World News In Brief

Agra, India, March 26 — (Reuters) — Prime Minister Nehru Sunday night rejected the Anglo-American resolution of Kashmir which is before the United Nations security council.

Nehru, addressing a public meeting here, said acceptance of this resolution would be "dishonorable" for India.

The revised resolution, presented last Wednesday, called on India and Pakistan in their three-year dispute to accept arbitration by representatives appointed by the international court of justice if their discussions with the U. N. representatives failed to bring agreement.

Hong Kong, March 26 — (AP) — "Third Auntie Hsieh," a woman straw boss of hard-hatted Canton dock workers, died before a firing squad Sunday after a public trial on charges of "exploiting workers," said a Canton dispatch to the pro-communist newspaper Ta Kung Pao. Her real name was Hsieh Yang-Fong. But she was known affectionately as "Third Auntie Hsieh." Communist police arrested her Friday.

Tokyo, March 26 — (AP) — Premier Shigeru Yoshida struck out with his cane Saturday at a Japanese newsreel man trying to photograph him. The incident occurred at Hiratsuka city, 60 miles west of Tokyo when the Premier accompanied Emperor Hirohito to a Holstein cow show. The photographer, Msaru Tabata, representing Warner Pathe News, said the cane broke his range finder.

New York, March 26 — (AP) — Arturo Toscanini spent his 84th birthday quietly yesterday with members of his family and intimate friends at his home here. The Italian conductor was reported in good health, except for an old knee injury.

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 26 — (AP) — The condition of Michigan's Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, seriously ill at his home here, remained unchanged today, Dr. A. B. Smith said.

Paris, March 26 — (AP) — France's latest wave of strikes appeared to be near an end today. Negotiations for settlement of the 11-day bus and subway walkout in Paris were resumed with hope of success. The Paris transport strike touched off the series of stoppages that extended to gas and electricity workers and railroad operators. Following a government-ordered rise in the minimum wage level, all ended except the bus and subway walkout.

New York, March 26 — (AP) — James J. Moran, resigned New York city water commissioner, was indicted on perjury charges today growing out of testimony before Senate crime investigators.

MacArthur's Conflict With Washington Rages Again

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER.
Washington, March 26 — (AP) — The dispute that rages between Gen. Douglas MacArthur and the Truman administration over how to win the Korean war has reached fever heat again. The administration may shortly ask the General to clear with Washington anything he says involving broad foreign policy issues.

This may or may not prove acceptable to MacArthur, but State Department officials privately say something must be done to prevent a repetition of last week's exchange of shocks and harsh words between Tokyo and Washington.

President Truman circulated last December a firm, government-wide directive declaring that any statement on foreign policy by any official or employee of the government in a speech, article or other public utterance, should be cleared with the State Department. Informants said that order was called to MacArthur's attention at the time.

Friday night MacArthur left Tokyo for the 38th parallel area of Korea to order United Nations forces to cross into North Korea as tactical requirements made necessary.

Before leaving he issued a statement making a bid for peace talks with the communists, said the Chinese Reds were licked and incapable of waging modern war and warned that if the United Nations launched attacks on Chinese bases and coastal areas, China would probably suffer military collapse.

This statement caught the State Department completely unaware. It apparently also caught President Truman without advance notice. After several hours of parleying, including a talk between State Secretary Dean Acheson and President Truman, a statement was

Search Is Continuing For Plane

Shannon Airport, Ireland, March 26 — (AP) — Ships and planes swept the north Atlantic for the fourth day today seeking a trace of the missing United States air force Globemaster and its 53 American airmen. Speculation that the giant plane had been sabotaged appeared in the British press.

Officials, their hopes virtually dashed that any of the missing airmen would be found alive, remained silent concerning what might have happened to the big transport. But there has been speculation in British newspapers that it might have exploded in flight. The newspapers said they considered it odd that so few clues have been found in the relatively well-travelled area of the Atlantic.

A reporter for the London Daily Express wrote that in his opinion the plane probably was sabotaged. He wrote that unless the disaster had been instantaneous, the radio operator would have had time to switch over to his disaster wavelength.

A giant U. S. navy aircraft carrier and two destroyers were joining the air-sea hunt for the Globemaster.

Experienced men at this trans-Atlantic airfield feared it was impossible for anyone to survive three days or more in mid-Atlantic, no matter how good the survival equipment.

There are no islands anywhere near the disaster area which might have given them refuge. But the search went on with full intensity, concentrated on an area about 20 miles square 700 miles west of Ireland where wreckage and flares were reported by one of the search aircraft Friday.

About 60 American and British planes were in the air during the day, most of them Superforts from the United States air force establishments in south-east England.

The Globemaster, biggest military transport in service anywhere, was reported equipped with the latest survival equipment. It can carry up to 125 fully-equipped troops.

The aircraft was on its way from Limestone, Me., to Mildenhall, England, with a group of U. S. air force men due for duty in Britain.

Vancouver, March 26 — (AP) — A Queen Charlotte Airlines plane overturned Saturday while making a forced landing off the west coast of Vancouver island but the six persons aboard, two of them children, escaped uninjured.

They were flown to the settlement of Zeballos, B. C., Sunday after a plane piloted by Tommy issued saying Washington had had nothing to do with MacArthur's statement.

The Washington statement said MacArthur had authority to conduct military operations but that political issues which "he has stated are beyond his responsibilities" are being dealt with by the United Nations and by governments having troops in Korea.

The key MacArthur clause which set off the alarm here was that the United Nations could probably succeed in forcing a military collapse of China by a limited coastal-attack and base-bombing war. A Tokyo dispatch yesterday suggested MacArthur probably was trying to divert the Chinese Reds' attention from Korea to the danger of a coastal attack.

Whatever his objective, any statement he makes—even hedging in with "ifs"—about extending the war in the Far East always sends huge shudders among the Canadian, British, French and other friendly governments.

Red Resistance Melts But Mud Is Delaying Factor — Some Patrols Cross Border.

Tokyo, March 26 — (AP) — United Nations troops solidified their lines on the western front in Korea today and drove rapidly north toward the 38th parallel.

Allied forces moved east from Munsan and linked up with an American division north of Uijongbu. The town is about 10 miles south of the pre-war boundary between North and South Korea.

Field dispatches said Red resistance melted. The Americans advanced rapidly despite soupy Korean mud.

The entire U. N. line drew closer to parallel 38. It appeared the allies could cross in force whenever they chose.

On the central front an American division was reported within two miles of North Korea. On the east coast South Korean patrols punctured the imaginary line, crossing and recrossing at will.

Far East naval headquarters said South Korean troops staged a commando raid 50 miles north of the parallel Saturday. They landed on the Wolsa peninsula and killed 100 Reds while capturing 69. Then they withdrew.

The peninsula is south of the Taedong estuary which leads to Chinnampo, port city for the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

From the western front Associated Press correspondent Jim Becker quoted United States officers as saying the link-up "saved us four or five days of tough fighting."

Officers said the Chinese 26th army corps, rushed into defensive positions north of Seoul only last week, had withdrawn. The only

NORTHERN TOWN TAKEN
Tokyo, March 26 — (Reuters) — South Korean troops tonight claimed the capture of an unnamed town three miles north of the 38th parallel on the Korean east coast.

Reds spotted between the Americans and 38 was a single company equipped with tanks north of Uijongbu.

Parts of six Chinese and North Korean armies were spread between and around the North Korean towns of Yonchon and Hwachon. Yonchon is about six miles north of the border, almost due north of Seoul. Hwachon is about seven miles north of 38 and 16 miles due north of Chunchon on the central front.

Fifth air force fighters attacked Hwachon Monday. Strikes also were made against Kumchon and the military crossroads town of Kumhwa.

On Korea's east coast, South Korean units operated with sea-borne artillery. Allied ships lying offshore pounded Red installations.

Naval sieges were maintained on Wonsan and Songjin, far north of the border. Cruisers, destroyers and supporting craft took part.

In Pusan, South Korean President Syngman Rhee called for the United Nations forces to march north to the Yalu river—North Korea's boundary with Manchuria.

Kingston Boy Is Kidnapped
Kingston, Ont., March 26 — (AP) — Owen C. Dulmage, 29, of Ottawa, has admitted kidnapping 13-year-old Teddy Wainwright and holding him captive for 36 hours, police said today.

An employee of the Department of Transport, Dulmage is in hospital under police guard after being injured early Sunday when an automobile carrying him and his young captive plummeted into a culvert on Highway 15, about 20 miles north of this Eastern Ontario city.

At home with his widowed mother, Teddy, uninjured in the crash, told a bizarre story of being bludgeoned on a Kingston street Friday night. The lad, apparently none the worse for his experience, said he was blindfolded, gagged and bound, taken by car to a farmhouse, forced to don a bathing suit, then tied in various positions and strung for a time by his ankles from a beam in the cellar.

Police at first refused to believe the story. "The policeman bet me all the money I had on me that I was telling a cock-and-bull story," said Teddy. "When the check was made he gave me 30 cents—all I had with me."

Police said Dulmage is subject to dizzy spells. They added that he appeared sorry for his actions and admitted the whole thing.

He suffered head injuries in the accident which wrote "fish" on his forehead. Police said they were awaiting his recovery before formally charging him.

Sixth Sense Of Animals Is Studied

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
Durham, N. C., March 26 — (AP) — The sixth sense of dogs, cats, migratory birds and fish is up for scientific experiments at Duke University.

Does your dog really read your mind? When the cat finds you after you have moved to a new place is it really an accident?

These experiments, new to the scientific world, are going on in the parapsychology laboratory here, where in 20 years of work Dr. J. B. Rhine has shown the existence of a human sixth sense which he calls extrasensory perception. His proof is mathematical and mathematicians say the mathematics are used with absolute correctness.

Dr. Rhine has not discovered what forms his human sixth sense. That is why he is taking on animal experiments. If this mysterious quality is proven in animals, it will be possible to do experiments that cannot be tried on humans. The hunt will be for something equivalent to a sense organ not now recognized.

The first step is gathering dog and cat stories and checking their correctness. The best authenticated dog story thus far is about a collie, Bobbie, whose owners took him on an auto trip from their home in Silverton, Ore., over a northern route into Indiana. There they lost him. The family continued on to Mexico and then home to Oregon.

Months later Bobbie appeared at his Oregon home about 2,000 miles from Indiana. His feet were bleeding and he lay quiet for three days. The Oregon humane society investigated. Bobbie had a trick of volunteering a front paw for a

Argentine Editor Is In Uruguay

Montevideo, Uruguay, March 26 — (AP) — Dr. Alberto Gainza Paz, fugitive editor-publisher of Argentina's muzzled newspaper La Prensa, today was planning to stay in temporary exile at his mother's Uruguay ranch, 150 miles west of Montevideo.

Gainza Paz has been declared a fugitive from justice by the committee of the Argentine congress, which last week took over his independent newspaper.

He was cited for contempt of congress because he called congressional seizure of La Prensa a violation of Argentina's constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press. When federal police sought to arrest him to serve a 15-day jail sentence, the publisher had disappeared.

In a telephone interview yesterday, Gainza Paz declined to reveal how he escaped from the Argentine.

Wet Spring Ruins Crops In Europe

By REUTERS NEWS AGENCY
Farmers across Europe are eyeing rain-soaked fields and wondering how they will make ends meet this year.

After the wettest spring for many years, thousands of farmers have still not planted their crops. Many will be ruined unless the weather improves soon.

One consequence of poor crops this fall might mean increased food imports from the United States and Canada.

Here is a survey showing how the weatherman has aimed one straight at Europe's breadbasket: London: The most serious consequences of prolonged rains in Britain will be lower yields of wheat, the National Farmer Union said. Farmers are five or six weeks behind schedule.

Paris: French farmers, though concerned about the effect of heavy winter rain and possible floods in river valleys, do not think their work will be seriously endangered if the rain stops within the next week or so.

Rome: Heavy rain over three months has delayed sowing and

Sidelights On Conflict In Korea

Tokyo, March 26 — (AP) — Vice Admiral Arthur D. Struble said today he believes the United States seventh fleet is strong enough to blockade the long coastline of Red China.

He said the fleet also could prevent any Chinese communist invasion of Formosa. Chances of such an invasion attempt are increasing as the weather improves, he said.

Struble made the statements at a press conference before turning over command of the fleet to Vice Admiral Harold H. Martin.

Struble will return to the United States to command the U.S. first fleet in Pacific coast waters.

Struble refused comment when asked if the amphibious forces of the seventh fleet were large enough to support a United Nations or Chinese nationalist invasion of the Chinese mainland. But he said: "I believe the forces—air and surface—now in the Far East could adequately conduct a naval blockade of China if such a decision were reached by the government."

Tokyo, March 26 — (AP) — Brig. John M. Rockingham, commander of Canada's Korean brigade, arrived in Tokyo today for a brief visit before going to Korea.

His brigade is completing training at Fort Lewis, Wash.

Brig. Rockingham was accompanied by Brig. Frank Floury, commander of the Canadian military mission to Japan who returned here after a short visit in Canada.

Brig. Rockingham plans to return to Canada in a few days, after a brief inspection of Canadian troops in Korea and a visit with Canadian wounded in hospital at Kure, Japan.

Tokyo, March 26 — (AP) — The Korean Red radio at Pyongyang claimed Sunday night that three American planes were shot down by anti-aircraft fire near the communist capital. The Red broadcast, heard in Tokyo, said four American airmen survived the crashes and were taken prisoner. The date of the raid was not given.

Tokyo, March 26 — (AP) — A giant Douglas C-124 Globemaster II, capable of carrying 222 equipped troops or 138 litter patients, took off today for the United States. The Globemaster, biggest plane yet seen in Japan, had delivered a high-priority cargo to the Far East air force for support of the United Nations war effort in Korea.

28 Injured In Ski Lift Accident
Vancouver, March 26 — (AP) — A ski lift cable jumped like a whip-lash yesterday and sprinkled dozens of passengers along the lower reaches of nearby Grouse Mountain.

About 28 persons were listed as injured after the $100,000 chair lift swayed ominously and then dropped them as much as 35 feet to the snow-cushioned mountainside on the north shore of Burrard Inlet.

R.C.M.P. said the lift's 1½-inch cable jumped off its bull wheel after a lift chair "swung out of control."

Most of the injuries were minor. Five persons were hurt seriously while most of the others were released from hospital after treatment or stayed at the ski village to nurse their injuries.

Canada's Steel Makers Are Producing At Record Rate

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Ottawa, March 26 — (AP) — Canada's steel makers, important figures in rearmament, are on the road to making history this year.

They're producing at unprecedented rates, pulling more hot steel out of fiery furnaces than at any time in history.

Steel, long described as a nation's industrial backbone, is a crucial factor in Canada's rearmament program. Without steel there can be no guns, no ships, no planes, no transport, no arms.

With that in mind, steel makers are aiming to surpass the production high of 3,500,000 ingot tons last year.

Output in January totalled 299,410 tons, compared with 283,894 in January, 1950. Production in February totalled 271,222 tons, against a sharp gain from the 251,890 in the same month last year.

When it comes to a comparison with the big nations, Canada's steel-making ability is relatively small, but there is no grass growing under the industry's feet.

In 1935, it had the ability to produce only some 1,000,000 ingot tons a year. In 1950 it had more than tripled this figure.

A big slow-up factor in expansion is Canada's peacetime needs. A small country with a population of 14,000,000, it can absorb only so much steel wares.

And a big factor, too, is the big steel-making ability of Canada's next-door neighbor, the United States, now limiting export due to a big rearmament program of its own.

Canada usually imported about 1,000,000 ingot tons of steel to add to her own supplies. Last year, the U.S. delivered only about 700,000 tons. This year, through government intervention, the U.S. may increase the flow back to the 1,000,000-ton mark, or even a little higher.

Canada's needs, as estimated by the government, are about 5,500,000 tons of finished steel for 1951. At current production and importing rates, she still will need about 1,500,000 tons more than she can get.

Washington, March 26. — (AP) — Reports of a dangerous scarcity of iron and steel scrap have led the United States national production authority to launch a scrap collection campaign.

Iron and steel scrap are an essential ingredient in steel production. Unless deliveries to steel mills are increased before the normal summer upturn in scrap movement, official fear the output of steel for defence and civilian products will be curtailed.

Cambridge Again Wins Boat Race

London, March 26 — (AP) — Heavily-favored Cambridge won the 97th varsity boat race today, defeating Oxford by about 15 lengths, one of the biggest margins in their ancient rivalry.

The unofficial time for the 4½-mile horseshoe course on the Thames river in southwest London was 21 minutes.

By winning for the fifth straight time Cambridge earned a trip to the United States to meet Harvard, Yale, Boston University, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology in races in April — the first time a British varsity shell has ever competed in the United States.

Today's race followed an abnormally early start.

list which excluded perennial winner Betty Grable, she checked with Fox executives. June was worried that Betty, also under contract at Fox, would do a bit of knife throwing. The studio gave her its blessing. So did Betty.

It was bound to happen. The sneak preview of "Father's Little Dividend," in which Don Taylor again plays Liz Taylor's movie husband, brought him this fan letter:

"Just saw your new movie with Liz. You're so nice and treat her so well, I can't understand the divorce and how you can get into so much trouble."

He wanted to forward it to Nick Hilton, then thought better of it.

I asked Dorothy the question literary critics throughout the country are asking: When would she write again?

Annie Bangs uttered a little scream and looked down. Looking up at her with hope and trust was Sweetie. "Oh, Sweetie," Annie Bangs half sobbed, "is that where you were all the time?"

Sweetie gave her that mild stare. Where else would she be but at a door, waiting for it to open. Who else but a fox, and Annie Bangs would venture out on a night like this?

"Come in, come in," Annie Bangs urged, as if she were greeting a welcome guest. "I'll make us some hot milk."

Later they retired to the sitting room. Sweetie took a careful look around, and decided on the hair-loom rocker that nobody, including Annie Bangs, had sat in since she inherited it.

Annie Bangs opened her mouth to screech. To her vast surprise what came out was the tranquil admission, "Well, I guess you have to sit somewhere."

She sat down in her own rocker, and this time its movement was slow and rhythmic. Presently they were both nodding, unmindful of the night. Each had someone near to share whatever storms or stresses the rest of their lives would hold.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

HOW TO RUN BIG CANASTA PARTY
By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
"How do you go about running a large Canasta party or tournament?" asks a Pittsburgh reader. If it's a very large tournament, your best bet is to get a professional director. The nearest large bridge club can probably recommend somebody. It takes a lot of planning to arrange all the tables, chairs, tally cards, pencils, playing cards, and so forth, to say nothing of the tournament itself. If you want to run the tournament yourself, your first question is how to get the players. You'll probably have to advertise. It's a good idea to give the proceeds to a worthy local charity to attract players who are charity minded. Get supplies by setting up one sample table with everything needed for the actual tournament. Then multiply by the number of tables you need, plus some spares. Line up the tables in one long row. Label the head of the row "North" and the bottom of that row of tables "South." (Don't pay any attention to the actual North and South directions.) When the players arrive, assign half of them to North-South seats and the other half to East-West seats. Everybody in a North or a South seat stays put all through the evening. Everybody in an East or a West seat however, moves to a different table whenever a change is called.

Each table is numbered, and the movement of the East-West players is from their original table to the table with the next higher number, and so on. When a player moves from the last table, he goes to table number one.

The tournament director (or host) gets everybody quiet when all of the players have straggled in. The director then announces how the players move, how to score, and so on, after which the signal to begin play is given.

During each round, the players at each table play just two hands of Canasta. Everybody starts the first hand with a score of 1400 instead of zero. Hence only 50 points are needed for the first meld. When the second hand begins, the first meld depends on the score. It's usually 90 and sometimes 120 points.

At the end of 25 minutes, the director should blow a whistle and announce that there is time for only one more play by each player. Some tables by this time will have finished their two hands, and the players at that table will be chatting or otherwise passing the time.

About a minute or two after his warning signal, the director announces a new round, and the East-West players move to the next table. Five or six rounds of play should take about three hours, which is considered a full evening's play.

The scoring is another story. I'll discuss that in my next article.

Montreal, March 26.—(C)—Provincial police today were holding two youths in connection with the shovel attack of a soldier during a party Saturday night in nearby Terrebonne, Que.

In a Montreal veterans' hospital with a possible skull fracture was Louis Moude, 22, a member of the Royal 22nd regiment who was on an Easter week-end leave in his hometown.

Police said the soldier was struck with the shovel outside a house while he was settling an argument with the two youths. The argument apparently started in the house.

North Ward Candidates Are Completing Organization For Tomorrow's Election

With the contest for the North Ward Council seat made vacant by the retirement of former Alderman Alex Ross coming to a climax tomorrow, both candidates for the post, J. L. (Paul) Boulanger and Paul Leclerc, are concentrating their efforts today on final organization work, chiefly in connection with the vital task of getting the voters to the polls.

Eleven polling stations have been established by City Clerk Antonin Deslauriers to meet the needs of the 3,300 voters inscribed on the lists for this section of the City.

Polls open at nine o'clock and close at seven o'clock. Unlike the Dominion and provincial election laws, the regulations covering municipal elections make no provision for the granting of time off for employees to vote.

The polling stations have been located as follows: Polls 87 and 88, 36 Dufferin Avenue; 79 and 80, 19 Montreal Street; 81 and 82, 34 Queen Street North; 83 and 85, 16 London Street; 84 and 86, 328 King Street West; 87 (A to K) 538 King Street West; 87 (L to Z) 538 King Street West; 88, 405 King Street West; 89 and 90, 186 Ontario Street; 91, 125 Dominion Street; 92 and 93, 226 Victoria Street.

Saturday night saw the ending of radio broadcasts to the electors under a CBC ruling which prohibits such addresses for a forty-eight hour period prior to the elections.

Supporting Mr. Boulanger, C. Larose stressed the town planning plan in the former's platform, claiming that such a program would permit the more efficient development of municipal services to the newer sections of the city and would assure the proper balancing of residential, commercial and industrial zones.

Mr. Boulanger's program of parks and playgrounds extension and his desire for an improved water supply were reviewed by Douglas Howard, who made an appeal to the English-speaking electors to get out and vote for the man they believed would best support their interests at the City Hall.

Paul Leclerc made a direct appeal for the votes of the English residents of the ward, claiming that he was prepared to act as spokesman for citizens of all races and creeds.

The results of the elections, the first to be held in the North Ward for many years, should be completed by eight o'clock tomorrow evening.

Final Tribute Is Paid To Mrs. Cotterell

The funeral service for Mrs. J. W. Cotterell, formerly Florence Agnes Loke, widow of the late George Loke was held on Thursday afternoon, March 22, at St. Paul's Anglican Church. Rev. Arthur Ottewill officiated.

Hymns sung during the service were "Safe In The Arms Of Jesus" and "Abide With Me."

Bearers were: Lieut. Borman, W. Hand, A. Hedenberg, H. Richards, A. Taylor and W. Taylor.

The deceased is survived by her husband, three sons, George, of Toronto, Sydney, Way's Mills and Stanley, of Essex, England; five grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. E. Aldham, of Montreal.

Those from out-of-town who attended the funeral included a nephew, Clarence Aldham, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Loke, son, Billy and daughter, Jean, of Way's Mills; Mrs. B. Plunkett, and son, Jerry, of Waterloo; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cotterell, Magog and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Roscoe, Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

Interment took place in the Prospect Street Cemetery.

Quebec, March 26.—(C)—Police reported last night 27 traffic accidents during the Easter week-end, seven of them caused by drunken drivers.

Driving was rendered difficult by a wind-driven snowfall.

Of five persons injured in these accidents, one was reported in serious condition. Mrs. Philippe Lamontagne suffered fractures to both arms and legs when she was hit by a car at an intersection.

Montreal, March 26.—(C)—A 35-year-old man whose timing, according to police, is worse than his sense of humor, was empowered by two customers and turned over to police Saturday night after he allegedly had robbed an east-end restaurant of $229.

Police said the man entered a barbecue and with his right hand in his coat pocket, ordered a clerk to hand him the contents of the cash register.

After pocketing the money, the thug walked to the door where he turned, showed his two free hands to the clerk and said: "It's a joke. No gun, see."

Police said the thug, whose identity was withheld, was pounced upon by two customers.

"He shouldn't have acted so smart, but then he was feeling pretty high," police said.

Sherbrooke Winter Club Will Present "Ice Parade Of 1951" Next Saturday

The Sherbrooke Winter Club will present its annual ice carnival at the Arena on Saturday, March 31. There will be two performances, one in the afternoon and one in the evening.

The show, which is produced by the Sherbrooke Winter Club and sanctioned by the Canadian Figure Skating Association, will be entitled Ice Parade of 1951 and the committee hopes that this year's revue on skates will be as successful as in past years in order that the Winter Club can engage a professional trainer for next season.

The pupils have been practising very hard to make this show a success," says program and publicity chairman F. P. Kenalty. "The show will consist of 24 acts, colorful costumes and elaborate lighting effects."

The show will star only local talent.

Formed over 40 years ago, the Sherbrooke Winter Club is a non-profit organization to foster figure skating in this city. In order to do so, skating sessions are held three times weekly during the winter season, at the Arena. The Club now boasts 100 members, ranging in age from little five-year-olds to Mr. A. L. Parker who has already celebrated his 75th birthday anniversary.

President of the Club is William Goode who is also chairman of the ice show committee. Assisting Mr. Goode with the show are: Mrs. Henri Dubois, costumes; James Neilson, tickets; Lou Carter, music; Claude Gervais and Ann Goode, production directors and F. P. Kenalty, stage manager.

The Club has produced excellent results in training youngsters in the art of figure skating and several of its former members are now skating professionally. An annual ice show has been produced by the Club for 15 years.

ARGENTINA: THE WEAK SPOT IN HEMISPHERE DEFENCE

The argument of those observers of the hemisphere defence picture that Argentina provides an open door for Nazi-Fascist ideologies to enter the Americas finds strong support in the determination of the Peron Government to curb the activities of La Prensa, one of the strongest newspaper supporters of the democrat tradition on this side of the Atlantic.

Despite any assertions of his apologists to the contrary, President Peron maintains one of the most dictatorial regimes in existence in his country, completely controlling almost every organization of public opinion and expression. Virtually the last critic of the Government was La Prensa and its outspoken editor and through a combination of labor terrorism and legislative repression, the former has been compelled to cease its attacks and the latter has been forced into exile in neighboring Uruguay.

With La Prensa removed as an active political factor, the Peron administration can now proceed with the furtherance of its dictatorial policies without any fear that the outside world will gain a comprehensive picture of its repressive actions through the columns of this newspaper.

The belief that the Argentine Republic served as a front for Nazi-Fascist infiltration into the Americas arose with considerable strength prior to World War II, students of that country's affairs pointing to the large number of German and Italian citizens — mostly men of wealth with strong totalitarian leanings — who had taken up residence there and the important positions held by German military men in organizing the defence forces of the country.

Certainly the record of that country since the war has done little to change the belief. Reports that many key Nazis escaped their own country before the collapse of Germany has been substantiated in official foreign quarters, although earlier reports that Adolf Hitler was able to find refuge there have been generally discounted. The fact does remain, however, that Peron is modelling his new state on the lines of the German dictatorship and that he appears to have the advice of men who had close contact with the former German leader.

The democracies, in meeting the menace of totalitarian aggression in other parts of the globe, might also pay close attention to their own Achilles' heel.

ARE THEY STUPID?

Has bureaucracy in the United Kingdom, under a socialist government, gone stupid or insane, the St. Catharines Standard asks in commenting on a Canadian Press despatch telling of recent disclosures to the effect that Britain has recently been exporting certain varieties of tinned meats to the Argentine and to Canada of all countries. The despatch reports naturally that British housewives, with twelve cents worth of meat a week are again on the war path. And why shouldn't they be?

The inanity as reported is further aggravated by the disclosure that heavy shipments of prize-winning sheep have been sent from English stock farms to Poland. More than one thousand have already gone and more are to follow. The shipments include the purest-bred stock and prize-winners because Polish buyers would take only the best.

Shortage of meat and the highest price for wool in world history are obviously no deterrent to the exports as reported. To put the case mildly, is there something rotten in the State of Denmark?

TEMPTING PROVIDENCE

When a government undertakes to control the prices of a necessary commodity by regulating supply to demand, it is tempting Providence and gambling with the people's living, a thing no government has any right to do.

In accordance with its policy of supporting the price of cotton, the American Government ordered a sharp reduction in the acreage to be sown to that commodity in the year 1950. But 1950 proved to be a poor year for cotton, with the result that the whole world is short of cotton today.

Prices have reached the highest point in 80 years. Exports have been curtailed and there is talk of allotting supplies to domestic mills.

Why should governments be allowed to do things like this with impunity? If any group of private individuals had attempted such a thing, they would have been before the courts or a congressional committee long ago.

But apparently there is no power to call the government to account.

Might not this be a matter for the United Nations to deal with? If the U. N. aims to be the keeper of the conscience of mankind it could very well raise the question of what right any government has to deliberately create shortage of supplies on which other nations depend.

THE SHRINKING DAIRY INDUSTRY

In 1900, Canada had 1,038 dairy cattle for each 1,000 of population, but in 1950 it had only 650 head of dairy cattle for each 1,000 people. In some areas milk production declined as much as twenty per cent last year.

A careful survey in an area not far from Ottawa showed that the average farmer faced a loss of $174.50 on his milk production, and that after he had charged only fifty cents per hour for his labor. Producers have continued to operate because they could see no alternative.

This is changed now. With veal calves selling at thirty-five cents per pound, live weight, or cows at twenty-two to twenty-five cents per pound, they have a way out and are taking it.

Press Comment

THE HANDS OF ESAU

Christian Science Monitor

That strange schizophrenic publication, Soviet Russia Today, has come out under a new and less candid label. It now calls itself The New World Review. But it carries the same line of merchandise between the covers.

It would be fine if, in some way, more Americans could be helped to understand that there are millions of ordinary Russians who also yearn for a peaceful world, who love their families and respect their neighbors, just as it would be wonderful if a few more Russians could be persuaded that if there are any "imperialist warmongers" among Americans they have neither numbers nor influence.

But the New World Review is unlikely to accomplish either task. It isn't edited in the name of the Kremlin, but in the name of a group of Americans of apparently Anglo-Saxon and Germanic, not Slavic, ancestry. It is published in New York, not Moscow. Yet it presents a picture of unmarred perfection within the Soviet Union and its satellites that only wishful believers and the utterly naive could accept as remotely objective.

The real give-away shows up in its editorial direction and comment. The New World Review speaks as though it were Americans speaking. But the "line" is the line of Moscow—every twist and turn of it.

It gives one a strange feeling to read opinion purportedly American in which the standpoint of "we" is that of the Soviet Union, and implications of "they" point to the United States—a strange feeling to read forthright appeals for "peace," to "live and let live among nations," and then to think on Czechoslovakia and Korea.

GODLESS CRIMINALITY

St. Catharines Standard

The arrest of five Canadian nuns in Canton, members of the Missionary Sisters of the Immaculate Conception, is further evidence of the godless criminality of the Kremlin masters and their stooges all around the world. The fantastic charge as made against these Sisters in the holy order of the Roman Catholic Church is that they have neglected orphans committed to their care, that out of 2,216 little children the mortality rate was 90 per cent and only 48 were still living on March 5 last.

The nuns are to be tried in a People's Court, and by this time, the world pretty well knows what that means. Neither orphanage nor hospital care in China, even in normal times, can approach the standards and facilities as we know them in this country. That stands to reason. In the case of an orphanage, no doubt newly-born and abandoned infants have been dumped on the doorstep of the orphanage, and the nuns did their best with this human wreckage.

But the main idea is to blast the long-established reputation of the missionaries among the Chinese people, for mercy and goodness. The plot and aim are deliberate, with a definite purpose to accomplish, the destruction of all good works for the supremacy of the godless criminals, the bestial beasts. Under Moscow direction, this is the black shadow over all the world, and with the arrest of the five Sisters at Canton, the shadow extends deeply over Canada.

THOSE FIVE-DAY WORKERS

Saturday Night

Some Toronto policemen, now enjoying the customary benefits of a five-day week, are reported to have spent their off-time to some extent in driving new motor-cars from the factories to various cities where they were to be delivered. It is even alleged that some of them have been violating the speed laws in so doing.

We shall of course be surprised and grieved if this latter allegation should be proved correct (as however it may have been by the time these lines are read). But we are not in the least surprised to learn that policemen, or any other workers on a five-day week, do extra work for other employers on the sixth day. Surely only very simple-minded people can ever have expected that they wouldn't.

The five-day week did not come into vogue because policemen, or any other workers except perhaps those on exceptionally monotonous jobs like automobile assembling, are exhausted by a five-and-a-half or even a six-day week. It came in to vogue as a device for reducing the labor supply and thereby forcing up the price of an hour's work—a purpose which it is fulfilling to perfection, the only trouble being that when everybody is doing it everybody has to pay the increased cost of the things that labor produces, and you get what is called an inflation.

The inflation causes policemen and other workers, to need more money, and they go back to the six-day week, but devote the sixth day to cutting in on the market of some other kind of workers who are not sufficiently organized to be able to keep them out, such as the drivers who deliver new motor-cars. It is all perfectly simple.

SPRING MAY BE HERE, BUT WHERE?

Some folks allow they've definite proof That Spring is in the air, Yet, round our way it seems aloof . . . And I've looked everywhere.

You just can't tell about the sap, It may be flowing free, And still leave quite a lengthy gap 'Twixt then, and Spring, By Gee!

A gaunt old hedge-hog waddled out About a week ago, And told me he was much in doubt, Did I the right date know?

A few thin, daring birds have stayed To show us they could do it; Right now they're looking quite dismayed And sort of seem to rue it.

. . . When birdies in their several forms Make woodland regions ring, When old King Sol the chill air warms Ah! then we'll say "This Spring!"

(Perhaps it may some comfort give Could we but realize, Each Zero day through which we live We're free from heat—and flies.)

Are womenfolk excited? Yes! But o'er the new Spring fashions, Some later they'll create a mess . . . And men be low on rations.

When rugs and curtains are ripped loose And on the lines they swing, You hunt belongings, (taint no use) Now, that's SURE sign of Spring.

Yes, many signs of Spring there be And some are quite confusing, But, that's the one appeals to me. . . What symbols are you using?

BEWARE ENEMY'S LONG SUIT IN N.T.

When you're playing a hand at no-trump, it's often a good idea to refuse the first trick or two in the enemy's long suit. This principle, well known to every experienced player, is somehow forgotten by those very same players when they are handling the defense.

In today's hand, East made use of the principle on defense. It wouldn't have helped him very much if South had been on his toes; but South wasn't, and East is the sort of practical fellow who knows that even the best opponent will occasionally slip if you throw enough banana skins around his feet.

Declarer let the opening spade lead ride around to his queen and then immediately began on the diamonds. This was sound enough, and it was equally sound for East to hold up his ace. South properly led another diamond, and East again refused to take his ace. At this point South should have abandoned the diamonds. He should have gone after the clubs, establishing five tricks in that suit. Five clubs, two diamonds, and two spades would have given him his game contract.

As it happened, South didn't stop to think. He knew he had a magnificent diamond suit, and he was just going to plug away at it until the cows came home. The cowbells rang for him when he led diamonds for the third time. East took his ace this time and led a spade to dummy's ace.

Now there was no way to get out of the dummy without giving the lead to West. Since West had saved all of his spades, the defense was bound to make three spades and the two red aces, setting the contract.

If East had taken his ace of diamonds earlier, South would have made the contract. He would return to his hand (after East took the ace of diamonds and knocked out the ace of spades) with a diamond and run the rest of that suit. Poor West would have to give up some of his lovely spades in order to save some club protection; and then it would be safe for South to set up some heart tricks.

CARD SENSE

Q—With both sides vulnerable, you deal yourself the following cards: Spades A-5-2, Hearts A-K-J-9, Diamonds 4-3, Clubs Q-7-5-3. What do you do?

A—Bid one club. Your partner will probably respond to diamonds, allowing you to bid one heart quite comfortably. If you open with one heart you are no comforted rebid over a response of two diamonds.

TODAY'S QUESTION
After three passes your partner bids one heart. The next player passes. You hold: Spades 8-6, Hearts K-5-3-2, Diamonds K-9-7-4, Clubs 8-7-4. What do you do?

The Record Short Story

Two's Company

By DOROTHY WEST

It sat on her porch rail all day long, facing toward her kitchen window. No matter how often she shooed it away, it always came back to sit and stare.

Annie Bangs was cooking liver. She did not like liver, but the doctor had told her that it was good for her. She had reached the time of life when she had to do what the doctor said. Because she lived alone, there was nothing to do but obey this young man, and keep herself well. She had never asked anyone to lift a hand for her. She didn't believe in giving, and she didn't want to receive.

The window was open, because Annie Bangs hated cooking smells in a house as much as she hated cats in a house. They did not become a perfect housekeeper. It was said of her that you could eat off her floor, and, of course, you couldn't eat off a floor if it was covered with cat hairs.

Nobody brought their children or pets to climb over her or her furniture, or their husbands to leave a trail of ash in a fruitless search for an ash tray. Because so many people had children and pets and husbands, her callers were few and far between. As her years increased, though she stubbornly refused to give name to her feeling, loneliness slowly spread itself over her old heart.

The liver scent went out of the window, and the white angora cat, leaner than her breed should have been, stretched her head forward, sniffed madly, and meowed.

In the past two weeks, the length of time of the cat's encroachment, Annie Bangs had been cooking liver far more often than was her wont.

It was true that some six months ago the doctor had told her that it was good for her. All the same, since he had certainly not prescribed it three times a week, and since, until now, she had never eaten it three times a week, it almost seemed she cooked it to tantalize the cat.

The angora cat rose and arched her body in what she thought was a winning way, then executed a few gravity-defying catlethics on the narrow porch rail to show Annie Bangs how supple she was, and how, in her way, she needed liver as much as Annie Bangs to keep herself fit and able. After all, her plight would be just as bad if she should fall ill with no one to care for her.

But Annie Bangs saw no similarity between her and an angora cat. "You get down from there," she said sharply. "Don't you break your neck on my porch. If you don't get off my premises, I'll call the pound. Now, scat!"

The angora cat obligingly sat down, since her neck was precious to Annie Bangs, and since she chose to ignore the rest of the command.

"I'll get my broom," stormed Annie Bangs. "No alley cat will disobey me!"

Though she spoke to the cat as to a stray, she knew it was not a stray by choice. Indeed she knew everything about it, and could even have called it by name. But its name was Sweetie, an incredible name she would never in her life let fall from her lips.

The homeless creature had once belonged to the Maynard family down the road. But two weeks ago the Maynards had moved to another town. When train time came, Sweetie was not to be found. Though the Maynards went off without her, they sought consolation in the thought that at least they had abandoned her in a kind community. Sweetie would attach herself to some good-hearted neighbor. That Sweetie attached herself to Annie Bangs was part of life's perversity.

But to Sweetie it was simple arithmetic. Everybody else in the neighborhood had children or pets or both. Sweetie wanted to belong to someone whose affection she would not have to share. The only thing not very bright about Sweetie was her inability to read Annie Bangs' mind. Yet Sweetie's persistence might have been due to her confidence in her power to change it.

It did not appear that she was succeeding. Annie Bangs flung open the kitchen door, broom in hand. "When I say 'scat', I don't mean 'stay'." She made a wild swing with her broom. Sweetie ducked it, descended and entered the open doorway.

By the time Annie Bangs, who was much less agile, and certainly older, had caught up with Sweetie, Sweetie was sitting close by the stove, sniffing ecstatically.

"Get out of here," Annie Bangs ordered. "The idea you coming in my clean kitchen. Next time I'll swing this broom I won't miss. I'll send you flying out on the end of it."

She rattled the broom, hoping to scare Sweetie out of her wits and out of the door. But Sweetie did not flinch. She was where she had wanted to be for two weeks. To turn and go because of a broom would have been to show no more sense than a slavishly obedient dog.

Annie Bangs raised the broom, but somehow she could not bring it down. She felt like a fool, and she knew that to a superior cat she must look like a fool. But she had never struck a defenseless animal in her life. Oh, she had shooed and scolded and scared away cats and dogs and even birds for trespassing on her property. But she had never bruised a wing or sent a creature limping away, and apparently she couldn't now.

She emitted a long suffering sigh and returned the broom to the closet, avoiding Sweetie's mild stare. Suddenly she sniffed and flew to the stove.

That dratted cat had made her forget she was cooking. In another second her liver wouldn't have been worth eating, and liver was hardly worth eating at best.

She lifted the pan off the stove. Sweetie took her front paws off the floor and planted them on Annie Bangs' apron, giving her a look of such hope and trust that Annie Bangs felt too embarrassed to be aware that her spotted apron was being stepped on.

When you were sitting on that rail I told you I wasn't cooking this liver for you," she reminded her reproachfully. "Now you're trying to pretend I brought you in to feed you. And I didn't bring you in at all. You came in uninvited. For the last time," she ended weakly, "I'm telling you to scat."

But Sweetie only continued to claw at her apron, as aware as Annie that her tone lacked conviction.

Annie Bangs felt as foolish holding the frying pan aloft as she had felt suspending the broom. Again she sighed prodigiously. The only way to put the cat outside was to put some liver outside with her.

With the cat trailing her around the kitchen, its lovely paws gently swishing from side to side, Annie Bangs found an old plate, cut up some liver on it, saw what a modest showing it made, cut up some more, saw that what was left wasn't worth saving for herself, and cut that up, too. Sweetie voluntarily, even eagerly, followed the plate to the porch. Annie Bangs slammed and locked the back door.

She washed her hands fiercely, as one should after coming in contact with a cat. Still, she kept going to the window to see how the cat was enjoying her meal. And the waving plume above the bent head gave Annie Bangs a comfortable sense of being appreciated for a good deed.

When Sweetie had polished her plate and returned to the rail to sit, Annie Bangs stood at the window, basking in Sweetie's contentment. In feeding the angora cat she had fed her own starved spirit.

Dusk fell, and Annie Bangs continued to glance out of the kitchen window, but now her eye looked beyond the cat at the ominous sky. The clouds looked ready to release a torrent of rain. The wind was rising to gale proportions.

Sweetie's tense white figure was still discernible on the porch rail. For the past two weeks she had disappeared at dusk to find a hole in some sheltered place. But tonight she stayed close to the lighted house, knowing that only indoors was there shelter from the coming storm, and waiting, as she had waited before, for Annie Bangs to act.

She did. She opened the window, and the howling wind rushed in. "Go find cover, cat," she shouted against it. "Everybody knows cats hate to get wet, including cats. Can't you tell we're in for a gale? It'll blow six ways to Sunday if it doesn't drown you first. Now shoo, cat, shoo!"

She slammed the window and drew the shade. And suddenly the pelting rain came. Annie Bangs turned and hurried to the front of the house. She sat down in her rocker and began to rock very fast. But no matter how fast she rocked, she couldn't stop worrying about that white angora cat.

Finally she went back to the kitchen and raised the window shade. But the rain beat so hard against the pane that she could see nothing beyond it. Of course, it was silly to imagine that the cat might still be sitting there. But she got her flashlight out of a drawer and ran its beam up and down the rail. The angora cat had gone.

The relief Annie Bangs had expected to feel turned to panic. Where was she then? Had she really been blown six ways to Sunday? Wherever she had started for, the wind would never let her get there.

Labor Newspaper Ceases Printing In New Zealand

By J. C. GRAHAM

Wellington, N. Z. — The only metropolitan newspaper in New Zealand supporting the Labor party, the Wellington Southern Cross was forced by rising costs to suspend publication March 17.

Published by a company sponsored by the Labor party itself, the newspaper has a life of a little over five years. It lost money each year of its existence and several appeals were necessary to the party's branches and trade unions to keep it going.

The chairman of its board of directors, J. Roberts, stated the suspension was necessitated by shortage of staff and lack of replacements, together with an abnormal increase in costs of material and production.

For more than 10 years from 1935, New Zealand had a Labor government without a single metropolitan newspaper giving editorial support to the government. The only daily newspaper in the country supporting the Labor party was the Grey River Argus, in the small town of Greymouth on the west coast of the South Island.

Shortly after the war the Labor party started a campaign for its own daily paper. Funds were subscribed largely by party branches, trade unions and individual supporters. The paper was launched in Wellington, the capital, although not the largest city. Wellington already had a morning and an evening paper. The Southern Cross was launched as a morning paper and efforts were made to give it a national circulation among Labor supporters.

However, transport in New Zealand is not sufficiently developed for any daily paper to attain a truly national circulation. The paper built a circulation approaching 40,000, but this was considerably below that of the two other Wellington dailies. Although Wellington returned a large Labor representative to Parliament, a big percentage of Labor supporters continued to support the earlier established newspapers.

Warden Maud Watt Helps Cree Trappers

Quebec. — (CP) — Far to the north, at Rupert's House on James Bay, Quebec's lone game warden has a territory larger than any other 10 wardens in the province.

But this is a lesser distinction. Badge No. 1944 is worn by warden Maud Watt, first and only woman game warden in Quebec.

The honor and recognition were well earned. On the death some years ago of her husband, a Hudson's Bay factor, Mrs. Watt pressed to a successful conclusion his idea for a beaver sanctuary.

At that time beaver were so scarce they no longer figured in the fur harvest of some 300 Cree Indians settled there. Those were hard times for the Cree. Now the country is rich in beaver and the Indians buy government bonds.

They have a sawmill and are building frame cottages to replace their skin and canvas huts.

Always interested in the welfare of the Indians, the late factor Watt told them establishment of a sanctuary would allow beaver to multiply and the harvest in time would again be good.

The Indians were convinced. The Hudson's Bay company and the federal government didn't think much of the plan then.

Mr. Watt fell ill but his wife travelled overland to Quebec and her talk was convincing. The sanctuary was set up in the Cree's trapping territory, which is all in Quebec.

In a few years the fast-disappearing beaver population had grown to 15,000 and each beaver was allowed to trap a certain number. The beaver continued to multiply and the Indians' annual take has been allowed to increase accordingly.

After her husband's death Mrs. Watt continued his welfare work among the Indians. With her help, the Cree began bringing in lumber from the nearest supply point, Moosonee, Ont., 80 miles across the bay. Indian labor and money looked after building the frame cottages and the big community hall that would be the envy of many centres to the south.

The hall has a large dance floor, radio, phonograph, pool tables and also a modern bakery.

The Cree swear by Mrs. Watt, and last winter came the official recognition of her work. Hon. Camille Pouliot, Quebec's minister of game and fisheries, named as game warden the woman who has done so much for the Indians and now has adopted a little Cree boy as her son.

The Markets In Summary

WALL STREET

New York, March 26.—(AP)—The stock market returned to a narrow range of price changes today with gains and losses well divided.

Despite an early rush of trading as week-end orders were cleared, stock prices showed no inclination to resume the precipitate decline of Saturday's session. The rails, among the prime targets of that selling, showed appreciable signs of steadiness today.

The pace of dealings slowed greatly after the initial activity. Declines were recorded for Santa Fe, Phelps Dodge, General Motors, U.S. Rubber, Goodyear, Johnsonville, Admiral, Zenith Radio, Sinclair Refining, Boeing, Montgomery Ward and Youngtown Sheet and Tube.

Among issues achieving fractional gains were New York Central (which opened on a block of 3,500 shares), Southern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, Lockhead, United Air Lines, Dome Mines, American Woolen and Dow Chemical.

Following are the closing, bid and asked quotations as of March 21st, as furnished by the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada:

Knowlton's Community School Has Closed Its Fourth Yearly Session After A Most Successful Term

Knowlton, March 26.—The fourth yearly session of the Community School, which meets in the Knowlton Composite High School, closed an eight week session on March 26, to the regret of the many pupils.

It has been a very successful year, with an enrollment of eighty-eight, and the various leaders made all sessions enjoyable and instructive. It is interesting to note that the ages of the pupils ranged from fifteen to eighty-one years.

Seven courses or classes were held as follows: Leather work, taught by Graydon Tibbits. The class in Conversational French was taught by Dr. Matthews, but as he was called out of town for a period of weeks, Mrs. Lelloy Shaw kindly took over and completed the course.

Mrs. Filmore Sadler was again the instructor for the Play Reading class, when various plays were read, by the students, with much pleasure.

Mr. L. A. Boyd was in charge of the Bridge Playing, and was assisted by a number of ladies, as the class was a very large one. This course was held for the first time, as was also the class in glove making and rug making, which was ably taught by Mr. Saxon. The course in acetylene and forge welding was given by Mr. Glen Brown and caused much interest. During this course, the Canadian Liquid Air Company, of Montreal, sent out two welding experts, who gave instructions on four nights.

The Industrial Arts class had Mr. L. M. Knowlton for its instructor. At the close of the classes on two evenings, there were special attractions. The first event was moving pictures shown by Mr. J. E. Perry. The second event was a talk by Mrs. Matthews, when she touched on a few of her war experiences in Holland, her home country, where she was living during World War II. Mrs. Matthews is a pleasing and able speaker and it is hoped this will not be her only appearance as a lecturer.

At the closing session, there was only a short work period and then all classes met in the projection room, where all students making things exhibited some very creditable work, especially in leather and gloves.

A business meeting was held when the following officers were elected: President, Mr. J. E. Perry; first vice-president, Mrs. W. M. Bancroft; second vice-president, Mr. S. G. Robson; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. William Stockwell. Bountiful refreshments were served in the cafeteria, which brought to a close, the Community School for 1951.

THE W.C.T.U.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union met at the home of Mrs. H. L. Hastings, president, Mrs. E. H. Gray, presiding, and the meeting opened with the members repeating the pledge in unison.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. The roll was called, and the members responded by reading interesting articles.

Mrs. Gray reported on the Temperance Campaign prizes and also stated that she was holding a Temperance Poster contest in both the schools.

A summary was made of the different financial obligations to be met in March. Mrs. Gray also reminded the members that fees would be due then. February was the month of Frances Willard's Memorial and special readings, etc., were given by different members. Great honours have been paid to the memory of this clever woman, but the greatest and most lasting monument is the world-wide union of Women known as the World's W.C.T.U., which numbers more than a million and a half in its membership.

Mrs. Sidney Taylor was in charge of the devotional period and read from St. Luke 18: 9-15. This was followed by an Evangelistic Prayer, "Trust and Obey" was sung. Mrs. Taylor gave a very interesting paper on "Self Examination."

The meeting closed with the Atonic Benediction, after which, refreshments were served by the hosts.

Hush Puppies Hushed Puppies

BY LEE PRIESTLEY

THE fisherman's cook muttered to himself as he turned the delicately browned fish in the pan over the camp fire.

"If the Boss jest gotta bring his dog and all her puppies on a fishin' trip, he'd oughta think to bring somethin' to feed 'em. Can't go feedin' no little dogs on fish with all them bones. Mah goodness, puppies, hush your whinin'!"

Hastily the camp cook stirred up cornmeal batter and flavored it with chopped onions. Then he fried bits of the mixture in the hot fat beside the fish. As the appetizing smell grew stronger, the Boss was drawn to the scene by the aroma.

"What smells so good, Ezra?" he demanded bending over the pan to sniff. "Goodness! What are you cooking?"

"Them? They ain't got no name, unless it's 'Hush Puppies'." Ezra showed his big white teeth in a grin.

The Boss juggled one of the small hot cakes from hand to hand until it was cool enough to taste. "Hm, he said and ate it all. "Make some more, Ezra. Hush Puppies are good enough for an old dog, too."

In fact the little cakes are so good, hunters and fishermen don't wait until they have hungry dogs to feed before making them. Hush Puppies are popular camp food all over the South.

Frelighsburg Farm Forum Held Fine Meetings With Splendid Discussions

Frelighsburg, March 26. — The Farm Forum Group met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Creller, on March 12, with a good attendance.

After listening to the broadcast, "What Kind of Training for Rural Teachers?" a most interesting discussion followed. It was decided that rural teachers should have some knowledge of life in the country, and the problems of the country child.

Cards were played at three tables, followed by refreshments, served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Clifford Richard.

The last Farm Forum meeting of the current season was held on Monday, March 9, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tomkin-son. There was a small attendance owing to the fact that several members were busy making syrup on that day.

The broadcast, "Pipe Lines of Information," was interesting, and proved to be a good subject for discussion. It was decided that farmers do not avail themselves of many opportunities, which are for their benefit, such as reading literature published by the government to help them. It is true sometimes this literature is not specific enough and should contain only facts which have been proven to be profitable to the farmer.

The questionnaire was filled out and this required much time and thought.

After refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Milton Tait, those present enjoyed the film, "Life in the West," which was shown by Rev. G. Nelson Standish.

There will be a business meeting at a later date when plans will be made for the annual spring rally, to be held in the Town Hall, in Frelighsburg, on May 3.

WATERLOO COPS INITIAL ROUND OF PROVINCIAL PLAYOFFS

Eliminate Lemelin, Quebec District Champions, In Two Straight Games; Win Saturday 4-3 And Sunday 4-1

Granby, March 26.—(Special to the Record)—Waterloo Maroons moved one step closer to the provincial intermediate hockey championship here over the week-end when they knocked off the Lemelin team from Montmagny in two straight games, 4-3 and 4-1, at the Granby Arena.

The Waterloo club will now wait for the winners of the Lachine-St. Hyacinthe series for the provincial title. The opening game will take place towards the end of the week. The date hasn't been set as yet by the Q.A.H.A.

Previous to yesterday's game Eugene Lalonde, president of the E.T.H.L., presented the F. J. Sewell Trophy to Captain Al Norris for winning the league championship. Sydney Heine, treasurer of the Q.A.H.A., presented the J. C. Brouillette Trophy for copping the league playoffs. Downing Bourassa, vice-president of the league, and Henry Crochetiere, district vice-president of the Q.A.H.A., were in attendance.

The Lemelin team were champions of the Bon's Sports League of Quebec and in their initial round of the Provincial playoffs eliminated Victoriaville, champions of the South River League.

Real Montmagny and Billy McDonald were the pacesetters in Saturday's games with two goals each while Roy, Cazeau and Turcotte accounted for Lemelin's tallies.

Waterloo jumped to the fore in early order when "Cap" Montmagny teamed up with Smith and Ben Rainville for the only goal of the period. In the middle session Turcotte knotted the count but the Maroons bounced right back and practically ensured themselves of the victory when Montmagny got his second tally and then Billy McDonald came up with his two goal performance to put the Maroons out in front 4-1.

In the final frame Roy banged home a tally in the opening minutes of the frame and Cazeau came through with another within a minute but following that the Maroons held on until the final whistle although the visitors kept forcing the issue.

The outstanding work of Belanger in the Waterloo nets proved the big point in the Maroons' second victory Sunday afternoon as they dumped the Lemelin squad 4-1.

In the opening and final frames was when he was at his best, when the visiting team threw caution to the winds in an effort to try and save themselves from elimination. He turned them back time after time, and broke their hearts in doing so, as he was just outstanding in his work.

Cauette, Montmagny, Rainville and Dussault were the marksmen for the Maroons while Larochelle saved Lemelin from a white-wash when he registered his lone tally in the middle session.

Cauette chalked up the first tally in the opening frame and in the middle session Montmagny added one more but Larochelle put the Lemelin team back in the running when he beat Belanger. The final period was all Waterloo as Ben Rainville and Dussault registered goals to practically ensure the Maroons of the victory. In the dying minutes of the period Lemelin went all out but was during this frame that Belanger rose to great heights in keeping them off the score sheet.

Following yesterday's game the executive of the Waterloo team were hosts to the league representatives, Q.A.H.A. officials and the players at an informal banquet at the Mont Shefford Hotel in Granby.

Quebec Aces Eliminated Ottawa In Four Straight Games; Blanked Bill Duman's Squad 4-0 Saturday

Ottawa, March 26.—Quebec Aces, paced by leftwinger Dick Gamble, qualified to meet Valleyfield Braves for the Quebec Senior Hockey League championship here Saturday night by eliminating Ottawa Senators in the semi-finals before 6,000 fans.

The Aces shut out the home forces 4-0 to make a clean sweep of their best-of-seven series. They won the first three games, 3-2, 5-1 and 5-2.

Gamble scored two goals and one assist while Armand Gaudreault and George Scholes notched the others.

The game was fast and cleanly played. Ottawa battled hard to remain in the running but was unable to crack the defence set up around Quebec's goalie Jean Marois.

Marois, playing his usual steady game, turned aside 26 scoring efforts by Ottawa, while goalie Bill (Legs) Fraser of Ottawa, handled 28.

Gaudreault put Quebec in front at 2:06 of the second period after the teams played a scoreless first. He rifled a knee-high screened shot past Fraser on a relay from Fern Gauthier. Gamble made it 2-0 before the period ended on a rebound while Ottawa's Emile Dagenais was sitting out a minor penalty.

Gamble notched his second on a blue-line drive that caught the corner of the Ottawa net at 13:55 of the final period. Scholes ended the scoring at the 15-minute mark on a power play with Gamble and Bill Leblanc.

No penalties were issued in either of the first or third periods. In the second, five minor penalties were noted out, three went to Ottawa and the remainder to Quebec.

Al Rollins Of Toronto Wins Vezina Trophy; Gordie Howe Cops N. H. L. Scoring Championship

A hard fight for recognition as a goaltender of major-league calibre was won last night by lean, unspectacular Al Rollins.

The hard-working 24-year-old native of Vanguard, Sask., whose lack of color has been mistaken for mediocrity, reached the pinnacle of his hockey career by winning the Vezina Trophy in his rookie year with Toronto Maple Leafs.

An impressive record of only three goals scored on him in the last five scheduled games carried Rollins to victory, nudging out Terry Sawchuk, 21, of Winnipeg, playing in his rookie year for Detroit Red Wings.

The trophy, which carries with it $2,000 prize money, annually goes to the goalie playing the most games for the team with the fewest goals scored against it.

Sawchuk, playing all 70 games for Detroit, led 139 goals by Rollins, taking part in 40 for Toronto, and Turk Broda, the other 30, let a total of 138 past them.

The trophy race wound up in exciting fashion last night as Toronto shut out Boston Bruins 1-0 while Detroit was whitewashing Montreal Canadiens 5-0. They were the last games of the schedule.

Rollins took the lead in the competition Saturday night when Montreal defeated Detroit 3-2 while Toronto beat the Bruins 4-1.

In the other week-end game which had no effect on the playoffs, New York Rangers defeated Cleveland Cavaliers 5-3.

In addition to the goaltending race, the individual scoring competition ended last night, although Gordie Howe, brilliant Detroit right winger, had it sewed up weeks ago.

Howe ended the season with 43 goals and 43 assists for 86 points—four better than the league record set in 1943-44 by Herbie Cain of Boston. However, Howe's record-breaking feat was made in a 70-game season while Cain got his in a 50-game schedule.

The order in which the teams would finish was decided Saturday night when Montreal's victory over Detroit eliminated any possibility of Boston replacing them in third position. Detroit clinched first place several weeks ago, Toronto

Hillcrest Holds Mixed Ski Race

Some forty members of the Hillcrest Ski Club and guests participated in a mixed team race at Hillcrest on Sunday.

Six teams participated in the race and a team captained by Frank Roberge and composed of Gerry Croicu, Gerard Lessard, Miss Yvette Schiller and Mike Lepore emerged the winners.

Rolland Lessard won the downhill in 31.4 seconds. Rodolphe Lessard and Bob Bousquet, from Magog, took second and third places respectively.

Jean and Rolland Lessard took the first two positions in the slalom followed by Maurice Bolduc, who was making his return to skiing competitions after an accident, and Gordon Harmer. Competition was very keen and there was plenty of enthusiasm in the team competition.

St. Laurent Refuses To Sign With Canadians

Montreal, March 26.—General Manager Frank Selke of Montreal Canadiens yesterday said defence prospect Dollard St. Laurent of Montreal Royals failed to sign a contract with the National Hockey League club.

Selke said St. Laurent wanted a clause in his contract providing that he could not be sent to the minor leagues and negotiations fell through.

However, Selke said Canadians are negotiating with another defenceman with the Quebec Senior Hockey League club, Rolfe Rousseau. He said Rousseau will ink a contract today.

was solid in second, Montreal and Boston rounded out the playoff circle. New York finished fifth and Chicago sixth.

Toronto and Boston now meet in one-half of the N.H.L. Stanley Cup semi-finals. Detroit and Montreal clash in the other. All playoffs are best of seven series.

Before 13,306 fans at Toronto Saturday night, Boston's Johnny Peirson spoiled Rollins' shutout with a third-period goal after Todd Sloan and Kennedy had given Leafs a 2-0 lead. Sloan and Fern Flaman wound up the scoring by giving Toronto the 4-1 victory.

Sunday, Sid Smith got the only goal of the game in Boston as Rollins was getting his fifth shut-out.

In Montreal Saturday before 14,172 fans Maurice Richard, Ken Mosell and Billy Reay got the goals that broke Sawchuk's heart. Gordie Howe and Red Kelly scored for Detroit.

In New York, Reggie Sinclair, a rookie, paced the Rangers with three goals in the 5-2 victory before 4,235 fans. Tony Leswick and Vic Howe got the others. Steve Black and Pat Lundy scored for Chicago.

Red Kelly Wins Two Awards From Writers

Detroit, March 26.—(AP)—Red Kelly, high-scoring defenceman from Simcoe, Ont., yesterday was named as Detroit Red Wings' most valuable and most sportsmanlike player.

It was the first time that two awards have gone to the same player.

The soft-spoken rearguard was elected to both honors by the Detroit Hockey Writers' Association.

He acted as an intermediary between gamblers and players on the City College of New York team "in advance of the 1950-51 season," the prosecutor's office said. Judge Jonah J. Goldstein set $5,000 bail.

Forman, 25, played at N.Y.U. from 1944 to 1947.

The District Attorney's office gave no details as to which basketball games were involved in Forman's case but said he was being held because of a Grand Jury investigation which showed he was conversant with attempted fixes before the 1950-51 season.

Forman, a spokesman for the District Attorney said, tried to establish "a corrupt contact with players in behalf of persons anxious to make a 'fix.' The 'fix' was never consummated and the action was only an approach."

Since the bribe scandal first broke early this year, players or former players at four New York City schools have been involved—N.Y.U., City College, Long Island University and Manhattan College.

Forman is the second N.Y.U. player involved.

Two were from Manhattan, six from Long Island, and four from City College.

It was emphasized by the District Attorney's office that Forman's case was in no way connected with that phase of the investigation involving former convict Salvatore T. Solazzo's alleged bribery or 11 players.

Forman was questioned regarding "another fixer, not yet arrested," the prosecutor's office said.

Lumberjacks Knot Series With 4-3 Victory Over Brompton At Local Arena Saturday Evening

Gartby Lumberjacks came up with another fine display of speed, coupled with a wide-open passing attack, to eke out a 4-3 decision over Brompton Saturday night at the Arena to knot their best-of-five series at two games each.

It was a wide-open affair with speed thrown in as the main topic as both teams battled every inch of the way from the opening whistle until the final siren with no let-up. It was packed with plenty of action as the fans witnessed some very good passing by both sides.

The fifth game of the series will be played Thursday evening at the Arena at 8:30.

Only ten penalties were handed out in comparison to the other games as the teams settled down and played hockey. The penalties were all for minor infractions.

Pee Wee Leblanc put Brompton ahead just after the nine minute mark when he rifled a hard shot from along the left wing boards which was deflected into the net by a defenceman. Paquette drove right back and had Boucher at his mercy, but failed to click on his back hand.

Ray Setlakwe drew his second penalty of the period for interference but the Lumberjacks threw up a tight defense in front of Corriveau and Brompton failed to threaten.

The middle session had barely opened when "Mike" Drouin, Gartby's fast stepping rearguard, let one go which nicked the goal post. Pee Wee Leblanc came back fast and got in alone but Corriveau slid out to ruin his shot from close range.

The pace was beginning to step up as the teams pulled open the throttle and swung into high gear. Charland coasted in on Corriveau but he was turned aside. D. St. Hilaire came right back but Boucher outguessed him and came up with a nice save.

Real St. Cyr drew the nod for cross-checking and this was the sign for an all out offensive by Gartby. Paquette was the trigger man on the play, after accepting a pass from Auclair, as his shot hit the post to fall in behind Boucher and even the count 1-1.

The teams turned on more pressure but nothing happened as Auger was resting and then Charland broke away from close quarters to reduce Gartby's margin to one. The Brompton team kept driving and Leblanc was in alone but he failed to tally. Charland had the tying goal on his stick twice but his first effort went wide of the open net and his second hit the top of the meshings just before the siren sounded.

A minute later Charland was put in the clear by Leblanc and J. Edmond and he beat Corriveau from close quarters to reduce Gartby's margin to one. The Brompton team kept driving and Leblanc was in alone but he failed to tally. Charland had the tying goal on his stick twice but his first effort went wide of the open net and his second hit the top of the meshings just before the siren sounded.

Martin got the nod for using his knee and this time the Gartby team came through as "Mike" Drouin let a hard shot go which hit the top of the goalie's stick to deflect into the meshings. Brompton came back strong following this but Gartby held. Paquette put the Lumberjacks further ahead when he rifled a hard shot from the wing which caught the top of the net to give Gartby a 4-2 lead.

Detroit's Jack Adams Broke Up
Champion Team And It Didn't Hurt
Him; Out To Prove Critics Wrong

Detroit, March 26.—(AP)—They say "Never break up a champion." But Manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings broke one up and it hasn't hurt him so far in the National Hockey League race.

He's out to prove in the forthcoming Stanley Cup playoffs that it didn't hurt him at all.

Adams throttled most of the skeptics, who criticized his getting rid of eight players from last year's champions, when he went out and clinched the N.H.L. title last week.

Now he'll get his chance to vindicate himself 100 per cent. The Detroiters will enter the Stanley Cup playoffs starting in Detroit Tuesday as favorites to win the eliminations — and the title of world champions of hockey.

Only twice in National League history has a team grabbed both the league championship and Stanley Cup two years in a row. Each time it was Detroit — the Red Wings winning both honors in 1935-36 and 1936-37.

A year ago Manager Adams' lads swept to the N.H.L. title while winning 37, tying 14, and losing 19. Then they pocketed the Stanley Cup by taking two full seven-game series from Toronto and New York.

After that sweep Adams surprised everyone by breaking up his champions. Of the 18 men on that club, only 10 survived the wholesale changes.

At the time Adams said: "The Wings are stronger—even a great team such as we had could be better. And a better team is what we'll have now."

Comments on the trades ranged from severe criticism to outright skepticism on the part of Detroit fans.

Gone were star goalie Harry Lumley who had been peddled to Chicago. Adams said he'd take his chances on a hot-shot rookie from the farm system, Terry Sawchuk.

Also dealt away were Jack Stewart, Pepe Babando, and some bright young prospects in the farm system.

Adams added some new blood to his ten holdovers. The newcomers included Sawchuk, Marcel Pronovost, Gaye Stewart, Metro Prystai, Bob Goldham, Vic Stasiuk and Glen Skov.

This outfit produced a better record over the regular season than the team of a year ago. And Sawchuk, Adams' big gamble, became one of the season's prize rookie.

Porky Griffin Pulls Upset In Ski Trials

Banff, Alta., March 26.—(AP)—Porky Griffin of Montreal upset the apple-cart in Saturday's Olympic trials on Banff's Mount Norquay when he placed first in the slalom event ahead of favorites such as Bob Richardson of St. Adele, Que., and Gord Morrison of Banff with a spectacular time of 1:50.4.

Richardson, who ran first in the two previous events, the giant slalom and downhill, placed second behind Griffin with his run clocked at 1:52.5. Morrison surprised everyone as he fell from his usual placing of second and third to eighth position.

John Clifford from Ottawa has been steadily improving his position in the eyes of the judges with his excellent run to third place, an improvement over his first day's effort from sixth position. Clifford has been racing with a bone chip injury.

Rhoda Eaves of Montreal continues to set a sizzling pace, taking first time for the third consecutive day as she was clocked in the slalom run at 2:01.0. Lois Woodworth from Banff, and Rose Marie Schütz of Montreal, tied for second position timed at 2:07.5. Jo-Anne Hewson, also from Montreal, continued to prove her ability as one of Canada's leading woman skiers by running third at 2:09.9.

St. John's Atlantics
Cop Junior Cage Title

Saint John, N.B., March 26.—(AP)—A scoring surge by Saint John Jack's Atlantics in the last quarter enabled them to beat Ottawa Realators 64-51 Saturday night and clinch the Eastern Canadian Junior Basketball Championship.

Atlantics capped the crown by taking the first two games in a scheduled best-of-three series. They won Friday's opener 58-56. The local hoopers will play either Vancouver, Calgary or Winnipeg in the Dominion finals here next month.

Saint John eliminated Realators, Ontario-Quebec champions, by outscoring them 16-8 in the last quarter.

Ottawa piled up a 14-6 lead during the first quarter but Atlantics rallied for a slim 30-29 advantage at half time. The score after three quarters was 48-32 in favor of Saint John.

Earl McCutcheon, Atlantics' six-foot guard, was high scorer of the game with 20 points, followed by Norm Roberts, of Ottawa, with 19.

Five Realators were fouled out of the game, and Ottawa went through the last minute with four players.

Oxford's Rowing Shell Sinks In
First Mile Of Historic Boat Race

London, March 26.—(AP)—Oxford University's Navy sank Saturday in the first three minutes of what was supposed to be the 97th Oxford-Cambridge boat race and the race was postponed until today.

The luckless Oxford eight, waterlogged from the start on the flood-swollen Thames River, failed to get half a mile along the horseshoe-shaped 4 1/4-mile course.

The crew swam to safety in following launches and boats. The brilliant precision Cambridge crew jumped into the lead with the first stroke and widened it with every dip of the oars into the choppy windblown river.

They were five to six lengths ahead when the umpire, Rev. G. A. R. Ellison, a bishop of the Church of England who once rowed for Oxford, called off the race.

Three times before in this historic rowing contest that began in 1829, one or both boats have sunk but this was the first time that the race has been halted with one boat still afloat.

Mr. Ellison explained later that after the last sinking—Oxford in 1925—the Universities agreed that if either crew met with a severe accident in the first mile, the race would be declared off and rerowed.

Cambridge showed almost total disregard for Saturday's treacherous conditions and certainly merited the support which has sent them off as 4-to-6 favorites.

Cambridge has won 52 of the previous races; Oxford 43 and there has been one dead heat.

This year's winner will earn an expense-paid trip to the United States for races at Boston and New Haven, Conn.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., March 26.—(AP)—Toronto Tri-Bells won the senior basketball championship of Ontario Saturday night by defeating the Sault Ste. Marie 49th Regiment 81-57. The victory gave Tri-Bells the best-of-three series, two games to one.

Tri-Bells grabbed the lead almost at the opening whistle and held it throughout. The winners now move into the Eastern Canada playdowns for the Dominion title.

The gunners, making their first bid for senior honors, dropped the first game of the series 70-65 Thursday night, but came back with a 60-57 victory in the second game Friday. As the Sault Ste. Marie Algos, they won the Dominion Intermediate Crown in 1950.
