LESAGE:

"An urgent problem"

Lesage tries to provoke debate on Quebec Liquor Board strike

QUEBEC (CP) — Opposition Leader Jean Lesage tried Wednesday to provoke an emergency debate in the legislative assembly on the strike against the Quebec Liquor Board.

The Opposition move came immediately after the Union Nationale government pushed back a Liberal attempt to summon witnesses before the assembly's education committee to discuss student troubles.

Mr. Lesage proposed that the house adjourn to discuss "an extremely urgent problem of provincial importance," the strike of 3,000 liquor board employees that started June 26.

Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand immediately objected, saying there is urgency for government action, but no need to debate the liquor strike in the house at this time.

The premier said the government, "will see that there is action" aimed at resolving the dispute. The matter would be discussed at a cabinet meeting Wednesday night.

Mr. Lesage's motion, known in parliamentary language as an adjournment motion, was talked out, dying automatically when the house adjourned at 6 p.m. EDT, until 11 a.m. today.

Premier Bertrand would not indicate what course the government would follow.

Inaction on Nigeria

50 students join protest

OTTAWA (CP) — About 50 protesters from Toronto and London, Ont., are expected to join 26 others already here to continue a peaceful demonstration today against "Canadian inaction" on Nigeria.

The first group arrived in the capital Wednesday from Toronto to begin a three-day fast after staging a sit-in at the office of External Affairs Minister Sharp.

The demonstrators were dragged from the Centre Block by Commons security guards after about three hours in Mr. Sharp's office.

About 15 members of the group slept outdoors on Parliament Hill Wednesday night, wrapped in heavy coats and blankets donated by local residents. Temperatures dropped to 40 degrees overnight.

"We hope people will realize this is a serious action now, not just a publicity stunt," said Jack Kimel, a graduate student at the University of Toronto.

He said the demonstration is aimed at encouraging the Canadian government to initiate action in the United Nations to bring about a ceasefire in the 17-month-old Nigerian civil war.

INCLUDES PRIESTS, NUNS
The neatly-dressed demonstrators included Roman Catholic priests, a minister, two nuns, a university professor and students.

Prof. Gerald Caplan, 30, of the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, said UN action provided the only remaining "realistic" means of bringing a quick end to the war between Nigeria and Biafra, its breakaway eastern region.

"There is no excuse—no legitimate reason—why Canada should not take the initiative at the United Nations. The organization is there for that purpose," he said.

He described as "damn nonsense" Prime Minister Trudeau's recent warning that Canada could create another Vietnam in Nigeria by any action that might be interpreted as taking sides in the war.

Warplane project scuttled

OTTAWA (CP) — The government yielded its economy axe on a warplane project Wednesday before a Commons already pondering Tuesday's tough budget and debating financing for Prairie farmers and the post office department.

Defence Minister Leo Cadieux announced Canada will not join an international consortium to design and build an all-purpose military plane because of the cost.

Replying to Conservative Douglas Harkness, former defence minister, Mr. Cadieux said budget restrictions and the high risk in developing a combination bomber-fighter-support plane for the 1970s forced the government to withdraw.

Outside the House, he said first stages of development in consort with Britain, West Germany, Italy, Belgium and The Netherlands would have cost Canada about $10,000,000.

Domtar strikers are demonstrating

QUEBEC (CP) — About 40 strikers from Domtar Pulp and Paper Ltd.'s East Angus, Que. and Windsor, Que. mills demonstrated outside the provincial legislature Wednesday protesting what they called "the eventual shutting down" of Domtar's two paper mills.

However, Canada would have been required to buy planes and the cost for an estimated 250 would have been at least $1,200,000,000 and possibly as much as $2,000,000,000 spread over seven or eight years.

Before and after the Cadieux announcement, Prairie Conservatives and New Democrats fought vain battles to initiate emergency debate on the situation—variously described as disaster and devastation—caused by wet harvest weather and unsold grain stocks.

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux ruled against their motion.

Alf Gleave (NDP—Saskatoon-Biggar) said the bad harvest and slow sales of wheat would have "disastrous consequences," first for the Prairies and ultimately for the national economy.

Former Opposition leader John Diefenbaker described the problem as "dangerous."

BERTRAND: "We will see there's action"

News in brief

Newlyweds part

ATHENS — (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, bridegroom of four days left her for the first time today, interrupting their honeymoon to fly to Athens on business.

While shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis worked at his downtown Athens office, his bride remained on his palatial yacht Christina moored at Skopios, his private island in the Ionian Sea 300 miles northwest of here.

Biafran protest

TORONTO — (CP) — About 12 high school and university students Wednesday began a fast and a sleep-out to protest the Nigerian-Biafran civil war.

The students arrived during the day at the steps of Queen's Park, site of the provincial legislature, to begin fasting. They later moved to city hall in Nathan Phillips Square where they were to spend Wednesday night in sleeping bags.

'Frustration'

TORONTO — (CP) — A city architect said Wednesday many good ideas on how to attack Canada's housing crisis were discussed at a four-day national conference, yet no one had been able to outline how they might be translated into action.

Irving Grossman told about 600 delegates at the last session of the Canadian Conference on Housing that "this is what all the frustration is about."

Parolees earn

OTTAWA — (CP) — A national survey conducted by 20 national parole board offices shows that 1,949 paroled prisoners will earn more than $8,000,000 this year.

"This survey, the first of its kind, demonstrates a substantial financial saving to the communities by granting parole," said Solicitor-General McIlraith in a news release Wednesday.

Ceasefire sought

OTTAWA — (CP) — Conservative MPs want Prime Minister Trudeau to seek co-operation of other Commonwealth leaders in arranging a ceasefire in troubled Nigeria.

They made their plea before the Commons external affairs committee Wednesday but their formal motion was put over for debate at a later date.

Causeway's case

OTTAWA (CP) — The government of Prince Edward Island descended on Ottawa en masse Wednesday and came away with assurances that its promised crossing to the mainland hasn't been "scrapped."

Premier Alex Campbell and eight of his nine ministers put the case for the Northumberland Strait crossing to Prime Minister Trudeau and left apparently encouraged.

Officials crack down on two CEGEP's still closed

MONTREAL (CP) — The crackdown against students who closed nearly half of Quebec's 23 junior colleges in a two-week revolt concentrated Wednesday on the last two colleges still shut.

There were signs that classes might begin Monday at Edouard Montpetit and Maisonneuve junior colleges, but under strict terms laid down by administrators.

Resumption of classes at the two colleges would end a student protest wave that started Oct. 8 and swept across the province, directly affecting 28,000 students in 10 of the 23 colleges at its height.

Meanwhile, students demonstrating in sympathy continued Wednesday to occupy Montreal's Ecole des Beaux Arts, a fine arts school, the social sciences building at the University of Montreal and the administrative offices of Laval University of Montreal and the administrative offices of Laval University in Quebec City.

CONDITIONS STIFF
Raymond Berault, principal of the Edouard Montpetit College in suburban Longueuil, said that college would re-open Monday. But he said remaining school holidays would be cut out and the Christmas holiday period cut short. Students also would have to promise not to hold meetings or study sessions during class hours. The penalty would be immediate expulsion.

Any student missing classes would forfeit his credit in that course. If he missed 50 per cent of classes, he would lose the term.

Asked if the students have agreed to these terms, Mr. Berault said:

"I'm not interested in talking to them. If they want classes they can attend Monday. If not, let them go elsewhere."

Student unrest in junior colleges started Oct. 8 when students took over Lionel Groulx College in Ste. Therese de Blainville, 20 miles north of Montreal to draw attention to what they said was a need for reforms in Quebec's education system.

The demands included immediate government action to set up a second French-language university in Montreal, reversal of a government decision to reduce the amount of money available for student scholarships by $5,000,000 this year, reversal of a government decision to increase the annual interest rate on student loans to 7 per cent from 5 1/2 per cent, and a study of the education system in general.

On Oct. 10, the day after three more junior colleges joined the Lionel Groulx students by occupying their institutions, spokesman for Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal said the minister's door was open to students with problems.

The spokesman said the minister had no sympathy for those who "prefer to issue ultimatums and occupy institutions" rather than discuss the issues.

Casualties cut

SAIGON (AP) — The number of Americans killed in action in the Vietnam war dropped to 100 last week, the lowest weekly death toll in more than 14 months.

The sharp reduction in American casualties resulted from the lull in ground action which has prevailed for 3 1/2 weeks.

By Oct. 15, the unrest reached its peak as 10 colleges fell to student occupation.

On the same day, a statement from Mr. Cardinal's office said the boycotts put the students in the precarious position where they could jeopardize or delay by several months the pursuit of studies. It said that if the students did not return to classes shortly the first semester might be invalidated.

Mr. Cardinal's statement appeared to have an impact on the students. On Oct. 16, two colleges, nearby Ahuntsic and Rosemount, voted to end their occupation.

However, last Monday, more than 5,000 students in Montreal and Quebec City marched in what amounted to final demonstrations of solidarity. The revolt virtually died after that.

Benson says budget's over-all effect is to dampen unwarranted price hikes

OTTAWA (CP) — One of the arguments prompted by Finance Minister Benson's budget is whether it is inflationary or anti-inflationary.

He says its over-all effect will be to dampen unwarranted price increases.

One of the complaints voiced by interested parties has come from the life insurance companies. They say the new tax on much of their investment income will mean higher premiums on new policies and somewhat lower returns in the long run for investors and policy holders sharing in company profits.

One insurance executive said Wednesday the tax will add to a family's cost of living and that it is therefore inflationary. He said that to stem inflation, the government should tax spending power, rather than the things on which a family must spend its money.

The tax on insurance companies is expected to yield about $95,000,000 in the fiscal year starting next April 1. Of this, about $10,000,000 will be turned over to the provinces.

By way of comparison, the two-per-cent extra tax on personal incomes will yield about $440,000,000. All of this will go into the federal treasury for general spending purposes, though Mr. Benson has called it a social development tax.

The new personal income tax will add about 13 per cent next year to what the government expects to collect this year from all personal income taxes, $3,310,000,000.

The $95,000,000 to be drawn from the insurance companies will add less than five per cent next year to this year's total receipts from corporation taxes, $2,020,000,000.

One of the background notes to Mr. Benson's budget shows that personal income taxes this year account for nearly one-third—32.8 per cent—of all budgetary revenues. Corporation income taxes account for exactly one-fifth, or 20 per cent.

A finance department official says the form of the personal income tax is truly an anti-inflationary device, since it is a tax on spending power. Payroll deductions will start for all salaried and wage-rated workers next Jan. 1, ensuring the money gets into the treasury and not into any shopper's purse.

Activities at Stanstead College

The big news this week is the coming weekend. The school varsity football team will battle royal with BCS at 2 o'clock in the afternoon on the College football field. At stake is the coveted Senator Heward trophy, between the two schools, to be won on a point system. Stanstead needs 15 points to win.

Stanstead will have a good cheering section too as the students of King's Hall School, Compton, will arrive about midway of the game. Another 30 or so students from St. Helen's School for Girls, Dunham, have also been invited.

The local people, especially those interested in Stanstead College are invited to attend and watch what will prove to be a good game.

There will be about 400 young people in the dining hall that evening for dinner, over 200 from the host school, plus the visitors. Later there will be a dance in Pierce hall for the guests.

The past weekend Stanstead College football teams outdid themselves. The Varsity team travelled to Hudson Heights to play Hudson High. In an excellent game our school was victorious with four touchdowns, three converts and a single made on a run to total 28 against 7 for the host team. Scoring for Stanstead were B. Tremaine, R. Ward, B. Cirko and D. Campbell, each with a TD, while Campbell made three converts and the single point.

Saturday afternoon the junior varsity football team travelled to play Rosemere High. Stanstead won by a score of 38 to Rosemere's 13. Steven Mitchell, a Lennoxville youth, here at Stanstead, was the star of the game as he made four touchdowns. J. McEachern and John Payne each scored a TD while Bob Cahoon scored a convert and Peter Roman on a run.

The Wednesday afternoon preceding, this same team played BCS and won by a score of 14 to BCS 0. In total points of the games played together Stanstead had 20 while BCS had 18 points.

George Hamilton has been named as head prefect, Norman Sandberg for Bugbee House; Raymond Gill, Davis House; Jim Morden and Bob Frew for Colby House. Andre Hardwick has been named as president of the Student Council, replacing Bob Frew, who cannot act in both capacities.

To make the headmasters list are N. Sandberg, Grade 12; D. Slack, N. Lester, B. Zwicker and P. Schram, Grade 11; R. Garon and D. Blackwood, Grade 10; R. Ho, and D. Scholefield, both of junior school.

Visitors here this week will be Dr. S. Pentier, Montreal, liaison between the high schools, and McGill University; Dr. W. J. Breckenridge, Director of Minnesota Museum of Natural History, who will show his color film

Today's hand is what is frequently called a "book hand." The reason is that something like it appears in most books on play to illustrate how a good declarer can substitute certainty for a guess if he is lucky.

This book hand was actually dealt and played in the World Bridge Olympiad match between the United States and Switzerland last summer. It goes to show that these book hands occur in real life.

Arthur Robinson of Philadelphia, who held the South cards, wasted no time getting to seven no-trump after Bobby Jordan opened with one diamond. He knew that at worst the grand slam would depend on finding the queen of diamonds and, when dummy hit the table, Arthur saw that the worst had happened.

He won the heart lead with the ace, cashed his king of clubs and led the jack of clubs to the ace in dummy. When West showed out, Arthur was ready to see if he could not get a complete reading on the diamond suit. He did with no trouble by running off the spades and hearts. East had to follow to all the spade and heart leads so that Bobby could account for 12 of his cards. Three spades, three hearts and six clubs.

Arthur led a diamond to his king. East followed and Arthur was able to finesse against West's queen and make his contract without any worry. That is, any worry at that stage. He had worried plenty when he saw the dummy.

There is one interesting point to the play that makes the hand special. Arthur was careful to leave the high club in his hand. If diamonds had broken 4-0, this would have given him an extra entry to take two diamond finesesses and make the grand slam against that break also.

Urged Park Purchase

After taking a walk in the countryside north of New York City in 1844, William Cullen Bryant, the noted poet, urged that a large tract of the land be bought for public use while it was still inexpensive. The land was purchased 12 years later and is now known as Central Park.

TOURING TRADERS — Three of a group of 12 assistant trade commissioners in training are shown above at a civic reception held at the Howardene Industrial Exhibit yesterday. The young men visited a number of local industries to acquire first hand knowledge of Canadian export

Howardene exhibit said Canada's best

Twelve assistant trade commissioners termed the Sherbrooke Industrial Exhibit at Howardene "the best they have seen in Canada" after visiting the site yesterday as part of their tour of Sherbrooke County export firms.

Each year the trade commissioner service of the department of trade and commerce recruits a number of young officers who, after a period of training in Canada, are assigned to Canadian trade offices abroad.

This annual training program is designed to enhance the facilities which the trade commissioner service offers to Canadian exporters and the Canadian business community generally.

As an essential part of their training, these assistant trade commissioners undertake a tour of Canada. The tour has two objectives: to provide the assistant trade commissioners with a broad knowledge of the Canadian economy and to enable them to gain first hand information on Canadian export trade so that they will be well informed when posted abroad.

An enjoyable feature of the assistant trade commissioners tour of Sherbrooke was yesterday's civic reception held at

Photo club formed at U of S, offers darkroom to members

A recently-formed photography club was officially launched last night at the University of Sherbrooke with an exhibition of pictures taken by members of the club.

The club began as an idea of Marcel Chateaufort, professor of photography, at the University of Sherbrooke, who recruited a few members and since then, the club has grown to about 75 members.

The name of the new club is Photo-Club Sherbrooke.

The club is still seeking more new members and anyone interested in photography is invited to attend a meeting or two in the Science Building, U of S.

A person may attend his first two meetings free of charge but if he intends to join the group and attend the meetings every second Wednesday, he is asked to pay a $5 membership fee.

Being a member of the club does not oblige a person to attend the two monthly meetings.

The benefits of being a member of the Photo-Club Sherbrooke are that a member will have a darkroom and picture enlarging apparatus at his disposal, he will be able to hear professionals and gifted amateurs talk on improving photography.

He or she will also be among friends who are also striving to improve their pictures, techniques and developing processes.

A provisionary committee has been formed with Mr. Chateaufort as president, Armand Hebert, treasurer, Jacques Dalpe, secretary and Mrs. Nicole Ballyot, Dr. Bernard Mongeau, Jacques Lepage, Richard Blais, Roger Dion and Louis-Georges Lemay.

Last night's photography exhibition was very interesting, with exhibited pictures depicting personal moods, country scenes, beautiful girls and a variety of other subjects.

Judge finds liquor smuggler guilty

Sessions Court Judge Benoit Turmel found Denis Fontaine, 32, Coaticook, guilty of possession of smuggled liquor, following a trial before a Magistrate, in St. Francis District Court, yesterday.

Special Prosecutor Yvon Roberge called RCMP constables G. R. Lapointe and Serge Poitras to the stand. They testified that they were on patrol October 6, where highways 114 and 50 intersect, and that they saw a car driven by Fernand Mongeon, 30, Montreal, go back and forth four times, before they gave chase.

Constable Lapointe said that Fontaine said he had nothing to declare, before the car was searched. The search resulted in the Monties, finding eighteen 64-ounce bottles of gin, a case of whisky, and a case of cognac. All the liquor had Vermont tax stamps affixed to the bottles.

Mr. Fontaine, who conducted his own defence, called Fernand Mongeon as the sole defence witness. Mongeon declared that Fontaine was in an advanced state of intoxication during the trek.

Mongeon declared that he had strayed into the United States without hitting a customs port, and that they had returned to Canada in the same fashion. He said that he had left Fontaine in an American gin mill while he purchased the liquor, and that Fontaine was in no way aware of what had been done in the way of purchasing.

Turmel that the word of the witness, even under oath, was virtually worthless.

Mr. Roberge then recalled constable Lapointe who testified that Fontaine was sober when the car was stopped.

Judge Turmel then declared Fontaine guilty, and fined him $200, in default 30 days.

Michel Pelletier, 20, Sherbrooke, was found guilty of a charge of grievous assault, on the person of Gaetan Lessard, 17, Sherbrooke, in the Mitchell parking lot. The event occurred September 6, at about 2:30 a.m. Judge Benoit Turmel sentenced Pelletier to 15 days in jail.

Circumstantial evidence fails to convict Auger of robbery

Marcel Auger, 26, of Windsor, was found not guilty of a charge of robbery at the Frontenac Hotel, February 19, 1968, when $647.25 in cash and two bottles of cognac were stolen.

The jury deliberated for 14 minutes. The foreman told Justice William Mitchell that they were unanimous in their verdict of not guilty.

Crown Prosecutor Michel Cote, who was in his debut at an Assizes case, brought forth seven Crown witnesses, who placed Auger in the area of the robbery and at the approximate time, yet Mr. Cote's witnesses could not establish direct proof.

The Crown's main witnesses were Hotel Manager Leopaul Charland, and Windsor Mills police sergeant Roger Gendreau.

Mr. Charland said that he had seen Auger in the hotel just before closing time, and that Auger left the hotel at about 12:30 a.m. Mr. Charland added that there was no indication of forced entry into the office where the cash boxes were on top of the desk, open and empty, when he came back from having a snack at approximately 2:45 a.m. Mr. Charland said that he had locked the cash boxes in a desk drawer before leaving to have his snack. The two bottles of cognac were in another drawer.

Mr. Charland said that there was one very distinctive two dollar bill, to which an artist had added a beard to the Queen in ink.

Mr. Gendreau said he had been called to the scene, and had found footprints leading from the Frontenac Hotel to the Riverview Hotel. He said that he asked roomers in the Riverview to show them their rubbers. The only person with any in his possession was Auger. Mr. Gendreau said that he noticed two empty cognac bottles in Auger's room.

Mr. Gendreau, under examination by Defence Lawyer Dewey Zaor, said that Auger did not appear to be intoxicated when he was questioned about his rubbers at about 3:30 a.m. Mr. Gendreau admitted that he did not check to see if the area where the rubbers were located was damp.

Mr. Gendreau said the monies were found in a well near Auger's room but admitted that there were other rooms nearer the well than Auger's.

Mr. Zaor did not produce any defence witnesses.

Mr. Cote told the jury that the evidence was circumstantial

Libraries serve the community

By DENNIS FINLAY
(Record staff reporter)

are small in comparison to most libraries, both serve a large percentage of the Eastern Townships' English - language residents.

In Lennoxville, the library lends an average of 17,000 books per year to Lennoxville and nearby residents.

Mrs. W. R. Baker, the Len-noxville librarian, was very frank when she admitted that the funds the library receives from the Community Chest Campaign keeps the library going.

Without these funds, she said, the library would "fold up."

She also pointed out that the price of books is increasing. How much money does the library in Lennoxville need?

Mrs. Baker answered simply, as much as it can get.

The Lennoxville Library is situated in a room in the Lennoxville Town Hall and is open four days a week.

Owing to lack of funds, a press release said, it has been impossible to develop the non-fiction and reference sections of the library.

However, an extensive, up-to-date selection of books for juveniles and teenagers is maintained.

The Lennoxville Library Association hopes it will be able to locate the library in larger quarters soon.

The association is also anxious to open a section for French-speaking people.

And all these advances necessitate the acquisition of funds from the Community Chest Campaign, which ends November 1.

It is no secret that the Sherbrooke Library is in financial trouble.

Mrs. Margaret Bishop, the library's treasurer, says that this year the Sherbrooke Library has requested $3,000 from Community Chest.

The library was in the red last year due to increased salaries for the employees and rising costs.

It asked for a municipal grant but Sherbrooke's council is still studying the situation.

The library is hoping the contribution from Community Chest will wipe out its past deficit and its foreseen deficit this year.

The library is operated by a librarian and three assistants. The books in the Sherbrooke Library number 16,000.

A REGULAR BOOKWORM AT HIS LEISURE — The Sherbrooke Library provides its patrons with ample time to browse through different sections until an interesting book is found. Archie Morrison, of Sherbrooke, above, has patronized the Sherbrooke Library since 1921. A librarian called him one of the library's most regular visitors. (Record photo: Gerry Lemay)

Budget gives promise of even worse to come

Bad as they may be in themselves, the tax changes announced in Finance Minister Benson's budget are merely a warning of worse things to come.

The Finance Minister predicts a balanced budget for the 1969-70 fiscal year with a modest surplus of $5,000,000, but this estimate is based on so many conditional factors that it means nothing.

Should the 1969-70 spending exceed the estimates by 25 cents per $100, and revenues come up to expectations, the surplus would be turned into a nominal deficit, which would jump by $1,100,000 for every cent per $100 by which the actual costs of the government exceeds the estimates.

And judging from the grave errors in forecasting during the past year, there is no reason to assume that the predicted expenditures have been too accurately compiled.

In a period of six months during 1968 a budget estimated to be in balance for the current fiscal year suddenly has produced a deficit of $675,000,000 despite certain tax increases.

The grim realities of the situation are based upon the complete inability of the government to control its finances.

Reportedly desperate efforts have been made to cut back so-called controllable expenditures but many of the extravagances which have featured government operations in the past apparently have been accelerated.

The expenditures on shared-cost programs have accelerated beyond all estimates and the cabinet insists on pressing forward its medicare program despite the objections of most of the provinces who foresee difficulty in meeting their portion of the outlays.

Major concern for the taxpayers is not the tax boosts announced Tuesday, grim as they are, but whether or not the administration is willing or able to get its financial house in order by the time the 1969-70 budget is introduced.

Keep busy every minute of the working day and the rest of the crew will get a nice rest.

A worthy appointment

Whether they be political friends or foes, the people of Sherbrooke County will join in extending congratulations to Raynald Fréchette, Union Nationale MLA for the County on his unanimous selection as Deputy Speaker of the Quebec Legislative Assembly.

The duties he assumes are arduous, involving as they do the chairmanship of the Assembly when it is sitting in committee to give clause-by-clause study of the many bills presented at each session of the Legislature.

It is at this stage of the House proceedings that most of the arguments arise as the members are freed from the strict disciplinary restrictions which surround the other stages of legislative proceedings.

To assure that the discussions are carried on in an orderly manner the deputy speaker must retain close control over proceedings while at the same time permitting the comparative freedom of discussion which is vital if a bill is to receive proper consideration in the committee stage.

During the two years he has represented Sherbrooke County in the Legislative Assembly Mr. Fréchette has proved an able and efficient member and the residents of this constituency are convinced that he has the qualities required for fulfilling his new office.

The fellow who has a lot of crust is usually half-baked, and quite probably a loafer.

Other papers say:

Should change postal policy

It seems likely that Hon. Eric Kierans, as the new Postmaster General, will wish to reconsider some of the changes in rates and services he has proposed. For it may be that the full consequences of these changes were not foreseen. If the changes are enforced, in the proposed form, the rural reader will find himself in a drastically altered position, and some of those newspapers whose subscription lists include a larger rural readership, will not only suffer severely, but may have to close down.

Mr. Kierans believes that the Post Office Department should no longer be run with annual deficits but should be able to pay its own way. If this is to be done, the users of its services must assume a greater proportion of the costs. With regard to second class mail, which includes the newspapers, they would be asked to pay at higher rates, though these higher rates would still fall short of the costs of delivery.

The difficulty is that the increases proposed would in some cases amount to jumps of 200, 300 and even 400 per cent over current costs. Le Soleil, for example, a paper in Quebec City with a large circulation of 30,000 papers in the Gaspé and Lower St. Lawrence, would have its annual mailing costs raised from $220,817 to $748,662 — an increase of over half a million dollars.

The case of papers with comparatively small total circulations, but with a high percentage of out-of-town mail subscribers, is particularly serious. The Sherbrooke Record is a good example. Its circulation in Sherbrooke itself is only a small percentage of the total. At least 72 per cent of its papers go by mail to farms and small communities in the Eastern Townships. Its mail costs would rise by 400 per cent.

Le Devoir is another example. About half its circulation is distributed by mail. Its costs for mail delivery will jump by 275 per cent.

Its editor, Mr. Claude Ryan, has said: "Even supposing you had wished, Mr. Kierans, to deal a mortal blow to the middle-sized daily newspapers, you would have had been hard put to think up a scheme more ingenious than that which you have sponsored." Mr. Ryan, of course, does not believe that this was Mr. Kierans' intention: it has only been a case of not realizing the full practical implications of a new policy.

The rise in subscription rates by mail will mean that a reader in a rural area will be paying a rate so much higher than a city reader that many of them will give up taking any newspaper. This situation would be intensified if Mr. Kierans were to carry through another proposed change — the abandonment of the Saturday mail delivery, which would mean that a rural newspaper reader would not get his paper until Monday or Tuesday.

The proposed changes in mail rates primarily affects the rural reader. The more a newspaper distributes its own papers in cities and suburbs, the less it will be affected by the changes. The more a newspaper serves the farms and the scattered, small communities, the harder it will be hit.

The result is that, in the attempt to get away from discrimination in postal rates, the result will be discrimination against the reader who happens to live some distance from a city. And this, in turn, means that the rural reader, who needs to have greater means of information because of his relatively isolated situation, will have his means of information by newspaper made far more difficult, and perhaps impossible.

The desire of Mr. Kierans to introduce new efficiency into the methods of the Post Office deserves to be welcomed. The drive and energy he displayed in the departments he headed as a provincial minister need to have their ample scope in the federal Post Office. His announced determination to block patronage, and to introduce more modern methods of handling the mail should have important eventual results in controlling costs.

It would not be unreasonable if second class mail were required to pay a higher percentage of the cost of delivery than in the past. If postal rates in general are to be raised, second class mail should bear a share of the increase. But it is hard to believe that Government has intended to make newspapers almost prohibitively expensive for the rural reader, or to deal so serious a blow to those papers, especially the smaller or medium-sized papers, which have played an unusually large role in serving the rural districts.

If Mr. Kierans were to reconsider his original proposals, and modify the changes as they affect both Saturday delivery and the extent of the increases in rates for second class mail, it would be a reasonable reconsideration of policies in relation to realities.

"Any GOLD to declare — but I'm Canadian!"

Traffic problem is rooted in the urban social structure

Transportation and land use are interdependent. They must be planned and developed together if we are to achieve an economically rational and harmonious way of life in modern cities.

This is the gist of a detailed study on urban and social-economic development made by Hans Blumenfeld, a planning consultant, for the First Canadian Urban Transportation Conference.

The conference will be held in Toronto, February 9-12, 1969. "It is an illusion to believe that the urban traffic problem is some kind of an accident due to 'mistakes of the past' which could have been avoided by application of money and technical know-how," says Mr. Blumenfeld. "The problem is deeply rooted in the economic and social structure of the urban area. It is here to stay."

He lists several reasons. One is the co-operation required between many people in large industrial and commercial enterprises which tend to cluster together, further separating places of residences from places of work. The effects on intra-urban transportation of workers are obvious.

There is also the co-operation between specialized enterprises dictating proximity in time as well as space. Mr. Blumenfeld tells of a recent incident when a rural newspaper reader would not get his paper until Monday or Tuesday.

citizens who had found closed doors and unanswered telephone calls at the municipal offices after the 4:30 p.m. closing time. There again the implications are obvious: staggered office hours to help relieve traffic jams can run counter to the basic business communication requirement.

Other contributing factors are more women in the work force, leading to the need for uniformity of household hours and time for shopping. There is also the increasing affluence of our society which permits longer, more numerous auto trips resulting in crucial peak hours and contributing to the traffic problem.

Mr. Blumenfeld notes a sharp increase in "land absorption" per person partly due to industrial automation which assigns more machine per worker; and the almost universal change from the multi-story loft building to the one-story plant in manufacturing and warehousing, with six or more times as much building area per floor. As a result — and coupled with a trend for greater land acquisition for future expansion — a modern plant may require 100 times more land per worker than an old plant in the same industry.

Mr. Blumenfeld says observations made both in Canada and in the United States indicate that urban land absorption has increased at about the square of population growth. As the population of most Canadian cities is expected to double during the next 30 years, it will be wise to assume that their land area will quadruple. All this will mean more space, further away from the urban cores, hence the imperative need for better planned transportation.

In his study, Mr. Blumenfeld debunks warnings frequently heard that within a few years, traffic in city centres will come to a complete standstill.

He points out that such warnings are not new. In 1520, in discussing a proposed widening of a 14-foot street, a city councillor of Paris said: "The number of carts on this street is growing from year to year. In a few years, we will be paralysed!"

Since that time, quite a few street widenings have been carried out in that city. Never, in those four and a half centuries, has Paris been free of traffic congestion. But never has congestion produced complete paralysis.

The lesson is clear says the planning consultant. Traffic expands up to the limits of available facilities — but not beyond. The centres of big cities may always be choked, but they are never clogged to death.

He concludes that the traffic problem will never be "solved" in the sense that all will be satisfied. But what a good transportation system produces is "... access to space and access to opportunities of all kinds, at an acceptable cost in time, money, and inconvenience."

OTTAWA — (TNS) — Confident of its superiority in conventional military forces and their strategic location after the occupation of Czechoslovakia, the Soviet Union is now pressing for what its propaganda presents as missile disarmament.

The purpose of this move, which represents a tactical and psychological switch from a decade of bone-chilling missile rattling, is not hard to figure out. It is to dissipate the apprehension that gripped the world two months ago, to neutralize calls for re-vitalization and strengthening of NATO defences, and to pave the way for removal of the remaining obstacles to Soviet expansion.

These remaining obstacles are the tactical and strategic missiles tipped with US nuclear warheads. As long as these missiles remain trained at Soviet and satellite targets, the Kremlin cannot be quite certain that they would not be used should NATO's thin conventional forces find themselves overwhelmed or outflanked and bypassed by the Red armies. Hence the sudden interest in and even pressure for the long-resisted missile ban talks with the United States.

Until about three years ago official Soviet military doctrine was squarely based on the proposition of massive use of both nuclear weapons and conventional forces in any major clash with the West.

This doctrine accounted for the simultaneous rapid build-up of the Soviet nuclear arsenal and ground forces. It also accounted for the concentrated Soviet propaganda effort to paralyze the West with fear of incineration into submission to blackmail policy backed by hints of new glove-circling terror weapons of unimaginable magnitude.

While this psychological onslaught, helped along by the various Communist front "peace" groups, was doing its work on our side of the Iron Curtain, Soviet domestic propaganda pictured nuclear war as a largely one-sided affair, especially when anti-ballistic missiles were added to the Russian arsenal.

Gradually, however, boasts of invincibility started disappearing from the propaganda repertoire and a realistic note of a potential devastation of both sides in a nuclear exchange crept in.

This change reflected an underlying shift in the Soviet military doctrine, which by that time recognized the impossibility of neutralization of the opponent's retaliatory nuclear capability and the inadequacy of the available ABM systems.

In short, Soviet military experts came to the conclusion that the use of nuclear weapons in a major clash with the West would be suicidal and that the spending of vast resources on weaponry which is not likely to be used is wasteful.

Readers say:

Citizens press for a crossing guard

Dear Sir:

May I be permitted space in your paper to air a beef for a number of disgruntled and disillusioned parents.

The subject of the letter is a cross guard whom we have been trying to have appointed for the school cross walk at the Queen Street and Academy Street intersection in Lennoxville.

Prompted by an accident, which we witnessed in this area just before school opened in September, when a small child was seriously injured by a car, a group of parents decided to present ourselves at a Council Meeting to see if we could not have a man installed at this cross-walk.

From information gleaned at these meetings and through recent accounts in both your Newspaper and the Radio Program "Civic Affairs," we are of the opinion that the men who perform this job are not very highly regarded by some of the members of our Boards and may I say that I am thoroughly disgusted with their narrow and prejudiced views.

As a parent I have nothing but the highest regard for these men who are out sunshine or snow to assist the children in crossing the streets and should a man take on this job on Queen Street in Lennoxville, he would be in a dangerous position indeed.

It was pointed out to the parents that according to a recently conducted survey in a two-week period only three cars had failed to stop at the present stop sign and from the snug safe position of a council table this was viewed as a rather good record. From the unsure position of a mother with two small children attending this school, this is an extremely high and dangerous percentage. If three cars fail to stop on bare pavement under the best of conditions, how many will fail to stop in snow storms or on icy streets?

More and more we find the idea of a traffic light being suggested. The light system would be even less effective than the present stop sign which at least is smack in the middle of the street, and I can't help but wonder if it is the effectiveness or the almighty dollar that is being considered.

As taxpayers and anxious parents we feel we have a right to ask if money for the town could not be saved in more effective ways than at the risk of our children's lives?

We grant you that in the position of Cross-Guard you may find some unqualified as in any other field of work, but if the applicants are screened we feel very sure that a suitable one could be acquired who would soon be regarded by potential speeders and law-breakers as more of a threat than any red light.

In the kindergarten class alone in Lennoxville there are sixty-six children enrolled. Can we rely on a five-year-old, no matter how diligently, trained, to push a button and wait for a red light? We don't believe you can. We feel they need adult supervision, the same as supplied by other towns, many smaller than Lennoxville, with consequently less tax dollars to spend.

Thanking you for your kindness I remain,

A WORRIED PARENT

POLLY'S POINTERS Many Other Good Uses For Old Knitted Stoles

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. L. J. might find that the crocheted and knitted stoles she no longer wears could bring real comfort and pleasure to the ladies in a nearby home for the elderly. They will appreciate them for extra warmth around their shoulders or when used as covers over the knees.—MRS. D. T.

DEAR POLLY—If Mrs. L. F.'s four knitted stoles are all the same length they may be crocheted or sewed together with either matching or contrasting yarn and fringe added in the colors of the stole around the edges for a lovely afghan.—MRS. C. F. H.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I make blocks of ice in my deep freeze ready to put in our ice box when we go on a camping trip. I freeze it in an almost-square wastebasket but each time the side of this plastic container cracks open. Can someone tell me how to freeze a block of ice the size of a small ice box without breaking the container? I feel sure there are other outdoor sportsmen and campers who would like to know, too.—MRS. D. J. I.

Sutton bride-to-be feted

The bacteria from Apt. 304 are waiting for your wash.

20,000,000 germs may swim in 1 oz. of laundry water. Not even hot wash water can kill them. Hordes live on to attack cotton fabrics. Read why no woman can risk a wash without germ-killing Javex® Bleach.

You can't judge all bacteria by the behaviour of some of them. Some are harmless. But others are nasty.

The nasty ones can do irreparable damage to your cotton fabrics. Some digest the cellulose in cotton. They eat holes in shirts, jerseys, sheets, pillow cases. Other living organisms cause mildew. Still others cause the lingering smell in perspiration stains and babies' diapers.

But you can't separate these nasty germs from the harmless ones.

So kill them without mercy. Before you trust your laundry to a washer you share, rinse it out with a dilute Javex Bleach solution. Kill other people's bacteria. Then use Javex in your own wash. Kill your bacteria.

Your detergent alone isn't enough to kill them. Nor will your hot wash water do it (Remember—you boil water to kill germs.)

But Javex kills bacteria on contact. At the same time, it gets rid of food, grease and perspiration stains that breed bacteria.

You should use Javex with your detergent in every wash. As directed, Javex works in small, safe doses. But it does a powerful job of killing germs and getting rid of stains and gray dinginess.

So Javex in every wash protects you from the temptation to use an over-strength solution on lingering odour, set-in stains and built-up gray.

Some women are afraid to use Javex Bleach in a coloured wash. A groundless fear! Colour-fast fabrics are as safe in Javex as white things as long as you avoid prolonged soaks; say, more than 15 minutes.

If you can't find a colour-fast label, use this simple test. Mix 1 tsp. of Javex in 1 cup of warm water. Apply some to an unseen area. If it does not discolour in about 5 minutes, the colours and the fabric are safe in Javex.

If you think you need something else for stain removal, you're wrong.

Javex gets rid of the tough stains—the Aggravators—by taking their molecules apart and sending them flying.

Tea, coffee, fruit stains, vegetable stains, they'll disappear after a 5 to 15-minute soak in 1 oz. of Javex and a quart of warm water.

A real toughie will need a repeat treatment. But you'll never have to stretch washday into two days with an overnight soak.

You can even keep synthetics like nylon fresh and bright with Javex. You probably think Javex yellows synthetics. Wrong. It actually whitens nylon.

A 15-30-minute soak in 1 oz. of Javex, 1 gallon of hot water and a tsp. of vinegar will turn nylon, shabby with the yellow of age, white again.

Chances are you use Javex mostly to make white things whiter than you could any other way. But Javex can do so much more for you.

If you don't use Javex Bleach in every wash your clothes aren't as germ-free, your colours aren't as bright, your synthetics aren't as fresh as they could be.

Without Javex in every wash clothes aren't clean.

Grid fans miss loudspeakers

By JOHN McCAGHEY
(Record Staff Reporter)

KNOWLTON — (Staff) — Spectators at the Knowlton Larks home game here Sunday were irked at the absence of loud speakers previously provided by Centennial Electric.

Ken Seal, owner of Centennial, said "we were warned that the town had enacted a bylaw prohibiting the use of any mobile loud speakers, so we decided that we were not going to face a fine."

Mr. Seal said that the speakers, which he had previously donated to the Larks, were only used for service clubs, the United Church, the Canadian Legion and the Brome - Bolton Fish and Game Club, to boost attendance at their various functions.

"The speakers have never been used to promote a commercial product," said Mr. Seal, "we have only used them to assist the public interest, and any charges have not been sufficient to cover operating costs."

The bylaw, Number 183, proposed by alderman I. Rod Crandall and seconded by alderman Philippe Allard, reads, in part: "Whereas the use of mobile loud-speakers within the Municipal limits of the Village of Knowlton is prohibited unless prior permission is obtained from the Municipal Council."

Mayor C. Lorne Church, in an interview, said "I can't see that they do any harm at the football field."

One spectator said "it's a damned shame how small minded they are on the council." Other spectators voiced similar opinions.

Plans are still in the formative stages and further developments will be reported as they occur.

YOUNG MAN REQUIRED

We require a young man, perfectly bilingual, with a good knowledge of business to manage the office and warehouse of a wholesale business. After a few weeks of training at the office and warehouse, he then will call on customers in Sherbrooke and district, and eventually will have to travel regularly throughout the Province of Quebec.

This position is open to a young man who wants to build himself a future but must work to acquire it. Will eventually replace the President who will gradually transfer his responsibilities to him before retirement.

It is not an employee that we require, but a man to become a shareholder and an interested hard working partner for a steady growing business which will be to his advantage.

Write giving your name and phone number if interested and willing. We will contact you. Our personnel has been informed of this opening.

PLAYING THE GAME — Youngsters are shown in action at a lacrosse game in Akfield, just north of Peterborough. The tiny community has a seven-team lacrosse league but eighteen months ago nobody in the area played the game. The league was established in 1967, and with the help of volunteers and contributions from businessmen, a playing boy was built on land covered in hay. (CP Photo)

Elaine Tanner wins Canada's first medal, but not gold one

MEXICO CITY (CP) — Canada had its first Olympic swimming medals in 40 years, and the first of the current Games, but they weren't gold.

Vancouver-born Elaine Tanner, bitterly disappointed at her second-place finish in the women's 100-metre backstroke Wednesday night, fled in tears with the silver medalion swinging from her neck.

Ralph Hutton of Ocean Falls, B.C., hung his head after he got another silver in the men's 400-metre freestyle, but not because of disappointment at not winning.

"I was just too tired to hold my head up," he said afterwards.

Kay Hall, a 17-year-old high school student from Tacoma, Wash., got off to a fast start, made a beautiful turn and won the backstroke with a world record clocking of 1:06.2.

The night before the race, Elaine said she figured it would take a world record performance to win the gold and that she would be going after it.

SETS CAREER MARK

The 17-year-old Winnipeg resident swam the fastest 100 backstroke of her career, 1:06.7, after setting an Olympic record of 1:07.4 in the heats.

Still she finished a metre behind the American, who clipped two-tenths off the world record of 1:06.4, set by South African Karen Muir earlier this year.

"I thought it would take a world record to win it," said Miss Tanner. "But I thought I'd be the one to do it."

Her coach, George Gate of Pointe Claire, Que., sent her to the dressing room after the medal ceremonies when she broke down and fled shortly before the press interviews.

"This is a fine athlete," Gate said.

"She feels she let Canada down by not winning the gold medal and she is wrong. She swam the fastest race of her life."

Hutton, the world record-holder in the 400 freestyle, came second to Mike Burton of the United States. Burton swam a 4:09.0 time, an Olympic record.

FIRST FOR WOMAN

Elaine's silver is the first in swimming ever won by a Canadian woman although Irene MacDonald of Kelowna, B.C., took a third-place bronze in the springboard diving at the 1956 Melbourne Games.

Hutton's medal is the first individual medal in swimming by a Canadian in 48 years—since George Vernet of Montreal placed third in the same race in 1920.

Until Miss Tanner and Hutton did it, the last time Canada won a swimming medal was in 1928, when the 800-metre relay team finished third.

Hutton, a particularly close friend of Elaine's, said in her defence:

"Everybody had been expecting her to win a gold medal and she feels she blew it. The press should get off her back. She's still a little girl."

Of his own performance, Hutton said:

"I'm not displeased. I swam the best race I possibly could."

ADD SIX GOLDS

The Americans picked up six more gold medals Wednesday, including their first in sports other than track and swimming, and the Russians began to make their move in gymnastics, in which 14 gold medals are awarded.

In all, the Americans now have 81 medals, including 35 gold, and the Russians have 49, with 15 gold. The Russians are far off their 1964 Tokyo performance, the Americans have

Every country in Olympics is involved in equipment scandal, says Dan Ferris MEXICO CITY (AP) — Dan Ferris, world renowned authority on track and field, said Wednesday virtually every country in the Olympics is involved in the equipment scandal with payoffs ranging from $500 to $8,000.

"The matter is being investigated thoroughly," said the secretary emeritus of the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union and newly-elected member of the powerful council of the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

The IAAF is the ruling body of track and field sports. It certifies all track competitors in the Olympic Games.

Everett Barnes, acting executive director of the U.S. Olympic Committee, said his executive board was still investigating reports that athletes who competed in the Olympic Games received money for wearing equipment from certain manufacturers.

"We hope to clean this up before the end of the Games," Barnes said.

In the unofficial point standing, the U.S. leads with 658 points based on the traditional but unofficial system of scoring 10-5-4-3-2-1 for the first six in each final. Russia has 389.

Canada picked up 16 points Wednesday, mostly in swimming, and had a total of 32, good for 20th place.

The U.S. swimmers continued their domination with four more gold Wednesday. In addition to Burton and Miss Kay winning over the top-ranked Canadians, Sharon Wickman, 16, became the first American to win the women's 200-metre breaststroke and Charles Hickcox grabbed the men's 400-metre individual medley gold.

Hickcox led a one-two U.S. finish, winning in 4:48.0, well below his world record of 4:39.0. Sandy Gilchrist of Ocean Falls was fifth in 4:56.7.

Gary Hall won the silver and West Germany's Michael Holthaus the bronze.

GALINA CRIES TOO

Another swimmer who broke into tears after losing was Galina Prozumenschikova of Russia, who failed to win her second straight 200.

Miss Wichman set an Olympic mark of 2:44.4, breaking the mark Galina set in 1964. Djurdjica Bjedov of Yugoslavia, winner of the gold medal in the 100, was second and the Russian champion third.

Czechoslovakia women won two gold, taking both the tower diving and the women's all-around gymnastic crowns.

ETABA to hold meeting tonight at Bishop's Un.

A special meeting of the Eastern Townships Amateur Basketball Association has been called for this evening at Bishop's University.

The gathering will take place in the Bishop Mountain House, room 109, commencing at 7.30 p.m. Anyone interested in entering a team is requested to be on hand.

Ferris, long renowned as one of the leaders of international track and field administration, said he understood that the matter was first brought to light when an athlete told his officials of a payoff by a company and turned the money back.

"Indications are that payoffs have been made to athletes of virtually all countries," Ferris said. "The investigation centres around those athletes who did not see fit to notify their superiors of the payments."

In the other tilt between De Luxe and the Marauder it was a close battle with the automobile squad running out with a 5-4 victory. DeLuxe opened with four goals in the first period and this paid off eventually for them.

In the second and third periods the Marauders came through with three goals after the lone marker in the opening frame but fell short of catching DeLuxe. R. Beland, R. Simard, L. Dion, G. Guevre and

Beavers after victory tonight against Tigers, Coach Cline plans some changes

A very important game is on tap this evening at the Sports Palace as far as the Sherbrooke Beavers are concerned. The big question is can they break out of their losing streak with a win over the Victoriaville Tigers?

The Beavers have lost four straight since the season opened. They posted a 3-2 win over the Granby Vics in their opener but since then have dropped into the cellar of the circuit and may have a little trouble in moving out of the "unwanted spot."

Coach Bruce Cline was very dissatisfied with the playing of some of his regulars in their last two outings and with Manager Real Veilleux some changes may be done, commencing with this evening's tilt. Coach Cline may shift veteran Rene Pepin to centre since the work of his pivot men have been terrible.

In the other tilt on the agenda St. Hyacinthe moves over to Granby to tangle with the high-flying Vics. It will mark the first appearance of Jean-Paul Gladu as pilot of the Vics. He replaced Jean-Guy Charbonneau, who resigned suddenly from the club.

Bruce Cline was in uniform Tuesday in St. Hyacinthe and he will be back in action again tonight. Cline decided to dress in order to try and add some strength to the attacking units. Cline hasn't played for some time but he turned in a good job in his initial appearance against the Gauls.

Moving Pepin to centre may help set up more plays for the wingers as the Beavers' play seems to stop at the opposing blueline. The centreman are trying to carry the load by themselves instead of making use of their wingers.

Coach Lou Poliquin's Tigers will be a tough nut for the Beavers to knock over for their second win but if everyone on the squad goes all out they may be able to come through. In their last meeting at the Sports Palace the Beavers were in the game until the dying minutes of the third period when the Tigers rallied for three goals and a 5-4 victory.

Manager Veilleux is trying to make a deal for Don Liesemer, who played with St. Hyacinthe last season and is now attending Bishop's University. At the same time Manager Veilleux is in contact with a few other players but late yesterday afternoon wouldn't divulge their names.

Following Tuesday's game in St. Hyacinthe Coach Cline read the riot act in the room after the game. He stressed the point if things didn't change very shortly he would take drastic steps to see they would. He, with Manager Veilleux, were disgusted with the manner some of the players have been showing and he didn't mince his words in letting them know.

"On paper we have a good club but everyone must do their share. Our trouble is that some of our regulars aren't pulling their weight. If things don't change for the better tonight the axe will fall and fines will be imposed," stated Coach Cline. The executive of the club is hoping that it will be a different story tonight.

The Tigers are one point out of top spot and a victory for them, providing the Gauls lose, would give them sole possession of first place. Coach Poliquin has his guns set for top spot and will have his club up for the game with a victory in sight.

Expansion clubs must change style against older clubs, says Plante

If expansion teams in the National Hockey League rally want to beat the established teams, maybe they should listen to some advice from Jacques Plante.

Plante, 39, who came out of retirement this season to join St. Louis Blues, watched his team-mates lose 6-4 to Toronto Maple Leafs at Toronto Wednesday night. Then, he outlined some strategy expansion teams should use.

The advice might prove helpful to all teams in the Western Division because the established Eastern Division teams made a clean sweep of four interlocking games played Wednesday.

Chicago Black Hawks routed Pittsburgh Penguins 8-5 at Pittsburgh, Montreal Canadiens downed Los Angeles Kings 5-2 at Los Angeles and New York Rangers trounced Oakland Seals 6-1 at New York in the other games.

Plante, with many years service with Montreal and New York, said expansion teams make a mistake in trying to play wide-open hockey against the established teams.

"The expansion teams forgot how they should play against the old teams," said Plante in an interview. "The only way they can win is to play positional hockey—defensive hockey and play for the breaks."

"You see Oakland wins two games in a row. Now they say 'We can play hockey with these other guys and they try, but they can't. New York has too many shooters, so in a wide-open game, New York will win."

"Pittsburgh has tied Montreal and tied Toronto. They're not bad, but they think they can play Chicago's game. No, Chicago has too many shooters."

Glenn Hall, who made his seasonal debut in the St. Louis goal, probably wishes Plante had offered the advice before the game against the Maple Leafs instead of afterwards. The Blues afforded Hall little protection and the Maple Leafs took advantage.

Norm Ullman, playing his best game of the infant season, scored two goals for Toronto. Single goals came from Larry Mickey, Tim Horton, Paul Henderson and Floyd Smith.

Camille Henry scored two goals for the Blues and Jean-Guy Talbot and Ab McDonald added one each before 16,324.

The Black Hawks, the most proficient team in the NHL in wide-open games this season, took over first place in the Eastern Division.

Jim Pappin, Bobby Hull and Doug Mohns scored two goals each for Chicago, one point ahead of second-place Montreal. Stan Mikita and Dennis Hull added one goal each.

LEADS SCORING RACE

Mikita, who also added two assists, is the NHL's leading scorer with 15 points on four goals and 11 assists. Pappin is second with eight goals and three assists for 11 points.

A crowd of 5,889 saw Pittsburgh goals come from Wally Boyer, Ken Schinkel, Bill Mc-
