

Second man is accused as 'bookie'

Dave Evans, 72, who pleaded guilty to a charge of operating a betting establishment at 201 Metcalfe avenue when arraigned before Judge O'Meara recently is 'out of town' and awaiting an appearance July 30 for sentence.

Meanwhile, another Westmounter, Charles Mutter, 54, of 4170 Dorchester street, has appeared before Judge O'Meara and won a reduction in bail from $500 to $200 — a sum he can handle with much greater alacrity.

He comes up for preliminary hearing the same day Evans appears for sentence.

Same pattern

The pattern in both cases is similar, and sufficiently out of the ordinary to prick up the ears and furrow the brows of lawyers, newsmen, court officials, 'bookie' conferees and even some policemen who are asking themselves "What is behind the new pattern of morality squad moves and why."

First swing away from the normal pattern of handling 'bookies' came when the prosecution asked a bail of $15,000 in the Evans case — on the grounds that he was a "big operator."

Those who know Evans say this is a preposterous claim.

He is known as a comparatively small-time operator who was running a book because he is 72 years of age and finds it hard to get a job in his usual line of accountancy work because he is also a sick man.

One operator put it this way: "He does $500 a week maybe, on a good week — and remember he doesn't always win — he stands to make or lose $100 a week."

Old slips

Betting slips were picked up by Provincial police when they raided the Metcalfe avenue address — but dates on them showed that they were slips going back a long way.

And to get a 'previous conviction' to lay against Evans, it was necessary to go back more than 20 years.

In the case of Mutter, the pattern was broken even more clearly. He lived in a rooming house, and after watching it for a month, police broke in to find no betting slips, no money — and took away pictures, newspapers, racing charts, racing forms and scraps of paper.

They were in Mutter's room for three-quarters of an hour, and

Record number may check new valuations

Due to an overall increase in taxable assessments of approximately 20 per cent, this year Westmount authorities expect a record number of property-owners to check the new rolls at City Hall, beginning next week.

The new valuation roll goes on display Wednesday and by law property owners are given 30 days to enquire and submit a protest if they so desire.

Michael Rowe and Philip Smith, appraisal experts from the firm of Warnock Hersey will be available at City Hall to explain individual assessments.

Most property owners can expect to find their assessments

FOCAL POINT

This modern apartment building bears the civic number listed by police as the scene of a raid on a book-making establishment in which 72-year-old David Evans was arrested. He is out on bail of $300 and will go before Judge O'Meara July 30 for sentence. Site is at corner of Metcalfe and St. Catherine.

Dawe hits rumors of Dorchester widening delay

Preparations for the widening of Dorchester boulevard are proceeding "right on schedule," Westmount City Manager N. T. Dawe told The Examiner this week. He denied reports published Tuesday that the project was held up by Montreal and said that demolition should begin before the end of October.

"Our schedule never called for work to be completed by next spring as many people now think," Mr. Dawe said. He stated that Westmount was proceeding independently of Montreal. "If Westmount wants to go ahead, it will, whether or not Montreal does anything about widening the boulevard east of Atwater."

He said Westmount had received "wonderful co-operation" from Montreal authorities who are studying the widening and redevelopment plans, now in the design stage.

Flooded basements

Chief topic of discussions currently between engineers of the two cities concerns plans to construct a "more efficient" sewer system in the Dorchester area to link up with Montreal's, it was reported. We have had some problems with flooding in the basements there and need a more efficient system," said Mr. Dawe.

"In any event, we will begin to actually acquire properties before the end of October and, as they are acquired, we will begin demolition."

Eclipse danger not over

"The dangers of last Saturday's solar eclipse are not over yet," stated W. E. Milton, Quebec Division Superintendent. The Canadian National Institute for the Blind, this week.

"Literally thousands of Canadians secured several types of filters with which to better view the eclipse in safety," he continued. "Such filters as photographic films, pieces of glass smoked in the flame of a candle and others, are now forgotten but still in the homes."

Now that the eclipse is over, everyone should dispose of these filters. Do not keep them around where children can reach them easily.

"They could gaze for prolonged periods at the sun and hurt their eyes," warned Mr. Milton.

"The population at large was quite conscious of the possibility of eclipse blindness," he continued. "Let us not forget that the prolonged use of filters is just as dangerous as was looking at the eclipse with the naked eye. For the sake of your children and your own, please dispose of your eclipse filters."

C.M. Drury awaits appointment

Royal assent was given Monday to a bill establishing a new department of industry and Westmount's C. M. Drury awaits only formal appointment before stepping to its helm.

After three weeks of moderate debate in Parliament the bill was passed on to the Senate for the last time where Supreme Court Justice Gerald Fauteux, acting for Governor General Vanier, gave it Royal assent.

Mr. Drury, Liberal member for St. Antoine-Westmount and present Minister of Defence Production was designated to head the new department by

Three general aims

The minister-designate outlined plans for the industry department recently, stating that it will have "the very practical job of giving every public service that a government can give to ensure the rapid and continued expansion of the Canadian economy." Other broad aims are the revival of depressed areas and the general Canadianization of the economy, he stated.

The department of defence production is to be absorbed into the industry portfolio.

The bill to create the new department passed through the House of Commons. (Continued on page 15)

Walter Leja Trust Fund presentation set Monday

Mrs. Walter Leja, wife of the wounded Sergeant-Major is to be presented Monday with a letter from the Westmount Municipal Association, sponsors of the Walter Leja Fund. The letter will outline the deed of trust now in preparation, raised by contributions from the public during May and June.

The Fund now tops $29,000. It was started in May when a bomb planted in Westmount mailboxes exploded in the hand of Sgt-Major Leja as he was attempting to extricate it. The money collected is being set up in a trust fund for the benefit of the Leja Family, under the auspices of the Royal Trust Company, the Mayor of Westmount, and the Westmount Municipal Association. Chairman of the fund is Mrs. Phyllis Lee Peterson, 544 Lansdowne avenue.

The original goal was $20,000, but contributions poured in, not only from Westmount, but from all over Quebec — from both French and English speaking residents.

Meanwhile, doctors at the Veterans' Hospital report that Sgt-Major Leja is making steady progress towards recovery. His left arm, however, was amputated.

The ceremony at Westmount City Hall begins at 5 p.m.

The primary industries — agriculture, forestry, fisheries, trapping, mining and electric power — now employ only about 16 per cent of all working Canadians.

Automation toll up Rotary Club is told

Last year one fifth of the population changed homes and 75,000 immigrants came to Canada. But thousands of these travellers could not readily "adapt" to conditions in their new neighborhoods and required the services of the Travellers' Aid Society. Mrs. H. Jean Henshaw, executive director of the Montreal branch told members of the Westmount Rotary Club Wednesday.

She said that many left home, not through necessity, but because of an overwhelming urge to escape, to "seek a Utopia." They never really find it Mrs. Henshaw said, but "we can help them on their way somewhat by helping them to 'belong' in their new environment."

Mrs. Henshaw is a former executive director of the children's aid society, and has worked with the Baron de Hirsch Institute.

TAS deals frequently with persons displaced by mechanization.

Cling to manorial system

The ramifications of this, she noted, are vast and far-reaching. "How is capital and democracy going to adjust to this increased threat to employment? We haven't yet recovered from the Industrial revolution and cling to relics of the manorial system." In the meanwhile, movement of impoverished, unskilled poorly educated people, unprepared for urban living, will be accelerated and they will need help.

Travellers' Aid, is the first agency to feel the impact, the speaker said. The personal problems of these unsettled people are apparently multiplied and intensified by absence from home, family, and the security of past associations. Immigrants to the country present a special problem, she said, not only because of language barriers, but because they are no suddenly exposed to a totally different culture and environment.

"Traditionally, Travellers' Aid assisted in transportation terminals; today that is not enough, Mrs. Henshaw said. "TAS must be available to all travellers, reaching out to them in a renewed effort to serve and help rehabilitate the underprivileged and to help the persons whose plans failed." She explained that the Society was first founded to help protect girls and women travelling to large cities where the white slave trade continued a threat to their safety.

"It was soon found that travel and need were not limited to any sex, age, race, creed or nationality, but was all-embracing — settlers and immigrants came, followed by picture brides who still came lured by the Lonely Hearts' columns of periodicals, dependents of soldiers and war brides arrived following the two wars, homeless men of the '30's (the knights of the road) and the unemployed. All needed skilled help during a time of crisis for them."

Lansdowne closed for three weeks

Lansdowne avenue, between Sherbrooke and Western is now closed to all traffic and will remain so for at least three weeks. Crews began tearing up the street Monday, preliminary to complete reconstruction of the roadbed.

Bus traffic has been rerouted down Roslyn avenue and constables are on duty at Sherbrooke and Lansdowne and Western during rush hours. Residents of the street were issued special windshield stickers allowing them to park their cars overnight on nearby streets.

Replacement of the roadbed climaxes a six months investigation by city engineers and outside consultants following up claims by residents that their homes were shaken "a dozen times an hour" by trucks and busses passing outside.

By the use of seismographs, engineers did determine that the vibrations were extraordinary in that area. Lansdowne in that area lies over an old riverbed which "makes for a certain instability," according to city engineers.

City council approved a commitment of $34,000 to replace the roadbed.

Westmount avenue to rumble

Westmount avenue residents are now girding themselves to live, for a week at least, with the ominous "rat-tat-tat" of pneumatic drills as the side walk on that street is torn up and replaced.

Sidewalk reconstruction on Cote St. Antoine road is now complete and city crews moved up to Westmount avenue late this week.

Strathcona and Hudson avenues received new sidewalks earlier this month. After Westmount avenue, roads Department crews go on to Carlton and Argyle avenues.

While sidewalks normally last anywhere from five to ten years depending on use and frost conditions, crews spend the two summer months every year replacing wornout sections throughout the city. Generally about one third of the sidewalk on any particular street must be rebuilt.

CAPTURED BY HOOK!

Although Unity is a Boys' Club girls are welcome too and have as much fun as their brothers. The five aspiring thespians above are rehearsing for "Peter Pan", scheduled for presentation August 13. Left to right are Patti Ann Fernandes as "Wendy," Wilma Richardson as "Tiger Lily," Sharon Syuret in the title role of "Peter Pan," Darlene Hogan, as the "Captain Hook," and sister Karen Hogan as "Smee."

Unity's 'Peter Pan' scheduled August 13

With colourful costumes made and backgrounds now painted, members of the Summer Fun Club of the Unity Boys' Club of Westmount are now free to rehearse for their forthcoming production of "Peter Pan," scheduled for August 13.

Club members and parents are invited to attend the play.

Participating in the play are: Sharon Syuret, Darlene Hogan, Wilma Richardson, Patti Ann Fernandes, Brian Vaux, Sydney Strange, Billy Soltys, Morog McHugh, Margaret Morrissey, Marie Virgo, Maria Murphy, Cheryl Crompton, Carol Gordon, Gary Heavysage, Kevin Gale, Andrew Strange, Eivira Hansen, Karen

Gaucher, David Warren, Gary Crompton, Donald Roach, Debbie Standing and Nancy Dallas. Some fifty members of the Unity Boys' Club and the Lion's Club of N.D.G. Boys' and Girls' Club of N.D.G. will get together next week for a tour of the Montreal Police Training School. Last week members visited the Empress of Canada at Montreal and travelled to Glen Mountain in the Eastern Townships to spend the day at the farm of Glen Brown, member of the Quebec Legislature for Brome.

A history — part one

Westmount: occupied before 1400

In one respect Westmount has the longest history of any locality in America, north of Mexico. An ancient Indian burying ground discovered in 1898 on and adjoining the grounds of the St. George's Club on the boulevard near Aberdeen avenue apparently belonged to a period previous to the fifteenth century.

The type of burial (each body being covered in its grave by a large flat stone in the shape of an "A") appears to be related to the stone-lined graves of the Illinois and other ancient Algonquin tribes of the Mississippi valley, and was different from that of the Hochelagans who occupied the island of Montreal from about 1400.

The Westmount Indian graves also do not contain any pottery or other objects resembling those of the Hochelagans. They, therefore, evidently belong to a time earlier than the fifteenth century.

The Hochelagans, following the "People of the Stone-lined Graves" were the second known possessors of the site of Westmount.

French period

The first occupation on the site during this period, was the establishment by the Seminary of St. Sulpice in 1684 of the Fort des Messieurs, the extensive establishment of which the two early towers and some walls at the College de Montreal are the remnant.

It was built so as to remove the Mission Indians of Montreal from the influence of dissolute traders of the town. And while the buildings are not within the actual limits of Westmount, the lands of the establishment occupy a considerable part of this city, and these Indians are known to have made habitual use of a number of neighborhoods within it, such as the present site of Selwyn House School (the former Argyle School and Westmount Senior High), at the spot where there was a large elm tree, and the "Indian Wells" of the former Raynes and Murray property.

During the earlier years of the eighteenth century, concessions of farm lands running in strips up to and across the top of Westmount mountain were made to various French settlers by the Seminary, as Seigneurs of the Island.

First house in Westmount

Such was the origin of the old farms now divided into lots and covered with houses. The first house was the quaint stone cottage of the Germain family overlooking Lansdowne avenue above Cote St. Antoine road, and having its great wooden cross before it.

The Murray farm on the east, between Belmont and Murray avenues, contained a similar cottage belonging to the Leducs, who owned the farm up to 1847.

In those days, two roads partly traversed the locality from east to west — the earliest of which was the "Road through the Woods" to Lachine, or Upper La-

WE SAY

Showoff drivers we can do without

HORN-TOOTING drivers, and those riding noisy sport cars, especially in the silence of the night, roaring through West End residential streets and hospital zones with a deafening noise, are a nuisance — whether they realize it or not. Such obnoxious practices deny many citizens their sleep, and cause great inconvenience to bed-ridden patients.

Section 30-3 of the Quebec Highway Code says, "The exhaust pipe of every vehicle, including a motorcycle, must be provided with a muffler in good condition."

Furthermore, it should be remembered that the Highway Code and the local traffic regulations prohibit the use of a horn or sounding device at night in any populated area, except in case of absolute necessity.

Many complaints have been aired stressing the inconvenience resulting from the disregard of these regulations. Night drivers should remember that besides the Highway Code, there is a Code of Courtesy and Citizenship which is binding on every decent road user.

If such appeals to common sense remain unheeded, law enforcement officers should start a drive against offenders, and all motorists should be given notice to have proper mufflers installed or face penalties provided by law.

ONE FINAL PLEA

It seems to be impossible to get anything over to the public on highway safety. Millions of words have been said and written about highway safety in the past 10 years, and it is our bet that you are bored to death by them. We hope you live to enjoy a pleasant vacation trip. — Stanstead (Que.) Journal.

YOU SAY

Second mountain look-out needed

Sir: I wish to thank last week's correspondent who wrote concerning possible "encroachment" upon Summit Park Land. I too am "appalled" to think that valuable scenic land would be turned over to private interests.

For my part, I would like to point out another apparent encroachment upon the park. A third lot near Bevedere, to the west or park side of the two homes built last year is presently for sale.

I doubt that this land was ever part of Summit Park, but there is no reason why the area should not be preserved in its natural state for posterity. It is unthinkable that it should be turned over to private interests and lost forever to residents and visitors to Westmount.

Population is increasing. Bigger and better parks are consequently needed.

The acquisition of this lot by the city would also help to solve one of Westmount's traffic problems. Summit Circle drive is very popular with both residents and visitors and is on the agenda of most of Montreal's guided tour buses. There is, however, no place on the north side of the mountain where cars can properly be pulled off the road so that the driver and passengers may enjoy the fine view of the Cote des Neiges valley, the University of Montreal and Mount Royal.

They still stop on that winding road, usually right in the middle of a curve.

Westmount, in my opinion, should acquire the lot and turn it into a small lookout for the north side. It is an opportunity that they cannot afford to overlook.

Park-lover.

More said on bi-culturalism

Sir: A great deal is appearing in print these days about biculturalism. Writers are taking up the cudgels on both sides of the question.

May I use a little of your valuable space to make what I feel is a pertinent point?

Canada is not a bicultural country, it is multi-cultural. The latest statistics reveal that only 43.8 percent of the people of this country are of British stock, and only 30.4 percent are of French stock. The remainder, more than 25.8 percent of the whole, is made up of people drawn from all the diverse races of Europe, with a sprinkling of those from Asia.

Other ethnic groups include: Germans, Ukrainians, Italians, Netherlanders, Scandinavians, Polish, Jewish, (Continued on page 5)

Residents protest valuation changes

Promise was given this week by Mayor John Jenkins to a number of Westmount proprietors who appeared at Tuesday night's meeting of City Council that their protests against changes in the City's valuation rolls would be given "due consideration."

Some 40 appeals have been filed against the new valuation roll list and several complainants took the opportunity to appear in person and to present their claims to the Alderman and Mayor at the Council meeting.

Montreal pays less to Westmount

A statement was received this week from the Montreal Metropolitan Commission regarding recent receipt of this city's share of sales and income taxes collected in Montreal.

It was stated that Montreal had deducted from the amount due accounts totalling about $3,000 with Westmount. Secretary-Treasurer Bell was instructed to protest this action.

Summer sale of 1937 prices!

Shoppers in Westmount this week could buy sugar for five cents a pound, tomato juice was nine cents a tin; corn flakes, nine cents a package and butter, 30 cents a pound.

Men's cream summer flannels were popular that summer and went for about $5.00 while golf knickers sold for $2.55. A man's swim suit special was offered at the bargain price of 59 cents per suit and pure wool sports jackets sold for $3.59.

Men could also buy fine English broadcloth white shirts for $1.55, cashmere socks for 39 cents, and blazers for $4.15.

The ladies were not neglected. Slacks and shorts sold for $1.29, bathing caps for 36 cents, chiffon hosiery for 68 cents a pair, "playboy suits" for $1.25 and terry gowns for $2.35.

Queenie Bramble wins YMCA swim meet

Queenie Bramble of Westmount won the highest aggregate of twenty points in a swimming meet held in the Westmount YMCA pool this week for youngsters participating in the city's recreational program under Miss Grace Attwood. She qualifies as winner of the silver trophy.

Beverley Condon was a close second and Eileen Simms third.

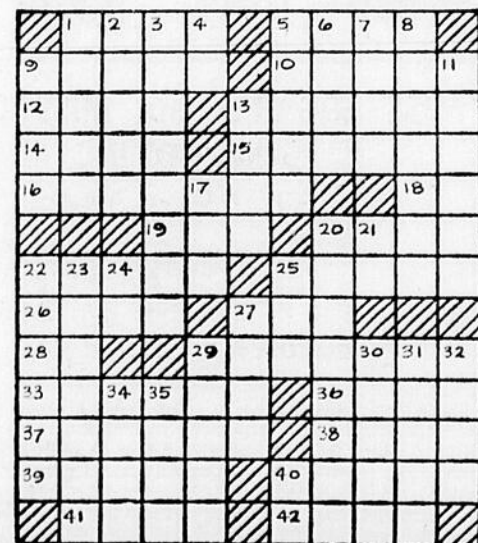

Other winners of events were: Beryl Watier, Joan Green, Jean Wigleworth, Audrey Palmer.

SADDLE SERVICE

The tribal equivalent of "Yum-yum!" is expressed by these little Blackfoot girls as they are about to get a taste of paleface hospitality. They were among an imposing array of chiefs, braves and squaws who paraded on horseback through the town of Banff, as part of its annual pageant. Holding the tray of goodies is Andy Robertson of 487 Victoria avenue Westmount, a bellman for the past three summer and who graduated this spring from McGill University with a Bachelor of Arts degree.

Cecil Pascal sees mounting Jewish refugee problem

"The problem of absorbing and integrating some 160,000 North African Jewish refugees into the Jewish community of France is one of the most serious and urgent tasks confronting world Jewry today," stated Westmounter Cecil Pascal, 645 Landsdowne avenue, General Chairman of the 1963 Joint Campaign, on his return from his recent overseas fact-finding mission.

Mr. Pascal and Morris Lapidos, Campaign Director, were given a first-hand opportunity of discovering for themselves the serious aspects of this long-term problem facing the Jewish community of France.

'Bound to get worse'

"The situation is bound to get worse in months to come, since the repatriation allowances for Algerian refugees were scheduled to end in July," Mr. Pascal, said. "Most of the refugees remain unemployed, and require job re-training.

Many of them with families of eight or more children are compelled to live in one or two rooms. Many do not have enough money to feed themselves, and depend on the French Jewish welfare organizations for relief.

In Morocco, Mr. Pascal and Mr. Lapidos learned that thousands of Jews are still in need of assistance and depend upon relief aid from the Joint Distribution Committee. In addition, the OSE medical organization, ORT, Ozar Hatorah and the Alliance Israelite Universelle schools and other institutions in North Africa require continued and increased support, he said.

In Israel, Mr. Pascal and Mr. Lapidos witnessed the arrival of an El Al plane at Lod Airport carrying 127 North African Jews. They visited these same newcomers twelve hours after arrival at their new homes in a housing development near Tiberias.

Most are illiterate

"But here begins a serious problem for Israel," said Mr. Pascal. "It appears that most of the immigrants arriving from North Africa are social cases. Many of them are illiterate, many more require medical care, and of course they arrive with little or no money.

"They must be fed, clothed, housed, educated and provided with urgently needed health services before they can become useful Israeli citizens," the Campaign Chairman explained. "The least we can do is accept our share of the responsibility and provide Israel with the much-needed funds with which to resettle these immigrants and integrate them into the State of Israel.

"If the situation of a year ago was one of emergency, the situation today is indeed desperate," Mr. Pascal stressed. "Having saved many lives last year, it is now our duty to help them to get on their feet and become self-supporting, self-respecting individuals.

LONDON'S FIRE

The Great Fire of London started early on the morning of Sept. 2, 1666, in Pudding Lane at the home of John Farynor, the King's baker, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Phil Soiffer heads local Joint Campaign

Phil Soiffer has been appointed area chairman for Westmount of the 1963 Joint Campaign, it was announced recently by Cecil Pascal, general chairman.

Greater Montreal has been divided into 12 areas this year, each with its own chairman and with campaign workers drawn from residents of each district.

Bernard Lang was named chairman of the general Metropolitan Division of the Joint Campaign.

Working in the area set-up, the Metropolitan division will make a more intensive effort to enlist new prospects as contributors. Mr. Lang pointed out that there will be a greater need for canvassers and all those interested in working for the joint campaign are asked to phone George Kantowitz at Joint Campaign Headquarters, Victor 4-8621.

Russian, Chinese, Japanese, and of course there are the native Indian and native Eskimo people who make up 1.2 percent of the population.

The way ahead, to me, is clear. We must bring ourselves to happiness through harmony, as one family. There is nothing ahead but disaster in family quarrels.

Why waste time on self-criticism and differences?

In building Canada up to now we have done a good job — as the first century draws to a close, this is the time to blend the aspirations and hopes of all our peoples so that we may add a greater future to a noble past.

Bell knocks 'HU' out of new book

There's news for West Enders in the story of the latest edition of the telephone directory — the Hunter exchange is now one of those completely converted to seven-digit numbers.

There are other changes you'll note in the book too. It is larger, there are more listings, and the cover sports an illustration of the Place des Arts instead of the '62-cover-piece of the University of Montreal.

Berton wearing blinkers,
Rev. Reginald Hollis says

Rev. Reginald Hollis, assistant priest at St. Matthias Church, Westmount, is still receiving congratulations for his reply to Pierre Berton's plea that churches take the lead in "accepting the fact that premarital sex relations are now a part of society."

A Cambridge MA who was chaplain to Anglican students at McGill University from 1956 to 1959, Mr. Hollis has been assistant at St. Matthias for the past three years.

He submitted his reply, which was in the form of a sermon, to Maclean's Magazine which carried the Berton article, he says, and it was returned to him with the comment that the magazine could not publish rebuttals.

Berton, in his article, says Hollis, is really asking the churches to follow society.

Church 'not a moral mirror'

The church, he declares, is not a moral mirror. Christian leadership has never grown out of the mood of society. In the Bible, he adds, sex does not stem from the fall of Adam and Eve; it stems from the creation. God made male and female. Their coming together, he adds, is part of God's plan.

In taking the attitude that the church condemns the person who gives in to sexual urges Berton is wearing blinkers, says Hollis.

He agrees that the church must take the lead — but, he avers, not in the way Berton has suggested.

"The lead Christian young people must give, he says, is a firm-minded intention to offer their sexual powers to the one they marry."

"The lead we must give as Christian adults" he says, "is to seek, with the help of Christ's spirit, to make our marriages something of beauty, the kind of relationship to which our children will look forward themselves."

Some rules needed

And he adds: "The lead we must give as Christian parents is to take time with our teenage children, to show our interest in their dates. We need from the beginning to set some rules about going steady, to give some clear indication of the standards we expect from them, and yet to give them the assurance that if they do get into trouble we will still be with them and they can count on our understanding and support."

"As churchmen" he concluded, "this is the kind of lead we must give so that our family life may be strengthened and show the quality of life, of acceptance and forgiveness, of integrity and trust, that God intended when he made male and female and decreed that a man and woman leave their parents and become one flesh."

Problems, he declares, are not solved by lowering the standards.

How to distinguish between spiritual facts and material appearances will be taken up at the services in all Christian Science churches this Sunday, in the reading of the week's Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Truth."

Pertinent Bible selections will include these words of Christ Jesus as recorded by John: "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

● The first area is bounded by the north side of Dorchester, the south side of Tupper street the west side of Atwater and the east side of Gladstone avenue.

● The second is bounded by the north side of Dorchester, the south side of the east-west lane between Dorchester and St. Catherine, the west side of Gladstone and the east side of Greene avenue.

● The third consists of a strip of property on the west side of Greene and on the north side of Dorchester from Greene west to approximately 260 feet east of Hallowell street; a block of property bounded by the north side of Dorchester, the east side of Hallowell and the south side of St. Catherine and by a line approximately 260 feet east of Hallowell.

The street widening will not require any expropriations on the south side of Dorchester. Prime purpose of expropriation in these areas is redevelopment, not street widening, it was reported.

Westmount retained the services of Warnock Hersey Appraisal Company to prepare estimates of valuations in the area and to negotiate settlements with the expropriated parties, subject to the approval of council.

In addition, C. C. Lindsay Company, Quebec Land Surveyors were retained to prepare plans and descriptions of the immovable properties.

YMCA children visit Ottawa

Over one hundred youngsters and staff from the Westmount YMCA's Summer Fun Club visited the nation's capital on Wednesday July 24. Two chartered buses transported the group to Ottawa and back. While in the capital, the children visited the Parliament Buildings, the Royal Canadian Mint and the War Museum. A high point of the visit for some thirty lucky campers was a tour of the French Embassy.

It was a long day for the children. Buses left Westmount at 8:30 in the morning and returned from Ottawa after 6 p.m. Sing songs, quiet games and an ice cream stop kept the campers occupied during the long bus ride.

Penny Carnival

This summer's Penny Carnival was a success in every way. Over one hundred people were involved in the preparation and execution of the evening's program. Fifteen booths were in operation in the gym.

The Youth Lounge was gaily decorated in an international theme and French, Danish, and Chinese refreshments were provided. Approximately three hundred persons attended the carnival. Proceeds went to the YMCA World Service, a project to help finance new 'Y' buildings in underdeveloped countries, throughout the world.

There remains two more weeks in the Summer Fun Club, regular program.

During the first four weeks, the campers have gone bowling twice, took a beach trip to Lake of Two Mountains, toured the Bank of Montreal and a Coca Cola plant, held a track and field day and an olympic swim meet as well as participated in many small group programs.

There are two weeks of planned program left which will be followed by two weeks of swimming program only. Registrations are still being accepted from boys and girls 8 to 14 yrs. who live in or around Westmount. A child does not need to be a present member of the YMCA to register in the Summer Fun Club program.

Special programs are being planned for the last period of camp including a beach trip to Rodgers Beach and a possibly "sleep-in" at the 'Y'.

Members of the Westmount YMCA Summer Fun Club this period are:

Chris Blair, Michael McLaughlin — staff.

Adrian Langleben, Patrick Ormos, Steven Gooding, Marc Haumont, Michael Board.

diences, having been a frequent contributor to CBC programs as a writer, commentator and performer over the last 10 years. In 1960 he was named music consultant to the international service of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. A number of interesting local traditions exist concerning the French period — the burying of silver and valuables by the Hurtubises and Ledues when part of General Amherst's army, arriving to capture Montreal in 1760 occupied the heights along the Cote des Neiges road; the killing of the first St. Germain by an ambushed Iroquois in the ravine of the present Westmount Park, the ceremony of exorcism of an insane daughter in front of the house; Indian pictographs on trees in the ravine.

The little Ville de Montreal at this period seemed far away.

Canada's smallest province has many points of interest

By Millicent Hickmore

HAVING HEARD SO MUCH about Prince Edward Island, its scenery, history and beaches, I was delighted to have the opportunity to motor and spend a week's vacation this month on this, our smallest garden province.

P.E.I. is known by several unofficial names — "The Birthplace of Canada," "The Garden of the Gulf," "The Million Acre Farm," "The Kentucky of Canada," — and "The Island."

With its rich, red soil, its tree-lined and flowered landscapes, its many rivers and streams, this ocean-bound province is truly a veritable paradise. Paved highways reach into every corner of the province.

Approaching the island on the ferry, one sees miles of shoreland of red cliffs and a large sign welcoming you to the island. Another sight, not to be forgotten, is the setting of the sun below the horizon, giving the impression of a large ball of fire, gradually sinking down into the ocean. Crowds of tourists gather each evening on the beaches to watch this sight.

Visiting the Confederation Chamber, in the Parliament Buildings in Charlottetown, our party tried out the historic chair where so many of our top statesmen have sat, recalling the date of September 1, 1864, when the Dominion of Canada was born.

Most of "The Island" inhabitants live in rural communities and derive their living from agriculture and fisheries.

The swimming is ideal, with the warmest salt water north of Florida — the golf course at Cavendish, where we holidayed, was wonderful — but too difficult for "yours truly." Green Gables, also situated in this National Park, was a great attraction. This farm home immortalized by island authoress Lucy Maud Montgomery in her book, "Anne of Green Gables," attracts thousands of tourists each season. Although at the end of the lobster season, we were able to purchase several at a small charge and enjoyed them immensely.

Located at Burlington, midway between Summerside and Green Gables in the National Park, we visited "Woodleigh Replicas" — "A Glimpse of Britain in P.E.I." Woodleigh was officially opened to the public in 1958. The historic replicas are the result of study and effort on the part of the owner, who envisions new additions and attractions over the years, but because of the size and nature of their construction, work must proceed slowly, with meticulous attention to authenticity and detail. York Minister, the largest replica which took over five years to complete, has one hundred and forty-five windows, all fitted with colored glass and is complete with chimes and sacred music. — Glamis Castle, where Princess Margaret was born, a twelve foot stone model, is also perfect and entire. — Shakespeare's birthplace is of Elizabethan or Tudor construction, as is the romantically thatched Ann Hathaway Cottage. These and many other replicas of interest are a work of art and well worth viewing.

In 1964, P.E.I. will celebrate its Centennial, when the multi-million dollar Fathers of Confederation Building in Charlottetown will be officially opened, and it is expected that many thousands of Canadians from all provinces will visit "The Island," on this occasion.

Back in Montreal, the second week, we visited Lake Placid and Crystal Lake in the States, where we discovered provisions are much more expensive and our dollar is worth only .90 cents, proving why so many Canadians are now vacationing in different parts of Canada.

Directors of volunteers elect 1963-64 executive

At the annual meeting of the Quebec Association of Directors of Volunteer Service in Hospitals held recently, the following members were elected to the executive for the coming year. Madame Marcelle Laurendeau, director of volunteers, Notre Dame Hospital, was elected president; Mrs. Hulda Lynch-Stanton, director of volunteers St. Mary's Hospital, vice-president and treasurer; Miss Aileen Fee, director of volunteers Verdun Protestant Hospital, secretary.

This "young" association reported enthusiastically of the benefits to its members, by assistance and close co-operation one with another. The ever growing importance of the volunteer and volunteer groups to the hospital has allowed for a closer liaison and better understanding of all volunteer needs through the association. Associate members made up of chairmen of volunteers from the various hospital auxiliaries were welcomed to the association. All members derived benefit from the meetings, with a closer understanding between directors of volunteers and the chairmen of volunteers. Member, Mrs. Marjorie Dancy, will serve next year as the associations' representative to the planning committee of the Montreal Volunteer Bureau.

INFANT MORTALITY
By K. B. OETTINGER

Chief of the Children's Bureau
Washington 25, D.C.

The Nation's large cities are facing difficulty in reducing the rate of infant mortality.

Nearly 11 percent of all babies born in 1960 were born in ten of our largest cities. Yet only one of these — Los Angeles — had a rate of infant deaths lower than the rate of 26.0 infant deaths per 1,000 live births, registered for the country as a whole.

The infant mortality rates by States show a great unevenness in the amount of progress we are making in cutting down on infant deaths, ranging from the low of 19.6 for Utah to a high of 41.6 for Mississippi. The United States is still tenth among countries in the world with populations over 300,000 in reducing its infant mortality rate. In 1950, the United States ranked fourth among these nations. It should be pointed out that we have a smaller percentage of decrease since 1950 than any of the nine nations which rank above us in the United Nations listing.

The 1960 infant death rate was slightly lower than 26.4 rate for 1959, which represented a saving of the lives of more than 1,500 babies.

We have always known that there is an association between infant mortality and the lower social-economic levels. With the great increase in the numbers of families with low income now living in our large cities, we could expect higher infant mortality in these areas of concentration.

The large cities must take steps, as many are seeking to do, to improve their maternity care programs, increase the number of prenatal clinics, and

*Baby Smith christened
Margaret Amy*

Granddaughter of Dr. Douglas Smith, pastor of Dominion-Douglas United Church, Westmount, was christened at the church Sunday morning. She is the child of Dr. Smith's son and daughter-in-law, Rev. and Mrs. Robert Smith of Edmonton. Mrs. Smith was the former Miss Margaret Ellen Maguire of Calgary. The child was given the names of Margaret Amy.

The child's great-grandfather, Rev. Robert Smith, was pastor of Wesley United Church in Notre Dame de Grace, prior to the incumbency of Dr. B. B. Brown.

make health services for mothers and children accessible in those neighborhoods where families seem reluctant to take advantage of city-based resources.

The cities must make a concerted effort to select those women with complications of pregnancy which endanger not only the mother's life, but the life and healthy development of her baby. We know, for example, that premature births are twice as likely to occur when mothers have inadequate prenatal care, and mental retardation occurs more frequently in premature births than in full-term births. These women need thorough care not only during prenatal period but during delivery and the post partum period.

Dear Abby...

She's Colorful—But Ill!

By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I've heard that some women behave rather peculiarly when they reach the age of 48 or 50, but I think my sister-in-law is abusing the privilege. She wears muu muu's on the street with large colored kerchiefs tied around her head like a fortune teller. She loads on the make-up and junk jewelry and she's off in anklets and high-heeled shoes. She thinks she's gorgeous. She spent $12 last week just riding the buses so she could talk to the drivers. Meanwhile, she eats tranquilizers like popcorn. I'm worried.

OHIO
DEAR OHIO: Your sister-in-law is obviously in need of professional help, which is your brother's problem. Don't wait until the police give the poor woman a free ride home before you urge her husband to get her to a doctor.

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 and have been married for five months. My husband and I both work. We leave together in the morning and drive home together. When Joe gets home he lies down on the couch and reads the whole newspaper while I prepare supper. After supper he goes back on the couch and watches television while I clean up the kitchen. When that's done, I'm so tired I go into the bedroom, fall on my face and go to sleep. Then he has the NERVE to say that what little time we have together I spend sleeping. What should I do?

TIRED
DEAR TIRED: No bride of five months holds down a full-time job in addition to doing her own housework because she wants the exercise. Since you are helping to BUY the groceries, tell Joe to get off the couch and help you prepare them. That way you'll halve YOUR work and double HIS pleasure.

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor of mine dumbfounded me this morning when she told me she had picked my vegetables while I was on vacation so my plants wouldn't die. She expected some gratitude if I can judge a voice. Abby, I couldn't thank her, because I had agreed with a friend to pick those vegetables in exchange for watering my plants! Before going on a trip next time, should I set up a sign, or canvass the neighborhood and explain the arrangements?

VACATIONER
DEAR VACATIONER: It appears that only ONE of your neighbors needs to have the "arrangement explained." So next time, explain it.

DEAR ABBY: Could you please tell me why so few Americans hang up flags on special holidays? On our street there was only one flag out on Memorial Day — ours. We are English born and America is our new home. We love it, but can't understand this about the American people. They praise America, sing the anthem, but when it comes to paying $2.40 for a flag, they hesitate. It beats me. In England, a flag flies from every house, large and small. It was the same on my daughter's street here in America. One flag — theirs. It makes me so mad I could scream.

CANOGA PARK
DEAR CANOGA: The colorful tradition of showing the flag seems to be fading in America. And it's regrettable, for my taste. But REAL patriotism doesn't have to be demonstrated. Some of the most confused un-Americans are frantic flag-wavers. We have our Colonel Blimps, too.

DEAR ABBY: I was under the impression that my husband was working seven days a week, night and day, for five months. One afternoon a young woman came to my apartment and told me that my husband has practically been living with her all that time. She said she loved him and wanted me to give him up. When my husband came home and saw her there he almost jumped out of the window. He told her in front of me that it was all over between them. She said she'd never let him go. He practically had to throw her out. I never felt so sorry for a woman in all my life. My husband has tried to make it up to me in every way possible. He is begging me to forgive and forget. Should I let him share our bedroom again?

BROKEN-HEARTED
DEAR BROKEN-HEARTED: Yes.

DEAR ABBY: I am a very small eater and we eat out a lot. It is very embarrassing to me when a waitress notices that I haven't eaten much and asks, "Was there something wrong with the food?"

I tell her there was nothing wrong with the food and she gives me an argument, and says, "Are you SURE there's nothing wrong with it? You hardly touched it." Abby, I'm not a child, and I don't need to be coaxed into eating more than I want. How can I get waitresses to stop calling attention to the fact that I don't eat much?

NEW EXECUTIVE: The Altrusa Club of Montreal met recently when they elected the following officers for the 1963-64 season. Shown in the photograph, back row: Miss Catherine Jemieson, director; Miss Laura Hill, Notre Dame de Grace, general treasurer; Miss Peggy French, Westmount, corresponding secretary; Mrs.

Doris Bader, welfare treasurer; Mrs. Hazel Kopper, director; both of N.D.G. Front row: Miss Clarice Wylie, recording secretary; and Miss Jennie Fayet, second vice-president, both of N.D.G.; Miss Viola Esdon, Westmount, president; Miss Betty Warner, N.D.G., first vice-president; and Miss Alida Beaudin, director.

Assessments were raised to conform to the desires of the Montreal Metropolitan Corporation, equalizing rates in Westmount with Montreal's and those of 15 major independent municipalities in the area.
