MONDAY AFTERNOON, FEB. 2. GROUND-HOG DAY. SIX WEEKS MORE OF WINTER COMING.

The ground-hog has seen his shadow, and there will be six weeks more of winter, according to tradition. The rural theory is that the ground-hog, or woodchuck wakes up from his winter sleep on Feb. 2, and comes out of his hole at noon. Then if the sun is shining so much that he casts a shadow, the woodchuck or ground-hog climbs back into his hole and sleeps for six weeks more, while unfortunate mortals, who must keep awake in winter, do obeisance and pay tribute to the coal dealer. It may be mentioned that this is a tradition coming from the country to the south of us, and we in Canada will probably have six weeks more of winter anyway, ground-hog or no ground-hog, woodchuck or no woodchuck, so our principal interest lies in the query: 'How much wood would a woodchuck chuck, if a woodchuck would chuck wood?'

LACHINE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY. The first of the series of free lectures to be held under the auspices of this society, will be held in the Lachine Town Hall, on Friday evening, Feb. 6, at 8 p.m., and will be addressed by Dr. Coard, of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, on 'Soils and fertilizers.' Special reference will be made to the use of the latter on restricted areas, such as gardens and orchards. Each visitor will be presented with a plan, drawn by Dr. Coard, which will serve as a guide in planting in Canada. To this will be appended lists of the varieties of fruits and vegetables suitable to such small areas, the lists being arranged so as not only to get the best results in a small space, but the greatest variety as well.

IRISH LAND QUESTION. THE COUNTRY PREPARED TO ACCEPT PROPOSALS OF RECENT CONFERENCE. London, Feb. 1.—In speaking in this city to-night on the recent land conference at Dublin, Mr. John Redmond denied the existence of any split in the Nationalist ranks on the land question, and declared that all Ireland was ready to accept a settlement based on the proposals put forth by the conference.

OIL LAMP EXPLODED. CLERGYMAN'S TERRIBLE DEATH. Elizabeth, N.J., Feb. 1.—The Rev. Robert Street, a retired minister, aged 97, was burned to death to-day at his residence in Roselle Park by the explosion of an oil lamp. In an attempt to save him, his daughter was terribly burned about the neck, face and shoulders. Mr. Street was born in Germantown, Pa., and was a graduate of Princeton Theological Seminary.

TRAGEDY AT THE 'SOO.' A MAN SHOOTS HIS WIFE AND THEN HIMSELF. Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Feb. 2.—News was received here on Saturday of a suicide and attempted murder at Blind River, a village a short distance from the Canadian 'Soo,' early in the week. Hector Barton, formerly from Cheboygan, shot his wife at a boarding-house, where she was employed as cook, and afterwards shot himself fatally. The woman is recovering. Barton was forty years old and his wife twenty-five. The cause of the shooting is said to have been jealousy. Barton worked outside the village in a lumber camp. The woman was his second wife.

ROCKINGHAM

THE BEAUTIFUL PLACE THE LORD-LIEUTENANT OF IRELAND MAY SELECT FOR A COUNTRY RESIDENCE.

(Correspondence Dublin Irish Times.) In view of the possibility of this beautiful place being selected as the country residence of Lord and Lady Dudley a few words of descriptive recollection may be of interest at this moment. Rockingham may not have the romantic beauty of Killynure, or the wild majesty of the Cliffs of Mohur, but for the restfulness of pure country, the green of dreaming woods, and the soft gleam of river and lake, it has a supremacy all its own. The present writer has a vivid recollection of the enthusiasm it excited in the breasts of a party of young Americans, fresh from Harvard, who were 'doing' the Irish rivers in a canoe, and who found nothing in Ireland to surpass the intimate charm of Boyle water and the lake-fronted terraces of Rockingham. Forty miles of well-kept demesne road lead by farm-land, pleasant-cover, and deer-park to the celebrated avenue of Rockingham beeches, planted over a century ago, whose boles have kept an almost incredible identity of size. In what some members of this generation are inclined to look back on as 'the good old days,' when there were more 'bovies' in the country, and there was less League and more fun, it used to be a pretty sight to see the splendid teams of the Boyle Four-in-Hand Club flashing under that great green aisle to Rockingham House, which stands, grey and imposing, with its Ionic pillars, on the shore of Lough Key. This is the most picturesque of the chain of lakes connected by Boyle River. It contains several wooded islets, some of which have both historical and archaeological interest. On one are the ruins of the Abbey of the Trinity, founded by the White Canons, and in which 'the Annals of Lough Ke' were written, and on another is a castle once the fortress of a McDermot chieftain. Close to the town of Boyle are the ruins of a once famous Cistercian abbey, founded in 1161 by Maurice O'Duffy, which later on received into its community McDermot, Lord of Moylurg, also the Church of Asselny, and a fine cromlech. Not far off in a cemetery by Lough Meelagh lay the body of Carolan, the bard. Here for several years the skull that had once been the seat of so much verse and music, 'was placed in the niche of the old church, decorated, not with laurel, but with a black ribbon.' Rockingham House was burnt down in 1863, and then rebuilt on a terrace set with roses and planted with thickets of rhododendron. Landscape gardening can be brought to rare perfection in Roscommon, where the deodar, the araucaria, and other exotics flourish among native trees, and a perfect sward can be created on the limestone soil. The last owner of the property was Colonel King-Harman, a genial giant, who may be remembered as one of the tallest men who ever took the oath in the House of Commons. In a bad year he was known to spend many thousand pounds on seed potatoes for his tenantry, and was an employer of labor on a large scale. But, of course, when the 'land war' began his agent, a retired officer, received the usual playful reminders of his impending doom. On one occasion these took the form of an unusually large coffin. Thereupon his wife, a small but plucky little lady, immediately called on the occupier of a cabin in the most disaffected district, and thanked them for their 'kind thoughtfulness in providing them with such splendid firewood.' After this the Major was left unmolested. Colonel King-Harman's daughter married Dr. Stafford, and their son, who has since, by royal license, quartered the arms of King-Harman, will ingham on attaining his majority, be the great-uncle, Sir Charles King-K.C.M.G., lately administrator of St. Lucia, is now Governor of Sierra Leone. Of late years a strange desolation has fallen upon Roscommon, but nothing could do more to revive industrial and social life than the residence at Rockingham of Lord and Lady Dudley.

THE LATE MR. FRANCHERE. The special train which left Bonaventure station at 8 a.m. on Saturday, conveyed a very large number of passengers going to attend the funeral of the late Mr. J. Arthur Franchere, deputy sheriff, at Marieville. Among those present were: The Hon. Lomer Gouin, the Hon. Sheriff Thibaudeau, and several other prominent men of the district. The funeral was held in the parish church, where a solemn requiem mass was chanted, after which the remains were conveyed to the cemetery vaults. The floral offerings were rich and numerous.

PRICE OF BREAD INCREASED. A special meeting of the English and French Master Bakers' Association was held on Saturday evening in St. Joseph's Hall, St. Elizabeth street, Messrs. Alexander Watt and A. Charland presided as joint representatives of the English and French sections. The object of the meeting was to consider the expediency of raising the price of bread, in view of the fact that flour was said to have increased fifty cents per barrel, while fuel and lighting had also increased. After a lengthy discussion it was resolved to raise the price one cent per loaf, taking effect from this (Monday) morning.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN. SOME FEBRUARY FASHIONS. The tea jacket is a garment to make a woman covetous—i. e., if it is her neighbor who possesses it. One of these jackets is made in bolero shape, with a deep flounce of heavy lace over, frill of thinner lace. Another is made of heavy lace over pink silk with a deep chiffon plaiting. With this is worn a long, shapely skirt of cashmere of a light fawn color or pearl. The crepe de chine, or lace skirt, is best for this dainty jacket, however. The picturesque sleeves fit admirably into this little garment, the draperies and attachments of which may be as long and flowing as desired. Bruges lace is in order for trimming these negligee garments, while Aliencon, Brussels and French point are frequently the all-over body of the jacket. The back is the only charmingly fitted closely, as the fronts fall loosely, and there is a decided basque frill at the back and sides. The dainty, flowered white silks are tremendously popular as material for the tea jacket, and as they require little trimming they are desirable from an economical standpoint. The silk may be laid in box plaits all around and finished with a plain hem. One of these attractive garments is made of pink-plaited mull with rows of black baby ribbon on the edge, and fastened at the bust with a rosette and loops of the baby ribbon. The short Japanese coat is also popular. This is loose, is heavily embroidered and falls below the hips. Made of satin and lined with silk, it is warm and cozy for winter wear. China silk, or any of the soft, thin silks and velvets are used; while charming little breakfast jackets are made of French gauze. The loose flowing sleeve is fittingly accompanied by the wide collar turned over the shoulders and woven of heavy lace, giving the garment its quaintly picturesque effect. They may be shirred at the belt line in the back, but the fronts should hang straight. It seems as if the accessories of fashion—such things as neckwear, beltwear, footwear—to say nothing of the thousand and one such things as bags and purses, handkerchiefs, veils and other trifles, were never so important as now. Neckwear amounts to millinery nowadays, and every gown has its stork, collar, and necker, to say nothing of the box of either cottons, lace or fur. The daintiest and most essential attribute of the shirt waist of dark goods is the embroidered mull collar and cuffs with which it is lightened. But the most delightful feature of feminine attire at present is the snugness, the compactness of the waist line. Woman has achieved a genuine victory in this particular. All sorts of schemes have been created to effect this perfect condition of placket and belt connection, and it is now the exception when the waistband and skirt-band advertise strained relations. The strange story brought about this reconstruction and its primary effort was to elevate the skirt-band at the back. After that it was a simple matter. There is one popular idea, which consists in attaching a narrow band two inches wide at the waist in the back, and then working two eyelets, one in each end of the band. The hooks on the skirt-band effect the combination, and there is absolutely no getting away from each other. It is a tremendous victory, when one stops to consider the opportunity which the skirt and waistband offered for improvement. Women are classified by means of this little affair, and it behooves every home woman to look to the condition of her own skirtbands. Belts are circular and narrow. They cannot cover up. They can only decorate.

WINTER CARE OF SHOES. The woman who takes pride in the fit and quality of her shoes—and what woman does not?—finds much to disturb her equanimity in the heavy snows and rains of winter, for it is well nigh an impossibility to keep shoes looking as one would have them when they are exposed to frequent wettings. As a matter of fact, every woman should possess a pair of 'stormy weather shoes,' which should be at once thicker of sole and more durable of upper than the footwear intended for use in fair weather; but as even this sensible precaution would not confer absolute immunity from an occasional wetting, it is essential that everyone should know just what to do in order to neutralize, as far as possible, the bad effects of rain and snow upon the fine shoe leather. Wet shoes should be removed as soon as circumstances permit, for if allowed to dry upon the feet it is impossible to restore them to their original condition; and equally impossible if, after removing them, they are allowed to dry without anything being done to them. As soon as they are off the feet they should be rubbed first with a damp cloth in order to get them clean, and then with a dry, clean flannel cloth, until at least a part of the dampness has been eliminated. Then, as a final measure, they should be well rubbed with oil of some kind—kerosene, if no other is available. Sweet oil, however, or vaseline, will answer the purpose better, if the shoes are made of fine-grained kid or leather. Lastly, they should either be carefully stuffed with bits of crumpled paper or fitted upon boot-trees, in order that they may not shrink or get out of shape, and in this way put away to dry, not, however, near a fire or radiator.

No! No! No! No! This word is used four times by Prof. W. Hodgson Ellis, Official Analyst to the Dominion Government, in reporting the result of his analyses of Sunlight Soap. "No unsaponified fat"; that means no waste. "No free alkali"; that means no damage to clothes or hands. "No loading mixture"; that means every atom is pure soap. "No adulteration whatever"; that means pure ingredients. Try Sunlight Soap—Octagon Bar—and you will see Prof. Ellis is right. He should know.

THE LATE MR. FRANCHERE. Messrs. R. Lemieux, M.P.; Dr. Lacombe, M.P.P.; C. Vallee, governor of the jail; Capt. Desnoyers, Ald. Couture, Capt. Beaudoin, L. W. Scotte, Clerk of the Crown. A very large number of the members of the Bar, Court House officials and personal friends were also present, as well as a detachment of the jail guards, in full uniform. The funeral service was held in the parish church, where a solemn requiem mass was chanted, after which the remains were conveyed to the cemetery vaults. The floral offerings were rich and numerous.

Mr. and Mrs. Roswell Fisher are in Ottawa, the guests of the Hon. Sydney Fisher. Miss Mildred Kittson, Ottawa, is spending a few days as the guest of Mrs. Armstrong. Mrs. Shaw, who has been visiting Mrs. Denis Murphy, Ottawa, returned home on Friday. The Hon. W. S. Fielding and Mrs. Fielding entertained at a dinner on Saturday evening in Ottawa. Mr. Curthwaite, of the staff of the Dominion Bank, Cobourg, has been transferred to the Montreal office. Miss Roddick, who has been spending the past few weeks in Winnipeg, returned home on Saturday evening. Mr. John M. Lyons, of Moncton, general passenger and ticket agent of the Intercolonial Railway, is in the city today. Mr. H. A. Price, assistant general passenger agent of the I. C. R., has returned from a business trip to New York. Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Duggan, 'The Manor,' Murray Bay, are guests at the Windsor Hotel, where they will remain for some days. Mr. P. Norman Nissen, Kingston, has been appointed inspector of mines, and will go to his new post in the state of Arizona in the spring. Miss Hilda Marler was one of the guests at a young people's dinner and dance given at the Hunt Club, Toronto, by Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Chase, on Friday evening. The Bishop of Ontario and Mrs. Lennox Mills, who are the guests of Mrs. Stanley Bagge, 'Fairmount,' remain in the city until Thursday, when they go to Quebec. Mr. Morgan Quinn, travelling passenger and freight agent of the Boston & Maine Railway, returned this morning from a business trip to the Maritime Provinces. The visiting governors for this week to the Protestant House of Industry and Refuge and also to the Homes at Longue Pointe are the Hon. A. W. Morris and Mr. Angus W. Hooper. Sir Daniel McMillan, Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, and Lady McMillan were in Toronto on Friday. Lady McMillan and Miss McMillan will shortly sail from New York for Europe. Messrs. H. J. Skeith and D. Good, of Cornwall, have accepted positions in the office of Mr. Fowler, superintendent of the C. P. R. car shops, Hochelaga, and began their duties this morning. Miss Mann was one of the guests at a tea given on Friday afternoon by Mrs. Goodere, Ottawa, for Mrs. McWhinney, of Toronto. The decorations of the table were crimson carnations, crimson-shaded candelabra, and smilax. Mr. Charles McLean, of Messrs. McLean, Kennedy & Co., has left for St. John, N.B., to meet Mrs. McLean and Miss McLean, who have been spending some months in Europe. They are passengers of the Elder, Dempster Line SS. 'Lake Ontario,' which arrives at St. John, N.B., to-day. A quiet wedding has been arranged to take place on Wednesday, Feb. 4, when Miss Irene Henderson, only daughter of Mr. John S. Henderson, of Kingston, will be married at her father's residence, to Mr. Ernest H. Cooper, of Montreal. Mr. Cooper is secretary of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association in Montreal. The Central 'Y's' held a pleasant 'at home' on Saturday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. Miss Violet Ryan, acting president, received, accompanied by Mrs. Thurston. A musical programme of songs and piano selections was rendered, by Miss Holden, Miss Parks, Miss Letts, Mrs. Flynn, and Mr. Davies, Mr. A. V. Brown, B.A., recited, and a dialogue, 'Wanted, a servant,' was given by five young ladies. The refreshment and candy tables were in charge of the Misses Hyde, Thurston, Thompson, Somers and Davies, who were most attentive in looking after the wants of those present. Mr. Luke Robinson has been appointed assistant superintendent over the entire Montreal Street Railway and Montreal Park and Island Railway systems. The positions of the assistant superintendents who have heretofore had charge of the eastern and western divisions are hereby abolished, and the officers in charge of these divisions will in future be known as division superintendents, and will report to the assistant superintendent, who has jurisdiction over the entire system. Mr. and Mrs. A. E. de Lorimier, 4071 Dorchester street, held a very enjoyable reception on Saturday afternoon, when about three hundred guests were present. The house is a double one, the rooms being connected by arched openings, so that, notwithstanding the large number present, there was room to move about freely without any overcrowding. The drawing-room and library were fragrant with roses, lilies of the valley and hyacinths. The color scheme of decorations of the tea room was pale yellow and white; daffodils, tea-roses and lilies of the valley were employed, with trails of smilax fastened with bows of yellow ribbon. Mrs. de Lorimier received her guests in a handsome gown of black crepe de chine over white silk. Miss de Lorimier, who received with the hostess, wore Nile green crepe de chine, with white trimmings. An orchestra stationed in the rear of the large entrance hall furnished music. Among those present were the Hon. Judge and Mrs. C. C. de Lorimier, the Hon. T. Chase Casgrain and Mrs. Casgrain, the Hon. A. R. Angers and Mrs. Angers, Mr. A. Kleczkowski, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. H. Bergeron, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Smith, Mr. J. C. H. MONTREAL CHINESE

DEPUTATION PAYS THE 'WITNESS' OFFICE A VISIT. The following note was brought to the 'Witness' office, and formally presented to the editor by a deputation of a dozen Chinamen, who seemed very much in earnest about their mission. It was explained that they were all Christian Endeavorers, of whom there are about sixty in the city 'Dear Mr. Editor, -Aware of the strong feeling against us Chinese in the west, leading to an attempt now for our exclusion, we are the more grateful for our kind reception by the Christian community of Montreal, and especially do we thank you, sir, for your just view of the Chinese question, so called, as brought out now and then, and your defence of us in your last issue on Saturday. Brought before a roomful of Christian Endeavorers at their meeting last evening, it was earnestly desired that a few of us carry to you our hearty thanks, in your illustration of the Golden Rule, in your illustration of the Golden Rule of Christianity and Confucius, too, you are far in advance of the politics of the day, even in Christian lands, it would seem. Our saying goes, 'Within the four seas all are brethren, and we must feel with you that not only is the proposed exclusion non-Christian, but very short-sighted, even commercially considered.

BOXER UPRISING

DISQUIETING NEWS RECEIVED BY DR. SUTHERLAND, OF THE METHODIST MISSIONS. Toronto, Feb. 2.-Serious news was received from China at the office of the Rev. Dr. Sutherland, general secretary of Methodist missions, this morning. Another great Boxer rising has occurred. The letter is from the Rev. Dr. Service, who writes from Wuhu. He states that in the neighboring province of Kansu the Boxers have a well drilled army of ten thousand men, and it is reported that four imperial regiments have joined the Kansu Boxers. In consequence of this uprising a party of Christian Alliance missionaries on the way to Kansu had been directed to remain in Wuhu for the winter. They were, Dr. Service says, to have proceeded to Kansu next week. Methodist officials here state that at present troubles are not apparently making themselves seen in the vicinity of the Canadian Methodist missions in China. CANADIAN AGENT AS GLASGOW. Ottawa, Feb. 2.-Mr. J. Bruce Walker, of Brantford, has been appointed Canadian Immigration Agent in Glasgow, Scotland, vice Mr. Murray, resigned.

'POOR PROVINCE OF QUEBEC' REVIINDICATION BY A MEMBER OF THE CLERGY.

Under the above heading the Rev. Abbe F. A. Baillarge, parish priest of St. Hubert, replying to the Ottawa 'Journal's' remarks on the Quebec schools, writes as follows in the 'Semaine Religieuse': - 'Our enemies judge of the condition of public instruction among us from the budget, that is to say from the amount allowed it by the government. That is a false standard. The government budget for public instruction is less in the Province of Quebec than in the other provinces of confederation, granted. But is the government alone to be considered in the premises? Must the enormous sums spent among our people by the Church and families for the cause of education be left aside? Must not the priests, male and female members of religious communities, who devote themselves body and soul to the cause of education, from morning till night, in our eighteen colleges and our three hundred boarding convents, be taken into account? Are their services less valuable because they receive nothing from the government? Are their services for the cause of education less fruitful, because they are stimulated by zeal, by self-denial and by the purest charity? Here, gentlemen, 'avocats de diable,' is where we put our finger on your bad faith. Open your eyes, and the province will have nothing to fear from your criticisms. As a matter of fact and as a practical result, have our children less truths in their head than the children of the other provinces? In the realm of morals, have our children less virtues than those of the neighboring provinces? The Province of Quebec, we assert, is the most intellectual province in Canada. Let a ramble be made through our municipal councils, our public banquets, our Legislative Council, our Local House, our deliberative meetings in general; let a comparison be established between the average percentage of French-Canadians able to open their mouth, make a speech and face a discussion. Let a comparison be established, I say, between that average and that of no matter what nationality of any province, who will get the palm? Do our newspapers put a less good figure than those of another language? Is our literature less bright than that of our neighbors? Are not our poets and historians more numerous than those of all the other provinces put together? Are not our physicians as learned and our jurists as sound as those of the sister provinces? Are our theologians and our pulpit orators less numerous? The intellectual elite of confederation-let some be vexed or not-is to be found in the Province of Quebec. Yes, of all the provinces in Canada, the Province of Quebec is the one that lives most an intellectual life. And that province holds the last rank! Because its education budget is the smallest! Down with the poor donkey!

THE CITY'S MILK SUPPLY.

THIS IS THE SEASON FOR WEAK MILK, BUT SAMPLES EXAMINED PROVE SATISFACTORY. This is the season of the year when milk is naturally scarce and when the enterprising milkman is disposed to seek the assistance of the pump to make out the supply. Consequently the city milk inspectors are exceptionally busy, obtaining a large number of samples daily and subjecting them to analysis. Occasionally some very poor samples are found, one submitted to-day by a milk retailer, which he received from a country shipper, yielding but a quarter of the percent of animal fat. The acknowledged standard milk yields three percent of animal fat. On Saturday morning twenty samples of milk were examined, the mean yield of animal fat being 4.6.

CIVIC COAL SUPPLY

COAL ORDERED BY THE CITY COMING IN MORE FREELY AND BEING RAPIDLY DISTRIBUTED. The Mayor and the city officials are breathing more freely to-day. There have been several carloads of soft coal received within the past few days, there is an ample supply on hand, deliveries are being made without any delay, and the temporarily established coal department is rapidly catching up to the orders in hand. The number of orders for soft coal is being well maintained, and the number of duplicate orders is steadily increasing, some of those who have been using the Nova Scotia, now that they understand its use, preferring it to hard coal.

HEMMINGFORD PRESBYTERIANS.

Hemmingford, Que., Feb. 2.-The annual meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Hemmingford, was held on Monday, Jan. 26. The pastor, the Rev. A. Lee, presided, and Mr. R. Ellerton acted as secretary. Reports were submitted of the work of the year by the session, and the treasurer of the congregation. These reports were encouraging, and showed that the congregation took a warm interest in missions, as well as in their own church. The contributions for missions showed a slight advance on last year. The addition to the membership at Hemmingford and Robson had been twenty, and the attendance of the Sabbath-school also showed an increase in the average. Votes of thanks were given to Mrs. John Soriver, Miss McCann, and the members of the choir for their assistance in the services of praise, and to Mr. Ellerton for his valuable services as secretary-treasurer. Messrs. G. J. McKay, S. J. Dunlop, F. D. McNaughton, W. C. Barr, and J. McFarther were elected as members of the temporal committee, with Mr. R. Ellerton as secretary-treasurer.

The Pitiful Helplessness

Of Brain-tired, Nerve-exhausted Persons, who for Lack of Nerve Force have Lost Control of Mind and Body.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

The Greatest of Nerve Restoratives.

Nervous diseases are most dreaded because they lead to mental as well as physical helplessness. Among the very first indications of the approach of nervous exhaustion and prostration are weakness of the will and inability to concentrate the thoughts. You feel like neglecting the duties of the day, and lack the nerve force required to set the machinery of the body in action, appetite is impaired, there is weakness of the back and spine, neuralgic pains here and there through the body, severe and weakening attacks of sick headache, sparks before the eyes, dizziness, noises in the ears, distressing periods of wakefulness during the night, followed by tired, exhausted feeling in the morning. The victim of nervous exhaustion may be healthy in appearance, but realizing that his disease will likely lead to paralysis, epilepsy or insanity, he becomes despondent and discouraged. Men frequently become keen sufferers from dyspepsia, while in women the weakness is most likely to develop irregularities and disorders of the feminine organism. Doctors fail to cure nervous exhaustion and prostration because they use the wrong kind of treatment. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food succeeds marvelously in all nervous diseases because it makes blood and creates new nerve cells. Gradually and certainly the food cure increases the supply of nerve force, and so restores to the patient control of mind and body. It makes the appetite good, and strengthens the digestive organs, so that they extract from the food the nourishing elements which go to form new blood, new tissue and new vigor. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has the highest endorsement of Canada's best people. Its restorative power cannot be overestimated. Fifty cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

POLICE INVESTIGATION

ALDERMAN LAPORTE TO MAKE AN INTERPOLATION.

The question of the police investigation is by no means dead as yet. The motion for the absolute writ of injunction asked for by Mr. David, contractor, is to be heard on its merits in court to-morrow and a judgment is expected at the latest before the end of the week. The city attorneys are under instructions to press for a final judgment within the least possible delay. Ald. Laporte, chairman of the Finance Committee, announced this morning that he would make an interpolation regarding this matter in council this afternoon. He intended to ask the mayor for full information regarding the present position of the case, and to explain that if the interim injunction were made absolute he would give notice of a motion to provide for a searching enquiry by one or more judges of the Superior Court.

NEW POSTS FOR POLICE

On Saturday several changes in the appointment of police officers and men went into effect by order of Chief Legault. They were as follows: -Lieut. Leclair, No. 2 to No. 7; Lieut. Murphy, No. 9 to No. 7; Lieut. O'Donnell, No. 7 to No. 9; Lieut. Beaugrand, No. 7 to No. 12; Lieut. Nagle, No. 12 to No. 2; Lieut. Spedding, No. 15 to No. 14; Acting Lieut. Gamache, No. 14 to No. 15. The following patrolmen will be changed: Boulard, No. 6 to No. 8; Mayhev, No. 15 to No. 3; Perrault, No. 3 to No. 6; Handy, No. 8 to No. 9; Callan, No. 9 to No. 8.

The Daily Witness.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1903.

The only thing that can be certainly known about Morocco is that the truth is not to be found there. Grim pictures of victory and carnage, rich in horrors, have followed each other, the interest being kept up by a complete and irrevocable reversal week by week of the fortunes of war.

rebel host was beleaguering Fez and only unwilling to march into it because it was a holy city. The insurgent leader had taunted and challenged the Sultan till in sheer desperation, as his adherents were everywhere deserting him, he had concluded to do battle in the open field.

'A NATIONAL DISGRACE.'

We recently published an article thus headed from the Ottawa 'Journal' in which the city of Montreal was denounced for such a parsimony towards education as to deserve the reproach so worded. 'We are ready to acknowledge that, as compared with ideal conditions, our attitude towards education is disgraceful and further, in these days of necessary competition with all other peoples, that it involves a national peril.

In its rural schools the Province of Quebec is much behind Ontario, but has been gaining on it ever since the province got control of its educational system. In 1868 there were 3,807 schools and colleges in Quebec, attended by 212,337 pupils, taught by 4,536 teachers, and the school tax amounted to $291,969.

tion, while the wealthy city of Montreal disgraced the Dominion by taxing itself for school purposes at the rate of a quarter of a cent on the dollar of valuation. Ottawa city, however, beats Montreal out and out. It levies a school tax of a trifle over three-quarters of a cent on the dollar of valuation.

THE NEW PRIMATE.

It is not, perhaps, generally known that Dr. Davidson, the former Bishop of Winchester, who was recently appointed Primate of All England, is Clerk of the Closet to the King. In the reign of King Charles II. that dignity was described as a 'Confessor to His Majesty, who is commonly some revered, discreet, divine, extraordinarily esteemed by His Majesty, whose office is to attend at the King's right hand during Divine service, to resolve all doubts concerning spiritual matters, and to wait on His Majesty in his private oratory or closet.'

LABOR IN ENGLAND AND AMERICA.

Mr. Barnes, the Engineers' delegate who went to America with Mr. Mosely's Industrial Commission, having arrived home, gives this summary of the conclusions he came to in the course of the inquiry into American 'push': Machinery: More used than at home. Sanitation: Not so good. Hours of labor: Longer. Work: Not so good. Wages: Higher. Cost of living: Higher still. Trades unionism: Not so strong. Providing England uses the best machinery, he thinks Britain has nothing to fear from America, and is quite able to hold her own.

BETTER SPIRIT AND BETTER TIMES.

Wall street, as Mr. Clews, the financial writer of New York, reminds us, has a most vivid recollection of Venezuela as a disturbing element, Mr. Cleveland's threatening ultimatum to Great Britain having caused a still well-remembered slump in the market and the loss of many millions.

actually blockading Venezuelan ports, the New York market has never doubted but that the outcome will be satisfactory. In other respects Mr. Clews says there has been a decided change for the better in the financial situation. A halt has been called in reckless financing and the promoters have had their activities curtailed and have wisely stopped making new ventures until those already launched have proved their ability to get along.

THE KING'S SYMPATHY.

A pleasing story of the King's sympathy with the army is told by Mr. W. Dawson, of Montreal, in the 'Social Gazette.' Mr. Dawson lost his way in a London fog two years ago, and collided with a gentleman, who offered to guide him to the house of a peer who had asked him to call on Salvation Army business. They chatted freely, and Mr. Dawson deeply interested the stranger in the Army's social work.

A PROHIBITION CANDIDATE.

Toronto, Feb. 2.—A deputation of Newmarket prohibitionists has been to the city to invite Mr. William Munns, president of the Crown Manufacturing Company, to contest North York as an independent prohibitionist. Before giving a decision, Mr. Munns will await the views of the Hon. E. J. Davis at the nomination convention at Newmarket to-morrow.

PROMINENT TORONTO TEMPERANCE MAN INVITED TO CONTEST NORTH YORK.

Toronto, Feb. 2.—The citizens of Ottawa have subscribed to a memorial fund for the purpose of erecting a monument to the memory of the late Mr. Henry A. Harper, M.A., at the time of his death a member of the civil service of the Dominion. As will, perhaps, be remembered by many, Mr. Harper lost his life while endeavoring to save the life of Miss Bessie Blair, daughter of the Hon. A. G. Blair, on Dec. 6, 1901.

COUNTERFEITER IN TROUBLE.

An Ottawa despatch says: 'For some time bogus two-dollar bills have been in circulation here, and the police have had a stranger, a young man, under surveillance. Last night the Hull police arrested a man, who gave the name of Verner, aged about 30, who belongs to Montreal and is a native of Belgium. He confessed to the crime, and gave the clue to lead to the arrest of the principals, the 'joint' where the bills are issued, it is said, being in Ottawa. Further developments are expected to-day.'

CRED OF THE SENSUALIST.

THE REV. HUGH PEDLEY PREACHED A POINTED SERMON LAST NIGHT.

The Rev. Hugh Pedley, pastor of Emmanuel Church, gave last night the third of a series on 'The creeds of the city.' Mr. Pedley took as his theme 'The creed of the sensualist,' and in the course of his remarks he referred to the utterances of Archbishop Bruchesi and incidentally made further comment concerning theatrical productions in Montreal. In his opening remarks Mr. Pedley said:—'Here we have the creed of the sensualist, "Let us eat and drink for to-morrow we shall die." There are various forms and degrees in the way in which men and women live out this creed. For all the basal idea is the same: "To-morrow we die," and with a great many this creed expresses itself in simple frivolity; the absence of any serious attitude toward life. If there is restraint it comes from some external pressure and not from internal authority.'

'The social standard, the demands of public opinion, these are felt as boundaries circumscribing to some extent the area of pleasure, but within those bounds there is no let or hindrance. The book that is read must be pleasant, whether it is instructive or elevating is of secondary account. The play that is gone to must be exciting, either dreadfully funny or appallingly tragic. In all these there is nothing positively immoral.'

'There is no drunkenness, no debauchery that is not unnormal. It has no ideal, or at any rate it refuses to look at any or to be guided thereby. But where passions are strong, and where social restraints are weak, then there is the falling away into the coarser forms of sensuality. The most common forms are of drunkenness and impurity. There may be, in addition to these, gambling, profanity, extravagant vanity in regard to personal appearance, but after all the warp and woof of a fast life are these two. We sometimes wonder that men allow themselves to become intoxicated. To the spectator the drunker man seems either a fool or a beast. But we often fail to recognize the mysterious power of alcohol to arouse and illumine the faculties. Men and women drink because it is an indulgence, because for a time it gives a certain exaltation and excitement to the nature.'

'In regard to that other form of sensuality it is not easy to speak, but we are not going to gain by refusing to look at facts. Go to the physicians; go to owners of property in certain portions of the city; get into confidential relations with young fellows who belong to what are commonly known as the "boys" and you will find that impurity and immorality have a recognized place in the lives of many of the men of the community.'

'It is, too, fostered by the tone and atmosphere of our theatres. When the Roman Catholic Archbishop of this diocese, who is in the confidence of hundreds of priests, who in their relations have the confidence of thousands of people in all walks of life, when he feels constrained to enter public protest against many of the play houses of our city you may rest certain there is an alliance of influence between these play houses and profanity of life.'

'Proceeding on the play house question, Mr. Pedley made reference to a presentation given here last week. He said it seemed to him it was undeniable that in many cases the presentation of the relation of the sexes as furnished on the boards of the theatre was such as to break down all wholesome reserve and pave the way to immorality. All the unwholesome influence and degradation was not found in the theatres considered of the lower class, said Mr. Pedley, when he referred to last week's performance by reading the following extract from a newspaper criticism:—'

'It is a trifle light as air, treating the grave subjects of marriage and divorce, with all the delightfully cynical insouciance of the Parisian.'

'The Rev. Mr. Pedley added that he had there the critic's analysis of the play before him, and it indicated the vicious types fostered in the theatres catering to what were known as the 'better classes.'

'Passing on, the preacher dealt with the sensualist's conception of life and pictured how his creed defied even the probability of another life and disregarded the conscience calling for higher things.'

'I am conscious,' he said, 'that the audience I have before me is not for such a sermon. Rather than have you here I would that saloon and brothel and secret club had sent their frequenters to fill this church.'

THE HARPER MEMORIAL.

Ottawa, Feb. 2.—The citizens of Ottawa have subscribed to a memorial fund for the purpose of erecting a monument to the memory of the late Mr. Henry A. Harper, M.A., at the time of his death a member of the civil service of the Dominion.

As will, perhaps, be remembered by many, Mr. Harper lost his life while endeavoring to save the life of Miss Bessie Blair, daughter of the Hon. A. G. Blair, on Dec. 6, 1901. Miss Blair and a gentleman had skated into an air-hole, when Mr. Harper pluckily plunged in to try and save at best the young lady. Both Mr. Harper and Miss Blair lost their lives.

Mr. H. A. Burbridge, secretary of the memorial fund, invites sculptors to join in a competition, which will close on March 31, 1903. The award will be made under certain rules and regulations which will be furnished on application.

HENRY J. DART'S MISSION.

Last evening the mission hall, DeLorimier avenue, was filled, some having to find seats on the platform. The friends of Miss Tyldesley presented her with a book and bouquet of flowers in appreciation of her long service as organist of the mission. The service was very earnest, and the singing was joined in by all present. It was a service which will be long remembered by all present.

VENEZUELA

A MODIFICATION OF ALLIES' CONTENTION MAY BE ACCEPTED.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Propositions involving a compromise of the allied powers' contention for preferential treatment in the settlement of their claims against Venezuela, have been submitted to the governments of Great Britain, Germany and Italy, by their representatives at Washington, and while no answers have been received as yet, there is reason for the belief that the allies will see a way to accept the latest proposition. This compromise has been suggested by one of the representatives of the allies here, and while it has not formally received the endorsement of Mr. Bowen, it is felt that he will not enter serious objection to its adoption, provided the United States and the other claimant nations outside the alliance can be convinced that their own interests in Venezuela will not be substantially injured by yielding to a plan which seems to offer a solution of the present serious hitch in the Washington negotiations.

The proposition now under consideration is understood to be a modification of the allies' contention that they be recognized as Venezuela's preferred claimants in the payment of the indemnity. It provides that for a short period, perhaps six months or a year, Great Britain, Germany and Italy shall receive exclusively 30 percent of the customs receipts of the ports of Porto Cabello and La Guayra, and at the end of the period that all the claimant nations be placed upon the same footing. The 30 percent of the receipts of these two ports will then be divided among all the claimant nations in ratio based on the amount of each nation's claim.

The plan will enable the allies to withdraw their ships from Venezuelan waters without a serious loss of prestige. France because of her previous arrangement with Venezuela has it in her power to continue the present deadlock in the Washington negotiations. She contends that the blockade has prevented the collection of thirteen percent of the customs receipts pledged her by treaty.

FRANCE'S POSITION. London, Jan. 31.—Mr. Austen Chamberlain, postmaster-general, representing his father, the Colonial Secretary, at the annual dinner of the Jewellers and Silversmiths, at Birmingham tonight, replied to the toast, "His Majesty's Ministers," and devoted the greater part of his speech to Venezuela. He said that after the British Government had decided to seek satisfaction for Venezuelan outrages and to demand guarantees against their repetition, it had been approached by Germany and requested to co-operate with that country. Courtesy made it impossible for the British Government to decline, said Mr. Chamberlain, and now it would be dishonorable to withdraw. The government is fully aware of its liability. Every detail was arranged before the action commenced.

Replying to a suggestion that the present course might jeopardize the good relations between Great Britain and the United States, Mr. Chamberlain said that that was so, he would regard it as a calamity to the civilized world. There was no nation whose good opinion Great Britain valued so highly as that of the United States. The speaker said he thought it incredible that the United States should take umbrage, as it knew that no nation so loyally supported the Monroe Doctrine as did Great Britain. The present course did not menace the Monroe Doctrine, said Mr. Chamberlain, which, although it might be evoked to protect the weak, was never intended by American statesmen to shield the evildoer.

In conclusion, the Postmaster-General said he was confident that America would look in a friendly manner on the efforts to secure that redress for British subjects which it would feel to be its first duty to obtain for American citizens.

ENVOY EXTRAORDINARY. New York, Jan. 31.—The "World" prints an interview with Baron Speck von Sternburg, which contains the following among other remarks of the German diplomat: "I bear the title of envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary, and not that of ambassador. While I have the title of minister I have come on a special mission. It is possible that Dr. von Holleben will not come back and I may take his place. I wish to deny that I said that Dr. von Holleben withdrew from his post because he could not sympathize with the ideas of the American people. Dr. von Holleben is seventy years old and not in good health, and that is why he thought best to retire. It has been said that the German Emperor has ulterior designs and motives in Venezuela. That is absolutely false. The Emperor admires and understands the Monroe Doctrine as well as anybody, and would not think of acting contrary to it in Venezuela, or of trying to obtain even a coaling station there. The Monroe Doctrine is a peace-maker. It is the best safeguard for peace the United States ever had. Foreign powers recognize that the point beyond which they must not go is the taking of territory in South America. Land grabbing by Germany would only result in disaster to her. There has been a lot of nasty smoke in the air, and I have come to try to clear some of it away. I know that the Kaiser is most anxious to show the American people that he is friendly to them. Every time I have seen him he has emphasized his desire to win their approbation."

CASTRO DEFEATED. New York, Feb. 2.—President Castro's troops have, says the correspondent of the "Herald" at Willemstad, Island of Curacao, met with defeat at the hands of the Venezuelan revolutionists, at a point forty miles south of Caracas.

A PRETEXT FOR A WORLD WAR. New York, Feb. 2.—The "Herald" Caracas correspondent quotes President Castro as saying, in the course of an interview: "I cannot grasp the news from Washington. I fear that the Venezuelan conflict will be a pretext for a world war. I have answered, however, the demand for preferential treatment, as follows:—'The Venezuelan Government desires equal treatment for every creditor nation, at the same time keeping in mind and respecting its previous diplomatic agreements and obligations.' As far as I can see the French claim is absolutely perfect, yet the blockading powers seem to desire to invalidate it. This is a strange procedure, indeed, when you recall that the French, Belgian and Spanish claims already have that solemn sanction which the blockading powers pretend to be desirous their own should receive."

Yet I am hopeful, yet, always hopeful, Mr. Bowen has cabled me to be prudent and patient. I shall be both, and we will exhaust peaceful means, with the understanding that when that has been done we will not give in, but will fight. We have concluded that if there is no honor among nations nor virtue in international agreements we must defend ourselves, and to insure tranquility we must take possession of Trinidad and other adjacent places, from which, with the consent of unfriendly powers, filibustering expeditions have started and have made Venezuela welter in blood. The 'Ban Righ,' which sailed from England, and the expedition under the command of General Caribbe Vidal, which sailed from Trinidad, landing arms two weeks ago at Higuerote, would cost England as much as the 'Alabama' claims if we had equal rights with the strong."

BRITAIN'S FOOD SUPPLY. COMMITTEE URGE APPOINTMENT OF A COMMISSION OF ENQUIRY. London, Feb. 1.—The government having frequently turned a deaf ear to parliamentary urgings for the appointment of a royal commission to enquire into the question of security of Great Britain's food supply in time of war, an influential committee, headed by the Duke of Sutherland, and composed of Lord Strathcona, Lord Chas. Bessford, Lord Hugh Cecil, Dr. Conan Doyle, a number of members of the House of Commons, forty admirals and other prominent men has been formed to agitate the matter in public.

SIR GEORGE STOKES DEAD. HONORARY PRESIDENT OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY AND BRITISH ASSOCIATION. London, Feb. 1.—Sir George Gabriel Stokes, master of Pembroke College, Cambridge, and formerly president of the Royal Society, and of the British Association, is dead.

Sir George Gabriel Stokes, first Baronet of that name, created in 1889, M.A., LL.D., Sc.D., D.C.L., F.R.S., Fellow and President of Pembroke College, Cambridge, Lucasian Professor of Mathematics, Cambridge University, since 1849, was born at Skreen, County Sligo, on Aug. 13, 1819. He was the youngest son of the Rev. Gabriel Stokes, Rector of Skreen, and Elizabeth, daughter of the Rev. John Haughton, Rector of Kilrea. He married in 1837 Mary, daughter of the Rev. Thomas Romney Robinson, D.D., director of Armagh Observatory. Educated at Bristol College and Pembroke College, Cambridge, he became a member of the Royal Society in 1845, president of the Royal Society, 1885-86; president of the British Association, Exeter, 1869; Knight of the Prussian Order, Pour le Merite; formerly lecturer Royal School of Mines, Burnetts, Aberdeen, 1838-39; Gifford lecturer, Edinburgh, 1850-52; M. P. Cambridge University, 1857-59; member of Cambridge University Commission, 1870, and of first commission for a Teaching University for London. He was elected Honorary D. C. L., Oxford; Honorary LL.D., Edinburgh, Dublin, Glasgow and Aberdeen, and Honorary LL.D., Sc.D., Cambridge.

IRISH AMERICANS. A NEW MOVE TO BRING ABOUT HOME RULE. Binghamton, N.Y., Feb. 1.—At a meeting of division No. 2, Ancient Order of Hibernians, held this evening, a new movement was started in the interest of home rule in Ireland. This movement was embodied in the following resolution, which was adopted: Resolved—That in conjunction with the United Irish League, the efforts of which we heartily approve—that of raising the sum of $100,000 for the interest of Ireland and its just cause, that of home rule—we assess ourselves one dollar per capita for the special fund to be used in furthering the good and welfare of Ireland. The resolution further provides that they be forwarded to the state and national board for approval, with the recommendation that such action be taken by all A. O. H. branches in the country.

SIX MONTHS IN CENTRAL PRISON. Kingston, Ont., Feb. 2.—Gunner Clayton, of A Battery, who escaped from the county jail last October, and was recaptured, has been sentenced to serve six months in the Central prison on the completion of his present term. He was recaptured at Hamilton.

TRIBES WERE BRIBED. London, Feb. 2.—A despatch from Tangier to the "Morning Leader" mentions a circumstantial report current in that city that Bu Hamara was brought to Fez in a cage, and exposed to public derision. The despatch adds that it is impossible to ascertain the truth, and attributes the Sultan's victory more to his bribery of the tribes than to military tactics. The bribed rebels suddenly abandoned the pretender's standard. NO ANXIETY IN FEZ. London, Feb. 1.—Mr. Forwood, an Englishman, writing from Fez, under date Jan. 18, records the defeat and submission of the Hyaina and Beniwarian tribesmen. He adds that the Englishmen in Fez never had any idea of going to the coast. The women went because the town was full of wild tribesmen. The gates of Fez have not been closed; there has never been a panic or any cause for anxiety.

DENOUNCES TRUSTS. DESPOTISM IN FINANCE AS PERNICIOUS AS EVER WAS DESPOTISM IN THE STATE. London, Jan. 31.—Mr. Benjamin Kidd, the great sociological writer, has returned from the United States profoundly impressed with the gravity and urgency of the trust problem. He has given a correspondent his views on the question and its future, as follows: The trusts of to-day are the revival in industrial life of exactly the same spirit that created absolutism in states. Formerly men aimed at administrative absolutism; now the trust leaders' object is the attainment of financial absolutism. It is as pernicious in its latter day as in its former aspect; and it is as vital to the interests of humanity and progress that financial absolutism should be destroyed as it was that absolutism among rulers should be abolished. The whole history of British civilization has been the history of a steady, tenacious fight against absolutism in the state, a fight which has been entirely successful. Financial absolutism must be fought, and, in my opinion, the influence that will fight and overcome it will be that same British civilization which has crushed absolutism in other forms."

WESTMOUNT BAPTISTS. NEW PASTOR OCCUPIED THE PULPIT YESTERDAY. The Rev. Frank S. Weston, pastor of Westmount Baptist Church, was greeted by large congregations at both services yesterday and preached two excellent sermons. In the morning, after a few words of greeting, he preached from I. Peter iv., 10: "The thoughts of God," said he, "stand through all the ages, the changing dispensations and the passing of generations." One hundred years ago the popular doctrine upheld the rights of man. The rights of God were not considered of any account. The French revolution with the purpose of regenerating society, was based on that doctrine, in opposition to the Bible teaching. The present time had seen all that charged. Man now had duties rather than rights. It thus happened that man had gone back to the old doctrine to live for others, and held his life as a stewardship. In developing this idea the preacher illustrated his meaning by quoting many examples, as seen in the lives of such men as Beecher, Everts and others of lesser note. To regard man as the servant of humanity was to regard him in his noblest calling. It thus could be seen in what way men were the stewards of the grace of God. To the Almighty, and not to society, would man be called to render account. Proceeding to illustrate his subject Mr. Weston asked: "What would be thought of a man who would ask his coachman to harness his horses only to get the answer that the streets were muddy, and the harness would become splattered with mud? or of the man who would order his cashier to cash a cheque of $500,000, only to be told that all there was in the bank, and the capital account could not be exhausted? In ordinary life such servants would not be tolerated, yet such was the conduct of many towards God. They gave every excuse to shirk their duty. Difference in society could not all be levelled down so long as some men were born with ten talents and others with one. Some people wondered how Mr. Weston could leave his former field of labor and come to Canada. They thought he should stay where he could get the most good for himself. He preferred, however, to devote his energies to the blessing of others; that was why he had come to Montreal. Mr. Weston took for his text in the evening John vi., 68: "The words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, etc." Words were common things, but how wonderful. What changes they had made when spoken with authority and power. They could cause blessing or disaster. Christ's words were superior to man's; they dominated the nature and soul of man, as no others could.

PILATE'S PROBLEM. INTERESTING ADDRESS BY DR. JOHNSTON AT THE LAGUERRE Y. M. C. A. "Pilate's problem" was the subject of an inspiring address at the Young Men's Christian Association yesterday afternoon by the Rev. Dr. Robert Johnston, of St. Andrew's Church, London, Ont. "Jesus Christ was the problem of the world and of the nations will be written, and it will then be seen that nations have risen or fallen according to their attitude towards Jesus Christ." Pilate's problem is the personal problem of every man. Some men may say it is not my problem, and try to evade it. Pilate tried this and failed. The speaker then pointed out three aspects of the subject. First: What Pilate tried to do—the impossible. He tried to compromise with conscience. His guilty past as a Roman official caused him to fear the accusation of the Jews and to do further wrong. Like many men he tried to cover evil by continuing in evil, which could not be effect the story of Eugene Aram. Second: What he might have done—the issue squarely. He might have faced the Jews with the statement that they could accuse him to Caesar or not as they pleased, but they could not accuse him of shedding the blood of this innocent person. Third: What did he do? He had no hard words for Pilate. Pilate was in a place where wrong seemed easy and the right hard. Who had not found himself in the same place? He felt sure that Christ had no hard words for Pilate, but rather compassion and deep longing for his redemption. Pilate quailed at the only light left to him. He closed with an earnest appeal to men to give up the vain attempt to cover sin by continuing in sin, and to yield their lives fully to Christ, the only Saviour. The hall was filled with a splendid audience. The Rev. Dr. McTavish, of the Central Presbyterian Church, Toronto, will be the speaker next Sunday afternoon at four o'clock.

BANK OF ENGLAND NOTES. ARE TOO EASILY COUNTERFEITED. London, Jan. 31.—The Bank of England authorities at last are beginning to realize that, apart from the watermark—which is no protection to the public—the bank's notes are more easily forged than almost any in circulation. So they are seriously thinking of making some change in them. The notes of the Bank of France, which are engraved on both sides, have colors which defy photography, and the details are changed every few years, and it is considered almost impossible to successfully counterfeit them. There are now a large number of bogus five-pound and twenty-pound Bank of England notes in circulation which can only be detected by experts. All countries except England depend on elaborate engravings and colors. England depends on watermark alone.

ARMY HOME FOR YOUNG WOMEN. The Industrial Home of the Salvation Army at 247 St. Antoine street, has been supported for a good while chiefly by the service of Captain Mary Fraser, who carried a book for years to receive subscriptions. Those who know Captain Mary Fraser best appreciated and respected her unswerving devotion to the cause, and sincere, brave patient character. Captain Fraser is now in attendance upon her aged mother, ninety-nine years of age, and in consequence of this the Home is in immediate need of funds. Donations sent is promptly will be acceptable. Money is needed at once. Captain Ellery, now in charge, is trustworthy and devoted. No one should be prevented from giving because they can do very little. Small sums soon mount up.

FLOODS IN SCOTLAND. London, Jan. 31.—The melting of the snow has caused extensive floods and serious damage in Scotland. The river Tay has overflowed in Perthshire and many carcasses of deer, cattle and sheep and quantities of household furniture are floating in the streets of Perth. At Inverness, the river Ness has overflowed and the railway bridges have been damaged. The river Dee has flooded part of Balmoral and elsewhere has caused great destruction.

HAD OVER 500 BOILS.

This may seem an exaggeration to you, BUT IT IS TRUE. All sufferers from Bad Blood should read about this miraculous cure by BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

CURED IN 1885.

Mr. David F. Mott wrote us from Spring Valley, Ont., in 1885. He said: "I suffered from impure blood and had over 500 boils, but since taking BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS I am entirely cured, and can recommend it to any person troubled with bad blood."

CONFIRMED IN 1901.

Mr. Mott writes us from 62 Broad St., Utica, N.Y., under date of Dec. 31st, 1901. He says: "Some time ago I received a letter from your firm, saying that some years ago you received a testimonial from me, stating that I had over 500 boils. Yes, sir, I had, and I must say that I have never had the reappearance of one since I took the course of your BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. I thank God that I have had good health ever since, for I was a great sufferer. I wish B.B. a world of success, which it surely deserves."

Had Eczema Twenty Years.

Leg Was Swollen Three Times Its Natural Size and Mortification Had Apparently Set In.

Itching Was Frightful, But Powley's Liquefied Ozone Killed the Disease Germs and Eradicated Every Trace of the Disease.

To-day He is Sound and Well and Mr. Banks is Strong in the Belief That Ozone Saved His Life.

For twenty years I was troubled with eczema in my left leg. My leg was swollen three times its natural size and apparently mortification had set in. The skin had broken in several places and matter was oozing from the ulcers. The leg was black and rawish-red in parts right up to my hip and the itching was frightful.

My wife had been much benefited by Ozone, so I decided to give it a trial. It was not long before I noticed an improvement in my blood. The humors began to disappear and soon my leg had resumed its natural healthy tone.

I believe that Ozone has saved my life, and I give this testimonial for the benefit of others. Ozone also cured me of bad kidney disorder and a most painful eye trouble.

J. B. BANKS, 787 Queen St. West, Toronto.

To Get Rid of Blood and Skin Disorders You Must Get at the Root of the Trouble.

You cannot cure blood and skin disorders by treating the symptoms. You must find the cause and remove it. Medical science has demonstrated that these disorders are due to disease germs. Powley's Liquefied Ozone destroys these germs wherever located, and it is due to this fact alone that it is the grandest remedy for the treatment of disease that the world has ever known.

The number of persons cured of blood and skin disorders by Powley's Liquefied Ozone is far too great to attempt to publish them here. We give a few, however, to show that the good work is not confined to any particular part of the country.

THE ANDREW'S HOME

SATISFACTORY REPORTS SUBMITTED AT THE ANNUAL MEETING.

At the annual meeting of the corporation of the Andrew's Home, held in the board room of the institution, there were present His Grace the Lord Archbishop and Metropolitan in the chair, the Bishop Coadjutor, the Ven. Archdeacon Norton, Mr. George Hague and Mr. Edgar Judge. His Grace appointed the Rt. Rev. James Carmichael, D.D., Coadjutor Bishop, as vice-president, and the Rev. Canon Renaud, secretary. Mr. Alex. Robertson was appointed honorary treasurer. Mr. H. J. Mudge, through illness, was unable to fulfil the duties of office for the coming year, but testimony was borne to Mr. Mudge's faithfulness, and regret expressed at his inability to continue in the office.

Very satisfactory reports were presented of the immigration work at the home, there being an increase in nearly all departments over the past year. Total number of visits to both the matron's and men's offices, 2,988; total number newly arrived, 7,117; total number of situations obtained, 547; applications for girls as domestics, 587; situations obtained for girls, 97; total expenditure for the year, $5,097.13.

A NEW SYNAGOGUE

B'NAI JACOB WAS FORMALLY DEDICATED YESTERDAY.

B'nei Jacob congregation dedicated its new synagogue in Cadieux street yesterday afternoon with all the ceremonial traditional to God's ancient people. The service was opened by a psalm sung by the choir of Goldstein, Cantor I. Cohen, and then by McGill College Avenue Synagogue, from the dias in the centre of the hall.

Rabbi Sprints, at present in charge of the congregation, then gave a lengthy sketch of the history of the synagogue in Yiddish, and closing with a few words of prayer, and Rabbi Ashinsky, until lately the rabbi of the congregation, also prayed in English. Addresses were delivered by Rabbi Ashinsky and Sprints in Yiddish, and then by Rabbi de Sola in English, who closed with an eloquent prayer for the King, the Royal family and the Governor-General. Psalms xxx, and xlii, and other canticles were rendered by the choir, Rabbi Ashinsky offering the final prayer.

Valuable Advice to Rheumatics. Eat meat sparingly, and take very little sugar. Avoid damp feet, drink water abundantly, and always rely on Polson's Nervine as an absolute reliever of rheumatic pains. Being five times stronger than any other remedy, its power over pain is simply beyond belief. Buy a large 25 cent bottle to-day, test it, and see if it is not so. Polson's Nervine always cures rheumatism in their names.

TRANS-CANADA RAILWAY

BOARD OF TRADE AND CITIZENS OF TRURO UPHOLD THE SCHEME.

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 31.—The following resolution was passed at the public meeting in Truro this afternoon in connection with the Trans-Canada Railway: "That this joint meeting of the Board of Trade and citizens of Truro, having considered the question of another trans-continental railway on Canadian soil, is of the opinion that one is immediately necessary on account of the immense and rapidly increasing productions of the North-West, which existing railways are entirely inadequate to transport. That we are of the opinion that the next railway to be built for the public should be situated considerably north of the existing lines, so as not only to develop a new area of the fertile lands but also to insure the export business of the country to Canadian ports only and thus prevent recurrence of the disappointment which has been experienced by the Maritime Province ports in the past. That such a line would also commend itself on account of the military defence of Canada. That the Trans-Canada Railway having adopted the route recommended by Mr Sanford Fleming would seem to meet all requirements."

ACADIA UNIVERSITY

MR. ROCKEFELLER WILL MAKE A FURTHER DONATION.

St. John, N.B., Jan. 31.—Dr. Trotter, president of Acadia University, of Wolfville, formerly of McMaster University, was recently called to New York to confer with Mr. John D. Rockefeller, concerning a further donation by the oil magnate to Acadia University, to which Mr. Rockefeller has already given $15,000. Dr. Trotter passed through St. John on his return. He stated that he had an announcement of great interest to make, but would defer it until a special meeting of the Acadia Board shall be called next week. At the same time, Dr. Trotter will make a statement as to the action he will take in reference to his call to the pastorate in Dayton, Ohio.

A BAD CASE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE CURED BY DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Kidney troubles, no matter of what kind or what stage of the disease, can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of these wonderful pills. Mr. Joseph Leland, Alma, N.W.T., recommends them to all kidney trouble sufferers, when he says:—I was troubled with dull headaches, had frightful dreams, terrible pains in my legs and a frequent desire to urinate. Noticing DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS recommended for just such annoyances as mine, it occurred to me to give them a trial, so I procured a box of them, and was very much surprised at the effectual cure they made. I take a great deal of pleasure in recommending them to all kidney trouble sufferers.

Price 50c. per box, or 3 for $1.25; all dealers or The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

LABOR TROUBLES

TROOPS CALLED OUT IN WATERBURY STRIKE.

Waterbury, Conn., Feb. 1.—Eight companies of the 1st Regiment Connecticut National Guard and five companies of the 2nd Regiment, with two Gatling guns, were called to Waterbury to-night from Hartford, New Britain, Manchester and Rockville, at the command of Governor Chamberlain because of the "imperative need occasioned by the rioting about the streets last night coupled with threats of further disturbances to-night. There was no repetition to-day of the violence of last night, but crowds congregated about the streets, and had to be dispersed by the police, while there were rumors of an attack to be made to-night on the car barn, where the non-motormen and conductors, brought here by the Connecticut Railway and Electric Lighting Company, are quartered.

The trouble began early in the evening. Mr. Egan, chief of police, found the situation so threatening that he summoned the entire force, and massed his men at points in the centre of the city, but the officers were utterly unable to cope with the crowd, which numbered over five thousand. As the cars reached the junction formed by Bank and north, south, east and west Main streets, they were bombarded with missiles, and no car escaped its fire. Members of the Trolley Men's Union are said to have tried to assist the police by asking the people to return to their homes, and let the car run unmolested, but their efforts were of no avail. Prominent citizens early in the evening sent requests to the officials of the railway company to take off the cars, and this was finally done when the police seconded the appeal.

TROOPS WERE DERIDED.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 1.—The members of the 2nd Regiment left the armory at 8.30 to-night, and marched to the railway station to go to Waterbury. When the militiamen left the armory they were made the object of an unpleasant demonstration. A fairly large crowd nooded, jeered and hissed the men over the entire march, and at the railway station a still larger crowd had gathered, and all sorts of epithets were hurled at the men in uniform when their special train pulled out for Waterbury at 8.50 p.m.

THE LYNN STRIKE.

Lynn, Mass., Jan. 31.—The second week of the strike of the Knights of Labor cutters in ten union stamp factories against the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union ended to-night with no settlement of the labor war between the rival organizations in sight.

Mayor Eastham and the arbitration committee of the Board of Trade have relinquished all hope of being successful for the present at least.

Mr. Frank A. Sieverman, National Organizer of Rochester, N.Y., took a hand to-night in forcing the issue against the Knights of Labor Cutters Assembly by issuing an ultimatum, which the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union officials claim will cause a break in the Knights of Labor ranks on Monday. The ultimatum gives the Knights of Labor cutters the opportunity to return to work Monday morning or lose their places to cutters who are now on the way here, and who are enough in number to fill every vacancy.

WORKER KILLED

A MINER DROVE TO DEATH BY INFURIATED COUNTRYMEN.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Feb. 1.—Constanta Sobrilefski, a Russian and a well-known local miner, who had worked during the strike, was to-day kicked and stabbed to death by twenty-one of his infuriated countrymen, who are all either miners or laborers working in and about the mines at Plymouth and Larksville, three miles from this city. The party had been at a dance during Saturday night, many of them not returning to their homes until noon to-day. The deed was committed on the public highway near the Boston mine breaker at Larksville. One of the men, named Ladofski, confessed to being implicated in the killing, and he and twenty others were arrested this evening and committed to the Luzerne county prison.

HE MAY RECEIVE AN APPOINTMENT IN INDIA.

London, Feb. 2.—The Morning Advertiser learns that Lord Milner has asked to be relieved of his post of governor of the Transvaal and Orange River colonies and High Commissioner of South Africa, but at the desire expressed by the government he has consented to remain in South Africa until the end of July, when he will be offered a high position in connection with the government of India. Numerous rumors have been current previously in South Africa that Lord Milner would, or had, resigned, but hitherto these reports have always been denied.

SIR GORDON SPRIGG

PREMIER OF CAPE COLONY HISSED AT KIMBERLEY.

Kimberley, Cape Colony, Jan. 31.—Since his arrival here with Mr. Chamberlain, a series of demonstrations against Sir John Gordon Sprigg, the premier of Cape Colony, have occurred. He was publicly hissed on several occasions, and during Mr. Chamberlain's remarks on the situation in Cape Colony, at the banquet given in his honor here yesterday evening cries were raised, "Away with Sprigg," while the members of a deputation which waited on Mr. Chamberlain informed him in the Premier's presence that they had no faith in the Sprigg ministry, which "pampered" the Afrikaner Bond and was dependent on it for its existence. Sir John heatedly characterized these remarks as a personal insult.

THE NEW BRANCH OF THE BANK OF TORONTO—A NEW BUILDING IN TWO YEARS.

The Bank of Toronto has now closed the purchase of the north-west corner of Guy and St. Catherine streets, alluded to a few days ago as secured for them by Mr. H. L. Putnam, the real estate agent. It is the intention of the bank to take possession at once, fit up the premises in a suitable manner for their business, and in the course of two years erect a new building which will be in keeping with the situation and the needs of the bank's customers. The situation is splendid and promises much.

MONTREAL WEST MULCTED.

Judge Fortin rendered judgment on Friday in the case of Decarie vs. the town of Montreal West. Some months ago the plaintiff took out a writ of injunction to prevent the town from allowing his land to be flooded by its sewers, and he also claimed damages. The evil complained of having since been remedied, the court had now to decide the question of damages only and the judgment rendered on Friday granted the plaintiff $249.

DR. GRENFELL AT Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, superintendent of the Royal National Mission of Deep Sea Fishermen on the coast of Labrador, gave an interesting lecture in the Young Men's Christian Association hall on Saturday evening. The speaker told of his arduous labors among the hardy men who spend half their existence on the water; of the strenuous life they lead among many privations. He also spoke of the great evil which he had to fight against in his ministry among these men. Even among the deep sea fishermen the liquor traffic has obtained a strong foothold. Whiskey-laden boats ply their nefarious business among the fleet, and cause untold havoc and misery among these splendid men—some of whom the British Admiralty have seen fit to call to the defence of the empire on board their men-of-war. The speaker gave an interesting account of work done and in contemplation, and illustrated his remarks with numerous anecdotes of actual experience of his own.

ART SALE IN NEW YORK.

New York, Jan. 31.—The sale of the art collection of the late Henry G. Marquand, which has been in progress for over a week, closed to-night with a total of $706,019, of which $234,964 was realized to-day. The distribution of the famous collection has been attended by art connoisseurs from Europe as well as from every part of America. The great majority of the treasures will remain in this country, though several valuable pieces were bought by the foreign visitors. Many wealthy men, whose names were not disclosed, were understood to be represented by commissioners. To-day the sale consisted of ancient Persian and Turkish rugs. The highest price realized was $38,000, a royal Persian rug of the fifteenth or early sixteenth century, a gift from a Persian emperor to an emperor of the Turks. Other prices for rugs were $21,100, three at $15,000, $14,100, $7,000, $4,600, $4,100, $4,000, etc.

The piano, which was designed for Mr. Marquand by Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema, with a painted panel by Sir Ed. J. Poynter, P.R.A., and which is said to have cost $50,000, was bought by Mr. William Barbour for $8,000.

WACOUSTA;

Or, the Prophecy.

A STORY OF INDIAN WARFARE.

'Lord have mercy upon us!' exclaimed the boatswain, in a voice that, now elevated to more than its natural tone, sounded startlingly on the stillness of the scene. 'sure enough, it is, indeed, a ghost!'

'Ha! do you believe me now?' returned Miller, gaining confidence from the admission of his companion, and in the same elevated key. 'It is, as I hope to be saved, the ghost I see'd afore.'

The commotion on deck was now everywhere universal. The sailors started to their feet, and with horror and alarm visibly imprinted on their countenances, raised tumultuously towards the dreaded gangway.

'Make way—room, fellows!' exclaimed a hurried voice, and presently Captain de Haldimar, who had bounded like lightning from the deck, appeared with eager eye and excited cheek among them. To leap into the boat and disappear under the foliage was the work of a single instant. All listened breathlessly for the slightest sound, and then every heart throbbled with the most undefinable emotions, as his lips were heard giving utterance to the deep emotion of his own spirit.

'Madeline, oh, my own lost Madeline!' he exclaimed with almost frantic energy of passion; 'do I then press you once more to my loving heart? Speak, speak to me—for God's sake, speak, or I will go mad! Air, air—she wants air—she cannot be dead.'

These last words were succeeded by the furious raving asunder of the fastenings that secured the boughs, and presently the whole went overboard, leaving revealed the tall and picturesque figure of the officer, whose left arm encircled while it supported the reclining and powerless form of one who well resembled, indeed, the spectre for which she had been mistaken, while his right hand was busy in detaching the string that secured a portion of the covering round her throat. At length it fell from her shoulders, and the well-known form of Madeline de Haldimar, clad even in the vestments in which they had been wont to see her, met the astonished gaze of the excited seamen. Still there were some who doubted it was the corporeal woman whom they beheld, and several of the crew who were Catholics even made the sign of the cross as the supposed specter was now borne up the gangway, in the arms of the pained yet gratified de Haldimar, nor was it until her feet were seen finally resting on the deck, that Jack Buller could persuade himself it was indeed Miss de Haldimar, and not her ghost, that lay clasped to the heart of the officer.

With the keen rush of the morning air upon her brow returned the suspended consciousness of the bewildered Madeline. The blood came slowly and imperceptibly to her cheek, and her eyes, hitherto glazed, fixed and unexpressive, looked inquiringly, yet with stupid wonderment, around. She started from the embraces of her lover, gazed alternately at his disfigurement, and at Clara, and then, passing her hands several times rapidly across her brow, uttered an hysterical scream, and threw herself impetuously forward on the bosom of the sailing girl, who, with extended arms, parted lips and heaving bosom, sat breathlessly awaiting the first dawn of the returning reason of her more than sister.

We should vainly attempt to paint all the heart-rending misery of the scene exhibited in the gradual restoration of Miss de Haldimar to her senses. From a state of torpor, produced by the freezing of every faculty in almost idiosyncrasy, she was suddenly awakened to all the terrors of the past, and the deep intonations of her rich voice were heard only in expressions of agony that entered into the most iron-hearted of the assembled seamen, while they drew from the bosom of her gentle and sympathizing cousin fresh bursts of desolating grief. Imagination itself would find difficulty in supplying the harrowing effect upon all, when, with upraised hands and on her bended knees, her large eyes turned wildly up to heaven, she invoked in deep and starting accents the terrible retribution of a just God on the inhuman murderers of her father, with whose life-blood her garments were profusely saturated, and then, with hysterical laughter, demanded why she alone had been singled out to survive the bloody tragedy.

Then, by all means, do so, eagerly returned Captain de Haldimar. Oh, Madeline! take us but safely through, and if the interest of my father can procure a king's commission, you shall not want it, believe me.

'And if half my fortune can give additional stimulus to exertion, it shall be shared, with pleasure, between yourself and crew,' observed Sir Everard.

beloved and weeping Clara to her heart, thank her God, in all the fervor of true piety, that she at least had been spared to shed a ray of comfort on her distracted spirit. But we will not pain the reader by dwelling on a scene that drew tears even from the rugged and heartless boatswain himself; for, although we should linger on it, with minute anatomical detail, no powers of language we possess could convey the transcript as it should be. Pass we on, therefore, to the more immediate incidents of our narrative.

The day now rapidly developing, full opportunity was afforded the mariners to survey the strict nature of their position. To all appearance they were yet in the middle of the lake, for around them lay the belting sweep of forest that bounded the perspective of the equidistant circle, of which their barque was the focus or immediate centre. The wind was dying gradually away, and when at length the sun rose, in all its splendor, there was scarce air enough in the heavens to keep the sails from flapping against the masts, or to enable the vessel to obey her helm. In vain was the low and peculiar whistle of the seamen heard, ever and anon, in invocation of the departing breeze. Another day, calm and breathless as the preceding, had been chartered from the world of light; and their hearts failed them as they foresaw the difficulty of their position, and the almost certainty of their retreat being cut off. It was while laboring under the disheartening consciousness of danger, peculiar to all, that the anxious bosom summoned Captain de Haldimar and Sir Everard Vallerot, by a significant beck of the finger, to the side of the deck opposite to that on which still lay the suffering and nearly broken-hearted girls.

'Well, Mullins, what now?' enquired the former, as he narrowly scanned the expression of the old man's features; 'that clouded brow of yours, I fear me, bodes no agreeable information.'

'Why, your honor, I scarcely know what to say about it; but seeing as I'm the only officer in the ship, now our poor captain is killed, God bless him! I thought I might take the liberty to consult with your honors as to the best way of getting out of the jaws of them sharks of Ingians; and two heads, as the saying is, is always better than one.'

'And now you have the advantage of three,' observed the officer, with a sickly smile; 'but I fear, Mullins, that if your own be not sufficient for the purpose, ours will be of little service. You must take counsel from your own experience and knowledge of nautical matters.'

'Why, to be sure, your honor,' and the sailor rolled his quid from one cheek to the other, 'I think I may say as how I'll venture to steer the craft with any man on the Canada lakes, and bring her safe into port, too; but seeing as how I'm only a petty officer, and not yet recommended by his worship the governor for the full command, I thought it but right to consult with my superiors, not as to the management of the craft, but the best as is to be done. What does your honor think of making for the high land over the barbed bow yonder, and waiting for the chance of the night breeze to take us through the St. Clair?'

'Do whatever you think best,' returned the officer. 'For my part, I scarcely can give an opinion. Yet now are we to get there? There does not appear to be a breath of wind.'

'Oh, that's easily managed; we have only to brail and furl up a little, to hide our cloth from the Ingians, and then send the boats ahead to tow the craft, while some of us lend a hand at her own sweeps. We shall get close under the lee of the land afore night, and then we must pull up agin along shore until we get within a mile or so of the head of the river.'

'But shall we not be seen by our enemies?' asked Sir Everard; 'and will they not be on the watch for our movements, and intercept our retreat?'

'Now that's just the thing, your honor, as they're not likely to do, if so be as we bears away from yon headlands. I know every nook and sounding round the lake; and odd enough if I didn't, seeing as how the craft circumnavigated it at least a dozen times since we have been cooped up here. Poor Captain Danvers! (may the devil take his murderers, I say, though it does make a commander of me for once); he used always to make for that 'ere point, whenever he wished to lie quiet; for never once did we see so much as a single Ingian on the headland. No, your honor, they keeps all at 'other side of the lake, seeing as how that is the main road from Mackina to Detroit.'

der, and the money will come fast enough of itself. But still, shiver my topicals, if I want any bribery to make me do my duty; besides, if 'twas only for them poor girls alone, I would go through fire and water to save them. I'm not very chicken-hearted in my old age, your honors, but I don't recollect the time when I blubbered so much as I did when Miss Madeline come aboard. But I can't bear to think of it; and now let us see and get all ready for to-morrow.'

Everything now became bustle and activity on board the schooner. The matches, no longer required for the moment, were extinguished, and the heavy cutlasses and pistols unbuckled from the loins of the men, and deposited near their respective guns. Light forms flew aloft, and standing out upon the yards, loosely furled the sails that had previously been hauled and clewed up; but as this was an operation requiring little time in so small a vessel, those who were engaged in it speedily glided to the deck again, ready for a more arduous service. The boats had, meanwhile, been got forward, and into these the sailors sprang with an alacrity that could scarcely have been expected from men who had passed not only the preceding night, but many before it, in utter sleeplessness and despair. But the imminence of the danger, and the evident necessity existing for exertion, aroused them to new energy; and the hitherto motionless vessel was now made to obey the impulse given by the tow ropes of the boats, in a manner that proved their crews to have entered on their toil with the determination of men resolved to devote themselves in earnest to their tasks. Nor was the spirit of action confined to these. The long sweeps of the schooner had been shipped, and such of the crew as remained on board labored effectually at them—a service in which they were essentially aided, not only by the young officers themselves.

At mid-day the headlands were seen looming largely in the distance, while the immediate shores of the ill-fated fortress were momentarily, and in the same proportion, disappearing under the dim line of horizon in the rear. More than half their course, from the spot whence they commenced toiling, had been completed, when the harassed men were made to quit their oars, in order to partake of the scanty fare of the vessel, consisting chiefly of dried bear's meat and venison.

Their meal having been hastily despatched and sweetened by a draught from the depths of the Huron, the seamen once more sprang into their boats, and devoted themselves, heart and soul, to the completion of their task, pulling with a vigor that operated on each and all with a tendency to encouragement and hope. At length the vessel, still impelled by her own sweeps, gradually approached the land; and at rather more than an hour before sunset was so near that the moment was deemed arrived when, without danger of being perceived, she might be run up along the shore to the point alluded to by the boatswain. Little more than another hour was occupied in bringing her to her station; and the red tints of departing day were visible in the direction of the ill-fated fortress of Michilimackinac, when the sudden rumbling of the cable, following the heavy splash of the anchor, announced the place of momentary concealment had been gained.

The anchorage lay between two projecting headlands; to the uttermost extremities of which were to be seen, overhanging the lake, the stately birch and pine, connected at their base by impenetrable brushwood, extending to the very shore, and affording the amplest concealment, except from the lake side and the banks under which the schooner was moored. From the first quarter, however, little danger was incurred, as any canoes the savages might send in discovery of their course, must unavoidably be seen the moment they appeared over the line of the horizon, while, on the contrary, their own vessel, although much larger, resting on and identified with the land, must be invisible, except in a very near approach.

With a vigor that operated on each and all with a tendency to encouragement and hope. At length the vessel, still impelled by her own sweeps, gradually approached the land; and at rather more than an hour before sunset was so near that the moment was deemed arrived when, without danger of being perceived, she might be run up along the shore to the point alluded to by the boatswain. One of the most eminent judges of the Supreme Court of the United States is reported to have said to his little daughter, as he came home with an unusually cheerful spirit, one day: 'This is the happiest day I have had in twenty years! I feel free.' And 'what makes you feel so happy, papa?' asked the little girl. 'I am out of debt!' the father replied. 'I have paid the last dollar I owed in the world, and have been laboring with all my might for twenty years to work myself out of the miserable slavery.' No wonder the man was glad! But greater still is the joy of the sinner who has been groaning under the awful burden and debt of sin for years, and suddenly realizes that 'Jesus paid it all,' and that he is free. Oh, happy soul who knows his sins forgiven.

ed on the chord of her affliction, had as often caused him to despair. Towards the evening, however, her natural strength of character came in aid of his quietest efforts to soothe her; and she appeared not only more composed, but more sensible of the impression produced by surrounding objects. As the last rays of the sun were tinging the horizon, she drew up her form in a sitting position against the bulwarks, and raising her clasped hands to heaven, while her eyes were bent long and fixedly on the distant west, appeared some minutes wholly lost in that attitude of absorption. Then she closed her eyes; and through the swollen lids came coursing, one by one, over her quivering cheek, large tears, that seemed to scald a furrow where they passed. After this she became more calm—her respiration more free—and she even consented to taste the humble meal which the young man now offered for the third time. Neither Clara nor herself had eaten food since the preceding morning; and the weakness of their frames contributed not a little to the increasing despondency of their spirits; but, notwithstanding several attempts previously made, they had rejected what was offered them, with insurmountable loathing. When they had now swallowed a few morsels of the sliced venison ham, prepared with all the delicacy the nearly exhausted resources of the vessel could supply, accompanied by a small portion of the corn-bread of the Canadian, Captain de Haldimar prevailed on them to swallow a few sips of the spirit that still remained in the canteen, given them by Erskine on their departure from Detroit. The liquid sent a kindling glow to their chilled hearts, and for a moment deadened the pungency of their anguish; and then it was that Miss de Haldimar entered briefly on the horrors she had witnessed, while Clara, with her arm encircling her waist, fixed her dim and swollen eyes, from which a tear ever and anon rolled heavily to her lap, on those of her beloved cousin.

BIBLE WORDS.

THE SANCTIFIED ONE.

Jesus was sanctified and sent into the world by the Father. That is He who was with the Father, and came into the world most have existed with His Father before coming into the world, and therefore of the same divine nature. He was Son of God. He was sanctified, consecrated, or set apart to a special work. (John x. 36-38.) What was that work? To be the sacrifice for the sins of men and the priest of His people, to be both the offerer and the offering. It is all that He was set apart for was that men might be really sanctified or set apart. Jesus is the sanctified One and the sanctifier. In Him every believer, however imperfect, is completely sanctified. He can add nothing to it, nor take from it. Sanctified in Christ, washed and sanctified. (I. Cor. i. 2, 6, 11.) Sanctified in regeneration, in experience and by the sprinkling of Christ's blood. (I. Pet. i. 2; Heb. x. 28.) We have been sanctified, through the offering of the body of Christ, once for all. An offering never to be repeated. It is all that one offering He hath perfected forever them that are sanctified. (Heb. x. 10, 14.) Practical sanctification is our living out in daily life that separation to which grace has called us.

One of the most eminent judges of the Supreme Court of the United States is reported to have said to his little daughter, as he came home with an unusually cheerful spirit, one day: 'This is the happiest day I have had in twenty years! I feel free.' And 'what makes you feel so happy, papa?' asked the little girl. 'I am out of debt!' the father replied. 'I have paid the last dollar I owed in the world, and have been laboring with all my might for twenty years to work myself out of the miserable slavery.' No wonder the man was glad! But greater still is the joy of the sinner who has been groaning under the awful burden and debt of sin for years, and suddenly realizes that 'Jesus paid it all,' and that he is free. Oh, happy soul who knows his sins forgiven.

IN AT THE DEATH. (From the Chicago Tribune.) Mr. Gillette had an amusing experience while making a little holiday trip through Switzerland last summer. He was traveling in company with an English friend, who was an experienced alpinist and, as well, a friend of Sir Conan Doyle's, and something of a 'Sherlock Holmes' enthusiast. The party had been crossing the Brunig pass from Lucerne toward Interlaken, and stopped one night at Mering. Their next day were going over the Gross Scheldeg, and the English friend suggested that Gillette might like to take a little detour from the main path and see the site of the Reichsbach, where, according to Sir Conan Doyle, Professor Moriarty and Sherlock Holmes had their fatal encounter.

'Two years ago,' said the friend, 'I visited the place with a party, and we spent an hour pointing out to each other the exact spot where Holmes stood before his plunge into the abyss.'

Gillette was naturally glad to make the trip, and he and his friend walked down to the end of the village, where they found a group of guides waiting for patrons. 'There,' said the Englishman, 'is the same man that took us on our former visit to the falls.' 'We'll engage him again and see if he remembers anything about it.'

So, under the direction of this guide, the two started out. When they reached the fall of the Reichsbach the guide began to point out all the different views and places of interest. 'Et lei,' he said in broken English, 'is the spot where a grand English detective, Sherlock Holmes, stood when he was pushed over to his death. I was the main guide to the party that day. I was standing right there. Holmes went over without a scream or word of any kind, and though we searched for a week we never found any trace of his body.'

'Ethel has improved wonderfully in her music, I believe?' 'Yes; both the fats adjoining hers are now raised.'—'Judge.'

'And now,' asked the teacher, at the end of a long description of the brats, 'where is the seat of memory? Can any of you tell me?' 'Yes, ma'am,' replied Johnny Brighteyes; 'in the little finger, where you tie a string around it to make you recollect!'—Cincinnati 'Commercial Tribune.'

'Hold on!' explained the excited patient in the oculist's chair. 'Well,' queried the oculist, as he dropped the eyelid. 'I just want to have an understanding,' said the patient. 'I want it thoroughly agreed, before you remove that foreign substance from my eye, that if it turns out to be coal dust, it belongs to me!'—Baltimore 'News.'

'Monkey Brand Soap removes all stains, rust, dirt or tarnish—but won't wash clothes. Daughter—'Ross Bonheur could paint all kinds of animals, but not men.' Mother—'You mean all kinds of animals but men, my dear.'—'Judge.'

Bystander—'Why are you crying, little boy?' 'Little Boy—'Boo-hoo! I froze me fingers makin' twenty snowballs and de doctor didn't wear his plug hat after all.'—Chicago 'Daily News.'

'So your story did not set the world on fire?' 'No,' answered the discouraged author. 'But it helped some in the cook stove.'—Washington 'Star.'

Towne—'Karbon was boasting about the size of his new baby to-day. He says it weighs a ton.' Brown—'How ridiculously extravagant to say a "baby" weighs a ton.' Towne—'But his idea of a ton is peculiar. He's a coal-dealer, you know.'—Philadelphia 'Press.'

'Mother, what are twins?' asked little Bobbie. 'I know,' chimed in Dolly. 'Twins is two babies just the same age; three babies is triplets; four is quadruplets; and five is centipedes.'

Tomson—'Johnson has no ability of any kind.' Jackson—'Nonsense. Why, as you ask you for a loan in such a way that you thank your lucky stars for the opportunity to accommodate him.'

Gertrude (the big sister)—'Maud, I do wish you'd stop your chattering to that dog. Can't you see I'm talking to Mr. Lovelace?' Maud (aggrieved)—'Well, I've got a right to talk to my puppy, too.'

THE STANLEY CUP MATCHES

Two games each and the match unfinished. This was the tale told on Saturday night at the Arenas as the clocks in the city towers tolled out twelve and play ceased. No decision was given by the referee, Mr. Percy Quinn, and the question will have to be settled by the trustees of the cup.

What a contest! It was heart-breaking! The play was much faster than the previous game. In fact, the contest was beyond all doubt the fastest exhibition of hockey played on the Arenas ice in years, and the chances are that those present will never see its like again. Both teams were out to win and went the pace from start to finish. The players got after one another from the very start, and this is especially true of the challengers. From the very blow of the whistle the bison got after the Montreal boys in the most ferocious manner. They slashed, checked and bodied in a way that was disheartening to see, and they finally wound up their onslaught by disabling Gardner. The latter was up to this time playing a magnificent game, and the knock-out blow received was from the stick of Keane. From a spectators' point of view the accident was apparently intentional and Keane was deserving of the reputation he received as the result of his rough and mean play. The loss of Gardner on the line was a severe blow to the champion team, and it seemed as if the players realized the loss of such a valuable man. Blachford, an intermediate man, took his place and did excellent work all things considered, after playing a hard intermediate game in the afternoon.

VICTORIES WERE A SURPRISE. When play was resumed the checking was strictly of a heavy nature. The Victorias were undoubtedly at their best. They played a big surprise party to the supporters and opponents alike. Never in the history of Stanley cup matches in which the challengers have participated in this city have they been in better condition. In spite of the fact that they were Thursday night's beaten by the largest score ever piled up against the club, the same seven men came out on Saturday evening, and put up the fastest, gamiest exhibition of hockey possibly ever seen on local ice. They skated, dodged, checked and shot on goal with lightning rapidity. Their combination was well formed and effective. The forwards followed the puck incessantly. They were cautious in their movements. Their time and place in shooting on goal denoted study and calculation. They played at times as one man, ever ready to give or take. They played the game scientifically and above all, aggressively. Taken altogether they are a determined team. Realizing undoubtedly the reverse of the previous match and dreading a repetition of the same, they played only to win.

A ROUGH GAME. That the players of the Victoria team played a rough game no one will deny. They were out to achieve success and the latter must be obtained at all hazards. They presumably found out in past experience that to play the game against the winged wheel seven would not win them the day. Unfortunately, the challengers carried their tactics too far, and while Percy Quinn made a most efficient referee he did seem at times to favor the visitors. Time and again players on the home team were ruled off for tripping provocations, while members of the Western seven escaped punishment, when it should have been meted out to them. However, this may only be a difference of opinion, but Montreal received no favors. In fact, so closely did Mr. Quinn keep an eye on the local seven that a mere turn of the contrary rules would send them to the benches.

THE LITTLE MEN OF IRON. That the "little men of iron" deserved to win the match no person will deny, and indeed if any team ever deserved sympathy it was the Montreal seven. They played hockey from start to finish. Their team work was brilliant, their manœuvring puzzling. They rushed together, passed quickly, shot most frequently, kept constantly after the puck, maintained a well devised plan of attack and defence which they adhered to. Their playing on Saturday night was marked by its steadiness and determination.

ICE WAS EXCELLENT. All those who witnessed the first match played on soft ice on Thursday night, that it would be a sight worth seeing if the two teams should meet on good ice. Saturday night they had this satisfaction, for the sheet of ice which Mr. Northey, the manager of the Auditorium, had in readiness, was perfect in every respect. Only the hardest kind of hard luck deprived the Montreal team of victory. For, from start to finish, and more particularly in that terrible last half hour, the locals outplayed the challengers. Time after time the Victoria goal was saved apparently only by a miracle. Olsen stopped several shots he possibly never saw. Well, such are the fortunes of war, but it was hard, very hard to fall in such an attempt. Scandan has a team shown more surprising change in form than the Victorias did. On Thursday, his forwards were lethargic, and too slow to follow up. On Saturday night every man of the seven was in trim, and played electrifying hockey practically all through. That the final result ended in a draw, is to be regretted. In the first place it was not satisfactory to either of the teams, and then again it left open a very important and touchy point for the trustees of the Stanley cup to decide.

The question naturally arises did a win and a draw suffice to retain the cup? Some hold that it does, while others maintain that two clear victories must be gained.

A GLANCE AT THE GAME. An hour previous to the commencement of play, thousands of enthusiastic lovers of the game crowded the way to the Victoria Auditorium. It took but a short time to fill that immense building. From side to side, from end to end, in the aisles, and in the corners, crowded the excited spectators. In the first half of the play Montreal has decidedly the best of the play. For in that period the champions scored two goals, while their opponents failed to find the nets. Nevertheless, the Victorias contested every inch of the ice, and when the gong sounded half time, the challengers were undoubtedly seething with rage.

The appearance on the ice of both teams was greeted with rounds of applause. A moment later the puck was in action. Frantically did the fourteen players struggle to gain possession of the rubber. Passes and later the players, till at last it was with difficulty that the men could be distinguished.

What magnificent rushes, what determined repulses. Now one team has the advantage; then the other takes its turn. Both contestants are pressing hard, one anxious to avert defeat, the other desirous to add to its score. Something must happen; such playing cannot be without its reward. On and on fly the players—at last the Victorias score. Up went the umpire's hand, and as the indicator pointed towards the roof, it seemed as if every man, woman and child in that vast amphitheatre was up and yelling like mad.

The crowd was still cheering when the puck was faced for the second game. The score was now one to one, and only nine minutes to play before the expiration of full time. Will the challengers score again, or will Montreal defend their fate? Slowly, but surely, the minutes fly past, one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, only two minutes more.

SCORE, A TIE. The seconds are now counted. What! A mighty cheer. The Victorias have tied the score. In a second the puck was again in play. Greater crowd of spectators, the contesting teams. Both realized the situation. The gong sounds, time; but the players hear it not. The roar of the crowd is loud and long. Finally, they stop. The score, two all.

Officials and players hurriedly assembled to discuss the situation. Mr. Robinson, of the Victorias, gives Montreal two minutes to appear on the ice.

A few words with the referee, and the question settled. Montreal will continue to play determined to fight to the bitter end. Again the referee's whistle is heard. The teams re-appear. Slowly but surely the boys in blue force their mighty opponents to their nets. The pace is now heart-breaking. Each man on that ice has but one vision in view. He must score. Ten minutes more and the hands of the clock would indicate the midnight hour. At that moment play must cease. Exhorted by the frantic shouts of their supporters the Montreal boys answered to match a triumph. The Victorias, too, had the same object in view, but the gong sounds and the struggle ceases.

A REVIEW OF THE PLAY. Scandan, of the visiting team, was easily the star of the Victorias. He shot like lightning on goal. He would dodge and pass the rubber in a twinkling. In short he outdid himself.

Tony Gingras was almost equal to Scandan. He played in his old-time form. He skated, dodged and checked in rapid order. He was always after the puck, and some of his rushes were clever and well timed.

Cadham is a worker. He is all over the ice and in checking, dodging and shooting he is hard to surpass. He has an art of long shooting on goal, and he is one of the most dangerous shots on the team.

To Keane belongs the honor of playing the roughest game on the ice. He is fairly effective, a good skater, and clever dodger, but his play on Saturday night was anything but gentlemanly, and had it not been for his rough tactics "Jimmy" Gardner would have been saved a fractured collar bone.

Marcus Flett, at cover point, excelled himself. He was as steady as a rock. His checking and lifting were strong and sure. He proved a hard man to pass. He worked in perfect harmony with his brother "Red." At point, "Reddy" Flett, undoubtedly played his old-time game. He was daring and effective. He put up hockey of the first kind, and worked tooth and nail in defence of his goal. He checked hard and cleared quickly. In short he was all that could be desired.

Olsen, in goal, was a surprise. He played a steeper and more careful game than on Thursday night. He displayed no signs of nervousness. His blocking and re-er, who rushed up, passed to Phillips, who skated and shot in splendid form, and he accomplished many pretty and effective plays. Altogether the champions put up the keenest fight of their career, and the winged-wheel aggregation is still a paragon in the hockey world.

THE CAPTAINS SPEAK

Captain Cadham, of the Victorias team, was seemingly very much agitated after the match on Saturday night. He was no doubt disappointed at the final result, and expressed his confidence in the ability of the Western team to finally lift the cup should ing the goal at critical moments were opportune. He saved his team.

THE MONTREAL TEAM. Nicholson, in the nets, deserves special mention. He is cool at all times, always calculating in his work. His play before the nets on Saturday evening was nothing short of marvellous. Time and again he was called upon to clear his territory and as determinedly did he respond to the occasion. His work won him rounds of applause and "Nich" is undoubtedly "king" of the position.

To Hodge must be given the honors of defence. Suffering at times with severe attacks of cramp this determined player stuck to his post. His checking, blocking and lifting were effective, and more especially is this true of the last thirty minutes of play. Occasionally he would get possession of the puck and skate from goal to goal.

Captain "Dicky" Boon, at cover point, never worked harder on the ice than he did on Saturday night. He was here, there and everywhere. He checked, lifted and skated with general effectiveness. At times he was hard pressed, but was generally instrumental in breaking up the opponents' rushes. He never let up for a moment, and his play was the centre of attraction.

Gardner, while he was in the game, played week. "We are ready for the fray at any time or place."

Montreal appeared on the ice first, and were given an ovation. Two minutes later the Winnipeg boys jumped out on the ice, and were also received with an outburst of applause. Marshall drew and the excitement commenced. Montreal rushed up the ice, but M. Flett relieved with a short lift. The puck was rushed down as far as Boon, but got no further. He passed up to Hooper, who dashed down the ice. Keane blocked a pass, sent the puck to Scandan. The latter rushed down, dodged Hodge, and sent in a close shot, which Nicholson was equal to. Boon lifted out a wicked shot, which Olsen stopped neatly. By this time the play was very fast, and the crowd kept up a continuous uproar. The puck was passed up and down the ice with lightning speed. Tony Gingras made a phenomenal run, and almost scored. Then Montreal attacked fiercely, both Marshall and Hooper sending in shots, which Olsen was equal to. Scandan got the puck from R. Flett and made a brilliant run down the entire length of the ice, dodging Boon and Hodge, and shot. Nicholson made a fine stop, and lifted into the crowd.

GARDNER HURT

Marshall drew the face, passed to Hooper, who charged up the ice. M. Flett lifted down the ice and Scandan sent in a shot which Nicholson blocked. A series of long lifts ensued between Boon and M. Flett. The pace was faster than ever and Olsen had a busy time of it. A face occurred in the mouth of the Montreal net and Cadham almost scored. Hodge was put off for two minutes for tripping. Play at this stage was very even, Winnipeg showing up strong. Their forwards play a fine combination. Keane was put off for charging Hodge from behind. Then Marshall went off for tripping Scandan. Phillips was the next to go off. Keane had barely returned to the ice when he was again retired for persisting in his tripping. Scandan played a beautiful game, but his work was more show than effect. Winnipeg covered their men well. All the men were now back again on the ice, and the Montreal goal was the scene of a fierce attack.

BLACHFORD COMES ON.

Blachford made his initial bow in senior company, when he replaced Gardner on the line. Although he played a match the same afternoon his work was most gratifying. He displayed the ability of playing faster er, who rushed up, passed to Phillips, who skated and shot in splendid form, and he accomplished many pretty and effective plays. Altogether the champions put up the keenest fight of their career, and the winged-wheel aggregation is still a paragon in the hockey world.

THE WESTERN RUSH MATTERS.

Fourth game—From the start Winnipeg rushed matters and fairly rained in the shots on the Montreal goals. Nicholson was unable to stop them all and once again Winnipeg scored. Cadham being the net. The excitement knew no bounds.

Fifth game—The pace was terrific and at times the crowd fairly held its breath. The puck travelled up and down the ice with terrific speed, neither team appearing to have the advantage. Eventually the gong sounded announcing that time was up, leaving the score two all. It was decided to play off till one team scored.

OVERTIME—A HOT FINISH.

Cadham drew, and Winnipeg forwards attacked fiercely. Boon relieved the pressure with a long lift, but the puck was speedily retired. The pace waxed hot, both teams playing desperately. A number of off-sides occurred, delaying the game. Flett put Blachford into the fence and went off for an enforced rest. Montreal was now having the best of the play and kept the visitors' defence hustling. Boon did some good work at this point, and was well backed up by Hodge. The Flett boys also put up fine hockey. R. Flett was the next to go off for tripping. Montreal sent in numberless shots, but the fates were apparently against them. Keane got hurt and Blachford went off to even up. When play was resumed there remained about seven minutes till midnight, and the pace set by both teams demonstrated the remarkable powers of human endurance. The players flashed over the surface with lightning speed in a last mighty effort to break the ice. The Montrealers were distinctly the aggressors, and for the few minutes of remaining time Winnipeg bunched their goals in order to block the rain of shots sent in by the local team. Time and again the ice was broken, and a damper was thrown on the superior form to Thursday's match, and the Montreal defence held. Only the magnificent work of Nicholson in the flags prevented a score. It was given out that a bone in Gardner's shoulder was broken, and a damper was thrown on the immense audience. Blachford was put on to even up. When the teams returned to the ice, the crowd "roasted" the visitors for their treatment of Gardner. Play was resumed, with Montreal attacking. Gingras

JOY IN WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 2.—The result of Saturday night's Stanley cup game proved that the confidence placed in the Victorias was not misplaced. Continuous bulletins were received at many places here and all of them were crowded. Excitement ran high and there was a tremendous cheer when the Victorias evened up the score. It was the general opinion that the Victorias would have won the game, but the result was very satisfactory, especially after Thursday night's game. The decision game here is quite confident that their men will win to-night's game.
