PROTEST ATTACK ON BRITISH POLICE

Gravest Results To Follow Repetition Of Shanghai Attack

Official Report of British Police Inspector Charges Two Officers Beaten Up by Japanese Soldiers on Boundaries of International Settlement—Japanese Censors and Communications Officials Take Charge of Shanghai Cable Stations.

Shanghai, January 7.—Major-General A. P. D. Telfer-Smollett, commanding British troops at Shanghai, protested today against an attack by Japanese soldiers on two British officers of the Shanghai municipal police.

General Telfer-Smollett accused Japanese armed forces of invading the British defence zone in the International Settlement and was reported to have warned the Japanese military that repetition might "result in the gravest consequences."

A Japanese embassy spokesman, questioned concerning the attack, said, "We have no information."

Inspector F. G. West, one of the officers, said he and Sergeant A. R. Turner were watching Japanese soldiers search Chinese peddlers near the line between the British defence zone and the Japanese occupied area and remarked that the peddlers were receiving unnecessarily rough treatment.

Inspector West said a Japanese policeman shouted, "It's none of your business," and struck Sergeant Turner on the nose. Several Japanese soldiers then rushed across the line, the officer declared, and pummeled him.

When he went to Turner's aid, West said, the Japanese soldiers beat him also.

Censors Take Over Duties.
Twenty Japanese censors and communications officials who established themselves yesterday in the offices of three foreign cable companies in Shanghai's International Settlement began supervision of despatches.

Twenty-four Japanese planes raided the Chinese airport at Nanchang, capital of Kiangsi province, a naval spokesman reported. He said Chinese fighters attempted another air attack on a Japanese airdrome at Wuhu, on the Yangtze river above Nanking, "but were unsuccessful when Japanese planes took the air and forced the Chinese to dump their bombs in the Yangtze and flee."

He said the Chinese were flying high-speed planes which the Japanese.

Foreign Governments Confer On Drastic Japanese Demands

Almost Complete Control Over Affairs of International Settlement Demanded by Japanese Authorities—Great Britain, France and United States Prepared to Defend Privileges Granted Under Land Regulations.

London, Jan. 7.—The British, French and United States governments are to confer over the drastic Japanese demands on the International Settlement in Shanghai.

These demands, received in London officially only today, mean that the Japanese hold on the International Settlement will be tightened. They are understood to include greater Japanese representation on the municipal council, which administers the International Settlement, more Japanese in the municipal departments, an increased number of Japanese police in the Settlement, and a Japanese Secretary-General of the Settlement.

The International Settlement has six miles of river front, which includes the central business area, and the most modern factories in Shanghai.

Great Britain rejects suggestions there is no written evidence to support the validity of the land regulations from which the municipal council of the International Settlement derives its authority. The land regulations, it is pointed out, were issued under joint minutes of the powers dated September 24, 1860. Among the signatories were the United States, Great Britain, France and Germany.

The authority for the land regulations has been recognized on a number of occasions by the Chinese Government, especially by a proclamation in 1899 and more specifically in 1930. In the British view there can be no doubt whatever that the authority of the municipal council of the International Settlement rests upon a legal basis.

The land regulations themselves first were drawn up over the period between 1840 and 1860. Since then there have been a number of amendments.

Coaticook, Jan. 7.—Striking employees of the Belding-Corticelli plant here are waiting quietly for the return of W. P. Mr. MacDougal is expected to return to Coaticook tomorrow.

CONACHER WILL MOVE REPLY TO THRONE SPEECH

Former Hockey Star to Open Ontario House Debate—Hope to Conclude Session Before Rowell Commission Sittings Start.

Toronto, Jan. 7.—Big Lionel Conacher, who forsook the ice lanes for politics, will get into another kind of battle here next month when he moves the Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne in the Ontario Legislature.

Opening of the Legislature's first regular session February 23 was announced last night by Premier Hepburn who said the former National Hockey League star, now Liberal member for Toronto Brimley, would move the address.

A privilege generally reserved for new members, opening of the debate will be carried out by another Legislative newcomer, Romeo Babin, of Russell, who will second the address. Their speeches will set the stage for a month-long session in which the power question probably will be uppermost.

The Legislature is meeting a month earlier than the Premier had planned. This, it was explained, is so the session can be wound up before the Rowell Commission opens its Ontario hearings in Toronto on April 19.

For legislators returned in last October's provincial election which the Liberals won overwhelmingly, it won't be their original baptism of political fire. A special session assembled December 1 and was prorogued December 3 by the province's new Lieutenant-Governor, Hon. Albert Matthews, after passing legislation to strengthen the Succession Duties Act.

Premier Hepburn's forces captured sixty-four of the ninety seats in the October 6 voting. In addition

Government Claims Insurgent Forces Completely Routed In Teruel Battle

Remnants of Insurgent Garrison Still Fighting Snipers' Warfare with Government Troops in Provincial City 160 Miles to East of Madrid.

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Jan. 7.—Spanish Government forces appeared today to have gained a winning margin in the most intensive fighting of the seventeen-day Teruel campaign.

Fighting centred about Conced to the north of Teruel, and Government communiques proclaimed complete defeat of insurgent troops.

Insurgents were seeking by counter-offensive to break through Government lines into Teruel, until December 21 a strategic insurgent base in operations toward Government Valencia on the east.

Within the provincial city, one hundred and sixty miles to the east of Madrid, remnants of an insurgent garrison still are fighting a snipers' warfare with Government troops. The garrison was cut from escape in the surprise offensive by which Madrid troops fought into the city.

Insurgent General Franco's offensive of infantry, artillery and aviation was repulsed between Conced and Teruel, a Barcelona communique said.

Insurgents, however, held they had established highly fortified positions at heavy expense to the Madrid enemy.

New fighting was in progress also at the base of the Palomera mountains.

Barcelona military advisers said five insurgent planes crashed in battle over the snow-covered sector. Insurgents shot down two Government pursuit ships.

Jap Tanks Drive On Into China Behind Smoking Barrages

Slowly but steadily encroaching upon more and more of China's territory, Japan's relentless advance is characterized by the ruthless, clanking drive of this tank corps into fallen Nanking. The tanks carried "mop-up" squads to clear out snipers, and followed the destructive artillery barrage turned upon the capital. Smoke from shelled and burning buildings hangs darkly over the road.

Heavy Penalties Imposed For Breach Of Nazi Exchange Laws

Arnold Bernstein, Prominent Hamburg Shipping Owner, Sentenced to Thirty Months in Prison and Fine of $400,000 for Keeping Secret New York Bank Account—Several Business Associates Also Convicted on Similar Charges.

Hamburg, Germany, Jan. 7.—Arnold Bernstein, Jewish head of the Red Star and Arnold Bernstein shipping lines, who had been in jail eleven months, was sentenced today to thirty months in prison and a fine of 1,000,000 marks ($400,000) on charges of violating Germany's rigid foreign exchange laws.

Bernstein specifically was charged with having a New York secret account of $80,000 to $100,000, which was not declared to the Reichsbank on June 1st, 1933.

The shipowner declared the sum was for use in his shipping business, upon which United States creditors hold $5,000,000 in mortgages. He contended that in June, 1933, his New York agent had a lien of $96,000 against the lines.

The charges against Bernstein were treason and infringing upon the currency laws. The prosecution had demanded five years and a fine of 4,500,000 marks ($1,800,000).

One of Bernstein's associates, Berthold Gumpel, was sentenced to thirty months in jail and fined 615,000 marks ($246,000).

Albert Wolff was sentenced to fifteen months and 50,000 marks fine ($20,000). Heinz Grunfeld was sentenced to two months, but his sentence continued as already served.

Robert Gottschalk and Rudolf Meyer were acquitted. The Bernstein lines now are operated by Marius Bower, former director of the Hamburg American line, under an agreement between the German authorities and foreign creditors.

Challenge Relevancy Of Dominion's Argument Against Alberta Measures

Alberta Counsel Seeks to Have Section of Factum Dealing with Broad Question of Social Credit Stricken from Reference to Supreme Court.

Ottawa, Jan. 7.—Challenging the relevancy of parts of the Dominion Government factum in the Canadian Supreme Court reference on Alberta legislation, the Alberta Government will attempt to have large sections of the factum ruled out.

With ten factums on file, the Court record is complete and arguments will start Monday, but the action of the Alberta Government introduced a new aspect into the case.

Col. O. M. Biggar, chief counsel for Alberta, yesterday filed notice of intention to ask the Court for direction on parts of the Dominion factum which he claims are irrelevant to the issue.

Alberta objects to sections in the Dominion factum dealing with the general Social Credit programme of the Provincial Government and including quotations from writings of the founder of Social Credit, Major C. H. Douglas. By including them in the factum, the Dominion endeavored to show that the three bills referred to the Court were part of a general illegal scheme to establish Social Credit in Alberta and that this was an encroachment of Dominion Government jurisdiction.

The intention of the Legislature has nothing to do with the bills before the Court and the judges should not consider other Alberta legislation when passing judgment on the three bills before them, the Alberta counsel claims.

The three bills referred to the Court to test their constitutionality concern taxation of banks, regulation of credit and newspapers, Federal Government power to disallow provincial legislation and right of a Lieutenant-Governor to reserve assent are included in the reference. Four factums have been filed for the Alberta Government, two for the Dominion Government, one for the British Columbia Government, one for the Alberta Daily and Weekly Newspaper Associations, one for the Canadian daily and weekly newspapers and one for the chartered banks.

The bank and the newspaper factums support the Dominion Government's claim the three bills are unconstitutional. The Credit Regulation Act seeks to establish provincial control over credit transactions which are necessarily incidental to banking, the banks' factum said, and banking is under the exclusive jurisdiction of the Federal Government.

The legislation is also intended to force the banks out of Alberta and leave the field open for establishment of a provincial banking system, the factum continued.

The banks contend the bank taxation measure is illegal because it imposes a tax which is indirect and provincial authority only includes direct taxation.

The Canadian daily and weekly newspapers' factum stated that the daily newspapers with their news-gathering association, the Canadian Press, constituted an interlocking and co-operative system extending across Canada and interference by a Provincial Legislature with newspapers in one province would injure the entire system.

The newspaper press is a national undertaking, the factum continued, and as such is within the jurisdiction of the Dominion Government.

LABOR LEADERS GIVE VIEWS ON TRADE DECLINE

President William Green, of Labor Federation, and Homer Martin, of Automotive Workers, to Appear Before Senate Committee

Washington, Jan. 7.—Labor leaders offered their version of the business recession today to a United States Senate committee investigating the effect of declining business on employment.

President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, was called to testify before the group, which heard President William Knudsen, of General Motors Corporation, say yesterday he believed there would be a business upturn by spring.

The committee summoned as an afternoon witness, Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, an affiliate of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Chairman Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina, said Martin was expected to give organized labor's reaction to developments in the automotive industry.

Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck and Co., another witness, was asked to give the committee information on the effect of the business slump on retail sales.

The committee obtained another index to the employment situation in an announcement by the Works Progress Administration that its rolls totalled 1,666,997 on January 1st—an increase of 216,896 since October 2nd.

W.P.A. monthly expenditures rose from $87,000,000 to $100,000,000 during the period.

Both Senators Byrnes and Hatch, Democrat, New Mexico, said they were interested in Knudsen's statement.

Planes, Warships Join Hunt For U.S. Naval Bomber Missing In Pacific

U.S. Navy Officials Express Confidence that Plane with Crew of Seven Missing Since Wednesday Is Safe—Fog Hampers Widespread Search Operations.

San Pedro, Calif., Jan. 7.—Three hundred planes of the United States navy and twenty-four warships searched the seas between Santa Barbara and San Diego today for a giant service patrol bomber missing since Wednesday with seven men aboard.

Meantime, naval officials disclosed that Seth P. Hawkins, cadet attached to the cruiser Chicago, fell from the rear cockpit seat of a light plane yesterday and disappeared into the Pacific 100 miles offshore.

The plane was engaged in a "routine flight."

The pilot, Aviation Cadet J. H. Mack, Jr., reported Hawkins' loss on his return to the fleet base here, but was unable to say whether a sudden downdraft had "bounced" him from the plane.

Confidence the missing patrol bomber would be found was expressed by Capt. Alva D. Bernhard, aboard-staff to Rear Admiral Ernest J. King, commander of the aircraft scouting force.

"We believe the plane will be found," said Capt. Bernhard. "It is a flying boat, capable of landing in any kind of sea."

Aboard the 33,000 pound, twin engine seaplane, officers said, were emergency rations and a small still for converting ocean water into drinking water.

Fog hampered the search by battleships, cruisers, destroyers and two Coast Guard cutters last night and partly cloudy weather was forecast for today.

The aircraft carriers Lexington and Saratoga sailed from Long Beach late yesterday, each with

Former Head Of Toronto Brokerage Firm Freed In Two Million Theft Trial

Isaac W. C. Solloway Acquitted by Toronto Jury After Trial Lasting Thirty-Five Days of Defrauding Former Clients of $2,144,470 by Failing to Carry Out Instructions to Purchase Stocks on Margin.

Toronto, January 7.—Isaac W. C. Solloway, former head of Solloway, Mills and Company, brokerage firm, was acquitted by a general sessions jury at 5:30 a.m. today of theft charges involving $2,144,470. The broker was discharged immediately, ending a thirty-five-day trial that opened last November 13th.

"You have been found not guilty," Judge Daniel O'Connell said in discharging the former broker. "There is nothing for me to do. You may go now."

Solloway termed the verdict "one of the greatest victories of British justice in Canadian history." He left the courtroom in which he had waited since one p.m. yesterday within a few minutes of the jury's return after shaking hands with the friends who had stood by him throughout the long night.

The jury retired at 12:33 p.m. yesterday and counsel began a discussion concerning the Judge's charge. Later a message was sent to the jury ordering that deliberations be stopped. At five p.m. the jury was recalled and again charged by the Judge. The jurors were told not to consider charges of receiving, "knowing the money to have been obtained by fraud." Only the theft charges then remained.

The jury retired again at 5:30. Involving $2,144,470, the alleged thefts occurred during the stock market collapse in 1929 and 1930. It was charged that Solloway accepted money from clients to buy stocks on margin and had not done so. Customers of Solloway, Mills and Company, which had offices throughout Canada, were named as the losers.

One of the longest ever held in Toronto, the trial entered its thirty-fifth day at midnight. During thirty-four days of hearings, concluded when the case was given to the jury yesterday, more than two million words of evidence were written into the records. During four days on the stand in his own defence, the former broker flatly denied all charges.

The trial was the latest in a series of legal proceedings dating back to the months following the 1929 market collapse. At Calgary in June, 1930, Solloway was fined $225,000 and sentenced to four months' imprisonment on charges of "bucketing" and "attempting to affect the market value of stocks."

On October 29th, 1930, he was fined $200,000 in Toronto after

Ex-U.S. Ambassador To Berlin Holds Little Hope For Peace

Returning to United States After Quitting Post in Germany, Dr. William E. Dodd Is of Opinion World War Is "Logical Outcome" of Vast War Preparations—Impossible to Properly Represent United States in Germany.

New York, Jan. 7.—Dr. William E. Dodd, back in the United States after quitting his post as Ambassador to Germany, said today he found it "a hopeless task" to represent this country in Berlin and asserted he despaired of the prospects for world peace. He said a world war was the "logical outcome" of vast war preparations.

The retiring ambassador is leaving tonight for Washington and will make a personal report to President Roosevelt on his four and one-half years in the German capital.

An unexpected statement by the former Chicago University historian, in a prepared declaration of his reasons for resigning, was the assertion that "many eminent Germans" approved of his refusal to attend Nazi conferences "where democracy was ridiculed and attacked."

The ambassador also said "With war preparations and the raising of trade barriers beyond anything known to modern history, another method of government has been adopted from Rome to Tokyo. Over that vast area freedom of religion has ceased to exist and the universities no longer govern themselves."

"In a single country—a son said the ambassador meant Germany—"1,600 professors and teachers in high schools have been dismissed, the Rockefeller Foundation having given more than $500,000 to help the helpless."

Discussing anti-Jewish measures in European countries, Dr. Dodd said: "There is no doubt that the Hebrews have at times profited, but what other races have been free of such members? Anyone who knows the facts of 1914 and 1920 cannot forget that the Jews fought bravely on both sides of the terrible war and some outstanding members of the race gave millions of dollars to help save the helpless, even starving Germans in 1918 to 1920."

SWING-MINDED HENS ENTER-TAINED COURT
Chicago, Jan. 7.—Casey Jones, sixty-seven, was hauled into court, along with his four educated chickens, on charges of disorderly conduct and cruelty to animals.

"Your Honor, I raised these chickens myself, and I love them and am kind to them. I taught them all their tricks," Jones said.

Whereupon one hen danced the big apple and trucked into court before the court while others honked over bars and through hoops to the rhythm of Jones' harmonica.

Judge Samuel Heller dismissed the charges.

VITAMIN "C" IS PRODUCED FROM PAPRIKA SPICE

When His Wife Served Him a Dish He Couldn't Eat, Hungarian Professor Discovered Economical Methods of Producing Ascorbic Acid.

Montreal, Jan. 7.—(C)—Wren Prof. Albert von Szent-Gyorgyi's wife served him a dish he couldn't eat, he analyzed it and discovered something he had been seeking a long time—an economical method of producing ascorbic acid, vitamin "C" to the uninitiated.

The dish, Albert Szekely, of Szeged, Hungary's second largest city, disclosed in an interview here, was highly flavoured with paprika, too highly flavoured, in fact, Szekely, president of the Hungarian Paprika Export Company, is in Montreal with Canadian and United States orders for 7,000,000 pounds of the spice.

"Prof. von Szent-Gyorgyi," explained Szekely, "first outlined his identification and isolation of vitamin 'C' before the British Association for the Advancement of Science of Aberdeen in 1934.

"The professor had noticed the relation between the scurvy-preventing properties of vegetables and fruits on the one hand and the adrenal glands of men and animals on the other.

"He followed this trial to the Chicago slaughterhouses and there with the help of the Josiah Macy, Jr. Foundation he spent a year working on tons of adrenal glands of cattle. But he managed to produce only a minute quantity of pure vitamin 'C' and, discouraged, he returned to Hungary.

"One day his wife served him a dish so highly flavoured with the spice (paprika) he could not eat it. He took it to his laboratory instead and from it produced, of all things, vitamin 'C'. What is more, its production from Capsicum Annum (Hungarian paprika) is cheap and efficient. It can be readily administered intravenously and is useful in curing purpural hemorrhages, nephritis, certain non-infectious forms of haemophilia, pyorrhea and Addison's disease."

Prof. von Szent-Gyorgyi won the 1937 Nobel Prize for physiology and medicine.

ment that General Motors surplus funds increased $54,000,000 in the past year.

Byrnes asked if the company had considered drawing on its surplus of more than $450,000,000 rather than discharging 30,000 men on January 1. Knudsen replied that with a payroll of $400,000,000 a year, the surplus "wouldn't last long."

JERSEY MAYOR DECLARES WAR AGAINST C.I.O.

Twenty Thousand Constituents Support Mayor Frank Hague in Declaring Jersey City Will Stand Firm Against Red Invasion.

Jersey City, N.J., Jan. 7.—Mayor Frank Hague had the roaring support of more than twenty thousand constituents today in his promise that "Jersey City will stand firm" against what he termed a "Red invasion" by Committee for Industrial Organization workers and leaders of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Huge banners warned "Reds keep out," fireworks boomed and three bands played patriotic tunes as war veterans, American Federation of Labor unions, and Republicans and Democrats shouted approval of the National Democratic Committee vice-chairman and state party leader.

A Jersey City man, estimated to be from 22,000 to 25,000 persons, with an overflow of several thousands in the streets went home last night without hearing a New York speaker, who followed Hague on a national radio hookup, tell the mayor, "You have coerced people to come out and hear you."

Saying he had always had labor's "honor and respect," Hague asserted he had "no quarrel with the rank and file of the C.I.O.," but said "hundreds and hundreds" of C.I.O. organizers were Communists.

Shortly afterwards Senator Lodge (Republican, Massachusetts), who was temporarily presiding, leaned backward in his chair too far and went over with a crash.

Amid a roar of laughter from Senators and gallery visitors, Reynolds said: "I'm sorry I have disturbed the gentleman."

"The gentleman should not be so eloquent," Lodge replied, his face scarlet. After the session he explained solemnly:

"A spring in the chair gave way. Apparently it is not used to being occupied by a Republican."

Two Old-Time Pals Stood By ACCUSED

Toronto, Jan. 7.—(C)—Two old-time northern Ontario gold prospectors, "pals" of Isaac W. C. Solloway in the days when the former Toronto broker made the money in search of the yellow metal, stood by him today as Solloway awaited the verdict of a general sessions jury that acquitted him of charges of theft.

Throughout the night in a dingy courtroom in Toronto's City Hall, Sam Sainsbury and Peter Roche remained with Solloway, telling to all who would listen tales of the days when the three of them staked claims in the rich north. Both are wrinkled with years of life in the open. Sam is nearly bald now, and his short partner is putting on weight.

They came to town "to see how Solly turns out." To them there never was any doubt as to the verdict. Their old pal just wasn't guilty of anything. Not old Solly.

Sam cooked the wedding breakfast for Solloway and his bride when they were married in the north years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Solloway honeymooned at an isolated camp and took Sam with them as cook.

Laughingly, Sam told of the time when he caught a skunk in a trap and invited Mrs. Solloway to view it. He told her it was a baby bear. Sam didn't finish the story.

Ponoka, Alta., Jan. 7.—(C)—Royal protection for Alberta legislation adopted at the last session of the Provincial Legislature and on which assent of Lieutenant-Governor J. C. Bowen was reserved would be sought under a petition approved by the Ponoka Social Credit Constituency Association.

The petition was approved Wednesday night for submission to King George VI asking protection for three acts relating to bank taxation, regulation of credit and newspapers which will go before the Supreme Court of Canada Monday for a constitutional reference.

Social creditors in all Canadian provinces, in Australia, New Zealand, Ireland, Wales and South Africa will be urged to take similar action, the meeting decided. Copies of the petition will be forwarded to them for consideration.

SENATE LEADER DISGUSTED BY LONG TALKING

Lack of Progress in Anti-Lynching Bill Raises Talk of Longer Working Day for Senators with Session Little More than a Week Gone.

Washington, Jan. 7.—Dilatory tactics by Senate opponents of the controversial anti-lynching bill slowed activity in the United States Congress today after a fast start earlier in the week.

Because the apparent filibuster threatened to hold back the administration's legislative programme and prolong the session, leaders began talking about longer Senate work days even before the first week was over.

The anti-lynching debate began so leisurely yesterday that Democratic Leader Barkley "called down" the Senate after nearly an hour had been lost over a point that a quorum was not present—a point which southern opponents of the measure raised frequently.

Barkley, obviously irritated, noted that by the time a quorum was obtained, it was time to quit for the day and only one speech had been made—a long talk by Senator Reynolds (Democrat, North Carolina), about world problems, his observations of foreign countries, and a host of other topics.

Shortly afterwards Senator Lodge (Republican, Massachusetts), who was temporarily presiding, leaned backward in his chair too far and went over with a crash.

Amid a roar of laughter from Senators and gallery visitors, Reynolds said: "I'm sorry I have disturbed the gentleman."

"The gentleman should not be so eloquent," Lodge replied, his face scarlet. After the session he explained solemnly:

"A spring in the chair gave way. Apparently it is not used to being occupied by a Republican."

LARGE NUMBER STILL ON STRIKE IN PARIS

Paris, Jan. 7.—The executive committee of the central organization of Paris labor unions summoned delegates today for a special session tomorrow to review the Paris strike situation.

The body, known as the "Union of Workers' Syndicates of the Paris Region," previously had warned Premier Chautemps of new labor trouble unless the government settled remaining strikes.

Chautemps yesterday urged employers and employees "how before the sovereignty of the law" and end France's labor unrest. On strike are 2,500 Goodrich Rubber Company employees, 10,000 Paris truck drivers, 1,000 sailors, and several thousand food warehouse and metal industry employees.

WHOLESALE MURDER BY DYNAMITE TRIED

Hamilton, Ont., Jan. 7.—(C)—A man expert in the handling of explosives was sought today as police investigated the dynamiting of a disused incline railway on Hamilton Mountain.

Several families in homes nestling at the foot of the mountain were endangered when a terrific explosion rocked the district last night.

Police said they believed several sticks of dynamite had been placed against a twenty-ton trolley car in an attempt to send it hurtling down 500 feet of inclined track upon the houses.

The heavy steel car was shifted six inches by the blast. Only three lines of cable remained intact after the explosion to prevent it plunging down the mountainside.

A building at the top of the track was shattered by the explosive blast and a twenty-ton trolley car hurtled down the incline.

The steel trestle work buckled and the platform, built of heavy timbers, was splintered.

Preliminary investigation disclosed the charge had been firmly placed against the car and platform. Had the car broken loose it would have fallen directly upon the houses.

Police said only one experienced in handling explosive could have been responsible.

REPORT PROGRESS IN FISHERIES RESEARCH

Ottawa, Jan. 7.—(C)—Progress in fisheries research on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts was reported at the three-day meeting here of the Fisheries Research Board of Canada.

All members of the Board were present at the meeting and reports were received from directors of stations at St. Andrews, Halifax, Grand River, in Gaspe County, Nanaimo and Prince Rupert.

On the east coast it was reported that studies were being made of migration of cod and haddock in order to forecast movement of these fish to assist fishermen.

The Board was told successful work was being carried out at the Prince Edward Island sub-station concerning oyster research.

Another report said research in the Margaree River, Cape Breton Island, seemed to exculpate commercial fishermen from the claim that fishing catches off the mouth of the river depleted the annual catch.

An initial survey has been completed in connection with Skeena River fishing problems in British Columbia and plans are being laid for more extensive work in that district. All work on the Fraser River is being handed over to the new international Fraser River sockeye commission.

The missing plane is similar to those which have made non-stop flights to the canal zone to Honolulu from San Diego. Its last radio communication said it was about two hundred miles northwest of San Diego, which would have placed it in the Santa Barbara area.

Navy officers suggested the craft may have been forced down and its radio disabled. They said it was capable of floating out a rough storm.

Chinese and Japanese troops prepared today to fight for control of the Eastern section of the Lunghai railway line from both north and south. China's main east-west trunkline.

Chinese asserted they had about 100,000 men along the line in northern Kiangsu and eastern Honan provinces, between Suchoo, 175 miles northwest of Nanking, and Kweihsien, ninety miles to the west.

Japanese forces numbering 60,000 were thrusting at the line from both north and south. The column fighting north from Nanking still had eighty miles to go and invaders driving south in Shantung Province were one hundred miles from Suchoo.

Control Of Railway Vital.

Control of the Lunghai railway would give Japanese a base for a push westward to the Peiping-Hankow railway, and thence southward to the Yangtze River.

One of China's temporary capitals, Chinese asserted their forces would make a "supreme effort" to keep Japanese from the Lunghai, the nation's "jugular vein."

From Wuhu, above Nanking, came reports that Japanese warships and transports were preparing to steam up the Yangtze, with Anking, 150 miles southwest of Nanking, as the first objective.

Japanese in Shanghai continued daily searches of houses in the Nantao quarter in their drive to stamp out anti-Japanese terrorist activities.

Although there was no official confirmation, there were persistent reports of terrorist bombings in the Japanese controlled Nantao refugee zone had caused death of more than a score of persons, including several Japanese soldiers.

(The North China area was comparatively quiet. A Japanese spokesman at Peiping admitted that Chinese Communist guerrilla bands frequently harassed the Chengteh railway from bases in Honan Province, north of the line. No band was larger than five hundred men and Japanese casualties were few the spokesman said.)

JAPS LOSING NO TIME REORGANIZING CHINA

Peiping, China, Jan. 7.—Behind the Japanese army in North China is mobilized a legion of organizers to gather the shattered remnants of Chinese society into a new life with "made in Japan" stamped indelibly thereon.

These Japanese organizers, called "warriors of peace," form the "pacification and consolidation corps." Their work is to reorganize the most concerted and best-organized efforts on record to reconstruct what an army has torn down, to re-establish business and develop conquered territory.

As soon as possible after an army captures a city, the organizers arrive, set up "pacification and consolidation bureaus" and plaster the city with large posters as:

"Japan and China must co-operate to secure peace in East Asia."

"The Japanese army is fighting against corrupt warlords and Communism, not against the Chinese people."

A provisional government, composed of elderly Chinese statesmen and formed under the direction of the Japanese, already has been inaugurated in Peiping to govern the northern provinces.

A booklet of instructions is said to prescribe the Japanese organizer's duty—to reassure the people, explain that the Japanese army's true purpose is to fight warlords and Communists, restore and maintain order and peace, and aid in the reconstruction of industry and supervise all business as soon as possible.

LONDON TIMES SOUNDS A WARNING TO JAPAN

London, Jan. 7.—(C)—The Times (Independent) today warned Japan that the maintenance of their rights in Shanghai's International "is the immediate concern of some fourteen friendly nations."

"The end of what a Japanese spokesman yesterday called the 'holy war' is not yet in sight," declared the Times. "Nor can a term be set to the dangerous period of friction between Japan and the other foreign powers in China."

"The overbearing and unreasonable attitude of the Japanese authorities towards the Shanghai municipal council quite clearly infringes both the spirit and the letter of Japanese assurances."

"The Japanese have no legal right whatever to interfere with commercial enterprises in the International Settlement, nor is there any shadow of justification for their unsuccessful attempts to coerce the Settlement authorities into increasing the number of Japanese in the London, Jan. 7.—(CP-Havas)—The treasurer of the Lord Mayor's Fund for relief in China received word from Shanghai today that $200,000 ($1,000,000) would be needed for the next two months to provide refugees in Shanghai with their minimum needs.

A LONG DEBATE ON GOVERNMENT AND INDUSTRY

Relationship Between Government and Big Corporations Discussed by Robert Jackson and Wendell Willkie.

New York, Jan. 7.—Under a barrage of audience questioning, the relationship between government and big corporations was discussed last night by Robert H. Jackson, Assistant United States Attorney-General, and Wendell L. Willkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation.

The New Dealer and the utilities man discussed the subject, "How can government and business work together?"

The time of the meeting was extended on the air as the audience plied the speakers with questions, the questioning went on after the broadcast ended.

Said Jackson, Assistant Attorney-General: "There is, to my mind, an essential first step (toward recovery). That is for big business delivery and to the policy of high volume production, low price and the highest wage scale possible."

Said Willkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern Utilities Corporation: "The real cure consists in convincing the millions of small investors throughout America that the government does not intend to continue its attack on American industry, big or little, for it is these investors upon whom industry depends for funds."

consider the matter. Subsequently Ayakawa is expected to leave for the United States.

Meanwhile assurances that Japan is anxious to respect the rights of other powers in China were given in an interview by a Japanese spokesman at Admiral Nomura's suite, before his nomination as Minister of the Interior, he predicted Japan would go to war with Great Britain to drive the latter out of the Orient.

Suyetung's article, which appeared in the review Kaizo, was misinterpreted in foreign papers, the spokesman declared. He stressed that the Kaizo article expressed Suyetung's personal views and not those of the Japanese Government.

DISCUSS NEW SCHEME TO STIMULATE TRADE

London, Jan. 7.—Paul Van Zee, land, former Belgian Premier, discussed with Prime Minister Chamberlain today his plan to stimulate world trade.

Some sources said it proposed a Five-Power Pact to bring Great Britain, the United States, Germany, France and Italy into political and economic concert. Others said it called for two international conferences—one a European economic round table and the other a world meeting at Washington or London.

Those who advanced the five-Power-Pact version said such an agreement would include abolition of trade quotas and currency movement restrictions, and establishment of a general gold stabilization fund to prevent exchange fluctuations.

SHERBROOKE, FRIDAY, JANUARY 7, 1938.

And when Pharaoh saw that the rain and the hail and the thunders were ceased, he sinned yet more, and hardened his heart, he and his servants.—Exodus 9:34.

Poisoned Propaganda Is Threatening Peace.

Somehow, the behavior of nations makes you think of two little boys. You have seen them in some little squabble, inching up toward each other, all bristling, and maybe one or both with a chip on their shoulders.

Maybe the chips finally get knocked off. Perhaps there is even a bloody nose. But first there is the endless bickering, the torrents of hot words.

Something like that is going on today among the nations of the world. It is dignified by a long name, propaganda, and it is all done very scientifically. But it amounts to about the same thing.

The British Broadcasting Company has begun a series of programmes in Arabic, Spanish and Portuguese. Their purpose, while not admitted, is clearly to counteract the incessant anti-British propaganda with which Italy has been crowding the air-waves.

"Italy has now become the poison pen of Europe!" cried a member of the British House of Commons. "She poisons the whole field of international relations!"

So Britain sets out to circulate a counter-poison as an antidote. The Italian game is, of course, to alienate and inflame against the British all the peoples of the Near East and Mediterranean areas, in which Britain has vital interests and mandates.

The Germans are playing the same game, working continually on neighboring countries to foment Nazi movements within them and create atmosphere favorable to herself and her objectives. South America falls within this orbit, and even North America.

The Nazi broadcasts to North America are especially interesting. By personal responses and communications resulting from "fan mail," the Nazis could easily build up a file which might be used in an attempt to create a spy machine against the United States in case of war.

Russia has used the same tactics, attempting to spread her doctrines into adjoining countries by air. Efforts have even been made to erect barriers by electrical waves which would prevent broadcasts from crossing national borders.

Thus the nations play the game, and conduct a verbal "war in the air," recklessly interfering in affairs not their own, sowing hatred and distrust on the wind.

It is so like two little boys and their squabble, except that these are grown men, and instead of producing a bloody nose, they are preparing a bloody world.

Canada's Balance.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has recently completed a new study of the balance of payments of Canada for the years 1927 to 1936, reports the Royal Bank of Canada. As compared with former estimates which seem to show that total receipts from abroad, including such items as payments for our exports and expenditures of tourists visiting Canada, had exceeded Canadian expenditures abroad by about $75,000,000 a year, the present study shows that for the years 1927 to 1935 the balance was very close and slightly adverse to Canada and that the net favorable balance for the ten-year period was achieved in 1936. This net favorable balance is estimated as $131,000,000, and the net favorable balance for 1936 is estimated as $254,000,000. This new study has produced a good deal of comment in foreign countries and it is reviewed in the current issue of the Journal of the American Statistical Association as follows:

"Canada may merit the highest praise. Under Dominion Statistician R. H. Coats, a trio of keen, well-trained scholars have patiently continued their investigations, repeatedly extended, constantly revised. They also have in manuscript an exceedingly laborious report on balances of payments between Canada and the United States for a long series of years; this inter-area study will record the heaviest volume of transactions between any two countries in the world."

During the ten-year period, Canadians floated new issues in foreign countries amounting to $1,979,000,000 and retired issues of $1,802,000,000, with the net result that $177,000,000 of new foreign capital came into Canada during the period.

The Charm Of Queen Elizabeth.

It is impossible to study pictures of Queen Elizabeth without feeling that here is womanhood in its simplest yet most noble aspect . . . such is the power of her unaffected personality.

The world has had ample opportunity by now to look at pictures posed and unposed of England's Queen, at pictures of her with her family, alone, or with her children, pictures taken at public functions and in surroundings of relaxation.

In each and all of them is revealed a simple naturalness, a youthful graciousness, and yet a queenly poise that draw hearts to her as few queens have been able to do.

Hannen Swaffer, Vancouver Sun columnist, has recently said: "Americans envy England for the country's sense of security and calmness."

How well these are exemplified in England's Queen!

Here she was, a commoner who married into the fringes of responsibility, to find herself overnight compelled to don the mantle of queenhood and reign over the British Empire with her King.

As Queen, hers is the power of comfort to the King in crisis and arduous duties rather than the power of wielding the sceptre; that is a great power.

But she is also, from obvious strength of character and simplicity, a protagonist of British qualities and behavior; and that is power incalculable to a nation and race rightfully proud of a long history of unaffected straight-dealing.

Thirty Years Ago Today

From the Files of the Sherbrooke Record. January 7th, 1908.

Deep concern is felt over disappearance of Thomas Long, sixty-eight years of age, who disappeared from his home in Valcourt, four days ago, telling his family he was going to Sherbrooke.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Clark and Mr. George F. Clark, of Sutton, went to Farnham for the eighty-eighth birthday of Mr. Daniel Clark, which was celebrated at the home of another son, Mr. J. D. Clark, C.P.R. bridge master.

Dr. C. J. Edgar, of North Hatley, purchased the large property of Mr. D. C. Jackson, which he will convert into a hospital and training school for nurses.

The marriage took place at Hampton Court, Montreal, by Rev. Dr. Morrison, of Ormstown, uncle of the bride, assisted by the bride's brother, Rev. W. T. Morrison, of Howard Arthur Honeyman, M.A., of Knowlton, to Katherine, only daughter of the late William Morrison, formerly of Melbourne.

St. Faith's Guild, of St. Peter's Church, Sherbrooke, re-opened after the holidays with a very pleasant tea. The president, Mrs. G. M. Howard, who has just returned from a trip to Chicago, was present. The hostesses were Miss P. Shreve, Miss Gladys Hale and Miss Eva White.

Mrs. J. Fuller, of Richmond, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Causar, at the Boys' Home, East Sherbrooke.

Final arrangements are being made for the institution of a lodge of Knights of Pythias, which is to be located in the I.O.O.F. Hall, Brooks' Block, Sherbrooke.

A pleasant surprise party was tendered to Miss Maud Hooper, of Sherbrooke, prior to her departure for the New England States, where she expects to remain until spring.

NOW COMES THE WINTER.

Now comes the winter, a flock of great white geese, Bringing the cold wind and the icy weather, Dropping a coverlet of pure white fleece Over the drowsy land, feather by feather. Now are the little country houses huddled Closer against the earth, and country men Observe their visible breaths. Woodchucks are cuddled

Asleep till Spring within a secret den. The deep-wooled lambs and ewes, the sorrel cattle, The colts from the high pastures, all are stabled Safe against ice-edged wind within steep-gabled Red barns, and where the brittle elm twigs rattle Against low roofs, beech logs release the gold Of summer sun to shield mankind from cold.

PRESS COMMENTS

COUNTRY BEHIND ADMINISTRATION

(Montreal Gazette)

Convincing evidence that the country will sustain the stern attitude the State Department at Washington has taken toward Japan, following the attack on the Panay, may be found in the support pledged to the Administration by Alfred M. Landon, Mr. Roosevelt's Republican opponent at the last presidential election, and by Colonel Frank Knox, defeated candidate for the vice-presidency. Events are applying a severe test to the new neutrality policy of the United States, and it is unthinkable that the highly neutral attitude which has been made manifest by the more articulate champions of completely neutral detachment from the Asiatic dispute will survive recurrence of anything like the violation of American rights which Japan committed in the case of the Panay. All who boast they are 100 per cent. Americans will unhesitatingly applaud President Roosevelt's declaration that what the world needs is "ultimate security is not assured by a blind policy of isolation."

WHITE VERSUS BLACK

(Peterborough Examiner)

Unreported in British newspapers there were angry scenes in South Africa recently when indignant whites flogged blacks near Vereeniging, the scene of the treaty on which the South African Union was founded.

This incident followed the stoning to death of two European policemen who attempted to collect the hut and poll taxes from natives. Amassing sometimes to $10 a year and collected from negroes whose annual wage varies between $20 and $40 these taxes were withdrawn during the depression years.

Interpreting their revival as a broken promise natives all over the Union have formed murderous bands to resist collection.

Smuts has been both criticized and praised for his method of dealing with riots which has usually been to do nothing until the last possible moment and then with cold courage pull off a brilliant coup.

Once when he was speeding to quell a riot at the gold-mining Rand strikers fired a shot and punctured a tire. Iron-nerved Smuts left his seat and sat by the roadside while the wheel was changed. His brilliant oratory has been his best weapon when dealing with rioting mobs.

MYTH OF FINLAND

(Texas Weekly)

It is surprising how the myth about Finland has been even among otherwise well-informed editors, Finland, of course, does not owe United States any "war debt," for Finland as a separate entity did not participate in the war on the side of the Allies. After the close of the war, Finland purchased some supplies from the American Relief administration on credit. That is the debt which Finland owes to the United States. The real reason that Finland is the only country that has been paying its debt to the American Government is that Finland is the only country among our debtors with cash balances in the United States that might be impounded.

The United States is a much better customer of Finland than Finland is of ours. All of our other debtors are better customers of ours than we are of theirs. It is because they buy more from us than we buy from them that they have not been able to pay the debts they made during the time that we were with them in the World War.

YOUTH IS NOT BETRAYED

(Ottawa Journal)

There is no proof that this generation betrays youth, nor that it is preparing to betray it again. Youth did not speak out against the last war, nor is there evidence that young men are more concerned than old men about the world's existing state, or could do much more about it than is being done. Alas! it is the other way round. The men who in the past ten years brought upheaval and tragedy in Germany, Italy, and other countries of the world were not old men. They were young men, mostly youth. When they turned out the old men, the old men who had "betrayed" them, they did not turn to peace. They turned to war; turned to black shirts and brown shirts; to guns and bombs; to steel and marching men. In Germany and Italy today, where is youth? No, there is no proof that in the democratic lands, at any rate, youth has been betrayed. Some young men may charge betrayal, but not all; not most; the charge, when it is made (and it is made too often), come from old men. Youth itself is being misquoted.

A BUYER OF WIVES

(Austrian News-Letter)

A tall and picturesque man, bearded and jolly, is Monsignor Gelli, Roman Catholic administrator of the Northern Territory, now enjoying six months' leave in Sydney. He tells a remarkable story of having twenty-one "wives," all his own according to tribal law, and each one bought and paid for. "I've been buying wives for the past twenty-three years," he says, "and I believe I have more than anyone else in the world today." To a puzzled and somewhat scandalized interviewer, he explained that these purchases were purely formal, and were arranged with the particular object of protecting young aboriginal and half-caste girls, and converting them to Christianity. Mostly, he gave his "wives" in marriage to the young men of his Bathurst Island mission, though, in the event of the husband's death, they reverted to him. The most successful aspect of his strange experiment is that it prevents child marriage and polygamy, both of which are grave evils among the natives of Northern Australia.

THE FRENCH PRESS

DENY ARMAMENTS RACE INCREASES EMPLOYMENT

(La Presse, Montreal)

The British country's economical machinery, they say, has been put into motion after some years of depression, independently of armaments orders placed by the Government with various organizations and the recovery would have continued and become more general even if this governmental intervention had not occurred.

To claim that armaments, in Great Britain as elsewhere, have played absolutely no role in British industrial activity and the re-absorption of the unemployed would surely be exaggerated. But, equally, one must not overestimate the part played by these large orders in the economic re-establishment of those nations which, as the British Isles, had already detached themselves from the influence of the depression even before the armaments programme had been prepared.

"FORGOTTEN STATE" OF MORESNET

(La Patrie, Montreal)

Frontiers are fragile things, but if there are some the displacement of which causes much ink to run, there are others which disappear without notice.

The Duke of Astrando has just published a book on the Little States of Europe, and he consecrates a chapter to the former neutral territory of Moresnet, which the maps before the War, placed between Germany, Holland and Belgium. It was with the Republic of Andorra, the principalities of Monaco and Liechtenstein and the Republic of San Marino, one of the last miniature states, where life flowed on so calmly. The territory of Moresnet, with its 300 inhabitants and 350 hectares, would perhaps not have awakened any just had it not included the zinc mine of "Veille Moresnet."

The Treaty of Versailles put an end to its privileged position, rendered paradoxical by the fact that the neutral Moresnet was governed by a condominium composed of the Netherlands, Prussia and Belgium. Moresnet is today entirely Belgian.

IMMIGRATION PROBLEM BECOMING MORE COMPLICATED

(Le Devoir, Montreal)

Firstly, thanks to the tremendous armaments programme which is being carried out there, England enjoys considerable prosperity, apparent at any rate, with a great demand for labor. The appeal may be heard even in Ireland, where complaints are heard of the migration to England of a large number of young men. Also, the services instituted for the protection of the workers induce the latter not to leave the country. Then again, England wishes to let go as few as possible of her farmers.

Every nation of Europe, in fact, is trying as much as possible to provide for its own needs in respect of food. In this may be seen the apprehension of war, and of a possible shortage. The fear is particularly vivid in England, where for a long time agriculture has been sacrificed to industry, and which, during the last war, narrowly escaped famine owing to the German submarines.

In short, a number of factors militate against immigration. This does not mean that the policy of sending immigrants will be discarded. In the first place there is a certain number of people whom England would willingly do without; also, vast imperialistic motives underlie this policy.

UP IN THE ATTIC.

On days that are dull and my work is through,
There is a place I go up to.
A place where things are all antique,
From your head down to your feet.
Where hats are hung all in a row,
With plumes and feathers of long ago,
And shoes all with buttons—none to tie—
These all have changed since days gone by.

On days when it rains I like to go
Up to the attic where rain patters so.
A spinning-wheel idle since days gone by
Sets on one side and makes me sigh.
To remember when Grandma used to wind up yarn,
Some for knitting—and some to darn.
But Grandma has gone to that timeless shore,
And her spinning-wheel is used no more.

There is a wardrobe on one side,
Of old-time dresses worn with pride.
Gay old shawl-dresses, with wide hoop-skirts,
Grandpa's old high hat—and gay striped shirts.
This wardrobe has hidden secrets there,
Of days gone by to them so fair.
Grandma's wedding veil and sweeping dress,
They were her joy—that is no guess.

Under the eaves set an old worn trunk
That seems to me no more than junk.
But it holds their secrets of long ago,
Things in those days that were cherished so.
Up in this attic are many scenes,
Pictures of old-time kings and queens.
Things in furniture, none modern—no!
Just a room with a glimpse of long ago.

Oh! come up in the attic and enjoy the treats,
There are old wooden chairs with hair-cloth seats.
Some foot has rocked that little red cradle,
There's an old dash churn, and butter ladle,
A wee cribbed with a straw tick on,
Where some child lay from dusk till dawn.
There are lanterns and candles—bellows and tongs,
All things in this attic are old bygones.

PROPER TIMING WINS SLAM

Poor Distribution Makes Contract Look Bad, but Declarer Wins Through Careful Card Reading

BY WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
Secretary, American Contract Bridge League

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

Looking at the North and South hands today, the average bridge player would want to be playing for a thrilling slam, rather than a game. But when the entire distribution is revealed, the average bridge player would be sorry he had bid so much, and would concede a set of one, losing a trump and a club.

However, 12 tricks can be made with the North and South cards, but if that result is to be accomplished, careful timing and correct card reading are required.

The contract did not look very good when the dummy went down. South won the first trick in his own hand with the ace. A small spade was led to the king in dummy. When West's queen dropped, South now had to solve the proper play of the trump suit.

He finally decided there was a four-one distribution, and returned the seven of spades which held the trick. The king of hearts took the next trick and then the ace and king of clubs were cashed. Then a diamond was won in dummy with the ace.

Another heart was returned and ruffed by declarer. A small diamond was played and won in dummy with the king. Another heart was ruffed by declarer.

Then the eight of clubs was played, and the contract was safe. Whether East or West won, South's two trumps must win the last two tricks.

Another heart was returned and ruffed by declarer. A small diamond was played and won in dummy with the king. Another heart was ruffed by declarer.

Then the eight of clubs was played, and the contract was safe. Whether East or West won, South's two trumps must win the last two tricks.

HEAVY EGGS IN TREE

Chen, S.C., Jan. 7.—The captain of the York County police force says he has a hen that insists on laying eggs in a nest built, like a bird's, in a tree.

The nest is in a thick growth of limbs branching from a broken-off trunk and every day the hen flies up to the nest to lay an egg. The name of the hen's owner is George W. Sparrow.

PROFIT-TAKING CAUSED SLUMP ON EXCHANGES

Steels and Motors Gave Ground Easily in Early Trading This Morning Following Yesterday's Sharp Recovery.

New York, Jan. 7.—Stocks lost rallying vigor in today's early market proceedings and Thursday's buoyant leaders slipped fractions to more than a point.

Steel and motors gave ground easily. Rails were more resistant and most were only slightly under water. Dealings slowed near the second hour after a fairly active opening.

Brokers were inclined to attribute the setback principally to profit-taking following yesterday's sharp recovery.

Prominent on the retreat were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, General Motors, Chrysler Westinghouse, American Can, Du Pont, American Telephone, Boeing, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Anaconda, Kennecott and Standard Oil of N.J.

Erie Railroad stocks and bonds went into another slide following instructions of Chairman James Jones of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. that funds to tide over this road would not be provided by the federal agency.

Most corporation bonds were mixed, as were the major commodities.

Bolstering market sentiment before the start of trading was the week-end survey of Dunn & Bradstreet reporting a brisk pickup in public spending during the past several days.

The review added that "January thus far has been an encouraging surprise" to merchants and that, instead of the anticipated downturn after the holiday week, clearance events and markdowns spurred demand in virtually all centres.

STEADY TO FIRMER PRICES AT MONTREAL

Montreal, Jan. 7.—Steady to firmer prices trends ruled at today's active stock market opening.

Nickel dipped narrowly in quiet profit-taking while Noranda jumped a couple of points to 57. Unchanged to slightly better were Brazilian, Canadian Car, Shawinigan, Foundation, United Steel and Dominion Steel "B."

An exchange of Christmas gifts was a feature of the evening. Refreshments were served by the ladies at midnight. A most enjoyable time was spent by all present.

Miss Jane Bradley left on Sunday for Cambridge, Mass., to resume her studies at Sargent School.

Miss Barrett, of Montreal, spent a few days with Miss L. Sigbee.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Garland entertained at a family gathering on Christmas Day.

Miss Agnes Bradley spent a week at St. Albans, Vt.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Russell were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Fuller, at Morse's Line, Vt.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Thomas and daughter, Janet and Barbara, Miss L. Sigbee and Messrs. Earl and Walter Shepard were guests at a New Year's party at the Bradley home.

The local Protestant Schools reopened after the holidays on Tuesday, January 4.

Miss Anne Bradley, of Burlington, Vt., spent the New Year's week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Bradley.

The beautiful Christmas trees and other decorations and the colored lights displayed in St. Armand have inspired many complimentary remarks, which were certainly well deserved.

DELAY WORK ON EGG CENTRE AT SAWYERVILLE

Committee Which Considered Establishment of Egg Grading Centre Decides to Do Nothing Further Until March.

Sawyerville, Jan. 7.—Decision has been made by the committee comprising Arthur Lake, Oliver Hamilton, G. McCallum and R. M. Elliott, which was appointed to inquire into the establishment of an egg grading centre here, to do nothing further about the matter until March 15. The decision was reached after the committee had considered the project from every angle and had discussed it with the president, James McBurney.

Explaining their stand, the committee stated that when the matter was first discussed there was, due to favorable weather conditions, a sufficient surplus of eggs to warrant giving the station a trial. However, the matter of securing the services of a competent manager and suitable location presented difficult problems.

The Canadian Pacific Railway offered the use of space in their station at a nominal rental, but the cost of heating and installing electricity would have made handling costs prohibitive. The committee also pointed out that the present surplus of eggs over local requirements is very small and in order to operate such an organization economically it is important that there be a large volume.

Confidence that the services of an excellent manager and a location could be obtained as soon as production is large enough to safely start operating was expressed by the committee. The Federal Department of Agriculture and the Eastern Townships Co-operative, Sherbrooke, have offered their co-operation, and the committee hopes the station will eventually be started, believing that apart from the advantages of selling eggs on a quality basis, it might be possible next year to use the same facilities in the marketing of poultry.

ACTIVE MARKETS FOR CANADIAN HORSES

The movement of horses in Canada in the process of marketing is interesting, the major movement being from West to East. In 1936, Western horses to the number of 32,847 were shipped to points east of Manitoba, over half of them being billed to the province of Quebec. During the first eleven months of 1937, the number of Western horses sent to Eastern Canada was 38,108, almost 6,000 more than the total shipments of 1936. While 19,202 Western horses were shipped to the Province of Quebec in 1936, it should not be concluded, explains J. M. MacCallum of the Live Stock Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, that they were for the needs of that province. A great many of the horses were sold to the United States, and many eventually went to the Maritime Provinces. Of the horses reaching Winnipeg in 1937, 17,075 were from Alberta, 15,711 from Saskatchewan, 1,086 from Manitoba, and 136 from British Columbia.

At a value in excess of $2,000,000, Canadian horses to the number of 17,358 were shipped to the United States in 1937, principally to the North Eastern States. For the first eleven months of 1937, the number exported was approximately 10,000 head at prices averaging about eight dollars a head above the prices in 1936 and fourteen dollars above 1935. In fact, horse prices in Canada for the past two years have shown an increase over the previous year, and during the first half of 1937 a further increase occurred. Since June prices have eased off, due probably to the enforced selling of work horses in the drought areas, but it is believed that prices will advance again with the approach of spring.

Exports to the United Kingdom in 1937 up to October 31 were 426 as against 283 in 1936. Prices up to $500 were realized in Glasgow and London for choice drafters with many good ones bringing $300 to $400. Although not apparent at first sight, the price of drafters in Great Britain can be of great importance to the horse business in Canada. There is a decided shortage there sound drafters and vanners. Horses of Clydesdale and Shire breeding have always been, and still are popular there, but there are not enough horses of this kind to supply the demand. Horses from Belgium have found ready sale at good prices, and a good demand for Percheron and Belgian, as well as Clydesdale, breeding have been well received. It is true that transportation costs are rather a handicap in developing this trade, but the fact remains that there is a great market in Great Britain for the kind of horses Canada is in a position to supply.

For many years the Dominion Department of Agriculture has given generous assistance to horse breeding in Canada, through various policies. The Clubbing Policy of the Department is confined to the three Prairie Provinces; the Dominion-Provincial Premium Policy to Eastern Canada, British Columbia, and Saskatchewan; the Breeding Station Policy is operating in every province from Quebec to the Pacific Coast. These policies are all based upon the principle of assisting horse breeding through the use of pure bred sires. In 1935 assistance was given on the services of 950 pure bred stallions; 1,100 in 1936, and in 1937 the number will be approximately 1,200.

The manufacture of fertilizers in Canada in 1936 was valued at $11,366,235. Plants engaged principally in the manufacture of fertilizers accounted for $7,075,891 of the total amount, the remaining $4,290,444 worth being produced by establishments classified in other industrial groups.

PASTURE EXPERIMENTS PROVE IMPORTANT

In the five provinces of Eastern Canada, there are 12,157,971 acres of pasture land, of which 5,910,462 acres are in natural or unimproved pasture. Much of this land, states the 1936-37 annual report of the Dominion Minister of Agriculture, is in a very low state of fertility, and experiments are being conducted by the Dominion Experimental Farms to learn the most efficient and economical methods of improving the carrying capacity of this land.

The Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa has conducted some extensive pasture experiments on good heavy clay soil which has been in hay or pasture for over 25 years. The yield of hay, principally Kentucky blue grass, has dropped so low that in 1936 it was only 0.91 of a ton per acre. Where the land was pastured, the dry matter yield was 0.98 of a ton per acre, as measured by the clippings. Experiments on pasture improvement in which complete commercial fertilizers were applied gave a yield of 1.60 tons per acre at a cost of $2.72. Most remarkable of all the treatments was that in which the land was ploughed, fertilized and seeded to a red clover, timothy, and alfalfa mixture, with oats or Sudan grass as nurse crops and supplementary pastures. The yield of red clover was 3.62 tons per acre, or approximately six times that of the original Kentucky blue grass. The oats and Sudan grass produced 1.2 and 1.8 tons per acre, respectively, of supplementary pasture. While such remarkable increases, continues the report, would not be obtained under all conditions, it is very probable that substantial and economical returns may be expected.

With regard to the value of manure and fertilizers for increasing crop yields, the experiments carried out by the various Dominion Experimental Stations have shown that the response obtained from either one depends upon several factors, chief of which are the nature of the soil and climate. Hence, any recommendation on fertilizer practice will be governed by the local environment. These experiments show that in Eastern Canada soil fertility may be improved by the use of either fertilizer or manure, but on most soils in the Prairie Provinces fertilizer gives larger and more economical returns than manure. Many of the soils in drier parts of these provinces, however, do not respond profitably to either manure or fertilizers.

MACDONALD COLLEGE COURSE IN CO-OPERATION

No modern movement has had a more rapid growth than has the co-operative movement among farmers throughout the world, and the past few years have seen great strides taken in co-operation in the three Prairie Provinces. It is of vital importance, however, that those in charge of co-operative enterprises—and indeed that the community at large—have a sound knowledge of the fundamental principles of co-operation.

The course in "Co-operation" offered by the Quebec Department of Agriculture, which will be given from January 17th to March 5th at Macdonald College, offers an unrivalled opportunity for farmers and farmers' sons to become acquainted with co-operative principles and methods of doing business, and at no cost to themselves.

The objects of the course are: 1.—To train men to become managers, secretaries and other officers of rural co-operative enterprises. 2.—To give a short but intensive training in the business aspects of rural life. 3.—To introduce a policy having

CANADIAN APPLES IN FOREIGN MARKETS

Throughout the world the Canadian apple is favorably known, but its chief market is the United Kingdom. Outside that country, quotas, tariffs, abundance of local fruits, limited shipping facilities, and other factors impose a restricting influence on profitable business.

Apples are imported into France under a system of quotas controlled by the issuance of import licenses. By trade agreement Canada is guaranteed 4.7 per cent. of the 220,000 quintals (220,400 pounds a quintal) allowed to be imported during the first quarter of the fiscal year, and 3.3 per cent. of the 160,000 quintals during the fourth quarter. This is approximately 5,280 quintals during October to December inclusive, and 10,340 quintals for January to March inclusive.

With regard to Belgium, the market demand is mostly for barrelled apples, and the volume of imports depends to a large extent upon the size of the domestic crop. According to Belgian statistics, apple imports during the 1936-37 season amounted to 34,412 metric tons (2,204 pounds a metric ton) of which the United States sent 9,410 tons; Canada 144 tons, and the United Kingdom 18,461 tons, the remainder being supplied by New Zealand, Australia, Chile and Holland. Apples credited to Great Britain and to Holland may include Canadian apples transhipped through these countries.

In Holland, Canadian apples are of interest only when the domestic crop is small. From January to July, 1937, according to Netherlands statistics, Canada supplied 1,702 metric tons of fresh apples.

In Norway imported apples are marketed through an agent who is permitted to sell to members only of the importers' or wholesalers' association who in turn canvass the retail trade. Recent imports from Canada have been negligible.

Sweden is the most important market of any of the Scandinavian countries for imported apples. Although the United States is the main source of supply, with Australia showing an increasing trade, Canadian boxed apples are well and favorably known, and sell at a slightly higher price than similar United States varieties. As regards barrelled apples, the Canadian types are not so highly appreciated as the United States varieties on account of the fact that the coloring is not so well liked.

Denmark is now producing nearly sufficient quantities of apples to supply domestic consumption, and in a comparatively short time will, it is expected, be entirely self-sustaining. Canada did not ship any apples direct to the Danish market in 1936, nor has Canada exported apples to Finland during the past three years.

In the Argentine the season for imported apples has been gradually curtailed since 1930, eliminating New Zealand and Chilean apples from the market. During the 1936-37 season, Canada was credited with supplying 2,054 cwt. of boxed apples, but so far as barrelled apples are concerned it is impossible to compete, owing to present import regulations. All apples in barrels must be wrapped, except those of United States origin.

The Canal Zone of Panama is closed to Canadian apples since the regulations require the exclusive use of United States fruit.

As its object the greater economic independence of the farming community.

The course is available to selected applicants from the rural sections of the Province who are between the ages of eighteen and thirty. The course is absolutely free to accepted candidates, and application for admission should be made at once to the local agricultural representative or agronomist.

HOUSEHOLD INSECTS CAUSE HEAVY LOSSES

In an address to the Entomological Society of Ontario on the importance of cleanliness and good housekeeping practices in household insects control, C. R. Twinn of the Entomological Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, said that undoubtedly the most injurious of household insects are the two species of clothes moths, of which the webbing clothes moth is the more important. These universally common insects have probably been a source of loss and annoyance to man from the earliest times, but the improved standards of living of modern times, involving wider use of manufactured fur and woolen clothing, rugs, and upholstered furniture, have greatly extended their field of damage. As the black carpet beetle has somewhat similar habits to the moth, the following remarks may be considered as applying to it.

These insects are most apt to multiply in places where there is relatively little disturbance. This is an important point and should be borne in mind as it suggests the remedy. Care, forethought, and vigilance need to be exercised. Incipient infestations should be traced to their source and removed without delay to prevent their spread. Clothing subject to damage, when not in use, should be brushed and beaten, or be sent to the dry cleaners, before being carefully stored away in moth-proof bags or boxes. Frequent attention to clothing not so protected is necessary during the warmer months of the year.

Floor cracks, especially when covered with rugs or carpets, need to be filled or cleaned out periodically. The spaces behind baseboards and other woodwork should not be overlooked. Woolen lint, dust and debris which collect in the cold air shafts of house furnaces form a source of infestation and should be removed from time to time. Rugs and carpets, especially those with a thick pile, or with felt padding beneath them, require to be cleaned on both sides at frequent intervals, preferably with a vacuum cleaner. Surface damage to susceptible fabrics on upholstered furniture may be prevented by frequent brushing and the use of a vacuum cleaner. The felting in pianos also needs attention periodically.

Another species of household insect that may multiply where care is not exercised is the larger beetle. This is a pest of animal-food products and normally occurs in dwellings in small numbers, or as occasional specimens accidentally introduced. Sometimes, due to a lack of cleanliness, homes may be completely overrun with them. One source of outbreaks of the larger beetle, which demonstrates the importance of periodically cleaning unused parts of the home, is the dead bodies of cluster flies. These flies often enter dwellings in large numbers in the autumn, around window frames, under shingles, and through cracks resulting from faulty construction, and their corpses may accumulate in attics and neglected rooms and serve as food material for larger beetle larvae.

Milk bars, or saloons for the sale of milk drinks and milk products only, have been established in fourteen moving picture houses in England. Altogether, milk bars and similar agencies selling milk drinks total 941 in the British Isles. Of the 941 milk bars, 338 operate as a single business; 414 are in cafes and dairy shops; 139 in department and chain stores; 35 are travelling milk bars, and 14 are located in picture houses. One hundred and seventy-four of the milk bars are in the London area.

PROTECTING OUR DOORYARD PLANTS

Winter is hard on dooryard plants in two ways: one, mechanical, the other, thermal. Mechanical injury is often due to the weight of snow and ice which break down the plants or parts of them at the time of severe winter storm. Thermal or heat injury is due to warm sun and dry wind that either starts tender growth or draws too much water, causing a browning, or burning of leaves and twigs. Dry weather in winter is often as damaging as dry weather in summer.

The brown burn of cedar and similar plants is of common occurrence. It is more noticeable now than formerly because of the more general use of evergreens in dooryard plantings. The burn takes place during the winter months although not often manifest till spring or summer. Often a whole side of a tree or the entire top turns brown as if scorched by fire, and the home owner may think he is losing his specimen. The injury, however, is only temporary for in most cases the specimens outgrow the trouble after some months.

Winter burn is due to bright sun and dry winds, for they draw more water from the plants than can be replaced by the roots when in frozen soil. Burn is a drought effect. The brown burn can be lessened or controlled in different ways. One method is to water the soil freely before the ground freezes. Another effective means of lessening the burn is to spray the plants in late fall with a wax emulsion which retards drying out. Still another and simpler way is to cover the plants with burlap to screen off the sun and protect against drying winds. A gunny sack used as a hood and drawn down over small trees will give the necessary protection. If somewhat open at the top it will be better. Sheets of burlap tied over the plants will reduce the losses from snow and ice and heavy winds.

Mechanical injuries may be guarded against by use of stakes for support; by gathering the branches or canes together with string; or by a shelter of boards or lath; as any of these will reduce the losses from snow and ice and heavy winds.

HOUSEHOLD CONTROL OF COCKROACH PEST

Heated houses, particularly poorly constructed buildings in which loose-fitting woodwork and cracks and crevices abound, are liable to infestation by cockroaches and other household insects all the year round. Cockroaches are frequently abundant in apartment houses, hotels, stores, dwelling houses, and in short, in any building where there are warm, moist conditions and especially where thorough house-cleaning methods are not adopted in every section of the establishment. The insects remain hidden during day in cracks in the walls and floors, and emerge at night to prowl about in search of food. Cockroaches will eat anything eatable, but are particularly fond of foodstuffs favored by man. On this account they are most numerous around kitchens and pantries where food is readily accessible. The most prevalent species in Canada is the German cockroach.

Cockroaches may be readily controlled by means of soft fluorides which may be obtained from any drug store. The fluoride should be dusted in places frequented by the roaches, such as sinks, baseboards, cupboards and hot water pipes. The material adheres to the legs and antennae of the insects, and in cleaning themselves they are poisoned by it.

Sodium fluoride retains its effectiveness and may be left undisturbed as long as convenient or until the roaches have disappeared, but precautions must be taken to prevent children and domestic pets gaining access to the material because it is somewhat poisonous. Two other materials which form the basis of many proprietary powders which are often recommended are pyrethrum and borax.

GUERIN IMPRESSIVE IN SHERBROOKE DEBUT

Harris Tallied Twice As Raiders Won Tenth

"Guido" Roy, Leroux and Cormier Scored Other Markers in Sherbrooke's Five to Two Victory Over Lafontaine—Marcel Guerin, Signed Yesterday by Locals, Accounted for Two Assists.

Apparently Archie Wilcox didn't let his Sherbrooke Red Raiders abandon their last year's resolution—to go through the Provincial Senior Hockey League schedule without a defeat—for Raiders picked up where they left off December 28 and ran their unbeaten streak to ten straight games by trimming Montreal Lafontaine by five to two in last night at the Sherbrooke Arena.

"Hank" Harris, back in the line-up after a ten-day layoff with an injured rib, celebrated his return with two goals, while Marcel Guerin, signed by the Raiders yesterday, made good his debut, picking up two assists.

The locals scored their first marker when Guerin picked up Jean Paul Anger's pass-out at the Sherbrooke blue line and dashed up the boards. He passed to Harris in centre, and "Hank" pushed the disc back to the left winger. Guerin let go a hard shot, but Aquin kicked it out. Quick as a flash Harris swept in and flipped the rebound into the net.

A minute later, after the lines had changed, "Guido" Roy dashed the full length of the ice in a lovely solo rush. He circled the defence and let go a hard shot for the corner just as he fell to his knees. Aquin moved fast but could not stop Roy's drive, which put the Red Raiders one up.

The last marker of the season came when "Hank" Harris, who played great hockey, slipped a fine pass over to Cormier, who went in and passed over to Guerin. The left-winger shot and Harris slammed in the rebound for his second goal of the night.

Sherbrooke kept up their pace in the second stanza but the Lafontaine defence tightened, with Raymond in particular making some nice checks. Houde and Laviolette went in on a few dangerous rushes but Larochelle and Ranger were checking to perfection and combined for some fine body work, which turned back the Montrealers' efforts.

Halfway through the period, with both teams a man short, Gaston Laroux and Maurice Bastien broke away, catching all Lafontaine up the ice. Leroux passed over to Bastien at centre and the latter right-winger went into the corner, behind Bernard, on the Montreal defence, then passed back fast to Leroux, who drew out Aquin and pushed the puck into an empty net.

The Red Raiders went into a five-goal lead when John Frenette went down fast to the Lafontaine defence and then slipped a perfect pass over to Cormier on right wing, who scored with a sizzling drive to the corner.

The locals seemed listless in the final frame and Lafontaine came down in waves trying for a goal. The forwards were not backchecking so hard, and only the fine work of the defence and "Patsy" Seguin in the local nets, saved a score.

Finally, with less than three minutes to go, Laviolette and Marcellin got away clear, with only the defence to beat. Marcellin passed over to Belisle, who went in to the corner, chased by one of the local defencemen. He flipped the puck back into centre and Laviolette picked it up to score just as the game ended.

In the racing between the periods Jean Paul Ranger, Maurice Bastien and Lafontaine tied for first place, each making the tour of the rink in fourteen seconds. They will race off on Sunday afternoon.

McLENEHAN LED WINDSOR MILLS TO CLOSE WIN

Spectacular Left Winger Tallied Twice and Gave an Assist as Windsor Mills Nosed Out East Angus Five to Four—Conway Outstanding for Losers.

East Angus, Jan. 7.—Windsor Mills nosed out East Angus last night to the tune of five to four in an exciting St. Francis Valley Hockey League game. The winning goal came from the stick of E. Bailey on a nice pass from M. Dunsmore, thirty seconds before the final whistle.

Windsor Mills opened the scoring soon after the game started, Bailey tallying on a pass from McLenahan, but Angus tied it up two minutes later when Westgate notched a fine marker on Conway's pass. Halfway through the stanza G. Dunsmore, on a solo rush, put Windsor in front again, but Paquin, flashy winger, combined with Conway to once more deadlock the count. The same two players combined just before the end of the stanza to give Angus the lead for the first time. Conway scoring and Paquin and Westgate being credited with assists.

Two goals from the stick of McLenahan, one alone and one on a pass from M. Dunsmore, turned the tide in favor of Windsor Mills in the second session, only to have Conway tie the count for the third time on a pass from Westgate before the rest interval.

Both squads battled furiously in the final frame. Finally, with only thirty seconds left to play, M. Dunsmore broke away and passed over to Bailey, who made no mistake as he went in to give Windsor a five to four victory.

The game was fast and even. Conway, Westgate and Paquin were the best for East Angus; while McLenahan, Bailey and the two Dunsmores were the outstanding men on the Windsor Mills team.

McGILL STILL UNBEATEN IN COLLEGE LOOP

Trimmed Dartmouth Last Night Thirteen to One—Johnny Hibbard Scored—Harvard Beat U. of M. Five to One at Boston.

There remained no doubt today about whether McGill had retained a balance of the strength that carried it unbeaten through the International Intercollegiate Hockey League last season. The Redmen are now up scores just as big as in 1936-37 and no one has threatened them seriously yet.

Expected to provide about as much opposition as any United States team, Dartmouth took on McGill at Hanover, N.H., last night and was whipped thoroughly, thirteen to one. The Indians hadn't been beaten in nine league and exhibition games but the only one they could get came while McGill was short-handed.

Bidders to attain McGill's record of three victories without defeat are Toronto, Queen's and Harvard, who won their first starts last night. Toronto downed Princeton at Princeton, N.J., five to four, to take second place in the Canadian division in a tie with Queen's, winner by three to two over Yale at New Haven, Conn. Harvard gained a first-place tie with Princeton in the American division by whipping University of Montreal five to one at Boston.

But the tasks of other contenders looked tall as Russ McConnell led drive after drive through Dartmouth's defence. McConnell scored five goals, Howie Walker three, Paul Piddock and Ronnie Perowse two each and Johnnie Hibbard one. Dartmouth broke through in the second Continued on Page 2, Col. 8.

COOKSHIRE LADS HAD BIG MARGIN ON SCOTSTOWN

Led by Two Drennan Boys, M. Mowle and G. MacDonald, Cookshire Romped Off with Eleven to Three Victory in Opening County League Match.

Cookshire, January 7.—The Cookshire entry in the Compton County Hockey League won their opening match last night at the local rink when they swamped the Scotstown squad by eleven goals to three.

The two Drennan boys and M. Mowle showed plenty of power and speed as they swept in on the hapless Scotstown defence to lead Cookshire to their impressive victory. G. MacDonald also played an outstanding game for the local boys, tallying up three tallies. P. MacDonald scored twice and showed some spectacular stickhandling.

H. and C. Dube were the best for Scotstown, while a Gauthier scored a nice goal on a flashy solo rush. The Scotstown team need more practice and showed weakness around the defence as they were unable to keep out the drives of the powerful Cookshire forwards.

The game was cleanly played and flashed some fast hockey. The teams were:

Cookshire goal Scotstown: Cameron goal Anderson

Coaticook, Jan. 7.—Coaticook defeated Bromptonville by seven to four here last night in a regular St. Francis Valley Hockey League game.

Led by Guimond and the two Archambaults, the Coaticook squad scored in every period and showed too much polish around the nets for the visitors.

For Bromptonville, Janelle played a fine game at right wing while Bourgault, Mathieu and the two Leblancs also showed up to good advantage. The two goalies, Charrion for Coaticook and Lavoie for Bromptonville, played well, but the Coaticook defence was steeper than that of the visitors.

NAILING UP THE NET

Here is an unusual overhead action shot at the mouth of the net as Jim Fowler helps Goalie Walter Broda, of Toronto, make a save in the third period as the Maple Leafs play the Americans at Madison Square Garden. Ed Wiseman, of the New York team, is moving in, but his stick is grabbed by Nick Metz. By tying Detroit last night, as Maroons drubbed Leafs, Amerks are now only one point behind the Canadian division leaders.

Maroons Trim Leafs In Real Donnybrook Fair

Thirteen Penalties, Including Two Majors and Two Match Sentences, Handed Out as Rival Squads Staged Free-for-Alls in Montreal Encounter—Amerks and Detroit Tied—Rangers Beat Chicago.

Grudge fights are still part of "big-time" hockey despite the uplifting influence of white shirt fronts, upholstered seats and $7,000 salaries. Refinement, carefully taught by the magnates in recent years, is forgotten quickly when the boys really get a good hate on.

It was that way at Montreal last night when Maroons and Toronto Maple Leafs clashed in a National League game that had everything for the red-blooded fan who likes at least one fight a period.

Arising from Frank Clancy's departure from the post of Maroon manager and coach, ill-feeling gripped both teams and brought several fist fights and thirteen penalties, including two majors and two match sentences.

Leaf friends of Clancy, former Toronto defencemen, had promised to "rub it in" when they met Maroons. Which team came off with the fewer bruises is a dressing-room secret, but Maroons left no doubt who won the game. They plastered a six to three beating on the section-leading Leafs and delighted in doing it.

They got all the more pleasure out of it because New York Americans were playing a one to one tie with Detroit Red Wings and so moved up within one point of Conny Smythe's Leafs. Tommy Norman's team also improved their own position by winning seven points of the third-place Montreal Canadiens.

But it is doubtful if anyone got more pleasure out of the evening of hockey than manager Jack Adams, of Detroit. He saw his team go undefeated for the second straight game and creep to within three points of Chicago Black Hawks, beaten four to one by New York Rangers in Chicago last night.

Exultant over the Maroon win, manager Gorman laughed merrily after his first victory this season as Maroon coach. "We'll meet them in their own line every time," he said of Chicago Black Hawks, beaten four to one by New York Rangers in Chicago last night.

The opening period of the game brought the first and most furious flurry of fists between Leafs and Maroons. "Red" Horner and Jimmy Ward started swinging at each other and almost every player on both teams got into the battle.

The Leaf defencemen and Ward were separated but they started fighting again on the penalty bench and drew a Major and a match penalty. There were plenty of cruises on both teams and even referee Johnny Mitchell caught a few of the swinging fists and came up with a badly swollen face.

Other fists brought minor penalties later in the contest.

Gordon Drillon had scored for Toronto before the big fight, but shortly after the ice was cleared, Bo Gaudet tied the score with "Buzz" Boll, of Leafs, off and Herb Cain, Cy Wentworth and Russ Bickel made it four to one before the period
