her best to make life worth living for all who knew her.

Farmers - Attention

Wanted—A number of progressive farmers in eastern districts who would like to set out a commercial block of red Raspberries either for your local trade or for shipping to recommended city dealers. Recent Ontario and Quebec prices at 40 - 60c per quart and dealers, reports would indicate short supplies every where,

To encourage a limited planting of new high yielding patches, a nurseryman with many years experience in commercial production will personally interview and educate interested farmers in raspberry culture. This should result in higher unit yield, longer patch life, less hand labour and when translated into dollars at normal prices relatively higher ratio of profit is assured. If genuinely interested in berry growing as a sideline to farming write on or before August. 27th., to Meadowbrooke Nursery, Box 357, Trenton Ont., giving location of your farm. We will call later and completely analyze the business soil requirements and complete preparations up - to - date cultural practices home markets and surplus shipping cost of planting estimated yields and profits yer acre. Later replies can not be covered.

Lost - A Two-Year-Old

by MRS. EDNA C. LAURIE

Word flew. Everyone left his work. Taking my dog, I scrambled through the pine bush behind our house to the road, then sent Waldo home. Dogs and people were gathering from all directions. Worry was on every brow. A silence fell among those searching under brush, through deep grass, in old cars. Every angle and possibility were considered — ice-box, wells, hay-loft, wild animal? Search went on and on — Those joining in going over the same ground, often. Glen Hadley, from his perch on his horse, scanned the countryside, carried messages. Everywhere one looked, people were intent on a certain spot.

I came upon Hector Coupal, who had seen Lise last. Worn from his burden of worry, fear and searching, Hector found it difficult to speak. "I never did see such a pretty kid". Hector was in the habit of giving his vegetables out of his wonderful garden to the family who lived in the next house. Five or six of the children were there in the morning. It took him only minutes to gather and place bunches in their arms. They started for home and found that Lise was missing. Lise — the two-year-old! Hector showed me where he had searched. We looked again under the wood-shed through his pile of wood. Up in the corner he scrambled, saying he did not get right to the top before.

Hunting dogs arrived with Mr. Oscar Palmer. Hope died once more as they returned from a scent they seemed to have picked up. Police patrolled the road.

Then — a clue — or so we thought. Cecile Sanguilon heard a baby cry, as she passed the lot beyond Hector Coupal's. We got over the barbed wire fence — hunted over rocky ground where land fell under trees into holes. After much searching by many, we realized that the cry must have come from a baby held by a mother farther away

Darkness grew, and along with it, dread and uncertainty. What to do? It had to be something. Hurried search went on. I was glad of the chance to get my son Jim into our house on the corner for a change of woollen socks for his aching feet, and a cup of coffee.

Cars from Huntingdon, Plattsburg, Lacolle, stopped and remained — occupants deeply concerned. Men from work arrived and carried on the search in the evening. Don Reid carried on most of the night along with other unsung heroes.

Thoughts of recovery of Lise were ebbing. Hearts were sore. A prayer for mercy, for a child we thought was kidnapped, and for comfort for her parents — went to bed with most of these closely-knit French and English residents of Hemmingford and the County.

Edna Hebert was unusually late with the mail next morning. She had not slept well. She still had the idea that Lise was somewhere in the vicinity. Between each mail-box, Edna had listened carefully for a whimper. She began to think one was in her head as she paused to examine possibilities.

Cars — cars — police — bloodhounds — and now organization. Men, six feet from each other, were going over ground. Mr. Lavirière had said that he had taught his children not to take the highway but to use a back road. They searched again over woody ground for his little girl.

Two planes circled low above the searchers. Keith Edwards, in his own plane, was the first to patrol the back fields. Suddenly a pilot made motions to those below. Something which resembled a child's clothing had caught his attention. Men rushed to the spot. There she was, blue jeans thrown off, well and smiling. She was rosy-cheeked and rosy-bottomed from sitting naked as one of God's creatures through the night and day. Her skin was bitten and scratched, but she smiled.

Word went quickly through the mob that all was well. The young women, who were making loaves of sandwiches, were told to halt their work. Food had been donated by the village store-keepers and other thoughtful people.

Lise was carried home to be clothed, then driven with police escort, through throngs of onlookers to the village where friends were caring for her mother and family.

When Lise was brought out lumps gathered in many throats; and strong, tired men brushed away tears of thankfulness and emotion.

The crowds dispersed and Route 52, which was blocked for 24 hours with traffic, once more got back to normal.

Appreciation For Use of Campsite

The following letter which is self explanatory, has been received by Mr. Arthur Trepanier and expresses appreciation and praise for the campsite on his land at St. Anicet, near Somerville Park. Mr. Trepanier told The Gleaner that he would be happy to extend camping privileges to other boy or girl groups wishing to enjoy a camp outing. Just get in touch with him and he will be glad to do whatever he can in this direction.

Mr. Arthur Trepanier,
46 Bouchette St.,
Huntingdon, Que.

Dear Mr. Trepanier:

It is in the name of all the Girl Guides who camped on your land that I come to thank you. The site was ideal for camping and we believe that our being able to stay as long as we planned, despite the violent wind and storms, was due to the good condition of your land. Its dry and elevated position bordered by the cedars provided us with all the liberty and privacy we required.

We would like to be able to thank you in a more concrete way but our position only affords us to offer our prayers for you and Mrs. Trepanier.

Be assured of our gratitude and gratefulness.

Respectfully,
Marquerite Goyette,
Diocesan Commission,
Valleyfield.

It was moved by Councillor Roy, seconded by Councillor Rennie that the following petition be sent to the Ministers of Roads and Public Works:

That whereas the traffic on the Mercier Bridge has become extremely and seriously congested and in the ordinary course of events must become increasingly so, therefore, this body, the Council of the Corporation of the Village of Ormstown would humbly pray that you would give serious consideration to the effect that the said Mercier Bridge might be so enlarged as to provide two separate lanes of traffic, which would help to a considerable extent to alleviate this condition. Carried.

Mr. Charles Parent came before the Council about the matter of odor from the sewer on Prince Albert Street. The Council assured him that the sewer connections would be attended to as soon as possible.

It was moved by Councillor McCormick, seconded by Councillor Barrington that ownership of the following properties be changed in the books of the village roll: No. 80 Part 11. Wm. Reynen to Harvey Forrester; 285.-86 W. Rember to C. Stackhouse; 62-42 Estate Mrs. M. E. Lindsay to Mrs. McCandlish; 242 Estate Mrs. Agnes Curran to Mrs. Irenee D'Aoust.

It was moved by Councillor Roy, seconded by Councillor Rennie, that a tax rate of twelve mills on the dollar levied on each dollar of valuation as appears by the 1957 Valuation Roll in force, to cover the general and necessary expenses of the Corporation for the year 1957 and to provide for coupon interest due in 1957 and payments on capital account on all By-Laws of the Corporation and that the Secretary prepare the collection roll accordingly, giving notice of its being completed and collecting the taxes enumerated therein according to law. Carried.

Wedding

CRAIG-DUGUAY

St. James' Anglican Church, Port Daniel West, was decorated with bouquets of pink roses and standards of larkspur and other summer flowers and white tapers, Sweet William and white bows marking the guest pews, for the three o'clock wedding on August third of Frances Ruth, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Duguay of Port Daniel West, to Mr. Ralph Robert Craig, eldest son of Mr. William R. Craig and the late Mrs. Craig, of Ormstown.

Rev. Thomas S. Knox, Rector of St.James, solemnized the marriage in a double-ring ceremony at which the wedding music was played by the organist, Mrs. Norval Journeau.

Entering the church to the strains of the Wedding March on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride wore a floor-length gown of nylon net and lace over satin. The lace bodice was fashioned with a wide pointed collar with sleeves ending in points over the hands, and the very full skirt fell from the waist in tiers of net ruffles. Her waist-length veil of tulle bordered with lace was held to the head by a sequin-studded tiara of net, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red and white roses and gypsophila.

The matron of honour, Mrs. John R. Walker, wore a floor length strapless gown of lavender net over taffeta, with a net bolero, matching headdress and long white gloves. Her bouquet was of yellow lilies and fern.

As senior bridesmaid, Miss Gloria, sister of the bride, wore a pale blue cocktail-length dress of taffeta and nylon sheer, designed with a shirred bodice, cap sleeves, and boat neckline from the back of which fell hem-length panels of nylon. Wearing long white gloves, she carried a nosegay of pink roses and wore a band of the same flowers in her hair.

Misses Ethel and Wilma Duguay, sisters of the bride, were junior bridesmaids and they wore identical dresses of nylon net over taffeta fashioned with boat necklines, pearl-trimmed bodices and cap sleeves. Miss Ethel Duguay was in pale green, while her sister wore yellow. They wore white gloves, bandeaus of pink roses and carried nosegays of rose buds.

Mr. Kenneth Duguay, brother of the bride, was best man. The ushers were Messrs. Lorne Hayes, Jack Skene and Winston Duguay.

Mrs. Duguay, mother of the bride, wore a robin's egg blue taffeta dress with white accessories and a corsage of white and pink carnations.

Mrs. Leigh Coffin, sister of the groom, wore a white and blue nylon frock with nylon stole and accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

During the signing of the register, Mr. Leigh Coffin sang 'O Perfect Love."

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's home where summer flowers, pink and white streamers and wedding bells formed the decor. The bride's table was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake.

Leaving for a wedding trip to the Maritime Provinces, Mrs. Craig wore a pale blue gabardine suit, white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Polythene Piping Brings Water Into Summer Cottages

Cooking over a wood stove and dipping water from a rain barrel is still the lot of many summer cottagers.

It may be a while before the wood stove is turned in for an electric one. But the prospects for a tap in the kitchen are much brighter.

Hundreds of summer cottagers have laid pipelines from wells or springs — all without benefit of plumbing experience and with the minimum of time and muscle-power. The only tools they needed were a jacknife, a screwdriver, and a spade to open a shallow trench.

All this was made possible by the development of a new type of pipe for cold water supply — polythene piping. Polythene is the plastic familiar in every kitchen in flexible tumblers and ice-cube trays. It has been used for years in such products as dainty cosmetic squeeze bottles. But it is also first-rate in this less glamourous role.

Polythene seems made-to-order for piping. It is safe for drinking water. It doesn't rust. It is so flexible that it can be snaked around trees and rocks and the handyman installing it doesn't even have to dig a straight trench.

It takes a truck to transport traditional metal piping. But polythene piping is so light a boy can carry 400 feet of it on his shoulder.

And it is no temporary stopgap for "proper" plumbing. Since it resists the corrosion which ruins ordinary galvanized water lines, its makers see no reason why it should not last indefinitely.

This simple plumbing technique brings city conveniences into the country home, and makes the annual holiday a rest as well as a change.

Dear Sister Theresa Christa with gratitude for all you have done for us and all your former pupils, we would like you to accept this small token of appreciation we know that we could never repay you for the service you have so unselfishly given to us, though at times it may have seemed that we did not realize the full value of it then.

We are very sad to see you go, but we are cheered by the thought of the warm welcome that will be given you by your future pupils. Thus it is with mixed sadness and pleasure that we present you with this gift.

Maple Leaf Grange

The regular meeting of Maple Leaf Grange No 11 was held on Tuesday evening, August 6th, with Allan Hunter in the chair.

The usual routine business was gone over as well as several new items.

Kay Williams was appointed as a delegate to State Grange which meets in Corning, N.Y. in October.

The preparations for the refreshment booth at the Fair was again under discussion, and it was decided that some new equipment be purchased so that serving would be easier in some ways.

David Rankin spoke of a Grange Picnic and it was finally planned to be at Somerville Park, on Sunday, Aug. 25, and all Grange members families and friends are cordially invited.

It was decided to have the second meeting in August as usual, instead of cancelling it as has been the custom in past years.

Since the meeting, word has been received of the sudden passing of Sis. Grace Thomas' eldest son, James of Malone, N.Y. and the sympathy of the Maple Leaf Grange goes out to her at this time.

Head-On Smash-Up Takes Father of Two

Widow and Children Receive $10,000 on $5,000 Policy

This young businessman's death came only a few months after he took out a Confederation Life Policy for $5,000, with an Accidental Death & Dismemberment clause. He chose this policy because of its low cost Double Indemnity guarantee in case of accidental death.

It was a wise choice because Confederation Life promptly paid his widow twice the face value of the policy.

A $5,000 policy with Confederation's Accidental Death and Dismemberment Benefit pays:

- Liberal cash payments for non-fatal dismemberment accidents and
- $5,000 if you die from natural causes.
- $10,000 if you die by accident.
- $15,000 if you die by accident while a passenger in a commercial bus, taxi, street car, train, ship or commercial aircraft, or in a fire in a public building.
