PARENTS BE WARNED — MAT NIGHT TONIGHT

Batten down the hatches. Bring in your door knobs and store them in the refrigerator. Take your clotheslines and tie down your front steps. If you've put on your storm windows for the winter, take 'em off again, for there is more than a storm brewing.

The happy ghouls are on the loose again and with Halloween arriving on Sunday this year, the youngsters have decided to make a whole weekend of it. Ghastly masks and swirling shrouds were seen on local streets as early as last night.

So parents and householders be warned! If you've a welcome mat outside your door, haul it in — for tonight is Mat Night.

The new structure will be known as the Rabbi Herman Abramowitz Building, in reverent memory of the beloved Rabbi who served the congregation for almost half a century with rare honour and distinction from 1902 up to the time of his death in September, 1947. The building will provide modern and spacious facilities for the Hebrew and Religious Schools and for the Pre-School Groups of the Foundation School.

YOUNGSTER SUFFERS CUT OVER EYE IN FALL

While playing near his home at 133 Selby Street, five-and-a-half year old Joseph Jekkel stepped off the curb, missed his footing and fell to the road, suffering a cut over the left eye requiring three stitches, on Monday at 4.01 p.m.

He was taken to the Western Division of the Montreal General Hospital in a taxi by his mother where he was treated by Dr. Beardmore.

TAXI-AUTO COLLISION

While stopped at a traffic light at the corner of Sherbrooke St. and Victoria Ave., an auto driven by Reginal Blouin, 41, Montreal taxi-driver, was struck in the rear by another car driven by Antonio Gomez Orlandea, 35, of 1507 Crescent Avenue, causing damage to the front of Orlandea's and rear of Blouin's cars. The accident happened on Sunday at 10.30 p.m.

Rev. G. Kilpatrick Speaks To W.H.S.

"A young Canadian today, like each of you, has a magnificent heritage," the Rev. G. G. D. Kilpatrick, D.D., LL.D., D.C.L., told graduates of Westmount Senior High School last Friday night. He said that their school had developed a tradition of intelligent thinking, clean sportsmanship, service of truth, God and the nation, and that it was their duty to spread that tradition.

"You are going out into a critical period of history, but you are better equipped than most," he continued and said that everything depends on the Commonwealth of Nations and the United States, and that their country must increasingly take its share in the material and moral leadership of the world.

He told the graduates that they must have faith and courage, and work hard, remembering that sacrifice makes a man a man, and not selfishness.

"Peace means more than not fighting. No man should be content just to survive." Rev. Kilpatrick went on to say that if people have faith, visions of peace will not fall from the human mind. He told them that this was their own great chance to live valorously and that they have an influence to exercise on others.

After the Chairman, J. C. Nelles, delivered a few remarks, R. O. Bartlett, the principal, gave his report for the year. In it he related that Westmount High School pupils in the 1947-48 term had received the highest per cent in the provincial exams and that these results were also highest ever obtained by a W.S.H.S. graduating class. He said that the greatest misfortune of the year was the passing of the beloved Howard Nickels, late teacher at the school, on Oct. 5th.

David Bourke gave the valedictory address. Gold medals were given to Donald MacLean of the Boys' Side, and to Audrey Cooper and Carol Messenger of the Girls' Side.

Winners of the scholarships were as follows: Douglas Duncan

Sliding Tram Throws Woman As Doors Open

Miss Mildred Garth, 35, of 748 Lansdowne Avenue, suffered lacerations on the right side of the forehead when she was accidentally thrown from a streetcar at the corner of Westmount and Lansdowne Avenues.

The streetcar was proceeding north on Lansdowne, north of Westmount Avenue and as it approached the Boulevard, the wheels began to slip on wet leaves. The brakes were applied but the car slipped south on Lansdowne and turned onto Westmount Avenue, before stopping.

It was when Miss Garth got up in preparation to leave the car that it started slipping backwards. All passengers ran to the front of the car. As it rounded the corner, the doors were forced open and she was thrown out, striking her head on the curb.

She was taken to the Western Division of the Montreal General Hospital by a passing motorist and was released after treatment.

Family Court For Montreal Held Urgent Necessity

Civilized communities everywhere have recognized the evils of the indiscriminate mixing of domestic relation cases with regular criminal or civil courts' procedure and have established special courts for the hearing of all domestic quarrels, said Lyon W. Jacobs, K.C., in a radio address recently. "Of all the large cities on the North American Continent Montreal alone lags behind in omitting to provide parties to a domestic dispute the privilege of a hearing before a Court of Domestic Relations or a Family Court."

A leading authority and counsellor on domestic relations and family problems, Mr. Jacobs' name has been prominently mentioned as one of the Judges of a "Family Court for the District of Montreal," as soon as such court shall be created.

An overwhelming public opinion supports the establishment of such a Court, continued Mr. Jacobs. Prominent members of the Bar, Social Workers, Clerics and Judges have commended the plan. Today, more than ever, in the Metropolis of Canada, is there a need for the establishment of a court to which husbands and wives involved in family squabbles, often of minor significance, may bring their troubles with an assurance of an impartial hearing before a wise and sympathetic judge who, frequently, through the means of private conversations in his chambers, may be able to adjust their difficulties, unite the frayed ends of their domestic relations, and send them home happy and satisfied.

LYON W. JACOBS, K.C.
Strongly endorsed for appointment as Judge of Family Court.

Hallowe'en Party To Give Youth Proper Supervision

This Saturday evening, the Westmount Y.M.C.A. will be the centre of a Hallowe'en Party for children resident, or attending school, in the Westmount area. The party is open to boys and girls up to fifteen years of age and is sponsored by the Mothers' Group of the Y.M.C.A.

The purpose of the Party is to bring the children together on All Hallows' Eve, and provide for them an interesting program under supervision rather than leave them to their own devices on the city streets.

This promises to be a colourful event as all children attending will come in costume. Of special interest is the fact that a sound moving picture show will be made of the party, so that after the event children may see themselves on the screen.

The party commences at 7 p.m. and will conclude at 9.30 p.m. Featured on the program are comic films, a Yo-Yo contest with prizes sponsored by the Cheerio Yo-Yo Company. Children are reminded to bring their Yo-Yos, and also of special interest to the children will be the fact that Mr. Rider, well-known ventroloquist, will be present. Mr. Rider is acknowledged one of the outstanding ventroloquists in Canada.

Featured on the program is the costume parade when children will come on to the platform and be judged. Among the judges of this year's show is Mr. Shaffleburg, popular physics teacher at the Westmount High School. Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes.

Scouts & Cubs

Last Saturday afternoon, there was a turn-out of 24 Cubs of St. Matthias Pack for a ramble out to King Edward Woods. The group was split into two teams; the Purple, led by Acting Sixer Hugh Ross and the Gold, led by Sixer Sean Mack. A game of flag-raiding was won by the Purple outfit, Senior Sixer Chris Carr capturing the Gold's flag. The latter, however, won the "sniff-trail" competition, following by scent the trail made by rubbing a raw onion on trees and rocks.

The signalling competition was won by the Purples. Last Friday, the Pack were hosts to the Scout Troop at a joint meeting. Y.M.C.A. NOTES

YOUNG ADULT SECTION

Hallowe'en — Tonight is the big night at the "Y" this season. Tonight the ghosts and the banishes scream about the dark corners and nervous people are scared out of their wits by all the terrors of the imagination! Tonight at the "Y" the apples are ducked for and the pumpkins take on the shapes of deathheads. Don't forget to bring yours along to add to all the fun. And any old costume you can dig up will be needed to add colour and mystery to this great festive occasion. There will be a fancy dress parade and the best entries will be judged for novelty and originality as well as for charm. There will be all the usual Hallowe'en games and lots of scares and fun for everyone. Tonight's the night. Make sure that you recapture the thrills of childhood and have a marvellous time! All guests are welcome; 9:30 at the door.

"To be or not to be" — Hamlet would know the answer to this poser facing the members of the Dramatic Group being formed. It is to be formed, that is a fact. What is to be presented and who is to take part? How long to rehearse and when to present? These are larger questions that are being ironed out now. The main thing is that there are many enthusiastic members and that they are well lead by semi-professional talent. Are you interested in acting, or would you prefer to handle the stage lighting or help to fashion the costumes? Are you a potential Olivier or an Adair? Come along to the next meeting and give your views. Remember, Tuesday, Nov. 2, at 8 p.m.

The Y.E.B.A. Club meets tonight as usual before the social. 7:30 is the time and apart from the normal business, there should be great fun with the decorations for the evening.

The Young Men's Club will meet on Tuesday, Nov. 2nd, at 8:00 p.m. Johnny Johnson is the new Prexy. There are lots of ideas on the agenda for the future, with Al Oldfield in charge of the program.

Dance Instruction — Friday Night Social has brought so many members along that many more feel inclined to come. Consequently, a special Dance Instruction Class is being formed to precede the social evening on Friday and will start next week. Do you know the latest steps? Are you even certain of the old ones? Or would you merely prefer to enjoy three hours dancing instead of two every Friday? Come along at 8:30 p.m. to take advantage of this new class.

Leathercraft — Do you know a proficient instructor or instructor who would be willing to take a class? If you do, please let us know now.

Badminton — In addition to the regular Friday evenings' play at 7:30 p.m., Badminton is now available on Wednesdays in Westmount Senior High from 7:30 to 10:00.

A further course on Friday's bill-of-fare is a Musical Appreciation Group concert at 8:15. Members are invited to bring along their own favourite recordings to let the others appreciate them, too. Many of us remember the group's activities last winter. Well, Johnny Johnson is still a driving force. There are many pleasant evenings ahead of music lovers this winter.

Bridge — The winter season is really starting off with a bang and all bridge tables are filled every Monday night. However, there is still room for you whether you are a beginner or consider yourself an experienced player. In either category you will be sure of an enjoyable evening.

BOYS' DIVISION

Boys' Fretwork — Under the leadership of George Presho, a boys' fretwork group will commence at the Y.M.C.A. this Saturday morning at 10 a.m. This class will meet regularly on Saturday mornings and is limited to fourteen boys.

Serial — The regular serial will be shown this Saturday morning at 9:30 to Y.M.C.A. members.

Teenage Dance — The Teenage Dance will be held this Saturday evening, commencing at 9:15 p.m. This is not a costume party. Members and their friends are invited to attend. There will be special prizes for novelty dance events.

Lockers — Boys in the membership wishing to obtain their lockers are requested to check in the Boys' Division Office, as there are a limited number of lockers now available. As a reminder, now is a good time to have your gym shorts cleaned, and check to make sure that you have running shoes at the "Y".

This Saturday's Movie — The regular Saturday afternoon movie at the "Y" will be held at 1:15 p.m. this Saturday. The title of the film is: "Sagebrush Family Trails West." Also on the same program are comedy shorts.

Boys' Work Committee — At the last meeting of the Y.M.C.A.

One of the chief functions of Home and School groups is to give members an understanding of the objectives and methods of the school. With this in mind, Mr. Penrose will outline some of the typical occurrences in a typical day.

At the close of the meeting, an opportunity will be given to parents to meet teachers of their children in their respective classrooms.

Putting Club Start Social Season Monday

The active social season of the Westmount Putting Club will open next Monday, November 1, in the Oak Room of Victoria Hall.

The President, W. Stott, who is quite an exponent of the time-honored game himself, has planned the election of new officers on the first night and an evening of cards will be held afterwards.

As the Putters had a very successful season this summer on the greens, this evening will also be the setting for the presentation of prizes.

Many new members have joined this select little group and should enjoy the varied and interesting Monday night sessions that it is anticipated will take place. The hour is 8 p.m.

"Y" Appointments

J. GORDON CLARKE

Two new appointments have been officially announced at the Westmount Y.M.C.A. J. Gordon Clarke is the recently appointed Secretary of the local branch and Bert Light has been named instructor for the Business Men's Class. Mr. Clarke is a graduate of Sir George William's College and served on the staff of the "Y" in England before the war, and later joined the R.C.A.F. He now heads the young adult programme, sponsoring several new activities this fall. Mr. Light is well known to all groups in Westmount and has a long record in the physical education field.

Modern Heating Is Topic Of Speech At Rotary Club

Jim McKay, a graduate of the University of British Columbia and a member of the Westmount Rotary Club, was the speaker at the regular meeting of that club held Wednesday in Victoria Hall. His was a "classification talk" and subject of his speech was "Modern Heating".

There are four factors in heating, he said, temperature, humidity, air change and colour.

Concerning temperature, the speaker said that it is evaporation of moisture in the human body that cools you. When the humidity is high, there is no evaporation and your body becomes hot.

Speaking on the necessity for humidity control, Mr. McKay said that without it, it is practically impossible not to burn more coal than is necessary.

If someone were to fill a house with smoke, you would only have to stand back and you would notice the smoke taking a definite direction, which would be the same as the wind outside. This is because there is higher pressure on the windward side of a building than on the leeward.

A strange phenomena is the fact that colour can make a person feel comfortable or uncomfortable. Colours like orange and yellow have a tendency to make you feel warm, while maroon will make you too warm. Blue will have an opposite effect and make you feel cold.

Air conditioning necessitates not only temperature control but more especially humidity control, Mr. McKay said. Good air conditioning involves both air change and filtering, too.

When speaking of temperature, a heating man's primary concern is making up for heat lost from any given room. In calculating the amount lost, several factors are taken into consideration—area of exposed surfaces, difference in temperature between the room and the outside and the character-

Mr. McKay then cautioned against radiant heating, despite the fact that it is a much talked about medium. Listing some of its problems, he said that when some rooms are cold, in order to heat them it is necessary to overheat other rooms.

"There is no guarantee that radiant heating can be regulated to within a few degrees," he said.

Giving constructive criticism, he continued, saying that convector radiators save fuel, mentioning one case where in a place out of town, city engineers figured on using 230 tons of coal in one large building per year, but with convector radiators, they found they used only 130 tons.

In conclusion, Mr. McKay warned that when building, much consideration should be given to heating because it is liable to involve a lot of expense. "Your building should be laid out by a proficient engineer," he said.

In its original, unbroken, unmelted form, every snowflake has its structure and shape built in units of six. These take on an almost endless variation of design.

Average Person Listens To Radio 4 Hours a Day

Findings of market research organizations reveal that Canadians listen to their radio sets four hours each day, according to Ralph Bowden, Montreal manager of Elliott-Haynes market research organization. Mr. Bowden made the statement in the course of an address on "Canada's Radio Audience" given at the Junior Advertising & Sales Club last evening in the Montreal High School.

"Radio has always been faced with the problem of determining how many people actually listen to their radio at any given time, and it has been found that the telephone enquiry offers the only practical method of determining how many people listen to their radio, when and to what program," said Mr. Bowden.

In explaining how telephone surveys are made, the speaker explained that calls are placed through an independent organization which conducts telephone interviews in cities across Canada. Interviewers call telephone homes inquiring about the listening habits of that home and record the data for tabulation.

These calls are important not only to the listener but to the Radio Industry as a whole, for the telephone call is in effect a democratic vote for the radio bill of fare given out by Canadian radio stations and networks.

"Let us remember that only in Canada and United States is the listener consulted and given an opportunity to express his likes or dislikes for his radio programs," Mr. Bowden continued. "Radio in the hands of the state becomes a powerful weapon for good or evil. So long as Canadians are given the opportunity to express their opinion, it is some measure of protection against the abuses that are inherent in any medium that can span the globe with the speed of light."

Local Stamp Club Holds Its Auction

Last Thursday evening, the Westmount Stamp Club held its first club auction of the new season, the purpose being to pay for the purchase of a new Quartz Lamp. This lamp, reputed by the club members to be invaluable, will bring to light flaws that would be otherwise invisible and will aid collectors to remove such marks as ink spots.

In the absence of Mr. Yaxley, the President, the meeting was presided over by R. T. Sutherland, treasurer. Following a ten minute recess, the auction took place under the capable mallet of J. E. Pickering who conducted in a very professional manner.

On November 18th, the Junior Stamp Club will hold a Stamp Quiz, with prizes to be donated by the Senior Members.

This week the Junior attendance was very good and the senior members are looking forward to a much improved junior membership this year.

Stanley Church Anniversary

"No Chest of Whistles will accompany me in the Worship of God". These were the words of Sir William Dawson as he got up from his pew in Erskine Presbyterian Congregation, and stamped out of the doors of the Church. Sixty people followed him and formed a new congregation—to be known as Stanley Street Presbyterian Church. That was seventy years ago when the introduction of the pipe organ often met with a good deal of objection from those who did not wish to dispense with the services of the Precentor. To these people the pipe organ (or "Chest of Whistles" as they called it) was an instrument of the devil, and not fit for the Worship of God.

The first building erected was on Stanley Street immediately behind the Windsor Hotel, in a district already overcrowded with Christian churches. In 1913 the congregation moved to Westmount and built a new place of worship, but retained the old name of Stanley. These people were men and women of tremendous faith, for although their membership was less than 100, they erected a building which was to seat 1,000 people. Under the leadership of Dr. W. D. Reid, now Pastor Emeritus, it grew to be one of the finest Presbyterian Churches on the Island.

For the Anniversary Services on October 31st, the Rev. Robert Lennox will be the Guest Preacher, taking for his text in the morning "Change and the Changeless" and in the evening "Prophetic Optimism".

the help of everyone to put the drive over the top. The money is required to maintain the Federation's twenty-five agencies and services during the coming year.

The familiar slogan, "Calling All Hearts," is again the keynote of the drive, which is under the general supervision of D. V. Robertson. During last year, nearly 19,000 persons received care and assistance from one or other of the Federation's agencies. Included among the agencies are St. Patrick's Orphanage, the Boys' Bureau, the Catholic Men's Hostel, St. Martha's Home, Catholic Girls' Community Centre, St. Ann's Day Nursery, Catholic Prisoners Aid and Welfare Bureau, Montreal Association for the Blind, and the Sisters of Service Residential Club.

Christian Science

"Everlasting Punishment" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday.

The Golden Text is from Galatians 6:7. "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Thus saith the Lord the King of Israel, and his redeemer the Lord of hosts; I am the first, and I am the last; and beside me there is no God. I have blotted out, as a thick cloud, thy transgressions, and, as a cloud, thy sins: return unto me; for I have redeemed thee." (Isaiah 44:6, 22).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science & Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "We acknowledge God's forgiveness of sin in the destruction of sin and the spiritual understanding that casts out evil as unreal. But the belief in sin is punished so long as the belief lasts. Truth bestows no pardon upon error, but wipes it out in the most effectual manner." (pages 497 and 11).

In Dominion-Douglas Church on Sunday, Dr. Lloyd Smith will preach at both services. In the morning his subject will be "The Supreme Incentive". The evening will recognize International Tem-

Westmount Baptist

"Ambition At Its Best" will be the title of the morning sermon in Westmount Baptist Church on Sunday. The thing we call ambition has been one of the dominant factors in human history. It has overcome difficulties, moved mountains, wrought near miracles, erected kingdoms, sent thrones crashing and destroyed civilizations. It has lifted men from the mire and elevated them to pinnacles of fame and fortune. It has given the world great scientists, great surgeons, great scholars, great statesmen. In a vital Christian Faith we see Ambition At Its Best.

"Let's Act Now!" This is the title of an amazing little book by Richard Terrill Baker. It will be the title of Dr. Johnston's address on Sunday evening. So much is lost by hesitation, indecision, procrastination and the fatal tendency just to let things slide. The ability to translate decision into action is one of the noblest of the Christian characteristics. In the highest things, the things we've thought about, dreamed about, perhaps prayed about — Let's Act Now!

A Witching Interview

By DAWN McGLAUGHLIN

Old Witch Readies A New Broomstick For Halloween Fun At Hallowe'en, the witch is seen, Aloft at witching hour. Her broom can zoom beyond the moon—It has the new jet power.

Aloft again, she pulls up when A pumpkinhead she spies. It's big and fat and—what is that? It flashes neon eyes!

Thunder, Lightning Or In Rain—Gertie Is On The Go Again

"Don't you think", I said to the boss the other day, "that we should have a feature story for Hallowe'en?"

"Sure", I was told, "go out and interview a witch, or something". So I did.

At first, I had a little difficulty finding a witch, but I finally asked a friendly policeman, and he told me to try the Mountain. "I hear that there's a lot of old families up there," he said, "and you might even find a witch or two." That's where I found Gertie.

She was sitting in front of her cave, doing a crossword puzzle. "I had quite a time finding you", I began. "It shouldn't have been hard, dearie," she cackled. "I'm listed in 'Whoo's Whoo', you know".

"Well, now that I've found you, I wonder if you'd answer some questions for the Examiner. It's a newspaper, you know".

It starts to rise into the skies, She wonders—breath abated. The proper clues are in the news—E'en pumpkins are inflated!

"So I've heard. Pull up a toad-stool, and ask away. Don't mind my cat—he was better looking when he had three heads".

I ignored the two remaining heads, and said: "Well, Sunday being Hallowe'en, I thought that it might be interesting to get a witch's viewpoint on the whole thing. Human interest, y'know. And by the way, how do you spend your time the other 364 days of the year?"

"Well", said Gertie (I forgot to mention that we had introduced ourselves) "I was on the stage for a while. I've played 3,000,689 times in 'MacBeth'. I was the First Witch. Had some lovely lines in Act 3," she said dreamily. "And of course," she added, "I played a leading role in 'Snow White'. Ah, those were the days! Then, for a nominal fee, I house haunt on the side".

"But what do you live on when you're not working", I wanted to know.

"Why, I collect Unemployment Insurance, naturally. Somebody has to collect it, you know".

"That's true. But to get back to Hallowe'en. I hear that this year, witches will go abroad on the latest thing in broomsticks."

"Oh, dearie, you must mean the new jet-propelled numbers. They're really the last straw in brooms, you know. But then, things are changing all the time. I hear that they're putting neon lights in pumpkins this year. Tying them down, too. Inflation, y'know".

"Gertie", I said, speaking of these modern times. What do you think of the latest fashions?"

"Dearie, now that this here 'New Look' is established, I don't feel a bit out of place. I walked down St. Catherine Street the other day, when all the business girls were going to lunch, and I wasn't even noticed".

"By the way" I couldn't resist asking, "where did you pick up the expression 'Dearie'."

"Oh," Gertie replied, "I must have forgotten to tell you. I worked for a time last Hallowe'en, in a department store. I was a window decoration".

"What about the children, Gertie? Do you think that they really believe in you?"

"Believe in me? Why shouldn't they? I'm a tradition aren't I? Just like Santa Claus. Besides, kids have more sense than to listen to grown-ups like Mr. Chisel—or is it Mr. Holmes?"

"I guess that's all, Gertie," I said. "thanks for being so cooperative."

"Think nothing of it," said my friend, "I'm glad to get the publicity. I'll be seeing you on Hallowe'en".

"Sure," I said, and stumbled down the mountain. I turned to wave, but Gertie was once more engrossed in her crossword puzzle, just as if nothing had happened.

NOTE: Any similarity between "Gertie", and any person or persons living or dead, is pure tragedy.

D.O.N. Donate New Lamp Crippled Children's Hospital

The dedication took place on Saturday afternoon of the most modern and newest form of Operating Lamp recently installed in the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children, and donated by Oasis Temple No. 46, Daughters of the Nile.

Funds for this gift were obtained from various donations from members and friends, card parties, etc., and also from the proceeds of two Sales of Work arranged by the Argyle Nurses' Association. This objective started with a donation from Past Queen Jessie Leslie; then through the years of the Queens Orma Growen and Lorraine Johnston and the completed funds in the year of office of Mrs. Gertrude Bonnell. Other equipment also included two electric food conveyers, one pneumatic saw (through the donation from Mrs. Frank Wood), one tourniquet (through the donation of Mrs. Geo. Chamandy). The presentation was made by Mrs. E. D. Bonnell. In the absence of Dr. W. G. Turner, surgeon-in-chief of the hospital, Mr. D. Fred Morgan received the gifts on behalf of the Board of Governors of the hospital. The guest of honour was Mrs. Mattie Watson of Phoenix, Arizona, Supreme Queen of the Supreme Temple of Daughters of the Nile, who at that time was making her official inspection of Oasis Temple, followed by the fall ceremonial. A small girl on crutches presented to Mrs. Watson a beautiful hand woven tray cloth, made by the children in the Occupational Ward of the hospital.

Daughters of the Nile and Argyle Nurses' Representatives were conducted on a tour of the hospital by Miss M. E. Orr, Superintendent. Inspection was made of the swimming pool for muscle treatment, therapy playroom, schoolroom, dental room and operating room.

CHINN - BUCHANAN

St. Matthias Church, Westmount, was the scene of a wedding on Saturday afternoon, when Mary Elizabeth (Betty), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Buchanan of Westmount was united in marriage to Mr. Norman William Chinn, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Chinn, of Montreal. Canon Gilbert Oliver officiated at the four o'clock ceremony. White and yellow pompons and palms adorned the church for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her sister, Miss Phyllis Buchanan as maid of honor and Miss Margaret Turner Bone and Miss Mary Creaghan, bridesmaids. Mr. Geoffrey Yorke-Slader, of Ottawa was best man, with Mr. Robert G. Meek, Mr. Kenneth Haring, Mr. William Stewart, and Mr. Peter Skelton as ushers.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin, the fitted bodice having a yoke of heirloom lace and trimmed with seed pearls. Her floor length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a pearl trimmed wreath of orange blossoms while Happy Day roses composed her cascade bouquet.

The attendants wore satin period frocks and toning hats trimmed with gold ostrich plumes, while they carried colonial bouquets of blue and gold flowers. The maid of honor was in periwinkle blue and the bridesmaids, in old gold.

Mrs. Buchanan, the bride's mother, in a floor length gown of dark green velvet, wore a toning hat and a spray of red roses at the corsage. Mrs. Chinn, the bridegroom's mother, was wearing copper toned slipper satin with harmonizing hat and a corsage bouquet of yellow roses.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, on Roslyn Avenue, where pink and white carnations were arranged and later the newly married couple left by motor for the Southern States on their honeymoon. For travelling the bride wore an emerald green suit with matching topcoat and green accessories.

After washing and drying cut-glass of any kind, work dry whitening into the cut surfaces by means of a soft, small brush. Remove with a clean brush and the glass will have an extra glitter.

Girl Masters Difficult Craft And Is Now Expert Enameler

Discharged from the Marine Corps in May, 1946, after two years in service, Miss Kay Whitcomb, a young American, knew exactly what she wanted to do — but knew, too, that she wasn't ready to do it. She wanted most of all to learn enameling.

After vainly searching New York for a teacher, she wrote to Doris Hall of Cleveland, whose enameling she had long admired, who replied by offering her an apprenticeship. She lost no time in travelling almost half-way across the States to get to Cleveland.

Built Own Furnace

Last November, she returned to her home in Winchester, arranged her GI loan, and opened her studio. She already had $100 worth of special enamelling tools which the government had bought for her, as a former marine, when she apprenticed herself to Doris Hall. To stretch her funds, this resourceful young craftsman built her own enamelling furnace.

Skill and patience, in about equal proportions, are basic ingredients for her work. Enamelling, she explains, will "take" only on copper, silver, gold, and gilder's metal, and every process in its development requires painstaking care.

She prefers copper to the other metals, and she begins her job by cleaning the copper with an acid solution to free it from grease. Next she dips it into a liquid porcelain glaze, forming the base coat—a sort of white crust.

Each coat must be separately fired. Most of her pieces require about six firings. It takes about three hours to heat the furnace to the 1,500 degrees necessary to do the job—but Miss Whitcomb kept right on firing pieces during the summer's most humid days.

Steps In The Process

When using a stencil design, Miss Whitcomb scratches it on the first coat, so that copper shows through to form the pattern. These lines of exposed copper must be covered with another coat of enamel before it can be fired.

"Enamels are just like coarse sugar," Miss Whitcomb describes her raw materials. "Each color is just tapped on. Successive firings make transparent colors over opaque colors much more beautiful than they were after the first firing."

If a little drawing is needed to help execute the design, the artist outlines it with oil of lavender on a brush, but often she just works as she goes along, without preliminary drawing.

Matching compotes and candy dishes and marriage plates are among the special pieces for which she notes an increasing demand.

HALLOWE'EN TARTS

Fill baked pastry shells with alternate spoonfuls of chocolate and orange cream pie filling. Then run a knife through the filling in each tart to produce a marbled effect.

If you're lucky enough to have some prepared pudding powders, make your fillings with one package of chocolate and one of vanilla, according to the manufacturers directions. To the vanilla filling add two teaspoonfuls of grated orange rinds and a few drops of orange vegetable coloring.

Let's Eat

By IDA BAILEY ALLEN

No matter what foods you buy whether luxurious high cost items or more commonplace everyday foods, they will taste good only if well-prepared and correctly cooked.

Good cooking means conserving natural flavors, preserving food values and presenting an attractive dish. Compared to poorly cooked costly foods, the most inexpensive foods, when properly cooked, are luxurious. For instance, dainty "7-minute" cooked cabbage compared to drowned over-cooked cauliflower; Swiss steak compared to over-boiled porterhouse.

Choice of Foods

We can, to a very large extent, control our choice of foods. A comforting thought, as we contemplate rising costs and turn with millions of other homemakers to the more plentiful, seasonable, so-called "common" foods that are within our budget.

Our Eating Habits

Have our eating habits changed this past year? Yes, they have, and as you may guess, this change is from the higher cost foods to those more reasonable in price. This year we are eating more fresh and froz-fish, and less meat, turkey and chicken. We are buying more evaporated milk—less cream, butter and salad oils. We are buying more canned fruits and juices, and less ice cream. Unfortunately, we are using less fresh fruits and vegetables, because of high prices—a condition that can only be offset by purchasing the most plentiful varieties and making them tasty.

We are buying what we can afford and our choice is more and more limited by the high cost of eating. But if we balance our meals, prepare foods to save full nutritive values and make them really "good eating", we can still be a well fed nation and balance our budgets.

Baked Fish, Spanish Style

Buy 1 1/2 lbs. fresh or quick-frozen fish fillets (any kind).

DUAL PURPOSE ROOMS

Special planning is needed where rooms must sometimes serve dual purposes. The dining alcove can be used in the evening for study space when the children settle down with their homework. If, for some reason, this plan isn't feasible and if all the bedrooms are too small to provide study space, then try putting double-decker bunks in one small bedroom, and fitting out a second small room for study.

Tomorrow's Dinner

Vegetable Juice Cocktail
Cheese Toasts
Baked Fish, Spanish Style
Baked Yam-Potatoes
Broccoli or Cabbage
Pickled Beets on Lettuce
Prune and Grapefruit Compote
Coffee or Tea Milk (children)

Ideal for Table Decoration is a Jet Black Cat

No Hallowe'en party would be a success without a big black cat. The bigger and blacker the better.

How would you like one for a table centerpiece? If so, what you will need is crepe paper, paste and scissors, some heavy paper and a little wire. Here are the directions for making a smug-looking puss sitting on a pile of straw.

Body

Cut a fold, or roll, of black crepe paper crosswise through the middle. Before unfolding, cut both sides of each half at quarter-inch intervals cutting to within one inch of the middle. This will make a sort of double fringe with solid strip down the middle. Fold each slashed strip in half lengthwise and gather over a knitting needle. When both strips have been gathered, slip a length of wire in place of the knitting needle and tie lightly. This forms a large pompon. Shake it and ruffle it to make it look full.

Head

Make the head in the same manner as the body, using strips six inches wide instead of 10. Gather and tie with wire, trimming the slashes a bit around nose and where the eyes are to be set.

Cut two eyes from green metallic paper, and paste in place. Cut nose of black construction paper, touching in up with white poster paint or ink for shiny effect. Cut two ears from black construction paper, curve slightly, and paste these to head. The whiskers are fine slashes of white construction paper pasted in place.

Attach head to body with a stiffer piece of wire connecting it to each of the wires tied around pompons.

Paws

The paws are pompons made of three inch wide slashed strips of black crepe paper wired to the base of which cat sits.

Base

Make a cone-shaped cylinder of black construction paper (using double thickness) with a diameter of five inches at bottom. Cut off three inches from bottom and fasten seam with paper fasteners. Use the bottom part only a "collar" three inches high — and fasten to stiff wire which has been

Halloween Buffets Will Please All Ages

Cardboard goblins perch on bottle openers at Hallowe'en buffet party.

Food Shortages Shouldn't Dim The Gayety of All Hallows' Eve

Doughnuts will be warmed, and will take on, perhaps, a fresh sprinkle of fine sugar and cinnamon . . . corn will pop (and make fun for all in the doing) . . . apples will help with the frolic, putting party-makers through their paces in a dozen tricks and games . . . pumpkins will grin and scowl . . . because it's Jack-o'-Lantern time!

All ages are the same, when the spooks and goblins roam. It's a favorite night for a masquerade—perhaps the form a little house-dance for grown-ups or teenagers might take. (There's something about a costume that puts age and dignity on the shelf, opens the lid of the fun box!)

Youngsters will be very happy just popping corn, roasting apples and nuts, playing the time-honored games. But most Hallowe'en parties for the oldsters hold to a good deal of the same simplicity.

Even in days, when we are watching our food consumption, dealing with ration problems, trying to save extra food for overseas shipment, we can plan a gay party that will take advantage of seasonable perishables, cost not too much in food, money or time, and carry out the spirit of All Hallows' Eve.

Let's look at the traditional food.

Doughnuts are a must

If you can buy quality-controlled doughnuts, chances are you may prefer to purchase them rather than make your own — unless that happens to be one of the things you do easily and well. But any good doughnut deserves reheating before it is served. This may be done in the oven or on a trivet in a heavy covered pot. Maybe you will then like to shake the hot doughnuts in a paper bag which contains a mixture of fine sugar and cinamon. (The bag will coat your doughnuts and waste none of the precious sugar mixture.)

Pop Corn

Pop corn will come into a new popularity in Canada with the distribution in this country of popping corn that is "guaranteed to pop." The fine "white" kernels have been hulled, and their size and quality is as even as their pale golden colour; they pop into lovely white clouds that you can turn into various confections.

Perhaps you have an old-fashioned wire popper. If not, just use an aluminum pot or any deep pan with a lid. Put a wee bit of shortening or lard or salad oil in such a pan, heat it — then pour enough of the popping corn to make a single layer of kernels in the bottom of the pan. Sprinkle with salt — put on the cover and shake the pan until corn is popped (or in a very deep pan, you can just stir the corn until it is all popped).

Our pop corn tin carries an excellent recipe for pop corn balls and for a delicious caramelized corn to be turned out, like toffee, on a buttered platter. More fun!

Golden Foods

Golden foods all fit into your Hallowe'en party scheme. This means oranges, pumpkins, cheese dishes, yellow fruits, yellow vegetables if you have need of salads or plan a luncheon or dinner; it also means any sort of food that lends itself nicely to tinting with a government-certified food colouring — you can get lovely paste form, to tint desserts, ices, frostings, icings, even batters and cookie doughs.

Here's a Hallowe'en menu for a buffet supper party that will please teen-agers as well as grown-ups, and is guaranteed to appease the restless spirits.

MENU: "Owl's nest" rarebit, well-chilled carbonated beverages served right in the bottle to retain full carbonation, fruit salad in goblin-faced orange shells, warm applesauce gingerbread topped with lots of whipped cream.

Let cut-out owls perch on small bottle openers attached to each bottled soft drink with a strip of Scotch tape. Make some of the owls from black, some from white cardboard or heavy paper.

Hallowe'en Copper Rarebit (Serves 6-8)

One pound processed American cheese, 2 cups milk, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons chili sauce, 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce, ¼ pound chipped beef, 6-8 whole hard-cooked eggs, 2 packages Chinese fried noodles.

Cook the eggs for 30 minutes in water just under the boiling point, then cool slightly, peel and use while still warm. Mix seasonings together until blended and pull the chipped beef into small pieces. Heat the noodles in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until crisp. Cut the cheese into dice and put it with the milk in a double boiler. Cook, stirring occasionally, until the cheese is melted and the mixture blended into a smooth, hot thick sauce. Stir in the seasonings and the beef. Line a chafing dish with the heated noodles, pour in the rarebit and place the eggs upright in the center. Note: As this must be eaten piping hot, plan to keep it hot in a chafing dish or double boiler and serve it as soon as possible after it is cooked.

Applesauce Gingerbread With Whipped Cream

Butter an oblong pan about 8-14 inches and spread a thick layer of canned or fresh-cooked applesauce in the bottom. Make up a batch of your favorite gingerbread mix according to directions on the package, pour over the applesauce and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) Turn upside down, cut in squares and top with a generous spoonful of heavy cream whipped until stiff, sweetened with powdered sugar and flavored with grated orange peel.

Bobbing for Apples Is Part of the Fun

Vary the traditional sport of apple bobbing by converting it into a scheme for choosing partners for the next game.

Fill two tubs with water, one for the boys and one for the girls. Prepare an apple for each player, ahead of time by making a slit in each deep enough to hold a twist of waxed paper. In the centre of each twist place one half of some Hallowe'en cut-out: a black cat, witch, pumpkin, ghost, gravestone, scarecrow, etc.

It's a good idea to tear all the symbols in two and prepare a pile of apples for the girls first, then use the remaining halves for the boys.

Set the boys' apples afloat in one tub, the girls' in the other. After each player has nabbed his apple, he removes the paper twist, discovers the torn motif and then begins to look around for the other half—his partner. (Before eating the apple, of course.)

Challenge Is To Lead Men To Higher Ideals, Club Hears

Probing our own Canadian body politic, economic et al, to see "whether, perchance, we have been practising a little self-deception" Archibald J. MacDonald, Montreal barrister, who was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Westmount Women's Club at Victoria Hall on Friday afternoon, remarked that of all deceptions, self-deception was the most serious. Probing around our democratic way of life, he said that democracy, at the very least means government by the majority. Then he asked "Have we such government in Canada today? Sometimes 75 of every 100 voters fail to bestir themselves sufficiently to cast their ballot. The compulsory vote? That would help but little since it would be no guarantee that those who voted knew for what or whom they were voting. Above all it would not correct the present greatest evil of our system—the complete indifference of the electorate to the voting record of their elected representatives. Four out of five Canadians," he asserted "do not even know the name of their Federal and Provincial members." Mr. MacDonald's speech was entitled "The Great Hoax—Woman's Challenge," and continuing to expose spots of ill health in our Canadian democracy, he attacked inflation, turned the spotlight on government by pressure groups, and problems connected with taxation, bureaucrats, housing, fuel and steel.

Women's Influence Starts At Home

If we have been hoaxing ourselves as democrats, when in fact we have allowed the pressure groups and bureaucrats to run the show, how, he asked, can women help correct these ills? Then he gave it as his opinion that correction of the evils mentioned is an inside job. It starts with the regeneration of the individual, and that starts with the home. Parental authority and personal discipline have all but completely broken down. Many parents are their own coddled offsprings' worst enemies. They call it self-expression and progressive education. It is just a synthesis of adult laziness and juvenile anarchy.

can't do a thing with him" you older women know the answer. It is symptomatic of our disordered society that the woodshed of dad's day has been supplanted by the couch in the darkened office of the modern psychoanalyst and specialist in infantile psychoneuroses. Applied psychology will do teenage Susie the most good if applied with a hairbrush.

Concurrently with our revised attitude to Junior and Susie, there must be, Mr. MacDonald stated, a restatement within ourselves of criteria and values. There must be a rededication to principle—a refusal to accept expediency as a proper motivating force. There must be a greater awareness of what goes on around us and of our personal responsibility for our fellowman.

Finally, the speaker concluded, there must be within our hearts a charity that moves our spirit irresistibly to all that is good and true and beautiful. That is why we, the men of the world, look to you, the women, to lead us on to that distant objective—that is Woman's Challenge.

Mrs. H. S. Jacques, president, presided, and welcomed several new members whose names were announced by Mrs. Eric Riel. Chairmen of recently formed groups in instruction or entertainment were also introduced at this meeting for the greater convenience of the new members. Mrs. F. G. Shaw was pianist of the afternoon and Mr. George Braginet sang. Mrs. R. A. McIntyre thanked the speaker who was introduced by the president.

Mr. Keith Jopson, O.B.E., Economic Advisor to the United Kingdom Commissioner in Ottawa, has accepted the invitation of the Art Association of Montreal to open the exhibition of Wedgwood pottery coming to the Museum of Fine Arts early in November. The entire exhibition has been kindly lent by the Wedgwood Museum at Etruria in Staffordshire, England, and is making its first stop of a transcontinental tour in Montreal. Special installations are being prepared to present the objects in a manner worthy of their artistic, historic and commercial importance, and a series of lectures is also being arranged.

"Summer Holiday" Offers Splendid Musical Treat

The era of Stanley Steamers, Fourth of July picnics and the celluloid collar are fondly recalled in nostalgic Technicolor musical, "Summer Holiday," which starts Saturday at the Snowdon theatre.

Filmization of Eugene O'Neill's triumphant play, "Ah, Wilderness!" the new picture presents an abrupt departure in screen musicals in that it utilizes its attractive musical score as part of the film's dialogue itself rather than presenting the song numbers as separate interludes.

Thus, when Mickey Rooney and Gloria De Haven, enacting the adolescent romanticists whose innocent kiss almost causes a small-town scandal, sing "Afraid to Fall in Love," the lyrics comprise an entire sequence of dialogue in itself, with both song and accompanying action furthering the plot rather than retarding it. This is equally true of such other of the picture's melodic and topical numbers as "The Stanley Steamer," "Weary Blues," "Dan-Dan-Danville Hi," "Independence Day" and "All Hail to Danville High."

Directed with insight and a warm understanding the story of "Summer Holiday" offers a slice of 1906 Americana, with emphasis on the humorous implications of a high school valedictorian torn between his first glimpse of "social significance" and the dreamy beckonings of "love" as exemplified by the exotic verses of Omar Khayyam. Paralleling this adolescent affair is the autumn romance of the family's spinster cousin and the boisterous Uncle Sid whose losing battle against the Demon Rum causes untold embarrassment to both his fiancée and her relatives.

Mickey Rooney brings all his unique talents to the role of the idealistic and lovelorn Richard Miller and is given an expert romantic partner in the winsome Miss De Haven. The adult romance is humorously handled by Agnes Moorehead as Cousin Lily and Frank Morgan as the alcoholic Uncle Sid, and other delightful portrayals are offered by Walter Huston and Selena Royle as Richard's perturbed parents, little Butch Jenkins as the precocious youngster of the family, and Marilyn Maxwell as a blousy honky-tonk habitue who tries to catch the reluctant Richard on the rebound.

Two blonde and beautiful swindlers star in the added attraction, and according to reports about them, they are past mistresses in the art of stealing hearts and laughs. They are the Misses Verónica Lake and Joan Caulfield who, as "The 'Sainted' Sisters" cut a good many capers that are said to add up to highly satisfactory entertainment.

The film, co-stars the glamorous girls with Barry Fitzgerald in the role of a wise old bird who sets them straight in spite of themselves. William Demarest has the top featured role as the colorful sheriff of the small New England town where the sisters take refuge, George Reeves, in his first feature film since the war, plays the romantic lead. Also in an important role is Beulah Bondi as the richest and meanest woman in town, who undergoes a change of heart as a result of the sisters' "good" influence.

"The 'Sainted' Sisters" tells the hilarious story of Letty and Jane Stanton, who are heading for the Canadian border with $25,000 they swindled out of a rich New Yorker. They are stranded in the Maine town of Grove Falls (population 453) and take refuge from a storm in the home of Robbie McClary (Barry Fitzgerald). McClary is a philosophical tombstone sculptor who decides to teach the girls a thing or two when he discovers their true identity.

He blackmails them into remaining in town, then proceeds to play Robin Hood to the needy folk using their ill-gotten gains to do so. Before they know it, the girls are hailed as the "sainted" sisters

AT THE MONKLAND THEATRE SATURDAY

In order to cut off the path of escape from the fleeing killer, Barry Fitzgerald who plays the role of a New York detective in the late Mark Hellinger's production "The Naked City," has driven ahead with his deputies, prepared to establish a blockade. The picture is being released through Universal-International. Added feature brings "Christmas Eve," with George Raft, George Brent, Randolph Scott, Joan Blondel, Virginia Field, Dolores Moran and Ann Harding, in one of the most exciting Christmas Eve's you'll never forget.

"Sign of Ram" Eloquent Emotional Version of Novel

One of the most dramatic and emotional films of the year "Sign of the Ram" will open Sunday at the Westmount Theatre. The film is a powerful experience which ranks as one of Hollywood's more important productions of the year.

Based upon Margaret Ferguson's best-selling novel and its shocking story of what one woman dared for love, "The Sign of the Ram" marks the return to the screen of Susan Peters in the type of role which is usually reserved for Bette Davis. It is a tribute indeed to an actress of Miss Peters' age that she has turned the characterization into a personal triumph.

Although the central character might dominate the narrative even in less capable hands than Miss Peters — so compelling is the role — the production is by no means a one-woman tour de force. For her co-stars all contribute brilliantly etched portrayals, and reach new heights in their careers.

Sharing acting honors with Miss Peters are Alexander Knox, Phyllis Thaxter, Peggy Ann Garner, Ron Randell, Dame May Whitty and Allene Roberts.

The screenplay takes us to Cornwall, England, where the story is told against the background of the wild and ruggedly beautiful Cornish coast.

Outwardly, the household of Leah St. Aubyn (Susan Peters) is a happy one. Her husband, Mallory (Alexander Knox), is madly in love and his children by a former marriage, Logan, Jane and Christine (Ross Ford, Allene Roberts and Peggy Ann Garner), are her devoted admirers and slaves.

Logan and Jane are particularly in her debt, for their stepmother has been confined to a wheelchair as the result of an injury she received while saving them from drowning.

Leah, in turn, is passionately fond of her family, but without realizing it, becomes a benevolent tyrant using every weapon at her command to keep all of them around her always. Through subtle means, she tries to break up the prospective marriages of Logan and Jane and is even indirectly responsible for Christine's attempt to poison her secretary (Phyllis Thaxter).

The story builds purposefully in dramatic intensity until its violent climax.

Second Feature

Blazing with excitement, thrilling with tumultuous spectacle, and completely absorbing from beginning to end in a gripping drama that is superbly acted and filmed, "Fury at Furnace Creek" the added attraction, starring Victor Mature, as Cash Blackwell; Coleen Gray as Molly and Glenn Langan as Rofo Blackwell.

"Fury at Furnace Creek" is a saga of vengeance and heroism born in the winning of the West. Set in the Apache country of 1880, it unfolds the drama of two brothers who battle to clear the name of their father who was framed by an unscrupulous silver syndicate that provoked a massacre as a means of opening up Indian lands to exploration. In its telling, it highlights in a new and exciting and their bankroll has diminished considerably.

Not only do the girls have financial difficulties, but romantic ones as well and all of them are said to be made-to-order for laughs. So it would seem that movie-goers should find it very enjoyable to make the acquaintance of "The 'Sainted' Sisters."

HOME THEATRE

Every Friday night screen badman Dan Duryea proves he isn't too mean by running a complete movie at his home for his two sons and a gang of the neighborhood children. Dan will next co-star with Dorothy Lamour in Pine-Thomas' "The Betrayal," a Paramount release.

William Farnum's role in Paramount's drama, "A Mask for Lucretia", marks start of his sixtieth year in show business—the first forty having been devoted to the stage and the remaining 19 years to motion picture performances.

way the rich color, fast and reckless action and taut drama that marked the great march westward into the land of promise and of danger.

Into the boom town of Furnace Creek ride two bitterly antagonistic brothers, each playing a lone hand. When Cash wheedles a job as gunman for the silver syndicate, with Rufe convinced that his brother has sold-out — and with Molly the victim of natural but tragic confusion — the stage is set for explosive drama that builds with breathtaking action and suspense to a smashing climax.

"Naked City" Will Open At Monkland On Saturday

The late Mark Hellinger's final production, "The Naked City," demonstrates how a picture can be intimate, honest and adult and yet have vast entertainment values. In building this celluloid monument to New York City, Producer Hellinger also built one to himself before he died. The Universal-International release which starts Saturday at the Monkland Theatre, has two stars, Barry Fitzgerald and the City of New York. As a Detective Lieutenant in

George Gahan's Record Rendez-Vous

Last week, if you remember, I gave a big buildup to Artie Wayne's newest Capital release, and then forget to give its name. It's a lovely new ballad by the name of "Down At Toni's Place," and believe me, it really is a beautiful melody.

This week we have another record for the prediction dept., and this time it's a Victor pressing. Talking of Vaughn Monroe's dreamy version of "The Chocolate Choo Choo." Why don't you give it a listen?

Sparton of Canada is now pressing the new Columbia Long Playing platters, and they will go on sale hereabouts sometime next month. These remarkable records, containing up to 45 minutes of music on a 12-inch disc, with their rich and glowing clarity of reproduction, have won the unreserved praise of critics and public alike down in the States, where they have been on sale for quite a while. Guess it won't be long now before we begin to think that our present day platters are as out-moded as the old cylinder platters of yesteryear.

Another Columbia first is their monumental recording of the "Requiem" by Berlioz. This is a composition of gripping intensity, soaring imagination and epic proportions; it is scored for a huge symphony orchestra, a chorus of three hundred voices, four brass bands, and a tenor soloist. This superb performance of the "Requiem" by the Emile Passani Choir and Orch., under the direction of Jean Fournet, was recorded in Paris in the Church of St. Eustache, the very chapel where Berlioz and Liszt also directed

New York's Homicide Squad, Fitzgerald gives an extremely warm and believable performance in the typical, ingratiating Fitzgerald manner.

Three Hollywood Newcomers
Three other Hollywood actors, comparative newcomers, de credit to themselves. Howard Duff, Hellinger's find from "Brute Force," plays a semi-heavy and shows great promise in the confidence the producer has invested in him. Dorothy Hart, in her first leading role, handles her part competently as Duff's fiancée. Don Taylor, "lost" since his sensational success in "Winged Victory," emerges to establish himself as an outstanding performer.

Important as the story itself is the fact that all the action was filmed in New York City. Never has New York been so fabulously and graphically presented on the screen. One-hundred and seven familiar sections and landmarks were used, placing this picture in a class by itself.

Opening with the Homicide Department being called to investigate the murder of a girl model, a documentary step-by-step police procedure unfolds, firally involving another model, her fiancée, a doctor and a killer, Taylor, as the younger detective working with Fitzgerald, follows his own theory, one which is climaxed by a breathless chase through the teeming heart of the East Side tenement district, to the very top of the Williamsburg, Bridge where against a panorama of Manhattan's skyline, a gun battle is fought that brings death to the murderer.

Hellinger's new-face theory is again evident. Director Jules Dassin employed 20 featured radio and stage actors, who appear on the screen for the first time, to impressive advantage. The fact that they are new to film audiences adds immensely to the picture's gripping appeal.

An original story by Malvin Wald and adapted to the screen by Wald and Alber Haitz, "The Naked City" is, to date, the cinema's most graphic and realistic production.

C.A.T. Child Actress Cries For the Screen

"Now in this scene, we want the little girl to cry. Her favourite doll has broken in pieces at her feet. Can you cry, Sandra?" Letting her imagination out at full rein, the seven-year-old girl nodded in the affirmative, and as the test proceeded, her eyes filled with tears — real tears. "Wonderful," agreed all those present, and at that moment a tiny young girl became an actress.

A few days later, in front of the rolling Associated Screen camera, the scene was repeated, this time to be permanently recorded on celluloid. When the time for tears arrived, the camera recorded a regular onrush of tears, that streamed down the child's face, over her dress and on to the broken doll lying in pieces in the gutter at her feet. "Wonderful," exclaimed the director, Gordon Sparling, as he removed a sopping sponge from Sandra's hand.

The incident was the filming of "Les Grandes Ecluses", an Associated Screen Studios film on the Welland Canal System, to be released as one of the Studio's Canadian Cameo series.

Sandra Colbeck, the seven-year-old girl concerned, is a student of the Children's Workshop of the Canadian Art Theatre, which was asked to provide a youngster for the "broken doll" sequence. And even though the tears were provided by a big sopping sponge, the desired effect was achieved — and that is all an actress can do!

Unity Frolics Show Is Hit

Bob O'Neill's Unity Frolics played to a full house last night at the Protestant Sailors' Institute.

The show opened with the ever popular Coal Hole Trio that brought many a good laugh. Johnny O'Neill took over the M.C.'s job and made a great hit with his new part. His side-kick Lornie Potter did a very good impersonation of the movie star Lou Costello and kept the house jumping with the egg routine of Houdini. These boys are really terrific and will soon be brought to you in the near future.

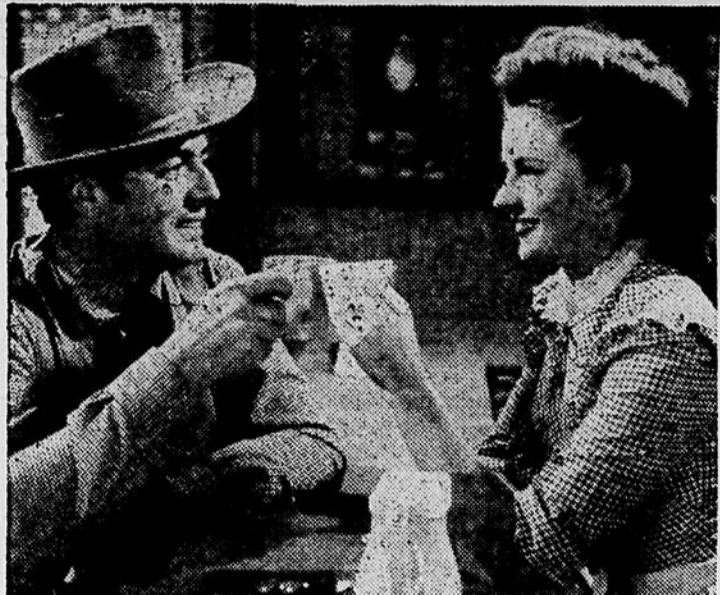

Bill McManus showed his ability in tap dancing and later did a comedy act with his partner doing a jitterbug novelty act.

The show ended with the six beautiful chorines dancing to the music of Johnny Roland and Bob Moranda.

"Quiet Weekend" Remains Big Attraction at Avenue

A talented cast of well-known British stage and screen stars are seen in the screen version of "Quiet Weekend" the famous play which broke records in London and the provinces. It remained for 3½ years during the worst blitz experienced during the most recent war.

The screen adaptation is equally as funny and has broken records wherever shown. From coast to coast audiences were so delighted and amused that it remained for 12 weeks in Toronto, 5 weeks in Winnipeg and 7 weeks in Vancouver.

AT THE WESTMOUNT SUNDAY!
Victor Mature drinking coffee at Coleen Gray's dinner in the action-packed feature "Fury At Furnace Creek," which starts Sunday at the Westmount Theatre.

Direct From ★ Hollywood

By Jack Hirsch

HOLLYWOOD HEARSAY
HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 28. — This ain't gonna be no scholarly treatise, but we're going to use a few sticks of type to show how a Frankenstein created by Hollywood press agents has returned to haunt them. They've turned into an adjective what should have stayed a proper noun. They've transformed a nonexistent town into a glamor city of which folk throughout the world dream. They've made Hollywood a way of life instead of a place to live. And they've done all this in the line of duty. Now the tinsel illusion flung by Hollywood at the world is beginning to boomerang.

There's a saying that the evil people do dies with them, but the good lives on. This isn't so with Hollywood. Newspapers daily shout of Hollywood scandal. If an actor becomes conceited he is said to have gone Hollywood. Crusading reformers who refer to the less stable way of life sometimes call it a Hollywood existence. Satirists continually refer to the Hollywood mentality.

Hollywood, in short, has come to be a derogatory descriptive. It denotes shallowness, sensationalism, vanity, ignorance, ostentation.

However the same people who sneer at Hollywood seldom refer to a major philanthropy as a Hollywood charity. Yet no other industry has been so charitable. British newspapers continue to blast American film folk, but Hollywood continues to pay its own stars' transportation to London for annual command performances in aid of English actors. Hollywood stars by the dozen came to Canada on war bond junkets, while others broadcast from Hollywood for Canadian Red Cross. Did any British star make such a gesture, other than perhaps a few of those who are resident in Hollywood?

And when critics refer to the Hollywood mentality as subnormal, do they think of the Hollywood brains which have given the world such films as "Song of Bernadette", "King of Kings", "Gentlemen's Agreement", "Going My Way", "Pastor", or "Miracle on 34th Street". Do these chronic crabs think of Jascha Heifetz and Fritz Kreisler, of Leopold Stokowski and Yehudi Menuhin, all Hollywoodians. Do the accusers think of Fred Astaire's twinkling toes, Bing Crosby's songs, Charles Chaplin's ageless triumphs, or the lilting melodies of Irving Berlin, Cole Porter or Milkos Rosza?

The probability is that many minds which blindly criticize Hollywood are far smaller than the minds they taunt. Hollywood makes bad movies, certainly. Far too many, indeed. And Hollywoodians get into trouble. They get divorced, strangled, hauled into court on traffic charges, like people in other towns.

The trouble is that Hollywood's lust for publicity has made everything to do with the town front page material. Everything sensational, that is. The public relations men who have made the Los Angeles suburb headline fodder now have their work cut out in a program of re-education. To mix a metaphor, the seeds they have sown are now come home to roost. And the situation is a pretty mess.

Passing incidents, not to mention a romance that nearly went astray, contrive to make the weekend anything but quiet, all help to make "Quiet Weekend" the wittiest screen comedy of the year. You will notice that the background is all authentic, not painted scenery, having been filmed in the Berkshires against beautiful British countryside.

Gable—Turner Star Again In "Homecoming" Love Drama

Repeated requests upon the part of their respective fans have joined Clark Gable and Lana Turner for the third time in the new love story, "Homecoming", which starts Saturday at the Seville Theatre, as one of the season's outstanding film attractions.

The stars have not appeared together since "Honky Tonk", made in 1941, and "Somewhere I'll Find You," filmed a year later.

Gable comes to the new picture from his big hit in "The Hucksters", while the role of the young nurse in "Homecoming", marks the third straight dramatic role in a row for Miss Turner, who recently scored in "Green Dolphin Street" and "Cass Timberlane."

Miss Turner, who won the part against competition of some of the most important feminine stars in the film capital, is seen as "Snapshot" McCall, forthright Army nurse with whom Gable falls in love. The role, which calls for the actress to meet a tragic end, is the most deeply emotional one Miss Turner has ever had.

Also in the stellar cast are Anne Baxter, playing Gable's loyal wife, and John Hodiak, as his best friend.

The gay 20's is the theme for "You Were Meant for Me", the added attraction.

Against this colorful and exciting setting, the film unfolds a marvellously appealing and engrossing story of a starry-eyed flapper, Jeanne Crain, and a brash and sophisticated "big name" bandleader, Dan Dailey. It is the story of their high-flying romance and of the challenge that faces them when they are brought to earth with a crash — the crash of

'29 that is, Elice Moll and Valentine Davies have written a superlative screenplay packed with hilarious situations, fast moving events and poignant drama that combine to provide a truly rich and memorable motion picture experience.

M.R.T. Presents Play "No Exit"

The MRT Studio Productions re-open next week. "No Exit", the English adaptation of Jean-Paul Sartre's Huis Clos, and "Lord Byron's Love Letter" by Tennessee Williams will be presented.

Jean-Paul Sartre, one of France's leading contemporary novelists, essayists and playwrights, is perhaps best known on this side of the water as the founder and the leader of the new French philosophical movement called "existentialism".

Tennessee Williams, an American playwright, has become popular in Europe as well as in America. Two of his plays "The Glass Menagerie" and "A Streetcar Named Desire", have gained international recognition.

No Exit is being directed by Myron Galloway, who directed last year's Studio Production of Ariadna, which later gained high place in the regional drama festival.

Lord Byron's Love Letter is under the direction of Dorothy Pfeiffer, C.D.A. Mrs. Pfeiffer will be remembered for her production of Robertson Davies Hope Deferred, seen in the Studio last season.

The productions will be played November 4th, 5th and 6th at MRT Playhouse.

McGill football fans might as well accustom themselves to the fact that this year's edition of the Redmen is like the little boy in the old nursery rhyme — when they're good, they're very, very good, but when they're bad, they're horrid. To say the least, the Redmen were horrid on Saturday afternoon in that 41-0 lacing that Varsity handed them. The McGill team was plainly befuddled. They would spread out, looking for one of those typical Cummings floater passes, and they would get hit for valuable yardage through the middle by Thumping Ted Toogood or Tommy Waldon. They would close in to stop this threat, and Mr. Cummings, a Varsity "import" from Nepean High School in Ottawa, would saunter back and throw long ones to sure-fingered Johnny Chorestecki and Bill Danylchuck.

Varsity spent the whole afternoon running up and down Molson Stadium as their 522 yards gained total will show. They passed for 250 of these yards on 13 glorious heaves by Cummings, who had a hand in every Blue touchdown, and belted their way through the highly-touted McGill line for another 272. In contrast to this, the Big Red Machine, temporarily out of order for four quarters on Saturday, racked up 103 yards through the air, and only 197 through a tough Varsity line. On no less than 18 plays, about one third of McGill's total from the offensive, the Redmen's backs were stopped for no gain, or thrown for a loss.

McGILL NOTES

The Redmen won their last intercollegiate crown in 1938, in a special playoff game with Western, when Herb Westman, possibly the greatest of all intercollegiate kickers, booted nine single points for a 9-0 McGill victory. . . . Saturday's loss brings Vic Obeck's two-year record with McGill to 2 wins, six losses, and one tie. Counting the four exhibition games his squad has played during that time, Vic has an even 6-6-1 record for his tenure as head coach. Since football was resumed in the intercollegiate circles at war's end, McGill has the unenviable record of 4 wins, 14 losses, and but one tie. . . . In Saturday's debacle, McGill's only outstanding ground gainer was Murray Hayes, who could average only 4.25 yards per try. However, fleet Murray ran for 8 of the Redmen's 16 first downs. Six of the others were gained by the passing route, so you can see where the rest of the McGill ground attack was all afternoon. . . . As Vic Obeck quipped after the game — "The best defence McGill put up all afternoon was when the students tried to stop Varsity from taking the goal posts after the game" . . . All in all, it was even a sadder game for the Redmen than was last fall's 56-5 shellacking by Western, and all McGill can look forward to is another meeting with Cummings and company at Toronto this week-end. As one wag put it — "The Blue was Cummings and were Toogood for McGill."

JUST JOTTINGS

Glenn Davis, former great Army back, is a truly versatile athlete, as can be shown by his amazing performance in West Point's Master of the Sword test, for which Davis holds the Academy record. Here's what the California Comet did at one sitting, or should we say standing and running? 1. Vertical jump (off the ground, basketball centre fashion), 2 ft. 5 in. 2. Bar vault, 6 ft. 6 in. 3. Dodge run (60 yards with 10 staggered barriers to circle), 21.4 seconds. 4. Standing broad jump, 9 ft. 1 in. 5. 300-yard run, 36 seconds. 6. Sit-ups, 31 times. 7. Parallel bar dips, 20 times. 8. Rope climb (20 feet), 6.67 seconds. 9. Chins, 16 times. 10. Softball throw, 280 ft. . . .

At one pro grid game last fall in Los Angeles, 81 relatives of Spec Sanders, New York football Yankees' great star, were in the stands. They came all the way from Texas and Oklahoma to see their boy in action. . . . George Halas, present owner and coach of the Chicago Bears, whose lineup features such stars as Sid Luckman, Johnny Lulack, Bobby Layne, George Connor, and George MacAfee, once played baseball for the New York Yankees under Miller Huggins. And just to complete the cycle, Charles Dreesen, Yankee coach, last year, once played pro football for Halas with the Decatur Staleys, forerunners of the present-day Bears. . . . Los Angeles Rams' great negro fullback, Kenny Washington, a teammate of Jackie Robinson when both played football for U.C.L.A., is a movie actor of note. He played the part of Achilles in the movie "The Foxes of Harrow", and has appeared in many other Grade A films. . . . Stymie, leading all-time money winner of the turf, is the foal of Equestrian and Stop Watch, neither of whom ever won a race. That must be a last generation, for his grandfather on each side was mighty Man O'War. . . . We liked the quip that Bo McMillan, former Indiana coach, made when that college announced it would begin a four-year series with Notre Dame, starting with the opening game of the 1949 season. Said Bo, "We always like to start off with a breather."

Westmount Meet NDG At Lower Canada Grounds

By BRIAN TIFFIN

Guts, fight, courage, valour, teamwork, and the will to win. These words are synonymous with the Westmount Warriors this season. They showed this when they trounced Verdun 17-5. They will prove it at 2.15 tomorrow when they march onto L.C.C. grounds on Royal avenue in quest of revenge.

For there will commence a struggle that the locals have fought all year to participate in — the battle against the unbeaten N.D.G. Maple Leafs for the Junior Q.R.F.U. grid championship. The vision of their dream is on the threshold of reality, one more conquest and the championship is theirs.

Turn Our And Cheer

No football minded Westmounter could idly sit home and wait for the results of this classic. All must be at this annual grudge battle, cheering our gladiators to bring honor and glory to their home town.

The locals suffered black eyes, bruises, pulled muscles and worst of all two humiliating defeats, but never have they submitted to the enemy. Westmount fans can be sure that N.D.G. will meet a battling team that never says die.

Patterson Star

Dynamic Jack Patterson led the purple and white to victory last Sunday. Versatile Jack kicked, ran and tackled his way into the hearts of 500 odd Westmount supporters.

George Strike and Keith Hood gave the locals an early lead when they kicked successive singles over the Verdun goal line.

The Warriors continued to hold an edge in play as drives by Walt Morrison and Ian McGillis placed the pigskin on the Verdun 5, Ernie Duley then swivel-hipped through the line for a major. Jack Patterson split the uprights for the convert.

The Fashions came surging back in the second quarter to block a Westmount kick. One-eyed Eddy McLeod crossed the local goal line to make the score 8-5.

Second Half Attack

In the second half Bruce Johnson's boys really began to roll. Jack "Goldilocks" Dudley smashed through the Verdun line to block the kick. With the ball on the Verdun 15, Jack Patterson booted a field goal. Again it was Patterson who stole the spotlight. He intercepted a Verdun pass and galloped to their 3. On the next play, Jack crashed through middle amidst a swarm of players, to give the locals a 16-5 lead. In the dying minutes of the game, Patterson's attempted field goal was good for a point.

The Westmount line was phenomenal. Led by Bill McLeod, Jack Dudley, Moose Young and Marv Greenbaum, they stopped the highly touted Verdun backfield cold. Other stars were quarterback Ian McGillis, running half Ernie Duley and ends Dave Binmore and Pete Cox.

St. Leo's Sports

A battling bunch of Juniors playing inspired football came within an ace of upsetting the highly favored Loyola juniors at the west end campus last Monday afternoon. The final score of the game was 18 to 15 in favor of the Collegians. Again it was a couple of costly fumbles and a few misdirected passes that denied the Academy a victory.

St. Leo's took the lead early in the first quarter after a series of successful ground plays, Ray Losito plunged over from seven yards out for a major score that went unconverted. Losito played brilliant football throughout and was easily the individual star of the game.

The Academy crew, looked to be on the march soon again when they moved the yard sticks a number of times to have possession on the Loyola 40 yard line but here some timid ball carrying by a St. Leo half resulted in a fumble. The Maroon and White were quick to capitalize on this gift, breaking away for a 45 yard gain that brought them to the Academy ten. Here they were held for a couple of downs but soon went over for a touchdown. The convert was good making the score 6 to 5 for Loyola. St. Leo's again worked into a scoring position after a spot pass from Graham Fagan to Dave McVey was completed for a thirty yard gain. A few off tackle plays and the Westmounters again took the lead, going over for a try. The attempted convert by Jimmy Cotter failed the ball striking the cross bar. Score now 10 to 6 for St. Leo's. Loyola kicked short just before half time but an Academy end was offside, giving Loyola another chance to kick and this time the punt was good driving St. Leo's back to their own seven as half time whistle went with no further score.

Soon after the resumption of play, Loyola intercepted a forward pass on St. Leo's 15 yard line that was intended for Graham Fagan, and from here scampered over for another five points to make the score read 11 to 10. A rouge near the end of the third quarter put the home club ahead 12 to 10. The Academy came close at the outset of the last quarter but another interception nullified their gain. St. Leo's regained possession when Fred Reynolds gathered in a fumble but couldn't stand prosperity and once more some careless ball handling by a St. Leo's half gave the ball back to Loyola; who again showed themselves to be expert opportunists as on the very next play broke loose around St. Leo's right end to run 50 yards for a touchdown. The convert was good making the score 18 to 10.

Although tiring fast the spirited understaffed Clarke Ave. brigade fought back desperately and before the twilight shadows of a beautiful Autumn afternoon had settled were again in a good scoring position after a smart run by Graham Fagan. A few roughing penalties to Loyola aided the cause by advancing the ball to the ten. A line plunge was good for six and then an off tackle play was the pay off for the Saints. Loyola elected to receive and Vaughan McVey kicking short recovered his own kick for a smart move. Dusk was now fast sweeping across the campus and with but a few minutes remaining, St. Leo's dug in for a last ditch stand that had Loyola on the defensive and the last whistle signifying the end of the game was music to their ears. It was a bitter defeat for the game and gritty St. Leo's crew to swallow after playing hard and clean football but they should be able to gain a lot of satisfaction over the decided improvement in their play over previous games.

SPORT SHORTS

Tommie Reynolds, regular end on the Juniors, has been showing a good pair of hands as a pass receiver and is proving a valuable asset to his club.

Jimmy Cotter in his first year of football has been a pleasant surprise as a smart and shifty quarterback and his coach rates him as second to none in the league. Thomas Rogers, also a quarterback, has been coming along in fine fashion to give the Junior Club good balance at this difficult position. Bob Lunny could use a new crystal ball, as his weird predictions as a sport forecaster would well qualify him as number one in line for the presidency of the 100% wrong club. Milton Orr, former Academy fistic great has been appointed Boxing coach at McGill University. Bert Lattimer, John Foy, Harry Wolfe and Kevin McAsey of St. Leo's Boxing team have been doing a little early training up at McGill Boxing class and all are pleased with the fine training facilities Milton has provided for them. Bernard Dubreuil, regular goalkeeper of St. Leo's 1948 Senior B City Hockey Champions, left the school recently to attend Mt. St. Louis College where he will play on the Mt. St. Louis Junior B squad, Bernie's departure leaves the team without a goaler and coach Andy McGillis is not too well pleased over the circumstances surrounding his transfer to Mt. St. Louis and is inclined to feel that a school the size of Mt. St. Louis should be able to stand on its own feet and not to have to retort to strengthen their team at the expense of a small school. St. Leo's is proud of the fact it has always managed to develop its own hockey players without coveting or making concessions to athletes in another school.

Annual Meeting Of Ski Club Set For November 3

The Westmount Ski Club will hold its Annual Meeting on Wednesday, November 3rd, at 8 p.m. at the Westmount Y.M.C.A. John Lewis, the club president, announces that the Directors have been working hard planning the program for the coming season.

The club has rented a ski cottage at the foot of Mont Gabriel near Piedmont, and it is expected that this clubhouse will be an added attraction for the members, having sleeping accommodation for twenty persons and situated in close proximity to some of the best skiing hills in the Laurentians, both for competitions and for instruction, and with gentle practice slopes for the novice skier.

A new venture has been started by the commencement of a physical fitness class which meets on Monday evenings at the Westmount Y.M.C.A. gymnasium. The purpose of this class is to encourage ski enthusiasts to get into shape for the coming season, and several of the club's members, including Andy Hamilton, Ritchie Mayhew, John Lewis, Bjorn Malm, Jack Krefling and others have signed up for the class. This class is being promoted by the Laurentian Zone Committee and is open to all skiers of all clubs. The volunteer leadership of the class is being undertaken by Ragnar Hvostlef, recently arrived from Norway, and who is familiar with the physical instruction given to skiers in Norway.

The agenda for the Annual Meeting will be as follows:

Presentation of annual reports, election of directors and officers, establishment of fees and discussion of plans for the coming season.

The evening will be rounded off by the showing of some excellent ski movies. Persons who are interested in joining the Westmount Ski Club are cordially invited to attend.

World Service In Action

SOUTH AMERICA

When a new tree is taken to another country it may or may not take root. Even when such a tree does take hold, several years may pass before one knows whether it will bear fruit, and what the quality and abundance of the fruit may be.

In 1891 the seed of the Y.M.C.A. was brought to South America by a stalwart gardener named Myron Clark, who planted it in the hearts of receptive Christians like Jose Fernandez Braga and Soares do Couto, resident in the city of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. These men gathered around him and in 1893 formed the first Y.M.C.A. in South America with Myron Clark as its first General Secretary. The salary of this General Secretary, and of his successors for many years, was paid by missionary minded Y.M.C.A. people in the United States, who operate through the United States National Council and the International Committee. This missionary group has similarly sent seed by many hands to various parts of the world.

The tree grew well in this continent and soon showed signs of strength and productiveness. Other secretaries were encouraged to come, and around them started the Y.M.C.A.'s of San Paula and Buenos Aires in 1902, Montevideo in 1906, Valparaiso in 1912, and others, so that today there are fourteen Y.M.C.A.'s in eight of the ten countries in South America — Brazil, Argentina, Uruguay, Chile, Peru, Bolivia, Paraguay and Venezuela.

In the early years of these associations, American secretaries carried the responsibility and did most of the work. Soon national young men caught the ideal, and they did most of the work, while the missionary Secretary in the local YMCA provided leadership on the top level. Local boards, with nationals in the majority, became able to handle their own finances and their financial campaigns, though balancing budgets and raising building funds are not easily accomplished.

By now the A.C.M. and the A.C.J. Brazilian and Spanish equivalents of Y.M.C.A., are accepted entities in their communities. The government authorities and the people look upon them as their own. This process is, of course, only partially completed in the newer associations.

Most of the apples grown in South America date back to grafted trees and cuttings brought from U.S.A., but we think of them as indigenous, because we see them growing in our earth. The same is true where Young Men's Christian Associations in South America have been and are being led by Nationals. A wrong impression would be given, however, if the reader felt that this state of affairs existed in all the association of South America. There are still several where the missionary secretary is doing pioneer work, and a few untouched countries and regions where younger trees must be tended and new seeds planted.

Mention must be made of the Instituto Tecnico at Montevideo where young secretaries are trained in a four-year course. These young men come from every country in South America where the "Y" has taken hold, and also from Mexico. Founded in 1914 by missionary secretaries, its graduates are the persons who are making it possible for the Y.M.C.A. to become indigenous. At first, nearly all the courses in this training center were taught by North Americans, but in later years more and more of the courses have been taken over by local professors and national secretaries. The South American Associations place such value on this Institute that they are making considerable efforts to provide a permanent building suitable to its needs and opportunities. In this aspiration our brothers in U.S.A. have also expressed a desire to help us. Unfortunately the programme and building needs of each local Y.M.C.A. require nearly all its financial potential. The budget of the Federation, including the Instituto Tecnico, cannot be considered indigenous. But where there is a desire and a will there is a way; and there definitely is a desire among the South American Associations that this Institute achieve a self-supporting basis.

The crowning glories of a Christian Association or of any other Christian group, however, are its missionary efforts. That this indigenous movement in approaching maturity is proved in that several local Associations have taken an interest with men and money in the strengthening and founding of other Associations, including those in neighbouring countries.

In South America, as in most parts of the world, there are hundreds of thousands of people who do not even bother to continue the lip-service to religion that was given by their fathers. The indigenous Christians of South America have a great opportunity for presenting to the new generation associations that can increasingly demonstrate the abundant life which Jesus came to give.

Canada is the largest country in the Americas.—Quick Canadian Facts.

Family Court...

Present procedure, said Mr. Jacobs, is full of delays and is degrading to the litigants. An estranged couple must come into open court and suffer the indignity of hearing their intimate domestic relationships discussed in a crowded court room, filled with an unsympathetic and cruelly cynical public. Where there are children, they too must share with their parents the distress and humiliation of public exposure.

Several years ago, stated Mr. Jacobs, certain legislation was passed with regard to these matters, but it was never put into effect. More recently, other legislation was passed but even this is not sufficient. The only solution to the problem is a Family Court, with jurisdiction to inform both parties of their responsibility in accordance with the law, to advise husband and wife of their duties in respect to each other, and to remind them of their obligations towards their children.

Widely Endorsed

The establishment of a Family Court, Mr. Jacobs asserted, has received the endorsement of the Montreal Local Council of Women, representing 57 constituent organizations; the endorsement of the Montreal Social Welfare Bureau; members of the Judiciary and of the Montreal Bar Association; as well as Ministers of the Church, psychiatrists and Social Service Workers.

"In view of the overwhelming public opinion already engendered for the establishment of a Family Court in the City of Montreal," Mr. Jacobs concluded, "I appeal to the Honorable Maurice Duplessis, Attorney General and Prime Minister of the Province of Quebec, who has the authority, the power and the desire, I feel confident, to solve this great social and judicial problem by creating such a court without delay in our metropolises."

Faces Green, Eyes Mean, Halloween Back On Scene

By HARRY KUSHNER

"Hide the garden gate," said the little woman, as I crawled in from work last night. "Hide the front porch. And the back porch." I looked at her in alarm.

"Hide the garage," she said. "Tie down the roof."

"Why?" I asked. "Is your brother coming for another visit?"

"Very funny," she glared. "Bring Cuddles' dog-house in from the yard."

"Your mother is coming!" I yelled, really terrified.

"You could be on the radio," leered the little woman. "Genius, don't you know it is Hallowe'en this weekend?"

grudgingly, "perhaps it is too much to expect that you can fight them all single-handedly. But you should at least put up a token defence."

with those little children!"

The little woman sniffed, disdainfully.

"Don't you remember last year?" I screamed. "I hid the garden gate, so they took the fence. I hid the front porch, so they took the side of the house. I brought all the shrubs in from the garden, so they took the trees. What's the use? They just can't be stopped!"

"Well," said the paymaster, "All right," I conceded. "All right, I'll try. But I'll need a new angle. Let me think . . . Hah! I've got it! I've got it!"

"Wait, dear," said the little woman, worriedly. "Think it over carefully. There may be a law against that."

"It's simple," I cried, exultantly. "I should have thought of it before. I'm a genius. Why all I have to do is remember back to my boyhood days. I'll put myself in a young lad's shoes, then I'll know exactly how their minds work. I'll develop an air tight defence."

The little woman beamed. "I knew you weren't really beaten, Dear. Map out your strategy, then tell me about it."

I retired to my study — and I studied the situation. I thought it over very carefully, over and over again, for hours, and I knew what I was going to do. I returned to my wife.

"What are you going to do?" she asked.

"Nothing," I said.

"Nothing!" she yelled.

"Nothing," I said. Boys deserve to have their little bit of fun. They are really kind little creatures, at heart."

"Well," said the little woman. "And how did you arrive at that conclusion?"

"I was a boy once, myself," I said, sheepishly. "It is only fair that I remain true to my species. And, Dear," I said as an afterthought, "do you know that rose-bush, next door, that Jones is so proud of? Well, I was thinking . . ."

My face turned deathly green. My knees started playing a tom-tom solo. "No," I croaked. "No."

"Yes," said the better half. "Yes. Now get started."

"What's the use," I said, hopelessly. "I'm no match for a horde of little hellions. There are too many of them, and their brains are too sharp. Their brains are sharper than my mother-in-law's tongue. I can't outwit them. I'm old, I belong to the lost generation, I'm not scientific like the new generation. I haven't a chance."

"I know, dear, but you can't give up without a fight. You've got to try."

"I tried last year. I fought them tooth and nail. But I was out-classed. I'm just not smart enough."

"Now, really dear," sneered the little woman. "They are only little children. Surely a man of your age can compete with them."

"I'm not that old. I'd need another two hundred years of Hallowe'ens to be experienced enough to compete with . . . with . . ."
