World News In Brief

London, Oct. 1.—(P)—British bookies shortened the odds again today on a victory by Winston Churchill's Conservatives in the Oct. 25 election.

Best offer available was 2 to 5 on the Conservatives. Most books offered 7 to 4 against a return to power by Prime Minister Attlee and his Labor party.

The Conservatives were 4 to 6 in the early betting 10 days ago. This had shortened to 4 to 7 by the week-end.

New York, Oct. 1.—(P)—A "fairly sharp" earthquake was recorded early today on the Fordham university seismograph.

Rev. Joseph J. Lynch, seismologist, said the shocks were recorded at 5:21:54 a.m. and 5:26:48 a.m. EST.

Father Lynch estimated the distance as 3,960 miles from New York but was unable to determine the direction.

Bonn, Germany, Oct. 1.—(P)—The western allies and chancellor Konrad Adenauer met today for the second round of negotiations over the proposed peace contract for west Germany.

The meeting was held in Schools Roettgen, near Cologne, official residence of the British high commissioner, Sir Ivone Kirkpatrick.

Present for France and the United States were Andre Francois-Poncet and John J. McCloy.

Timmins, Ont., Oct. 1.—(CP)—Four hooded men early today robbed the Delnide gold mines of some 300 pounds of gold precipitates valued at $30,000.

The thieves sprung a lock on a gate on the north side of the mine, entered the mill and bound the mill operator. Another man was slugged when he interrupted the thieves.

The thieves opened a precipitation press on the main floor of the mill and pushed sheets of gold-impregnated canvas into potato sacks. They left by the same gate they entered. The robbery took 20 minutes.

Weetslade, Northumberland, England, Oct. 1.—(P)—Six coal miners were trapped by the collapse of a shaft wall at the Weetslade coal mine. One was brought out by rescue workers four hours later suffering from the effects of coal gas.

Mine officials said 100 men were in the mine when the accident occurred. Those trapped were working 1 1/4 miles from the main shaft.

Moscow, Oct. 1.—(P)—Generalissimo Stalin told Chinese leader Mao Tse-Tung today that friendship between the Soviet Union and China guarantees the peace and security of the Far East.

Stalin made the statement in a telegram to Mao on the occasion of the second anniversary of the proclamation of the Chinese people's republic.

United States Eighth Army Is Prepared To Strike Hard If Truce Negotiations Fail

Britain Will Order Out Technicians

London, Oct. 1.—(P)—Britain decided reluctantly today to bow to Iran's ultimatum and order her technicians out of the Abadan refinery by Thursday, despite a British complaint to the United Nations security council seeking a delay in the expulsion.

The foreign office announced plans for the departure of all its oilmen from Abadan by Thursday. A spokesman said he could give no explanation at once of the surprise move, but promised a statement later.

Calling the Anglo-Iranian oil crisis a threat to world peace, Britain Saturday asked the U.N. Security Council to order Iran to cancel an order expelling the more than 300 Britons from the great refinery on Abadan island. The expulsion order was issued last Thursday by Premier Mohammed Mossadegh.

Both the foreign office and the chiefs of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, whose properties were nationalized by Iran, had held the view that once they lost their last grip on the great refinery centre, a return to it would take place only with the greatest of difficulty.

Nevertheless, the foreign office spokesman disclosed, the Abadan staff has received instructions to prepare for an evacuation which will be completed by Thursday under present plans. That is the deadline.

Abadan dispatches said the bulk of the Britons would leave by warship Wednesday and the few remaining executives would leave either by a launch or overland for Basra, Iraq, Thursday morning.

Ten British warships are anchored off Basra, 40 miles from Abadan. The cruiser Mauritius probably will be used to take the Britons to Iraq, with other naval units covering the withdrawal. Informal sources said this is not likely to mean that the British warships would end their vigil there. The ships are expected to stay to insure that Iran sells no oil from the brimfull Abadan storage tanks to a third party. The A.L.O.C. still regards that oil as its own property and Britain's government, holding a controlling interest in the company, has said it would take all practical steps to prevent Iran from disposing of the oil.

Britain may be planning a sort of oil blockade of Abadan, irrespective of the outcome of the security council plea.

Possibly anticipating this, the chief of Iran's national Iranian oil company, Hussein Makki, has warned that if Britain imposes an oil blockade, "it would be most dangerous and would be the beginning of hostilities." He said Iran's oil tankers would be accompanied by Iranian sloops.

Bradley And Ridgway Tour Command Posts In Korea — Hill Fighting Is Continuing.

By JOHN RANDOLPH
U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Oct. 1.—(P)—The United States Eighth Army is "prepared to strike, and strike hard" in Korea if the communists want all-out war instead of truce talks.

That warning was issued tonight in Tokyo by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's public information office.

It came as Gen. Omar N. Bradley, top U.S. military leader, and Ridgway toured command posts on the eastern front where the United Nations' autumn offensive got underway last Tuesday.

South Korean troops in that mountainous sector bared their bayonets Monday and drove 500 to 600 Reds off the third crest of a ridge west of heartbreak ridge. They won the other two peaks Sunday night. Other South Koreans captured a hill northwest of the punchbowl, north of Yanggu.

On the other side of the war-torn peninsula, sunny skies brought the air war back to Korea. Twenty-seven F-86 Sabre jets clashed with about 40 Red-nosed communist MIG-15's in a series of dogfights that swirled for 25 minutes north of Sinanju.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said one of the Russian-made MIG's was destroyed and three were damaged. No allied losses were reported.

Of truce negotiations, the Ridgway headquarters statement said "the whole issue of the resumption of talks is one that cannot be hedged much longer."

"Meanwhile, indications are that the Eighth Army is not planning to sit idly by while the communists string out negotiations for another long period. A few days ago an autumn offensive was started. The Eighth Army commander, Gen. James A. Van Fleet, said 'whether this new effort will be limited, I am not at liberty to say.' But the fact remains that the U.N. command army is poised and prepared to strike and strike hard."

There was little action on the eastern front when Bradley visited that area.

Fighting was slowed by overnight rains and wind that tore down tents, flooded foxholes and chilled infantrymen.

Around "heartbreak ridge," fighting continued for two hill positions. There was no new report of heavy action on heartbreak itself.

On the west, the war quieted after an allied victory Sunday gave U.N. troops three hills west of Chorwon.

Southeast of Kumsong, where the allies saved an important ridge from a three-day Chinese counter-attack, there was an uneasy lull as probing patrols maintained contact.

Aided by brighter weather, allied fighter-bombers roared north Monday to continue their almost ceaseless pounding of the Red Korean rail and road-supply network.

The capture of the third ridge-line peak near heartbreak ridge by South Korean troops Monday came on their second assault. A pooled dispatch said they reached the crest in the morning, only to be pushed off by Red defenders.

The South Koreans regrouped, fixed bayonets and charged back up the slope. This time the communists broke and fled down the back side.

The dispatch said on heartbreak itself other South Koreans held firm against Red attempts to dislodge them.

Three enemy probing attacks were reported west of the punchbowl. Elsewhere on the eastern front action was negligible.

Tokyo, Oct. 1.—(P)—Communist leaders persisted today in their long silence on an allied proposal to change the Korean truce meeting place from Kaesong to no-man's-land.

Gen. Omar Bradley said Sunday the future of the armistice negotiations "will depend on the nature" of the communist reply.

The chairman of the United States joint chiefs of staff flew to Korea Monday with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, allied supreme commander, and Charles Bohlen, state department expert on Russia.

Bradley told a press conference in Tokyo Sunday "no one can foresee if they think the truce talks will be successful or unsuccessful. I don't think anyone expected quick results."

He expressed hope that an armistice can be reached, but made it clear that was up to the Reds.

The talks were broken off abruptly by the communists Aug. 23 with a charge that an allied plane violated the Kaesong neutral zone. The United Nations command denied this.

A series of communist charges of neutral-zone violations followed—the allies denying all but two. The allied supreme commander last Thursday suggested changing the site of the talks from Kaesong to a no-man's-land near Songhyon, six miles southeast of Kaesong.

Crowds Cheer Peron

Thousands of pro-Peron demonstrators mob the plaza in front of the Presidential Palace in Buenos Aires, Argentina, to hear President Juan Peron announce that the Army rebellion had been suppressed. Peron, speaking from a balcony in the centre, said the military revolt threatening the Peronista regime was over.

Argentina Settles Down After Revolt

Buenos Aires, Oct. 1.—(P)—Argentina returned to work-a-day routine today following the excitement of last Friday's short-lived revolt. A decree proclaiming a state of internal war was still in effect, however. It proclaimed death for the military men who participated in the uprising.

Newspapers supporting President Juan D. Peron carried almost identical stories charging the opposition radical, conservative and socialist parties with being mixed up in the affair.

The pro-Peron newspaper Democrazia said a group of nationalists "irritated at Peron's refusal to declare war on the United States" plotted to kill him and establish a dictatorship, "without realizing that the whole manoeuvre was planned and financed by Wall Street."

Buenos Aires, Oct. 1.—(P)—Eva Duarte Peron, wife of President Juan D. Peron, is holding her own in a fight to overcome acute anaemia, the Presidential press office said today.

A medical bulletin issued yesterday indicated that blood transfusions were successful. Mrs. Peron's doctors said her condition is unchanged since yesterday.

Friends said Mrs. Peron's condition was caused by overwork.

Tokyo, Oct. 1.—(Reuters)—Japan's birth rate and death rate in June were the lowest in 50 years, the Kyodo news agency reports. Births: 150,819; deaths, 61,579.

U.S. Lists Bases Needed In Japan

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, Oct. 1.—(P)—United States state and defence department officials shortly — perhaps this week — will begin working out the list of land, sea and air bases which the U.S. will want to retain in Japan.

Officials said the job is complicated by the fact that so long as the Korean war continues the U.S. will need more facilities than it will need if and when peace is restored to that area of the far east.

The Japanese islands constitute a key position in the U.S. western Pacific island defence system against Asian communist forces.

Immediately after the Japanese peace treaty was signed Sept. 8, the U.S. signed with Japan a treaty authorizing American forces to remain in the Japanese islands following the occupation period. The occupation ends when the treaty takes effect, probably early next year.

Before that time, however, state department officials feel that an agreement spelling out in detail base arrangements and the whole relationship between the American military and the Japanese government must be completed and agreed to by both sides.

At least two strong reasons are advanced for this timing. One is that this country is now in a better bargaining position with Japan than it will be after the peace treaty becomes effective; the other is that when the peace and security treaties go to the Senate for approval next January Senators will want assurance that adequate base provisions have been made.

While the U.S. is under no compulsion to cut down its forces in Japan, the expectation of officials is that without the Korean war the facilities now required there could be somewhat reduced.

One informant said: "We don't want to ask for rights indefinitely which we really need only for the period during which we are running the Korean war from Tokyo." Speculation is that at a minimum all three American armed services will want to retain indefinitely the main bases which they are using during the occupation.

New York Mayor Visits Birthplace

Inello, Sicily, Oct. 1.—(P)—New York's Mayor Vincent Impellitteri—the local boy who made good—had his home town tied up in emotional knots today.

The 4,200 persons in this Sicilian village were recovering from Sunday's enthusiastic reception, when cheering crowds choked the narrow, cobbled streets as the Mayor appeared.

They swarmed into the old Church of San Nicola de Bari, where Impellitteri was baptized 50 years ago. Rev. Giuseppe Feri, a distant relative, celebrated Mass as Mayor and Mrs. Impellitteri knelt on velvet cushions in the front row.

A visit to the Mayor's birthplace—the barren, back room of a four-roomed cottage—followed. As a group of girls from the orphanage sang a song of welcome, the Mayor of America's biggest city burst into tears.

At a luncheon in city hall it was announced that the Mayor had presented the town with 2,000,000 lire ($3,225,000).

Inello's Mayor Giuseppe Monteleone gave Impellitteri a silver box containing some of the town's soil and a silver-framed picture of the town.

Top Nazis Are Under Close Guard

Berlin, Oct. 1.—(P)—Seven former Nazi chieftains serving war-crimes terms in Spandau prison here are more heavily guarded than America's public enemies in Alcatraz.

Their food is plainer than that on "The Rock," toughest United States penitentiary. The guard ratio at Spandau is at least 10 times more than at the island fortress in San Francisco Bay.

This is the fifth anniversary of the day black-robed judges of the allied war-crimes tribunal sentenced the seven to terms ranging from 10 years to life.

There was gaunt, hot-eyed Rudolf Hess, deputy to Hitler; the mining blonde Baldur von Schirach, Nazi youth leader; aged diplomat Konstantin von Neurath; stern Admirals Erich Raeder and Karl Doenitz; banker Walther Funk, and the brilliant Albert Speer, Nazi munitions chief.

How have the seven fared since they shuffled through the gates of the big red brick prison?

Informed sources say the men may chat as they work. At night they read books from the 400-volume prison library. The books are censored. They are permitted only one newspaper, a French religious publication translated into German.

The men are permitted visitors. Occasionally they hear a phonograph concert. Radios are banned. Six attend Sunday chapel, conducted by a French Protestant chaplain. Hess, an atheist, stays in his cell.

Food seems a shade better than in German-run prisons. Those who need special foods get it.

None is in actual ill health. The men get along fairly well together.

Hess is something of an enigma. Some believed him mentally unbalanced after his weird antics at his trial. But people who should know say he is only eccentric.

Hess, Raeder and Funk were given life sentences. Von Schirach and Speer got 20 years each, von Neurath 15 and Doenitz 10.

The threat of victory by the Conservatives—now a 3-2 favorite — has healed the Bevan-Attlee feud, at least for the campaign.

Referring to the split with Attlee, Bevan said: "The argument which we were going to have has been replaced by a bigger argument and it must wait until the bigger argument is over."

"When I heard that Mr. Attlee had decided to have the election, I made up my mind to devote all my energy to destroying the Tory challenge."

Bevan added this comment on world peace: "We must make it clear that if peace is to be preserved and the downtrodden peoples of the world helped, Labor's voice must be heard in the councils of the world."

From the same platform, Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison hammered away on the possibility that the Conservatives might "unwittingly precipitate the nation into war."

He said "I do not allege that the Tories are deliberately seeking war." But he added he feared that through hysteria or lack of control a Conservative government might plunge the country into conflict.

Three Automobile Accidents In Quebec Take 12 Lives

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Of the 24 persons who died violently in eastern Canada during the week-end, 12 died as the result of three automobile accidents in Quebec.

In one Quebec accident — at Cedars, 41 miles west of Montreal — six persons were drowned, including five members of one family, when their automobile sideswiped another car and plunged into a canal.

A Canadian Press survey early today showed that 21 were killed in street and highway mishaps. One man died in a fire, one man was killed by the accidental discharge of a rifle and a third was crushed to death when a trailer fell on him in a garage.

Fourteen deaths were reported from Quebec, 10 from Ontario. Drowned in the Soulanges canal near Cedars, Que., were: Alcide Marier, 45, a farmer from nearby St. Fereol; his children, Pierrette, 18, Germain, 17, Monique, 12, and Louise, 7. Antonin Dault, 60, a neighbor. The accident occurred Sunday morning; the occupants of the car were on their way to church.

Two Roman Catholic priests and a 19-year-old Quebecer were killed when an automobile went off the road and smashed into a tree on the outskirts of Quebec city. Dead are Abbe Jules Roy, 55, pastor of Quebec's Sacre Coeur parish; Father Mar Lussier, superior of the Order of St. Vincent de Paul in Quebec and Jean-Marc Gingras, a passenger in the car.

Three persons were killed near Wakefield, Que., in a triple truck-car smash. They were four-year-old Roy McCooey of Ottawa and Mr. and Mrs. Sylvio Lepage of East-view, Ont.

In Montreal, Mrs. M. Zwipes was killed in a collision and Denery Vincent, 68, of St. Luc de Vincennes, Que., was killed near Shawinigan Falls, Que., when his automobile went out of control and turned over.

Marshal Burdge, 22, of Washington, N.J., was killed when a rifle discharged accidentally in his tent near Ganaroque, Ont. Burdge was on his way to North Bay on a hunting trip with three companions.

In Toronto, Thomas Galloway, 54, was killed when a trailer on which he was working fell on him in a garage and John Forsythe was burned to death when his Spring Brook, Ont., home was destroyed by fire.

Four-year-old Dorothy Kellestine of Strathroy, Ont., was killed when she ran into the path of an auto which was backing into a street.

Killed in collisions were: John Allan Hughes of Smiths Falls, Ont., near Oshawa, Ont., and Mrs. Donna Bailey, 22, of Ancaster, Ont., just south of Hamilton's city limits.

Four pedestrians were killed when they were struck down by moving vehicles near their homes. They were: William J. Brooker, 47, of Lakeview, Ont.; William Pratt, 81, of Toronto's suburban North York township; Mrs. Ida

Mr. Fisher paid tribute to the long service and loyalty of the employees who were being honored. "There is no substitute for that loyalty and experience," said Mr. Fisher. "It is the sound foundation on which we are building. For Johns-Manville is not just another company. It is a progressive institution well aware of its social obligations to its employees, to the community, in which it operates and to the public at large."
Further, Mr. Fisher added: "We have two projects planned for Asbestos. They are, as you know, the new mill and increasing the capacity of the underground mine. We estimate that it will take five years to complete the project. It is an example of our confidence in the future of our company and how we must plan a number of years ahead."
The meeting ended with a "premiere" of the new film produced by Johns-Manville and entitled "Fibres of Freedom." This documentary film is the story of the growth and expansion of an industry based on the history of Johns-Manville.

E. T. Man Named To Commission
Quebec, Oct. 1.—Premier Duplessis has announced appointment of a three-man commission to study and possibly revise Quebec legislation governing co-operative organizations.
The province has more than 700 co-operatives with a total membership of some 80,000 in farming areas alone.
The commission is headed by Theo Legault, Jr., Montreal notary and the two other members are Dan J. Murphy, notary of St. Ignace de Stanbrooke, and a member of the county, and a member, K.C., of Quebec.
Commissioner Legault is also chairman of Quebec co-operatives.
Premier Duplessis said the commission will be given the study of legislation governing co-operatives in the aim of revising it and co-ordinating its various provisions into a single code for co-operatives.
The commission will also study the problems of taxation of co-operatives.

Stanstead Frontier Branch Of Legion Marks 25th Anniversary Of Founding

Rock Island, Oct. 1.—The 25th anniversary of the Stanstead Frontier Branch, No. 5, of the Canadian Legion was observed Saturday with a parade of Legion and army personnel and a meeting in the Haskell opera house at which Capt. Alan Piper, deputy chief pensions officer for Dominion Command of the Legion was the guest speaker.

Sixteen Canadian Legion branches or Posts of the American Legion were represented in the colorful parade in which the Legion pipe band from Sherbrooke, the 27th Field Regiment band from Coaticook and the cadets from Stanstead College also marched.

The parade started at Stanstead Plain and, crossing the international boundary, passed through Derby Line to the Opera House, which was attractively decorated, by a joint committee of the Legion and the Ladies Auxiliary, in blue and gold.

On the platform were Syd Hart, president of the Sherbrooke branch, Rev. Frank Stanton, chaplain of the Frontier Branch, John Kay of Sherbrooke, representing Provincial Command, Mr. Piper, Lloyd Bliss president of the Frontier branch, Dr. E. C. Amaron, principal of Stanstead College, H. S. Beane of Beebe, chairman, and Heron Hudson, chairman of the anniversary committee. Following a welcome by Mr. Bliss, the meeting was turned over to Mr. Beane who called on Mr. Stanton to deliver a brief prayer for the recovery of the King. Dr. Amaron then reviewed the history of the branch, from its establishment 25 years ago.

Dr. Amaron stated that the task of condensing into 35 minutes the history of 25 years of the achievements of Branch No. 5 of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League and of over 7 years of the noble work of its ancestor the G.W.V.A., was a formidable one. He had read through some 280 minutes from meetings but it had been most interesting and rewarding. In writing the paper, Dr. Amaron has summarized one year at a time, picking out the highlights of that year.

Dr. Amaron spoke of the amazing sense of unity and goodwill through the years, of the democratic spirit which has prevailed over a quarter of a century. Differences in rank, in education, in religion, or in language have found no place in the life of the branch. Only two things mattered, that a man had served his country honorably in time of war and that he was prepared to do so in time of peace with a special emphasis on making easier the lot of veterans in need.

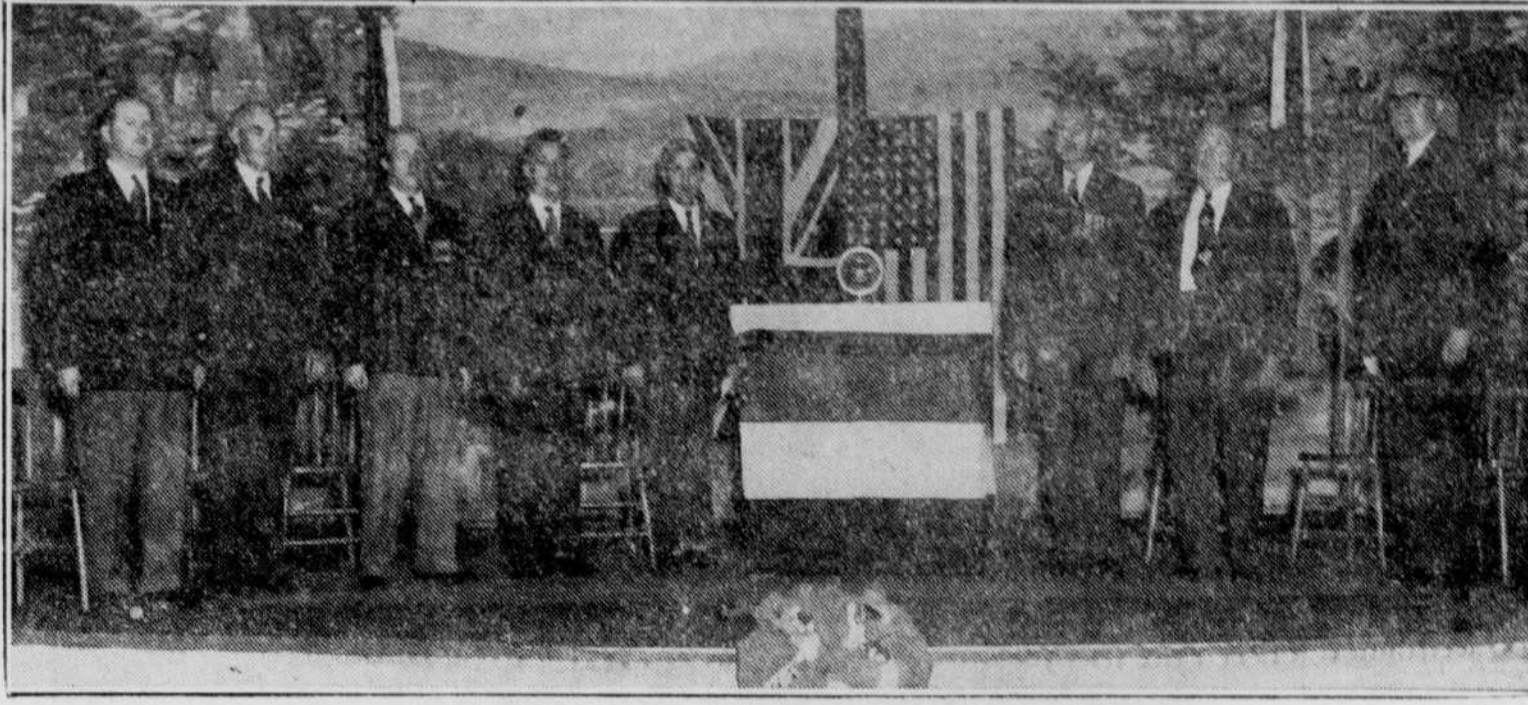

One was impressed with the large number who served in office and on committees and with the readiness with which the branch has given aid to those in need. When their time of stress had passed many returned the money they had received, became regular

Cookshire Boy Badly Injured At Lennoxville

Renaud Royer, 17, of Cookshire, was severely injured Saturday evening when his motorcycle collided with a car driven by a Mr. Winget, of Lennoxville, in Lennoxville.

The youth is a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital, suffering from a concussion, lacerations to the face, and a possible fractured skull. He is in a semi-conscious state. His condition is considered serious. Provincial Police Officer Gerard Belisle investigated the accident.

Is Uninjured As Taxi Hits Moving Train

Louis Vigneault, 45, driver for a local taxi company, is a very lucky man. His cab crashed into the side of a moving C.P.R. train at Four Pines street Saturday afternoon and he escaped without injury.

As a matter of fact, he was on the job again Sunday but in a different car, his usual 1951 Buick sedan's front being heavily damaged—about $700's worth.

Vigneault, who got a fare Sunday evening from a Record reporter, told us that he didn't see the train coming until he was almost upon it.

The train is the Halifax to Sherbrooke to Montreal, which is scheduled to pull out of Sherbrooke to Montreal at 1:30. The accident occurred about 1:25 p.m.

Sgt. Detective Roland Gaboriault and Police Constable Dignan Brady investigated.

The true Legionnaire is exemplified by the individual who wants to help others," he declared. Capt. Piper, introduced by Mr. through the premature explosion of a grenade in the last war but said he did not consider he had any disability.

"I can see and hear and walk," he said, "and I can appreciate everything around me. In hospital there are many who can neither walk nor see. It is when I visit these disabled veterans that I realize there is still much to do.

"Those of us who lost something in war gained something no one else has, a greater appreciation of values." He spoke of the heartaches and difficulties of some veterans whose cases have been brought before him and said it is hard to realize the trouble that is so predominant in the homes of many veterans.

"I thank the Lord that we have true Legionnaires who are looking after these people," he concluded. Mr. Piper was thanked by Mr. Beane.

Another highlight of the Opera House program was Highland dancing by Frances Grieve, of Beebe.

Following the meeting, tea was served in the Armoury by members of the Ladies' Auxiliary and the day's program ended with a dance, to music by the Dufferin Quartet with songs by Larry and Joan Crawford.

One Dead, Two Hurt, Damage Heavy In Week-End Accidents At Magog

Magog, Oct. 1.—Accidents in and around Magog since Friday killed one person and sent two injured to hospital.

James Ray, 46, was electrocuted Friday, shortly after noon, when his hand came into contact with a live wire, carrying 4,000 volts current.

The tragedy occurred on the Georgeville road at a cottage owned by a Montreal man. Ray had been engaged, along with several other men, to repair a fence on the cottage property.

A tree fell on the power line, bringing the line to the ground and into contact with Ray. He died instantly.

A coroner's jury, under the district coroner, Dr. Armand Voyer, of Magog, returned a verdict of accidental death.

A motor mishap within the city, Saturday noon, sent little Claude Audet, 5, of 101 Torrant street, to La Providence Hospital suffering from a broken right arm. The child darted into the street near his home and was struck by a car driven by L. Lessard, 50, of Mansenville. Lessard tried to avoid hitting the child but the boy's presence caught him by surprise and it was too late to keep from hitting him.

Later Saturday afternoon, Richard Lavoie, 26, of 278 St. Mary street, Magog, received a shaking up and damages to his automobile when he tried to avoid one car coming at him on Main street and colliding with another car.

Remie Blanchard, 33, of Montreal, was taken to Notre Dame Hospital in the big city, Saturday night, as the result of an accident which occurred about 10:15 o'clock.

He was walking along the Montreal Road, at the side, with two cars coming at him, but apparently at a comfortable distance.

The first auto, a 1930 model DeSoto, was hit by the second car, at its rear, and the DeSoto caromed off Blanchard.

The old car was driven by Antonio Laroche, 35, of the East Bolton Road, Route four, and was carrying Laroche's family as passengers.

The second automobile was driven by Jean Guy Blouin, in his 20's, of 103 Portland Avenue, Sherbrooke, and carrying as passenger a girl companion. None of the passengers of either car received more than a bad shaking-up although the DeSoto was heavily damaged and Blouin's 1950 Plymouth received about $150 in damages.

The above caused a busy week-end for the Magog Police force, under Chief Telephone Lavoie. Other officers in the investigations were Capt. Gideon Rouleau, Constables Gerard Belanger and Stephen Roy.

Presbytery Will Meet In Sherbrooke

Community Chest Begins Campaign For $25,000

The Community Chest campaign starts today. Canvassers will be calling at homes in Sherbrooke and Lennoxville this evening.

The objective this year is $25,000, the amount necessary to pay the deficits incurred by the participating organizations during their last year of operation.

The participating agencies this year are: St. John Ambulance Brigade, Salvation Army, Boy Scout Association, Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A., Lennoxville Public Library, and the Sherbrooke Public Library.

While $25,000 will bring the seven organizations out of the red, expansion of their services, where deemed necessary, will only be realized if the Red Feather Drive goes over the top.

As the appeal for funds is really that of seven organizations in one, the Community Chest Committee asks the public to bear this in mind when considering the size of their donation to these Community services.

Women Are Vital Working Force, Mrs. Ahern Tells Convention Here

Mrs. Allie Ahern, of Halifax, national president of the Canadian Confederation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, told members attending the Quebec Provincial Conference here that "women are definitely established as a vital working force in the world today."

The occasion was a dinner meeting at the New Sherbrooke Hotel on Saturday evening, following the opening session of the two-day conference.

The speaker said that the subject "Women and work" is as old as time and as opportune as today, but that the present picture is entirely different from the one of fifty years ago.

She paid tribute to the pioneer women and the tremendous contribution they made to the building of the nation, mentioning the religious orders, the pioneer mothers who tilled the soil, raised families and worked side by side with their men, such figures as Madeleine de Vercheres, Florence Nightingale and Laura Secord.

By devious ways, she pointed out, women have evolved from the narrow street which lay open to them years ago and have made their way into the wider street of employment as it is known at present. They are now in medicine, engineering, law and many other spheres of public life.

"With the granting of the franchise," she continued, "Canadian women paved the way to a new era for us, a new power was ours."

She deplored the fact, however, that apathy and indifference prevent the women of the country from using this power to the fullest extent.

"The small group of women in Canadian public life deserve our support, but they are all too few," she said. "Canadian women can take their place anywhere in our way of life—a very wonderful one—and can hold their own."

She urged the club members to be proud that they are Canadians and to remember always that they are Canadians.

"We are inclined to be reticent about this fact," she pointed out, "and we lack confidence in ourselves and our ability to enter the economic and political life of our country. This is definitely a short-coming and we must do something about it."

Mrs. Ahern mentioned that today there are more than one million women gainfully employed, but stressed the fact that many of them are not enjoying equal pay for equal work.

The Canadian Confederation was organized 21 years ago to promote the interest of the Business and Professional Women, and equal pay for equal work is one of its main and most earnest endeavors. It bears the earnest hope, she said, that before long every province in Canada will follow in Ontario's footsteps along this line.

In conclusion, Mrs. Ahern urged the members to be ready to accept responsibility and not to be too eager for privileges. "Apathy and indifference are words which are overworked," she said, "but they fit the pattern today."

"We must remember that preparations for peace are futile if individuals do not assume their individual responsibility." Women have a great heritage and must be willing to suffer a little inconvenience, a little shoving and pushing around if they wish to take a fuller part in the affairs of the country. It is not a man's world, nor yet is it a women's world—it is everybody's world."

Mrs. Ahern, who was introduced by the provincial president, Miss Isabel Menzies, and thanked by Miss Isabel Cummings, honorary president of the Canadian Federation, expressed her thanks to the Sherbrooke Club for the reception given her and visiting members from the four other clubs in the province, paid tribute to Miss Bessie Milford, local chairman of the conference committee, and said that Quebec is well represented on the National Board.

Miss Cummings in the chair for the meetings, also expressed thanks to the organizers and welcomed the delegates. She called on Mayor Charles B. Howard who welcomed the Business and Professional Women to Sherbrooke and expressed the hope the conference would be most successful.

"We appreciate the good work the clubs in Canada are doing in the interest of better citizenship throughout our great country," he said.

Head table guests at this meeting were Miss Cummings, Miss Lillian Hawker, president of the Sherbrooke Club, Mrs. C. B. Howard, Mrs. Ahern, Mayor Howard and Miss Menzies.

In the afternoon Mrs. Wilhelmina Holmes, B.A., B.C.L., of Montreal, addressed the delegates on "The case for women in Quebec."

The speaker, whose talk was humorous as well as enlightening, said that the "whole basis of your civil capacity is your power to contract."

She covered some of the legal rights of women in the province of Quebec and said that there is no prohibition on women as a sex, it is simply the married ones who are restricted to a certain extent.

During the existence of a marriage, she pointed out, the wife cedes certain rights to her husband, which return to her at his death or when the marriage is dissolved.

It is necessary for her to have her husband's consent before her signature is valid on any contract. However, she said, women do most of the buying and every wife has a tacit mandate from her husband to buy anything needed for the house or family. Women sign for purchases on the instalment plan, they can make wills, are allowed to have bank accounts of any amount whatsoever.

VIOLATING AN AGREEMENT

A legislative amendment recently given Congressional approval in the United States appears to be an open violation of that country's commitments under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade comments the Kingston Whig-Standard, which continues, that the amendment restricts the importing of cheese and other dairy products, and the countries most affected by it are The Netherlands, Denmark, Italy and Canada. These countries are protesting against the violation, and it has been condemned in a number of responsible newspapers in the United States. In addition, the United States Administration itself has taken steps to have the amendment repealed, and a bill that would do so is already before Congress.

It might seem that Congress, having passed the amendment, could be expected summarily to reject the bill for repeal, but that does not necessarily follow. The amendment was not introduced as a single piece of legislation, but was tacked onto the U.S. Defense Production Act by Representative August H. Andresen of Minnesota. It may have attracted little attention, and certainly it was not reported as being singled out as a violation of G.A.T.T. during its passage through Congress. It is possible, therefore, that the legislative branch may in this instance be ready to comply with the expressed wish of the administration.

Mr. Andresen's purpose in sponsoring the amendment is obscure. A probable reason is that he did so for purely local effect, since Minnesota is not primarily a dairy industry state. Had the sponsorship come from a Wisconsin legislator, it would have been more understandable, since cheesemaking is a major industry of that state. And it would appear that there is little need of the measure nationally, for the amount of cheese imported by the United States annually is said to be less than five per cent of total consumption with most of the imported product meeting a specialized demand from foreign-born consumers and those with a taste for some of the famous cheeses of other countries.

This violation might appear a minor matter to some, yet anything which jars the unity of the Western nations is deplorable. It is by no means a minor matter for the three European countries involved; they have been urged by the United States to develop "dollar" trade, and they now see a portion of that hard-earned trade wiped out by a trade agreement violation. Canada is quite properly siding with these three nations and, depending on events during the next week or two, is prepared to lodge a complaint at the present economic session at Geneva. Canada is also prepared to join in retaliatory action provided for in the agreement if the violation persists. It is an unpleasant situation, yet the United States, as the leading world power, must demonstrate to those it leads that it may be relied on to honour the agreements it enters.

U.S. HAS IMPORTANT INTEREST IN IMPENDING BRITISH ELECTIONS

Washington — (NEA) — There is an important American angle to the British elections which Labor Party Prime Minister Clement Attlee has called for Oct. 25. Ordinarily, it's tough enough for American voters to keep their own politics and politicians straightened out, without bothering over British domestic issues. But this is different. Underlying all other reasons for calling British elections now are the United Kingdom's unfavorable trade balance, reduction of gold reserves and financial relations with the United States. Involved in the last item are questions of new American aid and payment of the first principal and interest, due Dec. 31, on the $3.75 billion U.S. loan to Britain. First payment on a Canadian loan of $1.2 billion also comes due at this time.

It was noteworthy during last week's North Atlantic Treaty Council meeting in Ottawa and the International Bank of Monetary Fund meeting in Washington the week before that British representatives went out of their way to spread the word and paint the picture of Britain's financial plight.

This was not necessarily done in any crying tone. It was the usual calm, British portrayal of the facts of financial life.

Britain's exports are up, and prices are 14 per cent above last year's Britain has to pay 35 per cent more for her imports, however. Britain's economy is 24 per cent dependent on imports, as compared with only 4 per cent for the U.S. Because of these increases in prices paid, Britain's dollar surplus of last year is being converted in to a dollar deficit this year.

EXPORTS MUST BALANCE DEFENSE SPENDING
Britain is spending roughly $4.7 billion on defense this year and for the next two years. To meet the cost of this effort, it would be necessary for Britain to sell that much more exports.

Because of steel shortages, coal shortages, conversion of industry to arms production, it is impossible to increase exports by this amount. The interesting thing about all this presentation of gloom was that no visiting Briton ever got around to saying what was going to be done about it. The ball was simply put out in mid-field, apparently in the hope that someone with a bright idea would pick it up and run.

What the British themselves propose to do about it is apparently to be left until after the elections. If the Conservatives win, it will be their ball to run with. If the Labor Party wins and improve its present slim majority in Parliament, that will presumably be the signal and the mandate. It will then have to pick up the ball and buck the line with further cutbacks on the British economy. Or something.

In talks between American and British officials, there were implications that the British might like additional U.S. aid. But they never came right out and said they would, or how much. They did ask for an allocation of 800,000 tons of U.S. steel — not the two million tons originally reported.

BUDGET INCLUDES ALLOWANCE FOR DEBT PAYMENT

The subject of Britain's Dec. 31 loan payment did not come up officially and was not on the agenda. When Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Gaitskell arrived in New York, however, he said he had a predilection for paying debts and had made an allowance for it in his budget.

The amount due the U.S. is $32 million principal and $87 million interest. The amount due Canada at the same time is approximately $38 million (Canadian). But there is a provision in both loans that interest can be waived if the British regard their reserves as inadequate or if the International Monetary Fund determines that Britain cannot earn enough from her exports to finance imports of the same volume as in 1936-38.

After the elections, there will be tremendous pressure in Britain to ask for a waiver on this interest. If the Labor Party wins by a slim margin, it won't be able to resist this pressure.

If the waiver is asked for, there will be criticism of Britain in the United States. The question may then become an American political issue, used by the Republicans against the Democrats who granted this loan in the first place.

If the loan payment is made, however, it may mean only that Britain will expect that much more aid from the United States next year. There is no economic aid for Britain in the legislation now before Congress. The amount of military aid earmarked for Britain has not been disclosed. Whichever British party wins the October election may stay in power or fall according to the size of the cut in the pie.

PRESS COMMENTS

THE KINGSTON INCIDENT

Bus and Truck Transport
There is a bleak warning for the Canadian public in the withdrawal from Kingston, Ontario, of the Kingston City Coach Company.

This Company has been providing transit facilities in Kingston for 21 years. But now, due to rising costs of operation and increased labor demands, it has decided it can no longer do so profitably. It has therefore advised the city it will terminate its present contract October 1.

H. J. Curtis, Vice-President of Provincial Transport, of which Kingston City Coach is a subsidiary, has explained the final straw which prompted this decision. In April, he said, the drivers' union sought an increase of 15 cents an hour for all drivers. The company offered an increase of five cents an hour which was refused.

Later a conciliation board heard both sides of the case. While the Board had so far made no report, the company believed its findings would favor the drivers to an extent that the operation would no longer be profitable. It had therefore decided to quit.

It is significant that the company makes no criticism of the drivers' claims. Indeed, its action suggests it sees justice in them. What has happened is that drivers, company and the public have all been caught up in the maelstrom of inflation. The result: Kingston must find a new service, no small undertaking for a city of its size.

From no quarter has there been criticism of the service provided by the company. The general reaction from civic officials, public and local press appears to be genuine regret at losing it. Only consolation for Kingston is that the Company has offered to operate temporarily, the city paying the shot.

The only good which may have come from the Kingston incident is that it has drawn attention to the hard fact that management has no bottomless pot from which, indefinitely, it can meet rising costs. Now, even if a new service is started in Kingston, there is going to be hardship all round. Employees have no assurance they will get jobs with a new company, the public will have to share the teething trials of a new organization and the city will lose an annual cut from the company's profits.

Can there be protection against similar happenings in other centres of Canada? We believe there can, and that government and labor at all levels can profit by Kingston's experience. What's needed is a careful appraisal of federal, provincial and local taxes, and relief where these are unjustly heavy. Too often today it is assumed that any protest against taxation is unpatriotic. It is an assumption which has produced much injustice. Labor, too, should recognize there are problems other than its own, and that insistence on too big a slice of the pie may leave no pie at all.

RACE DISCRIMINATION RISES IN SWEDEN

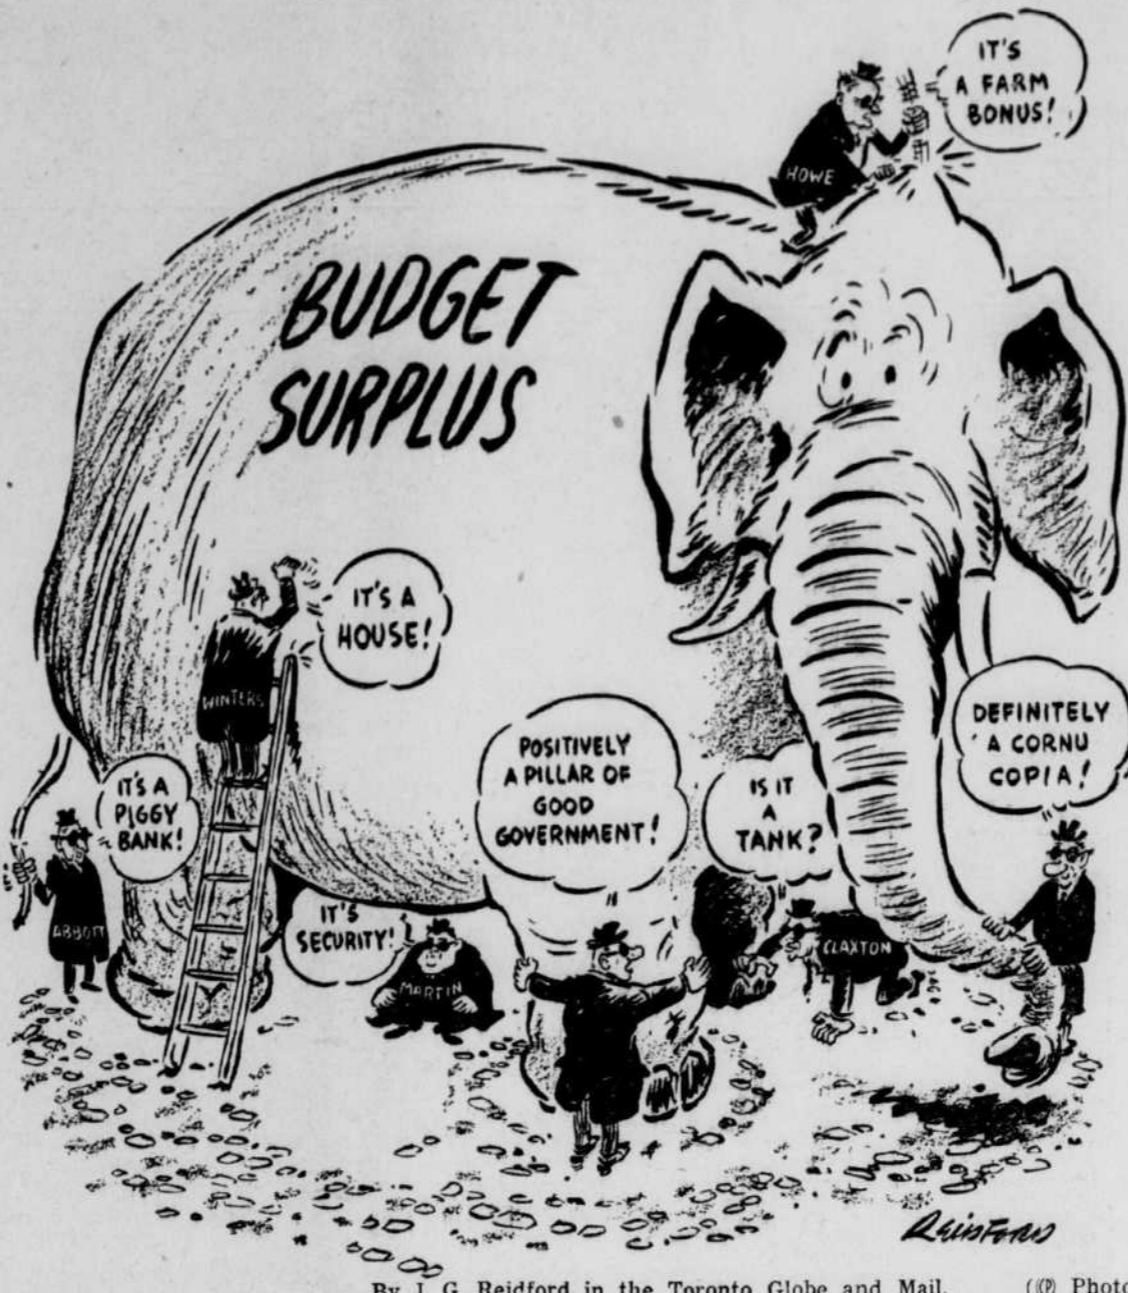

One usually associates racial discrimination with the United States, particularly that section of the country below the Mason and Dixon line. However, an incident occurred in Stockholm, Sweden, recently which indicates that unfriendliness between races is rampant there.

Involved was Merid Beyne, hereditary Prince of Ethiopia and grandson of Emperor Haile Selassie, who was attacked by a crowd of hooligans who noticed him accompanying a white girl. The prince was kicked in the shins and some of the mob threatened to kill him. The girl was also attacked but she escaped injury. Bystanders noticed the disturbance and called police who rescued the prince.

It was the second time within a week that foreigners were discriminated against in the Swedish capital because of their color. Earlier, an Egyptian vaudeville group of six was forced to tramp the streets of Stockholm because the refusal of their boardinghouse upon seeing them refused to "admit Negroes."

Prince Merid, despite the fact that he would probably have been lynched if he had not been rescued in time by the police, rightly bore no ill-will toward the Swedish people as a whole. In an interview following the incident, he said that he had not changed his original plan to stay there until mid-October "since it was evidently an isolated affair caused by a few drunken ruffians and in no way represents the Swedish attitude on race matters."

Marshal Tito Runs Bureau To Answer Yugoslav Complaints

Belgrade, Oct. 1.—(Reuters)—Yugoslavia has a Federal Bureau of Complaints and Suggestions to which anyone in the country can complain about anything.

Next door to the bureau is a "unusual channels." They just write a letter to the bureau or go to its headquarters in Belgrade in person.

Krista Milosevich, deputy general secretary of the federal government, a schoolmaster before the war, now runs the bureau.

"We do not believe in official looking counters and barriers here," he said in the spacious, well-appointed waiting room. "We think the atmosphere should be as informal as possible."

Four or five people were sitting in blue-upholstered easy chairs, some of them reading papers, waiting their turn. Only a portrait of Marshal Tito on the wall reminded them that they were in a government office.

Next door was the consulting room. A middle-aged peasant woman with a kerchief round her head was pouring out her troubles to one of the bureau's woman consultants who was making notes.

Milosevich said that in the first six months of this year the bureau had handled 10,000 complaints from all over the country on a variety of subjects. Nearly 70 per cent had been personally addressed to Marshal Tito.

Until this year, such complaints were handled by the Marshal's personal secretariat, but they became so numerous that it was decided to hand them over to the bureau.

"About 50 per cent of the complaints made are justified," Milosevich said. The most numerous are those connected with housing, dismissals from employment, and forced sales of agricultural produce to the government.

The bureau also handles suggestions, although these are "very small" in number compared with the complaints.

Milosevich stressed that the bureau has no power outside the law. It could only see that the law was properly carried out. Its task was to investigate complaints and to recommend, if they are justified, that the decisions which led to them be modified or reversed by the authorities who originally made them.

A young unemployed woman complained to the bureau that she could not find a job because when she was last dismissed from employment she was given references which qualified her as "an enemy of the people" (politically undesirable). The bureau found the accusations against the woman to be mere supposition of which there was no proof, and had the references withdrawn.

A yellow file contained a letter to Marshal Tito from a peasant who had been sentenced to three months' prison for failing to deliver his annual quota of grain to state collectors.

"I appeal to you, comrade Marshal," it said, "as a partisan fighter in 1943 who was wounded and 70 per cent disabled, I am not able to do as much work as I used to do before. Because of this and because the year was very bad, I

To the outside observer, the Federal Bureau of Complaints and Suggestions, which has a staff of over 30, seems to be doing good work. But this view is not shared by all Yugoslavs. One opponent of Marshal Tito's regime described its activity to me as "mostly eyewash."

The Record Short Story

VOYAGE NO. 2

By JOHN RAFTERY

Across the levee, in silhouette, in the silver wash of moonlight the Aphrodite didn't look so bad. The lovely curve of the bow of the new tanker, the graceful stern curve, the raked funnel and the medium-tall masts all added up to a stage set by Bel Geddes. Guinevere Carson ignored the smell of oil and the Mexican taxi-driver's insistent efforts to make conversation with her. Mexicans always stared at blondes.

Discontented, divorced, distraught and distraught, Guin was taking her old man's prescription — a trip to Bayonne in one of Cosmos Oil Corporation's tank ships. She knew her father — the diabolical old devil — had something up his sleeve besides a sandy-haired and freckled arm. Bored, she wondered what it was.

She paid the taxi-driver on the stone dock. He took her five bags "up" the gangplank. The plank was almost level because Aphrodite was full of a million gallons of oil. Holding up the sailing.

The voice was cold, peremptory, and had a hell-with-you tone. That was refreshing because Guin was sick and tired of these employees of Cosmos, in Porto Caballero and in Mexico City, who, knowing the old man was her father and president of Cosmos, waited on her, fawned on her. She wished they'd snoot her, so that she could snoot them in the very best way. Maybe Captain Oliver would oblige her.

A pasty-faced steward or mess boy took her up a couple of companionways and said, "This is your stateroom, miss. Next to the old man's, forward. He hates noise."

Guin washed her face, using the lethally strong carbolic soap she found on the washstand, got into a nightgown, and hopped into the bunk. She took to bed with her sullen, spoiled look she had found reflected at her from the mirror, and she hated it. This was the bottom—she was discontented with discontent, sour with sullenness.

She heard shouted commands, the high whining note of a turbine and a deep mechanical rhythmic noise. She moved out into the bay. She fell asleep.

In the morning, about nine, in a white linen skirt and a billowing white organdy blouse and a green thing wrapped around her head, she went on deck. Someone up on the bridge whistled "Whee-eeep, woo-o-o!" and Guin gave him a dirty look.

Practically outside her door, on the lower bridge deck, Oliver sat reclining like Nero in a deck chair. He said, "Good morning, miss." He was naked except for the khaki shorts, and bronzed and tall. He had that hell-with-you expression on his face, matching that tone in his voice that she first heard last night.

"My name's Oliver Oliver. I think I got your name right, Guinevere Cartwright-Taylor? Nee Carson." He added the last unnecessarily.

"Yes. Especially nee Carson. How does one get breakfast on this barge?"

He didn't show any resentment, but the words came out like hail on a tin roof. "This is the hotel vessel Aphrodite, Porto Caballero to Bayonne with oil. You can try to get breakfast by seeing the cook. You're about an hour late."

The cook was more amenable. Without sacrificing an iota of his supreme and isolated position on the ship he gave her orange juice, bacon and 3 eggs and coffee in the now-deserted officers' mess room. Hanging over her like a friendly but unbending king he made conversation. His oral rendering of it flabbergasted her.

"Cap'n Oliver is acurios anomaly," Miss—Mrs. Cartwright-Taylor. A guttersnipe—at least in the economic sense—he went on the schoolship when he was just barely old enough. I've been with him ever since he was made captain, when he was 30. Like all people who didn't have a chance to go to conventional schools he was overcompensated with education.

"Take a look at his library when he's on the bridge. He's a member of the bar of Texas, has an engineering degree by correspondence from some state university. Quite something."

She smiled a wry smile and said, "You're out of your mind in one year? You're asking me?"

A blast split the sound-pattern of the wash of the sea and the rhythmic churning of the engines. Oliver was off and up to the bridge in a split second, leaving her staring into the quilted white wall before her. A cacophony of foot and walling sirens and clanging bells sprang into life all around them. The fog was a thick, palpable gumbo of white wool.

When Oliver came down from the bridge the night was clear again and Scotland Lightship was before them.

"You're out of the fog now, sister," Oliver said. He leaned over and kissed her lightly on the lips. "We'll be tied up in an hour or so. Nice knowing you. Good-bye."

Guin looked at the starlit sea and smiled the enigmatic smile of woman. To herself she said, "Good-bye is what you think, sonny. You haven't seen Guin in action."

Questions and Answers

Q—What is the legend regarding the wearing of cramp-rings?
A—Cramp-rings were worn by the ancients as a cure for epilepsy. The legend is that the first one was presented to Edward the Confessor by a pilgrim on his return from Jerusalem. Cedars, Que., Oct. 1—Farmer Alcide Marier's family was almost wiped out yesterday when he and four of his six children lost their lives when their car plunged into the Soulanges canal near here.

A neighbor, Antonin Dault, 60, also died in the accident. The Marier children, who drowned were: Pierrette, 18, Germain, 17, Monique, 12, and Louise, 7.

It was feared at first that Mrs. Marier also was in the ill-fated car, but she had stayed home with the two other children.

The victims were all on their way to church when the accident happened. Their car was just leaving a dirt road leading to the canal highway when it was sidswiped by another car.

The impact caused Marier to lose control of the vehicle and it careened off the road, squeezed between a bridge and a steep-pipe fence and plunged into 19 feet of water.

Arthur Sparks of Galt, Ont., driver of the second auto, and his wife, escaped injury.

Bridge watchman Arthur Chartand telephoned district coroner Dr. A. B. Clement who called provincial police, Dr. Clement, a friend of Marier and who delivered all their children, notified Mrs. Marier of the tragedy.

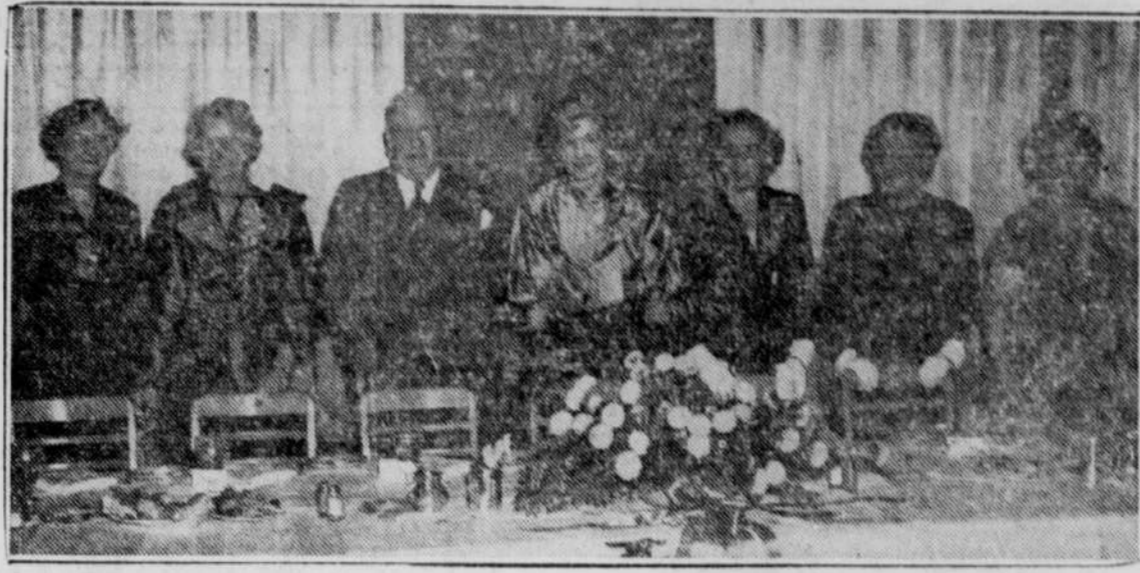

Mrs. Marier told police her husband and the four children and the neighbor had been on their way to early morning mass when the accident occurred. She had stayed home with two other children, aged 10 and 6.

Four hours after the plunge, when a towing truck dragged the car from the canal, all bodies were found huddled together.

Dr. Clement said an inquest will be held today.

The tragedy brought to eight the number of persons who have lost their lives along the treacherous 14-mile canal roadway this year. Other victims were a transport driver and a motorist.

soever, and can keep for themselves the fruits of their own work.

She touched on the terms "community of property" and "separation of property" explaining that unless two people sign a contract before marriage, declaring that they are separate as to property, once the marriage ceremony is over, they automatically fall into community of property, each one owning half of whatever property is possessed by both.

Women in other provinces, separate as to property, can do as they like with their share, but there are disadvantages for them if they come to live in Quebec, without a marriage contract, because then they fall under the rules of the province.

She said that clubs should not be considered as simply social and study groups, but that definite action should be taken for the betterment of women in general.

A discussion on equal pay for equal work was introduced by Miss Cummings, who said that business women today must accept more responsibility in their professions and all their activities. It is only by doing so in the local municipal field, she said, that we can hope to have an effect on the country as a whole, "each of us in our own small corner."

At the Board meeting of Federation, in Ottawa, the National Board decided to set up an "employment conditions committee" for all of Canada and the Quebec Conference therefore availed itself of the first opportunity to pass a motion asking that this be set up for the province of Quebec, as well.

This committee would have the support of the national committee and all conditions affecting employment of business and professional women would be considered.

At the opening of the business session, Miss Hawker, speaking for the Sherbrooke Club, welcomed the visitors expressing the hope that the conference would be both profitable and enjoyable for all members.

Yesterday afternoon was given over to the reading of reports by the various club presidents. Miss Margaret Battersby of Stanstead, gave the report of the Border Clubs, Mrs. Germaine Alleyne, for Quebec, Miss Hawker for Sherbrooke, Mrs. M. Jackson Saunders, for Montreal, and Miss E. Dupont for the youngest club, Three Rivers.

Miss Dupont expressed the wish that the next provincial conference would be held in Three Rivers, and assured the members of a cordial welcome.

At the close of the business session, presided over by the provincial president, Miss Menzies, was served by members of the Sherbrooke club.

GREENSHIELDS' MARKET REVIEW

With the exception of golds, stock averages moved downwards last week in quiet trading. Metals and oils, as well as a few selected issues showed strength.

Access of Canadian gold to premium markets now depends on the government action. While reaffirming its belief that gold should be kept at the official price, International Monetary Fund stated last Friday that if found impracticable to control gold sales for industrial uses that individual member countries would have to decide upon future policy in this respect. The office of price stabilization in the United States has raised domestic prices for lead and zinc by two cents a pound and imposed ceiling prices on imports. At 19 cents a pound the new ceiling for lead is still under the premium price of 20 1/2 cents a pound recently paid in the United States for Canadian lead.

Net railway earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway for August dropped to $257,900 as compared with $2,694,400 in August, 1950. Rolland Paper Company declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock, in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 15 cents.

Recently a prominent agricultural experiment station published some figures that opened our eyes. Based on 26 years of experimental results, it was stated that a 160-acre farm which used lime and clover had an average annual income of $950 more than the same farm would have made without lime and clover. Here are the figures, based on 40 acres per crop:

Y. T. C. September Meeting Held At Fordyce

Fordyce, Oct. 1. — The September meeting of the Y.T.C. was held at the home of the treasurer, Noreen David, with ten members present. No regular business meeting was conducted, as both the president and vice-president were absent. Noreen David read an item from Tidings written to all members by the National Secretary, Miss Fulton of Vancouver; she urged the members, now that holidays were over to make a renewed effort to make their meetings interesting, and to work hard on their Study Period and Scrap-Book Project. Always keeping in mind their slogan "A Good Time With A Purpose"—that purpose being "To learn as much as possible about the harm of alcohol on our bodies and minds"; and the best way to do this, is to maintain a keen interest in our Study period.

Plans were made to hold a card party in Trinity Hall, Cowansville on Friday P. M., Oct. 12th, to raise funds to provide prizes for pupils who wish to write the lessons in the temperance study course, which will be open to all children in October from 8 years old to 18. There are also prizes given by the Provincial and Dominion W.C.T.U. for poster work, and Scrap-books, for those who prefer this instead of writing the lessons which will be printed in all Sunday School papers in October. It is to be hoped that a Halloween Party can be held at the end of October. Members are urged to try and attend meetings as regularly as possible, now that the holidays are over. Later games were played and lunch was served.

Should persons of different faiths marry?

Why is intermarriage between Catholics, Protestants, Jews opposed by leaders of all these religions? In October Reader's Digest, human relations expert Dr. David Mace discusses the hazards of mixed marriage.

Dr. Mace points out where friction may arise—in raising children, in day to day points of view. Read how parents can help their children avoid the pitfalls of mixed marriage; how a couple involved in one can best deal with problems they must face.

What is the Miracle of Canada?

The miracle of Canada is the reward of its thrifty people; it is a standard of living wrought by men and women who believe in spending and saving wisely. The average Canadian, for example, owns his own car and his own home. He pays his bills when due. His pattern of living is excellent.

When the pattern breaks But unexpected emergencies do break the pattern. Usually the emergency requires more money than he has available. This can happen to anyone. Then help must come from a dependable outside service.

3 out of 4 choose Household HFC feels that no one should borrow unless a loan is the best solution to a money problem. Because HFC service is friendly, dependable, 3 out of 4 Canadian families prefer to borrow in amounts of $50 to $1000 from HOUSEHOLD FINANCE. Your telephone book lists the office nearest you.
