ATTENTION TO RELIGION IS SAID VITAL

In Order to Avoid Breakdown Such as Occurred After Last War — Sermon of Dr. Kerr

In order to avoid a breakdown in morality such as occurred after the last war, the nation must devote more of its time to the religious aspect of life now, Dr. F. W. Kerr, of St. Andrew's Church, Westmount, declared in his sermon Sunday night. He said that after 1918 "the last sanctions of morality were thrown overboard" and the lives and habits of the young people were demoralized. Many of the higher institutions in the land contributed to this tendency for loose living, he claimed.

A talk with an air force officer on this subject, who proclaimed that a moral breakdown would follow in the wake of this war as surely as it did in the last, encouraged him to bring it before the congregation Dr. Kerr stated. He advocated greater control over "those who teach, and who, under the pretence of academic freedom, destroy those principles which we send our children to college to strengthen" as a means of preventing a like happening this time.

Referring to Bertrand Russell who in his book said that "domestic fidelity was an untorn conception," Dr. Kerr said that it was significant that Russell had repudiated God before developing such ideas.

Besides these, a large parcel of gifts went to Miss Marguerite Fowler, Prayer Partner of the Branch, for her work at Swan River, Manitoba; also a parcel of knitted mittens, socks etc., to a needy family in Saskatchewan.

Featured in the cast are Sally Starke, Alex Thomson, Virginia Webb, Joan Withers, Basil Dunn, Rene Almond, Barney McCaffrey, Alfred Redgell and Frank Young.

HOBBY SHOW TO PUT STRESS ON ENTERTAINMENT

Need for Diversion Under Present Conditions to be Emphasized in 1941 Event

Scheduled to be held in mid-March, the Westmount Boys' and Girls' 1941 Hobby Show will stress the entertainment section.

With the country at war and many members of families being overseas, the need for entertainment is greater than ever this year and so the Westmount Boys' and Girls' 1941 Hobby Show will stress the entertainment section when the show is held in mid-March.

The Hobby Show will accept any kind of good entertainment act, the committee suggesting popular music both by individual performers and orchestras, marionette shows or monologues.

Life in the north is hazardous but hardly the speaker said, "Rotarians, if any of your sons acquire an urge to travel into the Arctic regions, don't be too hasty in discouraging them, for it couldn't hurt but make real healthy citizens of them and improve upon them how much the finer things of civilization mean."

A native of Scotland, Mitchell said he joined the Hudson's Bay Company and came to Canada at the age of 18. His first stop after landing was Winnipeg, where he lingered a short while before travelling north to Selkirk to begin his apprenticeship.

Seven weeks spent in Selkirk, Mitchell then was transferred to Churchill and it was a year before he again was shifted, this time to Fort Severn. And following a year living among the Cree Indians, the speaker said he realized his ambition, being appointed to a post in the Arctic region itself at Chesterfield.

He stayed there three years before being drafted back to Churchill as officer in charge and remained until he left the company's employ some time later.

Describing the Eskimos hunting technique, the speaker said their most interesting of three seal-catching methods was to drive a dog team out on the ice, letting the dogs pick up the scent of a recently-broken hole in the ice.

When such a hole had been located, the hunters would tether the dog team about 100 yards off, build a shelter near the hole, sit down and wait for the seal to push his head above water. When this happened, Mr. Seal would get a spear through the head and that was that.

The northerners also were described as being fearless bear hunters. It is common practice, Mitchell said, for an eskimo to invade a den where a bear is hibernating for the winter. The hunter's equipment is a candle and a rifle, the candle lighting the bear and the rifle doing the rest.

Life In Arctic Regions Described To Rotarians

Hudson's Bay and surrounding Arctic regions, setting for a major moving picture production currently showing in Montreal, was described to Westmount Rotarians yesterday by W. R. Mitchell at the club's weekly luncheon in Victoria Hall.

Credit manager for Imperial Oil, Ltd., Mitchell spent fourteen years as a youth in and around Hudson's Bay and James Bays, employed by the Hudson's Bay Company, and he spoke entertainingly of the country itself, its inhabitants, their way of life and several of his own personal experiences.

Life in the north is hazardous but hardly the speaker said, "Rotarians, if any of your sons acquire an urge to travel into the Arctic regions, don't be too hasty in discouraging them, for it couldn't hurt but make real healthy citizens of them and improve upon them how much the finer things of civilization mean."

WESTMOUNT, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1941

CANADA'S PROBLEM PROVINCE

Regardless of what our experience was during the first World War, this country's problem child in this struggle is most emphatically Ontario. For years, it has been generally recognized that our system of national finance was far from efficient even for peace-time needs and an obvious and decided handicap in time of national emergency.

BEYOND BURNING

History books record London's Great Fire of 1666 as one of humanity's worst tragedies. Burning for four days and sweeping away most of the British capital, it is ranked with earthquakes and floods. Now the same area has been fire-swept again, this time by 10,000 blazes deliberately set by Nazi incendiary bombs.

This man-made catastrophe has destroyed priceless monuments of beauty and history. The famous Guildhall, encrusted with the patina of pageantry; the Cheshire Cheese and other haunts of Dr. Johnson, Paternoster Row and several lovely Wren churches are listed among the casualties.

But civilization is more than buildings, however noble, however rich with years. They are but the evidences. Into them went love, honesty, courage, a sense of beauty—the best that their age knew.

Those qualities are beyond burning or bombing. The ingenious organization of London's new fire-fighting system and the heroism of firemen and citizens saved part of the heart of London.

Indeed many would say even now that despite bombing and burning, the British Isles today are stronger and richer than when the war began. Britain is stronger in courage and unselfishness, richer in appreciation of liberty, in determination to build a more just and secure society.

Gayda Sees Plot For British-U.S. World Domination

Fascism's leading editorial spokesman, Virginia Gayda, accused British Prime Minister Winston Churchill recently of seeking to establish "Anglo-Saxon domination of the world" with Britain and the United States sharing in the domination.

"Churchill is calling America into Europe and would like to give her, with her homicidal arms and heavy dollar policy, a mandate of guardianship over European civilization in association with the British Empire," Signor Gayda wrote in the newspaper Il Giornale d'Italia.

Signor Gayda's comment was made in connection with Mr. Churchill's speech before the Pilgrims in London in a send-off to Viscount Halifax. Upon the relation between the British Empire and the United States, the Prime Minister said, depends "the future of the whole world and the hopes of a broadening civilization founded upon Christian ethics."

Remarking that the United States had lost "precious markets in Europe," Signor Gayda said: "If the United States with a realistic sense and clearer vision of European things wanted to settle its affairs better, it should line up, in the interests of its own trade, on the side of young nations (meaning Germany and Italy) instead of digging such a deep dangerous chasm against them."

Parisians Limited To One Butcher

According to reports from Paris, inhabitants of the Nazi-occupied French capital have been restricted to registration at one butcher shop under a new rationing law aimed at increasing Parisians' food supplies.

THE MAGNANIMOUS MURRAY

"To cease consideration of the personalities of Nova Scotia politics without mentioning George H. Murray would be a flagrant and wholly inexcusable omission. # High Home And School Association Article

What are the responsibilities of parent, and pupil in a world of transition and revolution? Whatever our conclusion, the fundamentals of civilization still exist. Children of today as adults of tomorrow will need strength of character, moral fibre, hardihood, vision, and training in cultural and practical skills. Thus they can, with these qualifications, meet the vicissitudes of life at worst, and at best take an active part in moulding future civilization.

Do parents give the most careful planning to the most important period of a child's life as they do to the purchase of an automobile or a house? Do they consider that this entails for them definite action as to what and who shall form the character of their children and influence their lives, from the members of the Council to the teacher in the classroom? Whatever name we give a system, 6-3-3 or 5-4-4 or fight, the character and ability of each person involved in that system decides its worth. It derives its tone and ideals from the ideals and character of the parent. The system is their instrument and produces their music. It is doing so now, either through their active or passive participation — whether they know it or not.

In the most vital of all work, the utmost interest, foresight and sacrifices are needed. If we sacrifice our sons' lives at a cost of thousands for the death of each, is it unreasonable to sacrifice a fraction of the amount to equip the next generation for life in a world bettered by both sacrifices? There is no work which requires greater idealism and ability, which exacts a greater toll from the worker than teaching, because, like all worthwhile work, it is creative. All that is petty, mean, and self-seeking should be eliminated wherever it exists. We are discovering today that nobility of thought and conduct are more common attributes in the ordinary individual than in our cynical age had expected. A practical idealism is replacing materialism. It is our necessity if we are to avoid the petty pace of all our yesterdays that have lighted fools the way to dusty death.

We have sufficient character and ability to draw upon for education. Are we seeking it out and placing it in its rightful position? Or do we expect it? Just so surely as we bar our children from its contact, we expose and even imbue them with the virus of smallness, selfishness and cowardice which eventually in a social economy lead to spiritual death and physical destruction. Every parent longs for his child to be brave and unselfish; longs to fit him by character and training for his place, if possible, among the great; yet some paralysing force often deadens and smothers his devotion to his child's future. What is that force? Many — by no means all — teachers have a similar devotion, and the most devoted are the most hampered. There is in the case of teachers and explanation but no excuse for existing inertia. People do not quarrel with their bread and butter even though the butter is margarine. If every teacher were financially independent, needed action and reform would have been instituted long since. Then it is evident that parent and teachers have one common aim, and it is essential that we should work towards it. Close co-operation between parent and teacher will have immediate and far-reaching effects. If it is the conviction of the parent that no building is so important as the building of his child's life, he will not lack zeal; if it is the conviction of the teacher that he belongs to a profession second to none in respect due to it, and that he cannot belong to it conscientiously without adhering to certain standards for it, he will take his place as a brave citizen and specialist in promoting reforms for the child's benefit. No layman mentation of the dictatorships so much that we may lean over backward and scrap all discipline. There is need in our schools for wise and intelligent discipline. No doubt the manner in which we bear our reverses will show our children how to cut their losses with a grin. Co-operation is gained in the home and at school by mutual good sportsmanship. None the less discipline must be bred into the child by parent, teacher and class mate. Thus it will pass gradually from the outside in to form part of the child's character. In this the child has a great, though often unrecognized, responsibility. His attitude of interest and cheerful co-operation sets the tone of his fellows.

We have been and still are beset by confused thinking and negative procedure. Theories are set forth in books, expounded from platforms to the frustration of parent and teacher. These theories are beautiful to behold but terrible to receive as the British soldier said of the German Tank. In the actual meeting of a situation or condition, they often prove a snare and a delusion. We must keep in mind that those who invent these theories are seldom called upon to put them into practice. When the smoke has cleared away, we shall find that long, long ago Proverbs and Ecclesiastes had the final word. Teachers and parents know that at times the rosiest theories fail them and we lay hold on actuality. What we find helpful, let us use; but let us not be led into incapacity of action through uncertainty and confusion. We must steer a sane course to our objective and let the theorists continue to toss flowery nosegays to us. We are free to gather such blooms as fit our colour scheme.

While our children were being delightedly thrilled by the happy endings of Hollywood movies and by baseball and football, the youth of Germany was at work shaping the real world. This quotation from Mauro's "Tragedy in France" is one for us to ponder. Why wasn't it our youth who shaped the world in which we are all forced to live and our own youth forced to die? Are we fitting our present youth by definite action and wholesome discipline to become responsible citizens? Through spinelessness or fear of creating inhibitions and what-nots, are we sending them into the toughest of all worlds unable to handle and control themselves, a menace and a liability to the community? Sports and physical training are an equal necessity for all, but the elevation of a football squad to the position of conquering heroes accorded greater privileges than the Royal Air Force is a danger to our schools and by no means an uncommon one. Sports for the few while the majority gain a vicarious thrill should not be the be-all and end-all of our school's existence. We parents and teachers must keep in mind the development of character in the child, not personal or school fame, and the fame will take care of itself. In any case it should be a by-product, not a primary objective.

Every child in his early years instinctively makes great use of the word "Why?" Sometimes he keeps that habit more often loses it. Where does the responsibility lie? Aside from the child's natural aptitude, the onus must fall on those who influence his thinking and reasoning. Have we parents and teachers too often quickly shut off many an earnest effort to arrive at truth, or passively omitted encouraging it? Loyalty is the responsibility of the child, fostered by the parent and teachers. If he is trained to be loyal to his ideals, he will instinctively be loyal to an institution which should represent those ideals. If loyalty is the child's responsibility, being worthy of it is the institution's. This doesn't just happen without thought or sacrifice. If we consider it our noble aim to find and place and reward people of ability in time of national crises, is it not equally our duty to do as much for the children of our country? Youth is always a time of crisis.

In Rome's finest days the father, by example, precept and constant companionship, educated his son and taught him the responsibility of Roman citizenship. We recognize a similar necessity today, but circumstances have made the teacher the parent's assistant. This tendency is increasing and will continue to do so. Parents thus are responsible for choosing the type of people who are to have so extensive an influence over their children's lives. Now as never since Rome's downfall have all standards been so assailed. Therefore, now we must implant the strongest principles of right-thinking, conduct, and religion in its widest and most tolerant sense. It is vitally important that we develop true values of living without inculcating a blind subservience to momentary and expedient policies. What wisdom and courage we parents and teachers should possess. We ought to strive to act on the little that we have. Those of us, who cherish a dim, nostalgic memory of security before the Great War, and who shared the lack of restraint, instability and mental confusion of the past twenty-five years with their wake of cynicism and destruction, cannot too seriously consider that this present generation has been born to and nurtured in a world of insecurity, negation and doubt. Can't we give to them in their struggle a rock on which to plant their feet? This is their one chance at living. While we sit them for it, we must fill them with the thought that ours is the most wonderful and most adventurous of all ages. Why shouldn't it be the most terrible? Scarcely have always been weighted. But the sun that glinted on the plumed and burnished helmets of the Trojan heroes still shines on the faces and in the clear eyes of our own youth. Olympus can again become the home of the gods.

What parent contemplating his child ever falls in some degree to project his mind in to the future—the future of his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren? Can he imagine a world without them? What of the parents of yesterday — what were their dreams of our future? Yet how many of us feel equipped to plan and act constructively not only for the future of those dear to us but for others? We must train our youth to believe that the fate of mankind is our common destiny. Not for its beauty alone did Hemingway choose as foreword to his latest book a thought old but ever new — one which is gaining momentum among thinking and feeling people. We know the tie that binds all humanity cannot be broken by one individual without affecting all. In undisturbed periods of infraction of this fundamental law may pass unheeded, but its cumulative effect will be evident immediately in time of stress or crisis. It cannot be eradicated by the sudden enactment of strict laws to halt disintegration. Then it is driven underground to breed and fester in noisome places. But it can be counteracted and finally annulled by practical and idealistic education for all. The belief that he lives not for himself and for today but for others and tomorrow should constantly be fostered in the mind of the child. We must train our youth to believe that the fate of mankind is our common testing. "No man is an island entire of itself; every man is a piece of the continent, a piece of the main; if a Clod be washed away by the Sea, Europe is the less as well as if a Promontory were, as well as if a Manor of thy friend's or thine own were; any man's death diminishes me because I am involved in Mankind; and therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls, it tolls for thee."

Sarnia Down In Population

For the first time since 1934, Sarnia's population has dropped below the 18,000 mark. The city assessment department reports that the 1940 figure is 17,991.

With exception of the years 1918, 1932, 1937 and 1939, there has been a steady increase in the number of people taking up residence here. The temporary setback is attributed to enlistments, the same reason given in 1918 and not to any actual loss in population, assuming men in the fighting forces will live here upon their return.

GOWER-REES IN ADDRESS ON THE LEAGUE'S VALUE

"One of the Grandest Things That Has Come Out of the World War" — Record of Achievement

A meeting was held yesterday by the Notre Dame de Grace Branch of the League of Nations Society in Canada, in the Y.M.C.A. building, with Mrs. J. Wilfred Shaw as Chairman.

The meeting opened with the singing of "There'll Always Be An England," with Mrs. J. C. Muskett at the piano. The chairman gave a short address on "Rebuilding the League," followed by short talks by each of the following members, Mrs. A. R. Ketterson, Mrs. R. G. Liddy, Mrs. C. H. R. Bird, Mrs. J. T. Keay, and Mrs. W. T. Perry of the Montreal West Branch of the League.

The speaker of the afternoon was Archdeacon Gower-Rees who gave an outline of the League's History, its aims, and its problems. "After the World War" the speaker said "people were willing to grasp at any straw, and the League was welcomed as a means of directing the affairs of mankind without the horror of war. The idea was by no means a new one, many organizations having been formed for the prevention of War and furtherance of Peace, but people were so anxious to find

A way in which mankind might live together peaceably and decently, that they welcomed this new order which might solve the problem.

The speaker went on to state that a thorough understanding of the differences in European standards as compared with those of this continent was essential in order to arrive at a point where man may start building to achieve a successful solution of the human problem.

"The League has many successes to its credit," continued the speaker, "it is one of the grandest things that has come out of the World War."

HER "LUCKY" GOWN

Metropolitan Opera star Rise Stevens and Texas-born Paris couturier Mainbocher have been close friends since they studied voice together in America and Europe. Their parallel successes have produced the tradition that the young mezzo-soprano wear a Mainbocher gown for each concert debut. This is the one she wore at Constitution Hall, Washington, when she sang at President Roosevelt's third inaugural concert. It is of white slipper satin with immense gold lame leaves trailing across the skirt.

Miss Beatrice Primeau, diocesan president of the C.W.L., and guest of the subdivision, gave a short talk stressing the importance of war work and urging all Catholic women to be members of the League so that a united effort could be made. She referred to the motto of the League, "For God and Canada."

Mrs. W. J. Keating presented Miss Primeau with a shopping bag on behalf of the members. Miss Primeau was thanked by Mrs. R. G. Hishon for her inspiring talk, and Mrs. F. O. Reynolds thanked the musicians.

On exhibition were 100 knitted articles, made by the pupils of the 1st and 2nd years of the Thomas D'Arcy McGee High School and donated to Mrs. C. H. G. Short, Red Cross Convener of the subdivision. This work was done under the guidance of Miss A. E. Quinn, domestic science teacher.

Local Chapter I.O.D.E. Has Successful Year

The 11th Annual Meeting of the Canon Scott Chapter I.O.D.E. was held at the home of Miss Grace Wallace, 12 Melbourne Avenue, on Tuesday, Feb. 4.

The chapter had a highly successful year, with 25 active members and five associate members. Total receipts were $1,751.07; expenditures were $1,225.73, of which $834.24 was spent on war work. Money was raised by means of a bridge and tea, rummage sale, I.O.D.E. tag day, fashion show and tombola, and the sale of sock measures. These measures created an almost steady demand, and have proved popular in both Canada and the United States. Sales have reached as far as British Columbia and across the border to Boston.

The war work of the Chapter was extensive. It became an auxiliary to the 3rd Anti Tank Company of the 3rd Brigade, and undertook to send all field comforts to that unit. Several thousand cigarettes were shipped overseas and 656 articles, comprising sweaters, socks, mufflers and caps were completed. Friends of the members were greatly interested, and besides assisting in knitting and sewing, sent in donations of money, most outstanding of which was a cheque for $250 to the I.O.D.E. Bomber Fund from the Refined Oil and Gas Ltd. A personal contribution by the members to this fund amounted to $87.50.

Blankets were sent to the Canadian Hostel in London, and donations of money made to the

Technicolor Used For First Time By DeMille

Cecil B. DeMille's first experience with Technicolor, in his latest production, "North West Mounted Police," is now playing at the Monkland United Theatre until Saturday night, must have satisfied him 100 per cent, for the maestro recently announced that in the future he will make all his pictures in color. When asked why, after a single experience with hues, he preferred the medium to black-and-white, the great producer-director gave a number of reasons.

Madeleine Carroll, Paulette Goddard, Preston Foster and Robert Preston. And the great foreign market with assuming the maddening shape of a question mark. Cautious heads counselled that color be left alone. "Yet the very subject of the picture seemed to cry for color. The magnificent Canadian landscapes, the smart uniforms of the Mounted, and the picturesque garb of the voyageurs lost immeasurably in black and white. "And the blonde beauty of Madeleine Carroll, who had never done a color picture before, took on so much added warmth and vitality in color tests that she seemed a new screen discovery. "After those tests there was no more said about doing "North West Mounted Police," in black and white. "In the early days, I had used color for some scenes of "Joan, the Woman," and later for the more spectacular sequences of "The Ten Commandments" and "The King of Kings." But color had been an awkward and highly experimental innovation then. This was to be my first all-color picture. Those tests were convincing proof that the medium had been brought to a high peak of development, both in truthfulness of reproduction and in practical usability.

CHIEF OF HOLLYWOOD'S HAIR FORCE

Hollywood—Though his appearance is far from arty, and his manner completely unaffected, a young Montrealer named Sydney Guilaroff is undisputed head of Hollywood's hair force. What he says is law in the realm of shingles, locks and curls. His shears and curling irons are almost dictatorial. This is the same Sydney Guilaroff who studied at Bancroft School in Montreal, played sand-lot ball with the boys down the block, and ran off to New York when 15. Not the type generally associated with his profession, he lacks the gloss of Antoine, the social ambitions of Charles of the Ritz. Instead he has a down-to-earth manner, a businesslike approach to his work. To him, each new head is a challenge. Today Guilaroff is chief hair stylist at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Hollywood's largest film studio. At 30, he is to film stars' hair what Adrian is to their wardrobe. There pass through his hands daily the most glamorous locks in America. He cuts and curls them as he sees fit, creating the cinema coiffures which eventually set the style for hair-dos throughout the world. Though Sydney Guilaroff hit the prints some years ago by becoming America's outstanding bachelor father through adoption of a baby-boy, the full story of his success has seldom been told. Reluctant to talk about himself, his vital statistics must be gleaned in snatches—a word or two at lunch in the studio commissary, a question posed by telephone, a query innocently interpolated in casual conversations. Sydney stumbled upon his profession. Two sisters, Olga and Vera, are prominent in Montreal concert circles—but, much as he loved fine music, the Muse did not capture him. When 15, Sydney ran off to New York, going to work in the packing department of Gimbel's department store. This happy state of affairs ended suddenly when a heavy crate crashed on his left arm, injuring it badly. Able to use only his right arm, the lad took a job as porter in a beauty parlor at $14 a week. In spare moments the operators taught him to shampoo and cut hair. Then came his first lucky break. Sweeping the floor one day, he was approached by the proprietor. "Do you think you can cut a customer's hair?" asked the boss. "Yes!" he fairly shouted, dropping his broom and donning a white jacket. Without further ado he went to work on his first client—a woman who thought him a member of the regular staff and tipped him a dollar. That tip opened Sydney's eyes. When the proprietor refused him promotion or salary increase, the 17-year-old lad crossed the street or another salon and signed on at $50 weekly, an increase of $46 over his previous salary. Sydney saved his money, but overwork forced him to return to Montreal for two years. Two years later he was in New York again—broke as on his first visit, but this time with a definite goal. He went to work in a smart salon at a ridiculously low wage, receiving only the customers that his fellow-hairdressers were too busy to accept. Then came his second lucky break. Joan Crawford came in. She had just completed her first talking picture, "Within the Law," and her star was zooming. Miss Crawford liked his work. She not only returned, but sent him such clients as Claudette Colbert and Constance Bennett. The news spread, and soon women were

TENSELY DRAMATIC!

Bette Davis in the tensely dramatic film based on Somerset Maugham's play, "The Letter," which opens at the York United Theatre on Saturday playing until Tuesday night. The cast includes Herbert Marshall, James Stephenson, Frieda Inescort and Gale Sondergaard.

Occasionally he sketches his hair designs before touching his subject. At times he lays awake all night conjuring up creations for a test in the morning. But Sydney believes that creation is more inspirational than decision. Most of his stylings simply unfold themselves under his fingers. And so it goes. Ready to work at 7 a.m., his day does not end until 6 p.m. He must keep an eye on as many as eight productions and 50 individual hairdressers at the same time. Even rival coiffures confess that he is king in his field; and when Hedy Lamarr, Joan Crawford, Norma Shearer, Judy Garland, Rosalind Russell, Laraine Day, Iona Mason, Myrna Loy, Jeanette MacDonald or Katherine Hepburn strut across the screen you may rest assured that Sydney Guilaroff is responsible for their crowning glory. In "The Women" he gave the fair sex back their ears, though experts had claimed that sleek coiffures, showing the ears and leaving no hair to frame the face, were unsuitable for pictures. He believes the hair is its own adornment, and steers clear of jewelled hair ornaments—even with for-

Snowdon Has A New Hit In "Keep Your Seats Please"

"Keep Your Seats Please," which opened at the Snowdon United Theatre last Sunday, sets a new standard of excellence for British farce comedy. From start to finish it may safely be said there is not a dull moment. The film depicts an ingenious story of a search for a fortune concealed in one of a set of seven chairs. As such it is perhaps the most excitingly funny treasure hunt the screen has yet given us. The action moves at a fast pace throughout with adventure after adventure for George and his merry crew. Formby is truly in his element, pausing now and again to put over, with his ukelele accompaniment, several saucy songs. Of these the Window Cleaner's number and "Keep Your Seats Please" are the most notable. The latter number being sung in a bus in order to divert the passengers from a realization of the redolent presence of a goat temporarily disguised as a dog. Florence Desmond is an able partner in the fun making and in song, and Alastair Sim, Harry Tate and Gus McNaughton give slick portrayals.

"Go West" Laughs Given 103 Tests Before Filming

Although they have been capturing laughs for a quarter of a century, the Marx Brothers still believe that the only way to find out what is funny is to let the public itself decide. That is why the comedy in "Go West," their latest comedy, which is now playing at the York United Theatre, was tried out for a total of 103 times before being put before the cameras. The first two pictures made by the Marx Brothers, "The Cocoanuts" and "Animal Crackers," had each played for two years on Broadway and on tour as stage musicals. Hence all comedy was tried and proven. The Marxes later tried original screen comedy but returned to public-tested material for "A Night at the Opera" and "A Day at the Circus." Seven Months for Story. They did the same with "Go West." Seven months were spent in writing the story, comedy situations and dialogue. With their writers, the comedy stars then took two weeks to work the biggest laugh scenes into stage action for a try out. They wove them into five scenes. Next they ordered scenery and costumes, and assembled a troupe of forty. They spent as much money and time for a movie-script tryout of four weeks as they would have on a Broadway production, for they wanted real entertainment to give audiences in exchange for their reactions. NOT SHORT OF FRUIT South Africa shipped 3,200,000 cases of citrus fruit to Great Britain in the last year.

A thrilling note of mystery and suspense is introduced on this program in the second production, "The Return of Dr. X," which features Wayne Morris, Rosemary Lane, Humphrey Bogart and John Littel. Excellent short subjects and the latest news of the day will also be screened.

Emma Dunn Is Selected For 'Roosty' Mother Role

Emma Dunn, who plays Lew Ayres' mother in the "Dr. Kildare" pictures, assumes a new part on the screen. She was this week signed for the role of Mrs. McCormick, Robert Sterling's mother in "Roosty," filmization of Martin Berkeley's stage play, at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. In the role she is one of the reforming influences in the life of Gene Reynolds, playing a ringer's son who finds regeneration on a farm. Lionel Barrymore, Edward Arnold and Reynolds head the cast. Harold S. Bucquet is directing. Jack Chertok produces.

Rooney And Judy Appear In Film At Westmount

Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland, heading a frolicsome juvenile group, provide music with laughs in "Strike Up the Band," gay musical romance of youth, which is now playing at the Westmount United Theatre until Saturday night. Mickey and Judy, aided and abetted by June Preisser and other clever youngsters, many seen with them in "Babes in Arms," organize a swing band in high school. Their adventures range from staging a comical travesty on old-time plays, with "coony" songs, to smart ballroom work, modern song hits such as "Nobody" and "Our Love Affair," and a big climax in a radio studio where they win Paul Whiteman's prize with Gershwin's "Strike Up the Band," embellished by comical specialities.

Mickey plays an amazing drum solo in the "Drummer Boy" number by his orchestra. Paul Whiteman and his orchestra contribute "When Day Is Done" and "My Wonderful One." Other songs, new and old, heard in the elaborate production include "Heaven Will Protect a Working Girl," "The Curse of an Aching Heart," "Father, Dear Father," "She's More to Be Pitted Than Cursed," "I Just Can't Make My Eyes Behave" and "Ta Ra Ra Boom-de-Ay."

CANADIANS ANNEX ST. LEO'S ACADEMY HOCKEY HONORS

CAPTURE INTRA-MURAL CROWN BY DEFEATING RANGERS, 2-1 IN SECOND PLAY-OFF CONTEST

A last-period goal by Lock MacDonald gave Canadians a 2-1 victory over Rangers and the St. Leo's Academy Intra-Mural Hockey League title Tuesday on the Academy rink. The triumph was the Canucks' second straight in the best-of-three final playoff.

One of the season's best, the tilt saw the titlists forced to come from behind to pull out the decision.

It was Johnny Kennedy who gave Rangers an early lead, combining smartly with Charlie Lovett and Brian Shea.

Kennedy was responsible in some measure, however, for Rangers' loss of command before the first session ended, drawing a penalty for holding to leave his club shy a man.

And the Canucks didn't waste much time capitalizing on the edge in man-power. Burris working in close to tie the count.

The scoreless second session was mostly all Rangers, Adrian Lunny's squad hemming the opposition into its own end and peppering Goalie Horwood continually.

The backstopper held off the attack superbly, however, and saw his mates clinch the game soon after the final frame got underway.

Jack Shannon made the play for the winner, sending MacDonald in unhampered with a deft, blinease pass and the marksman poked the far corner with a low drive. Rangers sought the equalizer with continual power plays but couldn't beat Canadians' strong defensive tactics.

Following the clash, members of both squads were guests of Brother George, school director, at a special luncheon. Brother George presented Kevin Shea, captain of the winners, with a silver trophy emblematic of league championship.

HURRICANE SIX ENDS SCHEDULE IN FIRST PLACE

Bill Dryden's Hurricanes in the Bantam Section, are the only undefeated team in the Westmount Municipal Hockey League. While the Hurricanes were held to two draws, they hung up seven wins without a loss and topped the second place Argos by seven points.

While most of the bantam games during the past week were lost or won by default due to the non-appearance of the players' birth certificates, all teams played their scheduled games as exhibition affairs.

One league game was played on Friday evening, however, when the winless Aces threw a scare into the Argos play-off hopes by taking an early two goal lead on the second place club. Charlie McCrae and Pat Rigby got these opening counters but Milton Orr scored twice for the Argos to tie the game up by the end of the second period. Two last period goals by Charlie Lovett gave the Argos their win.

Jack McKissock of the Hurricanes the loop's leading marksman, had very little chance to increase his "goals scored" mark due to the defaulted games, but he kept his scoring eye in trim by notching a few goals in the exhibition tilts.

Milton Orr of the Argos scored six goals one less than McKissock and it will be quite a duel between the two of them in the play-offs. Bill Dryden spent the most time in the penalty box, eighteen minutes.

The Bantam play-offs will get under way tomorrow evening when the Argos and Hurricanes meet in the first of a two-out-of-three games series for the title. The second game will be played on Saturday afternoon and the third if necessary on Friday, Feb. 14.

It is quite possible that penalties might decide this series, as the Hurricanes a big team are prone to get penalties which would give the Argos chance to get their smaller men in around the nets.

The Taschereau Downhill is one of the most popular racing events on the Zone's competitive schedule in that it allows competitors of average ability an opportunity for distinguishing themselves without being overshadowed by the top flight FIS and Class A Racers.

Sport Round-Up

BY ZEKE

In last Friday night's fixture, Dalzell's Canadians defeated the Staynor Hawks by a score of 4-0. It was one of the best games of the year.

Both teams were skating fast, and the checking was very hard. The Canucks, opened the scoring in the first period on a goal by Dougie Heron. He picked the puck up at his own defence, raced down to the blue line, and drove a high shot in the corner, for the first counter.

The rest of the period went scoreless.

In the second period both teams came out to score goals. Before the period was long underway, Dougie Heron and Peter Boxer were banished for charging. This left the Canadians playing three men against five, but they managed to hold off the Hawks until the team was at full strength again. Up till this time Allan Bolduc, young goater, was playing fine hockey for the Canadians.

In the final period Edward Read scored two fast goals for the Canadians, making the score 4-0.

It was later following on a tally by Johnny Redpath. This put the game on ice for Canadians and the final score was Canadians 4, Hawks 0.

On Monday night, Dalzell's Canadians defeated the second place Golden Eagles by a score of 5-2.

It was a fast, hard bumping game with Canadians opening the scoring on a smart goal by Skipper Finlay.

Both teams played smart hockey, with Canadians first line passing the puck around for some beautiful plays. During this period the Golden Eagles defence was hitting very hard, but could not seem to score any goals.

The second period started with the Golden Eagles down one goal. Halfway through this period they tied it up, on a goal by Baron, making the score 1-1.

From this time on the Canucks were the better team all the way. During the third period they scored four goals, to the Eagles one. Both defences were hitting very hard, but Dalzell's Canadians' forward line outlasted their opponents considerably.

The Canadians goals were scored by Skipper Finlay, Brenny Mackon, Edward Read and Ian Darroch. The goals for the Golden Eagles were scored by Baron and Tontsy Prevost. The game ended up by a score of 5-2.

DOTS AND DASHES.

The Canadians were seen flashing a new goater the other night. Their regular goater, Vernon Murray had to mind the kids. The Panthers of the Midget League have a fine hockey player in the person of Bobby Lord. He is a little colored fellow. Kevin Kennedy looks like a good goater for junior coaches, to keep their eyes on. Kenny Bolduc, Panther's goater keeper scored his third shut out of the year, against the Hawks, last Friday night.

Jimmy McCormick organizer of the leagues, never misses a game. This writer hopes he takes his time in choosing his referees for the play-offs. Leslie Pingle star defenceman of the Royals, juvenile league of last year, was in town last week-end. Leslie is now giving his services to the R.C.A.F. The Royals have finally given Jimmy Haggerty a break. In the last three games, he piled up a good scoring average and tied his scoring record by Med Martel of the old Verdun Maple Leafs.

Johnny Mahaffey local Westmount baseball and tennis player, is also playing fine hockey for Royals. Tubby O'Connell of the Argos is playing fine hockey for his team. He is doing most of the scoring for St. Leo's Junior's. From the result of last Monday's game it looks as if Canadians are the team to try and beat this year. But Dougie Alexander's Eagles won't be far behind. The way the local boys are enlisting, we doubt if there will be a soft-ball league this summer. Most of the Granites are in uniform and Bertie Dalzell and Donney Maher giving their services to the R.M.R. They're two smart soldiers.

Howard Hushion who usually appears in this column is up and around again. Howard has been an invalid for the last few weeks.

PANTHER CLUB STILL IN TIE WITH BEAVERS

The Midget Section of the Westmount Municipal Hockey League is undoubtedly the most evenly balanced of all three groups.

When the schedule ended on Saturday afternoon, two teams, Beavers and Panthers were tied for first place, while two teams, Argos and Hawks, were tied for the last play-off berth. Each of the top two clubs, Beavers and Panthers ended up their schedule with a pair of wins.

The Panthers victories were via the shut-out route and Kenny Bolduc in the nets has not been scored on in two games. One of the Panthers wins was a 6-0 shelling to the Argos. Bruce Marshall led the scoring brigade with two counters while Bob Lord, Dunc Patterson, Ed. Gillingham, and Buddy Lyons each scored once.

The Panthers other shut-out was at the expense of the Hawks, a 3-0 effort at Staynor rink on Friday night. Bob Lord performed the hat-trick for the winners getting all three goals.

The Beavers' two wins included a defaulted game from the Hawks. The other encounter resulted in a 6-2 victory over the Argos in a game played at King George Park. John Peirson, scoring ace notched four of the winners' counters, with Ken Lindsay and Eric Swain scoring one each. Donnie Bussiere and Willie Shea tallied for the Argos.

The Midget Section play-offs will get under way tomorrow night, when the loser of the Panthers-Beavers game played last night hooks up with the winners of the Argos-Hawks game also played last night.

This will be a two-game total points to count series with the second game to be played on Saturday afternoon, Feb. 8. The winner of this series will then meet the winner of last night's Beaver-Panther game in a two-out-of-three games series starting on Wednesday, Feb. 12.

Bob Lord, Panthers wing man, nosed out John Peirson of the Beavers in the scoring race. Lord tallied eleven times, once more than Peirson who got ten goals. Harold Fairhead, manager of the Panthers and Frank Berry, Argo defenceman, spent the most time in the penalty box, twelve minutes apiece.

Panthers Win 1-0 For Top Position

The Panthers defeated the Sniffliers 1-0 Saturday morning to take over first place in the Prince Albert Hockey League. Lafontaine got the only goal of the contest for the Panthers half-way through the first period.

In the other game of the double-header, the Argos shut-out the Beavers 2-0 on goals by Maurice Strachan and Earl MacDonald.

This Saturday's double-header starting at 9:30 a.m. at the Prince Albert rink, will see the two unbeaten teams: Argos and Panthers clash in the first game, with Beavers and Sniffliers meeting in the other half of the twin-bill.

ENTRY FORMS FOR SKI RACE ARE IN MAIL

Entry forms for the sixth annual Taschereau Downhill Race, scheduled for February 16, on Mont Tremblant, have been mailed to member clubs of the Laurentian Zone, it was announced here today by J. L. Bedard, vice-president of the St. Jovite Ski Club which will sponsor the race.

HURST SCORES 8-ROUND WIN AGAINST RICO

Harry Hurst, promising N.D.G. lightweight, thumped out a convincing eight-round decision over Chester Rico last night in the eight-round feature of boxing card at the Bronx Coliseum in New York City.

Making his first start of 1941 in a New York ring, Hurst gained a unanimous verdict. Sharpening up for a prospective bout with Montreal's Dave Castilloux here Feb. 18, Hurst proved too smart for Rico both in close and at long range.

It also was his first go since mid-December when he smashed his left hand in a bout at Toronto.

DALZELL'S CANADIENS EARN TOP SPOT IN JUVENILE LOOP AND ARE FAVORED FOR TITLE

Bert Dalzell's Canadiens justified their pre-season rating as favorites to cop the juvenile title in the Westmount Municipal Hockey League by finishing on top of the heap when the league race finished on Monday night.

Hanging up three victories during the week, one a 4-0 shut-out over the Hawks on the Staynor rink on Friday night, the Canucks ended up five points ahead of Dougie Alexander's Golden Eagles the second place club. The other two wins by the Canadiens were at the expense of the Golden Eagles and Argos.

The game at Staynor on Friday evening between the Hawks and the Canadiens was a fairly rugged affair with the players laying it on pretty heavy. Euard Read scored two of the winners' goals, while John Redpath and Johnny Chénier got one apiece. Allan Bolduc, subbing for Vernon Murray in the Champion's nets, received credit for the shut-out.

In addition to winning one of their three games by default from the Argos, the Canadiens beat their closest rivals and play-off contender, the Golden Eagles on Monday night 5-2. The play in this game was a little closer than the score indicates, with the winners' superior defence making the difference between the two teams.

Ian Darroch picked up one of the Canadiens goals which was enough to give him the individual scoring honor, one more than the Hawks' sensational John Garland who scored his seven goals in three games.

Other Canadiens' goals were scored by Euard Read, Brendan Macken and a pair of them by Gault Finley. Donnie Mann and Francois Prevost got the losers' tallies.

The Juvenile play-off series will get under way tomorrow night, when the Canadiens and the Golden Eagles meet in the first of a two-out-of-three games series. The other two games will be played on Wednesday, Feb. 12, and Friday, Feb. 14th.

League statistics show that Ian Darroch, the champion's left-winger was the loop's leading scorer with eight goals, one ahead of John Garland, Hawks and team-mate Euard Read who scored seven goals each. Doug Heron, husky defenceman who hands out those jolting body-checks on behalf of the Canadiens was the loop's "bad man" receiving 17 minutes in penalties.

The fight followed a mauling and in-fighting pattern nearly all the way. There were no knock-downs.

The victory stretched Hurst's undefeated streak to 18 straight since he turned pro a little more than a year ago.

Wolfhound Routs Russian Wolves

Moscow is praising "Orlan," a wolfhound who was brought from Turkmenia as a hero after saving a ewe and a newly-born lamb from a pack of wolves. He had been missing for two days when found in a hollow guarding the mother and lamb, his muzzle bearing the marks of a strenuous struggle.
