London sure of admission to Euromart

LONDON (CP) — "We expect to get in." That was the confident comment of Foreign Secretary George Brown as Britain's application for European Common Market entry went forward formally in Brussels today.

Prime Minister Wilson signed the application before the 630-member House of Commons gave him a staggering majority of 426 on the issue late Wednesday night.

Wilson's Labor government was assured of support from the Opposition benches because the Conservative and Liberal parties were "marketeers" long before the Socialists.

WORLD NEWS

Strike moves

MONTREAL (CP) — A "rotating" or staggered-area strike by employees of Hydro-Quebec was to continue today with workers in the Montmorency region east of Quebec City beginning a 24-hour walkout and 800 employees in the St. Maurice district returning to work.

US lays charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has charged harassment by a Soviet ship that collided with an American destroyer—the latest in a series of U.S.-Soviet sea incidents including one undisclosed until after Wednesday's collision.

Prospects better

BRUSSELS (AP) — The prospects for a Kennedy round agreement to lower world trade barriers improved today after the United States and the European Common Market gave up trying to regulate the international grain trade by treaty.

More troops

SAIGON (AP) — The United States apparently has decided to assign more troops to help protect South Vietnam's embattled pacification program.

DRIVER KILLED — Police Wednesday withheld the name of the driver of this lumber truck who died in a fiery crash Tuesday near Banff, Alta.

Wilson's Labor government was assured of support from the Opposition benches because the Conservative and Liberal parties were "marketeers" long before the Socialists.

Indeed, Wilson's control of his own forces was far from complete. Rebel left-winger Michael Foot estimated that 35 Labor members risked expulsion from their party by voting against the government despite strict orders by the whips. Foot said as many as 45 to 50 may have abstained.

STAGGERING SUPPORT

The vote was 488 to 62—one of the biggest peacetime margins—and was received in silence in the Commons chamber at the end of the three-day debate that had some aspects of anti-climax.

"It was like sitting through a feature film the second time," said Tory spokesman Angus Maude, referring to the earlier abortive attempt of a Conservative government to join the market, blocked by French President de Gaulle in January, 1963.

Although the figures indicated some 88 Commons members did not take part in the vote for various reasons, the Wednesday margin indicated broader national backing than existed for the 1961-63 unsuccessful Treaty.

Before the decisive ballot was taken, the Commons crushed 487 to 26 an anti-market motion put forward by right-wing Conservative members.

The Tory Daily Telegraph publishes a Gallup poll indicating that the government's decision to apply for membership has brought sharp reactions among the British people.

First, although supporters of the application continue to outnumber opponents, they no longer command an absolute majority.

Second, it has, paradoxically, encouraged the belief that the application can succeed, the poll indicates.

The French position was non-committal following a Tuesday cabinet meeting after which France's information minister, Georges Gorse, said Britain's bid was debated. The minister said de Gaulle is likely to discuss the application at his press conference Tuesday.

The Daily Mirror carries a cartoon of de Gaulle telephoning Wilson.

"Allo, Harold, you can come in if you give us one thing—Canada."

Dief and Pearson disagree on constitutional revision

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker gave Parliament a choice Wednesday—meet the next 100 years with a massive effort now to reform the constitution or make gradual changes to adapt it to new needs.

Mr. Diefenbaker, through a non-confidence motion confined to the constitutional issue, bid for a decision when the Commons votes on it Monday.

His motion calls for a centennial constitutional conference to bring the constitution to Canada, revise and amend it and chart a course towards national goals.

Mr. Pearson rejected this in favor of a gradual approach which "never incurs the risk of total breakdown by total agreement at a total formal conference."

"We believe that as a government it is our duty . . . to resist any constitutional leap in the dark."

NEW SPIRIT ABOUNDS

Their confrontation on the issue, lurking in the background for several years, produced almost unprecedented agreement between the leaders that in Centennial Year a new spirit of unity and co-operation is moving Canadians.

purpose of restating the goals of Confederation, a gathering designed to correct any injustices that have taken place during the past 100 years, a gathering of Canadians to round out and restate these goals for the second century."

"The tinkering that has gone on is arousing an antagonism throughout the country. The constitution cannot be changed by whittling it away."

Confederation "will not survive long if the constitution is to be circumvented, undermined or departed from on an ad hoc basis."

He recalled that before his government was defeated and replaced by Mr. Pearson's minority administration in 1963 the provinces were invited to such a conference.

"We wanted a meeting for the purpose of restating the goals of Confederation, a gathering designed to correct any injustices that have taken place during the past 100 years, a gathering of Canadians to round out and restate these goals for the second century."

Strangled boy

CAMBRIDGE, England (Reuters) — A 16-year-old girl strangled an 11-year-old boy here last month because he called her names. It was alleged in court here Wednesday.

The girl, whose name was not revealed, was committed for trial by a juvenile court. Inspector Christine Willis told the court the girl gave her a detailed account of what happened April 24, after she met the boy, Barry Davidson, in a field and he called her "silly little kid names."

Champagne and controversy

Royal visitors enmeshed in Ottawa quarrel

QUEBEC (CP) — Belgium's Prince Albert of Liege and Quebec's Premier Daniel Johnson exchanged champagne toasts Wednesday night, but clouds of controversy still swirled around the prince's state visit to Quebec.

Prince Albert and his wife, Princess Paola, were drawn into what Premier Johnson described as "a serious family quarrel" between the provincial government and the federal government in Ottawa.

Mr. Johnson charged in the legislature that the federal government had used the royal visitors to crush provincial jurisdiction, saying "these persons know they have been duped by Ottawa."

He disclosed that the provincial government has protested to Ottawa over the signing of the cultural agreement in Ottawa Monday between Canada and Belgium. He called the agreement an "adventure" because Quebec had not been consulted.

The five-year agreement, which is to promote artistic, technological and scientific exchange, was signed in the presence of Prince Albert, whose visit coincided with Belgium's national day at Expo 67 in Montreal Tuesday.

INGRSED ON RIGHTS

Since the agreement involves education, a provincial responsibility under the constitution, Mr. Johnson charged the federal government with invading provincial rights without the province's consent.

In the legislature, he said the federal government "wanted to use these visitors to show the world it's possible to crush the province in a field under its jurisdiction. We won't endure this and there is not a Quebecer who will endure it."

The storm blew up only two hours after the royal couple arrived from Montreal.

Mr. Johnson's criticism of the federal government arose from a question posed in the legislature by Opposition Leader Jean Lesage.

Mr. Lesage asked whether it was true that the province's protocol chief, Andry Patry, had sent a telegram to Ottawa declaring the Canadian ambassador to Belgium, Paul Tremblay, unwelcome in Quebec.

Mr. Johnson invoked his right not to answer, saying he did not want to discuss the issues with the royal couple as guests, but proceeded to make charges against the federal government.

AIR OF CONGENIALITY

Wednesday night, at a state dinner in the royal couple's honor given by the province, the prince and premier talked in glowing terms about "the natural bond of friendship" between Belgians and Quebecers.

Girl flees hospital, police still looking

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police continued their search today for a 15-year-old Jehovah's Witness who fled hospital Tuesday night because she said she would rather die than submit to a blood transfusion.

James Cameron, lay preacher for the religious group that does not believe in transfusions and counsellor to missing Miriam Myllyniemi, said Wednesday the girl probably would remain in hiding until the family court renders a decision on her custody.

Mr. Cameron said Miriam likely would come out of hiding if the court ruled her mother, Dorothy Myllyniemi, should have custody rather than the British Columbia Children's Aid Society.

Should the society win he doubted whether Miriam will be heard from.

Judge Earl Vance said Wednesday night he would decide Friday.

The society took custody of Miriam in January and lodged her in the Roman Catholic St. Paul's Hospital because the child was suffering chronic uremia, a kidney disease that requires blood transfusions. The disease can be fatal if not treated.

Miriam was given five transfusions, the most recent April 3 when she battled four nurses, and was due for another Wednesday.

Tony Pantages, Miriam's lawyer, said he believed she and Mrs. Myllyniemi were staying with friends who would return the girl to hospital if her condition worsened.

Miriam fled the hospital Tuesday and was reportedly driven away in a car with her mother. When she left the hospital her hemoglobin level was 4.6 milligrams, about one-third the normal level.

Mrs. Myllyniemi of Penticton, in the Okanagan, launched the court action to regain custody of her child. She said she did not want her daughter to have the transfusions.

The society is claiming custody of Miriam under the Protection of Children Act. It had temporary custody and requires a court order to continue its wardship.

Hoffa fails

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — James R. Hoffa's fourth motion for a new trial on jury tampering charges was denied Wednesday by Judge Frank W. Wilson in U.S. district court.

Wilson said in an opinion that the Teamsters Union president and three other defendants "failed to establish that any rights were violated in any respect by the government as alleged in the motion," filed Feb. 28.

Labor troubles nettle Expo, but turnstiles keep turning

MONTREAL (CP)—Labor relations troubles nettled Expo 67 today but the turnstiles continued to click off numbers of visitors beyond the early expectations of Canada's world fair.

While members of the 1,200-member security force were holding meetings to discuss an arbitrator's wage ruling, Montrealers and visitors were pouring through the gates at an unanticipated rate.

By midnight Wednesday, 144,198 had entered compared with a computer-anticipated crowd of 113,320. This meant a total of 3,433,938 since the fair opened 13 days ago—more than 1,000,000 beyond expectations.

There was a threat of a work stoppage on the public opening day April 28, but the security men resumed work when an arbitrator was appointed. His ruling was that the wage rate for protection agents should remain at the rate which came into effect May 1 under an earlier ruling—$2.47.

The fair's attitude was expressed by Robert Shaw, deputy commissioner-general, who said in a statement that Expo "fully expected the union to respect the agreement they have with Expo, as have all other unions."

He referred to a no-strike agreement. The security men's union, which polices the 1,000-acre site, is affiliated with the Quebec Federation of Labor. The men had told the arbitrator they wanted a $3.50-an-hour rate.

Meanwhile, in Quebec, former justice minister Claude Wagner continued in the provincial legislature to link Expo with organized crime.

Expo's answer was a statement that A. G. Kniessner, general manager of the fair, would seek a transcript of the Liberal member's remarks and would turn it over to police authorities concerned.

But with the show-must-go-on attitude, Expo got set for today's ceremony honoring Burma with a flag-raising in Place des Nations, the fair's amphitheatre.

Wagner alters charges

QUEBEC (CP)—Former Justice minister Claude Wagner Wednesday altered charges about organized crime at Expo 67 in Montreal by making more "troubling revelations."

Speaking in the legislature, Mr. Wagner, a former judge, identified four organizations he said do business at Expo, saying "undesirables have succeeded in profiting from Expo facilities." In three cases, company names differed with charges he made Friday when he told the legislature Expo had been infiltrated by organized crime of Cosa Nostra calibre.

Mr. Wagner said Wednesday "undesirables . . . have provoked confusion of names to throw off responsible authorities."

He again named Joe Frankel, whom he described earlier as "a chief of the Montreal bookies," and William Obront, described Friday as "a notorious member of the Mafia."

Mr. Wagner said Joe Frankel "created confusion to penetrate concessions at Expo" by incorporating companies with names similar to two well-known Montreal businesses.

He said Frankel incorporated Fleur de Lys Linen Supply Inc. and New System Vending Co. Ltd. and solicits the same clientele as New System Towel Supply Co. Ltd. and Fleur de Lys Vending Services Inc.

"Frankel solicits the same clientele and has been able to supply several concessionaires at Expo," Mr. Wagner said, adding that the Frankel group has 500 vending machines in operation.

He said William Obront, who "does business at the Atwater Market in Montreal behind the screen of Obie's Meat Market," sells meat at Expo from a warehouse on the site.

Friday Mr. Wagner linked William Obront with Obie's Meat Market, which he said Wednesday is also located at Atwater Market but is run by a Ben Obront, identified in the legislature as an uncle of William Obront.

Mr. Wagner also named Margie's Flower Shop Ltd. as a company with a place in an Expo warehouse. Friday he referred to a florist company as Margie's Flower Shop and Margie's Florist Shop.

He said Margie's Flower Shop Ltd. was involved in a $291,896 bankruptcy in 1966, but 20 days before the company was declared bankrupt in court another company with a similar name was incorporated.

Kennedy assassination

Investigation is unstoppable

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—District Attorney Jim Garrison says "there's no way in the world" to stop his investigation of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

"All they can do is slow it down," Garrison said after a series of developments Wednesday, which included:

—A request for a subpoena directing the Central Intelligence Agency to produce what Garrison claims is a long-suppressed photo of Lee Harvey Oswald, named by the Warren commission as the assassin of Kennedy.

—Refusal by the justice department to permit an FBI agent to testify before a grand jury on his role in the investigation of the 1963 assassination.

—A report of a tape recording which purportedly indicated a bribe had been offered for a statement to help substantiate Garrison's investigation.

The application for the subpoena called on Richard Helms, CIA director, to produce before the grand jury a "true photograph" of Oswald and a burly Cuban which Garrison says was taken in front of the Cuban embassy in Mexico City.

Garrison contends the photo was suppressed and a "fake photograph" was submitted in evidence before the Warren commission.

Garrison wants FBI agent Regis Kennedy to testify before the grand jury on his role in the assassination investigation, but U.S. attorney Louis C. La Cour asked Criminal District Judge Bernard J. Bagert to quash his subpoena.

Bagert ordered a hearing next Tuesday on the government's motion.

With reference to the tape recording, Garrison said: "It's not worth commenting on. The only thing important is the truth."

The tape recording was the subject of a press conference by a lawyer, Burton Klein, who said his client, Alvin Beauhous, was offered $3,000 and a job if he would "help substantiate the alleged plot."

Garrison contends a plot was made in New Orleans to assassinate the president, and that several persons were involved. The only indictment thus far is a conspiracy charge against Clay L. Shaw, 54-year-old retired New Orleans businessman, who has pleaded innocent.

Octogenarian of Mansonville marks birthday

MRS. ETHEL THAYER

MANSONVILLE — Congratulations are being extended to Mrs. Ethel Thayer, who celebrated her 80th birthday quietly in her own home on May 8.

Birthday greetings were received from many relatives and friends. The birthday cake was made by her daughter, Mrs. Harold Clark and decorated by her granddaughter, Phyllis, Mrs. Andre Marcoux.

Mrs. Thayer is recovering from a two month illness so no further celebrations were planned. During her illness, she was attended by her daughter, Mrs. Francis McKelvey, a graduate nurse.

Mrs. Thayer, who was born in Westfield, Vt., on May 8, 1887, came to Canada to live as a bride in March 1907. She lost her husband in February 1955.

Since the marriage of her youngest daughter, Alice, Mrs. Allen Whiteher, of Foster, she has lived alone for the last ten years. She has four daughters and three sons, one son Wallace died a few years ago. She has 28 grandchildren and 25 great-grandchildren.

Vermont band gives concert at Granby school

GRANBY — At the high school gymnasium a concert was presented to a large audience by the Lyndon Institute Symphonic Band from Vermont on their way to perform at Expo.

Many families of Granby students opened their homes to the members of the band after the performance.

The students of the high school realized over $300 by selling tickets, with proceeds going to the GHS Expedition Fund.

SOUTH DECIDES WHO HAS CARDS

With a combined age of just over 50, Mike Lawrence and Lew Stansby are the youngest top pair playing bridge. They won the Open Team of four in San Francisco in 1965 so this year's Vanderbilt win was their second national title.

Like the rest of their team they are aggressive bidders as may be evidenced by this slam reached in one of the early matches.

Mike's jump to two no-trump was a very slight overbid and Lew never stopped until he had Mike in six diamonds.

The contract is a good one. Without a club lead it is almost a sure thing. Even with the club lead it makes easily if the trump finesse works. As you can see the trump finesse isn't going to work but Mike found another line of play to bring home the bacon.

He won the first trick with dummy's ace of clubs. Then he studied the hand for quite awhile. There is no extra bonus for making a slam quickly.

His next play was a diamond to his ace. It looked as if West would have all missing high cards and maybe that king of diamonds would be a singleton. When the king of diamonds failed, ed to drop Mike went after the spade suit. He played his king of spades, led the ten of spades and finessed dummy's jack. The jack held and the ace pro-

Archbishop heads representatives visiting at Synagogue and banquet

Prominent Roman Catholics, including Archbishop Georges Cabana, were entertained at the Agudath Achim Synagogue on Montreal Street in Sherbrooke last night.

The luncheon and friendly exchange was meant as a rapprochement between the two faiths and included lay as well as religious members of each community.

In welcoming the Catholics, Rabbi Joseph Berglas said "shalom" which, he explained, is the Hebrew word for peace and goodwill.

Archbishop Cabana speaking in his turn for the Catholic community said that Jews and Catholics should get together and work for the betterment of the world and to help ease the hunger to be found in it.

He said there was room for exchange between the two faiths and invited them to come back to "my house." Members of the Jewish Synagogue visited the diocese a short while ago and last night's exchange was to repay, in a way, the hospitality they had received.

Following the dinner, Rabbi Berglas escorted his Catholic guests through the Synagogue and explained to them the history and meaning of his religion.

The Catholic delegation included laymen, many priests and nuns, among them Msgr. Maltais, Rector of the University of Sherbrooke.

Rabbi Berglas described the history of Judaism and said that the secret of the survival of the Jews was their strong heritage.

"Religion," he said, "is not an isolated thing, religion is for the whole human race."

What the city called "a semi-civic" funeral will be held Saturday morning for Felix Thibault alderman for the east ward who died early Tuesday at the age of 73.

The announcement was made yesterday at a special city council meeting. Police and fire department will form part of the cortege.

Elections to fill the post left vacant will be held June 7 with nominations being May 31.

At yesterday's meeting the mayor and council paid tribute to Mr. Thibault, a 15-year council veteran.

Missing from the meeting were Ald. Marcel Savard and Everett Nicol.

CALLS BACK

Ald. Nicol who is on business for the city in Boston was called back by a telegram. Ald. Savard telephoned the mayor that he was unable to attend the special council meeting because he was meeting with a constituent. He met with the mayor later in the day.

Last night council paid tribute to Mr. Thibault at the funeral home.

Mr. Thibault was the second Sherbrooke alderman to die in office. Maxime Lorranger, also representing the East Ward No. 2 seat passed away February 14, 1965.

All members of the council expressed their deepest sympathy.

Mr. Thibault served five terms; the last term was to end this fall.

Mr. Thibault for the greater part of his time on the City Council served as chairman of the public works committee.

The body is at Monfette's funeral parlor, 33 Bowen Street South, from where the funeral will leave at 11 a.m. Saturday for service at St. Jean Baptiste Church at 11:15 a.m.

Burial will be in St. Michael's Cemetery.

DR. JOHN SILNY
Head of the radiology department

A quicker X-ray eye is needed for hospital's tripled work

Outside, it's a warming, quiet, spring day.

Inside Sherbrooke Hospital it is a milling, throbbing circus of white-uniformed nurses and multi-dressed people.

People with pains, people with aches, people with something they "don't quite know what it is but I got it right about there."

People with suspected internal disorders or injuries will probably end up having an X-ray at the Sherbrooke Hospital.

It is a comforting thing to know that somewhere in your hospital there are men and machines capable of finding out, at the snap of a shutter and the developing of a film just what might be wrong with your internal organs, or your bones, or whatever.

This happens 1,400 times a week, 52 weeks a year and has been since 1951 when Sherbrooke Hospital was first built.

Today, and more so tomorrow, the outdated equipment—necessary as it was yesterday and useful as it is now—is no longer quite adequate.

As Dr. John Silny, head of the radiology department puts it, "we just need new equipment."

"The workload has tripled in the last 15 years," he explains making his point simply.

At this instant probably one of the technicians of your hospital is developing your X-ray or your cousin's by hand. First developing, then fixing, then washing, then drying.

It's a process which takes 45 minutes. With new equipment and what is called an automatic processor, this same process could be done in eight minutes. And the department could provide, among other things, the funds necessary to purchase this essential equipment.

And the community could sleep better, knowing that the most modern facilities were available whenever needed at the Sherbrooke Hospital.

The annual hospital campaign, now being conducted for an objective of $75,000, is to

Mayors, councils acclaimed

The mayors and three aldermen of each of four municipalities were returned by acclamation yesterday.

In Ascot North, Mayor Julien Ducharme and Aldermen Adrien Boulanger, Bernard Luc and Bertrand Marquis were acclaimed.

In Ascot Corner, Mayor Lorenzo Dube and Aldermen Gerard Pelletier, Levis Payeur and Louisa Payeur remained in office.

In St. Hermenegilde Mayor Isidore St. Jacques and Ald. Leo Lanesvieux, Victor Dubois and Alphonse Bergeron remained in office.

In Barnston Township Mayor Antonio Thibault and Aldermen Ovide Cabana, Roland Boulanger and Louis Levesque were acclaimed.

Fernand Boutin was elected by acclamation to seat number one in Newport Township, filling a vacancy left by the resignation of Jean-Paul Roy because of the press of other duties.

Mayor Emile Rouleau and Aldermen Bernard Theroux and Herbert Loveland were all re-elected by acclamation.

Industrial managers told of super sonics

Huge supersonic jets carrying passengers at speeds of 1,800 miles per hour from Montreal to London in three hours will be the future descendants of the fragile little Kitty Hawk of the Wright brothers, Jean LePottier told members of the Sherbrooke Regional Chapter of the Industrial Management Club of Canada.

It was the club's ladies' night last night and about 300 members and their wives turned up at the New Wellington Hotel to hear Mr. LePottier, special assistant to the director of Advertising for Air Canada, speak on modern aviation and the super sonic transport concept, now under development in Europe and the United States.

In 1965, Mr. LePottier said, 17,000,000 individual passengers made international flights from one country to another and this figure does not include passengers who made just domestic flights.

The projected figure for 1975, Mr. LePottier told the members and their wives, is estimated at at least 55,000,000.

The Boeing SST project in the United States, Mr. LePottier said, is a much bigger and a much faster aircraft. Capable of speeds up to 1,800 miles-per-hour, he said, it should be in the air by 1977.

He went on to say that the chief difference in the development of both aircraft is the use of materials. Whereas the Concord project is able to use conventional materials like aluminum, he pointed out, the US plane must be built of materials like titanium, capable of standing the intense heat caused by the friction of a plane travelling through the air at 1,800 mph. The temperature of the wingtips can reach 650 degrees.

Speaking of the public's demand for an aircraft like the SST, Mr. LePottier said that the public has always demanded more modern and faster airplanes. However, he went on to say that whether or not the introduction of the SST would lower air fares was not known, due to the tremendous cost of development.

Seated at the head table with Mr. LePottier were: Club President Paul Rajotte and Mrs. Rajotte; Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Cyrenne; P. Archambault; Mr. and Mrs. L. Lalancette; Mr. and Mrs. G. Roberge; and Mr. and Mrs. Ron Dick.

There are two such plans under development, he said, the Lockheed C5A, a 260-foot giant weighing 700,000 pounds and capable of carrying 750 passengers. The other, he continued, is the Boeing 747, which can carry 500 passengers.

But the really big development, Mr. LePottier went on, is the development of the SST the super sonic transport.

There are two projects, he said, one carried out by Britain and France who should have prototype models of the Concord, an airliner capable of speeds up to 1,450 mph, in the air by 1968 and in service by 1971. Air Canada, he said has four of these on order and should have them by 1974.

Another concept on the drawing boards Mrs. LePottier said, is the so called "jumbo jet", a huge aircraft capable of carrying up to 750 passengers.

nearly twice the total present population of Canada.

To meet this fantastic demand, Mr. LePottier said, the aviation industry has come up with several new concepts in flight to move more passengers faster to more places.

At present, he said, designers are working on and developing extended jets, sort of "stretched" out conventional jets which still travel at a speed less than that of sound but can carry more passengers.

The designing of these aircraft, he said, was indicative of the present phase of the aviation industry, hovering between the development of the full fledged SST and the conventional jet airliner.

Greece offers lesson on democracy

The military take-over in Greece is a sober reminder of a reality we tend to ignore in the heat of any East-West confrontation — that the defeat of communism by arms in the field does not assure that an era of tranquility and progress will automatically descend upon the winner.

The economic, political and social problems that beset a nation, though they may be exploited by the Communists, exist independently of that exploitation.

Greece was the scene of the first U.S. challenge to the Soviet expansionism following World War II and out of Greece's long travail against Red guerrillas was born the Truman Doctrine, Marshall Plan and North Atlantic Alliance, which have guided American policy ever since.

But after 20 years and $1.8 billion in military and $1.7 billion in economic aid, the Greek army has instituted a dictatorship in the belief that only such a drastic step would prevent the country from falling into the hands of the extreme left, if not of communism itself.

The Grecian story is new proof that the struggle to arrive at a middle ground between a dictatorship of the left and one of the right can be as difficult and far longer lasting than a contest against armed aggression or subversion.

In Vietnam the United States has not as yet arrived at the second stage and, in fact, the end of the first is nowhere in sight.

Easy hopes that a military victory, or at least a cessation of hostilities, will thenceforth make Vietnam safe for democracy have to be re-evaluated in the light of what has happened in Greece, the ancient birthplace of democracy.

But South Korea shows that both wars — the war of men's bodies and the other for their minds — can be won.

Korea has its political troubles following the end of the war there, but it has now held its second free election since the upheaval which saw the ouster of Syngman Rhee and the country is soaring economically.

Labor specialization goes extreme

Specialization is the favorite cry today.

People are expected to learn more and more about less and less until finally they know everything about nothing.

This belief, apparently, reached its apex in Bunny, England, where a tiny button set off a strange procession that might well have been the subject of comment at the Mad Hatters tea party.

When a small button fell off a factory's telephone switchboard, two engineers came to put it back.

But, intent on making its point, the button fell off again and rolled under a cabinet.

This produced two carpenters, summoned to move the cabinet.

Wheeled Utopia far away in Russia

Any hopes that the Russian people or their sympathizers throughout the world may have held the Soviet Union's decision to step up its production of automobiles heralds a consumer revolution in the workers' paradise are detoured by statistics.

The Central Intelligence Agency at Washington has delved into the matter.

In a report to a congressional subcommittee it says that a planned increase in Soviet car output from the current 200,

000 units a year to 1.1 million units in 1975 would give Russia an automobile population "roughly equal to that of the United States in 1917."

When it is realized that there are already more than twice as many people in Russia in 1967 as there were in the United States in 1917 — with the Russian population still growing — it is apparent that the goal of a car in every garageski is nowhere in sight.

Other papers say:

Judge restricts court case freedom

While this newspaper does not take it upon itself to disobey court rulings, it is sensitive to those which appear to restrict unnecessarily its right and duty to publish the news, including reports of court proceedings.

Not long ago, in Dartmouth,

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

Judge R. E. Inglis ruled at a preliminary hearing of a charge of non-capital murder that representatives of the press could stay, but report only the names of the witnesses. None of the evidence was to be published. Under these conditions, the reporters remained in the company of a larger number of spectators who were placed under no similar restraint.

Always, at preliminary hearings, there is concern for the interests of the accused, and understandably so in view of the fact that, usually, only the evidence of the prosecution is heard. For this reason, Parliament placed in the Criminal Code certain measures designed to protect the accused; it is illegal, for example, to publish any report of confessions of which evidence is given at such hearings.

Generally speaking, however, the Criminal Code does not prevent or restrict the common law right of the public, including the press, to attend preliminary hearings, and to report the evidence given.

It is true that prospective jurors may read reports of such hearings, and possibly be prejudiced by them. Trial judges, however, can direct that juries be governed solely by the evidence, and that they not be influenced by anything which they may have read about the cases before them.

Surely one of the great protections of the public, whether at a preliminary hearing, or a trial, is the open court. Where no question of public morals is involved, there ought to be no limitation of the right of the public to attend any trial, preliminary or otherwise, nor of the press to fairly and accurately report such proceedings to that public which cannot attend.

We are disturbed by the distinction which must be drawn between press and public as a result of Judge Inglis' ruling. The public was free to report what it heard at the hearing; no restriction was placed upon it. The right of the press to do so was restricted; its freedom, in this respect, should be the same as that of the public — neither greater nor lesser.

We respect Judge Inglis, and his long record of distinguished service. We nevertheless protest his ruling, and trust that it will not be repeated by him, or any of his colleagues in Nova Scotia, as long as the law remains in its present state.

Quiet but successful

Indian public health officials battle against ancient diseases

By RAM SUNDAR

BOMBAY (CP) — Public health authorities in India are waging a quiet but successful struggle against ancient diseases.

Some 450,000,000 people have been vaccinated against smallpox. Officials say that scourge has been brought under control in all urban areas, particularly in metropolitan cities such as Bombay, New Delhi and Calcutta.

A federal health ministry report says it should be possible to eradicate smallpox "within 10 years."

The dreaded disease is still a menace in India's remote rural areas. Some 1,000 villagers are reported to have died of smallpox in Bihar state since January.

The Gaya area of Bihar is said to be the worst affected. A report in the New Delhi Statesman describes how the town of Gaya has been turned into a "prayer ground" with men, women and children invoking the mercy of the goddess Shitala Devi.

Hindu mythological belief holds that smallpox is caused when the goddess gets angry.

This belief is shared by Hindus, Moslems and Christians. An "immunity cord" has been thrown around big cities. All people entering them are liable to be vaccinated compulsorily.

THREAT OF JAIL

In the fight against smallpox the authorities have to contend with age-old superstitions.

Many people refuse to be vaccinated on the ground that the vaccine is "polluted" by animal matter. The reason is that smallpox vaccine is prepared from virus grown on the skin of animals.

In some instances vaccinators have been beaten up by orthodox peasants.

The provincial government of Gujarat has threatened to jail people who refuse to have themselves or their children vaccinated. The federal government has also told the provinces that if necessary they can invoke the Defence of India Rules to punish anti-vaccination campaigners on the ground that they are spreading disaffection against the administration. The rules were promulgated to ensure national security after the Chinese invasion in 1962.

India's success against malaria and tuberculosis has been more marked.

There has been a 90 per cent reduction in the incidence of malaria in many areas.

As for tuberculosis, it no longer is considered the sure killer it was for centuries. Health surveys have shown a striking fall in TB cases in the industrial districts of Bombay and Calcutta.

Health authorities say the battle against TB will be finally won only when the food problem is solved. TB is accentuated by malnutrition.

A countrywide BCG vaccination campaign has been under way to protect people against TB. Diagnostic and hospital facilities have also been stepped up.

For instance Bombay has built a modern tuberculosis hospital exclusively for industrial workers and people from low-income groups.

Doctor shortage, especially in rural areas, continues to be a great challenge.

LIFE SPAN LONGER

As against only 56,000 qualified doctors 15 years ago, there now are nearly 100,000 of them. But most of the doctors are concentrated in urban areas.

There is only one doctor for every 5,000 people and only one hospital bed for every 2,500 people.

Federal and provincial authorities are planning 30 new medical colleges, bringing the total to 110.

The most remarkable thing about Indian public health is the increase in life expectancy.

An average Indian now can hope to live up to 50 years as against only 27 in 1947 when the country became independent. Yet this figure is nowhere near European or North American standards.

Paradoxically, the improvement in the life span has imposed fresh strains on the food, housing, employment and education fronts.

As one government official said: "The more the people, the longer they live, the more the challenges we have to grapple with. But on the whole we are becoming a healthier people and this means we can tackle our problems more effectively."

COMMENT

by Lubor J. Zink

OTTAWA — (TNS) — Commenting on Gen. Westmoreland's appearance before the U.S. Congress, Sen. Fulbright criticized the American commander for saying that Vietnag agitation was bound to prolong the war because the Communist mind, unable to understand freedom of dissent in the democratic society, regarded the ferment as the beginning of their opponents' psychological and moral collapse.

Fulbright also took issue with Westmoreland's description of the origin of the conflict as Communist aggression by saying that the trouble started in South Vietnam and that, at any rate, Westmoreland wasn't there.

This is a curious argument, for if applied consistently, it would have to shut up virtually all the critics of American policy in Southeast Asia because they too, including Sen. Fulbright, weren't there.

Equally curious is the contention that there was no Communist aggression in the early stages of the war because the fighting started in South Vietnam.

It's like saying that there was no Communist aggression in Korea because the fighting started south of the dividing line, or that World War II, as Hitler tried to maintain, was triggered by Poland. The absurdity of this line of reasoning should be self-evident.

In any aggressive war (and it makes no difference whether it is overt or covert aggression), fighting invariably starts on the territory of the attacked country.

The only other origin of hostilities within an established state is civil war, which is what Sen. Fulbright is implying when he challenges the assertion of Communist aggression in Vietnam.

The difficulty in passing a clearcut and incontrovertible verdict about the origin of the present phase of the conflict in Vietnam lies in the fact that, unlike Korea, the Communists did not open the battle by marching their troops in full view of the world across the dividing line.

They did not do so because they had learned from their Korean experience that the orthodox method of a direct attack was a psychological blunder which rallied public opinion against them. In Vietnam they were careful not to repeat the same mistake.

North orders Viet-Cong

Instead of mounting a military offensive across the dividing line when it became apparent that South Vietnam would not collapse as they had confidently expected at the conclusion of the 1954 Geneva Conference, they simply ordered into action the concealed Communist political and terrorist cadres they had left in South Vietnam as an insurance against miscalculation.

It was only when this initial force, charged with creating the impression of a civil war, started calling for reinforcements, that Hanoi began infiltrating regular North Vietnam troops and eventually decided to send massive formations straight across the 17th parallel.

This tactic gave Hanoi the benefit of a vast reservoir of doubt about the origin of the war — a doubt which makes it possible for the Fulbrights to cling to the theory of revolutionary insurgency and to dispute the Communist aggression contention of the Westmorelands.

While it is true that Gen. Westmoreland wasn't in Vietnam when the trouble started in 1955, there is no lack of qualified witnesses of the genesis of the conflict.

From the beginning, the U.S. had a small group of military advisors and political observers in South Vietnam. Quite naturally, official Washington and Gen. Westmoreland rely on the testimony of these witnesses.

Canadian observers

But even if one were to discount their conclusions, our Government has had its own observers on the scene since 1954.

It was their collective assessment of the situation which led Prime Minister to declare that the U.S. intervened to help South Vietnam defend itself against aggression — and which led External Affairs Minister Paul Martin to talk repeatedly about "aggression by the north."

Three of our former high-ranking diplomatic and military members of the International Control Commission in Vietnam who are no longer with the External Affairs Department, have written extensively about the initial stages of Communist aggression in Southeast Asia.

One of them, Roy Cadwell, even wrote a book prompted by his experiences in Vietnam, about "the strategy and tactics of the Communists in their plan for world domination."

Others, who remained in the diplomatic service after their turn on duty with the ICC, confirm in private conversations what the three who can speak out have stated publicly.

Apart from this testimony by Canadian witnesses, we have the 1962 majority report of the ICC which, covering a period of seven years of investigations of violations of the Geneva Armistice terms, stated that "armed and unarmed personnel, arms, munitions and other supplies" had been sent from North Vietnam into South Vietnam "with the object of supporting, organizing and carrying out hostile activities, including armed attacks directed against the armed forces and administration" of South Vietnam.

The report also stated that Hanoi had allowed North Vietnamese territory to be used "for inciting, encouraging and supporting hostile activities in the zone in the south aimed at the overthrow of the administration" in South Vietnam.

What better description and testimony of the methods of covert aggression the Communists initially used in Vietnam can Sen. Fulbright and his befuddled followers possibly want?

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

William Hickling Prescott (1796-1859) was one of America's finest historians. While an undergraduate at Harvard University, he was blinded in one eye by an accident, says The World Almanac. Later, the other eye was made practically useless by rheumatism. Despite these misfortunes, Prescott managed to do careful research by employing a man to read manuscripts and documents to him aloud.

Old building's trip a startling sight on Sutton streets

SUTTON — (Special) — Considerable interest was evoked on Tuesday when a large building was moved through town. It was the old customs office, formerly in use at Highwater before the new one was built. Moved by a firm from St. Gregoire, the building made quite a spectacle as it was brought in from the road toward Abercorn to pass along Main Street as far as the corner of Academy. Men had to go ahead of it to take down some telephone wires to allow its passage. After leaving Main, the old customs office building was towed up Academy to turn on to Highland Avenue, past the O'Regan Maplewood Mink Ranch, and across a bridge near there. And then, finally, the building was moved on to come to rest at its new home in the ski area.

It looked like a king size moving job.

Reception for Grade I pupils and parents

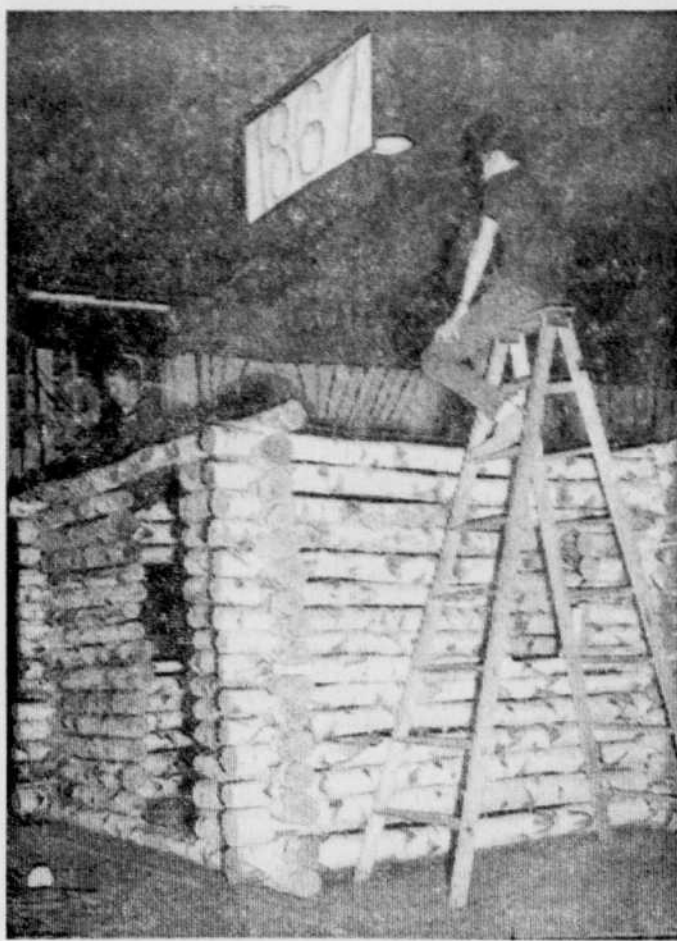

KNOWLTON — (Special) — A reception for prospective Grade I students and their parents will be held on May 23, beginning at 1:30 p.m., in the High School Gymnasium.

All children six years of age Oct. 1, 1967 will be admitted to school. Children whose birthdays fall between Oct. 1 and Dec. 31, 1967, may be admitted depending upon their readiness to profit from instruction.

Speakers will be: S. B. Hardacker, Principal Supervisor; R. E. Elliott, vice-principal; Miss C. Miller, school nurse; Miss R. Low, Brome County Family Services. All children and their parents will be welcome.

Sale every Saturday

WATERLOO — (Special) — Rummage sales will be held in Waterloo, on the remaining Saturdays in May, from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. at the rear of the rectory at St. Luke's on Court and Lewis Streets.

CENTENNIAL DECOR — Two Cowansville High School boys erect an 1867 log cabin that was part of the decor for the school's graduation dance. The cabin was made from hand cut birch logs, then chinked with moss. (Record photo by Studio Eclair)

Church plans events for youth and for women

KNOWLTON — (Special) — The Anglican Church Women are to meet with the Deanery presidents and secretaries of all the church organizations on May 13 in the Guild Room of St. Paul's Church. An open invitation is extended to all presidents and secretaries to join with them in this meeting.

The Archdeaconry of Bedford is to hold a youth rally in St. Paul's Church, Greenfield Park, on Friday, May 19, commencing at 8 p.m. This will take the form of a social evening and dancing. The clergy present will be on the "Hot Seat" during a question period!

Legion dance in Knowlton

KNOWLTON — (Special) — The Brome Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion is planning to hold an opening dance in the new Legion Hall on Friday evening, May 19. Music will be supplied by Reggie Seguin and a buffet supper will be served.

Grade one registration

WATERLOO — (Special) — Registration of students attending Grade one next year will be held next Tuesday at two p.m. at Waterloo High School, in Mrs. Hackwell's grade one room. Parents are requested to bring their children to the school at this time. They will be presented with the booklet "Preparing the Beginner for School."

Missionaries at deanery meeting

WATERLOO — (Special) — The annual deanery held at St. Luke's Church here May 6, was attended by 85 persons and featured several speakers including Brother Raymond Cournoyer and Mrs. J. C. Kirby.

It was the first meeting under the new name of Anglican Church Women for the Brome-Shefford deanery. Visiting clergy were Archdeacon I. M. Laidstone of Granby; Rev. Albiston, Mansonville, and Rev. Brett, Sutton.

The day opened with a communion service at 10 a.m. Rev. R. K. Dickerson delivered a sermon on the Heart of Missions. Mrs. Clifford Worden read the epistle and the collection was taken by Mrs. Donald Wilson and Mrs. Frank Russell. The anthem "Thine for Ever" was rendered by the Junior choir.

During the salad luncheon Mrs. Kirby, deanery president, spoke on the meaning, forming, and working of the new A.C.W. Fresh spring flowers were on all the tables and the hall was very prettily decorated.

Brother Cournoyer of the Brothers of Holy Cross, and a missionary in Pakistan for seven years, spoke on the new aspect of missionary work. He described the life in Pakistan and showed a film of the country. His final message was, "Love God and love thy neighbor, and if we love our neighbors we will help them."

The ladies voted to donate the money taken at collection, to Brother Raymond, to continue his work. He was accompanied by Brother Julien, who had been a missionary in India. Miss Ross, president of the W.A. in Newfoundland also attended.

Mrs. J. C. Kirby, president of the diocesan A. C. W.; Rev. R. K. Dickerson, Mrs. M. MacIntosh, and Brother Raymond Cournoyer, who spoke on missionary work in Pakistan. (Record photo by Marcel Cote)

Art Centre summer season on COWANSVILLE — On Saturday afternoon, May 6, Mrs. Lee welcomed everybody and said she was not selected by a committee. There were more than 120 pictures and she remarked that they were a lovely variety and required a certain amount of ingenuity on the part of the executive to hang them all.

ART EXHIBIT OPENS — Mrs. W. Pickering, left, a member of the executive, and Mrs. B. Foster, secretary of the Cowansville Art Centre are shown at the opening of the 1967 exhibition season last Saturday when 63 local artists display 123 works of art. The current exhibition will be shown until May 21. The centre is open Tuesday, days, Thursday, Saturdays and Sundays from 2 to 5 p.m. (Record photo by Studio Eclair)

Mrs. Lee mentioned that the day before, she and her husband had visited the Art gallery at Expo '67, which she heartily recommended to everyone. The theme there was "Man and his Conflict." Through brush strokes the artist portrays his inner self. However, in most instances in this exhibition in Cowansville there is serenity rather than conflict. She noted that Time Magazine has devoted much space to Canada in a recent issue, stating that there are innumerable signs that Canada is coming of age in art.

In the Cowansville Art Centre are many teenagers and young pupils, and there is ever the hope among members that one of them some day might become a great artist.

This summer there will be another exhibition in June. In July, the Bank of Montreal's historical Confederation Exhibition from Charlottetown will come straight to the Cowansville Art Centre from Charlottetown.

In August and for two months thereafter, Eastern Townships artists of note will provide further exhibitions.

In conclusion, Mrs. Lee thanked everyone for coming and she then asked the vice-president, M. Planteux, to give a resume in French. Following which, sherry was served in the dining room of the spacious Bruck Club.

The present members' exhibition is both varied and interesting. It is on view now until Sunday, May 21 and can be seen at the Cowansville Art Centre, 225 Main Street, between 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. on Saturdays, Sundays, Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Plan busy week at Bedford

BEDFORD — (Special) — Mississquoi Chapter IOOE will hold a food sale, also a sale of knitted articles at the Laundromat Saturday.

Next Monday at 8 p.m., in the hall of Wesley United Church, the choir of the Feller Institute, Grande Ligne, will hold a concert under the direction of Phillips Motley. An offering will be taken to defray expenses.

The following day, Tuesday, Rev. Paul Stevens, of Montreal, will lead in the vital topic, God: Dead or Alive? when the subject will be discussed in different aspects, in the hall of the Wesley Church, Bedford. All young adults will be welcome. Refreshments will be served.

War, destruction of Vietnamese a gloomy Pearson tells Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—An expanding war that "will mean the destruction of the Vietnamese people wherever they are"—this was part of a gloomy personal assessment of Vietnam given to the Commons Wednesday by Prime Minister Pearson.

Expressing increasing anxiety about Vietnam, the 70-year-old former Nobel Peace Prize winner said: "My reading of the situation... indicates that the possibility of early negotiation has receded, that a quick military victory is not possible, nor a military solution."

This meant a situation that "gets more dangerous internationally," said Mr. Pearson, former president of the United Nations General Assembly.

If the fighting went on, it seemed likely that its scale would increase, with the ultimate result of an expanding war.

"And in any event it will mean the destruction of the Vietnamese people wherever

Mr. Pearson also said that if his analysis is correct it would mean the indefinite involvement politically and militarily of the United States in Vietnam "with all that this implies."

It might also mean the indefinite continuation of the cold war, since Vietnam was the only major obstacle between the U.S. and Russia. This would "postpone indefinitely" any hope for an east-west detente.

The result would be increasing pressure on Europe "to make its own arrangements with Eastern Europe, with the damaging effect on the Atlantic coalition and the collective security that this would have."

Mr. Pearson, speaking in the throne speech debate, agreed with Opposition Leader Diefenbaker that NATO and collective security "are still essential for the protection of freedom" in Europe and the Atlantic area.

Rebel by American Motors

Rebel 770 4-Door Sedan

has more room inside than Fairlane, Comet, Chevelle, Buick Special, Olds F-85, Tempest, Belvedere or Coronet.

(and for good measure, more front head and legroom than a Cadillac)

Rebel from American Motors is the roomiest intermediate you can buy. It even tops the full-size cars in some areas. Like rear seat legroom and front seat headroom. Even the trunk gets into the act with a full 18.2 cu. ft. of luggage area.

All this room and an intermediate's trim dimensions, handling characteristics and price tags too? Absolutely. And everything you'll like about the Rebel 4-door sedan is carried over into the full Rebel line.

For instance: Rebel SST Convertible.

The excitement of this handsome Rebel is a great cover up for all the room inside. More room, in fact, than the "full-size" Galaxie or Sport Fury convertibles. For instance: Rebel 550 2-door sedan.

This sporty "Hardtop" is actually a 2-door sedan. The thin door posts cleverly conceal the fact that this is the lowest priced Rebel.

For instance: Rebel 770 Cross Country Wagon.

This is the intermediate wagon with more cargo-room, more people-room than any other wagon in its class. Even the roof rack is standard. (On other cars it's an $80.00 extra.) So, you're ahead on space before you look inside. When you do, 91.1 cu. ft. of carrying capacity.

On the subject of power, American Motors gives you a choice of two dependable Sixes and three high-performance V-8's. They're the newest and most modern engines in the industry, engineered to deliver more power, more economically. But for all the room and power, the nicest thing about Rebel is the way American Motors builds it. With Single-Unit Construction that makes the entire car a single, structural unit. With Deep-Dip rustproofing, the unique seven-coat dunking that protects every nook and cranny. With a cushioned, acoustical ceiling that filters out road and traffic noise. With a ceramic-armoured muffler and exhaust system that lasts for years. With extra comfortable coil spring seats. Tom McCahill of Mechanix Illustrated summed it all up in his road test in the March issue: "There isn't a better intermediate-size car sold than the 1967 Rebel." See the complete line of Rebels at your American Motors/Rambler dealers'.

Polly has some pointers

DEAR POLLY — My brother, 19, is with the Marines in Vietnam. I would like to send him a little gift each month to let him know we are thinking of him. I hope some of the readers can give me some suggestions as to what they have sent their men overseas. Or, better still, perhaps they might tell me what the men might have mentioned that they particularly like to receive. — LINDA

DEAR POLLY — Today my 5-year-old was restless and wanted something to do indoors. Finally he cut pictures out of old magazines, drew on and decorated some scrap paper, enclosed all these in an envelope and "mailed" it under the door of his little cousin's home a few doors away. This kept him busy for most of a morning, and gave his cousin a thrill to receive mail of her own. — MRS. J. K.

THE VALLEY WEAVERS

The Valley Weavers made final arrangements for the exhibition of antique and contemporary weaving, to be held in the new Theatre Gallery, Bishop's University on May 26, 27, 28, at the regular meeting, at the home of Miss Kathleen Alto, Speid Street, Lennoxville. Mrs. J. Edward Perry, vice-president, was in charge of the meeting. Two guests, Mrs. E. L. Alto, and Miss Fairbairn from Scotland, were welcomed. Plans were also made to attend the annual Weaver's Conference, at Pointe Claire on May 31. Due to this event, it was decided to hold the next regular meeting on June 15 at the home of Mrs. J. Edward Perry, 22 Deacon Street, Lennoxville.

Following the business period, Mrs. Helen Hyatt, in charge of the program, explained the making of jute bags and donated her special loom to the group for anyone interested. With the assistance of Mrs. Ernest Johnston she gave an interesting demonstration of how she made the pretty bag she had on display. Mrs. Hyatt was thanked for her talk and for the loom.

Other work on display was a purse and veil in ecclesiastical weaving by Mrs. Ernest Johnston. Mrs. John York modelled a green and yellow tweed suit she had just completed.

Tea was served by the hostess Miss Alto.

UNIT ONE UCW

Unit 1 U.C.W. Lennoxville United Church met recently in Douglas Hall with the leader, Mrs. A. R. Parsons, in the chair. Mrs. W. J. Lane was in charge of the devotional period.

The roll was called and it was reported that 29 calls had been made on sick members and on those in hospital.

Minutes of the last regular meeting, and the business meeting held following the musicale were read by the secretary, Mrs. W. S. Richardson.

Mrs. P. Wright was asked to assist at the food table, May 11. The ladies were pleased to welcome a former member, Mrs. A. Willard, who now resides in Montreal. It was mentioned that Miss K. Scott, also a former member, was in the Regional Memorial Hospital, Brunswick, Me.

Several thank you notes were read from members who had been remembered in times of illness or bereavement.

It was decided that flowers be placed in the church on Mother's Day in memory of the late Mrs. A. Gilbey, who was a devoted member of the Unit. Members were reminded of the Hobby Show and Tea at St. George's Church, May 9.

Mrs. Richardson read excerpts from a letter from Rev. George McClintock, who with his family had been in Portugal and is now back in Toronto due to family illness.

Mrs. Parsons gave a short reading and three delightful piano solos were played by Brenda Mathews.

At the close of the business meeting, tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. George Coxon, Mrs. C. Lefebvre, Miss P. Crane, Mrs. C. Lefebvre presided at the lace covered tea table which was centred with spring flowers.

Additional OES anniversary guests

Additional letters of acceptance, which have been received from the following guests who will attend the 50th anniversary of Queen Mary Chapter No. 5 OES on May 13, include: Mr. Walter Keddy, WGP and Mrs. Keddy, Hemmingford; Miss Hazel Alexander, Gr. Marshall, Verdun; Mrs. Marian Hamilton, PGM, Waterloo; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Robinson, Sawyerville; Mrs. Elaine Holt, Gr. Instructor, Magog; Mr. and Mrs. K. Musgrove, Montreal; Mrs. Marjorie Baker and Mrs. Ethel Hutchinson, East Angus; Miss Amy Millington, Gr. Treasurer, Longueuil; Mr. and Mrs. Seldon Jameson and Rev. and Mrs. M. W. Williams, Sherbrooke.

Rudi Gernreich's nightgown with oriental influence is no more bizarre for a semi-formal occasion than many of his couture clothes. This temple-bell-sleeved, dacron - and - cotton shortie is in a chrysanthemum print with a high-riding obi band in moon dots.

Gernreich has designed a whole oriental - inspired collection in these prints for Exquisite, including halter bras and petti-slips with hip-hugger cuffs. Another outfit that Gernreich himself tags as suitable for brunch, bed or the beach is a three-piece of blue-polka-dotted mini-shirt, brief pink pants and a blue bra.

In Italy, Count Emilio Pucci has transferred some of the abstract prints used in his jersey dresses over to lingerie. One such short nightgown is something like a tennis dress and is topped by a smoking - jacket robe.

For sheer elegance you can't overlook Pauline Trigere's under-pinnings to complement her famous crepes. The matching bra and girdle are jewel-studded.

Fernando Sanchez, a designer for Warner's, likes ruffles. These appear in his matador sleepshirt, floor-length, with the top tucked and ruffled like the bullfighter's shirt.

He also introduced a ruffled flamenco gown described as a "breakfast dress" for at-home mornings. But it certainly could have a dual life as sleepwear, too. His ruffled hemline flounces high in front and dips in the back, in the tradition of the famous flamenco dancer's costume.

CLAIRE HADDAD OF Toronto has designed a bias-cut tent cover-up in smoky stripes in silk and acrylic fibre with the long handkerchief hemline caught at ankle length to give an Eastern trouser effect. Underneath is her frilly-neckline, flowing and short nightie.

THE gourmet preparation of fiddleheads is ostrich - fern fiddleheads cooked in cream sauce.

'God and His World' theme chosen for Annual Women's Missionary Conference

The Annual Missionary Conference sponsored by the Women's Missionary Prayer Group of Grace Chapel took place on Saturday afternoon and evening, May 6, beginning at 2:15 p.m., with Mrs. W. J. Klink in the chair.

The theme chosen for the Conference was God and His World, and in keeping with this theme, the first afternoon message was given by Miss Joan Hamilton, of Montreal. Miss Hamilton also gave a report on the work of the Sermons from Science pavilion at EXPO.

The second speaker was Mrs. Sarah Ostrovsky, who with her husband, has spent over 40 years in Tel Aviv as a missionary among the Jews and Arabs.

Mrs. Ostrovsky gave an interesting account of her life's story, which began in Russia where she was born and raised in the Jewish faith. Just before the Revolution in Russia, and after her father had been killed, she moved with her mother and the other members of her family to Turkey, then to Israel.

Between the afternoon and evening programs, a buffet supper was served under the canopy, which began in Russian where she was born and raised in the Jewish faith. Just before the Revolution in Russia, and after her father had been killed, she moved with her mother and the other members of her family to Turkey, then to Israel.

Elegant nightgowns double for evening

NEW YORK (CP)—The nightgown now is so sophisticated that if you are daring enough you can wear it to evening and at-home events without causing a raised eyebrow.

Elegance and sophistication appear in lingerie, sleepwear and daytime shirt-and-shorts. Some of the floral flip petticoats could even pass as daytime dresses. Warner's short-sleeved T-shirt and tiny mini-shorts, in antrou and nylon, were previewed as suitable for partying or sleeping.

Warner's also introduced a floor-length nightgown, bias-cut in dacron crepe chiffon, the fullness falling from a gathered circle-neckband that leaves the shoulders exposed. No one would question its appearance at a dance. Vassarette's short sleep gown in floral antrou tricot has party manners with its wide bateau neckline and its stem-tie in front creating an empire look.

Rudi Gernreich's nightgown with oriental influence is no more bizarre for a semi-formal occasion than many of his couture clothes. This temple-bell-sleeved, dacron - and - cotton shortie is in a chrysanthemum print with a high-riding obi band in moon dots.

Gernreich has designed a whole oriental - inspired collection in these prints for Exquisite, including halter bras and petti-slips with hip-hugger cuffs. Another outfit that Gernreich himself tags as suitable for brunch, bed or the beach is a three-piece of blue-polka-dotted mini-shirt, brief pink pants and a blue bra.

In Italy, Count Emilio Pucci has transferred some of the abstract prints used in his jersey dresses over to lingerie. One such short nightgown is something like a tennis dress and is topped by a smoking - jacket robe.

For sheer elegance you can't overlook Pauline Trigere's under-pinnings to complement her famous crepes. The matching bra and girdle are jewel-studded.

Fernando Sanchez, a designer for Warner's, likes ruffles. These appear in his matador sleepshirt, floor-length, with the top tucked and ruffled like the bullfighter's shirt.

He also introduced a ruffled flamenco gown described as a "breakfast dress" for at-home mornings. But it certainly could have a dual life as sleepwear, too. His ruffled hemline flounces high in front and dips in the back, in the tradition of the famous flamenco dancer's costume.

CLAIRE HADDAD OF Toronto has designed a bias-cut tent cover-up in smoky stripes in silk and acrylic fibre with the long handkerchief hemline caught at ankle length to give an Eastern trouser effect. Underneath is her frilly-neckline, flowing and short nightie.

THE gourmet preparation of fiddleheads is ostrich - fern fiddleheads cooked in cream sauce.

There she married and she and her husband remained in Tel Aviv to work among the Jews and Arabs, using opportunities through visitation, distribution of literature and public preaching to give them the spiritual message.

The afternoon's program closed with an illustrated talk given by Mrs. Robert Thrall of Valleyfield, Que., who used slides to show the work being done in her area and throughout French-speaking Quebec through summer camp work and Vacation Bible Schools for French-speaking young people.

Also taking part in the afternoon session by leading in prayer were Mrs. A. C. Hill, Mrs. E. Down, and Mrs. H. A. Welch.

Between the afternoon and evening programs, a buffet supper was served under the canopy, which began in Russian where she was born and raised in the Jewish faith. Just before the Revolution in Russia, and after her father had been killed, she moved with her mother and the other members of her family to Turkey, then to Israel.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

MONTREAL, May 11th — If your husband is approaching retirement (no matter what his age, he actually is, you know)... drop this suggestion to him and he'll be impressed by your financial "genius"! Suggest that he invest now in Scotiabank Six-Year Savings Certificates from THE BANK OF NOVA SCOTIA. They deliver $100 for every $75 he invests, they're fully backed by the resources of the Scotiabank and each one is personally registered in his name. So tell him not to wait until he gets his gold watch at retirement... if he starts to save now, you'll both have the time of your lives at the time of retirement!

ONE THING YOU CAN REALLY COUNT ON — a special laxative, CORRECTOL, specially developed by Pharmaco (Canada) Ltd. for women who want a mild, yet effective, laxative. Correctol combines a gentle softening agent with just enough of a mild stimulating effect to relieve irregularity... its dependable action is both prompt and unharmed. So, if you're feeling dull and listless, just not up to par due to irregularity, I suggest that you try Correctol and see what a difference it can make. See how Correctol can help you to maintain regularity. It's available at your favourite drug store.

TO BE A GOOD HOSTESS depends on a number of things, one of which is knowing something about wine. Two wines that I find indispensable in our house are Brighis MANOR ST. DAVID'S CLARET and MANOR ST. DAVID'S SAUTERNE. Manor St. David's Claret is perfect with hamburgers, steaks, beef — red meat of any kind. Manor St. David's Sauterne — chilled — is the wine to serve with fish, pork, chicken — any white meats — and with any salad. Just taste what these two fine wines can do for meals! Keep both always on hand — the price is right!

WHEN YOU COME TO THINK OF IT we do spend a good deal of time washing dishes — so why not do it as pleasantly and economically as possible? DOMINO LIQUID DETERGENT is my answer — not only for dishes, but for gentle washing, too! It is one of Dominion's own brands — so I know it's guaranteed and also a money-saver — an unbeatable combination these days. When you think of 265 dish-washing days of savings, it makes sense to use a product like Domino Liquid Detergent. My store is Dominion — to cut food costs, of course — but mainly because of the meat!

NEW DIRECTOR

RENÉ LECLERC

The president of Banque Canadienne Nationale, Louis Hébert, is pleased to announce the election of the bank's general manager, René Leclerc, as a new member of the Board of directors. Mr. Leclerc succeeds Marcel Faribault, president of Trust General du Canada and of The Trust Companies Association of Canada. As a result of provisions of the new Bank Act, Mr. Faribault has deemed it advisable to resign his directorship. Mr. Leclerc will continue as general manager of BCN, along with his new responsibilities.

Canusa Group plans banquet

ROCK ISLAND (Special)—For many years a mother and daughter banquet was held at St. South Church to honor Mother's Day. This tradition is being resumed this year and the banquet will be held in the church hall on May 15 at 6 p.m. for the members and friends of the church.

A program will follow the dinner, which is a project of the Canusa Group.

The group extends an invitation to the mothers and daughters to attend, noting there are "daughters" one may borrow for the event if a mother has none available on this date.

Lions to Magog

MAGOG (Special)—Members of Lions International from 12 communities are gathering today in Magog to plan forthcoming regional activities. Deputy District Governor Vincent Melanson will direct the meeting, which will include delegates from Sherbrooke, Granby, Drummondville, St. Hyacinthe, Cowansville, Magog, Sorel, Knowlton, Sutton, Acton Vale, Coaticook and Richmond.

News Flashes from around the world

NAPLES, Italy (AP)—A mysterious cloud of gas covered a large section of Naples Wednesday, spreading panic. At least 20 persons were admitted to hospital.

The gas spread over the area near the Porta Garibaldi railway station and moved slowly toward the city's outskirts.

Police said hundreds of people fled from their homes. Five schools were ordered closed and the pupils sent home.

OTTAWA (CP)—Lowering of the voting age to 18 and a variety of Criminal Code amendments were among 138 bills and resolutions submitted Wednesday by back-bench MPs.

Such proposals rarely come to a vote but they generate discussion and sometimes are referred to committees for detailed study. A few eventually become government policy.

Five MPs from the three largest parties all proposed the lower voting age, long set at 21. Their bills and resolutions likely will be referred to the elections committee which will discuss a complete revision of the Canada Elections Act.

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Herman Taller, 56-year-old obesity specialist and author of the best seller Calories Don't Count, was found guilty Wednesday on 12 counts of mail fraud and violations of the U.S. Food and Drug Act.

A Brooklyn federal court jury found him not guilty of 37 other counts.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Some important facts were omitted in reports of the contents of the Canadian Association of Police Chief's recent brief to the federal committee on corrections. Police Chief George Blow said Wednesday.

Chief Blow told the Winnipeg Police Commission that one example was the report that police wanted the right to search homes without a warrant.

Area Masons meet at Magog

MAGOG—The Grand Lodge of Quebec, A.F. and A.M., St. Francis District, held its annual communication on Saturday afternoon, May 6, at the Masonic Temple in Magog, followed by a church service at St. Paul's United Church and a banquet and dance in the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans hall.

Representing the Grand Masters were Rt. Wor. Bro. John Naylor and Rt. Wor. Bro. William J. Dawson, District of St. Francis.

The lodge was opened by Lake Magog, No. 55, and followed by the reception of the Grand Masters and Grand Lodge officers. Routine business received attention.

Officers for St. Francis District for the 1967-68 year are: Wor. Bro. S. D. Bloomfield, District Deputy Grand Master, from Victoria Lodge, Sherbrooke; Rev. Bro. Williams, District Grand Chaplain, from Prince of Wales Lodge, No. 63, North Hatley; District Representative for St. Francis, Wor. Bro. Alan Robertson, Lake Magog Lodge, No. 55, Magog; District Grand Secretary for St. Francis District, Rt. Wor. Bro. Arthur Ruck, of Lake Magog Lodge, No. 55, Magog.

There were presentations and addresses of tribute to Bro. Dawson and others before the assembly went to St. Paul's United Church.

The host minister, Rev. R. N. Nickle officiated and the favorite Masonic hymn, Unto the Hills Around, was sung. Rt. Wor. Bro. Naylor, Deputy Grand Master, led the responsive reading.

Rt. Wor. Bro. Dawson, D.D.G.M., read the Old Testament lesson, and Rev. Mr. Nickle, the New Testament lesson.

Prayers were offered for renewal of spirit, and after another hymn was sung, Rt. Wor. Bro. Rev. R. W. Rogers, D.G.C., gave the sermon of inspiration.

The collection is being sent to the fund for the benefit of Shriner's Hospital.

Rt. Wor. Bro. S. S. Beerworth, P.D.D.G.M., presided for the memorial service for departed brethren from this district and the benediction brought the service to a close.

The Masons and their lady guests enjoyed the fine dinner and afterwards dancing brought to a close another successful Masonic convention.

Cubs to rally May 13 at Ayer's Cliff

AYER'S CLIFF—Stanstead Scouts Council met in the Ayer's Cliff High School on May 4. District Commander, Howard Aikman opened the meeting and Roland Drew, D.C.M., discussed the Cub Rally to be held on May 13 at the Ayer's Cliff Fair Grounds starting at 1:15 this Saturday afternoon.

The rally will be run similar to a regular Cub meeting with relays, demonstrations, test instruction and passing, games and skits. A pennant will be awarded to the Cub Pack having the most parents and friends in attendance.

It is emphasized that the general public is invited to come and see the young lads in action on Saturday. Mr. Drew said that in case of inclement weather the rally will be postponed to May 20.

Michael Goode, D.S.S.M., spoke in detail of plans for the Stanstead District Camporee to be held at Baldwin's Mills on Sept. 15, 16, 17. Each troop in the district will be making special studies of the Provinces of Canada and all patrols will play a special part in the Saturday evening Centennial campfire to which all friends are invited.

All Scouts are encouraging participation of Cub Scouts in the annual hobby show at the Ayer's Cliff Fair on August 24, 25, 26.

Plans were also discussed to have all Cub Scouts in the district attend Scouts and Guide Day on July 28 at Expo.

He said the brief also made clear that such a search should be made "in an emergency where life is in danger." But this was not reported, Chief Blow said.

CALGARY (CP)—Shelley Lynne Stanway, 13-year-old Calgary girl suffering "rampant bone cancer," now is undergoing treatment in New York, her father said Wednesday.

"They started treatment today," Ken Stanway said in a telephone interview from New York. "Don't ask me what they're doing because I don't know."

Reform Club meet Monday

The annual meeting of the Reform Club of Sherbrooke and the Eastern Townships will be held at the club on Monday, May 15, at 8 p.m., it has been announced by President Francois Poulin.

Principal items to come before the members will be the election of a new executive and the receiving of the annual reports.

Girl's death ruled accident

ASBESTOS (Staff)—A coroner's inquest into the death of 7-year-old Patricia Marcoux of this town yesterday afternoon at City Hall delivered a verdict of accidental death.

Presiding at the inquest was Dr. Marcel Chaput, coroner of Richmond.

Patricia Marcoux, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fidel Marcoux, 3544 Letendre Street, Asbestos, was hit by a car as she tried to cross a street on April 27, 1967 and died several hours later at Notre Dame Hospital in Montreal.

THE QUEBEC SCENE

Early QPP strike warning

MONTREAL (CP)—Andre Gagnon, treasurer of the Quebec Provincial Police Association, warned Wednesday of the possibility of a strike by the 2,500 members of the force unless the provincial government grants complete recognition to the association in the immediate future.

Mr. Gagnon said at a press conference the government was "forcing our hand by not accepting their responsibility and by going back on their promises."

Association leaders have just returned from a province-wide tour to discuss matters with rank and file members, they said morale in the force was at an all-time low.

MONTREAL (CP)—A civic funeral will be held Saturday for Paul Pratt, 72, a mayor of suburban Longueuil for 31 years prior to his retirement last November. He died Monday.

Elected mayor in 1933 of his native Longueuil, Mr. Pratt served the suburb until he decided to retire Nov. 2. He said at the time:

"I consider it's perfect timing. There so many things I want to do I doubt I can find time for them all."

The police were investigating the motives behind the arrival of Joseph Dolgos and Kirk Ellsworth.

Ski customers cast honorary snowballs

NORTH TROY, Vermont—guests and to be helpful, friendly and courteous at all times. On arrival at Jay Peak each skier was given two artificial snow balls, one white and one green. During or at the end of their stay, the guests presented a white snow ball to a Jay Peak staff member. The green snow ball was presented to the innkeeper, lodge owner, or person who belonged in some way to Jay's winter ski resort operation.

The aim of the contest was to foster hospitality toward the guests.

After hundreds of these cards were received and tallied up, the following two winners emerged as Jay Peak Hospitality Kings for 1967. The Jay Peak staff winner — Employee's division — was Kirk Ellsworth of Westfield, Vermont, a ski instructor at Jay Peak.

The other winner was Joe Dolgos of Allentown, Pa., manager of the Inglenook Lodge and also a part-time instructor. Both have won a free all-expense paid trip to Expo '67 as a result of being voted the winners.

Financial report from Greenshields Ltd.

Plans for diversification by Canada & Dominion Sugar Co. are progressing favorably. For the six months ended March 31-67 net profits of $1,242,760 (80¢ a share) were 13% below $1,437,481 (92¢ a share) last year.

Domestic sugar sales were somewhat lower while export was maintained at a satisfactory level.

Sales for second half are expected to show a relative improvement.

Woodward Stores Ltd. on receipt of new certificates for about two months for the 2 for 1 stock split will start immediately on the work of calling in the old certificates for which new ones will be issued.

New shares will not be called for trading on the stock exchanges until issuance of the new certificates has started.

Harvey's Foods Ltd. is acquiring Swiss Chalet Bar-B-Q Ltd. and the affiliated Chalet Farms Ltd.

Purchase will be paid through issuance of debentures, preference shares and share purchase warrants and Class A shares of Harvey's.

No reduction in earnings per common share is expected as a result of the acquisition.

The New York market lost ground again.

After a dip of 9.74, the Dow Jones industrial average fell a further 5 point in the first half hour before recovering to over the 897 level early in the afternoon.

Gains and losses were about equally distributed among leading Canadian industrial issues.

The Toronto index lost 1/2 point and the Montreal index added a token 0.02 point.

Bond Market: Short-term issues were 5¢ to 10¢ lower, while mid and longterms were 3/4 point easier on the average in a fairly active Canada list.

Provincials declined 1/2 point and corporates were down 3/4 point.

Rick Monday beginning to click, paces A's to 7-4 win over Sox

Rick Monday, a young outfielder who pocketed $104,000 of Charles Finley's pin money in baseball's first free agent draft two summers ago, now looks ready to pay off the dividend for Kansas City Athletics.

He belted a homer and drove in three runs for the Athletics Wednesday night in a 7-4 victory over Boston.

Elsewhere in the American League Wednesday night, Tommy John hurled a six-hitter and Chicago White Sox smashed four home runs in a 13-1 romp over Baltimore Orioles. Detroit Tigers dropped Cleveland Indians 4-2 and California Angels edged New York Yankees 2-1.

Monday drove in two runs with a single in the third inning as Kansas City wiped out an early three-run Red Sox lead.

Then, after KC had taken the lead in the seventh on singles by Danny Cater and Dick Green, Monday boomed his second homer of the season.

DRUG CHAMPS

The streaking White Sox won their sixth straight with a 15-hit attack highlighted by the long ball.

Tom McCraw, Pete Ward, Dick Kenworthy and Tommie Agee smacked the homers and John scattered six hits, losing his shutout to the defending World Series champions in the ninth on Curt Blefary's homer.

It was the biggest offensive output of the season for the White Sox. The Orioles dropped their sixth straight and ninth in the last 10 games.

Willie Horton hammered a two-run homer for the Tigers, who won their sixth in a row and stayed one half game in front of the White Sox.

Mickey Lolich, who struck out nine, needed ninth-inning help for Fred Gladding for the victory. Larry Brown homered for the slumping Indians, who have lost four straight and six of the last seven.

Jose Cardenal opened the ninth inning with a triple for the Angels and after the Yankees walked Jim Fregosi and Jimmie Hall intentionally to set up a force play, Rick Reichardt delivered the game-winning single.

It was Reichardt's third hit of the night and his second RBI.

Alouettes drive for directors reaches forty-five

The list of directors for the Sherbrooke "Alouette" Baseball Club has reached a total of forty-five, announced Jean-Paul Pepin, new publicity director of the club, late yesterday afternoon.

"We have been working in the background trying to interest certain sportsmen in the City in baseball but this has been a little difficult as every one was more interested in hockey," further added Mr. Pepin. "We hope to secure five more to round out the figure at 50 but President Tony Pinard is figuring maybe this number will be increased over the half-century mark," stated Mr. Pepin.

The list follows:

Antonio Pinard Gerard Pelletier, Leonard Cote, Marc Hudon, Lionel Ducharme, Bernard Matte, Marcel Bruneau, Laurent Harpin, Roger Dionne, Gaston Beaudoin, Normand St. James and Ivan Beaulieu.

Gerard Beaulieu, Gerard Chappellaine, Paul Bergeron, Armand Bernier, Francois Fabi, Doug Patrick, Joseph Guertin, Eddy Richard, Gilles Gagnon, Beaudin Inc., Lionel Bilodeau, Eugene Gingras, Gilles Beaulieu, Jean-Ls. Dupuis and Paul Lassier.

Jean-Paul Pepin, Wilfrid Caouette, Raymond Latulippe, Charles Castonguay, J. A. Gingras, Jacques Lemieux, Fabi et Fils, Carnegie Locknit, Gilbert Cote and Marche Galt, Inc.

De Luxe Auto (H. Maheu), Rene Bessette, Benoit Lacroix, Gilles Savard, Glen Hill Knitwear, Leo Drolet, Lionel Jacques, Clovis Masson, Hubert Latendresse, Bertrand Lafleur.

Mr. Pepin released the names shortly but during the past few weeks have been working inside. Coach Lillias Poole with Manager Len Cote have been picking up players in preparation for the opening day, Sunday, May 28, when the Als will receive the visit of the Miners of Thetford.

Joe Torre belts three homers as Braves split with Phillies

Joe Torre, whose home run output once went up with his weight, has found he did not need the extra pounds after all.

The big Atlanta catcher slimmed down over the winter to around 205 pounds, about 10 below the weight he carried when he rose to National League stardom.

With three homers in the Braves' doubleheader split with the Phillies Wednesday, Torre showed that the streamlining had not hurt him a bit.

Torre knocked one over the leftfield stands in the first game. Which Philadelphia Phillies won 4-3. He added two more in the nightcap, won by the Braves 7-2. Hank Aaron of the Braves also homered in each game.

In other National League games Wednesday, Pittsburgh Pirates edged St. Louis Cardinals 2-1, Los Angeles Dodgers topped Houston Astros 5-1 in 10 innings, Cincinnati Reds beat New York Mets 7-4 and Chicago Cubs edged San Francisco Giants 5-4.

SCORE ON WILD THROW

The Phillies won the first game of their doubleheader on a wild pitch with the bases loaded in the ninth by Phil Nickro. Aaron and Torre both have seven homers for the season.

Bob Veale went 8 2-3 innings for the Pirates and set the Cards down on just five hits. But the big right-hander walked two men in the ninth and needed Elroy Face to register the final out. Willie Starling hit a two-run homer for the Bucs.

The Dodgers and Astros were tied 1-1 in the 10th when, with two out, Willie Davis singled stole second, came in on Ron Hunt's single and the rush was on. The other Dodger runs came in on Jim Lefebvre's double, a balk and a single by John Roseboro.

Floyd Robinson, John Edwards and Tony Perez each knocked in two runs as Milt Pappas won his third game for the Reds. Ken Boyer got his 2,000th career hit and Ed Kraepel and Al Luplow homered for the Mets.

Punch Imlach will be back in same role next year as he leaves for WHL meeting

TORONTO (CP) — When the next National Hockey League season opens, Punch Imlach still will be coach and general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs.

He left no doubt of this Wednesday in an interview prior to leaving for the Western League annual meeting in Seattle although there had been suggestions he give up one of the jobs.

The suggestions were most prevalent last February when Imlach was taken to hospital for two weeks and King Clancy, his assistant, took over the club.

At that time, after losing 10 straight games, the Leafs were in a three-game streak without a loss that Clancy extended to 10.

But Imlach, under fire at the time of his illness because the club seemed to be languishing, returned to lead them to a third-place finish in the standings and to the Stanley Cup after defeating Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens in the playoffs.

Wednesday, Imlach scored at suggestions he give up coaching after winning four Stanley Cups in six years.

"It doesn't make sense to retire now. Why quit when you're on top?"

"You're no damn good if you quit when you're on top."

"King and I have talked it over. We see no reason why we can't continue as we have. The worst is over. It should be easier for a while."

"Last year, you know, was just an experimental season and we still managed to do all right."

One of the points for discussion that could come up at the WHL meeting would be a rumored switch of Toronto affiliation to Vancouver Canucks from Victoria Maple Leafs.

Last season the Leafs placed a number of players with Vancouver, coached by Bert Olmstead and it is expected Imlach will discuss the possibility of making the arrangement permanent when he meets with league officials.

Refusal of Joe Frazier to take part in elimination tournament won't matter, says Ungerman

TORONTO (CP) — Refusal of Joe Frazier of Philadelphia Wednesday to accept terms of a proposed eight-man elimination tournament for the vacant world heavyweight boxing championship is not bothering Irv Ungerman, manager of Canadian champion George Chuvalo.

In a television interview Wednesday, Ungerman said he is confident an adequate replacement can be found for the 1964 Olympic Games champion "possibly in South America."

And, even if not, there is always deposed champion Cassius Clay waiting for someone to fight so he can pay his court costs while battling to beat the U.S. draft.

Clay, stripped of his title by the World Boxing Association and the influential New York

State Athletic Commission, has said he would like to meet Chuvalo, who he already has beaten.

LOST JUDICIAL BATTLE

He was shaken loose of his crown because he refused to accept military induction even after losing a series of court actions based on the premise that as a Black Muslim minister he is exempt from duty.

Clay's backers have said he would like to fight Chuvalo in Montreal before Expo 67 concludes in October. He also has said he would fight former champion Floyd Patterson or a number of others, if they'll get a ring with him.

Chuvalo had been picked to meet Frazier, winner of all 16 of his professional fights—14 by knockouts.

COP TROPHY — H. Campbell's St. Ann de Bellevue rink won the consolation section of the Danville Sportsmen Bouspiel and the Danville Curling Club Trophy. They downed Don Giles' Sun Life foursome 4-3 after a close battle. Wendall Livingstone, chairman of the match committee, is making the presentation to K. Grant. In the rear, left to right, C. Skilling, K. Grant, W. Livingstone, L. Hunting and H. Campbell. Kneeling, same order, J. Higgins, R. Emery, H. Moore and Don Giles.

Award for the triumph is R. J. C. Pringle (left), vice-president of corporate relations for Shell Canada Ltd. The 4,500-mile event, North America's longest, started in Vancouver last Wednesday with 93 entries. (CP Wirephoto)

Jim Peters and Roger Clark emerge winners of 4,000 Centennial Rally, only 43 cars finish gruelling cross-country event

MONTREAL (CP) — Eight days and 4,500 miles after it started, a winner was decided in the Centennial 4,000 rally Wednesday—but the final standings were in doubt until the end.

With the final results tabulated Roger Clark of London, Eng., and Jim Peters of Toronto, in a Lotus Cortina, placed first with a total of 44 points.

For the first six days of the event, Paul MacLennan of Toronto and John Wilson of Waterloo, Ont., were leaders but when they faltered Clark and Peters jumped into the lead and stayed there.

MacLennan and Wilson, last year's winners, slipped into fourth place with 329 points after running into trouble on Ontario roads. They had sailed through British Columbia and the Prairies with only two penalties.

Clark, a 27-year-old professional rallyist, was elated and celebrated by dancing into the early hours of today at a rally party.

This was the first time Clark and Peters had worked as a team and the first time in the event's seven-year history that a non-Canadian had won.

It also was Clark's first world championship win. The Centennial 4,000, sponsored by Shell Canada Ltd., is one of five rallies which make up the world championship for manufacturers' teams.

FINALLY CHALLENGED

"I'm glad to be here and in first place," said Clark. "The rally was boring during the run through the Prairies, but in Ontario and Quebec it was something of a challenge."

Scott Harvey of Dearborn, Mich., and Mike Kerry of Toronto took their Chrysler-sponsored Barracuda into second place with 133 points.

This crew, which finished fourth last year, also put on a late drive to slip into second. For most of the rally they were in the bottom half of the top 10, but came on strongly over the rough roads of Northern Ontario.

Going into Wednesday's run they were third, but moved to second when Karl Schulz and John Manson of Toronto rolled their car and lost heavily. They finished third in their Datsun with 170 points.

The Schulz-Manson entry broke a seal on their alternator and were penalized 50 points and lost another 10 for having dents in the roof of their car.

Marcel Rainville of Quebec City and Robin Edwards of Montreal took fifth place in their Citroen with 346 points.

Another Citroen was sixth and won the mixed-crow section of the rally. Jean-Claude Ogier and Lucette Pointet of Grenoble, France, had 387 points.

43 FINISH RALLY

The long grind from Vancouver took a stiff toll of cars with only 43 of an initial field of 93 making it to the Auto Expo stadium, but only about 400 persons were on hand to greet him in the rain.

On the journey across Canada the rallyists ran into mud, snow, ice, rain and sunshine.

Winners in the private entry section were Fritz Hochreuter and Lutz Ecker of Toronto, in a Volkswagen 1500 with 633 points.

Rosemary Smith of Dublin and Ann Coombe of Toronto won the Coup des Dames in a Sunbeam Imp for the second year in a row.

Miss Smith arrived at the finish line resplendent in a pink driving outfit and posed for photographers. About two hours earlier she was grimy from the long drive from Kingston, Ont., but stopped at a gas station to change in order to look her best at the finish.

Orioles ship their top rookie to minors as major clubs hit deadline, vets also farmed out Veteran pitchers hurling shut-out baseball and veteran hitters batting over 300 were among the cut-down casualties, but the biggest sparks may fly from the optioning of a rookie hitting .194.

First baseman Mike Epstein, touted as a future superstar, was optioned by Baltimore Orioles to their Rochester farm club before Wednesday night's major league deadline to reach the 25-player limit.

"Mike said he was very disappointed and might not report to Rochester," said Oriole manager Hank Bauer.

Epstein, 24, the minor league player of the year at Rochester last season, declined comment after meeting with Bauer and Harry Dalton, Baltimore director of player personnel.

"I pointed out that the opportunities to him," Dalton said, "but it's his career and it's his decision."

Los Angeles Dodgers traded infielder John Werhas to California Angels for outfielder Len Gabrielson and New York Mets purchased third baseman Ed Charles from Kansas City for $60,000 and minor league outfielder Larry Elliott. The Mets also bought utility infielder Bob Johnson and pitcher John Miller from Baltimore.

Here is a list of the cut-downs in the major leagues Wednesday:

National League

Cincinnati — Gordy Coleman, optioned to Buffalo; Aurelio Montegaudé conditionally sold to Indianapolis.

San Francisco — Cesar Gutierrez and Bob Barton optioned to Phoenix.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

Mother, daughter banquet held by Guide group

RICHMOND — A mother, daughter banquet was held in Chalmers United Church Hall on May 2, when 91 Brownies, Guides, mothers and guests attended. The tables were arranged in a horseshoe effect and centered with floral arrangements.

Rev. W. E. Walker, St. Anne's Anglican Church, led in Grace. Mrs. Norman Noel, president of the Richmond Local Association of Guides welcomed the guests.

Mrs. K. Storry introduced the special guests, Mrs. H. Church, Divisional commissioner; Mrs. R. Martin, Drummondville; Rev. and Mrs. Walker, Sister Litchfield, Sister Kephay; Mrs. J. Fortin and Mrs. H. Moret, a Guide in Richmond from 1938 to 1946.

A toast to the Queen was proposed by a Guide, Susan Barlow; a toast to the mothers by a Brownie, Mary Louise Ward; and a toast to the Guides by Mrs. H. Moret.

A turkey dinner was served by the Richmond Young Women's Institute.

Following dinner, Mrs. Church addressed the assembly, speaking on the aims of the movement. Mrs. Martin spoke to the mothers about the Local Association.

Mrs. Church then presented Religion and Life Badges to four Guides. A draw was held for the nine table centrepieces.

The four Guides, Mrs. L. Johnson, Brown Owl; Mrs. R. Mason, Tawny Owl; Mrs. D. Masters, Guide Captain and Mrs. A. McCourt, Assistant Guide Captain, led the girls in a short entertainment. The evening closed with Brownie and Guide Taps.

Richmond YWI makes donation

RICHMOND — The monthly meeting of the Richmond Young Women's Institute was held in the Richmond-Melbourne United Church Hall on May 2, after catering to the Brownie, Guides Mother - Daughter banquet.

Correspondence consisted of a thank-you note from the Cecil Butters Memorial Hospital, for the parcel of white articles sent.

A motion was passed donating $5 to the Local Association of Brownies and Guides.

Delegates were appointed to attend the county institute meeting to be held on May 27.

A number of business items were discussed, such as catering to the county meeting, picnic tables and filling of Christmas stockings, after which the meeting was adjourned.

Miss Judy Nugent, with other students of Johnson High School, enjoyed a trip to Ottawa and a day at Expo.

STILL SITTING — A group of anti-war demonstrators sat yesterday in a corridor at the Pentagon in Washington after spending the night in the building. Security guards stand by. Authorities chose not to evict the demonstrators last night.

I WOULD RATHER HAVE

I would rather have one little rose
From the garden of a friend
Than to have the choicest flowers when my stay on earth must end.
I would rather have one pleasant word in Kindness said to me
Than flattery when my heart is still and life has ceased to be.
Bring me all your flowers today
whether pink or white or red
I'd rather have one blossom now
Than a truckload when I'm dead.

Mrs. Daisy M. Johnston,
Brome, Que.

IF I COULD BE

If I could be the things I wanted
I'd be an Autumn wind,
I'd take a leaf and toss it,
And hear the tree tops sing.
I'd be a snow storm in the winter,
I'd be a swirling white tossed thing.
I'd be a wind on a wind tossed ocean,
I'd be a wind in early Spring.
I'd be a mist that swirls on the hills,
I'd be the voice of the bird that sings.
I'd be the sound of Spring's ice breaking,
I'd be the sound of a brook in Spring.

By
Mrs. Alice-Margaret Alden,
Sawyerville.

DAWN

The veil of darkness torn aside
Reveals the dawn in splendid pride.
Fingers of mist will touch the dew wet grass.
The soul of the night
Will sight its last.
The heaped up jewels of morning light
Tear open eyes of darkest night.
From his slumber man will arise
To see the brightness of morning skies.

By
Mrs. Alice-Margaret Alden,
Sawyerville.
