BOURASSA WORKING HARD IN BELLECHASSE

Addressing Meetings Day and Night—Campaign Going on Briskly and Bourassa Meeting with Success

DEJARDINS HEARD FROM

(Special to Chronicle.)
St. Charles, Bellechasse, Oct. 29.—
Mr. Henri Bourassa held two meetings to-day in the county. The first this morning at St. Cajetan d'Armagh, after the High Mass. The ex-member for Labelle had to meet Mr. O. E.
Talbot, the Ottawa member for Belle-chasse.

Both were applauded, but the eloquent candidate of independent Liberalism had, certainly the best of it. If Mr. Talbot is popular, Mr. Bourassa is eloquent, and there is nothing else
to be said about the meeting.

About 900 electors were present and it was evident that the ex-member for Labelle had many sympathizers.

The second meeting of Mr. Bourassa was held in St. Philomena to-night. He had another big success, several hundred electors being present.

Mr. Bourassa is continuing his reform campaign all through the county.
A few more friends from Quebec and Montreal joined the Bourassa battalion to-night.

Hon. Mr. Turgeon arrived in St.
Charles to-night, accompanied by Messrs. D. A. Lafortune, K.C., A. H.
Tanner, advocate, from Montreal, J.
E. Caron, M.L.A., L. J. Gauthier,
M.L.A.

Mr. Armand Lavergne arrived tonight also accompanied by many friends, amongst whom were Mr.
Thomas Duchaine, Mr. J. E. Ladou-ceur, advocate, from Joliette, and Alderman A. Huard.

The county is full of newspaper men, all looking for news and for sensations. Mr. Turgeon is looking for his organization, while Mr.
Bourassa is addressing electors day
and night.

It will be the result of this famous campaign is still a mystery. Both are confident of the judgment of the electors.

A new electoral paper, La Mitraille, has been distributed to all the Belle-chasse electors. The new organ is certainly not in favor of the Minister of Lands and Forests. It contains the most sensational articles by well-known Canadian journalists, who are adversaries to the Honorable Mr.
Turgeon.

The effect of the cable from Mr.
Dejardins is not yet apparent among the electors, as they do not know anything about it, but it is certain that the Turgeon party will make a big thing of it. There is much doubt as to the probable effect of this message, and nobody knows if it will have any effect on the public or influence its mind.

The election campaign is going on briskly. Turgeon is organizing, Bour-assa is preaching sincerity. The first is popular, the second has every day more sympathizers. That is the news in a nut shell.

each seemed satisfied with the result of the day's proceedings. Mr. Sevigny and his supporters contended that the contest was not so much of a straight party fight, but a contest of sound public opinion—Conservatives and independent Liberals protesting against maladministration at Quebec. Mr. Sevigny declared that he only consented to become a candidate when assured that the Conservative support with the Hon. Mr. Leblanc, and the Independent Liberal backing of Mr. Bourassa were with him in the fight for honest administration of the affairs of this province.

DESJARDINS, BELGIAN CAPITALIST,
AND ABITIBI LAND DEAL

At a recent political meeting held in Sherbrooke, Mr. Laflamme, according to the Montreal Star, made certain charges against Hon. Messrs.
Gouin and Turgeon, in relation to the Abitibi land transactions, so often referred to by Messrs. Bourassa, Laflamme and others. After reading the article in question Premier Gouin wrote the following letter to Mr. Dejardins:—

Prime Minister's Office, Province of Quebec,
Quebec, 16th October, 1907.
Mr. F. Dejardins,
104 Rempart des Beguines,
Antwerp.

Dear Mr. Dejardins.—You are aware no doubt of the slanderous campaign which has been carried on against our Government since the Baron de L'Epine gave his evidence in the Prevost-Asselin case. I therefore go straight to the point without other preamble.

Until, within the last few days, our political adversaries had not dared to accuse me personally. But as you can observe by the report of the newspaper herewith enclosed, it is now pretended that I discussed with you the payment of an electoral subscription. Such an accusation is naturally prejudicial and I cannot content myself by treating it with contempt. This is why I write to request you to read the report in question and to state if, everwhere, an electoral subscription or anything of that nature was in question between you and me.

I regard you, my dear Mr. Dejardins, as a man of honor and this is why I put this question to you in all confidence, being convinced that you will give me a categorical reply that will leave room neither for ambiguity nor for equivocation.

I shall be very much obliged to you if you will cable me immediately and at my expense your reply, no matter
how long it may be, and to confirm it by letter.

Please accept, dear Mr. Dejardins, the expression of my most respectful sentiments.

(Signed) LOMER GOUIN.

Yesterday morning Premier Gouin
received the following reply from Mr.
Dejardins:—

Antwerp, 29th October, 1907.
Hon. Lomer Gouin, Prime Minister,
Quebec.

Having read in the Montreal Daily
Star, of the 14th October, the summary of a speech by Mr. Laflamme, I deem it my duty to protest against the accusations which it contains and to energetically affirm that in my negotiations with you or with the Hon.
Adelard Turgeon, the two only Ministers with whom I had relations on the subject of the Abitibi, there never was a question of an electoral fund or subscription or anything thereto approaching and that there also never was the slightest allusion made thereto.

(Signed) FERNAND DEJARDINS.

SHAM FIGHT ABANDONED

Montreal, Oct. 29.—The big sham fight which was proposed to be held in Montreal on Thanksgiving Day has been called off.

RECEPTION TO MR. BORDEN

Ottawa, Oct. 29.—The Conservative Association of Ottawa will some time towards the last of next month at the Russell theatre tender Mr. B. L. Borden, leader of the Opposition, a public reception, at which he and Mr. J.
G. H. Bergeron, M.P. for Beauharnois,
Quebec, will be the principal speakers.

LONDON ELECTION

Government Fears Justified— Sweeping Majority for the Conservative Candidate

London, Ont., Oct. 29.—One of the quietest elections in the history of London was contested here to-day to fill the seat made vacant by the resignation of Hon. Mr. Hyman. The vote was a small one, and in some divisions less than half the votes were polled. Following is the result by wards:—

Wards	Beattie	Jacobs	Beattie, maj.
1.....	798	511	277
2.....	605	429	186
3.....	801	633	168
4.....	1,005	600	405
Total.....	3,209	2,173	1,036

Majority for Major Beattie is 1,036.
Total number of votes cast, 5,382.

Although the election of Mr. Beattie was expected the majority came as a complete surprise to the citizens in general.

Mount Forest, Ont., Oct. 29.—The bye-election in North Wellington to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late member, Mr. Thomas Martin, was contested by Mr. A. M. Martin, a brother of the deceased member, for the Liberal party, and by Mr. Alex. Hamilton for the Conservative party, and resulted in the election of Mr. A. M. Martin by a majority of 387.

Campbellford, Ont., Oct. 29.—The election in East Northumberland to fill the seat left vacant by the death of the late Conservative member, Mr.
Edward Cochrane, was held to-day and resulted in the election by the majority of 256 of the Conservative candidate, Mr. C. L. Owens. The Liberal candidate was Major Mulholland.
Both candidates are residents of Campbellford. The town of Campbellford and the adjoining townships
of Seymour furnished the bulk of Mr.
Owens' majority, Campbellford giving a majority of 84 and Seymour a majority of 93 for the Conservative candidate.

RUSSIAN ELECTION

St. Petersburg, Oct. 29.—The first set of the final elections of members of the third Russian Parliament from St. Petersburg has been completed.
The results of the later elections are conceded to be much more favorable to the Constitutional Democrats and other opposition parties, but not enough to alter fundamentally the conservative nature of the third parliament.

A MISSING SHIP

New York, Oct. 29.—Members of the Maritime Exchange to-day felt some concern over the absence of news from the full rigged ship Arthur Sewall, which sailed from Philadelphia on April 3rd for Seattle with a crew of forty men under command of Captain Jeffrey. In ordinary weather the ship would have reached Seattle in four months, but is now 218 days out.
Several American sailing vessels which left port about the same time as the Arthur Sewall encountered stormy weather. The Sewall had a cargo of coal for the use of the navy on the Pacific.

AN ESCAPED TRAIN ROBBER

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 29.—Bill Miner,
the American train robber, who escaped from the penitentiary at New Westminster, is believed to be a fugitive in the fastnesses to the northeast of Prince Albert. Miner is said to have been seen making for the hills.
He was armed heavily and those who saw him are reasonably sure of his identity. The commanding officer at Prince Albert sent orders to Corp.
Morday, who is on the detachment at Cumberland House, to proceed to the Pass and capture Miner dead or alive.
The corporal left for the scene of his investigations a week ago.

A FRAUDULENT ENTERPRISE

New York, Oct. 29.—Jas. E. Lytle, the alleged promoter of the now defunct Automatic Needle Company of this city, and the Self-Threading Needle Company of Minneapolis, was arrested here to-day, charged with grand larceny in connection with sales of the stocks of these companies. He was held in $15,000 bail for examination Thursday. The complainant is S. S. Smart, a wire fence manufacturer of Bayonne, N.J., who alleges that he was induced by Lytle to purchase $2,000 worth of stock in the Automatic Needle Co. and subsequently discovered that certain patents of the company had been transferred to the Self-Threading Needle Co. In asking for large bail complainant's counsel said he also represented a score of stockholders in the two companies and that charges of grand larceny had also been preferred against Lytle in Minneapolis. He intimated that other arrests would be secured. According to the police memorandum on the case,
Vice-President Nelson W. Clark, of the Self-Threading Company, who had innocently invested in the enterprise, committed suicide following the recent failure of the Minneapolis concern.
Lytle, who is 40 years old, had desk
room in a Pine street office.

ABEL ATTELL WON

Los Angeles, Oct. 29.—Abe Attell tonight won from Fred Weeks, of Cripple Creek, in the 4th round of a scheduled 20-round contest for the featherweight championship. The title holder was a two to one favorite in the betting. He knocked Weeks down five times in the fourth round and the referee stopped the fight.

The British mails on this side on November 15, among the passengers who will sail on the Ireland on Friday, for Liverpool, are Earl and Countess Standbrooke, Lord and Lady Hindlip, the Misses Laurie, daughters of General Laurie, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Macmaster, and Major-General Buckle, of London. STRUCK A SHOAL.
Parry Sound, Ont., Oct. 29.—The steamer City of Meaford has reached here with the passengers of the steamer Mabel Bradshaw, which ran on a shoal last night near Twin Islands, Shawagans, about thirty miles north. The Mabel Bradshaw is a passenger and freight steamer of 285 tons, owned by Captain Clelland, and plys between Collingwood and Sault Ste. Marie, taking in the ports on the east and north shore of the Georgian Bay. She left here with a full cargo of freight and about twenty passengers on Saturday evening on her up trip and ran on at full speed being slightly out of her course. The distress whistle was heard by the Meaford, which immediately went to the assistance of the stranded steamer, and succeeded in taking the passengers off without accident. The Bradshaw is said to be leaking badly from a hole in her hull, but an attempt is now being made to float her.

STEAMER AGROUND.
Sarnia, Ont., Oct. 29.—The steamer Cumberland, of the Gilchrist Line, up-bound, with coal, met with an accident to her steering gear when opposite Point Edward this afternoon, and grounded on the Canadian shore. She is now awaiting another steamer of the same line to pull her off the banks.

FISHING CRUISER ASHORE.
Goderich, Ont., Oct. 29.—The Canadian Government fishing cruiser Laurier, in making shelter at this harbor last night, about 7 o'clock, ran hard and fast on a submerged breakwater, which is in course of construction at the mouth of the harbor here. Local tugs tried to get her off last night, but without success. The Reid Wrecking Company's tugs were wired for, but were unable to reach here in time to be of any assistance. The furnishings were taken off to-day and the boat abandoned. The boat was recently purchased from Hiram Walker, of Walkerville, and fitted up for a fishing cruiser and was on the way to Georgian Bay ports. Her captain did not know of the breakwater.

TENTH ANNUAL CRUISE TO THE MEDITERRANEAN
Many Great Advantages Are Offered on the Trip.
(From N.Y. Globe, October 21, 1907.)
One of the most comprehensive and attractive trips leaving the United States this winter is Clark's tenth annual cruise to the Mediterranean and the Orient, leaving New York Feb. 6, 1908, by the specially chartered steamer Arabia. The Arabia is one of the largest and finest and steadiest steamers in the world, and is specially adapted for a cruise of this kind, where the steamer is practically one's home for several weeks. A discriminating portion of the travelling public has long been familiar with the many great advantages offered by these cruises, and by its patronage has shown its appreciation.

Among the many places to be visited are Madeira, Cadiz, Seville, Granada, and the Alhambra, Jerusalem, Alexandria, Cairo, the Nile, Naples, Pompeii, Rome, Nice, Monte Carlo, etc.

The duration of the cruise is seventy days and the price is from $400 up to $975, according to location of staterooms, etc. The rate, however, includes shore expenses, excursions, hotels, carriage drives, guides etc. The arrangements throughout on land and on sea will be of the highest class.

PHOENIX PAPERS ARE OVERHAULED

Bridge Commission Spent a Whole Day on This Work

REFUTE COOPER'S EVIDENCE

Bridge Company's Engineers Say Disaster Was Caused by Too Light Weight of Steel.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 29.—The correspondence, letter books and papers of the Phoenix Bridge Company received a thorough overhauling at the hands of the Quebec Bridge Commission on Saturday, when the members and their stenographers spent the whole day in picking out matter referring to the building of the Quebec structure which might be of value to them in their work.

In this, they were given every assistance by the company's office staff, and many documents were found that will help to unravel the mystery. Letters and papers dating back for several years to the time when the Phoenix Company first became interested in the building of the bridge, were taken and will be used for reference in the coming investigation here.

The Phoenix officials say that among these letters, are many bearing on the change in the length of the span to 1800 feet, and others that will disprove in the main the most sensational part of Mr. Cooper's evidence. The correspondence relating to the lightening of the floor system too, was put on file, showing, it is claimed, that this change was made so as to bring the cost of the structure within the financial strength of the company.

As stated in Mr. Cooper's testimony, these letters point out that, for every pound of extra material put into this floor system, from four to five extra pounds would have to be added to the structure to make it safe.

It is pointed out by the engineers who have suffered under the scathing criticism of Mr. Cooper, that the steel weight of steel in the lower chords, and they maintain that, if Mr. Cooper's letter writing had been devoted to obtaining more instead of less weight, the bridge might not now be lying at the bottom of the St. Lawrence, and all the talk about one hundred dollars' worth of bolts and timber would be unnecessary. Perhaps the most interesting of all, however, were the letters that passed between the officials at the bridge and the office at Phoenixville during the month of August, after the deflections in the chords of the anchor and cantilever arms. These letters, which tell the discovery of the various bends in the members, were all put on exhibit and the shop records also were produced.

In addition to these, the necessary communications that were passed concerning the deflection of chord 9, and the question of stopping work were produced, as well as Mr. Cooper's now more weight be placed on the bridge until the matter was thoroughly investigated. A message which reached Phoenixville just a few hours before the structure went down.

The evidence gathered forms a connected story of the work as far as the Phoenix Company was connected with it since its inception, and it is claimed by the company, will do much to justify their position, which will be vastly strengthened by the testimony which will be taken next week.

COMPARATIVE CALM FOLLOWS STORM

New York Bsnkers Feel More Confident

PANIC AT AN END

Though Pressure for Money is Now Over—U.S. Staples, However, Building Up Credit Balance Abroad.

New York, Oct. 29.—The enormous influence which American products are exerting in building up a credit balance abroad was the most signal development of the financial situation to-day. Reports from all quarters show that the great American staples—wheat, corn, cotton, copper, tobacco, oil, meats—are on their way to Europe, this being the season of the year when American products are marketed abroad. The immediate effect of these shipments is to give the United States a credit abroad which can be speedily converted into cash. These resources promise to exert even greater influence than the sale of American securities abroad. The latter have to some extent suffered disrepute under recent pressure, but the intrinsic value of American staples used abroad, and their colossal aggregate at this period of the year is beyond the reach of financial distrust.

The foreign sales of millions of American copper yesterday were supplemented to-day by reports of similar heavy exports in wheat, to-day's shipments alone giving a foreign credit of $1,000,000. The shipments of tobacco to Europe this year promise to break all records. Officials of the American Tobacco Co. estimate to-day from the orders on hand, that the year's exports will exceed 5,000,000 pounds of manufactured tobacco, which is far in excess of the amount exported last year. Europe will pay $100,000,000 for this tobacco, and much of this money will soon be available in this market, as the contracts with the European importers call for immediate payment on delivery. Shipments of tobacco to Europe will be heavy in November and December, according to officials of the American Tobacco Company. Reports from the south show that the cotton crop is moving toward Europe, while the west is sending grain and meat products in the same direction. The fall shipments of American products, chiefly agricultural, has come at an opportune time in giving the country large credits abroad, making it difficult for the foreign money market to withhold gold, even by the most drastic raising of their discount rates.

Several favorable events marked the close of the financial day in New York. The engagement of $2,000,000 in gold by the First National Bank of Chicago and of $500,000 by a Boston bank brought the total gold engagements up close to $20,000,000 in spite of the cancellation of an order for $900,000 by the Russo-Chinese bank, upon the ground that the amount engaged exceeds necessities here. The rate of the German bank rate, in order to prevent America from drawing German gold, produces little effect on the situation here, as none of the gold engagements thus far have been made in Germany, and most of those anticipated were from the other European money markets. While money at the stock exchange was loaned during most of the day at high rates, it fell near the close of the day to six per cent., offers of several million dollars at that rate being made by a number of the leading banks.

Comparative calm reigned among New York bankers to-day. They all realized that the pressure for money was not over, but they felt generally that unreasoning panic was at an end and they would be able to meet all reasonable demands for currency. These demands are coming in in considerable amounts from the west and south in order to obtain money to move crops, and it is feared that sections where the movement is largest may be more or less hampered in their efforts to obtain funds. This general refusal to pay cash for hoarding in the west and south as well as in New York, it is believed, will prevent the undue absorption of currency and permit the employment of what is available in the most effective manner. The large banks of this city are gaining deposits from the banks which have been under suspicion and this tends, in a measure, to concentrate money where it can be used most effectively; but on the other hand it creates debit balance at the clearing house against the banks which are losing deposits which are not always easy for them to meet without sharply curtailing their loans even with the assistance of clearing house certificates.

Runs upon the banks are practically over. Persons who present large checks and ask for their payment in currency are invited to consult the bank officials. In cases where their need for currency is evidently legitimate they usually receive it; in cases where it is sought for hoarding they are usually convinced that money is better off in the bank or that they should accept certified checks from deposit elsewhere.

The arrival of nearly $20,000,000 in gold, it is believed, will considerably relieve the situation, and perhaps make call money a little lower on the Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 29.—The Clearing House Association of this city has adopted the rule that no bank shall pay out over $50 a day to any one depositor.

San Francisco, Oct. 29.—The Clearing House certificate plan was put in operation to-day by the local banks. Everything worked smoothly. All the banks are said to be in first class condition with ample resources but actual currency in circulation is scarce.

ATHLETIC PARSON

Will Teach Japs Baseball and Football as Well as Christianity.

Pittsburg, Oct. 29.—The Rev. Alfred W. Place, pastor of the First Christian Church, of Bellevue, a fashionable suburb, and known throughout Western Pennsylvania as the "athletic parson," preached his farewell sermon to-day and will leave this week for Japan as a missionary. He announced to his congregation to-day that he will "introduce the forward pass, the end run and the base hit into the life of the cunning Jap."

The Foreign Missionary Society of the Christian Church selected Mr. Place to go to Japan in the belief that his athletic knowledge and training would be as useful to him as his knowledge of theology. He will work among the students of the Imperial and Woods University near Tokio, and while he is teaching them athletics he will also endeavor to win them over to Christianity.

"It is my purpose to inject some American ideas into missionary work in Japan," he told his congregation to-day. "I shall organize a baseball team and a football team and teach the Japs how to play both games. Then, I believe, it will be easy to convert them."

While a student at the University of Chicago, from which he graduated in 1902, Place played second base on the baseball team and quarter-back on the football team. He holds some remarkable hitting and other records. He has not allowed his pastoral duties to interfere with athletics. Recently at a banquet in Bellevue he won all the cigars from a man who was conducting several test-of-strength machines and compelled him to close up.

STOCK EXCHANGE

The decline in stocks to-day was generally attributed to the continued scarcity of money for speculative purposes, the refusal of brokers to make transactions except for cash, and the absence of buying interest under present disturbed conditions. The fact that the Bank of Germany advanced its discount rate from five and a half to six and a half per cent. was not unexpected, in view of the care with which the German bank protects its gold stock. The intimation of Dr. Koch, governor of the bank, that the action taken would unfavorably affect the American situation, is interpreted as meaning nothing more than that it would impose a check on the shipment of German gold to New York. The fact that the day passed without any special meeting of the directors of the Bank of England, for the purpose of raising the discount rate, was accepted with gratification and it is hoped that no action will be taken until the regular meeting of the board on Thursday. Comparatively few conferences were held to-day, because it was felt that New York bankers had the situation well in hand and that the provision for clearing house certificates and for paying large drafts in checks instead of currency would avert any further trouble.

Aside from the satisfactory local conditions, reports from all points showed a favorable tendency. In New England there was no sign of serious unrest, and the recent disturbance in Rhode Island is practically over. No failures were recorded at any point throughout the country. It should be borne in mind in this connection that there are over 12,500 banks in the United States, and that the number of institutions which have recently failed is of insignificant proportions as compared with this total. It was pointed out that the failure of a minor bank is immediately known from end to end of the country, whereas the public overlooks the fact that some 12,500 banks are open for business as usual, and that none of the really important banking institutions anywhere has shown the slightest signs of unsoundness.

On the whole the banking community takes a favorable view of the outlook and is particularly encouraged by the large foreign credit secured through the enormous shipments of American products abroad.

DYING WITH CRAMPS

The distress at times is so severe you almost think it means death. In one minute you can cure cramps with Nerviline. Ever try it? "I think Nerviline is the finest remedy in the world for colic and cramps," writes W. B. Wilton, of Toledo. "When I take Nerviline I know it's going to relieve me quickly and for that reason I never without it. I have found Nerviline good for sick headache and stomach troubles and recommend it for strength and sureness." Doctors say that Poleon's Nerviline is a regular specialist on stomach and bowel disorders. Better get a 25c. bottle on hand for emergencies.

Correspondence

DETROIT UNITED RAILWAY.

To the Editor of the Chronicle:
Dear Sir,—As a number of Quebecers are interested in this stock the following opinion addressed to a citizen of Quebec by the financial editor of the Detroit Free Press may be interesting to them:—

"What I have written regarding Detroit United I honestly believed, and still believe. I do not own a dollar's worth of the stock, have absolutely no interest in the road or any of its officers save as a citizen and an unprejudiced financial newspaper man. I said in my last letter and I say it again that the present Mayor is flourishing. He would not settle the franchise question if he could, because it would rob him of political thunder. That this view is right is evident from what appears in to-night's Journal which I mail you. If he was so earnest and honest why does he wait until next spring or summer to ask for a receiver? As a matter of fact—and I know whereof I speak—an investigation of the Company's books will disclose the fact that it has been a clean corporation financially. It is easy to howl at a man or a corporation when it is down, but a difficult thing to prove the assertions wildly made. Personally I am satisfied that the Detroit United has been honestly managed. The only criticism the management and directors are open to is having increased the dividend at all when the service required such heavy outlay to keep abreast with the development of the city.

"These views may not agree with yours or with some people in this city, but they are mine and I will not cover up or attack for the purpose of pleasing anyone. I have no object in misleading you or anybody else.

"When the franchise lapses two years hence there are complications and interweavings with the franchises that run until 1924 that will take years of litigation to settle, and until the legal matters are disposed of Detroit United cannot be prevented from operating the lines. In the meantime it is altogether probable we will get a mayor. I do not care whether he is a Democrat or a Republican, as long as he is not a blatant ass, who will honestly strive to settle the question on a fair basis both to the street railway company and the city.

"I am aware that to those who lose the dividend passed, the action seems harsh. From a business standpoint it was the only wise thing to do and it will prove wiser for the stockholders in the end than to have borrowed money on short term notes that would have to have been paid at 90 and then 6 per cent interest paid thereon, thus further burdening the property with an addition to the floating debt that would plunge the water into deep water.

"The Detroit United is not the only corporation. What would become of its bonds issued for the improvements in a panic like that Wall street has been passing through? Compare the paper loss of Detroit United with Amalgamated which runs into the hundred millions; compare it to United States Steel, still the strongest stock in the market with its hundreds of millions paper loss.

"Let this storm pass and you will see that in common with other securities Detroit United will resume its proper position in the market. If there was cause for great alarm do you not suppose there would have been more than 4,000 shares traded in on the New York market? I am not arguing for Detroit United. I am stating facts because my sense of justice compels me to."

Yours sincerely,
PAUL LEAKE,
Financial Editor Detroit Free Press.

THE MOLSONS BANK ANNUAL DINNER.

Mr. William Molson Macpherson, President of the Molsons Bank, presided at the annual dinner, held at the Mount Royal Club on October 21, on the occasion of the annual meeting of the Molsons Bank. There are few banks in Canada which treat their clientele with more consideration than the Molsons Bank. It is one of our oldest banks, it has wended its way through good times and bad times and stood the financial furries of years, with credit to the family that founded it, members of which are still large shareholders and prominently identified with it. There is no more popular bank president than Mr. William Molson Macpherson, who takes delight in dispensing hospitality, not only in Montreal, but at his home in Quebec. From various reasons some of the directors were prevented from attending. Among those who had the privilege of being present were: Mr. W. Molson Macpherson, Rev. Dr. Paterson-Smith, Principals Peterson and McGill, Col. Durhan, Ald. Stevens and Messrs. George E. Drummond, W. McIntyre, J. Gardner Thompson, Durnford, S. H. Ewing, Jas. McCarty, Charles Cassis, H. Markland Molson, Herbert Molson, Edeur McDougall, R. Wilson-Smith and Jas. Ross.—Financial Chronicle, Oct. 25.

The Rugby team of the Quebec Club to meet the Montreal Juniors in the 4. R. F. U. series in Montreal on Saturday next has been chosen, and will be as follows:— Full back—F. Power. Halves—Ramsay, Staveley (Capt), Browne. Quarter—"Chubby" Power. Serimmage—C. Brown, Kingsley, Pacaud. Wings—H. Poston, Turcot, Reed, McDougall, Gillespie, Gibson. The Quebec Juniors, as will be seen from the above line up, will be pretty strong, and local opinion is hopeful that they will be able to hold down the Montrealers in good style in the first match. The return match will take place here a week from next Saturday. Most of the Quebec team will leave for Montreal by the 11.30 C.P.R. train to-night, advantage being taken of the two holidays to spend a couple of days in the metropolis.

SNOWSHOE CHAMPIONSHIPS.

Most of the local snowshoe clubs are now busily organizing for the season, and the Zouaves are no way behind their conferees. They will hold their annual meeting on November 6th next. At a meeting of the directors held on Monday evening, Messrs. N. Belleau and Dion were appointed delegates to the meeting at Montreal of the Union of Snowshoers. These delegates were instructed to use their best endeavors to obtain the necessary permission to hold in Quebec during the coming winter the world's championship snowshoe races, and every follower of sport in the Ancient Capital will wish them success in their effort.

THE RIFLE.

In connection with ammunition supply for competitors at Quebec City Rifle matches, the executive of the Eighth Royal Rifle Association have arranged to supply their members on the range and there will be a supply for members of the Quebec City Rifle Association who do not draw ammunition from any other source. There have been a large number of entries received for the Quebec City Rifle matches, which are to be held to-morrow and Friday; intending competitors are reminded that post entries may be made until opening of first match.

Peterboro, Ont., Oct. 29.—I long distance walker, David Gray, left to-day for Oshawa, whence he will leave to-morrow morning at 7 o'clock on walk to Toronto and return to Peterboro via Port Hope. The distance is 128 miles, the same distance covered by Jimmie Reynolds last week, and Hartley is confident of beating Reynolds' time of 36 hours 21 minutes.

AFTER STANLEY CUP.

Ottawa, Oct. 28.—The Victorias, of Ottawa, champions of the Federal League and the Renfrew team, champions of the Ottawa Valley League, will probably be ordered to play a sudden death game or a series of matches to decide which shall meet the Wanderers for the Stanley Cup. Since the challenges were put in, Mr. Foran has been made trustee, with Mr. P. D. Ross succeeding the late Sheriff Sweetland.

IT IS FALL.

Sam E. Kiser, in Chicago Record-Herald. Oh, the merry, merry summer time has fled, The nights are cool and long; The lark has hushed her song; The sun and the maiden's nose are red; Fat people with the asthma loudly wheeze, And, alas! O'er the grass Fallen leaves are being driven by the breeze; Coal is shooting down the chutes, And the hoot owl sadly hoots, If at all. While the benches in the park Are deserted after dark— It is fall!

Wrapped in heavy furs the chauffeur whizzes by, And the people loudly cheer When the full back, with one ear, And the half back, with one undamaged eye, Are dragged away to undergo repairs! Blink the free, With his three Cards the fakir foots the rubes at country fairs. Oh, what joy the farmer finds Making cider, as he grinds Worms and all Roosters that are tough and old For spring chickens now are sold— It is fall!

Oh, the fair and fleeting summer's course is run, And the blue-lipped golfer stands With his brassy in his hands; Though he shivers he imagines it is fun. Old women gather coal along the tracks Day by day, And the gay Turkey cock looks with suspicion at the axe; Near the stove the cat is curled, Lenden clouds hang o'er the world Like a pall, And the card clubs are once more Starting up from shore to shore— It is fall!

IRISH ATHLETE COMING. Toronto, Oct. 29.—The Irish-Canadian team will receive another strong addition to its team this fall, a man who will be an important addition to the Canadian Olympic team. Tom Flanagan to-day received a letter from M. J. Creed of Elton, in Limerick County, a schoolboy comrade of his, in which he says that he has determined to come to Canada to live. He wrote to John Flanagan and Jim Mitchell, the New York weight men, and they recommended him to come to Toronto. So he wrote Mr. Flanagan and started. He is now en route, and is expected here in time to make his appearance at the Garrison games, Nov. 9. Creed is a little fellow. He is 5 feet 5 inches tall, and though only 26 years of age, has already won over 700 prizes. His specialty is jumping, but he is a good hurdler and a fair sprinter. Creed broad jumps 23 feet 1 inch, high jumps 6 feet 2 inches, and holds the world's hop, step, and jump record of 45 feet 4 inches. He is one of the best hurdlers in Ireland.

Magnificent Stadium to be Erected for Meet of World Athletics.

Mr. Bernard C. Carter, writing in Fry's Magazine, gives a very interesting account of the scope and organization of the great international sports meeting which is to be held next year in the grounds of the Franco-British Exhibition at Shepherd's Bush.

The ancient system of holding these games quadrennially is repeated in the modern revival, and the festival obviously gains in dignity and importance for only being held once every four years, instead of annually, as some may imagine it is, because a series of games was held on a special occasion at Athens last year. These latter, however, were games to themselves and had nothing to do with this regular Olympic series the continuation of which comes to be held in London next year. This series began at Athens in 1896 and the second meeting was held in Paris in 1900. The third gathering was celebrated at St. Louis in 1904, on the occasion of the exhibition there, and now it comes to the turn of London. In 1912 the games will take place at either Stockholm or Berlin, and that out of these two places not selected for this year will have them in 1916. The public must also guard themselves against the fancy that this is in any way a sort of side show to the great Franco-British exhibition, and got up in connection with it as such, because the games will be held for the most part in the stadium in the exhibition grounds at Shepherd's Bush. This arrangement is an exceedingly happy one in all respects; but it should be understood that the games would have been held in London next year just the same, even though there had been no exhibition. As a matter of fact, the decision to have the Olympic exhibition in London in 1908 was arrived at before the exhibition scheme was projected, and the British Olympic council, on whom the responsibility lay of making a final decision as to a site and considering whether any existing grounds and fittings could be adapted for the occasion when the news reached them of this forthcoming exhibition, and the difficulty was almost immediately solved, for it has happened fortunately that Lord Desborough, famous everywhere as a sportsman, is chairman of both the sports committee of the exhibition and the British Olympic council.

An arrangement was quickly arrived at between the exhibition authorities and the Olympic council, and it cannot be doubted that it will be greatly to the advantage of both. A new and magnificent stadium is being made specially for these games, and it is at the present time fast nearing completion. It will occupy a prominent place in the exhibition grounds at Shepherd's Bush, and will be surrounded by beautiful buildings, while its own appointments will all be of first-class character. The arena will, of course, be oval in shape, and while its long axis will measure 700 feet, its short one will be 300 feet. There will be two tracks round this arena, the first one for running, some twenty-five feet in width, and three laps to the mile, and the outer one for cycling, the width of this being about thirty-five feet, and giving two and three-quarter laps to the mile. It need hardly be said that this question of tracks is one of the greatest importance in matters of this kind, and one that generally provides most discussion among the competitors. There is no track as good as an old track, and for some things, it would have been well if an old track had been at service for this important occasion. But that being manifestly impossible, the very best of new tracks is being laid down and it will have this coming winter in which to mature and for it to be rendered as good as possible. There is, at any rate, one considerable advantage even in a new track on this occasion, in that uniformity is preserved, for new tracks were made for the Olympic games at Athens, Paris and St. Louis, and a new one in London will afford a better means of comparison between the performances of 1908 and those of previous Olympiads than an old one would have done. The Amateur Athletic Association will supervise the final preparation of the running path, and the National Cyclists' Union that of the cycle track, which will, of course, be banked up at the turns in accordance with the most carefully thought-out principles.

Sheridan does not agree with the doctor that it will take that long to get well. He thinks that a course of exercise during the winter will be enough to fit him for the summer campaign. The doctor is not so optimistic. In fact, he thinks it very probable that the best athlete in this country will have to retire from active participation in the track and field sports altogether. The loss of Sheridan will be a serious matter for the prestige of the American athletic world. Next summer the great Olympic games will be held in London, when the best amateur athletes in the world will meet to decide international supremacy. The American team has a splendid chance of repeating the great victory at Athens last year, but with Sheridan out of the team the chances of the Americans will be considerably lessened. Sheridan was the biggest point winner for the American team at Athens. He won the discus and shot putting events and was second in tossing the 14-pound stone, the standing broad jump and putting the shot. Sheridan is easily the greatest all-round athlete this country or any other country has ever produced. He can toss weights, jump, hurdle and sprint with the most classy men in the world. In 1906 he won the all-round championship of America and broke the point record for this gruelling contest by 460 points. He scored a total of 6,820 points, and was so far ahead of the second man that he could afford to take it easy in the last few events on the championship card. Sheridan, however, is best known as a discus thrower, at which pastime he now holds the world's record of 135 feet 5 in. He has raised the record for this contest all the way from 118 feet since 1902. Besides winning innumerable handicaps in various events, Sheridan has gathered a great number of championship medals and other trophies. America is obliged to share its honors with Ireland in claiming Sheridan, for it was in the County Mayo that Sheridan first saw the light of day, in 1881. He comes by his athletic ability naturally, for his father was a famous strong man. Sheridan came to America when he was sixteen years of age. He was induced to try his fortunes here by his brother Richard, also a great athlete, who preceded him here by a few years. Sheridan had no trouble in passing the physical examination for the police department. His mark was almost as high as it could be, 99.11. He is about six feet in height and weighs 190 pounds. He has a chest expansion of 54 inches and a reach of 72 inches.

A LOSS TO HAMILTON TIGERS. Hamilton, Oct. 29.—Ben Simpson, the brilliant half back of the Hamilton Tigers, whose collar bone was broken in the struggle at Montreal on Saturday, announced to-day that he had played his last game of Rugby. He had intended finishing out the season but for the accident. Simpson was recognized as one of the speediest half backs in Canada.

TOOK $7,500 IN BETS. Hamilton, Oct. 28.—The Tiger supporters, who accompanied the team to Montreal on Saturday, and plunged their bank rolls on the Jungle Kings, brought back nearly $7,500 of Montreal money. There is scarcely a man on the team who is not badly bruised after Saturday's battle. Frank Burton, who jumped into the game on Saturday and made such an excellent showing, will replace Simpson, whose collar bone was broken, for the season. The Tigers say that in the four years of the snap-back system there was never anything to equal the roughness of Saturday's game, especially the last quarter, since the Ottawa team gained the title of "Rough Riders."

JAMAICA RACES. Jamaica, N.Y., Oct. 29.—The Sayville stakes, mile and a sixteenth, was run over a muddy track here to-day and resulted in an easy victory for the odds on favorite, Adoration. She trailed her field to the stretch, where she moved out and won easily.

SAVE MONEY. On Rugs and Oilcloth, Curtains and Brocades. FAGUY, LEPINAY & FRERE. 254 and 264 St. John Street.

SHE WAS KILT ENTIRELY. Barrie, Ont., Oct. 29.—John Jeffries of Midland, who shot Rose Latanville, with whom he was infatuated, in a hotel in that town on September 3rd has been sentenced to two years and a half in Kingston Penitentiary. Sentence was deferred until the present, awaiting results of the wounds, as it was feared the girl might die. She has, however, recovered and Jeffries was convicted of manslaughter instead of murder.

"Peerless" Oven Damper Gives Absolute Control. Most oven dampers have only two positions. They are either wide open or tight shut. The "Peerless" dampers are adjustable. If the oven is too hot, you can open the damper and keep on adjusting until you get the proper temperature. This means economy in fuel consumption. With the ordinary oven damper to keep the oven from getting too hot, the heat must be all thrown up the chimney. Then the drafts have to be turned on again, because the temperature drops too rapidly. Ask your dealer to show you this special damper. Also the "Peerless" Drop Oven Door, Daylight Oven, and Duplex Grates. These points of advantage over other ovens, are exclusive. Hallowe'en Boys.

Hiding, creeping, sneaking. Everywhere about. Whispering in lowest tones. With never a laugh nor shout.

Taking gates from hinges. Hanging them in trees. Piling debris in the yards. High up as men's knees.

Placing pails of water. Against the front hall door. Then ringing loud the door bells. And scampering off before the door be quickly opened.

By master in undress. Who gets himself most thoroughly drenched to the skin. Goodness!

And through the hours till midnight. (When Hallowe'en is o'er) The boys who're fond of mischief. Do all they can—and MORE!

Why are people, preparing to make a journey, like the forests in springtime? They are leaving out of their trunks what they expect to wear.

What is the most needed in the world? Bread.

Can you tell why man is never without animals as companions? Because he takes two calves with him wherever he goes.

When are chickens like horses? When getting carried.

When is a mill like a clock? When running.

RIDDLE AND ANSWER. A word of one syllable easy and short. Reads backwards and forwards the same. It expresses the sentiments warm from the heart. And to beauty lays principal claim. (THE EYE)

Katie's Hallowe'en.

BY WILLIAM WALLACE, JR.

Little Katie Donovan lived with an old aunt, a lady who had long ago forgotten that she had ever been under sixty years of age, and therefore was not the right sort of person to rear a child. But Katie being an orphan had no choice in the matter of a home and guardian and was very grateful to her stern old aunt for shelter, food, clothing and schooling. But sometimes she found her home life very dull indeed. If she sang and played about the house her Aunt Maria would call out to her: "Children should be seen, not heard!" And if Katie begged to be permitted to go skating or coasting—or to participate in any of the childish sports of her school associates—the prim old aunt would shake her head emphatically saying: "It is a wicked waste of time to play. When you have finished your school tasks and household duties you should sew and mend, or read some helpful book."

And so it was that the time not spent in the school room was very tedious to Katie, whose only companion was her Aunt Maria. Occasionally her little girl friends were allowed to make formal calls upon her, but during such calls Aunt Maria sat in the parlor and helped her little niece to entertain the company. And Aunt Maria's way of entertaining children was to tell them how much better and smarter children used to be than now; to tell of her own straight-laced youth and her superiority over the children of the present generation.

The day before Hallowe'en Katie's comrades at school planned upon what they called "a lark" for the following evening after supper, and as usual Katie was invited to be one of the gay party.

"Well, you know how Aunt Maria is about such things," said Katie. "But may-be if you'll go home with me and ask her to let me join you she'll relent a bit and consent, being as it's Hallowe'en."

That evening Katie's two most intimate friends, Lucy and Grace, accompanied her home and very solicitously asked Aunt Maria's consent for Katie to make one of their Hallowe'en party on the following evening.

"Hallowe'en party!" And Aunt Maria threw up hands and eyebrows in consternation. "Not if I know myself," she exclaimed. "Why, it's nothing but roughness and rudeness, this going about playing pranks with people's property. No, indeed, Katherine doesn't go a step out of this house after supper—if I know it. She's been brought up, in a quiet, stay-at-home and mind-your-own-business manner. No tom-boying for a girl under my roof. I can promise you."

A Strange Hallowe'en Happening.

BY MAUD WALKER.

It was a cold October morning, the day before Hallowe'en, and the great city awoke to look upon the first suggestion of winter. From an old untenanted tumble-down building which had been condemned as unsafe for people to live in—a little boy of perhaps ten years of age. His face was dirty, his hair uncombed and his clothing thin, ragged and soiled. He raised a pale, sad face towards the sky which was only to be seen by looking upward, for the tall buildings cut off all the firmament save that directly overhead.

"Ugh, it's cold!" And the boy shivered and turned up his coat collar. "Wonder what I'll do for a warmer coat this winter. But how hungry I am! I must hurry up to the newspaper office and get my papers. But if business is as bad today as it was yesterday there'll be little to eat on. Gee, but I've had a hard time since my dear mother died and my father was taken to the hospital all cut up by a street car! It a year now since dear mother was looked away from us, and over a month since poor old father was hurt so that he'll probably die. Let's see—today's visitors' day at the hospital. I can go and see him between three and four o'clock this afternoon. Well, I must get to selling papers, or I'll not eat this morning."

So saying, the little boy, whose name was Neddie Smith, hurried off down the street which was being rapidly filled with pedestrians, all of them shivering, hurrying, miserable-looking beings, out early in quest of work. It was yet too early for the regularly-employed to be out. But soon the better-to-do class began to mix with their wretched brethren and sisters, and the day advanced rapidly.

Neddie Smith got his bundle of papers counted out to him and with his small stock in trade tucked under his arm he went down the street crying his wares: "First edition, papers! papers! all about the horrible train wreck—papers! first edition, papers!"

Neddie had not long been a street newsboy. As you have learned from his morning soliloquy, his mother was dead and his father seriously injured and lying in a hospital. Before these dire calamities had happened in Neddie's life his home had been a clean and wholesome one, though very poor. His father had been a factory worker and his mother a plain seamstress, sewing by the day in private homes. But the combined incomes of the parents merely met their living expenses, nothing being saved for that "rainy day" which now poured as a deluge on the head of the helpless but hopeful Neddie.

After his mother's death Neddie and his father had kept the little three-room flat, and Neddie had continued to attend school. But a home without a mother was a sad and barren one, indeed, and the place soon became unkempt and dirty, in spite of Neddie's efforts to "keep it as his dear mother had done." And his father was too tired at evening time to lend a hand at tidying up the place. He managed to prepare meals for his boy and himself, but other tasks were left to the untutored little Neddie.

And then had happened the most terrible thing. Neddie's father while crossing a crowded street was knocked down by a passing street-car and so badly injured that now his life was despaired of. Soon after this terrible accident the landlord of their little flat seized the furniture for rent and Neddie found himself on the street parentless, penniless and homeless.

At first Neddie, heart-heavy, was dazed. Which way to turn, what to do to sustain life, he did not know. He wandered about the streets the first day of his homelessness, his mind and heart so full of his poor injured father that he forgot he had nothing to eat and nowhere to sleep or shelter himself for the night.

But at last tired-out nature asserted itself. As the darkness fell Neddie's weary limbs gave out and hunger cried aloud within him. He had no blood relatives to whom he might apply for immediate help. He was too proud to go to strangers who would doubtless call him a beggar. So he hunted about for some place where he might creep for the night. On the morrow he would hunt for work. By chance he found the old tumble-down tenement house that had been condemned, and which stood silent, empty, waiting its final destruction at the hands of hired despoilers. Into this abode the child crept and slept on the bare floor. And here he slept each night for a whole month, earning a few cents each day selling papers. The money went for food—food of the worst kind. At the baker's Neddie would buy a few cheap cakes, and from a street vender he would buy "hoky-hoky" and pickles. So you will not wonder that the child soon became pale and weak, feeling each night as he lay down to sleep on the cold floor of the silent tenement house that nothing short of a fire could arouse him again to action. But each morning there was the thought of his father and the cry of the gnawing stomach to send him forth into the street again.

And thus the time passed arriving at the morning on which this story opens—the day preceding Hallowe'en.

She's been brought up, in a quiet, stay-at-home and mind-your-own-business manner. No tom-boying for a girl under my roof. I can promise you."

And so the Hallowe'en matter was settled so far as Katie was concerned. And the little girl's heart was heavy in consequence. All that evening she found her mind wandering from her books while she engaged in getting tomorrow's lessons. She was continually thinking of what the world would be like if all women were like Aunt Maria. The mothers of her little friends were so different. Why, there was Grace's mama, as jolly as any of the children, playing games with her little daughter and her young friends. And how much interest she always took in Grace's parties and childish pleasures, too. And Lucy's mama was the same way. She would lay aside her work any time to tell a story to an assembled group of little folks; and it was not unusual to see her out coasting with Lucy and Lucy's friends of an evening, not only keeping close watch that no one was hurt in the sport, but enjoying the fun as keenly as any of the younger ones.

And thus thinking Katie heaved a deep sigh, a sigh so deep that her aunt, sitting at the opposite side of the table, overheard it and looked up from her sewing. "Are you sick, Katherine, that you make that horrible noise?" she asked sarcastically.

The Kea, or Mountain-Nestor.

BY WILLIAM WALLACE, JR.

A strange bird is the Kea, or Mountain-Nestor, a parrot belonging to South Island, New Zealand. Its color is monotonous, and in no way is it of striking appearance; but it has won for itself an undeviating reputation through its habit of diet. Since man became an inhabitant of the island, and there raised his flock of sheep, this bird has fed on mutton in preference to any other food. Its manner of procuring a dinner is after this fashion: A flock of Kea, or Mountain-Nestors, will surround a sheep and drive it from its companions. Then they torment it, from sheer exhaustion, the poor animal sinks helplessly to earth to become the vicious flock's prey. Upon its unprotected back the birds swarm, literally eating the quivering thing alive, for death does not come to relieve the tortured animal till the birds have picked through its back into the intestines, thus wounding it mortally and causing slow death.

This bird has been known to attack horses also, and owing to its evil propensities, the sheep farmers of the island are doing their utmost to exterminate it.

Little Snip.

Dear Little Snip, a tiny young pup. Plays in the yard through the day. But when the night falls and stars come out He sleeps in his kennel on hay.

He is a dear doggie, as every one says. And of tricks he knows not a few. He will stand very straight when begging a bite. And as thanks he will shake hands with a ball. He will jump through a hoop and toss up a ball. He will carry a cane anywhere. Indeed, Little Snip's a mighty fine dog. As fine as you'll find anywhere.

This is Baron Forester, whose ancestors in the time of King Henry VIII, were granted this special privilege because of some service he performed for the crown. This was a noticeable feature of the King's coronation, but Lord Forester, after wearing his hat for a few moments just to confirm this peculiar privilege of his family, took his hat off like the remainder of the crowd of English, Scottish and Irish noblemen.

Tom West.

BY WILLIAM WALLACE, JR.

There was a small boy named Tom West, who in vanity extended his chest; No boy and where he could not speak to him nor feel the excess of his dear hands. He had gone, then, to join the dear mother. And Neddie was alone in the world. As fast as he could go he ran towards the West. A faint glow of the setting sun still reddened the sky, and Neddie knew that in that direction lay the country. His father had told him to leave the cruel city—to go to the country where some good soul would care for him.

That night Neddie lay in the shelter of a haystack, eating one of the cakes he had kept from the morning's meal. When the dawn broke he rose and started toward a farm house near by. But the barking of a big dog sent him on down the road, away from the farm. He walked all day, resting at intervals on the roadside. But everywhere the farm houses looked so fine and big that he feared to go to their owners to ask for a home where he might work for his board. He knew that the prosperous and well-fed could not understand his deplorable condition, and would call him a young tramp and send him about his business or turn him over to the county authorities to be sent to the poor house. And Neddie could not bear the thought of becoming a dependent.

And so another night—Hallowe'en night—found Neddie still a wanderer. He had entered the outskirts of a little town at dusk and had felt so lonely and sad that he sank down near to a big barn to rest. As he lay there in the moon light, he wondered what would become of him, for he was right unto starvation. Hearing something crawling in the grass near him he got up and climbed into a covered wagon—a wagon such as grocers deliver their goods in to customers. Once inside the wagon he hid himself beneath the seat and an old blanket. Being worn out he soon fell into a profound sleep from which the noise of merry-makers did not rouse him. Boys and girls, as well as many grown-ups, were out in force to celebrate the gay occasion of Hallowe'en in regular country fashion. A group of boys raided the barn in whose shed Neddie slept so soundly in the delivery wagon. They seized hold of the wagon's tongue and drew it down the street, yelling and laughing gaily as they went along. But through his ride Neddie slept on, dreaming that he was in a warm home and enjoying a good supper.

The merry-makers drew the old wagon into a beautiful lawn, yard to a handsome private house. Right up to the front door they drew it and left it standing there. Then they went away, laughing to think how angry Mr. and Mrs. Drew would be when they came to their front door the next morning and found the unlucky Neddie still a wanderer. He had entered the outskirts of a little town at dusk and had felt so lonely and sad that he sank down near to a big barn to rest. As he lay there in the moon light, he wondered what would become of him, for he was right unto starvation. Hearing something crawling in the grass near him he got up and climbed into a covered wagon—a wagon such as grocers deliver their goods in to customers. Once inside the wagon he hid himself beneath the seat and an old blanket. Being worn out he soon fell into a profound sleep from which the noise of merry-makers did not rouse him. Boys and girls, as well as many grown-ups, were out in force to celebrate the gay occasion of Hallowe'en in regular country fashion. There was a small boy named Tom West, who in vanity extended his chest; No boy and where he could not speak to him nor feel the excess of his dear hands.

He had gone, then, to join the dear mother. And Neddie was alone in the world. As fast as he could go he ran towards the West. A faint glow of the setting sun still reddened the sky, and Neddie knew that in that direction lay the country. His father had told him to leave the cruel city—to go to the country where some good soul would care for him.

That night Neddie lay in the shelter of a haystack, eating one of the cakes he had kept from the morning's meal. When the dawn broke he rose and started toward a farm house near by. But the barking of a big dog sent him on down the road, away from the farm. He walked all day, resting at intervals on the roadside. But everywhere the farm houses looked so fine and big that he feared to go to their owners to ask for a home where he might work for his board. He knew that the prosperous and well-fed could not understand his deplorable condition, and would call him a young tramp and send him about his business or turn him over to the county authorities to be sent to the poor house. And Neddie could not bear the thought of becoming a dependent.

And so another night—Hallowe'en night—found Neddie still a wanderer. He had entered the outskirts of a little town at dusk and had felt so lonely and sad that he sank down near to a big barn to rest. As he lay there in the moon light, he wondered what would become of him, for he was right unto starvation. MOORE'S

BY MAUD WALKER.

It was a cold October morning, the day before Halloween, and the great city awoke to look upon the first suggestion of winter. From an old untenanted tumble-down building which had been condemned as unsafe for people to live in—came a little boy of perhaps ten years of age. His face was dirty, his hair uncombed and his clothing thin, ragged and soiled. He raised a pale, sad face towards the sky which was only to be seen by looking upward for the tall buildings, out of all the firmament save that directly overhead.

"Ugh, it's cold!" And the boy shivered and turned up his coat collar. "Wonder what I'll do for a warmer coat this winter. But how hungry I am! I must hurry up to the newspaper office and get my papers. But if business is as bad today as it was yesterday there'll be little to eat on. Gee, but I've had a hard time since my dear mother died and my father was taken to the hospital all cut up by a street car! It a year now since dear mother was taken away from us, and over a month since poor old father was hurt so that he'll probably die. Let's see—today's visitors' day at the hospital. I can go and see him between three and four o'clock this afternoon. Well, I must get to selling papers, or I'll not eat this morning."

Saying, the little boy, whose name was Neddie Smith, hurried off down the street which was being rapidly filled with pedestrians, all of them shivering, hurrying, miserable-looking beings, out early in quest of work. It was yet too early for the regularly employed to be out. But soon the better-to-do class began to mix with their wretched brothers and sisters, and the day advanced rapidly.

Neddie Smith got his bundle of papers counted out to him and with his small stock in trade tucked under his arm he went down the street crying his wares: "First edition, papers! papers! all about the horrible train wreck—papers! first edition, papers! week-papers! first edition, papers!" Neddie had not long been a street newsboy. As you have learned from his morning soliloquy, his mother was dead and his father seriously injured and lying in a hospital. Before these dire calamities had happened in Neddie's life his home had been a clean and wholesome one, though very poor. His father had been a factory worker and his mother a plain seamstress, sewing by the day in private homes. But the combined incomes of the partners merely met their living expenses, nothing being saved for that "rainy day" which now poured as a deluge on the head of the helpless but hopeful Neddie.

After his mother's death Neddie and his father had kept the little three-room flat, and Neddie had continued to attend school. But a home without a mother was a sad and barren one, indeed, and the place soon became unkept and dirty. In spite of Neddie's efforts to "keep it as his dear mother had done." And his father was too tired at evening time to lend a hand at tidying up the place. He managed to prepare meals for his boy and himself, but other tasks were left to the untutored little Neddie.

And then had happened the most terrible thing. Neddie's father while crossing a crowded street was knocked down by a passing street-car and so badly injured that now his life was despaired of. Since then this little flat seized the furniture for rent and Neddie found himself on the street penniless and homeless.

At first Neddie, heart-heavy, was dazed. Which way to turn, what to do to sustain life, he did not know. He wandered about the streets the first day of his homelessness, his mind and heart so full of his poor injured father that he forgot that he had nothing to eat and nowhere to sleep or shelter himself for the night.

But at last tired-out nature asserted itself. As the darkness fell Neddie's weary limbs gave out and hunger cried aloud within him. He had no blood relatives to whom he might apply for immediate help. He was too proud to call to strangers who would doubtless call him a beggar. So he hunted about for some place where he might creep for the night. On the morning he would hunt for work. By chance he found the old-tumble-down tenement house that had been condemned, and which stood silent, empty waiting its final destruction at the hands of hired desperadoes. Into this abode the child crept and slept on the bare floor. And here he slept each night for a whole month, earning a few cents each day selling papers. The money went for food—food of the worst kind. At the baker's Neddie would buy a few cheap cakes, and from a street vendor he would buy "hokypoky" and pickles. So you will not wonder that the child soon became pale and weak, feeling each night as he lay down to sleep on the cold floor of the silent tenement house that nothing short of a fire could arouse him from his slumber. But each morning there was the thought of his father and the cry of the gnawing stomach to send him forth into the street again.

Thus the time passed arriving at the morning on which this story opens—the day preceding Halloween. By nine o'clock Neddie had sold out his stock of papers and had a profit of seven cents. With this splendid sum—for it was more than Neddie usually made of a morning—he went to a baker's and bought some cakes. Then having three cents left he wandered about till he saw a hot-coffee vender near a sort of oven-pail. Men and women and children were buying this liquid and drinking it to keep out the cold and check their hunger. Neddie bought three cents' worth which he gave him in an old tin cup which he handed back to the vender after having drunk the contents.

"Now," he said to himself, "I'll warm rotund to the party till time to go to see poor father." Once in the park Neddie made bold to wash his face and hands in the playing fountain. He was then dry on a bit of paper he found lying on a park bench. He was anxious to look as neat as possible when he called to see his father.

At the hour when visitors were allowed to call upon their sick at the charity hospital Neddie was admitted to his father's bed-side. The poor man lay like one already dead, so colorless was his face. But he opened his eyes when

Art. 6.—No such person holding a license shall keep or expose for sale in his stall, shop or store any meat too long for food or that is sour, bruised, spoiled, putrid or unwholesome, or the meat of any calf or lamb less than three weeks old or unsuitable on account of its leanness, or meat that has been blown or fraudulently improved in appearance, or spoiled, putrid or unwholesome fish, poultry or game, or any other provisions or articles of food mentioned in this by-law that are spoiled or unwholesome, under penalty of confiscation of the said articles by the city meat inspector, in addition to the penalty hereinafter mentioned.

Art. 7.—Every such person shall at all times keep his stall, shop or store clean and free from dirt of any kind, shall not sweep or deposit any refuse, filth or dirt of any kind on the sidewalk or streets opposite or near such stall, shop or store, or hang or hook up meat outside the same so as to project over the sidewalk or street.

Art. 8.—Every offense against any of the provisions of this by-law shall be punished by a fine not exceeding forty dollars ($40.00) recoverable before the Recorder's Court of the city, and, in default of payment of the said fine and costs, by an imprisonment for a period not exceeding two months.

Art. 9.—Persons carrying on business in the said private stalls, shops or stores shall be subject to all health by-laws and ordinances of the Board of Health of the city of Quebec, under penalty of the annulment or cancellation of the license granted by the Market Committee.

Art. 10.—All the provisions of any city by-law relating to public markets and to persons carrying on business therein which are inconsistent with the present by-law are repealed as regards the keeping of private stalls.

Art. 11.—This by-law shall come into force and take effect on the first day of May, 1908.

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, pursuant to Section 30th of the Act 29, Vic., chap. 57, as amended by Section 11 of the Act 31, Vic., chap. 54, the above By-law will be read a second time and passed on Friday, the eighth day of November next (1907).

By Order: H. J. J. B. CHOUINARD, City Clerk.

Food Poisons.

90 Per cent. of All Diseases the Result of Impurities of Purelying Foods.

Men of affairs, women of society and children with active brains are too often sedentary in their habits, giving little time to exercise. To this evil is added that of high and irregular living—as a result, the stomach cannot stand the demands made upon it. The abused and overtaxed stomach does not properly do the work of digestion, food taken in ferment and the poison permeates the whole system. The body loses in weight and becomes a prey for the attack of whatever disease it may encounter.

Did it ever occur to you how busy that stomach of yours is? It only holds three-pints, but in one year you are forced to take in 2,400 pounds of animal food, and prepare it for assimilation into the blood. No wonder it rebels when overworked. We crowd it with steaks and pastry, irritate its juices with spices and acids, and expect the stomach to do its work. It can't do it.

All over the inner layer of the stomach are glands which secrete the juices necessary to digestion. The entrance of food into the stomach is the signal for these glands to do their work. The more food, and the more indigestible, the greater the demand upon them and upon the muscles of the wall adjoining.

Think of the tons of high-priced game, sweetmeats and appetizers crammed into this little four-ounce mill, and then wonder, if you will, why you are dizzy or nauseated or constipated. Don't blame your stomach or curse your fate that you should be born so unfortunate. Blame yourself and apply the remedy.

First, get a small package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, taking one after each meal and at bed time. They are not a medicine, but a digestive. Your stomach is worn out and needs help, not medicine. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will do the work that the stomach fails to do. There's enough power in one grain of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to digest 3,000 grains of ordinary food, so you needn't fear that anything you eat will remain in your stomach undigested.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will rout the poison because they remove the cause—food fermentation. They are nature's own cure for dyspepsia. The host of troubles dyspepsia is father of cannot be numbered, for a healthy stomach is the source of all health.

Seize your opportunity before worse conditions confront you. Send away for a free trial package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They will bring your stomach relief. F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

ACCIDENT TO A TORONTO BUILDER

John Feistead, a builder, of 312 Wilton Avenue, Toronto, was working on a temporary scaffold, the plank broke and he fell through. He received several severe cuts on the leg, a bruised knee, and a thorough shaking. Zam-Buk, the herbal balm, was applied to the cuts and gave him great relief. He says:—

"Zam-Buk was so effective that although my leg was badly cut, I was able to go on without a day's break from work. Zam-Buk takes the soreness out of a wound at once and then it commences to heal. It is without doubt a wonderful balm for skin injuries, and I am glad to make this virtue known."

Zam-Buk is a sure and speedy cure for cuts, bruises, and all skin diseases. At all stores and druggists, 50c. box, or The Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 3 boxes for $1.25.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.
New York, Oct. 29.—The banks asserted their influence determinedly today for the retrenchment of borrowings on stocks. The announcement of the dissolution of the bankers pool yesterday, which had provided funds last week to save the stock market from demoralization, was accompanied by broad intimations that the pool had not been intended to bolster up speculation or to attempt anything like a revival of strength in stocks by the use of borrowed money. Advice has been conveyed to stock holders in terms not to be misunderstood that the banks would frown upon any marginal operations in stocks. Brokers, as a rule, have refused to accept orders for such transactions. The market is thus reduced to exceedingly narrow dimensions, operations being restricted practically to buying of securities outright for cash. Calling of loans was on a large scale. The considerable volume of the day's market, while it marked the severe sacrifices of coerced borrowers may be safely assumed also as a measure of absorption by outright cash buying. Another rise in the price of copper was the measure of the additional buying for exports. There was a sharp reaction from the violent early advance in the London price of copper.

The appearance of some supplies of money at the stock exchange late in the day induced some rallies, but the day's net declines are severe. Bonds were weak. Total sales par value $3,426,000.

CLOSING LETTER.
By Private Wire Neuville Belleau & Co., 93 St. Peter Street, Quebec.
Phone 946.

New York, October 29.—The market today was influenced chiefly by liquidation of loans and by sales here for domestic and foreign accounts. The market was also affected by the continued restraints of the money market. Until the last hour of business, call money was nominally quoted at forty to seventy-five per cent, it then fell to six per cent. In comparatively few cases did the early stock exchange figures show any improvement over yesterday's final New York prices. Amcouth and Northern Pacific advanced which gained two points and Amalgamated Copper 1 1/2 per cent. From the highest prices of the day there were a number of very severe losses, including ten points in Canadian Pacific, six in Delaware & Hudson, five in Union Pacific and New York Central and one to three points in other stocks. From the lowest there were partial recoveries. The final tone was rather unsettled. The U. S. Steel Corporation this afternoon declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1 1/2 per cent on its preferred and 1 per cent on its common stock. Reports for the quarter ended Sept. 29th last show net earnings of $43,204,265, as compared with $45,508,705 for the quarter ended June 30th, 1907, and net earnings of $38,114,624 for the corresponding quarter in 1906. The unfilled orders on the quarterly reports since those figures were first published have been as follows on the dates mentioned, the figures being given in tons:—

Quarter ended	1907	1906
Sept. 30th	6,425,008	7,926,584
June 30th	7,608,878	6,809,289

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.
New York, Oct. 29.—The banks asserted their influence determinedly today for the retrenchment of borrowings on stocks. The announcement of the dissolution of the bankers pool yesterday, which had provided funds last week to save the stock market from demoralization, was accompanied by broad intimations that the pool had not been intended to bolster up speculation or to attempt anything like a revival of strength in stocks by the use of borrowed money. Advice has been conveyed to stock holders in terms not to be misunderstood that the banks would frown upon any marginal operations in stocks. Brokers, as a rule, have refused to accept orders for such transactions. The market is thus reduced to exceedingly narrow dimensions, operations being restricted practically to buying of securities outright for cash. Calling of loans was on a large scale. The considerable volume of the day's market, while it marked the severe sacrifices of coerced borrowers may be safely assumed also as a measure of absorption by outright cash buying. Another rise in the price of copper was the measure of the additional buying for exports. There was a sharp reaction from the violent early advance in the London price of copper.

The appearance of some supplies of money at the stock exchange late in the day induced some rallies, but the day's net declines are severe. Bonds were weak. Total sales par value $3,426,000.

By private wire from Chas. Head & Co., New York to Brunneau & Dupuis, Stock Brokers, 31 Peter Street.

DAY BY DAY.
 Well, there is no talk of the loeman raising his rates at present, anyway.
 The city water works system may dry up, but the flood of oratory continues as usual in Belhasshe and other contested counties.
 A safe bet in connection with the coming elections would be that one candidate will be elected in each constituency.

A LA TENNYSON.
 Break, break, break,
 A break every other day,
 And I would that my tongue dared utter
 The words I should like to say.

Oh! well for the corner street loafer,
 That whiskey is still to be had
 And well that there is ginger-beer
 For the strictly temperance lad.

And well for the ancient gossip
 That gin is there for her tea
 But the tender grace of the water
 that's fled
 Will it ever come back to me?

Did you notice the news from London
 this morning, Beatty is the high-man there now.

Barbers want early closing. They must be getting tired talking such long hours.

The weather has become appreciably
 warmer, though this condition has perhaps no connection with the escape of hot air in Montmorency and Belhasshe.

There are no doubt cities with dirtier streets than Quebec, says the Champlain street philosopher, but not many.

Elections may come and elections
 may go, but smelt fishing goes on forever.

No matter who's elected, the coal
 man still stands to be the winner.

Don't shove! You'll have to shovel snow soon enough.

Shakespeare was too occupied to listen to the call of the feline wild
 he might have made it the "Midsummer Night's Scream."

The square man sometimes gets flattened out.

A vote in time fits the candidate
 prime.

With upward steps the Quebecker
 ever climbs.

WINTER BUSINESS

Transferred From Canada to Portland and Boston.

Boston, Oct. 29.—The foreign export trade of Boston and Portland,
 the leading deep water ports of New England, is expected to show a gradual increase in the next few months as a large amount of Western produce passes through this territory on its way to Europe each fall and winter. The grain traffic at this port has been handicapped during the last year or two, but as wheat is now in great demand abroad, due to short crops,
 increased shipments are anticipated.
 The demand for other commodities is also brisk and large shipments of corn and flour are on their way here.

The apple export business at Boston has increased. To-day the Cunard line steamer Saxonia, which sailed for Liverpool, carried out 15,000 barrels,
 the largest shipments of apples ever sent from this port. Other shipments will follow next week.

The trade of Boston and Portland
 will benefit by the closing of the St.
 Lawrence River to navigation. The Grand Trunk Railroad will transfer as usual much of its business from Montreal to Portland. A large proportion of the Canadian Pacific traffic will be shipped at St. John and a small part of it here.

A heavy lumber export trade from Boston to South America now exists.
 Half a dozen square rigged vessels are taking on cargoes at the Charleston docks.

The engagement of Mr. Blain Paget, the British Minister to Rome, to his cousin, Miss Leila Paget, is announceed. The wedding is to take place very quietly from Green House, Coombe Wood, where Lady Paget has been living for some two or three months. Mr.
 Paget is remembered by people in Canada as managing a ranch in Qu'- Appelle, where he was more popular,
 and he has been marked out by some in England as a future Ambassador to the Court of Vienna. The bride is the daughter of General Sir Arthur Paget and Lady Paget (Miss Paron Stevens).

The marriage is announced of Miss Mary Curson and her cousin, Vircourt Curson, Lord Howe's son and heir, and is to be celebrated in England very quietly. The bride's father, Col. the Hon. Montagu Curson, died very suddenly not long ago, at his Leicestershire residence, Garatshay.
 Much has been written about Miss Curson's singular beauty, which is by general agreement of that rare type only seen in a few individuals in each generation. Another interesting engagement in Great Britain of a son and heir is that of Lord Ronaldshay to Miss Cloely Archdale, daughter of Col. Archdale.

Lord Rosebery, in unveiling the statue of Queen Victoria at Edinburgh, described her as the mother of a nation who kept her peoples together. Her noblest epithet is not one that neither her Canada was brought from civil war to cordial allegiance that the Dominion, Australia and New Zealand became living realities—but that under the last reign they established a new relation of personal affection and allegiance to the wearer
 of the British crown.

Words of Praise

For the several ingredients of which Dr.
 Pierce's medicine are composed, as given by leaders in all the several schools of medicine, should have far more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been made up of the most carefully selected and most valuable ingredients printed in plain English.

If you are an invalid woman and suffer from frequent headache, backache, gnaving distress in stomach, periodical pain,
 diarrhoea, catarrhal pelvic drain,
 dragging down distress in lower abdomen
 or pain, perhaps dark spots or specks dancing before the eyes, faint spells and kindred symptoms caused by female weakness, the derangement of the feminine organs, you can not do better than take
 Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The bestial, surgeon's knife and operating table may be avoided by the timely use of "Favorite Prescription" in such cases. It guards the abdominal organizations and most important of the family physician can be avoided and a thorough course of successful treatment carried out in the privacy of the home.

"Favorite Prescription" is composed of the very best native medicinal roots known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments, contains no alcohol and no harmful or habit-forming drugs.
 Do not expect too much from "Favorite Prescription"; it will not perform miracles; it will not dissolve or cure tumors.
 No medicine will. It will do as much to establish vigorous health in most weakness and ailments as any medicine can. It must be given a fair chance by perseverance in its use for a reasonable length of time.

You can't afford to neglect a secret oportunity to get a substitute for this remedy of known composition.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr.
 Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as absolutely secret, and womanly confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. E. V.
 Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets the best laxative and regulator of the bowels.
 They invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. One a laxative; two or three a cathartic. Easy to take as candy.

KILLED BY A COW'S TAIL.
 Binghamton, N.Y., Oct. 29.—Wm.
 A. Wells, of Neward Valley, was milking
 when a cow swished her tail, striking him on the forehead with the fleshy part of the appendage. Shortly afterwards, Mr. Wells returned to the house, complaining of a pain in the head, which rapidly grew worse. Physicians pronounced it apoplexy, brought on by the blow from the cow's tail. Mr. Wells died the same night.

Apoplexy is the result of poisoned blood. Bowels become constipated, kidneys get weakened, skin action becomes poor, and the blood is loaded with impurities, which produces weakness in the blood vessels.

Whenever there is headache, backache, neuralgia, rheumatism—it means blood poisoning. "Fruit-a-tives" are a certain cure for all these troubles.
 "Fruit-a-tives" are made of fruit juices and tonics. 50c. a box. At all dealers.
