Magog wins Bill 101 extension

Magog's Main Street and its collection of signs will stay that way for as long as the city needs to carry out its francization program, following the OLF decision.

By CAROLE TREISER

MAGOG — The giant boulder in front of city hall that identifies the "Cite de City of Magog" as a bilingual community will not be reduced to rubble despite the government's francization program. The government admits it would cost the city too much to tear up "That's only one of the exemptions from the law that l'Office de la Langue Francaise clarified for us last night".

said Councillor Laurent Girard.

In their closed-door meeting with the city council, the officials who interpret the law, exempted the city from other expensive clauses. Representatives of l'Office said that the law didn't require an immediate change-over of all English street signs to French. The changeover could take up to three years.

"Contrary to what most municipalities think, the signs only have to be replaced in French once they've worn out. There's no rush," said Girard.

"But if you don't ask, they won't tell you", he added.

L'Office had asked for the meeting because Magog was the only municipality left in the province that didn't complete a survey of its linguistic makeup.

"We were afraid all this could cost us money for nothing," Councillor Girard told the Record last month.

But the government is willing to compromise again in an effort to save Magog expenses and get the job done.

"They only told us last night, after months of bickering, that their personnel is available to complete the survey for us", Girard said.

Officials from the OLF were not available for comment.

Rondeau sentence increased

By JOHN McCAGHEY

MONTREAL — Gilbert Rondeau, the 50-year-old former independent MNA for Shefford was shocked here yesterday when the Quebec Court of Appeals upheld a motion preferred by Bedford Crown attorney Claude Noiseux which upped Rondeau's arson conspiracy sentence from six months to two years.

Rondeau was convicted of the two charges in Granby in August, 1978 when Judge Louis-Denis Bouchard found him guilty of having conspired with Jacques Harbec and Jean Bernier in the two months preceding Dec. 20, 1976, to having conspired to commit arson and to having set a fire in a home he owned in Bromont on Dec. 20, 1976. Rondeau was attending the funeral of former Creditiste leader Real Caouette in Rouyn at the time of the blaze, which caused approximately $12,000 damages to the property. He earlier tried to sell it for $15,000 while it was mortgaged for a similar amount. He was reimbursed for the damages by his insurance firm.

Harbec later pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy and arson and was sentenced to five months concurrent on each charge and Bernier, who pleaded guilty to a simple charge of arson, was sentenced to three months.

The three-man Appeals Court tribunal handed down their verdict late yesterday afternoon, less than a week after Noiseux had argued the sentence handed the former legislator was inadequate.

During remarks made to Judge Bouchard prior to sentencing, Noiseux said Rondeau should have been more aware of the gravity of his acts, as he was involved in the creation of laws as well as amendments to the Criminal Code and thus could not be considered as an ordinary citizen. He also mentioned the accused had been fined $5,050 following his conviction on 18 of 23 counts of having induced persons in error to commit fraudulent acts by making false declarations concerning political contributions under terms of the Canada Electoral Act prior to the arson charges.

Defence lawyers Paul Lesage and Michel Robert, the latter of Granby, argued their client had suffered through his exposure in the national media and said he should be handed a very light sentence. Robert suggested a suspended sentence or two days' imprisonment would amply serve the interests of justice, adding the family of his client had been publicly shamed.

Rondeau, who was cited to jury trial following a preliminary hearing on 24 counts of fraud and having conspired with one or more persons to defraud the unemployment insurance commission of approximately $69,000 between June, 1973 and October, 1977, later re-opted for trial before a judge alone. He then

REPORT BACKS DOMESTIC OIL HIKE

OTTAWA (CP) — A confidential government report on energy security and self-sufficiency, ordered by Prime Minister Clark, recommends immediate and more rapid increases in domestic oil prices.

The report, prepared by a 32-member caucus of Conservative MPs who worked through the summer, was discussed by Clark's inner cabinet as they grappled with energy policy at their Jasper, Alta., strategy session last month.

A spokesman for Energy Minister

Ray Hnatyshyn said Monday the report's recommendations are under review. Hnatyshyn is to receive the committee's final report by the end of the month.

The committee also recommends the "recycling of petrodollars into the national economy" by the creation of a Canadian energy bank financed in part by annual, billion-dollar, low-interest loans from the Alberta Heritage Fund.

The funds would be used to finance projects aimed at making Canada energy self-sufficient by 1995.

In Red Deer, Alta., Alberta Social Credit leader Bob Clark criticized Clark for saying that future national energy policy will retain the strong industrial position of Ontario.

"I am disappointed and disturbed that a prime minister from Alberta, who I hope recognizes the long-term problems Westerners have had, would indicate to the premier of Ontario that he wants to maintain the status quo," he said.

Meanwhile, in Bucharest, a Canadian energy self-sufficient by 1995. See ENERGY, Page 2.

Clark boasts unity progress

MONTREAL (CP) — Prime Minister Joe Clark said Monday his government has done more in three months than Pierre Trudeau did in 11 years to breathe new life and flexibility into federalism.

Clark cited the new government's moves to cede Loto Canada to the provinces, drop the Liberals' proposal to hold its own referendum on Quebec independence, and to allow the use of French in air traffic control in Quebec.

"I now believe the field is open for us and other federalists to take the initiative and demonstrate what we can do," he said.

Clark made the comments in an hour-long interview broadcast live over Radio-Quebec, a provincial government-owned television network. He declined to answer questions later.

But former Liberal finance minister Jean Chretien said the Clark government is "abdicating its leadership responsibilities" by not passing a law allowing the federal government to hold its own referendum on independence for Quebec.

The Liberals had tabled a bill that would have permitted the government to hold a cross-country referendum as a means of opposing the provincial referendum scheduled for next spring. However, Clark said Aug. 30 that his new government would not follow suit.

In a speech to a Liberal party meeting here, Chretien said this means leaving the full responsibility of the debate on the future of the country in the hands of the pro-independence Levesque government in Quebec.

Passing a referendum bill would guarantee that the Quebec referendum

Richmond Fair aid forthcoming

By CLAUDIA BOWERS

Richmond Fair was dying two years ago.

Today, the miracle of rebirth has happened, due to the resounding success of the fair held this weekend. Maurice Tremblay, deputy to Agriculture Minister, Jean Garon, visited the fair site Saturday and remarked that the minister had discussed the fair at some length last week and the attitude of the government is encouraging.

"We are impressed with the effort the people of this county have poured into this year's fair," Tremblay said. "We are taking into consideration also that in the space of a few months, this new association raised over $30,000 to help get the fair back on its feet."

"Let's just say for the present that things at the ministry look good for Richmond Fair next year," Tremblay added.

"We accomplished what we started out to do," said John Boersen, president of the new Association Agricole de Richmond.

"We went ahead on our own and made our plans to hold this event, and we made more money today than we did in all three days last year," Boersen explained as he sped around the Richmond County fairgrounds tending to a mountain of details that always ac-

Is Toronto's financial dominance slipping?

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto may be losing its position as Canada's financial hub as soaring land prices and municipal red tape force companies to shift operations elsewhere.

That gloomy forecast, contained in a Metro planning report, hasn't reached crisis proportions yet, but it is worrying civic officials.

"There are no visible cracks in our armor, but there are a few chips," says Metro Chairman Paul Godfrey.

Businessmen are quick to note other problems in the city — a lack of land for expansion and traffic congestion that makes transportation of goods difficult. Some say Metro municipalities have anti-business attitudes.

The planning report cites the loss of 1,011 manufacturing firms in three years as a symptom of the city's financial trouble.

However, not all of these companies left town. About 120 went bankrupt between 1975 and 1978, says the consumer and corporate affairs ministry. Others merged with larger companies or changed their names.

Not even Don Richmond, the deputy planning commissioner who wrote the report, knows exactly how many industries left Toronto. He acknowledges that there isn't a crisis yet, but there are warnings:

—assessment growth has dwindled from four or five per cent a year in the 1960s to two per cent, and forecasts show it may fall to one per cent by 1985;

—Metro's population dropped to 2,137,867 in 1978 from 2,156,262 in 1976;

—in June this year, 88,000 people in Metro were out of work and that number is expected to rise;

—municipal spending is rising faster than provincial aid, forcing a greater reliance on property taxes.

Meanwhile, other cities aren't standing still.

"Calgary and Edmonton are challenging Toronto's position as the financial centre of Canada," Richmond says.

BENEFITS IN U.S.

In most cases, companies stay in Ontario — many of them moving just outside Metro to nearby Mississauga and Peel Region where more land is available.

Guerrillas won't compromise

LONDON (AP) — Guerrilla leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe renewed their demand for control of Zimbabwe Rhodesia and showed no tendency to compromise as a British-sponsored conference to give the war-torn African country a new constitution and peace got down to business today.

Mugabe and Nkomo, whose separate guerrilla armies are uneasily united in the Patriotic Front, objected to sitting at the same conference table with Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa and former prime minister Ian Smith and refused to attend a reception Monday night because the leaders on the other side of the war were going to be there.

"Negotiating the formal business of the conference is different from socializing with murderers," said a Patriotic Front spokesman. "We felt we could not distinguish the color of the tea we might have from the blood of women and children which the puppet regime of Muzorewa and Smith are shedding at this very moment."

TO DISCUSS TRUCE
British Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington opened the conference Monday with an appeal to both sides to agree on a new constitution before tackling the military issues: a ceasefire in the war that has cost 20,000 lives in seven years.

Aug. unemployment down 21,000

OTTAWA (CP) — The number of Canadians officially out of work fell for the fifth consecutive time last month to 772,000 from a July total of 793,000.

The seasonally-adjusted unemployment rate remained at 7.2 per cent.

The seasonally-adjusted rate is a measure of the seriousness of unemployment calculated to compensate for temporary seasonal factors such as the start of a new school year.

Monthly figures released today by the government show that the unemployment rate remained at its lowest level since February, 1976.

However the unemployment rate in Windsor, Ont., home of the troubled automotive industry stood at 12.4 per cent.

While the number seeking jobs in Canada declined throughout the summer, the trend in the United States was in the opposite direction. Nevertheless the U.S. unemployment rate, which reached six per cent in August for the first time in several months, remains below the Canadian rate.

Canada continues to have the worst unemployment rate in the industrialized world. Latest available figures show unemployment in Britain at 5.3 per cent, France at 5.6 per cent, West Germany at 3.7 per cent and Japan at 2.0 per cent.

PATTERNS EVIDENT
Usual regional patterns were evident with rates in the Atlantic provinces well above those in the rest of the country. Newfoundland, with 14.4 per cent of its labor force out of work, had the worst rate. Saskatchewan had the lowest at 3.7 per cent.

Lending rate hits record 13 per cent

TORONTO (CP) — Mortgage rates have joined the upward revision of bank rates which have brought the Canadian lending rate to a record 13 per cent.

A flurry of interest rate announcements came Monday from the five major chartered banks and some trust companies following a move Friday by the Central Bank of Canada raising its prime lending rate by one half of one per cent to 12.25 per cent.

The record 13-per-cent prime rate, the rate charged to the largest and most creditworthy companies, is up one half of one per cent from Friday and 4.75 per cent since January, 1978.

The banks also announced a record interest rate for nonchequing savings accounts of 10.25 per cent going to 10.5 per cent on Oct. 1, up from an average of 5.75 per cent at the start of 1978.

Gerald Bouey, Bank of Canada governor, said in an interview that the increase in the bank rate — the ninth since March, 1978 — was needed to protect the foreign value of the Canadian dollar.

Bouey said keeping the interest rate high will keep the Canadian dollar's exchange rate strong enough to prevent a potential outflow of investment funds caused by inflationary pressure from rapidly rising prices in the United States.

He said the increases were also needed to contain the growing demand for money and credit in Canada at a time when domestic prices, costs and wages are going up again.

The Royal Bank, Bank of Montreal, Toronto Dominion Bank and the Bank of Nova Scotia raised their mortgage rates by three-quarters of a percentage point.

The increase adds $316.68 to the annual cost of a $50,000 closed, five-year conventional mortgage amortized over 25 years.

Garon: Ottawa should end strike
MONTREAL (CP) — Agriculture Minister Jean Garon said Monday the federal government should act immediately to end a strike by Montreal port grainhandlers or begin to compensate Quebec livestock breeders for their losses.

Garon said the strike, now in its fourth month, has pushed up costs of feed grain for Quebec livestock farmers by $10 to $15 a tonne. He was speaking at a joint news conference with the presidents of three Quebec farm organizations.

Second hurricane lashes Florida
MIAMI (AP) — Tropical Storm Frederic lashed Cuba on Monday, uprooting trees, downing power lines and forcing more than 25,000 people to evacuate their homes, civil defence officials said.

There were no reports of casualties, however, as the storm passed over the island and then quickly revived to hurricane strength as it reached open water.

Seberg 'destroyed' by FBI?
PARIS (Reuter) — Actress Jean Seberg was driven to madness and destroyed by the FBI because of her support for black power movements, her second husband said Monday.

UIC proposals 'absurd', Grit claims
OTTAWA (CP) — Herb Breau, Liberal spokesman on unemployment insurance, said on Monday that proposals to reduce unemployment benefits are "the height of stupidity and absurdity."

Breau said in a prepared statement said the Liberals would vigorously oppose amendments to the program because "they would be disastrous for the Atlantic provinces, eastern Quebec and low income workers all over the country."

News reports Saturday said the Progressive Conservative government is reviewing ways of cutting benefits, particularly to seasonal workers, people who quit their jobs or are fired and those out of work for medical reasons.

Sex education to be compulsory?
MONTREAL (CP) — Sex education might be a compulsory part of the school curriculum for Quebec students as early as 1981, a provincial government spokesman says.

Fernand Toussaint, program director for the education department, said Monday government officials are working on a new social development course which will include sex classes.

But Toussaint added the course must be approved by Education Minister Jacques-Yvan Morin.

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Canadians are bored with the debate on national unity, Robert Banded, says the president and chief executive officer of Canadian National Railways.

Speaking to the Oshawa Rotary Club on Monday, Banded said that while the debate is important and needed, he feels sure Canadians are longing for the debate to quiet down.

Pollution blamed for low sperm count
WASHINGTON (AP) — The sperm count and fertility potential of U.S. males appear to be dropping and chemical pollutants may be responsible for some of the decrease, a scientist said today.

Dr. Ralph Dougherty of Florida State University said a study of 132 volunteer donors indicates that sperm density is continuing a slide other researchers first noticed 30 years ago.

No more crown corps., Landry says
MONTREAL (CP) — Economic Development Minister Bernard Landry promised Monday the Quebec government has no intention of creating more Crown corporations because "we have all we need to do what we want to do as a government."

The province will continue to rely heavily on private enterprise for economic growth, Landry said.

Big Macs, disco don't agree
MONTREAL (CP) — A downtown McDonald's restaurant has won an extension for a temporary injunction from Quebec Superior Court to close a gay disco over the fast-food outlet.

The extension was granted Monday after McDonald's complained about noise and vibrations from the disco, while the bar's operators said a club has been run in that location for more than 20 years and that McDonald's is discriminating against homosexuals.

Ugly juror unmasks beauty
LONDON (Reuter) — David Thomas may have been the ugliest juror ever to be sworn into service in an English court.

But the judge took the precaution of checking the grotesque old man, with the big nose and leering mouth. "Are you wearing a mask?" the judge asked. And Thomas admitted he was, tearing off a layer of plastic to reveal a clean-shaven 28-year-old.

He was sent to jail Monday until the case in the London suburb of Croydon was over and then brought up to be fined $110 for contempt of court.

Police Sgt. Daniel Murphy told the court: "He could give no reason for his conduct, but he had been drinking heavily last night at a party. That would account for his appearance today."

Ex-Maine governor to be ambassador

WASHINGTON (CP) — Kenneth Curtis, nominated Monday by President Carter to be the new U.S. ambassador to Canada, brings to the post a long political background highlighted by a close alliance with Carter.

If confirmed by the U.S. Senate, the 48-year-old former Maine governor who also served briefly as chairman of the Democratic party, will move to Ottawa early in the fall, replacing Thomas Enders who is being reassigned.

Enders, 48, a career diplomat who has been ambassador to Canada for three years, is expected to move to a European post, possibly as U.S. representative to the European Economic Community. But no announcement of his next move has been made.

No date has been set for a Senate foreign relations hearing to confirm the Curtis appointment but officials say they expect it to take place in the coming weeks.

would be held "in an honest and just way," Chretien said.

Clark, returning to the theme from last May's federal election, said Trudeau had a combative attitude in relations with the provinces and was "a prisoner of the status quo."

PLAYS DOWN COMMENT
The prime minister, speaking in French, played down his election campaign comment that Quebec has no right to pull out unilaterally from Confederation. He said he had only been referring to the fact there is no provision in the British North America Act for a province to secede.

But politically speaking it would be "unthinkable" for the rest of Canada to force people to stay in Confederation if they want to leave, he said.

Asked if he would negotiate with

Quebec if the province voted massively in favor of the Parti Quebecois sovereignty-association proposal, Clark said: "I have to negotiate with the government of Quebec today."

He added that the response from Ottawa will be the same no matter which way Quebecers vote because that is its job.

"I will be there to negotiate."

Asked from the audience about reported government plans to limit unemployment insurance payments, the prime minister confirmed the government is reviewing the system to make sure the money is not abused and goes to those who need it.

"The philosophy is to encourage people to find work."

Questioned by another about the latest increase in the Bank of Canada interest rate — which will mean higher interest rates for consumers — Clark said the government had to raise the rate because of the danger of a run on the Canadian dollar.

AVOIDS COMMENT
Clark declined to discuss the likelihood of a new series of larger oil price increases as recommended to the government by a caucus committee.

Details from the confidential report of the caucus committee were reported Monday. "We're looking at that recommendation," he told a reporter later, but would not elaborate.

In the studio, he told interviewer Pierre Nadeau he is still trying to get the provinces to agree on the issue and is not prepared to elaborate until he has finished.

The most intense questioning, as Clark himself noted in the interview, appeared to centre on the government's plan to sell parts of Petro-Canada, the government-owned oil company.

Nadeau noted that opinion polls show the majority of Canadians favor the retention of Petro-Canada and asked Clark who was pushing him to get rid of it.

Clark joked that he had been urged to act by "Mr. X in Chicoutimi, Mr. Y in Halifax."

More seriously, he added that the government wants to find ways Canadians themselves can invest in an industry dominated by multinationals.

RUMOR DISMISSED
Clark dismissed the Brascan report as a rumor and added he believes it will not now be possible for the company to buy Petro-Canada since the official is on the committee.

ENERGY

dian petroleum expert told the World Petroleum Congress today that a promising natural gas field on the Labrador shelf may prove as rich in fuel as the North Sea.

"The Labrador Sea has many of the earmarks of the North Sea," said Neil McMillan of Aquitaine Co. of Canada Ltd.

Significant natural-gas discoveries have been made at four of 11 exploratory wells sunk on the shelf between Canada and Greenland since 1973, he said in a paper delivered to the six-day congress, which opened in this Romanian capital Sunday.

"Many explorers think that the tectonic and petroleum successes of the Labrador sea will in the end be found to match the North Sea," he said. "Nothing to date has been found to detract from this expectation."

NEED MORE GAS
Another expert warned in a paper delivered Monday that unless new reserves are found quickly, natural gas and liquid natural gas will no longer be a major energy source after the year 2000.

But the expert, A.A. Meyerhoff of Tulsa, Okla., also said vast amounts of natural gas and liquid natural gas are believed to lie undiscovered. Several experts at the conference have said slightly less than half of the commercially accessible natural gas and liquid natural gas supplies have been located.

Adamsville caisse still awaited burglar alarm

ADAMSVILLE (Record News Services) — Security recommendations made six months ago for the credit union here, scene of a 50-hour-long hostage taking last week, still have not been put into effect.

A holdup alarm was finally ordered for the one-storey building in July, after its second robbery this year, but it couldn't be installed because of a strike by Bell Canada technicians.

The alarm would be connected to the telephone system.

"It is one of the rare caisses populaires in the province that doesn't have a holdup alarm," Claude Vallette, in charge of security for credit unions in the Montreal area and Eastern Townships, said Monday.

"Several years ago we recommended they install a holdup alarm," Vallette said. "But operators of the Adamsville Caisse Populaire were concerned about the costs and decided it wasn't worth the expense."

At least one of the cashiers doesn't plan to return to work until security measures are improved.

"Even if it takes six months to a year my wife won't go back to work at the caisse populaire," said Gaetan McCutcheon, whose wife, Lise, was one of the nine hostages at the credit union, 90 kilometres east of Montreal.

Two men, aged 19 and 26, are to be arraigned Wednesday in connection with the hostage-taking of customers and employees who were released safely Saturday.

Recommendations for a $40,000 bullet proof glass wall to separate employees from customers are still under study.

"We have no power to order caisses populaires owners to do anything. All we can do is recommend changes," said Vallette.

Crown attorney Yves Lagace confirmed yesterday that Gilles Gilbert, 26, of Montreal and Fred LeDrew, 19, of Labrador City, will be arraigned in a special session of provincial court in Granby Wednesday. They will be charged with counts of armed robbery, conspiracy with one or more persons to commit armed robbery, kidnapping, and possession of offensive weapons during the commitment of a crime of violence.

Giselle Pelletier Despres, 29, LeDrew's girlfriend of Montreal will also face charges of armed robbery, conspiracy after the fact and aiding and abetting fugitives in an attempt to escape. Charges arose from the 50-hour hostage-taking incident and the aborted bank robbery which began in Adamsville shortly before noon Thursday and ended at 1:15 Saturday.

The men will be represented by Robert LaHaye, who negotiated their surrender with QPF corporal Yvan Fauchon. Shefford County crown attorney Lagace said in a telephone interview that "no deal" had been made with the accused.

"Let's try this corner again boys," pleads driver Dennis Keenan as they wheel into the wrong turn and a crash course. They made it unharmed to the finish of the class during the horseshow held Sunday.

Richmond Fair good as ever

company a county fair. The 123rd annual event, held last weekend at the fairgrounds on the highway between Richmond and Windsor, was the scene of a fine example of a community working together and what could be accomplished.

"This is the finest show of Holsteins in the Eastern Townships," said David Crack, winner of the Premier Exhibitor Banner. "Brome and Sherbrooke didn't have any better."

Over two hundred head of Holsteins were entered in various competitions and one spectator was heard to ask during the cattle parade, "is there no end to these black and white animals?"

The fair opened officially Friday evening with local MNAs and members of parliament present as well as the mayor of several towns in Richmond County MNA Maurice Bellemare, former chief of the Union Nationale, said it was great to see the people get together to go ahead, even though they had not received much encouragement from the powers that be and his wish was to see the annual fair continue for many years and to grow more successful each year.

Also on Friday evening, the hum of the old buck saw and the sing-song of the swede saw filled the arena as old and young tried their hand at cutting a slice off a log to prove that the old ways were almost as fast as the newfangled machinery of today. The girls even tried their hand and the crowds loved it all. Trophies were donated by the Richmond Quebec Farmers Association in this event and by Grand Central Hotel for the Tug of War which followed.

Saturday, judging took place starting in the morning and continued all day. Big winners in the Holsteins were Rodney Duffy, Robert Lefebvre, and David Crack of Crackholm Farms. The spirit of fun was even obvious in the cattle barns where a sign proclaimed "Get high on milk, our cows are on grass," perhaps a slogan the National Dairy Council could seriously consider.

Saturday evening, the square dance competition attracted hundreds of spectators and square dance buffs. The Morin family of St. Felix de Kingsey formed a complete set and as one brother remarked, "Us Morins can do something together once in a while". Four brothers and their wives tripped the light fantastic through a quadrille and although they didn't win, this in no way dampened their spirits. Final winners after a half hour of deliberations by the three judges were a group of young people led by caller Doug Perkins.

Sunday was a busy day. The heavy horse show paraded before the crowds under sunny skies and according to judge Jerry Lowry, "This is one of the finest I have seen this year. We see horses here today that would do well at the Royal Winter Fair and that says a lot for quality."

Knight George, Gordon French, Fred Sarrasin, all teamsters from the Sawyerville-Cookshire area, claimed they would keep coming to Richmond Fair as long as there was one. "I wouldn't miss this fair for any money," claimed George. "This is where I have the best time and although it costs a goodly amount of money to truck the horses here and there hasn't been any prize money for several years, I'll always come here. It's one of the best, horse-show-wise and fair-spirit-wise."

The first cattle and horse parade held in several years filed by hundreds of spectators lined up along the track and a pair of goats seemed to capture the spotlight in the exalted presence of the Holstein champions.

The huge black percherons, the famous horses associated with Molson ale and the fancy Clydesdales well known the world over for their brilliant display when four or six are hitched together, pranced down the track, dazzling all the folks along the rail.

"Oh yes, the fair was a great success," said Agricultural Society

President Rosario Bernier. "It takes people working together and that includes exhibitors and spectators alike. That means whole families must come out, including the 'petits cousins' and the grandparents and it seems as though we have accomplished that this year at Richmond Fair."

"We went ahead alone, with no government help," explained Bob Simpson, secretary of the society. "The (the government) told us we wouldn't get help this year because we were too late with some of the red tape they claimed they required, but we were told we would receive some help for our last year's effort. Even that has not been forthcoming, so when we say this is our own effort, we really mean it."

The ladies' department, who have financed their prize money and ribbons for the past three years, were once again located in the main building where a freshly-brewed cup of coffee could be teamed up with sandwiches, donuts or cupcakes for a small sum. All the food was prepared and donated by the ladies themselves and one busy entrepreneur was heard to remark, "My goodness, I brought in 14 dozen donuts, and we'll have to make some more tonight."

This was the old spirit of the fair and everyone claimed a little piece of it. Boersen, president of the new association, expressed his feelings about the success of the fair in his remarks:

"We must not forget that without the competitors who come here and receive no prize money, or without the thousands who turned out to encourage these exhibitors, no amount of planning could have made this the fair the success it is."

"Of course, the good weather was a big factor, but our thanks go to each and every person, spectator, exhibitor, organizer or volunteer who have combined to prove that Richmond fair is important enough to keep."

Steve Perkins is back on the square dance caller's box after a few years' absence. His wife Eileen, a tireless worker and loyal supporter of this year's Richmond Fair, takes a short breather to watch the dancers and listen to her husband's chant with her granddaughter in her arms.

Over drinking spree escapes

Pen officers suspended

COWANSVILLE (JM) — Penitentiary director Jean Paul Lupien suspended two correctional officers following an investigation into a drinking spree with four inmates which led to the escape of two of the men to Montreal. The men violated a prison rule which prohibits the consumption of alcoholic beverages during 'contact' visits.

Classification officer Roger Tousignant and Living Unit officer Michel Lessard were respectively suspended for 30 and 15 working days.

The incident began Aug. 31 when the officers and the four inmates went to Tousignant's cottage near Frelighsburg when they consumed 18 bottles of beer and four of wine. The visit was part of the prison program aimed at reintegrating prisoners into society.

They were returning to the penitentiary when one of the inmates pulled a pocket knife and forced the officers to drive them to Montreal. Tousignant tried to halt the proceedings and suffered a severe wound in a thumb. Once they got to Montreal Daniel Brunet, 23, and Marcel Blanchet, 32, left their hosts at the intersection of St. Catherine St. and Union Ave., and fled on the Metro after they had robbed the officers of $90.

Brunet, who was serving seven years on a count of armed robbery was arrested the following morning by members of the Montreal police as the result of a barroom brawl when he apparently tried to rob a patron who held a black belt in karate. Brunet was taken to the Sacre Coeur Hospital suffering from a broken nose and other injuries.

Tousignant was treated at the Royal Victoria Hospital and was released the following morning. Blanchet pleaded guilty to a total of 14 counts totalling approximately $33,000 when the Crown withdrew the remaining 11 charges.

He was allowed his freedom pending arguments for sentencing which were continued to Holy Thursday, 1979. He then made a last-ditch attempt to withdraw his plea before Judge Gerard Normandin. It was refused. He was then sentenced to five months concurrent on each charge and fined a total of $5,400 in default of payment within 90 days, to six months additional.

Interim Creditiste Party leader Gilles Crouette, who tolerated Rondeau's pranks when he tried to bolster the party fund, took exception and ousted him following his arraignment on the arson charges despite an outcry from the Shefford militants.

Rondeau won leave to appeal the verdict and the sentence on the arson charges and the sentence on the fraud and conspiracy charges. The Crown appealed the arson sentence. He was later freed pending his appeals and ran as an independent candidate in Shefford on May 22 general election, losing his deposit.

He subsequently withdrew his motions to appeal and turned himself in to prison authorities on May 28 when he began serving his term on the fraud and arson counts. He was free on parole and attended the session here last Wednesday.

Noiseux, in his written brief and in his verbal arguments, cited Rondeau as a legislator who was part and parcel to amendments to the law and to the criminal code and should have had far more recognition of the consequences of his acts than an average citizen. He then cited the case of Antonia Gagnon, who was found guilty of similar charges concerning the fire which gutted the Star Theatre in Waterloo when she was handed 23 months by Judge Normandin despite the fact she had no prior record. Mrs. Gagnon appealed the sentence, which was upheld by the Appellate Court.

Government should move to increase competition

There simply must be more of an effort to increase competition in Canada. While government involvement in the economy is undesirable, it has to ensure that market forces are free to operate. The costs of doing nothing are outrageously high. Monopolies concentrate resources in a few hands, reduce the incentive to technological change, and discriminate against business by providing goods usually overpriced and inferior in quality. Monopolies too have unequal bargaining power and so can take undue advantage of the small producers.

For more than ninety years we in Canada have taken steps to hinder monopolies and cartels. The first antimonopoly law was passed here in 1888, two years before the passage of the U.S. Sherman Anti Trust Act. Our first initiatives were merely declarations against large-scale mergers. In 1910 Mackenzie King brought in the first Combines Investigation Act which assumed that if the public were informed of monopolistic practices, free market forces would boycott the corporation that violated fair practices.

Yet, in the ensuing nine years that was used only once even though there were more than 200 cases where major combinations took effect. In 1923 another Combines Investigation Act was passed, but it was amended extensively many times in the intervening years. The legislation said all the right things, outlawing combinations that "unduly" lessen competition and predatory practicing, but it was not enforced.

The results in many cases are plainly ridiculous. In 1975 a Quebec court ruled that similarity of prices in the sugar industry among three companies was only a case of "price leadership" with a conspiracy "unproven", based as it was on "circumstantial" evidence. After this decision was denounced by the then Federal Minister of Consumer and Corporate Affairs Andre Ouellet, he was then cited for contempt of court!

With this historical background, it is clear that there are too many firms with market dominance, not enough to land in a legal net, but enough to coast along inefficiently with protected prices. The recent merger of Simpsons and the Hudson Bay Company, for example, scarcely served the public interest. Even if it did not engage in actual restrictive or non-competitive practices, it does not serve the public interest if there are fewer retail outlets from whom the public can make retail purchases or to whom they can sell their production.

It is, of course, desirable to let prices be the means to ensure competitive behaviour. However, there are numerous instances of predatory pricing, lowering prices in a target area to gain a position in a market or to drive out a competitor and then rising prices.

Canada Safeway was found guilty of just that practice in Alberta and drove a small grocer out of business, but it took two years to get action there. A similar incident has occurred in Toronto, but no remedial steps have been taken yet.

In Canada we must renew our commitment to further legislation which outlaws restrictive trade practices, though some firms that operate in the export market should be exempt. High on the list of new legislation should be new definitions of monopoly, recognizing that bigness itself must be sufficient in many cases to be against the public interest. Also needed are funds for more full-scale investigations. As things now stand the capacity of the free market to self correct is too limited. Giant firms, often multinationals, now are in a position to ignore price and demand signals from the free market.

What is essential then is not only more information which can permit the government to act but also a renewed effort to increase competition. Some snappy new indictments which show that government is willing to consider new definitions of monopoly practices are needed now. If the courts continue to rule that current statutes cannot confront monopolies, then the government will then know what to do to plug those loopholes through new legislation.

FLQ terrorist came back disillusioned with Cuban life

MONTREAL (CP) — When he fled to Cuba in 1969, that Caribbean island seemed to embody all the revolutionary, idealistic Jean-Pierre Charette had struggled for in Quebec. Here was a small nation, isolated and economically disfavored, that had thrown off its colonial past, was standing up bravely to the super powers and shaking all of Latin America with its exported brand of revolution.

But 10 years of exile convinced the former Front de Liberation du Quebec terrorist that the Cuban mentality was as narrow and insular as the country's geography, and that Cuban society offered him few possibilities of personal fulfillment.

Early this year, disavowing his past actions, he returned voluntarily to Montreal to face charges of planting three bombs.

"I didn't come back thinking that because the Parti Quebecois was in power I'd get a light sentence," Charette, now 35, recalled in an interview. "I fully expected to get 50 or 60 years."

There was plenty of legal precedent for a lengthy sentence. Pierre-Paul Geoffroy, who belonged to the same terrorist cell as Charette, is still serving 124 concurrent life sentences handed down in 1969 for his role in 31 bombings.

Charette, however, was released on parole in June after serving only half of a six-month sentence.

Chief Judge Yves Mayrand of sessions court - who more recently handled the case of Jacques and Louise Cossette-Trudel, giving them two years less a day for their part in kidnapping British diplomat James Cross - also sentenced Charette. Explaining the light penalty, Judge Mayrand noted Charette always tipped police to the location of his bombs and set them in late evening to avoid injuring passers-by.

Only one of the bombs exploded, and nobody was injured when it went off at a government liquor store. The other two devices were disarmed by police.

WASTED YEARS? "By going into exile," the judge added, "he has punished himself and practically wasted 10 fine years of his life. Now he has to start practically from zero." Charette doesn't entirely agree.

"I suffered a great deal psychologically during those years, that much is certain, said the bearded, ascetically-thin Charette as he sat cross-legged on an ottoman in his mother's pleasant north-end apartment.

"But I now see that pain as part of a long process of rebirth, the last step of which was my decision to return to Canada."

He pauses to reflect and take a long drag from a thin menthol cigarette. "How many people do you know," he resumes suddenly, "who have a chance to completely make over their lives?"

"I don't have a penny, I don't owe a penny to anyone and no one owes anything to me."

Charette joined the FLQ in 1968 after the fractious Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance Nationale - a legal political party which worked peacefully for independence - flew apart under the pressure of its own internal dissensions.

One large faction, convinced of the need for concerted political action, joined with the Mouvement Souveraineté-Association, the forerunner of the Parti Quebecois founded by René Lévesque.

But Charette and others, soured on politics, believed the independence-movement had to be grounded in socialist ideology.

"Our action consisted in drawing attention to strikes and social problems that were dragging on without solution," he said. "A lot of the bombs we placed were at companies that were on strike."

The cohesion and military efficiency of the FLQ has been grossly exaggerated, he says. "Most of our actions could be described as spontaneous uprisings, even though they were well thought out in keeping with a vision of society."

"There was a tendency in those days to blame every terrorist act on the FLQ. But I know for a fact that some bombs were planted by striking workers who just made it look like we were responsible."

Charette made up his mind to flee the morning he heard of Pierre-Paul Geoffroy's arrest.

Cuba had an open-door policy toward leftist fugitives, and the country had already taken on enormous symbolic importance for Charette.

"During Expo 67, I spent nearly all my time at the Cuban pavilion, admiring the exhibits and questioning the guides," he recalled.

"For me, Cuba represented a shift in the revolutionary epicentre of the world. Revolution started in Europe, spread to Asia and then suddenly leaped into Latin America."

"We figured it could jump over the United States and into Quebec."

The Cubans, however, were perplexed by the presence of Quebecers in their midst.

"For the Cubans, being a Quebecer didn't seem to justify any revolutionary action," said Charette. "They had a fairly positive view of Canada, and were very thankful that Canada hadn't joined the United States in the trade embargo."

Apple politics

In one swell foop, Manpower and Immigration Canada has affected the lives of several hundred people from Stanstead to Jamaica with what has got to be one of the most irrational pieces of bureaucratic doublethink we've heard in some time.

At issue is the 10-year-old arrangement by which Jamaicans are flown to Quebec on special work visas to pick apples in the big commercial orchards south of Montreal. The Jamaicans, say the orchard owners, see the season through rather than skipping off when they make a buck like domestic labor. This could be because the Jamaicans find the $3.50 hourly minimum wage princely by their standards and it could be because they're under contract for the entire season and would have to pay the price of a flight home if they didn't stick it out.

In any case, the same Jamaicans come back year after year, and we found during a tour of the orchard country around Franklin Centre a couple of years ago, that everyone's happy with the arrangement.

Until last month, when the orchard owners were advised they would not be permitted to import Jamaican labor this year. The argument they used was that the recent influx of landed immigrants would more than fill the gap. We presume they mean the Vietnamese immigrants. If so, the Immigration folks are barking up the wrong apple tree. These people are ethnic Chinese merchants, shopowners and merchants who we doubt have had much experience picking apples.

Apple-picking isn't easy when you're trying to get the crop picked in short order with a minimum of bruising. A magic combination of agility and care is needed to protect the fruit and the tree, but speed is critical as the first frosts appear.

No, Ottawa, you've blundered on this one and the orchard people are going to pay the bill for your basic ignorance. But we will show you a way out of this mess and while it won't be good for this year, we bet it'll be such a hit with the nation that the government which has the guts to see it through will win international praise.

It works on the premise that Canadian prison inmates, like the rest of us, like our gratification immediately if and when we do something. Instead of spending $16,000 per prisoner per annum to let them teach each other car theft and caisse pop hostage-taking, why not spend just enough to keep them alive and give them the opportunity to do their time in wine-drinking, TV-watching splendor, as just about every prison from Mexico to the Philippines does?

Allow the lads from Cowansville and Waterloo prisons to volunteer, at $3.50 an hour for the job. They'd have to work, since they'd be competing with the open market and the only thing that would mark a convict gang on the job would be a couple of gun-toting guards.

But why would they run away? They would be able to use the money to buy all the luxuries of life that make even prison palatable, and we have no doubt that with all the snow-clearing, apple-picking, crop harvesting and other activities in Canada which always seem to need unskilled labor, inmates could leave their cells with a tidy nest egg, no longer a drag on the Canadian taxpayer.

JAMES DUFF

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Viets inherited large, modern arsenal when Saigon fell

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's solution to the Vietnam war was to replace American soldiers with quantities of modern weaponry, which would in theory enable the South Vietnamese to defend themselves without U.S. troops.

In practice, of course, the theory failed miserably. And when our puppets in Saigon collapsed, some $5 billion worth of U.S. armaments fell into the hands of the North Vietnamese victors, leaving them with one of the largest arsenals in the world.

This potential for international mischief was a nightmare for U.S. policymakers, as we have learned from secret documents and interviews with officials who were in power at the time. Would the Vietnamese communists turn their deadly booty over to other revolutionary forces or terrorist groups unable to purchase weapons through other channels?

It was no idle worry; that much was made clear by an inventory of captured armaments the Central Intelligence Agency compiled shortly after the fall of Saigon in the spring of 1975. The wealth of military equipment turned over to the South Vietnamese by the Pentagon - and subsequently lost to the communist - included 1,100 aircraft, 400 naval vessels, 50,000 motor vehicles and millions of small arms and ammunition.

While the CIA tried to keep tabs on the whereabouts of the captured hardware, officials in Washington frantically tried to decide what to do if Hanoi started peddling the lethal bonanza on the world market.

"A number of countries in Southeast Asia, the Middle East and Africa are reportedly interested in obtaining the U.S. equipment," one CIA report warned. "The Nigerians are said to be interested in F-5s, helicopters, 105-mm. howitzers and M-16 rifles." Libya was also interested in the purchase of M-16s. One CIA report noted the presence of a landing craft loaded with U.S. howitzers tied up in Hanoi harbor, apparently ready for shipment.

"There were fairly hard indications that Hanoi was thinking of turning it into hard cash," a State Department official said of the captured armaments.

What were the U.S. options? "We would have bought the stuff back ourselves if they wanted to sell it," one high-level planner told our associate Peter Grant. "But we were very worried that Hanoi would fund every insurgency in Asia."

If it seemed likely that insurgents or terrorists might wind up with the U.S. munitions, the source said, "we would have taken pretty stringent measures" to prevent the transfer. The options that were considered, we were told, included the use of military force.

Another possibility was purchase of the U.S. arms by friendly governments. Brent Scowcroft, National Security Council director, suggested that this might be a development to be encouraged as a way of keeping the arms out of unfriendly hands, according to the confidential transcript of a meeting of top officials in the Ford administration.

William Clements, then-deputy defense secretary, pointed out the one trump card the United States held. "The North Vietnamese are going to have a considerable amount of difficulty selling this equipment unless there is some assurance of spare parts from us," he said, according to the transcript.

Clements and Scowcroft thought it might be a good thing to encourage friendly governments to buy the captured arms. But Morton Bromowitz, deputy assistant defense secretary for East Asian affairs, raised an objection:

"If the president gets asked at a news conference about supplying spare parts to a country which has purchased these captured weapons... (he'd) have to say no. It is a public relations question. Politically he would have to say no."

In the end, Jerry Ford's advisers decided that the best course would be to discourage purchase of the captured arms and to give no assurances of spare-parts supply. As it turned out, the options never had to be called into play; the North Vietnamese decided to hang onto most of the arms themselves. We'll report what happened to some of the booty in a future column.

SOUND OFF: Q. Why can't the government turn over some of its huge surplus of sugar for the production of gasohol? — Ronald Scioneaux, Vacherie, La.

A. As a matter of fact, Publicker Industries of Greenwich, Conn., has already offered to exchange alcohol fuel for raw sugar. This would save millions and reduce oil consumption. The offer is entangled somewhere in the red tape at the Agriculture Department. Discouraged over the delay, Publicker resubmitted the offer to the Energy Department. So far, the company hasn't even received a response. There seems to be no problem that the bureaucrats cannot prolong. Apparently, they would rather study problems than solve them.

Q. Please check into the use of jeeps by the Postal Service. The city letter carrier should be put back on his feet. — John J. McGuire, retired letter carrier, Buffalo, N.Y.

A. In city traffic, jeep mail not only is costly but slow. Every one-cent rise in gasoline prices costs the Postal Service a whopping $3 million. To save on money and fuel, the Postal Service has already promised to put thousands of carriers back on their feet. Mailmen often can deliver the mail faster on foot than in jeeps stalled in heavy traffic.

Q. Is it true convicted criminals can draw government salaries while they serve time in prison? — John Kearns, Springfield, Ohio.

A. True. Uncle Sam regards inmates as an underprivileged minority. They are, therefore, eligible for federal, earn-while-you-learn pay. They can collect limited paychecks as long as they're learning new skills.

Painting business keeps hockey players around

CAMPBELLTON, N.B. (CP) — Hockey is big business anywhere at almost any level. But in these parts there's a team that owns and operates its own business to employ players and maybe even make an extra dollar.

The Campbellton Tigers of the Southeastern New Brunswick Intermediate Hockey League think owning a paint business is an excellent way of keeping local talents occupied and less likely to be lured away by the competition.

The Tigers, Canadian Intermediate "A" hockey champions in 1972, and 1977, recently bought a paint store which also doubles as a small post office.

"It is not very complicated to understand why we became involved in the business," says general manager Arnold Firlotte. "It is just to provide employment for our local hockey players who don't have work.

"We have some young players in Campbellton and we want to keep them there."

The team's executive decided early in August to take over the paint centre.

OTHER BUSINESSES

"We are looking at something else right now, but it hasn't got the final approval from the executive," Firlotte said. "Since we announced that we were taking over the paint centre, three or four businesses have approached us to see if we were interested in taking them over."

This northern New Brunswick city has one of the highest unemployment rates in the Atlantic provinces. With winter approaching, there is keen competition for the few jobs that are available.

As most other teams in the league, the Tigers rely mainly on attendance at home games and donations for much of the team's financing. The team also sponsors a weekly bingo and a raffle and operates beer gardens during a local summer festival to meet a total annual budget of between $60,000 and 70,000.

"At the end of each season we have always managed to have a deficit," Firlotte says. "But by the time training camp opens in October we have always managed to start the year with money in the bank."

Any money made from the paint business will be put back in the team, he added.

Light booze creates big market

The trend toward beverages with low alcoholic content has helped produce a favorable climate for Canadian vintners, says a report by Odium Brown and T.B. Read Ltd.

The report says improved quality, more intensive promotion and some provincial government protection should help domestic wines improve their market position against imports.

Andres Wines Ltd. is in a good position to capitalize on the growth in table wines. The largest vintner in Canada, it has six wineries with markets in every province.

Andres expanded rapidly with the boom in the wine market in the early 1970s but, like other domestic wineries, experienced reduced profits during the middle of the decade.

Production costs were higher than those of foreign vintners and Andres products were inferior, in part because it had to buy expensive but poor quality grapes from inexperienced domestic growers.

Total wine sales in Canada increased by nine per cent in 1977 but imported wine sales rose by 33 per cent the same year. The report says much of this growth was at the expense of domestic wines, which have an inferior reputation.

But further upgrading can be expected as growers concentrate on quality grapes, the report says.

Andres will begin marketing its best-selling brand, Baby Duck, in Britain this fall. Baby Duck, which led the pop wine fad in the early 1970s, was introduced to the competitive Quebec market a few years ago and now is one of the top-selling alcoholic beverages in the province, the report says.

Andres has arranged for a British firm to handle production and related costs as it expands into the international market. Andres will be responsible for advertising costs and in return will receive a royalty on all wine sold.

The report says Andres is in a sound financial position with more than 50 per cent of the capital structure in the form of equity. The company is planning minor expansions at two of its wineries at a cost of less than $2 million, to be financed through cash flow.

SUBURB GETS TRANSIT CONTROL

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. (CP) — A $1.3-million system that tells you when to expect a bus to arrive at a particular stop is a hit in this city just west of Toronto.

Project underway despite local protests

MAPLE, Ont. (CP) — Rising out of a field where a year ago cattle grazed is the centrepiece of what has been dubbed Disney World North — a steel framework that is rapidly being transformed into a 45-metre mountain.

It is a constant irritant to nearby residents of this community about 10 kilometres north of Toronto who fought against the amusement park since it was proposed in 1973.

Easy Rider Information with Computerized Assistance (ERICA) is promoted by a lifesize model of a robot in a community shopping mall. When in use, a telephone hooked to the robot sets off a series of flashing lights.

A woman's voice gives out information, but it is really a sophisticated computer using a data bank of 64 words — recorded by a professional actress in San Diego, Calif.

The end result for anyone seeking transit information could be, "Easy Rider route six stop 51, next bus seven minutes, following bus 22 minutes, goodbye."

Officials say the system has been responsible for more than 12 per cent of the 23 per cent increase on Mississauga Transit's six bus routes, which had a total of 3.6 million riders in 1978.

ROUTE DETAILS STORED

ERICA is the first experiment in computer-controlled bus operations in North America.

The computer contains information on the length of each route, the distance between stops and average travelling times. A magnetic sensor on each bus lets the computer keep track of the bus's progress.

Beside the driver's seat, there is a little black box (expected to be replaced next by smaller television monitors) on which a flashing red light warns of variations from the schedule.

A radio is used to tell drivers to wait at a certain stop if another bus, whose passengers plan to transfer, is late.

Peter Travis, Mississauga transit's manager of planning, said the federally-financed project is a great success.

He said that in future ERICA may give not only the estimated time of arrival but say whether the bus has seats available or standing room only.

Gold powder search part of price boom

EDMONTON (CP) — Two gruff-looking characters huddle over a pair of sluice-boxes on the bank of the North Saskatchewan River, drawn by $400-an-ounce gold prices and the fever that lured men to the Yukon in the 1890s.

Adam Chalifoux and Frank Davidson will work long hours for their gold at their camp a few kilometres west of Edmonton, but they will never find the nuggets that sent men trooping over the mountains to the Yukon.

The gold they take is as fine as powder — called flour gold — and they'll spend many hours panning before they scratch together the equivalent of one shiny Yukon nugget.

"You've got to know what you're looking for," Chalifoux said. "People expect a handful of gold in their palm right away. It doesn't work that way."

Davidson said: "It's so damn fine you can hardly see it — someone said they found a nugget, I'd like to see it first."

Both men use mercury to separate black sand and the gold it contains. It's a painstaking task requiring careful straining through wet leather.

But neither will say how much gold they have stashed away.

At prices in the $400-an-ounce range, Edmonton residents are panning for gold with a vengeance and appear to have a flair for the art. It was an Edmonton man who won this year's world gold-panning championship at Fort St. John, B.C.

SELL TO BANK

Larry Madaski of the Bank of Nova Scotia said some goldseekers walk into the downtown branch regularly with anywhere from 20 to 30 ounces of flour gold — selling for between $8,000 and $12,000.

Serious gold hunters are a different breed, Madaski said. "You might only see them once a year."

More common are amateurs who will bring in between five and 10 ounces over the summer, earning anywhere from $4,000 to $8,000 for their efforts, he said.

The gold is sent to Ottawa where it is refined before payment is made.

Madaski said there is a $100 refining fee and some would-be prospectors make so little they have a tough time covering costs.

Easier to be a tomboy in our society, doctor says

MONTREAL (CP) — "It's a lot easier in our society to be a tomboy than a sissy," Dr. Richard Green, a specialist in sexual behavior, has told an international symposium on sexuality and childhood.

After a 10-year study of young boys who exhibit feminine behavior such as playing with dolls, wearing girls' clothing, choosing female roles when playing house and choosing male rather than female playmates, Green found that these boys were ostracized by other boys. But, he found that tomboys — girls who like rough-and-tumble play, like to play with boys and prefer trucks and guns to dolls — tend to be popular with other girls, mix well and are considered to have leadership qualities.

"Masculine behavior is given a higher status in our society," said Green, a professor of psychiatry and psychology at the State University of New York at Stony Brook. "So although feminine behavior for boys is unacceptable, tomboys are accepted and are even given elevated status."

In his study Green looked at 60 Los Angeles area boys between the ages of four and 11 who showed a preference for feminine behavior, matching them with a control group of conventional boys.

During the last four years he has also looked at 50 tomboys in the New York City area, matching them with girls who act in a traditionally-feminine way. Parents described their effeminate sons as being rejected by other boys their age and as being loners, whereas the tomboys were described as getting along well with other girls.

PARENTS UNCONCERNED

He noted Saturday that many of the parents of these feminine boys did not become concerned about their son's behavior — either didn't discourage it, or actually encouraged it — until the child turned seven or eight and began to have problems getting along with acquaintances of the same sex. Green said, however, that parents shouldn't reach the conclusion a child has a sexual identity problem on the basis of single or occasional feminine activity.

But if the boy consistently chooses girls' toys and clothes, prefers to play with girls, and especially if he often expresses a desire to be a girl, Green said parents should discuss the matter with a counsellor.

In follow-up studies of some of the boys who are now maturing, Green said 10 out of 21 of the feminine boys now are showing themselves to be bisexual or predominantly homosexual, whereas all of the boys in the control group are heterosexual.

He speculated one of two things could be happening to these boys: Because they had no male friends and are not close to their fathers, starvation for male affection may have been translated into romantic ideas about men; or

These boys have spent so much time with girls they learn from the females to be attracted to males.

FEMINISTS PLAN ANTI-PORNO RALLY

By SONDRRA CORRY
On October 20, women from all along the east coast will gather in Times Square for a demonstration against pornography. New York's "Women Against Pornography", the group organizing the march into the heart of the city's porn district, now hopes for as many as 50,000 women to join the march. The organization has been working with the West Coast Women Against Violence in Pornography and Media since February, and has found enthusiastic support and the reaction reflected in its slogan, "It's about time," from women from New England to Washington, D.C.

The march will be preceded by a two-day conference on September 15 and 16 featuring such writers as Susan Brownmiller, Robin Morgan, Michele Wallace, Alix Kates Shulman, Gloria Steinham and Shere Hite. The focus of the conference and march is the portrayal of women being raped, bound, beaten or mutilated in hard-core porn and images of women as passive sexual toys in soft-core porn and advertising.

The group has issued a statement that its concern is not to tamper with the First Amendment but to redefine the present obscenity law, replacing sexuality with violence. The issue has grown to a central one within the women's movement with the recognition of the link between pornography and the explosion/discovery of the large number of crimes of violence against women such as rape, wife-beating, genital mutilation, incest, child prostitution and sexual harassment at work and on the street.

The problem is not, however, limited to the United States, nor is it a city problem. Stores can be found in the outlying areas of the Eastern Townships which do not carry an English newspaper, but do carry Playboy, Playgirl, and Penthouse. Most of Sherbrooke's newsstands feature the Canadian Elite, which, in its spring edition, ran a cartoon, "The Untold Story of Beverly Beaver," portraying rape as amusement. The National Action Committee on the Status of Women has been granted a moratorium by the Law Reform Commission regarding obscenity, as the issue is in the process of redefinition.

In Burlington, Vermont, 17 women recently trashed an adult book shop, spray-painting books and magazines. "Furious Women Avenue Pornography" took responsibility for the deed, saying, "We have taken so strong an action because we are tired of being exploited as passive victims and sex objects."

The owner of the store had just opened another outlet in St. Johnsbury where residents said they did not complain because they were afraid of giving the store publicity. The Burlington women said, "We are not afraid. We must respond to the violence that a store like this promotes." In Quebec, Chatelaine's recent articles on pornography which looked at the bars, motels, cabarets and sex-shops of Quebec, as well as newspapers and magazines, have prompted an affirmative response from women, corresponding to the "It's about time" attitude of the American women.

Sex aggression colloquium planned

A colloquium on sexual aggression will be held at the CEGEP de Sherbrooke on Saturday, September 15, at 1 p.m. The agenda includes the film, "Mourir a tue-tete," by Anne-Claire Poirier, and workshops on pornography and advertising: rape, violence, and sexuality; sexual abuse of children; aid for victims of rape, and self-defense.

The colloquium is being sponsored by Le Centre d'aide et de lutte contre les agressions a caractere sexuel de Sherbrooke (The Sherbrooke Center for Aid and for the Struggle Against Sexual Aggressions). The meetings, which will be in French, are to be held in the auditorium of Pavillon III at the CEGEP de Sherbrooke on Terrill Street, and will run until 6 p.m.

Bring a lunch if you wish to remain for discussion. Child-care will be provided. Admission is $1.75.

Ann Landers says

Contests, lotteries are contracted

Dear Ann Landers: I got this catalog in the mail and the letter attached said even if I don't order anything, I have a chance to win a lot of money just because I sent for the catalog. (I didn't order anything.)

My husband called me a "dummy". He claims I can't win unless I buy something. According to him, my entry will go into an automatic wastebasket. His final words were, "If you don't believe me, ask Ann Landers."

So, I'm asking Ann Landers. The contest is run by Connelly Corporation, a reputable company. I say there are laws which make them pay if your name is drawn even if you don't buy anything. Am I right or wrong? — A Gambler At Heart

Dear Heart: I contacted the state's attorney's office, consumer fraud division, and was told the following:

All contests and lotteries are contractual arrangements. Read the rules carefully. They are considered binding.

Some states outlaw contests altogether. Other states have strict rules that must be adhered to. There are no federal rules in regard to contests. If the rules say you don't have to buy anything in order to win — you don't.

It might be useful to know that some people are professional contestants. It's more than a hobby — it's a career. Through years of experience they have learned how to make their entries appealing to the judges. These people repeatedly win an astonishing number of the big prizes.

Specialist: Offer sex ed to disabled

MONTREAL (CP) — Mentally-retarded or physically-disabled persons are often thought to be uninterested in sex or of being unable to control their sexual desires, but that shouldn't bar them from sex education, says Dr. Glen Geist.

Geist, a psychologist with the Illinois Institute of Technology, told an international symposium on childhood sexuality on the weekend that a person disabled in one respect is often considered totally disabled.

They are considered neuter, without the needs and capabilities of normal people. Or it is feared that if they are told about sex, they will develop uncontrollable urges.

These contradictory myths are put together to justify a refusal to educate the handicapped about sex, but if society is to ensure their rights, they must be given sex education.

The handicapped must have the right to sexual expression as long as they don't infringe on the rights of others. They must have the right to privacy, to information and to services such as contraception. They must be allowed to choose their own sexual values and to decide realistically whether they can marry and have children.

The disabled child has the right to sex education since "he has the same desires, rights, needs and responsibilities as the non-disabled child," Geist concluded.

Dr. Chrisann Geist, a psychologist with the same institute, described a sex education program for mentally-retarded children with whom she has been involved.

TALKED ABOUT FAMILY

The children talked about relationships with their families and communities, caring for their bodies and about behavior appropriate to different situations. Topics such as lovemaking, birth control, menstruation, masturbation and venereal disease were also covered.

Therapist Cameron Egeda told conference participants about a three-year-old sex education program for mentally-retarded adolescents at the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario in Ottawa.

Ms. Egeda said an important aspect is involving parents in discussion groups where they examine their own attitudes in the presence of their children.

"Moral values come from parents, so it is important to open the lines of communication between the young people and their parents."

Co-worker Phyllis Bentley said that because of a tendency to think of the retarded as children, parents tend to get a big shock when they do reach puberty.

Adolescence is a difficult period for anyone, Ms. Egeda noted, but the retarded are especially vulnerable because their intellectual and emotional limitations make it difficult for them to absorb the innuendos and sexual values of our society. Yet they must learn how to function within the legal framework of society.

Lingering cigarette odor

By Polly Cramer

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — I have quit smoking but the smell is so strong in my apartment that every time I walk in the door it makes me crave for a cigarette. I am ashamed of this odor that lingers from my former habit but do not know how to go about ridding the place of it. I am sure others have had this same problem and would like to know what they did about it. — MRS. C.

DEAR MRS. C. — I am sure we will be hearing from other readers, but in the meantime try putting some small bowls of vinegar in inconspicuous places in your apartment. Also try burning a scented candle in each room. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I buy gasoline at the self-service pumps and really enjoy serving myself. It is also cheaper. When I remove the cap from the gas tank I always put it on the driver's seat. I never have to hunt for it and there is no danger of forgetting to put it back on as I would see it when I started to get in the car. — AMY

An important new book

Reading, the Future & Us evolved from a National Readership Symposium — the first of its kind — held in Toronto in 1979 under the sponsorship of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association.

Given a deep and very real social concern about reading of daily newspapers and about reading in general, CDNPA's editorial and educational services brought together editors, publishers and educators from across Canada for a series of stimulating discussions. Delegates considered how the daily newspaper industry could both serve its own interests (in terms of circulation) and the interests of society (literacy), and how educators could more aggressively abet reading.

The book has two key purposes: to make multiple use of the valuable information generated during the symposium, and to serve as a contribution, however modest, by the daily newspaper industry to the nurturing of reading among young and old alike.

There's a Biblical saying, "Blessed is he who readeth." So while this book explores reading habits — their shifts and changes — it makes a case for actively encouraging people to read. And it offers concrete suggestions for fostering reading skills at a time when some noted authorities are expressing fears about the forces of the electronic age.

Yet all is not doom and gloom. Our society is not rife with illiterate people. The very nature of literacy may be changing, given the influences of new and emerging information systems.

But there are difficulties. This book casts some light on the challenges to be confronted, and helps us understand how we can respond constructively. It helps inspire a commitment to the marvellous value of reading.

The book was compiled and edited by journalist Dick MacDonald, manager of editorial services for the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association.

Reading, the Future & Us is a soft-cover, perfect-bound book of 144 pages. Illustrated.

WI MEETINGS AROUND THE EASTERN TOWNSHIPS

AYER'S CLIFF — The Ayer's Cliff branch of the W.I. held their first meeting since the summer recess in the United Church Hall on Wednesday, Aug. 29. This was an earlier date because of plans to be made for the School Fair, to be held as usual on the Ayer's Cliff grounds on Sept. 12 and 13.

Fourteen members were in attendance, and the roll call was answered by naming a pastime or hobby considered educational.

Minutes from the June meeting were read by the Sec'y Mrs. A. Lord. At this meeting several members of the Cercle des Fermiers had been guests. The outing enjoyed for July was a visit to the Coaticook Museum and to the Handicraft Store. The visit to the Museum was interesting but also disappointing, as all the data relating to the different rooms was completely in French. Interpreters had to be used. From this meeting it was agreed to write a letter of protest to the town of Coaticook and also one to be published in the Sherbrooke Record. "Dinner out" was greatly enjoyed by all attending.

Several of the members enjoyed the bus trip to Rawdon. A visit was made to Mrs. Pearl Berwick at her new home in Lennoxville, an old and very esteemed member of our W.I. who was observing her 93rd birthday. The branch was invited to visit the Milby Branch and it was regretted that no one was able to attend. Members were asked to save used stamps, bread tags and Campbell soup labels.

Convenors reports: Citizenship - Ellen Thompson read an article on Mr. Diefenbaker which was very interesting. Home Economics - Irene Ride reported on the Fair Exhibit. There were no other reports.

At this time, Mrs. Wm. Robinson, delegate to the County meeting, gave a full and interesting account of same.

A donation of $35.00 was voted to the School Fair Committee. The customary inspection of Gardens will not be done this year.

The School Fair dinner was discussed and it was agreed to carry on with the usual chicken pie dinner. Mrs. F. Astbury and Mrs. Wm. Robinson will convene same with help from other members in the kitchen on Sept. 12.

Diningroom in charge of Irene Ride and Gladys Holmes, Ida Little, Irene Ride, Jessie Pierce, Jessie Cass and Edna Walker agreed to go to the school and write entry tags.

The booth will be in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Curtis, Aileen Lord and other helpers.

The programme was in charge of the convenor, Edna Walker who introduced as her guest Miss Evelyn Schell who showed slides and talked of her work at Camp Livingstone on Crystal Lake at Fitch Bay. This was very interesting and the slides showed the beautiful scenery around the camp and the happy faces of the children.

Following this, the hostesses Mrs. M. Thompson and Mrs. G. Johnson served delectable refreshments and a pleasant social period was enjoyed.

MELBOURNE RIDGE — The September meeting of the M.R.W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Ellen Armatage with Allison Lynn as co-hostess and the assistance of Kathleen Patrick and Shirley Fowler.

The meeting was opened by repeating the Collect in unison.

The motto: "One bad thing about political jokes is that some of them get elected." Roll call: To name a favorite book from school, which was answered by 16 members.

The minutes were read and approved.

Correspondence was a letter of thanks from Susan Morrison for a gift of $10.00 to further her education at Macdonald College, a letter of thanks from the Sherbrooke Hospital for a donation, letters from People who benefitted from the Dominion Store tapes and Maple Leaf and York labels. There were wheelchairs, sewing materials, scissors, toys, books, nursery equipment, etc. A letter from CanSave saying that no more wool would be available for knitting sweaters and socks, but any donations of knitted articles would be welcome. Allison Lynn expressed her thanks for a card she received while she was sick.

Ellen Armatage and Shirley Johnston will work at Richmond Fair in the W.I. booth the first day.

Convenors reports: Health and Welfare - Kathleen Patrick read an article about learning problems that some children have which are not associated with a lack of intelligence. A lovely knee afghan and a shawl were brought in for the Cancer Society.

Publicity - Shirley Fowler had nature seals for conservation to show and read a short explanation of them. They may be obtained at any branch of Canada Trust free of charge. She also had a Nova Scotia W.I. cookbook to show and the name of a member there to exchange letters with.

Citizenship - Shirley Johnston read about many things that the UNICEF money can purchase with our donations.

Cheer - Marg Smith reported sending two birthday cards and two cards were signed for shut-in friends.

Home Economics - Joan Morrison gave a report on next year's interbranch competition. It will be a 14 in. round braided chair seat made of jersey strips which can be purchased in a ball. This material is what is used to cover coat hangers. She read a report on the county tea to be held on Sept. 15 at the Legion Hall from 3 to 5 in the afternoon.

A report was given by several women on our trip to Dunkin Pottery. The day was a pleasant one and all enjoyed the demonstration given by the owner.

Ethel Adamson will write to our forgotten patient at the Douglas Home.

The next meeting will be a pot-luck supper in the evening with family and friends. The meeting will be held at 6 p.m. and the supper after. The meeting was adjourned and a sale of jams, jellies and pickles was held.

Lunch was served by the hostesses.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

Sept. 12, 1979

Alliances formed this coming year will be of help to you in material ways. Someone who once did something good for you will be in a position to do even more for you in the months ahead.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Unless you marshal your forces properly today you may not be able to accomplish all you hope to. Be wary of situations where the odds are not in your favor. How to get along with other signs is one of the sections you'll enjoy in your new Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Do not accuse another to do something today unless you know from personal experience that it will work. If he or she fails, you'll be blamed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Joint ventures could become a sticky morass today if you get involved with incompetent associates. Do it yourself, rather than delegating.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Let no one pressure you into making important decisions today in order to keep their good will; you may use faulty judgment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Give co-workers the velvet glove treatment today if you hope to gain their co-operation. Being pushy when you should say "please" will prove disastrous.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Avoid situations with your peers today that have political overtones. Treat all your friends equally, instead of playing favorites.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Try not to bring up domestic issues that will arouse your mate's opposition. It's not likely that these matters can be resolved today.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be careful how you phrase remarks to others today. Your words could be taken out of context and interpreted a way you didn't intend.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your normal caution in managing your resources could desert you today and cause complications. Don't allow extravagant whims to gain control.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

Attempting to juggle too many projects at one time is not a wise course of action today. Limit your agenda to top priority items.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A failure to attend to your responsibilities today may be due to seeing them in your imagination as more difficult than they really are. Think "win".

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Pals who usually don't give you any grief may put your tolerance to the test today. If you're willing to excuse their behavior, they'll excuse yours.

GIRAFFE
GIRAFFA CAMELOPARDALIS

FOR FREE REPRINT WRITE TO THE MUSEUM

The giraffe's "long" animal the giraffe could easily look into a second-storey window. Its height, which can be up to 17m, allows it to browse on high foliage, as well as to employ its most highly developed sense - sight - to see farther than any terrestrial creature. This "bird's-eye" view is also the animal's principal defense against predators, allowing it to spot danger, and so avoid it, long before others are similarly endowed. Her buff-colored sides, spotted in darker brown, provides excellent camouflage, which is another aid to their survival. The movement & position of the animal's neck are used to express emotion. When angry, the giraffe assumed a threat position by lowering its neck till it is almost horizontal. In submission, it stretches its neck, raising its nose in the air.

Here is another Somerville hand from the early Thirties. The North-South bidding would probably be duplicated by modern bidders. East's two-diamond bid relieves South of the need to respond to the double. North repeats the takeout double and when West bids three diamonds North overbids a trifle with four spades.

South worries some when he sees the dummy, but with clubs breaking 2-2 and spades

20th Thayer Family Reunion

MANSONVILLE (BN) - The Thayer Family Reunion group recently celebrated their 20th official get-together at the Senior Citizens Center in Newport, Vt.

The meeting was called to order by the President, Jennie Monette, following which, the Secretary-Treasurer's reports were read and approved.

Genealogical data to be recorded are as follows: Births: a daughter, Brandi Anita Nellie Webb to Richard and Cynthia Webb on September 27, 1978; Marriages: Cindy Wood to Harry Lewis on January 27, 1979; Deaths: William Dalto, Rufus Rolleston, George Thayer, Hazel Thayer and Ira Thayer.

Mr. Asa Thayer and Mrs. Maude Mossa took the honors for having the edge on the age limitations while Miss Shirley Wood found she has a long way to travel yet. The Rev. and Mrs. Ronald White of Whitefield, N.H., travelled the greatest distance to attend the reunion activities. Further business was the appointment of a nominating committee who will set up a slate of officers for 1980-81. The 50 family members in attendance were also reminded that the annual reunion date is the first Sunday in August.

To make this year's reunion of special significance, the Family Tree Committee produced a printed copy of the present family records. This will be used as a basis of information and data of the family's history of three brothers - Austin, James and Ira Thayer - who settled in this general geographic area, raised their families, and contributed to the community of their talents and skills. Copies of this history are available from either the current president or secretary for a nominal fee. Plans for updating and correcting the historical facts already gathered are being added to the agenda for another year. Information as to an official coat-of-arms is also being looked into.

The program was arranged to allow members to trade their particular branch from charts excerpted from the historical brochures. Also, included in this 20-year review was a listing of those family members who have served as officers of the group. Complimentary copies were designated to be sent to some of the older members of the family who had been unable to attend this year. Pictures from some newly found albums were viewed and identified. Official proceedings were concluded at 2:30 p.m.

Further information may be obtained from the President - Mrs. Jennie Monette, R.F.D. No. 1, West Glover, Vt. 05875; or from the Secretary-Treasurer - Mrs. James Morey, Box 86, Troy, Vt. 05868.

Thayer families and relatives in attendance were from various locations in both Canada and the United States.

Seniors Ideal Club activities

INVERNESS - Due to the extreme hot weather in July, a trip planned had to be cancelled, but in August, members enjoyed two events.

On Aug. 24, a bus load went to the Ayer's Cliff Exhibition, a real Country Fair, very similar to the Inverness Show of days gone by. Of particular note and worthy of mention was the showing of gladioli in the Main building. There was an excellent display of vegetables. The Cercle des Fermieres and the Women's Institute both had collections of beautiful handicraft. The horses were a definite attraction to everyone all afternoon.

The following week, on August 28, the Annual Picnic (the 5th for the Club) was held. Due to the uncertainty of the weather, members gathered at the I.O.O.F. Hall early in the afternoon. Outside the Hall members played darts, bean bags, and horseshoes, while inside cards were played at six tables. Target shooting took place at Cotes gravel pit on the outskirts of the village.

Some winners of the afternoon were: Horseshoes - The long throw, 1st. Arthur Bilodeau; 2nd, Henry Daigle; The shorter throw, 1st, Ivan McKee; 2nd, John Smith.

Target practice (the first five): 1. Lucien Cote; 2. Paul Eugene Pomerleau; 3. John Longmoore; 4. Gordon Patterson; 5. Ivan McKee; non-members not counted.

All gathered in the Hall for a delicious lunch of Kentucky Fried Chicken, lemon sponge, cookies and coffee.

This year there were no prizes for games, but door prizes were donated, the winners of these were: John Smith, Mrs. Albert Bilodeau, Mrs. Joe Caron, Mrs. Tetrault, Mrs. Hoy, Mrs. Jessie Patterson, Ivan McKee, Mrs. Purdon, Henry Daigle, Mrs. Arthur Bilodeau.

The executive of the club wish to thank all those who helped to organize these events, those who brought donations of food or door prizes, who helped clean-up after the picnic and above all a special thanks to the Oddfellows for the use of their Hall.

ABBOTSFORD

Mrs. Rufus Coates
Deepest sympathy of the Community is extended to Mrs. Lawrence Marshall and family and the other members of the Marshall family in the death of their loved one, Lawrence, who passed away in the Montreal General Hospital on Saturday, Sept. 1st. He will be greatly missed by his many friends as some years back, he owned a general store in Abbotsford, so made a host of friends English and French alike, and was highly thought of by everyone. His eldest sister, Miss Muriel Marshall, who has been recovering from a broken ankle in the Granby Hospital was able to attend the funeral. All wish Miss Marshall a continued speedy recovery.

Speedy recovery wishes are also extended to Mrs. M. Honey who underwent surgery in the Granby Hospital. Mrs. Honey is 94

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Gaspard have returned to Islamadora, Fla., after spending the summer at their home on Lake Memphremagog.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Mairs of Georgetown, Ont., called on Mr. and Mrs. Ormond Schoolcraft and on Mrs. George Jewett. They had been on a holiday trip that took them through Upper New York State and Vermont and were en route to Warden to visit Mrs. Mairs' brothers, Andrew and Clayton Bowker and their families.

Miss Carol Jewett has returned to resume her teaching duties at ADS Elementary School in Danville.

Peter Jewett is among other students in the area attending Champlain College this fall.

FRELIGHSBURG

Joyce Burt
Mrs. Edith Grasset and Miss Joyce Burt visited Miss Ella Krans at the C.L.S.C. in Bedford on Sunday afternoon. Miss Burt also called on Mr. C.A. Soule Mr. Soule, a long time resident of this area, will be remembered by many, for acts of kindness shown to those in need, down through the years. It would be nice to reciprocate and pay him a short visit. The elderly need our little visits and to know that we do remember. They are still a part of the parish life. You and I can spare a few minutes to drop by. So what are we waiting for?

The Helping Hand Society held a work meeting last Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edith Grasset. The "before supper meetings certainly do get the ladies home earlier!"

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Larose, Enosburg Falls, Vt., recently called at the home of Miss Joyce Burt.

Camp Garagona is now closed for another year. All is quiet again. However, to many of the campers, there will be happy memories for the days ahead. All those connected in any way with the Camp deserve a vote of thanks and congratulations for the work they have done. Caring is the word!

Mrs. June Lamy had the misfortune of falling and fracturing a bone in her leg.

LES TROIS DENIS: Savard, Cyr and Tremblay.

JUNIORS IN TOWN TONIGHT

SHERBROOKE (MG) — The Sherbrooke Beavers will play their third preseason game tonight at 8 p.m. against the Montreal Juniors at the Sports Palace. Sherbrooke tied Trois-Rivieres 6-6 and lost to Verdun 4-1. But tonight, Ron Lapointe's Juniors are in town with "Les Trois Denis" — Denis Savard, Denis Cyr and Denis Tremblay — and the story won't be the same as Montreal has accumulated over 600 penalty minutes in their two exhibition games to date. How will Ghislain Delage's boys fare? Come out to Sports Palace tonight and see...

Falcons rally to edge Eagles 10-7 on late TD

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Atlanta Falcons always seem to find a way. Last year, the Falcons won six games in the last two minutes en route to their first appearance in the National Football League playoffs. This season is only two games old and Atlanta has pulled two games out on plays manufactured in fantasy land. In the opener against New Orleans Saints, the game went into overtime tied at 34. Then a centre snap sailed over the Saints' punter's head. The punter tried to pass the ball. It was intercepted for a six-yard touchdown. Monday night, the Falcons played Philadelphia Eagles on the NFL's weekly national television game. They showed their supernatural powers again. Atlanta trailed 10-7 in the final period. Tom Pridemore intercepted a pass and returned the ball 20 yards to the Eagles' 17. The Falcons had a third down from the Eagles' 13-yard line. Quarterback Steve Bartkowski went back to pass and the play he had called was soundly defended by the Eagles. That didn't stop the Falcons. They scored a touchdown on the play that stood up for a 14-10 triumph and a 2-0 record. The Eagles slipped to 1-1 after opening with a 23-17 decision over New York Giants. "The winning touchdown was an ad lib play," said Bartkowski, the fifth-year Falcons' quarterback. Bartkowski gave all the credit to Wally Francis who caught the ball in the end zone. "Francis has a tremendous knack to work himself open," Bartkowski said. "He saw the outside blocked and worked his way inside." "Quite frankly I didn't think the play would work," said the Falcons' quarterback who completed 10 of 16 passes for 123 yards. "We tried the same play earlier on the other side and Philadelphia had it covered extremely well. "Actually it didn't work the second time, because they had the flat covered so well. Fortunately Wally found an opening. And there was no safety there. And besides, Alfred Jenkins ran a tremendous pattern and ended up setting a pick just like in basketball to help Francis get open."

Mauch rants as Twins lose to Angels

It will happen every so often: a player or manager will sit and stew after a game, say "I don't have anything to say," then vent his frustrations for five minutes or so. Minnesota manager Gene Mauch did it Monday night, after his Twins spent six hours, 52 minutes splitting a two-night double-header with Kansas City Royals and staying in third place — 6½ games behind California Angels, the American League West leaders. "I don't have anything to say," Mauch said "except that we played all night for California. "We have to win every game the rest of the season. You're darn right we had to win two. But to that we have to play a lot better than we did in the first game. We played all night for the Angels. That's exactly what they want to happen." Like the man said, nothing to say. The Twins lost the 4½-hour, 14-inning opener 6-5 when Hal McRae blasted a Mike Marshall pitch over the fence. They salvaged the nightcap 5-2 with the help of Roy Smalley's two-run homer in a four-run Minnesota sixth. ROYALS STILL SECOND The nightcap left the Royals second, four games behind California — exactly where they started the evening — leaving Kansas City manager Whitey Herzog to offer these comments: "We're definitely in a situation where we need help. We needed help from Milwaukee this weekend. The Angels are hot." In other games Monday, Boston Red Sox cooled off the Orioles 3-2, snapping Baltimore's seven-game winning streak, but Carl Yastrzemski went zero-for-four and remained one hit away from the 3,000 plateau. In the other game, Seattle Mariners beat Texas Rangers, 5-2. The National League was idle. Smalley's homer wiped out a 2-1 lead the Royals had built on consecutive fourth-inning homers by George Brett and Darrell Porter. "I hate double-headers anyway," Smalley said. "You hardly ever win double-headers. This was our ninth doubleheader. That's 18 ball games that you figure to go 500."

Youthful duo to start for Expos tonight

MONTREAL (CP) — One can't throw the ball straight and the other risks staining his still-sprouting facial growth with tobacco juice every time he opens his mouth. They are the young half of the Expos starting rotation — the two pitchers who will launch the busiest and most important three-week stretch in the Montreal baseball club's history. Southpaw Dan Schatzeder (9-4) and right-hander David Palmer (8-2) are scheduled to start against Chicago Cubs in a two-night doubleheader tonight as the Expos attempt to nullify the one-game lead held by Pittsburgh Pirates in the torrid East Division pennant race. The Cubs will counter with Lynn McGlothen (11-11) and Dennis Lamp (11-8). Palmer and Schatzeder have been regulars in manager Dick Williams' starting rotation for six weeks. Palmer lost as a reliever in San Diego against the Padres July 24 and Schatzeder lost as a starter against the Pirates July 28. Neither has dropped a decision since. The 21-year-old Palmer has been the more effective of the two in the second half of the season. The Glens Falls, N.Y., native is 6-1 since the all-star break with six straight wins. He has five consecutive winning decisions as a starter — one short of the team record set by Mike Torrez in 1974 and equalled by Steve Rogers in 1978.

Duck Bowl success despite turnout

KNOWLTON (ME) — Though turnout was somewhat disappointing, the annual Brome Lake Duck Bowl was staged last Saturday on Brome Lake. Eleven boats from points across the province turned out to compete in three races.

Peter Hayward of Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club in Dorval emerged the overall winner in the all-laser event. St. Bruno's Dave Whiteaway of Preville Yacht Club placed second while Paul Trotter of Little Lake Magog Boat Club (Deauville) finished third.

"Though there weren't as many boats as we hoped," organizer Tudor Johnson said, "a few noteworthy records were set." Among those were most number of capsizes by a single boat, whose skipper asked to remain anonymous. Ian Fisher and Mike Davidson assisted in the running of the races.

Stewart turns down offer

LONDON (AP) — Jackie Stewart said Monday he has turned down a $2.5-million offer to resume auto racing. Stewart, 40, quit six years ago after winning three world championships on the Grand Prix circuit. The Brabham team tried to entice him back into a car. In a statement telephoned to news agencies in London from his home near Geneva, Stewart said he weighed the offer carefully but decided the reasons he gave for retiring in 1973 are as valid now as they were then. "I had a successful career in motor racing and I owed it to my family to provide a stable environment — one in which my growing children could have their father as a secure figure," Stewart said.

Meyers works out before cameras

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The first day of practice, held before 10 television cameras, convinced Ann Meyers that becoming the first woman to play in the National Basketball Association will be more difficult than she thought. "I'm a lot slower than the other guys," Meyers said after her first two-hour workout at Indiana Pacers' rookie-free agent camp Monday. "They're a lot more physical than the women I've played against. And I can't do a lot of the things against the men as I've done against women." Meyers, 24, signed with the Pacers last week. However, she must earn a spot on the club's roster — a fact repeated Monday by coach Bobby Leonard and owner Sam Nassi.

Patriot back says he's sorry

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Cornerback Raymond Clayborn of New England Patriots apologized Monday for a locker room incident in which he allegedly poked his finger in a sports writer's eye. Clayborn and Will McDonough, sports columnist for the Boston Globe, exchanged words in the Patriots' locker room Sunday after the National Football League club thrashed New York Jets 56-3.

NHL refs sign contract

TORONTO (CP) — National Hockey League referees and linesmen have won a 25 to 30 per cent increase in total benefits in a new three-year contract with the league. The new deal was announced at a news conference Monday by NHL president John Ziegler and John McCauley, president of the Officials Association. Ziegler said the 25 to 30 per cent increase means that the lowest paid official now will earn $25,000 a year and the highest paid will get $60,000.

Hockey preseason schedule set

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Hockey League's 1979-80 exhibition schedule will feature a record 105 games, including five contests against the Canadian Olympic team and four against the United States Olympic squad, it was announced Monday. The exhibition schedule includes eight games more than played last season and the contests will be played in 53 North American cities, beginning Sept. 20.

Broadcaster Simpson leaves NBC

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Simpson, a veteran announcer who has covered seven Olympics, has left NBC to become the main announcer at ESPN, a 24-hour cable sports programming network that began operation last Friday. Simpson, who began working at NBC in 1964, joins former NBC president Chet Simmons at the Entertainment and Sports Programming Network. Simmons is the president of ESPN. Simpson, who is said to have received a lucrative lifetime contract, did football, baseball, tennis, golf and college basketball for NBC.
