THE BALTIMORE CLIPPER BARK
LADY FRANKLIN,
900 TONS BURTHEN,

HAVING made two successive voyages from China, each in the very short period of 101 days, has thoroughly established her reputation for fast sailing, and will be dispatched for MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA, on the 25th of August. The ships of the Pioneer Line have made remarkably quick and healthy voyages; losing only one passenger among 950 that sailed in the first five ships, whereas it appears, from the report of the Emigration Commissioners, that the mortality on board English ships to Australia has equalled 4-90 per cent. This very gratifying result shows that no care and expense have been spared in selecting, ventilating and provisioning the ships of the Pioneer Line.

The "INCA" will only carry a limited number of passengers, at as moderate rates as are consistent with justice to passengers and owners.

For Freight or Passage, apply on board, at Pier 12 E. R., or to
R. W. CAMERON,
116 Wall Street.
Or here to NEIL McINTOSH,
Place d'Armes.

THIS Ship is a very superior staunch Vessel, and fast sailer, having made her last passage from Calcutta to New York in 96 days.

Her Accommodations for Passengers are unsurpassed, and as only a limited number will be taken, an early application will be necessary.

Shippers will find this a desirable opportunity to embrace.

SELF-HEATING IRONS.

PATENTED, QUEBEC, AUGUST, 1852.

FOR SALE BY THE SUBSCRIBERS.

LADIES are invited to call and examine the IRONS. Those who have tried them acknowledge their superiority over every other description of Smoothing Iron, for all laundry purposes.

The large amount of fuel consumed in heating the common Iron causes an uncomfortable heat, and an extravagant expense, both of which are avoided by using the SELF-HEATING IRON.

With this Iron, three bushels of charcoal are sufficient to do the ironing of a common family twelve months. Once filled, you can use the Iron five hours without replenishing. While using it you do not require to suffer the annoyance of a heated stove or fire place. You need not labour so hard pressing with it as you do with the common iron. The Irons being finely finished, they are easily kept bright and clean, and cannot possibly soil the finest linen.

Manufactured in Canada East only at the Montreal Foundry and City Works.

McDONALD, BROTHERS & CO.,
Importers and Manufacturers of Oils,

25 ST. PETER STREET, MONTREAL,

WILL commence business on the 1st May next, in premises recently occupied by the Messrs. D. & C. DARLING. By devoting themselves exclusively to the IMPORTATION and MANUFACTURE of OILS, they will thereby be enabled to offer to the trade the superior advantages resulting from the purchase in large quantities of the different kinds of OILS at their respective places of production. And by combining the manufacturing and refining of OILS with the importation of the crude article, they feel confident of being able to execute orders upon the very best terms. Their Stock will comprise—
Bleached and Unbleached Winter and Summer Sperm Oils
Do. do. do. Elephant do.
Do. do. do. Solar Sperm do.
Double Clarified Lard Oil
Best Gallipoli Olive do
Do. Sicily do
Patent Refined Russian Rape Seed Oil
Fine Nut and Palm Oils
Raw and Boiled Linseed Oils
Oils for Fuller's and Currier's use
Pale and Straw Colored Seal Oils
Cod, Whale, and Porpoise Oils

They would call particular attention to their "Refined Lubricating Machinery Oil," which they warrant suitable for Railroads, Steam Boats, and every other class of valuable Machinery. This OIL is the most economical for machinery, it requiring less of it than of any other Oil to lubricate a given amount of friction. It runs machinery perfectly cool, creates no gum, even works off the old gum accumulated upon the journals and slides, &c., by the previous use of bad Oil, and it does not congeal in the coldest weather.

It is, in every respect, a superior article, and the manufacturers having in view the incalculable injury done to machinery in Canada by the use of base Oils are prepared to guarantee its results.
Montreal, April 26, 1853. 1y 50

OIL MANUFACTORY.

THE Subscribers, after several years' experience, and by the introduction of all the recent improvements in the MANUFACTURE and REFINING of OILS, feel confident they can supply the Trade with the following descriptions of the purest quality, and at lower prices than any that can be brought to this market:—
Extra Clarified Lard Oil
No. 2 do do
Anti-Corrosive Machinery Oil
Elephant do
Bleached Whale do
Clarified Seal do
Also, on hand and for Sale:—
Winter Strained Sperm Oil
Refined Rape Seed do
Pale and Straw Seal do
Whale Cod, and Tanners' do

The extensive demand for, and general use of, their No. 1 Lard Oil, is the best testimonial of its superiority, as a lubricating agent, in Railroad and every other description of Machinery; and, for illuminating, is fully equal to Sperm.

Extraordinary Lawsuit.

Smyth versus Smyth is clearly an illustration of the romance of real life.

The present possessor of the ancestral acres of the Smyths derives his title from his grandmother, the sister of a certain Sir Hugh Smyth, who died in 1824. Sir Hugh was known to be twice married, and to have had no issue in either case. On the death of Sir Hugh, in 1824, his brother Sir John, succeeded to his estates, who, dying in 1849, was succeeded by his sister Florence. The plaintiff claimed possession as a legitimate son of old Sir Hugh by a previous marriage. His mother, he said, died in childbed, and the birth was kept a secret, because the father wished to marry a daughter of the Bishop of Bristol. The plaintiff was, he alleged, sent abroad, and his father made afterwards to believe him dead. The documents brought forward in support of the plaintiff's case were the register of the marriage from an old family Bible—the register of the baptism from the same Bible—a letter from Sir Hugh to the wife just upon the eve of delivery, and deeds made in favour of the present claimant when Sir Hugh was made acquainted with the fact of his existence. It is to be remarked that the signatures to these documents were attested with various degrees of assurance by persons apparently entitled to different grades of credit. One fact was asserted which, although it proves nothing, was calculated to make a remarkable impression. The plaintiff declared that, when in 1849 he communicated to Sir H. Smyth the fact of his being in possession of proof that he was the legal heir, the effect was such that Sir John only survived until the next morning.

The plaintiff's life according to his own statement, which was certainly not very coherent, has been remarkable for its vicissitudes. This statement was to the effect that he remembered being at nurse at the age of three years old, with a woman named Reed, that he was removed from this place by Grace, Sir Hugh's butler; the person who is accused from concealing from Sir Hugh the fact of his son's being alive. After receiving instruction from various quarters, he was entered at Winchester College as a Commoner under Dr. Goddard. His bills not being paid he left Winchester in 1810, and was advised by Dr. Goddard to proceed to London, and call on the Marchioness of Bath, who, with Lady Isabella Thynne, had been accustomed to visit him when a school. The Marchioness refused to give him any information respecting his mother, but put him in possession of a sum of money to the amount of £1,400 or £1,500 in notes, which this he travelled, assumed the profession of a lecturer on education, and afterwards came to Ireland, where he became acquainted with the nature of his claim, and made the communication to the tenant of the estate which was attended with the fatal consequences above alluded to. It is not necessary to follow the plaintiff through a detail of circumstances the falsehood of which became gradually apparent under the searching examination of Sir F. Thesiger. It will be sufficient to proceed at once to the startling termination of one of the most singular cases that has ever been brought into a court of justice. The first decisive blow given to his story was when it was shown that a letter in his handwriting, sealed with the Smyth seal, was dated the 18th of March, he having before sworn that he did not obtain an impression of the seal before the 17th, and had then to get it engraved. What defence he would have made at this point in the evidence it is impossible to say; he turned pale, and requested permission to retire. At this moment, when the skill of the counsel had brought the witness to a stand-still, a mightier power was at hand to crush him with its evidence. While he was uttering his perjuries, in the full persuasion that he should be enabled by their means to commit a gigantic robbery, the lightning was flashing along the wires, and conveying the most incontrovertible proof that his whole story was a fabrication. An electric telegraph message from London brought the news that the police had discovered that the witness had, in January last, applied to an engraver in Oxford, to place the Smyth crest on a ring which he had in his produced as a family relic. The evidence was complete. The criminal was detected. The counsel for the defence was deeply moved. The Court was hushed in silence. All were impressed with the solemnity of the scene. Sir F. Thesiger showed that the witness had been previously found guilty on a charge of forgery, and sentenced to transportation. The counsel for the prosecution threw up his brief, and the detected criminal was committed to gaol to take his trial for forgery and perjury.

Piedmont and Rome.

The Univers of Paris some time ago devoted a leader to a certain tribute due by Piedmont to the Holy See, for the cession by Benedict XIV. of the the feoffs of Cortanze, Cistarna, and Mondoño to Charles Emmanuel III., by a brief of Sept. 2, 1740, the payment of which tribute, it said, had been neglected for the last three years, and was claimed by the Pope at the last procession on St. Peter's day, by an addition introduced into the Latin formula, which is read every year, on that occasion, enumerating the various claims of the Holy See upon foreign potentates. The Univers further expressed its surprise at the Piedmontese papers having been silent on this incident, seeing that the Sardinian ambassador was present at the ceremony. The Opinione of Turin notices this article, and replies that, if the Piedmontese papers had been silent on the subject, it was because they knew nothing at all about it, and could not be expected to be informed of a protest mumbled in bad Latin, in the midst of the noise of a public procession—the more so, as the Univers itself professes not to know the exact terms of the said protest. The Opinione adds, that all it can say on the matter is, that such tribute is not paid now, and that the Sardinian taxpayers have no mind to pay it.

(Correspondence of the Daily News)

ROME, July 24.

For the last few days the Roman police has been actively employed in searching for the deputies of the revolutionary committee, whose presence in the city is commonly reported. Domiciliary visits have been made, and arrests have taken place both in private dwellings and in the streets. When at a loss for precise information, respecting the whereabouts of their prey, the sbirri of Rome have a curious custom of drawing a cordon across some of the most frequented parts of the city, and arresting every passer-by whose visage is not familiar to them, in the hope that this sort of chance fishery may bring some valuable fish into their net. The spot fixed upon in the present instance was the Pantheon Piazza and where fifty or sixty sbirri seemed actuated by a sudden furor against beards, as being republican insignia, and dragged the wearers of them, in company with every one who was not known as a Roman or provided with his papers in due form, to the prisons of Monte Citorio, in the expectation that some revelation might result from the examination of so many different individuals.

But hitherto the police seem only to have got hold of "fine and greasy citizens" in their street hauls, although nocturnal arrests have produced prisoners of a more interesting category, especially in the neighbourhood of the Vicolo Scanderberg and Trajan's column, where Monsignor Matteucci seminaries are said to have tumbled in upon a whole Mazzinian conciliabulus, presided over by a functionary wearing nothing more or less than a priest's garb, and well supplied with proclamations and circulars, which will probably lead to the discovery of that engine which has up to the present moment so much puzzled the bloodhounds of the police office—viz., the Mazzinian printing press.

As long as the party of the republic in Rome was undivided, and well looked upon as the possible means of a return to liberal government, all attempts on the part of the police authorities to discover their places of meeting or their press proved abortive. After the affair of Milan, however, a great split took place between the liberal parties, the majority of whom threw off their allegiance to the committees out of Rome, and joined in what is now termed the "fusion" party, the first for their professed object the acquisition of nationality, the expulsion of foreigners from the soil of Italy, and reserving the discussion of forms of government, whether republican, united or federative, or constitutionally monarchical, until after the accomplishment of this great end. The minority, however, resolved to maintain their principles and their independence, and, according to instructions received from head quarters, re-appointed their leading men, and established a new printing press, the old one having followed the fortunes of the fusionists. From this split appears to have arisen the necessity of action.

It is of course difficult to ascertain whether the principal agents in the proposed outbreak have succeeded in escaping the clutches of the sbirri, but at all events it may be inferred that the government and the French general are so well on their guard at present as to render any attempt at political movement, under existing circumstances, a piece of consummate madness.

The slow progress of the amnesty, or rather of the separate instances of clemency which his Holiness had recently indulged in, has of course been put a sudden stop to by the news of this fresh plot. The ex-triumpher Calandrelli has been finally set at liberty. He left Ancona by the last steamer for Trieste.

Naples, July 24.

Nothing can better illustrate the instability of the Italian despotic thrones than the present state of alarm. Although assured by the Czar that he will get all he desires without war, yet from Tuscany to Sicily the utmost uneasiness is manifested, and the police have fresh material to work upon. It is perfectly well known in Italy, and openly declared in diplomatic circles, that should Russia be obliged to draw the sword, Austria must play her game with the Czar. The plan is to send more Austrian troops into Italy, and immediately any fighting begins in the East, to put all the large Italian towns in a state of siege. The plan belongs also to the Two Sicilies. But there is something more behind all this. If Russia is allowed to hold her ground in the Principalities you will find Austria joining in the occupation, and maturing plans which will affect the whole of Europe. After a time, having with the army of the King of Naples possessed and garrisoned all the strategical points of the Peninsula, Piedmont and Switzerland will be coerced in this way: the press will be desired to be placed under revision; the exiles compelled to leave the country, and Austrian influence permanently established.

Ten houses of papier maché have been made and sent out to Australia, at the order of Mr. Seymour, a gentleman who is about to take up his residence there. They are so well done that it is scarcely possible to imagine that they are other than excellent brick dwellings.

CAPITAL AND LABOUR—POWER MACHINES ON FARMS.—The relations of capital and labour, within a few years, have undoubtedly been greatly changed. The value of money has diminished, both as respects its capacity to purchase other commodities, and to the annual return that it will command in the shape of interest. But while the market rate of discount for good paper on the London market has fallen to 2½ or 3 per cent we hear of strikes for 3s. a day on the part of unskilled labourers, and of wages, even in Ireland, rising to 10s. or 12s. per week, where 9d. a day used to be considered almost a magnificent remuneration. We presume that no one regrets this state of things. It is the business of each individual to keep the expenses of his own house, and of his own business as low as he can, for unless he do so, one can have neither house nor business; but none but the most selfish can regret the changed condition of affairs, which promises to extend the comforts of life to all, who are disposed to work with head or arm. Indeed, the dangers of pauperism to property, both direct and indirect, were so imminent and extensive, that the European possessor of wealth may well congratulate himself at escaping from them, at the expense of a portion of his income, deducted from his dividends but saved in his poor rates. Malthus' anti-population theories have been disproved by facts newly discovered, and the labyrinth, out of which reasoning could find no escape, has been provided with a clue by events which it required explorers, rather than logicians, to bring to light. But, besides this consolation thus afforded to the capitalist, he is not left without direct pecuniary compensations in the course of events. If the value of money has fallen off, and the value of labour has been enhanced, at least the effectiveness of that labour is being constantly increased, so as to diminish the price of almost all articles which he consumes. The development of the powers of steam in all its forms is constantly progressing. He travels by land or sea at much less cost than he did a few years ago. His boots and shoes, his trousers, his shirts and all the other articles of his apparel have applied to their manufacture those mechanical arts, which have already done so much for the cloth and leather and other materials. His window sashes and doors, instead of being made by the slow processes of manual labor, are turned out in countless numbers by the planing mill, so that his house costs far less to build than it would have done under the old regime; while his furniture is now moulded, at slight expense, into beautiful forms, formerly confined to those whose purses could afford to pay a Grinlin Gibbons, or some other equally illustrious sculptor. In all industrial pursuits we have a daily increasing employment of mechanical power, and it is pleasant to see how rapidly the farmers, who have hitherto been, perhaps justly, considered as backward in the march of improvement, are vindicating their proper place among intelligent workers. It is but a very few years ago that we had not a single maker of labor saving agricultural implements in this city; now we have three or four highly respectable establishments, turning out most valuable machines, and having as large a demand as they can supply. At present, we believe, the run is not so large, for obvious reasons, upon instruments for preparing the ground, or for sowing according to the more refined modes of husbandry practised in countries where land is very valuable, as for those which are calculated to save labor in securing and preparing the crop. Threshing machines are probably the leading article; but in a recent journey through a portion of the Townships, we noticed several horse scythes, and especially horse rakes. This saving of labor is a great point to which attention must now be directed. California and Australia will prevent wages from falling to the point at which they once were, but the application of mechanical science will render one man capable of producing the effect of ten or twenty by the old methods. This application is capable of being wonderfully extended. A horse power from Mr. Paige, or the Messrs. Smith, intended primarily for a threshing machine, might be made to saw out posts and rails for fences, or planks for buildings, by a feading baud going over a drum fixed upon the axle of an appropriate saw. Firewood might be cut in the same way; water drawn, if wanted in large quantities for domestic purposes, for cattle or for irrigation; clothes might be washed; and milk churned without manual labor. Probably a farmer at a distance from a mill might in some instances grind his own grain, and that of his neighbours, by the same contrivance; a country blacksmith, in any village where he could obtain a pair of horses, might possess a trip hammer, and so on, through the whole catalogue of rural operations. We mention some examples of cases which occur to us, probably not all those in which the employment of this power would be most important; but, generally, it might be usefully brought into play, wherever any work is to be performed by continuous labour, or by the frequent repetition of a similar act, as of a blow with a cutting, or any other kind of tool. No doubt, many applications of this motor will be suggested, as machinery becomes more familiar to the rural population; but for sawing in which, it has not, we think, been hitherto very largely used, it seems invaluable and would enable the farmer to provide many accommodations for himself and his cattle, which he at present cannot afford.—We presume the cost of a frame, with a saw fit for the application of the horse power, even for logs of considerable size, would not be very expensive; at any rate, there cannot be a doubt that there is ample room for the extension of the employment of these valuable machines, and we shall be glad if these few observations should direct the attention of those interested to the subject.

SEIGNORIAL TENURE.—It will be seen that the friends of the abolition of the Seigniorial Tenure are called to meet at the Institut Canadien in the course of a few days. In the meantime, we observe that meetings have been held at several places in the country, by way of renewing the agitation on the subject, and of stimulating public men to exertion. We do not observe that any remarkable expression of opinion has taken place at these meetings. The resolutions passed at them seem merely to declare the hostility of the people to the tenure, without giving any sign of their approbation or disapprobation of the measure of last session. Nor does it appear whether they prefer the absolute or the gradual abolition, with a definition of the rights of the parties in the meantime. Probably something more will be known on this subject after the meeting on the 1st September. In Montreal, at the requisition of Messrs. Valois, Beaudry, Labadie, Dorion and Bleau, the Mayor has called a meeting of constituents for the 31st instant, in the City Concert Hall.

QUEEN VICTORIA AND THE EASTERN QUESTION. The English papers contain some decorous and mysterious hints of the part which Her Majesty and Prince Albert has taken in this question, the explanation of which is a general impression that the Court has taken a part much more favorable to Russia than the views of the nation would warrant. It is believed that means have been found of reaching the Queen personally, through the Princess of Olga and the ladies in her suite, and that the interest of the House of Cobourg has been very much considered in the reluctance shown by the British Cabinet to take warlike measures. The Examiner, one of the best of the weeklies, says that Prince Albert may now head the Peace Society, and several of the other journals have intimations pointing in the same direction.

MR. EGAN, AND THE BYTOWN SURVEYOR OF TIMBER LICENSES.—Mr. Russell the Surveyor of Licenses at Bytown having been long away from that place, the Citizen has complained bitterly of his absence, which it imputed to Mr. Egan. This led to a correspondence between the latter gentleman and Mr. Drummond, who writes as follows:—

MY DEAR SIR,—Having seen with much annoyance the assertion made by the Editor of the Ottawa Citizen, in his issue of the 20th instant, to the effect that you were instrumental in removing Mr. Russell from the Crown Timber Office at Bytown, I deem it my duty to declare that you were one of the first to remonstrate against Mr. Russell being removed from that important office, and that in truth his removal has not been determined upon, Mr. Russell being at the present moment engaged in a temporary service, for the performance of which his extensive knowledge of the country and wide experience render him peculiarly adapted.

I may also add, that care will be taken that the interest of the Ottawa lumberers shall not be allowed to suffer from Mr. Russell's temporary absence.

EXCURSION TO PORTLAND.—Several of our friends returned on Thursday evening from the "seaboard terminus" of the St. Lawrence and Atlantic Railroad, and they are all eloquent in extolling the good folks of Portland, for the hearty welcome extended to every visitor from Montreal. The numbers fall far short of what was anticipated, there being only about 700 or 750 persons, while from 1200 to 1500 were expected; and there was considerable disappointment in consequence, as comfortable quarters had been volunteered and tables spread for all the members of the Institute, with their families, at the homes—the happy homes, (long may they continue so,) of their mechanic brethren of Maine.

From the arrival of the first instalment of the party till our informant left, the "Union Jack" and "Star Spangled Banner" were suspended by one strong cord, and floated side by side in the sea breeze, from the highest window of the City Hall, which with the reading room, were placed at the disposal of the strangers during their sojourn in the city, and it is, without exception, [illegible] ever received.

Although wet and stormy on the evening of the excursion, a social meeting, called for the purpose of bringing together the members of both societies, with their families, for an interchange of sentiment, and which went off most happily, yet yesterday morning, when the train left, the weather was "all that the heart could wish," promising much for the comfort and enjoyment of those who could remain for the excursion among the islands in the bay—365 in number. The splendid steamer "Atlantic" was chartered for the occasion by the Portland M. C. Association, for the benefit of "our Montreal friends," so that they might not only see but enjoy the luxury of a sail on the ocean.

We received several of the morning papers of Thursday, which we hereby acknowledge, and have much pleasure in transferring to our columns, from the State of Maine, the following:—

SOCIAL FESTIVAL.—The members of the Montreal Mechanics' Institute accepted an invitation of the Portland Mechanics' Association for a social union at the City Hall last evening. The meeting was a most agreeable affair throughout.

Harris C. Barnes, Esq., President of the Portland Association, and Mr. Bulmer, of Montreal, jointly officiated and occupied seats together, Mr. Jewett of Portland, and Mr. Murray of Montreal, acted as Secretaries.

Mr. Bulmer was officially introduced by the President to the members of the Association, and replied in a very neat and appropriate speech, expressing in behalf of his brethren their good will and kind regards to the mechanics of Portland and the State of Maine.

John T. Walton, Esq., followed in a short and happy speech responsive to the remarks of Mr. Bulmer.

Speeches followed from Mr. Murray, Major Lachlan, Mr. Hicker, Mr. A. Perry and Dr Bernard of Montreal, and by Charles Holden of Portland. Mr. Perry is the builder of the fire engine that took the prize at the World's Fair in London, in 1851.

Mr. Mackay, of Montreal, spoke in visiting the Eastern Cemetery, and seeing the monuments erected to the memory of Com. Blythe and Lieut. Burroughs, who fell in the sea fight between the Enterprise and the Boxer, and suggested that the two Associations should rebuild or repair them.

A motion to this effect was made by C. Holden of Portland, and unanimously adopted. After various other motions were talked over, they unanimously voted to adjourn to the Steamer Eastern Queen, where the collation was in most agreeable one. The Hall was crowded. The ladies seemed to be in numbers nearly equal to the men, and their presence gave an agreeable and dignified tone to all the proceedings.

On the whole the occasion was one of unusual interest to all.

MCGILL COLLEGE.—Observing lately in the the columns of a contemporary, an enquiry as to what was doing to place this institution on an efficient footing, we took the trouble of making some enquiries on the subject, and learned with pleasure that the Governors have their arrangements in a forward state for commencing a session early in November. Several appointments to Chairs have lately been made—Dr. Leach among others. Dr. Leach to that of Logic, Moral Philosophy and Rhetoric; Dr. Davies to Classics; William Andrews, Esq., Mathematics and Natural Philosophy; H. A. Howe, Esq., (Rector of the High School,) History, Ancient and Modern; the Rev. M. DeSola, Hebrew and Oriental Literature; M. Margraf, French and German Literature. In addition to these, we should like to see a Chair set apart for Civil Engineering and Architecture.

We learn that the Governors of the College have placed at the disposal of the Governor General sixteen scholarships, of which seven are to be taken from Montreal and the Ottawa, four from Three Rivers and St. Francis, and five from Quebec and Gaspé. The young gentlemen who shall be presented to these Scholarship will be required to stand an examination as to their competency, previous to being admitted to the College course.

THEATRE ROYAL—LAST NIGHT OF THE SEASON.—This being the last night of the season, the performances are for the benefit of one to whom the play-going portion of our community owe many a pleasant evening of refined and intellectual enjoyment—MR. Buckland, the enterprising and justly popular lessee of the Theatre. We need not tell those acquainted with such matters, and with the difficulties with which previous lessees and managers have had to contend with in our city, the risk of loss which Mr. Buckland incurred on opening our beautiful Theatre, two years ago; and we can only attribute it to his indefatigable attention to his multifarious duties behind the curtain, to the admirable selection of artistic talent displayed before it, to the uniform classic purity of the performances—the masterpieces of Shakespeare and of the leading modern dramatists—, and to his thus elevating the dramatic taste of the community, that he has secured so fair an amount of support, as to leave him, we trust, at all events, no loser by the estimate he had formed of the intellectual wants and requirements of our citizens and their families.

We are well aware that dramatic entertainments are considered immoral in their tendency, by many whose opinions, in other respects, are deserving of respect and consideration. In this matter, however, we believe them to be in error. In the first place, we fear their dislike to theatres prevents their having any precise information on the subject, and that their sweeping condemnation of them is the result of prejudice, and not of observation; and, secondly, that they argue against the ill of the acted drama, not only as an intellectual amusement, but as a valuable means of improving society in morals and refinement, from its notorious abuse in times past. The truth is, that the acted drama, like the written manuscript or the printed book, has no moral or immoral tendency inherent in it, irrespective of the principles and sentiments inculcated upon the spectator in the one case, upon the reader in the other; and a well-managed theatre, such as ours, under Mr. Buckland, we have no hesitation in saying—and we say it boldly, must ever prove a powerful aid to the moralist, and an effective means of refining the manners, and elevating the tastes of the public, as old Randolph, in vindication of his art, quaintly says:—

"——— On the stage,
We sat an usurer to tell his age;
How ugly looks his soul: a prodigal
Is taught by us how far from liberal
His folly bears him. Boldly, I dare say,
There has been more by us in some one play
Laugh'd into wit, and virtue than hath been
By twenty tedious lectures drawn from sin,
And foppish humours; hence the cause doth rise
Men are not won by the ears, so well as eyes.

With these few remarks, we invite our play-going friends to give Mr. Buckland by their presence to-night, a substantial and unmistakeable evidence that they justly appreciate his unwearied and so far, we feel sure, they will acknowledge, perfectly successful efforts, to render the Montreal Theatre eminently worthy of their support and patronage. We refer them to the advertisement for the programme of the evening's entertainment.

HIGH SCHOOL.—We understand that the new Classes have been formed for the year. Parents who are anxious that their sons should have the advantage of a solid education in all its branches should not delay placing them in this Institution.

CURIOUS CIRCUMSTANCE.—Two canoes descended from Crown Point, on Lake Champlain, last Saturday, each having an Indian and a squaw on board. On arriving at St. Athanase on Sunday, one of the Indians, a man of about sixty and of a different tribe from the other, was brought on shore dead. The squaw in the other canoe Indian and the squaw is that when at Isle aux Noix, the Indian rose once or twice in his canoe, and then dropped down dead. One of the squaws was disposed to be communicative, telling French, but was checked by the other in the Indian tongue. They said he had had fever and ague for a fortnight. But the corpse was plump and healthy-looking. He was buried in the church yard at St. Athanase.—Montreal Gazette, yesterday.

BUTCHERS' SHOPS AT PEKIN.—I observed a great number of butchers' shops, whose mode of cutting up their meat resembles our own; nor can the markets of London boast a better supply of flesh than is to be found in Pekin. But they sell it cooked as well as raw; and on my entering the shop I saw on a stall before it an earthen stove, with a gridiron placed upon it; and on my employing a variety of signs to obtain the information I sought, the butcher speedily cut off small thin slices of meat, about the size of a crown piece, which he broiled as fast as I could eat them. I took about a dozen of these slices, which might altogether weigh about seven or eight ounces; and when I paid him, which I did by giving him a string of small coins, he pulled off, as I suppose, the amount of his demand. I saw numbers of people in other butchers' shops as I passed along, regaling themselves with beef and mutton in the same manner.—The Englishman in China.

An English gentleman, Mr. Sayle, while travelling in Italy, gathered a fine lot of ancient coins and medals which an ignorant Austrian official took for revolutionary tokens. He was arrested, but was soon liberated.

EXCURSION TO PORTLAND.

[FOR THE MONTREAL HERALD.]

SIR,—Allow me through your valuable journal to give a short account of a flying visit to the beautiful and healthy town of Portland. On Monday morning last, in company with some—I regret to say that I cannot say many—of the members of the Mechanic's Institute and their families. We, that means my wife and self, and you will pardon me if I continue to use the pronoun throughout—left the ferry for Longueuil at half-past seven. The morning was dry, but after the rain of the preceding night, the sky had rather a watery appearance, which no doubt kept back some timid ones. A few minutes before 8 the Iron Horse started with five or six cars (not one-third of those which had been provided) and in twenty minutes after we reached the St. Hilaire Station, which we soon left with the beautiful mountains of Belœril behind us, going through a splendid farming district which if we remembered aright used to be called the "Garden of Lower Canada."

At ¾ past eight, we got to St. Hyacinthe, which seems to be a pretty and flourishing town. Shortly after leaving it we crossed the Yamaska River, where the road runs through a fine forest for about 30 miles; it was rather mountainous, but as the road is good the high lands and fine scenery of Richmond and Melbourne soon opened to the view. We left Richmond a little after ten, and thirty-five minutes after reached the fine and pretty town of Sherbrooke. The road between the two last places runs alongside of the small but beautiful river St. Francis, which is so serpentine that we crossed it several times. It is rapid and rocky at places, and here and there dotted with many small islands. After losing sight of the river we passed Lennoxville, Compton and the Coaticooke Station.

Though the road is a little rough as it is not yet ballasted, we came to the Province line at half-past 12, here there is is a large clearing on each side, and the line is distinctly seen, there seems to be plenty of granite in the neighborhood, some of it having all the appearance of cut stone.

At quarter past 1 we arrived at Island Pond where there is a large bay and saw mill, and in the Station house there were dinners to table laid out, but as most of the Company had come prepared with eatables, very few dined. After changing cars, we started at a quarter to 2 for Portland, both road and scenery are very good, high Mountains on each side, with a little river on the right where the road opens up in large ponds, with saw mills and no scarcity of Timber and Lumber, in which the country abounds. To the left we soon perceived [illegible] past 2,) two high peaks of [illegible] shire with a forest of living green to near appearance of crying, whistling, etc. Almost all the human passions were thus successively pourtrayed upon the dead corpse, to the extreme horror of the bystanders.

An inquest was held by Mr. Coroner Benson, and a verdict rendered in accordance with the facts.—Kingston News, Aug. 24.

LOWER PROVINCES.

LUNCH ON BOARD THE U. S. STEAMSHIP PRINCETON.—Commodore Shubrick, Captain Eagle, and the Officers of the U. S. Steamship Princeton, gave an excellent Lunch on board that fine vessel on Saturday, to a large Company,—including the elite, Naval, Military, Civil, and Corporate. The afternoon was passed with Waltz, Gallopade, and Quadrille, the young Middies, and grave Officials, of both Services—American and British—outvieing each other in those polite exercises which give grace and ease. An excellent lunch, with viands abundant, and wines o'flowing, under the direction of Waterfield, was discussed by the hundreds present, in manner most social—the officers of the Princeton distinguishing themselves by their hospitality. We never enjoyed ourselves so much in any company, and are gratified to note, as among those present, Sir George Seymour and daughters, General Gore, lady and daughters, Colonel Bazalgette and family, and such a sprinkling of Engineers, Highlanders, and naval "laddies," as gave an "eclat" and recherche appearance to the whole gathering. Commodore Shubrick, Captain Eagle, and the officers of the Princeton have done themselves much honor in the eyes of the Nova Scotians who participated in their hospitalities,—may prosperous breezes accompany all their voyaging, and liberal principles guide their councils, in whatever position the rights of the nation they honor, be involved.

Of the citizens present, we may note the Hon. Mr. Howe, His Worship the Mayor, and members of the leading Press—Mr. Fuller and other American gentlemen, entitled to the hospitalities of the generous Commodore, and those under his command. The Company adjourned at 6 p.m., being conveyed on shore by the Princeton's boats.—Halifax Sun, 15th August.

UNITED STATES.

THE MOVEMENTS OF THE WORLD.—The apparent course of the sun is from East to West. The revolutions of the earth are from West to East. The tides of the ocean roll round the globe from East to West. The great trade winds take the same course. The course of empire, when Columbus launched his little bark upon the waves to find the balance of the world, he set his prow nearly due West.

The commercial circulation of the world is from East to West, and from West to East, in a great tide of immigration, now swelling and surging over this globe, rolls undeviatingly from the East to the West. All the active circulation of the world has its great general course from East to West, or West to East. The general direction of our steamships, our commercial navy, and that of all other nations, is over oceans and seas, still East and West, or meeting the returning tide, from West to East. The continent of North America lies directly in the pathway of this great world's circulation. It must be crossed. Nothing can stop this Western and Eastern flood since our great lines of Railways, the main trunks, lie across the continent. The Pacific Railroad, now rapidly tending to a fixed fact, is but carrying out this great involuntary movement of the world. And direct lines are now called for from East to West, and the reverse. Hence the straightening of old lines and the establishment of new ones. And here comes the inevitable necessity of "Air Lines." The most direct route between any two points of this great Eastern and Western flood will be sought, will be constructed, and will be successful.—Once it was thought that a Railroad might take a zig-zag, snake-like direction, from city to city, from one village to another, and all was right because it accommodated somebody. These counter, devious, rambling lines, are all useful, all wanted, and will repay it in part for their construction. But the one course, the air line, tending from East to West will move this great flood of humanity and matter on its course around the world, and become the arteries of the globe.

We rejoice, therefore, when we hear of Air Lines of Railroads. Not that other lines are to be injured, for this will not be the case, but that greater ends, and greater objects are to be accomplished, by direct and straight lines.

The term "Air Line," was first applied to a Railroad in derision. It was at once adopted by the road thus stigmatized, and an "Air Line" is now understood to be the most direct route that it is possible to obtain for a railroad, between two given points. An "Air Line" is not supposed to be entirely free from curves or grades, but that upon such lines, a high rate of speed is attainable, with the most perfect safety possible in rapid locomotion.

The Air Line Road now in process of construction between New York and Boston, is the first and the most important of this class of roads. It is a link in that great central chain of artificial circulation, which is setting with its strong and irresistible current, from east to west, and from west to east. This road will save over 25 miles travel in the distance between these two great cities. This 25 miles in time, is one hour. When 2000 persons pass over such a road in one day, it is a saving of 2000 hours, more than eighty days! almost three months saved in a single day by the passengers on one railroad! A saving also of more than $1000 dollars per day is made by these 2000 persons. Then take into the account the exemption from the usual amount of risk to life and limb, which is encountered on our ordinary roads, the increased care and comfort, and then multiply all the advantages by 313 of travelling days per annum, and the result to the 2000 travellers is immense.

The account would stand thus: The 2000 persons, in the aggregate saved in travelling between Boston and New York, in one day, 200,000 miles in distance, nearly a quarter of a year in time, and 1000 dollars in cash.

If this is repeated 313 times in a year, it saves 15,650,000 miles travel,
75 years of time,
$313,000 in Cash!—Portland, State of Maine

EXTRAORDINARY SALE OF CATTLE, &c.—The Northern Kentucky Importing Association of breeders, had an auction sale of their pure blooded short horned stock, purchased in England in 1853, at the farm of Brutus Clay, of Bourbon County, Kentucky, on the 18th day of August, 1853. The Association is a Kentucky one, and the purchasers were put under obligations not to remove the stock from that State for one year. With this limitation, the sale was well attended, and the bidding spirited.

The Comet, of which notice was given yesterday, has been observed for several successive evenings by gentlemen and ladies in this city. It is visible for two hours, from starlight till about 9 o'clock, P.M., and can be first observed about 20 deg. above the horizon, in nearly a westerly direction. Mr. Bond thus describes it:—

"Its nucleus is of the brightness of a star of the third magnitude—a tail of two or three degs. in length can also be distinguished, extending upward. This interesting object has been observed by Astronomers for one or two months past, during which time it has been gradually increasing in brightness. Its distance from the sun is now thirty millions of miles; but from the earth it is two or three times more remote."—Albany Argus.

A NONGETTER'S WEDDING.—A successful Australian digger—successful, not merely in sittings and washings, but bearing the title, and its best credentials of a "nuggetter" came down from Creek lately, and took up his abode in a low lodging-house in Little Bourke-street, Melbourne. The "nuggetter" had been a common labourer. * * The woman of the house had an impudent, vulgar, flat, flashy daughter, who would have been downright ugly, but for a pair of great leering eyes of considerable brilliancy, with which she had already charmed half the gold away from several sailors in turn, each of whom had made sure of marrying her. But the "nuggeter" cut them all out. He displayed his bag of nuggets, and next morning showed his bundle of £10 Australian notes; and, after a brawl, a fight, and a drunken row of a few hours, he married the girl, and took her to furnished lodgings, nominally at only five guineas a week, but in the people were sure of getting double or treble that sum out of the newly married pair. * * Neither he, nor his wife, nor any of their circle, were ever sober from the day of their wedding. They ate, they drank, they smoked, they shouted, they brawled —they made riot half the night—they slept half the morning; and about noon they drove about the town in open carriages, for each of which they paid £2 per hour. First, there was the carriage with the bride and bridegroom, a male and female friend—the women being dressed in the most expensive satins and silks, and flying ribbons, and the men in scarlet mining shirts, carriages followed, full of parasite friends and associates, several of whom had been "engaged" for the occasion to amuse the company during the drive, and in the evening especially. They comprised fiddlers, dancers, ventriloquists, and sailors who could sing jolly songs; while the clown from the circus, in his clown's dress, sat in a fourth carriage, the back seat of which he had entirely to himself, partly as a mark of honour, and partly to give him room to perform an occasional antic or gesticulation as the cortège rattled through the streets. When the bride was sober enough to walk pretty well she would go out shopping; and no silk nor satin that cost less than a guinea a yard was good enough for the "nuggetter" to wear. As soon as she got a new dress made up, she sallied out to market, and bought fish in red velvet, and went to the butcher's in lavender satin, or black Chi na crape. All this the writer has seen. How the lady dressed in the mornings, I do not know; nor, I know, did she. At last the money was all gone, having lasted not quite a fortnight. The digger had come to Melbourne with a good deal, but "somehow or another," he said, scratching his head, "there was an end on't. But what matters?" He has now gone back to the diggings, and his wife has no place to go to. A common occurrence, all these mad weddings believe me.—Dickens.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

The passenger receipts of the Washington and Saratoga Road for the first fifteen days of August were.....8,342 67
Same time, 1852.....6,110 96

Increase 35 ⅌ cent.....$2,231 71

This increase has been made under a reduction of fare to $3 from Montreal to New York, showing that low fares are not inconsistent with increased gains. Passengers by this line are taken from Montreal to Boston, via Stonington for $5, having half a day in which only to visit the Crystal Palace, and are then landed in Boston nearly as soon as those who go direct.

Imports by the Champlain and St. Lawrence Railroad.
