A big green car sat in the middle of Big Forks Street yesterday afternoon, two-thirds submerged in water, about 40 feet from dry land in either direction along the flooded street.

A crowd grew along the shoreline, each new arrival asking an almost identical question, "How did it get there?"

The car's owner, Arthur Fortin of Cookshire, who had been the object of a minor police manhunt, was eventually located in the crowd and supplied the answer. "It floated."

He explained that he had been driving along the street from the direction of King Street and that he noticed water under the railroad underpass but thought it was only an inch or two deep.

What he didn't realize was that the road underneath the muddy river water dipped sharply beneath the underpass. He drove on for a few feet, then he floated.

But not for long. The car was not seaworthy; it leaked. Drifting helplessly towards the underpass, it slowly sank until it grounded.

Rescue arrived. A spectator found a length of timber and rested one end of it on top of a wall beside the underpass, the other on the trunk of Mr. Fortin's car. This was his escape route.

A tow truck arrived and parked at the waterline, yards away from the derelict. A volunteer, who was unknown to Mr. Fortin, the police or the tow truck driver, waded into the water, pulling a cable from the truck. After several minutes he shivered, emerged, crossed the train tracks and disappeared.

Soon, however, he was to be observed on the opposite shore with a makeshift raft and a paddle. He launched his craft and paddled for several minutes towards the car before capsizing. Undaunted, he waded towards the car, pushing the raft. He passed it. He continued towards the truck and eventually to shore.

By this time, Robert Thibault had arrived with his amphibious car. He drove out to the unamphibious one, accompanied by Mr. Fortin. They managed to attach a line to the sunken vehicle, and the tow truck pulled it to shore.

A crowd gathered around Mr. Fortin's car. He opened the back door. Gallons of water poured out. The crowd surged back. A man fell into a baby carriage. The car was towed away.

Town, stocks boom

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP)—Residents of this Northern Ontario community are frolicking in a boom-town atmosphere as Canadian and New York stock exchanges dig out from a trading avalanche which followed the announcement of a major ore discovery in this mining area. The zinc, copper and silver ore strike, announced Thursday by Texas Gulf Sulphur Company, has been described as the largest deposit in the country—worth about $850,000,000—and its limits have not been reached in any direction.

After weeks of optimistic rumor and speculation, normal work here came to a virtual halt as thousands of people thronged the streets in a Madras atmosphere, sensing an end to their dependence on near-exhausted gold mines.

But the biggest rush was at the stock markets where the announcement of the estimated 25,000,000-ton strike sparked the wildest day's trading in history. In Toronto, the day's volume was 16,695,000 shares, 899,000 shares more than the previous record set in 1958 during the uranium boom.

In New York, Texas Gulf shares jumped $7 to $36.37, trading at 444,300 shares, making it the market's most active issue.

While amateur speculators plunged their savings into ore stock, the people of Timmins, who have lived the last two decades under the threat of gold mines edging closer to complete shutdown, looked toward a brighter future.

MPs agree on need for new electoral map

OTTAWA (CP) — All parties in Parliament have agreed in principle to the idea that constituencies should be redistributed, but as for how to go about it—well, that's another thing.

The government's plan would establish 10 provincial commissions to reshape the electoral boundaries in tune with the 1961 census.

Objections to it poured forth like ballots.

Gilbert Rondeau (Creditiste-Shefford) said there should be four commissions, not 10. Only the seven members of the Creditiste party in the chamber voted for this amendment and it was turned back by 81 members from the other parties.

Stanley Knowles NDP (Winnipeg North Centre) objected to the way the four members of each commission would be selected.

Under the bill the provincial chairman would be named by the chief justice of the province from among judges of his court. One member would be appointed by the prime minister, another by the leader of the Opposition, and the fourth member of each commission would be the federal representation commissioner, Nelson Castonguay.

PROPOSES AMENDMENT
Mr. Knowles proposed an amendment that would take selection privileges away from the prime minister and Opposition leader. Instead, the chief justice of each province would have to choose the two members from a provincial government office or the faculty of an educational institution.

This amendment was proposed three minutes before the House rose Thursday and George Nowlan (PC—Digby-Annapolis—Kings) said Mr. Knowles "would think it an insult if we accepted this amendment at such a short notice."

Therefore, de Gaulle argued, why should France renounce its own nuclear defence program and cease to aid peoples "who aspire to our civilization?"

Mr. Nowlan indicated he wasn't convinced that the best place to find non-partisan members is in universities. He referred to one university, "in the province of which I have some knowledge," where the head of one department "happens to be the president of the political party for which the honorable member (Mr. Knowles) is now speaking" and the president of the same university is a former provincial premier.

He was probably referring to Dalhousie University in Halifax whose president, Dr. Henry D. Hicks is a former Liberal premier of the province. J. H. Aitchison, head of the university's political science department, was an NDP candidate in the last federal election.

J. Angus MacLean (PC—Queens) asked that an amendment be inserted so the commission—if it wished—could recommend the retention of dual ridings. Mr. MacLean represents such a riding.

Thomas M. Bell (PC—Saint John-Albert) said the tolerance limit—which establishes the allowable population spread between ridings—should be changed to 30 per cent from the proposed 20 per cent.

Dief menaced

SASKATOON (CP) — Under the watchful eye of police officers, Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker Thursday night laid the groundwork for the Progressive Conservative party's campaign in the Saskatoon federal byelection.

Before Mr. Diefenbaker arrived in Winnipeg Thursday, a Saskatoon radio station reported an unidentified person telephoned and warned: "You have just one hour to save John Diefenbaker's life."

Probe sabotage

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — Two doctors and one technician were being questioned today concerning alleged sabotage in the operating theatre of the Edith Cavell Institute in Brussels.

Trial ending

MONTREAL (CP)—Final testimony at the trial of Hal C. Banks, charged with conspiring to assault Capt. Henry Francis Walsh, is expected to be heard Monday.

The defence closed its case Thursday and Judge Claude Wagner adjourned the trial of the former president of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.) until Monday, when the Crown plans to present one more rebuttal witness.

Extends stay

SAIGON (Reuters) — U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk today decided to extend his weekend visit until Monday as rumors circulated here that a new coup d'etat in South Viet Nam was likely within 48 hours.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson says he hopes it will not be necessary to hold a full-scale constitutional conference in connection with the Canada Pension Plan.

As behind-the-scenes negotiations continued in the hopes of producing a pension formula acceptable to Ottawa and the provinces, the question of constitutional roadblocks was raised in the Commons Thursday.

George Nowlan, former Progressive Conservative finance minister, asked whether the government is considering holding a constitutional conference on possible amendments to the British North America Act which would permit the proposed federal pension scheme to embody benefits now considered a provincial responsibility. These benefits include payments to survivors of persons, who die before receiving the full amount of the pension to which they are entitled.

Mr. Pearson, who promised to make a statement in the Commons Monday on the latest pension developments, said he hoped the federal plan could embody such benefits without having to convene a full-scale constitutional conference. He also hoped to throw some light on this question in Monday's statement.

The quiet negotiations are said to include the pensions questions and related matters. In the Quebec legislature Thursday, Premier Lesage remained tight-lipped on negotiations, which are believed also to concern the question of double taxation in Quebec.

Mr. Lesage, asked by Opposition Leader Daniel Johnson whether there was any good news for Quebec from Ottawa, said he hadn't been talking with Ottawa but he understood the "sun is shining as brightly in Ottawa as it is here."

In Halifax, Nova Scotia Premier Stanfield said he has been told by Prime Minister Pearson that "something further" can be expected in Canada Pension Plan proposals.

However, he said he thought that should the federal plan be modified to make contributions compulsory by all workers, including the self-employed, it could pose problems for his province.

Nova Scotia had a larger proportion of self-employed—mainly fishermen and farmers—than some other provinces and payments to a pension fund might be too heavy for some of these people.

The original Canada Pension Plan proposal was to make contributions by self-employed people voluntary.

Greeks say Turk patrols killed

NICOSIA — Skirmishing between Greeks and Turks high on mountain ridges overlooking the strategic Turkish-held Kyrenia Pass, 10 miles north of Nicosia, broke out again today—for the seventh day running. Canadian UN forces are trying to bring peace to the area.

The sound of heavy machine-gun fire and the crack of rifles reverberated off rocky cliff faces and deep defiles for about two hours, beginning soon after 8 a.m.

Khrushchev is 70 today

MOSCOW—Nikita Khrushchev celebrated his 70th birthday today with a new medal on his coat, Communist colleagues from at home and abroad gathered around and congratulations pouring in.

Eastern European sources said the Russian leader would make an important speech later today, summarizing his work for the Communist party and outlining future plans. He also was expected to deliver some sharp words to Communist China.

Khrushchev became a Hero of the Soviet Union by order of the presidium of the Supreme Soviet. In receiving the highest award of his country, Khrushchev joined a company that includes cosmonauts and Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

The Greek side is pressing the Turks to withdraw so the situation can become normal, otherwise they say they will be forced to launch an attack to get them off themselves.

The staff of the hospital's Pavillion Ollie Ward were told at about 10 a.m. that Gen. de Gaulle's operation had been "satisfactory," the sources said.

The staff was asked to maintain strict secrecy over the operation, the sources added.

The commercial radio station Europe No. 1 said the president underwent a "slight" prostate gland operation.

Sources close to the office of Premier Georges Pompidou told reporters the operation—the nature of which they did not disclose—had been envisaged for some months and added there was no cause for anxiety.

De Gaulle defends aid to the underdeveloped

PARIS (AP) — President de Gaulle defended his program of aid to underdeveloped countries Thursday night against critics who think he ought to spend part of the money for French schools and housing.

He also told a radio-television audience that France must continue to develop its independent nuclear force to keep from becoming an American protectorate and to dissuade a Soviet attack.

The French leader made no new policy declaration. His chief purpose appeared to be to reply to mounting criticism in France against heavy expenditures for nuclear weapons and foreign aid.

France is spending approximately 1.8 per cent of its gross national product on foreign aid, the highest percentage in the world and more than double the .72 per cent the United States spends. Critics protest that more money should be used at home, especially for educational facilities and housing.

France's annual birth rate increased about 300,000 between 1942 and 1946, and institutions of higher learning must turn away thousands of students for lack of room. The birth boom, and increased longevity, also have created a critical housing shortage.

Since he returned to power in 1958, de Gaulle said, France has boosted education spending to 16 per cent from 10 per cent of the national budget and the $2,740,000,000 set aside for schools this year is triple the 1958 figure. He said housing construction has increased to 1,000 units a day from 793.

France's revenues have risen 30 per cent during the five-year period, he said, calling this growth "a development without precedent."

Therefore, de Gaulle argued, why should France renounce its own nuclear defence program and cease to aid peoples "who aspire to our civilization?"

De Gaulle is expected to remain in the hospital for 10 days, informed sources said.

The hospital specializes in the treatment of urinary diseases. The staff of the hospital's Pavillion Ollie Ward were told at about 10 a.m. that Gen. de Gaulle's operation had been "satisfactory," the sources said.

The staff was asked to maintain strict secrecy over the operation, the sources added.

Asks moderation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, deploring violence and disorder in the civil rights struggle, says all groups should exercise moderation and try to understand the other fellow's viewpoint.

Johnson was asked to comment Thursday, at his biggest-ever news conference, on civil rights demonstrations that run against the law or threaten violence. He replied:

"We do not of course, condone violence or taking the law into your own hands, or threatening the health or safety of our people. You really do the civil rights cause no good when you go to this extent."

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—After two years and more than 60 programs, there are going to be some changes in CBS' The Nurses.

"We've got to find a way to enlarge the show's platform and involve more people — mostly men—connected with the hospital," says Executive Producer Herbert Brodtkin.

The producer believes the television fad for "realistic drama" is just about over. "I don't think there's anything wrong with them — great playrights have always been able to deal with serious stuff, but they were able to turn it into good entertainment. I don't think Hollywood can do that, not with all its limitations and pre-censoring of scripts."

CBS Reports Wednesday night tackled the economic, moral and ethical implications raised by recent British and U.S. government reports linking cigarette smoking and cancer.

The subject affects an $8,000,000,000-a-year industry that pays $3,000,000,000 a year in taxes, provides income for almost 1,600,000 persons and is of concern to doctors, clergymen, educationists and parents.

The program covered carefully, and with fairness, all shades of opinion. Tobacco industry spokesmen had an opportunity to state their positions as well as government officials, representatives of broadcasting, advertising, school authorities and students themselves.

Rare court event

A French-English jury is to hear $40,000 action

A rare event in the judicial annals of the district of St. Francis will take place on May 12 when a civil case will be tried before a jury composed of English and French-language members, equally divided.

"There has just been one similar case to my knowledge in this district," said Lawyer Gerard Boudreau, who is preparing the case.

On this occasion it will be necessary to have an interpreter to translate everything that is said in the proceedings.

The case involves an action for damages for $40,317.89, which Merton Webb has taken against Sidney Griffin, driver of a car in which he was a passenger, Nicole d'Etchevery driver of a second car and Mrs. Flore d'Etchevery owner of the second car.

The accident involved a two-car collision which occurred March 9, 1963 on the outskirts of Richmond on Route 5. The weather was very stormy the day of the accident and visibility was poor.

The shock of the collision was so violent that all passengers in both cars were injured. In the Griffin car were Charles Van Sloane, John Kierstein and Merton Webb. In the second car besides the driver, Nicole d'Etchevery there were two passengers, Angèle Allison and Gilles Frechette. All are from Asbestos.

Merton Webb of 284 Deslandes Street, Asbestos, an employee of the Canadian Johns-Manville Company and the man taking the action is demanding the $40,317.89 for permanent partial incapacity he said resulted from the accident.

The Griffin car was proceeding along Route 5 in the direction of Danville from Richmond while Miss d'Etchevery was driving from Asbestos. The accident occurred near the driveway of Albert Smith of Richmond who will appear as a witness in the case.

A total of 28 jurors have been subpoenaed to appear in court the morning of the trial; from these 28, 12 will be chosen.

Warns against repeating errors in working out Quebec position

Whatever formula is adopted to establish institutions which are tailored expressly for Quebec and whatever name is given to such a formula, it must take into account "the reality of our decision not to make any more grievous mistakes," Maurice Labelle, provincial president of the Chamber of Commerce declared here yesterday.

He told a Chamber of Commerce week meeting of the Sherbrooke branch that Quebec is going to deal with its problems to put an end to the economic climate which, for many years, had put it in "the front ranks of unemployment."

"We have an indispensable task to complete; but we need the material means to do it, to answer the challenge posed by 130,000 unemployed."

"How are we to create the 400,000 new jobs needed in the next few years?" asked Labelle "if we are already saddled by the burden of 130,000 unemployed, 6.8 per cent of the working force."

Before delivering the evening's speech, Mr. Labelle was

Are sentenced to five, eight years for clerk assault

Judge Benoit Turmel yesterday imposed severe sentences on the two young men who were charged with assaulting Raoul Couture, clerk in a Wellington Street South tobacco store in Sherbrooke, last Monday with the intention of theft.

Prison sentences of eight and five years were imposed on the two men in Court of Sessions.

Leandre Paradis, 23, of Sherbrooke was sentenced to eight years in prison for his part in the incident in which the clerk Mr. Couture was hit over the head with a bottle.

Donald Champagne, 19, a native of Couceles, Quebec, was given the lesser sentence of five years in prison. He had no previous record.

Judge Turmel said he was giving them severe sentences to serve as a lesson to them and others who might think of trying the same thing.

Jean-Paul Gaudreau 45, of Sherbrooke is at it again.

He appeared on trial before Judge Benoit Turmel yesterday morning on a charge of passing false cheques. He was given his freedom April 9 for a similar offence.

He is accused of having passed two false cheques to two different people at the public market last Friday evening April 10 at about 5:30 p.m. Both cheques were made out for $69.38 and were issued under the name of Smith's Transport of Sherbrooke and signed by Gaudreau.

A witness for the transport company said that Gaudreau had at one time worked for the company but that was seven years ago.

Gaudreau, who asked as his own counsel was asked by Judge Turmel if the signatures on the two cheques in question were

GERARD COUILLARD

Decision expected in fall

No decision is expected until next fall on an action taken by a Coaticook resident to disqualify Alderman Gerard Couillard from office, court officials said yesterday.

The action has been taken by Rolland Tanquay.

Tanquay alleges that the post Mr. Couillard holds on city council is incompatible with certain financial transactions which he made with Coaticook during his tenure of office.

Mr. Couillard is head of the public works commission.

Mr. Couillard is president of Couillard Construction Limited, president of Couillard Automobiles Inc., and president of Couillard Cement Products Ltd., through which financial transactions were made for public works and repairs over a period of two and a half years from December 11, 1961 to March 1964, the action alleges.

Mr. Couillard is alleged to have obtained directly or indirectly contracts from the city for the companies to which he is attached and to have drawn profits or commissions.

MARCEL SAVARD

Financial statement Monday

The final tally on the operations of the City of Sherbrooke for 1963, the financial statement, will be presented to city council for approval Monday night, by the chairman of the general administration commission, Marcel Savard.

The contents of the report, which will reveal how the city's financial state compares with that predicted in last year's budget, are being closely guarded by its authors.

One figure however has already been disclosed. The cost for snow removal in the city in 1963 increased by $165,000.

Interviewed this morning Alderman Savard told the Record that "even with the increased snow removal costs it is hoped that the city's deficit will not be too high."

Dies at wheel, hits two cars

A Sherbrooke man died at the wheel of his car while driving in the vicinity of 684 Galt Street, West yesterday about 5 p.m. and his vehicle hit two parked cars.

Albert Vallee, 72, of 615 Victoria Street, Sherbrooke died of a heart attack, said Capt. Armand Genest of the Sherbrooke police.

An unidentified man was sitting in one of the parked cars but he was not injured. Damage to the cars was light, said Capt. Genest.

Two stations put out fire in West Ward

A fire in a third-floor apartment at 1095 Perry Street, Sherbrooke, was put out by firemen from station No. 5 and station No. 1 yesterday afternoon.

A spokesman from station No. 6 said today that the fire started under a stove in the kitchen of apartment six, rented by Roger Choinard. Damage was done to the interior of the apartment by fire and water.

The building belongs to Georges Drouin, the spokesman said.

The fire department was called to the scene at 4:30 p.m. and returned at 6:55. There were 13 firemen and five trucks on the scene—two trucks from station No. 5 and three from station No. 1 Lt. Leo Bonneau from station No. 5 and Lt. Gerard Belisle from station No. 1 directed fire operations.

To promote ET industry

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec department of Industry and Commerce Wednesday announced the appointment of Serbert R. Derick to the post of regional delegate for the Eastern Townships.

Mr. Derick will have his office in Sherbrooke.

From 1960-64 Mr. Derick served as joint director of the department of industrial initiative for the Southern Canada Power Company.

Urges association with different peoples; wins Marymount High public speaking test

A grade 11 Marymount High School girl who believes the value of making friends of different nationalities and religions is unmeasurable was chosen winner of the Marymount Alumnae Association's public speaking contest held last night at the Buck Street School.

Patricia Beasse, who spoke on Friends, received a $25 cash prize from the Association for placing first among four contestants. Second place winner was Sharon Daniels who spoke on Ours is a World of Science. Jo-Anne Monty placed third with a talk on Multi-Racial Adoptions and Christine Lemaire was fourth with the subject Advances from Yesterday.

Last night's final speeches marked the end of a competition that began for all grade eleven students with the writing of essays. The essays were read out to the class by the teachers, with the names of the writers remaining anonymous. Eight essays were chosen and they were later read out by the essay writers. Four were chosen from these eight and entered the finals last night.

Said winner, Miss Beasse, "there is no better way of broadening our views than by associating with people of different cultures. The ways of these people may seem strange to us but as we become acquainted with them, we come to understand, admire and appreciate their contributions to a group."

Science is a new high school status symbol, says Sharon Daniels.

what is going on outside in the universe and the new glamour that is attached to science is inescapable, she said.

"Being good in calculus is as important to classmates now as excelling in sports," she said.

New interest, she said, comes from space flights, top scientific discoveries, encouragement by educators and interest by such service clubs as Kiwanis and Rotary who sponsor science fairs.

Third place contestant Jo-Anne Monty called for a much more positive attitude and approach to multi-racial adoption.

Readjustment to modern-world appliances was just too much for Christine Lemaire's grandfather as she related her grandfather's impressions of just what is wrong with the world today.

Miss Lemaire placed fourth in the competition. According to Christine her grandfather has moved to the country after run-ins with photoelectric eye door; plastic and aluminum folding lawn chairs, and drafty air conditioners.

This year's grads were presented with Alumnae pins last night. There are 18 graduates. The Glee Club, under the direction of Lois Ogilvie-Blanchette and accompanied by selections following the speech-Christina Connors gave several es.

Richmond council

Obtain $15,000 Quebec grant to widen entrance on Route 5

RICHMOND — (Special) — After several months of talks with CNR authorities, the Town Council of Richmond is now able to go ahead with plans for widening of the section of road on Route 5 at the town's entrance from Windsor.

It was announced at an adjourned meeting of the council this week that a grant of $15,000, has been obtained from the provincial government.

A commission had been formed by the council several months ago to study the possibility of meeting with the CNR authorities regarding clearance of brush and telegraph poles between St. Ann's Cemetery and the MacKenzie Bridge. Town engineers who studied this plan had estimated the cost of such a project at $20,450.

An amount of $2,000 will be used to remove the telegraph poles along this section and another amount for purchase of property owned by the CNR. Council had approved at an earlier meeting the purchase of this land.

Alderman Lafrance had listed other projects after having met with engineers in regards to roads and approaches to the new bridge which is to be built here shortly. These included the following:

Widening of the section of road from Adam and Gouin Streets to the Fair Grounds. Opening of Fair Street from Main Street to link directly with the new road.

Erection of tunnels giving access to the new municipal park and construction of a road to the park for motor use.

Installation of culverts for water drainage along the boulevard.

Traffic signs to indicate location of the town at entrance to approaches.

January sales taxes brought in an amount of $6,296.50. Tenders were also heard regarding a new car for the police department. These were as follows: Desaulniers Auto $2,000; Taylor, BP, $2,200; Pickens, Fina, $1,700; Ford, Fouquette, $2,330.30; Dyson & Armstrong, $1,924.35. The list here is for the following types of car with allowance already given on the present auto, Pontiac, Rambler, Dodge, Ford, Chevrolet.

Council has not as yet made the decision on these bids but the committee is studying all of them.

A letter received by council from the local Corps of Marjorettes was referred to the Board of Recreation, Inc. for study. The Corps is to resume summer activities shortly.

The St. Patrick's Council, CWL, had written to the council referring to the heavy traffic on Adam Street and Gouin near Notre Dame School. The CWL has asked for more adequate police protection for school children along this section especially at noon time when many cars use Adam Street to go and from work at nearby factories.

This was taken into consideration, and necessary measures will be taken.

A grant of $397.50 was received from the Provincial Government for the maintenance of winter roads.

The local Coliseum was readied to the Parish of Bonaparte for a year from May 1, 1964 to May 1, 1965 on motion of Alderman Lafrance seconded by Evangeliste Richard. Same conditions as last year prevail.

Four building permits were approved for the following: Romeo Marcotte; Claude Bedard; Laurier Vachon and George Morin.

Alderman Richard noted that street lights in Wards 1 and 2 needed change as there was not adequate lighting. Council approved changing the 100 watt lamps to 200 watts.

Governments spend $70,000 on Brome ARDA studies

By TED BEAUDOIN
(Record Staff Reporter)

KNOWLTON — Almost $70,000 of Federal and Provincial aid under the ARDA (Agricultural and Rural Development Act) has been invested into a series of studies in Brome County.

In a preview release of his year-end address, Rudy Dalenbach, resigning president of the Brome County Rural Development Organization, foster of the Brome ARDA project, told The Record that the past year was devoted to studies, and "now we'll begin to apply various solutions to problems that have cropped up, and always existed."

Mr. Dalenbach, who began the ARDA movement about four years ago, said he resigned because of pressing business matters. His resignation becomes effective tonight when the BCRDO holds its second annual meeting in the Knowlton High School at eight o'clock.

Studies undertaken last year at this time, Mr. Dalenbach said, are all completed. They consist of soil surveys; tourist socio-economic studies; land use investigations; road condition surveys; a request for a housing study (turned down), and zoning studies.

General results of the surveys, he said, were that soil studies indicated, "as we expected," marginal areas with limited possibilities for agriculture.

"In order to allow a farmer to survive, we must find another alternative to farming. This survey is simply an inventory, and no conclusions have been drawn yet. Soon, agricultural experts and local residents will get together to work our solutions."

As far as the tourist industry is concerned, Mr. Dalenbach noted that tourism was on the increase within the county. Qualifying the category of tourists, he said only part-time residents, and not transients were taken into the study picture.

"More and more farms were found abandoned," he added, and said this came under the land-use survey. "Most farms lack adequate pastures. They need much more, and it is being

Public is responding to Recreation Inc.

COWANSVILLE — (Staff) — Public response to the Cowansville Recreation Inc., has been regularly increasing with every article printed in The Record, said Les Jordan, publicity chairman for the recreation group.

"Since we asked the Record to print weekly items concerning the Cowansville Recreation Inc., I've been stopped on the street to give information, received many letters, and about 50 telephone calls a week from interested persons."

Mr. Jordan said he is preparing a series of statements to answer the numerous questions posed to him by interested persons: Why such a large budget for a small town; why the Canadian Legion had the right to sponsor a Pony League baseball team when other parties were on the verge of sponsoring one and weren't contacted, and other similar questions.

"Not all the questions are of an information wanting nature. Some people object to the work that the group is doing," he said.

The sports and recreation group recently wrote four cheques to the tune of $986.86, to cover hockey and baseball deficits during the last year.

They went to: junior hockey, $220; Intermediate hockey, $246.86; fastball, $250 (part payment) and the softball league received $250 (part payment).

The answers to posed questions will be printed in Tuesday's paper.

Waterloo grade 11 student places first in Kiwanis' public speaking contest

WATERLOO — (Special) — The Waterloo Kiwanis Club held a public speaking contest for students of Waterloo High School on Tuesday evening, April 14. This is the third year Kiwanis had sponsored the event — the interest and popularity was proved by the large gathering at the Warden Hotel where dinner was served.

Roger McKergow was master of ceremonies for the occasion. At the head table were seated President and Mrs. Gene Sheppard, Mr. and Mrs. Roger McKergow, the contestants, June McLellan, Janet Marsh, Fred Sheppard and John Hackwell. The judges were the Reverend Van Petegem of Knowlton, the Reverend Keith Dickerson, Waterloo, and Robert Millinchamp, Sutton.

Janet Marsh of grade 11 was judged the winner of the contest. Her talk was entitled "Is parental authority a necessity or evil?" She stated she considered it necessary for parents to have authority and discipline, to consider the opinions of their children but to control their activities while they are at home. Her advice to parents as from a teen-ager was quite explicit.

John Hackwell of grade 9 gave an amusing but well-informed talk on "The Story of Tea."

Sutton Town Hall being renovated

SUTTON — (Special) — Renovations and alterations are greatly improving the appearance of the town hall. When the work of construction and redecorating is complete, Sutton will have one of the finest and most modern town office complexes of any population centre of this size in the E.T.

With a new office for the mayor, and with ample space for the offices of the secretary-treasurer and her assistant, the whole layout is very attractive as well as convenient. The new stairway has been built at one side of the building on the outside, too, and other remodeling is being done. Really up-to-date and a town hall we can take pride in, are comments frequently expressed by Sutton residents.

Friends shower bride-to-be at Mansonville hall

MANSONVILLE — The town hall was the scene of a bridal shower on April 10, given by friends and relatives, in honor of Miss Margery Cote.

Miss Rosaleen Morse met the guest of honor at the door and before conducting her to a seat, presented her with a corsage of red and white roses.

Miss Cote was assisted in opening the many gifts by her grandmother, Mrs. Hazel Jones; her mother, Mrs. Levi Cote, by Mrs. Derby, Mrs. George Newman and Mrs. R. Dudley, the last three ladies, from Sutton Junction.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Erma Perkins and Mrs. Fred Morse, assisted by a number of cousins and teen age friends of the bride elect.

The table was centered with a three tier cake, made by Mrs. Cote, of North Troy, Vt., which was trimmed with red roses and topped with a tiny umbrella. The cake was made by Mrs. Arnie Cote of North Troy, Vt.

Guests were from North Troy, Jay, Vt., Sutton Junction and Montrea.

Rash of grass fires plagues Sutton dept.

SUTTON — (Special) — The fire brigade here is being plagued by a rash of spring grass fire. Again, as in past years, firemen are frequently summoned to extinguish grass fires set by district residents.

On Monday, the same day that flames destroyed the Pizak barn at Mount Echo after burning over a 10-acre area of the farm, the brigade had to turn out again late in the afternoon to put out a grass fire near some buildings on a town street.

Then, for the third time this week, the siren shrilled its summons shortly after 11 p.m. on Wednesday. This time the grass fire was beside the C. P. R. track at a point where it runs through a farm behind Mountain Street.

"At night," reported Fire Chief Sheldon Davis, "that fire looked bigger than it actually was. It didn't endanger any buildings. But, if people persist in setting fires to burn over lawns or to get rid of rubbish at this time, we could easily have to cope with worse blazes than that bad one at the Pizak place. Just now, grass fires are liable to spread fast."

RAINRESS APPEARS

Balenciaga stressed cavalry twill, gabardine and cotton poplin in a series of rainsuits comprising a flared skirt, long jacket, and matching sou'wester hat.

The "rainress" also made its first appearance in many collections. Usually cut on sober lines, it was featured in brightly colored, lightweight wool gabardine. Rain ponchos looked newer than the classic raincoat when made in a dressier fabric like printed taffeta.

Fabric contrasts were dominant. Nina Ricci put a sports jacket in chevron or herringbone woolen fabric with a dark grey or solid toned flannel skirt.

The effect, combined with white shirtwaists and a dark red carnation clipped to one rever, is neat and jaunty. Castillo featured suits in two tones of the same shade. The skirt is one tone darker than the accompanying jacket.

Polly's pointers

by Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY—On a sheet of paper titled "Valuable Information" I have listed the banks and account numbers where we have checking and savings accounts, safety deposit box numbers, titles, insurance policies, real estate information, social security numbers and all addresses of people to be notified should my husband and I both be seriously injured or die.

Also included is the name of our doctor, hospital, mortuary, cemetery, minister, employer and relatives who would be interested. This sheet of paper is kept in a plastic envelope in a desk drawer. Close friends and relatives know where to find it.

The second Pointer was a real helper to my husband while I was too ill to take care of the bills as I usually do. In an account book I have listed all the months with plenty of space between each of them. Under each heading is a list of all bills that come due that month, that is, the ones due quarterly, semi-annually or annually. Then there is another list of the regular monthly bills and payments. Nothing is forgotten.

When the bills begin to arrive, they are placed within the pages of this book. I also wrote out instructions should a stranger have to take over this duty.—R. H. M.

GIRLS—How I envy anyone as systematic as R. H. M. Even though such duties, as those in her first hint, are not too pleasant, we should all think ahead and make it as easy as possible for those who might have to take over for us.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—When the charcoal in our barbecue is slow in starting to burn, my husband connects my hair dryer, turns the control to cold and directs the stream of cold air at the charcoal. It acts like a bellows and in no time we have a beautiful bed of coals.—M. S.

DEAR POLLY—To anchor a blouse that rides up, cut twill tape the length of your waist measurement plus one inch. Stitch the center of the tape to the center back of the blouse at the waist line. Stitch a hook and eye to the ends of the tape. When you dress, fasten the tape around your waist and your blouse will stay put.—MRS. J. E. M.

GIRLS—Tape could be put on the inside of the blouse, like many readymade dresses have it, and then you know it will never show.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY J.—Cover girl, no. Attractive, yes. After all, how much longer does it take to slip into a fresh dress than into a rumpled one? Get yourself some colorful, young-looking, no-iron shirts for daytime. They suds out in a jiffy and look like new again for the next wearing. They come in crisp prints and stripes and many have long apron skirts that can be worn over them for evening, transforming them into attractive hostess gowns.

It's a mistake to think you're too busy to look pretty. Five minutes with a comb and lipstick and bright, inexpensive, easy-care, at-home clothes will bring compliments instead of complaints from your husband. And your new look won't take any longer to achieve than your former careless one.

Questions readers ask

Q—Can you explain why I have to pay so much for breakfast cereals today? The price has gone up faster than for other foods I buy for my family.

A—The Bureau of Labor Statistics states that the prices of ready-to-eat and ready-to-cook breakfast cereals have increased in the 15 years to a record high. Here's the explanation. "In highly processed products, such as corn flakes and rolled oats, the cost of the basic material, corn and oats, represents only a small part of the final price. Such processing costs as transportation, labor, utilities, and rent represent a large part of the final price. Even if the price of corn and oats should rise steeply, the price of corn flakes and rolled oats would not change as much. From 1949 to date, the price of corn and oats has been relatively stable compared with processing costs which have risen fairly steeply. This causes the price of corn flakes and rolled oats to rise more than the average for all foods.

"Another factor contributing to the rise in breakfast cereal prices is the increase in the variety of products. Retail stores have increasingly carried smaller inventories of each variety. This in turn has required faster and more frequent delivery service to keep store shelves stocked."

Big department stores and textile manufacturers are choosing names like Glorious Tokyo, Fresh Tokyo, and Dynamic Tokyo for their models. Model girls at one recent fashion show here introduced new sports dresses with a demonstration of the twist. But there was flattering femininity, a reflection of the Paris spring collections, too.

Fabrics used ranged from traditional Japanese silk and improved synthetic textiles in flower, stripe and checkerboard patterns to featherweight wools and organzas.

Nami Nakabayashi, a leading Japanese designer, introduced a "tunic" cocktail dress made of hand-painted habutae silk in lightly marked waists, and "sumie" (black and white painting) style. The tunic skirts.

turned cleverly into a panel at the back.

She named the 35 designs of her spring and summer collection after world famous painters, like van Gogh, Matisse and Goya, who had apparently inspired them.

She used almost all the colors used by the artists, ranging from white, lavender, pale blue and chartreuse green to shocking pink and black. And, apparently influenced by a great white wave in Paris this year, she also used white lavishly.

Other Japanese designers took advantage of current rather fluid trends and showed, for instance, both short and long jackets, fitted and only of hand-painted habutae silk in straight, tiered or panelled skirts.

While necklines were in most cases cut wide and low, collars were deeply set, wide-notched or stand-up.

Pockets were often major features of suits and daytime dresses.

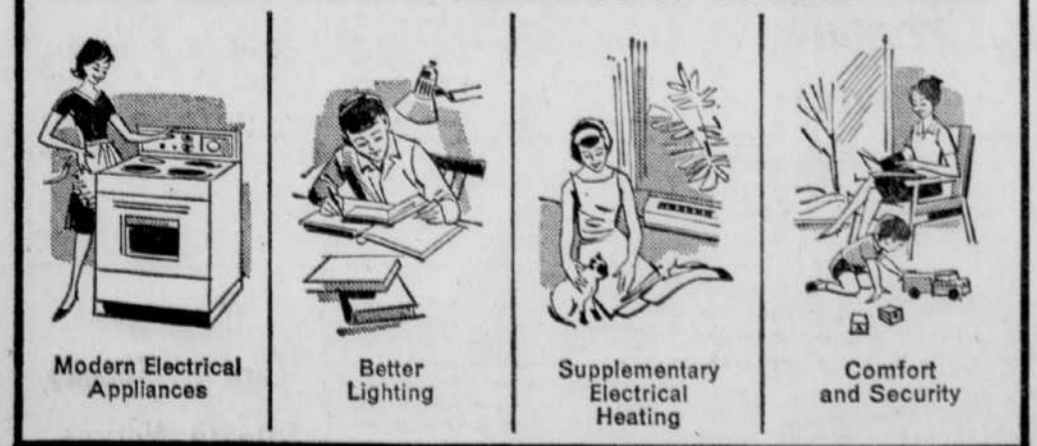

Knee-length hemlines were common. Hats had mostly wide brims.

UN quits the Congo feelings are mixed

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The approaching withdrawal of the United Nations military force from the Congo is viewed here with both relief and misgivings.

The world organization is getting rid of a costly and often controversial mission that has come close to wrecking the UN financially. But many UN diplomats express doubts about the ability of the shaky former Belgian territory to maintain order without outside military forces.

These doubts are increasing as preparations are begun toward liquidation of the massive four-year UN operation, scheduled for completion by June 30.

By the end of June the remaining 4,200 UN troops will leave the Congo. The United Nations will continue to be represented by 1,150 civilian advisers and 400 Nigerian police.

During the peak year of 1961 the UN military force totalled 21,000. The cost that year exceeded $100,000,000. Altogether the United Nations has spent more than $300,000,000 in the Congo since its first intervention in July, 1960.

TRIBES MAY REVOLT

To many of those connected with the operation, results have been disappointing. Many of the Congo's own troops still place tribal loyalty above national loyalty. The government faces armed tribal opposition in several provinces, and possible outside interference.

There also is concern over a possible emergence of the defeated forces of Moïse Tshombe, ousted president of Katanga province, for a new effort against the Leopoldville government.

UN Secretary-General U Thant recently asked Portugal about reports that some of Tshombe's former gendarmes and mercenaries were training in Portuguese Angola, near the Congo border. Portugal denied this.

Some diplomats fear that the government of Premier Cyrille Adoula will be in trouble the minute UN forces pull out. Adoula already has plenty of political problems without any armed revolt from the inside or attack from the outside. His political backing never has been solid.

STRAINED ATMOSPHERE

One cause for regret at UN headquarters is that the UN military operation is coming to an end in a somewhat strained atmosphere. Adoula and the UN officer-in-charge, Max H. Dorsinville of Haiti, have not been on speaking terms in recent weeks. This apparently is due partly to a clash of personalities and partly to UN policies which Adoula dislikes.

Dorsinville's one remaining job is to supervise withdrawal of UN forces.

The UN civilian operations will continue in the hands of Bibiano F. Osorio-Tafall of Mexico. He will be the top UN man in the Congo after June 30.

The UN will retain a small fleet of helicopters and light planes suitable for rescue work. Earlier this year, UN helicopters under the command of Brig. Jimmy Dextraze of Montreal rescued more than 100 missionaries from strife-torn Kwilu province.

Osorio-Tafall said he was convinced that the Congolese Army is capable of keeping order.

This is Ford of Canada's new Mustang. The low, sleek automobile is designed as a family sports car, with bucket seats in front, room for two adults in the back and ample trunk space. Two body styles are offered: a hardtop coupe and a convertible. Four engines, ranging in power from a 101 h.p. six, 164 h.p. V-8, 210 h.p. V-8 to a 271 h.p. V-8 will be available, with 3-speed manual, 4-speed manual and automatic transmissions. Sports car drivers will be able to order a "special handling package" for maximum roadability. Luxury options include power assists, vinyl-covered roof, tinted glass, console and air conditioning.

News flashes from around the world

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Police arrested a young mother on murder charges Thursday as she arranged funeral services for two small sons found strangled in the bathroom of their home.

Mrs. Mary Lou Wheeler, 27, who said she was divorced three years ago, was taken into custody at a funeral parlor.

Steven Wheeler, 10, and Frank Wheeler, 8, were found dead late Wednesday after Mrs. Wheeler called police.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A dozen white men try anew today to decide the fate of Byron De La Beckwith, the segregationist accused of murdering Mississippi Negro leader Medgar Evers.

A previous jury, faced with the same decision, was unable to reach a verdict and was discharged—leading a new trial.

If convicted, Beckwith would get either death or life imprisonment, to be determined by the jury.

The jury deliberated for seven hours Thursday.

SALISBURY—About 100 African women were arrested here today after they marched on the British high commission building protesting the detention of Southern Rhodesian Negro leaders.

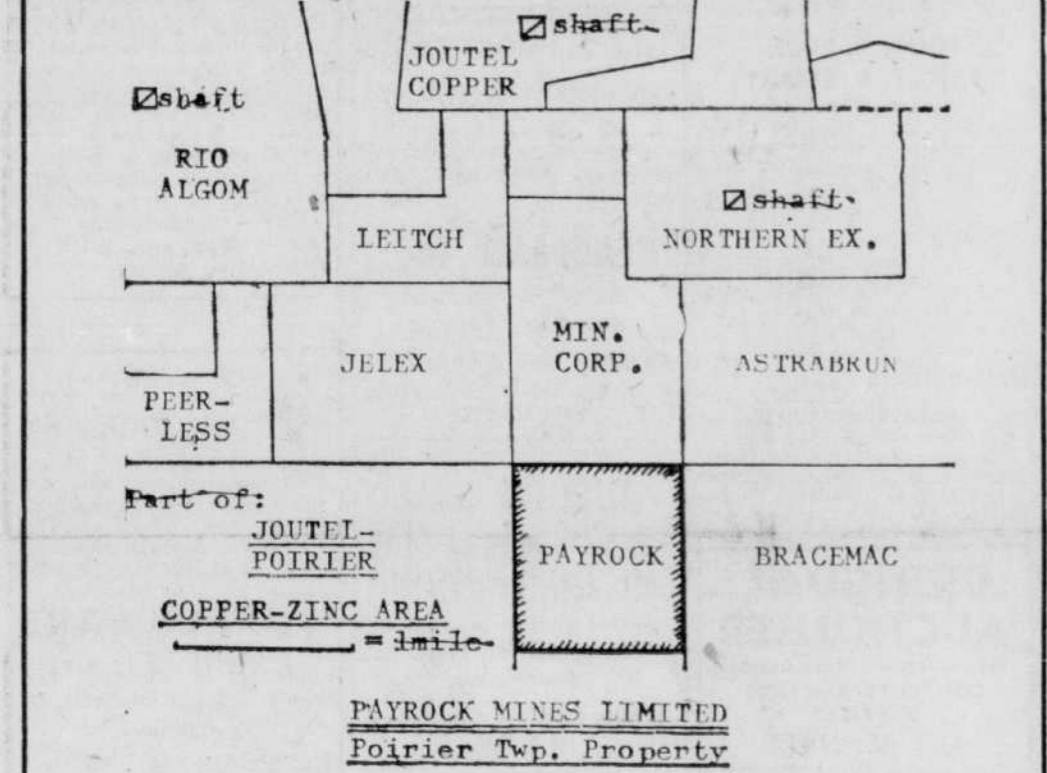

More than 300 women joined the march through the centre of Salisbury to protest against the detention of Negro nationalist leader Joshua Nkomo and three of his lieutenants.

The women chanted national songs as they waited outside the commission building to see High Commissioner John B. Johnston.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Graduate doctors from certain foreign medical schools have been permitted to practise in sections of British Columbia without first writing Canadian Medical Council examinations.

In announcing the move Thursday, the B.C. College of Physicians and Surgeons said it was an emergency measure to provide more physicians for areas without sufficient doctors.

The measure applied particularly to northern and central B.C., said Dr. Lynn Gunn, registrar of the college. It was especially difficult to get doctors for areas with large Indian populations and a high ratio of social assistance cases.

Children must be fed if parents won't work

SPANISH, Ont. (CP)—Russell Thompson, a provincial welfare department official, said Thursday the department has a responsibility to feed the children of members of the union of electors, who refuse to pay taxes but live on relief.

He said ratepayers in this community, 70 miles west of Sudbury, have complained about the actions of the French-Canadian group, commonly known as the White Tams because of the white berets they wear.

There are no member families receiving relief who are not entitled to it, although some have turned down employment opportunities, Mr. Thompson, the Algoma district regional supervisor for the welfare department, said in an interview.

They are treated the same as anyone else, he added. A welfare worker goes into the home and investigates the need and the circumstances.

"It doesn't matter if they wear white, black or blue hats. Relief is granted only on merit," he said.

MUST FEED CHILDREN

"We have got to feed their children whether the people like it or not. There are no employment opportunities for them in Spanish and until there are they will stay on relief."

Wings' last minute rally pays off, edge Leafs 4-3

Redlegs Vada Pinson is running this year, lashes out three singles to down Dodgers, Giants blanked 2-0

Cincinnati's fleet-footed Vada Pinson, who got into trouble last year for failing to speed, may have solved his problem. Criticized last year for not capitalizing on his speed by overbuilding for base hits, Pinson has stepped off to an unusually quick April start without laying one down. Instead, he's been laying them up the middle for base hits.

Pinson lashed three singles Thursday night and along with rookie Chico Ruiz, who collected a single, double and triple, provided enough firepower for the Reds to hand the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers their second loss in three games, 5-2.

Pinson, who has been a National League batting title contender since he became a Cincinnati regular in 1959, has amassed 985 hits over that stretch—more than Stan Musial, 975, Willie Mays, 954, and Hank Aaron, 914, in their first five years.

Yet he always has been beset by the bunt-more-often critics. He was so incensed by one writer last season that the tangled in the Reds' dressing room and ultimately finished up in a on-decision court battle with the matter dropped.

Whether to bunt or not still is up to Pinson, but he may be able to solve some of his problems with a solid start. He's 4-for-8 now, quite an improvement over last season when he managed only 10 hits in 60 April at-bats and still finished with a .313 average.

While Pinson was collecting three hits, Curt Simmons allowed only three to the hard-hitting San Francisco Giants, starting off his 17th season by pitching St. Louis Cardinals to a 2-0 shutout. In the only other game scheduled, Milwaukee Braves edged Houston Colts 6-5 with Hank Aaron and Felipe Alou their second loss in three games, 5-2.

The Reds' Ruiz-Pinson combine was too much for the Dodgers. Ruiz doubled in the first and scored on a single by Pinson, then tripled on another single by Pinson. In the fifth, Ruiz and Pinson both singled with Derrin Johnson's sacrifice fly accounting for the run batted in.

That was more than enough for Jim O'Toole and Joe Nuxhall, who checked the Dodgers on eight hits. O'Toole fired the first 14 batters he faced but finally needed Nuxhall's relief help in the ninth. The loser was Bob Miller.

WHAT GOES — Looks like a game of crap but it's only jubilant Detroit players mobbing Alex Delvecchio as he was knocked to the ice after scoring the winning goal against the Toronto Maple Leafs with 17 seconds to go in last night's game at Detroit. Red Wings won 4-3. Toronto players goalie Johnny Bower and Andy Bathgate watch antics of Detroit players. (AP Wirephoto).

Dressing Room Comments

DETROIT (CP)—"I'm finding out I've a real comeback club," said a smiling Sid Abel, general-manager-coach, in the steamy Detroit Red Wing dressing room as his club celebrated its victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs.

"When you win one in overtime and then another in the last minute, you know you have a team that just doesn't believe in quitting. . . . Oh yes, I was overjoyed when we were ahead 3-0 but after the middle of the second frame we got tired and they came on."

"Sure, the series can go seven and I think we can win that cup."

Alex Delvecchio, who sank the winner with 17 seconds left, was busy answering a barrage of questions.

"I couldn't help but sink that one."

"Gordie Howe and Andre Pronovost worked it over to me and Bower was on the other side of the cage. It was a big goal, especially as I was on the ice when McKenney tied it up. I just had to get it back."

Floyd Smith, who had never before hit for two goals in the Stanley Cup playoffs, said, "I'm tired. You sure work with this club and it's all worth it. Now let's end it in five."

Terry Sawchuk: "They're all tough, both the games and the shots, but playoff hockey goes weird. Here we are three up and what happens? We have to battle to win. Let's try to end it in five."

Toronto coach Punch Imlach left the dressing room minutes after his team came in and Harold Ballard, the Leafs' executive vice-president, became the spokesman.

"We were down the same in the Montreal series and came back. Any team that comes back from 3-0 and tie must have something. I know we got the horses."

Carl Brewer, playing his first game of the final series, said, "Ribs didn't bother me and we'll come back."

Tim Horton: "It's tough to lose like that but that's hockey. You can never tell."

Red Kelly: "We made our big effort to come back but they just had to get one more."

Neither team reported injuries outside of a few bruises.

Alex Delvecchio pots winner with 17 seconds left in tilt, Howe is main cog in set-up, meet tomorrow

DETROIT (CP) — It's little wonder Gordie Howe is nervous. The super-star right winger and the rest of the Detroit Red Wings have been leaving everything to the last-minute lately.

Thursday night Howe's linemate Alex Delvecchio scored at 19:43 of the third period against Toronto Maple Leafs to give the Wings a 4-3 win in the third game of the Stanley Cup finals.

In the final minute of the second game in Toronto goalie Terry Sawchuk was beaten and the Wings had to win in overtime. In the first game Toronto's Bob Pulford beat Sawchuk with only two seconds remaining to hand the Wings their only loss of the series.

"Nerves, Nerves," said Howe Thursday as he mopped his beaded brow in the Olympia dressing room. "The pressure in these playoff games keeps building and building and I don't know how long I can take it."

His eyes were almost shut, he was blinking so rapidly.

WINGS WERE TIRING

"I'm glad this one didn't go into overtime. I just don't know whether any of us would have had any gas left. Maybe some of the young fellows could have lasted but I'm glad this one is over."

Delvecchio gave a large share of the credit to Howe for setting up the game-winning goal after the Leafs had crawled back from a 3-0 deficit to tie the score only 56 seconds earlier.

"I didn't belong to this club if I couldn't sink that one," said captain Delvecchio. "Gordie and Andre (Pronovost) worked it over to me and Johnny Howe was on the other side of the cage."

The relentless Wings, who have been giving the older and more experienced Leafs a skating lesson throughout the series, simply refused to wilt after the tying goal by Don McKenney at 18:47.

They dumped the puck into the Toronto zone and held it there in the final minute. Manager-coach Punch Imlach of Toronto said later the game was lost because his defenders demonstrated no prowess in clearing the puck from their own end.

The Wings streaked into action in the first period as if each player had motorized skates.

The two rearranged units — Bathgate between Frank Mahovlich and Ron Stewart, and Bob Pulford between Red Kelly and Gerry Elman — did not seem to be able to readjust quickly enough, and the irrepressible Wings forced their backs to the wall for most of the first two periods.

Imlach left the Olympia quickly after he was jostled by a dozen or so over-enthusiastic Detroit fans. He said the team played well after the shaky start and added: "We have to win three now, and don't bet we can't do it."

LEAFS TO PRACTICE

He announced the team will practice again today while the Wings relax at Toledo Ohio.

Centre Norm Ullman, who was given special attention by the Toronto defenders, managed another point Thursday night—an assist on Smith's second goal—and moved his total points to 16, just five short of the record held by Chicago's Stan Mikita.

Smith says his second goal was really Ullman's, and apparently the official scorer thought so for some time because Ullman was given credit at one point.

"Norm had a clear shot," said Smith, "and I think the puck would have gone in anyway. It ticked off my stick but didn't really change direction."

The fourth game in the series is here Saturday and the fifth in Toronto Tuesday. The sixth, if needed, will be played here next Thursday.

Molson's and Marmite to meet in finals of City Small Pin Bowling League, Germain Lapointe high man

Molson's Brewery and Marmite Restaurant rolled their way into the finals of the City Small Pin Bowling League when they eliminated Dow and Bryan Cohen squads in the semi-finals.

The finals will open Monday, April 20, at the Bowlorium at 7:15 p.m. with the second game booked for the following Monday, April 27. Each game will consist of five strings and the team emerging with the largest pin-fall will be declared the winner.

Dow got the jump on Molson's in their first string with 2,400 compared to 2,293 but in the second string Molson's bounced back to take the two-string total pin battle 4,678 to 4,318 to win the berth by 360 pins.

In the other match Marmite rolled 2,428 for their opener while the Cohen squad posted 2,063 to fall behind and couldn't manage to close the gap. The winners pulled out with a total of 4,516 compared to 4,348 to lose out by 168 pins.

Rene Provencher rolled the top for Dow with 981 and was followed by Lionel Rheume with 937. The former had a 500 but his mate posted 506 for the high three string total. For Molson's Germain Lapointe was tops with 1,005 for his six string while Henri Fortier was next with 983.

Normand Ainslie was tops for Marmite with a total of 972 while Jacques Joncas was next with 960 for their six strings. For Cohen Paul Rheume was the best with 910 while Gerard Goudreau was next with 902 for the losers.

Sixty cars taking part in fourth annual cross-Canada Auto Rally, leave Vancouver tomorrow morning

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sixty cars leave here Saturday in the fourth annual cross-Canada auto rally with organizers praying for rain or snow or some other ingredients of "good" weather that will make poor roads even worse.

Already, organizers say, indications are that the 120 drivers and co-drivers from Europe and North America will meet "interesting" conditions on the predominantly secondary and back-country roads they will use in the six days between here and Montreal.

The rallyists will spend a gruelling 19½ hours on rugged mountain roads to Calgary on the first leg. Then, it is hoped, they will slip and slither on Prairie gumbo—such as most have never experienced—before entering Ontario.

With the outcome of a rally dependent on the navigational and driving skill and endurance of the participants and the reliability of cars, the worse the driving conditions the better the test.

The winner of a rally is the one who arrives at the end with the least number of penalty points which are given for a wide variety of sins.

The rally was "cursed" with good weather last year and as a result the over-all winners, Dick Doyen and Clay Gibbs of Wauwatosa, Wis., had only two penalty points.

New regulations have been added to make the rally tougher this year.

In five closed sections along the route drivers will be told to go as fast as they safely can. The fastest in each class will receive no penalty points and the slower cars will be penalized proportionately.

There will be a greater test this year on the reliability of cars, with the motor head and sump, transmission and drive axle assembly sealed. Penalty points will be levied if the seals are broken.

Participants will be permitted only 15 minutes to work on their car at the end of each day compared to an hour last year.

The speed tests, general toughening of conditions, and a $4,000 increase in prize money to $10,000, have attracted top-flight drivers from seven European countries, 14 states and seven provinces.

More than half the entries are private and the rest are manufacturers' teams and sponsored teams.

Giants of the rally world include Bo Ljungfeldt, Swedish national champion, second overall in the famed Monte Carlo rally this year, who will be driving a Ford Falcon; Olivier Gendebien, winner of the Sebring, Le Mans and Targa Florio, who is a member of the Volvo Canadian team and John Bird of Toronto, reigning Canadian rally champion.

He announced the team will practice again today while the Wings relax at Toledo Ohio.

Centre Norm Ullman, who was given special attention by the Toronto defenders, managed another point Thursday night—an assist on Smith's second goal—and moved his total points to 16, just five short of the record held by Chicago's Stan Mikita.

Smith says his second goal was really Ullman's, and apparently the official scorer thought so for some time because Ullman was given credit at one point.

"Norm had a clear shot," said Smith, "and I think the puck would have gone in anyway. It ticked off my stick but didn't really change direction."

The fourth game in the series is here Saturday and the fifth in Toronto Tuesday. The sixth, if needed, will be played here next Thursday.

Bob Rosburg leading pack in Houston Open

HOUSTON (AP) — Bob Rosburg said two years ago he never would play in Houston again but he started the second round of the $50,000 Houston Golf Classic today with a one-stroke lead.

After posing a four-under-par 67 first round, Rosburg, with a sheepish grin, said he was a bit mad at Houston two years ago when the crowd applauded after he missed a short putt and then booed as he walked off the 18th green.

"It had got into the newspapers that I had criticized the condition of the Memorial Park course," Rosburg said. "When they booed me off that green I swore I'd never return."

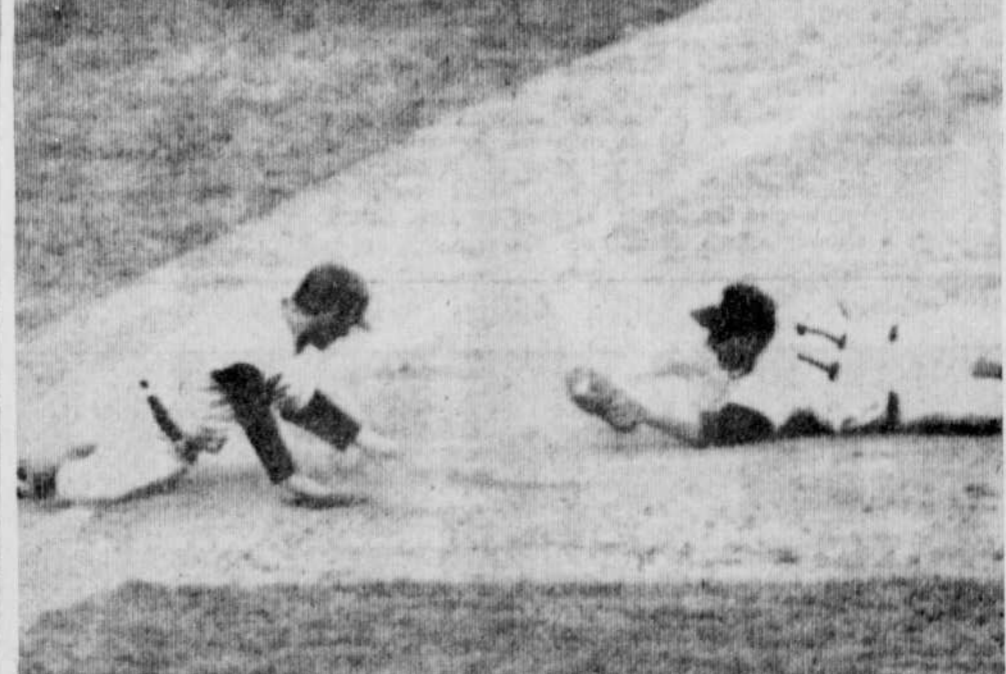

Rosburg did not play here last year and the classic moved this year from Memorial's municipal layout to the 7,233-yard, par 35-36-71 Sharpstown Country Club course.

Rosburg finished one stroke ahead of Ramon Sota, a young newcomer from Spain, and veterans Billy Maxwell and Jimmy Clark.

Jack Nicklaus, a 3-to-1 favorite, took a 76 while playing the first 18 without benefit of a practice round.

Grouped at 69 were Lionel Herbert, Rex Baxter Jr., Doug Ford, Ken Ventury, and Don Cherry. Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg was one of 12 golfers shooting 70.

Bob Charles, defending champion from New Zealand, had a par 71.

Red Sox upset Yanks 4-3 in 11-inning duel

Tony Oliva, who reached the United States on his brother's name, appears ready to go far in the American League on his own.

The rookie outfielder is setting the early batting pace for Minnesota Twins with five hits in 10 times at bat in two games.

He clouted a single, a double and a triple and knocked in two runs Thursday night as the Twins whipped Washington Senators 6-2 for their second straight victory.

Oliva's real first name is Pedro but he has been known as Tony ever since he used his brother's passport to get into the United States from Cuba.

In batting .500 in two games, the left-handed Oliva merely is following the routine he set in two previous appearances with Minnesota. He batted nine times in 1962 and seven times last season, compiling a .438 average.

Besides Oliva, 22, Bob Tillman and John Orsino starred at bat in the American League Thursday. Tillman pounded out four hits, sparking Boston Red Sox to an 11-inning 4-3 victory over New York Yankees, while Orsino slugged a two-run homer that carried Baltimore Orioles past Chicago White Sox 4-3.

Oliva got the Twins off to a 1-0 lead in the first inning, doubling, home, Rich Rollins, who also doubled. The Twins broke it game open with three runs in the sixth on Zoilo Versalles' twisting pop fly triple with the bases loaded.

Don Lock homered in the second and Ker Hunt hit one in the ninth for the Senators' scoring. Tillman, a catching disappointment for the Red Sox last year, socked three singles against the Yankees before he tripled in the 11th. Whitey Ford, who pitched the whole game, then uncorked a wild pitch, allowing Tillman to score the winning run.

The defeat spoiled Yogi Berra's debut as a manager. It also was Ford's first loss as a pitcher-coach.

Orsino's home run, his second of the young season, climaxed a four-run fifth inning for the Orioles. Chicago rookie second baseman Don Buford helped the rally by bobbling Luis Aparicio's grounder.

The White Sox had grabbed a 2-0 lead in the second on Ron Hansen's home run, Charley Smith's triple and Gerry McNertney's sacrifice fly.

You must act now to kill crabgrass

A recommendation for one of the greatest aids of modern gardening has been the development of the pre-emergence crab grass controls.

Long before the lawn begins to grow the summer crop of crabgrass can be destroyed by the application of any one of a half dozen pre-emergence chemicals.

One of the leading centres of turf research in North America is Purdue University in Indiana. There they're been running some exhaustive tests over the past few years and in these they have achieved as much as 100 per cent. control and practically always 95 to 99 per cent. kill.

Until recently this persistent, annoying weed could only be fought in one way, down on the hands and knees. I'm sure many of us recall long summer evenings spent with a sharp knife cutting out the crabgrass plants.

Confused with others
I suppose the one weakness that these pre-emergence killers have is that they call for some fore-thought and planning.

It's hard to convince the beginner to gardening or the rank amateur that they can destroy crabgrass in April and early May which does not sprout until the lilacs are in bloom.

I find that hundreds of people confuse crabgrass with a perennial grass which goes by the various names of twitch, couch or quack grass.

The latter grass grows as fast or faster than the regular lawn grasses among which it grows. Crabgrass, on the other hand, starts to germinate when the blossoms on the apple trees are showing pink but is not visible to the naked eye until early August.

Twitch grass is easily recognizable in your lawn by the wide, sharp edged, dark green blades.

Perhaps you remember these from your childhood when you placed one of these blades between your two thumbs and blew on it creating a most satisfying, if rather obnoxious, noise.

These blades of grass are so sharp that they can make cuts in your hand almost like those of a razor blade.

Much of the twitch grass found growing in lawns came there in the old pasture sod that was used to create the lawn in the beginning.

Sad to say, there is nothing that can be done to get rid of it except to try and dig or pull as much of the plants out as possible or start all over again.

There are at least two chemicals which will kill the twitch grass but unfortunately they also destroy the good lawn grasses as well.

The first thing that the home gardener should keep in mind in the control of crabgrass is to realize it is an annual plant which dies just as soon as it has been hit by hard frost in the autumn.

You can take my word for it that every crabgrass plant that disfigures your lawn last year is now dead. It is most unfortunate that crabgrass survives from one year to the other by a tremendous ability to reseed itself.

Super produces seed
These plants are super seed producers and well developed ones produce as many as 100,000 seeds per year.

It is a sad fact that these can lie dormant in the soil for as long as 50 years and still germinate readily if brought to the surface by cultivation or applied with soil used as a top dressing.

The new pre-emergence crabgrass controls are sold under various trade names. They differ somewhat in the way they work but all are based on the idea of killing the sprouting seed before it can produce a living plant.

To late no chemical powerful enough to kill the unsprouted seed without injuring permanent grasses has been discovered. This means that the crabgrass seeds must be attacked at that brief moment when the white rootlet breaks through the seed coat.

This is why we say it is extremely important to follow the manufacturer's directions to the letter when using and applying these specialized crabgrass controls.

One of the main precautions that must be observed with them is that they must go on at least a week before the crabgrass seed starts to sprout. Once the apple trees are in full bloom it is too late.

Another important rule to follow is not to put the crabgrass killers on carelessly, with overlapping and double amounts at the turns, as this can cause quite serious injury to the turf.

FEED YOUR LAWN WELL.
The seed killing ingredients contained in one of these pre-emergence killers are highly insoluble and if undisturbed after application will remain on the surface to prevent the germination of the crabgrass seeds for two or more years.

Here we have another excellent reason for not raking the lawn heavily in the early spring.

Combined with these new chemical controls we have to fight this number one lawn pest in other ways. For instance, one of the best permanent cures for crabgrass is a turf so thick and vigorous that this pest cannot gain root room.

It logically follows that anything that makes the lawn grow vigorously is also an important crabgrass control.

That is why we recommend that you feel your lawn at the least four times during the season to make sure of a thick turf.

Crabgrass cannot tolerate shade and sunshine must reach the seed before it will sprout. A thin lawn allows the sunshine to reach the soil and start germination.

with crabgrass last year you can be almost certain there are many hundreds of thousands of seeds just waiting for the right conditions in your lawn to start growing.

You can prevent this by applying a pre-emergence crabgrass chemical just as soon as the soil is not frozen, but before the apples, crabapples or saucer magnolias are in bloom.

Country Notebook

By WALKER RILEY

The other day, I found myself in the middle of a discussion on grinding hay. A feed mill operator was trying to convince one of his customers that he was wasting time, energy and money putting hay through a hammermill. The customer was just as sure that hay ground finely mixed with the dairy ration would save on concentrates. I couldn't give an answer then, but I have been digging up information since. This is what I find.

When hay is ground, cows eat more, but less of it is digested. It may result in increased milk production if they are on an all-roughage diet, but the butterfat test goes down. On complete rations, grinding makes little difference to milk flow.

In practice, it seems to me that a few hundred pounds of ground hay isn't going to make much difference one way or another. But certainly, it won't replace grain pound for pound. And no one is likely to put a whole row of hay through the hammermill at present machinery and power costs.

But perhaps the day of automation is ahead. We may be feeding our cows little wafers of ground hay complete with added concentrates, molasses, minerals and everything else. It sounds almost like a breakfast cereal.

Do you grow a few raspberries and find the weeds discouraging? "Simazine controls weeds well in raspberries if the soil is moist at the time of application and free of established weeds. It kills weeds as they emerge, and two applications can keep the planting clean for the entire season. Apply 1 to 2 pounds of the active ingredient per acre in about 30 gallons of water. Direct the spray at the bases of the canes. Uniform coverage of the soil is essential. Cultivate just before the second application.

"To control couchgrass and other grasses, use dalapon at 1 pound of product per 15 gallons of water but no more than 3 pounds of the product should be applied per acre of area treated each season. Apply it in the spring when the grass is growing vigorously. Spray only the grassed areas and keep the spray off the raspberry foliage and young canes."

This is some of the very useful information given in a new bulletin "Growing Red Raspberries in Eastern Canada." If you would like a copy, we would be pleased to send you one, or write directly to the Information Branch, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

The recommended varieties are listed in a separate leaflet. Latham is still the standard for a late crop, and Trent for early season in Quebec. Tweed and Newbury are listed for special areas, and Comet, Willamette and Carnival for trial only.

It seems to me that berries could be an excellent sideline on a farm. It would give the youngsters a chance to earn

Careful plan goes along with putting up shelves

By MR. FIX

Whether it is stacks of books on the desk and packed away in boxes, or dozens of paint cans standing on the basement floor, every homeowner soon finds a number of reasons why there's more than that all his house doesn't have enough shelves.

The shelves you plan yourself—whether you put them up or have the job done—will suit your needs better than anything that comes with any house, unless you had it designed your self.

bits of wood, mount these to the sides and rest the shelves on them. If you have the power tools to do it, you can dado the sides and fit the shelf into the dado.

In general, deeper shelves look better at the bottom, shallower ones at the top. On the market is an attractive shelf stock measuring 1 1/2 inches thick, handsomely rounded in front. You'll need fewer supports, since it won't sag. But it's usually expensive. Extra supports under cheaper shelves won't cost as much.

A back—a sheet of plywood or hardboard—will add stability to a movable bookcase.

Bridge marathon ends 1st round at Bedford club

BEDFORD — A bridge was held at the Curling Club on April 4, to complete the first round in the marathon. The winners in section 1, were Mrs. Ross Preston and Mrs. W. H. Baglow; in section 2, Miss Ileen Ewing and Miss Margaret Cockerline.

The prize-winners on Saturday were: Highest score, Mrs. Roy Cook; second, Mrs. W. B. Bradshaw; consolation, Mrs. Robert Landon.

Two chairs were marked with lucky numbers, the holders of these being Mrs. Mac Bradshaw and Mrs. L. Beerworth, while the holders of the tallies, with scores nearest to 1,540 and 1,920 were Mrs. Ralph Van Horn and Mrs. M. S. McCaw. The last four were recipients of prizes, donated by Raymond Patrick. Others who donated prizes were George Provent, J. Laing and J. Fournier.

Refreshments were served buffet style from a table centered with pastel colored African violets, with rose colored tapers in silver candelabra Mrs. Ross Preston, Mrs. Otis Blair and Mrs. Richard Craighead were in charge of the afternoon.

In the evening, open house was held at the Curling Club. The prize winners in bridge were Mrs. George Provent, first, Mrs. H. Stone, second and Mrs. Jack Paton, consolation. The floating prizes were won by Mrs. Raymond Patrick and Mrs. Roy Cook. The prizes for bridge and the special curling events were donated by Rene Kimmell.

In curling H. Stone's rink defeated Garnet Steel's rink while Lennox Ames' rink was winner over Otis Blair's rink. The consolation went to Garnet Steel's rink.

Two members were appointed to attend the short course at Macdonald College on May 25-28.

The paper drive will be held during the second week in May. Donations for Save the Children are to be brought to the May meeting, as well as potted plants or bulbs to be sold at that session. Four woven holders were made and donated by Mrs. F. B. Mayhew.

An interesting reading, Half A Century in Quebec Protestant Schools, by Mary E. Bisson, Baie Comeau, was read by Mrs. Burns MacDonald.

It was voted to give a donation for school prizes before the end of the term.

The May meeting will be held at the High School.

At the close of the meeting the hostess served refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Kelly MacKenzie.

An 8-inch deep shelf will take care of most books, but others will need 12 inches or more. If the shelves are fixed, vary the distance between shelves as well. If they are adjustable, vary height to suit.
