SPIDER WEB NETWORK OF NEW ROADS AND EXPRESSWAYS: This aerial shot by Examiner staff cameraman Tommy Thompson marks the complicated net of new fast access roads and expressways that will spring up over the West End of the island in next few months. Westmount, in the top right hand corner, will benefit by the new system. Motorists heading off the island to the west will find their journey a lot quicker and easier. Even from this angle, at a height of about 4,000 feet, the Mountain and St. Joseph's Oratory are easily spotted.

The CF-104 makes it!

By Larry McInnis

Canadair's third Canadian-made Lockheed CF-104 Star fighter made its first official flight at Cartierville last Wednesday afternoon, arousing the interest of the gathering of press, St. Laurent Mayor Marcel Laurin and Canadair officials.

Only the regular collection of gulls on the field refused to be impressed.

The flight consisted of a take-off, a slow pass over the field and a landing. All went smoothly, except the drag chute came off the aircraft when it touched down.

During the test, Canadair officials were heard to whisper, "I hope he holds it back."

They were referring to Bill Kidd, the test pilot at the controls. There is no doubt that he had to hold it back. This plane did more than 1,400 mph on a straight-and-level one day last week, and last Wednesday it lazed around at 550 mph, or little more than one third of its speed.

Anyway, the flight was interesting and we learned that Canadair will get into top production about January of 1962.

For those who are worried about the possibility of noise, the manufacturers have taken pains to keep things quiet, including baffles for the normal engine runup, and jets of water to quiet the sound of the afterburners.

Besides, there's barely a whisper when it's idling, although it sounds like a sick moose when the afterburners are cut in on takeoff.

After a lazy climb-out, all flight testing will be done above 40,000 feet about 150 miles north of Montreal.

What won't they think of next? The U.S. Army has a radar so accurate and powerful it can tell the difference on a radar screen between a man and a woman walking miles away.

Further, they can tell if the woman is young or old by the footsteps.

Apparently footsteps send off radar waves. Since a woman's steps are brisker than a man's, the difference can be picked up on the ultra-sensitive machine.

The Montreal Flying Club has bought a new Cessna 150 to replace the one crashed by a 19-year old pilot a few weeks ago.

The color is sort of turquoise — but then most MFC aircraft have been repainted this year in a rather odd assortment of colors.

Met Ed O'Neill, chief cameraman for CFCF-TV news, at Cartierville the other day.

It reminded me of his first solo flight a couple of years ago — he's an accomplished pilot — when he had an engine failure shortly after takeoff. After trying everything, he put it down alongside the autoroute.

The rest of that day the incident didn't bother him too much.

Later, in the evening, he was an invited guest to the Officers' Mess at 401(F) Squadron in Westmount.

Ed was a little late arriving, and when he opened the door he walked into the middle of an American "hell-for-leather" World War II flying picture.

There were dozens of aircraft crashing and burning and being shot down, etc.

I hear Ed almost passed out at this stage.

Watches tachometer; forgets speedometer

"I was just testing the tachometer," pleaded TV time salesman for Channel 12, Sam Wasserman, charged in Westmount Municipal Court Wednesday with speeding.

"I was watching the speed of the revolutions of the tachometer," he explained to the judge. Wasserman admitted in court he was travelling at least 40 miles an hour when he was arrested recently on Cote St. Antoine at 1:30 a.m.

Constable W. J. Jones testified that had Wasserman been doing only 40 or 45 miles, he would have been left alone due to the lateness of the hour and lack of traffic on Cote St. Antoine.

Judge Stalker fined Wasserman $20 and costs.

Commented the judge, "The only reason you are not losing your license is because you are a salesman and a car is necessary in order for you to earn a living."

We ran stories on:

The history of the Westward Amateur Athletic Association which "... dated far back to a house on Rosemount avenue and three boys some forty five years ago, whose interest in organized athletics burgeoned into the Westmount Amateur Athletic Association, with headquarters at the old Victoria Hall, in the days when the trams, little pill-box affairs, with a single wheel truck in the centre, came as far as Victoria Hall only, and then, doubtless, nonplussed by the verdant stretch of open country that Notre Dame de Grace was then, turned back in dismay."

The determination of both Leslie G. Bell and R. S. White to represent the St. Antoine-Westmount Conservatives in the forthcoming parliamentary election. Mr. Bell was chosen candidate of the Tory convention for the riding. Mr. White was subsequently chosen to represent them by dissatisfied Westmount Conservatives who preferred being represented by a Westmounter.

Persistent officers get traffic offender

A bearded man, charged at Westmount Municipal court with going through a red light at Cote St. Antoine and Victoria avenue intersection recently, said he couldn't stop in time to avoid going through the light.

He also objected to being followed into Montreal by Constables Hunter and McKinnon who presented him with the ticket.

Free shots for everyone

The question of free polio shots has probably entered just about everyone's mind at one time or another.

Dr. Donald G. Mackay, Medical Officer of Health for the City of Westmount informs us that for people twenty one and over the shots may be obtained free of charge by contacting the Poliomyelitis Foundation for an appointment. For the under twenty one age group the shots may be obtained by contacting the Municipal Health Department.

Moreover Dr. Mackay tells us that this number is known to the Provincial Government and we are not allowed to ask for quantities in excess of our needs.

Regarding this point Dr. Mackay says, "I would like to make it clear that the material we use for these immunizations is given to us free by the Provincial Health Authorities for use for members of our population up to and including the age of twenty years."

Westmounters who are interested in having the shots can get full information by contacting the Medical Health Office at WE. 5-8531.

When testifying, both constables agreed that he increased speed when he saw the light at the intersection turn yellow, and that it turned red when the accused's car was three quarters of the way across Victoria.

The lone witness for the defence, a young woman travelling with the accused at the time of the incident, was questioned by Inspector Arseneault.

The conversation was as follows:

Inspector Arseneault: "Were you looking at the speedometer as you were travelling?"

Young woman: "Yes I saw the speedometer, and we were travelling at a reasonable rate of speed."

Inspector: "And did you see the traffic lights?"

Young woman: "I saw the lights and they did not turn yellow until we entered the intersection."

Inspector: "Did you see the police car?"

Young Woman: "Yes."

Inspector: "Were you and the gentleman talking?"

Young Woman: "yes we were."

Inspector Arseneault's final comment: "My, you do many things at once."

The accused was found guilty and fined.

Court Report

In Westmount Municipal Court proceedings on Wednesday, E. G. Carey was charged with driving without a license. Carey pleaded guilty with the following explanation — "I was moving the car for my wife, who does have a license," stated Carey.

A young Montreal man was fined 20 dollars and costs for speeding. Since he was married and earned his living as a chauffeur his license was not suspended.

One week, was the time limit set for a Westmount resident to pay a fine for driving at night without any lights.

Insurance agent, Martin Bellin, pleaded guilty to "jumping" a green light at the corner of Sherbrooke and Grosvenor. The judge suggested that he wait for the green light, pull as far as possible into the intersection, and then make the turn when possible.

Mrs. J. Dudberry pleaded not guilty to a charge of illegal parking on Greene and the case was remanded to August 30.

Montreal tax bills due

Those pesky water, business and other personal taxes for Montrealers are due again.

Director of Finance Lactance Roberge has issued notice that all taxes for the fiscal year 1961-62 will be due September 1 for all persons whose names appear on the Montreal tax roll. Anyone who has not yet received a bill for taxes for which they are liable should ask for their bill immediately at the Water and Business Taxes Department of the City Hall.

Taxes may be paid at branches of most banks or their branch offices in Westmount, Outremont or Verdun.

Taxpayers are reminded that partial payments of taxes and all payments of arrears may only be paid at the Montreal City Hall proper.

After September 1 all payments will be subject to the addition of interest at 6 percent per annum and water service may be discontinued without further notice in any building for which the water tax shall not have been paid within 30 days following September 1.

Accident beat

Last Thursday a car driven by A. R. Osborne, 20, of Montreal struck the car of J. McMillan at the corner of Sherbrooke and Victoria.

Osborne was travelling west on Sherbrooke, looking for Cavendish when he hit McMillan, who was stopped for a red light.

At Greene and Sherbrooke last week, D. Cardone, 27, who could produce no drivers license, travelling north on Greene in the outside lane was involved in a collision with the vehicle of R. Girard, while trying to turn right onto Sherbrooke. Girard was making the same turn from the inside lane.

On Wednesday of last week, at 7:30 p.m., on Selby street, a taxi driven by A. Lanteigne, struck Robbin Berube, 13, when the boy pulled from the curb suddenly.

Less than $100 damage was done when Jacques St. Jacques, 21, in backing out of a St. Catherine street driveway, struck the parked truck of A. Gauthier.

Expressways will aid Westmount traffic

Construction of expressways in the West End will help Westmount by taking away a lot of traffic now using City streets strictly as access routes.

The Decarie Expressway, the proposed east-west waterfront expressway and the Western avenue extension are expected to take most of this heavy vehicular traffic off Westmount streets.

In addition, Montreal's Executive Committee announced this week that, in co-operation with the Westmount Traffic Department, Victoria avenue would become a two-way street from Westmount boulevard to Queen Mary road.

This will allow traffic now using Grosvenor to continue straight north through Westmount, across Queen Mary. No left turns will be permitted at Victoria and Queen Mary.

Grosvenor straightened

Montreal has also announced its intention to widen Grosvenor and to eliminate the curve north of Sunnyside. This was done last year to Victoria avenue by Westmount.

The Montreal City Council has voted money for expropriation along the east side of Decarie. Owners are expected to make an attempt to block the City move, and the Expressway will not be started until the legal aspects are cleared.

When the $45 million express-

Drunk driver flees scene, loses license

Nicholas Appollos, unemployed Montrealer, pleaded guilty Wednesday at the Westmount Municipal court to charges of drunken driving, but claimed no recollection when he was charged with hitting another car and then fleeing the scene.

Last Sunday night Paul Rochon and his wife were returning to their Dorchester street home when the car driven by Appollos tore past a stop sign, hitting the Rochon car which was totally demolished, it was stated in testimony at the trial.

Appollos did not bother to stop, it was disclosed in court, and Rochon was forced to give chase. A Westmount police cruiser was sighted by Rochon and joined in the chase, stopping Appollos' car several blocks away.

Rochon and his wife suffered minor cuts and bruises.

A fine of $100 and costs or three months in jail for each charge was imposed by Judge A. McT. Stalker. The court also ruled Appollos be deprived of his driver's license for a period of 18 months.

Power increase

Juice on the loose

No estimate of cost is available yet, but an eight year job is near completion, and when it is finished so will be many of the storm, snow and power shortage worries of the people of Westmount, according to A. de S. Heron, superintendent of Light and Power for the City of Westmount.

Mr. Heron explained that, "the actual process of increasing our power from 2,400 to 4,160 volts, began two years ago, spreading north by the end of May, and since then to the east." Mr. Heron went on to say that, "we did not plan the change because it was immediately necessary, but because we were looking to the future."

The Oliver, Glen and King George park sub-stations will remain basically unchanged, and although the power is supplied by Hydro Quebec, the job of changing the pole and some home transformers has kept a Westmount Power Dept. crew busy for two years.

Eight years ago a changeover began, which will soon see Westmount with an overall 73 per cent power increase, and little chance of any power shortages for a long time to come.

Bicycle hits car

At five o'clock last Friday afternoon, John Turner, 23, struck the car of Don Pooley — with his bicycle.

Turner was heading west on St. Catherine St., and Pooley was just going through the St. Catherine-Elm intersection, heading south, when he ran into the left side of the other car.

No one was hurt and damage was of a minor nature.

The name Westmount, suggested by the western shoulder of Mount Royal, was first adopted by the Murray family for their residence which stood on the site of the present tennis courts in Murray park until 1935.

WE SAY YOU SAY

Strong Metro needed now more than ever

THE decision of Mr. Roland Chagnon to resign as chairman of the Montreal Metropolitan Corporation should be of concern to Montreal, but is of particular concern to the West End municipalities.

The West End has been getting increasing attention from all levels of government. The next few years will see a high in public works, all of benefit to metropolitan Montreal.

The Decarie Expressway will be an important north-south traffic artery; Cavendish from Upper Lachine road to Metropolitan boulevards, the proposed east-Gouin, will be another; the Sherbrooke street extension to Lakeshore road, the proposed housing development on the site of the Turcot Yards, the proposed east-west waterfront expressway, will all be of a metropolitan nature, although in the West End.

Many of the talked-about improvements have already been implemented, and the municipalities have come together to prove that mutual co-operation can, and should, exist.

Our West End municipalities are proud of their autonomy, but have shown the ability to work together toward a common goal.

Mr. Chagnon has ably led the Corporation over the past two years. It is frightening to think that Metro may flounder when Mr. Chagnon leaves.

It is time for Metro to be strengthened throughout. It needs capable leadership to function properly, and its function is increasingly important. Especially to the West End.

New highway act boon to business

Sir: I read with interest your account of the report delivered to Westmount Rotary by E. H. S. Piper, Q.C., on the subject of the Assigned Risk Plan under the new Highway Victims Indemnity act.

Judging from my own interpretation of reports in the press, and the pamphlets I have seen on the new system, there seem to be good and bad points.

That innocent victims of road accidents should receive some form of compensation is a very worthy cause.

To remove the danger of the drunk, the madman and the generally irresponsible driver from our roads is move deserving the full support of all drivers in the province.

These, for sure, are the good points.

What I do not agree with, however, is the inauguration of a system by a purely commercial body, that is designed to fill their coffers, and is being given the protection of the law.

As I read the new act, it was devised by the insurance business, will be implemented by the insurance business, and will most handsomely reward the insurance business.

For a government, provincial or national, to have any part in a glorified sales campaign is, surely, very wide of the aims of democracy.

As I see it, a young man, maybe a family man, buying his first car, must show financial responsibility. With this, we all concur.

This same young man, unless he has a far from average background, will not be able to show the requisite amount of hard cash in the bank.

He will, therefore, have to obtain insurance coverage.

Herein lies the tale. A new insurance case is liable to be classed as an assigned risk, as the insurance firm have no previous knowledge of him.

To bring that down to common language, the insurance firm will rob that young man of a higher premium under the protection of the assigned risk plan, with full government backing.

Are we, sir, to be thrown purely at the mercy of the big insurance firms? Is there to be no control over the premiums and rates they can charge?

Would not it have been better to simply pass an act which made a provincially recognized road insurance essential, and not to have played so half heartedly into the laps of the

Company picnics are a big bother

By MARIE LONDON

"For the whole family!"

These words are enough to strike terror in the hearts of wives and mothers at least once a year when hubby's company, the "club", or the Sunday school announces the annual picnic.

Some picnics are free, all expenses being absorbed by the recreation funds, others charge a fee ranging from $1 for adults and 50 cents for children (ice cream extra), to 25 cents per person.

Free or not, the official summons to the wide open spaces usually elicits groans in most Canadian families, or so I gather, from wives and mothers at the bridge club.

Picnics fall into two categories — completely un-organized or maddeningly over-organized. You can usually tell right from the start which is going to be which.

Look ahead

The un-organized one can be spotted a month away when nobody is quite sure when or where it is going to be held, how much, if anything it will cost or who is in charge of the big event. Nobody seems to know where to get tickets, (use the stubs for your free ice cream), whether a bus will be chartered, or if you have to make a discreet call to your dearest friends and see if we can use THEIR car.

An important point to establish before getting to the picnic spot is will there or will there not be soft drinks, milk or water readily available, or should you bring your own. It's wiser to bring your own anyway, because you might find the only way to get a drink is with the ticket stub, and after all, Junior might just want more than one coke! (It's handy to try and have a lot of stubs, anyway, because you usually need them for ice cream or raffle prizes).

Locating the picnic spot can be a fascinating all-morning occupation and really smart husbands give up as soon as possible and turn back home.

If you're going to the most popular of all picnic places, St. Helen's Island, don't worry about a thing! Not only is it easy to find, but there are usually dozens of picnics going on simultaneously at the island, and if you get bored with your own, you can always drop in to another one. Nobody will notice one more family, especially if the children are crying noisily.

General consensus of opinion is that the un-organized picnic is the best kind — where you don't have to worry about how many races your children are going to lose whether it will seriously affect their egos or social standing. And you can eat whenever you want to, without waiting for some "cheerful Charlie" to blow the whistle.

Seating important

But even this kind of picnic has its problems—with so many already rich insurance business?

These, sir, are my impressions. If any of your readers, or even yourself, would care to correct me, I stand prepared.

I am willing to learn my mistakes, and no doubt many others would be interested in hearing 'the other side' of this matter.

J.R.W.E., Westmount

many, but the recreation officials laugh it off in a determined effort to be happy and care-free all the way.

The minute you get off the bus, signs tacked to trees greet you with supposedly amusing messages for picnickers — such as: "keep off the grass," "no children allowed", "beware of the sharks," etc.

Exhausted by the bus trip (of course yours was the one with noisy teenagers giving lusty renditions of popular and not so popular songs), you sink down on the nearest bench or rock or patch of grass.

But not for long — the organizers are up and at it — and it's time for a swim or a hike or a baseball game or something equally strenuous.

About 15 minutes after lunch, it's time for the kiddies' races, and unless you're quick, somebody will commandeer you into holding the finishing line, or grabbing the winners or writing down their names. If your only involvement is having your children run (confined in a potato sack, or tied to somebody else's ankle), it won't be easy, either.

By tradition, parents of racing children at picnics hover at the finishing line shouting, "Run! Run!" or "C'mon! C'mon!" or if these stick in your throat as you watch your youngsters trip, crawl and drag themselves along, "Hurry! Hurry!"

You might think the worst is over by now. But it isn't.

Now it's time for the wives' potato sack race and three legged race.

Can you outrun the president's wife? In a potato sack? Or more

 It was amusing to watch the conductor, who moved his arms like a robot while the few musicians emoted their scanty score. The dancing of this peculiar opus has some rhythm here and there that could be called symmetry but alas, except for the few devotees of this bizarre "Today's Music" I am quite sure that no one would venture out to a concert hall to see and hear it a second time.

"Today's Music," a five-day series of what is going on in modern composition by writers in what I would call "composers of the space era" or perhaps some of it may be termed "beatnik music," was an experiment this season by The Montreal Festivals, held in the Comedie Canadienne.

Doubtless the Festivals Society will not seek to repeat it. I attended only one evening (it was enough) Saturday, August 5, and stayed to the end. After hearing such music, I certainly could not be tempted to sit through subsequent performances and on good authority was informed that each concert contained items of the same unmusical ingredients.

If this is a sample of "Today's Music" I prefer "Yesterday's" unless there is some melodic content. Music by Khatchaturian, Stravinsky, Honegger, and Schonberg have continuity and some harmonic form. What was offered on the evening I went, only one of the seven sections on the program is worth a review.

The last item was a world premiere, a nine member group that executed choreography that was more calisthenics than dance steps. The Merce Cunningham dance Company (U.S.A.) has some talented dancers in its personnel. The accompaniment, if it could be called such, was a few odd sounds here and there on electronic devices, a violin which

Horticulturists announce winners

Feature of the West End Horticultural Society's annual Flower and Vegetable Show, held at the Wesley United Church Hall, on N.D.G. avenue last week, was the high standard of entries, and the large number of entrants from Westmount, N.D.G., Hampstead, Cote de Neiges and Cote St. Luc.

Over the years, this show has become an increasingly family affair.

At this year's show, the Hood family from N.D.G. had five entrants, Allan Hood and his wife Marion, and their three children, David, aged 12, Douglas, 11, and nine year old Nancy. Between them, the family collected eight first places, two cups and a rosette.

List of winners

Major prize winner of the show was R. R. Herman, 4514 Madison, N.D.G. Mr. Herman, a devoted flower enthusiast, took 15 firsts, three seconds and a third prize, to amass a total of 55 points, some 10 ahead of his nearest rival.

His excellent gladioli entries won him the prize for the best spike on both days of the show, the prize for them ost open spike, for the largest florets, and the longest flower head.

He was awarded the Sydney Mode Award for the finest blooms, the Tom Ireland Memorial trophy, the Walker Cup for the best gladio-

Woman motorist claims prejudice

Mrs. R. Heward, claimed Wednesday, in Westmount Municipal Court that Westmount officials were prejudiced against woman drivers.

"This is my first traffic offence driving," said Mrs. Heward, who went on to say, "I did not enter the intersection before the light turned yellow."

Mrs. Heward pleaded not guilty to the charge of going through the light and the case was remanded until August 30.

Inspection + radio = safety

A new twist has been added to the Westmount Fire Department this month with the addition of two way radios to three of the pump and salvage trucks, as well as the Deputy Chief's car.

"The radios will be used to maintain constant contact with the station," says Deputy Fire Chief Thomas Hovenden, "and will be a great help in case of emergency, when the trucks have to be moved from one location to another in a hurry."

Meanwhile, the in-service inspection continues. Three days a week men got out and visit Westmount homes, looking for potential fire hazards. Deputy Chief Hovenden reports that the main cause of fires are rubbish, clogged furnaces and overloaded electrical systems.

It is expected that the checkup will be completed by the week of October 8, which is Fire Prevention Week. All potential hazards are reported to the fire inspectors immediately. The next step is for the householder to eliminate the hazard within 72 hours. When this is done a final check is made.

LIFE JACKETS

Life jackets are a "must" for everyone going to spend their vacation or the summer where there will be swimming, boating or any sports connected with the water. A life jacket should be available for every person in a boat. Care should be taken to ensure that the life jackets are the government approved styles, since some kinds are little more than toys.

The inspection takes only a few minutes and in the interests of safety everyone is urged to cooperate.

Clues to Cashword Explained

ACROSS

- SOSO is preferred. A musical comedy composer may complain about the SOSO, or middling good, rendition of one of his songs, for he may feel it deserves a better effort, whether it is sung as a SOLO or by a group.
- FROWN is better. A FROWN may weigh heavily upon a little girl who is appearing in a school play, for she may be self-conscious enough to assume it indicates disapproval of her efforts. A CROWN used for such purposes is generally made of gilt cardboard and is light rather than heavy.
- REVIVAL, yes. In the theater, a REVIVAL may turn out stronger than the original play, as when recent events may have made it more topical the second time, or it is better cast. A REVIVAL should certainly be stronger, or there would be no point in the revision.
- SCARED is preferred. Boys may be amused by the antics of an animal they SCARED and enjoy telling about it. They may be sorry and secretive about it if they SEARED, or burned, an animal. SNARED and SPARED are vague without information about the situation. SHARED is remote.
- FIX is wanted. A sensitive person may be embarrassed to catch someone in a FIX, or predicament, for he will imagine that the other's discomfort is as great as his would be in the same situation. He may be shocked if he catches someone in a FIB, and panicked by a FIT.
- PAIN is best. A group may be annoyed with an individual who wants to discuss a PAIN, as the symptom of an ailment, for it may strike them as morbid. They may be glad to hear about his GAIN, or profit, if they think they can pick up some information of use to them. MAIN and RAIN are remote.

- PAGE is chosen. For information, one might consult a PAGE, as a guide or attendant in a public building. Advice rather than information is what might require the intelligence of a SAGE. MAGE is remote.
- LAGGARD, to be sure. A LAGGARD individual may give the impression of being ill, for he may normally perform with more energy. If a man behaves with customary energy, one might assume a HAGGARD look stems from bone structure or lack of sleep.
- LOBBY is accurate. A LOBBY, as the foyer of a hotel, may bring diverse people together, for they may be there for different reasons and need have nothing in common. Diverse does not apply in the case of HOBBY, for they have that in common.

- MORALS, yes. MORALS, or ethics, may best be studied after acquiring background information, for these may have little meaning unless one knows something of the society in which they exist. So far as a MORASS, or swamp, is concerned, it would depend on whether one were looking for something specific, or were interested in finding out anything at all about it.
- HOLLER is better. Her son's HOLLER, or shout, in public may embarrass a woman, for she may dislike the attention it draws to them. His HOWLER, or blunder, may be one that is natural to the young; she may be as amused as anyone else.

DOWN

- CAUSE is logical. A housewife whose vacuum cleaner is becoming harder to use may seek the CAUSE, for it is likely that something has gone wrong with the machine. She might seek a PAUSE, or rest period, at any time during her cleaning if she feels she is tiring.
- SCRAPPING is logical. A SCRAPPING boy, as one who is picking a quarrel, may inspire fear in younger children, for they may be afraid his violence will be turned against them. A STRAPPING boy may be friendly and good-tempered despite his size.
- RILE is wanted. A determined individual may be accused of trying to RILE, or anger, others, for he may not consider others' feelings when he sets about accomplishing an objective. RULE is not favored; he may prefer to do things himself without involving others.

6. WORKING is sensible. A poor young man to whom success is important may try WORKING his way to the top, as by applying himself and meriting promotion. WORKING suggests an underhanded manner of pushing his way up which is not justified by any information in the clue. WORDING is remote.

13. FEAR, to be sure. FEAR may inspire a superhuman effort, for the instinct of self-preservation can push even the timid to desperate effort. A FEAT may require no more than great skill or ability.

20. GOAD, yes. A GOAD, or spur, may not in itself be enough to assure success, for while it might start a person off, he could run out of steam unless more pressure is applied. A GOAL provides a clearcut objective, and the type of person who has a GOAL is not likely to deviate from the path that leads to it.

Warns against floating toys

VANCOUVER — The supervisor of Vancouver pools and beaches considers the beach ball a child's worst enemy in the water.

George Burroughs feels other potential killers are inner tubes, inflatable plastic animals, toys and air mattresses. In fact he considers these objects so dangerous that he has instructed lifeguards to send children ashore if they are seen in the water with them.

"The objects give novice swimmers a false sense of security," said Burroughs. "Then, if something happens, the novice becomes panicky."

Burroughs says beach balls are blown out to sea by the wind, tempting the novice swimmer to chase them.

Air mattresses have a habit of suddenly shooting out from under the body, while inner tubes and plastic animals can easily spring leaks.

SHOULD BE BANNED

"But," said Burroughs, "the worst offender of all is the beach ball."

"Parents shouldn't let children use any of these things, even in the back yard."

Burroughs, also chairman of the B.C. safety council's water safety section, warned against using plastic bags as emergency life jackets.

Appropriate citations from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include: "The highest earthly representative of God, speaking of human ability to reflect divine power, prophetically said to his disciples, speaking not for their day only but for all time: 'He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and 'These signs shall follow them that believe.'" The scriptural selections will include well-loved gospel accounts of Jesus' healing works.

Beth Sholom has unique membership for whole family

To many Montrealers, August is a month of leisure — a time for holidays, weekends in the country, or basking in the sun. But to a group of dedicated workers at Temple Beth Sholom, August is a busy month — a time to show friends and interested families through the beautiful new West-End Temple, a time to answer questions about the practices and customs at this newest congregation in the Liberal tradition of Judaism.

This group of men, members of the Board of Trustees and the Seating Committee, are active earlier than usual this year — due to the early arrival of the High Holy Days. In fact, the seating committee will be in attendance, in the evenings, on August 22, 24, 29, 30, 31 and September 5, 6, 7 and 10th.

In accordance with the customs of Reform Judaism, Temple Beth Sholom inspires its members with its beautiful family worship every Friday evening. Accompanied by a choir of mixed voices, led by the Cantor, the services are conducted in English, with the basic prayers in Hebrew. This makes the service more intelligible and meaningful.

During the High Holy Days, special services are conducted for the younger children. Accordingly, from an early age, children, as well as parents, think of Temple Beth Sholom as a place to come for inspiration, instruction and fellowship.

Virtually unique among Jewish congregations, is the all-inclusive family membership plan, now being offered to non-affiliated families. Seats for the High Holy Days, which are reserved on a first-come-first-served basis, are included in this plan, as are religious classes for all children from kindergarten to confirmation, Hebrew classes once a week, plus all other facilities.

Those interested in learning more about Temple Beth Sholom, its services, customs and educational facilities, are invited to phone the Temple office, to make an appointment with a member of the committee in attendance.

In 1845, William Murray bought the Leduc farm, the home of one of the early French settlers, at a Sheriff's sale and built on it a gray stone house with a square tower which he named "Westmount". It was from this mansion that our city took its name. The former Leduc farm is now Murray park.

Montreal is still working on a subway idea, and it is proposed that the start be made in N.D.G. Park, Girouard and Sherbrooke.

Although this subway will pass through Westmount, it will be under Westmount, and will not add a traffic burden.

A further proposal is to eliminate the Turcot yards, just south of Westmount, and put in a low-rent housing project, a boon to the general appearance of Westmount, although the area does not lie within its boundaries.

Metro to the north, Decarie to the West, the proposed waterfront expressway to the south — will be of great benefit to Westmount.

Musical sharps . . .

The first concoction on the program was a 1960 work by Pierre Schaeffer (France) composer of concrete music. "I have tried to find out what this designation signifies but so far have been unsuccessful. "Les Objets Animes" was grotesque images flashing on and off a screen with weird "music" to put one in a bad mood.

The second presentation by Mauricio Kagel (Argentina) "Transition" was certainly hard on the eyes and ears. Magnetic tapes were used here.

Items five and six on the programme were unbelievably funny from this reporter's viewpoint. Toschi Ichiyuanagi (Japan) played three pieces by Morton Feldman (U.S.A.) David Behrman and one of his own. This young Japanese would play a note, then get up from the piano, look inside for what seemed a full minute, find the string that he was searching for, pluck it and reseat himself at the keyboard. It reminded me of a child looking for his notes. It was pathetic in a funny vein.

The last number before intermission was really something worth remembering. It was as droll as a vaudeville act. Two grown men, Mr. Ichiyuanagi and David Tudor, seated themselves to play a duet by Christian Wolff (U.S.A.) Here and there a note was sounded, an inside string plucked then one important should you outrun her?

Before you can decide this important question, you have been dragged to the starting line, and you're off with some fancy footwork in the interior of a potato sack.

Suddenly you do a swan-dive and make a three-point landing in the dust, enmeshed in the folds of a potato sack. The next thing you know your husband's supervisor is picking you up and you can't even pretend you are somebody's aunt, for pinned to your heaving chest is a celluloid name tag.

And all the while an avid "home movies" type has been recording the occasion for posterity. You know you'll see the whole mess re-enacted one enchanted evening in somebody's living room.

Meanwhile, "Dad" has been supervising the older boys' (14 and up) races, and his hay fever and temper are worse than ever.

The annual picnic, one of summer's darkest duties, finally winds up the same old ways, burrs in the hair, sand in the shoes, pains in the back and a heartfelt wish that management would drop this summer madness.

There was a small audience made up of assorted characters, many young bearded men and girls with uncombed hair. Quite a few who attended laughed out loud, boos were also heard, much to the consternation of the serious devotees to this kind of music. So much that one yelled out in a very loud voice, "For G-'s sake, SHUT UP."

Anderson-Jell wedding is held in St. Matthias Anglican Church

The marriage of Valerie Dorothy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Jell, of Maidstone, Kent, England, to Mr. John Michael Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Anderson, of Westmount, took place recently in St. Matthias Anglican Church, Westmount, the Rev. K. B. Keefe officiating. Mr. Norman Hurrell played the wedding music, and standards of white gladioli, arranged with greenery and candles in candelabra were used to decorate.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a gown of white silk organza appliqued with Alencon lace, with a fitted bodice having a sabrina neckline and short sleeves, and a bouffant skirt, caught by a self bow at the back, falling into a chapel train. Her veil of tulle illusion was held by a headdress of silk organza roses, and she carried a semi-cascade bouquet of yellow roses and white pompons.

Miss Patricia Jell as maid of honor for her sister, and Miss Penny Bailey and Miss Karen Hawkins, as bridesmaids, were in frocks of silk organza with fitted bodices having scoop necklines and sheath skirts, fashioned with back fullness, the maid of honor being in romance blue, and the bridesmaids in powder blue. They wore petal hats to match their frocks, and carried Colonial bouquets of white pompons.

Mr. Barry Carrique acted as best man for Mr. Anderson, and the ushers were Mr. John Smith-Chapman, Mr. Richard Bell, and Mr. Robert Anderson, brother of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Jell, the bride's mother, was gowned in apple green lace, and wore an oyster color hat and accessories, and a corsage bouquet of yellow roses.

Mrs. Anderson, mother of the Hill, of Winston-Salem, North Carolina, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Yelton Hill, of Hendersonville, North Carolina, is taking place on Saturday afternoon, at half-past three o'clock, in Knox-Crescent and Kensington Church, Montreal.

The bride will be attended by her niece, Miss Margaret Anne Stewart, as maid of honor. Mr. Bowen Eugene Simmons, of Syracuse, N.Y., will act as best man for Mr. Hill, and the ushers will be Mr. John Stewart, brother of the bride, and Mr. John Stewart jr., nephew of the bride.

By GEO. E. JONES
Sports Editor

THERE'LL be very little lawn bowling played on district greens for three days next week when the Dominion Lawn Bowling championship will be played on the double greens of Town of Mt. Royal club, Monday, August 28 through to Wednesday, August 30.

This is the second time in the history of the game that Montreal has been the scene of the Dominion championship play. This year the honor of being national president goes to James (Jim) Riley, formerly of Verdun, now a resident of Notre Dame de Grace. The Provincial president is another James (Jim) by the name of Brodie.

Seven man teams, composed of four man rinks, double and single will represent British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and of course, Quebec of which the rink hails from Verdun; pair from Westmount and the single from Lachine.

First game is slated for Monday at 7 p.m. Second game, Tuesday, 12.30; third game, Tuesday, 7.30 p.m. Fourth game, 9 a.m. Wednesday and the final Wednesday afternoon, 2.30.

This will be the seventh annual championship play, twice on the island of Montreal. The last time was in 1957 when the Westmount club were the host. Five games will be staged in round robin play.

Westmount rugger set for opener

The Westmount Rugger Club opened its fall season against the Barbarians last Saturday with a convincing 21-5 victory.

The game was an exhibition in preparation for the league opener tomorrow with the Wanderers at Monkland H. S. at 2 p.m. Instead of the usual two 40-minute halves, the game was divided into three 20-minute periods and substitutions were allowed.

Play sometimes lagged in the very hot and humid weather but several brilliant passing movements by both sides featured the action posing the danger that either team might score at almost any opportunity.

Westmount fielded a larger and more agile group of forwards which constituted the biggest difference between the teams.

Fred Spence dominated the scoring for Westmount with one try and two converts, while other points went to Ben Dibben, George Doherty, Garth Wilson, Jim Adams and Chris Carr.

Montreal stars downed by Ottawa

Ottawa defeated Montreal by 10 wickets in the last two innings match played in Ottawa over the weekend. Final scores were 204 and 25 for 0 to 76 and 150.

Montreal batted first and collapsed for 76, the first six wickets falling for only 15 runs. John Newnes with 29 and Mel Rilstone were the only batsmen to reach double figures.

Most effective bowlers were Ray Killen with four for 25 and John Taylor three for 29. In Ottawa's reply of 204 Taylor batted aggressively for 71 including three sixes, and shared in a last wicket partnership of 70. Harold Cox took four for 42 and Rilstone five for 115.

In Montreal's second innings of 150 opening batsman David Almandoz scored 68 supported by Charlie McKenzie with 18, Newnes 16 not out, and Mike MacLean 14.

Westmount grid starts registering

Registration for the City of Westmount Eight-Man Tackle Football League started Monday, from 10.30 to 4.30 at the Artificial Ice Rink, and will continue daily.

The boys must be 12 years old or under with the maximum weight of 110 pounds and the minimum of 80 pounds. Only boys residing in Westmount or attending a school in Westmount are eligible.

Those playing for a school tackle football team, the city's touch football league or an elementary school team will not be eligible to play.

Running shoes, helmet, shoulder pads and football pants must be worn. The city supplies the sweater.
