Sherbrooke cop arrested for dealing info to gang

Record Staff
SHERBROOKE

A veteran Sherbrooke police officer has been arrested for having transmitted confidential information to a criminal organization. Patrol officer Alex Therien was arrested at his Sherbrooke home yesterday morning.

Therien, 38, was formally charged with four criminal acts related to the transmission of confidential police information to a member or members of a criminal organization in a Sherbrooke courthouse Thursday afternoon.

The alleged offences took place between November 2008 and December 2012. An internal SPS investigation apparently led to Therien's arrest.

Therien is alleged to have used the Quebec police information network to acquire and transmit information to the criminals.

Following Therien's appearance, Sherbrooke Police Chief Gaétan Labbé issued a statement confirming that a member of the force had been investigated by the Professional Standards Department of the SPS, "The results of

Quebec's provincial wheelchair curling team, based out of Magog, beat out British Columbia to win the Canadian Wheelchair Curling Championship in Ottawa last Sunday afternoon. The team traces its roots to Lennoxville back in 2008, when the local curling club became the first in the province to start a wheelchair curling program.

Alfred Whittier, former coach of the team and member of the Lennoxville Club reached out to The Record to talk about the achievement.

"These chaps are not only wheelchair people, they have participated in other sports," Whittier said proudly, pointing out that the team includes paralympians and members who also ski (both alpine and water), as well as

Uplands Cultural and Heritage Centre Danielle Dion and Christiane Dion

Uplands Cultural and Heritage Centre is pleased to present the art exhibition and sale Terre Brodée, Terre Façonnée. The public is invited to meet the artists during the vernissage on Sunday, Apr. 7, between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. at Uplands, 9 Speid St. in the borough of Lennoxville. The exhibition will run until May 26.

This is the first ever joint exhibition of embroiderer Danielle Dion and her sister, ceramist Christiane Dion.

Danielle creates colourful impressionistic or imaginary landscapes using appliqués of silk, yarn and precious treasures.

Christiane fashions castles in clay that will inspire dreams. From her House of Cards to the Zen Temple, she expresses the richness of the human adventure.

A collection of decorative slab boxes and pinch pots rounds out Christiane's offerings.

Uplands is open Wednesday through Sunday from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Join us for the vernissage on Sunday, April 7, 2013 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

BISHOP'S UNIVERSITY STUDENTS REPRESENTATIVE COUNCIL

Joy Chandler Award

By: Kaleah Baker

On Friday, April 5 the Students' Representative Council will take time to recognize outstanding members of the Bishop's community at their annual Awards Night. A number of students, faculty and staff will be honoured for their contributions to the University. Lennoxville community members Cindy Nichol and Carson Brooks will also be recognized for their work this year with the Joy Chandler Community Involvement Award.

Cindy Nichol, a BU alumna, employee of Sodexo and well-known face on campus, was nominated based on her fifteen-plus years of working the food services at Bishop's. Her positive attitude and humour make the experience at Dewies and the Gaiter Grill something to look forward to.

Cindy's pride in Bishop's and care for the community is evident in all her words and deeds. This year she even gave up her Thursday and Saturday nights to serve late-night snacks to students at the Later Gaiter.

SRC President Adam Peabody says "Cindy is a real joy to be around and work with. She goes out of her way for the student body, and we are grateful for all of her hard work this year. She certainly deserves to be recognized with this award."

Carson Brooks, Interim-Assistant Director of the Bishop's Security team, was also nominated for his determination to go above and beyond his job description in serving the community. Carson has been a helpful member of the Town and Gown Committee, offering unique ideas that have continued to improve the relationship between the University and the Borough. Dedicated to ensuring students have the best Bishop's experience possible, Carson was instrumental in the organization and implementation of several student events this year including Orientation Week.

SRC Director of Finance & Operations Mark Stanford says "We've been lucky to have someone like Carson to work with this year. He's a great guy who really cares about the university. I applaud him for all of his work."

The Joy Chandler award was named in honour of the previous SRC executive assistant, who worked tirelessly to create a stronger sense of connectivity between the students at Bishop's University and the surrounding community.

This award is given annually to a community member for outstanding contributions to student life.

Relay for Life prepares 8th edition

The organizing committee of Relay for Life of the Canadian Cancer Society (CCS) in Sherbrooke officially launched its campaign leading up to the 8th edition to be held on Jun. 7 at the central pavilion of the University of Sherbrooke.

Stéphanie Labonté, president of the last edition, has officially handed over the Presidency to Stéphanie Jutras who thanked Labonté for her successful handling of the last relay which left it strong and healthy.

"Be assured that I will do everything so that future editions of the relay will be successful one day in eliminating this disease and, in the meantime, support, people with cancer and their families," Jutras said.

Dr. Jutras will build on leadership skills to mobilize a great team consisting of Pierre Boisvert, Lynda Paquet, Jacynthe Dumas, Lucie Tremblay, Celine Delorme, Jacques Desmarais, Richard Caron and many other volunteers who work closely within the sub-committees.

Dany Sévigny assumes the role of honorary president of this festive and family event. "The Relay for Life is one exceptional night to share with family, friends and colleagues where we can show our support concretely to those we love and who are

The organizing committee is proud to announce the collaboration of Via Capitale Estrie, which is showing its support for the cause and the community by confirming its return as a major sponsor of the event with a contribution of $5,000.

For the first year, Via Capitale Estrie will allow people to come and pick up a participation package on its premises located at 30 Rioux St. in Sherbrooke. Anyone interested in participating in the Relay can also register by visiting: relaispouurlavie.ca.

The organization is hoping to raise $330,000 this year, money which allows the Canadian Cancer Society to fund research, provide information and support to patients and their families.

In early June, 2012, BRP announced that it would be moving its Valcourt watercraft assembly operations to a new plant in Mexico.

BRP plant closure nears, no buyer found

SHERBROOKE

Bombardier Recreational Products (BRP) still hasn't found a buyer for its Sherbrooke distribution centre slated to close next year. Some 300 employees will be transferred as a result.

In early June, 2012, BRP announced that it would be moving its Valcourt watercraft assembly operations to a new plant in Mexico. At the same time the company decided to outsource North American distribution of parts, accessories and clothing (PAV) to a logistics service provider. This decision directly affected the Sherbrooke facilities located on the site of the former Lowney's chocolate factory.

Sherbrooke Innopole immediately began discussions with BRP following the announcement, as many employees will be transferred to facilities in Valcourt or to the specialized vehicle facility in Sherbrooke's industrial park. Others may find work with companies chosen to outsource different functions.

When the closure was announced, employees made rare, dramatic public gestures to denounce the fact that those transferred to Valcourt would lose their seniority and benefits.

At the time, Pierre Pichette, vice president of communications and public affairs at BRP mentioned that the company would not set a precedent with its employees at the Sherbrooke facility by modifying its labour-transfer policy, which had been in place for many years.

He also emphasized that the shutdown should be completed by August 2013, although the company now says it had always planned for a 2014 closing date. The exact date of the closure has not been announced.

Marijuana mailer mulls meeting

Record Staff
SHERBROOKE

At around 1:30 Thursday morning, a thief threw a stone into a showcase of the Pharmaprix pharmacy on Sherbrooke St. in Magog. The hole left by the stone was just big enough for the thief to reach electronic games near the window without entering the store.

The value of the games stolen amounts to more than $500 not including the cost of replacing the window. Investigators are reviewing security videotape in order to identify the culprit.

Later on Thursday, at about 3 a.m., another young 21-year old driver was stopped and stripped of his probationary license for 90 days when it was discovered he had been drinking. In addition, a fine of $300 and four demerit points was served.

Finally, the young man photographed mailing a package of marijuana on Feb. 1 has been identified. The man called police to arrange a meeting to turn himself in.

Bike relay for Sherbrooke street work this weekend

SHERBROOKE

Today (Friday, Apr. 5), from 6 to 9 p.m., and Saturday, Apr. 6, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. the 13th annual cyclothon on behalf of the Coalition sherbrookoise pour le travail de rue (Sherbrooke street work coalition) will be held in front of the Sports Experts store at the Carrefour de l'Estrie.

Organized by the Sherbrooke Cycling Club and made possible with the help of Cycle Spintech, this colourful event is part of the 2013 fundraising campaign of the organization, whose mission is to reach directly into their milieu to people experiencing or at risk of experiencing homelessness and various issues that arise from it.

This year, nearly fifty cyclists will ride under the banner of sponsors. They will take turns every hour of the day and offer the public a captivating performance while allowing them to contribute to the campaign. Throughout the event, Coalition staff will be on hand to collect donations and answer questions.

Guy Beaupré, the event organizer, underlines the important contribution of the sponsors to the cyclothon's continued success: "We want to thank the generous businesses in the region who have agreed to sponsor the activities. These include: Les Laboratoires Blanchard, Waterville TG, le Siboire, Fidelity Investments, l'Étude Jacques Blanchard, Camoplast Solideal, SPB Solutions, Force Financière Excel, Pharmacie Marie-Claude Lapointe (Jean Coutu), Boulangerie Georges, and the Association de la construction du Québec - Région Estrie."

Club Cycliste de Sherbrooke representative Richard Fortier says, "It's with conviction that the Cycling Club is involved once again. Contributing to the financing of the Coalition ensures that our young people have access to support in their communities, but it also means investing in the potential of this great generation."

Coalition Executive Director Chantal Fortier says the organization depends on help from the public. "Only 30 per cent of our funding is recurring every year and we have to devote time and energy to collect the remaining amounts required for the functioning of the organization. For their generosity and dedication, I really want to thank the Club cycliste de Sherbrooke, Cycle Spintech, 107.7 FM radio as well as all the sponsors and participating cyclists, who all provide major support to the Coalition!"

Magog wants citizen input for downtown makeover

MAGOG

As part of the revitalization of its downtown core, the Town of Magog, in collaboration with the Fondation Rues Principales, is inviting the public to an evening of information and public consultation during which citizens, business owners, and representatives of organizations will be able to express their views on the development of the city centre. The meeting will take place on Apr. 17 at 7 p.m. at the Magog Cultural Centre at 90 Saint-David St.

The town considers this event is an important step in the revitalization process called 'Operation Constats,' consisting of two days of public and individual consultations with different stakeholders who will define the economic, physical and organizational character of the downtown centre. Apr. 16 day will be devoted to meetings with targeted individuals and Apr. 17 will provide an opportunity for all citizens to be heard during the consultation evening hosted by professionals from the Fondation Rues Principales.

The objective of this event is to validate the comments and recommendations issued as a result of the Apr. 16 exchange and listen to proposals from Magog citizens as a basis for developing the action plan for the downtown revitalization.

"The presence, participation, and community mobilization are essential for this first step in the revitalization of this key sector of the city," says Magog Mayor Vicki May Hamm. "We want to attract a large number of people, as I'm sure everybody has ideas in mind to improve the downtown core and we'd love to hear them."

Councillor and Chair of the Downtown Revitalization Committee, Diane Pelletier says, "we have had clear demonstrations of interest in the process at the start of the project, which took place on Mar. 13, where nearly 80 people were present. Operation Constats wants to seal our commitment to advancing the revitalization of downtown Magog."

Those interested in attending the consultation on Apr. 17 must register before Apr. 15 by email at r.poirier@ville.magog.qc.ca or by phone at 819 843-7106, ext 537.

Local wheelchair curlers

one who has recently become a star in competitive sledge hockey.

According to Whittier, the average age of the multitalented team members is roughly 42.

"To start a wheelchair curling program you need two things; the willingness of the club to accept wheelchair curlers in their club, and accessibility," the team's former coach said, "if it's not accessible to wheelchairs, it's difficult to get them in."

While the process of making one's club can be complicated, there has been progress on that front. When The Record reported on the Lennoxville program in 2008, the town club was the only one engaging in such a program in the province. Since that time two other clubs have become wheelchair accessible in the region; North Hatley and Magog, where the team currently plays.

According to Benoit Lessard, the skip of the Quebec team, there are somewhere in the area of 30 people playing competitive level wheelchair curling across the province today.

Lessard, a native of Waterville shared some of his experience of curling over the last several years with team-mates Carl Marquis and Sébastien Boivert from Stanstead, and Johanne Daly of Boucherville.

"We've been playing together for four years" Lessard shared, "and this is our fifth national championship." This is the team's first gold-medal win, though they finished fourth last year. The skip called this year's success, "good progress," and said that the team gets together to train as soon as there is ice at the Magog Club.

Both Lessard and Whittier shared that the team changed locations owing to a more experienced coach being available in Magog, though Lessard added that for three quarters of the team Magog is closer to home, as well.

Ten teams were involved in this year's national championship, representing every province except PEI. Having won at the national level, Lessard revealed that his sights are on playing for Team Canada internationally, but pointed out that doing so is more complicated. Players for Canada's national team are selected not as a whole team, but on an individual basis, based on performance at various competitions.

Consequently, the team's skip said that they put a strong emphasis on trying to get to as many competitions as possible, but that doing so puts a serious financial burden on their shoulders.

"We're always looking for sponsors," Lessard shared, expressing that the major competitions are more often in places like British Columbia, and rarely close to home, "for us the chairs are not really a problem, it's the costs of plane fare."

Wheelchair Curling is a relatively new sport, with its first world championship having been held 11 years ago in Switzerland. Since that time its popularity has grown, becoming a paralympic sport in 2006, and opening up a broader range of wheelchair-accessible clubs across the globe.

The game, which involves none of the iconic sweeping of traditional curling, consists of shots called by a skip and delivered from a player in a stationary chair, supported by his or her teammates using a stick. Whittier also made a point of stating that all wheelchair curling teams must be mixed gender.

Lessard pointed out that while he is immersed in the world of competitive wheelchair curling, there are many out there who simply play for recreation, "...and that's great, the primary goal is to have fun."

More information on wheelchair curling and curling in general is available from Curling Canada at <http://www.curling.ca>, or by calling 1(800) 550-2875.

GLIMPSES OF THE PAST

Ludger Couture Fonds. Sherbrooke Historical Society

Curling has been played in Sherbrooke since November 6, 1880, when the first club was founded. This sport quickly became the favourite pastime of Sherbrooke businessmen. On January 2, 1909, a new curling rink was built at a cost of $13 000 as the old one couldn't accommodate the growing number of players. Several leagues were then formed, including the Kayser league shown here, which showed how popular the sport had become.

Third edition of Commandant's Breakfast

SHERBROOKE

Police from the Eastern Townships district of the Sûreté du Québec have once again partnered with the Quebec Cancer Foundation to present the third edition of the Commandant's Breakfast, to be held Monday, Apr. 15, in both of Mikes Restaurant locations in Sherbrooke.

For this event, a Breakfast plate will be offered to those coming to Mikes restaurants in Sherbrooke to make a donation. All donations collected at the event will be forwarded to the Quebec Cancer Foundation's Centre régional et Hôtellerie de l'Estrie. Last year, the event raised the sum of $ 9,455.

The hostels of the Quebec Cancer Foundation, located in Montreal, Sherbrooke, Trois-Rivières, and Gatineau, welcome those with cancer for the duration of their treatment.

In these hostels, cancer victims find a warm comfortable living space and support services. The Foundation's hostel network has 126 double-occupancy beds, each with a private bathroom. These pleasant and quiet rooms have been designed to provide a place of rest and to ease isolation.

The hostels, all located near Oncology radiation centres, also offer lounge areas to build links between residents. People coming for a stay ranging from four to six weeks are mostly from areas around large hospitals.

Since 1989, more than 30,000 people have been accommodated in Foundation hostels.

The Commandant's Breakfast will be held, Apr. 15, from 6:30 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the Mikes Restaurant locations on King St. East and West.

Habitation Mont-Bellevue to offer low-rent units

SHERBROOKE

Families and individuals in Sherbrooke will soon have access to 16 new affordable homes built under the AccèsLogis program of the Société d'habitation du Québec (SHQ).

Habitations Mont-Bellevue will be built in an old church that will be completely renovated with an investment of nearly $2.1 million. The government of Quebec, through the SHQ, has invested $880,000 in this project and has guaranteed the mortgage granted to the Le Parallèle de l'habitation sociale social housing organization. The total local contribution is around $476,000, with over $250,000 from the City of Sherbrooke.

"What a great way to give a second life to a church," said Sherbrooke MNA Serge Cardin, who popped by the site for a visit. "This place that was abandoned will soon to be animated and allow people in need to access adequate low-cost housing. Our government is proud to have contributed to this transformation," Cardin said, on behalf of the Minister of Municipal Affairs, Regions and Land Occupancy, Minister of Transport and Minister responsible for the SHQ, Sylvain Gau-dreault. "Turning a church into affordable housing is to enable this sacred place to reaffirm its presence in the community. It is a great pride for Le Parallèle to contribute to the preservation of the building, in addition to allowing 16 households to have access to safe and affordable housing," echoed Jean-Guy Demers, Chairman of the Board of Directors of Le Parallèle.

To promote access to housing for low-income households, this project will also receive additional financial assistance of more than $137,000 under the Rent Supplement Program. The amount, 90 per cent assumed by the SHQ and 10 per cent by the City of Sherbrooke, allows half of the tenants of Habitation Mont-Bellevue to pay only 25 per cent of their income for housing.

Centennial Theatre concert Ensemble Magellan to explore Schubert and Schumann Saturday evening

The Music Series at Centennial Theatre continues on Saturday, Apr. 6 at 8 p.m. with a concert featuring the Ensemble Magellan. Led by cellist Yegor Dyachkov, this delightful ensemble is formed by some of Canada's best chamber musicians, namely Olivier Thouin, violin - Yukari Cousineau, viola and pianist Jean Saulnier.

On the programme: Piano Trio in E flat major, D. 929, op. 100 by F. Schubert and the Piano Quartet in E-flat major, op. 47 by R. Schumann.

Composed of four prominent Canadian musicians, the Magellan Ensemble, following in the footsteps its namesake, is committed to the true exploration of chamber music. Thanks to its variable geometry, the Ensemble leads audiences on an expedition through a wide variety of musical landscapes.

Formed in 2007, the group has acquired a loyal public as ensemble in residence at the Chapelle du Bon Pasteur in Montreal. The ensemble has also been invited to perform at Calgary's Mountain View Festival, the Festival de Musique de Chambre in Ste-Pétronille, the Ottawa International Chamber Music Festival, the Jeffery Summer Concerts in London, Ontario and the Virtuosi Concerts in Winnipeg.

Tickets are available by calling 819-822-9692.

Dr. Hansen has warned the politicians many times about the dire consequences of a climate gone astray.

Quitting his day job: Jim Hansen steps up to become full time activist

By Francois Tanguay

Jim Hansen has been at NASA for 46 years, he is now 72 and intends to fight for climate closer to the front. Dr. Hansen is without a doubt the most outspoken climatologist in the world. His work has been instrumental in waking up the science community to the urgency of what he calls "the coming climate catastrophe." Though he is officially retiring from his high profile job as head of the Goddard Institute for Space Studies, we should hear a lot more from him in the next while. It was 1988 when he first warned the US Congress on the dangers of a climate gone wild if we do not intervene to bring down our global carbon emissions fast. Few paid attention.

He was so outspoken that under the George W. Bush administration he was victim of a full-out war from his superiors to muzzle him. These events are well covered in his only book: Storms of my grandchildren, published by Bloombury in 2009. In a thirty page chapter he gives us the full story. It is fascinating.

In a statement to the New York Times he said he plans to take a more active role in lawsuits challenging the federal and state governments over their failure to limit emissions. He is also at the forefront of the battle to stop the Keystone XL pipeline project. He went as far as getting arrested in front of the White House with a host of other celebrities in a protest rally against the controversial project.

Hansen was also quoted as saying: "As a government employee, you can't testify against the government..." Sounds familiar to you? He added that some high ranking officials at NASA will be happy his 'sideshow' will be taken elsewhere. He says that at 72 he feels a moral obligation to step up his activism in his remaining years.

As an environmentalist I have been following Dr. Hansen's work for years. He is an inspiration to both the general public and the science community. His constant work and the hundreds of students and fellow scientists who worked with him have given us all a major body of work that acts as a threshold to our actions on climate change.

Dr. Hansen has warned the politicians many times about the dire consequences of a climate gone astray. In his book he points out the two most imminent impacts of global warming: sea level rise and loss of biodiversity. The rise in sea levels may not be obvious to us right now but he has the numbers that point to a potential rise of as much as a full metre in the next 100 years. This means southern Florida will become the 'Venice of the South!'

A direct effect of a loose climate will be seasons going out of sync, species being forced to change habitat zones and having a hard time adjusting to their new home, many dying in the process. The chain of effects and counter effects is endless. The current rate of loss of species is 100 times greater than the average natural rate. Same applies to the rise in sea levels, it is happening quickly.

Jim Hansen has made no secret of it: his first major battle is the Keystone XL pipeline decision to be made by President Obama sometime before the summer. We will be hearing his voice often in the next few months.

Letters

DEAR EDITOR:

This is a copy of a letter sent to Yves Cousineau, President of the Quebec Human Rights Commission.

Mr. Yves Cousineau
President
CDPDJ

Dear Mr. Cousineau:

As a concerned Anglophone and bilingual Quebecer, I personally welcome your criticism of Minister Agnes Maltais' stance on social assistance.

However, I am also very concerned about the Commission's non-stance on Bill 14, presented by Minister de Courcy, and all its ramifications to minorities in this province.

As you know, Bill 14 removes the designation "ethnic minorities" and replaces it with "cultural communities." The former has status in international, national and provincial human rights codes. The latter has no such status.

The former has the weight of the UN Declaration of Human Rights of 1948, the UN Covenant on Ethnic, Religious and Linguistic Minorities of 1992, the Quebec City declaration of the Inter-Parliamentary Alliance of October 2012, the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms and the Quebec Charter of Rights and Freedoms. These are extremely important changes to the Quebec Charter and could impact on the rights of all minorities living and working here in addition to other severe provisions of this draft law.

As a member of the Executive Committee of CRITIQ, Canadian Rights in Quebec, a rapidly-expanding non-profit organization civil rights group, I am certain that Anglophones, Francophones and Allophones of all origins are questioning the Commission's deafening silence on this major issue currently in the foreground of language tensions in this province.

Will the CDPDJ be taking a position on this issue, why has it been silent so far and when can Quebecers expect an objective assessment of this law from the province's human rights watchdog? More importantly, will Quebec honour the international human rights commitments and covenants it has signed in the past in this regard?

These are fair and honest questions and we would certainly appreciate a response in writing within a reasonable period of time. If the Commission can pronounce itself on the far-reaching changes that Minister Maltais proposes, we do not understand why it cannot pronounce itself on the impacts of the new language law proposed by Minister de Courcy. Is it a matter of not wishing to rock the boat among the Commission's political masters, or is it because the Commission itself endorses this new linguistic measure even in the face of international commitments it has signed in the past?

We have also taken note of the Commission's lack of provision of English in its intake procedure for complaints since the assistant manager heading this department is unilingual French, and the alleged bilingual staff under her direction are not fully bilingual. Would it not be better for all constituents of both languages to have a bilingual individual in this critical position? Or are the basic rights of Quebecers with English as a mother tongue not important? The credibility of your alleged autonomous and independent organization, and the rights of all Quebecers are at stake. Please pronounce yourself on Bill 14.

Yours very truly,

Character matters

STEVEN BLACK

This morning I would have a hard time answering the following question: "If a federal election was held today which party would you vote for?"

There are three criteria I tend to use in making a voting decision: first, the policy or ideology of the party including its election platform; second, the strategic value of my vote; and third, the character of those running. By far the single most important criterion for me has been the policy or ideology of the party. This has usually determined my vote over the 40 years I have voted.

It won't surprise the regular reader to know that my values have normally prompted me to vote Progressive Conservative or Conservative. I've done so in almost every federal election except for a Liberal vote during Pierre Trudeau's early leadership and NDP in the last election. The values that are important to me are individual responsibility and liberty; decentralization of powers; the worth and dignity of unborn humans; the support of the traditional, nuclear family; free enterprise and the freedom to live, communicate and conduct business in the language of one's own choosing and according to one's own conscience. For me, these matters are of fundamental importance out of which government programs ought to flow. In Ontario provincial elections I have voted for a party that had no chance of winning merely because I wanted to make a statement that I supported its stated principles.

In the last election, however, I voted strategically. I calculated that the Conservatives had no possibility of winning a seat in this riding so I selected the party that I believed to be most capable of defeating the Bloc. Besides that, issues of human compassion and environmental stewardship are very important to a healthy nation. I am happy to have a party like the NDP represented in the House who will fight for these concerns as well as to temper a Conservative ideology that can seem to be driven only by commitment to economic growth.

Today, though, I'm inclined to give greater weight to the matter of the character of a party's leadership. A party's ideology is important, no question. But the character of those seeking to implement an ideology is critical to its being done in a just, democratic and respectful manner. The fact is that Canadians are not a single block of like-minded individuals or with equally weighted issues that impact their aspirations for a good quality of life. Furthermore, the various regions of the country have unique concerns and priorities. Therefore, a rigidly followed ideology can lead to injustice and tyranny over and against the good of both individuals and regions. Thus, any party policy must be tempered by leaders who are compassionate, respectful of diverse points of view and willing to allow public challenge to their priorities and actions.

In recent years we've debated the importance of the character of our leaders in determining our votes. This spectacle has most of all played out in the United States. Nixon's, "I am not a crook" or Clinton's, "I did not have sexual relations with that woman" rang hollow, but their supporters insisted that moral flaws, even spectacular ones, ought not to determine votes because they had no influence on their ability to govern well. Sometimes I've agreed, thinking something like, "I'd rather have a competent crook in leadership than an incompetent Saint." With this approach pragmatism reigns supreme. I'm not so sure about this approach to voting now.

To the point, the way I've been assessing the Conservative leadership lately including Prime Minister Harper is raising serious doubt about this. Admittedly my conclusions about their character are based on what has been filtered and presented through various news media. However, when the party's leadership seems actively to muzzle its own backbenchers against expressing their views and having their Parliamentary rights squashed such as the right to present private member's bills I worry about what this does to our democratic system. When scientists of government departments are not permitted to go public with their findings I worry about what else is being hidden from Canadians. Both of these matters speak to whether or not the party truly values individual liberty or respects the electorate.

When a party sets policy that seems indifferent to important regional concerns I wonder whether it is truly committed to decentralized powers. When programs intended to care for vulnerable individuals at home or internationally are being cut for budgetary reasons I worry that policy is being driven by profit rather than people. After all, people make up a country not dollars. When very sly maneuverings are undertaken with a view to re-election more than principled leadership I come to conclude that the stated policies are less important than the consolidation of power. If I am correct, these observations speak to deep character flaws that reflect ugly rot at the heart of a party's core. The only recovery from this is a recovery of character.

While I have spoken about my concerns regarding the leadership of the federal Conservatives the same concerns could apply about other parties and levels of government as well. The old statement, "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely" seems incontrovertible. Policy or ideology has little ability to counteract corruption. Character, though, is a powerful antidote.

Ideology is rigid, heartless and can be dangerous. Character gives me hope for understanding and compassion. Sweet reasonableness is a good thing at any time or under any situation when partnered with conviction. Therefore, today I would vote for a person of character.

In a world of corruption and political maneuvering character is necessary to assure that our politics are subservient to humanity and not the other way around.

Author to speak at Earth Charter conference

To hold a Vernissage of nature-based mandala paintings in Knowlton in June

Record Staff

Knowlton author, artist and musician Julia Rohan has been invited to speak at the U.N. Earth Charter conference to take place in late June in San Jose, Costa Rica.

Organized by the Global Ecological Integrity Group, the conference seeks to find new ways to promote the Charter and to move humanity toward a future based on ecojustice and respect for human rights.

Earlier this year, Rohan took a break from work on the second book in her "Weaverworld" fantasy series to research the problems that contribute to climate change. In doing so she came across many other inter-related issues that affect us all, such as food production, debt, planned obsolescence, poverty and more.

Having compiled a huge amount of information, including documentaries and Youtube videos, she decided to put it all together in a website under the name The HEALER Movement (<http://www.healermovement.info>).

"HEALER" in this case stands for "Humans for Earth and Animals, Lobbying for an Ethical Rebirth." She hopes that when people read the content on the website they will be moved to share the information with others. This information includes a link to The Earth Charter which Rohan describes as the "perfect prescription for what ails our world today."

Having put together the website, Rohan contacted the conference organizers to let them know about it, and they invited her to submit the story of her project to the conference committee. To her surprise her invitation to speak came a few weeks later.

Says Rohan, "I feel a little out of my league as many of the conference participants are scientists and scholars with Phds, but perhaps what is needed is more grassroots involvement to get the Charter out there into everyone's consciousness. If I can play even a tiny role in that I will feel great about making the effort."

To coincide with her trip to Costa Rica, Rohan hopes to hold a Vernissage of nature-based mandala paintings she is creating entitled the "Earth Charter Series," to take place at Knowlton's "A La Carte" boutique on Jun. 21.

For more information about the Earth Charter please go to <http://www.earthcharterinaction.org>.

En francais SVP! Quebec tells ministers to speak French with Canadian counterparts

The Canadian Press

The Quebec government has introduced a new initiative that encourages cabinet ministers to speak only French to their counterparts from other provinces and Ottawa.

The strategy is part of the Parti Quebecois' plan to push its sovereigntist agenda and prevent what it sees as intrusions by Ottawa in Quebec's jurisdictions.

Intergovernmental Affairs Minister Alexandre Cloutier told a news conference Wednesday that Quebec's initiative to limit English usage by its ministers is only a guideline, not a restriction.

"The official language in Quebec is French and all the papers being prepared are in French, all documentation is in French, and we think it's necessary to use the same language that it is written (in)," Cloutier said in Quebec City.

The French-only guideline, Cloutier added, refers to exchanges by Quebec cabinet and deputy ministers during ministerial meetings. Ministers, he said, are free to use English in letters and during informal chats with their Canadian counterparts.

Cloutier said ministers may explain subjects in English with their anglophone counterparts when they see fit.

Quebec also announced the creation of a $1.5-million commission to study the impacts of the Harper government's employment-insurance reform, which Cloutier said was imposed on Quebecers without their consultation.

The Marois government has appointed former Bloc Quebecois leader Gilles Ducesse and ex-PQ cabinet minister Rita Dionne-Marsolais as the commission's co-presidents. PQ Labour Minister Agnes Maltais insisted the process will be "neutral," even though it will be headed by two former sovereigntist politicians.

Cloutier said similar tools could be used in the future to examine other areas where the PQ believes the federal government has encroached on the province's jurisdiction.

He pledged to push legal boundaries wherever possible to ensure Quebec jurisdictions are protected from federal government involvement and to reduce overlaps with Ottawa.

"We don't want to raise the level of hostility, we want to defend Quebecers and workers," said Cloutier, a constitutional lawyer educated at the University of Cambridge, in Britain.

"But (at) the same time I would just say to Ottawa: 'respect the law, respect the Constitution and stop acting in Quebec's field and stop acting in ways that are affecting our economy.'"

He said Canada's "paternalistic" brand of federalism is still alive under Prime Minister Stephen Harper.

The Harper government responded to the PQ's announcements Wednesday by saying it has created a job-creating plan while the Marois government has a sovereignty plan.

"We are not interested in old fights," Transport Minister Denis Lebel said in a statement.

On the issue of language, a Harper spokesman said provincial governments have the freedom to choose whether they want to communicate with Ottawa in French or English.

The PQ delivered a forceful message in its platform during last year's provincial election campaign, pledging to pick fights with the federal government.

The party announced it would make attempts to take over federal powers such as income-tax collection. PQ members boldly stated that, if Ottawa refused any request, it would bolster their case for sovereignty.

But the PQ toned down its ambitions after it won a minority mandate in the September election.

The road to the Sherbrooke 2013 Canada Games Eastern Townships or Estrie... Is there a difference? A glance at the Eastern Townships

By Olivia Ranger-Enns
Record Correspondent
Sherbrooke 2013
Canada Games

What should we call our region: the Eastern Townships or Estrie?

This question pops up now and then among tourists, and the answer is quite interesting.

Although both names are correct, they do not cover the same territory. Whereas Estrie is strictly speaking an administrative region covering 10,196 km<sup>2</sup>, the Eastern Townships extend over as much as 13,100 km<sup>2</sup>. The Estrie region is home to seven MRCs from Granit (Megantic) to Memphremagog. By contrast, the Eastern Townships spread includes two MRCs in addition to the ones in Estrie, Brome-Missisquoi and Haute-Yamaska.

So how did the Eastern Townships spring to life?

In its embryo stage, the Eastern Townships region was created in 1792. A massive wave of immigrants from the American War of Independence changed the topography drastically. Following this change, an influx of immigrants from Great Britain in the 19th century drew on their roots (think of their Victorian mentality) and built the lasting aesthetic and architectural heritage which we admire today.

In the 20th century, French Canadians dubbed commonly as "Québécois" took over properties owned by English-speaking people who left Quebec, their eyes set on the Canadian and American west.

More changes were bound to happen. Get this: whereas 94 per cent of the population was English-speaking in the 19th century, it was 95 per cent French-speaking by the end of the 20th century.

How did the seasons come about? And why does winter turn to spring in the month of April?

A long time ago, half the world was a warm utopia of perpetual summer. And the animals who lived there selfishly kept the secret of summer to themselves. The animals in the other half of the world lived in endless winter - and they were slowly starving.

That's the background in Murdo's Story: A Legend From Northern Manitoba, as told by Murdo Scribe and illustrated by Terry Gallagher (1985, yellow dot).

The winter animals know that, in order to survive, they must steal the secret of summer. But the bag hiding that secret is carefully guarded.

Murdo's Story explains how the animals were forced to come to an agreement, with the whole world greeting six months of winter, followed by six months of summer (based on the number of fingers and toes on Frog's hands and feet). Winter begins in Freezing Moon - that's November - and ends in Goose Moon, which is... April.

Of course, this tipping point means that there is often Snow In April. This is a light novel by romance writer Rosamunde Pilcher (1972, filed in adult fiction). Caroline takes one last trip before her wedding to the fiancé her stepmother wants her to marry. But plans go awry as our heroine gets caught in a snowstorm in a house in the woods, with a stranger. A man. Complications ensue.

It's a quick read, and you'll want a cup of tea to keep warm as the white stuff slowly drifts down.

Ah, April. It's also a lovely name, as in April Smith, author of 1994's North Of Montana (the prairie state is too dry to be very snowy, however). This tome marks the first appearance of FBI Special Agent Ana Grey, and the Montana in question is actually a street in Los Angeles that separates the rich from the rest.

Grey is single, tiny, and hard-boiled: "Your idea of a tearjerker is Terminator," she's told rather drily. "That's right. The robot dies and it's sad."

As we begin, Grey's moment of professional triumph is derailed by her superiors, and she finds herself wrangling a drug-addled Hollywood star as punishment, with the boss, it seems, expecting her to fail. Along the way, a single mom is shot to death on the

Based on a True Story Shelton release recorded to please young fans

COUNTRY CONNECTION

JESSIE AULIS

Blake Shelton's highly anticipated new project titled, Based on a True Story, his seventh studio album, is finally here. It follows his highly successful 2011 Red River Blue. There couldn't be a more perfect time for Shelton to release a new album.

The man is everywhere, raking in the awards and charming America on The Voice. This new album is light-hearted with a mix of up-tempo summertime party songs, love songs, ballads and of course songs laced with elements of humour.

Every number has an infectious melody with potential to become a single. It is a very good album, but sadly too predictable. The album offers 12 tracks (deluxe has 15) and kicks off with "Boys 'Round Here." This one should be a huge summer hit.

It is an upbeat track featuring his wife's trio, Pistol Anniés. This is one of those "good ole' boy songs." It has a country rap feel but luckily the whole album is not like that.

There's also the already hit single "Sure Be Cool If You Did" where the singer's vocals shine effortlessly. Shelton adds here, his own blend of smoky, sexy vocals that sends this one over the edge, making it clear why fans are falling in love with it. Shelton's appeal truly is his natural charisma and the honesty with which he presents himself.

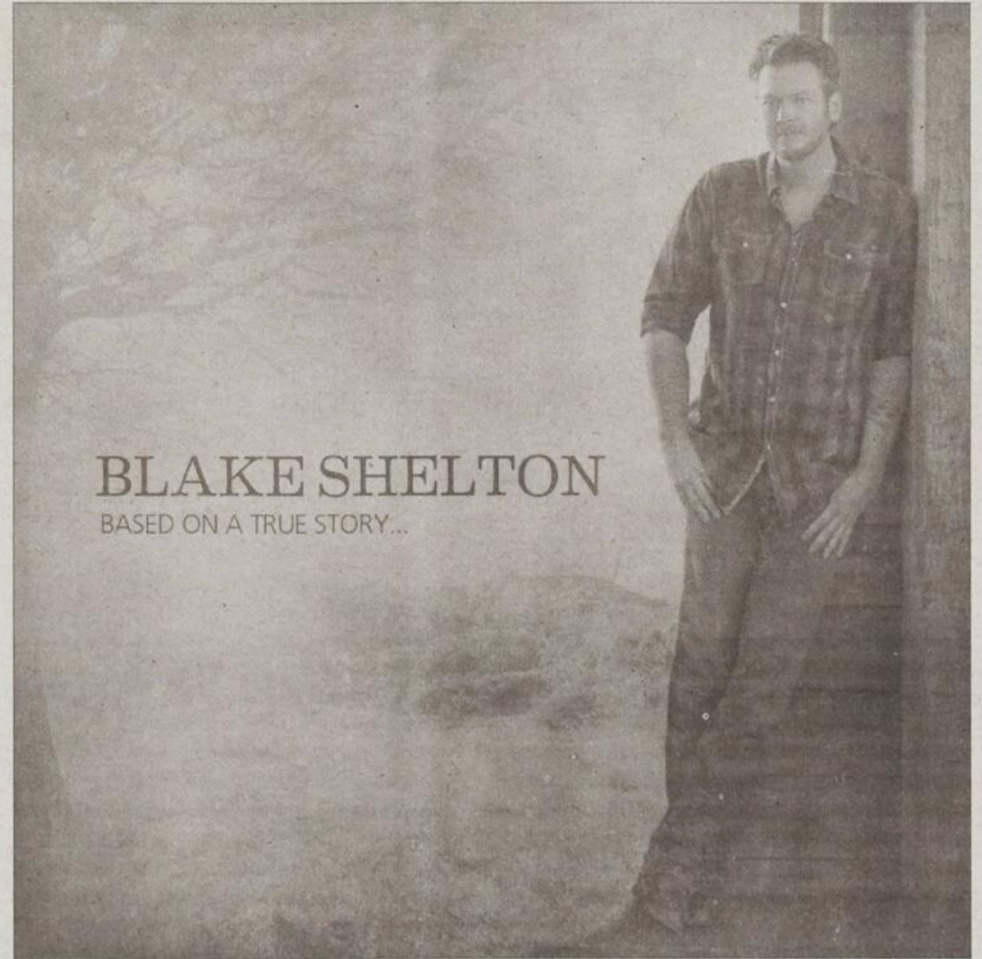

"Do You Remember" showcases his smooth and authoritative baritone. It reminds us of those significant moments that only two people in love share. It also brings to mind the beautiful No. 1 hit "Who Are You When I'm Not Looking."

With "I Still Got A Finger" Shelton provides a new anthem for the blue-collar. It sounds as a new take on an old classic "Take This Job And Shove It."

Shelton did not write any of the songs on the album but he turned to some of country's top tunesmiths, including Rhett Atkins, Rodney Clawson, Dallas Davison and Craig Wiseman.

"Small Town Big Time" is a fun song as it opens with a southern rock style intro and gives us a "no-regrets" attitude. "Country on the Radio" is lyrically pleasing and digs deeper into what country truly is. Both numbers are standouts and they seem to really fit Shelton's personality.

The artist also shows us his softer side with the sweet "Mine Would Be You." He is truly convincing when he sings, "My best day ever/ my finest hour/ my wildest dream come true/ mine would be you." It is really believable.

"Ten Times Crazier" is the classic boy-loves-girl story with a little twang while "My Eyes" (featuring Gwen Sebastian) places listeners in an intimate setting as Shelton sings "My eyes are the only thing, I don't wanna take off of you."

We get a little inside to how that busy man keeps wife Miranda Lambert happy in "Doin' What She Likes." The question is, does he find the time?

The album closes with Shelton's cover of the Rhett Atkins song, "Granddaddy's Gun." Although this song has been covered by others such as Aaron Lewis, he makes this heartfelt number extra passionate with his soothing vocals.

While it may be somewhat more tinged with country-pop and more polished than his other albums, it is clearly a collection of slick and modern country, recorded to please the young fans and enlarge his fan base.

Kenny Chesney -
His own brand of rum

Whatever you plan on doing for fun this summer, think about Kenny Chesney. Indeed the island boy will launch three flavours of his brand new Blue Chair Bay Rum this May: Premium White, Coconut and Coconut Spiced.

"Everybody's always expected this from me," says Chesney in a press release. "There have been people who've approached us. But rum is what I drink, and I always told myself: if I was going to do this, I wanted to create something I could be really proud of. Not just take a check and a piece of a company, but make the rum I truly wanted to drink," he states.

CBC TV movie 'Mr. Hockey' traces life of hockey legend Gordie Howe

The Canadian Press
TORONTO

The story of Mr. Hockey is headed to CBC later this month. The public broadcaster says its made-for-TV movie "Mr. Hockey: The Gordie Howe Story" will air April 28.

Set in the 1970s, it follows Howe's return to the ice at age 45, as he and his sons are selected to play for the Houston

Aeros in the fledgling WHA league. "Saving Hope" star Michael Shanks plays Howe and former "90210" co-star Kathleen Robertson portrays Howe's late wife and manager Colleen.

Howe celebrated his 85th birthday in March.

His family revealed just over a year ago that the hockey legend has a mild form of dementia.

with the boss, it seems, expecting her to fail. Along the way, a single mom is shot to death on the street, her hands removed as a public, vicious penance for an unknown crime. She is, possibly, or possibly not, a cousin of Ana Grey's.

But Grey has seen the scam before, and firmly rejects the connection - as well as her Hispanic roots.

And with that, the game's afoot.

Library News

April is Poetry Month. Come by and see the Lennoxville Library's display of poetry books!

The PreSchool Reading Program is Tuesday, April 9 and 23, from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. Our Saturday Children's Activity is April 20, from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

The next Books and Brown Bags is Wednesday, April 17, noon to 1 p.m. Bring your own lunch and a book to talk about. If housebound, we can bring books to you through Books On Wheels. We also have Large-Print Books and Audio Books. Plus an Easy Reads section. Book reviews and suggested reading are on our blog at bibliolennlibrary.wordpress.com.

The Lennoxville Library is at 101 Queen Street, corner of College. E-mail bibliolenn@gmail.com or phone 819-562-4949.

We've left books at two Lennoxville locations in the hopes you will pick them up and read them - the Jean Coutu pharmacy and the Club de Video, both on Queen Street. The project is Wandering Books: Read and Release - once you're done, leave them for someone else! Pop by the Internet site bookcrossing.com to say what you've read and where you're leaving it.

managers, according to the annual report by Richard Lapchick's Institute for Diversity and Ethics in Sports at the University of Central Florida.

"These stories are more important than ever as we throw around very loaded, misleading terms such as post-racial. I think it's even more important in something like Jackie Robinson's case because it wasn't that long ago," Bryant said. "Jackie Robinson died in '72 before the major leagues had integrated in the front office. Jackie Robinson died before there was a black major league manager" (Frank Robinson became the first black manager of an American League team - Cleveland Indians in 1975 - and the first in the National League - San Francisco Giants in 1981).

"The four most important teams in baseball history - the Red Sox, Yankees, Cardinals and Dodgers - in terms of history, in terms of success, none of them has ever had a black manager," Bryant said. "We're not just talking about race. We're not just talking about baseball. It's an example of how far we've come and how far we need to go. There is this feeling that on April 15, 1947, everything was fine. It was just a start."

Former major leaguer Dmitri Young, who now coaches kids in suburban Los Angeles, thinks young people today have no idea what Robinson endured. He hopes a movie like "42" can change that.

Hamel receives Quebec Foundation bursary

Sherbrooke biathlon athlete has eyes on Olympics

By Mike Hickey
Special to The Record

Charlotte Hamel, one of the top female biathlon athletes in the country, was honored Wednesday afternoon in Montreal by the Quebec Foundation for Athletic Excellence. The 16-year Secondary V student at Le Triolet received a $2,000 bursary courtesy of Astral Radio that will help defray costs for equipment, training and competitions.

Earlier this year she participated in the World Junior Championships in 2013 in Austria and in 2012 she won gold medal in the six-kilometre sprint event and finished seventh in the individual 7.5-kilometre at the Canadian Championships for the age group 15-16. She excels in the shooting aspect of biathlon, but is working hard on improving her skiing. Biathlon competitions require tremendous concentration and the ability to compete without being distracted by the surrounding environment is one of Charlotte's assets.

Her short-term goal is to represent Canada at the 2014 World Championships that will be held in Fort Kent, Maine while her long-term aspirations are to compete in the Olympics in 2016 or 2020. Hamel added that her extended support system begins with her parents and includes Excellence Sportive Sherbrooke. "My family has supported me a lot and my biggest sponsor is Sherbrooke Excellence Sportive Sherbrooke," she said. "The money I receive from that helps to pay for equipment like new skis."

Hamel's extensive training program includes skiing six times a week and shooting practice five times, a regime that is aided by the fact that she is a member of the Le Triolet Sports Etude Programme. She trains in the morning and then attends school from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. She has maintained an 87 per cent average in the classroom and insists that going to school is one of her favourite activities.

"I really love school, and my favourite subjects are math, history and biology," she said after receiving her bursary.

In total 36 student athletes received bursaries ranging from $2,000 to $10,000 from 13 different sponsors.

Sutton Hills Challenge May 5

The challenge is on

Emmanuelle Rondeau

With the enthusiastic support of event spokesman, marathoner Mathieu Girard, the third edition of the Sutton Hills Challenge was announced Thursday morning. Sutton Hills Challenge is a walk and run race which is sanctioned by the Federation québécoise d'athlétisme. It offers a half marathon, 10K run, 5K run, 5K walk and the Fondation Boulanger-Bédard 1K children's race. Sutton Hills Challenge will take place on Sunday May 5 and registration by mail or online can be done by visiting www.suttonhillschallenge.com.

"The event is wonderful for families and competitive as well. We hope that that it will bring even more walking and running enthusiasts to the area and that many people will come to take up the challenge," said Liane Bruneau, chairman of the board of Sutton Hills Challenge. Once again, this year, Sutton Hills Challenge has chosen to support three local charities: Le Diapason, the Canadian Cancer Society and children with autism in Montérégie. Just as last year, each adult runner who registers may choose to redirect $5 of his registration fee to one of the three organizations selected by Sutton Hills Challenge. In addition, those who register online through the Running Room site can make an additional donation or ask their loved ones to donate.

Originally from Sutton, young marathoner and spokesman for the event Mathieu Girard knows the peaks and valleys of the Sutton area very well. Thursday morning he shared how he developed his passion for running, the perseverance required to succeed, the ins and outs of a marathon and all the thoughts and feelings of a marathoner throughout a given race.

"I am glad to challenge people to come out and walk or run in Sutton on Sunday, May 5, 2013 and to take part on their own, with family or in groups. There will be a 5K walk, 5K run, 10K, a half marathon without forgetting the children's 1 km race," he said and went on to announce, "It is easy to register, simply click on www.suttonhillschallenge.com and discover beautiful Sutton with us!"

All departures will take place at Goyette-Hill Park in Sutton. The departure for the half marathon is at 9 a.m., the 5 and 10 km will take place at 9:45 a.m., while the departure of the 1 km

Free ringuette event comes to Sherbrooke

Brian Breckles

Ringuette Quebec is hosting a free event for young girls to come out and try ringuette in the Eastern Townships. The event takes place on Saturday, April 6 from noon to 1 p.m. at the W.B. Scott Arena on the campus of Bishop's University and is intended to attract girls age 5 to 8.

Ringuette is a non-contact team sport for girls that takes place on a standard hockey arena ice surface. Girls as young as five years old can play. It really improves skating ability, all the while having a great time and making some lasting friendships. Ringuette is not hockey. There are different rules, yet similar equipment that is used.

The open house will have instructors working with the girls on ice and trying the sport with sticks and rings. They get to see how the game is played while interacting with peers of their own age and ability.

Girls age 5 to 8 are welcome to come try this sport and are encouraged to get involved. All that participants need to bring are: skates, winter mitts or gloves, a hockey or bicycle helmet and a parent or guardian. Don't forget to bring your enthusiasm for this fun event!

"Ringuette is the fastest team game on ice," says Claudie Gagnon, sport development manager for Ringuette Quebec. "It has gained quite the following elsewhere in the province and this open house is a great chance for young girls to come out and try the sport."

For more details or information please visit www.cometryringette.com or contact Brian Breckles at 819-574-0557.

The free Ringuette Open House takes place on Saturday, April 6 starting at noon in the W.B. Scott Arena on the Bishop's University campus. It is open to all interested girls in the area.

will take place with 11:30 a.m. Parking will be available in the village and a shuttle service will be offered by Mount Sutton. According to Bruneau, "There will also be a daycare service on race day, inflatable games and our lodgings providers will be offering special rates to runners and to families. We have created an event for families where all the members of the family will be able to take part, either walking or running."

The race circuits are hilly and will present an interesting challenge. To register or to see a full description of the circuits, visit: www.suttonhillschallenge.com.

Sutton Hills Challenge presented by Desjardins is still looking for volunteers, sponsors and exhibitors. For more information: www.suttonhillschallenge.com.

Donna Vakalis' passions are modern pentathlon and a healthy lifestyle

A RUNNER'S MIND
CHRISTINE BLANCHETTE

The Olympic Games draw millions of viewers to the most remarkable athletes. The 2012 London Olympics was watched by 219.4 million Americans alone, which is the most of all-time.

As in life, the Olympics continue to evolve, with various sports coming and going since the birth of the modern Games at Athens in 1896. One hundred years later the inclusion of beach volleyball might have resulted in IOC founder Baron Pierre de Coubertin to spin in his grave. Conversely, say goodbye to wrestling, baseball and softball. Yet the sport of modern pentathlon endures. It is safe to say not many Americans tuned into a multi-discipline sport which includes fencing, swimming, equestrian riding and combined running and pistol shooting. It was probably a good idea back in 1912 as a test of overall athleticism.

Indeed, the modern pentathlon was invented by de Coubertin, which may, at least partly explain its longevity. De Coubertin applied the skill set from a 19th century soldier.

London was the first Games to combine running and shooting where athletes had three rounds of shooting each, followed by a one-kilometre run. In each of the three rounds of firing, athletes had to shoot five targets, loading the gun after each shot; they were then allowed to resume their running. The entire event is a one-day competition.

Donna Vakalis, a 33-year-old Torontonian, placed 29th at London in her first Olympics, out of 36 competitors. In a recent phone interview from her Toronto home, Vakalis talked about her passion for the sport, her healthy lifestyle and her PHD studies in civil engineering at the University of Toronto.

"This morning, I did my long run of one hour and 20 minutes along the Beltline Park — it is one of my favorite routes. The trail is used by hikers, runners and bikers." Later that morning she also swam six kilometres, which is routine for her. Her afternoons often find her working on a research paper before practicing shooting.

"The Modern pentathlon is the only sporting event created just for Olympic competition and was introduced in 1912 to replicate the spirit of the original pentathlon. The five disciplines are believed to serve as useful military skills for well-rounded soldiers."

Vakalis says, "The sport has changed over the years. And it continues to change, keeping the underlying spirit but adapting it to the age. The sport has a rich and quirky history — readers might want to check out the Wikipedia entry on the sport to get an overview."

Having a busy study and training schedule brings home to Vakalis the importance of leading a healthy lifestyle, which includes eating a well-balanced diet. She recommends the protein Chilli chips and the Simply Bars as healthy snack alternatives. The bars also help with weight loss and are gluten-free and high in protein. Vakalis also eats organic foods such as apples, which she has delivered right to her door.

Vakalis is still undecided if she will compete at the next Olympics in Rio de Janeiro. She said by e-mail, "I am still figuring this one out. I have a growing feeling inside me of huge possibilities...and I am always seeking opportunities to create something that will improve the world even if it is in a small way."

"Maybe I can steer my PhD research into working for health and sustainability. One example of something that is coming up in the next year: I am collaborating with a friend on an offbeat cookbook — where the 'recipes' are condensed stories of people who enable big-time community-based positive change. We are seeking stories as told by unconventional leaders from out-of-the-way places around the world...so if your readers have connections to people they can contact me! I love hearing the stories and politics of people with big ideas."

Whether or not she continues to compete in modern pentathlon, she will always be Donna Vakalis, Canadian Olympian. How many of us can say, "I did my best for Canada?"

Short biography of the Sutton Hills Challenge spokesman

Mathieu Girard has run more than 24,000 kilometres

I discovered my passion for running in August 2004. Before that, though I was running on the trails of Parc du Mont Sutton, I didn't really have any particular goal. It was on August 28, 2004 that the light went on. Like several million other viewers I watched the Athens Olympics and the final of the men's 5,000 metres. I literally was blown away seeing Hicham El Guerrouj in this contest win the gold medal and his second Olympic Games medal. The splendour of his stride and the intensity of the moment had simply seduced me.

Less than a month later I had to go to Montreal for lunch. I didn't know why, but several streets were blocked. Thanks to considerable patience I finally reached my destination. Once seated I began reading the daily newspaper and in the sports section I found out why the traffic had been so difficult — it was the Sunday of the Montreal Marathon. At that instant I heard a voice in me saying, "You're going to run the marathon next year." That's all it took to get me started on this adventure. The road opened up before me. In the fall I improved muscle conditioning and endurance. Then throughout the winter I walked the trails of Mont Sutton to get a better basis for my training program to begin in April 2005. So, on April 4, 2005 I ran my first 4K. Ouch! I was stiff for two days. Determined, I arrived at my very first start line, the Tour du Lac Brome in June 2005, I ran my first race ever, a 20K, in 1:29:52, and it was on the very same route I ran my 100th race, the 20K again, but this time in 1:13:56, in June 2011. Perseverance pays, believe me.

Then I devoted all my energy on the Montreal Marathon in September. My first marathon, done in 3:42:05! I hit a solid wall at the 34th kilometer. I walked, I had blisters and heartache, but it's there in my heart that I have a love for running. Wow, I was finally a marathoner! I then found myself in Miami in January 2006 to run my first half marathon, in 1:33:18. What a great experience to travel and run.

Since then I've run 40 half-marathons, with a best time of 1:15:31, in addition to 17 marathons with a personal best of 2:46:38 (next marathon in Eugene, Oregon, 28 April 2013), as well as some other distances such as 5 and 10K — both on road and trails and even on snowshoes in the winter. I've had the tremendous opportunity to race in France nearly everywhere in the United States, from Vermont to Florida and in the deserts of Arizona and California. I've participated in the New York Marathon, and five times in the Boston Marathon, not to mention all the wonderful races in Canada and Quebec.

From Calgary to Hamilton, from Toronto through Ottawa. From St-Gabriel-de-Brandon to Granby, from Brome Lake to St-Bruno and finally Sutton, with its majestic Sutton Hills Challenge, of which I am happy to be the spokesperson for the third year.

With more than 24,000 kilometres under my belt, my life as a runner is filled with great friendships, exciting encounters, personal bests, breathtaking landscapes and pleasures.

Now, go ahead and do up your shoes and get into your stride. I'll be waiting for you May 5, 2013 at the starting line of the Sutton Hills Challenge.

Crew's News from the Order of the Eastern Star

Greetings from the Worthy Grands Diane Evans and Glenn Munkres included thanks to those who had attended the Town Hall meeting and the great input by everyone. The Can-Am weekend was certainly enjoyed by all. The ritual has been translated into French and will soon be available to members. The Bowl-a-Thon was well attended, with everyone having a great time. Many received gifts for being good bowlers and for taking part in the drawing. This was followed by an enjoyable dinner at Restaurant Chinois Fu-Lam, where a delicious buffet was served. During the months of March (11th Maple Leaf #2), April (15th Cowansville Chapter #17 and 24th Owl's Head #35) May and June both W.G.M. Diane Evans and W.G.P. Glenn Munkres will be very busy making their official visits to the various chapters. Don't forget St. Patrick's Parade the 17th.

Chapter News

Owl's Head BIG news was that one of their members, Brother Merton Bailey, received Queen Elizabeth II Diamond Jubilee Medal. Congratulations from all Eastern Star members.

Victory Chapter #34 had members reminisce about why they joined the Eastern Star, and many interesting stories were told.

Friendship Chapter #15 - Natalie Richards was presented an ESTAR

Award by Sister Virginia Fedele P.M. The award was late in being presented as Natalie has been in Africa as a missionary. Congratulations go out to her.

Maple Leaf #2 - The Altar and Charter were draped in memory of Sister Ella Gendreau. Grand Representatives Commissions were given to Sister Darline Ditcham to Idaho and Sister Reta Perkins to Illinois.

Fidelity Chapter #55 celebrated Grand Representative Night at their February meeting.

Sisters Donna Lee, Diane Arbuckle and Ellen Sylvester had the pleasure of visiting Brother Art Shore P.G.P. and Sister Betty. They found him very well and enjoying their home in a retirement setting. They plan another trip there in the fall.

Sister Heather MacDonald G.C. is now the proud grandmother of Steven James Morris Durocher-MacDonald. Sister Anita P.G.M. Grand Secretary and Brother Gord Young P.G.P. are the proud great-grandparents of Brooke Young-Taylor. Happy to report that both babies are doing very well.

Sad news - The Order was saddened with the loss of these members through death: Sisters Annie Ingram (Westmount #9), Bernice Atkins (Lachute #56) and Rhea Short (Maple Leaf #2). Sister Helene LeBel lost her husband, Charles, and Sisters Norma Rhicard and Bev. Mahannah (Maple Leaf #2) lost their niece Tina.

Sister Grace Hadlock W.M. (Maple Leaf #2) and her husband thank everyone for their good wishes on their 50th anniversary, and Sister Norma and Bev. (Maple Leaf #2) the messages of sympathy received on the death of their niece Tina.

Glad to say that I am recovering well from my collision with the car and have learned a good lesson: Never go behind what you think is a parked car. It is hoped that Brother Bob Newell and Sister Dickenson-Hill P.G.M. are also recovering from their illnesses.

Danny Sanborn wrote an interesting story about ladybugs. Legend states that in Europe the farmers were losing their crops to aphids. They prayed to the Virgin Mary to save their crops, and soon small red and black bugs appeared and ate up the aphids, therefore saving the crops. The farmers started calling them "Beetles of our Lady", which became "Lady beetles" then "Ladybugs". They also believed that the red on the bugs represented the joy that Mary felt, and the black her sorrow.

April 6 - "A Feast to Die For" Dinner Theatre will be presented at Harmony Hall, Pierrefonds. Tickets can be attained by calling Brenda at 450-443-2071. Sounds like a great night.

Stanbridge East Women's Institute

The members of Stanbridge East W.I. held their annual meeting on February 7, 2013 at Avante in Bedford. The meeting was presided by Jean Cogswell, who welcomed everyone and thanked Dianne Rhicard and members who furnished lunch. She opened with the Collect and Salute to the Flag.

Motto: When you try to "keep up with the Joneses", find out where they are going.

Roll Call: Pay dues. Bring a homemade Valentine.

Minutes of the November meeting were read and approved. Also a short report of the Christmas get-together.

Correspondence was thank-yous and Christmas greetings; a letter from F.W.I.C. about their "seed" fundraiser.

Executive reports were given. No officers or chairmen changed, so there was no Installation Ceremony.

A donation was made to the Hoodless Home in honour of Founder's Day, Feb. 19. Travel bag was won by Lorraine Domingue.

The members of Stanbridge East Women's Institutes met on March 7, 2013 at the home of Erma Teneyck with President Jean Cogswell presiding. Jean opened with the Collect, Salute to the Flag and Hymn of all Nations. This year is the 92nd anniversary of this branch.

Motto: If you want to forget all your troubles take a walk in a new pair of high heel shoes.

Roll Call: What kind of foot problems are created by wearing stylish shoes.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Betty Perry. Dianne Rhicard filled in for Dianne Tait and looked after any money.

Correspondence: from Missisquoi Museum, celebrating 50 years in 2014. There was a motion to make a donation to the museum. A card is to be sent to Barbara Harvey.

Program: Health and Community Living. Mary Boomhower had an article from The Record written by Anna May Kinney about wheat (breads). Also news of the pros and cons of vitamins.

At lunchtime, everyone enjoyed Erma's delicious lasagna, Patricia Vokey's salads and Pearle's desserts, that included a birthday cake for Erma and Mary.

Pearle Yates brought up the subject of infanticide from an article in The Record by Steven Black. As mothers and women, it was not something we should ignore. Members thought we should pursue it through our organization so it will be discussed at the Missisquoi County Annual Meeting on March 12.

A motion was made to send a donation to "Water for All".

The meeting closed with local announcements of activities.

Annie's Mailbox

Dear Annie: I've been a widow for 15 years. I moved to another state to be with my kids and met "Jerry." We've been dating for nine months.

Jerry has been divorced for two years and has two adult children. His ex-wife was his childhood sweetheart and the only woman he'd ever been with. The problem is, I have never been to Jerry's house. He says his niece and youngest child live with him, and he hasn't told the family about me. When I asked why, he said, "Then everyone will know it's over between my ex and me."

I think Jerry's mother sustains the hope that he will get back together with his ex, and I'm pretty sure his ex would like that, too. I gave Jerry a deadline of three months to make our relationship public. He swears he's not still married, and he gave me a ring for Valentine's Day. He spends the night at my house every week. I just want to know what you think. — Not Yet Official

Dear Not Yet: Either Jerry is still hung up on his ex-wife, or he's too afraid of his mother to date anyone else. If he were truly ready to move forward, seeing you publicly would not be an issue after nine months. Your deadline makes sense, but you must be ready to end the relationship if Jerry doesn't come through. That would mean he isn't likely to ever be "ready." Sorry.

Dear Annie: I'm planning my wedding and asked my best friend, "Kayla," to be my maid of honor. I love her like a sister. Right after college, Kayla made a mistake and got pregnant after a one-night stand with some guy she met at a bar. Her daughter, "Jessie," is now 4 years old, a wonderful child and my goddaughter. I want her as my flower girl.

My mother liked Kayla until Jessie was born and she realized the child is biracial. My mother hit the roof when she found out Kayla and Jessie are in the wedding party. She claims they are "tainted." I am astounded and furious with my mother. Her side of the family is extremely racist, and I have little to do with them. My mother always downplayed their behavior as "old fashioned," but now that she's older, she's become just like them. Believe me, it's not early-onset dementia or anything like that. She's simply turning into her parents.

My fiance and I are footing the entire bill for this wedding, so we are not beholden to anyone. I'm shocked and embarrassed that my mother has become someone I can't stand to be around. She told my father and brothers that she won't come to the wedding if Kayla and

Jessie are there, and frankly, I'm relieved — and that bothers me. My father is appalled by her behavior, as are my brothers. What do I do now? — Bigot's Daughter

Dear Daughter: A parent's preferences should be taken into consideration when they are reasonable, but your mother's are not. You can calmly discuss with her why her demands are abhorrent to you and that you hope she will reflect more rationally on the racist opinions she holds. But you cannot change her. You can only decide how much you can tolerate. Please do not give in to her blackmail.

Dear Annie: You had a letter from "Suggestions Appreciated," who wanted to know what to do about guests who track snow into her house. You said it was OK to ask them to remove their shoes, especially if she provides comfy little slippers.

I have one more suggestion: Let people know beforehand that they will need to take off their shoes. I have a lift in one shoe and cannot go without them. I have a special pair of shoes that I can bring along to wear inside the house if I know in advance that I will need them. — Frank

Remove static cling from clothing

FRUGAL LIVING
by Sara Noel

Dear Sara: I read with interest your suggestion about getting rid of static cling. I use two humidifiers in my house, fabric softener liquid in my wash and fabric softener sheets in my dryer, and still my clothes are full of static! Any more ideas? — Carolyn, email

Dear Carolyn: Try vinegar as your fabric softener and a ball of foil or a few safety pins attached to a sock or washcloth in your dryer. Avoid mixing synthetic garments with natural fabrics in the dryer. You can pull your clothing out of the dryer before it's completely dry, or dry on a lower setting and add a damp wash cloth toward the end of the drying time. You can give them a quick snap as you pull them out of the dryer. Lightly spray static guard on them, apply lotion to your skin prior to wearing the items or run a wire hanger or dryer sheet over the garments when wearing them. ***

Dear Sara: I have a soft yellow cloth that I use exclusively to polish an instrument. Unfortunately, my daughter found it and used it to remove her nail polish, which now won't come out. How can I remove the nail polish from this cloth? — Kelly, email

Dear Kelly: I'll assume this is an untreated, felt-type polishing cloth. You can use Off bug spray (aerosol). Place a cloth under the stain to catch anything that might bleed through. Saturate the stained area, then rub it with a cloth or toothbrush. Repeat as the stain lifts, then launder as usual. If there's still a bit of stain remaining, try spraying the stained area with hairspray and launder again. You can try pure acetone, too. These cloths cost around $5, so it might be best to buy a new one. If there's any residual nail polish, it could scratch your instrument. ***

Dear Sara: Do you buy any canned vegetables? I don't, but I'm feeling the need for long-term storage. I've tried different varieties of canned green beans and peas and found them disgusting. I might experiment with canned carrots for soups or add-ins. I've never tried canned potatoes because they just seem like a waste of shelf space. Any thoughts? —C.L., Mississippi

Dear C.L.: I buy a lot of canned tomatoes. I don't mind canned peas, mushrooms and corn. I will sometimes buy canned beans, such as kidney, pinto, garbanzo, etc. I prefer fresh or frozen vegetables, but I don't mind buying canned vegetables from time to time if there's a sale.

Writer's cramp is minor malady without specific cause

ASK DOCTOR K
by Anthony L. Komaroff, M.D.

DEAR DOCTOR K: These days I mostly type. But when I write, my hand cramps up within minutes. Is there anything I can do?

DEAR READER: I do most of my "writing" on my computer, too. Whether I'm writing a column, updating a colleague or catching up with a friend, I'm more likely to reach for a keyboard than a pen. But, like you, on the occasions when

I do write in longhand, my hand sometimes misbehaves. It doesn't become painful — the handwriting just is less legible. (And, for most of my career, unlike in the case with some of my colleagues, you could read this doctor's handwriting.)

With writer's cramp, the muscles of your fingers, hand or forearm cramp or spasm during writing. Why does this happen? The precise reasons are uncertain, but it is possible that insufficient nerve signals from your hand into your spinal cord and brain lead to an inadequate "relaxation signal" from your brain to your hand.

You may notice that the more you try to write, the worse the cramping gets. Your hand may even jerk involuntarily. That happens to me.

Most cases of writer's cramp have no identifiable cause. But in rare cases, writer's cramp may result from disc disease in the neck, certain drugs (such as lithium), or brain disease (including stroke or tumors).

A common but mistaken belief is that muscle cramps are caused by abnormal potassium, sodium or calcium. That may be true on occasion, but not usually. Still, I've known some patients who report that eating more potassium — in the form of a banana or glass of orange juice each day — led to improved handwriting.

There's no real treatment for writer's cramp, but there are a few things you can try:

- Use a keyboard more often. If you don't like typing, speech recognition software on computers and tablets works well. And I see lots of people who used to take notes in longhand during meetings now typing notes into their tablets and laptop computers.

- Sometimes using a pen or pencil with a larger grip improves the situation.

- Don't concentrate harder on your handwriting: This can make your hand muscles tense up even more. Instead, try to really relax your hand as you write. That helps me.

- More formal relaxation techniques, hypnosis and biofeedback may be helpful for some people.

- With your doctor's supervision you may try certain medications. These include trihexyphenidyl (Artane), propranolol (Inderal, others) or botulinum toxin (Botox) injections. They seem to help some people, although there are not many good studies of this treatment.

Writer's cramp can be irritating. It's one of those minor maladies that tend to creep up on us as we get older. On rare occasions it can be a sign of an underlying and serious neurological condition. But almost always it's just an aggravation, not a serious problem.

(Dr. Komaroff is a physician and professor at Harvard Medical School. To send questions, go to AskDoctorK.com, or write: Ask Doctor K, 10 Shattuck St., Second Floor, Boston, MA 02115.)

Party spot in the woods is a liability risk

SMART MONEY
by Bruce Williams

DEAR BRUCE: Our home is situated on three acres, two of which have been kept in their natural state. Now the property has been discovered by local kids who ride their motorcycles, hang out on the property and I don't know what all.

I don't care, but my wife is getting upset. She thinks that if they get injured on our property, we're on the hook. I don't think it's such a big deal. What do you think? — R.N., New Mexico

DEAR R.N.: I think it is important to correct this situation, so I'm with your wife on this one. If you don't at the very least post the land against trespassers and do your best to keep them off, you likely could be accused of operating or maintaining an attractive nuisance if one of those kids gets injured. Whether posting "keep off" signs or chasing away the kids is enough is another story. You might wish to get the police involved if the kids won't listen to you.

Furthermore, be certain that you have adequate liability insurance. "Adequate" isn't $10,000 or $15,000 — it should be total coverage of several million dollars that results from combining the maximum from your homeowners policy with an umbrella policy. I know that sounds like a great deal, but the extra cost is not excessive, and it's amazing what type of allegations can be made.

How will you get from here to there?

by Phillip Alder

Francis Bacon wrote, "Travel, in the younger sort, is part of an education; in the elder, a part of experience. He that travelleth into a country before he hath some entrance into the language, goeth to school and not to travel."

I suppose that has a parallel in bridge. He that playeth on one suit before he hath some sort of entrance into that hand elsewhere, goeth to destruction and not to success. In this deal, how should South play in three no-trump after West leads a low heart?

North's three clubs was a weak jump overcall, showing a good six-card suit and 6 to 10 high-card points. South bid what he hoped he could make. West wisely allowed the unfavorable vulnerability to silence him.

West, deciding that South was prepared for a spade lead, tried a sneaky heart attack.

Clearly, South needed to establish and run dummy's club suit. However, assuming the defender with the club ace had learned the game more than an hour ago, he would know not to take the first round of clubs, but to wait until the second round. Then declarer realized that he would need a dummy entry. So, instead of taking a cheap first trick with dummy's heart 10, he overtook with his ace and played on clubs, starting with his jack, the honor from the shorter side first.

East won the second club and shifted to a spade, but South took that trick with his ace and led a heart to force a dummy entry.

In whatever language you speak, when you are establishing a long suit in one hand, always check your entrance situation.

In the year ahead, it's quite likely that you will find yourself entertaining some grandiose hopes. Others might find your thinking to be wishful and extravagant, but that's because they lack your luck.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Your best qualities will be front and center in most of your undertakings with others. It can't help but win you the admiration of many of your peers.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — You won't settle for being second best and, consequently, you'll be able to effectively handle every challenging situation. You'll thrive under pressure.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — There's a chance you could run into someone whom you long ago lost contact with. It'll be good to catch up, and initial awkwardness will soon give way to the old bonhomie.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Don't despair if you're disappointed by someone upon whom you were relying, because someone else will turn out to be a better source for what you need.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — The best way to handle a delicate situation is to be a good listener. Once the injured party has aired his or her mind, he or she is likely to be receptive to your input.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — This could turn out to be an interesting day, mostly because of an unplanned but pleasant event that ends up favorably altering your routines.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) — Lucky you, because Cupid has singled you out for some special attention. He'll be working hard for you, assuring that there will be plenty of harmony between you and yours.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Certain tasks and/or assignments you usually find to be a bit overwhelming will be more like play today. This is because your mind will only be focused on successful results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) — Your charismatic personality will be focused on igniting as much warmth and happiness in others as possible, sparking them to do the same.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — A unique opportunity may develop in a rather unusual fashion. It's likely that you'll be able to acquire something that you've always wanted. Make the most of it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) — A project that you got a friend involved in will turn out for the best. It will be an asset for your pal, and for others.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) — Instinctively, you'll have the ability to see value in things that seem to be of small worth to others. This gift is, perhaps, one of your most profitable assets.

Your aspirations will be elevated to new heights in the year ahead. It could mean a lot of work in a few cases, but the rewards could be commensurate.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — The more complicated an assignment is, the more pride you'll take in fulfilling it. You'll welcome challenges that would make others blanch.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — When you give your word that you'll do something for another, it's an ironclad commitment. Reliability is one of your more admirable traits.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Participating in one of your favorite activities with some old friends will bring you considerable pleasure. It'll be like wearing a pair of favorite shoes.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — You won't have to bulldoze your way through a critical development, but you will have to be persistent and unflagging in your aims.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Some kind of special knowledge, skill or know-how that you've acquired over a long period of time will be put to good use. It's likely to gain you much admiration from your peers.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Although you will make a contribution to an endeavor, conditions are somewhat unusual in that you could benefit more from others' efforts than from your own.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) — Events will help further solidify a strong relationship of long standing. Chances are it will involve someone whom you already consider to be one of your closest friends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — You have the ability to bring order and balance into the life of another through a personal intervention. You'll make your own determination as to how and when your help is required.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) — Some of your best opportunities will develop through social contacts. You aren't likely to intentionally use anybody, things will just happen of their own accord.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Certain changes are likely to occur that will prove to be of material benefit. The first shift in your circumstances is likely to take place today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) — The light touch you can sometimes put on life's serious problems will be a welcome tonic for those troubled souls who cross your path. All will be appreciative.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) — This could be a good time for a shopping excursion. You'll have a shrewd eye for spotting a bargain and will be much more sensible about the purchases you make.

Small things will have a way of adding up during coming months. You will make great strides in gradual increments, and it will help to be patient.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Unless you're extremely careful, you could accidentally spill the beans about something that you promised to keep secret. Don't open your mouth without thinking.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — There is someone who is anxious to talk to you about a matter that you've been equally as anxious to discuss. Be ready, because the perfect moment to do so might present itself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Generally, the race belongs to the smart and not necessarily to the strong or swift. If you want to outdistance a competitor, you had better be able to outthink him or her.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Everything will work out well if you treat events philosophically, especially anything that tends to produce adverse conditions. Losing won't be that bad, but winning is great.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Keep in mind that even a small profit is better than none at all. Don't expect more than you deserve, and you won't be disappointed with what you earn.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Forgo making an important decision if you feel you haven't had adequate time to properly study the alternatives. It's much better to be indecisive now than to be sorry later.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) — Techniques used in your job or daily life can be improved upon. Start giving some thought about ways to do things better.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — You'll be a fun person to hang out with, because you're not apt to take yourself or life too seriously. This positive attitude will be contagious.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) — If there is a business matter that you'd like to close, let your instincts govern the timing. Proceed to wrap things up only after you see that everyone's happy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Don't discount any bright ideas that come out of the blue, but don't be too quick to act on them either. Some should be filed away for later use.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) — You might be able to save more money on a purchase than what you'll get from something you sell. Don't be too picky about how you make your profit.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) — In situations where you have the right to ask for cooperation from others, people will be more responsive if you make requests instead of demands.

March was a busy month at the Richmond Melbourne United Church. Two fundraisers were held with great success due to the participation of so many from the whole community. In early March The Variety Show Cafe welcomed over 80 people to have a coffee, sit with friends and neighbours and listen to local talent. There was music, dance, piano, singing and story telling. Participants ranged from the very young to the young at heart. Later in March there was a Fun for Funds Dance filling the hall to dance the evening away to the tunes of Donna and Syd Mills, Norman Menard, Roger Durocher, Keith Whittall and calling by Eileen Perkins. Both events brought smiles and laughter to many and the Richmond Melbourne United Church sends a huge THANK YOU to all who were on stage and those who came to give support. Starting in January 2014 we will be looking for more talent so let us know right away so you will not miss the fun.
