Lions Club Induction

The official induction ceremonies combined with Ladies Night proved to be a gala affair for the Bryson Lions Club Thursday evening. Seventy Lions, their wives and guests sat down to the banquet table, presided over by Eldon Keon, retiring president.

The induction ceremony was performed by Charles Imison, of Shawville, now deputy district governor, Lions International District A-4. Officers installed for 1953 were: Jack Patterson, president; Alex Goransson, first vice-president; Clarence Wall, second vice-president; J. L. St. Pierre, third vice-president; board of directors, Ed O'Reilly, Howard Rouillif, one year; Gerald Le-maire, Frank Cahill, two years; Hubert Ralston, treasurer, Ken Dugan, secretary; Earl Ward, tail twister; Emile Paquette, Lion tamer. In his address to the club president Eldon Keon thanked the members for their fine co-operation during the past year, presented the financial statement of work accomplished and stressed the work of community service undertaken by Lions everywhere.

Among the activities undertaken by Bryson Lions Club were swimming beach improvements, boys and girls entertainments, welfare work, eye conservation and flood relief.

Lloyd Murtagh proposed the toast to the ladies and Mrs. Ken Dugan responded. Lion Roy Trudeau sang request numbers and Lindsay Judd accompanied him at the piano.

Attendance chevrons were presented to 12 members.

Roads For Paving

Information has come from Ray Johnston MLA that he has obtained the allocations necessary to pave the following roads: The Portage to Bryson highway, known as the Litchfield road, the Bristol loop from McKee's to Bristol to Norway Bay to Wyman, the Clapham road, the Allumette Island road and the Calumet Island road and the road from Shawville to Otter Lake. Also, paving will be carried out in the villages of Davidson, Fort Coulonge, Campbell's Bay, Calumet, Portage, Bryson, Shawville, Stark's Corners, Elmside, Wyman and Quyon. In Shawville the two streets which will be paved are Lang Street and King Street.

A Bridge, Maybe

A bridge or not a bridge, that seems to be the question, and of course we mean between Pembroke and Allumette Island.

Romeo Lorrain, Minister of Public Works at Quebec, and his engineers visited the site of the proposed bridge recently and, according to MLA Ray Johnston, they came away favourably impressed.

Mr. Lorrain, it is reported, has ordered his engineers to start work at once on drawing up plans for the Quebec part of the three span project. Mr. Lorrain is also considering a new type of floor for the bridge and has been inspecting the bridges at Waltham and Fort Coulonge.

Hector Belec Nominated To Be Prog. Conservative Candidate

Wednesday afternoon at the August 10." Mr. Maloney said Campbell's Bay Town Hall, Progressive Conservatives from Beech Grove to Temiscamingue gathered to acclaim Hector Belec as their candidate in the coming election. Interspersed in the hall among the familiar local people, were men from the north who came down in a delegation led by R. A. Tasset from Ville Marie. Jack Argue of Shawville, Ray Johnston and Mr. Tasset were joint chairmen of the convention and Paul Martineau, QC, was the master of ceremonies.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Martineau mentioned that the number in the hall (and he might well have mentioned the numbers who sat on the steps outside and crowded the doorways) showed that the Progressive party is really alive here. He then thanked the delegates from afar for coming down. Paul Martineau spoke in both French and English in turns so everybody in the hall understood everything he had to say in outlining the procedure of nominations. He had just barely finished his preamble and Mayor Côté of Shawville was just clearing his throat to make a nomination when up jumped Jim Killoran of Bristol and nominated Hector Belec. The nomination was seconded from the platform by Mr. Tasset and the Master of Ceremonies invited Mr. Côté up onto the platform to take his place along with several other local mayors present. A voice from nowhere was heard saying, "Alright, Mr. Belec, now you talk," but the time was not up for further nominations so Mr. Belec remained silent.

Mr. Charlie Belec, father of the new candidate and himself a former M.P., was noted in the back of the room and was invited up to the platform.

Jack Argue proclaimed the nominations closed after the three minute period of waiting was over and stated that Mr. Hector Belec would be the official Progressive Conservative standard bearer for Pontiac-Temiscamingue.

Then Mr. Hector Belec came to the front of the platform. He is a quiet man with a calm manner. Speaking in both languages by turns he told the gathering that a month ago he never imagined that today he would be a candidate for Parliament. "Judging from the number here, it is apparent many people want a change. I will do my utmost not to fail the purpose for which so many are here today. I promise to give the best that is in me." These were the words of Mr. Belec as he saluted his friends from the north. "They have a reason," said Mr. Belec, "perhaps the same reason as those of the south, to bring out an overwhelming vote for the Progressive Conservatives in August."

Lee Hodgins of Shawville then said a few words about starting the campaign right away. "We have heard," he said "that the Progressive Conservatives of Pontiac-Temiscamingue are not united, but this is not so." He then read a telegram from Bill Erwin in Temiscamingue adding a solid block of approval to whatever transpired in Campbell's Bay that day.

Mrs. Henry McCord was the next speaker and her short message was well received by the several hundred men and the dozen or so women present. "We have a candidate who will carry our banner proudly until August 10th and from then on in the Federal House in Ottawa," said Mrs. McCord, "it's all for one for all and the one in this case is Hector Belec."

Mr. James Maloney, QC, was the guest speaker of the day. "I remember well Hector Belec's very distinguished father. He and my father were in the House together in 1930 to '35. I know that his very worthy son will equally well represent this riding after that after the nomination, Hector had confided that he was nervous. The Maloney answer to that was that a man of Hector's age and stature who has nine children shouldn't be afraid of anything.

Mr. Maloney then became serious in stating that this is the most important election since that first election after confederation. He said "There comes a time in the life of every man when he has outlived his usefulness. The next leader of the Liberal Party will not be Uncle Louis but Mr. Pickersgill, who has been a civil servant all his life."

Discussing the subject of cutting down expenses in government Mr. Maloney reminded the gathering that Mr. Churchill had said he would slash expenses in England and though everyone said it couldn't be done it has been done. The same with Eisenhower in the States. He said he would cut taxes. Everyone said it couldn't be done and it is being done. "And it will be done here. It must be done if we are to survive as a people," said Mr. Maloney.

"The Liberal government has been and continues to be guilty of maladministration, extravagance and waste," continued Mr. Maloney. "Why are we paying more taxes today than during all our war? The Liberals have been in so long—18 years—that they begin to think they are put there not by the people but by God almighty." He said it must be remembered that Hector Belec is only the standard bearer, "Lui vous, the people, are those who must get behind the party."

"I've always admired your Premier Duplessis," said Mr. Maloney, "for the stand he has taken against encroachment of provincial rights. We must prevent the centralization of power that is going on."

On the subject of trade, the speaker said, "The bottom has fallen out of the market for hog and cattle because we have lost our foreign markets. The most inefficient Minister of Agriculture our country has ever seen now sits in Ottawa. Our trade with South America is practically nil today. C. D. Howe is the most powerful man in Canada—the only thing commendable I can say about this man is that he became a Canadian citizen," said Mr. Maloney.

"The Income Tax department expects farmers to do the work of a trained accountant in preparing his tax returns. If he makes a mistake against himself nothing is said about it," said Mr. Maloney, "but if he makes a mistake against the government he is taxed double as a fine for his mistake."

"An automobile is not a luxury, it is a necessity on the farm, in business, yet we pay a huge tax on automobiles," said Mr. Maloney. Why should we pay 25% tax to the government to own an automobile when in the U.S., they only pay 7%?"

Mr. Maloney went on to discuss other items such as electric refrigerators and boots and shoes and many such foods as pickles and preserves. He claimed the cigarette tax was also undue.

"In 1949 all taxes were lowered," said Mr. Maloney, "and after the election in 1950 they were all raised again and a few more were added."

"Here," said Mr. Maloney, "is Ray Johnston on this platform. A man who remembers you between elections, as witnessed by the good schools and roads and the grand hospital and the paved streets in your towns and villages. Mr. Proudfoot is a good fellow, but he has done nothing about getting the military camp at Petawawa to expand across the river or the Atomic development at Chalk River. The Liberal Government is sure of Pontiac. They take you for granted. You must stand up and show them you have a voice."

Mr. Ray Johnston next said a few words about going back into

Ground Observers Practise Alert

All Chief Observers of District No. 7, were Alerted last Sunday to put through a practice message to the Filter Centre in Brockville, in preparation for a large continuous Alert, which will be held shortly. The telephone centrals involved were briefed as to procedure and each Chief Observer called his crew of Observers to the Observation Post between the hours of 1200 and 1600. Although this was a strictly practice message, they waited until a plane came over and sent a message which would have been official if in reality. Each message went through and was O.K'd by Brockville with only seconds delay showing that each Observation Post was ready.

Edgar Moses, at Quyon, Robert Russell at Bristol, Don MacIntosh at Shawville and Lloyd Murtagh at Bryson, all reported no difficulty whatsoever. Their Observers were on hand to see just how the procedure was followed and they are now waiting for the Alert which will be held shortly. Word will be received by the Regional Supervisor who will Alert each post and they will be named continuously for three days, reporting all planes that they see during that time. An Observer will be on duty for two hours and will then be relieved by another pair until the Alert is over.

The different Centrals involved have asked the subscribers to keep the lines clear and in the event of a report being sent they will have to break off the conversation until the official message is through and it can then be re-connected. When it is considered that Jets fly anywhere up to 600 miles an hour and over, it can readily be seen that speed in getting the official message through is paramount. If anyone is using a party line and they should hear "Aircraft Flash" they should immediately hang up so as not to delay the message getting through to be plotted.

The coming exercise will be extended from the Maritimes right across Canada and the northern United States, during which time the RCAF will send various types of planes over Regions where they will be spotted, reported and plotted as they pass from one area to another. This is all part of Canada's Air Defence to augment Radar which is not effective with low flying planes or through hills. This practice is to see how effective Canada's Air Defence really is so that in the event of a hostile plane coming over, it could immediately be spotted and intercepted or destroyed. The effectiveness of the exercise will depend a great deal on the co-operation of the general public in assisting these volunteer observers to do their job. Who knows but some future time their efficiency might mean the saving of lives or destruction of towns. The Shawville EQUITY is kindly bringing these points to the attention of the Public so everyone will understand what is taking place.

your own towns and preach Hector Belec and preach George Drew and fight hard for the next month to see that they are elected in August."

It was close to four thirty when the candidate himself rose to speak and many of the farmers had of necessity to leave the meeting but a good crowd remained to hear Mr. Belec who promised to work in co-operation with municipal, provincial and federal governments for the benefit of all. "I'll see what's what and who's who about our famous Pembroke bridge," he said, "I don't care where a bridge is built as long as a bridge is built."

"From six miles south of Beech Grove to six miles north of Temiscamingue every problem that is brought to me will have my attention and we will see action," said Mr. Belec. He spoke in both French and English of his real concern for every need of this riding and then Paul Martineau closed the meeting with "O Canada" as the o'clock whistles were blowing at the mill down the road.

A well-known resident of Shawville, Mrs. George Dale, widow of George Dale, founder of the Dale Tinsmith and Plumbing business on Center Street, died at her home after an illness of several months. She was in her 78th year.

Born in the township of Clarendon, she was the former Laura Ruth Hodgins, daughter of the late Richard and Fanny Hodgins. She was educated in the schools of Shawville and was married on the second of October, 1901. Her husband and she made their home on Center street and he carried on his large business until his death. She herself at the time of her death was the last of a family of six. She was a member of the Anglican church.

Surviving her are two sons, Leslie and Hubert of Shawville and three daughters, Mrs. (Dr.) John Twedell of Kingston, Ont., Mrs. William Miller of Montreal and Mrs. Charles Johnston of Noranda, Quebec.

The funeral was held from the Geo Hynes and Son Funeral Home on Main street, Monday afternoon at 2 p.m. at St. Paul's Anglican church, where the service was conducted by Rev. R. G. Elliott, the rector. Interment was in the parish cemetery.

Silver Wedding

The immediate relations of Mr. and Mrs. Garritt O'Donnell were entertained at dinner at their home in Quyon on the occasion of their silver wedding anniversary.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. O. J. McDonald proposed the toast to the bride and groom of 25 years ago. Mr. O'Donnell responded with a few well chosen words.

Mrs. O'Donnell is the former Kathleen Stanton, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Stanton and the late Mr. Stanton. They were married in St. Mary's Church on July 7, 1927, by Msgr. McDonald.

Their four sons and two daughters were present; Francis, Wilfred, Emmett and Nora of Quyon, Lillian and James of Ottawa.

This & That

Next week there will be no EQUITY. The fact of the matter is there was hardly an EQUITY this week. An election is good for the printing business and we are delighted that the voters lists and proclamations have been entrusted to us but it sure takes a lot of time. Next week, along with election printing we hope to make a few improvements around our plant. The results won't show immediately in the paper but they will show in the disposition of our printers and eventually we will have things so organized that the paper will roll smoothly off the press for delivery on Thursday without the last minute dash and flap which currently occurs.

Well, now there are two. We have Hugh Proudfoot and we have Hector Belec, both from Fort Coulonge. Both pledge to do their best, but both are confined within the limits of their own party structure. It's not merely a matter of personalities and yet it's not merely a matter of parties because the party is only as good as the men who comprise it. For some it will be an easy matter to cast their vote. "Who else could I vote for? Why this man is good and the other is bad—or this party is good and the other is bad." But for most it will be difficult and the more we study the harder it gets. Anyone can make a decision on superficial values, but he who goes slowly and carefully into all the issues and comes up with a considered opinion is making the most of his privilege to vote.

We are told the allocation has been made for new roads hither thither and yon. So we have the money. Wonder how long it will be before we have the roads.

Fowl Visitor Welcomed Here

Helvie Murdock and his family had a surprise visitor Thursday morning when a pigeon came flying in their front door.

The bird was exhausted but after a few hours came to life and was quite at home in Mr. Murdock's living room. The bird has a leg band with two initials, a number and Joliette written on it.

G. K. Stewart Inducted, Bristol

The induction of the new minister, Rev. Gordon K. Stewart, took place in St. Andrew's United Church, at Bristol on Friday night. Delegations were present for the service from the other two appointments as well, Knox and Austin.

Lester minister of Shawville United church, and the address to the minister and congregation was made by Dr. A.F. Fokes of Starks United church. The new minister was presented for induction by the secretary of the Presbytery, Rev. George Campbell of Ottawa. Members of the Presbytery also present were Rev. H. Long of Quyon, Rev. Carson Duquette of St. Mark's United Church, Ottawa, Rev. E.A. Martineau, secretary of the Presbytery from City View, Rev. J. A. Pue-Gilchrist of Toronto and Mr. Everette McDowell of Shawville.

After the induction the ladies of the church served choice refreshments, and the minister and his wife were introduced to the congregation.

Rev. Mr. Stewart is a graduate of McGill university with an M.A. degree and in Theology from Queens university with a B.D. degree. He was ordained in the early part of June at the Montreal-Ottawa conference of the church, and was appointed to the Bristol charge. He took over his preaching duties on Sunday, preaching at St. Andrews in the morning, at Knox in the afternoon and at Austin in the evening.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Dear Madam,

I am sorry for you because, like a minister's wife, you have a lot of people to please. I am glad for the opportunity to express my views. If you cut out all the advertisements that people don't like you will have no paper. I don't know if the public dance halls pay or not. I am not complaining about the dance halls or the orderly people that go, but we have people who go to the dance hall without buying tickets and cause a disturbance on the road or parking ground. The government gets a large revenue out of it and don't see that the people who want rest are protected. If the parents or ministers had the time to call around they would see some of their family, or members of their churches, or would be able to preach a sermon that might be the chance to save the downfall of someone.

Now I must clearly explain. I am ashamed to think that eleven churches advertise in THE EQUITY fifty weeks of the year and don't pay anything for it. I suppose there are two thousand and probably three thousand Christians represented there. What a black cloud on us members of the Church.

I am approaching four score years and never saw anyone get drunk through reading an advertisement. And for the children of this day, I would ask the fathers and mothers and the doctors, "Did you ever think it worth while to find out what dope is in one of those little bottles they are getting as soon as they learn to suck it out with a straw?"

I would close with this: Get all the money you can out of the liquor ads until the Christians come across with the needed funds to support your paper.

—W. G. Russell, Bristol.

Anderson, a beautiful doll was presented to little Ann by Joan Sturgeon and a wallet containing a sum of money was presented to Rev. Gould by Grant Carey.

The Goulds all expressed their thanks to the people of the congregation and also their regret in leaving but, as they said, it was God's call and they must fulfill their duty. Mr. Gould spent a few years in China not long ago.

Delightful refreshments were served by the ladies of the congregation.

Farewell Service

Rev. A. Gould preached his farewell sermon, Sunday night, July 5. Service opened with a sing song led by Grant Carey. The pastor read the scripture taken from Acts 3, 1-11 for his text he chose the words, "Then Peter said, silver and gold have I none, but such as I have I give thee."

The quartette consisting of Miss Joan Carey, Miss Marion Smith, Mr. Lowell Smith and Mr. Grant Carey sang "Mansion Over the Hilltop", accompanied by Miss Evangeline Smith at the piano. A duet rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Asa Smith, "Precious Lord Take My Hand", accompanied by Miss Joan Carey at the piano. Rev. Iris of the Wesleyan Methodist Church, led in prayer. Rev. Gould was in charge of the service and closed with hymn "Trust and Obey", followed by the benediction.

Rotary Meeting

On Monday evening a large number of members was present at the meeting of the Rotary club. The President of the Club, Morley Hodgins was in the chair, and welcomed three visitors to the meeting. As it was the last meeting before the new president was to take office he thanked the members for their hearty co-operation and asked their continued help for the new President. Dr. C.F.C. Powles, recently elected, was then installed, and thanked the members for his election.

The special speaker for the evening was Rt. Rev. P. F. C. Powles, assistant Bishop of the Diocese of Mid Japan, who gave a vivid message on the destruction of Hiroshima and Nagasaki by atomic bomb. He told of how 200,000 people had been wiped out by the disaster and the war between United States came to a sudden close. He told of the terrible destruction of buildings in the blast and of the evil results that had followed from radio active rays afterwards.

The speaker was thanked on behalf of the club by Dr. A. F. Fokes. It was announced that a director's meeting would be held on Wednesday night of this week, when the new convenors and committees would be selected and the club policy and program prepared.

In the Dominion Day list of honours and awards announced by His Excellency the Governor General in his capacity as Chief Scout for Canada, Scout David Hodgins of the 1st Shawville Troop was awarded a Certificate for Meritorious Conduct, the citation reading "For his initiative and the pluck he displayed when he overpowered a burglar who had broken into a service station."

A very successful Father and Son Banquet was held on Monday by the 1st Quyon Group with well over a hundred present. The Scout Mothers Auxiliary served the meal on tastefully decorated tables where "seconds" was the rule rather than the exception. Mr. Shennet, the Group Chairman, was the Master of Ceremonies and he introduced the guests at the head table and the local Scouters of the Quyon Group. Short addresses were made by Mr. Cliff Garrison, District President, John Tolhurst, D.S.M., Don MacIntosh, D.R.L., Rev. H. G. Lester ARSL, and the District Commissioner. The main address was given by Father Austin who used the first part of a boys promise as his theme, Duty to God. Mr. Daly, the mayor, welcomed the guests and congratulated the boys on their fine appearance and the progress they had made. Other out-of-town guests were Mr. Eldon Keon, DCM from Bryson, Miss Lenore Howard, CM and Miss Irma Kelly, ACM of Shawville Pack. Mr. Kenneth Davis was invested with the insignia of an Assistant Scoutmaster and the Wolf Cub Pack under their Scouters demonstrated a unique opening of a meeting. Mr. Edgar Donston, who it is expected will be in charge of a new Unit in Quyon shortly, gave a short exhibition of sleight of hand. Altogether it was an excellent program and Quyon is to be congratulated on the personnel of their members of the Boy Scout Association.

The Shawville Pack are sorry to lose one of their outstanding Wolf Cubs in the person of Walter Harris. Walter is a one Star Cub who has almost his 2nd Star and in addition has earned two proficiency badges, the Artists and the Gardeners. A Letter On Canadian Livestock Products And Their Diseases

Recent costly outbreaks on this continent of animal plagues such as foot-and-mouth disease vesicular exanthema, hog cholera, rabies and scrapie have emphasized in dramatic fashion the increasing problem of keeping livestock healthy. Despite extensive scientific research in all phases of animal health, annual losses from disease continue to exact a very heavy toll on the entire industry. The increasing mobility of humans and livestock afforded by modern transportation presents, at the same time, an added hazard by increasing the rapidity with which an epizootic may spread, once it breaks out.

The annual dollar losses in the livestock and meat industry directly resulting from animal disease are difficult to calculate but there are indications that the amount is nothing short of colossal. At a recent meeting of the National Institute of Animal Agriculture in Lafayette, Indiana, Dr. L.M. Hutchings of Purdue University said:

"Annual direct losses from death of animals in this nation have been estimated conservatively to be 15% of the swine, 20% of the sheep and lambs, 10% of cattle and calves and 20% of the poultry. Based on animal population figures and average values per head, animal agriculture failed to realize a potential gross income of $2,791,000,000 in 1951 as the result of death losses alone. This does not include decreased income due to lowered production, stunted growth and inefficient feed utilization resulting from diseases such as mastitis, sterility, internal and external parasites, chronic pneumonia enteritis, brucellosis, Newcastle disease and others which do not ordinarily cause death. The sum total of such morbidity losses would be staggering since brucellosis in cattle is authoritatively estimated by the National Research Council to result in an annual loss of 100 million dollars."

Later in his address Dr. Hutchings pointed to the progress made in livestock conservation through improved management, nutrition and disease control in domestic animals. While much has been accomplished, costs have also been heavy. For example, U.S. hog producers annually spend some $35 millions in anti-hog cholera vaccination alone. Up to 1945 the bovine tuberculosis testing programme in the U.S. had cost about $250 millions. But the results achieved seem to justify these expenditures.

A year ago the Canadian livestock industry suffered a severe economic loss from the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan. Fortunately the actual direct losses of livestock were confined to relatively few farms by prompt and drastic control measures, but market returns for all classes of livestock were affected. Complete costs of the price support programme undertaken to prevent livestock producers from bearing the whole brunt of the disaster have not yet been calculated, but losses in excess of $30 millions had already been reported in the disposal of surplus beef and pork by the end of March, 1953.

While the Canadian livestock industry was coping with foot-and-mouth disease, U.S. swine producers were beset by widespread outbreaks of vesicular exanthema—a disease whose symptoms closely resemble foot-and-mouth but to which swine only are susceptible, particularly where garbage is fed. To date this disease has been kept out of Canada but more recently an outbreak of hog cholera among swine herds in several counties of Ontario has aroused serious concern.

In North America the general philosophy in dealing with livestock diseases has been against a policy of compromise. That is to say, the policy has been wherever possible to ruthlessly eradicate a disease rather than attempt to "live with" it. Judging by the record, this emphasis on preventive measures has been a sound policy and should be firmly adhered to. Controls or cures for various diseases which have become endemic, even if they are effective, are both costly and troublesome.

Animal health is therefore of great significance to every member of the meat team, from producer to consumer. Any measures which can be taken to eliminate or materially decrease the incidence of various livestock diseases will automatically remove what are often serious limiting factors in the production of livestock and livestock products. The producer thereby would benefit from lower production costs, higher net returns and the satisfaction of producing healthy livestock. The processor would benefit from the resulting larger volume of output and reduction in losses from rejected portions and carcasses. The consumer in turn would share in the benefits of lower production and processing costs for meat animals and in the greater enjoyment of a superior product.

A fuller appreciation of the vital problem of livestock disease control is the first step toward its solution. Federal or provincial animal health agencies require the support of the whole livestock industry in the detection, control and eradication of animal health problems. Livestock producers both individually and collectively, must become more aware of production or marketing practices detrimental to animal health and insist for their own protection that disease-spreading practices be rigidly curbed. Above all, perhaps, there is a need to emphasize that new products of the scientific laboratory are not a substitute for good feeding, management and sanitation.

Shawville United To Buy New Furnace

A contract has been let for the amount of $3800 to install a complete new forced hot air furnace system for the whole Shawville United Church building. To meet this expense, a financial campaign is planned to take place during July with an objective of $4200. The Women's Association has started the ball rolling with a sum of $500.

Refused To Help Fined $25 And Costs

Charged with refusing, without lawful or reasonable excuse, to fight forest fires, Maurice Drouin, of Campbell's Bay was fined $25 and costs, with an alternative of two months in jail, recently.

The accused was charged by Quebec Provincial Police Officer Andre Audet and appeared before J. L. Muir, J.P., at Campbell's Bay.

Under the laws of the province able-bodied males can be requisitioned to fight forest fires. Unless they have a lawful or reasonable excuse why they should not be called for fire-fighting duties, and should they refuse, they can be charged under the Forest Fire Prevention statutes, and when found guilty, fined or imprisoned.

It was stated in court that enough able-bodied men to fight fires raging in the Maniwaki and other Northern Quebec areas cannot be found. It was necessary to commandeer them and many apparently did not know that it was an offence to refuse such a duty.

Korea. She asked for clothing and quilts, especially for children.

It was ladies night, at the Bristol School Board meeting on Thursday night, held in the Bristol Town Hall, at least that's what one would think by the number of ladies there at the meeting.

Among the ladies present were Mrs. Gordon McMillan, Mrs. R. Russell and Mrs. James Russell, who were delegated by the Bristol Busy Bees W. I., to attend the meeting to present a letter asking the school board to give them an opportunity to purchase No. 1 school to be used as a community centre.

The chairman of the board, Mr. Muri Young, advised the ladies, that the request would have to be made to the Clarendon School Board as the people of No. 1 district having annexed with Clarendon the school would come under their jurisdiction. Mrs. McMillan thanked the board for their advice and the delegation left the meeting, leaving quite a number of ladies still present.

Among other things, the chairman reported to the board, that a request had come from the ratepayers of No. 4 district for the school to be reopened next fall or transportation be provided to Shawville, for the pupils of that district. It was decided to reopen the school if a teacher is available.

"What is causing the $400000 deficit in the Central School Board?" was one of the many questions asked by the ladies present.

Mr. Young answered, by telling the ladies that they would be welcome to attend the next Central School Board meeting, to have their questions fully answered, as the Bristol School Board had not the facts and figures right at hand to be able to give them a complete answer.

There seemed to be a little confusion as to just when that meeting would take place, but the ladies said, "they would be there whatever day it was held", and they thanked the board for their courtesy and co-operation.

She carried a bouquet of red and pink roses. The dress of the matron of honor was of light blue nylon cut full length, with blue net veil to her shoulders and she carried a colonial nosegay of summer flowers. I have procured a new Geiger Counter for instantly detecting any radioactive minerals and I am now in a position to hire out by the day for a reasonable fee to prospect. This type of instrument has figured prominently in many of the major uranium discoveries. If you have reason to believe that you know of a good prospect, it may pay you well to have it investigated. For a small fee I will also test any sample of rock brought to me. As I have a good knowledge of other minerals I may be of assistance to you in locating them. C. H. Cone, phone 36, Shawville. ojl23

QUEBEC W. I.

"I definitely feel that the Quebec Women's Institutes can play a very important part in the developing of a proper mental program in the rural communities", said Dr. A. W. MacLeod, Assistant Director of the Mental Hygiene Institute, Montreal, in a recent statement to that organization. One aspect of such a program, that has been a major concern of the Q.W.I., for some time, is suitable provision for training mentally retarded but educable children, who may be living in rural areas of this province. At the recent board meeting a recommendation, to be presented to provincial educational authorities, was unanimously approved and has been commended by both Dr. MacLeod and Prof. D. C. Munroe, Director School for Teachers, MacDonald College.

Referring to the present lack of trained personnel, the recommendation suggests that retired members of the teaching profession be approached to ascertain their willingness to take specialized training to qualify them to return to teaching in this particular field, and that if this proposal meets with favour, provision be made that this will in no way jeopardize or interrupt the pension plan. It was felt that the fact this could be considered as part time work might be a determining factor.

Mentioning the "reasonable assurance" that a building may be erected, the recommendation goes on to say that until such time as permanent quarters can be established,

Get Out The Vote

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce today launched a national non-partisan "Get-Out-The-Vote" Campaign. To make the program fully effective right across the country, Canada's national business organization is enlisting the aid of its close to 700 member Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce and some 2350 member companies.

These groups, representing a cross-section of the country's business and community life, are asked to cooperate in an all out effort to encourage people to go to the polls on August 10. They will bring into play such things as literature, lectures, speakers, door to door campaigns, posters. Throughout the Campaign, the Canadian Chamber will cooperate fully with the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Canada which also is conducting a "Get-Out-The-Vote" campaign. The Junior Chamber of Commerce of Canada has a membership of 25,000 young businessmen and 270 local units across Canada.

"Democracy depends upon the exercise of the free and secret ballot," stated president Lewis W. Simms of the The Canadian Chamber of Commerce, "and I believe that everything possible should be done to bring to Canadians a full appreciation of their responsibilities in this connection."

"The forces opposing our democratic way of life are assisted by apathy. Poor government and loss of freedom are the end results of indifference. We must therefore be alert and vigilant in the defence of democracy through the recognition and exercise of the responsibilities of citizenship."

Mr. Simms said that in the last General Election, in 1949, almost 2 million registered Canadian voters failed to take the trouble to visit a polling booth. "Democracy," he warned "as we know it, cannot long survive this kind of indifference."

What Is A Canadian?

What is a Canadian? The distinctive individual known as a Canadian is the result of mixing a multitude of different races. In the blending of many cultures into the Canadian social pattern, three main strains predominate—British, French and American.

Fully 48% of Canada's people are of British origin. Most people in this category were born in Canada, many in families who have been Canadian for generations. The second largest ethnic group is composed of Canadians of French origin—just under one-third of the total population. A closely integrated group, culturally and by language and religion, French-Canadians are essentially Canadians with traditions deep-rooted in the soil of the New World.

Half of the 15% of the population born outside the country's borders comes from the United States and Continental Europe, but virtually every nationality is represented. Many minority groups, particularly in the Prairie Provinces, still maintain the cultural heritage of the land of their origin, but they are none the less true Canadians in every sense of the word.

St. John's Anniversary Ceremony

The annual anniversary memorial service of St. John's Anglican Church was held Sunday afternoon with a large congregation in attendance. Among those present were many former parishioners from Ottawa and district.

Rev. Frank Lawler was in charge of the service and chose for his text St. Luke 5:1, "Fear Not."
