

Hit Drury's 'W'mount approach'

C. M. Drury's Department of Industry came under heavy fire in the House of Commons recently for what was termed its "Westmount Approach."

Russell MacEvan, Conservative MP for Pictou criticized the government for failure to help establish more industries in the Atlantic Provinces. He said that under the present defence set-up, industries in the Montreal area were favored.

Mr. Drury's approach to the area problems, he added, was that of a businessman, not of a politician who realized that people must work to live.

Industry Minister Drury replied that his department acts only as purchasing agent for National Defence and is not responsible for priority of orders.

Alfred D. Hales, Conservative MP for Wellington south said that the newly-formed department was responsible for costly duplication and inefficiency.

He complained that three separate divisions had sections for chemicals and wood products and that all divisions had increased their staffs and spending estimates in the last year.

More land bought for school

City Council is expected to soon give first reading to an amendment to its master zoning by-law, permitting Roslyn School to extend its playground northwards on Roslyn and Grosvenor avenues.

The School Board has purchased properties at 626 and 624 Roslyn and the garden portion of a double lot on Grosvenor immediately above the school property. They intend to demolish the homes and join the properties with the school yard. The land will be paved with asphalt.

School Board officials explained that the extension had been contemplated since the enlargement of Roslyn in 1950.

City appoints Ronald Seaman

Identified with the administration of the City of Westmount since 1935, Ronald S. Seaman has been appointed Acting City Clerk and Assistant Treasurer, it is announced by Council, effective August 10. He takes over the duties relinquished by A. W. D. Swan, who has retired after 34 years of association with Westmount civic affairs.

Mr. Seaman, son of the late A. W. Seaman, a former principal of Queens' School, and widely known to hundreds of Westmounters, was educated at Kings School and Westmount High and gained a Bachelor of Commerce degree at Sir George Williams University. He resides at 548 Lansdowne avenue.

Initially employed by Westmount in 1935, he held various positions in the Financial Department and served from 1941 to 1945 in the RCAF. Resuming Westmount administrative service after the war he became City Accountant in 1951, was promoted to Assistant Secretary Treasurer in 1959 and became Assistant City Clerk and Assistant Treasurer in February, 1963.

Next week's weather

By ERIC NEAL

15 to 22 August

Clearing after short storms with local thunder and some wind. Days pleasant and mainly sunny with blue skies and little cloud this harvest moon week. Temperatures range, 45-70°F.

Nights are cooling, with risk of frosts. Day sunny. Coastal storms could spoil holiday conditions as far inland as Vermont.

Park work far behind schedule

The renovation of Westmount Park has fallen far behind schedule and it is doubtful that many sections will be in use before the start of cold weather.

Originally scheduled for completion before the end of July, work on the first phase of the facelifting slowed due to delays in delivering materials and difficulties encountered when the diggers uncovered part of the old watercourse that formerly ran through the park and down the Glen.

Seeding was delayed due to the lack of rain in recent weeks. It is expected to begin Monday, weather permitting. New grass must be grown throughout the park. Only the playing field and the area near Sherbrooke are presently green.

The crews plan to use a "quick-growing" grass type which will yield a thin, fragile carpet by Fall.

Most of the major works such as installation of underground facilities to service the water courses,

Dutch Elm disease is on upsurge

Dutch Elm disease—that has wiped out the majority of the older elm trees in this part of the country appears to be keeping right after Westmount's larger Elms.

"The situation is much worse than last year," a Parks Department official told The Examiner this week.

At least 30 are probably slated for the saw and axe.

Reports from the government laboratories show that cutting them down is the only thing left.

But the disease doesn't have to take all the blame for the situation — Westmount's birds, and bird-lovers must bear some of the brunt.

Until 1962 the trees were sprayed with DDT and other chemicals, and for a while the spraying-crew had the Dutch Elm disease on the run.

It looked as if the cry of "Woodsmen spare that tree" would be answered in the affirmative.

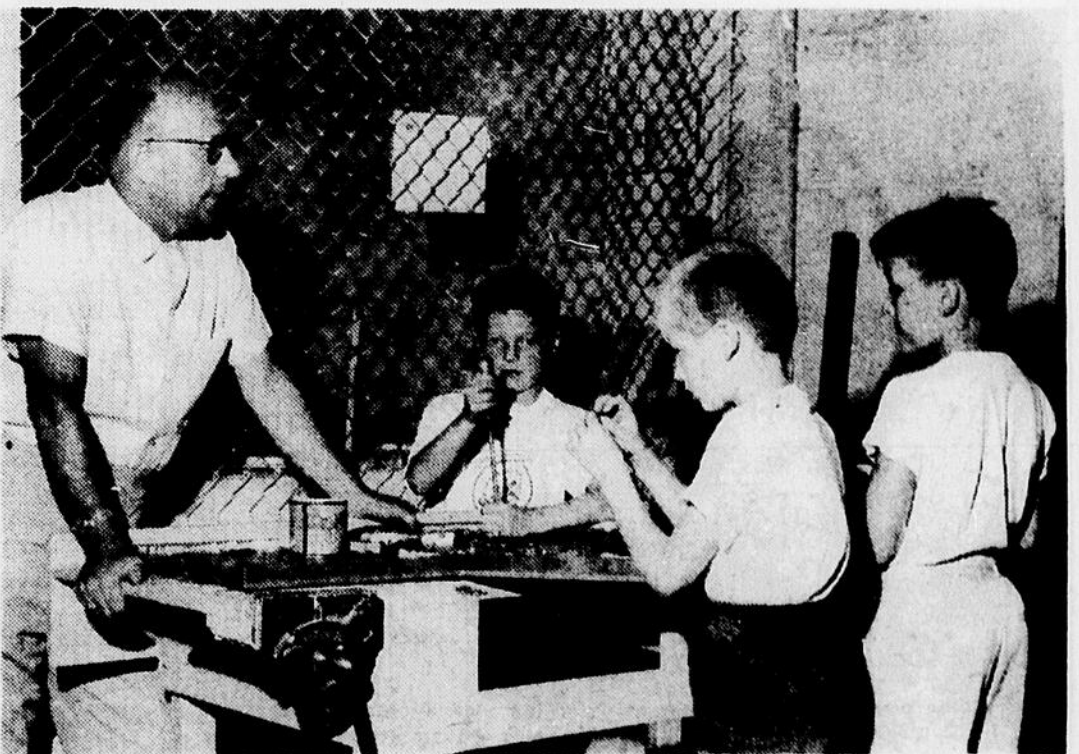

Then the bird-lovers pointed out that the spray was sparing the trees, but taking a toll in birds.

So spraying was curtailed. Westmount has within its confines more than 1,000 trees, almost 800 of which are spread along some 30 streets.

Council to meet Monday

Westmount City Council will meet Monday in special session. No agenda has been released.

Council meets the first Monday of each month as required by City Charter, but seldom holds an additional session during the summer months.

Dorchester property payments released

Prices paid in the expropriation of six properties in the Dorchester area have been released by City Council. Payment will be made as soon as the decision of the Quebec Service Board confirming the amounts has been homologated by the Superior Court.

The City agreed to pay in full and final settlement of all claims for damages arising out of the Dorchester expropriation as follows:

4015 Dorchester street — $30,808 for the land and buildings, plus solicitors' fees, as set forth in a letter on behalf of the owner, Mrs. Gédéon Poitras;

4065 Dorchester street — $50,000 for the land and buildings, plus solicitors' fees of $500, as set out in a letter on behalf of the owner, Jean-Paul A. Renaud; 4129 Dorchester street — $152,500 for the land and buildings, as set out in a letter on behalf of the owner, H. C. Floemberg;

4135 Dorchester street — $28,750 for the land and buildings, as set out in a letter on behalf of the owner, Estate William Lassey Maltby;

Westmounters new bus shelter must contend with paper clip

Build a better mouse-trap and the world may beat a path to your door, but build a plastic bus shelter and you end up in competition with a paper clip.

The bus shelter expert is Westmounter Harry Finkel, Greene avenue, one of ten finalists recently in the $7,000 Plastics Horizons design competition. His design for a shelter is now being made into a prototype to be entered against such items as nesting play boxes, skylight panels, shopping stroller, fish boxes, baby "walking bowls" and the paper clip. All are plastic.

Judging will be held in September. Prizes for the winners will be $4,000, $2,000 and $1,000.

The competition came as a climax to the 22nd annual conference of the Society of Plastics Industry.

Mr. Finkel was in addition voted vice-president of a new Provincial Association for Industrial Design.

Industrial Designers in the Province of Quebec plan to establish a provincial association to represent their interests both in relation to private industry and the owner, Willart McKelvey; and 4086 and 4088 Tupper street — $30,750 for the land and buildings, plus appraisal fees of $750 and solicitors' fees, as set forth in a letter on behalf of the owner, Herbert Berson.

E. S. Lovelock retires after 49 years

After 49 years service, the Assistant Secretary of the International Correspondence Schools Canadian, Limited, E. S. Lovelock, retired August 7. He started as a shipping clerk, at the age of 16, in the Toronto office and soon after came to Montreal where he has resided ever since with his wife, Mrs. R. Milne, of Calgary.

Members of the staff of the I.C.S. presented Mr. Lovelock with a portable TV set and a Hi-Fi set as a token of their esteem.

to the many public and government bodies who deal with design. At a meeting held in the Place Ville Marie, Montreal, offices of the Aluminum Company of Canada, some 25 designers agreed to name their proposed body the Association of Quebec Industrial Designers, (AQID), and to press for a provincial charter.

A steering board of directors was elected and given the mandate to establish the association as a functioning body. It was asked to determine the details of policy, and to set up necessary rules and regulations. These interim directors include Jacques Guillon, who was voted president, Mr. Finkel, vice-president, William Dickie, Secretary, Marcel Girard, treasurer, with Charles Gagnon, Norman Slater, and Julien Hébert completing the board. Maître Bernard Nantel accepted the post of honorary legal advisor.

Professional design is intended "to develop an appropriate harmony between the strictly mechanical functions of materials and manufacture, and the less tangible, but equally important aspects of purposeful application, and pleasing physical form and color."

How to make passes — the safest way —

"Not more than one man in 10,000 who considers himself a good driver knows how to pass other cars correctly and safely," according to the current issue of a national magazine.

A driver going 60 to 70 miles per hour may need a half-mile or more of clear road to pass if an oncoming car is approaching at 60 miles per hour, the magazine warns. Frequently, a motorist trying to pass realizes too late that he has miscalculated the speed or distance of the meeting car. The results is a tragedy.

Writer Norman Wiltsey reminds drivers of the perils of passing another car in the summer issue of Home & Highway. The article offers these tips to drivers on safe passing:

- Maintain a safe interval behind the car you intend to pass. When the road ahead is clear, accelerate sufficiently to pass the car, swing out, pass, and pull back into your lane. A quick, smooth pass reduces to a minimum the time your car is exposed to oncoming traffic.

- Watch for cars pulling out from side roads or animals wandering onto the highway. Keep a lookout for any hazard, whether you are passing or following a car.

- Stay away from a driver who acts erratically when you attempt to pass. He may try to race with you or cut you off. Slow down drop back and let him have the road.

- Don't every try to pass more than one car at a time. The long distance and careful timing needed to pass more than one car make this a very hazardous manoeuvre.

- Don't pass at night unless you know the road ahead or unless the car in front is driving in a manner that endangers you.

- When you pass at night, flip on your high beam lights and sound your horn as you pull out to pass. Don't judge how far away an oncoming car is by its headlights. A small car may have close-set headlights giving the illusion of a large car at a greater and safer distance.

- If you are being passed, keep well over to allow the passing car plenty of room. Slow down if an oncoming car is approaching so the passing car can safely pull in.

building of the pond complexes with waterfalls and pumps, and electrical installations will be completed within two weeks. Crews are expected to be on the job for at least a month afterwards installing a bridge across the pond, relocated paths, wood benches, drinking fountains.

Work on the first phase began May 1. Cost of the job is $203,000. Former ponds have been redesigned and extended in concrete. A brand new irregular shape pond has been constructed in the centre of the park connecting with the duck pond by a waterfall.

The main arterial paths were widened to ten feet, an increase of two feet.

Canadian Beef-Eater

'BEEF-EATER' John Baker greets an employee at the newly opened Eastern and Chartered Trust Company offices on Greene avenue.

Beef-eater stands guard on Greene

"They are great eaters of beef of which a very large ration is given them daily at the court, and they might be called 'Beef-eaters.'"

Thus did Count Cosimo, grand duke of Tuscany, describe the Yeomen of the Guard, in the course of a visit to England back in 1669. The nickname, it need hardly be said, endured and "Beef-eaters" remained to this day.

While rather a long way from the Tower of London, a Canadian type "beef-eater" took up temporary residence this week on Greene avenue—and startled more than a few shoppers and motorists passing by.

The colorfully clad figure is John Baker of Toronto, a veteran of both wars, official greeter this week at the opening of the new Eastern and Chartered Trust Company offices on Greene avenue, above Western.

The beef-eater is the official symbol of the company.

Mr. Baker leaves this afternoon for Toronto to prepare for his stand at the Canadian National Exhibition.

An expert in the field, Mr. Baker outlined some of the long history of the world-famous group.

As British as the Tower of London with which they have so long been associated, the Yeomen of the Guard are the oldest existing body of its kind in the world. First instituted in 1485 following the victory of Henry VII at Bosworth, they have served every British sovereign since. Their duties as a permanent military corps in attendance on the sovereign and attached to the royal household, were originally that of the sovereign's personal bodyguard, but are now purely ceremonial.

Initially, and for many years, the Yeomen served as the king's personal attendants. His safety was their responsibility whether at home, abroad, on journeys, on the battlefield as well as within the palace itself. They alone, in Tudor times, were entrusted with the making of the king's bed (in those days, a highly elaborate ritual).

Still another of their duties — one still in being — is the searching of the vaults of the houses of parliament prior to the opening of each session. This particular duty has its origin in

Playground closing is set August 27

The official closing of the Westmount Recreation Department Summer program at three parks — Westmount, Staynor and Prince Albert, has been set for August 27. Also featured at this time will be the presentation of awards to the children.

Exact format of the ceremonies have not yet been arranged but often include a grand march during which each playground parades in costume with placards, and flags.

A popular feature often held is the demonstration of sports activities conducted on the rink with youngsters showing their skills at paddle, tennis, dodgeball, table hockey, checkers, volleyball and shuffleboard.

This is followed by the introduction of the boys and girls to the City Council — and presentation of awards to most popular boy, most popular girl as elected by popular vote. The program leaders select the best boy and girl in handicrafts in each of the three playgrounds.

Homes on Rosemount are planned

Westmount City Council has granted permission to A. Vallee to construct four semi-detached dwellings on Rosemount avenue. Architects for the project are Betts and Cash.

Also approved was a proposal by Basil Nares, owner of property at 1 Thornhill avenue to construct a small addition to his home.

Students set fine record

WESTMOUNT students, ranking second and tenth out of 5,600 in the province writing matriculation examinations, kept the local standard high for another season. Almost every year, when Quebec announces the standings, this district is well-represented.

The local schools are operated with efficiency and the high standing of the many pupils who go through the grades provides strong evidence of the value of educational administration, locally controlled in day-to-day operations.

The high standing of the top pair and the 31 others who achieved first class standing is also an indication of the determination of these students to perfect themselves in the courses offered and to refuse to allow themselves to succumb to the many distractions available in this society.

All Quiet in Walden Woods

IT used to be said, colloquially, that "them that has gets." Today, it is said, literally, that those who have not, pay anyhow.

An example is the farmer on the edge of town, taxed for a sewage lagoon though he gets no water service and has no assurance that he ever will. Another is the retired couple, without children, who must help to finance fancy gymnasiums and community clubs for boys and girls whose fathers could well afford to pay the full tab for such services.

It is still possible to dream of a simple life beside a sylvan stream where philosophy might be developed to benefit the world. Let it be dreaming only. How could the philosopher find money to pay his taxes so that the CBC

YOU SAY

Putters mutter over park

Sir,
If the City Fathers ever stop puttering with Westmount Park, and make up their minds to finish it and get some grass down, I hope they will give we "putterists" a fair shake.

We loved the old park, but we never had a decent putting area. The old green was looked upon by some passers-by as a regular pathway. What is to be its fate in this new Utopia under construction?

The green was usually in a very poor condition. The grass appeared to be a much rougher type than that used on most regular golf courses. It was not rolled frequently enough.

After the grass is cut, the cuttings should be gathered with a bamboo rake or a catcher used on the machine and the grass rolled to get some of the numerous bumps and worm casts flattened.

The main difficulty was always with inconsiderate types using the greens. Mothers and nurses out for the afternoon persisted in allowing their children to use it as an ordinary playground, some using small clubs and making gashes in the turf around the cups. Mashies and brassies and even baseball bats were used to "putt," thus damaging the already anaemic turf.

The police on duty in the park did their best to control the situation, though many of the offenders were not Westmounters. It might be wise for the police to frequently check as to whether players hold Recreation Permits.

could continue to bring to urban dwellers that much loved late, late movie?

Our society, bent on so-called progress, frustrates the man who wishes to live quietly or prudently. By government compulsion he becomes a joiner whether he wishes it or not. A Thoreau could not exist today. One is not allowed to cultivate a bean patch while the rest of the world goes on its frenzied way to Utopia.

Things are quiet in Walden Woods. None can afford to live there.

Westmount hard hit

Air pollution and vigilance

According to recent surveys Westmount has one of the highest concentrations of smoke and other contaminants in its air on the island of Montreal. And Montreal still has the highest air pollution in Canada.

It's getting harder and harder for Canadians to breathe, especially in cities, without inhaling harmful contaminants, says the August issue of Imperial Oil Review. The 15 to 45 cubic feet of air per hour each of us breathes in normal activity is becoming laden with the garbage of a complex civilization.

We've identified only a fraction of man-made air pollutants, the Review says, but we know we're breathing fumes, smoke, dust, mists, acids, phytotoxicants (compounds poisonous to vegetation, formed by the action of sunlight on certain wastes), aldehydes, hydrocarbons, ozone, carbon monoxide, sulphur and nitrogen oxide. Although the cost in terms of illness is incalculable, scientists believe long exposure to such pollutants can lead to anything from mental depression to bronchitis and emphysema.

In terms of such tangible items as paint, damage, metal corrosion and laundry, dry cleaning and car wash bills, air pollution costs each Canadian an estimated $20-$50 a year.

Whether or not Canada ever has the smogs of Los Angeles or the killer air pollution incidents of London, Eng., or Donora, Pa., is up to government, industry and to some extent the individual, says the article.

"The price of cleanliness is eternal vigilance," it quotes Prof. E. A. Alleut, chairman of the Canadian Standards Association Committee which is drafting a new air pollution code for Canada. "Pollution has no single or simple solution. I suppose stiff fines could put polluting industries out of business but that'd just increase unemployment and raise taxation. We can't take the easy way out with shotgun remedies. We must get standard codes to keep people safe and not handicap industry unnecessarily.

In some Canadian cities industry and municipalities are already working effectively.

The St. Clair Research Committee, representing the main Sarnia, Ont., industries working with the Ontario Research Foundation, has helped keep air pollution below its 1952 level, in spite of doubled industrial activity.

In Montreal East's industrial district, 18 industries formed the Laval Industrial Association to study and advise on the control of industrial waste. One outcome is a central plant which recovers sulphur from industrial waste gases. Imperial Oil belongs to the Montreal and Sarnia groups.

North American industry is cracking down on another offender: unburned automobile gases. About 30 per cent of automobile air pollution is in vent gas from the crank case. Car manufacturers say they've developed several devices that solve this problem. The Automobile Manufacturers Association expects to have a solution for the 70 per cent pollution from exhaust by 1967. California has already approved four types of exhaust converters and plans to make their use mandatory within a year.

Zionists schedule seminar

David Breslau, a leading educator from Israel and a director of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, will be the guest speaker at the fourth annual summer seminar sponsored by the Labor Zionist Movement. The Seminar will take place on Saturday and Sunday, August 15 and 16, at Unzer Camp, Prefontaine, Quebec, one of the five summer camps maintained by the Labor Zionist Movement of Canada in various parts of the country.

The theme of the seminar is "Zionism as a Force for Jewish Survival." Mr. Breslau will address the Saturday evening session on the topic "Religious Strivings of Secular Jews."

Future explored

The organization and the future development of the Canadian Jewish Community will be discussed at the opening session by Lavy A. Becker, chairman of the Federation of Jewish Community Services in Montreal; Max Melamet, editor of the Canadian Jewish Chronicle; and David Rome, Director of the Jewish Public Library. Shloime Wiseman, principal of the Jewish Peoples Schools and a leading educator, will be the speaker at the session devoted to Jewish education.

Leon Kronitz, national president of the Labor Zionist Movement, will report to the closing session of the seminar on the World Conference of the Labor Zionist Movement which took place recently in Israel. The seminar will be attended by the leadership of Farband Labor Zionist Order, Pioneer Women, Habonim, the Histadrut Campaign and the other branches and educational institutions of the Labor Zionist Movement of Montreal of which Nahum Wilchesky is chairman. Fred Biderman is chairman of the summer seminar.

North American discussions

Superintendent of blind helped plan conference

More than 700 delegates from across North America last week attended a conference which a blind Canadian helped plan. Experts in work for the blind, they were in session in New York City with the American Association of Workers for the Blind.

The 38th annual conference of the AAWB was planned in part by W. E. Milton, Superintendent, Quebec Division, The Canadian National Institute for the Blind, who is a member of the Board of Directors. Because of the challenge of automation now facing those concerned with the employment of the blind across the world, employment in the next 20 years was the topic of the first general session. The discussion disclosed that among the new fields new employing blind persons, are the programming of computers in large companies, sales and sales management, journalism, and the teaching of music in sighted schools.

Automation no hardship

"In spite of automation, we are optimistic about employment," Mr. Milton said, "because vocational training is opening more opportunities for blind persons and employers understand the capabilities of the blind better than they did. The fact that 72 blind Canadians are now enrolled in university is most encouraging."

Reports were given on the progress of the deaf-blind, of whom there are more than 350 in Canada alone. The special training now offered them was reviewed and further research recommended for the assistance of those who are deprived of the two main avenues of communication — eyes and ears.

"In Canada, CNIB has shared the work of the AAWB for many years," Mr. Milton observed. "It bring together each year the leading minds in the field of work for the blind and places before the world the major advances in rehabilitation and training. It is our way of making sure that the service CNIB offers the blind of Canada is as comprehensive as possible. Serving on the Board of Directors of AAWB is a constructive experience for me and one which I hope to share with my fellow blind Canadians."

There is not one single authenticated record of the earth's having opened up and swallowed anyone or anything during an earthquake.

TWO MINUTES WITH THE BIBLE

BY CORNELIUS R. STAM, PRES.
BEREAN BIBLE SOCIETY
CHICAGO 35, ILLINOIS

Have you ever heard the story of Honus? Honus was a wicked old renegade who lived in a small country town. When he died his body lay in the funeral parlor for three days without any one even taking notice. Finally, on the day of the burial, a few of his old cronies did stop by to at least pay their respects.

As they gathered, the funeral director said: "Now fellows, we can't bury Honus like a dog. We've got to have some kind of service for him. Won't somebody here take charge?" But the silence was profound, so finally the funeral director himself agreed to take charge.

He began by asking whether there wasn't someone who had some good word to say for Honus before they buried him. Again there was a deathly silence, until finally one old man stood up and said: "Well, I can say this much for Honus, he wasn't always as bad as he sometimes was."

To be honest, isn't this true of all of us? Some people take offense at Rom. 3:22, 23, which says: "For there is no difference, for all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." They think there is a difference, and that they have not been as sinful as others. Ah, but but while there may be a difference in the nature or the degree of our sins, Romans 3 is right when it says that there is no difference in this: that "all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." A person may put up a good front, feeling that he is not nearly so great a sinner as others, but whether a bridge is ten feet or a hundred feet short of spanning the chasm, it is still useless, so don't try crossing it.

This is why we all need "the forgiveness of sins, according to the riches of God's grace" (Eph. 1:7). And we may have this by trusting in the Christ who died for our sins (1 Cor. 15:3). "For by grace are ye saved, through faith, and that not of yourselves it is the gift of God" (Eph. 2:8).

The bride will be attended by Miss Janet Gardiner, of Richmond, Que., as maid of honor, and Miss Stella Alexander, cousin of the bride, of Charlotte, N.C., Miss Lynne Earl, of Port Credit, Ont., Mrs. Alan Frosst, of Hamilton, Ont., and Mrs. Charles Frosst, jr., sisters-in-law of the bride, as attendants. The flower-girl will be little Miss Heather Frosst, niece of the bride. Mr. Michael Staniforth will act as best man for MRS. KATHLEEN MACDONALD, seated at her desk in The Parkview apartment in Westmount. Employed by a large trust company, Mrs. MacDonald is thought to be the first woman 'rental agent' in Montreal.

Many Experiences

Woman 'rental agent' invades male world

By Millicent Hickmore

Any woman who takes up rental agent management as a career is launched on interesting and absorbing work! Kathleen MacDonald, a West End resident, the lady responsible for this impingement on so-called masculine territory, is a diminutive, blue-eyed blond and is the only woman attending construction meetings with a pheasant wing on the side of helmet.

As rental agent Mrs. MacDonald is at present at "The Parkview", the luxury apartment at Sherbrooke and Mount Stephen. Echoing the traditional tone of residential Westmount, it is truly in character, a stately apartment residence facing Westmount Park. Each floor consists of only six apartment suites, giving privacy and individuality.

The latest in design and decor they are scientifically sound-conditioned in a most pleasing blend of the traditional and the modern.

Mr. Adams, and the ushers will be Mr. Alan Frosst, of Hamilton, Mr. Charles Frosst, jr., brothers of the bride, Mr. John Lemon, and Mr. Michael Vaughan, of Toronto.

Following the ceremony, a reception will be held at the residence of the bride's parents.

The Parkview, in its stately and central setting is as the common phrase goes "Out of this World", and must be seen to be appreciated.

VERSATILE TYPE

Mrs. MacDonald, who has a teenage daughter Robyn, worked at a variety of positions before this one. Born on Windsor avenue, Westmount, she was educated at Sacred Heart Convent and studied at the Ecole des Beaux-Arts.

One of her first ventures was hat designing, as proprietor of a hat shop at the corner of Peel and Sherbrooke streets, where she said, "business came in spasms, and after working for 23 hours at a stretch at one busy season, I gave it up." She then worked as a buyer and later as assistant manager at Simpson's.

Grosse-Beattie

The marriage of Norma Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman K. Beattie, of Fredericton, N.B., to Mr. Philip Norcross Gross, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip N. Gross, of Westmount, took place recently in Wilmot United Church, Fredericton, the Rev. G. J. Minielly DD, officiating. Pink peonies and carnations were used to decorate the church.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a gown of white silk organza over taffeta, having a fitted bodice and a dome-shaped skirt. Her veil of tulle illusion was held by a cluster of orange blossoms and seed pearls, and she carried a white Bible covered with pink Pinnocchio roses and lily-of-the-valley. Her only ornament was a pair of pearls earrings, the gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Susan Beattie, as maid of honor for her sister and Miss Anne MacDonald, as bridesmaid, were in frocks of shell-pink organza, having full skirts, and they wore matching head-dresses.

Mr. Charles Fleming Gross acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Grant Watson and Mr. Peter Schelliffe.

Mrs. Beattie, the bride's mother, was in a gown of pink Alencon lace. She wore a matching hat and a corsage bouquet of pink carnations.

Mrs. Gross, mother of the bridegroom, wore a print gown of blue and green, with a white flowered hat and a corsage bouquet of gardenias.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Cen-

Engagement

Professor and Mrs. J. W. Boyes, of Westmount, announce the engagement of their elder daughter, Barbara Grace, to Mr. Barrie Andrew Wilson, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wilson, also of Westmount. The marriage has been arranged to take place on Saturday, September 5, in St. Matthias Anglican Church, Westmount. Miss Boyes is a graduate of McGill and Columbia Universities. Mr. Wilson is a graduate of Bishops and Columbia Universities.

Reception will be held in the tennial Room of the Lord Beaverbrook Hotel, where pink and white flowers were used as decorations.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Gross left for New England, the bride travelling in a yellow knitted suit, and wearing white accessories.

Shun three leafed vines and shrubs

By Millicent Hickmore

THIS IS THE SEASON when many children (and adults) arrive back from camps or summer cottages suffering from poison ivy. Growing everywhere in the Dominion except Newfoundland, no one is completely immune from this toxic sap.

Difficult to recognize, it changes appearance with the season. Leaves are smooth and sometimes toothed, sometimes green and sometimes brownish, shiny or dull. The berries may be greenish-yellow, white and waxy, or brownish in color. The only really consistent thing about it is that each of its leaves has three leaflets.

Every part of the plant — its leaves, stems, flowers, fruits and roots — contains toxic juices which can cause anything from a mild rash to acute distress and sickness.

St. John Ambulance recommends treating milder cases of poison ivy by washing affected areas in soap and warm water then applying rubbing alcohol and calomine lotion, and to relieve intense itchiness, add one percent of phenol to the calomine lotion.

Better still — avoid all three leaf vines, shrubs and small plants.

estate after working on co-op apartment leasing and selling, she aspired to become a rental agent. For rental management one has to understand the working of boiler operations, plumbing and general maintenance. Mrs. MacDonald then took courses in this field as well as bookkeeping.

Her first position in this capacity was assistant to a real estate manager of a small trust company, from there she was engaged by a large trust company as — she believes — the first woman "rental agent" in Montreal.

INTERESTING EXPERIENCES
Mrs. MacDonald, who was on call at all times during apartment leasing recalls many experiences, the time when she helped rip flashing off a roof in a wind storm, to save it injuring someone on the street; tacking tar paper on a leaky roof on Good Friday; collecting rents in cash on pay day before tenants spent it; dealing with fire sirens, here Mrs. MacDonald explained, "we had many elderly people in the apartments and to avoid a panic, requested the fire department not to sound the sirens."

"One of my experiences," volunteered Mrs. MacDonald, "was the time I skied across Mount Royal at 6 a.m. to hire a jeep to clear snow from the apartment driveway and parking lot."

Queried as to janitor services, she remarked, "some janitors are hard to contend with, but most of them are conscientious."

RENTING FROM BLUEPRINTS
Eventually affiliated with luxury apartments and renting them from the blueprints, she experienced some very uncomfortable hours, at one time working in a fur-lined coat in July when temperature outside read 80 degrees and another time wearing mitts in December while heating system was being installed.

"This job," Mrs. MacDonald concluded, "is most interesting for women. There is something new to encounter each day, and many types of people to meet."

Football
race close at parks

With six games left to play in the regular schedule, a close battle has developed for the championship of the Westmount Recreation Department Touch Football League.

Westmount and Staynor Park teams are tied with 13 points each while Prince Albert Park trails with 4 points.

All three have played ten games, Westmount and Staynor Park won five, lost two and drew three each. Prince Albert Park has yet to win a game but has tied four times and could still catch up to the leaders.

Willsie, Clegg

Two Westmounters will defend their titles tomorrow at the 10th Quebec Trapshooting championships which will be held at the Montreal Anglers and Hunters sports centre at L'Acadie.

On hand from Westmount will be Harry Willsie last year's high over all and doubles champion and Kent Clegg, singles title holder.

Other finalists will be Sam McCarrick, Ville LaSalle handicap champion; Sheila Bassin, Town of Mount Royal, ladies champion, and Derick Adams, Clarenceville, junior titleholder.

Local rink wins
Hospital Trophy

A Westmount rink skipped by Ted Hill won the Lachine General Hospital trophy at the annual tournament held at the Lachine and Riverside Lawn Bowling Clubs.

As a result the hospital was handed a cheque for $390, proceeds from the tournament which attracted 42 rinks from 10 clubs across Quebec.

W. W. Allison, executive director of the Lachine General Hospital, which is now undergoing extensive alterations and additions, in accepting the cheque from the Lachine club's president Sidney Labelstier, paid tribute to the past efforts of the club in helping the hospital.

It was said: "He who is of a calm and happy nature will hardly feel the pressure of age, but to him who is of an opposite disposition, youth and age are equally a burden." Plato.
