Optimism marks postal talks

OTTAWA (CP) — Negotiations aimed at ending the country-wide strike of inside postal workers took a turn for the better early today.

Both Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey and Jean-Claude Parrot, chief negotiator for the 22,000-member Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW), said they were optimistic that a settlement was near as they adjourned negotiations about 1:15 a.m. EST.

The talks were scheduled to resume today at 1 p.m. with the hope of ending the strike, now in its 11th day.

Spokesmen for both sides said that only a few of the major issues remained to be resolved.

Unresolved issues included the use of non-union casual help in the post office, individual work measurement, electronic surveillance of their staffs by postal supervisors, and wages.

It was a sharp contrast to feelings at noon Thursday when both sides left the talks to meet privately for seven hours before returning to the bargaining table after dinner.

SAME OPINION

At that time, Mr. Mackasey told reporters that about 65 issues remained to be resolved.

"The pace leaves a little to be desired," he said then. "But we'll let the union dictate the pace."

Mr. Parrot echoed this feeling when he said: "It's getting a little frustrating for us. The post office is just not coming back fast enough with answers to our counter-proposals."

The union is asking 51 per cent in a 27-month contract over its current $4.56 an hour while the post office is holding to its offer of $1.70 an hour over 30 months. The $1.70 increase was suggested in the conciliation report of Judge Jean Moisan of the Quebec Superior Court.

Meanwhile, union president Joe Davidson continued his trip through the western provinces trying to shore up what appears to be flagging support among the membership.

He was to have returned Thursday night, but did not arrive before the adjournment.

Appeal for vigilance

LONDON (Reuters) — Scotland Yard told Londoners Thursday they are in the front line against guerrilla bombers and appealed for extra vigilance to help trap them.

After a bomb devastated a small Italian restaurant—the ninth blast in southern England in two months—the head of the bomb squad, Roy Habershon, said: "We view the vicious and indiscriminate selection of a Mayfair restaurant as last night's target as a calculated escalation of the terror directed against the public."

Eighteen persons were hurt in the blast and six tourists were still in hospital Thursday. A married couple from Mexico had severe injuries.

Six-year-old killed

BELFAST (Reuters) — A six-year-old girl was fatally shot Thursday, the second fatality in an apparent new feud between rival branches of the Irish Republican Army (IRA), pitting Roman Catholics against each other.

Eileen Kelly was shot when a gunman burst into her family home and fired about nine random shots, police said. Her father, supposedly the intended victim, is a sympathizer of the official wing of the IRA.

Police said they believed the attacker was a member of the outlawed movement's rival Provisional wing.

Troops protest plan

LISBON (Reuters) — Rebellious Portuguese troops sealed off the main Lisbon arsenal Thursday to protest large army demobilization plans.

The incident occurred as Gen. Carlos Fabiao, army chief of staff, said in an interview that Portugal faces a right-wing dictatorship if the current pro-Western government falls.

Fabiao was due to return from a four-day official visit to West Germany later Thursday and the army high command said it would take no action over the arsenal without his consent.

Storm halts clashes

BEIRUT (AP) — A thunderstorm silenced the guns of battling Christians and Moslems here today, and no significant clashes were reported after dawn.

Both sides pulled back to consolidate positions captured Thursday. Some government security forces took advantage of the lull and the weather to move between Christian and Moslem territory, causing Premier Rashid Karami to suggest that a ceasefire might take hold.

A spokesman for the rightwing Christian Phalange party said Christian forces still control the downtown hotel district. But staff members at the Phoenixia Hotel said the Phalange withdrew Thursday night, and security forces were patrolling the streets in that area.

The Phalange also said its men captured half of the Karantina district near the Port of Beirut, a large Moslem slum area with a sizable Kurdish community.

Nasserite and Communist Moslem gunmen and their Palestinian guerrilla allies were reported holding on to the unfinished 40-storey Mour Tower, the city's tallest building and a strategic firing post overlooking the downtown hotels.

Government backs down on some wage control measures

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government Thursday backed down on some bitterly-disputed measures in its selected wage and price controls program to give a better break to low-income earners and those depending on investment income.

The key change outlined by Finance Minister Donald Macdonald to the Commons finance committee was one which will allow anyone to increase his hourly pay to $3.50 without being affected by the guides.

For example, an employee working 2,000 hours a year at $1.75 an hour can double his income by negotiating a raise to $3.50 hourly and not be subject to the basic 10-per-cent ceiling imposed on wage increases under the federal plan.

The change was made to counter attacks from the provinces, organized labor, opposition parties and some Liberal MPs that the original $600 maximum was unfair to low-income workers.

Mr. Macdonald also said the government is amending the program so dividend reductions will not be required. The guides originally said dividend payments during the first 12 months of the program could not exceed the rate paid in the last fiscal year.

Dividends now can continue to be paid at the quarterly rate that was in effect when the anti-inflation program was announced Oct. 13.

MORE CHANGES

Another minor amendment will bring salaried professionals who work for a professional firm, such as junior lawyers, firmly under the guides.

Questioned after the meeting, Mr. Macdonald said the government has approved "five or six more" changes in the federal plan, but they are not as major.

The hearings opened on a stormy note Thursday.

David Orlikow (NDP—Winnipeg North) said the New Democrats will oppose the legislation until they see the regulations that accompany it. Until the anti-inflation bill is passed, and the guides are spelled out in regulations, the government has no power to impose penalties against violators.

Mr. Macdonald said the government tried, but failed, to get labor's support. He said the government feels it has to proceed anyway.

Meanwhile, Ontario Treasurer Darcy McKeough announced Thursday the province will put its civil service and institutions under federal control for two years as part of the anti-inflation effort.

SUPPORT CONTROLS

Mr. Macdonald said several other provinces have pledged to do similarly, but he refused to name them.

Quebec is setting up its own prices and incomes commission to regulate affairs there.

The anti-inflation review board, following a two-day meeting here, Thursday said that it is setting up special reporting procedures for most major companies to ensure they follow the price guides.

Says bilingualism plan won't discriminate against English

OTTAWA (CP) — Part two of the federal government's bilingualism program will not discriminate against English-speaking public servants, the National Joint Council says.

Part two was designed to convert 20 per cent of positions in four government departments and 10 per cent of all other departments into units working exclusively in the French language.

"Language standards established for bilingual positions, including supervisory positions in units working in French, will not be set so as to exclude candidates who have indicated their willingness to become bilingual," the council says in a news release.

"The merit principle will be fully respected." The council is a consultative body established by public service unions and treasury board to smooth the way for the bilingualism policy.

The release said that part two will not be implemented until:

—All employees and affected bargaining agents have been informed;

—Treasury board has given final approval to departmental plans.

Public service union leaders had threatened to boycott the bilingualism program unless there was more consultation on the units working in French question.

SHERBROOKE (BP) — The annual blood donor clinic at the Belvedere St. Armory concluded last night, surpassing its objective by a great margin.

The four day total was 2,730, the largest clinic since 1968, when close to 2,800 donors turned out for the worthy cause. This year's objective was 2,000 donors.

Yesterday's figure of 647, added to 559, 816 and 708 donors on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, replenished the recent dwindling supply of blood in the local bank.

Clinic organizers wish to thank the population of Sherbrooke and vicinity for their generous support, making this year's effort a marvelous success.

Rumors spread on new Quebec party

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec political scene is rife with speculation about the possible formation of a "third force" in the province to serve as an alternative to the governing Liberals and the Opposition Parti Quebecois.

The rumors have been fuelled by speculation about the future of Jerome Choquette, Premier Robert Bourassa's former right-hand man who recently resigned as education minister in a dispute over application of Quebec's Official Language Act.

Mr. Choquette is being touted by some as a potential leader of a new political party.

Mr. Choquette, however, has refused to discuss his political future and has said he will make his plans public at a Montreal speech Nov. 11.

Meanwhile, supporters of the third force idea, including several Union Nationale and Creditiste members, have been meeting throughout the province to lay the groundwork for a new political party.

There is some optimism since a recent poll shows that about a third of 700 Quebecers questioned about their preference would support an alternative to the Liberals and Parti Quebecois.

LIBERALS BEHIND
The poll, which also shows the Parti Quebecois leading the Liberals in popular support, indicates that 27 per cent of voters would support a party led by Mr. Choquette.

By ALEX RADMANOVICH

It shows 68 per cent of English-speaking voters and 63 per cent of the French-speaking are unhappy with Premier Bourassa.

However, it has been Union Nationale supporters who have pushed the third-force concept hardest.

Wiped off the electoral map after the 1973 Liberal landslide, the Union Nationale and factions of the splintered provincial Creditiste party have been trying for more than a year to shape a coalition.

After Union Nationale interim leader Maurice Bellemare won a byelection seat in August, 1974, he and party organizers teamed up with one Creditiste faction and have recently been mending fences with other splinter groups.

MEETINGS HELD
Political observers say the Union Nationale would like to have Mr. Choquette as party leader, and party officials have held two meetings with him since his resignation from the Liberal party.

Fabien Roy, one of two Ralliement Creditiste members in the Quebec national assembly, has also been working for a third force.

At odds with party leader and assembly colleague Camil Samson, Mr. Roy has been telling reporters for more than a year that he would be willing to join such a party.

Asked if he too had met Mr. Choquette, he told a news conference he was "hoping to, soon."

Another group which calls itself the "Committee of Nine," recently released a written manifesto calling for creation of a "third force."

Only four group members identified themselves and all were either Union Nationale or Creditiste supporters.

Spanish prince takes over state from ailing Franco

MADRID (AP) — A new era in Spanish history opened today as Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon took up the powers of the chief of state from Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

The 82-year-old dictator was still alive, but no one believes that he will ever recover from the heart ailment and other illnesses that have kept him near death for more than a week.

Juan Carlos, the 37-year-old grandson of Spain's last king, was appointed temporary chief of state late Thursday by Premier Carlos Arias Navarro and his cabinet to end the vacuum resulting from Franco's inability to put his endorsement on all major government decisions, a power he vested in himself when he wrote the Spanish constitution.

Medical bulletins all day Thursday said Franco was still "gravely ill." An announcement at midnight from his household said he was resting peacefully and "conversed with his family and doctors attending him" during the day.

Another announcement from the household at 7:30 a.m. today said there was no change in his condition.

Reaction in the streets of Madrid to the appointment of the Bourbon prince was mainly one of relief.

But not everyone was pleased. Students, especially, expressed anger over the step toward restoration of the monarchy that the public overwhelmingly endorsed at the polls in 1947.

Opposition parties were reported trying to unify in joint opposition to Juan Carlos and the monarchy. Opposition groups said Thursday they are planning a joint statement opposing re-establishment of the Spanish monarchy unless approved by a national referendum.

TORONTO (CP) — The recent decline on the Toronto stock market moderated Thursday and although prices closed lower for the fourth straight session, the losses were the smallest of the week.

The industrial index slipped .03 to 166.98, remaining at its lowest level since January, and base metals .15 to 70.93. Golds gained .87 to 285.39 and western oils .41 to 190.06. Trading was the slowest in more than two months with investors awaiting clarification of the government's anti-inflation program. Analysts said market activity is likely to remain quiet until the government announces its decision on its proposed dividend freeze. Finance Minister Donald Macdonald has indicated that there may be adjustments made in the policy.

Volume was 1.10 million shares, lowest since Aug. 25 and down from 1.14 million Wednesday. Value, however, increased to $11.75 million from $11.37 million.

Ltd. common and series A preferred shares following a one-day halt pending announcement that Federal Industries Ltd. plans to offer $9.50 a share for all White Pass common issues it does not already own. White Pass common gained 3/4 to $9, its highest price this year and preferred A shares, which did not trade

Thursday, last closed at $15.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The offsetting effects of New York City's financial worries and a prime rate cut by a St. Louis bank left the stock market in a virtual standoff Thursday. Prices were mixed in moderate trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials managed to record a .79 gain to 839.42 after its 12.83-point slide Wednesday.

Standard and Poor's 500-stock index lost .08 to 89.31 and the New York Stock Exchange composite index slipped .08 to 47.18.

NYSE volume came to 15.08 million shares, down from 16.11 million Wednesday.

However, the day's activity was enough to push volume on the exchange past the four-billion-share mark for the year to date. The full-year record of 4.13 billion set in 1972 appears likely to be surpassed by the middle of next month.

Early in the session the First National Bank of St. Louis announced it was cutting its prime rate to 7 1/2 from 7 3/4 per cent. Last week the bank was among the first to cut the key rate to 7 1/4 from eight—a move that spread to most major banks by early this week.

The Dow struggled to a gain of about four points early in the afternoon with the encouragement of the prime rate hopes.

But it was evident that the rally could not attract much sustained buying interest with investors still contemplating the prospect of a financial default by New York City.

Felix Rohatyn, chairman of New York's Municipal Assistance Corp., said the city had less than one chance of 20 of averting a default through the end of the year without federal assistance. President Ford asserted Wednesday he would veto any measure calling for federal help designed to prevent default.

Polaroid was the most active issue on the NYSE, unchanged at $36 3/4. A 121,700-share block traded at $36 1/2.

Quaker Oats picked up 1 1/4 to $23 3/4 in active trading on top of a 1 1/4-point jump Wednesday when the company came in with sharply higher quarterly earnings.

Stocks of New York banks, with their large holdings of New York City securities, encountered more selling. Citicorp dropped 3/4 to $27, J.P. Morgan 2 to $47 and Chase Manhattan 1/4 to $25 1/2, all in active trading.

U.S. Steel, which projected a decline in fourth-quarter shipments, lost 3/4 to $63 1/4, and most other steels declined fractionally.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index sagged .12 to 82.80. The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market lost .13 to 77.45.

Among Canadian issues on the New York stock exchange Inco was up 3/4 to $23 3/4, Hudson Bay 3/4 to $16 1/4, Alcan 1/4 to $19 and Campbell Red Lake 1/4 to $23 1/2.

Dome Mines was down 1/2 to $35 1/2 and Hiram Walker 3/4 to $26 3/4.

Dollar Close

MONTREAL (CP) — U.S. dollar in terms of Canadian funds closed Thursday down 1-5 at $1.0196. Pound sterling was down 51-100 at $2.1147.

In New York, the Canadian dollar was up 19-100 at $0.9808. Pound sterling was down 1-10 at $2.0740.

Governments in Canada must encourage exploration of oil

TORONTO (CP) — Governments in Canada must take action to encourage exploration and development of oil, the president of the Independent Petroleum Association of Canada (IPAC) said Wednesday.

"Canada is the only oil-producing country in the industrialized world in which exploration activity has declined over the last two years," R. F. Ruben told an IPAC-sponsored seminar.

Mr. Ruben, president of North Canadian Oils Ltd., was one of a number of Calgary-based oil firm executives who accused the federal and provincial governments of actions which have discouraged investment in the oil industry.

He said IPAC recommended that all levels of government re-examine royalty and tax structures with a view to providing a greater return to the oil industry so that it could re-invest more money in exploration and development.

It also urged governments to restore the full write-off of development costs against federal and provincial income tax.

URGE TAX CHANGE

As well, IPAC called for encouragement of Canadian investment through elimination of municipal business tax and removal of all obstructions to foreign investment in exploration and development.

IPAC has 268 member companies primarily engaged in one or more of the phases of the oil industry such as exploration, producing or refining. They differ from the major oil companies which participate in all phases of the industry.

Mr. Ruben said the independents financed and drilled approximately 80 per cent of all of the exploratory wells in Canada during the last five years.

"If Canadian independents are to increase or even maintain their present level of activity, we believe it is imperative that they have greater access to capital."

He said, however, the outlook has improved in the last six months with government recognizing the need for higher wellhead prices and the establishment of programs to encourage industry activity.

"Unfortunately, however, we have lost a great deal of valuable time."

HAVE RESERVES

A. H. Ross, president of Western Decalita Petroleum Ltd., told the seminar Canada is one of the few countries in the world with an abundant source of all types of energy. Based on potential reserves, he said Canada has energy resources for 500 years at current rates of consumption, compared with 100 years for the world.

But he said the industry will not be able to attract the more than $50 billion required for exploration and development in the next 10 years to retain the position of self-sufficiency unless the investment climate is improved.

C. S. Dunkley, senior vice-president of Dome Petroleum Ltd., said the costs of finding and developing a barrel of oil are estimated to be $4. But on a barrel the producer ends up with less than $2 after tax.

"Governments obviously are taking more out of the barrel of oil than the producers who have to find, develop and produce the gas and oil," Mr. Dunkley said.

J. M. Pierce, president of Ranger Oil (Canada) Ltd., said the sources of financing oil and gas operations are dwindling.

The availability of investment funds "has been drastically reduced because of American investor fears and loss of confidence in the Canadian political regimes historical levels throughout 1976."

He expects inflation in prices to moderate to the range of nine to 10 per cent, compared with the 11-per cent average of the last two years, but higher than Ottawa's apparent price target of eight per cent.

within our industry and we have found that many of our most capable geologists, geophysicists and other scientists and technicians have moved to other areas in the world, primarily to the United States."

For 1976, he forecast only a marginal increase in housing starts, to 205,000 units from the projected 195,000 this year.

Interest rates would "remain high relative to and the continuous press coverage of the Canadian oil taxation policy problems."

CRITICIZES DELAY

G. S. Brant, president of Pennant-Puma Oils Ltd., was critical of government delay in approving energy projects.

"No one questions the importance of ensuring that a reasonable standard of personal and environmental safety is maintained," he said. "However, we are now letting the tail wag the dog and government intervention has become a contributor to the energy crises."

Dividend payments

OTTAWA (CP) — The government plans to distribute Nov. 1 dividend payments for Canada Savings Bonds through the chartered banks, if the postal strike continues, Finance Minister Donald Macdonald said Wednesday.

He told the Commons that the government is negotiating a system with major chartered banks to make dividend payments to about 450,000 bondholders available early next week.

A finance department spokesman refused later to give more details. He said some details are still to be settled.

The subject has become an issue in the Commons. Allan McKinnon (PC-Victoria) said Tuesday that many pensioners depend upon the dividend payments.

of Gold Lake Resources Ltd., expressed concern about skilled persons in the oil industry leaving Canada.

"During the past two years the actions of both the provincial and federal governments created grave concern and instability

Canada recovering from recession

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. R. W. Baguley, a senior bank economist, said Wednesday Canada appears to be recovering from the recession of the last two years.

Dr. Baguley, senior economist with the Royal Bank of Canada, predicted that the gross national product will rise five per cent next year above the depressed levels of 1975, prices will moderate slightly, and the unemployment rate in the next 12 months will fluctuate in the range of seven to 7 1/2 per cent.

In an address to the fifth annual Canadian marketing construction seminar, Dr. Baguley said the buying mood of consumers "appears to be improving in both Canada and the United States and this is a leading indicator of stronger spending ahead."

For 1976, he forecast only a marginal increase in housing starts, to 205,000 units from the projected 195,000 this year.

Wage guidelines will make salary talks complicated

MONTREAL (CP) — Salary negotiations next year in much of Canada's construction industry will be severely complicated by the federal government's 10-per cent ceiling on wage increases, the president of the Ottawa-based Canadian Construction Association predicted Thursday.

Henry de Puyjalon said that before the guidelines were imposed this month, workers in Ontario and Alberta settled for 20-per cent wage increases that carry into 1976. Yet when contracts expire next year in British Columbia, Quebec, Saskatchewan and the Maritime provinces, workers will be restricted to 10-per cent wage increases.

He doubted these workers would be content with inferior increases.

But, Mr. de Puyjalon said, the nation's construction industry had no choice but to accept the federal guidelines.

"That does not mean that they are complete or perfect," he said. "Unless the program is toughened up and shortened, it will not succeed."

Assets of Bricklin, placed in receivership last month, have already been put up for sale, although negotiations to save the firm are continuing.

Toronto entrepreneur wants to buy Bricklin

LONDON (CP) — George Minden, the Toronto entrepreneur who rescued the British Aston Martin firm from bankruptcy, said Thursday he has been asked to buy Bricklin Canada Ltd., now in receivership.

Mr. Minden said in an interview he is not negotiating to buy the Saint John, N.B., firm but has not rejected the idea of involvement outright.

He said he doesn't know enough about Bricklin's finances or about the controversial gull-winged sports car to decide now.

"I'm sure they've contacted an awful lot of people, and I was one of the ones on the list," he said in an interview. "I'm not negotiating."

He said one problem was how, or whether, the Bricklin operation could be blended with Aston Martin, the luxury car firm he purchased for $2.5 million in partnership with Peter Sprague of Santa Clara, Calif.

Assets of Bricklin, placed in receivership last month, have already been put up for sale, although negotiations to save the firm are continuing.

Ford earnings up

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd. said Thursday consolidated earnings in the third quarter of 1975 were $29.4 million or $3.53 a share compared with $34.8 million or $4.19 a share in the 1974 period.

Consolidated results include the company's Canadian operations and those of its subsidiaries in Australia, South Africa, New Zealand and Singapore.

Earnings based on Canadian third-quarter results were $28.1 million, a decline of 14 per cent from $32.8 million in the third-quarter last year. President Roy Bennett said the profit decrease was attributable primarily to higher labor and material costs which were only partially recovered by price increases.

Consolidated earnings for the first nine months of 1975 were $85.3 million or $10.28 a share, a drop of 32 per cent from $125.6 million and $15.14 a share in 1974.

Stanstead College

By IVY HATCH

This is a very busy week at Stanstead College with sports finals and next week comes the athletic first term assembly. As this is written the final date has not been set for the assembly.

November 1 is the first of the year's dances. Three girls' schools from Montreal have accepted the invitation to attend. Some local girls are also invited by some of the boys here.

Sunday evening, Nov. 2 is the Stanstead College Sunday with the special service taking place that evening at 7:15 p.m. at Centenary Church in the Village.

Oct. 31 Peter Ashworth's Colby House boys are having a Halloween party with games, eats and so forth. There will likely be ghosts about too.

Duncan Graham, staff, was in Boston, Mass., having been named on a committee of NAIS. This is for independent schools of which Stanstead College is one of several in Canada and the US. This was the first meeting since his appointment to the committee. The committee discussed items about the promotion and encouragement of independent schools on global education on a regional basis with comments, suggestions and questions.

Oct. 24 Brian Martin, (staff) and 32 boys travelled by bus to Montreal where they attended a rock concert. A good time was reported by all.

A group of grade 8 students and their teachers recently took advantage of the Eastern Townships environment for a science field trip. Samples of soil, plants, and fungi growth were examined and collected on a climb up the Pinnacle at Baldwin's Mills.

Following a snack at the summit, the group descended and were treated to a tour of Cecil Meade's Philosophical Gardens. Mr. Meade explained that the gardens represented in natural symbols the unity in diversity of man's religious and spiritual development. Both students and teachers were fascinated and a little awed at the man's attempt to further the cause of world peace and understanding.

Following the gardens, the group visited the nearby provincial fish hatchery, then returned to the college having thoroughly enjoyed the fall splendor of the Eastern Townships.

Hope you will read Bill Brock's version of the sports picture the past week-end and will note upcoming games and attend some, or all of them.

Autopsy held following North Hatley boy's death

SHERBROOKE (BS) — An autopsy on the body of Lynn Chute, 17, of North Hatley is being held in Montreal, following his death early Thursday morning at the CHU after an alleged hunting accident.

Following the autopsy, a coroner's inquest will be held in Magog regarding the incident which occurred Tuesday evening in the Township of Hatley.

Quebec Provincial Police could give no further details in the case, other than to say the boy was shot by a 57-year-old Sherbrooke man. Details will be revealed at the inquest. No date has yet been set.

Unconfirmed reports said Lynn was hunting with three companions just north of the Woodland Bay Road turnoff, about three miles south of North Hatley when he was shot by the member of another hunting party.

First aid was administered by Dr. Bruce Fletcher before the boy was taken to the CHU where he died the following night.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Chute of North Hatley.

City company applied for Olympic medallion licence

SHERBROOKE (GA) — In choosing a Swiss firm to strike Olympic medallions, COJO, the Olympic organizing committee, has provoked a Canadian businessman who claims he was misled. According to a Canadian Press story, he alleges irregularities in the awarding of the contract.

John Begg, president of Polytherm Packaging Inc. of Toronto, claims that Maurice Allan, COJO director of licensing has given the names of Deux Chateaux, Swiscon Canada Ltd. and Swiscon Yacht Ltd. of Montreal as winner of the licence to produce the medallions.

Begg, whose firm packages and promotes the official Olympic coins, claims that none of the names of the Swiss company are registered with the federal, Ontario or Quebec government. Begg said his company approached COJO in January with a proposal to market a medallion program which was rejected because, according to COJO officials, the program could hurt the Olympic coin sales.

In September COJO facing diminishing coin sales, asked Canadian firms to submit medallion proposals prior to the selection of the Swiss firm according to Begg. "We would not mind losing to a Canadian company," the company's vice-president Dick MacLaurin said. "But we resent it going outside the country."

O.R. Lombardo, president of Lombardo Mint of Sherbrooke, who was named by Begg as one of the Canadian firms that was bypassed by COJO in the awarding of the contract is out of town on a business trip and not available for comment. However, Richard Hoyer, plant manager, claims there is a good deal of misinterpretation and confusion in the case.

According to Mr. Hoyer, Lombardo Mint had submitted an application for permission and licence to manufacture and market an Olympic medallion or a series of medallions and that this licence had been denied last year. According to Mr. Hoyer, his firm also had asked to be considered by COJO when submitting tenders for awards medals. However, the Sherbrooke-based mint was not asked to submit a tender or asked to submit a proposal, Mr. Hoyer added.

Confusion exists in the reported from Mr. Begg regarding the works, contract and licensing.

A contract awarded by COJO would mean that they have in effect hired the Swiss firm to manufacture a certain number of medallions. If a licence has been granted, it is a result of a firm's application to COJO for permission to manufacture and market a medallion bearing an Olympic theme and to pay COJO an agreed amount of money or percentage of sales as royalty. According to Mr. Hoyer, the medallions referred to are not to be confused with the awards medals but are commemorative souvenirs and collector's items struck in precious and semi-precious metals.

CONGRATULATIONS are extended to W.E. (Ernie) Hodge who is 81 years old today. He lives at 300 Queen St., Sherbrooke.

ASCOT (SB) — Robert Pouliot, one of the three men running in the Township of Ascot for the mayor's office, has dropped out of the race. Mr. Pouliot told the Record that he felt his opponent, Real Rancourt, has a little more knowledge in municipal affairs and is more acquainted with some of the projects started in Ascot Township. Mr. Pouliot also stated that he was asked to resign by certain citizen groups in the township so as not to split the vote against Mayor Eugene St. Jacques between himself and Mr. Rancourt. Mr. Pouliot said he wasn't happy about his decision, but added that it will give him a chance to get better prepared for the next election.

With Mr. Pouliot out of the running, Real Rancourt is left to oppose the man who has been Ascot Township's mayor for the past two years, Eugene St. Jacques. In a telephone interview, Mr. Rancourt stated that his platform for this election was a simple one, primarily keeping in touch with the community and informing members of the community of their rights. He also stated that he is interested in urban development, as long as the environmental aspects are not over looked. "I am most anxious to serve the members of this community," states Mr. Rancourt.

Eugene St. Jacques, present mayor of Ascot Township, promises sensible administration and more contact between council and members of the community, more recreational facilities and street and road improvements. Mr. St. Jacques stands against annexation and against imposing a rental tax.

Voyageur buses back

DRUMMONDVILLE (BP) — Members of the truck drivers, warehousemen and other workers' union (Teamsters local 106) voted Wednesday to ratify an agreement signed between union negotiators and Voyageur Inc., thus avoiding a strike by the firm's bus drivers in the province.

Both bus and parcel service returned to normal at Voyageur depots across Quebec yesterday, following a day of study called by the union to hold the meeting of its members here.

The company said in a statement Wednesday night it apologized to its clients for any inconveniences incurred during the work stoppage Wednesday.

ETRSB plans first aid training for future school bus drivers

LENNOXVILLE (GA) — School bus drivers may soon be required to undergo first aid training, it was revealed at Wednesday night's monthly Eastern Townships Regional School Board meeting.

The new policy, which was unanimously adopted by the board, has been deferred to the transportation committee to implement the new policy as condition of employment for school bus drivers next year.

The Richmond Regional High School playing field is complete and in use at a total expense of $80,224, the board announced. This expense will be part of the current operating budget, without increasing the inadmissible budget. The board's report indicated that some of the costs will be deferred to the 1976-77 school year. A work-study program was adopted by the board whereby students interested in machine shop, welding, business education and professional cooking would undergo practical on-the-job training in area plants and offices.

According to the plan, the student would work normal employee hours at the firm approved by the board giving him or her a better insight into work away from the school environment. The student would receive no wages for this work exposure according to the program. This new concept will be put into effect in schools before Christmas and already new areas of work studies are being explored for future implementation, the report

Hallowe'en and UNICEF

Goblins, ghosts and other assorted characters will be on the loose tonight trick or treating for candies and for UNICEF. Hallowe'en parties have been the order of the day this past week and will be climaxed by tonight's fun.

Motorists should be particularly watchful while driving to prevent hitting any youngsters darting across streets who forget to be careful in their youthful enthusiasm. Parents should also be advised to carefully supervise their youngsters door-to-door visits and also see that masks do not hinder children's sight.

People called upon are urged to give generously to the UNICEF fund. Children have been hard at work in elementary schools in the Townships preparing the fund boxes. They will be out on the streets from 3 to 8 p.m. today to raise money for the annual drive.

This will be the 20th consecutive Hallowe'en that Canadian youngsters trick or treat for UNICEF. The money they have collected has grown from a trickle to a flood, but more is always needed. Indeed, the time has come to set new records and reach new levels of support.

The campaign for the United Nations Children's Fund reminds us of some important truths.

The economic problems we in Canada are encountering have been multiplied a thousandfold for those who can least afford them. Hundreds of millions of children in the developing world are in desperate need today. Millions driven off the land are migrating to cities unprepared to receive them. Reports grow of a regression in basic health services, of half-constructed schools abandoned, of diseases that were once thought conquered reappearing because of overcrowding, malnutrition and a collapse of sanitation.

In these circumstances, the support that we Canadians can give to UNICEF to turn this grim tide is all the more needed, all the more significant and all the more urgent.

This Hallowe'en, remember UNICEF. Open your doors to the little witches, goblins, elves and imps holding out the familiar orange and black boxes for UNICEF. Open your hearts to the childhood of the human race. There is no better hope for the future.

Opinion from the French language press

This is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Montreal La Presse: Many provincial governments have shown concern about Ottawa's credibility in connection with the recently announced wage and price restraints.

The provinces expressed this concern through their respective finance ministers, gathered in Ottawa recently to discuss the measures.

Credibility is essential to the success of this project.

Prime Minister Trudeau, Finance Minister Donald Macdonald and Jean-Luc Pepin, president of the controls board, have said the measures will not work without the co-operation of the Canadian public.

Management on the whole has indicated a willingness to go along with the controls but there has been a decidedly negative reaction in labor circles, and this is a bad omen.

Union federations have accused the government of aiming more at price controls than at wage controls at a time when salaries were just beginning to catch up with inflation.

Large corporations, the unions charge, have been primarily responsible for inflation and they have had time to benefit from the upward spiral of prices.

Union skepticism also grows from the fact the controls appear to affect wages more closely than prices. The unions argue that a higher cost of living spurs larger wage demands and not the other way around.

The government expects that within two or three years the public will eliminate habits in existence since the end of the Second World War in the Western world—a desire for wages to surpass production, prompting the inflation which we now are going through.

That is a lot to ask. Bad habits are picked up more easily than good ones.

We also know a bad example always comes from above, where bigger is the key word, rather than smaller.

The government has given itself an ambitious and perilous task—to change in a brief time the attitudes that have taken a quarter of a century to develop.

In order to do this, Ottawa will have to show a little more honesty and candor than it has up to now—Marcel Adam (Oct. 24)

Montreal Le Jour: The October crisis of 1970 is an important part of Quebec's sad and confused history. The kidnapping of British diplomat James Richard (Jasper) Cross and Labor Minister Pierre Laporte plunged the nation into a despondency unseen since the deserters' crisis of 1942 or the 1917 war measures.

The behavior of the federal and Quebec governments, the attitude of police and the presence of armed troops on Quebec soil also contributed to this tragedy.

The recent series of articles by Pierre Vallieres in this newspaper... show beyond a shadow of a doubt that the true story of the October crisis has not yet been told.

Official denials do nothing to dissuade us of the need to have the full story come out sooner or later.

In the name of justice, honor and this Confederation so dear to Mr. Bourassa and to Mr. Trudeau, the truth must emerge.

Who benefitted from this crime? It would appear that the Liberal parties of Quebec and Ottawa did.

The crisis upset opposition forces to the extent that they were virtually inoperative for long months. It took more than a year for the Parti Quebecois and its supporters to get over the trauma of the crisis. We are not talking here of an insignificant group—the PQ is the most important party after the Liberals. History is beginning to show, bit by bit, that if the Liberals did not stage the kidnappings, they certainly took advantage of them to break the PQ, squash all opposition movements and set back the course of constitutional changes that had become necessary.

The articles in Le Jour raise 40 important questions, and that is too many. Le Jour demands a complete and impartial inquiry into the October crisis, so that all Quebecers may know what happened, and so that the interests of justice and history be served.

This inquiry has never been carried out and that is why so many questions linger and too many details remain obscure.

Consequently, the governments in Quebec and Ottawa have a clear duty to bring the truth to light. —Yves Michaud (Oct. 25)

Montreal Matin: A commentary in the sports section of Saturday's paper... has probably caused many sports and Olympic fans a great deal of concern.

Our colleague started by depicting the chaos on the Olympic construction sites and then asked the question currently in many Montrealers' minds—do we keep working to present the Games or do we tell the entire planet that our organizational skills are bankrupt?

In my opinion, the answer is clear—the Games will go on as scheduled and Montreal will enjoy a rousing success. Why?

Because Mayor Jean Drapeau does not seem at all perturbed by the sporadic work stoppages on the Games sites.

When all goes well for Mr. Drapeau, he keeps quiet. When things go badly, he still keeps quiet but he makes his influence felt throughout the dominant political structures.

And when things go very badly, he reacts firmly and publicly. He will denounce left and right, but with a total control of his actions. We should remember that it is Mr. Drapeau's soul that gives life to the large enterprise that is the Games.

There is no activity these days from the mayor's office, and this is a good sign. What is Mr. Drapeau's secret? Simply, he administers Montreal as if it were a large corporation without competition and with customers who always pay up.

The Games require a lot of money, but no matter—Montrealers have it. Completion of the Games requires that workers double their efforts, but they'll do it in return for double the salary.

Montreal has an appointment with the universe next year, and we'll be there. We'll be there because Mayor Drapeau does nothing half way. He'll go whole hog, and so will we.

But undoubtedly, it would be better if the mayor could find a solution to the current difficulties soon. If he waits any longer, workers and ratepayers will have to swallow double portions. —Andre Beauvais (Oct. 27)

Sadat takes peace message to America

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Anwar Sadat of Egypt is taking his peace message directly to the American people—but in words carefully chosen to be heard by the neighbors back home.

In essence, Sadat's message is that only the United States has the power to compel Israel to make concessions within the framework of Middle East peace negotiations.

That being said, observers here feel that Sadat—by example—is urging Syria and other Arab states to forge closer ties with the U.S. rather than relying on questionable Soviet Union influence in this regard.

Before starting off on a speaking swing from Washington to New York City, Chicago, Houston, Jacksonville and back to Washington, Sadat said:

"I am putting my case before the American people."

LOOKS TO U.S. To forge closer ties with the U.S., Sadat knows that Egypt must look to the U.S.—rather than the Soviet Union—to modify the Egyptian Armed Forces and replace losses from the 1973 war.

Such a program carries a price tag estimated at $5 billion and no matter how much of this is promised to Cairo by the administration of President Ford, Sadat knows he must also convince Congress.

To that end, following his sweep through the U.S., Sadat will address a joint meeting of Congress in the hope that he can persuade the men who hold the purse strings that it is in the interest of the U.S. to become Egypt's military and economic ally.

Sadat argues that before peace can be cemented in the Middle East, there must be another Golan Heights disengagement between Syria and Israel, followed by the reconvening of the Geneva peace talks.

He reiterates that the Palestine Liberation Organization must be accepted at Geneva as an equal partner.

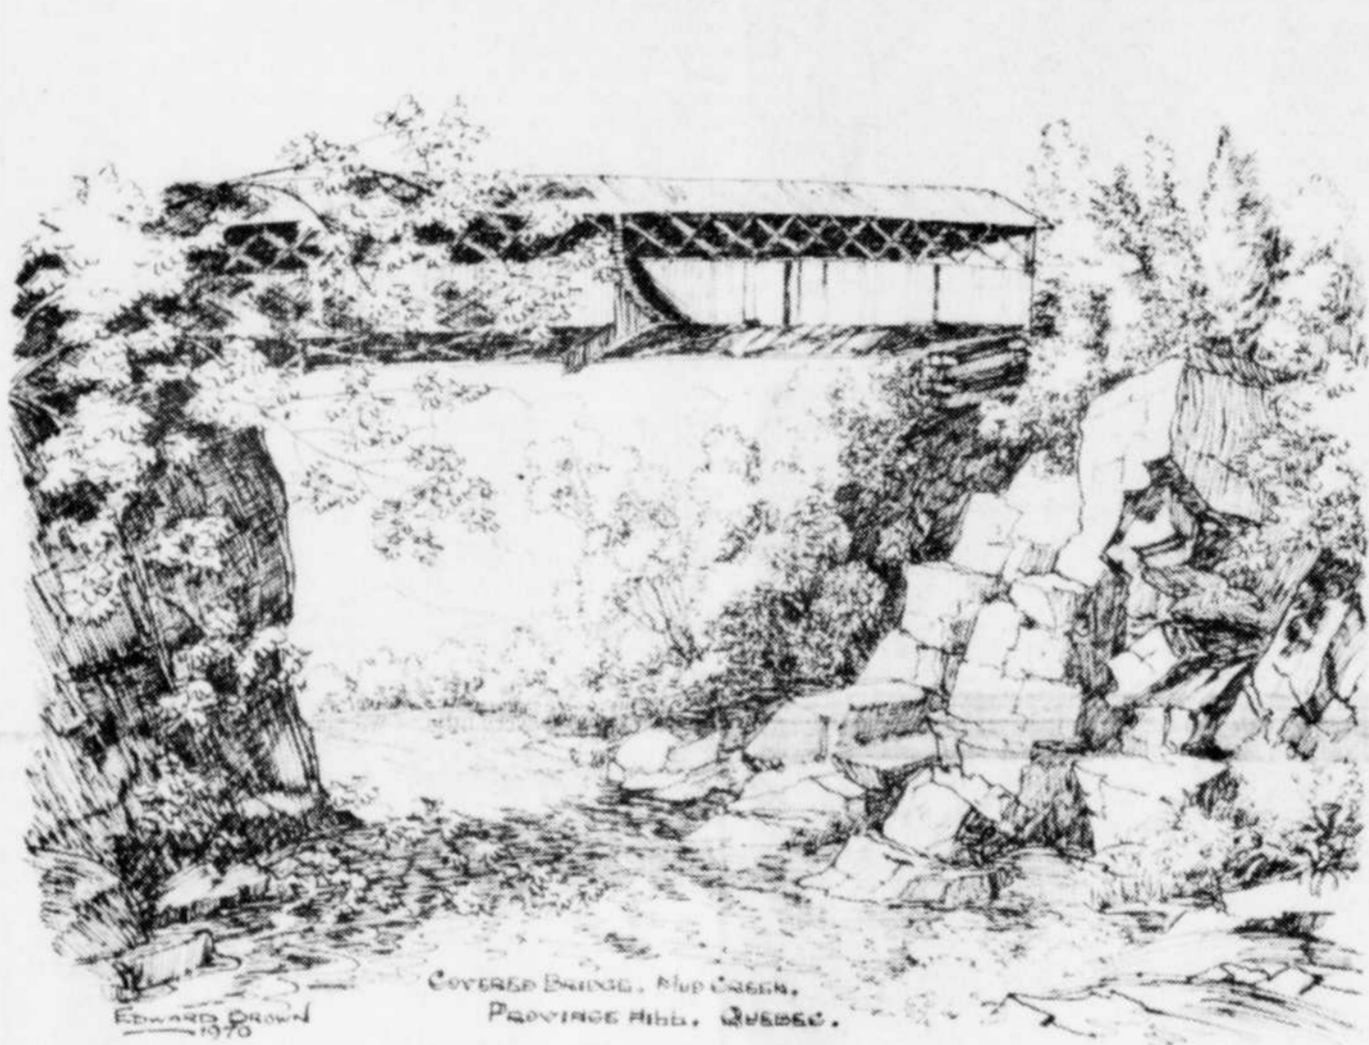

It is his contention that only the U.S. has the influence to pry such concessions from Israel.

MAY GROW IMPATIENT Observers here feel Sadat is gambling that the U.S. will not go along indefinitely with a Middle East stalemate which is costing her $2 billion a year to maintain.

If Sadat is right, they say, the U.S. may be expected to bring pressure to bear on Israel for further concessions than have already been made.

At any rate, the campaign has begun in earnest to project a favorable, swinging image of Egypt to the American people.

In the New York Times, published in the city which officially snubbed Sadat, there are nearly three full pages of advertisements placed by the Arab Republic of Egypt with messages from the ministries of housing and reconstruction, insurance and tourism.

Unsung heroes of Watergate

WASHINGTON — Still hidden in secret grand jury transcripts and locked prosecutors' files is the dramatic story of how the Watergate case was broken.

We have spent weeks interviewing FBI sources, government prosecutors and defense attorneys to get the details that never came out at the public hearings.

The real heroes of Watergate, we have concluded, were the FBI agents who wouldn't let the White House obstruct their investigation and the original Watergate prosecutors who painstakingly fitted the jigsaw pieces into a criminal conspiracy.

The three unsung prosecutors — Earl Silbert, Seymour Glazer and Donald Campbell — handed the case on a silver platter to the special prosecutor and his staff of 90.

They had no way of knowing in June, 1972 that President Nixon personally had issued the order to cover up the trail of break-ins, bag jobs, forgeries, frame-ups, rough-ups and buggings, which we now know as Watergate.

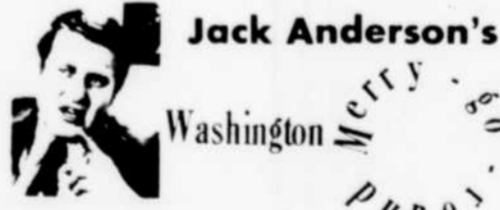

The FBI agents, therefore, encountered incredible obstacles from the moment they started down the Watergate trail. The key witnesses either lied outright or withheld vital information.

As an example, the G-men for weeks couldn't identify the two chief culprits, G. Gordon Liddy and E. Howard Hunt, who were known to them only as George Leonard and Ed Warren.

The notorious pair were well known, of course, inside the White House, which paid them blackmail to lay low. The CIA, which provided the phony identities, also knew them.

Late in the morning of the Watergate arrests, Liddy sought out then-Attorney General Richard Kleindienst on the Burning Tree golf course. There the Attorney General actually met one of the ringleaders whom the FBI was seeking.

On July 6 the CIA finally delivered a memo to the acting FBI director, Pat Gray, revealing that Liddy and Hunt had been furnished false identities. Yet Gray locked the memo in his safe, without breathing a word of it to his own agents.

Jack Anderson's

Not until November, 1972, did the prosecutors learn the true identities of George Leonard and Ed Warren. And it was April, 1973, before they found out about Liddy's meeting with Kleindienst on the golf course.

Meanwhile, John Dean telephoned Gray from the White House daily to find what progress the FBI was making. On several occasions, Dean slipped through a private door in Gray's office to pick up FBI teletypes, transcripts and raw reports on the Watergate investigation.

Dean also prepared White House witnesses for their FBI interviews and then sat in on the questioning. And for awhile, he was permitted to attend interviews that the prosecutors conducted.

The prosecutors also gave their superior, Assistant Attorney General Henry Peterson, progress reports. He passed on the key developments to Dean and, sometimes, to the President himself.

Thus, the White House knew every step the prosecutors were taking and, therefore, could keep ahead of them. But the President's men did not reckon with the determination of a judge named John Sirica, the diligence of the press nor the doggedness of the prosecutors and G-men.

Waterbugger James McGord, under threat of a long prison term, was the first to break. When one of the White House conspirators, Jeb Stuart Magruder, received a lofty new appointment, McGord complained bitterly to John Dean "I'm going to prison and Magruder's getting his picture in the papers."

To save himself, McGord began to spill what he knew. The prosecutors immediately summoned Liddy, who was tight-lipped as ever about his Watergate role. But they deliberately detained him and engaged him in idle conversation.

This generated alarmed whispers inside the White House that the unpredictable Liddy was talking. A panicky Magruder flew to Bermuda in search of a lawyer who had been recommended. And the President dispatched Dean to Camp David to write a Watergate report.

The cool, calculating Dean suspected the President was setting him up. For if Dean committed the White House cover story to writing, he might make himself the prime scapegoat. He, therefore, put nothing on paper. Instead, he telephoned his lawyer, Thomas Hogan, from Camp David.

Hogan recommended an able trial lawyer, Charles Shaffer, who met them secretly in an out-of-the-way apartment in the Washington suburbs. It took Dean seven hours to summarize the conspiracy.

"It has to end," he concluded. "I'm ready to end it."

"Don't run into the machine guns yet," Shaffer advised. He sought out the prosecutors to see what kind of a deal he could make. The chief prosecutor, Earl Silbert, refused to grant Dean immunity. Arrangements were made, nevertheless, for Dean to tell his story so the prosecutors could judge what kind of a witness he would make.

There followed a series of secret meetings with the prosecutors, sometimes lasting most of the night, in Shaffer's Rockville, Md., office.

Magruder, meanwhile, tried to lie to his lawyer, James Sharp, who finally told him bluntly "Jeb, pretty soon you're going to have to tell me the truth."

When Magruder finally told the truth, Sharp advised him "Jeb, you've got no choice. We should go to the prosecutors and make the best deal we can."

One by one, Silbert hauled the witnesses before the grand jury. Before he was finished, the Watergate case had been cracked.

SWEETSBURG — What is thought to be the branch of an active organization that has headquarters in Montreal, which occupies itself with the illegal distilling of alcohol, was discovered yesterday at Fulford, Que., by High Constable St. Martin, of this place, and two men are being held in connection with the affair.

Having been advised a few days ago that two peculiar characters were prowling around, High Constable St. Martin conducted an investigation, which yesterday resulted in his going to Fulford in the company of two preventive officers and making the discovery.

The still was found in the cellar of an old abandoned school house, which has not been occupied for some time. Over four hundred gallons of mash were found on the premises, but no whiskey was in evidence, the day's output apparently having been disposed of. According to High Constable St. Martin, the still had a capacity of between two and five hundred gallons of whiskey per day.

William O. Douglas: guardian of liberty

William Orville Douglas, one of the most controversial and consistently liberal members of the U.S. Supreme Court, was born in 1897 in the town of Maine, Minn.

After graduating from Whitman College and Columbia Law School, Douglas worked for the Department of Commerce until 1936, when President Roosevelt appointed him to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Soon after his appointment to the Supreme Court in 1939, Douglas established himself as a major judicial influence, especially in the areas of corporate finance and civil liberties.

In a majority opinion in 1949, Douglas declared that free speech must be guaranteed even to a speaker who "stirs the public to anger, invites disputes, or creates a disturbance." In fact, Douglas suggested, the creation of such conditions might just be the fundamental purpose of free speech.

Douglas was an ardent defender of procedural safeguards for persons accused of crimes. "It took centuries to evolve the conception of the fair trial we have today," he wrote in one of his many books. "It was against a background poignant with memories of evil procedures that our Constitution was drawn."

During the McCarthy era, when the fear of communism ran rampant through the country, Douglas deplored what he called "the black silence of fear." "The Communist threat inside the country," he wrote in 1952, "has been magnified and exalted far beyond its realities

Once we could safely explore to the edges of a problem, challenge orthodoxy without qualms, and run the gamut of ideas in search of solutions. Once we had confidence in each other. Now there is suspicion.

In the landmark Furman v. Georgia case in 1972, which held the death penalty to be unconstitutional, Douglas declared that capital punishment discriminated against minorities and the poor.

Less well known than his defense of civil liberties was his progressive attitude toward American business. He wrote several dissents in antitrust cases, arguing that the Supreme Court tended more to support monopoly than to oppose it.

Douglas' liberal views frequently angered conservative politicians and, in 1970, then House Republican leader Gerald Ford attempted to mobilize impeachment proceedings against Douglas, declaring that an impeachable offense "is whatever a majority of the House of Representatives considers it to be."

But a House Judiciary subcommittee found that there was no basis for impeachment and Ford's efforts failed.

The author of more than a dozen books, Douglas was an ardent conservationist and outdoorsman. He spent many of his holidays hiking and mountain climbing in remote areas of the world, recounting many of his experiences in his writings.

Stricken by infantile paralysis as a child, Douglas took up running to strengthen his weakened body.

In a recent interview, he said: "I realize that we don't know our limitations. There really is no barrier except that which you make for yourself."

IN 1970, Justice Douglas avoided impeachment when the House Judiciary Committee declared that "neither a whitewash nor a witch-hunt would take place." Wife, Cathleen, at his side (right), he was again a newsmaker when he set a record for service on the Supreme Court. On Oct. 30, 1973, Douglas had served for 34 years, 196 days.

AS A YOUNGSTER, Douglas was stricken by polio. To rebuild his body, he took up sports. Above, Douglas as a member of the Yakima, High School basketball team.

Day of rest in a nation on guard

By David Hendin
(Second in a Series)

KIRON, Israel — (NEA) — The "weekend" for most Israelis lasts a little more than a day, but they make the most of it.

Sabbath begins with sundown Friday for Jews around the world. But in Israel the entire nation is caught up in the magnificent slowdown of life signifying "the day of rest." Shops and stores close early Friday afternoon, and by sundown buses, cinemas and nightclubs have shut their doors for 24 hours.

On a recent visit to Israel, two friends and I were invited as Sabbath houseguests to the apartment of my distant Israeli cousins, Motke, Tova and their children.

Motke is a senior officer in Israel's army. Both he and his wife served in Israel's Irgun underground organization prior to 1948 when Israel gained her independence.

They live in Kiron, a pleasant residential suburb built on sand dunes on the outskirts of Tel Aviv. The middle-class area is a short distance from Savayon — or, as Tova calls it, "Snobion" — Israel's answer to Scarsdale and Grosse Pointe.

Wherever we go this Sabbath morning Motke has a personal story to tell — here is the road that his unit took in one of his nation's wars.

We visited the site of Modin, the biblical town in which the revolt of the Maccabees began in the second century B.C.

We visited ruins of several ancient forts and towns as well as a perfectly preserved mausoleum built 2,000 years ago.

At each site Motke quoted from stories in the Bible referring to each place. The Bible, after all, is Israel's chief historical reference book — required reading for every student in school. And although many Israelis, like my cousins, are not religious, traditional Judaism is simply a part of their daily lives.

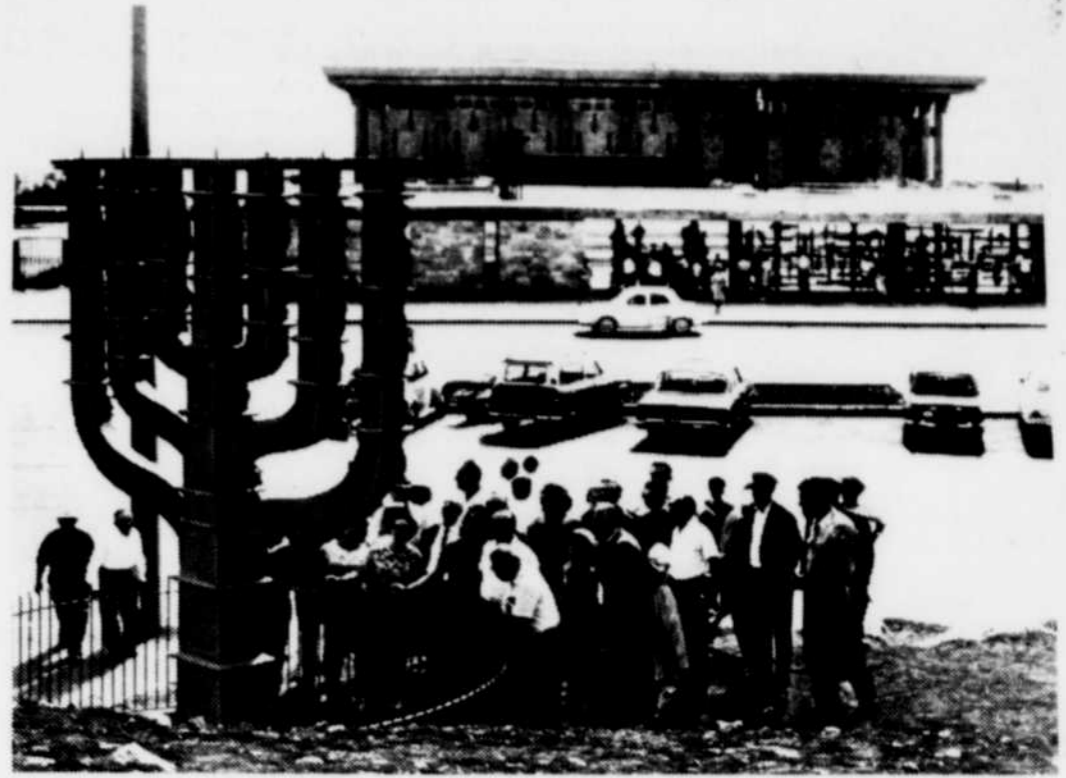

After a few hours of touring we drove to the home of Motke's sister, who lives in the town of Petah Tikvah, one of modern Israel's first settlements. Sitting in the cool parlor of her home we nibbled from huge bowls of tiny plums gathered from trees in the backyard. Israelis eat an incredible amount of fresh fruits and vegetables.

We talked about what we had seen and what we would see. We talked about politics, about nook and cranny of his nation, and he quite literally does. One of Israel's favorite evening pastimes is dropping by for visits with close friends — and when people have fought in four wars together there are many close friends indeed.

Early Saturday morning we are awakened to a huge Israeli breakfast of vegetables, cheeses, eggs, olives and fresh bread.

By 8 a.m. we are on the road — Motke has promised to take us touring. Although Israel is continually invaded by steady streams of foreign tourists, her most avid tourists are her own citizens. My cousin prides himself on knowing every little

ALTHOUGH THE PROMISED LAND for a steady stream of foreign visitors, Israel's most avid tourists are her own citizens. Here visitors gather around the seven-branched candelabra, symbol of Israel, before the Knesset, or parliament, in Jerusalem.

Israel's Prime Minister Rabin (gaining in popularity), and about Henry Kissinger (not a favorite here) and about the possibilities of peace in the future ("only a strong Israel can maintain peace").

A car's horn beeped outside and somebody went out to see who it was. Soon a young man in his early 20s entered the room in a wheelchair. His name was Mozya, and he, too, was a cousin of mine.

Mozya had been a paratrooper during the 1973 Yom Kippur War. He finished the war after fighting in Sinai with his unit, and went home. He was called back to serve during the "war of attrition" with Syria in the North. One day Mozya and four other soldiers were in a bunker that took a direct hit by a Syrian artillery shell.

His four colleagues were killed and Mozya was wounded — he lost both legs, one arm and much of the sight of one eye. One side of his face is still dotted with tiny shrapnel fragments.

Today Mozya drives his own car with special controls, and is learning to walk on artificial legs. Motke tells us that in spite of his ordeal Mozya's mental health has remained good, although in the last few weeks he has been depressed.

"He has enough to be depressed about," Motke says. "But he will be better. We take very good care of these boys."

As we begin the drive home Motke uses the two-way radio in his car to check with army headquarters. Even on the Sabbath Israel's army must maintain its watch.

DOES THE Q.A.P.S.B. SUPPORT THE NEEDS OF YOUR CHILD?

Government Commission on Education says: Mar. 1975

Quality education is 21 hours at elementary and 16 hours at secondary level, with a maximum class size of 25 students. (This means the teacher has more time to work with your child on an individual basis.)

The introduction of specialists can release teachers' time to permit them to concentrate on other professional activities and to improve the quality of their teaching.

Col. Sheldrick, as Chairman of Q.A.P.S.B. says: Oct. 1975

Quality education is 27 - 45 minute periods per week with no reduction in class size. (Average class size is now 31 with many classes numbering 38 to 40 students.)

The use of specialists in Physical Education, second language instruction, etc., is diminishing the quality of Protestant education.

Afternoon Unit meets

STANSTEAD — The Centenary United church Afternoon Unit members gathered for the October meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Merriman at Stanstead. They welcomed a guest, Mrs. Ruth Bliss. All repeated the UCW Purpose and Mrs. Merriam gave a reading on the Thanksgiving theme. Reports were heard and communications given attention. The Allegro Unit have invited the Afternoon group to their open meeting on November 11 at the church hall when Mr. Meesen of the Butters Home, Austin, will be guest speaker. His topic will be changes at the Home and he will invite questions from the floor. This being the first meeting of this Unit since last May, all heard a report by Mrs. Mabel Brown on the June rally. Mrs. H.H. Aikman read an item "Jesus was a Feminist" from the New York Times and this was discussed.

Tomifobia at 2:00 p.m. Subject to be: Poor Children, from a paper of the National Council of Welfare about children in poverty in Canada. The meeting adjourned and Mrs. Merriman served refreshments.

UCW meeting

LENNOXVILLE — Unit 3, Lennoxville United Church Women met in the church lounge on Oct. 21st. The president, Helen McElrea, opened the meeting and called on Edith Bennett to take the devotionals, in the absence of Vivian Aird. Since this is the 60th anniversary of the founding of CGIT she took as her subject their four-fold "Purpose" which proves to be just as suitable to the mature women of the UCW as it has been for teenagers. This was followed by the UCW Purpose in union.

The secretary, Margaret Dale, read the minutes and called the roll with 26 members responding. Lillian Lennon, treasurer, was able to report that the rummage sale had been an unqualified success. Members are reminded that this Unit's financial year ends on Nov. 30 so any gifts for the year should be in by the next meeting. Helen Ross, who is taking over convenership for the Christmas Bazaar from Vivian Aird, reviewed her plans to date, noting everything seems to be well in hand. This event is taking place on Nov. 26.

Scotstown
 Week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Matheson were Mr. and Mrs. Ian Matheson and Robert, and David Matheson, Montreal and Mrs. Donald Matheson, Lennoxville. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schieder, Karyn, Kevin and David of Beaconsfield were week-end visitors of Mr. and Mrs. K.R. MacLeod. INVERNESS

C.W. McVetty
 453-2266
 Messrs Jean Tetreault, Paul Simoneau and Roland Pomerleau, set out recently as licensed hunters in search of moose, but, unfortunately, they lost their camper and all their equipment in a fire of undetermined origin. At the moment, it is not clear whether the moose planned this move or not. Perhaps the moose have found out, like some famous generals in the past, that to attack is the best defence? Better luck next time, Nimrods.

St. Andrew's Church was tastefully decorated on Thanksgiving Sunday with many fine specimens of fruit and vegetables. An outstanding sermon was heard from Mr. Young, who laid stress on the fact that thankfulness to our Creator should not be confined to the harvest season, but should be expressed sincerely, at all times, to the One to whom we owe so much, and traced thankfulness, thus expressed, back to the time of King David. Miss Kimberley Young delighted all with her rendition of a solo, accompanied by Mrs. Young as organist. Beavers all ready for Montreal here tonight

Sherbrooke Beavers will be out to improve their standing in the Western Division of the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League commencing this evening at 8:00 p.m. at the Sports Palace.

The locals open their home-and-home series tonight against the Montreal Juniors with the second tilt of the week-end slated Sunday evening at the Montreal Forum. It is booked for 7:30 p.m.

Following these two games the Beavers tangle with Chicoutimi in a rare Monday evening fixture and then they are at home Friday night against the Hull Festivals. The Chicoutimi game is the only one on tap for the Delage squad during the week.

The Beavers hold down first spot in their Division with a total of 21 points, two more than the Cornwall Royals. In third spot

Montreal has amassed 16 points and will be out to try and improve their position in the race with a couple of wins over the Beavers. The battle for honors in the Eastern Division is a little closer as only four points separate the top four clubs. Three Rivers is in front with 12 points followed by Shawinigan with 11 and Chicoutimi and Sorel are deadlocked with 10 each. Quebec Remparts are in the cellar with only seven points for their games.

Coach Jacques Laperriere will no doubt have his full squad on hand for the important week-end double feature against the Beavers. This will be the first visit of the Juniors to Sherbrooke since the schedule commenced. In a pre-season tilt the Beavers pulled out with the victory. Coach Delage's squad has held the opposition to 45 goals while chalking up 83, high in the league. Montreal, on the other hand has allowed 55 while potting only 72 for their 12 games played. They have seven wins, three losses and two ties for their efforts. The only serious injury in the Sherbrooke camp is Joe Carlevalle, who has been sidelined for the past few weeks. His case is still in the hands of the doctor and he may be on the sidelines for a little longer.

Jere Gillis is the other doubtful starter and his case will be decided just prior to game time. The rest of the team is in good shape and just rearing to get back in action.

Coach Delage put his team through a workout last evening in preparation for tonight's tilt with the Juniors. The boys pulled through their hard game with Hull last Sunday in fair shape and seem to be all set for tonight. Robert Desormeaux and Daniel Chicoine are beginning to come through as expected, stated Coach Delage yesterday afternoon following the workout. "In fact the whole club is beginning to play better sound all-around hockey. Their defensive system is coming and at the same time the team is scoring goals and that is what counts," added Coach Delage.

Against Montreal tonight they face two top scorers in Norman Dupont and Garth McGuigan. Last season Daniel Chicoine had the job of covering Dupont and he did a very good job which means Coach Delage will be using him at the same job again.

There is a possibility that Guy Bouchard of the Granby Vics will be the second goalie this evening. As for Richard Sirois no club has so far made any requests and the Beavers are waiting in order to complete a deal.

Royals win, tie Beavers for top spot

Cornwall Royals moved into a first-place West Division tie with Sherbrooke Beavers, rebounding for a 7-1 victory over Quebec Remparts in a Quebec Major Junior Hockey League game Thursday night.

In other action, Hull Festivals edged Sorel Black Hawks 5-4.

The Royals have 21 points on a 10-3-1 won-lost-tied record. Sherbrooke is 10-2-1.

Denis Turcotte gave the Remparts a 1-0 lead early in the first period at Cornwall, but Ed Clarey, with the first of his two goals, tied the score at 19:51. Pierre Brassard fired the winner at 5:35 of the second period. With an assist on Clarey's first goal, Brassard took over the points leadership with 30 on 19 goals and 11 assists, one point ahead of Normand Dupont of Montreal Juniors.

Clarey and Bill Smith scored Cornwall goals later in the second period before Gord Botting, Bill Wells and Jeff Allan wrapped it up in the third. Nelson Burton's two goals, including the winner at 4:31 of the third period, lifted the Festivals past the Hawks at Hull.

Denis Pomerleau, Glen Sharpley and Ric Garcia also scored for the winners, while Gary Platt with two goals and Lucien de Blois and Alain Chaput with singles replied for Sorel.

Johnny Bucyk joins 500 Club

Johnny Bucyk joined one of hockey's most exclusive clubs Thursday night.

The 40-year-old Edmonton native became the seventh player to score 500 National Hockey League goals, joining Gordie Howe, Bobby Hull, Maurice (Rocket) Richard, Frank Mahovlich, Phil Esposito and Jean Beliveau.

Bucyk scored his goal for Boston against St. Louis Blues in the first period of a game the Bruins eventually won 3-2. His team-mates leaped over the boards to congratulate him. "I'm glad it's over," Bucyk said. "I've really been pushing it, I wanted it so badly."

"I'm glad it turned out to be a big goal, one that helped us."

In Thursday's other NHL games, Philadelphia Flyers beat Toronto Maple Leafs 6-2. Washington Capitals stopped Kansas City Scouts 6-2. Vancouver Canucks tied Buffalo Sabres 4-4 and Los Angeles Kings blanked Pittsburgh Penguins 4-0.

BEGAN AT DETROIT
Acquired by Boston in 1957

after two seasons with the Detroit Red Wings, Bucyk scored his fifth goal of the year and the 500th of his career on a 25-foot shot at 12:52 of the first period.

One of the St. Louis scorers was centre Derek Sanderson, acquired earlier in the day New York Rangers.

While the debate over the Ontario government's crackdown in hockey violence continued in Toronto, the Leafs and Flyers had a row in Philadelphia. The Flyers had a comfortable 6-1 lead in the third period when both benches emptied and at least three different fights broke out. Toronto's Ian Turnbull and Philadelphia's Jack McIlhargey drew game misconducts.

There had been two other fights earlier in the game. Toronto coach Red Kelly was as distressed by the Flyers' style of play as by the outcome of the game. "We did all right in the game and the fisticuffs," said Kelly. "But where we didn't do all right was in slashing at the ankles, at the knees, at the elbows. "When you slash at somebody's ankles and knees, you are taking away their livelihood."

Philadelphia captain Bobby Clarke rejected Kelly's criticism.

"He's (Kelly's) a loser," said the Philadelphia captain. "He didn't see us crying."

TWO FOR BRIDGMAN
After a 1-1 first period, the Flyers took charge of the game with second-period goals by Mel Bridgman, who added another goal in the third period, Bill Barber and Bob Kelly.

Toronto goalie Wayne Thomas, whose 43 saves highlighted a 3-2 win over Buffalo on Wednesday night, had 41 saves at Philadelphia. Flyer goalie Wayne Stephenson faced only 21 shots.

Tommy Williams scored two goals and goalie Bernie Wolfe made his NHL debut with Washington, blocking 30 shots as the Capitals won their second road game of the season, doubling last year's total.

Lally Lalonde fired by Hull

HULL, Que. (CP) — Hull Festivals of the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League fired Lally Lalonde as coach Wednesday and appointed Gaston Desloes of the Festivals B team as interim coach.

Team president Paul Grant said he "thought the team wasn't responding to his coaching. The hitting has been absent in recent games and Hull hockey fans demand real tough, physical hockey."

The Ontario government announced Tuesday a crackdown on violence in hockey. Earlier this season, Lalonde threatened to resign because of violence in QMJHL games and said league officials and team coaches have to accept a greater responsibility for controlling players.

Grant said he did not want a coach encouraging fights but he wanted the players "to make contact when they're checking, slamming the opponents into the boards."

Hull has a 5-9 won-lost record this season and only defending league champion Sherbrooke Beavers have drawn more fans. Lalonde said he has felt since the late pre-season that the team owners were looking for a new coach. He said his threat to resign because of the violence hastened his departure.

Grant said there was a lack of communication between Lalonde and the players. "There was poor rapport. I think he frightened the kids with his methods. I know some threatened to leave the club."

Hull has had four coaches in its last three years in the league. Lalonde joined the club last January.

Lalonde said he has felt since the late pre-season that the team owners were looking for a new coach. He said his threat to resign because of the violence hastened his departure.

Grant said there was a lack of communication between Lalonde and the players. "There was poor rapport. I think he frightened the kids with his methods. I know some threatened to leave the club."

Rogers, Burden reach finals

MONTREAL (CP) — Johnny Rodgers, wide receiver-running back of Montreal Alouettes, and Willie Burden, star runner of Calgary Stampeders, are the respective Eastern and Western Football Conference finalists for the status of most outstanding player in the Canadian Football League.

Results of second-round balloting for the Canadian Schenley Awards were announced Thursday.

Finalists as Canadian player of the year are runner-receiver Jim Foley of Ottawa Rough Riders in the EFC and Tom Forzani, wide receiver with Calgary.

Rogers was a first-round offensive lineman nominee against Ottawa's Tom centre Bob Swift, defensive back Ted Dushinski of Saskatchewan and wide receiver John Konihowski of the Eskimos.

In the EFC rookie balloting, Clements got past wide receivers L. J. Clayton of the Argonauts and Joe Petty of Montreal and running back Angelo Santucci of Hamilton. Cameron advanced ahead of Beaird, defensive end Jesse O'Neal of Saskatchewan, halfback Vernon Roberson of Calgary and defensive back Pete Lavorato of Edmonton.

DUNK LEADS FIELD
SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Australian Billy Dunk led an international field in the Australian Open golf championship Thursday with a record seven-under-par 65 in the first round. Also under Australian David Graham's record of 67 on the Australian Golf Club course were Fred Clark of the United States and Australian amateur Eric Couper, with 66s. Jack Nicklaus matched the record with a 67, followed by fellow American John Toepel with a 68.

Rogers was a finalist in last year's balloting for most outstanding player, losing to Eskimos quarterback Tom Wilkinson. Burden is the CFL's leading rusher this year, with 1,658 yards. He has eight touchdowns rushing and leads the WFC with a total of 13.

Rogers beat out Corrigall, flanker-defensive back Garney Henley of Hamilton Tiger-Cats and running back Art Green of Ottawa in the EFC. Burden won the WFC nod over Baker, wide receiver George McGowan of Edmonton, who was the 1973 winner, offensive back Tom Campana of Saskatchewan Roughriders and running back Steve Beaird of Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

FOLEY ADVANCED in the Canadian category ahead of Corrigall, tight end Peter Dalla Riva of Montreal and wide receiver Terry Evanshen of Hamilton. Competing with Forzani were Baker, Winnipeg

Joe Daley posts his third shutout in four games as Jets blank Stingers 4-0

Joe Daley is on a shutout binge, but he won't take any credit.

The Winnipeg goalie recorded his third shutout in four games Thursday night as the Jets blanked Cincinnati Stingers 4-0 in a Western Hockey Association game.

"All the defencemen are playing super," Daley said. "Everyone on the team is playing as a unit and they're all a big part of this club. Last year we lacked that togetherness at times."

The win increased Winnipeg's lead over second-place Quebec Nordiques to four points in the Canadian Division standings. The Jets have won seven of nine starts and outscored the opposition 43-16.

In Thursday's other games, Calgary Cowboys downed Indianapolis Racers 7-5. Phoenix Roadrunners edged Denver Spurs 3-2 and Houston Aeros stopped San Diego Mariners 4-2.

PRAISES GOALIE

Winnipeg coach Bobby Kromm said Cincinnati goaltender Norm Lapointe played very well, especially in the first period.

"But it was just a matter of keeping hammering away," he said. "Without great goaltending at their end of the rink, the game could have been out of hand earlier."

"Defensively, our guys are playing for Joe. When you're up 3-0, they're just trying to protect the shutout."

There was no renewal of the violence in the last Winnipeg-Cincinnati game that led to a one-game strike by Winnipeg's Bobby Hull.

Hull sat out one game to protest increasing violence in hockey, saying that an eye injury in a fight with three Stingers was the last straw.

Hull, Peter Sullivan, Anders Hedberg and Norm Beaudin were the Winnipeg scorers. Daley stopped 27 shots.

SCORES THREE

Danny Lawson scored three goals and Don McLeod made 40 saves as the Cowboys won their second road game in as many nights.

Calgary, which at one point led 6-2, nearly had its lead wiped out when the Racers roared back with four successive goals. Randy Wyrozub scored three times for Indianapolis.

Michel Cormier and Cam Connor scored goals nine seconds apart in the first period to give the Roadrunners an early lead. A Denver crowd of only 3,316 saw the Spurs suffer their third home defeat in a row.

Robbie Fiorek scored the other goal for the Roadrunners, who were helped by a 32-save performance by Gary Kurt. Peter Mara and Rick is Morris were the Denver scorers.

Houston goalie Ron Graham stopped 35 shots and John Schella had a goal and an assist against San Diego. Graham withstood a San Diego barrage in the third period, stopping 17 shots.

John Tonelli, Ted Taylor and Terry Ruskowski were the other Houston scorers. Norm Ferguson and Joe Norris scored for San Diego.

Tonight's schedule has New England Whalers at Edmonton Oilers and Quebec at Cleveland Crusaders.

Rangers trade Sanderson to St. Louis Blues

NEW YORK (AP) — Derek Sanderson, a million-dollar hockey player relegated to virtual obscurity, is on the move again.

New York Rangers swapped the Turk to St. Louis Blues Thursday in exchange for a first-round selection in the 1977 amateur draft.

The draft choice is the same one New York had previously sent to St. Louis in another deal last year.

Sanderson was scoreless in eight games this season and sat out Wednesday night's 3-1 Ranger victory over the Blues because of a bruised foot. Last season, he scored 25 goals and led the Rangers with 106 penalty minutes.

He had come to New York during the summer of 1974 from Boston Bruins and sparked a departure in the grooming roles of Ranger general manager Emile Francis.

Until Sanderson arrived, Francis had strict rules against moustaches and long hair for his players, two traits that Derek had adopted early in his career with the Bruins. The Ranger rules were dropped when Sanderson arrived and the dapper centre became the focus of attention in the Ranger dressing room.
