World News In Brief

London—(AP)—Russia's new ambassador to Britain, Jacob Malik, presented his letters of credence to the Queen at Buckingham Palace today.

Prime Minister Churchill, acting as foreign minister during Anthony Eden's illness, accompanied the Soviet diplomat into the audience chamber and stood by as the envoy paid his respects to the Sovereign.

London — CP — Prime Minister St. Laurent of Canada today made courtesy calls at Buckingham Palace and Clarence House. In diplomatic language, these are known as "signing the book" visits.

The prime minister also recorded a broadcast and made ready to attend the first royal garden party of the season. Tonight he plans to attend a dinner at the Mayfair residence of Norman Robertson, Canadian high commissioner, for members of the Canadian Coronation delegation.

Hamilton, Bermuda — Reuters—A British official disclosed here today that Prime Minister Churchill will fly here by special plane for the Big Three talks next month.

J. H. Bonham-Carter, an official of the British office, also said the talks between President Eisenhower, Churchill and the French premier, will not start before June 15.

Ford Appeal Hearing Starts

Montreal — CP — Hearing of the appeal of Kenneth Ford, found guilty of murdering his wife last year at Cowansville, Que., began Wednesday before the court of appeals. Ford is under sentence to be hanged July 3.

Joseph Cohen, Ford's attorney, submitted legal points in connection with the trial presided over by Mr. Justice L. P. Cliche at Sweetsburg.

Mr. Cohen said a presiding judge must not leave jurors in confusion, but at the trial his lordship "said something and then took it back, rather in an incomprehensible manner.

At the trial Ford, 32, testified that provincial police in Montreal dictated the statement he signed, in which he admitted attacking his wife, Norma, 28, with a metal bar because he suspected her of infidelity. Police said Ford attempted to commit suicide while in police cells in Montreal shortly after his arrest.

They said he cut himself with a broken soft-drink bottle. Ford later testified he only injured himself so he would be moved to a hospital, saying he was suffering from a cold and sore ear and police had refused to call a doctor.

Mrs. Ford's body was found Feb. 8, 1952, in a water-filled bath-tub in the Fords' Cowansville home. An autopsy showed she was bludgeoned and drowned. She was a member of a prominent Amherst, N.S., family.

Engineer Is Fatally Hurt When Two Passenger Trains Collide At Danby Station

Four Persons Require Hospital Treatment Following Accident On Montreal-Sherbrooke Line.

One person was fatally injured, four others were hospitalized and several others less seriously injured last evening when two Canadian National Railways passenger trains collided at Danby, just east of South Durham.

Dead is: Steven Bazuk, 42, Verdun, engineer of one of the trains.

The C.N.R. had records of only one person in hospital, Mrs. A. R. Demers of South Durham, listed as being in hospital at Windsor Mills receiving medical attention for a bruised leg.

Other checks, however, showed this additional list:

At the Sherbrooke Hospital: Roy Blanchette, 37, Richmond, engineer who was travelling "deadhead," fractured arm and laceration.

At St. Louis Hospital in Windsor Mills: Mrs. Eva St. Pierre, 60, of Montreal, several fractured ribs, head injury and large cut on forehead.

Dianne Joly, seven, of Montreal, multiple contusions but said by Dr. Dominique Lambert of Windsor Mills to be progressing favorably.

Others among the 18 persons reported to have suffered minor cuts and bruises were:

Wilfrid Sirois, 19, New Bedford, Mass., Sherbrooke Indians pitcher, contusions to the knee.

Mrs. Samson, wife of Judge J. C. Samson of Sherbrooke, knee injury.

Miss C. St. Pierre, 10, of Montreal, bruised knee.

The collision took place at the Danby flag stop, at approximately 8:35 o'clock Daylight Time as the Montreal to Island Pond train ran into the Sherbrooke to Montreal train, which was standing in the station. The line was blocked for three hours but there was no delay in service since there were no other trains scheduled.

The passengers from Train 23, going to Montreal, were taken into the big city by bus. Train 23 itself was turned round and went to Island Pond.

The pony truck, two little wheels in front, of the engine on the train from Montreal were derailed. The track was not damaged. The locomotive of the other train was derailed. It is believed that the Sherbrooke-bound train overshot a switch at the Danby station.

Mrs. Samson was the only local person reported injured in the crash. She was given treatment at St. Vincent de Paul Hospital and allowed to go home.

Sirois was going into Montreal prior to proceeding to the Fargo, North Dakota, Club of the Cleveland Indians' farm system. He was to be accompanied by Pee Wee Wenger, another pitcher, but Wenger's name does not appear on the C.N.R. injury list.

Most of the injured were given first-aid treatment on the spot by Dr. Chabot of South Durham.

An inquest into the death of Bazuk was opened at Joseph Fleury funeral parlours at Richmond this morning by Dr. Louis Gagnon, Sherbrooke, district coroner. The inquest has been adjourned.

Canadian National Railways police are investigating the accident and no official statement will be made until later.

TV Channel Transferred To Sherbrooke

Ottawa —(CP)— The transport department Wednesday announced the transfers of four television channels to other areas, affecting Ottawa, Kingston, Toronto, Hamilton, Kitchener, Montreal and Sherbrooke, Que.

Transfers of channels were: Channel 11 to Kingston from Ottawa; channel 11 to Hamilton from Toronto; channel 13 to Kitchener from Hamilton; and channel seven to Sherbrooke from Montreal.

In a statement, the department said the transfers will enable citizens of Kingston, Kitchener and Sherbrooke to have television coverage.

"Under the original distribution of channels made by the government there had been allocated to Montreal six channels, Toronto five channels and Ottawa five channels, the announcement by Transport Minister Chevrier said.

"Because of the policy decided earlier that television stations should be established in as many places as possible before duplication was permitted in any one place and that the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation should have the original stations in Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa, the remaining channels are therefore not being used for the time being."

"It seemed only logical therefore that in order to provide television coverage for a greater number of localities it was advisable to reassign one of the channels in each of these cities.

"None of these metropolitan areas will suffer on that account. When the time will have come for additional coverage by private stations in Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa, if there are not sufficient channels in existence, although several are still available in each of these areas, I am confident that at that time it will be possible to obtain from the American authorities a further redistribution of channels."

All the channels transferred by the government were on the standard VHF (very high frequency) band. Channels on the less-used UHF (ultra high frequency) band were not affected.

Taegu, Korea —(AP)— Fire swept through a large girls' high school here today only a few hours after flames levelled a refugee shelter, leaving 1,500 anti-Communist North Koreans homeless.

There were no reported casualties.

Taft Talk Stirs Storm Of Reaction

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington — (AP) — Worried Allied diplomats wondered today whether the Republican administration may seriously consider radical changes in Far Eastern policies if Korean truce talks collapse.

Their concern arose from efforts to measure the ultimate impact on future decisions by President Eisenhower of ideas which Senate Majority Leader Robert Taft put forth in a speech read for him at Cincinnati Tuesday night.

At Vancouver, the Canadian external affairs minister, L. B. Pearson, said if Taft's advice "became U.S. policy it would be deplorable and a terrible blow to the United Nations."

Taft said if armistice negotiations fail the U.S. should tell Britain and other Allies "we are withdrawing from all further peace negotiations in Korea."

He also asserted the U.S. "might as well abandon any idea of working with the United Nations in the East and reserve to ourselves a completely free hand."

These and related proposals he made appeared to diplomats here to suggest a change of direction and a severing of ties between the U.S. and its Allies which the Eisenhower administration has so far generally observed and protected.

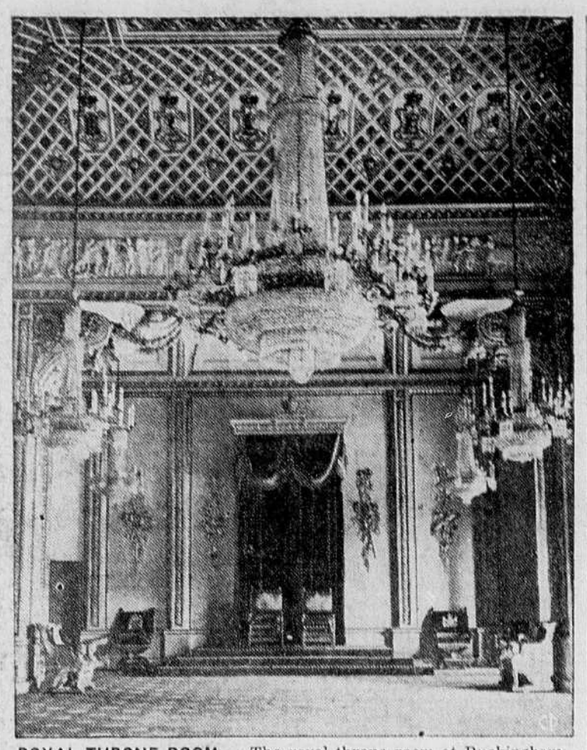

The proposals come from a powerful figure in the governing party and at a time when truce negotiations are in what may prove to be the showdown stage and the need for new decisions may be almost at hand.

Taft's speech found no endorsement from his colleagues on the Senate foreign relations committee who were willing to comment. One of them, Senator John Sparkman (Dem. Ala.) said it "may have torpedoed chances for a truce in Korea . . . and it may even have thrown a harpoon into the Big Three talks in Bermuda."

President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and the French premier are scheduled to meet in Bermuda next month.

"I can't understand the very bad timing in this thing," Sparkman said in an interview. "Communist Russia has been trying to drive a wedge between the United Nations Allies, and now Senator Taft's speech appears to do it for them."

He called the Taft speech "a diametrical contradition" of Eisenhower's policy, a point certain to be raised today at the President's press conference.

World's Royal Families Will Be Well Represented

By MICHAEL NEWMARCH

London — (AP) — Princess Margherita of Baden is switching a starched nurse's cap for a ball dress, and slipping quietly into Buckingham Palace.

The Sultan of Perak can't decide between his blue robes and his purple.

Sobhuza II of Swaziland is checking on Coronation details.

In a word, royal and princely families from perfumed palaces and mud-hut capitals are settling in for the Coronation of the Queen and they are as much agog as London's east end Cockneys.

Many have urgent problems of dress, diet or protocol. London's officials and hoteliers—taking in their stride menus for Arab potates and knowing just where to find an Afghan interpreter in a hurry-look like they will get the whole company happily on parade to Westminster Abbey.

Thirty representatives of the world's royal families—not including British royalty — will drive from Buckingham Palace to the abbey as official guests of Queen Elizabeth. Scores more royal visitors, African chiefs and Oriental princes have seats in the abbey for the ceremony.

No kings or queens of sovereign powers will be present, since it's against tradition for an independent monarch to attend the crowning of another. In their stead some of Europe's senior princes will attend.

Some of the royal visitors illustrate how old-fashioned ideas of pomp and circumstance have changed.

Twenty-one-year-old Princess Margherita of Baden, a pretty young German girl with wavy hair and laughing eyes, is a hard-working nurse at London's St. Thomas's hospital. Her uncle, the Duke of Edinburgh, invited her to put her starched uniform aside

Queen Mother, Margaret Hold Rehearsal

By MICHAEL NEWMARCH

London— (AP) —Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Margaret pushed through cheering crowds around Westminister Abbey today and entered the gleaming interior to practise their brief moments in the pageantry of Tuesday's Coronation.

The Queen stayed at Buckingham Palace, getting ready to entertain 7,000 guests at a party in the palace gardens later today, her second big coronation function.

The first took place Wednesday by Commonwealth representatives, when she was entertained at lunch tives.

Several hundred Canadians will attend the garden party, led by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

The Queen Mother, Margaret and royal relatives today rehearsed their stately progress up the aisles of the grey old Abbey, now transformed by hangings into a splendor of blue and gold.

That procession, shortly before the young Queen arrives, will be the only moments when the spotlight rests briefly on the widowed mother and the Queen's younger sister. For the rest of the 2¼-hour ceremony they will watch quietly from a royal box.

London firemen crept quietly through the Abbey during today's rehearsal, checking miles of electric cable to guard against fire hazards.

Mounting Coronation fever gripped the capital. In the flag-be-decked streets for the sixth straight day crowds snarled traffic in central London, threatening to choke some of the city's main streets altogether. The size of the crowds, exceeding all expectations, gave the police one of their biggest traffic-control headaches in years.

But they had a bigger one worrying about Coronation Day. No one knows just how many will turn out to cheer the Queen then, but as today's crowds grew and grew, Scotland Yard issued a plea for public assistance in keeping the procession route open Tuesday.

Police commissioner Sir Harold Scott said that unless spectators in the streets around Westminister are in their places by 6 a.m., the whole split-second timing of the Coronation might break down. He told a press conference the police wil have to shepherd nearly 7,500 guests, travelling in 5,000 cars, into the Abbey by 8 a.m.

In addition to checking her garden party plans, the Queen today held a privy council in Buckingham Palace, approving with her top advisers the form of Coronation ceremonial. She also received briefly Russia's new ambassador, Jacob Malik, who called to present his credentials.

Nearly all Britain's lesser royalty attended today's Abbey practice, including the Duchess of Kent and her children, the young Duke of Kent, Prince Michael and Princess Alexandra.

Today's rehearsals culminated a series of practices in which participants of the elaborate ceremonial have rehearsed their roles as individuals or in small groups. Friday, separate parts will be molded into one when all, including the Queen will go through a full dress rehearsal of the entire service.

Gay Costumes, Decorations Vie With One Another As London Gets Dressed Up

London —(Reuters)— It's grand to be in London on a day like this —brilliant sunshine, gay decorations stirring in the breeze, the tramp and bustle of a capital preparing to crown a Queen.

Only five days to go, and like a queen herself, London is adorned with finery and athrob with vitality. Its grim old buildings are trimmed with color, its blitz-scars softened with bunting and flags.

Always cosmopolitan, it has become a true meeting-place for the hurrying world. In the jostling crowds that flow constantly over the route that the Queen will take to and from Westminster Abbey next Tuesday, many nationalities rub shoulders with Londoners and out-of-town Britons, all rubbernecking at the sights.

Bright costumes vie with the street decorations. There are giant Maoris from New Zealand, gaily-dressed Papuans from the Pacific, African chiefs in blazing bright robes, tribal warriors from the colonies, and excited children festooned with Coronation favors.

The decorations are dry again after Wednesday's sudden downpour. Today's sunshine has lifted spirits. On all sides you hear: "If only it could be a day like this."

Preparations were completed today for a final Coronation rehearsal in Westminister Abbey Friday. Peers, peeresses and state dignitaries will go through the whole service.

The Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh and other members of the Royal Family will probably be there.

The six-month task of transforming the Abbey into its Coronation setting of blue and gold is complete. Workmen will hammer away during the week-end to finish the annex built onto the Abbey as a robing room for Coronation guests.

Tens of thousands of sightseers are expected in the streets tonight to see a preview of Coronation illuminations. Buckingham Palace, the Tower of London, St. James's Palace, Trafalgar Square and public buildings will be lit up for an hour, a lighting test for Coronation night.

London — (CP) — May I take a camera to the royal garden party? Have you any tickets for the Derby? How do I get to St. Paul's by tube? Could you tell me how I can find my uncle in Yorkshire? Have you got a match?

These are a fair cross-section of the questions Coronation-bound Canadians are throwing at the harrassed staff of Canada House in London's Trafalgar Square.

Every Canadian arriving for the Coronation apparently makes a bee-line for Canada House. Some 500 have called daily during the last few days.

Canada House is handling some 9,000 tickets for Coronation seats (£4 open, £6 covered). Some of the best seats along the Coronation parade route have been built in front of Canada House. They command a good view of Trafalgar Square, through which the parade will pass three times. Refreshments will be provided during the long day.

Canada House, normally a box-like drab building with tall pillars, is all decked out in green, with the crests of the 10 provinces running around two sides. The seats have been built between the pillars on iron scaffoldings so that the entrance to Canada House now resembles a woodchuk's hole.

London — (Reuters) — The 15 Scotland Yard detectives who will be disguised as guests in Westminster Abbey on Coronation Day aren't likely to find any bomb-throwing anarchists in the crowd.

For members of the Anarchists' Association, peeved because Britons are waving flags these days and paying no attention to their anti-monarchy campaign, are leaving town June 2. An "escape committee" has organized a picnic in Epping Forest, a big wooded park on London's outskirts.

Freedom, official newspaper of the anarchists—who don't believe in monarchy or any form of government—refers to the Coronation Day picnic as a "mass exodus."

"On that day, a certain incident is to occur which will make it distasteful for men and women of sanity and independence of thought to remain in London," explained the paper, which claims a weekly circulation of 4,000.

The anarchists group here is widely regarded as being slightly "crackpot."

Though they are mainly anti-Communist, the anarchists are supported by the Communists at least in their disapproval of the Coronation. The Communist newspaper Daily Worker has been consistently attacking the ceremony for weeks.

London —(Reuters)— The Queen has chosen the makeup she'll wear Coronation day, after more than six months of trial-and-error experiment.

Mrs. Thelma Holland, her beauty consultant for nine years, said Wednesday night it will comprise:

1. Peach-tinted liquid foundation.
2. A touch of red-blue powder rouge over the foundation to enhance her own healthy coloring.
3. A new red-blue lipstick specially created to tone with the vivid red parliamentary robe the Queen will don travelling to Westminster Abbey, where she will be crowned, and with the purple robe of state she will wear during the spectacular state drive afterwards through London's crowded, festive streets.
4. Peach-tinted face powder.

Mrs. Holland explained that a model with coloring similar to the Queen's was guinea pig in the experiments.

Reds Make Major Attack In Korea

Seoul— (AP) —Violent fighting erupted along the Korean battle line today as more than 8,500 Chinese attacked Allied positions on the east-central and western fronts.

The Reds threw elements of three regiments, about 6,500 men, into an assault along a 20-mile sector in central Korea before dawn and wrested five outposts from South Koreans.

A few hours later three Communist battalions—more than 2,000 men—struck five strategic outposts on the western front. The Reds hit outposts Vegas, Carson, Elko, Berlin and East Berlin.

On the central front, South Koreans drove the Reds from five outposts in a full day of fighting, some of it hand-to-hand. Fighting still raged around four other outposts.

Russia Abolishes Control Council For West Germany

London — (AP) — Moscow today removed its army commander in East Germany from all duties except command of Soviet troops and appointed a Russian "supreme commissar" to supervise governmental affairs of the Soviet-occupied zone.

Moscow radio, announcing this, said the Soviet control commission in Germany now is abolished.

The Russian-language broadcast, as translated by monitors here, referred to the appointment of a "supreme commissar" but the term could be translated "high commissioner" — the same term used by each of the three Western powers for their chief representatives in West Germany.

Abolition of the Soviet control commission parallels, at least on paper, similar steps taken long ago by the three Western occupying powers — Britain, the United States and France.

The announcement said the Soviet Council of Ministers cabinet had "decreed the abolition of the Soviet control commission in Germany and the freeing of the supreme commander of Soviet troops from performing duties of control in the German Democratic Republic."

The Soviet commander's activities in the future will be "limited to the command of Soviet troops in Germany," the broadcast said.

It added:

"The U.S.S.R. Council of Ministers has decreed that a post of supreme commissar of the U.S.S.R. in Germany be instituted, domiciled in Berlin and has entrusted him with representing the interests of the Soviet Union in Germany."

The announcement said Vladimir Semeyenov, a member of the Soviet foreign minister collegium, had been appointed supreme commissar.

The new commissar will "watch over the activity of authoritative organs of the German Democratic Republic from the point of view of their fulfillment of undertakings arising from the Potsdam decisions of the Allied powers in Germany."

He also will maintain "appropriate relations with representatives of the occupation powers of the U.S.A., Britain and France on questions of a general nature arising from agreed decisions of the four powers on Germany."

Lt.-Gen. Vasily Chuikov, the commander of the Soviet forces in Germany, has been chairman of the Soviet control commission, established when the Russians set up the East zone republic in 1949.

But Semyenov, the new "commissar," has been a potent force in East German affairs for more than six years. He was political adviser to Marshal Vassily Sokolovsky, who was succeeded by Chuikov in 1949.

On Jan. 7, 1949, Semyenov was named extraordinary ambassador plenipotentiary to the Soviet zone. He was assigned various tasks in the east zone, including the revival of trade between East and West Germany. As the chief diplomatic representative of the Kremlin in East Germany, he was a chief consultant of the Communist leaders of the east zone government.

In April it was announced that he would be replaced as political adviser to the Soviet control commission by Pavel Yudin. On May 1 Moscow disclosed Semyenov had been named a member of the foreign minister collegium — the advisory group of the Soviet foreign ministry.

In June, 1950, the Russians replaced their military men on the commission with four diplomats. They included Sergei A. Dengin, who represented the commission in Berlin. Dengin has figured in many negotiations with the West over matters of conflict in Berlin.

At the time, the placing of civilians on the commission was interpreted by Western observers as bolstering the prestige of the east zone government.

Eisenhower Disagrees With Taft

Washington — (CP) — President Eisenhower told a press conference today the forthcoming Big Three meeting in Bermuda will not necessarily lead to a Big Four session with Russia.

Developments would have to justify a conference with Soviet leaders, he said.

Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and the French premier plan to meet in Bermuda next month to discuss world conditions. Churchill has said he hopes it will be followed by a top-level meeting with Soviet representatives on East-West tensions.

Eisenhower said he disagrees with the statement of Senator Robert Taft that the United States "might as well forget the United Nations as far as the Korean war is concerned."

Eisenhower's declaration that he disagrees with Taft was the widest divergence of opinion that has developed between the president and the Senate Republican leader since the new administration took office.

The question, as put to Eisenhower, was whether he shares Taft's view that the United States might as well forget the United Nations as far as the Korean war is concerned.

The president replied: No.

Taft made the statement in a speech read for him by his son in Cincinnati Tuesday night.

Eisenhower, after replying with a single negative to the question, said he wanted to explain his position.

He went on to say he has had a great deal of experience in dealing with coalitions and that it is always a difficult task.

South Koreans Say Allies Are Selling Out To Reds

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

Seoul — (AP) — Bristling with charges of Allied appeasement and sellout in Korea, the South Korean government today spelled out its opposition to the latest Allied truce proposal in a note to the United Nations command.

Maj.-Gen. Choi Duk Shin, South Korean truce delegate, left Seoul late today to deliver the message to Lt.-Gen. William K. Harrison, senior Allied negotiator, at Munsan.

Contents of the note were not made public. But a Republic of Korea spokesman described it as "very important." He said it gave detailed expression of the ROK government's recommendations, but was in no way an ultimatum.

Choi's trip emphasized an increasingly thunderous drumfire of opposition from leaders of this war-battered republic.

South Korean's foreign minister, Pyun Yung Tai, threatened to resign if his government approved the still-secret Allied proposal for breaking the prisoner-of-war deadlock submitted to the Reds Monday.

Referring to two Red satellies, Poland and Czechslovakia, nominated for a five-country commission to handle prisoners who refuse to go home, Pyun said:

"Our country will fight troops from such countries."

Yoon Chi Yung, National Assembly vice-chairman, said Harrison has been told the proposal infringed on RoK sovereignty because it was kept secret from the RoK government until just before it was presented to the Reds. And, that if the UN should go through with the proposal, the United States would be held responsible for a third world war.

The assemblymen said they could not recognize India, which has backed the new plan and has been suggested to head the five-country commission, as an "independent state."

One assemblyman said Harrison's only reply was an implication that the RoK views should be directed to higher levels.

The truce negotiations themselves stood still.

The negotiators are scheduled to meet at Panmunjom Monday after a week-long recess. The Reds are expected to answer the UN plan then.

Behind the RoK opposition to the Allied truce plan is the RoK government's demand for unification with North Korea. Another objection arose from the Allied plan to give a five-member neutral nation commission custody of some 48,500 prisoners of war unwilling to return to communist rule. These include 34,000 North Korean prisoners, whom the Rhee government wants released in South Korea immediately following a truce.

The South Koreans also object to possible use of communist satellite troops to handle prisoners while their fate is decided. Satellites Poland and Czechoslovakia have been named to the commission along with Sweden, Switzerland and India.

More Than 1,200 Canadians Take Part In Coronation

By DAVID McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London — (CP) — At least 1,221 Canadians stand a reasonable good chance of surviving the mammoth jam on the day of Coronation. They're in the show, the safest place to be.

Of this number, 461 are in the parade, 336 will help line the parade route, 24 Sabre pilots will take part in the all-jet flypast, and 400 will see the crowning in Westminster Abbey. The 400 in the Abbey represent practically every group in Canada, from political parties to trade unions.

Only 11 Canadians wil' be in the procession from Buckingham Palace to the Abbey. Prime Minister and Mrs. St. Laurent will ride in a carriage drawn by two horses. They will have an escort of four mounted RCMP.

Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, aide-de-camp general to the Queen, will ride on horseback in the Queen's procession, one of the 10 components of the entire parade. Gen. Crerar has been practising horseback riding for months and his RCMP teacher says he's a cracker-jack.

The four Canadians who will be closest to the Queen's state coach are members of the Queen's escort of officers from the Commonwealth contingents.

They are Lt.-Col. E. G. Brooks, Montreal; Maj. J. S. Orton, Ottawa and Vancouver; Lieut. H. E. Pepler, Oakville, Ont.; and Lieut. H. McLellan, Sarnia, Ont. The spare, in case of sickness or accident, is Lieut. B. R. Foster, Assiniboia, Sask.

Two former Canadian governors-general will also be in the procession to the Abbey, the Earl of Athlone in the carriage procession of princes and princesses of the blood royal and Field Marshal Earl Alexander, Britain's defense minister, in the Queen's procession.

The lord mayor of London, Sir Rupert de la Bere, gets the show on the road at 7.55 a.m. Following his procession will come the speaker of the House of Commons, certain members of the Royal Family, and representatives of foreign countries. Andrei Gromyko of Russia will arrive at the Abbey just ahead of Gen. George Marshall of the United States.

The first carriage procession to leave Buckingham Palace, at 9.15 a.m., will be that of the colonial rulers.

St. Laurent and his wife will be in the No. 2 coach of the second carriage procession, that of the Commonwealth prime ministers. They will be immediately behind the coach of Sir Winston and Lady Churchill.

The third carriage procession will be that of princes and princesses of the blood royal, the fourth that of the Queen Mother and the fifth that of Queen Elizabeth herself.

On the return to the palace after the Coronation, the order in each carriage procession will be reversed.

The Canadian Coronation contingent of navy, army, air force and RCMP doesn't get into the act until after the crowning, when the 13-mile parade begins back to the palace.

The procession will be so long that when the Queen's coach leaves the Abbey, the head of the parade will be starting off from Marble Arch, halfway round the parade route.

The Canadians will probably jump off from somwhere in Piccadilly street. They will be in this order: 36 RCMP, three-man color party, bearing the colors of the three services, 121 RCAF, 205 army, 85 navy.

Illinois Jacquet Orchestra Heard On Many Labels

Illinois Jacquet, who brings his famed orchestra to the Sherbrooke Arena on Saturday, is undoubtedly the most recorded saxaphonist in show business, having recorded for Decca Records, Alladin Records, Apollo Records, Disc Records and R.C.A. Victor Records.

His recording career dates back to 1937 when Illinois met up with a vibraharpist named Lionel Hampton in Los Angeles. Lionel had just formed his own combination and was looking for a soloist to use on his recording dates. Twenty five minutes after Hampton heard Jacquet audition, he had him in a recording studio making his first discs.

After the saxaphonist left the Hampton congregation, he was flooded with offers from top bandleaders who knew the power of Jacquet's playing. Instead of accepting one permanent spot with a band, Jacquet shared his playing time between such leading orchestras as Cab Calloway and Count Basie.

It was right after Illinois had finished a term with the Calloway gang that his greatest accolade came. Warner Bros. were looking for leading instrumentalists to help film a contemporary short called "Jammin' the Blues." One of the directors, a jazz fan, remembered hearing Illinois Jacquet's saxaphone on a record and immediately started a nation-wide search for him. His true greatness was obvious when he held his own among such musical greats as Sid Catlett, Lester Young, John Simmons and Joe Jones.

At the persistent badgering of Norman Granz, famous jazz patron, Jacquet agreed to tour America with an all star group of instrumentalists. At the end of the tour the constant urging from his fellow "Philharmonoists" convinced Illinois that he should form his own orchestra.

As soon as Jacquet formed his new sextette three major record companies rushed in to sign him to recording contracts. These companies, Apollo Records, Savoy Records and Alladin Records, were so anxious to secure the services of Illinois Jacquet that they did not insist upon an exclusive contract.

Jacquet is probably the most recorded man in the business, being represented on practically all major labels. In 1949, however, R.C.A. Victor offered Illinois Jacquet an unusual exclusive recording contract which guaranteed Jacquet tremendous royalties. Jacquet signed this contract and is currently recording exclusively for R.C.A. Victor.

You do not have to wait to hear Jacquet on records, for if you drop up to the Arena on Saturday, you will have a chance to see and hear him and his great musical group in person.

★ IN HOLLYWOOD ★

Hollywood—Exclusively Yours: Hedy Lamarr left for movie making in Europe with this sad statement to a close friend: "I'm afraid I'm through in Hollywood. Nobody wants me." Note to Hedy: Not at $150,000 a picture, sweetie. . . Roz Russell isn't bowing out of Broadway's "Wonderful Town" to make a movie this summer, as rumored. The show's a hit and she's sticking with it. . . Friends are worried about Betty Garrett's slow recovery from a pneumonia attack. . . That big hunk of real estate that Billy Eckstine and his wife are splitting up in their divorce is right next to the estate of Clark Gable.

A seven-year-old master of ceremonies for a talent show at a Los Angeles school left the mamas and papas in hysterics after thanking them for coming.

"I now bid you goodnight," said the moppet," and leave you with two famous last words—Marilyn Monroe!"

Gordon MacRae's explanation of why his wife, Sheila, is teaming up with him for a night-club tour: "I told her I needed a girl who was sexy, had stage presence, was able to sing and was a good trouper. She looked straight at me, as only a wife can, and said: 'Well?????'"

All This And Talent

Marie Wilson will unveil a new talent—mimicry—in her Las Vegas night-club act. She'll do murderous takeoffs on Tallulah Bankhead and Vivien Leigh in special material written by Sidney Miller. She'll also do a parody on the song, "I'm in the Money." In Las Vegas?

Gene Barry, who sent the ladies into a spin with his emoting in "Atomic City" and "War of the Worlds," is headed for Errol Flynn-type swashbucklers at Paramount. A look at him in a bare-chested black gaucho outfit in "Red Garters" sent the studio front office in a spin over his romantic-adventure appeal.

Montgomery Clift, off the screen for over two years after "A Place in the Sun," doesn't know when he will make another movie now that he's finished three in a row—"I Confess," "Terminal Station" and "From Here to Eternity."

He will face the cameras only if the script's to his liking, Monty confided at the Reno, Nev., fourth annual Silver Spurs celebration and added:

"An actor's like a writer. If you believe in what you're writing, you can put more into what you have to say. I do pictures I'm interested in and didn't set out to do three in a row. The scripts just came that way."

Dialing Hollywood

Hollywood On TV: Shirley Temple's Columbus, Agent Gene Mann, is looking for another moppet with "Temple appeal" for a TV family series. . .Lorry Raine, the singer, and Jimmy Wakely are huddling on a video idea. . . Ann Sothern's signed for 26 more "Private Secretary" films—an $800,000 deal. . . His NBC sponsor said Red Skelton had to go—so he's going to CBS-TV. No more radio for Red, though.

Gale Storm nixed a plan to do a Liberace impersonation during her night-club act with: "I'd be making fun of him and that's not for me." . . . Charles Starrett, who left Columbia a year ago, will make the TV plunge in a filmed fishing and hunting series. No television western for the famed movie cowpoke.

Spike Jones' wife, Helen Grayco, is okay after surgery in Hollywood. . . Danny Kaye is penciled in for his TV debut next fall on "Your Show of Shows." . . .Barbara Britton, who always guesses the villain in "Mr. and Mrs. North," is guessing she'll have a son for her summer stork date.

Laraine Day's telefilm series, "White Collar Girl," will be produced by a movie veteran, Bert Granet. The plots will be based on dolls scrambling for careers and men in New York, with a big accent on eye appeal for male viewers.

Says Bert: "There aren't enough beautiful dolls on television but I'm going to see that there are."

More Than 500 Delegates Expected At 8th Congress Of 4-H Clubs Saturday

More than 500 persons are expected to attend the 8th annual congress of Eastern Townships 4-H clubs, to be held Saturday in Scotstown.

Members of all parts of the Eastern Townships are expected to gather for the largest congress of the 4-H clubs ever organized in the E.T. The responsibility of organizing this meeting lies in the hands of the Scotstown club.

Saturday morning all delegates will register at the Parish Hall. This will be followed by the nomination of the secretary for the congress.

L. Charbonneau, mayor of Scotstown, will officially open the congress, and will deliver a brief address of welcome to the delegates. Yves Allair, president of the Scotstown club, will also deliver a short message of welcome.

Next on the day-long program will be the reading of the minutes of the last congress, held in Sherbrooke, by Lucien Bedard. At 10:30 nominations and organization of various committees will take place.

Members of the 4-H Club will then meet under the chairmanship of Roger Cote, assistant provincial secretary, who will address them. Later they will depart by motor for Lake Dumoulin where they will have a picnic.

Commencing at 1:30 in the afternoon the delegates will make a plant visit to Guelph Cask Veneer and Plywood Company, under the guidance of W. A. Ladd, manager of the company.

After the plant tour, the delegates will meet at the college where secretaries from the different clubs will report on the year's activities. Chairmen of the various committees will then give an account of their progress.

Following a general discussion, the group will leave for the mountain where the service of the Blessed Sacrament will be celebrated.

They will then return to the Parish Hall where a banquet will be held under the honorary chairmanship of J. A. Savoie, president of the A.F.C.E. The ladies' Home Handicrafts association, of which Mrs. Osias Dumoulin is president, have contributed much time towards the success of this banquet.

The congress will close following the delivery of speeches by several prominent men and the distribution of attendance prizes.

More Stories Of Attacks By Police Are Told As Strike Trial Continues

Six witnesses, five of them plaintiffs in an action totalling $200,000 and taken against Provincial Police Inspector Norbert Labbe and seven other members of the force, testified in court here yesterday that they were beaten by the Provincial Police during the Canadian Johns Manville strike in Asbestos, on May 6, 1949.

Each miner is claiming $25,000 for false arrest, medical expenses, after effects and damage to his reputation.

The plaintiffs are: Gerard Chamberlain, Alfred Blanchette and Adelestin Lavalliere, of Thetford and Emile Grimard, Jean Noel Hamel, Joseph Beaudoin, Jeffrey Roux and Jean-Paul Houle, of Asbestos.

In addition to Inspector Labbe the defendants are: Det. Charles Nadeau, Const. Leo Lefebvre, Sgt. Det. Alfred Gagne, Sgt. Det. Adrien Casavant, Lt. Traffic Officer, Emile Contant, Det. Adrien Daniel and Lt.-Det. Marcel Patenaude.

Chamberlain, Roux and Lavalliere have testified that they were beaten by the police and yesterday the other five plaintiffs told their story.

First witness heard yesterday was Jean-Paul Houle, 29, of Asbestos, a plaintiff, who said he was arrested near the St. Aime Church in Asbestos on May 6, taken to the nurses home and slugged by a plain-clothes detective. "I was socked so hard that I was unconscious."

Houle said he asked for something to eat and was told that it was not the church hall but was given a sandwich and a coke. He said he did not know why he took the action against Lt. Emile Contant, when asked by the defense attorney. Later in his testimony he said that he took the action because Contant said to the other members of the force, who struck him but whom he could not identify, "don't miss that guy."

He said that in order not to be beaten any further he lied to the police and told them that a big dark fellow was standing beside him on the Danville Highway the day previously and he identified him as Alfred Blanchette.

Houle said that one of the police he saw in the nurses' home was Det. Armand Binnette, who died three years ago.

Houle said that he was a veteran and had a good reputation. He said he was on his way to church, changed his mind when he saw the police and was standing on the corner when he was told to circulate. "We kept moving and then I changed my mind and went to church. I saw the police come into the church and arrest a man so I decided to leave. On my way home I was arrested."

Houle said he was scared to say what happened on May 5. He did not want to say what he did and after a legal debate between the attorneys, the Judge said that he did not have to answer the question.

Joseph Beaudoin, of Asbestos, was the second plaintiff heard yesterday, the third day of the Superior Court trial. Mr. Justice Antonio Garneau, of Montreal, is presiding.

Beaudoin said that he too was slugged after being questioned at the Iroquois Hotel in Asbestos, at the nurses' home in Asbestos and at the Provincial Police headquarters in Montreal.

Beaudoin said that he went to the restaurant in Asbestos around 8 a.m. on May 6 to get a coke and some ice cream. Asked by the defense attorney if he did not go there for another reason, he said no. He also told the court that his grandfather died at 102 and "he liked his ice cream and coke."

Beaudoin said that he was arrested in the restaurant where he went to get the coke and ice cream and was taken to the Iroquois Hotel for questioning. He said that he recognized Inspector Labbe and Det. Nadeau at the hotel.

Beaudoin said he received a black eye and an injured mouth during the interviews. He could not identify the police who struck him.

Asked what he did on the 5th, he said that he had the grippe.

Jean-Noel Hamel, of Asbestos, said he was arrested at his home, where he was staying with his parents, on May 6. "I was pushed around punched in the stomach and one of the officers who struck me was Lt. Det. Patenaude."

He said he did not know what happened on the 5th. He said that Constable Lefebvre questioned him and told him not to be afraid. "As soon as I took my hands down from my face he slugged me and I fell to the floor."

Hamel said that he was scared when Lefebvre told him that he had killed two men in Montreal.

Alfred Blanchette, of Asbestos, said he was arrested by police in blue, khaki and in plain clothes. He said he was told to get into the police car and was punched and taken to nurses home. He said that the police told him that "40 of you . . . beat up one cop yesterday and today we are going to get you . . . one by one."

Blanchette said that one of the men who slugged him had badge number 356.

Blanchette said he was taken to the cellar of the Iroquois Hotel and saw a constable kick Jeffrey Roux, another plaintiff.

"One of the policemen gave me a glass of tomato juice and a cigaret."

He said that one officer told him that when it was dark he would take him home. "I was scared and felt like a little child following his father."

Emile Grimard, of Asbestos, said he was struck by Lt. Det. Patenaude while being questioned. He said he was arrested at his home and taken to the nurses' home. He said that at the nurses' home he saw Chamberlain with a cut on his head.

"When I refused to make a declaration I was punched and Patenaude hit me."

The other witness heard yesterday was Willie Champagne who is expected to be called back to the stand today as the court adjourned soon after he was sworn in.

Lawyers Jacques Perrault, and Theodore L'Esperance, of Montreal, and Carriere Fortin, of Sherbrooke, are representing the strikers and Leon Methot, Q.C., of Three Rivers and his son Jean, are representing the police.

Lawyers Perrault and Methot had a heated argument in court yesterday.

Mr. Methot accused Perrault of putting answers in the mouth of his client.

Mr. Perrault said that an organizer for the Union National party had contacted one of the plaintiffs, Houle, and suggested to him that he drop the charges against the police, stating that his lawyers were costing too much money and that the government always won its cases.

It is expected that the plaintiffs will conclude their evidence today and that the defence will start late this afternoon or early tomorrow.

The trial is expected to last two weeks.

Blind Are Not Helpless, But Can Play Important Role In Community

Magog, May 28 — Lloyd McClintock, field superintendent of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, was guest speaker at the Magog Lions' Club meeting held at The Chateau du Lac Hotel here last night. He was introduced by President Wendell Bresee and thanked by Ernest Bradley.

Mr. McClintock, who is blind himself, told the Lions that there is a constant fight for the possession of men's minds and he emphasized the advantages of the free way of life. He said that by service to the underprivileged, Lions were helping to destroy the grounds on which subversive powers prey.

In a similar manner, Mr. McClintock explained, does the C.N.I.B. serve blind persons, by giving them hope. He said there is a general idea that blindness and helplessness go hand in hand. "This is not at all true," Mr. McClintock said, "because this handicap can be overcome. Blind people, if given a chance, can accept responsibility in their community."

Much depends on the community in helping to rehabilitate the blind. The speaker said that the public in general feels that blind people should conform with a certain pattern of helplessness and the stay-at-home life. Too many feel that by donating to the blind cause, they are helping the sightless as disabled. He said that this is not so, and the Canadian National Institute for the Blind uses such funds to help rehabilitate the blind by putting them back to work to become completely or in part self-supporting.

Everyone is willing to invest where self gain in dollars can be made, but when they are asked to aid humanity at large, the general feeling is that one's part is done with a donation of 50 cents when one, two and often more dollars can be afforded. As a rule people feel righteous when they donate something! The feeling should be to give all that one can possibly afford.

Mr. McClintock told of a man who had served the Federal Post Office Department for thirty years, and after those 30 years he was struck with blindness. He was given a pension of $80 a month, and left idle. Mr. McClintock explained that he was not in any way trying to condemn the government, but he said it was not fair to allow that man to remain idle! The C.N.I.B. found this man after some time. His living conditions had been getting gradually worse. The C.N.I.B. taught him brail, gave him work and helped him in as many ways as possible. It took a whole year to gain his confidence. Today that man is a field secretary for the Association, holding a responsible job in one of the association's districts and is self supporting.

Mr. McClintock said the average employer asks himself, "If I were blind, could I do this job?" His answer is invariably no. He can't possibly know the blind person's problems. He can't understand the efforts a blind person will muster up when given a chance. Many times blind persons can turn out better work than a sighted person.

During war years those in the land of darkness were a great asset in the war effort, but Mr. McClintock questioned the reason for laying them off when peace came and the world got down to peace time production again. No one knows! During the war years these blind men and women gained high praise for their workmanship and steadiness, but the switch over saw them again as the supposed helpless lot of our society.

"Don't put yourself in a blind man's shoes, they won't fit you. You don't know his problems," Mr.

Former Sherbrooke Record Reporter Will Report For CP At Coronation

London—(CP)—Reporters of three great national news agencies will tell the Coronation story for the Sherbrooke Record and other members of The Canadian Press.

Early on June 2 four Canadian Press staff men will be deployed along the procession route and in Westminster Abbey, alert to catch the unique flavor of imperial pageantry and ancient ceremony.

Their work will dovetail with that of Reuters, British agency which operates on a world-wide basis, and of The Associated Press, the United States co-operative which also reports for the world. Reuters and AP have each concentrated in London the biggest corps of reporters ever mobilized to cover a single story in the United Kingdom.

Their reports are available in Canada through their long-standing alliance with CP.

CP's on-the-spot coverage will be directed by Alan Harvey, London bureau chief, who has been assigned a place in Westminster Abbey for the ceremony. His Coronation staff includes Arch MacKenzie of London bureau, David McIntosh of Ottawa bureau who travelled to England with the Canadian naval contingent, and Forbes Rhude, CP's business editor, who will hurry to London after the International Chamber of Commerce meeting at Vienna to lend a hand with Coronation-coverage preparations.

Harvey, whose sensitive story on the funeral of King George VI was hailed by Canadian newspapers as outstanding, is a native of Toronto. MacKenzie, a young veteran of several CP bureaux, is a Reginan. Rhude—best known for his backgrounded feature stories on aspects of national development—is a Prince Edward Islander. McIntosh, former CP news editor at Halifax and Vancouver and now attached to parliamentary staff at Ottawa, comes from Stanstead, Que., and began his newspaper career on the Sherbrooke Daily Record.

Ranald Maclurkin, Reuters chief reporter in the United Kingdom, will head that agency's reporting staff inside Westminster Abbey. Reuters' running account from the Abbey and the procession route will be co-ordinated by Stuart Underhill, their North American editor, formerly of Vancouver and one-time CP bureau chief in London and New York.

Among the corps of 40 Associated Press reporters and editors will be two Pulitzer Prize winners, Relman Morin and Hal Boyle.

Spot reporting of the event is expected to start with descriptions of the gathering crowds well before the Queen leaves Buckingham Palace at 10:26 a.m. BST (5:26 EDT). The procession is due to reach Westminster Abbey at 11 a.m. (6 a.m. EDT). The Coronation ceremony takes 2½ hours.

FRANCE — A QUESTION MARK

Only one obstacle stands in the way of full and final West German approval of the European defense treaty. The German high court must pass on the constitutionality of the pact.

Prospects for favorable court action are considered good. If that is so, then Chancellor Adenauer's victory is almost in hand. With notable statesmanship, he has now piloted the treaty measure successfully through both houses of the Bonn Parliament.

West Germany thus has become the first of the six signatory nations to win parliamentary ratification of the pact. The example is impressive. And there is not much doubt that Italy, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg are willing to follow it.

The question mark, of course, is France.

To begin with, the French want a settlement of the thorny Saar issue before going ahead. Negotiations are under way on this in Paris, but there's no indication yet how they are faring.

The Germans have said they would accept any solution calling for the internationalizing of the Saar. But the French haven't yet shown any willingness to release their tight economic grip on the coal-rich area.

Even if this difficulty is surmounted, no assurance exists that France would then move with speed to ratify the defense pact. The French have other conditions they would like to attach, conditions that would assure them a powerful voice in the treaty organization regardless of their military manpower representation.

The French have understandable fears of a revived German militarism. But the EDC pact was their own idea, a device shrewdly conceived to make use of German strength while keeping it within the control of an international organization.

It would be a sad twist if the French should now show themselves unable to get their fears under reasonable control and give EDC the crucial push it needs.

The French would then stand before the free world as the destroyers of the unity of Europe which they were the first to clothe in such bright hopes. They would then have allowed the memory of an old menace — Germany — to cloud their recognition of the new and greater threat from the Soviet Union.

GRADUATES AND THEIR FUTURES

This is the period of university graduations, which mark the high point in the lives of thousands of our young Canadians. Not only is their graduation an important event for them but it is important for the whole country, says The Windsor Star.

They are embarking on the voyage of mature life. The course may have been charted by those who have gone before. But each must make his or her own way into what for them are unknown waters.

Alert and optimistic they set out on this voyage with confidence. They have reason for confidence. They have been prepared for their careers by a good education. And they can pursue their endeavors in freedom in a country rich in its resources.

The knowledge they have learned at university is valuable. But the principal advantage of education is that it teaches youth to learn and to think. As years go by these graduates of today will appreciate their university education was only a start — though an excellent one. Their success will depend upon their ability to continue to learn and to think, and to apply the resultant knowledge and wisdom.

University students usually have open minds. Otherwise they would be unable to absorb what they are taught. We hope the graduates will always keep their minds open, and not allow them to become cluttered by prejudice, cynicism or other barnacles wihch are apt to attach themselves to humans.

Fortunately there are opportunities readily available for these young graduates. Almost every profession and vocation is crying out for their talents. This will enable them to assimilate quickly and easily into the workaday world.

These young men and women are privileged people, the privilege of being educated. These privileges bring commensurate responsibilities. The country looks to them for leadership in the future.

We believe they will provide it, just as graduates of previous years have done. It will be leadership in many fields, in the professions, in social welfare, in the economic order and in public affairs. And in all these aspects of life there is room at the top.

PUBLIC LANDS DEFENDERS CITE STATE AND NATIONAL BENEFITS

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Proposals to change the public land laws of the United States to put more of the 457 million acres under state control and private ownership have drawn fire from a number of sources, in and out of government.

One of the stoutest defenders of the present public lands administration is Robert W. Sawyer, editor of the Bend (Ore.) Bulletin and a former president of the National Reclamation Association. Mr. Sawyer has fought vigorously against the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation and some of its water and public power policies. But on public land policy he takes another tack.

When the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, through its past president, Laurence F. Lee, launched its crusade for revision of the land laws, Mr. Sawyer charged that the whole story was not being told. He answered Mr. Lee's article in American Forests Magazine with an article of his own.

"There are millions of acres in the 24 per cent (of U.S. land owned by the federal government) that no one would ever want or be willing to own and pay taxes on. There is no tax loss on these lands," he declared.

"Millions of acres of lands that we once federal went into the hands of citizens," Mr. Sawyer continued. "After being raped of their timber, they went back to the 'federal empire' on the solicitation, not of a federal bureau, but on that of their private owners.

"Many other thousands of acres left government ownership, went first on the tax roll and then went tax delinquent. Now they are owned by the counties where they are a headache for the assessors and a sorrow to the conservationists. They ought to be returned to the public domain."

Schools And Roads Get Share Of Income

Federal lands not on the tax rolls do bring other benefits to the states in such things as extra highway construction subsidies. One fourth of the annual income from national forests must be paid to the states for the benefit of schools and roads.

Citing Oregon figures as an example, Mr. Sawyer points out that his state has received payments of over $40 million in the last five years, in lieu of taxes and more than taxes would have been if the states had held the land.

Hugh B. Woodward, president of the New Mexico Game Protective Association, came to Washington recently for a speech before the North American Wildlife Conference, in which he cut loose against the drive to put public lands under state control.

Citing the history of the west, Mr. Woodward recalled the many years in which the livestock men fought the homesteaders in the grazing rights wars. This war still goes on.

"It is the Forest Service lands for which private interests presently grasp," Mr. Woodward declared. "The larger livestock operators who graze their animals upon the national forests are the group most militant in their demands, although in some states timber interests cast covetous eyes upon lumber resources."

Present users of these lands pay little for their privilege, Mr. Woodward pointed out. In 1950, in New Mexico, 1900 users paid $338,000 for the right to graze 181,000 animals in U. S. forests.

Raising Rates Would Double Receipts

More important than grazing privileges, timber cutting, recreation or wildlife protection "is the necessity of protecting our high water-yielding areas in the national forests, to assure the teeming millions who live below in the valleys of their water supply," says Mr. Woodward.

"In the southwestern states, water tables have been and are falling without exception. . . . Only by the most conservative and careful control of our watershed areas can we hope to maintain and advance the agricultural and economic life of the west.

"The history of private ownership of forests in the United States has been, generally speaking, a tale of exploitation and destruction. Limited numbers of major corporations have learned to operate their timber as a crop and not as a mine. But only a few private owners have either the financial resources, the foresight or the will to permit such a system of management."

Summing up the situation for the whole United States, the Bureau of Land Management in the Department of Interior reported last year that the public lands paid into the U. S. Treasury $64 million receipts. From mineral rights receipts came to $52 million, from timber rights $10 million, from grazing permits $2 million.

This was $5 for every dollar of expenses. By intelligent management, by raising the rates for services rendered instead of giving these rights away, it was said these revenues could be doubled.

Medicine Hat News

It takes some 50 to 60 acres of southern short-grass land to carry a cow for 12 months. In terms of beef the return is 10 pounds per acre.

In the native-grass lands of the Foothills district 35 to 50 pounds of beef can be realized per acre. But in Arizona phenomenal yields of up to 1,100 pounds per acre have been tabbed, under irrigation, and with a mixture of barley and alfalfa seed.

In the Havre district of Montana records show 650 pounds; near Mandan, N.D., where winters are harder than in the Medicine Hat district, 450 pounds, and on control plots in the State of Washington, 640 pounds.

SHOWING UP McCARTHY

Saskatoon Star-Phoenix

Mr. Attlee's asault the other day on Senator Joe McCarthy and some of the slimy interests which he represents may turn out to have been a useful piece of politics. One of McCarthy's great strengths has been the apparent unwillingness of many eminent Americans to stand up and slug it out with him. If Mr. Attlee will carry the fight to its conclusion, he may help to puncture the myth that McCarthy is invincible. Someone who can command attention must point out to people everywhere the evil which this man does to the cause of democracy and freedom. The leader of a foreign government cannot do it for obvious reasons. If McCarthy's opponents among Americans cannot make their voices heard above the shrill claque the Wisconsin senator has organized in his own behalf, then the task falls to someone Mr. Attlee's stature.

ELIZABETH the Queen

Former Governess to Her Majesty

The Princesses would always get plenty of exercise from our walks, or riding, or cycling. They did not lack fresh air.

One day, while we were at the Royal Lodge, soon after King George had come to the Throne, I took them for a walk through the woods. They loved the woods and went there often. They were always interested in the varieties of wild flowers and the calls of the birds.

We were puzzled by the relics we found. No matter how peaceful or how secluded a wood is, you will always find somewhere in it a very old and rusty tin bath. We would often come upon these domestic relics — and others — quite a mile from the nearest road. The Princesses were puzzled by them.

"But who would cart a bath all this way?" Princess Elizabeth asked me one day. "Why hide it in the middle of a wood?"

As the Princesses and I came back toward the tennis court which at the Royal Lodge, is entirely surrounded by a cypress hedge so that only the nets can be seen from the house, we heard the sound of a ball being hit about the court.

Always curious, Princess Margaret pushed her head between two branches and peered through. "It's Mummy and Papa," she told me excitedly, "playing tennis."

After that we all had to see. The gate was on the far side of the court, quite a long way round. The hedge was not too firm so we clambered through.

The King and Queen were playing alone. I though what a pretty picture she made. She had on a cool print dress and a large shady hat, which, as usual, did not seem to disturb her at all.

Never having seen the Queen playing tennis before, I was amazed at the strength and accuracy of her back-hand drive and her grace on the court.

The King was a fine tennis player who had competed at Wimbledon.

The King turned to the Queen and said to her: "Darling, Lilibet and Margaret must learn to play tennis, otherwise they won't be able to enjoy house parties when they grow up."

One Monday, Princess Elizabeth came to me in great excitement. "Papa thinks it's time we were taught tennis," she said. "He's getting a man to coach us."

And so I prepared to join the Princesses to watch while they learned how to play tennis.

The court at Windsor lies below the level of the drive and is pleasantly situated in a sort of grass-covered hollow.

In King George's V's time it was available to anyone living in the Castle grounds; but few people had been using it lately. I visualized myself taking a book and deck chair and spending a pleasant time.

At first the coach showed the girls the rhythm of the strokes. He made them practice long sweeps with their rackets, rather as a swimming instructor puts his pupils through dry-land exercises.

Then the coach went to the far end of the court and began lobbing balls over the net toward them.

Now my plans for a peaceful afternoon were shattered. Princess Elizabeth had a naturally powerful stroke, but as yet her aim was not so good as her intention. And Princess Margaret would as often as not hit the ball in the opposite direction from the one she intended.

I was quickly roused out of my comfortable chair to become ball boy.

Needless to say if anything was going on out of doors, the dogs coupld not be left out of it. So the Princesses would come down to the courts complete with the Corgis—three of them and a lion dog named Cracker.

Immediately the whole game began to be enjoyed madly by the dogs, who tore about the court barking and running away with the balls.

In the ensuing chaos it became a wearing tussle for one to get a succession of balls out of "Cracker's" mouth, and eventually I put the leashes on the dogs, anchored the leashes to the legs of a basket chair on which I sat. Even so, I had plenty of exercise.

In all, the coach came about six time. At first the Princesses enjoyed it thoroughly. If this man wanted them to make certain movements with their rackets, they would do their best to oblige him.

As usual, Princess Margaret was tired of it before Princess Elizabeth, who showed a natural eye. But both were loath to run for the ball when it passed anywhere outside easy reach.

The coach was quick to realize this, and perhaps too ready to give in to it. At any rate he lobbied the balls back so that neither of them had far to move to return them. I was amused by his private report to me when the lessons finished.

"Princess Elizabeth," he told me with great solemnity, "has a good natural eye for the game. But I am afraid she'll never succeed at it until she forces herself to run after the ball a bit more."

He was taking it very seriously.

But more important things were coming up for Princess Elizabeth. She was presently to join the Army, and tennis, for the time being, was forgotten.

TO ELIZABETH II

There is no need to pray for you,
For you're a queen — a lady, too;
Not queen alone in rank and name,
By title seeking a worldly fame;
But a lady true and queen at heart,
Asking no help but playing your part
With ideals that come from above,
Making decisions in truth ruled by love.

But for ourselves humbly we pray
For grace to guide us in a way
So our demands shall not create
More than you can do in queenly state.
We would that your duties shall be so
You may enjoy your life as you go,
And with your hand in God's the while,
We'll look up to see His approving smile,

IVA DUBOYCE.

FOLLOW THIS RULE FOR GOOD DENFENSE

When you are defending against a no-trump contract it is usually wise to keep hammering away at the same suit. This is a sound play for two reasons: first, it is the best way to set up your long suit; and second,, it may cost you a trick to make the first lead in a new suit.

In today's hand East broke this rule and thus found the killing defense. It was partly a matter of logic, and partly a matter of working out declarer's probable holding for his jump to three no-trump.

West opened the king of hearts, and East signalled encouragement by playing the nine. South properly refused this trick, and West continued with a low heart. When East put up the jack of hearts, South had to refuse again.

He could take only eight tricks on the run, and knew that the opponents would surely beat him with the ace of spades and the rest of the hearts if he took the ace of hearts too quickly.

After holding the second trick with the jack of hearts, East thought carefully about his next move. It was clear that South had the ace of hearts. It was also clear that no defense could defeat the contract if South had all of the missing high cards.

If South had less than all of the missing high cards, the only excuse for his jump to three no-trump could be a solid diamond suit. In a short time, therefore, East managed to visualize the very sort of hand that South actually held.

It was clear that a heart continuation would give declarer his contract. He could simply take the ace of hearts, run his diamonds, then lead a spade. East would be able to take the ace of spades, but nothing could then stop South from winning six diamonds, and one trick in each of the other suits.

Instead of continuing the hearts, East found the killing defense by returning a club at the third trick. If South went up with the ace of clubs, the opponents would gain the lead with the ace of spades in time to cash the setting trick in clubs.

If South played his ten of clubs, West could win with the king of clubs and return the suit. Either way, South could take his eight tricks but no more.

Catholic Victory In Italy Worries Protestant Sects

By PATRICK CROSSE

Rome—(Reuters)—Prospects of a Roman Catholic victory in June's Italian elections and the nomination of a Catholic ambassador at the United States embassy have piled up a new wave of alarm among Italy's 150,000 Protestant minority.

Spokesmen of the 11 different Protestant sects here complain that since the Christian Democrats won Italy's first national election in 1948, life has been made increasingly difficult for them. There is every likelihood that the government will be returned to power.

"The nomination as United States ambassador of Mrs. Clare Booth Luce (a Catholic convert) has in addition greatly discouraged us," said a leader of one of the sects.

The Protestants say police have taken persecuting action against them 150 times in the last four years.

The post-war Italian constitution guarantees religious freedom, and cases taken to court have usually been found in favor of the Protestants on constitutional grounds. But many anti-Protestant laws, most enacted by Mussolini, remain on the statute books.

The Protestants say most of their troubles is on a local scale with local Catholic authorities goading local police to enforce these laws.

The list of complaints range over unfair taxation, arrest for making public disturbances, red tape on importing charity packages, and excessivve regulations.

Main targets for police action have been two sects financed from the United States and staffed in part by American missionaries—the Churches of Christ, founded by a group of 13 American missionaries four years ago; and the Assemblies of God, a movement founded here by Italian immigrants who returned from the United States with a new faith, Pentecostalism.

Cline R. Paden, one of the founders of the Churches of Christ, declared that "in this country it is the Catholic Church which tells the government how to walk."

In August, 1952, Paden moved into Rome, to establish a meeting place here. "Within a month the police ordered me to close down and posted armed pickets round the house to prevent the congregation from entering.

After the intervention of the state department and the United States embassy the pickets were removed and we were allowed to go on."

He said he and other missionaries are allowed only temporary visas on a month-to-month basis and 10 American missionaries have been unable to get visas at all.

Probably the most severe police action is directed against the Assemblies of God movement.

Mussolini banned it in 1935 as "contrary to public decency" and the government still enforces this ban "in practice if not formally," said Guido Scalzi, an administrator of the organization.

Scalzi said the group's main trouble is in small country towns where "it is the local priest who forces the police to take action."

The Baptist Church numbers some 10,000 in Italy. Its general secretary, Manfredi Ronchi, said police trouble started after the Catholic government came to power.

A leading lawyer who frequently defends accused Protestants, Giacoma Rosapepe, said apart from police action, the Protestant movements in Italy were subject to a different taxation system from that applied to the Catholic Church.

He said that organizations like the Churches of Christ were made to pay taxes amounting to between 20 and 25 per cent of the money they bring into the country.

SHORT STORY

Leading Lady

By MARION BOUCHER

3-Minute Fiction

Dan is really a dear and I'd rather have him for a husband than Charles Boyer, but sometimes he is terribly forgetful. It was unpardonable of him to forget the play.

We were having breakfast when he calmly announced: "Won't be home for dinner. I'm going to see Ferris at last about that advertising contract. I wanted to bring him here for the evening but he seemed to have other plans. Anyway, I am taking him to dinner and we'll be able to discuss matters."

"And that's what you intend to do tonight?" I asked icily.

"Why yes, hon, why not?" Dan gulped down his coffee and looked at me with an innocent air. "Sure hope I can swing the deal."

"But tonight's our Little Theater play! How could you forget? Or maybe you can't be bothered with it—maybe you don't want to see me act!"

"Doris, so help me, it slipped my mind completely! I was so anxious to see Ferris that I did not think of anything else. Perhaps if we get through early . . . but you'd better not count on it."

I was almost in tears. Dan was angry too. "And I am glad it will be over tonight. I am getting tired of coming home to a cold supper, with you rushing off to rehearsals every night.

"Why, Dan, you know you're exaggerating—it hasn't been every night. I thought you were proud that I was given the lead."

"I am going to be late for my bus," Dan muttered and hurried away without even goodby. We don't quarrel very often and I always feel badly when we do.

But to think he'd forgotten about the play! Our club had been slaving over it for weeks and and our director, who didn't hand out many compliments, had told me that I played the lead very well.

I felt a little guilty when I thought what Dan had said about cold suppers. Perhaps I had neglected him lately. All day I kept thinking uneasily of Dan. I kept hoping he'd phone. The day went by without a word.

"Very well, Mr. Crawford!" I thought angrily as I got ready to go to the theater, "if you don't care about my activities I can get along quite nicely without you. Other people appreciate my talents!"

Hadn't I often been told that I should have gone on the stage? Well, I might yet!

Perhaps it was my anger which helped me play my role with more spirit. After the first act, I knew the play was going to be a success, knew too that I was playing my part well.

There were compliments but suddenly my success turned to ashes. I didn't care about the play any more—I was thinking at Dan. Slowly I began to remove my grease paint.

"Hurry up, Doris." It was another girl in the cast speaking. "We're going to have a party to celebrate our success."

"Sorry, but Doris is coming with me."

Was it really Dan's voice? I whirled around. Yes, there he was.

"You were great, hon. I was so proud of you!"

"But, Dan," I exclaimed, "what about Ferris?"

"Of course, I've been here all evening and Ferris was with me. He's anxious to meet you. You know, it was a funny thing. After dinner I decided to tell him that I had to get away, explained that my wife was taking part in a play and I wanted to see it. That was exactly what he wanted to do. He's been keen about dramatics."

"Did you get the contract?" I asked.

"Yes, and I think you helped me put it over. Guess it was because he was so impressed with your acting!"

"Oh, Dan, I am sure that's not the reason but I am so glad!" Then I called out to the others, "Sorry folks, but I am not joining the party—I am going with my husband. From now on I am going to concentrate on being his leading lady!"

In caring for linoleum a light covering of wax, which penetrates pores and protects the surface from dirt and grease is recommended. Brushing the linoleum daily with a dry mop is a good practice and scrubbing it daily with a damp cloth is suggested.

All are welcome and it is hoped to unite the countryside in an expression of loyalty and appreciation of our Gracious Sovereign.

it's an old greek custom

The citizen who sits in the row behind you at a movie and placidly chews popcorn with a gusto that leaves the sound track a poor second is probably a person you feel you could well do without. But stifle the impulse to turn around and choke him with his own paper bag. He is carrying on a hallowed tradition, one that dates from the Ancient Greeks.

In the days of Aristophanes, instead of the audience throwing fruit at the actors, the actors threw fruit and nuts at the audience. Playwrights, dubious about offering their works on their own merits, used this method of currying favor with audiences. The custom is not unknown today, as in the radio giveaway program.

Perhaps the custom served some of the ancient playwrights well, but without doubt the Greek plays that are still read today were productions that stood on their own merits. Good things have a habit of becoming permanent — like Molson's in Canada. The Molson family started brewing their justly celebrated ale back in 1786. Today, Molson's is a Canadian tradition; and although it's one of the few things the Greeks didn't have a word for, you'll hear it wherever discerning Canadians gather — the phrase that's the open sesame to smooth, cool enjoyment, "Make Mine Molson's".

Kiwanians Hear About Coronation

The setting, the significance and the ceremony for the coronation were outlined by Rev. S. Jellicoe, Dean of Divinity at Bishop's University, who was the guest speaker at the regular weekly dinner meeting of the Kiwanis Club held in the New Sherbrooke Hotel last night.

"The Queen really reigns with the goodwill of the people. The ceremony is set within the frame work of a religious basis."

Dean Jellicoe traced the route for the procession and said that there were several private processions.

"Westminster Abbey is not a cathedral, not a bishop's church but in the diocese of London."

The Dean was born in Liverpool, England, educated in England and was ordained deacon in 1933 and priest in 1934 by the late Archbishop William Temple of Yorkminister. His appointments have included three years as rector of Sheffield Cathedral, Diocese Inspector of Schools in Sheffield and four years as private chaplain to the 10th Earl of Scarborough.

From 1944 to 1952 he was chaplain and head of the department of divinity in Bishop Otter College. He has paid three visits to Germany at the invitation of the British foreign office as leader of a team of British educationists to confer with German teachers and youth leaders. He was appointed to his present position during the summer of 1952.

Introduced by Harry Grundy, Q.C., the speaker was thanked by Guy Blanchette.

Head table guests in addition to the speaker and president Gilbert Rheaume were: Les Memory, Mr. Blanchette, Lt.-Col. N. H. Welsh, Lt.-Col. L. M. Watson and Mr. Grundy.

McClintock told the Lions.

and move from the uncarpeted wards to a richly-furnished room in the palace. She'll sit in the abbey as his guest.

In one carriage procession will be five Malay sultans—Selangor, Kelantan, Johore, Perak and Brunei; the Sultans of Zanzibar and Lahey, and the only reigning queen beside Elizabeth attending —dusky, six-foot-three Queen Salote Tupou of the Pacific Tonga Islands. All are from British-protected territories.

The Sultan of Selangor's robes for the day are worth $70,000, including a diamond-studded gold belt and a 200-year-old kris, or wavy-bladed Malay knife.

Charity Ball To Be Held By Estonians

A charity May ball, under the sponsorship of the Estonian relief fund, will be held Saturday night at the Y.M.C.A.

The program will include Estonian national music and dances in addition to dancing to Irving Richard's orchestra. Estonian food will be served.

The decorations will represent a May night with genuine trees and there will be no lack of flories. There will be butterflies and even a spider will be seen watching the ball from his huge web in the corner.

The program includes Estonian folk songs of the 14th century, sung by Mrs. W. Lember. A group of dancers in national costume will present national dances and the Estonian men will dance an old national dance, the stick dance.

Piano accompaniment will be provided by Mrs. L. M. Watson.

Mr. Viires, of Montreal, will be master of ceremonies and in addition will sing a number of songs.

Proceeds from the ball will go to blind and crippled Estonians and their families, at present in Europe and unable to work.

No invitations have been extended by mail and all persons who are interested in attending the ball are asked to get in touch with the director of the fund, W. Lember, or the treasurer, R. Karro, telephone 3-3026.

The number of guests will be limited.

Made by Baroque of London, it is worn over an evening gown of lace embroidered with sequins and diamante. The crimson velvet kirtle is trimmed with ermine scalloped down the front and on the hem, with two bands of ermine—indicating the wearer's rank—and an ermine edging trimming the short sleeves. From the shoulders hangs a train, also edged with ermine, which must measure three feet on the ground and be tied at the shoulders with tinsel tassels.

Miss Ada Ross Of Sherbrooke Was Showered By Friends At Birchton

Birchton, May 28. — A very pretty miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Rogers, for Miss Ada Ross, of Sherbrooke, whose marriage took place on Saturday, May 23.

On entering the house, Miss Ross was met by Mrs. Rogers, who escorted her to a very prettily decorated table and chair, to the strains of the "Wedding March" played by Mrs. Leslie Richardson.

After Miss Ross, who was assisted by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ross, had opened the parcels and passed them around for all to admire, she thanked her many friends for remembering her on this occasion and invited all to come and visit her in her new home, in Magog.

Very dainty refreshments served by Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. John Bain, assisted by other ladies, brought a very happy evening to a close.

BIRCHTON W. A.

The president of the W.A., Mrs. Charles Lefebvre very cordially entertained the ladies of this community and those from Bulwer, one Thursday afternoon.

The afternoon was spent socially, after which a delicious tea was served.

Later a baked bean supper was served to the men, who came in for the evening. The proceeds were very satisfactory.

Manners MAKE FRIENDS

If you've been asked to introduce a speaker, it is better to make the introduction in a few sentences you can remember than to have to refer to notes. It makes a speaker feel mighty letdown and unimportant to be introduced by someone who has to glance at a card to be sure of his name and the subject of his talk.

An introduction should be a buildup—in every way.

At 9 o'clock that evening a most spectacular display of fireworks will take place on the Stanstead College campus, at a cost of appriximately $300. This show should be brilliant.

Following the fireworks a street dance will be held at Beebe.

Prizes are to be given for the best floats, etc., judges to be members of the Boundary Rotary Club. To encourage the communities to decorate their homes and business establishments for this event, prizes are being offered to those participating.

The committee reports that as this is written a band has not as yet been engaged, however they have promised that there will be one in attendance that day. The committees have spent many hours these past weeks in making these plans for the crowning of our Queen Elizabeth of England and the Dominions over the seas.

Forest Beacons of Life and Death Caution Careless Canadians

Those who have never seen a forest fire cannot imagine what an awesome spectacle this omnivorous inferno presents as it goes racing through the woods, frequently at unbelievable speeds, creating in its path a wind which dries out moisture, and sucks the flames forward. This is the ordeal by fire to which Canadians annually submit hundreds of square miles of precious woodlands. More than 75 per cent of these fires are caused by human carelessness. In addition to the merchantable timber which it destroys — 2 million cords a year, worth some $250 million in finished products such as pulp and paper, plus nearly half a million acres of valuable young growth — fire takes its toll in jobs, buildings, fish and game, and even human lives. It also has an adverse effect on stream-flow-regulation. At right, the burning tree symbolizes man's inhumanity to nature, while at left, a fire tower portrays man's efforts to stop the waste of Canada's most valuable natural resource. Top centre: responsible for less than 5 per cent of forest fires are woodsworkers, like JONAS SIMONAITIS, left, and URHO AALTO. Smoking is allowed by pulp and paper companies but only when the forest fire hazard is virtually nil, and under stiff restrictions. The men must sit down to smoke; they cannot smoke when they please. Only smokes allowed are hand-rolled cigarettes made with slow burning paper, or pipes equipped with spark covers. Middle centre: Aircraft are being used increasingly to combat fire in the forest. Provincial governments and the pulp and paper companies operate planes like the Beaver above, owned by Marathon Paper Mills, and used to protect the timber limits. Men are loading large portable fire pump on plane. Paper companies spend millions yearly on forest fire prevention. This picture, like the ones above and below, were taken at Caramat, Ont., 200 miles northwest of Port Arthur. Bottom: Weapons of the firefighting army are the stirrup pumps which are carried by the men on their backs. These are emergency tools with which they put out small fires or carry to areas in which the bigger, more powerful gasoline pumps cannot operate. With the fishing season here, and the early thaws making the woods even more vulnerable to flames than in normal years, campers and fishermen should be mindful of fire hazards in the forest. They should not smoke while walking on the trail, and should stamp out and drench their fires with water before leaving camp. All matches should be broken after putting them out. Woodsworkers themselves use no fires in the bush in summer. Campers are invited to do likewise. Thus, they will not only help to keep Canada green, but will preserve their place of recreation and source of health and, indirectly, their own livelihood and their own property; for one of the forest industries, pulp and paper, alone creates a billion and a quarter dollars of new wealth annually for Canadians.

The Bi-Monthly Meeting Of St. James' Sr. W.A. Of Bedford Had Varied Program

Bedford, May 28. — On Wednesday evening, the bi-monthly meeting of the Senior W. A. of St. James' Church was held at the home of Mrs. D. Deleuze with an excellent attendance.

The meeting was opened with the W. A. Prayer by the president, Mrs. Stanley Rider, after which the minutes of the previous meeting, which was held in the parish hall, were read by the secretary, Mrs. Richard Craighead, and accepted as read. The treasurer, Mrs. George Harland, reported a balance on hand of $235.15.

A letter was read by the secretary from Miss Marie Forestal, a missionary station at Nagano Shi, Japan, written on behalf of the Rev. Mr. Aizawa and family. The letter was one of thanks for the parcels recently sent from this branch to the Aizawa family.

A letter of thanks was read by the treasurer from Save the Children Fund, thanking the branch for a contribution. The treasurer reported that the branch had a membership of 36. A motion was made that appointment, affiliation fees and various other items amounting to $167 be sent to Diocesan headquarters, Montreal, in full payment of all dues for the current year.

This year, owing to the fact that Quebec Lodge at North Hatley, which has long been used as the girls' summer camp for the members of the G. A. branches of both the Quebec and Montreal dioceses, has been sold, no camp will be available in this district. The nearest is Camp Pontiac, diocesan camp, on the Ottawa River, near Bristol. The age group covers 11, 12 and 13 years. A motion was made that the sum of $10 be sent to the Fellowship of the West. The Rev. Graham Tucker, who was ordained recently as a priest of the church of England in Montreal, has been appointed in charge of the work at Kitimat and Kamano in British Columbia, and leaves shortly from Montreal to take up his new work. This project is under the Fellowship of the West.

A bale will be sent shortly to Ottawa for shipment to the mission hospital in the Arctic at Pangintrung. Included in the contents will be a man's fur coat donated by Mrs. William Taylor, and several woollen blankets. The bale must be in Ottawa by June, to allow of its reaching St. Luke's Hospital by the first shipment. It was also decided to send another parcel of clothing, also a woollen blanket to Japan, for the Aizawas.

The report of the Dorcas secretary, Mrs. H. Derick, showed that the annual bale had been sent to Montreal for shipment to the mission school at Prince Albert, Sask. This year ,owing to the fact that the Synod Hall has been sold, the bales will be packed at St. James' United Church, Montreal.

The rector, the Rev. W. J. White, reported that the film, "The Power Within," based on this year's study book, "Thine Is the Glory," will be shown in the Deanery of Bedford during the coming autumn and will be shown at Bedford on Wednesday evening, Oct. 21, under the auspices of the Senior W. A.

Mrs. Hewett reported on the matter of each member having a thank-offering box to use during the year, and it was decided that the members obtain the same. Boxes will be collected once a year, in May, to be sent to Diocesan headquarters in Montreal.

The president reported that a letter had been received regarding changes in the W.A. Prayer, which it was felt would be beneficial. She expressed her thanks and appreciation to Mrs. Hewett, vice-president, for her kindness in carrying on during the absence of Mrs. Rider in Winnipeg.

A report was read regarding suitable gifts to send in the bale, in which Christmas gifts are included. For the small gifts, dolls, for older girls, costume jewellery, for small boys, toys, and for the older boys, pen and pencil sets.

The educational secretary, Mrs. R. W. Craighead, stated that the study book this year was based on "Africa" and requested the members to save copies of Life Magazine for May 4 of this year, which contained much information on Africa, to assist with the study book in the autumn.

The president announced that the annual Deanery meeting of the W. A. for the Deanery of Bedford would be held in Frelighsburg at the Bishop Stewart Memorial Church, with the joint parties of All Saints' Church, Dunham and Frelighsburg, as hostesses. The service will open at 11 o'clock with a celebration of the Holy Communion on Tuesday, June 9.

The opening meeting of the Senior W.A. for the autumn will be held at the home of the president, on Wednesday evening, October 7.

Following the business meeting refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. R. W. Craighead and Mrs. Hannibal Sheltus.

ST. JAMES' GUILD

The bi-monthly meeting of the Guild of St. James' Church was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Eric Kemp. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Malcolm McCaw, after which the minutes of the previous meeting, which was held at the home of Mrs. B. W. Draper, were read by the secretary, Mrs. Roger Campbell, and accepted as read.

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. George Harland, showed a balance on hand of $385.65, with all outstanding bills paid, including an item of $50 for the organist.

Mrs. McCaw, the new president, will be in charge of Guild activities during the next four months, succeeding Mrs. B. W. Draper, who had the first four months. The final four months will be in charge of Mrs. F. E. Draper.

The president announced that a recital would be held in the High School hall on Saturday afternoon, June 13, given by the pupils of Miss Doris Rice, of Montreal and Stanbridge East. The recital will be held under the joint auspices of the United Church and St. James' Church.

The members of the committee appointed from St. James' Church included Mrs. Grant Lauer and Mrs. Allan Palmer, kitchen arrangements; Mrs. W. H. Baglow, soliciting food; Mrs. Sinclair McIntosh, serving refreshments; Mrs. Harry Jones, tickets. This committee will meet next week with the members of the committee from the United Church to complete the arrangements for the recital.

The donations of handkerchiefs for the month of May are to be given to Mrs. R. W. Craighead; for the month of June, dolls will be donated, the convener being Mrs. Eric Kemp; for the month of July, Mrs. W. B. Bradshaw will be in charge and the donations will be aprons.

This will be the concluding meeting until the autumn, when the opening meeting will be held September 7.

Following the business meeting refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. R. W. Craighead and Mrs. Malcolm McCaw.

Drummondville Pays Initial Visit Here Tonight At 8.00

Clyde Thomas Nominated For Duty By Manager May; Last Night's Tilt Postponed Owing To Wet Grounds

The Weather Man came through with a helping hand for the Quebec Braves last night when he washed out two important games and this allowed the team from the Capital City to move out in the front in the close battle for honors in the Provincial League.

The Braves posted a 11-4 decision over the Thetford Miners in the only tilt played in the Molini circuit. The game slated at Granby between the Phillies and the Indians and the one in St. Hyacinthe with St. Johns the visitors were postponed owing to inclement weather.

Tonight the Indians will be hosts to the Royals of Drummondville in their first appearance here this season. The tilt is slated for 8.00. Manager May, when contacted this morning, stated that Clyde Thomas will go to the mound looking for his second victory of the current season.

The Drummondville team is at present floundering around in the cellar of the loop but it is reported that several new additions have been added to the roster lately. Several former major leaguers are performing with the Royals such as Dan Bankhead and Manager Al Gionfriddo, who played with the Dodgers a few years ago.

The Indians will be seeking their second consecutive win in order that they may gain ground on the loop-leaders, whom they trail by 3½ games. All the teams will see action this evening. Thetford moves over to Three Rivers while St. Hyacinthe goes to Quebec and Granby plays at St. Johns to complete the bill.

At Thetford last night Van Ostrand went the route for the Braves, allowing eight hits. His teammates got to two Thetford hurlers for ten, with starter Frank Curorke suffering the loss.

The Miners fell short with a four-run rally in the ninth inning. The Braves were charged with three of the five errors in the game.

Royals Retain Top Spot With Win Over Orioles; Leafs Down Chiefs To Stay Close; Cubs And A's Split

Montreal Royals dropped Baltimore Orioles again Wednesday night to retain their position atop the International Baseball League, but Toronto Maple Leafs kept on their trial.

The Leafs played beautiful ball in downing Syracuse Chiefs 9-2 to remain a game behind the Royals.

Rochester's double victory over Buffalo Bisons—10-4 and 8-3—dropped the Leafs into third place one percentage point behind the Red Wings, but the Birds are 1½ games behind the Royals.

Montreal's 3-1 victory over the Orioles came on two unearned runs in the eighth inning.

Righthander Gerry Fahr of Toronto hurled a masterful three-hitter as a disappointed Syracuse crowd watched, for his fourth victory against one loss. His teammates pounded three hurlers for 15 safeties, including a two-run homer by left-fielder Lew Morton in the seventh.

At Baltimore, Ben Flowers gave up but three of Montreal's four hits but threw his own game away in the eighth. After Ken Wood got on base and Walter Moryn walked, Ed Roebuck bounced the ball to Flowers. The pitcher threw the ball past Damon Phillips at first, and Wood and Moryn scored.

Rochester's victories at Buffalo were the Bisons' fourth and fifth straight defeats.

Don Richmond and Lou Ortiz slammed homers to drive in half the Rochester tallies in the abbreviated opener. Cot Deal coasted to his fourth win against two defeats.

The Wings turned out 11 hits in the first four innings of the second contest to assume a commanding lead. Southpaw Fred Hahn went the route to score his fourth triumph.

Springfield Cubs and Ottawa Athletics split a twin-bill at Springfield, the As's taking the opener 8-3 and the Cubs the nightcap 14-6.

Effective relief pitching by Bob Trice, who got credit for his third win, and extra base hits gave Ottawa the opener.

The Cubs broke loose with an eight-run sixth inning rally to take the second game.

Lady Golfers Leave For English Tour

Toronto—(CP)—Canada's women's golf team flies to England today. It will make a two-month tour of Britain.

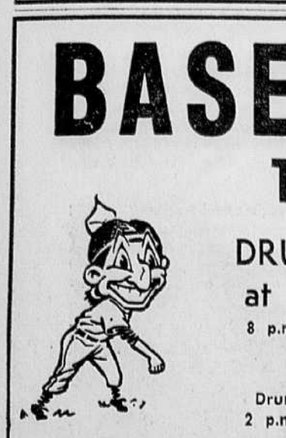

Five members of the team—Ada Mackenzie, captain, Marlene Stewart, Mary Gay, Barbara M. Davies and Mrs. J. H. Todd—will set out from nearby Malton airport, accompanied by Mrs. C. A. Stuart, chairman of the selection committee. At Montreal, they will be joined by the other members, Mrs. Graeme Pyke and Daintry Chisholm.

Miss Mackenzie said at a press reception:

"We have a strong team, as far as Canadian golf is concerned. While conditions in the old country are much different from those encountered in Canada, I think we will do all right. We may surprise ourselves."

The team will play international matches against England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland and the individual members will compete in the British Ladies' Open, the Astor Salver Open, an invitation at Royal St. David's and the Commonwealth tournament at Formby.

Dumouchelle Will Return To Braves, Says Rene Lemyre

Quebec — (CP) — Quebec Braves of the Provincial Baseball League announced Wednesday night that Al Dumouchelle, 28-year-old right-hander from Windsor, Ont., will report to the club Thursday.

Business manager Rene Lemyre said Dumouchelle reconsidered his decision to retire from organized baseball and signed a contract with Jacksonville of the class A Sally League. He was optioned to Quebec.

Dumouchelle was with Atlanta in the Southern Association last year before a fractured finger forced him to the sidelines for part of the season.

Monaghan's Bid For Licence Is Turned Down

London — (AP) — Britain's boxing bosses Wednesday refused to let former world flyweight champion Rinty Monaghan climb back into a ring again.

Monaghan, the 33-year-old Irish-born scrapper who always finished a fight by crooning a ditty or two in the ring, retired 3½ years ago after hattling to a draw in a world title fight with London's Terry Allen. He gave ill health as the reason then.

The British Boxing Board of Control gave no reason for refusing to grant his application to have his licence restored.

The board also turned down a similar request from Bruce Woodcock, former British heavyweight champion. Woodcock retired in November 1950 after losing that title to Jack Gardner.

Saxton Earns Nod Over Joe Miceli

Detroit — (AP) — Unbeaten Johnny Saxton, a punishing body puncher, landed enough shots to the head Wednesday night to preserve his perfect record with a unanimous 10-round decision over Joe Miceli at Olympia Stadium.

Saxton, a slight favorite, weighed 147¾ to Miceli's 147½ in the lively battle between the two New Yorkers.

There were no knockdowns but the action became so furious that both fighters fought after the bell rang in the 4th and 8th rounds.

Little Hope For Long Shots In Queen's Plate On Tuesday As Plungers Try To Pick A Winner

Toronto — (CP) — Bettors who take a flyer on a long-shot winning the Queen's Plate this year may just be tossing their cash into the feed box. The odds — and tradition — are against the big payoff.

In the last 39 years, only four outsiders have gone to the winner's circle in Canada's richest stake race and kicked back more than $8.70 on a $2 ducat.

The plungers can't expect much more this year when a crack field of Canadian-bred three-year-olds goes to the post in the 94th running of the 1⅛ mile Plate next Tuesday—Coronation Day.

The charts all add up to this: Come rain, shine, a record or a handful of touts, the 1953 thoroughbred to win the Plate, the top turf event in the country, will be short-priced.

Who will it be?

Well, a bettor might get $2.10—which would equal the shortest price ever paid in recent plate history—on Canadiana if the big filly goes in the race. Or, he might get anywhere between 8 and 1 and 12 to 1 on Lively Action and Blue Scooter, winners of the two divisions of the Plate Trial last Saturday.

But, if he's looking for a big price, he might get a lead on the few exceptions down through the years.

The most recent one, of course, was Epigram, 1952 winner. Epigram, owned by the Three V's stable of Toronto, romped over a sloshy course and won going away for the cup, a share of the $20,000-added purse and the Queen's 50 guineas. His price: $25.05.

Then there was Moldy in 1947. The bay offspring of Teddy Wrack and Obituary, owned by the late Col. R. S. McLaughlin of Oshawa, Ont., returned $36.50 for $2.

Another was Paolito, who won 10 years ago. Jockey Pat Remillard booted her home for a payoff of $76.50.

The biggest price was made by Maternal Pride in 1924. He gave his few followers the whopping total of $193.35 in the first and only race he ever ran.

But, mostly the winners were short-priced horses.

Johnny Sain Says Arm Stronger Than Ever; Thinks He Can Win 20; Top Workhorse On Yanks' Hurling Staff

New York— (AP) —Greybeard Johnny Sain, regarded as all washed up two years ago, says his arm is stronger now than when he won 20 games for Boston Braves in 1950.

The tobacco-chewing New York Yankees' surprise top winner thus far thinks he can win 20 again if he is used often enough. He's already made seven starts and pitched 64 innings, more than any other Yankee hurler.

He also leads with five complete games and 28 strikeouts. He has won four, saved two others in relief, and lost two. In short, he has become the world champions pest pitcher—at 35.

What is Sain's secret?

'There is no secret at all," Sain said Wednesday. "I'm pitching the same way now as I always have.

"I had a sore arm when the Braves let me go in August, 1951. The soreness is all gone now. My arm is stronger now than it has been since 1948 when I enjoyed the best season of my career."

Sain was somewhat of an iron man in '48 when he pitched the Braves to their first pennant in 34 years. He was in 43 games, hurled 315 innings and won 24 while losing 15. He also beat Bob Feller and Cleveland Indians 1-0 in the World Series opener.

"I guess I just pitched myself out that year," he said. "We were being pressed hard by both Brooklyn and St. Louis. I had to pitch every third day during the last six weeks of the season. I made nine starts, in 29 days during one stretch, completing all of them and winning eight. It took a lot out of me."

The Yanks gambled on him for a reported $50,000 and a player Aug. 20, 1951.

Cincinnati Players Claim That Rogers Hornsby May Not Last More Than Two Weeks As Manager

Milwaukee—(AP)—The Milwaukee Journal said Wednesday that "Cincinnati players have told members of the Milwaukee Braves that 'Rogers Hornsby may not last two more weeks as manager of the Redlegs.' "

The story related that Cincinnati players say Hornsby "has been impossible ... has fined players unnecessarily, and he lorded it over us."

"That all has not been well with the Redlegs was obvious in the first game of Monday night's doubleheader at the stadium when Hornsby called time and walked to the mound for a talk with relief pitcher Frank Smith. There were words between them. One Red player told a Braves player later that Smith finally "told Hornsby off.'

"Hornsby is supposed to have yelled at Smith for having thrown to second too late to force an advancing runner. Later, he fined pitcher Bubba Church $25 for having failed to sacrifice a runner to second, although he tried.

"One Cincinnati writer with the team said he had heard that 'a certain member of our club' was circulating a petition among the players to have Hornsby dismissed.

"Either he goes, or we are through," the story quoted one Cincinnati player.

Hornsby is in his first full season at Cincinnati, having moved to the National League from St. Louis where he managed the Browns part of last season. He was removed by Brownie owner Bill Veeck because of similar player complaints.

In Cincinnati, general manager Gabriel Paul of the Redlegs denied knowledge of either rebellion or a player petition to oust the gruff, outspoken Hornsby.

He added:

"But should a situation ever arise where it's either the players or the manager, I most certainly would remain loyal to my manager. A player certainly should not be allowed to dictate who should or who should not run the club."

How To Play Par Golf

Left Arm Straight With Club

By JULIUS BOROS
U.S. Open Champion

If the toe of the club is sticking up, you are standing too far from the ball. If the heel is up, the toe drooping, you're too close.

Sole the club so the bottom rests level on the ground. The bottom line must be level.

Feet in position, weight properly set, knees flexed, you find you're bent slightly forward at the waist, just how much depending on your physical stature.

Make sure your back is practically straight!

The arms should hang straight down from the shoulers as you address the ball.

The extension of your left arm should form a straight line with the club.

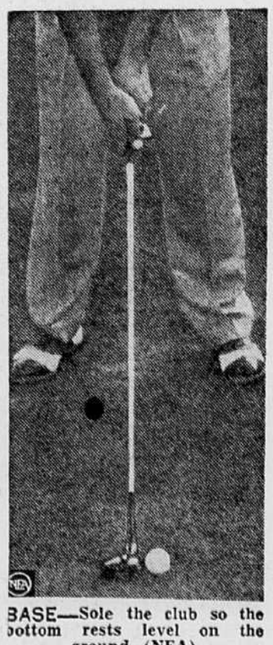

The hands, as you look down the shaft, should be slightly ahead of the ball.

Work on attaining the proper stance until it becomes automatic with you. Grip first, stance second, and you're on your way to shooting par. These two fundamentals will start you off correctly so that you will shift your weight properly and thus develop a smooth and rhythmic swing.

Footwork is as important in golf as it is in any other sport.

Footwork can control your body so you can bring the club into contact with the ball at the exact time to strike it squarely for maximum distance.

Golf isn't a game of putting your best foot forward.

BASE—Sole the club so the bottom rests level on the ground. (NEA)

It's a case of jumping in with both feet!

NEXT: The swing.

Rocky Marciano Rated Fighter Of Month By Ring

New York—(AP)—Rocky Marciano is Ring Magazine's "fighter of the month" and Jersey Joe Walcott drops to No. 3 challenger in the heavyweight division in the new rankings

Ezzard Charles, the ex-champ from Cincinnati, who is on red-hot win streak, gets the No. 1 place behind Marciano, followed by Roland La Starza of New York.

Although promoter Jim Norris and Al Weill, Marciano's manager, have not reached an agreement on a September fight, it is expected that the champ will defend against La Starza in a New York ball park in September.

Walcott is being pressed for third place by Bob Baker of Pittsburgh and Danny Bucceroni of Philadelphia, who has outgrown the light-heavyweight class.

The big change comes in the 175-pound division where Harry Matthews, consistently listed as a top contender, has been moved into the heavyweight class. As a result of his draw with Freddie Beshore, Matthews was not listed among the 10 top heavyweights.

Larry Watson of Omaha, Neb., shoved into the lightheavy ratings on his win over Danny Nardico. Mingling with a heavyweight, Watson was stopped by Charles at Milwaukee Tuesday.

London Bookies Rate Queen's Aureole Favorite

London — (AP) — London bookmakers Wednesday night made the Queen's chestnut colt Aureole joint 4-to-1 favorite with Sir Victor Sassoon's Pinza to win the Derby at Epsom Downs June 6.

At the call-over at the Victoria Club Aureole and Pinza—which will be ridden by champion jockey Gordon Richards in his annual attempt to capture the one prize which has eluded him so far—were way out in front of Brig. W. P. Wyatt's Premonition, third favorite at 6-to-1.

William Humble's Nearula, hot favorite from last November until reported lame recently, slumped in the betting to 100-6 although his trainer said he is showing signs of improvement.

Final acceptances Wednesday whittled the field down to 34 starters from the original 446 entries last November.

The prize money will fall short of the record $57,663 picked up last year by the Aga Khan when Tulyar won. This year the winning owner will get $53,530.

Both the Aga Khan and Marcel Boussac are bidding to repeat past derby triumphs with French trained horses. The Aga Khan has entered Shikampur—listed at 22-to-1—while Boussac is relying on Pharel, priced at 20-to-1.

Savoie-King To Meet For Crown

Toronto — (CP) — Promoter Frank Tunney announced Wednesday that the Armand Savoie-Arthur King fight here June 8 will be for the British Empire and Canadian lightweight titles.

King, Toronto-born battler who has been fighting out of Philadelphia the last few years, holds the Empire title and Montreal-born Savoie is reigning Canadian champion.

King and Savoie fought here three years ago and drew the largest indoor gate in this city's history—$24,000. King won that one and since then Savoie has beaten two world's champions in non-title bouts, featherweight Sandy Saddler and lightweight Jimmy Carter.

Burkett, Former Ball Star, Dies

Worcester, Mass. — (CP) — Jesse C. Burkett, 82, one of baseball's all-time greats, died Wednesday.

Burkett, elected to baseball's Hall of Fame in 1946, was one of three players to bat more than .400 in three seasons. Others were Rogers Hornsby and Ty Cobb.

Burkett's highest mark was .421 in 1895 with Cleveland. The next season he hit .410 and with the St. Louis Browns in 1899 he batted .402. An outfielder, he retired in 1905 with Boston Americans.

Roy Campanella Slays Giants; Belts Two Homers To Give Dodgers Verdict; White Sox And Tigers Battle 4 Hours

No sling shots for Roy Campanella. When it comes to killing Giants he clubs 'em to death.

Going into Wednesday night's game at Ebbets Field New York Giants knew they had the secret formula for whipping their hated Brooklyn rivals. It was simple, stop Campanella.

The formula was right. But the Giants forgot how they were supposed to make it work.

The New Yorkers were nursing a 2-1 lead in the fourth inning. Roy promptly planted a Jim Hearn pitch in the left field seats to tie it.

With two out in the last of the ninth the Giants again were ahead, 3-2. A walk and an error gave Campy another chance at bat. A single would have tied the score. A double probably would have scored both men.

Campanella left no doubts. He blasted another one into the midst of the left field customers and the Dodgers won it 5-3.

The Dodgers didn't gain any ground in the hot National League race where Milwaukee Braves kept rolling in front with a 9-4 decision over Chicago Cubs.

The second-place St. Louis Cardinals also won 6-3 over Cincinnati. The Cards trail the Braves by 1½ games with the Dodgers another half length behind. Philadelphia, sandwiched between the Dodgers and Giants in fourth place, smothered Pittsburgh 14-2 in a twilight game but lost a night contest to the Pirates 8-6.

In the American League Chicago White Sox and Detroit Tigers battled 15 innings to a 2-2 tie and had to quit because of the league curfew. No inning can start after 12:50 a.m. local time. Even without a decision the White Sox took over second place in pursuit of New York Yankees since St. Louis Browns ended a nine-game losing streak to stop the Cleveland Indians 5-1. The loss dropped Cleveland into third.

Philadelphia Athletics edged Boston Red Sox 4-3 on Gus Zernial's eighth-inning home run and the Yankees defeated Washington 3-1 on Eddie Lopat's three-hit pitching.

Ken Raffensberger gave up four runs and lasted less than an inning against St. Louis. Red Schoendienst, the league's leading hitter, clouted Cincinnati pitching for a home run and a pair of singles to raise his average to .386.

Milwaukee benefited from four innings of hitless relief pitching by Johnny Antonelli after the Cubs had chased starter Jim Wilson with a three-run fifth inning. Andy Pafko broke an extended batting slump with a three-run homer and two other safeties for the Braves.

Robin Roberts won his seventh game of the year and his 12th in a row over the Pirates in the first half of the twilight-night double bill at Pittsburgh, but the Phillies couldn't stand the sudden prosperity and lost the nightcap as Pittsburgh pushed across six runs in the eighth inning.

Bobo Holloman of the Browns, who hadn't won a game since he pitched his no-hitter early this month, combined with ancient Satchel Paige to halt Cleveland.

The Yankees, the club that made the home run famous, used three of them to whip the Senators. They were by Joe Collins, Billy Martin and Yogi Berra, all off Walt Masterson.

Zernial's homer for the Athletics broke up a pitching duel between Alex Kellner and Marv Grissom. The victory was Kellner's sixth against four losses.

The 15-inning marathon at Chicago, longest game of the season, appeared to be in the bag for the White Sox starting the ninth inning. But after a single and two errors Harry Dorish walked in the tying Detroit run. The Sox loaded the bases in the ninth, 11th and 13th innings but couldn't score.

The four-hour and 23-minute struggle will have to be played over from the start at some later date.

Bobby Shantz Having Shoulder Trouble; Something Loose In Throwing Arm, Nothing On Ball

Philadelphia—(AP)—What's happened to Bobby Shantz?

Baseball fans are asking about the Philadelphia Athletics southpaw, last year's most valuable player in the American League who won 24 and lost 7. So far this season he has won three and dropped five. Now he's sidelined at least two more weeks. Bobby injured his shoulder in Boston last week.

Bobby said Wednesday: "It feels like something is loose in my shoulder. I tried to throw yesterday but it wasn't any use. I could not get a thing on the ball."

Bobby suffered a fracture on his forearm about three inches above his pitching wrist last September when hit by a pitched ball thrown by Washington's Walt Masterson.

"The wrist hasn't bothered me," he said. "I know a lot of people feel that I have been favoring the wrist, and as a result pulled a muscle in my shoulder. Maybe I have. I don't know.

"One thing is sure, I haven't been getting the same curve on the ball I used to get."

Trainer Packy Schwartz thinks the shoulder trouble is nothing more than a pull. "Packy says he can feel the 'pull' and that rest and heat treatments will work it out. I'm going to try and throw each day until I get the strength back in my arm.

"I still think I can win 20 games and help this team."

Arthur Ehlers, general manager of the club, said: "Before he injured his shoulder the kid was firing that ball as hard as ever. There was nothing wrong that a few of those right breaks wouldn't help."

The horse show season opened with the Sherbrooke Riding and Driving Club warm-up show on Sunday in the St. Francis Valley Riding Ring on the Brompton Road. An enthusiastic crowd witnessed this 13 class show judged by Dr. L. A. Gendreau.

Harvie Ward Drops Eight-Footer To Eliminate Frank Stranahan In Fourth Round Of British Amateur

Hoylake, England — (AP) — Harvie Ward of Atlanta, Ga., sank a life-saving eight-foot putt Wednesday to defeat Frank Stranahan one up in the fourth round of the British amateur golf championship.

The spine-tingling match saw Stranahan fight back to within a whisker of defeating the defending champion. The pair met in the finals of the 1952 tournament, but Ward won that by a far more comfortable margin, 6 and 5.

All square coming down the 18th fairway of the par 73 Hoylake course, both hit superb approach shots. Stanahan was 12 feet from the cup. Ward was eight feet away. Stranahan putted and got down on his knees for a second after his first putt came within an inch or two of dropping in. Ward sighted his putt and sank it.

Stranahan was three down through the 11th, won his first hole at the 12th, squared on the 15th, took his first lead on the 16th and then lost on the final green.

In their third-round matches, Ward breezed to a 4 and 2 victory over John W. Howard of England and Stranahan was hard pressed to beat Dr. F. W. G. Deighton of Scotland, one up.

Deighton was the second Briton to take a crack at Stranahan in two days and he might have pulled an upset if Stranahan had not resorted to psychology on the 15th fairway.

The Scot's long drive was just off the fairway in high grass. Stranahan hit one down the middle. Before the physician took his stance, Stranahan walked over and looked a few moments at his opponent's ball. It was a legal act, but it shook the Scot.

Deighton gambled with a wood club and his flubbed second shot went only a few yards. The Toledo millionaire's stunt won the hole. They halved the rest of the holes.

Ireland's Joe Carr, the only internationally known Briton left in the tournament, won as expected from W. V. Hughes of England, 4 and 2, in a fourth rounder match.

British Empire Games Planners Aren't Loafing On The Job As Officials Prepare For Big Event

Vancouver—(CP)—The 1954 British Empire and Commonwealth Games here are responsible for probably the world's biggest divot.

Sometime next month after the honorary games chairman, Mayor Fred Hume of Vancouver, returns from the Coronation, that divot will be dug.

After appropriate ceremonies, bulldozers will slice into a neat little nine-hole golf course to dig the foundation for the games' big site—a $1,365,000 stadium.

With 26,511 permanent concrete seats, the horseshoe-shaped stadium is to be built on the grounds of the Pacific National Exhibition. The PNE gets "sole custody, control and management" of the stadium when the games are over.

And if there's a thought that June, 1953, is none too soon to start construction of such a giant stadium for use at the end of July, 1954—relax. Construction work can be carried out the year round in balmy Vancouver.

On top of the 26,511 permanent seats now planned, the end of the horseshoe may be closed in with temporary bleachers if necessary, boosting the capacity to 35,000.

When the approximately 600 athletes from an expected 23 countries show up for the eight-day event starting July 30, 1954, they'll find the new stadium, a new cycling track, a new 6,700-seat swimming pool, separate boxing, wrestling and weight-lifting arenas in existing buildings, an empire village on the lush University of British Columbia campus.

And if they feel the need for a touch of home, they'll just have to glance upwards. Flags of each country will fly at each of the 10 games sites daily.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York— (AP) —Russ Meyer, Brooklyn Dodgers' eccentric who has just been fined and suspended again for blowing his top, has long been one of our favorite baseball pitchers, mainly because he seemed to be a man we could understand.

The Mad Monk, as he is known, isn't one of the best of modern pitchers, but he is good enough to be convinced in his own mind that he should win every time out. So, when things go wrong he gets mad at somebody, even if it's only himself. He throws things and kicks things and winds up in trouble.

The sort of pitcher we've never been able to fathom is the big, imperturbale galoot whom nothing seems to ruffle. Managers like him, but we find him only dull. An umpire can call 11 straight balls on him and he does no more than stare dully at the arbiter. His manager comes out and relieves him of the ball and he trudges off to the clubhouse. He might be seething inwardly, but he doesn't let anybody know.

That isn't fair to the customers, Meyer, now, he lets everybody know. When he's sore he shares his feelings. When umpire Augie Donatelli failed to give him a single strike on 11 consecutive efforts the other day, Russ reacted in a manner that we considered completely normal. He tossed the resin bag into the air, and, upon being automatically ejected, carried his fued with Donatelli into the dugout, using gestures.

That's our boy, and you may bet that the $100 fine and three-day suspension plastered on the competitor from Peru, Ill., will do nothing to bank his fires.

Toronto May Get Top Track Meet

Vancouver — (CP) — Toronto may be the site in August, 1954, of a dual track meet between outstanding athletes of the British Commonwealth and an all-star American track team.

The meet would follow the British Empire Games here July 30-August 7.

Support for the Toronto meet was promised to George Duthie, manager of the Canadian National Exhibition sports department, by the B.E.G. committee here.

Final approval, if present negotiations are successful, would have to come from B.E.G. secretary Sandy Duncan, who will come to Canada next month from London.

WEDNESDAY'S STARS

Batting: Roy Campanella, Brooklyn Dodgers, homered with two on and two out in the ninth inning to give Brooklyn a 5-3 decision over New York. He also homered earlier in the game.

Pitching Eddie Lopat New York Yankees, held Washington to a double and two singles in posting his fourth straight victory without a loss, 3-1.

QUEEN SIZE — Faye Dykstra couldn't lift this 65-pound cobia caught at Oregon Inlet, N. C., so she balanced it on the end of its nose. (NEA)

MARITIME BOUT POSTPONED AGAIN

Sydney — (CP) — The Maritime light heavyweight championship bout originally scheduled for May 18 between Al Hogan and Archie (Bear) Hannigan, both of New Waterford, was postponed for the second time Wednesday because Hogan developed an infected toe.

LULU IN HONOLULU—Bob Mathias and his pretty fiancee, Melba Wiser, basked in the sunshine at Waikiki wearing Hawaiian grass hats and leis as the Olympic decathlon champion from Stanford rested between workouts for the Rainbow Relays there. (NEA)
