SUSPENSE OF A CITY. Issue Shrouded in Mystery.

JAPANESE OPERATING IN OVERWHELMING NUMBERS.

St. Petersburg, June 29, 1.30 p.m.—The whole city is awaiting with breathless interest news from the opposing armies in southern Manchuria, which may be grappled in the decisive battle of the campaign. But, those fully appreciating the almost impassable country through which the Japanese columns are advancing, and the difficulty of moving large numbers of troops into position, hardly expect the battle to begin in earnest inside of several days, although admitting that fighting between the advance divisions may now be in progress.

The papers, with the exception of the "Novoye Vremya," are unanimously of the opinion that a general battle is now certain. The former is silent on the subject, which may be a sign of the uncertainty of the situation. The "Novoye Vremya" says: "Not the exact position of our forces cannot state what Kuropatkin intends to do. It is possible he may meet the enemy in a decisive engagement of all arms, in which event, while engaged upon him, he may retire northward to meet his reinforcements."

CONFIDENCE ASSERTED.
The tone in both public and official circles has greatly improved. The report that the Port Arthur squadron had been put to sea and that no ship had been seen since, seems to have dispelled the despondency, and development on land and sea are looked for with increased cheerfulness.

There is no truth in the report that a portion of the second Pacific squadron will sail from Cronstadt to-day for the Far East, as stated in the "Daily Telegraph."

PORT ARTHUR.
NIGHT EXITS BELIEVED IMPOSSIBLE.
London, June 29.—The "Times" Tokyo correspondent says that a consultation between the members of the cabinet and the principal political parties will probably lead to the formation of a large council comprising representatives of all important bodies, thus completely obviating parliamentary disputes at the next session of the Diet.

It is believed in Tokyo, the correspondent says, that exit from Port Arthur is so difficult that it is impossible for the Russian squadron to emerge during the night and that therefore the only chance for the escape of the squadron was to come out during the day and to begin its flight in the night time.

It is not imagined in Tokyo, the correspondent adds, that the Russians had any intention of fighting when they made their last sortie, and he adds that all accounts indicate that the Russians at Port Arthur intend to make a resistance stand at Tsuchintze, where the preparations resemble those at Nanshan Hill.

THAT RUSSIAN WRECK.
Chefoo, June 29.—2 p.m.—Chinese arrivals from Port Arthur report a large vessel, presumably a Russian vessel, on the rocks, ten miles south-east of Liao tian shan promontory. Three funnels and two masts are above water.

The Chinese also state that after the Japanese fleet moved away from the entrance to Port Arthur on June 24, the Russian fleet again emerged, remaining out a short time.

Fighting is reported to be continuous on land and from the sea. The weather has been stormy since Monday and extreme heat is reported from Manchuria.

THREE MILES FROM PORT ARTHUR.
Tokio, June 29.—3.30 p.m.—It is unofficially reported that the Chik was shan, Chit an shan and So cho shan forts south-east of and part of the Port Arthur defenses, were captured on Sunday after an all-day fight, beginning with an artillery duel. So cho shan, it is added, was first captured and the other forts fell soon afterwards. The Russians retreated west, leaving forty dead or wounded. The composition of the Japanese force has not been ascertained, beyond the fact that it is said to have consisted of all branches of the service. The Japanese lost three officers and a hundred men killed or wounded, and captured two guns and a quantity of ammunition. The officials here do not confirm the report.

BATTLESHIP RAMMED.
St. Petersburg, June 29.—6.27 p.m.—A report has just reached the Associated Press correspondent that the Russian iron-clad "Narva" rammed the Russian battleship "Navarin" at Cronstadt, this afternoon. The circumstances and the extent of the damage have not yet been ascertained.

JAPANESE LEADER TO SAIL.
Tokio, June 29, 6 p.m.—Marquis Yamagata, the commander-in-chief of the Japanese forces, and Lieutenant-General Kodama, his chief of staff, start for the front on July 6. Their exact destination is withheld.

[Marquis Yamagata was the commander-in-chief in the Japan-Chinese war.]

MISSIONARIES PERMITTED FOR JAPANESE.
Toronto, June 29.—The secretary of the Foreign Missions Committee of the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada has received from the Rev. H. J. Hamilton, Canadian missionary at Nagoya, Japan, tidings that the Japanese Government has given permission for twelve Christian chaplains, six English and American and six Japanese, to go with the armies to Manchuria. These are to be given officers' rank, free transportation and rations. The Rev. W. P. Buncombe, of the Church Missionary Society, has been chosen as one of the chaplains.

CHURCH GOES UP IN SMOKE.
Ottawa, June 29.—The Roman Catholic church in Aylmer was destroyed this morning by fire. The structure was comparatively new and cost forty thousand dollars. The Presbytery alongside was also swept with a loss of five thousand dollars.

that the total expenditure for the current fiscal year will total $54,500,000, which will leave a surplus of $18,500,000.

Among the votes are $150,000 more for immigration, $45,000 more for exhibitions, $150,000 more for the annual drill for musketry, clothing and supplies. The items are for the most part small and the desire of the government is to have them put through, if possible, this week so that they may receive the viceregal assent before the year runs out.

CANADIAN MILITIA.
TOPIC OF DISCUSSION AT ROCK-LIFFE CAMP LUNCHEON YESTERDAY.
Ottawa, June 29.—Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, entertained the militia officers in camp at Rockliffe to a delightful luncheon yesterday. Among the guests were Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the leader of the Opposition, several Senators and members of parliament. The politicians and the military men drank one another's health. The Premier, in responding to the toast of Canada, spoke in terms of warm appreciation of the unselfish patriotism and devotion of the men composing the Canadian volunteer force, and said that a great deal was yet to be done for them.

For my part, said the Premier, I believe there is a good deal yet to be done for the militia of Canada. If I had my own way, and in this matter I express only my personal wish, there would be a corps of volunteers in every town, in every village, in every hamlet. The boy should learn early how to shoot. The art of war is always changing, and we shall always need men who are ready and courageous to face any emergency. How that emergency is to be faced is a problem that always changes. The modern rifle is one of the most complicated and most delicate of instruments. Unfortunately there are not enough of our people who know how to use the rifle, and understand its delicate mechanism. We should develop this knowledge as much as we can, and it is one of the ideas to which my friend, Sir Frederick Borden, is giving constant attention.

Gentlemen, although we have a militia force we may never have a war. The only people with whom we can have a war is a race of the same kind and kin as our Mother Country, and I would look upon war between Great Britain and the United States as almost as great a crime as the civil war which convulsed the United States nearly forty years ago.

The two nations are too far advanced in civilization, they are too much advanced in all that goes to make manhood what it should be to ever foresee the day that such a contingency can arise. But whilst we hope that it shall never take place, we must always be prepared, not only against war with our neighbors, but against war with anybody, and we must be ready to defend our homes and country whenever King and country require our services.

The Premier's remarks were greeted with loud applause.

MR. BORDEN.
The leader of the Opposition seconded all that the Premier had said of the militia, and said that his sentiments would be applauded everywhere. In the course of his remarks he said that in this country we do want an army of citizen soldiery capable of protecting our soil whenever occasion demands.

THE MINISTER OF MILITIA.
Sir Frederick Borden referred with pleasure to the long and gallant record of the Canadian militia extending back 250 years. There was not money enough available to do all he would like to do for the force, but even more important than the defenses of the country was the development of our great national resources, and he hoped militia men would be patient until the greater and more important requirements had been met.

In due time the money would be forthcoming to make the Canadian militia a thoroughly good and effective fighting force.

SIR ADOLPHE CARON.
Sir Adolphe Caron, ex-Minister of Militia, in proposing the toast "Canada," said that the militia in this country was well looked after by the present minister. He was pleased to see Sir Wilfrid Laurier looking better to-day than he had for four or five years past.

The Premier thanked Sir Adolphe for his kindly words and acknowledged that his health was now good. He never knew that hard fighting was injurious to any man's health. His personal relations with Mr. Borden were pleasant, as they had been with the Conservative leaders of days gone by. He assured the militia that their services were duly appreciated by the country at large. Service in the volunteer force meant large sacrifice of time.

TWENTY-TWO LIVES LOST.
RUSSIAN TORPEDO BOAT GOES DOWN AT THE BALTIC WORKS AS A RESULT OF NEGLIGENCE.
St. Petersburg, June 29.—Twenty-two sailors were drowned at the Baltic works this morning during experiments with the torpedo boat "Dolfin," which had been converted into a submarine boat.

Four officers and thirty men were on board when the signal was given to submerge the boat without first properly closing the manhole. The result was that the vessel sank.

ORDERED TO PORT AU PRINCE.
Berlin, June 29.—The German gunboat "Panther," now at Newport News, has received orders by cable to sail for Port au Prince immediately. The sailing of the "Panther" for Port au Prince is due to the decision of Germany to insist on the punishment of the palace guards who recently threw stones at the German and French ministers when the latter were driving past the palace.

TARIFF CHANGES.

Minister of Finance Announces Some Alterations.

Ottawa, June 29.—In the House last evening the Minister of Finance announced a few alterations in the tariff resolutions which were laid before parliament in the budget speech early this month.

In the classification of metal plates and wire the Imperial Standard gauge is substituted for the Stubbs gauge at present in use.

In the 'dumping clause' it is provided that the Minister of Customs may by regulation exempt temporarily from the special duties goods of a class which the minister is satisfied are only made in Canada to a very small extent and are therefore not open to sale, therefore, on equal terms to all purchasers.

Strikes, for instance, might limit the Canadian production of an article and in that case it would be exempted from the special duty if imported.

In reference to the computation of duties on spirits in flasks, the clause is somewhat enlarged.

In the duties on coal oil a change is made in the phraseology, but no change in the duty, which is 2 1/2 cents per gallon on refined oil.

The budget tariff reduced the duty on window glass from Great Britain to 7 1/2 percent. The government having ascertained that the manufacture of window glass is a monopoly in Great Britain, proposes to reduce the duty on foreign glass from 20 percent to 15 percent.

The reduced duty of ten percent on silk fabrics for the manufacture of men's neckwear is extended to apply to silk for the manufacture of all neckties, men's and women's.

The government has found that it made a mistake in placing artificial teeth on the free list and has decided to postpone the operation of that item until April 1 next. Meantime, the duty will be ten percent. It was formerly 20 percent.

The reduced preferential duty of 15 percent on table ware of porcelain and china is restricted to 'white' clay ware.

The free importation of machinery for beet sugar factories is extended up to April next.

In the item of molasses, which is placed on the free list when imported from countries entitled to the British preference it is to be stipulated that it must be imported direct.

The only printing presses to be on the free list are 'rotary' printing presses.

It is provided that in the case of goods actually ordered before the date of the budget, if they be entered in Canada on or before the last day of August next, they will be admitted under the ad valorem duty. This will apply to woolen goods, large quantities of which were ordered from England before the duty was increased on June 7.

There was some criticism of the new duties. Mr. Armstrong, of East Lambton, pointed out that the removal of the duty on crude oil was wholly in the interest of the Ohio producer as against the Canadian, and Mr. Gairley, of Colchester, protested that Canada should have the same duties against American products as the United States charges on Canadian products.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Detailed reports are given to-day in the war despatches of the recent Japanese victories, two on Sunday last and one on Monday. The Russians retreated from the Ta pass before 30,000 Japanese, after a fierce fight, the Japanese occupying three different positions with artillery as the Russians retired.

The Japanese had another victory in the Mo tien pass on the main road from Feng huan cheng to Liao yang. On Monday the new Japanese army, which landed a month ago at Ta ku shan, met the Russians on the road between Siu yen and Hai cheng and drove them back fourteen miles into the village of Shi mu cheng, where another fight is momentarily expected.

A Russian torpedo boat has been sunk at her dock on the Baltic, through carelessness, and twenty-two lives lost.

Chinese arrivals at Chefoo report a large vessel, presumably a Russian, on the rocks off the Liao ti shan promontory.

Gen. MacDonald began operations yesterday for the capture of Jong, by a wide movement down the valley to the west, and cleared the Tibetans from each position on the Shigatse road.

The 'St. James's Gazette' in speaking of the Dundonald incident, says the value of sending Imperial representatives to take a hand in colonial affairs is hardly questionable, but those representatives must be chosen on a different plan, trained on a different system, and imbued with new ideas if their work is not to hamper the great work of Imperial Federation.

The Minister of Finance announces some tariff changes and supplementary estimates of nearly two million.

The trustees of the Rhodes scholarships cable the authorities of McGill that Mr. J. G. Archibald and Mr. H. J. Rose are so nearly equal that a scholarship has been awarded to each.

The Canadian Society of Civil Engineers has petitioned parliament for the deportation of several heads of departments of the C. P. R.

The French Medical Congress has opened its convention in Laval University.

DUNDONALD INCIDENT.
THE 'ST. JAMES'S GAZETTE' SOUNDS A WARNING.
(Canadian Associated Press.)
London, June 29.—In a leader, headed, 'The grove and the way out of it,' in reference to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's reply to Mr. R. L. Borden in connection with the Dundonald incident, the 'St. James's Gazette' says it is impossible to read the passionate outburst and reflect upon the lamentable discussion which preceded it without taking a broader and a larger view of colonial questions than the comfortable Briton, who knows the colonies exist, and is satisfied with his knowledge, is accustomed to do. It is time, and obviously time, for us to review the position of the colonies and the relations between us and them. If we do not make an effort now to understand them better, we shall find that it is too late, and it is an undoubted fact that they will find it too late also, and that their loss may be greater than our own. It would be poor consolation if we have as a nation to go to school, to which Mr. Chamberlain points when he urges us to learn to think imperially, and if we refuse to be taught we shall find that 'Please, I ain't no scholar' will not be accepted as an excuse for ignorance. The value of sending Imperial representatives to take a hand in colonial affairs is hardly questionable, but these representatives must be chosen on a different plan, trained on a different system, and imbued with new ideas if their work is to further and not to hamper the great work of Imperial Federation.

DEATH OF A QUEBEC LADY.

Quebec, June 28.—Her many friends will regret to hear of the death of Mrs. Farquharson Smith, of this city, which took place at Shomgrove, Worcester, England, on Sunday. The deceased lady, who was prominent in Quebec society, was twice married, her first husband being the late Mr. David Gilmour, of the firm of Allan Gilmour & Co., which formerly carried on an extensive shipping and timber business in this city. Some years after the death of Mr. Gilmour, she married Mr. Farquharson Smith, manager of the Bank of British North America in Quebec for several years. She was connected with several local charities, and took a deep interest in their welfare. She had had four children, one son and three daughters. Her son was the late Mr. Jack Gilmour, of this city; her daughters are Mrs. Walter Chamberlain and Mrs. Challenor Smith, of England, and Lady Gilmour, of Scotland.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

A BEAUTIFUL HAND.

The artistic ideal of a beautiful hand requires that, besides a slightly coloring, it shall give the impression of strength, skill and grace. The hand is meant for use, and it cannot be really beautiful unless it conveys also a suggestion that it can be used. The soft, helpless hand of a baby is not attractive in a grown woman.

Plainly, the hand must be used actively to make it strong and graceful. At the same time one naturally wants to keep it from being stained and stiffened in the way that is often incidental to the doing of manual work, say, for instance, housework. Undoubtedly housework is at once the most useful and healthful of feminine employments, yet it is hard on the hands if one does not take care of them.

It is not impossible to have pretty hands in connection with performing manual labor or participating in strenuous outdoor amusements. First of all, of course, keep the hands as clean as possible. You cannot, however, be running to wash them every half minute if, for instance, you are digging in flower beds. Constant washing hurts the skin of the hands. But the use of a good, stiff scrubbing brush is of great value for the fingers. There are now mild scouring soaps made especially for the hands with just enough "grit" in them to rub off the stained and rough cuticle. The scouring soap and scrubbing brush applied with vigor will whiten the fingers astonishingly.

There is a lotion especially valuable for taking off tan and for softening the hands. This is simply equal parts of lemon juice and glycerine. Strain the lemon juice through a thin cloth to remove all pulp. Keep this simple preparation on your toilet stand. If it is applied plentifully before going to bed and a pair of loose gloves worn upon the hands at night this will go far to keep the hands smooth and soft.

Now for the nails. Besides the finger brush, a few simple implements are useful for the nails. One of these is a pair of French nail clippers. Another is a nail file. The velvet file is now the approved one. A bit of emery board will remove all rough or loose skin from around the nails after they have been trimmed symmetrically with the clipper.

A tiny wooden stick slightly flattened at the end is considered best for removing from under the nails whatever dirt the scrubbing brush has left. If you dip the stick into lemon juice before applying it this will bleach away any stain from under the nails. Whenever you wipe your hands push gently back with the towel the flesh from around the white "half moons" at the base of the nails so these will show.

TRAVELLING COATS.

It is safe to say that one woman out of every four one sees on the train wears a travelling coat of some kind. The modern travelling coat is the grown-up daughter of the linen duster, and is not only a much handsomer garment, but more durable. The linen duster became a crumpled rag after a few hours, while the new coats are as fresh at the end of the journey as at the beginning. One of the advantages of wearing them is that a very informal and comfortable gown may be worn underneath. Taffeta is perhaps the most popular fabric, with pongee, in natural tones, black and colors, mohair, cravenette, and waterproof silk as other favorites. The waterproof silk in shades of navy blue, claret and grey is often trimmed with pipings of white or gay plaid silk, and are most practical and serviceable garments. They are worn for raincoats, motor wraps and evening coats, as well as for travelling. Following the fashions in spreading skirts, all the new dust and travelling coats are voluminous in build. They flare at the hem and have roomy sleeves, usually confined in an easy wrist-band.

A very pretty travelling coat of natural pongee has a yoke across the back piped with bright red. The fullness is confined at the waist by a buttoned strap, this, too, showing the edge of red. The front of the coat, which falls to the ankles, is loose and buttons well on the left side. The turndown collar, button flap, and gauntlet cuffs are piped with red.

The coats are often made three-quarters length. One of black taffeta had pipings of bright plaid in which green was the dominant color. This had a shawl yoke with points in the front and back and epaulet points on the shoulders. The tartan pipings appeared on all the folds, and the large buttons and slashed pockets were also piped with the color. A half-belt held the fullness in the back.

MISS PERRY RETURNS.
CANADIAN TEACHER WHO WENT TO SOUTH AFRICA ARRIVES ON THE "TUNISIAN."

Miss Isabel Perry, one of a party of school teachers who volunteered two years ago to go to South Africa, arrived on the "Tunisian" on Saturday.

Miss Perry went as a teacher, but she was sensible that her duty extended far beyond even that great sphere; that the attitude of the rising generation of Boers, with their inherited and inveterate hostility toward everything British, was in her hands, and that it was to be a fight against the influence of their environment and traditions. She went first into a hotbed of the irreconcilables—a concentration camp—at Kubus, where she loyally stuck to her duties. She was transferred after a while to Ladybrand, a neighborhood of extreme beauty. There she found that as the little children learned English, and consequently came to know their teacher better, their morose and obstinate hostility, which underwent a complete change, and, although, Miss Perry declares, their Dutch pastors, in an indirect way, taught them to maintain the old hatred, it was palpable the natural affections of the children could not resist the appeal of honesty and sympathy.

They were taught the Dutch language for five hours a week and the Scriptures in that language. During her stay Miss Perry visited nearly all the great mining camps and commercial centres, and was particularly struck with Pretoria.

The school curriculum, Miss Perry says, follows along similar lines to that in vogue here, though lessons begin at 7 a.m., and leave off at 1 p.m., work during the rest of the day being either impossible or extremely disagreeable owing to the heat. There is no protracted mid-summer holidays, the English system of holidays being largely followed. Miss Perry came home via Great Britain, and while there visited all the greater cities.

CHEAP EXCURSIONS.

The C. P. R. has arranged for a series of cheap excursions to the North West. These are intended for the people of eastern Canada, though all can take advantage of them. To-day the first excursion train left the Windsor street station. It was composed of seven coaches. Those who availed themselves of the cheap rates were farmers and laborers drawn from the lower provinces and Quebec. Sandwiched between these were a lot of British immigrants.

HORSE RANG ALARM.

RUNAWAY ANIMAL KNOCKED BOX OFF THE POST.

A sequence of small fires and false alarms kept the city fire brigade on the qui vive throughout yesterday and this morning.

The western division responded at 7:20 this morning to a false alarm from Basin street, which was caused by a runaway horse knocking the box off the post to which it was attached.

At 7:30 p.m., yesterday, No. 14 station was called out and found a fire burning in a shed at the back of 530 St. Dominique street. This had been started by children playing with matches, which fired a quantity of shavings.

At 11:10 o'clock last night a gas explosion at the house of Mr. Wenisch, 344 Cadieux street, resulted in an outbreak of fire which did slight damage to the furniture. No. 6 station attended.

At 12:20 o'clock this morning No. 1 responded to an alarm from 156 St. Lawrence street, occupied by H. Loun, to find a box of rubbish on fire in the yard.

A false alarm at 3:30 this morning took the Central District to the corner of Dorchester and St. Urban streets.

GERMANY AND AMERICA

AN IMPORTANT MEMORIAL ON CUSTOMS REGULATIONS.

Berlin, June 29.—An important memorial on the American customs administration and German trade has been presented by the League of German Manufacturers to the Chancellor von Bulow, Baron von Richthofen, secretary of foreign affairs; Herr Moeller, Prussian minister of commerce and industry, and to Herr Bueuz, German consul-general at New York, who is now in Berlin.

The memorial is based upon material which the league collected in accordance with a resolution adopted in 1903, and was written by a manufacturer, Mr. Alfred Petschow, who was sent to the United States to collect information among importers. The league summarizes its views in the following five points: 'The league requests that American appraisers accept German manufacturers' declarations of value as evidence in all cases; that they be allowed to appeal direct to the Treasury Department; that the appraisers notify the importer of the penalty and duty imposed on him; that goods should not be detained in public stores so long as to prevent their acceptance by buyers, and that as the importance of the German market to American exporters is much greater than that of the American market to Germany, the response of the American Government to those demands will be determined by German action.'

Pains in Back Now All Gone.

After Twenty Years of Suffering from Kidney Disease and Dyspepsia, a perfect Cure is Made by

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

A medicine which will cure such a severe form of kidney disease as that described below can certainly be relied upon for any ordinary case of this kind.

It seems folly to experiment with untried remedies when there are thousands ready to testify that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have cured them of this painful malady.

John Geatin, an old resident of Montreal, Ont., states:—For twenty years I was badly afflicted with kidney troubles, indigestion and bladder ailments. During that time I was a sufferer and had to get up twelve times nightly to pass water. I tried different doctors and used all the medicines to no avail.

OUTFLANKED.

Russians Turned From Three Powerful Positions.

SENSATIONAL ROME NEWS.

St. Petersburg, June 28.—A report from its correspondent at Ta tche ki ao appears in the St. Petersburg 'Bourse Gazette,' recording that the Japanese drove the Russians from Dalin pass. It is impossible to decide which pass this refers. The correspondent says that Gen. Kuroki seems to have abandoned his plan of operations. Instead of making a flanking movement he made a direct attack on Dalin pass on Sunday, with twenty-seven battalions. The Russians held their own against 30,000 Japanese. Gen. Kuroki renewed the attack on Monday morning and, after a fierce battle the Russians retired to another position, three versts to the rear. They retreated in such good order that Gen. Kuroki did not dare to press the pursuit.

JAPANESE PURSUE RUSSIANS.
According to the Rome despatch, news has been received there from Chefoo, to the effect that the Russians defending Fenchongling pass were almost annihilated. The battlefield was thickly strewn with the dead. Nine guns and 275 prisoners were taken. The Japanese pursued the Russians nine miles, when their officers stopped the chase, fearing an ambush. It should be remembered that at war news from Rome is open to suspicion.

SUPERIOR ARTILLERY.
Hai cheng, June 28.—A heavy engagement is expected to-morrow near the village of Shi nyu cheng, fifteen miles south-south-east of Hai cheng, and an equal distance due east of the railway. The Japanese have now passed Dalin Hill, and are twenty miles south of the Russian position.

The total losses in the Dalin Hill fight are not yet known. Eighty wounded have arrived here, and on Sunday last a hospital train, with 200, passed, going to Liao yang. The fighting lasted the whole of June 26 and 27, and the Japanese successfully pushed the Russians from three positions, occupied them with artillery as the defenders retired.

Wounded Russians, recounting the two days' fight, say that the Japanese again demonstrated their reliance on their artillery, and that they were greatly superior, both in number of men and in guns. On the second day of the fighting they brought up a heavy battery, which silenced the lighter Russian guns and caused severe loss. The Japanese artillery practice, however, was inaccurate, and as is usual, they several times shelled empty positions, or shot over the Russian columns.

The fight started at dawn, ten miles south-west of Dalin Hill, the Russian rifle brigade held the position until noon, in the face of a heavy artillery fire, but the Russians were finally outflanked by infantry and cavalry, the Japanese actually getting a field battery in the rear of the Russian position. Then the brigade fell back.

The Dalin Hill fight continued from 4 o'clock until dark. The Japanese worked furiously all night long and replaced two batteries on the vacated Russian position.

The fighting was resumed at 3 a.m. on June 27. The Russians silenced the two Japanese batteries, but the Japanese brought up a train of big guns and silenced the lighter Russian artillery, which was again running out of ammunition, and the Russians were once more forced to retire. The Japanese cavalry and infantry, threatening to surround the Russian position, forced a general retreat.

The Russians carried off all their guns, and got revenge on the Japanese cavalry column, which was caught in close formation, and was shelled with terrific effect, being forced to scatter.

REPORTED RUSSIAN VICTORY.
St. Petersburg, June 28.—A report is current that a great battle is proceeding and that Gen. Kuropatkin is personally commanding the Russian forces engaged. Gen. Kuroki, it is said, detached several of his brigades and sent them northward in an attempt to descend on Hai cheng, but Gen. Keller has driven Gen. Kuroki's rear to the sea south of Feng huang cheng, with great loss on both sides. It is also reported that there has been a battle at Tomu cheng, in which the Russians were victorious.

JAPANESE STRENGTH.
St. Petersburg, June 28.—The Associated Press is informed on good authority that General Kuropatkin has decided to withdraw northward. This move gives the Russians the advantage of being nearer their base of supplies, and placing the Japanese at the disadvantage of having longer lines of communication. It is pointed out that Kuropatkin no longer prevents a junction of the enemy's forces by remaining at Ta tche kiao, as he might thereby imperil the safety of his own troops, as the desperate character of the fighting at Ta pass and Fen shul pass on June 27, shows the Japanese are in strong force uncomfortably near the Russian base.

EVENTUAL SUCCESS.
London, June 28.—The 'Central News' has received a despatch giving an account of the fighting to which Kuropatkin refers in his telegram to St. Petersburg. It states that the Japanese occupied the Mo tien ling and Fen chun ling passes, and made a frontal attack and flank attacks on both sides of the Ta ling pass. Three Japanese attacks were repulsed, but eventually the Russians retreated.

TOPOGRAPHICAL VAGARIES.
London, June 28.—A p.m.—The despatch from Gen. Kuropatkin and one received by the Japanese legation comprise all that is known of the occupation of the Manchurian passes by the Japanese. It is regarded as doubtful indeed whether the legation's despatch refers to the same operation mentioned by Gen. Kuropatkin.

Owing to the inadequate available maps and the vagaries in the spelling of the names of the places, there is a great diversity of opinion regarding the position of the passes. Mo tien ling pass is too well known for any mistake to be made, but Ta ling, Ta lin ling or Ta tien ling and Fen chun ling cannot be located positively pending more detailed information. One critic places Ta ling pass between Siu yen and Hai cheng. Another places it north-west of Feng huang cheng and due south of Mo tien ling, while a third identifies it with a better known pass about thirty miles due east of Liao yang. Fen chun ling pass is alternately located as in the legation despatch or immediately above Baima tai, 45 miles north of Feng huang cheng.

Until these topographical differences are harmonized it seems impossible to accurately estimate the value of the latest Japanese success or to accept the most sanguine pro-Japanese view that the invaders are now free to advance to Liao yang and Hai cheng, with the prospect of cutting off the Russian retreat northward. Astonishment is expressed at the comparative ease with which apparently the Japanese captured the Mo tien ling pass, which has been repeatedly reported to be strongly prepared for defence, and as only possible to be captured at the expense of an enormous number of lives.

In view of the supposed strength of this position and the lack of precision in the available news, there is even some doubt whether it is actually the pass which the Chinese held so stubbornly that the Japanese have captured.

DRAWING IN OUTPOSTS.
St. Petersburg, June 28.—1.50 a.m.—Though no further advice from the front had been received up to midnight, and though it appears now from General Kuropatkin's tactics that a heavy engagement may be deferred for some days, it is possible that the Japanese may rush matters, but it is not generally expected here that General Kuropatkin will give battle until he reaches a position of his own selection.

The country in which the armies are now coming into contact consists of a series of mountain chains running parallel with the railway alongside of which the Russians are falling back as the Japanese are advancing. Fen shui, Mo tien and Dalin are all passes which take their names from the mountains over which they run. General Kuroki, who has heretofore been south of the mountains, is advancing to the westward from Siu yen, and his columns must traverse the passes named before emerging into the more open country along the railway, approximately abreast of Ta toh kiao, Tai cheng and Liao yang. The Russian outposts and the Japanese advance lines are now in close touch at all these passes. The Russians, after harassing the Japanese advance from each of these positions, are falling back on General Kuropatkin's main body, supposed to be somewhere between Liao yang and Ta che kiao.

General Kuropatkin is now moving slowly northward along the railway, and wherever he makes his stand there will be precipitated what is expected to be the decisive battle of the campaign.

In the meantime, General Oku is advancing along the railway on the heels of the withdrawing Russians. He is backed by a powerful army.

FORCE MISSED BY UROKI.
Niu chwang, June 28.—It is stated that General Stakelberg is now at Ta tche ki, and that his rear guard is at Shan tsia tun. Natives report that a division of General Kuroki's army was fifteen miles south of Ta tche kiao on Monday evening. If this is true it would seem as if the severe rains had prevented the carrying out of the Japanese plan to attack the Russians there on Monday.

TO HARASS JAPANESE.
London, June 28.—A despatch to the 'Standard' from Tien tsin says that the Russian troops who were stationed south of Kai ping, have been withdrawn northward and posted at Lan chi cheng, Sul tang sun and Erstno kow. They are estimated to number about 30,000. They are apparently preparing to engage or harass the Japanese army which is reported to be advancing on Kai ping. The Japanese movements are being kept exceedingly close. It is impossible to ascertain whether a double or single column is advancing. The Russians in the outlying camps are being concentrated along the railway.

PORT ARTHUR.

CORDON DRAWING TIGHTER.

On June 2 the Japanese main army was within fourteen miles of Port Arthur. Their scouts were nearer. Natives of Manchuria have not been ordered out of Port Arthur.

THE NAVIES.

VLADIVOSTOK SQUADRON.

Tokio, June 28.—An unconfirmed report has been received from the Island of Hokkaido that ships resembling the Russian Vladivostok Squadron had appeared off there on June 27. Similar reports have been received from the places along the northern coast of Japan. The navy office does not give any credence to these reports.

VIOLENT CANNONADE HEARD.
Paris, June 28.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the 'Petit Parisien' says that a private telegram has been received there from Liao yang, stating that on Saturday and on Sunday a violent cannonade was heard south of Possiet Bay. It was believed that Admiral Skrydloff's squadron was engaged with the Japanese fleet.

RUMORS DISCREDITED.
London, June 28.—The 'Standard's' Tokyo correspondent says that the rumor of Russian warships being off the Island of Hokkaido proves to be unfounded. It has been ascertained that the ships seen were Japanese and British merchantmen.

CONTINUOUS BOMBARDMENT.
Chefoo, June 28.—The last Chinese to arrive here from Port Arthur state that the Japanese fleet incessantly bombarded the fortress from dawn to dark last Sunday.

POSSIBLE, NOT PROBABLE.
St. Petersburg, June 28.—A report that Rear-Admiral Witthoft (in command of the naval forces at Port Arthur) sailed off after giving battle to the Japanese receives credence. Witthoft is known to have full authority to leave Port Arthur if he deems it advisable, and he possibly preferred not to risk a return to the harbor, which again might be blocked, preventing his egress at a critical moment. Consequently Witthoft may now be steaming to join the Vladivostok cruisers.

BALTIC FLEET INSPECTED.
London, June 28.—The 'Telegraph' quotes a Russian naval officer at St. Petersburg as saying that part of the Baltic fleet will leave Cronstadt on June 28. The correspondent who sends the story does not verify it, but says he thinks it noteworthy that Admiral Avelan on Monday inspected the 'Bisoi-Velikiy,' 'Oslaby,' 'Kniaz,' 'Soveroff' and 'Taritchesky.'

THE 'SLOCUM' DISASTER.

CORONER'S JURY BRINGS IN A VERDICT.

New York, June 28.—The enquiry carried on by Coroner Berry and a jury into the 'General Slocum' disaster, was concluded yesterday, and after nearly four hours' deliberation a verdict was rendered in which the directors of the Knickerbocker Steamboat Company, the captain of the 'Slocum,' the commodore of the company's fleet, and others were held criminally responsible. Warrants for their arrest were issued. The mate of the 'Slocum,' according to the jury, acted in a cowardly manner, and the misconduct of Landberg, the steamboat inspector, it was recommended, should be brought to the attention of the federal authorities.

The charge in each case was manslaughter in the second degree. Bail was fixed by the coroner in amounts varying from one to five thousand dollars.

The mate, Edward Flanagan, who was under detention as a witness, was the first arraigned. He pleaded not guilty and his bail was fixed at first at five thousand dollars, but with the consent of the district attorney, it was reduced to one thousand. No bondsman being on hand, he was committed to jail.

Lundberg, the inspector, was next called upon to plead, and answered 'not guilty.' His bail was placed at a thousand dollars, and he found a bondsman. Bail was fixed at five thousand dollars each for the president, Mr. Barnaby, and the secretary, Mr. Atkinson, and bonds were furnished at once.

Captain Van Schaick is a prisoner in the Lebanon Hospital.

Ottawa, June 29.—The Postmaster-General secured at yesterday's sitting of the House the passage of the remaining items of his estimates. GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC.
The government bill giving the Railway Commission power to investigate all traffic arrangements between the Grand Trunk Pacific and other transportation companies and to apportion through rates between them was given its second reading and considered in committee. It will come up again in committee on Monday next. This bill is introduced to strengthen a couple of features of the transcontinental railway contract. It will prevent the Grand Trunk company, for instance, from taking more than a fair share of any through rate where shipments are carried over their line and part over the Grand Trunk Pacific as well. As the division of these rates might affect the earnings of the eastern division of the new transcontinental highway in which the country is vitally interested, the bill provides for an appeal from the Railway Commission's ruling to the Supreme Court.

The second clause of the bill is made applicable to all companies toward whose construction government aid has been granted. It provides that on all such roads a majority of the directors must be British subjects. This stipulation will not take effect until January 1, 1905, because on roads a majority of whose directors are not already British subjects.

Mr. Casgrain asked whether this same stipulation would apply to the managing executives of the Canadian railways.

The Minister of Justice answered the executives were always responsible in turn to their boards of directors.

Mr. Richard Blain, of Peel, advised that the bill should be changed so as to provide that not only a majority of but all directors of Canadian railways should be British subjects.

This feature of the bill will come up again.

SABBATH OBSERVANCE.
The Minister of Justice added a new clause to the bill declaring that all steam railways, electric railways and tramways of a purely local character, but operating under charters which declare them 'works for the general advantage of Canada,' shall nevertheless be held liable to provincial legislation regarding the observance of the Lord's Day, etc.

POST-OFFICE ESTIMATES.
When the Post-office estimates were taken up in supply early in the afternoon the Conservative whip produced a flaring notice advertising the merits of the Toronto 'Daily Star,' and claimed that this was to be found in post-offices all over Canada. Mr. Taylor declared that the Toronto 'Daily Star' is the personal organ of the Postmaster-General and accused Sir William of forcing the postmasters to act as its agents.

Sir William answered that he never either directly or indirectly asked any postmaster to act as agent for any newspaper, either Grit or Tory. He had no interest whatever in the Toronto 'Star.' Postmasters are at liberty to act as agents for newspapers and often do so. He saw no reason for complaint against this privilege, provided their work on behalf of the papers does not interfere with their duties for the Post-office Department.

MONTREAL POST-OFFICE.
Mr. F. D. Monk urged the need of a complete reorganization of the postal service in Montreal and the suburbs. The delivery of letters there, he said, was not satisfactory. The complaint was one that had already received attention in the press. After looking into the work of the post-office distributors he was satisfied that they had good ground for complaint against the authorities.

After twenty years' service the men engaged in distribution work found that their nerves were worn out and they were compelled to retire. Their day's work was supposed to be from seven to eleven o'clock in the morning and from one o'clock till five in the afternoon—eight hours altogether. As a matter of fact, however, the distributors were called on for three hours' extra work every day without one cent of extra pay. Their Sunday work was supposed to consist of four hours once a month, as a matter of fact, however, they were called on for eight hours a day every Sunday so that in other words these men were required to put in four days' work overtime every month without remuneration.

COMPLAINTS OF EMPLOYEES.

Regarding the complaints of employees he read a letter which appeared in the 'Press' some time ago in which it was alleged the clerks had to do extra work as well as work on Sunday, for which they received no extra remuneration. The letter carriers, it also declared, often had to work ten hours a day instead of eight, without any pay for overtime. They were not able to distribute in time the important mail that reaches Montreal at 3.30 every afternoon from New York. The plain conclusion was that the staff, both of distributors and letter carriers, should be considerably increased. As things stood, the existing staff could not keep up with the work, even in spite of their working ten and twelve hours a day. Every day an accumulation of newspapers gathered in the post-office whose delivery had to be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Monk declared, on his own responsibility, that the complaint of the Montreal post-office staff was substantially true in every particular. It was corroborated on all hands. This condition of things had existed now for two years. In his presentation of the matter Mr. Monk quoted frequently from a letter which recently appeared in the Montreal press purporting to represent the views of the Montreal postal staff.

The allusion to the inadequate facilities in the Montreal Post-office.

SIR WILLIAM MULOCK'S REPLY.
The Postmaster-General, in reply, criticized Mr. Monk for quoting an anonymous letter which represented not the view of the Montreal postal staff but that of one discontented, restless spirit who devoted himself to fomenting trouble. He was a man of disordered mind and Sir William said he knew the individual well.

Mr. Monk asked for the man's name, but this the minister refused to give.

'I altogether deny,' said Sir William, 'this man's statements about extra work. They are full of inaccuracies.' The severity of the weather last winter and the irregularity of the train service had forced the Montreal postal staff to work longer than usual. But when the conditions became normal again, no official was called on to work overtime unless by reason of some special work for which extra pay would be allowed.

Sir William went on to say that when he took office there was a system in vogue in St. Henri, Westmount and Mile End which required letter carriers to collect letters from the various boxes in the evening, and on Sundays, which meant from an hour and a half to two hours' extra work. This had not come to his knowledge till this year, when he arranged for the letters to be collected instead under courier contract. In the meantime, till the courier contract went into effect the men who made this mail collection on Sunday would get a full day's pay extra. Those who worked at night got a half holiday weekly in consideration of this extra work.

As to the story about Montreal postmen and distributors working overtime and being generally downtrodden, he had asked Mr. George Ross, chief post-office inspector, for a special report on the facts when this anonymous letter appeared in the Montreal papers. Mr. Ross's report showed that there was very little overtime work unless by reason of irregularity of the train service. Where members of the staff were burdened with extra work this connection they were allowed holidays to make up for it. Mr. Ross declared emphatically that the Montreal Post-office was sufficiently manned. If the train service was regular no extra work was thrown on any one. If trains were late a certain amount of overtime work was incidental and had to be done.

Sir William reminded the House that it was only since he assumed office that an eight-hour day came into vogue at all in the Canadian post-offices.

LETTER FROM MR. BARSALOU.

The Minister quoted a letter dated March 23, from the superintendent, Mr. Barsalou, to the postmaster in Montreal, which said:

Referring to Mr. Geo. Ross's letter re overtime work by the clerks in this office, I have to state: In the delivery branch overtime was worked by some of the clerks in that branch averaging half an hour daily over eight hours.

In the letter despatch branch ten or fifteen minutes had been required over the eight-hour average. In the newspaper despatch branch the overtime work did not exceed the average eight hours; half an hour or one hour having been required from the clerks in that branch occasionally.

The exceedingly late arrival of the mail since January was caused by the overtime in question. Now that the trains are commencing to run on schedule time it is the intention to repay the men who worked extra.

With reference to the alleged insufficiency of the letter carriers, I have to say that throughout the United States the rule is one letter carrier for 2,500 people. In Montreal there is one letter carrier for about 1,600 people. As to the statement in that letter that letter-carriers were required to walk six leagues a day, I think I may say that such is not the fact.

I am assured by my officers that never once has there been a complaint recorded by any person in Montreal that the mail due by the New York 3.30 train was delayed. If no person has complained I think it is very strong evidence that the alleged delay does not take place.

POST-OFFICE TOO SMALL.

The Post-office building in Montreal appears to be very inconveniently constructed, and not to be in keeping with the present requirements of the service. The department has been looking into that matter, and I hope will be able before this session goes by to bring the attention of parliament to the subject in connection with the estimates. I suppose that when it was built, the Montreal Post-Office met the requirements of that day. The city has grown, and additional accommodation is required.

Different views have been presented. Now the modern policy is one rather of division of work. It is considered better for the service. It is in contemplation to acquire a site somewhere in the vicinity of the great railway stations and to make use of the building on that site as an adjunct, and to distribute from it a certain portion of the mails which now congest the city Post-Office.

Further, a considerable portion of mail matter that now passes through the Montreal Post-Office, will, when the new system is inaugurated, be delivered at this new postal station, and go off by train without ever passing through the Montreal Post-Office. I also hope to be able to connect that postal station with the city Post-Office by the pneumatic tube system, as is contemplated in the city of Toronto.

Mr. Monk disputed the minister's statement about the Montreal Post-Office employees not having to work overtime, and asserted that if the time books in the view of the Montreal postal staff but show that he was right.

Sir William offered to send Inspector Ross to Montreal and let Mr. Monk thresh it out with that official. The member for Jacques Cartier, though, invited Sir William to come down and see things for himself.

The Postmaster-General was accused of parsimony in the service and of underpaying his men, but maintained that the officers under his charge were treated even more generously than the employees of any commercial house.

Shortly after ten o'clock the last of the Post-Office votes was accepted and the House at once adjourned.

RUSHING PROLOGATION.
The Premier has given notice that the House will not be asked to sit on Dominion Day. In order, however, to bring on prorogation as soon as possible, morning sittings of the House will be inaugurated on Monday next, to continue from then on till the end of the session.

IN THE SENATE.

In the Senate yesterday there was another debate as to whether Mr. Eldridge should be forced to appear before the bar of the Senate and answer questions put to him in committee regarding the salaries paid to officers of the Mutual Reserve Life Fund Association of New York. It was finally agreed to accept the witness's offer to give instead the salaries year by year in the aggregate.

THE GAULT INSTITUTE.

The school year in the Gault Institute, Valleyfield, was brought to a close on Friday night last by the annual public distribution of prizes to the Junior classes. Dr. Sutherland, chairman of the trustees, presided. The closing entertainment was only the culmination of a series of public sessions in the various departments. Each department had its particular hour for its public oral examination and for two days the parents and friends of the pupils have attended the various functions in larger numbers than ever before. It is safe to say that the bright, attractive school-rooms were never before so gaily decorated with flowers, plants and flags and also with the specimens of work done by the pupils.

In this connection the specimens of sewing shown are specially mentioned, not only because of their excellence, but because this is the first year that subject has been taught in the Gault Institute. The work of the pupils reflected a great deal of credit upon Miss Brown, the lady who has had charge of this department of the school work. Another subject which evoked considerable enthusiasm and which is also new to the school, was the tonic-solfa method of singing. Fortunately all the lady teachers of the institute have well-trained voices and are lovers of music. Consequently when the principal proposed to them to take up the tonic-solfa method and give a regular course in singing, it was received with enthusiasm; and that excellent progress has been made was evident at the oral examinations. Miss Thompson's class did admirably, giving the required notes correctly and without hesitation, first from the modulator and then from the manual signs given by the teacher. Miss Coplan's little people in the primary department, also showed a good knowledge of this subject, and were quite sure that Miss Ferris's class made equal progress, although this subject has not taken up at the examination, owing to lack of time.

The kindergarten, under the direction of Miss Lawrence, who has just finished her sixth year at the Gault Institute, gave their usual closing entertainment on Wednesday afternoon and delighted every one with their pretty motion songs. All the staff of the institute has been re-engaged for next year, and it is hoped Miss Douglas, the teacher of the model department, who had to give up her classes last Easter on account of illness, will be quite recovered and able to take up her work again in September. Miss Ethel Price has proved a very efficient substitute in the meantime.

The public closing entertainment on Friday night was prepared entirely by the lady teachers, to whom also belongs the honor of the floral decorations. Dr. Sutherland, after a few remarks on the excellent character of the work that had been done during the year, proceeded at once with the program which had been prepared by the pupils. All the items were unusually good and left us should do any injustice we shall refrain from mentioning individual pieces, except to say that 'The six little grandmothers,' a dialogue by six little girls from the Old Academy School, fully sustained the reputation of their teacher, Miss Janet Lowe. The most interesting part of the programme for the young people was the distribution of the prizes. We might mention that Mrs. A. F. Gault takes the same interest in the school that the late Mr. Gault did, and very generously donates the scholarship and prizes for general proficiency, in all the classes of the school. It would surely have been a great pleasure to Mrs. Gault if she could have seen the happy little children receiving her prizes on Friday night.

Mr. D. F. Smith donated the prizes to the kindergarten children, while Dr. Sutherland gave the prizes for punctuality and regular attendance. The principal pointed out that this year no less than thirty-six pupils had never been late or absent during the year, a remarkable fact, showing the good effect of the punctuality prizes. The prizes for punctuality in the kindergarten and Old Academy School were given by Mrs. Sutherland. - Mrs. Fred. Lacey gave a prize in each department for English and Mrs. D. F. Smith gave the prizes for good conduct in the Old Academy School. Miss Crichton also gave a fountain pen as a reward for improvement in writing and Mr. John Crichton presented a prize for Scripture knowledge in the Old Academy School. Mr. Achille Bergevin, M.P.P., presented a silver medal for competition among the pupils entering the I. Model Class. After the prizes had been distributed, Dr. Sutherland briefly thanked the parents for their interest in the school and the children for their exemplary conduct on such an oppressively warm evening. UNION LABEL LEAGUE.

PROTEST AGAINST EMPLOYMENT OF CHINESE LABOR IN CANADA.

The regular meeting of the Union Label League was held last night, at the hall, 261 Rivard street, the new president, Mr. F. Payette, occupied the chair, and Mr. L. M. Dufort acted as secretary.

The agitation committee reported that pipes were sold in some stores bearing the label of the manufacturers, and the members of the league were warned to the effect that union-made pipes with the label on them will soon be on the market.

The glove workers were seen, and the big majority are favorable to be organized, and in a few weeks a new organized union will be formed.

Cards and matter referring to goods bearing the label were distributed by the league to the Painters and the Carpenters and Joiners' Union.

It was also reported that Chinese labor in different branches was being hired by Canadian people. These men were being paid cheap wages for their labor, and as soon as they had enough money they took their departure for their own country, and our own land derived no benefit. Unionists were warned to protect their own interests by encouraging those that protect Canadians.

It was moved by Mr. Lesperance, seconded by Mr. Tessier, that the Label League protest energetically against the notice of motion given by Ald. St. Denis to have a by-law passed allowing barber shops to be open on Sundays. This was carried.

The fact that a certain printing office was not conforming to the requirements necessary for obtaining the privilege of using the Union Label, was called to the attention of union people and organized workmen were warned to have only printed matter bearing the Typographical Union Label.

The Jacques Cartier Typographical Union was notified that all the printed matter of several athletic associations was without the union label and every effort will be made to have the label placed on all such. The League was instructed to write to the two typographical unions interested, asking them to put the union label on all printed matter except when it is objected to by customers not wishing the label on their printed matter.

At the last regular meeting of the Shirt Waist and Laundry Workers a resolution of condolence was passed to the family of Mr. L. M. Dupont, who had the misfortune to recently lose his youngest daughter by death. The Union Label League also passed a similar resolution.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 29, 1904.

The council of the Toronto Board of Trade is the first representative commercial body to oppose the proposed limitation of the preferential tariff to goods imported through Canadian ports. The council has prepared a report, which it has forwarded to the Minister of Finance, in which the very same objections are made to the proposal that we set forth the day after it was discussed and in principle accepted by the House of Commons. Such legislation, says the Toronto council, would remove the stress of competition from the Canadian lines, and would mean little more than a subsidy for the Canadian steamship companies. By forcing traffic through unusual routes, the benefits of the British preference would be minimized if not nullified to the consumers. The Toronto council is also of opinion that the United States would retaliate. The past record of our big neighbor, so far as her conduct towards us is concerned, would certainly lead us to expect reprisals, which would have as their purpose to prevent Canada becoming a highway for United States commerce. The proposal is mischievous in the extreme. It cannot do good and is bound to do harm. The other trade bodies of the country will probably follow the example of the Toronto Board of Trade and strongly protest against it.

Calculations made by Dr. C. A. Stephens of the work to be done on the Panama canal give some idea of the immensity of that undertaking. Dr. Stephens estimates that, after allowing for the progress made by the French company, there remain four hundred and forty-six million cubic yards of rock and earth to be excavated in order to complete the digging. He bases his calculations on the amount of work performed by the French company during 1897, its most active year. Thirty-six hundred men were then employed and nine hundred and sixty thousand cubic metres of space, mostly earth, not rock, were cleared. Allowing that improved machinery and methods would make the excavating more easy and rapid, and assuming that twenty thousand men would be employed continuously, Dr. Stephens figures out that it will take forty-six years to complete the work. In this estimate he makes no allowance for engineering difficulties. He deals simply with bare pick and shovel work, without reference to the problems of piercing a mountain chain and disposing of a torrential river. The mathematical estimate is sufficiently startling. But if all possible obstacles be included and the number of men on the job increased to thirty thousand to balance adverse contingencies, it seems impossible, according to Dr. Stephens, that the canal could be practicable for navigation much before the middle of the century. Hitherto the belief has been that the canal could be built in ten years.

THE WAR.

Nothing but bewilderment can possibly follow any attempt to piece together the wildly contradictory nonsense telegraphed us daily as the wisdom of experts. There is no need of confusion, however, if the reader will follow us on our map, by no means complete, but by far the best we have seen anywhere, and will remember that names which reach us phonetically through half a dozen different languages are capable of almost any variety of spelling. The Japanese, as we said yesterday, had two important victories on Sunday and one on Monday. The northernmost advance was along the mountain road which leads from Kuan tien to Ta ling, that is, the Ta pass, which is at the village of Pün si hu, as it appears on our map, the Fen shui of the despatches. It is at the point where the Tai sze ho, that is, Tai sze river, passes through the Fen shui mountains. Thus the names Ta pass, Ta ling, Da lin, Fen chong ling and Fen shui pass all refer to the same place. The Japanese are said to have assailed this pass thirty thousand strong and to have practically annihilated its determined defenders, taking nine guns and 275 prisoners and pursuing the Russians from height to height for nine miles. The fight lasted two days. For an expert to say that this was an abandonment by General Kuroki of his flanking movement is to talk nonsense. On the same day the Japanese had a victory on the Mo tien ling or Mo tien pass, on the main road from Feng huan cheng to Liao yang. This pass, though spoken of as impregnable, they had captured before, but had fallen back from it because their other movements were not ripe. It was at this point that the Japanese won one of their great victories over the Chinese. On Monday the new Japanese army, which was landed a month ago at Takushan, met the Russians on the road between Siu yen and Hai cheng and drove them back fourteen miles into the village of Si mu cheng, where another fight is momentarily expected. Meantime General Kuroki, with his main army, is west of Siu yen, where his presence has forced Gen. Stackelberg to abandon Kai ping. Protected by a forward movement led by General Kuroki himself against General Oku's army on the west shore road, General Stackelberg has moved his force to Ta shi kiao, the railway junction for Niu chwang. There he is threatened by General Oku's army from the south, by General Kuroki's from the direction of Siu yen, and by General Nodzu's, which at this writing is threatening Si mu cheng on the road from Siu yen to Hai cheng. Under these circumstances it is doubtful if any attempt will be made to hold Ta shi kiao and Niu chwang, that is, if the Russians can get safely away from them. More news may come before this paper goes to press.

OUR POST-OFFICE.

The deficiencies of the Montreal Post-office engaged the attention of parliament yesterday afternoon, upon the initiative of Mr. Monk. Every day, said Mr. Monk, there was accumulation of mail matter, of which the delivery was indefinitely postponed, because the clerks were too few, and could not keep abreast of the work, even though unpaid overtime, and Sunday work was a normal condition of their working lives. The fact that the post-office was not large enough aggravated the congestion and other evils, and Mr. Monk was of opinion that Montreal contributed enough to the post-office revenue to deserve better treatment. Sir William Mulock, the Postmaster-General, admitted that the present building is too small and is out of date, but, instead of recommending a new building, Sir William has been advised that a better plan would be to acquire a site near one of the big stations and there erect a building that shall be an auxiliary post-office, where part of the mail matter would be collected and distributed locally without passing through the head office, and a certain portion be collected and sent off by train, also without passing through the head office. This is an age, Sir William tells us, when in post-office management concentration of work is not considered the right system, the modern policy being rather one of division. Perhaps, such a system would be better for Montreal, and our post-office authorities certainly would not recommend it without a good deal of consideration and the study of examples abroad. This is the more probable as the idea of spending money on a new modern building that would glorify the city is naturally a popular one. Mr. Monk's charge that the post-office clerks are insufficient in number and hardly treated in their hours is an improbable one, and seems to have been disproved by the Postmaster-General. When the present government came into office there was no such term as an eight-hour day fixed, but such a term was then gradually introduced. Sir William says, at the present day, the average time in the registration branches is seven and a half hours, and no clerk is called upon to put in any extra time over the eight hours; in the money order branch no extra time is made over the eight hours; it is the same in the international exchange branch; and the time in the other departments averages from seven hours and fifteen minutes to eight hours a day. All overtime is compensated for by allowances of extra leave, and, as Sir William comments, the people of Canada would hardly be willing to allow an easier system of service than this. The plain fact of the matter is that Sir William Mulock's surplus 'sticks in the throats' of the Opposition, which seeks to prove that it has been ground out of the souls and bodies of the post-office employees. It is quite the contrary, however, as the post-office employees are better treated to-day than ever they were before. Even against the complaint that the letter-carriers have too much to do, Sir William was able to bring figures to prove that there is 'nothing to it.' We have one letter-carrier, it appears, to every sixteen hundred people, while throughout the cities of the United States one letter-carrier is required to serve two thousand five hundred people. We have reason to be proud of our Post-office Department in many ways, and though pedantically and at times invidiously managed, and though cursed by the franking system outrageously misused by members of parliament, it has been one of the most progressive departments of the government.

MARSHAL OYAMA.

The new commander of the Japanese army in the field, Marshal Oyama, is one of the great soldiers who hate war, as Grant did and Miles does. And this is the stranger because he was of the samurai class of the Kagoshima clan, whose tradition was fighting. But the character of the victor of Port Arthur, Kiu chow, Talien wan and Wei hai wei in the Chinese war is illustrated by an incident of that war, when he had the horses taken out of his own stables in order to give Chinese prisoners shelter from a wintry storm. 'It is hard to expose beasts to the elements,' he said regretfully, 'but it would be still worse thus to expose our brother men.'—Springfield 'Republican.'

STREET RAILWAY SERVICE.

HEAVY RAILS, NEW ROUTES AND NEW CARS ENGAGING AT-TENTION.

For some time past there have been numerous complaints from Point St. Charles about the way cars are delayed at the Seigneurs and Wellington street bridges and also at the Guy street crossing of the Grand Trunk Railway. The people who patronize the Guy street line from the district across the canal are peculiarly unfortunate. In the first place they have to contend against the bridge, which is very quick in opening but very slow in closing. The worst spot is the Guy street crossing of the Grand Trunk. There the delay in many cases extends from fifteen to twenty minutes. 'Some people have the idea,' said a prominent official of the Montreal Street Railway, to-day, 'that in retarding the progress of the cars they are spiting the company. They are doing no such thing. They simply keep workmen, workwomen, work girls and the business public away from their daily toil. The Guy street line is an example.'

The management of the Montreal Street Railway have under contemplation a number of improvements in the service throughout the city, the most important being the laying of heavy rails and the placing on the different lines of a further number of large and modern cars, which are now being constructed at the company's works. When these are completed they will make a splendid addition to the present rolling stock. In the way of laying new tracks the company is now rushing to completion the line on the upper level of Westmount. This line will run from Cote des Neiges to the Boulevard, and then along to Lansdowne avenue.

This work is to be completed within six months' time and the length of the line will be something over a mile of double track. Heavy rails on Windsor street have been placed in position and the old tracks on Bleury street, from Craig to St. Catherine street are to be replaced by heavy rails, while the St. Lawrence Main street tracks are also to be attended to immediately.

The Montreal Street Railway in the past few days have done big business. On Friday, St. Jean Baptiste Day, the receipts were $10,491, an increase of $3,458 over the same day last year. Saturday was another big day, the receipts being $9,206. Sunday was a big day also, but most of the business was done in the afternoon and evening. The receipts were $8,459. Monday was a circus day, and the receipts went as high as $8,900.

Mr. M. J. Kennedy, formerly superintendent of the Montreal Street Railway, and at present a superintendent of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit, is in the city and paid his respects to his old associates. It is understood that Mr. Kennedy is here to engage motormen. He says they run 1,850 trolley cars and 900 elevated, with receipts all the way from $50,000 to $70,000 a day. Mr. Kennedy is staying at the Windsor Hotel.

FRENCH MEDICAL CONGRESS
IMPORTANT GATHERING OF PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS.

The second congress of the French-speaking physicians and surgeons of North America opened at Laval University in this city, yesterday.

The inaugural session took place in the forenoon when Dr. Foucher, president of the association, tendered a hearty welcome to the hundred and fifty medical men present, and delivered an elaborate address on the history of the profession in Canada.

Dr. Le Sage, secretary, read a number of letters from invited guests expressing their regret at not being able to attend.

The first business meeting took place in the afternoon when the following papers were read and discussed: 'The Ethnology and prophylaxis of pulmonary tuberculosis in Canada,' Dr. A. Mercier; 'Diagnosis and treatment of appendicitis,' Dr. F. de Martigny; 'Necessity of medical inspection in educational establishments,' Dr. Valin; 'Medico-legal reforms in the Province of Quebec,' Dr. Ville-neuve.

The formal opening ceremonies took place in the evening, the session being in the form of a social gathering. Among others present were the Lieutenant-Governor, Sir L. A. Jetté, Archbishop Bruchesi, Mgr. Archambault, Mayor Laporte, and representatives of McGill and Bishop's universities.

The president, Dr. Faucher, explained the pedagogic object of the association, and in his closing remarks tendered the congratulations of the congress to Mgr. Archambault, vice-rector of Laval University, on the occasion of his promotion to the new see of Joliette. Mgr. Archambault followed and referred to the union that should exist between science and religion. He thanked the congress for its kind wishes towards himself, and declared that his heart and soul would always be devoted to Laval.

Sir Louis Jetté delivered an able address on the part which the physician is called upon to play among his fellow-men.

Mayor Laporte was the next speaker and extended the welcome of the city to all the delegates, assuring those from the United States that their compatriots at home were always proud of their success abroad.

Mr. Kleczkowski, consul-general of France, followed and expressed his satisfaction and pride to find the traces of old France so full of vitality in this young Canada.

Dr. Pozzi, representing the Paris University and Academy of Medicine, referred with praise to Canadian institutions, and expressed the hope that a special establishment for Canadian students might soon be founded in the French capital.

The Hon. Mr. Archambault, Attorney-General, extended the welcome of the Provincial Government to the delegates. Dr. Brochu, of Quebec, and Dr. Prevost, of Ottawa, spoke for their respective districts and mentioned the beneficial results of such conventions as the present one.

Archibald Bruchesi closed the series of speeches by comparing the mission of the doctor to that of a mother. The mother gives life, but the doctor is called upon to preserve it, and both have much to do with the destinies of mankind.

After those formal functions, a social gathering took place in the parlors of the university, where light refreshments were served.

THE PRESBYTERY.

REPORTS OF VARIOUS BRANCHES OF THE WORK OF THE CHURCH.

The Presbytery resumed its sitting yesterday afternoon, the Rev. Dr. Mowatt presiding in the absence of the Rev. W. T. Morison, B.D., who was elected to be Moderator for the ensuing six months. It was agreed to preach the charge of Beech Ridge vacant on the last Sabbath of August.

The Rev. F. M. Dewey submitted the following minute re the resignation of the Rev. George Kinnear:

In accepting the resignation of the Rev. George Kinnear, and releasing him from the pastoral charge of the congregation of Beech Ridge, the Presbytery of Montreal places upon record its high sense of appreciation of the valuable services rendered by him in that trying field. Mr. Kinnear has given five years of earnest, self-denying labor to the congregation of Beech Ridge, and amidst many discouraging circumstances, has awakened such an interest and developed such a measure of life that it is believed that the congregation is now, in spite of the steady decrease of the Protestant families in the community, in a better state than at any previous period of its existence. The Presbytery sincerely prays that our Heavenly Father may so direct the footsteps of Mr. Kinnear that he will soon find a field of labor in which the excellent gifts he and his partner of life possess, may find a suitable sphere of usefulness. The Presbytery would also assure the congregation of Beech Ridge of its full sympathy in being deprived of the pastoral oversight of one so interested and devoted to his flock, and whose services they have so highly prized; also of their hope that very soon they may have settled over them one who will be a worthy successor of their last pastor.

The Rev. Mr. Cruikshank gave a report of the Home Mission and Church Extension Committee. He reported the great success of work at Verdun, where the building requires to be enlarged, and the people are doing this work. All the other fields are fully supplied, and the work is satisfactorily carried on.

The Rev. F. M. Dewey gave the report on the Foreign Mission Work. The work among the Chinese. The assistant of Dr. Thomson had been accused in the courts, but he was fully exonerated, and his accuser had to pay all expenses. Dr. Thomson is at present in the Maritime Provinces, superintending the work among the Chinese there. The work there is progressing. The work all over the country is in a most flourishing condition. It is the desire of the Presbytery that the salary of Dr. Thomson should be increased by $500 on account of the increase of work, and the expense of living in Montreal.

The Rev. Mr. Heine gave the report on French work. This is carried on satisfactorily within the bounds.

The Rev. Dr. Morison reported on the augmentation committee. He drew attention to a communication from the General Assembly and the increase of the minimum salaries from $750 to $800. This was remitted to the consideration of the augmentation and Home Mission Committees to bring in a detailed finding at the next meeting of the Presbytery in September.

The Rev. Mr. Jamieson, of London, and the Rev. Mr. Keith, of Leamington, being in the court, were requested to sit as corresponding members.

The Rev. Dr. R. Campbell gave a short report on the city mission work, drawing special attention to the chief interest of the fresh air work for the summer, in which the missionary takes a special interest every year.

Commissioners to the Assembly gave reports of their impression of the proceedings. The clerk read the permission of the Assembly to have leave to ordain Mr. Keith. The Presbytery adjourned to meet on Sept. 12 next at 9.30 a.m.

RHODES SCHOLARS.

Messrs. J. G. Archibald and H. J. Rose Successful in the Province of Quebec.

THESE TWO HIGHLY TALENTED CANADIANS WILL ENTER OXFORD IN OCTOBER.

Mr. John Gordon Archibald, a graduate of McGill University, and a known resident of Montreal, has been awarded the Rhodes Scholarship in the Province of Quebec, and Mr. Herbert J. Rose, B.A., of Ottawa, also a McGill, has been awarded £3000.

MR. J. G. ARCHIBALD.

Mr. Rose's scholarship is allowed to the Rhodes trustees, but his case is exceptional as no special fund has been created for two endowments, and as he is not to be taken as a precedent. The two candidates, being nearly equal, the examiners were unable to determine which was superior.

Both men are fully deserving of the honors bestowed on them, and they possess in a marked degree the characteristics which Mr. Rhodes wished to cultivate and to a large portion of his wealth. Candidates for those scholarships to be successful must possess high literary attainments, be proficient in outdoor sports, be distinguished by the marks of a true man as courage, devotion to duty, sympathy for the poor and suffering, and a high moral character.

Mr. Archibald's attainments at McGill are well known. He has held there numerous positions of honor.

MR. HERBERT J. ROSE, B.A.

was president of his year at the time of graduation, class reporter for the McGill 'Outlook,' president of the Arts Undergraduates' Society, and secretary of the Alma Mater Society at different times, besides serving on many of the class committees.

In the social life of his Alma Mater Mr. Archibald was equally prominent. He was a valuable member of the football team of 1900 and 1901, and was also distinguished himself as a swimmer and tennis player. He is the son of Mr. Justice Archibald and received his preliminary education at the Montreal High School and the Institut St. Basile, Brussels.

In his Sophomore year he won the Latin prize and during four years of McGill he carried off prizes in Greek, German, English and philosophy. Last year he, in conjunction with Mr. Rose, won the Chapman gold medal.

Mr. Rose is the son of the Rev. Dr. Rose, of Ottawa, formerly pastor of the St. James Methodist Church, of this city. Mr. Rose received first seven years' private tuition at Ottawa Collegiate School and then entered McGill in 1900, at this year's class exercises he was elected class poet and was crowned by the Donalds with a wreath of laurels. He has taken prizes in Greek, Latin, and English.

Mr. Archibald will travel in France for two months, and Mr. Rose will stay at Hamilton previous to taking up residence at Oxford in October.

BEAUTY OF SKIN
PURITY OF BLOOD

Ancient and Modern Ideas on These Interesting Subjects.

UP-TO-DATE METHODS

For Purifying and Beautifying the Skin, Scalp, Hair and Hands.

Socrates called beauty a short-lived tyranny, Plato a privilege of nature, Theophrastus, a delightful prejudice, Theophrastus a silent cheat, Carneades a solitary kingdom, Homer a glorious gift of nature, Ovid a favor of the gods. Aristotle affirmed that beauty was better than all the letters of recommendation in the world, and yet none of these distinguished authorities has left us even a hint of how beauty is to be perpetuated, or the ravages of age and disease defied. Time soon fades the lily and the rose into the color of age, disease dots the fair face with cutaneous disfigurements and wrinkles the Roman nose with unsightly wrinkles, moth, if not rust, corrupts the glory of eyes, teeth, and lips yet beautiful by defacing the complexion, and fills the sensitive soul with agony.

It is such the unhappy condition of complexion with slight skin blemishes, which must be the feelings of those in whom torturing humors have for years run riot, covering the skin with pimples and sores and charging the system with poisonous elements to be a part of the system until death.

It is in the treatment of torturing humors and affections of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair, that the Cuticura remedies have secured their greatest success. Originated in composition, scientifically compounded, absolutely pure, unchangeable in any climate, always ready, and accessible to the most delicate and sensitive, they present to young and old the most successful curatives of modern times.

yesterday by 6 to 1 in a game that was featured by excellent play.

The following officers were elected at a meeting of the Montreal Commercial Baseball League, held on Monday evening at Mascotte Park: President, G. Hunt, C.P.R.; first vice-president, C. J. Gillen, the Northern Electric; second vice-president, A. Bernard, Montreal Street Railway; secretary, C. Mahoney, C.P.R.; treasurer, C. E. Ward, M.L.H. & P. (Another meeting will be held this evening for the purpose of arranging a schedule.)

FOOTBALL.

At the annual meeting of the Grand Trunk Football Club the following officers were elected: Hon. president, Mr. W. P. Kennedy; president, C. N. Marshall; vice-president, Mr. W. Brown; secretary, Mr. A. Walker, 349 Charlevoix street; treasurer, Mr. A. E. H. Marshall. Committee: Messrs. C. Boas, G. Bowers, C. W. McLean, E. Minnett and J. Holiday. The annual reports of the secretary and treasurer were very satisfactory, the financial statement showing a good balance on the right side.

LAWN TENNIS.

London, June 29.—In the all-England ladies' tennis championship at Wimbledon yesterday, Miss Douglas, the holder, again won the title, beating Mrs. Sterry by 6-0, 6-3.

LAWN BOWLING.

An interesting rink game took place on the Westmount green on Monday evening, in which Mr. Donald McLean, of Wellington, New Zealand, took part. Mr. McLean, who is a member of the Wellington, N. Z. Bowling Club, is on a visit to this country, and played on the Toronto greens a few days ago. He thoroughly enjoyed the game at Westmount on Monday night, it being the first game he had played by electric light. The following is the score:

Mr. Bird	R. M. Liddell
H. Mason	Donald McLean
J. Wilson	D. Wilson
A. W. D. Howell	F. Fowler

The following rink competition, which aroused considerable interest, resulted in a victory for Mr. Thompson:

T. de G. Stewart J. H. Chapman
J. A. Blackburn C. E. Scott
S. Munro F. H. Scott
R. Thomson Wm. Brown

Mr. Thompson's rink is now in the finals and will play the winner of the two rinks skipped respectively by Mr. James Brown and Mr. David Wilson.

LACROSSE.

It is expected that there will be a record crowd at the Minto Cup game on Dominion Day. A number of Brantford supporters are coming from that city, and the local lacrosse enthusiasts are sure to turn out in large numbers. The seats are selling fast, and it looks as though there will be but few left on Friday.

A meeting of the officials of the Shamrock Lacrosse Club is to be held immediately after to discuss the practice, when the members of the team who are to play on Friday will be chosen.

The Westmount Lacrosse team travel to Huntingdon, P.Q., on Dominion Day to play a friendly game with the local team there. The train leaves the C.P.R. (Windsor) Depot at 8:00 a.m.

AQUATICS.

A very pretty souvenir programme of the St. Agathe des Monts regatta and water carnival, which takes place on Dominion Day, has been issued. It is expected that a large number of visitors from Montreal will be present at the event.

The crews of the Longueuil Boat Club are practicing hard for the C.C.A. regatta at St. Johns on Dominion Day, and a large number of visitors from Montreal will be present at the event.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., June 29.—When the races started yesterday the conditions were almost perfect. Georgetown led from the pistol shot, but before the first quarter, Cornell had caught her, and was leading by half a length, the other four almost abreast. At the mile Cornell was a clear length to the good. The real fight was in the second mile, and at the bridge the four crews were six lengths behind Cornell. In the last half mile Columbia and Pennsylvania had a beautiful fight for second place, and Wisconsin took fourth place from Georgetown.

The official time was as follows: Cornell, 10:53 3-5; Columbia, 11:12 1-5; Pennsylvania, 11:15 3-6; Wisconsin, 11:18 2-5; Georgetown, 11:34 2-5.

In the eight oared race Cornell, at the start, ran away from the others, but Syracuse soon closed the open water between with Pennsylvania close behind her. It was a great race all the way to the bridge, where Syracuse and Cornell were bow and bow, and Pennsylvania a length to the rear, and a half, Columbia a length to the rear, and nearing the finish had open water between her stern and Cornell.

Kington, Ont., June 29.—A new feature planned for the summer residents of the Thousand Islands is a motor boat association to include in its membership all owners of motor boats from Kington, Ont., to Ogdensburg, N.Y. One of the first steps to be taken after effecting an organization will be to affiliate with the American Power Association. Once a member of this general body any records which the St. Lawrence racers may make will be recorded officially.

AN AUTOMOBILE CLUB.

Montreal automobilists are forming an organization to be known as the Automobile Club of Canada. There are now about seventy motor cars in use on the island of Montreal, and it is felt that some organization is necessary for the purpose of educating the citizens to the use of the vehicles, and securing improved roads for their use.

A meeting of local motor enthusiasts was held at the Windsor Hotel, at which the following committee was named to prepare by-laws and suggest anything that would be conducive to the welfare of the club: Messrs. Wm. Yule, Dr. Irvine, J. H. Dunn, Frank Meighen, J. R. L. Ross, A. Bent, G. Boisvert, Dr. Mignault, F. C. Wilson, A. J. Dawes, Duncan McDonald, F. H. Anson, J. Pasquin, G. Birks, F. Redpath, George Simard, A. Berthiaume and A. J. deB. Corriveau.

It was decided to call a general meeting in a few days, when the club's permanent officers will be elected.

It was said that the public appear to be ignorant as to the proper side to be taken by automobilists on the road. The statement was authoritatively made that when an automobile meets a carriage, the carriage should go to the right, and when overtaking a carriage it passes to the left.

A VETERAN CLIMBER.
Mr. E. Whymer, in regard to whose mountaineering feats some reference was made in yesterday's 'Witness,' is over sixty-five years of age, but he does not look more than fifty. He was down at the C. P. R. offices this forenoon, to have a conference with Mr. Kerr, who, by the way, is out of town. Mr. Whymer will not start for some time yet, as he will be making a new arrangement with the C. P. R. The latter is interested in mountain-climbing to this extent that when the fame of the Rockies, and what they offer in the way of thrilling conquest, is spread abroad, it will favorably affect summer travel to this region. Indeed, it has done so already. There are hundreds of American tourists who, accustomed to go to Europe in former years, now make the Banff hotel their headquarters during the summer months, while many English travelers have succumbed to the same lure.

Apart from this, however, the C. P. R. is intensely interested in the mineralogical possibilities of the Rockies, and hints as to the generous nature of these have already been offered by Mr. Whymer, who is naturalist, botanist, metallurgist, and, indeed, exceedingly versatile in regard to all outdoor aspects. The C. P. R. had a contract with Mr. Whymer, which has now lapsed, but which will now probably be renewed, for the prosecution of this particular sort of work. Mr. Whymer is a wealthy man, and latterly had another large fortune left him. He works simply for the love of the thing. His hair is white, but he has a young look in his face. He is still capable of great feats in the way of mountain climbing, but there may be enormous profits in the future in the ores which will, doubtless, be brought forth from the Rockies, and in this connection lies the chief value of Mr. Whymer's work, which is largely that of a prospector.

A TORONTO PROTEST AGAINST PROPOSAL TO LIMIT PREFERENTIAL
TARIFF TO GOODS
COMING IN BY CANADIAN PORTS.

Toronto, June 29.—At yesterday's meeting of the council of the Board of Trade, Mr. Edward Gurney, upon behalf of his committee, presented a report strongly opposing the proposed limitation of the preferential tariff to goods imported through Canadian ports. The report stated that the restriction to Canadian ports would seriously affect trade by forcing freight through irregular routes, thus minimizing the benefit of the tariff rebate to the consumer. It was also pointed out that the products of the other colonies came by different steamship lines to New York, which city provided a market for purchases made in excess of Canadian requirements. It is further held that such legislation would remove the danger of competition to the Canadian lines to the west, from the American lines; that the United States would regard it as unfriendly legislation and might retaliate by restricting the bonding privileges, and that the measure would mean little more than a subsidy for a number of steamship companies. The report was sent to the Minister of Finance, together with a personal letter calling his attention to it.

EMPLOYMENT OF ALIENS.

REQUEST BEFORE PARLIAMENT
FOR THE DISMISSAL OF SEVERAL C. P. R. HEADS OF DEPARTMENTS.

Ottawa, June 29.—A report was tabled in the House of Commons yesterday by the Minister of Labor of further correspondence relating to the employment of aliens on the Grand Trunk Pacific surveys. In a letter from the Canadian Amalgamated Society of Civil Engineers it seems that body asked for the deportation of the following officers of the C. P. R.: Mr. E. H. McHenry, chief engineer; Mr. William Tye, assistant engineer; Mr. Fred. Darling, eastern divisional engineer; Mr. J. E. Sullivan, western divisional engineer; Mr. H. Goldring, chief mechanical engineer; Mr. P. Gullins, chief engineer of maintenance of ways; Mr. Frank Lee, resident engineer at Calgary; Mr. Raymond Heckman, inspector at Winnipeg; Mr. Hedge, transit manager at Winnipeg, and Mr. Delinger, superintendent at Brandon.

JUDGE WINCHESTER'S INQUIRY.
Toronto, June 29.—His Honor Judge Winchester was in the city yesterday, and left for Ottawa last night, where he will continue his investigation of the employment by the Grand Trunk Pacific of alien engineers. While in Ottawa His Honor will see the Minister of Justice regarding the Toronto civic election officials now under sentence in the Central Prison—Thomas Kerr, A. Cahoon and Sam. Thompson. The decision of the Court of Appeal, which resulted in the release of Lieut.-Col. Gray and F. A. Gray, has led to the belief that His Honor will recommend that the terms of other prisoners, particularly Kerr and Cahoon, be considerably shortened.

DROWNING FATALITIES.

QUEBECKER DROWNED AT MONTMORENCY AND A TORONTO
ARTIST IN NEW ONTARIO.

Quebec, June 28.—Yesterday afternoon Mr. Nicholas Asselin, bookkeeper for Mr. McConnell, jr., Miss Asselin and a gentleman friend and two other young ladies, the Misses Matte and Grefard, left by electric cars for Montmorency Falls and the Natural Steps. When at the latter place the party sat for some time on the rocks, and about 5:30 Miss Asselin and her friend left to go towards the Kent House. Her brother and his two lady friends remained there for some time, and were enjoying a light collation when young Asselin went towards the river to get some water. The steps where he went down were rather high, and he must have slipped off the lower step, as the two ladies heard a splash in the water and ran down towards the spot where their companion had last been seen. They saw Mr. Asselin in the water floating around with his head above water, and the young ladies cried out for help. Near by was a young man with a couple of ladies, but all he replied to the cries that a man was in the water was, 'What can I do?' One of the ladies noticed a plank and threw it towards Asselin, but before it reached the unfortunate man he had thrown up his hands and disappeared. The body was recovered about 10:30 o'clock this morning and brought to the residence of the parents, No. 488 St. Valier street, where the coroner will hold an inquest to-morrow morning.

Toronto, June 29.—Telegrams received in the city yesterday by Mr. Thomas Southworth, commissioner of colonization, announced the death by drowning on Friday last of Mr. Neil McKechnie, a well-known artist of Toronto. Mr. Southworth's first message merely announced the fact of the drowning, but a longer message received during the afternoon stated that about ten a.m. on Friday a party in two canoes were shooting the rapids about five miles from Fort Metagama, a point on the height of land along which the new Grand Trunk Pacific will cross Ontario.

The canoe in which Mr. McKechnie was sailing struck something, capsized, and all three men thrown into the water. Southworth shouted to his companions to cling to the upturned canoe, which was large enough to bear all their weight. Either McKechnie did not hear or understand the call, or, as he was a splendid swimmer, he may have decided to try for the shore, towards which he struck out, but he was speedily overcome and sank.

terday. Hundreds of citizens and visitors inspected the building, and the general verdict was one of high praise. Mr. Carnegie's gift of $13,500 has resulted in a public library of modern Greek design, containing general and children's reading-rooms, and men's reading and smoking-rooms, an historical society room, and a stack room of twenty thousand volumes capacity. The workmanship throughout is exceedingly good, the interior fittings being especially admired. One noteworthy feature is that the building provides for free access to the books.

TRAP FISHING ON VANCOUVER ISLAND.

Victoria, June 29.—The first catch of salmon from traps on Vancouver Island, under the new regulations, has been taken by Todd & Munroe. Over six hundred were caught in a few hours. The city is delighted with the government's action in legalizing traps. The construction of canneries tributary to Victoria will commence shortly as a result of the experiment. The event puts an end to a controversy that has been in progress for many years. Canadian fishing regulations forbade the catching of the fish by traps. The new regulations now place Canadian fishermen on an equal footing with American fishermen.

MCGILL GRADUATES IN ONTARIO.

Toronto, Ont., June 29.—Dr. Moyses, dean of the Faculty of Arts, McGill University, and Dr. Torg, of the university staff, were in conference with the Ontario educational authorities yesterday. Fair progress was made in adjusting the question of admitting McGill graduates to teachers' standing in this province.

INSPECTED ISLAND PARK.

The members of the Parks and Ferries Committee yesterday afternoon visited St. Helen's Island and inspected the park buildings and grounds, which were proposed to be in a satisfactory condition. Mr. W. B. Desmarais, the gardener, showed the aldermen around. Alderman Robillard, chairman of the committee, said that when the next annual visit would take place the island would probably all be under the control of the city.

LOCAL STOCKS.

PR. GOES HIGHER—RICHELIEU BREAKS TWO POINTS.

'Witness' Office, June 29, 1904.
The increase in C.P.R. profits for May is small, but coming as it does after a year of decreases, it is distinctly an encouraging feature, and was so taken by the market this morning, the price touching 100.

The only other stock which showed any activity was Richelieu, which broke two points on sales of 200 shares. Otherwise the market was very dull, reflecting the unwillingness of traders to do anything just before the long holiday last week. Thursday afternoon to Tuesday.

Without any apparent cause cheese has advanced from 1-8c to 1-4c on yesterday's quotations. Every factor in the market is of a bullish nature; heavy stocks, continued large production in the country, also very heavy daily receipts, together with a disinterested English market; all these might be reasonably supposed, should have a directly opposite effect. It is thought in some quarters that a few orders have been given to parties who had to buy to fill them, and the market was visibly affected in consequence. It is quite likely that the market will react and fall away to the 7½ level. The stocks that are held in Montreal are enormous, and there does not seem any immediate likelihood of them being cleared, as even when an order is placed it is usually of the most hand-to-mouth type. Our quotations to-day are for finest Ontario, 8c, and 7½ for best Quebec. Receipts were 20,000 boxes.

A Liverpool cable advice quotes white at 37s 6d, and colored at 38s 6d. There is not much activity in the egg market. Receipts are being nicely adjusted, however, to the demand, and there are few accumulations to speak of. Purchases of straight gathered stock have been made at 14½c, but as a rule the market for that grade is fairly firm at 15 cents. Receipts to-day were 620 cases.

EXCHANGE AND MARI.

Toronto, Ont., June 28.—A copy of the commercial bulletin of New Caledonia, Australia, has been received by the Bureau of Mines here. An article in it shows that the output of the Dikeet mines there has been steadily declining as a result of Ontario mines competition. In 1902 the output had fallen to 123,000 tons, and in 1903 to 77,300 tons.

RATES ON PRODUCE.

THE RAILWAY COMMISSION REPLY TO FARMERS' COMPLAINTS.

Toronto, Ont., June 28.—Before the railway commission this morning Mr. J. W. Loud, for the railway, replied to the complaints of the Farmers' Association as advanced by Messrs. J. Lockie Wilson and W. E. Gregory. The complaint that Ontario millers are given lower rates for grain products than farmers get for grain in Toronto was explained thus: The miller has already paid four to five cents per 100 lbs. on the grain, to get it to the mill. The ex-lake rate from Ontario ports, such as Goderich and Collingwood to the sea, he explained, is fixed by water competition from Chicago and Duluth, and, therefore, Ontario farmers can scarcely expect this rate, especially at western grain has already paid to get into Chicago and Duluth. The question of cattle rates was next taken up. The rate from Chicago to New York and Chicago to Montreal is 28 cents. The highest rate from Ontario is 25 cents. Mr. Loud pointed out that although the rate from Detroit is also 25 cents, there is no competition from that point, no Michigan cattle being sent to the seaboard. Ontario's competition comes from the western states, and these cattle pay to get into Chicago as well as the 28 cents to the sea.

MANITOBA'S CROPS ARE PROMISING.

Winnipeg, June 28.—According to the report of the C.P.R., issued this morning, the crops at all points on their lines, are in splendid condition. During the week the heaviest rain fall has been confined to points in Southern Manitoba and along the Prince Albert branch. Some points in those districts had as much as thirty hours of rainfall, but over the greater portion of the country the storms were light and of short duration. The average height of the grain at the present time runs from 12 to 20 inches, though there are fields which show much larger growth. The grain is heavy on the ground, and of an excellent color.

THE CATHOLIC SAILORS' CLUB.

St. Michael's Court, No. 1081, Catholic Order of Foresters, will have charge of the concert this evening at the Catholic Sailors' Club, which promises to be as interesting as any that have taken place this season. Mr. John Harrington, chief ranger, will occupy the chair, and the following array of talent will assist in the programme:—Miss S. O'Brien, Miss Broderick, Miss Harrington, Miss T. McBride, Miss Coleman, Miss M. Walker, Messrs. M. J. Power, Geo. Morgan, T. Hogan, Allan Scott, J. Brothers, H. Nolan, A. Foran, R. Lattimer, M. O'Loughlin and others. The sailors will also assist with their songs, choruses and dancing, and altogether a lively time is assured.

SLIGHT ACCIDENT TO BOHEMIAN.

Something went wrong with the steering gear of the Bohemian last evening just after she had passed through the Lachine rapids, and the steamer had to be brought to anchor. Things were eventually righted, and the boat reached port safely. The passengers have had no experience, nothing worse than a little annoyance at the delay.

CONCERT AT THE SAILORS' INSTITUTE.

Last night's concert at the Montreal Sailors' Institute was a very successful one. The programme was well arranged, and was greatly appreciated by the large audience present. The choir of Chalmers Church, under the direction of Professor Hubert A. Baker, rendered several glees, and songs were sung by Miss Bain, Miss King, Messrs. J. L. Woods, A. B. Davis, and Bain. Miss Turner and Miss Rose played a piano duet; Miss Katie Connors recited, and readings were given by Miss Rose and Mr. Dettmers, and Mr. Baker played a selection on the flute. Among the seamen who assisted in making the evening pass so pleasantly were Mr. Chalmers, Mr. Harrington, Mr. Walter, Mr. S. A. Alder, Messrs. Lennan, Isaac Griffiths and Mrs. Severt, R.M.S. Tunisian. The accompaniments were played by Miss Turner and Miss Meyers. In the absence of the Rev. G. Colborne Heine, through illness, Captain Baines presided. Captain Murray, SS. Denova, and Captain Peet, SS. Minnie, were also present.

NOTES.

The Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Navigation Company's steamer John Cerar, arrived on Monday evening with a cargo of 27,000 sacks of flour from Duluth. The flour is for export.

Six large rafts, in tow of a steamer, arrived in Montreal yesterday afternoon, and were tied up for the night at Beauville. Each raft is 300 feet long and about 100 feet broad. The fleet, which belongs to Mr. Carman, left Kingston last Saturday. The timber is for government use, and will be distributed at various points down the river.

The Gaspe line steamer Gaspesien, Captain F. Bouchard, sailed yesterday afternoon with passengers and general cargo for Gaspe Basin and the way ports.

The Donaldson line steamer Alcides, Captain G. Horsburgh, sailed early this morning with general cargo and 595 cattle for Glasgow.

The treasurer of the Montreal Sailors' Institute acknowledges with thanks the receipt from C.P.R. steamship Lake Manitoba, Captain Murray, per Mr. Everard, of the sum of $4 16s 6d, being half proceeds of concert on board.

The Catholic Sailors' Club acknowledges the receipt of $4 16s 6d from Captain J. Murray, per Mr. Everard, purser, C.P.R. line steamship Lake Manitoba, half proceeds of concert on board.

LAWRENCE UNION MEDAL CONTEST.

Another medal contest was held under the auspices of the Lawrence W.C.T.U. in the Inspector Street Chapel last evening. The contestants were Daisy Manning, Carrie Barton, Frances Hughes, Eliza Penny, Maud Mascott, May Kerr and Maud Kerr. It was hard to tell which the audience appreciated most, the recitations of the young ladies or the musical numbers as provided by Mrs. Dunn, Mr. Dunbrill, Miss Gertie Miller and the Misses Paris. At the close Mr. M. C. Hopkin, Principal of the Royal Arthur School, as chairman of the committee of judges, announced that the medal had been unanimously awarded to Miss Manson. The other contestants were then presented by Mrs. Currie, president of the Union, with dainty little sterling silver pins as souvenirs of the pleasant occasion. The Rev. Melvin Taylor, pastor of the Mountain Street Methodist Church, who presided in his usual happy manner, said his hatred of the liquor traffic, which the W.C.T.U. was organized to fight, dated from his boyhood, when for a few months he was a clerk in the store of his home village, and daily saw the workings of a saloon just across the way.

MAY BE SHUT OUT OF LARGE AREA.

The proposal to limit the area in which manufacturing institutions may be erected and maintained in Montreal is not a new one. Twice before the attempt has been made and has failed. The promoters of the present by-law for this purpose hope to present a measure that will be acceptable. The area is bounded on the north, as directions are generally described, by Mount Royal and Mount Royal avenue; on the west by the city limits, about Atwater avenue; on the south from the western limits by the Canadian Pacific Railway tracks to Aqueduct street; by Aqueduct street north to a line 200 feet south of Dorchester street, this line running eastward parallel with Dorchester street to Drummond street; thence by Drummond street south to Osborne street; along Osborne street east to Cathedral street; Cathedral street south to LaGauchetière street; LaGauchetière street east to St. Alexander street; St. Alexander street north to St. Catherine street; St. Catherine street east to Amherst street, and on the east the boundary named is Amherst street to Ontario street; Ontario east to Parthenais street; Parthenais east to the limits; on the line of the limits westward to Papineau avenue, and by Papineau avenue to Mount Royal avenue. Best Way to Rear
Healthy Children.

Develop Their Strength With Ferrozone Which Makes Rich Blood, Hardy Muscles, Steady Nerves.

Children brought up on Ferrozone are known by their strong rugged frames, their chubby cheeks and healthful appearance. Mothers find it an indispensable tonic and body builder, and in thousands of homes no other remedy is used.

Mrs. E. Montgomery, of Pittsburg, writes: "A little niece came to visit me, and noticing her pale looks and haggard looks, I started her on a course of Ferrozone. The change that girl underwent in a few weeks was marvellous. Her appetite chirped up, she had more spirit and strength and a rosy color came into her cheeks that I never saw there before. I weighed my niece about the time she started to pick up, and in seven weeks she gained almost eight pounds. I just looked the picture of health. I think this should be an example to many mothers, and I hope that others will try Ferrozone for their little boys and girls. I am thoroughly convinced that it's the most strengthening tonic. It has my strongest endorsement."

The reason Ferrozone works so beneficially with children is that it acts directly on their blood, freeing it of all unhealthy matter at the same time giving it an additional supply of iron. This at once results in more strength, new spirit and renewed vitality. Just one tablet at meal time works wonders.

You must be sure to get Ferrozone. Refuse to accept any article the drug-gist may say is just as good. Get what you ask for, Ferrozone, and the result we guarantee will be satisfactory. Price 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

A MEMORY OF THE PRAIRIE.

(Harry Bindloss, in 'Chambers' Journal.)

It was a bitter winter afternoon. The air was clear and still, when I and I trudged beside our sledges on the white levels of the Assiniboine. The snow seldom lies deep in this region, and the blue-grey smear that stretched back straight as far as the eye could see attracted us to travel on our brawny feet. Thin steam hung about them; and nearly five miles an hour, we went on. The beasts seemed anxious to reach the shelter of the bluff in that country usually said to be composed of wind-dwarfed hills.

I worked hard for some time before I was pried high with slender poles, and then I noticed a frown on Colville's face as he leaned panting on the side of his axe.

There are those other sledge-tracks, and this thing is beginning to weigh me, he said. I believe I hold my right to the fuel in this bluff; but because everybody knows I don't grudge a neighbor all that he has, I burn, it's curious whoever takes it, and so surreptitiously. 'Don't you see you so?'

The straggling birches scarcely obstructed my vision as I swept my eyes round the great white circle. Nothing moved upon it; and, lying still under that frozen silence, all the land seemed dead. Then I looked at Colville, and because he faced the west the glare of sunset beat upon his snow-brown countenance. It was a beautiful face, with nevertheless more than a trace of refinement. The clear-brown eyes matched the drooping moustache and sun-creased hair, while the heavy figure in the white-sprinkled furs had been developed to a fine symmetry of beautiful form. I do not think Harry was more than twenty-five; but he had taken hold with a strong hand, and fortune had favored him. He was master of the land, perhaps the finest hunter on that prairie, and for a time I had worked beside him through arctic frost and blinding summer dust with never an altercation. Still, when letters reached him from England at long intervals, he showed signs of bitterness; and I remember the curious look on his face when somebody at a political meeting called him a foreigner. Lifting his head, he sent his voice ringing with his usual fiery impulsiveness across the assembly: 'It is true I was born yonder in the greatest country on earth; but is that a reason why I should not now render this good land which has prospered me the best service of brain and body?'

I have noticed several curious things, I said. First, that the trespasser picks blown timber and never fells a tree; secondly, that his sledge is always lightly loaded, and driven over the beaten tracks as though to hide its trail. I might have added that I had discovered the print of singularly small paws, but did not do so, being undecided whether certain vague suspicions were justified.

Well, I dare say we'll find out some day, and it's time we struck homeward, said Colville, with a smile.

We plodded homeward through an unearthly silence and under an awful sky. The dusty snow dulled the beat of hoofs; and because each piece of meat was wrapped in hide, sound itself seemed frozen. When that night we passed in a state of delicious languor under the stove, I remembered it had been several hours' hard labor to cut the load.

Harry reopened the subject. 'I'm not afraid about that wood-cutting; but it's the logs I miss,' he said. 'It is the thing that whoever takes them must have I would grudge them which excites me. We are perhaps a trifle primitive, even brutal; but thank God! we can need ever go cold or hungry on the prairie when his neighbor has plenty, which doesn't seem to be the case in our civilized communities. There's a fellow in that last newspaper which called me an elderly military man I remember seeing at my father's table, and dying of starvation in a London slum. I suppose the poor devil would perish than proclaim his name.'

There are folks of that kind over here, I said. 'When twenty harvests may strike you for a free meal, you wish to wish we had a few more here. By the way, I've sometimes wondered about the antecedents of our neighbor Ormesby.'

His bronzed face flushed. 'I'm ashamed to say so, but I mention it to Carson when I wrote, and he told me the whole history. Ormesby is a partner in a patriarchal English firm. Didn't trouble about business, but to his hobbies: horses, big dogs, and something, and pigs. Brother Carson ran the banking, and one of the gentlemen when the smash came, Ormesby was rather dupe than the beguiled tradesman cursed by the gods. He came out here to hide his eldest daughter was to have a local magnate, who backed him.

It left me thoughtful. Ormesby was followed by his two daughters, and on a partly broken land some of the girls found a marriage settlement for minor produce. One disappeared shortly after harvest, which was a failure, and the broken-down gentleman, shrinking from all intercourse with his scattered neighbors, lived as a recluse. Harry, I knew, had ridden over with presents of the kind freely exchanged thereabouts, but returned crestfallen. On the last occasion I saw him savagely fling the sundries broadcast across the prairie.

The old man looks very shaky, and it must be a hard life for two delicately brought-up girls, I said.

A week later I chanced to be in the post-office of the railway settlement, twenty miles away, when Miss Miriam Ormesby came in. She was very young in appearance, fragile, and delicately pretty; but there was a curious gravity upon her face. It was also a brave young face, and something in the poise of the shapely head and thoughtful steadiness of the fine grey eyes betokened a high courage as well as an acquaintance with adversity. The girl was dressed in thin turreted garments, and her cheeks were blue, while I noticed how her eagerness changed to relief as, opening the envelope handed her, she changed a slip from it for minted silver. Then, strolling down the snow-streaked street, I passed Ormesby's team. They stood in the open, and no settler ever drove in from a distance at that temperature without putting up and feeding his beasts at the wooden hotel, where they then charged us a dollar.

I lay, pipe in mouth, upon a flour-bag, chatting with the keeper of the general store when chance sent Miriam Ormesby my way again. She came in diffidently, and while waiting I saw her eyes grow wistful as she laid her ill-protected hand upon some thick fur mittens. There was something pathetic in the gesture; and, feeling ashamed at having witnessed it, I was glad she did not see me. She purchased two dollars' worth of provisions, picking out the very cheapest kind, and I think the storekeeper's wife must have pitied her, for she shamefully cut the prices charged Harry and I, who purchased by the hundredweight. The whole proceeding was plainly an ordeal to the girl; and yet, though her lips would quiver as she considered the difference of a cent or two, she went through it with a childish dignity which, for some strange reason, made me feel that the use of unlawful language would be a relief. When she went out I turned to the store-mistress.

'You won't make your fortune in that fashion,' I said.

'No,' was the cheery answer. 'But we can always average up on the Branholm bills. I'd have given her the lot with pleasure; but there are some of you folks from the old country no plain Canadian dare offer favors to.'

'You try me next time,' I said dryly.

'By the way, what's the list-figure for these mittens?'

'Two dollars,' was the answer, and the lady smiled. 'Considering that they're half the size of your hand, the price is one—to you.'

'They are mine. Have I not a dozen fair cousins over-seas?' I said.

'The storekeeper's wife dropped her voice a little. 'My own girl would have been about her age had she lived, and I'm real sorry for that child,' she said. 'Did you see the cruel frost-wounds on her wrists? It's my opinion the poor soul is doing a man's work to keep her fool father's place together.'

BIBLE TRUTH.
WEDNESDAY, JUNE 29.
THE NAMES OF GOD.

1. The principal names of God in the Old Testament are El, God, in the plural form Elohim. God is the Mighty One. El is used about 225 times. The Almighty, El-Shaddai 43 times. This name is connected with promise and blessing. He is the all-sufficient One. The God of Providence. The All-bountiful. The God of His sufficiency and of His strength. The name teaches the fullness of God's resources, His richness and bounty. 2. Elohim occurs about 2,700 times. (a) The God of creation is (b) the Jehovah in covenant relation to His people, (c) the Father of believers in Christ, for they are co-heirs with Him. Thus Elohim is (a) God of all men, (b) God of the covenant with His people, and (c) God and Father in Christ. We have the Trinity in creation. (Gen. i.) in the covenants and in Christ. The Scripture proofs of these three are abundant. Man rejects all three. The ante-diluvians cast aside the first; Israel ignored the second, and mankind to-day largely rejects the third, Christ. When these three revelations are rejected, God Himself is rejected. 3. Jehovah. This is the covenant-keeping, promise fulfilling, unchanging One. This name was unknown till revealed to Moses, so Christ as the fullest manifestation of God was not known till revealed to Peter—and is only acknowledged by Spirit-taught souls. (Matt. xvi. 17.) I Cor. xii. 3.) Old Testament use of this name is applied in the New to the Lord Jesus, proving that the Jehovah of the Old is the Jesus of the New. What stronger evidence can we have of His Deity. 4. Adonai. My Lord only of the Supreme Being, Abraham, who saw Christ in it, uses the name in Gen. xvi. Lord in small letters means Master, owner. Lord in capitals means Jehovah.

to sin which may visit us. We must fight our temptations as they come, one by one. And conquering in one will not let us be careless when another arises. We must overcome our temptations as they come, one by one. And conquering in one will not let us be careless when another arises. We must overcome our sins, each sin by itself, if we are to overcome them at all. It will not help us if we feel generally sorry for our faults unless we try to put our finger on the actual faults and sins which we have to get rid of. CHARIVARI.

We are pleased to see signs already of a better feeling between Russians and Japanese. The 'Svet,' a Russia morgan which has not hitherto been remarkable for the kindness of its attitude towards the enemy, last week went out of its way to point out in the most courteous language that a siege of Port Arthur could only prove harmful to the Japanese.

Russia continues to appear in her new 'role' of the apostle of the Open Door policy. She will shortly open all the ports in her possession on the Pacific, and has succeeded in partially opening Port Arthur in the teeth of Japanese obstruction.

We live in an age of advertisement. In these days of motor-car competition it is more than ever necessary for railway trains to keep themselves before the public; and, to show that there is life in them yet, last week the Ostend Vienna express ran over four persons in succession at Bingenbrück, Bacharach, Bischofsheim and Mayence.

Professor Rutherford has informed the Royal Institution that, owing to the existence of radium, the end of the world, which some scientists had estimated would arrive in a few hundreds of thousands of years, may be postponed for a million aeons. We trust this statement will put a stop to jerry-building.

A priest of the Italian Church, Hathon Garden, has declared that any one can go into the Italian colony without fear of annoyance. But where, then, do the piano-organs live when they are at home?

Some satisfaction has been expressed that the Boer Congress should not have demanded life pensions for all those who took part in the war against us; but it must be remembered that the Congress is young yet.

On Thursday last Mr. Harvey du Cros succeeded in reaching the summit of Snowdon in a four-cylinder 15 h.p. car. This is bad news for those nervous people who are in the habit of retreating to the top of this mountain so as to avoid being run over by motor-cars.

The Poet Laureate has written an anonymous comedietta. This opens up the interesting possibility of his having previously published a 'magnum opus' without our knowing of it.

The Kaiser has informed Leoncavallo that he (with a small 'h') is the greatest dramatic composer of the day. This is unusually modest of the Kaiser.

As we go to press, some important War news reaches us. According to the New York 'Journal,' the Czar has buckwheat cakes for breakfast, and cucumbers scooped out and filled with sweetbreads for luncheon and has taken to cellular underwear of an American brand.
