He paused and after a moment or two a bright boy raised his hand. "Well, Thomas," said the teacher, encouragingly, "Thomas stood up and said: "No man can serve two masters." The question ended there.

The store of Herbert Cairns, Sawyerville, was recently broken into and about $30 in postage stamps and money, besides a large amount of goods were stolen. Entrance was effected through a back door some time during the night, and nothing was known of it until the following morning when the store was opened. No clue was left. The burglars have not been found.

Jagalls' new hotel looks up like a giant among pigmies in comparison with the surrounding buildings. When the work is finished Danville will have one of the best hotel buildings in the Townships. New furniture has been ordered and on the whole it does look as though there is one hotel keeper in the world who does not mind because he is not allowed to degrade his fellow men by selling them whiskey.—[Danville Times.]

Broken in Health

That Tired Feeling, Constipation and Pain in the Back

Appetite and Health Restored by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Mr. C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

"For a number of years I have been troubled with a general tired feeling, shortness of breath, pain in the back, and constipation. I could get only little rest at night on account of the pain and had no appetite whatever. I was that tired in my limbs that I could scarcely hold the day and I tried a great number of medicines but did not get any permanent relief from any of them, having tried Sarsaparilla, and I feel like a new man."

I purchased a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which made me feel better at once. I have continued to use it, having tried other bottles, and I feel like a new man."

I have a good appetite, feel as strong as ever I did, and enjoy perfect rest at night. I have much pleasure in recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla. CHARLES STREIB, with Erie Printing Co., Gardner, Ontario.

FACTS OF HISTORY.

Experience is the Best of All Teachers.

LET CANADA BE WISE.

And Profit by the Mistakes of Other Nations—What Other Peoples Have Done and What They Have Been Sorry For—Protection and Free Trade Viewed in the Light of Experience.

After most careful enquiry by commission and otherwise, Germany in 1818 adopted a protective system. Under that protective system her industries were greatly developed and the country became prosperous. Indeed no country in modern times has shown so great an industrial progress as Germany has, since her entrance into the Zollverein, which removed the customs houses from between her several separate states to a common frontier and protected her industries against foreign competition by a high tariff.

In 1864, through following the example of France, Prussia reduced her tariff from a protective to a revenue basis. The foreign competition at once set in and the result is a matter of history, viz., that disaster overcame many great industries which had been developed by the early protective policy of the Zollverein. Very gladly indeed did Prussia return to the protective policy, in 1879, and to-day Germany is thoroughly protected and her industries great; her people well employed and no free trade doctrines affect them in any way. Indeed within the past few years they have increased their protective acts. The German people are a careful, sensible, level-headed people.

Let Canadians be guided by their good sense in holding to a national policy.

THE EXPERIENCE OF IRELAND.

Great Industries Under Protection—Thoroughly Under Free Trade.

Before the union of Ireland and England the former country had great manufacturing industries. For instance, when the union took place and Ireland's protective policy was destroyed she had hands employed in Dublin, according to statistics, in the manufacture of woollens to the amount of about 5,000 and in the manufacture of carpets nearly 1,000 were employed in Dublin.

The result of the union upon these Irish industries, followed as it was by the great influx of English goods, is told by the history of that time in the following language:

"There are only 682 (instead of 5,000) employed in all branches of the woollen industry in Dublin and its vicinity. So far as the carpet industry is concerned, it can hardly be said to exist at all."

Another example of the free admission of English goods upon the industries of Ireland is given in the facts with regard to Cork.

Before the union there were 457 looms there and 2500 people in the City of Cork engaged in manufacturing. Thirty-four years afterwards that 2500 had dwindled to 156 and a very short time after that period the manufacturers were absolutely gone.

Let us quote from the history of the times again:

"The most fatal effects have followed because of the destruction of our tariff, and the premature withdrawal of the protective duties, whereby Ireland's industries have been left open to a fruitless competition against the overwhelming capital and influence of England. Before the withdrawal of protection about 150,000 people were making their living and acquiring a competency out of the manufactures of this country. These now are wholly thrown upon charity; our cotton industry is gone; our woollen industry has disappeared; our looms are silent. No doubt the nation will contribute to the greatness of the Empire and possibly to the safety of Ireland but the influx of English and other goods from the continent will for ever prevent Ireland possessing prosperous manufacturing and laboring classes, upon which depends the prosperity of the farming classes."

Canadians, Take Warning!

Canada has been getting her industries established during the past 15 years. These industries have been established by our defensive policy standing the home market. Let us take down that defensive tariff and we should find the same destruction wrought. The enormous capital invested in the manufactures of England, of Germany, and of the United States, and the great power of those industries is ready to crush Canadian industries just as Ireland's industries were crushed before the greater power of English capital.

France Learns a Lesson.

Under all changes of government France clung to the commercial protective policy of Colbert and Napoleon down to a short time ago. That she advanced most rapidly in the development of every material interest is clearly proved by the official returns to the Government, as well as anything can be. Manufactures increased; labor was well paid; the production of wheat increased; and agriculture was prosperous.

Some idea of her progress may be had from the fact that in one period of twenty years during that time the value of her exports increased 131 per cent, though the population had only increased five per cent.

In 1861, however, France lowered her tariff very greatly against England and the trade between the two countries greatly increased. The result was, however, most unsatisfactory, her industries being most severely injured thereby, and France has returned to a high protective tariff. In support of this tariff the people of France are almost unanimous and no amount of persuasion would succeed in getting them to return to a free trade or revenue tariff basis.

Switzerland Tries a Low Tariff.

The Swiss people may be said to be the most self-governing people perhaps in the world. For a long period the Swiss tried and made a sincere attempt to carry out the doctrine of free trade.

For years this effort went on but finally they were forced by consequent industrial depression to return to a protective system, which they did in 1865. A prominent Swiss asked recently as to how long it would be before Switzerland should again try free trade, said:

"Not until we forget that we tried it a long time before."

THE SENTIMENT OF MODERN TIMES.

In Protection Being Destroyed or is it Growing Stronger?

There is no need of us multiplying examples such as I have given. The fact is that the world outside of England is protectionist.

Do some of my hearers say, "This is true, but light is shining in in recent years, and the modern view is in favor of protection?"

Well let us see. Austria adopted protection in 1879; Russia increased her tariff in 1877 and in 1881; Germany, as we have shown, put up her walls higher in 1870; France increased her tariff in 1882 for purely protective purposes; Spain did the same in 1877 and 1882; Greece adopted a high protective tariff in 1885, and Switzerland in the same year; Sweden and Norway followed suit in 1887 and 1888; Italy began protection to her agriculture last year; the British Colony of Victoria in Australia had a general election last year and out of 70 members in a contest in which the trade question was the main issue, there were 65 protectionists and 14 free traders elected. Then on the top of all this comes the sweep out of Democratic Tariff Reform Free Traders in the United States only two or three months ago.

If, after these historical facts which I have given, there is any comfort for the man who thinks that protection is on the wane in the world, they are welcome to that comfort. Is not the fact however just as Lord Salisbury stated?

"That we live in an age of a war of tariffs, that every country has its weapons and we cannot fight unless we have our weapons too."

Liberals say "never mind the experience of ages and every other civilized country with the exception of England, but let us throw away our weapons."

Conservatives say "Our own experience and the experience of other countries teaches us that we should stand by a defensive tariff. Let us hold our own markets until other nations are willing to reciprocate by opening theirs—which think you is best and wisest?"

Two Teachers.

The one teacher is the teacher of history and the experience of all countries in the various ages. That teacher warns you to stand by a defensive policy.

The other teacher is the Liberal party, or rather politicians who want to get into office in that party. These men ask you to follow them in the pursuit of some half-way-to-the-wisp.

Remember, electors, their policy is a different one each election. Remember that in the last five years they have had as many different policies and each time they have told you that the sure, and safe and only remedy for Canada's ills, was the policy which they were at that time supporting. The policies of a few years ago are all forgotten by them now. They have a new fall now, and as usual they are telling you it is the only thing that could be of use to Canada.

Ask yourselves, please, this question. Why have they changed policy so often? Has their change come from conviction? If so, then their convictions of other days must have been very faintly founded and adopted after very immature consideration; but the fact is, they have been speaking to you not from conviction, but they have been trying this and that and every other cry for the purpose of getting into power. That is just what they are doing now.

Can you trust a party who will resort to such tactics and who place their desire for office above everything else.

FREE TRADE BRITAIN'S DISASTERS.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—James Keir Hardie M.P. had another hearing to-day before the House of Commons in connection with his bill for the relief of the unemployed. He said that the distress was so widespread that a State grant of £5,000,000 would be required to meet the needs of the unemployed throughout the country for six weeks.

Canadian Artisan to Canadian Farmer—And they've got that fessing thing called Free Trade over there, haven't they?

A HEAVY DILL OF DAMAGES.

Sir Richard's calculation of the "injury" done to Canada by the protective policy in trade, is analogous to Mr. Sumner's estimate of the "consequential damages" done to United States commerce by the rebel revenue Alabama. The claim of $30,000,000 was seriously advanced before the Geneva conference on that question. When simmered down, the arbitrators allowed $15,000,000 as the full measure of the damage.

But after satisfying every claim that could possibly be trumped up, there is a balance of nine millions left in the Treasury at Washington, with no one asking for any portion of it.

Sir Richard declared at Bowmanville the other day that "Canada has paid six hundred million dollars for the experience of protection," meaning, we suppose, that she is out of pocket that much by working for herself rather than have all sorts of foreigners working for her. Does any one believe Sir Richard? One proof to the contrary is that Canada's credit is twelve per cent. higher in the money market than it was twelve months ago. The bold Blue Bird Knight was at the financial helm. The Postal Savings today are some twenty millions more than when his Government was in power. In 1878, the last year of Sir Richard's reign, the Dominion had 6,009 miles of railway. It has now 15,000 miles of railway—the greatest ratio of increase in any country in the world. In 1878, the burden of sea-going ships entered and cleared at Canadian ports was 6,684,394 tons. This was under a free trade policy, calculated to encourage foreign trade. In 1892, under a protective policy, calculated also to encourage home trade, the burden of sea-going ships entered and cleared at Canadian ports was 11,000,000 tons.

After Suffering For 18 Years

The Great Spring Medicine

Cures Mrs. G. H. Parker.

Eighteen years of intense suffering, disappointment and anxiety! Failure after failure with doctors and worthless medicines made life sad and dreary for Mrs. G. H. Parker, Winona, Ont.

After some persuasion, Mrs. Parker was induced to give Paine's Celery Compound a fair and honest trial. What happy grand results! Such a victory over suffering! Complete cure and renewed health!

The following is Mrs. Parker's unsolicited testimony:—

"I have been a great sufferer from neuralgia for nearly eighteen years; these sufferings at times were so bad that words would fail to describe them. After having tried every known remedy, and different physicians, and receiving no help I was persuaded to try your Paine's Celery Compound, which I have been using for the past four months. I am happy to say that I am now a different woman and completely cured. I can recommend your Paine's Celery Compound to all my friends, for it has been worth hundreds of dollars to me."

The Salaries and Incomes of Rulers.

From Harper's Young People. There is certainly one very nice feature about being a potentate, and that is the income that comes to the occupant of a lofty place. Besides having all his wants attended to, and a large number of palaces always at his disposal, the Emperor of Russia is said to receive $25,000 a day; the Sultan of Turkey receives $18,000 a day; the Emperor of Austria receives 10,000 a day; Emperor William has to get along on $8000 from breakfast to bedtime; Queen Victoria has $35,000 to spend every week, and the President of the United States receives a trifle under a thousand dollars a week, but a great deal of free advertising goes with the office.

History of the Barometer.

In the Meteorologische Zeitschrift for December last, Prof. G. Hellmann gives a very interesting account of the invention of the barometer, which has now been in use 250 years. Torricelli, who died at the early age of 39 years, was too busily engaged in mathematical studies to publish an account of his discovery, but on June 11, 1644, he wrote a description of it to his friend Ricci. This letter, and Ricci's objections to the experiment, were published in 1663 by C. Dati, a friend of Torricelli's, and, as this work is now exceedingly scarce, Prof. Hellmann has reprinted the correspondence, in the original Italian, in the above mentioned journal. Some of the paragraphs, says Nature, are noteworthy, especially those in which Torricelli states that it was not merely a question of producing a vacuum, but of making an instrument which would indicate the changes of the atmosphere. The first continuous barometrical observations appear to have been first taken by Robert Boyle, about 1659, to whom we owe the invention of the word "barometer."

The Work of Albert Lynch.

Albert Lynch, whose work is becoming so much more generally known to Americans through his drawings in Scribner's Magazine and his cover designs for The Ladies' Home Journal, is a Peruvian by birth, but of English parentage. He is only thirty-three years of age, and of extremely retiring disposition. He is unmarried and lives in Paris. The prices for his work, his smallest water-color paintings readily selling for $600 to $900 each. In 1893 he received the Salon's first prize for his beautiful panel of "Spring," showing a single figure. This picture won the admiration of the French art critics and the public to such an unusual degree that the painting was sold for a fabulous sum to a private Paris buyer. Recently The Ladies' Home Journal acquired all publication rights to this painting, and it will serve as one of the cover designs for that magazine. The next issue of the Journal will also have a design by Lynch, portraying his conception of a woman's ideal costume. A succession of other cover designs by Lynch will follow these two.

ALL THE MAID'S FAULT.

A well-to-do young Philadelphian, of a somewhat sensitive disposition, left for Florida recently on his honeymoon. He registered with his bride, who was accompanied by her maid, at one of St. Augustine's palace hotels. The young couple thought they would feel much more at ease if the fact that they were but recently married was kept a secret, they agreeing that their actions should in no way betray the curious or inquisitive people. So they earnestly admonished the maid not to tell any one that they had just been married, warning her of the consequences if the fact should become known about the hotel.

Everything went along smoothly for three days, and the young couple suddenly discovered to their dismay that they were being closely scrutinized by every guest in the house. In the dining-room scornful looks were cast at them by the ladies, and there was no mistaking the fact that they were the subject of considerable comment, which they felt certain was uncomplimentary. They held a consultation, and called the maid. She was closely questioned as to whether she had answered any queries concerning them, and after a good deal of fencing, finally blurted out: "They kept telling me that you were just married, and I got mad, and told them they were liars, that you weren't married at all!"—Philadelphia Record.

Easter Hope.

When winter's minions have withdrawn, Their spectral trains from hill and plain, And dawn, by vermeil-mantled dawn Comes spring to claim her own again.

The wild-flower in its sunless sleep Within its prison chamber chill Feels sudden through its being leap A vernal and ecstatic thrill.

Hope bids the look, O drooping heart, Beyond Death's dark environment, When, like the flower, thou too shalt start, Renewed as with the touch of spring.

—[Clinton Scollard, Harper's Bazar.

Social World.

Announcement is made to-day, upon proper authority, of the engagement of Miss Frances Hunter to Captain Andrew C. Zahriske. The bride-elect, a very pretty girl, is a daughter of Mrs. Charles F. Hunter, of No. 314 West Fourteenth Street. Capt. Zahriske, who resides at No. 716 Fifth Avenue, is a member of several clubs and societies, prominent among them being the Metropolitan, the City Club, the Union, the United Service and the American Geographical Society. No date, so far as is known, has been set for the wedding. [The Mail and Express, New York, April 9.]

Dined Before Dinner.

From Harper's Young People. It is said that the table manners of Napoleon Bonaparte were very bad, and that he was so fast an eater that he was invariably through his dinner before those who dined with him had got half through. In fact, those who had the honor of dining with the Emperor were wont to remain after his Majesty's departure.

Upon one occasion Eugene de Beaubarnais, the stepson of Napoleon, rose from the table immediately after the Emperor.

"But you haven't had time to finish your dinner," said Napoleon.

"Pardon me, sire," said the Prince. "I dined before I came."

A Noble Gift to Lick Observatory.

Edward Crossley, the English philanthropist and member of Parliament, has given his great three-foot reflecting telescope to Lick Observatory, on condition that it be named the Crossley reflector, and that the cost of transporting it from Halifax, England, be borne by Americans. As Mr. Crossley gives the dome and all the apparatus, it will cost $5,000 to move it.

There is a place at Lick Observatory for the big glass, as James Lick's will provide for both a refractor and a reflector, but the money provided could buy only one. With the Crossley reflector superb photographs have been taken even in the humid English atmosphere, so that much better work might be done in the dry air of Mount Hamilton.—Scientific American.

In That Influential Horse Paper.

"The Livestock Stable," of New York City, we find a strong editorial against the life mutilation of horses by docking. The editor charges that even agents of societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals have been guilty of this crime [we have no such agents in Massachusetts]. He lays great blame upon women. "Let the ladies say they will not ride behind a dock-tailed horse, and in a short time no such horses will be seen," and adds, "that our ladies [we suppose he means New York ladies] now seem to treat their horses somewhat after the fashion of Chinese malefactors, who have their heads shaved, smeared with molasses, and with hands tied are exposed to the sun and flies. The horse is cruelly deprived of his natural fly protector, and then, with a refinement of cruelty, all artificial protection by nets is denied him."

Beef is going up in price. Farmers and breeders will be glad to hear this news and consumers can receive it with perfect equanimity. It means more money in the breeder's pocket, but it doesn't mean any less in the consumer's, for whether beef is high or low the retail price of it seldom varies. The middle man is the only one who will suffer.

So desperate has become the competition for business that the Grand Trunk has been hauling grain from Chicago to New York for 12 cents the 100lb., and even gave a special rate of 10 cents for a 500,000 lot of oats. There can be no money in this business, but the worst of it is, it is not our own people who get the benefit of this cut in rates but our neighbors across the lines. It is certainly a fair reason of complaint that farmers in Canada are dealt with less generously than the farmers in the States.
