Red Planes Intensify Raids On Tachen Island Outposts

Taipeh, Formosa — (AP) — More than 200 Communist planes today unleashed the heaviest air attack of the Chinese civil war against the Nationalist Tachen islands in a likely prelude to invasion.

Eight miles to the north, said the Nationalist defence ministry, guerrillas "fighting in pools of blood" were still resisting today on battered Yikiangshan, invaded by the Reds Tuesday. It was believed here, however, that only isolated groups were fighting and that Red conquest of the 3½-square-mile island was nearly complete.

Soviet-built planes roared out from the Red mainland and hammered the Tachens. It was taken for granted here that the off-shore islands, 200 miles north of Formosa, would be next on the Communist timetable.

Actual invasion may not come until the Tachens have been softened up considerably. The islands are reported well fortified and strongly manned, and having terrain that makes them almost ideal for defensive warfare.

Tuesday's statement by State Secretary Dulles that the United States would offer no objection to the United Nations seeking a cease-fire in the civil war caused a real sensation here.

Qualified sources indicated that the Nationalists would flatly reject such an idea. Official quarters refused to talk for publication, but there was no mistaking their unfavorable reaction.

The China News, an independent newspaper with close contacts in high places, declares that "free China will fight to the very end against such a presumptuous idea as a cease-fire in any form or under any circumstances."

There is a general impression here, too, that Dulles in effect was telling the Communists they needn't worry about the U.S. 7th Fleet intervening should Chiang Kai-shek's island outposts be attacked.

Dulles told a Washington press conference that the Tachens are of marginal importance, at best, in the defence of Formosa, which the U.S. is committed to defend.

A threat to Pishan, a Nationalist island 32 miles southwest of the Tachens, also appeared to be developing today. The Nationalists said the Communists fired 132 shells at Pishan, and Red warships were in the vicinity.

Air force headquarters said Nationalist planes carried out night-long attacks against Communist ships in the Tachens, and claimed many Communist craft destroyed or damaged.

The Nationalists also said anti-aircraft guns shot down a Soviet-built TU-2 twin-engined light bomber in the attack on the Tachens.

Haig Urges Support Of Reich Pact

Ottawa. —(CP)— The Opposition leader in the Senate says West Germany must be a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to prevent it falling under Russian domination.

Senator John T. Haig (PC-Manitoba) made the statement Tuesday night during the Senate throne speech debate as he called on Parliament to ratify the Paris protocol providing for the entry of a rearmed West Germany into NATO.

Senator Haig said many Canadians who lost loved ones in two wars with Germany are bitter over the prospects of German rearmament. He understood their feelings but felt that the majority of thinking Canadians supported the move.

"I feel very strongly that we must have Germany on our side, otherwise we will see that part of Europe absorbed into the Russian family. It is a bitter choice we have to make, but I think the majority of the thinking people of this country are in favor of our backing up the treaty that we are asked to ratify."

Canadian ratification of the protocol would show leadership to other smaller nations. They would take their cue from Canada and "therefore I think we should be clear and unanimous in our support of Germany."

"As I see it, the world is in no better state today than it was a year ago, and we cannot afford to let up on our efforts to maintain peace. We in Canada should be very clear in our course of action when we face this question of ratification."

Senator Haig also proposed major tax cuts to increase the take-home pay of workers and enable Canada to compete for export markets.

The present tax structure placed a heavy burden on workers, resulted in demands for wage increases and made production costs higher. This was reflected in the costs of goods at home and abroad.

"The only way taxes can be cut is to reduce expenditures. If we do not cut it down we are going to be driven out of the world market. We as Canadians must realize that if we are going to fight successfully in the world markets our costs must be cut in order to compete."

Adoption Of Belgian Gun Step Nearer

Ottawa — (CP) — The Canadian Army is a long step nearer adoption of the Belgian FN (Fabrique Nationale) automatic .300-calibre rifle as its standard infantry weapon.

Design and production experts at Canadian Arsenals Limited at Toronto have succeeded in converting Belgian production drawings of the FN to the inch system from the metric system. They have also determined that the FN can be adopted to North American production techniques.

These moves were essential if the FN is to replace the Lee-Enfield .303 Metric dimensions are not suited to manufacturing methods and tooling in Canada.

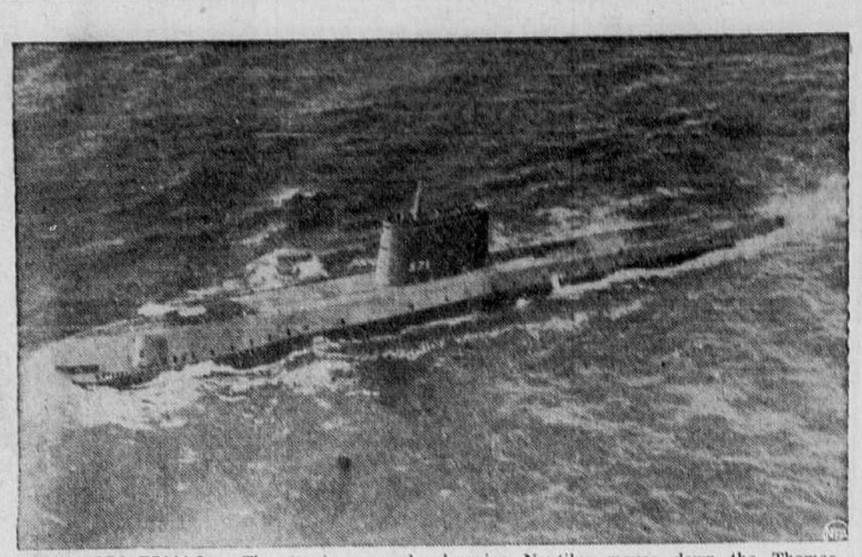

A defence department spokesman said Tuesday no final decision has yet been taken on adoption of the FN but that this is much closer than a few months ago.

Canada, the United Kingdom, the United States, France and Belgium decided in 1953 to adopt the .300 round as standard small-arms amunition. But Canada has no rifle to fire this new ammunition. The FN takes the .300 round. The U.K. and Belgium already have adopted the FN as the standard infantry weapon for their armies.

The months-long job of converting the Belgian drawings to the inch system was done for the U.K. and Canada at the same time. The British Ministry of Supply had experts at Canadian Arsenals throughout.

If Canada adopts the FN, the U.K. would have an alternative source of supply in North America in the event of war.

The Canadian Army has tested the FN under all conditions. Several modifications were recommended after cold-weather trials at Fort Churchill, Man.

Defiant Prisoners Repeat Threats To Murder Guards Held As Hostages

Boston— (AP) —Police today reported an army tank en route from nearby Fort Devens to Massachusetts state prison where four rebellious convicts held five guards hostage in the second day of a desperate bid for release.

Fort Devens is 40 miles from Boston. Police along the route were asked to provide an escort.

Otis M. Whitney, state public safety commissioner and head of the state police, said he ordered the tank sent here. He said it would be stationed outside the prison wall "until things start humming."

The tank, an M-41 "Walker Bulldog," is equipped with a 76-millimetre rifle and two machine-guns, one of .50 calibre and the other of .30. It has a normal crew of three or four men.

The 34-ton vehicle has the firepower to blast any steel door at the prison, army officers said.

At 9 a.m. EST prison officials reported no change there in the tense situation.

Tuesday night the four convicts warned officials contemplating means of safely breaking the impasse that "for every shot fired at us, a guard dies."

The message was issued from the solitary confinement cell block of the Massachusetts state prison where the quartet of desperadoes has been holding the guards captive since 5 a.m. Tuesday.

Shortly after receipt of the message by Warden John J. O'Brien, George Fingold, state attorney-general, delivered a grim warning to the prisoners over the institution's public address system:

"If one of you kills, all of you will die in the electric chair."

Both O'Brien and Fingold said there would be no compromise with the prisoners. They stood fast in their demand that the guards be released unharmed.

On the other hand, the hardened convicts—all serving virtual life sentences — repeated their earlier conditions: "This is a battle to the end; we have only one demand—out."

State officials said they were ready "to wait for days if necessary," but no deals would be made.

As the waiting continued past the 24th hour of siege, scores of heavily-armed state police and local officers stood by.

Bazookas were added to the prison arsenal. They are powerful enough to penetrate a foot-thick brick wall.

Spokesman and ringleader of the armed convicts is Theodore (Teddy) Green, 39, a notorious bank robber and experienced prison escaper, who notified Warden O'Brien Tuesday night: "One shot, one gas bomb and one of your screws dies. If shots are fired at us, to hell with what happens from then on."

The Post says Green told his daughter: "I got to have my freedom and get all that money that is put away. I have to get it for you and ma and the kids."

He also is quoted as saying: "I'm sorry, Toby, but if that warden don't let me out in the car, I positively will. That is the way I feel about it and that is that."

Earlier the four convicts sent out an ultimatum — which was ignored — that they be permitted to walk out of the 152-year-old prison and into an automobile to be furnished by state Governor Christian A. Herter — "or they'll be fireworks."

The three defiant prisoners with Green are Walter H. Balbin, 38, Fritz O. Swenson, 31, and Joseph Flaherty, 32.

Detain Pair In Death Of Young Girl

Trenton, N.J., — (AP) — Joseph de Maio, 35-year-old ex-convict, was arrested Tuesday night after being picked up by chance. He was held on a charge of killing his Sunday night date.

De Maio and a friend were arrested separately in New Jersey within hours after the half-nude and battered body of 20-year-old Celia Cienski was pulled from the bottom of an icy canal near her home at Windsor Locks, Conn.

A New Jersey state trooper, who stopped de Maio on a routine highway check, reported that as he approached the car de Maio blurted, "I didn't mean to do it, officer."

The trooper said he did not know until he took de Maio in that there was an alarm out for him.

A short time later de Maio's friend and fellow construction worker, Gerald J. Celette, 34, voluntarily surrendered in Newark, N.J. He told police he had read that he was wanted for questioning about the disappearance of Miss Cienski. He apparently had not learned that after her body was found he was formally charged with aiding and abetting in a homicide.

Police said the men were on a double date with Celia and her sister, Ann, 22, Sunday night. The girl's bloody body was pulled out of the ice-rimmed Windsor locks canal after her sister reported her missing.

At Hightstown, State Trooper J. A. Smith said de Maio made a statement telling of the double date.

He was quoted as saying he and Celia separated from Celetti and the sister and de Maio took Celia to a spot near the canal. De Maio tried to attack her, Smith quoted him, but she fought like a wildcat, scratch-

Increase In U.S. Labor Strife Seen

By NORMAN WALKER

Washington. — (AP) — Labor unions are shooting for some big economic gains in 1955 and United States government officials say they are expecting a turbulent year in labor-management relations.

A sampling of sentiment among union leaders shows they feel this way: "If business is going to be as good as businessmen say, we want a share of the gravy."

The U.S. unions acknowledge that they did reasonably well in 1954 after the business outlook had appeared rather dark. With economists generally predicting better conditions in 1955, the union men figure "there should be more in the kitty."

This seems to spell stepped-up bargaining activity all along the line. Government officials say a big increase in strikes is possible.

Last year was a relatively active bargaining year, yet strike idleness was at a post-war low.

The U.S. labor department has just completed a study throwing light on the probable scope of 1955 bargaining. It deals only with major contracts, covering 5,000 workers or more.

Out of 284 such contracts, nearly 200 covering about 3,350,000 workers in some of the biggest U.S. industries will be up for full or partial revision. The same will be true for an unestimated number of smaller contracts covering probably several million more workers.

The two most significant sets of upcoming negotiations are in the auto and steel industries.

Five-year United Auto Workers (CIO) contracts with General Motors and Ford expire May 29 and June 1, respectively. Both motor firms have given five-cent-an-hour annual "improvement" raises to workers represented by UAW, plus other concessions from time to time, but the union has built up an ambi-

Farm Union Urges Dual Price Plan

Ottawa — (CP) — The 200,000 member Interprovincial Farm Union Council today called on the government to create a two-price system for Canada's farm products, adjusting domestic prices on the basis of changes in living costs.

The Council, headed by chairman J. L. Phelps, said in a cabinet submission the proposal may increase consumer prices, but argued that it would eliminate most of Canada's urban unemployment. Organized labor now was completely behind the plan, it said.

Farmers, whose net income had dropped by almost $1,000,000,000 in the last three years, would get millions of dollars in new purchasing power with which to whet the wheels of industry.

The two-price system — one for domestic buyers linked to living costs, another for foreign buyers based on supply and demand and both hooked to extensive federal price props — has been aired in previous council meetings with the cabinet. But there is a difference now, said the council.

On previous occasions, it said, Prime Minister St. Laurent said the idea was fine in theory, but that it would be opposed by organized labor since it would raise consumer prices.

"We are pleased to report that since that time we have gained the support of Canadian labor unions for this principle. They themselves made a similar proposal in a recent submission to this government. Labor unions agree with farm unions that unless farmers enjoy fair and adequate incomes, wage earners are in danger of losing their jobs or having their take-home pay reduced . . .

"We take it, therefore, that the way now is open for the government to take appropriate action without further delay."

The council delegation was to meet with a cabinet group in Agriculture Minister Gardiner's office. Mr. St. Laurent, preparing for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London, was expected to be too busy to see the delegation.

The Council also proposed:

1. Long-term, low-interest credit for farmers.

2. A federal-provincial conference to discuss farm marketing and prices programs.

3. Changes in federal floor prices on eggs, which, said the Council, seems more of a guarantee for the processor than the producer. The Council said the farmer should get at least 34 cents, compared with the present 32.

4. That Canada promote trade with any country willing to buy and explore the possibilities of barter trade.

5. That there should be no increase in Prairie grain freight rates.

6. Establishment by the government of a contributory national health insurance plan.

Favoritism Charged In Post Office Operations

Ottawa—(CP)—The Commons has been told that a Manitoba postal official was twice promoted over the heads of better employees through favoritism by officials of the Post Office department at Ottawa.

Fernand Viau (L-St. Boniface) Tuesday named the official as R. J. Emerson, formerly of Brandon, Man., and said he was "railroaded" last month into the job of area superintendent at Winnipeg without a competition to find the best man for the job.

He said Mr. Emerson is the protege of an executive assistant in the Post Office department, and described both that assistant and the department's deputy minister, Walter Turnbull, as members of "an unelected depository of power in the Post Office department."

The Manitoba member said later, outside the House, the assistant he referred to is E. J. Underwood, chief executive officer to Mr. Turnbull. In his speech he did not name either Mr. Underwood or Mr. Turnbull but referred to them by their positions.

He accused Mr. Turnbull of "flouting laws passed by Parliament, insulting a member of Parliament and being inefficient in the handling of his responsibilities."

There were "crying injustices" to civil servants in more than one department. If these could be presented to a Commons committee he was "satisfied that following the action of that committee application could be made to the governor-in-council cabinet to remove those deputy heads who have abused their office and imposed injustice upon faithful civil servants throughout the country."

Mr. Viau was among 10 Commons members who participated in the Throne Speech debate.

He said last December's appointment of Mr. Emerson as area superintendent at Winnipeg was a "criminal injustice."

Mr. Viau said Mr. Emerson should be removed and a competition held for the position. The appointment violated the principle of bilingualism in civil service positions in Manitoba.

Mr. Viau said he flew to Ottawa at his own expense and was told by Postmaster-General Cote that he (Mr. Cote) had been informed by Mr. Turnbull that a regulation waived the bilingual requirement in areas where there was not 20 per cent French-language population.

The Post Office department had estimated the French-language proportion of Manitoba's population at 18.54 per cent, although Mr. Viau contended it was larger than that.

He said he was "ridiculed" by Mr. Turnbull and two other officials.

Mr. Viau said one reason for injustices in federal promotions is that the three-man civil service commission cannot keep up with them all.

Two commissioners were in Ottawa most of the time. But the commissioner representing French-Canadians, A. J. Boudreau, "has spent more of his time in foreign lands than in the capital city where he should be . . ." Mr. Boudreau is now on a United Nations mission to Cambodia.

With the commission overloaded, some responsibility for promotions was delegated to deputy ministers.

Deputy ministers who did not want some retiring official to be succeeded by his assistant connived together and changed the salary, title and qualifications of the office to bar the way to the assistant.

B.C. Police Seize More Douk Kids

Krestova, B. C.—(CP)—The arm of the law reached into this mountain retreat Tuesday and parents stood by while 40 Sons of Freedom Doukhobor children were taken into custody because their parents violated the school act.

It was the biggest raid on a Sons of Freedom village since the British Columbia government began its drive to force the children of the radical sect into public schools.

Fifty RCMP officers and government welfare workers were massed for the early morning raid and converged on the village one hour before school bells called children to classes throughout the valley.

The children, 22 boys and 18 girls, all between seven and 12 years, will be sent to school with 34 other Freedomite youngsters taken from their parents in previous police actions.

The children are being cared for at a converted sanitarium at New Denver on the shores of Slocan lake about 50 miles from here.

The Freedomites, who claim that education leads to war and strife, are blamed for recurring outbreaks of arson and nude parading that has plagued the Kootenay area in southeastern B.C. for more than 20 years.

In the fall of 1953, more than 100 Sons of Freedom were convicted of contributing to juvenile delinquency following a nude parade outside a school in the Kootenay district. The parade was in protest against the government's insistence that their children attend school.

About 26 children were turned over to the provincial welfare department at New Denver follow-

Believe Duplessis Plans To Retain Present Taxes

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Quebec—(CP)—The Quebec cabinet is scheduled today to decide whether it will put scissors to the Quebec income tax statute or leave the structure untouched.

Government observers are inclined to believe Premier Duplessis will propose no major change, if any, as a result of the federal government's decision to grant a 10 per cent reduction to all Quebec income taxpayers for 1955 and 1956.

Based on the federal exemptions, the reduction applies to some 750,000 taxpayers, including an estimated 400,000 who are exempted under the provincial income tax law.

For 1954 no change from the present Quebec tax structure is feasible, according to Quebec finance officials. The federal proposal for that year is that taxpayers may deduct "up to 10 per cent" of their federal tax for provincial purposes when they file their return in April.

The federal decision to grant a 10 per cent reduction does not depend on Quebec's consent.

But if Quebec wants to collect an anticipated $25,000,000 per year in 1955 and 1956, it can:

1. Leave the Quebec tax structure untouched.

2. Spread the Quebec tax levy on the basis of federal exemptions and revise its tax structure.

In the first case Quebec will collect its estimated revenue as anticipated and some 400,000 taxpayers exempted under the provincial tax structure will in addition be entitled to benefit from a 10 per cent federal tax reduction.

In the second case—complete revision of the tax structure—the Quebec government would spread the cost of the provincial tax to the 750,000 who pay federal income tax and thereby eliminate double taxation for upper income brackets.

The alternative is considered an unlikely step by political observers. They say the Quebec government is morally committed to the higher exemptions which Mr. Duplessis described at the time the Quebec tax was announced, as conforming to the wishes of the Roman Catholic bishops and archbishops of Quebec.

However, the Quebec government may possibly look for a move between the two alternatives.

The prior right clause, that loomed large in negotiations last October has dropped into the background.

Mr. Duplessis announced after his meeting with Mr. St. Laurent that he was ready to strike out the clause.

However, since the federal proposal is based on the federal tax structure it now is a matter of conjecture whether the province will eliminate the clause at all.

Helicopters Mobilized In British Rescue Work

London —(AP)— Britain mobilized a fleet of some 30 helicopters and planes today to drop food and medicines in frozen northern Scotland. More snow was predicted for much of the British Isles and Europe, where blizzards, gales and floods have raged for more than a week.

The Royal Navy's 13,000-ton aircraft carrier Glory steamed from the Clyde toward the northern coast of Scotland to act as a floating base for helicopters engaged in rescue missions over the snowbound counties of Caithness and Sutherland.

More than 10,000 persons in Caithness and Sutherland were cut off from the outer world by 20-foot snowdrifts and fallen telephone lines. Radio broadcasts advised them to mark an "F" on the snow if they needed food, or a "D" if a doctor was required.

Another blizzard interrupted rescue operations late Tuesday.

Freezing weather early today put some check on flooding in the Mosel and Rhine rivers of western Germany. At Bonn, the West German capital, the flood crest of the Rhine was still to come but already the basement of the federal parliament buildings was full of water. Workers ringed the structure with 40,000 sandbags to head off the rising river. At Mehlem, near Bonn, the United States high commission was flooded out of its headquarters.

In France, the flooding Garonne neared the danger mark and there was fear that the dam at Toury, on the Eure river, would burst. More than 3,700 persons have been evacuated from low-lying areas in the Rhone valley.

Winds ranging up to 60 miles an hour lashed Italy's Ligurian coast, smashing summer cottages, uprooting trees and driving huge waves across coastal roads. Mountainous waves continued to lash the sea, keeping the damaged Greek ship Corinthia from reaching port. The 3,879-ton vessel rammed a reef midway along the coast between Rome and Leghorn Tuesday, smashing a hole in her bow. The Corinthia's 167 passengers were removed by the 5,000-ton Italian ship Sicilia after the damaged vessel manoeuvred off the reef and into shelter in a cove on the little island of Giannutri.

Heavy snow blocked highways in south Sweden. More snow, high winds and freezing temperatures were predicted for Denmark, where road and railway traffic has been hard hit by falls ranging up to 20 miles in depth.

The winter storms also hit east of the Iron Curtain. Warsaw radio reported that many persons died in gales that swept parts of Poland Monday. Several ships ran aground near the Baltic ports of Gdansk and Swunousjscie (Danzig and Swinemuende.)

Daddy Ringtail

By WESLEY DAVIS

Beanstalk Elevator

Mugwump Monkey, the monkey boy, and the Huffen Puffen, the friendly wolf, said they would have to try to find Daddy Ringtail, they would, just as soon as they saw about a mysterious something else. Why, there in front of them now was a monstrous beanstalk of the kind that a boy named Jack had once climbed up to the land of the giants.

Well now,, had Daddy Ringtail climbed the beanstalk there to disappear in the sky above? Is that what had nap pened to Daddy Ringtail? No, because the beanstalk had no branches to climb on, and it was much too big around to climb.

"Look around on this side, Huffen Puffen!" called out Mugwump, because there in the side of the beanstalk was an elevator door.

The Huffen chuckled to see it. Said he: "I guess, I do, that the beanstalk has an elevator inside it.

"Huffen Puffen" said Mugwump, "shall we knock on the door and ride on up, or shall we find Daddy Ringtail first?"

But before the Huffen could answer, the elevator door slid open. Standing there inside was Daddy Ringtail! "I got a job," Daddy Ringtail explained. "I run the elevator up and down for the man who owns it."

The Huffen was happy indeed to hear it, and so was Mugwump. Why, they would get on the elevator now, they would, and ride on up to the land of the giants for a happy adventure.

"Wait! Wait now, you fellows," said Daddy Ringtail. He explained that a ticket was needed for an elevator ride. Yes, and he had the tickets all ready to sell for a dollar.

"We don't have a dollar, we don't," said the Huffen, "but we are friends, we are, and so you ought to let us ride anyway."

Tsk! Tsk! Tsk! because Daddy Ringtail couldn't do it. The elevator wasn't his to give the rides away. because that would have been dishonest. Well, nobody wants a friend to be dishonest, and so the Huffen said he would find a dollar, he would, and he did, and that is the story I'll tell you tomorrow. Happy day!

Allegro Group Elects Officers At Stanstead

Stanstead, Jan. 19 — Planning a paper drive was one of the main items discussed at the Allegro group meeting of Centenary Church of Stanstead, held at the home of Mrs. Harold Cass in Rock Island, on Tuesday evening, January 11.

The meeting was attended by seventeen members. Mrs. McKinley Rose opened the meeting with a fine devotional period. Routine reports were given and a motion to make donations of money to the church work.

A committee of Mrs. Harold Cass, Mrs. Louis Monty and Mrs. Donald Hackett was appointed to meet with a committee of the United Organizations group, to plan refreshment for the 150th church anniversary celebration taking place on January 30.

More definite plans are to be made at the next meeting in connection with the paper drive, however, it is hoped the public will save their old catalogues, magazines, newspapers and flattened cartons towards helping the drive.

The officers of the past year were re-instated, with Mrs. Donald Hackett, president; Mrs. C. Merriman, secretary; and Mrs. Warren Soutiere, treasurer.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. C. Merriman in Stanstead, on the evening of February 8. Mrs. C. Lee Jenkins and Mrs. Louis Monty were named to act on the hostess committee to prepare a list of hostesses and homes for the year's meetings.

Mrs. Rose stressed the hope that as many as possible of the Allegro group would attend the World Day of Prayer to be held in Centenary this February.

The session adjourned and refreshments were served by Mrs. Cass, Mrs. Reginald Martin and Miss Gertrude Ketcham.

Tremendous Developments Of Modern Chemical Industry Told Rotarians

The chemical industry is the fastest growing industry in Canada today, Douglas Walkington of Canadian Industries 1954 limited, Montreal, told Sherbrooke Rotarians last night in his address entitled "Chemistry and You."

Accompanied by a menagerie of miracle fabrics and plastics, Mr. Walkington showed Rotarians how to shine a light around a corner, how to fill a stocking with water and then with a flick of the wrist spill the water out through the fabric, and a myriad of other "miracles" all caused by chemistry.

This industry is going ahead by such leaps and bounds, he said, that something discovered yesterday is obsolete today and because of this the majority of people are completely ignorant of a science which affects them every hour of the day. There are two main attitudes towards modern chemistry, stated the speaker. The first says that every new chemical is a miracle, stated the speaker. The first says that every new chemical is a miracle, and the second states that chemistry produces only poor substitutes for the good old natural raw materials. Both attitudes are wrong according to Mr. Walkington but chemistry has been going forward so fast that it is no wonder people can't keep up with it. However he stressed the necessity for knowledge on the new developments.

For instance, stated the speaker, a prospective buyer doesn't ask for a suit made of cloth. He knows it is made of cloth. What he wants to know is whether it is wool, gabardine or what type of cloth. In looking at furniture he wants to know what kind of wood, maple, birch, mahogany or what and so on with all our well known raw materials.

But what about the new materials science has given us? Plastics for instance. Everyone knows what plastic is, it's plastic, or so most people think. But few realize there are at least 20 different kinds of plastics, each with its own special characteristics. Some plastic is hard and breakable, another is soft and pliable. Some are resistant to heat, while others will melt when exposed to boiling liquids. Hence a prospective buyer must know more about plastic when buying. Which type would be best for the particular purpose required? One of the solutions Mr. Walkington suggested to this problem of ignorance was that manufacturers be required to label their products with the name of the plastic used.

Not only has chemistry created new materials, pointed out the speaker, it has also improved the old ones and is being used to improve every type of industry. Even the housewife uses chemicals every day, in soap detergents and in baking powder and soda. Clothes are cleaned with chemicals. They are used in medicine, photography, painting, water treatment, and in farming for fertilizers and insecticides. Even the weatherman has to have a little help from chemicals now and then in such things as artificial ice.

The scope of chemistry is unlimited, pointed out the speaker, but the biggest need at the moment is for men with imagination, men who can think of new ways in which to use the marvellous new discoveries for the benefit of all.

Mr. Walkington was introduced by Henry W. Downs and thanked by John Coyle.

Gerry McManamy conducted the meeting and grace was said by Howard Nichol. One of the highlights of the evening was the introduction of a new member, Henri Turcot, into the club. Manager of the Sherbrooke branch of John Millen Limited, he was sponsored by Frank Simms. Mr. Turcot's classification is automobile supplies distributing.

Special guests during the meeting were introduced by Paul Theobald and included George Merriam, Cheshire, Conn., Jean Marceau, Montreal, and Maurice Rheault, A. Plourde and Graydon Woollerton, all of Sherbrooke.

Personnel from Rotary's Air Cadets who were present were introduced by Cliff Bryant as follows: Squadron Leader F. G. Lord. Flt. Lt. Don Richardson, P/O Norm Frageau, Romeo Ouellette, Dr. Neil Wilson, P. E. Gray, Dick Richardson and Graydon Reid.

The evening's singsong was led by Tom Keeley accompanied by Giz Gagnon at the piano.

Dreams May Aid In Finding Of Lucky Dollar

Anyone superstitious? If so, perhaps we have a new one for you to add to your list.

Do you ever dream of snakes? If so, you are considered very lucky by those who are superstitiously inclined, for to dream of snakes means that you will be on the receiving end of some money.

Speaking of being on the receiving end of money, snakes or no snakes, we still have twenty-five dollars to give away. Who wants to be the lucky one to add it to his pocket book?

In case you have forgotten, there are not many rules to this contest. All you have to do is find the right one-dollar bill, do the weekly crossword puzzle and hand them in to the Record. For just that little bit of effort, we will give you all of twenty-five dollars.

Who could miss a chance like that?

But, remember, you must keep checking those dollars every single chance you get. The special contest buck is liable to turn up anywhere and you don't want to be the one who misses it.

You know, there is also another old belief used by palm readers. If you have chinks between your fingers, through which you can see specks of light when you close your fingers closely together, it is a sign that you are not very good at hanging on to your cash. In other words, money runs through your fingers. Are you going to let this Lucky Dollar run through your fingers without doing anything about it?

Even though the contest may seem harder now since there is only one dollar, it is in fact a lot easier, for you can memorize the number and always have it with you, making it much easier than having to look up the list of numbers at the end of the day.

By the way, that all important number, up until Monday, January 31, is T/N 2398680.

The gathering will be attended by civic officials, service club members, the press and others.

Novel Presentations Made To Contest Leaders At Lennoxville Optimists

The Optimist Club of Lennoxville held their second semi-monthly meeting of the new year, at Elmwood Hotel last evening. First on the club's agenda was a supper which began at 7.00 p.m., during which the business was discussed.

President Joe Gilbert opened the proceedings after the Optimist pledge had been read by welcoming new members Frank Jenne and Herb Burbank. The petty fining ritual, whereby club members fine each other for supposed breach of conduct unbecoming to an Optimist, provided the meal with humour as well as enriching the club. On to more serious matters of expense, the financial report for 1954 was read by treasurer Ed Siveright, who reported a favorable year and a bank balance of $1,078.50 as of January 12.

The next business of the evening was the introduction of the guests. They were Thomas Adams, Joe Laplante, Ken Orr and Les Hudd.

For his active part in the Optimist's rink project, Wes Nichol, was presented with a small token of appreciation by the club, namely a gigantic cigar. Mr. Nichol then gave a brief resume of the way in which the operation of the rink was being handled, fulfilling the Optimist's slogan, "To Help a Boy." He was congratulated for his efforts.

The final business on the program provided the company of 50 members with much amusement. The members who sold the most tickets on a recent TV set raffle were awarded prizes for their achievements. Burt Keenan; who sold the most tickets, was given a live turkey and Don Clark, a close second in the competition, was given a live rooster.

With the serious business of the meeting completed, the members then adjourned from the dining hall to watch a movie entitled "The Calgary Stampede." Jack Dunfield was responsible for the obtaining of the film and projection was handled by Lloyd Hutchison. After the movie, the meeting officially ended and the members dispersed.

The next meeting of the Optimist Club of Lennoxville will be Monday, February 7.

Long Stresses

Sherbrooke Woman Enters Title Race

"Never make rash statements, of which you have no definite proof" is a prime rule to be followed by every newspaper reporter. What happens when you commit this journalistic sin sometimes has far-reaching results. An example of which has been noted in Canadian papers during the past week.

Not long ago, the Record ran a picture of a 15-year-old girl, of St. Thomas, Ont., with the caption that her hair, 41½ inches long, was believed to be the longest in the Dominion. Several have already refuted this statement, trying to bring the honor to their own heads which they feel might contain the longest tresses in Canada.

We have done a bit of investigation on our own, in what has been referred to as "the hair-raising battle," and have come up with our contribution to the 'Hair of Fame."

We will not, however say these tresses are the longest in Canada, the longest in the Eastern Townships, or even the longest in Sherbrooke, for we know very well what we are asking for with a statement of that sort. But we will say that the hair is pretty long, and much longer that that of the fifteen-year old girl, who first started off the race.

First of all, the brunette tresses in question belong to a grandmother, Mrs. Melissa McKeage, of 473 Montreal Street right here in Sherbrooke. That in itself is something remarkable. And what's more, she has only been letting it grow for eleven years and at present, it measures a bit more than 51 inches.

Mrs. McKeage told us she had never had it cut in the last 11 years, but has often had it thinned. Usually, she wears it braided in one big pig-tail wound around her head, but for us, she really "let her hair down" and showed its entire length.

Pointing out that it was naturally wavy, Mrs. McKeage stated the reason she let it grow was that it was easier to keep. After looking at what we thought would often become a tangled mess, we were about to question her theory when she quickly set us right by saying it never tangled, for she didn't keep it down too often. The only care she has to give it is the occasional brushing and a frequent treatment of oil to keep it from flying.

When someone jokingly remarked she couldn't get away with much mischief when one was able to catch her by her flowing locks, Mrs. McKeage agreed, but came back with a fast retort for which we had no argument.

"It is an ancient custom with the Chinese to grow a long pigtail, because if one ever fell into sin, he could be pulled out by the hair. Just think of all the sin I could commit with this!"

MAYBE NOT THE LONGEST IN CANADA, but you'll have to admit it's a little different from the current Italian, cropped, crew-cut look, and it's all of 51 inches long too. Pictured above is Sherbrooke's present contribution to the long hair race, Mrs. Melissa McKeage, of 473 Montreal Street, who boasts a head of brunette tresses, which have not been cut for eleven years. Mickey, her pet cat, pictured with her, doesn't look too happy about the competition his mistress is giving his magnificent bushy tail, does he?

Contest Appears Likely For Mayor At Lennoxville

All of Lennoxville's Town Council members will be standing for re-election in the Feb. 1 elections this year according to nominations which have been received so far by secretary-treasurer Reginald Baker. The chief contest will be for the mayoralty where Maurice Baillargeon, former alderman, will be opposing Lee M. Watson.

Nominations do not close until January 25 and it is expected that more names may be submitted before the final nomination date.

Those received so far however include that of Mayor Lee M. Watson who will stand for re-election and it is expected that he will be opposed by Maurice Baillargeon, last year's alderman in seat number two. James Beattie and John Dunfield, who were rumored to be candidates for the mayoralty have stated that they definitely will not be running either for alderman or for mayor. Nomination has been received from a new member on the scene, J. A. Ste. Marie for Mr. Baillargeon's office in seat number two.

Last year's councillors, E. A. Lunderville, A. S. Mitchell, A. Raycraft, E. W. Gilbey and Cecil Dougherty in seats one, three, four, five and six, will all be running again. Another newcomer Richard C. Winget has submitted his nomination competing for seat number three in opposition to Mr. Mitchell.

Drop The Bomb?

When the idea of building an H-bomb was first proposed, many voiced the fear that the mere test explosion of such a weapon might dangerously contaminate the earth's atmosphere. Then responsible scientists dismissed the notion as unsound. Not so today.

With the death of one Japanese fisherman and possible serious injury to others, caused by radioactive dust from the "fall-out" in mid-Pacific still in our minds, a California geneticist, studying the germ cells which transmit physical characteristics from a human to its offspring, gives us a warning.

We may be getting nearly a hundred harmful changes a year in those vital cells — even at the present rate of nuclear radiation. The figure for the world is about 1800.

These totals estimate, just roughly, the damage the H-bomb blast may be doing right now to new generations. And, although these figures can be termed very small when set against the world's population, it cannot but make one think of the future.

For the geneticist, Dr. Sturtevant of the California Institute of Technology, says that if atomic radiation is stepped up — and it is not unforeseeable — to the maximum amount possible without inflicting damage on living persons, then something like 333,000 babies born in the United States each year would have harmful changes in their own cells.

Even Oppenheimer has said that there is a vast ignorance prevailing about the possible effects of the nuclear "fall-out," and it is well known that exposure to strong radioactivity renders human beings sterile.

But even the scientists who study these things have no predictions just how much harm can be done by merely a "mild dose" of radioactivity in the atmosphere. Could it mean stunted or deformed children in the future?

Now, does anyone feel like saying: "Should we drop the bomb?"

Science In A Sprint

When the distinguished members of the British Association for the Advancement of Science held their 1953 annual meeting at Liverpool under the presidency of Sir Edward Appleton they listened closely to a paper delivered by the youngest man in the room. He was a student of St. Mary's Hospital Medical School, London.

The student pointed out that there was no limit to any physical performance but added that various psysiological factors caused the margin by which records were broken to diminish steadily. In sprinting, for instance, speed was limited by muscle viscosity. The limiting factor in many events was lack of oxygen. The St. Mary's Hospital man went on to discuss experiments under which athletes, placed on a treadmill, had reacted in various ways to controlled mixtures of air and oxygen.

The young man who contributed this erudite paper was named Roger Bannister. He had already broken the British record for the sprinted mile that year by a performance of four minutes, three seconds and six-tenths. But he had not equalled Gunnar Haegg's 4:01.4 record of 1945.

Within eight months of the time he appeared before the British Association, Roger Bannister, now a doctor, electrified the athletic world by beating the four-minute mile. His historic 3:59.4 came on a cold, windy day last May. True, the Australian, John Landy, turned in a 3:58 even, later, but Bannister was the first to vanquish the four minutes which achievement had been the goal of sprinters for many years.

Bannister's feat was a triumph of a highly efficient and finely trained body. We have never seen brought out, however, the extent to which it was a triumph of the mind. Few athletes have made so intensive a study of theory and been able to translate the results into the breaking of a record.

Keeping Faith With The Soviet

Charles Noble, camera manufacturer, before the war, of Detroit, and his son, John H. Noble, have had more than their share of the ways of totalitarianism. They were in Dresden — their only crime was being there when war with the United States broke out. They were forced to work for the Nazi regime.

In 1945 the hopes of the imprisoned pair were revived. The victorious Russians were approaching Dresden. Freedom seemed near.

What happened? The Nobles were arrested by the Red vanguard. The father was held until 1952. The son has just been released after spending more than nine years in a Soviet slave labor camp. Only his trust in God, he has said, pulled him through the ordeal.

When renewed imprisonment at the hands of the Russians was the lot of the Nobles thousands of Russians were being turned over to the Soviet by the Western Allies. These included the leader and most of the members of a gallant brigade who had fought side by side with the Americans and British in the Italian campaign. These men were returned to what they knew would be torture and death. They were returned reluctantly by their erstwhile companions-in-arms because of agreements made at Yalta.

The Western Allies, since that time, have come to realize that the Communists expect strict adhesion to obligations while they themselves honor few. No more escaped Russians will ever be returned. The treatment of the Nobles shows that the Russians can hardly be worse as enemies than as "friends."

Military Expert Shows Why

U.S. Air Advantage Over Soviet

Editor's Note: Brig. Gen. Thomas R. Phillips, USA Retired, author of the accompanying dispatch, has been a contributor to the military press for many years. He joined the Army in 1917, and since his retirement in 1950, has been military analyst for the St. Louis Post Dispatch. This report on air defense is condensed from the current issue of the Army Combat Forces Journal.

By BRIG. GEN. THOMAS R. PHILLIPS

Washington—(NEA)—The United States has a built-in geographical advantage over the Soviet Union for defense against air attack as well as for aerial operations it might conduct against the Soviet heartland.

Our aircraft can enter the Soviet Union's Eurasian heartland at any point on its 14,000-mile perimeter.

This perimeter is so vast that it is impossible to set up either a complete defensive screen or a warning screen at or near the rim. This requires the Soviets to defend from regions inside the country.

Thus they lose the advantage of distant warning and successive lines of defense. It has been reported that the Moscow region is surrounded by 17 airdromes.

A second offensive advantage comes from the much shorter distances the United States Air Force has to fly from our peripheral bases to enter a central Eurasian territory.

Moscow is only 1,100 miles from Turkey, 1,600 miles from England, and 2,700 miles from Thule. There is actually no target that is more than 3,000 miles distant from some one of our peripheral bases.

All can be reached by our medium bombers and, with refueling, present bombers can return to their bases.

The picture with reference to a Soviet attack on the United States is just the opposite. All Soviet bases are more than 3,000 miles from targets in the United States.

In addition, geography forces the Eurasian power to make its flights over thousands of miles of territory controlled by the U.S. or its allies. The approaches are channelized over natural defensive and warning areas unless long dog-legs are flown, which would increase the already great distances.

Distance is an important factor in limiting offensive capacity, simply as a function of time. A 10,000-mile fight would require from 24 to 48 hours, depending upon the type of plane. Flights of half or less than half that distance, such as from our peripheral bases to Eurasia, could be made much more often.

The distance factor has the practical effect of doubling the capacity of our air force or of halving that of a Eurasian air force.

The geographical advantage to the U.S. in air defense is equally pronounced. The direct routes from eastern Siberia, North Cape and Kamchatka pass over Alaska or the Aleutian Islands.

* * *

The direct line from Kamchatka is more than 3,500 miles, while a long dog-leg to the Pacific Northwest over the Pacific to avoid the Aleutian Islands is about 4,300 miles. A long dog-leg from North Cape to avoid Alaska and to come down through central Canada to Chicago is about 4,500 miles.

The shortest air route to the United States from the east is from Murmansk. The distances are about 4,000 miles to New York and 4,400 miles to Chicago.

The routes from Murmansk cross over Greenland, Baffin Island, Labrador and Canada, and then for several hundred miles over the United States. It should be possible, from radar stations on Greenland and on Baffin Island, Labrador, and Newfoundland, to obtain warning of enemy approach 2,000 miles out of New York City. Substantial progress has been made in establishing these stations.

Routes from eastern Europe which would cross the Atlantic south of Greenland are longer. It is about 4,500 miles from Lithuania or Czechoslovakia to New York. The northern route would cross Sweden and Norway and give warning, while a more southerly one would cross Germany and Scotland.

It is impossible to select a route in this area that will not cross territory of our European allies, no matter how far off the direct course the flight is made.

* * *

The direct air routes to the United States from either the east or west cover a width of only about 1,000 miles on the east and about 800 miles on the west in the vicinity of Alaska and the Aleutian islands.

This simplifies the American defensive problem enormously. It means that distant advanced warning can be provided against direct routes of attack from the east and west by covering a space of only 1,800 miles. This compares with the Soviet problem of covering 14,000 miles to gain warning.

To evade these distant warning installations a hostile power could fly a dog-leg course. This would, of course, greatly increase the distances. This is the justification for patrolling the Pacific between the Hawaiian Islands and Aleutians, for patrolling off the Atlantic and Pacific coasts with airborne radar planes.

It also is the justification for radar patrols between Greenland and Iceland, between Iceland and the Faroe Islands, and between the Faroes and the Shetlands.

* * *

At the present time, interceptor speeds have advanced faster than bomber speeds, and the use of air-to-air bombing rockets has greatly increased the power of the interceptor to kill.

On the other hand, the bomber cannot use the air-to-air rocket for defense. The bomber is attacked from the rear and must fire backward. The initial speed of the rocket is decreased by the forward speed of the bomber so that it drops and loses its course.

Some time in the not distant future our survival may depend upon solving defense problems which do not yet press upon us but which do loom on the dark horizon.

The two most critical ones in air defense are improvement of guided missiles and radar. A few years hence, when the offensive power of the air-atomic combination is stalemated, an effective defense may become the great deterrent to war.

RED POLITICAL VIEWS

Christian Science Monitor

We trust that the leaders of major American political parties will be alert to the changing political plans of Communists in the United States. Conceding their failure at the polls with a party of their own, they are seeking to "bore from within" other parties. The tactic is made official in New York by the State Committee of the Communist Party.

Members are directed to enroll in a regularly recognized political party. In New York this plan has been forced by the demise of the Communist-dominated American Labor Party. By counting only 46,000 out of more than 5,000,000 votes in the last gubernatorial election the ALP lost its right to a place on the ballot. So if the Reds want to vote they must register as members of a party having a right to name candidates. Quite probably their major effort will be directed to influencing the choice of delegates to local and state conventions.

It was by such methods that they captured control of the ALP in New York in 1943. It is unlikely that they can repeat that manoeuvre, even in the Empire State, where their voting strength is greatest. But by concentrated or "bullet" voting they might in some areas exercise an influence all out of proportion to their numbers. It will behoove political leaders to spot and expose such tactics.

Practically one of the problems in combatting the Reds in politics is to find out what they are about. They are not above ostensibly supporting one man and giving him a black eye while their real strength is thrown behind an opponent. But the Red leaders now have only a relative handful of voters they can command. So even such tricky manoeuvres have little chance of success if other party leaders are alert and if patriotic citizens take an active interest in politics.

Rearming Western Germany Is Still Long Way Off

By PETER EDSON

Washington. — The optimistic view in the U.S. State Department is that French Assembly approval of the London and Paris agreements to rearm Western Germany solves the most pressing problem in Europe.

The more pessimistic view is that French Assembly action really solved nothing. Far from being the end of the story, this is merely the beginning. And there is trouble ahead.

In France itself, the Council of the Republic—corresponding to the U.S. Senate—has to approve the action of the Assembly—which corresponds to the U.S. House of Representatives.

Ratification by the Council has been taken for granted. But if the Council makes even minor amendments to the act of ratification, it will have to go back to the Assembly.

In this reconsideration by the Assembly, the slim 27-vote majority by which Premier Mendes-France obtained his vote of confidence on the issue, might disappear. The fact that some 80 deputies did not vote in the 287 to 260 approval is a further indication of the weakness of this situation.

If France should finally fail to accept the London and Paris agreements, the political stability of Germany might become unstuck.

The German chancellor, Dr. Konrad Adenauer, has had to use practically all the good will he has commanded to carry the West German Republic along with his policy of Western European alliances. He has admittedly lost strength in the last few months.

There are now some doubts as to whether West Germany itself will ratify the London and Paris agreements, even though they might make the Germans the strongest people in Europe.

The factor overlooked in this situation is that there exists in Germany today a great distrust of remilitarization. This represents a complete change in German public opinion.

There is no question about the ability of Germany to raise and equip a 12-division, 500,000-man army. There is some question as to whether this new force would be popular.

Even Chancellor Adenauer himself is said to be hipped on his opposition to recreation of a war ministry and general staff that might again take over control of German government.

And so, the pessimistic appraisal of the European situation today is that Germany might conceivably never be rearmed, or that it might not be rearmed for a long time to come.

Coupled with this fear of recreating German military might —a fear that exists in France even more than in Germany— there is a strong desire in both countries to hold still another conference with the Russians before Germany is rearmed.

The German Socialists seem to feel that such talks might somehow further unification of East and West Germany. Premier Mendes-France seems to feel that he is cunning enough to negotiate more favorable living conditions with the Russians. Just what these conditions might be, he has never stated.

What this combination of circumstances adds up to is a belief that the coming weeks will see increasing pressure on the United States and the United Kingdom to agree to new talks with the Russians before Germany is rearmed.

This is where trouble lies for the United States.

It is now recognized in Washington that the French may have originally put forward their European Defense Community proposals as a stalling device to delay U.S insistence on German rearmament.

Premier Mendes-France scrapped the EDC plan as an interference with his own ideas for first strengthening the domestic economy of France. The alternative which he accepted in the London and Paris agreements will be a godsend—if these agreements can be ratified by France and Germany.

If they cannot, there is trouble aplenty ahead for the United States and its Western European allies in finding a second alternative. It is admitted this must somehow involve the ultimate rearming of Western Germany. Without that, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization becomes a flimflam and its Western European defense plans are made inoperable.

What else this third plan might encompass, no one can now say. It would have to be hammered out in another Western European conference of completely unpredictable results.

Jacoby On Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY

THIS CONTRACT IS VERY DIFFICULT

Tournament experts will assure you, if you ask them, that the most difficult of all contracts is one no-trump. Many game and slam contracts are absolute lay-downs, but you will seldom play the hand at one no-trump unless the strength is so evenly divided that it's very hard to tell which trick can make a majority of the tricks.

In today's hand, for example, the high-card strength was equally divided. Each side had 20 points in high cards. The struggle sometimes went one way and sometimes the other, when this hand was played in the recent national tournament in Atlanta.

At many tables, West opened the deuce of hearts. This gave South the chance to develop three heart tricks immediately, and declarer usually made his contract without trouble.

At one table West opened the fourth-best club on the theory that he preferred to keep his high hearts for use as entries later on. This opening lead struck oil. East held the first trick with the queen of clubs, held the second trick with the king of clubs, and continued the suit. South won the third trick with the ace of clubs, discarding a small heart from the dummy.

South now led the nine of spades from his hand. West saw no advantage in covering with the king, so he played low without hesitation. South left the nine of spades ride, and East won with the jack. East returned the eight of hearts, and West put up the queen to force out dummy's ace.

Declarer didn't know that he could catch the king of spades by just laying down the ace, so he returned the nine of hearts from the dummy in the hope of promoting a trick in that suit. West won with the king of hearts and promptly cashed his last club, dummy discarding a spade.

West could see that a diamond or heart return would help declarer, so he plumped dummy in by returning the king of spades. Dummy could cash three spades but then had to guess the best way of leading away from the diamonds.

At the end, South guessed wrong by leading the jack of diamonds out of the dummy. West won with the queen and returned a diamond, allowing East to win the last two tricks. At this table, therefore, alert defense managed to set the contract two tricks.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1 Club	Pass	1 Diamond	Pass
1 Heart	Pass	?

You, South, hold: Spades K-J-2, Hearts 9-7-5-4, Diamonds Q-9-6-3-2, Club 3. What do you do?

A—Bid two hearts. As in yesterday's hand, you have only 6 points in high cards, but you have four-card trump support and a singleton. You might easily miss a game if you passed.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades 8-7-2, Hearts Q-7-5-4, Diamonds K-J-6-3, Clubs K-3. What do you do?

Reports Feature Institute Meeting At Lennoxville

Lennoxville Women's Institute held its January meeting in the club room with the president, Mrs. G. Cascadden, presiding.

The meeting opened with the Salute to the Flag and collect for clubwomen. Mrs. Cascadden had on her desk a gift of a gavel tied in the W.I. colors of blue and gold. The donor was anonymous.

The roll call was answered by giving a favorite home remedy, which proved quite interesting. The treasurer's report showed a favorable balance and each member returned their holiday plates which further added to the sum. Letters of thanks were read from recipients of Christmas cheer baskets and other remembrances.

Conveners' reports included:

Education: Mrs. R. W. S. Nutbrown read an interesting article on the change of Arctic climate and the effects on the various industries and agriculture.

Home Economics: Mrs. C. G. Skinner reported the dates given for the coming handicraft workshop as November 9 and December 2, and that the courses would be leather, hat remodelling, glove-making and slipper making.

Citizenship: Mrs. A. E. Abercrombie read the president's address from a recent New Brunswick Home and Country and had on display cards and pictures she had received from pen pals in Kenya, Africa, Norway and Gaspe. She also read short items from a South African paper re W.I. work there and a note from British Columbia telling of two sewing machines being sent to India by money raised by B.C. women and the assistance this meant to the women there.

Mrs. J. Kennett, Welfare and Health, reported five volunteers needed from this branch to assist with the making of cancer dressings at the dressing station in Sherbrooke. These were named.

Sunshine convener, Mrs. L. Stewart, reported twenty-four baskets of cheer sent to sick and shutins at Christmas, and one sunshine basket to a member who was ill.

Final arrangements were made for the completion of the girls' outfit for the Tweedsmuir competition, all articles to be returned to Mrs. H. L. Wallace not later than January 29.

Delegates were named for the coming quarterly county meeting to be held in the Lennoxville club room on February 9, with this branch as hostess. Mrs. R. Pariseau was named to convene this lunch.

Mrs. C. G. Skinner was named program convener, with Mrs. W. Beattie and Mrs. W. Brady as a committee, and Mrs. W. Beattie was named convener of the nomination committee.

This concluded a busy session. The hostesses for the evening were Mrs. E. L. Day, Mrs. W. B. Brady and Mrs. C. G. Skinner.

Games and readings made up the evening's entertainment after which refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Comrades Norma Jennings and Amy Cowan. The singing of "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow" and "Auld Lang Syne" brought the evening to a close.

RED CROSS MEETING

After a short recess through the holiday season, the Red Cross Rooms were re-opened on Monday at which time considerable work was brought in and new work resumed by the ladies present, which included the tying of a quilt.

Tea was served by the hostesses for the afternoon, Mrs. Arnold Thompson and Mrs. Leon Dyer.

Keep Close Watch Over Dr. Sheppard

Cleveland— (AP) —His father dead 11 days after his mother's suicide, Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard was kept in a special observation cell today while guards at the county jail kept close watch.

The handsome osteopath's father, Dr. Richard A. Sheppard, 64, died Tuesday night in hospital, the victim of a respiratory ailment.

Just a few days ago the younger Sheppard, 31, who is appealing his conviction as a wife-murderer, had been returned to his regular four-by-eight-foot cell. He had been under observation since Jan. 7, when his mother shot herself two weeks after his trial ended.

Dr. Richard and Dr. Stephen Sheppard, Dr. Sam's brothers, broke the news to him.

They said afterwards that their father had "lost his will to live" after his wife had put a revolver to her head.

The elderly doctor was founder of the Bayview Hospital where all the Sheppards were on staff. He bore most of the burden of the hospital's surgical work during the more than nine weeks his youngest son was on trial, as the other sons went to court daily.

R. F. Cowan Honored On Retirement As Secretary-Treasurer Of Potton

Mansonville, Jan. 19 — On Thursday evening, January 13, R. F. Cowan was guest of honor at a large gathering in the Mansonville Town Hall. The occasion was Mr. Cowan's retirement from the office of secretary-treasurer after thirty-two years of service to the municipality. The large attendance of both French and English testified to his popularity.

The speakers included the clergy, Rev. Father Boisclair, Rev. R. C. Hopkins, Rev. E. F. Macklin and Rev. J. Clarke Reilly. Col. Orrin B. Rexford, of Foster, represented the Fisher Trust Fund, of which Mr. Cowan has been a member for many years and their chairman for the past 15 years.

Fred A. Jewett, who has served as a councillor for many of the years that Mr. Cowan has been secretary-treasurer, as well as having been on the council during the time that J. M. Labell and Frank Soule were filling the same office for the Town, spoke very highly of Mr. Cowan, whose advice in municipal affairs was always sound and could be taken with confidence.

The male choir of St. Cajetan's Church was in attendance and under their conductor, Philippe Lessard, with Mrs. Gertrude St. Laurent as accompanist, sang two selections, "Ave Maria" and a French song. The soloists for these were Messrs. Philippe Lessard and Clement Lessard. The latter also sang as a solo, "The Lord's Prayer."

The most amusing item on the program was a skit, entitled "An Afternoon in the Life of Frank Cowan." This was a mock council meeting, with the following cast: Mayor, H. W. Sullivan; secretary-treasurer, Dr. H. E. Gillanders; councillors, Oscar Sargent, Rupert Fullerton, John Young, Graham George, Wilfrid Boucher and Merton Bailey. The skit was typical of many country councils of which Potton is no exception in that the councillors sometimes digress from the business on the agenda.

Dr. H. E. Gillanders made a presentation of a clock and purse of money to Mr. Cowan on behalf of the townspeople. Mrs. Cowan was presented with a bouquet of red roses, the latter presentation being made by little Miss Gwendolyn Johnson.

Mr. Cowan replied in his very able manner, reviewing briefly some of the events of the past thirty-two years, not forgetting to give credit to his very able secretaries, mentioning the late Arthur Newman, as one who had so ably assisted him.

E. S. Bradley, one of the present-day councillors, read the resolution passed at the last council meeting, which expressed the appreciation of the mayor and councillors for Mr. Cowan's service to the community.

Mayor Hilaire Picotte was chairman of the meeting.

Following the National Anthems, refreshments were provided by the ladies of the different churches.

Tokyo — (AP) — The Rising Sun emblem of Japan will take to the skies Thursday for the first time since the Second World War when the United States Air Force turns over 59 planes, including eight jets, to the fledgling Japanese Air Force. The planes will be the first owned by the Japanese Air Force since the war.

Tokyo — (AP) — Tokyo police, stung by criticism that desk sergeants are cold and high-handed, have hired women receptionists. The girls will go on duty when they finish training in department stores and banks "learning the finer points of gracious service."

Mexico City. —(AP)— A Mexican lawyer and politician said Tuesday that 250,000 Mexican farm workers who crossed into the United States in 1954 did not return. Juan Ignacio Padilla, head of the Sinarquista party, said 50,000 of the estimated 350,000 legal farm workers who went to the U.S. on contract decided to stay there, and about 200,000 wetbacks (illegal farm workers) made the same decision.

RICHMOND—

To commemorate the birth of Robert Burns the Scottish Poet, an Evening of Song and Story has been arranged to take place at Canadian Legion Hall, Richmond on Tuesday, January 25, 1955 at 8 p.m. Sponsored by Ladies of St. Andrew's Church, Upper Melbourne, and Richmond.

INCREASE IN LABOR

The UAW says it has soured on long-term contracts, wants new agreements limited to one or two years. Also, Walter Reuther, head of both the CIO and the UAW, has pledged that the auto union will win some form of the guaranteed annual wage this year.

Steel industry contracts permit only re-bargaining of wage rates in June. However, what happens in the steel or auto industries likely would affect each other.

Outcome of the steel and auto negotiations is likely to have bearing on bargaining in other industries, but perhaps not as much as in past years.

There has been somewhat less of a tendency for employers to "follow the pattern" and more for each to tailor his bargaining to what he or his fellow employers in an industry or area decide is best for them.

Officers Of W. A. Re-Elected At Ayer's Cliff

Ayer's Cliff, Jan. 19 — The regular meeting of St. George's Women's Auxiliary was held at the home of Miss Flora H. Paul on Wednesday afternoon January 5th.

The president, Mrs. A. G Clough presided and the lesson from Titus 11 was followed by a discussion of the articles to be procured and got ready for the mission bale.

The treasurer was authorized to give the necessary funds for the purchase of articles or materials to the Dorcas Secretary when needed.

The election of officers resulted in the return of all who were in office during 1954, after which the meeting closed with prayers and the Benediction by Rev. H. C Denton. Tea was served by the hostess Miss Paul.

PRAYER WEEK

Prayer week was observed in the community when Rev. W. H. Boomhour and the congregation joined with Reverend H. C. Denton, of St. George's Anglican Church.

The prayers were read by Rev. Denton, The lesson by Reverend W. H. Boomhour.

Reverend Carl Gustafson, of Magog, was the guest speaker and delivered a very interesting and inspiring address, giving the congregation material for thought to start the New Year.

Mrs. Pawley of Massawippi was organist.

HAPPY GANG CLUB

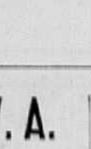

The first get together in 1955 of the Happy Gang Christmas Club was on Tuesday January 11th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cooper.

There was a short business session, when Mrs. T. D. Sloggett was elected president-secretary, replacing the retiring president, Mrs. Donald Smith.

Following the business session, cards were played at six tables when the ladies' first prize was won by Mrs. Gladys Martin, second prize, Mrs. Lorett Whipple, and consolation by Mrs. Gaudreau. Gentlemen's first, Mr. T D. Sloggett, consolation Junior Simmons.

Mrs. George Simmons invited the Club to meet at her home in February. Mrs. Cooper served refreshments which brought a very pleasant evening to a close

BABY'S COLDS

Help Nature To Fight Them Off

Medical Science denies there is any such thing as a cure for colds — only Nature herself can do it. So when baby's sniffles, or stuffy breathing warn you of a cold's presence — cooperate at once with Nature.

See that baby is kept warm, gets plenty of sleep and take extra care that the bowels are thoroughly cleared of harmful wastes. To do this without upsetting baby's whole system and further weakening it, try Baby's Own Tablets. Mild, yet act promptly in getting rid of irritating materials that make baby restless and feverish.

One Nova Scotia Mother says: "My baby of 26 months caught a nasty cold so I tried Baby's Own Tablets and she threw this cold off quicker than ever before. I certainly am for Baby's Own Tablets from now on." Equally good for restlessness and peevishness resulting from irregularity at teething time, for constipation, digestive upsets and other minor infant troubles. Taste good and are easy to take! Get a package today.

"No trouble with IRREGULARITY"

Writes Mr. J. C. Hillis, of Halifax, N.S.

"It's a pleasure to be rid of harsh laxatives. I've had no trouble with irregularity for 18 months, since taking your gentle but effective laxation cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran."

The above testimonial is typical of thousands received each year for All-Bran, the original, natural laxative cereal pioneered nearly 40 years ago by W. K. Kellogg. This delicious dish promotes comfortable elimination without harsh purging.

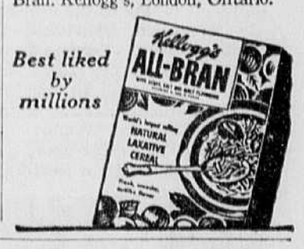

Relief from Constipation

The greatest advantage of All-Bran is that it corrects the cause of irregularity due to insufficient bulk. Chemical or drug-type laxatives, on the other hand, are intended only for overnight relief of a temporary stoppage. All-Bran is made from the outer layers of the whole wheat kernel and supplies natural food bulk. Just eat daily a one-ounce serving for breakfast and drink plenty of water. It will improve your "Intestinal Tone" so necessary to comfortable regularity.

Satisfaction Guaranteed

All-Bran is a wholesome, good-tasting cereal that has helped millions. We'll prove to you that Kellogg's All-Bran will give gentle, effective relief from constipation within 10 days or return twice what you paid. But be sure you get Kellogg's, the one and only All-Bran. Kellogg's, London, Ontario.

Farm Forum Activities

BULWER

The topic under discussion at the Farm Forum meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Parker was Agricultural Fairs. After the broadcast, the discussion period followed with the members divided into two groups.

The first question was taken to mean, all fairs to which people in this area may take exhibits, and Compton County fair held at Cookshire, the school fairs, the Sherbrooke Fair, the field crop seed fair held at Cookshire, the Winter Fair held at Sherbrooke and the 4H Club fairs were listed. These fairs were thought to be fairly satisfactory but that not enough interest is taken in them. It was thought that they might be improved in the following ways: Exhibitors should have to exhibit grain in large enough quantities so that it cannot be handpicked; Less fat should be required on beef breeds; Competition could be more equalized by having separate classes for the wealthy stock breeder and the average farmer; More stress could be put on the agricultural part of the fairs by signs and loudspeakers and by arrows pointing out the cattle barns, pig barns, etc.; Get the young people interested in raising cattle to exhibit; Have talks at fairs by agronomes, who know local conditions.

The members thought the fairs could not be run successfully without the midway and other entertainment features but that these took a great deal of money out of the country.

A business meeting was held by the leader, Mr. Stuart Merrill and a short memorial service in memory of a former member, Mr. Leslie Richardson, was held. At the close of the meeting lunch furnished by Mrs. Stuart Merrill and Mrs. William Halll was served.

BIRCHTON

On Monday evening, January 10, about twenty of the members and interested friends of the Birchton Farm Forum braved the treacherous icy roads, and met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harbinson, Sr., to discuss the topic for the evening: "Agricultural Fairs". The group generally agreed that our local Fairs of which there are two... the Fall Fair in August and the Seed Fair in February, both sponsored by the Compton County Agricultural Society, were being handled as well as was possible with the limited finances which the organizations had available.

Several "beefs" were brought out for airing, among which was the unfair classification which compelled the so-called "little farmer", who had to prepare his stock with a sadly limited purse, to compete with the "Hobby Farmer," who by his financial circumstances is not compelled to count the cost.

While in agreement that the situation was not a happy one, the group was not able to come up with any workable solution.

A member who is specialist in Maple Products, and who usually ranks in the top bracket at the fairs, voiced a complaint about the size of the space allotted to exhibitors of the product... space which does not allow them the scope required for any degree of showmanship.

Other suggestions included were, that the charge made by the Midway for rides, etc., discriminated against, and worked a harship on children from low-income homes who had to stand by, dolefully jingling their few insufficient pennies, and watching their better-heeled chums enjoying themselves.

A lady-member, an ardent horsewoman herself, would like to see saddle-horse racing added to the racing program at the fairs, as it would create a great deal of interest, and also stimulate interest in a fast-disappearing art.

It may not require a great deal of advanced technique to stay behind a hundred, or so, horsepower motor going at top speed; but there are times when staying "in the saddle" of a hay-burning one horse-power racer, particularly when the said racer does not feel co-operative, takes some doing.

However, that aside, the suggestion has much to appeal to Fair-goers, and we commend it to the Directors of the Fall Fairs.

Some matters of interest to the Community came up for discussion, including an appeal from an organization in a neighbouring community for assistance in setting up a Trust Fund for a widow with small children left in difficult circumstances. This was tabled for further discussion.

The secretary-treasurer of the Hall Committee, gave an interim report on that project, which put the cost of the work, to date, at slighty over $1900, of which $1600 has been subscribed by donations of money, material and work.

The Building Committee, consisting of Mr. S. J. Taylor, as chairman, with O. F. Bailey, O. A. Desruisseaux, Norman Gill and W. S. J. Hodgman, and the Public . . . at home and abroad . . . who gave them such loyal support in their work have earned the thanks and commendations of this small but ambitious Community.

The hostess assisted by some of the ladies, served lunch, which was followed by an hour of recreation of cards, crokinole, and friendly chat.

The next regular meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Harbinson, on January 17.

WATERVILLE

Fourteen persons divided into three discussion groups, after listening to the radio broadcast on "Agricultural Fairs", when the Waterville Farm Forum was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Bernard, and Haines and Clayton Bernard, on Monday evening, January 10th.

To the question, "What agricultural fairs are there in your area," this group listed the local County Fairs at Cookshire and Ayer's Cliff, the E. T. A. A. Fair at Sherbrooke, the Sherbrooke Winter Fair, and the Compton County Seed Fair.

With none of our members being active exhibitors, we actually did not feel qualified to answer the question "How satisfactory are these fairs?" though some felt that they are not entirely satisfactory. Industrial exhibits out-number the farm ones. There are not enough grain exhibitors. The local County Fairs in this area have had difficulty in financing because of lack of sufficient grants.

There was a unanimous "Yes", for an answer to the question "Is there room for improvement of our agricultural fairs?" If the Agricultural Associations could work out a system of judging field grops and cattle right on the farms, it might help to bring about an improvement. Average farmers would be encouraged to better their farming if they could have separate classes for their herds and produce, and let the hobby-farmers compete against other wealthy farmers. And proceeds of the midway might well go toward more worthy causes.

Minutes were read of a meeting held on January 3, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Meigs, when Dr. Bernard, of the Experimental Farm, answered questions on the construction and advantages of pole-barns, uses of different fertilizers, etc. The Green Leaf was read, and plans made for the January Fourth Night Program on January 31st.

Crokinole and "500" were enjoyed for a brief social period, after which Mrs. Bernard served refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. K. Johnson extended an invitation to their home on January 17th, to discuss the topic, "Bringing up the Farm Family."

EATON ROAD

Eaton Road Farm Forum held the first meeting of the New Year, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Savage, Johnville Road, on January 10. The broadcast, "Agriculture Fairs" was listened to by 14 members.

The secretary read the Green-leaf after which the questions on the broadcast were discussed.

The fairs in this area are Sherbrooke, the County Fairs and some school fairs.

Some of the members considered they were satisfactory while others that there could be fairer competition in some methods of exhibiting, the man who farms for a hobby, should not be allowed to compete with the man who farms for a living. Midways are necessary but are over done.

After the discussion, a short business meeting was conducted by the chairman in regard to flowers being sent to bereaved families. Eaton Road Forum extends sincere sympathy to the bereaved family of Mr. L. Richardson, Bulwer.

Euchre and 500 were enjoyed, after which the hostess served refreshments. The next meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Rothney.

FORDYCE

The Fordyce Farm Forum was entertained at the home of Miss Guila Jones on January 10 with 19 members and two visitors present.

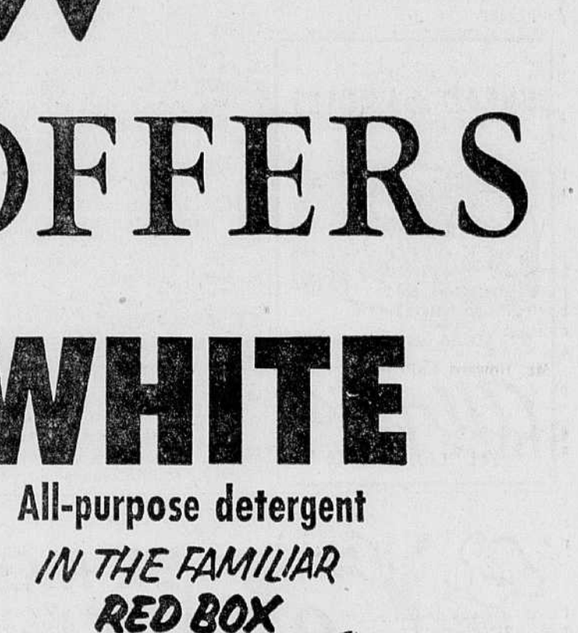

Mr. Reginald Miner, the president, was in the chair. The broadcast was followed by discussion led by Mr. H. Wallace.

The minutes were read by the secretary, Miss I. Beattie, and monthly fees were paid to the treasurer, Mrs. Velma Miner.

Further plans were made for the Fourth Night meeting to be held at Cowansville and the Green Leaf was read by the corresponding secretary, Mr. M. Mason.

The meeting adjourned and cards and crokinole were played at the recreation period. Mr. Mason, in behalf of the group, thanked Miss Jones for opening her home to the Forum.

Rock Island Stops Sherbrooke; Meteors-Eagles Win

Coach Morehouse's Squad Knock Off League-Leaders 7-5; Eagles Down Pirates 8-4; Paper Makers Stopped

The Eagles kept on top of the Pirates last night the whole way and posted an 8-4 decision over the East Angus club in a high-scoring fixture of the Massawippi Hockey League before 500 fans at the Arena. The Eagles, by virtue of their victory, held onto third position in the loop.

The Pirates lacked their usual all fire drive and this can be attributed to the fact that Frankie Reid, the league's top scorer, and Onil Martel, a tower of strength on defense, were both missing from the lineup.

The Eagles had their full squad in action and were out to win the tilt at any cost. The Pirates had a new goalie in the nets in the person of Lucien Olivier and after his poor start in the opening frame he settled down and came up with some outstanding saves. Sharpe also had a bad night as he had a hard time holding onto the rubber. He juggled the majority of the drives but Lady Luck was riding on his side as he recovered before the Pirates could do anything.

BUTTERFIELDS UPSET LOCALS

Mush Morehouse's squad came up with the upset of the evening when they managed to knock off the league-leading Sherbrooke squad 7-5. In the other tilt Asbestos dumped Windsor Paper Makers to the tune of 8-3 and this enabled them to gain two valuable points on the loop-leaders.

The Eagles move to the fore with two quick goals, tallied within fifteen seconds, in the opening frame. Olivier looked bad on these shots. Therrien then registered the Pirates' first tally but Charland came up with the nicest goal of the evening. He picked up a pass from G. Leblanc circled two and then swung around the net to flip in a beautiful back hander and the Eagles were ahead 3-1.

In the middle session the Eagles kept swarming around and finally were caught out of position as Bergeron coasted in to drive the disc by Sharpe for the Pirates' second tally. He pulled the trigger from close range and his back hander nestled in the upper hand corner of the meshings.

The Brompton squad kept driving and finally Pee Wee Leblanc, Charland and Thibault tallied to give them a comfortable lead. In the final period each team accounted for two goals. It was in this period that Lucien Olivier, the Pirates' new goalie, stood out. Time after time he came up with some outstanding saves to keep the Eagles off the score sheet.

At Rock Island Sherbrooke moved into a 2-0 lead in the first period and at the start of the middle frame Desrochers added one more but then Butterfield came to life and Ricard, Planche and Benoit drove the disc behind Labbe to knot the score.

In the final frame Duquette drove home Planche's pass fourteen seconds after the opening whistle to break the stalemate. Clark gave the home club a 5-3 advantage but Dumas took advantage of a penalty to Ricard to bat home Sherbrooke's fourth goal.

Cloutier offset this but Hinse put the Roberge squad within hailing distance and in the last minute of play the local mentor yanked his goalie but Ross Planche lifted one into the empty net for the insurance tally and the tilt finished 7-5 in favor of Rock Island.

TRACK

Ski tows, T-Bars, chair lifts and aerial tramways are all wonderful inventions, but like all mechanical devices they have to be treated with a certain amount of respect.

In the Eastern Townships there are only rope tows. Unfortunately there are none of the more modern devices. Next year, however, a T-Bar is expected to be installed at Hillcrest and there may be a similiar installation at Mt. Orford.

This advice is for the skier who has not had much experience with rope tows or the beginner out on the hills for the first time.

If you are going to use a rope tow, make sure you have either a pair of leather mitts or gloves .Woollen mitts or gloves are absolutely useless. When getting on the tow place yourself comfortably before gripping the rope, when you do take hold of the rope grip it slowly. There are several methods of holding onto the rope but here is one practical one. Grip the rope slowly with the hand nearest the rope and place your other hand on the rope behind your back and as you begin to gain speed. Bend your knees slightly and use them as shock absorbers as for your ski poles hold them by the straps, place both in the hand behind you but make sure your poles are on the same side of the rope as you are. Under no circumstances should you place your poles over the rope.

When nearing the top of the hill, release the rope smoothly and well in advance of the safety gate. Do not jerk the rope as the person behind you will either fall or wrench his arm. If you fall while ascending ease yourself out of the way of the others as quickly as possible. If someone has fallen in front of you allow the rope to slip through your hands. Give the person a chance to move. Never ride over his or her skis. Stand in line and keep in line while waiting to go up the ski tow.

THIS-AND-THAT: The racing season in the Eastern Townships officially got underway at Victoriaville last week-end and there were some 65 entries. . . We learn that "Three Creeks Trail" at Mt. Orford is in tip top shape. The Provincial Downhill Championships will be held over this tough course this year. . . We learn that resort owners in the Laurentians are having one of their biggest seasons in many a year. . . Morin Heights is doing it's best to revive jumping and cross-country, especially jumping. . . Murray Elder, the all around skier from Mount Royal High, was second to ex-Olympic jumper Frank Latour in last Sunday's jumping contest at Morin Heights and he is given a chance of making the Canadian Olympic team. Joanne Hewson, one of Canada's top lady skiers will marry Bob Staniforth this Saturday. . .

King Clancy Claims Ted Kennedy Is Natural All-Star, Best Player In League, Great Two-Way Performer

Theodore Kennedy is an all-star only in Toronto.

The 29-year-old workhorse centre with Toronto Maple Leafs has never been elevated to an all-star position in the National Hockey League and coach King Clancy figures it's a crying shame.

"I think Kennedy is the best hockey player in the league," Clancy says. "Apparently a two-way player doesn't count anymore. Everybody is looking for scorers."

Clancy wasn't happy when he looked over the NHL's mid-season list of all-stars Tuesday night and discovered that Kennedy's name was missing again.

TWO MADE IT

Two of his players, leftwinger Sid Smith and goaltender Harry Lumley, made it, though. That helped so the irrigation but Clancy insists that Kennedy should have been given the call over the great Jean Beliveau of the second-place Montreal Canadiens.

"Kennedy does more backchecking in one game than Beliveau does in a week," King said.

Clancy has no antipathy towards prolific scorers. The 23-year-old Beliveau has scored 24 goals so far this season and Clancy solemnly affirms there is a place for such boys in today's specialized game.

But, he also contends that players who perform more menial chores such as back-checking and penalty killing are just as important to the success of the team.

The all-star team reads like this: Goal: Lumley; defence: Red Kelly of Detroit Red Wings and Doug Harvey of Montreal Canadiens; centre: Beliveau; leftwing: Smith; rightwing: Bernie Geoffrion of Montreal.

SOME ABSENT

Notable absentees from both teams were rightwingers Gordie Howe of Detroit and Maurice Richard of Montreal. A second allstar selection, to take in the whole 70-game schedule, will be chosen later in the season.

The cry to put Kennedy, in his 13th season with Leafs, on the dream team has been going on for years. He has never been a 30-goal man. His best years were in 1944-45 when he scored 29 goals and in 1946-47 when he got 28.

He has five this season. But he has 28 assists, giving him a tie for eighth place in the individual scoring department with Red Sullivan of Chicago.

Kennedy will be with the third-place Leafs tonight when they clash with the last-place Chicago Black Hawks at Maple Leaf Gardens. In the only other game, the Red Wings take on the fifth-place Rangers at New York.

Hopkins Cup Matches Finish In Tie After Nine Holes; Storm Forces Postponement; Doubles Listed Today

La Jolla, Calif. — (CP) — The cream of Canadian and United States golf professionals battled on even terms against each other Tuesday but lost to wind and rain that cut short the first-day play of their fourth annual Hopkins cup matches.

The team point score was tied 3-3 at the end of nine holes, when the storm caused postponement of the final nine today.

Henry Martell, veteran from Edmonton and the winner of the Canadian PGA championship in 1953, racked up the biggest margin among the three Canadian point-getters by leading Marty Furgol of Lamont, Ill., 3 up at the end of nine. Martell, playing in the event for the second time and last year's team captain, shot a neat 38.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver, one of Canada's finest golfers and a veteran of the winter pro circuit, had the best round among the Canadians with a 37 as he led Jackie Burke, Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., 1 up.

The other Canadian leader was Jules Huot of Montreal, oldest member of the team, who held a 1 up margin over Jerry Barber, Los Angeles.

Ed Furgol, United States open champion from St. Louis; Chick Harbert of Northville, Mich., and Cary Middlecoff, the golfing dentist from Memphis, Tenn., were the United States leaders.

The team scoring is based on a point for winning each nine holes and a third for the final 18.

Rain And Wind

Middlecoff's par 36 against Bill Kerr of Montreal, new president of the Canadian PGA, who had a 40, was the best effort of the day. Middlecoff led Kerr 2 up.

The rain, driven by a 40-mile gale, started at noon, just as Ed Furgol and Al Balding of Toronto, the youngest member of the team, teed off to open the international competition which the United States has won in three previous engagements — all in Canada.

Play in the final nine of the single matches is scheduled to start at 8 a.m. pst (11 a.m. EST) today. The three doubles matches are set for 11.30 a.m.

Furgol and the 25-year-old Balding, one of the most promising of the new generation of Canadian pros, finished in 41 strokes. But Furgol led 1 up.

Harbert, of Northville, Mich., captain of the United States team, shot a 39, three over par, to gain a 2 up edge over Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon, who last year was the first Canadian to win the Canadian open since. Harbert bagged three birdies. The husky Fletcher shot a 41.

Leonard, the Canadian captain, had the only birdie of the match against Burke, on the sixth hole. Burke fired a 33.

Martell finished four strokes ahead of Marty Furgol who took a 42 for the nine. The Edmonton pro was an outstanding amateur before he entered the play-for-pay circuit. He won the Canadian amateur in 1946.

Today in the doubles, Middlecoff and Lloyd Mangrum, who was the idle seventh man on the U.S. team Tuesday, will go against Balding and George Brydson of Toronto, the Canadian team's seventh player.

Burke and Ed Furgol will meet Fletcher and Leonard. Barber and Marty Furgol will meet Martell and Kerr.

Quebec International Dog Derby May Face Legal Action If Lepine And Dompierre Compete In Event

Ottawa—(CP)—A Quebec member of Parliament said Tuesday the international dog derby here may face legal action if two Quebec City mushers are barred from the race.

The Ottawa Humane Society last year recommended that the derby directors bar mushers Wilfrid Lepine and Narcisse Dompierre from further competition on grounds of improper treatment of their dogs.

And Wilfrid Dufresne, Liberal MP for Quebec West, called barring of the two "incomprehensible" and said Lepine and Dompierre plan damage action if they are not admitted to the race.

Mrs. Elizabeth Nansen, derby convener, said Quebec log sled officials were informed this year that if Lepine and Dompierre wish to enter the derby, the two will first have to clear themselves with the humane society. They had not yet applied for entry to the race, scheduled for Feb. 9 and 10, she said.

Mr. Dufresne said Quebec dog sled officials have issued applications to Lepine and Dompierre, and that he plans to present them personally to derby officials today.

Wylie Named Coach Of Class D Lafayette Chiefs

Lafayette, Ind. — (CP) — Mark Wylie, manager of Sherbrooke of Canada's Class — C Provincial League last year, Tuesday was named manager of Lafayette Chiefs.

Wylie, 30, was a pitcher for eight years in Cleveland Indians' farm system. The Lafayette club, which has a working agreement with Cleveland, is preparing for its first year in the Class — D Mississippi-Ohio Valley League.

Canadian Talent Not Appreciated

Boston — (AP) — Dartmouth coach Ed Jeremiah advocates abolition of the NCAA hockey tournament on the grounds the championship has been reduced to a battle among Canadian-manned teams.

Jeremiah told newsmen Tuesday that "Canadian players. . . are making a farce out of the so-called championship."

Jeremiah offered as an alternative the establishment of a rating board, chosen from all sections of the country, which would pick the nation's top team on the basis of records. Only teams with less than a certain percentage of Canadian players would be considered.

Coach Harry Cleverly of Boston University didn't agree but John Kelley of Boston College said the problem "has become an evil."

Tufts' Hafey Arthur said:

"It's a case of two different types of hockey—one amateur, one verging on the professional."

Preakness To Be Run On May 28

Baltimore — (AP) — The Maryland Jockey Club said today the 79th Preakness will be run this year on May 28, third and final Saturday of the 18-day Pimlico spring meeting.

The purse is set at $100,000 added. Last season's Preakness, won by Hasty Road, grossed more than $140,000.

Sugar Ray Robinson Tangles With Ralph "Tiger" Jones In Comeback Bout Tonight At Chicago Stadium

Chicago — (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson, the erstwhile song-and-dance man, tries to step up the tempo of his ring comeback tonight against crowding Ralph (Tiger) Jones.

The 10-rounder at Chicago Stadium is Robinson's second start in two weeks, but it will be his first countrywide television bout (10 p.m. EST-CBS) in almost three years. Jones will weigh about 158 and Robinson around 157.

Sugar Ray is a 3-to-1 favorite to fashion victory No. 2 since forsaking a 30-month stage career in which the glitter, or gold, or both, failed to satisfy the abdicated world middleweight champion and former welter king.

KO'ed Rindone

Robinson, 34, launched his comeback Jan. 5 with a sixth-round knockout over plodding Joe Rindone at Detroit.

Robinson, who figures to collect $12,000 tonight — including $4,000 TV-radio fee — can hit the big money class again if he handles Jones as expected.

The International Boxing Club has a Feb. 23 date in mind for Robinson against former welterweight king, Kid Gavilan, at Miami. This bout would be a real grudge battle, since both had a keen distaste for each other while Robinson ruled as welter king from late 1947 until Feb. 14, 1951 when he kayoed Jake La Motta in 13 for the 160 title.

Stage "Roadwork"

Robinson will be spotting 26-year-old Jones eight years in age, but Sugar Ray contends his "roadwork" on the stages of night clubs and theatres has thwarted that bane of all aging athletes, slowing legs. But he yet has to prove he still has the devastating punching combinations which helped him build a phenomenal record of only three defeats and two draws in 142 bouts. Jones has a 32-12-3 record.

Powder Bowl Tete-A-Tete Among Sorority Girls Has Mushroomed Into Top Attraction In Country

Vancouver—(CP)—What undoubtedly started out as a teacup tete-a-tete among sorority girls has mushroomed into an event which has attracted attention all over Canada.

Blonde, petite Wendy Sutton is overwhelmed by the publicity given the University of British Columbia Powder Bowl football game, scheduled for Thursday at UBC Stadium here. Wendy is an alternate centre-guard on the Gama Phi Beta team.

Girls from the Gamma squad, together with some "husky" pretties from their opponents, Alpha Delta Pi, originated the idea of the all-coed game to aid the Brock Hall Fund, established to rebuild part of the campus recreation centre destroyed by fire recently.

"The coaches have been teaching us some plays, mostly offensive," said Wendy, "but we haven't got down to defensive patterns yet.

"I know neither of the teams is going to operate off the T-formation. I just can't remember what formation we're going to use although the coaches have been repeating the name over and over again."

Quarterbacking the Alphas in the Powder Bowl game will be Pauline Kelly, five-foot-two, 117-pounder. Operating from the "watcha-ma-call-it" formation will be quarterback Jackie Trafford of the Gammas. Her qualifications are five feet, seven inches and 130 pounds.

Competition For Figure Skating Crowns To Start

Toronto — (CP) — The Canadian figure-skating championships start here Thursday and the consensus is last year's stars will shine again.

Sonja Currie of Calgary is rated a natural for the senior ladies' singles title. Sonja, 17, lost to Barbara Gratton of Toronto at Calgary last March by a tenth of a point, but Barbara has since quit competitive skating to concentrate on studies.

Charles Snelling, 17, of Toronto will defend the senior men's single title he won last year. In the senior pairs, the current Canadian and world champions, Frances Dafoe, 24, and Norris Bowden, 27, are defending their title. This is their sixth year as a team.

The competitions will decide the Canadian team for the world's championships at Vienna in February.

Golf Tourney Nets $40,000 For Charity

Monterey, Calif. —(AP)— Proceeds from Bing Crosby's golf tournament were more than $40,000, including a $1,500 winning cheque donated by Byron Nelson. The money all goes to charities.

Nelson, former national open champion, retired from active tournament competition in 1948. But he and his amateur partner, Ed Lowrey of San Francisco, won the pro-amateur event Sunday.

Crosby came from a sickbed to present the top winners their cheques. Nelson promptly endorsed the $1,500 cheque and handed it back for charities.

Crosby, who was in a Santa Monica hospital, paid all the tournament bills, including the $15,000 in prizes.

Richmond, Calif.—Eddie Chavez, 138¼, knocked out Johnny Hart, 135½, Phoenix, 3.

American Coach Worried About Canadian Interest

Philadelphia— (AP) —Philadelphia Eagles coach Jim Trimble says he is worried about the interest that owners of Canadian fotoball teams display in American stars.

Trimble returned Monday from the west coast where he coached the east team in the pro bowl game. "Why, it seemed like there were more Canadians at the game than Americans," he said.

"Directors of the various Canadian teams and their lawyers were all over the place," Trimble said. "When they have their lawyers with them they intend to do business. How much they did, I don't know. All I know is that we'll have to be on our toes or they'll take over."

Leo Durocher Calls Willie Mays Better All-Around Ball Player Than Stan Musial, Maybe Best Yet

New York. —(AP)— The "I love Willie" chorus reached a high note Tuesday when his manager Leo Durocher called Willie Mays "better than Stan Musial" and said he had a chance to be "the best we've ever known."

"If Willie hits .325 or better for the next three or four years, he'll be the best we've ever known," said Durocher on his first visit to New York Giant headquarters since shortly after the world series.

Durocher, still playing the role of the self-effacing leader who gives all the credit to his men, heaped more praise on Mays, his sensational centre-fielder.

GOOD INFIELDER

Asked to compare Mays with Musial, St. Louis Cardinals' ace, Durocher said, "Mays is a better ball player."

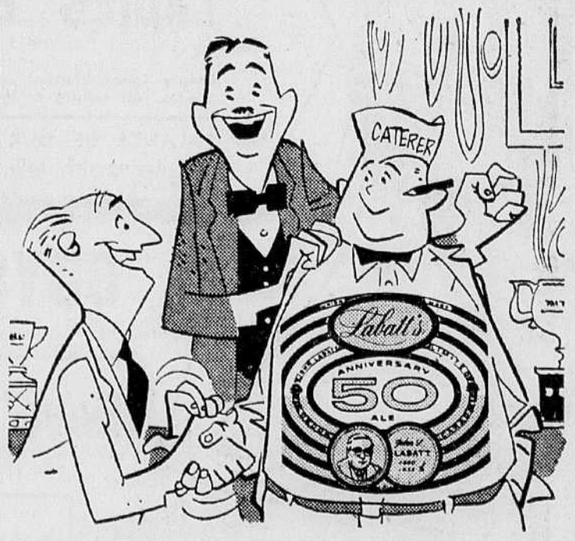

"He is as good a hitter and has as good power. He can outrun, outthrow and outfield Musial.

"Mays could play shortstop or third base or any position if he had to. I know I've hit him a thousand balls at shortstop and he picked 'em all up. To me the greatest thing of the world series film was to see him picking up those ground balls. He's the greatest shortstop that ever played centre-field."

Malo And Arbour Sent To Quebec

Quebec— (CP) —Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League announced Tuesday night they will receive defencemen Joe Malo and Al Arbour from Detroit Red Wings for Jim Hay, who will stay with the National Hockey League team for the rest of the season.

Arbour and Malo are being sent to Quebec from Detroit's Edmonton farm club in the Western League, the Aces said. Hay went up for a one-game trial but impressed the Red Wings' management and is being retained.

SPRING ROAD

Spring Road Forum held the first of its 1955 meetings at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Garfat.

The broadcast was listened to with interest.

Two members of the group, Mr. Edgar McCurdy and Mr. G. Garfat had attended the Short Course at Macdonald College, and gave a very interesting report of the activities there.

The questions dealing with agricultural fair programs were of interest. It was agreed that the 4H Clubs have been of great value and are a drawing attraction at the fairs.

Following the discussion, a social hour was enjoyed and lunch was served by Mrs. Garfat.

THIRD RANGE

Members of the Third Range Farm Forum were entertained at the home of Miss Beulah Page with twenty-one present.

The broadcast, "Agricultural Fairs," was listened to and Miss Page led the discussion which followed:

1. What agricultural fairs are there in your area? Sherbrooke E.T.A.A. and Fat Stock Show.

2. How satisfactory are they? They are satisfactory.

3. Is there room for improvement of our agricultural fairs? (a) Yes. Exihibitors should be more careful in selecting their exhibits and preparing them at the fair. We would suggest having two classes exhibit, one for market gardeners and one for farmers' home gardens. (b) We would suggest having equal prizes to top exhibitors in a class, so that the costs of showing are not likely to keep out the small exhibitor, also more encouragement to exhibit.

We would suggest the music and loud speakers in the midway be improved.

The Green Leaf was read by the secretary.

The meeting adjourned, cards were played at four tables. The hostess served refreshments and a pleasant hour followed.

MILBY

Monday night found eleven enthusiastic people gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand Turner to listen to the National Farm Radio Forum broadcast entitled, "Agricultural Fairs."

The reception was poor but understandable and under the chairmanship of Mr. Everett Beattie, a lively discussion ensued, in two groups, later joining into one. Many of these people were or have been exhibitors at one or more fairs so there was considerable exchange of ideas and comments.

To the question, "What agricultural fairs are there in your area?" it was considered farmers in this district were fortunate in having so many in such a radius, listing the Sherbrooke Fair, the Sherbrooke Winter Fair, Cookshire and the Cookshire Seed Fair, Ayer's Cliff and last but not least the Sherbrooke County School Fair.

To the question of "how satisfactory are they?" they were considered satisfactory but all agreed that the small farmer is fast giving way to the gentleman farmer in competitive exhibiting.

Is there room for improvement in methods of competition and exhibiting?" It was agreed that there is always room for improvement. It was found that the prizes in the smaller fairs are divided among the exhibitors rather than being won by them. A possible solution might be found in cutting the top prize money, extending it in each class and in evening the spread of the prize money. The judges should be competent and strangers to the district, if agronomes are judging, have an exchange so they are not working among people with whom they are familiar; and in judging animals there should be an individual judge for each recognized breed.

"Is there room for improvement toward encouraging better farming?" the consensus was that farmers who have better incomes elsewhere than the farm are discouraging small farmers from exhibiting. It was felt that there should be more publicity to show the average farmer the benefits of competition in every field. It was suggested that a representative from the fair board approach various groups, such as Farm Forum and Women's Institutes to exploit the possibilities and to explain the advantages of exhibiting at fairs.

In considering the midway and other entertainment features, it was decided that the midway is a necessary evil, especially in the larger fairs, but it should be kept as clean as possible. It was suggested that service clubs, such as Rotary, might provide the games of chance, etc., and the midway as far as possible, in the smaller fairs at least.

After agreement on all points was reached, the Green Leaf was read by the secretary, Mrs. Turner, and the blank invitation forms were distributed to be sent to neighbors who have not already joined a Farm Forum. It is hoped many will join with their neighbors, in the education, enjoyment and fun these weekly meetings afford.

Plans were made for Robert Suitor and Ernest Turner to report on the Short Course for Leaders, which they attended recently at Macdonald College, to be made a part of the program for January 24, at the home of Mrs. Roy Suitor.

COOKSHIRE

While it was decided that the agricultural fairs of the district were, on the whole, fairly satisfactory, the Cookshire Farm Forum felt that in certain directions improvements could be made, both to encourage better farming and to attract more people to the fairs.

The meeting was held at the home of the Misses W. V. and L. Hodge, and in spite of a rather smaller attendance than usual, proved most interesting. One new member was enrolled.

The broadcast was listened to with interest; perhaps the only dissentient point was when one speaker seemed to suggest that horse exhibits were of little interest in these days of mechanised farming, and several members remarked that one of the finest sights of the fairs was the exhibit of fine horses.

Three groups considered in detail the question asked, and then reassembled to consider their findings. It was felt that with the Country Fair, a seed fair, and a school fair, being held in Cookshire each year, this community was well served. In addition, much help and enjoyment is obtained from Sherbrooke Exhibition and Sherbrooke Winter Fair, as well as fairs at Marbleton and other points.

With regard to how satisfactory these fairs are, the feeling was that they answered their purpose fairly satisfactorily. Nevertheless, the question about improvements brought forth a number of suggestions. There was general agreement that better barns would make it possible to see more of the live-stock, and also that it would be useful if opportunity could be found for judges to explain the reasons for their decisions, as is done at school fairs. Other suggestions were that more space should be given for better display of cooking exhibits, and that names of prize-winners should be more plainly shown on the prize-winning cards. It was also suggested that more seeds should be made available for school fairs, and that encouragement of school fairs throughout the district would help to interest the children in participating in county and district fairs.

With regards to midway and entertainment features, it was felt that these are necessary to draw the crowds, but that improvements could be made. A speed-up in the horse-race program, avoiding unnecessary delays and having the races on time, was felt to be desirable. Some thought a higher type of grand-stand show should be ained at, and that there should be more grand-stand entertainments in the afternoon program. It was felt that not much could be done to change the midway attractions, which seemed to answer their purpose fairly well. One bachelor member aroused amusement by suggesting that there should be more 'hootchy-cootchy dancers", but he didn't get much sympathy.

During the business session, an appeal was considered for help for a bereaved family, but the matter was laid over until the next meeting.

Arrangements were made for next week's meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Macrae, and also preliminary arrangements were discussed for the special meeting planned for January 24, which will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Farnsworth, each member to invite a guest.

HIGH AND LOW FOREST

The Forum met on January 10 at the home of Mrs. Pearl Lowry with twenty-five present. The broadcast was listened to and the groups discussed agricultural fairs. This gave everyone a chance to air their views and it was found that some of the fairs were not too satisfactory and there was lots of room for improvement.

The Green Leaf was read and other business discussed. Each family received an invitation form to fill in when they are asked to invited other neighbors and friends to the meeting of January 24. This meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor.

STANBRIDGE RIDGE

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Corey entertained at a meeting of the local Farm Forum Group with an attendance of seventeen. The secretary, Mrs. Ramsey, read the minutes and the Green Leaf. A letter of appreciation from the Junior Red Cross for the Christmas toys, and a resume of the business meeting held at "The Lodge," were also read.

Mr. Carl Vaughan gave a detailed account of the activities at the MacDonald College Short Course.

The broadcast on the subject of "Fall Fairs," was of particular interest to those present.

Two groups discussed the questions and concluded that improvements that might be made are as follows: (a) Revising the prize lists and better advertising. (b) Judging by the scoring of points rather than on appearance alone. (c) Eliminating the duplication of the same entries in different classes, as often happens in the class of horses. On the questions of midway, grandstand entertainment and horse-racing, it was felt that for our local fairs, these things are necessary to attract a crowd and to compete with other fairs.

A very pleasant social hour was spent and refreshments were served.

Beauty Candidate To Compete In American Games

Quebec — (CP) — Gisele Poulin, one of the seven candidates for queen of Quebec City's winter carnival, will be one of Canada's representatives in the synchronized swimming events at the Pan-American Games this March, it was announced Tuesday.

Miss Poulin, a shapely 24-year-old blonde, will join Eila Lindell, 21, of Montreal, to represent Canada at the games in Mexico City March 21.

Wyatt Doesn't Set World Record

New York — (AP) — Herm Wyatt didn't set a new world indoor high-jump record after all at the Boston Knights of Columbus games secretary Dan Ferris of the National AAU said Tuesday.

Wyatt, former San Jose state athlete now training with the armed forces track team for the Pan-American games in Mexico City in March, leaped six feet, 10 inches Saturday at Boston Garden.

It was listed as a world record, although several questioned it at the time.

At Tuesday's New York Track Association luncheon Ferris admitted the error after checking the records.

Navy Lt. Ken Wiesner in March of 1953 jumped six feet, 10¾ inches at the Chicago relays. Ferris Saturday said Wiesner had never applied for recognition of the record, as required.

Ferris checked, however, and said Tuesday that through a clerical error the Chicago mark was not credited in the record book. He said Wiesner had asked recognition and the AAU had approved his 6:10¾ record in 1953.

National Golf Day To Be Held June 4

It is announced that 1955 National Golf Day, co-sponsored by the Royal Canadian Golf Association, Canadian Professional Golfers' Association and LIFE Magazine, will be held on Saturday, June 4th.

The entire receipts in Canada will, as before, be equally divided between the Canadian Red Cross Society and Junior Golf Promotion. This year, the men will compete against Ed Furgol, current U.S. Open Champion and Golfer of the Year.

It is further announced that, for the first time, women will compete against Babe Didrickson Zaharias, the U.S. Women's Open Champion. This is a new innovation, and it is hoped that a great number of ladies across Canada will try to defeat The Babe.

Both Ed Furgol and Babe Zaharias will play in a foursome at the Olympic Club, San Francisco, venue of the 1955 U.S. Open Championship.

POT ROAST

Sprinkle pot roast with salt and pepper and rub with flour. Heat drippings in Dutch oven and brown meat on all sides. Add hot water and cover with onion slices. Cover kettle and cook very slowly until tender, about 1½ to 2½ hours, until meat is tender when pierced with fork, adding more water if needed. Pit prunes and arrange 3 prunes and 2 apricots on each of 6 small metal skewers. Dot with butter and sprinkle lightly with brown sugar. Broil or bake until heated through. Arrange around roast on platter. Thicken juice for gravy. Makes about 6 servings.
