Miners Donate $1,000 To Pontiac Community Hospital

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of Pontiac Community Hospital held Tuesday night, it was decided to invite Mr. Ernest Beckwith, architect, of Aylmer, Que., to come and inspect the hospital grounds and offer advice on selecting a site and deciding on the type of building to be erected as a nurses' residence.

Received at this meeting was a cheque for $1,000, donated to the Hospital by the members of Local 880 of the Pontiac Union of Mine and Mill Workers who are employed at New Calumet Mines. The cheque was turned over to Board President Leonard Horner by Hubert Ralston of Bryson, Financial Secretary of Local 880. Mr. Ralston was accompanied by Emil Develin of Campbell's Bay, a trustee of Local 880. In a brief speech to the Board, Mr. Ralston stated that the Hospital's appeal for funds had been received by the Union, the members of which felt that there was a real need for assistance, and accordingly the money had been obtained from the members to make up the sum of $1,000. Board President Leonard Horner accepted the cheque on behalf of the Hospital, and extended sincere thanks to the Union through its representatives for its most generous donation. It was later decided to use the money in repainting and renovating the interior of the Hospital.

Former Residents Of Shawville Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Maitland of Webbwood, Ont., formerly of Shawville, celebrated their golden anniversary on Monday, July 1, when they held a family dinner on the lawn and evening reception at their home for friends and neighbors.

A television set was presented to the happy couple by Mr. W. E. Maitland on behalf of the family and friends. Their son Arnold proposed a toast to his mother, suitably replied to by his father.

The couple were married in the Baptist church, Starks Corners, on July 1, 1907. Mrs. Maitland is the former Mary Eva Dagg.

They have five sons, Arnold, Hollis and Fred of Sudbury, and Irvin and Keith of Beamsville, Ont. They also have nine grandchildren.

Among those attending the celebration were their brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Maitland of Pembroke, who attended the couple as best man and bridesmaid at their wedding 50 years ago. The couple's niece, Mrs. H. N. MacKenzie of Ottawa, and her husband were also present.

A nephew and other nieces from the district set out for Webbwood to join in the celebration, but were forced to turn back because of washouts on the highway at Mattawa.

Congratulations

The Equity joins area residents in extending birthday greetings and good wishes to Mr. W. J. Black of Shawville who celebrated his 91st birthday yesterday.

LIGHT UP THE SCHOOLHOUSE

A columnist this week in words so right
 Has on the local dance hall put the bight.
 He points the joint of cacaphonic blame
 At those frequenting Bristol's hall of fame.
 So true, so true — we add our own deep sorrow
 To his, o'er those who think not of the morrow
 And make night hidjus with their goings on,
 While quiet folk from lack of sleep grow wan.
 There is one long run answer to his prayer,
 The plan for which we here and now lay bare.
 Light up the schoolhouse in our largest town!
 There teach the teenage children verb and noun
 Of what to do and how to so comport
 At dances, teas and dinners, that no tort
 Need them confuse. The calm and poise they gain
 In this one way should help reduce the reign
 Of terror that develops in our halls
 Each Friday night when guys go out with dolls.

THIRTEEN YEARS SERVICE

When nominations to local school boards closed at 11 a.m. on Monday we noted that the name of Morley Hodgins was not amongst those present on the slate of Clarendon Board nominees. For whatever reason Mr. Hodgins has decided to withdraw from school board work we know not, although the fact of thirteen years service on the Board is itself a rather excellent justification. We take this opportunity to salute Mr. Hodgins for the efforts he has devoted to the betterment of educational facilities on behalf of the Clarendon Board during his long term of office.

Get Busy

By Ambrose Hills

I wish that in school, along with reading, writing and arithmetic, they would teach us that a soft life is a poor one, while a busy life is happy. Those who loaf their way through life have very little fun.

Bob Burdette once told his son about this truth. He put it very clearly. He said, "Son, remember you have to work. Whether you handle pick or wheel-barrow or a set of books, digging ditches or editing a newspaper, ringing an auction bell or writing funny things, you must work. So take off your coat and make dust in the world. The busier you are, the less harm you are apt to get into, the sweeter will be your sleep, the brighter your holidays, and the better satisfied the whole world will be with you."

I tried to tell that same story to a young fellow I know. He came to the city from a small town and I recommended him for a job. It is not too good a job, but it is a start. I had remembered, from my boyhood, that small town youngsters were usually ready to work like beavers to get a start. I thought this lad would be the same. But times have changed.

The boy calls in to see me from time to time. He has many complaints against the company, although he has had one promotion and two small wage increases within six months. However, there is a terrific amount of hard work to be done and many of his fellow employees are unhappy.

"Do they work you overtime?" I asked, and he said, "Well, not often and they pay for overtime."

"Then what's your beef? What do you care if the work is hard, when you're off at five-thirty anyhow? And you seem to be gaining weight and you're looking well enough. What's really wrong?"

His complaints didn't amount to a row of beans — except that he was expected to work.

I told this boy in my opinion he could be a star employee in no time by tearing into the work at hand and doing it as fast or faster than it had been done before. He would then have security of employment and first chance at a better job. But I saw no answering light of enthusiasm in his eyes.

I'm fond of this boy, and of his hard working parents. I don't blame either boy or parents too much. I blame the whole cock-eyed atmosphere of "do as little as you can for as much as you can get" that seems to prevail today.

I'd say a good deal more on this subject, but it's 5:30 now and I mustn't be a scab and keep on working.

To All Employees

(We think our readers will enjoy this bit of satire (?) published by Spence Farm Equipment Ltd. Ed.)

"Due to increased competition and a keen desire to remain in business, we find it necessary to institute a new policy—EFFECTIVE IMMEDIATELY. We are asking that somewhere between starting and quitting time and without infringing too much on the time usually devoted to lunch period, coffee breaks, rest period, story telling, ticket selling, vacation planning, and the rehashing of yesterday's T. V. programs, that each employee endeavour to find some time that can be set aside and known as the 'WORK BREAK'.

"To some, this may seem a radical innovation, but we honestly believe the idea has great possibilities. It can conceivably be an aid to steady employment and it might also be a means of assuring regular pay checks.

"While the adoption of the work break plan is not compulsory it is hoped that each employee will find time to give the plan a fair trial."

Summer Symphony

(Found among other papers while clearing out Mrs. McCord's desk. If this is a fair sample of Phoebe's creative work she will be a great asset in the High School English Department where she has gone to teach.)

"Here in the meadow there is summer music,
 The fence row trees stand deep,
 knee deep in grass,
 A cricket tunes a fiddle; the small winds
 Whisper a scented secret as they pass.
 Nothing is loud in the midsummer day
 Glowing to zenith; insect and

4-H Club News Letter

The Equity receives, regularly, a letter from the "clubs 4-H du Quebec" as well as a Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs News Letter. These two sources are packed with the interesting things that 4-H Clubs are doing both in Quebec and the rest of Canada.

The latest one from Quebec refers generally to some prizes and scholarships being awarded to member at their annual convention at the beginning of August. Apparently these prizes are for contests dealing with electricity, forest protection, fish and game, embroidery, sewing handicraft and cooking.

In the national 4-H News Letter we see that Newfoundland 4-H members are engaged in a fishing project on catching and curing the cod. The project requires members to make their own trawl of at least 50 fathoms, set it, haul, salt and dry the cod and show for exhibit 66 pounds of his cured fish. At their meetings they are learning to tie the knots used in making the trawl, baiting landing and splitting fish, about types of spoilage, government regulations for grading and practice in culling fish. Proposed future projects involve trap fishing for cod and lobster-trapping.

4-H members in Saskatoon are planning a safety project during which they will visit homes and farmyards and place a skull and crossbones sign on unsafe spots. Later they will pay another visit to see if the spots have been checked and made safe. This club is also studying films on safety.

At Stormont, Ontario a 4-H Club has been responsible in large measure for the rehabilitation of a 14 year old blind girl. Through

Sheenboro Farmhand Killed By Lightning

Lightning struck a barn Monday afternoon at Sheenboro, Que., killing one man outright and narrowly missing another.

Dead is William Lepine, 47, of nearby Chichester, a hired hand on the farm of Roy Perrault.

Perrault, 62, who was standing nearby, was hurled to the ground by the blast and knocked unconscious. He regained consciousness to find the barn ablaze and dragged the dead man outside.

The lightning ignited straw in the barn and the fire partially destroyed the barn. Four horses and several head of cattle were evacuated safely.

The men were building a trough in the barn when a wooden upright beam next to Lepine was split in two and shattered by the bolt.

Neighbors, summoned by Perrault pumped water from the puddles formed during the heavy downpour to extinguish the blaze.

Lepine had been employed by Perrault for the past two weeks.

Dr. H. C. Keon of Chapeau pronounced Lepine dead.

The body was later released by Coroner Dr. H. E. Laycock of Fort Coulonge and brought to Campbell's Bay by Ringrose Ambulance.

The victim was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Lepine. He was single.

Surviving are two brothers, Frank and Joseph, both of Chichester; three sisters, Mrs. Stephen McDonald (Mary) of Chichester, Mrs. Paul Lesage (Rose) of Blind River, Ont., and Mrs. Garfield Jones (Ida) of Kipewa, Que.

The funeral was held Tuesday in St. Alphonse Church, Chapeau.

SHUR-GAIN
NURSING SOW RATION

PRODUCES EXTRA MILK TO NOURISH BIG LITTERS!

Correct feeding and management practices have a lot to do with the arrival of consistently large litters. Then it's mighty important to you to wean big, strong, healthy litters — and wean every pig-farrowed!

At the SHUR-GAIN Demonstration Farm, this spring, under actual farm conditions, an average of 10 pigs per litter were weaned. What a difference between 5 or 6 per litter, and ten!

The difference is often the difference between proper and inadequate feeding of the nursing sow. The difference to you in extra pigs weaned is the difference between no profit and highly satisfactory profits.

The nursing sow should have the best of care and the best of feed while growing her litter. The best of feed, the best of insurance, for a high average of weanlings is SHUR-GAIN 16% NURSING SOW RATION.

Spend a few minutes with us and let us outline the new SHUR-GAIN 5-STEP HOG FEEDING PROGRAM. We've a copy of the SHUR-GAIN Hog Feeding and Management handbook for you too.

RECORD HARVEST OF PULPWOOD ON ITS WAY TO ONTARIO PAPER MILLS

A record-breaking 2,622,888 cords of Ontario pulpwood is now on the way to paper mills in the U.S. and Canada, and in its drive from the forest to mill the pulpwood provides one of Canada's most colorful spectacles. Most of the logs were cut in the winter and left on the ice of lakes to await the spring thaw, when they are gathered into a log boom and towed by a tug, as shown left. The tug shown, a mighty mite, chugs along the Nipi-gon river at the rate of one mile every five or six hours when it has 8,000 cords of wood in tow. Destination of the log boom is Port Arthur, where the logs are lifted into the hold of freighters, second from left, for shipment either to the U.S. or to Canadian mills. Most of the freighters can carry 10,000 cords of pulpwood, and hundreds of thousands of cords are transported through the Great Lakes each year. Though the warm weather drive to gather the wood employs only 5,000 men compared to the 20,000 employed in winter in cutting the wood and transporting it to lakes and rivers, many hands are needed in the woods even in summer. Alf Kauhnan, second from right, is one of the log sorters at an intermediate point where logs left in the bush are loaded on trucks for transportation to river or lake. Bush camps today, operated by any one of the 56 companies of the Ontario

Forest Industries association, bear little resemblance to the old-style log bunk houses. The Long Lac Pulp and Paper company camp near Geraldton, right, is part of a $60,000 installation that provides 80 woodsmen with running water, showers, recreation rooms and private quarters.

Shawville Guides Enjoy Weekend Camp

On Friday evening, June 21st, the Girl Guides of the First Shawville Company, under the leadership of Capt. Gwen Hayes and Lieutenant Prudence Turner, met at the High School to start out for a weekend of camping at Sand Bay. Guide parents Dave Dickson, Alex Mucha and Art Turner were kind enough to transport the Guides, all equipment, and erect the tents.

Those on deck at this time were Sandra Turner, Mary-Ann Mucha, Betty Thompson, Shirley Parks, Claudia Wickens, Jennifer Dickson, Ada Tanner and Vivien Hobbs. Mavis MacFarlane joined us at Sand Bay.

After an exciting and sleepless night, the Guides arose at 5.30 a.m. to start a busy day with an early swim. Guides Gerda Tanner and Della Smith arrived at camp in time to assist in preparing breakfast.

Breakfast over and camp chores done, swimming was once again the order of the day. At 12.30 a hungry crew of guides did justice to a good hot dinner. While the senior girls were taking care of K.P. duties the Tenderfoot girls proceeded with their leader to set the trail for a treasure hunt. During this hike the girls prepared themselves for the 'Kim's Game' part of their Second Class. Upon their return the Seniors set out with Lieut. Turner to track down the treasure.

The balance of the afternoon was spent passing Guide Tests. After a strenuous test under the supervision of Lieut. Turner the following Guides passed their Swimmers Test:- Gerda Tanner, Jennifer Dickson, Mavis MacFarlane, Ada Tanner and Mary Ann Mucha, Guides working on their Second Class Badge were- Jennifer Dickson, Mary-Ann Mucha, Shirley Parks, Betty Thompson, Sandra Turner, Vivien Hobbs, Claudia Wickens. Gerda Tanner who is working hard for her Gold Cord passed parts of her Woodcraft Emblem.

Saturday was climaxed in the evening with a wicker roast on the beach after which a tired group of girls crawled into their sleeping bags.

Sunday's activities were curtailed by severe rains but the Guides enjoyed swimming between showers. Just before the girls left camp they were very kindly treated to generous ice cream cones by Kenny McCagg, owner of the booth at Sand Bay. Following this Dave Dickson piled Guides and equipment into his bus and set out for the return trip to Shawville after an enjoyable weekend.

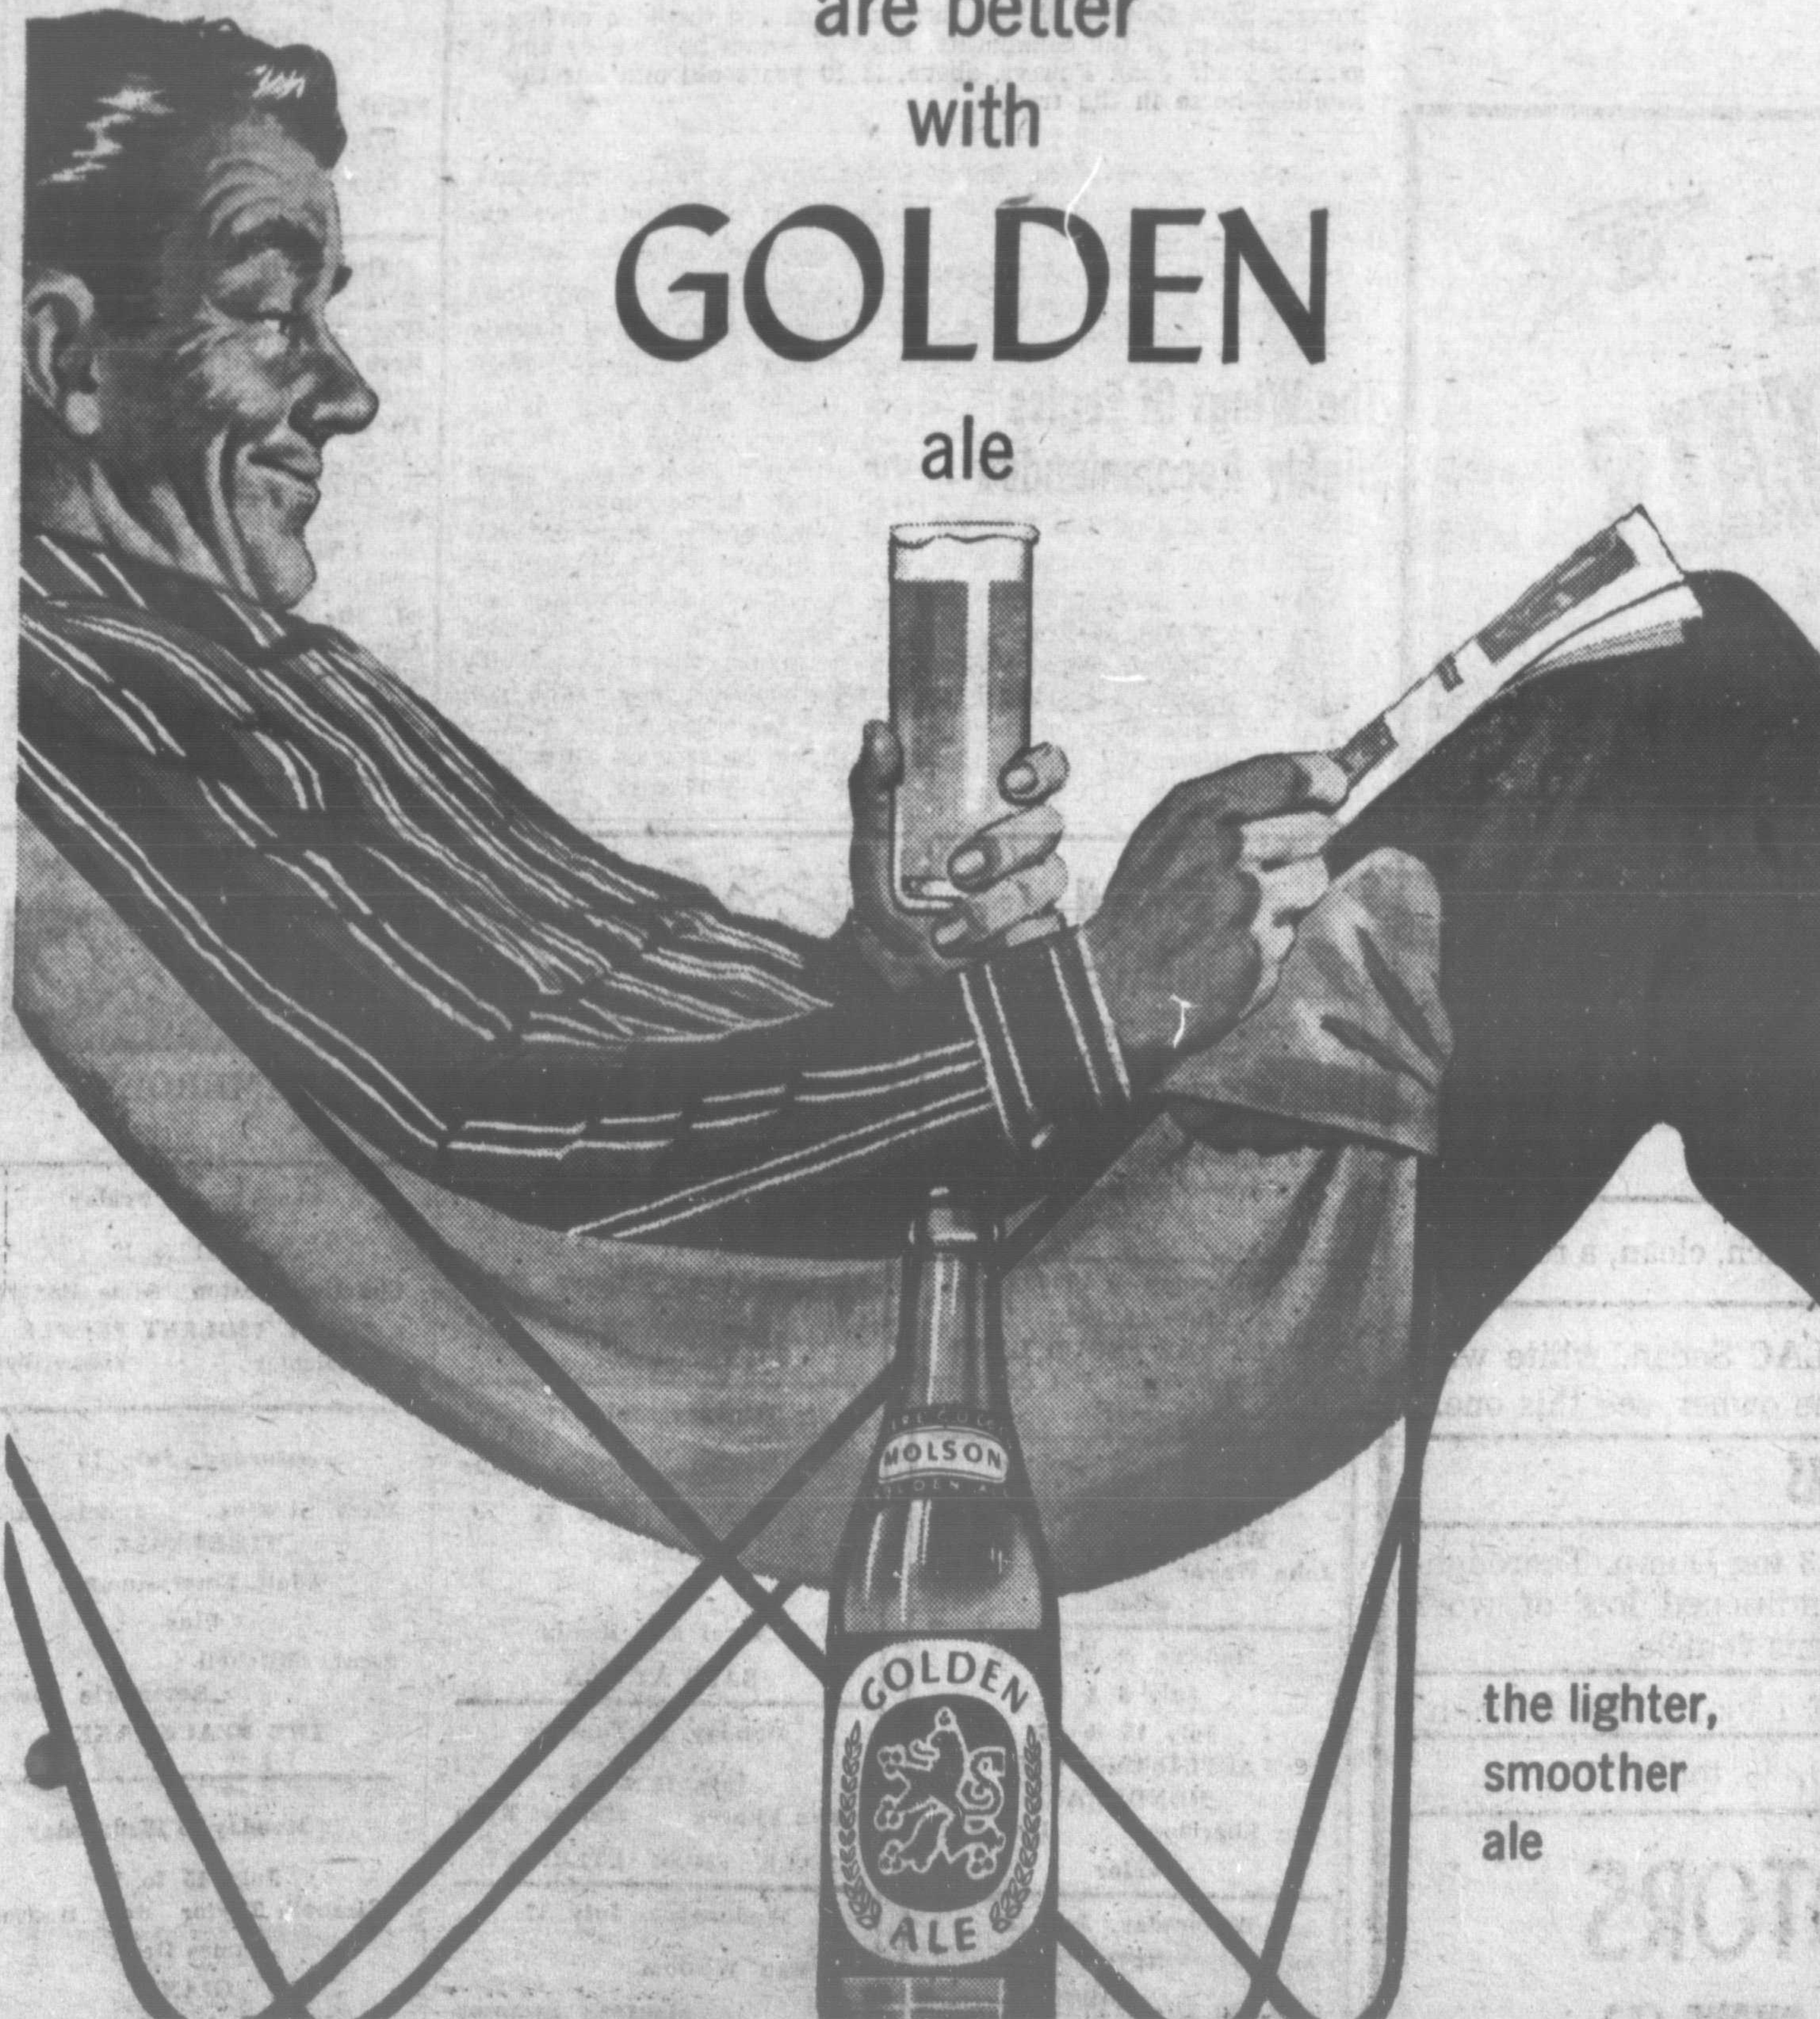

Coulouge Waters Down

Fort Coulouge—The high water situation of the Ottawa River in our local area from Coulouge Lake, Mellons Boom, to La Passe is eased off.

The high level reached its peak Saturday night and the half expected weekend rise did not materialize. There has been a steady drop in the level of water since Sunday and level is two ft. lower at this writing) than it was.

At Springford, Ont., there's a troop of Boy Scouts which is probably unique in the world. The troop is mounted, as shown top, and most of the boys look after their own horses on the farms of their fathers. The troop has 30 Boy Scouts and 16 horses. Scott Carroll, district farmer, promoted the idea among other farmers of the community, most of whom had horses and grazing land. John Powers, above, is 10 years old and has the smallest horse in the troop.

The Wings Of Eagles Highly Recommended

The Wings of Eagles, a top 1957 MGM production, starring John Wayne, Dan Dailey, Maureen O'Hara and a host of other stars, showing at Bryson Theatre Saturday and Sunday, July 13 and 14. This is the true story of a very colorful character, Commander 'Spig' Wead one of the United States Navy's great modern heroes. Slapstick in parts but a most exciting hilarious action-packed adventure film about the early days of aviation, with more comedy than drama in it. Excellent characterization plus John Ford's expert direction makes it a film that will attract a great deal of attention. John Wayne playing Wead with considerable skill and sincerity; Maureen O'Hara portraying his wife with convincing ability, however the most outstanding portrayal is that of Dan Dailey as Wead's closest friend. This picture is Academy Award stature and should be seen by all patrons of the Bryson Theatre.

IN MEMORIAM

Hudson—In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Lynden, who was drowned July 10, 1955. We little knew when we woke that morn.

The sorrow the day would bring, For the call was sudden, the shock severe. To part with the one we loved so dear.

—Sadly missed

Daddy, Mom, Brothers & Sisters

Young—In sad loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Richard Young who passed away July 11th, 1949.

Since you've gone first and we remain To walk the road alone.

We live in memory's garden dear, With happy days we have known, We hear your voice, we see your smile.

Though blindly we may grope The memory of your helping hand, Still buoys us on with hope.

We've known so much of happiness We've had our sup of joy, And memory is one gift of God That death cannot destroy.

Since you've gone first and we remain, one thing we'd have you do;

Walk slowly down the path of death, for soon we'll follow you We want to know each step you take

That we may walk the same. For someday down that lonely road,

You'll hear us call your name. —Elizabeth and Ida, and Grandchildren

My Window on The World

BY THE REV. E. REX TAYLOR

It's a quiet, busy little place throughout the week with its people living useful lives. There are quite a few old folk there who have played their part throughout life and played it well. They deserve a quiet retirement but even in their "retirement" they keep themselves very busy helping people. And the young folk work hard, too. The atmosphere of the place is one of quiet happiness and purposeful living. These are the sort of folk who are the salt of the earth and the sort of citizens which have added no mean contribution to the present prosperity or our fine dominion. And what can be said of this delightful place within a few miles of Shawville can be said of the many places like it across the nation.

Comes the weekend and all this vanishes. The local dance hall intrudes its cacophony upon those homes which are located within ear shot. And it's some shot, too.

Now these people are not kill-joys. They wouldn't mind this so much if that was all there was to it. They'd take the view that it's only for a few hours and the young folk are entitled to enjoy themselves. Live and let live.

But that is emphatically not all that there is to it. The folk who patronize such places are invariably not from these villages and townships. They come from miles around. And they drink. And they swear. And they tell blue jokes. And they fight. And they sit in parked cars all night. And they go screaming through these quiet little villages way after midnight, in their cars.

The whole village can't help hearing them doing all these things.

I'm the first to admit that one man's meat is another man's poison. But I'm hanged if because of that the other man has any right at all to intrude his poison upon me. If certain folk want to "enjoy" themselves along certain lines that's fine. But nowhere have they any right to do so at the expense of anyone else.

I'm not at all sure appeals to these people will have any effect but if they will, please let them regard this as a fair minded appeal for decent behaviour. My experience has been that excessive drinking and logic are diametrically opposed. Because of this, therefore, the law ought to be enforced, where defective corrected and where weak strengthened. Public opinion is a mighty thing and it gets on the move. It seems that the time has come to let the brakes off and shift into gear.

McCagg - Kilgour Wedding

Rev. H. G. Lester officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Edgar Hodgins presided at the organ. During the signing of the register, Stewart Wylie of North Tonawanda, N.Y. sang "O Perfect Love".

Mr. Boyd McCagg, brother of the groom was Best Man.

Money Available For Budding Journalists

Less than a month remains for high school graduates to enter the $5,000 weekly newspaper contest to prepare at Ryerson Institute of Technology, in Toronto, for a publishing career.

Ten bursaries of $500 each are being offered graduates to launch them on a training program to prepare for a role in the weekly press. Contestants will write a 1,500 word essay on The Weekly Newspaper. Applications for the contest have been received from British Columbia to Newfoundland.

Students will register in Printing Management, a course designed to teach students the management of the printing industry.

At the request of weekly newspaper publishers, Ryerson has agreed to enrich this management course with such journalism subjects as reporting and feature writing, copy editing and page layouts, editorial page work, press photography and newspaper law. With such preparation, graduates should fit into the future management of the weekly press.

Research Increases Use Of Forest Products

There's a pretentious word popular today in forestry circles. The word is "utilization" and to foresters it means using as much as possible of every tree that's cut down.

About one third of each tree cut for the Canadian sawmill industry ends up in the form of lumber. Much of the left over material is not waste: it has uses and to an increasing degree the forest industry is developing techniques that will convert this residue into useful products. But economic obstacles stand in the way of disposing of much of this material. Some products that could be made from the wastes of the forest industry have no markets and others cannot be processed profitably.

Only research can show the Canadian forestry industry how it can tap this vast resource of unused wood to turn a new flow of product into the Canadian economy and make thrifty use of the forests. A large part of this research into finding uses for the unused half of each tree is being carried out by the Forest Products Laboratories of Canada, a division of the Forestry Branch, Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources.

The research into utilization by the Forest Products Laboratories ranges widely, touching on every phase of the forest industries except paper making. Research officers try to find uses for types and size of tree that are being rejected as unsuitable for lumbermen. They make studies of the amount of waste and where it occurs in lumbering and milling operations and seek methods to reduce this waste. They make scientific investigations of what can be done industrially and commercially to convert waste into products that can be used by Canadians.

Little has been achieved yet in finding ways of salvaging the 19 percent of each tree that is left in the forests as slash after lumbering. The three main forms of left over material used in Canada are pulp screenings, sawmilling residues, and the pieces of wood left over from the manufacture of plywood and veneer. The use of materials left over after sawing has increased spectacularly in recent years, particularly in British Columbia.

Sawdust, shavings, and bark left at the sawmill are used largely for industrial fuel but since the end of the Second Great War a new outlet for sawmill waste has opened up in the pulp and paper industry. Salvaged sawmill material is now providing 90 percent of B. C.'s sulphate pulp production. In Eastern Canada, there has not been as great a development in this direction but increasing use is being made of sawmill waste in pulp production; in 1957, an estimated 100,000 cords of sawmill material will be converted to pulp chips.

Utilization in eastern Canada gained impetus from the discovery that insulation board, which had been made mainly of groundwood pulp before the Second Great War, could be made of residual material. Material that was once discarded, destroyed, or burned as fuel is now providing 42 percent of the raw material for wallboard manufacture.

To help industry find ways of using its waste forest materials, the Forest Products Laboratories at Ottawa and Vancouver, are working on numerous research projects. A full scale sawmill at Ottawa enables milling processes to be studied and tests made on equipment that will reduce the volume of water. The research into barking, chipping, and handling sawmill waste to provide pulpwood, which already has paid such large dividends, is being continued. In the laboratories, scientists are trying to find ways to use bacteria to transform wood waste into useful products, to make sawdust a raw product for the pulp and paper industry and

Army Mine Detector Solves Long-Standing Winnipeg Mystery

The high-pitched whistle of a mine detector has solved a mystery which has deepened each year since 1883—the location of the unmarked cornerstone of Holy Trinity Church at Smith Street and Graham Avenue in Winnipeg.

Sgt. Major Bill Ross, a mine detection expert with the Royal Canadian Engineers, located the unmarked cornerstone after 30 minutes of probing the surface of the outer walls of the church on the north side of Graham Avenue.

The hollow stone, which contains a metal box in which were placed mementos of 1883, was located at the base of the right hand column of the belfry entrance on the north side of Graham Ave.

Sgt. Major Ross was called in as a last resort to modern science by the Men's Club of Holy Trinity Church. For the past two years, the Men's Club has been combing through provincial archives, digging up old pictures, and tracking down facts on the architectural structures of the church trying to locate the position of the cornerstone.

Through searches of files, and particularly through a photo of the cornerstone-laying ceremonies gleaned from the Manitoba Archives, the Men's Club ascertained that the stone was on the south side of the building.

Sgt. Major Ross took it from there with his mine detector. For the first 20 minutes, he had trouble with metal staples driven into the spaces between the stones but on probing the base of the belfry entrance wall, the signals left no doubt that this was the location of the stone.

The mine detector will pick up signals of metal through 18 inches of stone, depending on the size of the metal object within.

Contained in the metal box within the stone are: copies of the daily and weekly Winnipeg newspapers of 13 August, 1883; copies of the Easter report of the church from 1875 to 1883; copies of the proceedings of the preceding (1883) Diocesan Synod; copies of the BNA, Hudson's Bay, and Manitoba Acts; copies of the original and 1883 boundaries of the Holy Trinity Parish; Canadian coins—five-cent to fifty-cent pieces, 25-cent script, and $1 and $2 Dominion notes. Samples of Manitoba wheat, barley, oats and flaxseed all sealed in bottles, are also in the metal container.

Men's Club president Tom Sumner and Executive John Pegg beamed as Sgt. Major Bell's assistant, S/Sgt J Williams, chalked out the location of the metal box within the stone directed by the rise and fall in the pitch of the mine detector; for the discovery has cleared up a source of frustration and embarrassment to church officials.

Holy Trinity is visited by hundreds of tourists each summer and when church officials were asked "Where is the cornerstone?" they could only answer helplessly, "We don't know."

People who are unfortunate enough to live in damp houses, particularly near undrained land, are apt to think that there is no help for them save in removal. They are mistaken. Successful experiments have shown that it is quite possible to materially improve the atmosphere in such neighborhoods in a very simple manner—by the planting of the laurel and the sun flower. The laurel gives off an abundance of ozone, whilst the "soulful-eyed" sun flower is potent in destroying the malarial condition. These two, if planted on the most restricted scale in a garden close to the house, will be found to speedily increase the dryness and salubrity of the atmosphere, and rheumatism, if it does not entirely become

Two prisoners escaped from the County Jail at Campbell's Bay about 2 o'clock on Friday afternoon July 1. Several stories of how the escape was staged are in circulation but no official statement has been issued. Both prisoners were committed to stand trial at the June assizes and were apparently disappointed when the Court of King's Bench was adjourned to next year. Shortly after the prisoners escaped Sheriff J. B. Sloan was notified and he sent out a general alarm throughout the district. When the two prisoners escaped they were wearing the jail uniform, a grey shirt and khaki trousers.

Royal Mail By Buckboard Part 3

By the late Mrs. W. J. Murray: Because of space considerations the history of Bristol, a part of which appears below was split into six parts to be published in turn over a six week period. The first two of these appeared in The Equity some months ago. The remainder had to be shelved until such time as more space was available. It is now our plan to run the remaining parts during the coming three weeks. (Ed.)

In 1835 Mr. William King and his nephew and niece, James and Margaret Laird, came to Bristol from Scotland. Mr. King established his home near the first congregation, beside a creek known as Silver Creek, and here he built the first grist mill in Bristol. It was operated by water power and the wheat was ground by means of huge stones which were turned by the water pressure. In those days the bread was not as white as it is today because of all the bran that was left in the flour.

The first Post Office was in Mr. King's house. The mail came from Aymer up to Wyman, a distance of about forty miles; then on to Mr. King's an additional twelve miles; from there to Mr. Heath's, ten miles farther on; and then on to Portage du Fort. It crossed the river there and went to Forester's village and Isabell Keony, Esther Skuce and Jarj Millar of Ottawa are occupying Mr. J. M. Argue's cottage at Green Lake.

Mr. Lionel Powles of Montreal has been visiting his brother Dr. Powles at Green Lake.

Miss Mary Proudfoot and Miss Viola Mulligan were guests at Green Lake over the weekend.

The mail was carried in this way until January 3, 1886, when the first train was operated over the line through Bristol. It ran between the fifth and sixth concessions and was called the Pontiac and Pacific Junction Railway, (P.P.J.) now known as the Waltham Branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway from Ottawa to Waltham in Pontiac. Mail carriers deliver the mail from the various stations to different post offices and along mail routes throughout the township.

There were no envelopes used on the first letters. The letters were written on one side and the paper was folded. Postage stamps were first used in 1851.

Later on, the Canadian National Railway main line was built and it parallels the second concession in crossing the townships. The first train operated over this line on November 15, 1913.
