Motorists warned: license deadline is February 29

Motorists who have not received their 1960 licence plates by mail direct from Quebec City have only one place from which to purchase them in the West End — the Provincial Licence Bureau at Sherbrooke and Kensington.

Provincial Police have issued their annual warning that the last date for 1959 plates is February 29.

"There has been a slowdown this year in the number of people buying their new plates compared with other years," Provincial Police Director Hilaire Beaugard stated.

Warning tickets have been printed and will be placed on cars parked in public places between now and the deadline.

Director Beaugard emphasized the deadline would not be extended and pointed out motorists should purchase their new plates as soon as possible.

"There are only two weeks left," he pointed out. "Those motorists without 1960 plates on March 1 will run the risk of having their cars impounded if they are found on provincial roads."

Next week's weather

February 13 to 20

By ERIC NEAL

Temperatures easing with sunny periods, indeed a partial thaw for some districts, then cooling and clouding for freezing mists and light snows in the south; heavy snows with some wind in the north and east. Temperature range, nights 20 below, days 25 to 35°F this week.

Sunny periods with gusty cold winds, wet snow in the south, blizzards in the north in the middle of the week.

Much colder and windy for the end of the week. Roads icy with blowing snow and deep drifts.

The April showers to bring flowers — Easter forecast

"Whether the weather will be wet or fine, we'll just shrug along without a care." Those words are from a song made popular in 1939 by British troops in France. They were, of course, referring to the Seigfreid Line.

But what about the Easter clothing line this year?

We asked our weather-man, Captain Eric Neal, whether the weather would be wet or fine for this year's Easter holiday, which falls on the April 16 to 18 weekend.

The week of April 9 to 17 will see 40 hours of sunshine, mild days and light winds, scarred only by the occasional flurry. The temperature will range from 25-55°F. Gusty winds with snow flurries or light showers will end the week. Spring will be in the air, winter will have released its grip, and trees will be in bud.

Easter Sunday will be mainly sunny, getting cloudy in the evening in preparation for evening rains. The temperature will be above freezing. Towards the end of the week, the weather will become milder and sunnier.

Captain Neal forecasted cool and windy weather for Easter last year.

Neal, an aeronautical engineer by profession, does a lot of research to make his forecasts accurate, using weather data of a hundred years, knowledge of weather cycles, and long experience in the use of both.

He has a long list of cycles: a 35 year wet-dry cycle, 28 year solar activity cycle, the cold-Metonic cycle, and the 71 year storm cycle.

This information was corrected by information available from trappers, pilots, fishermen. He even took a brief look at Dorval and St. Hubert airport data. Combined with this, he crosschecks with official government weather data, available since 1850.

Oh, yes! He even makes allowances for the effect of atomic explosions.

So, if Captain Neal's forecast is accurate — and it always is — put on your Easter bonnet with all the frills upon it. You may be the grandest lady in the Easter parade.

But, make sure your bonnet is well secured — it may be windy. Remember, April showers will bring May flowers.

Anti-Semitism not dead

Recent outbursts of neo-Nazi anti-semitism throughout the world were compared to the 1955 hoodlum-sparked hockey riot in Montreal, and described as a "mean and malicious outbreak of human nature."

Addressing the luncheon session of the 19th Temple Emanu-el Institute on Judaism on Monday, Archdeacon R. Kenneth Naylor, rector of Trinity Memorial Church, declared that in both instances those responsible "grow bolder if they remain unchecked."

He said the recent attacks against Jews have a value in that "they serve as a warning that anti-Semitism is not dead."

He described anti-Semitism as "religion with hate as its basis." He said: "It is not an emotional disease."

Dr. Eric G. Jay, principal of the Montreal Diocesan Theological College, earlier in the day expressed "deep regret and sympathy to Jews that such un-Christian acts should be possible in the present day and age."

The all-day session, founded by Rabbi Dr. Harry J. Stern, featured Dr. Ellis Rivkin, professor of Jewish History at the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Speaking on the Dead Sea Scrolls, Dr. Rivkin emphasized that Christianity and Judaism "managed to stagger through a few thousand years without the knowledge of the manuscripts." The scrolls were found in 1947.

He said there was a considerable realm of what he described as "the known" independent of the scrolls.

He said the scrolls were not of value to Christian scholars in attempting to provide a fuller account of the origin of Christianity.

The problem of what to do with the scrolls still remains, he said, even if it is established that they are of the pre-Christian era "and it is difficult to see that this will ever be established."

In describing the emergence of Christianity, Dr. Rivkin stated that Jesus was really a Jew, though a divergent one.

He also feels that Paul was the crucial figure in making Jesus the source and founder of Christianity. He said that Paul found in Jesus a redeemer and a saviour — a way to eternal life.

Again referring to the Dead Sea Scrolls, Dr. Rivkin challenged the belief that the basic scrolls were discovered by archaeologists.

Archaeologists are "experts in peeling off layers of cities," he said, "while the scrolls were found in caves and monasteries." He noted that the archaeologists have gained a certain prestige by getting credit for the finds.

"What was found," he said, "were located on the surface."

It is estimated that more than 200 clergymen, representing Catholics, Protestants and Jews, participated in the Institute.

Dr. M. F. McCutcheon, at the luncheon session, paid tribute to Dr. Stern for sponsoring the institutes each year, making possible the gatherings "with the purpose of deepening the spiritual insight of the Montreal community."

Music critic starts a campaign to save historic city buildings

By VALENTINA RAHR

Eric MacLean, music critic, who has in the last two years waged almost a one-man campaign to save old Montreal, wants a commission to be formed to save old sections of our city. Bonsecours Church, Bonsecours Market, the Chateau de Ramezay, Old Court House, and environs contain some of the oldest buildings dating from the 18th century or before, than any other city in North America.

The waterfront area particularly, is unique. It not only contains buildings important for their part in Canada's history, but as an area it has a favor of the past, which has so far managed to survive every onslaught of progress. Mr. MacLean claims that within about three small charming blocks in lower Montreal, there are 25 buildings whose destruction would be deplorable.

In his many travels in the U.S., Mr. MacLean claims that real estate values have increased three times since commissions have begun operations to restore old buildings. Many sites have in this way become a major attraction for tourists.

In a recent program which was broadcast by the Talks Department of the CBC, Mr. MacLean made an impassioned plea to the citizens of Montreal to seriously consider establishing a way of preserving these historic places, before they are demolished to make way for express highways or subways.

Nina Finkel, Elm avenue, nine-year-old winner of last year's two piano performance in the music section of the Montreal Festivals, is preparing another entry. This year she will play Concerto No. 5 for violin, by Friedrich Seitz. Nina is the daughter of Rose Goldblatt, well known Canadian pianist.

MISS SARAH I. HOLDEN

A funeral service was held Tuesday for Miss Sarah Isabel Holden, a nursing sister veteran of World War I and holder of the Royal Red Cross for heroic service who died at St. Anne's Military Hospital last Thursday in her 85th year.

Miss Holden was born in St. John's, Nfld., in 1875, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gordon Holden and granddaughter of Lord and Lady Selby of England. Following her education in Newfoundland she trained as a nurse at the Long Island School of Nursing, New York, graduating in 1912.

At the outbreak of World War I, she came to Montreal for her military training and embarked from here for overseas duty as a Lieutenant Nursing Sister with the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps.

Most of her time in the army was served at Salonika, Greece, in tents, right at the front. On one occasion she was left on duty alone with 36 wounded patients to await medical reinforcements, while the fighting line was advanced. Severe bombing blocked the road from behind, leaving Miss Holden and the wounded stranded for three days and nights.

When help finally arrived all the patients were found in excellent condition and Miss Holden still on her feet tending them. It was for this action she was invested with the Royal Red Cross by King George V at Buckingham Palace.

She is survived by a niece, Miss Jean Holden of Westmount, and three nephews. The funeral was held from the Chapel of Tees and Co. and burial was in the Field of Honor.

'Will not take sides'

WMA refers lessee petition to mayor

By LARRY McINNIS

The Westmount Municipal Association, at their meeting Tuesday night, reported on the action taken on behalf of the six gasoline station lessees involved with the owner-oil companies and the "gentlemen's agreement" between the owners and City Manager T. J. Hughes.

Association president, J. C. Harper, told the meeting he had discussed the issue at some length with Mayor J. C. Cushing and was told by the mayor that Mr. Hughes had met with the oil companies, following which he issued the edict the lessees keep their stations open from 7 a.m. until 11 p.m. each day, and on Sundays from noon until 7 p.m.

not take sides in the issue, beyond bringing the matter to the attention of Mayor Cushing.

Lessee R. Janelle, a member of the executive of the association and proprietor for a station at Western and Victoria, was asked if he was satisfied with the action taken (by the association) so far. "Very much so," he replied.

"Mr. Hughes did not consult the lessees," the mayor was reported as saying.

Mr. Harper also stated that Mayor Cushing had not been aware of the action taken by the General Manager until he had been approached by the WMA.

The association had sent a letter to city council regarding the "agreement", but Mr. Harper reported that they had received no reply, prompting his decision to approach the mayor personally.

Mayor Cushing met privately with the owners last Thursday. Following discussion, he asked them to report back to him in one month, showing a statement of profit and loss for the extra hours of operation. If the report shows the operation is not profitable, he will ask the city for a referendum on the matter.

It has been said by at least one spokesman for the lessees that pressure would be put on them to remain open. Of the six stations who petitioned the WMA, three have already backed down, accepting the companies' order to obey the new hours.

One lessee stated two weeks ago that he would give up business rather than stay open the extra hours. "After 7 p.m. it's a losing proposition," he said.

All six stations are following the new opening and closing hours.

Mr. Harper stated that the Westmount Municipal Association should

Election committee planned

Westmount's general election of January 18 cost the city about $3,700 and the Westmount Municipal Association $1,160, president L. C. Harper reported Tuesday night.

"I presume it cost 'the other group' as much as it cost us," he said, referring to the short-lived Westmount Voters' Association.

In their first meeting since the election, the association reviewed the events immediately preceding and following Michael L. Tucker's and Irving S. Backler's victory. Mr. Harper suggested three things should be considered:

1. The setting-up of an election committee within the association to deal with the mechanics involved in nominating and helping WMA candidates in future civic elections.
2. Accumulation of all possible data from the January 18 election to help plan future campaigns "if and when necessary."
3. Review the city's electoral act and recommended necessary changes.

Discussing the formation of the committee, Mr. Harper said: "We can no longer assume there will be an open election."

The suggestion by Mr. Harper that Bob Hunter be named to chair the election committee met with the approval of the 20 members who attended the meeting.

Police and fire say scene quiet

Westmount Fire Chief E. C. Harper reports that the most exciting thing that has happened to his department, in the last two weeks, besides the five recent promotions, was a false alarm on February 4 to Mount Pleasant and St. Sulpice.

Two other calls were received during the past week — one from a local resident who had locked himself out, and one for an overheated automobile motor.

"We're happy to report it's been quiet," the chief said.

Council levies a special tax

Westmount City Council Monday night passed an amendment to by-law 637 which will allow them to levy a special assessment on all taxable property to cover the city's share of the Metropolitan Boulevard. The new tax will total 2.05 mills.

The by-law special levy is actually broken down into two parts — 1.79 mills to pay for Westmount's share of the boulevard, and .26 mills school tax for 1959-60.

Despite the fact that interest on Montreal's Metropolitan Corporation funds fell due on February 1, Alderman Frank B. Common Jr. proposed an amendment that the new tax should be payable May 1.

Mayor J. C. Cushing said in future all interest payments would be made on the May 1 due date.

The charge from Metro was first introduced to council on January 11, and was deferred at that meeting and their last meeting February 1. It was obvious, however, that private session of council had agreed on the rate set by the city to meet the increased boulevard building and maintenance costs.

An additional charge from Metro for administration costs of more than $16,000 was paid as current expenditures. That decision was passed at council on February 1.

Alderman Common also proposed study of the sharing of costs of arterial roads on Montreal island with provincial and federal government.

Mayor Cushing had also invited questions on this suggestion at open council meeting on February 1, but heard no discussion from the floor.

The mayor said Monday night that the Provincial Government was giving serious thought to the question of sharing costs of roads, such as the Metropolitan boulevard, but no decision has been reached.

It has been suggested by many municipalities that, if Quebec ever joins the Federal Government in its plan to complete the Trans-Canada Highway, the Metropolitan boulevard will be an integral part.

Other municipalities have already protested to provincial and federal authorities that they should share the cost with them for the boulevard. St. Laurent's mayor, Marcel Laurin, has indicated that he plans to call a meeting of the cities and towns affected by Metro's assessment within the next ten or fifteen days to discuss a concerted representation to the government.

Westmount council, like Cote Saint Luc, have also suggested that the question of charging tolls on the boulevard and other provincial and federal arterial roads should be further investigated.

GEORGE MARLER

Rail problem 'difficult', public doesn't understand

In an address to graduates of Ste. Marie College Monday night, former Transport Minister George Marler said a practical solution to the Canadian rail problem will be "extremely difficult" to find.

He said the questions facing the Royal Commission now touring the Western Provinces are "grave, complex and almost beyond solution." He urged that wider public interest in the matter be stimulated.

"It will be the public that will be called upon to pay," he warned. "It is in its interest that the scope of the national problem should be fully understood."

The situation is broken into three problems, he said: Operation of small branch lines, operation of passenger services, and the so-called "Crow's Nest Pass" rates.

"No one wants to see branch lines abandoned," he said, "but their operation often entails fare needs higher than other forms of transportation. The situation varies from case to case, and each needs to be considered separately."

"The railways claim the Crow's Nest Pass agreement made with the Federal Government in 1897 costs them $70,000,000 annually."

Under the pact, the railways transport wheat and flour from the Lakehead to the West Coast for a special rate. In return they receive a yearly subsidy from the government of $3,600,000.

WE SAY YOU SAY

What's being done to end fume menace?

WE'VE been groping through a seemingly impenetrable veil of assorted public relations operatives for some weeks now to seek the truth about what's being done — if anything — to curb or end suspected East End refinery and other fumes as a serious West End nuisance.

Perhaps prevailing winter winds and temperature conditions, combined with the fact our windows aren't open so much, mean we aren't being over-powered by these petroleum-like fumes just now.

Those responsible can rest only in temporary satisfaction if complaints have currently diminished. Let them be assured of a deluge of wrath if the vast residential areas previously affected find no steps have been taken to eradicate this unwelcome intrusion on public and private rights.

'Brotherhood Week' is fortnight early

THE Canadian Council of Christians and Jews a fortnight hence sponsors Brotherhood Week here.

That worthy body is anticipated in its principal objective this week by a far older, better known organization of over a quarter-million boys.

We refer to The Boy Scouts Association, marking Boy Scout Week in Canada from Feb. 7 to 13.

What is the connection between the two groups?

Just this. Nearly one hundred different organizations — including religious denominations of every sort, Catholic, Protestant and Jewish — have a common bond through the Association in sponsoring packs, troops and crews across Canada, all with a common pattern of program and purpose.

The Boy Scout uniform is, among other things, a badge of tolerance and understanding. Here's one instance where uniformity is a virtue.

The understanding born of Scouting comes at a tender, impressionable age.

Its effect is lasting.

Coaches interested only in winning

Sir: The city of Montreal declared Minor Hockey Week which is very nice indeed and the slogan is don't send him, take him to the game.

I have been coaching minor hockey teams for quite a number of years, and find that there would be an awful lot of disappointed parents should they take their sons to a hockey game, because too many coaches are interested in winning and not giving all the kids a chance to play hockey. I have been out to quite a number of games and have seen kids get out on the ice for about one minute out of a 45 minute game.

I believe that these type of coaches who are out to win regardless as to whom they hurt, should quit coaching minor hockey and coach a professional or semi-professional team, where the players get paid for playing hockey and don't mind sitting on a bench.

Minor Hockey Coach.

DDD starts here March 6

Direct Distance Dialing, a new communication facility for the telephone using public, is coming to the Westmount on March 6.

This straight-through, do-it-yourself long distance telephone service has been hailed as the biggest forward step in telephone communications since the advent of the dial.

When equipment now being tested by Bell Telephone technicians in buildings on Montreal's Oxenden avenue and Montee St. Michel is "cut-over" it will bring some 35,000,000 telephones within direct dialing range of telephone users in Montreal and vicinity. Later this spring, DDD will become effective in Cornwall, Ont., and Valleyfield, Que. Scores of major centres — among them Toronto, Winnipeg, New York, Chicago, Miami and Los Angeles — and hundreds of communities near them will be accessible by DDD from these latest Canadian cities to have the new service.

In a few years, as the required equipment is installed in more and more centres, the new service will be available from virtually all of the 60,000,000 odd telephones on the continent.

Army Career hard—but fun

By LARRY McINNIS

A QUIET, serious 42 year-old Militia Major sat in the Officers Mess and reminisced about his long career in the army. He admitted that some of his experiences as an officer for 21 years in the Royal Signal Corps were interesting.

"I once took a mule team over an 11,000 foot mountain on the border of Baluchistan and Persia," he said. "It was in 1941, and we wanted to see if the Germans could infiltrate into the frontier country of India. The only way to find out was to try it ourselves — so I went over Mount Chiltan."

S. B. "Pip" Duke, 5142 Mariette was born in London in 1918. He was raised in London, educated in London, and may have stayed in London if he had not been drafted into the regular army in May, 1939, by the Defence Minister, Hoare Belisha.

"I was supposed to be in only six months," Pip said, "but the war stopped any ideas of getting discharged."

Graduating from the School of Signals, Pip was commissioned as a second lieutenant in August, 1940. In September he was sent to India and Burma, where he spent the rest of the war.

It was during his time in India and Burma that he served with the famous Maj. Gen. Orde Wingate, leader of the 'Chindits' who were the first Westerners to beat the Japanese at their own jungle warfare.

Wingate thought that gliders might be the answer for mass transportation of troops, and so Pip became a glider pilot.

"It was one of the few times Wingate was wrong," he recalls. "One of our pilots on his solo flight at night thought he had 'ned up on the runway and came in for a perfect landing. The only trouble was, the lights were the headlights of automobiles." The embryo pilot had landed in the middle of a taxi stand.

Although the war in Burma was a long, hard, thankless operation, Pip likes to recall only the more amusing incidents, like the case of the bridge-playing fiend.

"He was a Brigadier who was mad about his Sunday morning game in the mess," Pip laughs. "Unfortunately I got 'volunteered' to play with him once. Every time I would make a bad play—and I made plenty of them — the old boy would lean across the table and swat me with a rolled up copy of the London Pictorial, saying, 'Duke, you played like a fool.'"

Shocking behavior? "Brigadiers in the regular British army can get away with things like that, y'know."

The war over, Pip was sent to Russian Berlin as Captain Duke, British Secretary of Four Power Control.

While in Russian Berlin he met the woman who was later to become his wife, Senta. And therein lies a tale of adventure that would look well in any fiction novel, except that in this case it is the truth, "for truth is always stranger than fiction."

Pip describes the first meeting as "just passing the time of day in a German home with my boss, one of Churchill's private secretaries." But one thing led to another and Senta and Pip were soon engaged.

When Pip was posted back to the western Zone, Senta sneaked across the border. It took her six hours in freezing weather to work her way across the ice. At one point she had to wriggle past two Russian armed control towers.

Temporarily it was to no avail. The sometimes staid British Army posted Pip to Africa without giving him permission to marry.

In London, on leave, he finally managed to get the necessary permission. "I had to move fast," he said. "My leave was see them when his eye was covered up."

Pip was posted back to Germany in December, 1950 as a technical director of British Forces Hamburg, a radio station run by the army.

"You know, we once moved the whole station from Hamburg to Cologne — 70,000 records, and we only broke two."

In 1952 the army civilianized all the staff of the station. Pip could have stayed in the army, but his next assignment would running out, and things would be even more difficult in Africa."

Meanwhile, when he had gone to London on leave, Senta had sneaked back across the border to her home in the Eastern zone of Berlin.

"I decided to get her out once and for all," Pip said. "I hired an old Dakota aircraft from British European Airways and had it flown to the RAF station in Berlin. Senta got permission to visit the station, climbed aboard the Dak and soon joined me in London."

They had a week's honeymoon before Pip left for Africa and the Royal West Africa Frontier Force. That was in 1947, and he remained in Sierra Leone until he returned to Germany in 1950.

Again Pip liked to remember the amusing bits out of life taken from the hum-drum existence of Africa. "I became great friends with a planter there," he mused. "The poor old chap was having trouble with the natives responsible for picking the monkey nuts (peanuts). They were a lazy and shiftless lot unless under constant supervision. The planter had a glass eye, and one day he struck on a great idea. He took his glass eye and put it on a platform in the middle of the fields, telling the natives, 'Work, because my eye is here to watch you.' When he left, the natives were busily picking nuts. When he returned later in the day they were all sitting in the shade of the trees." Pip paused to laugh at the incident. "They had sneaked up and clapped a tin can over the glass eye, believing that the master couldn't have been the Middle East. "There were no married quarters there," he said, "so I came to Canada instead."

Pip is now a technical director at CBC.

The army is still, to some extent, in his veins. He is a Major in charge of wireless operators with the 11th Signal Regiment in Westmount.

"I nearly forgot to tell you," he said, "about the time I was in a big earthquake in India." It seems there was a terrible earthquake in Quetta in 1935 which killed 80,000 people — one of the world's worst disasters. Pip's experience, years later, was not that bad.

"I was sitting in the officer's mess having breakfast one day during the war when I heard this rumbling as though a lot of trucks were coming up the road. I didn't pay any attention, although all the other officers ran to the door. I couldn't imagine why they wanted to watch the trucks going by. After a while curiosity got the better of me, and I followed them out into the street." He paused. "It's a good job I did. Just then the whole ceiling of the mess came tumbling down on the table where I had just been eating."

Pip now confines his activities to his work, his home and 'he Militia. "I still like the Militia Major's battlerey, 'Open the bar!'"

By the way . . .

GUATEMALA'S GRACIOUS GIFT . . . Any Montrealer visiting Guatemala City will be delighted at the honor bestowed on our city in this central American metropolis. I have just received the February 2nd Guatemalan weekly News Bulletin with an item "Montreal Plaza Dedicated." It begins "Last Saturday the Mayor of the City of Montreal, Mr. Sar-to Fournier (who resides on Marcell Avenue) officiated at ceremonies dedicating Montreal Plaza in Guatemala City, at the juncture of Sixth avenue and Liberation boulevard." There is more but suffice to say that this goodwill is wonderful and Mayor Luis Galich who presided over the official visit and tour of the 40 visitors from Montreal is to be congratulated.

MULTITUDINOUS MAIL . . . It is hard to believe that 655 letters were received for "Jazz At Its Best" during the month of January, 1960 but I can tell you that is the truth since I was sent the list with the names and addresses. Henry F. Whiston, the young producer of the decade old show received 632 requests for his tabulated "Year Book" from jazz fans. Popularity of this CBC show has increased to such an extent that comparison of mail is as follows. For all of 1958, approximately 500; for 1959, 380 letters. What will the whole of 1960 bring if the first month has soared to 655? Keep up the good work, Producer Henry Whiston and narrator, Ted Miller.

MANY THANKS to the numerous kind folks that telephoned about "SURPRISING STATISTICS." Part III will appear shortly. F.G.

Reader offers hard pad cure

Mrs. B. A. Matt, Selby street, Westmount, called The Monitor to offer a possible cure for the scourge of the dog world, hardpad. The call was the result of a recent article on the disease.

She said she had a spaniel with hardpad during England's epidemic of the disease in 1944-45, but that she cured the dog by infra red lamp treatment and massage.

The dog was in the advanced stages, completely helpless, when she decided to try and affect a cure. She started with five minutes of the heat lamp and 10 minutes massage on the first day, gradually increasing the treatment until the animal was getting 10 minutes of each.

Continuing the treatment, in three weeks the dog could just move around for the first time. In three months he was completely cured.

Corporation to be set up

Samuel Bronfman, who led a group of 50 Canadian Jewish leaders to Israel last month, said Monday that steps will be taken within the next two or three months to set up a $5,000,000 corporation investment in Israel.

The proposal for the corporation was made in Israel after the delegation completed a tour of the state.

Mr. Bronfman, president of the Canadian Jewish Congress, was joint chairman of the trip with Lawrence Freiman of Ottawa, president of the Zionist Organization of Canada.

Mr. Bronfman said the purpose of the trip, from Jan. 7 to 17, was to see what had been done with money Canadians have sent to Israel during the last few years. The delegation, the first to represent all of Canada, was invited by the Israeli Government.

Poor results may be obtained in some cases because it was figured if a man loses three pints of blood, he needs only three pints to replace it. Actually, much more may be needed to make up for shrinkage in very small blood vessels and to get the circulatory system operating again at full strength.

Council Agenda

Suggestion that the WMA forget The Examiner gets no response

The Westmount Municipal Association, at their meeting at Victoria Hall on Tuesday night, heard reports from internal committees concerning membership, city council agenda and a zoning study.

Admitting some confusion among members as to the actual dates of the association's fiscal year, the executive set it definitely from May 1 to April 30 each year. Also proposed was a family membership, with a fee of $3 as against a single membership of $2. A motion to increase the single membership fee to $3 was defeated.

In a rather unique motion the association criticized itself for allowing residents of lower Landsdowne avenue to submit a complaint to city council regarding the use of the street for heavy traffic — busses and trucks. The WMA, members said, should have acted on the petition before it became necessary for the residents to follow through on it without the association's help. "We can only suggest, however," it was said. "We have no authority to dictate to the MTC about their bus routing."

The Housing and Zoning committee reported that they are in consultation with five Westmount architects to aid them in completion of their study of city zoning.

President L. C. Harper stated that the association had approached city council to attempt to get the council agenda into the hands of The Examiner before their publication deadline Thursday morning of each week. "Everything possible is being done," he said, "but it is not a promise that it will always be done on time."

Mr. Harper's remarks prompted the comment of Murray Savage: "Why not give it to the Gazette and forget about The Examiner?"

War, money head lists of Library

In the name of statistics, annual reports bring to light many little-known facets of operation that otherwise would be filed and forgotten. The 1959 report of the Westmount Public Library, compiled by Miss Kathleen Jenkins goes as far as tabulating the reading trends of the Westmount public during the year.

Fiction in the form of the novel has suffered a decline. Miss Jenkins points out. Good biographies head the list of "most wanted books." Elizabeth the Great, Queen Mary, Brecher's Nehru, Kitchener, de Gaulle's memoirs were in great demand. Also included were works by Canadians A. Y. Jackson, Painter's Country, and Dr. Goldbloom's Small Patients.

The press, radio and television has given much publicity to the recent flux of war memoirs prepared by the great leaders who actually took part in the wars, particularly World War II. Miss Jenkins states that war books are extremely popular, but, contrary to the usual belief, the formal memoirs did not enjoy the same popularity of the personal narratives dealing with exciting events in restricted areas.

No less surprising is the widespread interest in "do-it-yourself" books. Some of the popular titles, The Status Seekers, The Affluent Society, The Organization Man, How to become a top executive, How to get rich buying stocks, and The road to successful living.

In addition to the usual librarian's job of lending books, Miss Jenkins pointed out that her department supplied book reviews, pictures for artists and designers, essays on fame, courtesy and greatness, compared education in Russia and the United States, and even debated compulsory retirement at age 65.

During the last year, the provincial government realizing that "public libraries play a leading part in the cultural life of people, pressing needs for libraries are being felt in the Province," provided for the establishment of a permanent body, called the Quebec Public Libraries Commission, and an administrative body in the Provincial Secretary's department called the Quebec Library Service.

"This is indeed exciting news," Miss Jenkins said.

Chairman of the Library Board is D. A. Hanson. In 1959 the library appropriation from the city's budget amounted to $57,590.

Mounties get an extension

An RCMP request for a two year extension of their agreement with the City of Westmount for their radio tower and service building in Summit Park was approved by council at their meeting Monday night, following a recommendation of Alderman L. Bovaird.

The Mounties have used the park for their radio tower since 1951.

Other items facing the council were referred to committee, including a copy of a resolution from the city of Lachine to the Federal Minister of Revenue on the subject of obscene literature, and a petition from Landsdowne avenue residents on the traffic situation on Western avenue.

Approved by council was a stop sign at the intersection of Devon avenue and Upper Belmont.

The next meeting of council will be held February 15 at 8 p.m.

Rotary

Museum is root of community

"The Montreal Museum of Fine Arts is much like a library," Director Dr. Evan Turner told the Westmount Rotary at their weekly luncheon at Victoria Hall on Wednesday. "We don't consider our building as a mausoleum."

Dr. Turner, at 31 the youngest museum director in Canada, illustrated his talk with color slides of some of the paintings and sculpturing on display at the Museum.

"A museum is the root of a community," he said. "It is one of the most important educational institutions in the city."

Discussing the great number of paintings and other items on exhibition, Dr. Turner said that they had loaned famous pictures to other museums on every continent in the world, with the possible exception of the Orient.

Of all the slides shown to illustrate his talk, one provoked unusual interest. It was a reproduction of a Raphael painting now in the Mellin collection which was sold by Russia in 1932 for $1,300,000. It was, and still is, the highest price ever paid for a single painting in the western world. "Russia badly needed money at the time," Dr. Turner explained, "and that's why they sold it."

Dr. Turner also stated that Queen Elizabeth II has what is probably the greatest single art collection in the world today.

Borne in Maine, Dr. Turner received his education there and at Harvard, graduating in 1949. He majored in art history, especially the study of European paintings from 1300-1914.

Eventually the Museum hopes to make it a practice to enable every sixth grade student in and around Montreal to visit their exhibits.

"It will help them think of things around them in a clearer way," he said.

Philharmonia presents Gati as conductor

The Montreal Philharmonia Orchestra, consisting of more than 100 skilled non-professional musicians from Montreal and its suburbs, is holding a concert at Plateau Hall on February 21 with Laszlo Gati as conductor.

Mr. Gati was born in 1925 in Tamesvar, Hungary. He began violin studies at the age of five, and piano studies at the age of 10. He studied with Desno Rados at the Franz Litsz Academy in Budapest, becoming a member of the Hungarian State Philharmonic in 1946.

A conductor of many prominent Budapest orchestras, Mr. Gati came to Canada in 1957 where he joined the Montreal Philharmonia. He is also the founder of the Montreal Chamber Orchestra.

The Philharmonia, with strictly non-professionals, depends on public support for continuance of its programs.

The group includes in its membership eight Westmount musicians: Bernard Klein, Reginald Rees, Roberto de Castro, Maria Bartha, Ronald Harisay, Peter Lucas, Georgy Kovac and Irving Ostreger.

Francesca Cofsky, soprano, will be the featured vocalist, performing "Voi lo sapete" from Cavaleria Rusticana-Mascagni and "O don fatale" from Don Carlo — Verdi.

WEREDALE HOUSE boys chat informally with Harold F. Kerrigan, DSO, DFC, 5 Hudson avenue, new president of the Red Feather home for boys. The agency, which is located in Weredale Park, Westmount, and has 164 boys in residence, held its 89th annual meeting last Tuesday.

Agency salvages useful lives

The number of boys under care at Weredale House reached an all-time high during the past year members of the Board of the Red Feather home for boys heard Tuesday night at the agency's annual meeting.

Executive Director Vernon F. McAdam told the meeting that the daily average figure for boys in residence during the year was 162, the highest in the agency's 89 year history.

Of the 76 boys admitted to the home during the year, 56 were children who had both parents living but whose homes were broken by illness or marital difficulties. Some 55 of the new admissions were born in Montreal, 13 were from other Canadian cities, six were European and two were recent immigrants from Commonwealth countries. The average age of those admitted was 12 years and two months.

"The need for our work is as old as society itself and our purpose, that of providing a home for the boy who is homeless, does not lend itself to spectacular efforts or eye-catching innovations," Mr. McAdam said.

Speaking of the type of boy under the agency's care, the executive director noted that "in the parlance of the game, the majority of the boys coming into our care already have two strikes against them. In the main, they are products of broken homes — broken through force of circumstances entirely beyond the control of the boys themselves. In some of the boys who came to us we see evidence of neglect, fear, frustration and feelings of rejection."

Mr. McAdam questioned whether the city was fully aware of the salvage of useful lives the agency had been able to bring about and the hundreds of thousands of productive dollars that have been added to the community through the work of the graduates of the home. "But for our efforts some of these dollars would be on the other side of the ledger," he said.

Mr. McAdam thanked the principals and staffs of Westmount public and high schools for the co-operation extended to the agency. "Two-thirds of our boys attend the Westmount schools, he said. "It is a principle of our work that, if any boy has the mental capacity to absorb formal education, we will see him through high school and, in some cases, by means of scholarships, we can help him through university." He noted that the major portion of the summer camp staff and half of the student supervisory staff is made up of boys continuing their education.

Graduates of the home continue to provide concrete evidence of the results the Weredale program has been able to achieve. Mr. McAdam noted, "News of our graduates doing well in the world — in the professions or in numerous trades — gives us great satisfaction."

Making the president's report, retiring president John M. Rudel commented on the number of old boys of the home who have returned to join the Weredale House staff. He noted the existence of an Old Boys' Association.

Mr. Rudel stated that summer camp sessions were the most satisfactory to date and, with the exception of very minor mishaps, were accident free. He expressed pleasure at the visit paid by the Rhodes Education Tour from Great Britain.

The Rhodes students, who had an average age of 19, arrived from England in the morning and spent the first afternoon of their tour at Camp Weredale, where they played a game of soccer and put on an exhibition of rigger.

The Treasurer's report showed revenues of $165,589.99 and expenditures were in balance.

Harold F. Kerrigan, DSO, DFC, was elected president for the coming year in succession to John M. Rudel. Other members of the Board were: H. Roy Crabtree and Edmund Littler, Jr., vice-presidents, hon. treasurer, C. F. Ritchie, asst. hon. treasurer, G. Meredith Smith, hon. secretary, W. W. Allison.

Arthur H. Campbell is hon. president and the members of the advisory board are G. W. Bourke, James A. Eccles, Philip S. Fisher and J. Ernest Millen.

The following are members of the Board of Governors: W. W. Allison, E. Campbell Budge Arthur H. Campbell, H. Roy Crabtree, George W. Day, F. W. Dundas, W. Borden Empey, Ewart A. Ever-

Holland-America schedules first cruise from Canada

Mr. Bart Menage, Passenger Manager for Canada, has announced that the Holland-America Line, renowned for cruises emanating from New York, has now scheduled for the Canadian Service a 15-day cruise of the "SS Ryndam" on July 26, from Montreal and Quebec.

The completely air-conditioned and stabilizer equipped SS Ryndam will first take its passengers past the majestic beauty of towering Capes Eternity and Trinity as she enters the mouth of the Saguenay River. An unforgettable voyage up and down this broad, fjord-studded river, which leads to Canada's new Northern industrial empire, ends by passing Tadoussac, the traditional meeting place for centuries of Indians from Hudson Bay to Florida.

Sailing on to the Gaspé, a ruggedly beautiful peninsula, the SS Ryndam will call at the town of Gaspé where some of the high points are Perce Rock and Ile Bonaventure, the latter a bird sanctuary. In this area Jacques Cartier landed in 1534 and set up a cross in the name of the King of France.

The ship will head towards Bermuda via North of Cape Breton Island. After a three and a half day leisurely trip from the last port of call she will enter the picturesque land locked harbour of Hamilton, Bermuda's capital. For the next couple of days the passengers are free to browse through the island's many quaint shops, stroll the fine coral sand beaches and visit the numerous historical points of interest.

The ship sails on to New York and for those who have not entered the fabulous city by ship, this is indeed a fantastic sight. Passing the Statue of Liberty the impressiveness of the downtown skyline is something that will be long remembered.

The next feature will be a brief passage through the eight mile Cape Cod Canal built by the U.S. This waterway separates the well known resort and fishing area, Cape Cod and Bussards Bays, passing through the town of Bourne, Cape Cod, from the mainland.

FRIENDLY: Chairman and panel members are friendly as they compare notes on individual views of what is expected of parents and teachers. —Tedd Church Photo

King's School

Controversial panel shows teachers' dislike of move

Jack Chivers, president of the Quebec Federation of Home and School Associations, defining the meaning of the word "teacher," said: "A teacher should have character, good health, love for children, aptitude for learning, love for books, sense of fair play, patience, capacity to inspire respect, and the ability to communicate to her children her own rich experiences."

Mr. Chivers was the chairman of a panel discussion held last Friday under the sponsorship of King's Home and School Association.

Taking part in the controversial panel were Mrs. R. G. Goddard, vice-president of the association; Geoffrey Merrill, teacher at Lower Canada College; R. Steeves, superintendent of Westmount schools; and Lloyd Jack, Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal.

Discussion covered: transferring of teachers; teacher shortage; requirements for a teacher to remain with the school board; replacements; what is expected from the parents by the teacher; what is expected from the teacher by the parents; salaries.

Referring to the transfer of two teachers from King's School during 1959-60. Mr. Steeves explained: "The transfer of a male teacher (Mr. J. Barr) from King's School to Westmount Junior High came about as a result of a shortage of good teachers on the high school level, and because of the resignation of one of the Junior High teachers shortly before the Christmas holidays. There was no male teacher available to replace him immediately, and that was why we reluctantly had to move Mr. Barr from King's. We are trying our very best to get qualified teachers for the Junior High, and as male teachers are required at the high school level, female teachers will be used for the elementary grades where possible." "We are having a shortage of teachers today because most teachers coming in to teach were born in the 30's when not many people could afford to train to become teachers," Mr. Steeves said: "Numbers of children from the fabulous 50's, and the fighting 40's, are abnormally large. Added to the number of children of immigrants, schools are having a difficult time to cope."

Lloyd Jack, a former teacher himself, said: "The School Board has 2,400 teachers employed now, and we could use another 300. Hundreds are taking special courses to improve their standing in the teaching profession, and more students are interested in entering the teaching profession now than formerly. That is the trend today."

Mrs. Goddard said she had gathered from several parents that "we want our children to develop positive and constructive attitudes towards learning and also play. We would like to feel our teachers are helping to bring up thoughtful individuals-responsible for people's property and ideas. Teachers teach skills. Some parents think that they are too easy going with children as regards discipline."

Mr. Merrill, former teacher at Roslyn School, said: "A teacher wants to be placed by the Board where his services can be best utilized. Ideally, a teacher would want to be placed where the head master is strong in character, and willing to back the teacher. A teacher would like to be paid what he is worth in training and experience. A school does not bring up children. A teacher wants to add to what parents have already over their own children. Relations taught, and not feel that parents between teacher and parent be- put the responsibility of bringing up the child on the teacher. The teaching of honesty, respect and courtesy, are the responsibility of the parents. Too often parents feel the opposite. Parents often criticize teachers because they have no control over a class of pupils, yet often they have no control over their own children. Relations between teacher and parent become indecisive, and reflects in the children's behavior." "A teacher would like to be in a school with esprit de corps," Mr. Merrill said. "It cannot exist where fear of transfer exists because of teacher shortage. From the teachers point of view, a transfer is disturbing."

One-man showing at artlenders

A one-man show of paintings of Newfoundland's old Avalon Peninsula by Freda Pemberton Smith will be on view at the Artlenders, 4225 Melrose avenue, N.D.G., 1 p.m. to 5.30 p.m. from February 15 through 29.

Born in Montreal in 1902, Freda Pemberton Smith received her art training under Wilfred Barnes, RCA, at l'Ecole des Beaux Arts; and for many years was a pupil of Edmund Dyonnet, RCA. She also studied in England. During her student days she won several awards, including the Gold Medal of the Royal Drawing Society. A frequent comparison on sketching trips was the late Miriam Holland. Her work interrupted during the Second World War, when she served with the Canadian Red Cross in this country and U.K., and following the war by teaching art.

The consequences of Christmas

VI
By
The Venerable
R. Kenneth Naylor, D.D.,
Rector, Trinity Memorial Church

One might go on indefinitely recounting the various blessings that have come to us from the Incarnation; but I shall content myself with this last one.

It has often been said that man is a lone being. He is a gregarious animal but he is also self-centred and cut off from his fellows. How many of us can say that we really know our neighbors? How many of us really make ourselves known? Even in a great city, and perhaps most of all in a great city, there are vast numbers of very lonely people. Over and over again women have said to me when their husbands died: "You know John never went out much; we have very few friends." They had been a quiet couple; now there was a very lonely survivor.

In the first year of the Second War a Londoner was appointed Fire-Warden in his district. He took the post seriously and set out to get acquainted with his district. As he went over it he found great numbers of very lonely people. (Incidentally, perhaps the first business of Church people is to take steps to see that the loneliness is relieved.) However, one of the results of the Coming of our Lord has been to relieve that loneliness. He does not belong to one community or to one group of people, but to all people. He is the one Universal Man, the Friend to all men. But, because He is Man we might suppose Him to be limited in His contacts. He realized this when He said: "It is expedient for you that I go away." As long as He was with them, even in His Risen Humanity, He must confine Himself to one group and one place. So it was to their advantage that He should go away in order that He might send to them the Holy Ghost, the Comforter, their Ever-Companion, the Divine Person who would be with each of them at all times.

It is one of the mysteries of the Divine Nature that God has made Himself known to us in different ways at different times. God as God is known to us in the Old Testament with occasional references to the other Persons of the Trinity. In the Gospels the Son is revealed, and reveals. Then He withdraws and the Holy Spirit is sent, to take the things of Christ and to show them to the disciples. He came to the whole company but He also came to the individuals. Stephen was filled with the Holy Ghost for the special purpose to which he was called. We humbler Christians have our gift of the Holy Ghost for other purposes. He is our Comforter or Advocate. He stands by us. He even utters our prayers for us when we lack words. If we can accept Him, He is our constant Companion, and with Him there is no veiling of our thoughts and aspirations. With Him the loneliness of mankind has passed away.

Fund: Harry Smith, Samuel Paperman, Lewis Smith, Mark Stein, Percy Abelson, Arthur Weinthal, William Gittes, John Meth, Dr. Phillip Joseph, Elkan Speyer, Henry Benjamin, Harry Simon.

Richard Tucker Concert: This week reservations for this important event, which takes place Saturday, April 2, will be opened to the community at large. Those members who have not as yet made their reservations are urged to do so at the earliest. Bernard Isaacs, and his co-workers of the Temple Brotherhood, are busily engaged in making the evening memorable in the cultural life of the community. Richard Tucker, one of the world's leading tenors — "the modern Caruso" appears for one night only and will present a program in the sanctuary. For reservations and information phone Mrs. Irving Solowey, RE. 7-1630.

Conrad Gesner of Zurich, Switzerland, wrote the earliest known description of a pencil. In 1565, in his "Treatise on Fossils," he clearly described a writing rod held in an ornate wooden shaft. Today, of course, Canada's pencil industry manufactures a product vastly improved over the one Mr. Gesner wrote about.

Survey shows:

Trading stamps saved despite 'opposition'

By SHIRLEY FENTON

A survey of Westmount residents disclosed 84% are opposed to trading stamps. They are convinced that higher prices carry the cost of distribution and premiums. Nearly all accept the stamps because refusal "would be throwing money away."

The controversial merchandising gimmick was heaped with abuse by these indignant shoppers, but only 2% refuse the stamps altogether.

The 16% in favor are divided as to motive. Half think it's fun, and save for particular premium items; half cash in their stamps regularly for groceries or money. Only 10% of these people think stamp store prices are comparable to those in non-stamp stores. The rest say the prices are higher but don't care.

Mrs. S. Elkin, 117 Aberdeen avenue, had this to say:

"I'd like to cooperate if it won't take too long. I'm doing something with cornstarch . . . trading stamps? I don't like the idea at all. I turned my stamps in yesterday for cash . . . You're welcome, and my cornstarch is alright."

Mrs. I. E. Angus, 616 Belmont street, was emphatic: "They're absolutely useless to me. I don't want them and I never take them."

Mrs. M. Carreck, 435 Grosvenor avenue, favors trading stamps. "I think they're fun. You're not one of those terrible people who say they represent 1,000,000 consumers, are you? Why can't they mind their own business?" Mrs. Carreck shops at any store, but is saving stamps to trade in for a blanket.

Mrs. E. D. B. Kippen, 2 deCasson road, said: "Oh, those wretched things! I think it's a terrible idea. They should be stopped. The customer has to stand and wait, and they make more work for the cashier. I'm perfectly sure the cost is added on to whatever you buy." She gives the stamps to a young friend.

"I like them all right," said Miss E. Fraser, 4137 Dorchester street. "It's quite a game with me and I just go along and enjoy it."

Mrs. A. J. Carroll, 504 Grosvenor avenue, commented:

"I think they're terrible, but I save them rather than throw money away. They say they're free, but they can't be." She says that non-trading stamp stores have much lower prices . . . "most meats are ten cents a pound less."

Mrs. I. Mandel, 101 Academy road, said: "I don't think they're a very good thing. I have them but don't save for anything in particular."

Mrs. J. M. O'Reilly, 481 Argyle avenue, said: "We were going to change to another store, but they give a refund on stamps now. She thinks trading stamps are "terrible."

Mr. L. P. Cloutier, 71 Clendoyne avenue, said: "They are not a good thing. We have to lose time waiting in the store. My wife has lots but it takes too much time to put them in the book, so we don't bother."

Mrs. R. Reece, 436 Claremont avenue, said that stamps are a nuisance. "I go to non-trading stamp stores as well. It's just as well to go to stores that don't give them and get full value. You don't get anything for nothing."

Mrs. C. Gagnon, 56 DeLavigne road said: "We know it's not free. We give them to our niece." Mrs. Gagnon is not impressed with the quality of premiums offered. She described her attitude as "indifferent."

Of all those surveyed, H. J. E. Pope, 18 Holton avenue, was most succinct. Asked what he thought about trading stamps, he replied, "Nothing." Asked if he saved the stamps, he said: "No."

Westmount merchants were included in the survey. Asked his opinion of trading stamps, an official of one of a chain of trading stamp stores said: "I didn't like them at all at first, but now we are giving cash refunds and they are no trouble at all. We had a terrible time waiting for delivery of the premiums."

Asked how the cashiers reacted, he said: "The girls complained. It made their work harder, but now they are used to it." They give stamps, he said, "to encourage business."

The manager of a small, non-trading stamp store said: "We are small and we haven't got much to sell. We don't bother with that kind of thing. In this business you get up early and go to bed late. I have four children to support and must work hard to make a living. I haven't got time to think about giving those things."

Doctor to speak Sunday on prayer

Dr. C. P. Martin, former Professor of Anatomy of the Faculty of Medicine in McGill, will be the speaker next Sunday evening in Dominion-Douglas University of Life. Dr. Martin is well known as a leader in Christian university missions and his topic will be "Prayer."

Following the service and the coffee break, there will be a discussion group led by Dr. Parker Chesney. There is a great interest in these opportunities to discuss matters of vital importance to Christian people today.

At the Morning Service Dr. Lloyd Smith will preach on the theme "Of One Blood."

The 1951 census reported that 1.9 per cent of Canada's population over 10 years of age, about 166,000 persons, had never attended school and presumably were illiterate.

ERROLL GARNER, the most celebrated of jazz pianists who will be heard in his first Montreal concert on Friday eve., Feb. 19 at the St-Denis Theatre.

Erroll Garner at St. Denis

Erroll Garner, noted pianist composer, will appear in his first Montreal concert on Friday evening, Feb. 19, at the St. Denis, Theatre Canadian Concerts and Artists announced today. Garner is the first jazz artist to be presented under the aegis of Sol Hurok in cities across North America.

Pittsburgh-born Garner has been playing the piano professionally since the age of seven, with ever widening successes, in theatres and supper clubs, on records, television and radio. More and more of recent seasons he has been bringing his unique talents to the concert stage.

Completely self-taught, Erroll Garner has won many coveted awards all over the world, both for his playing and his compositions. Last winter, he received the Grand Prix du Disque from the French Academy of Arts. His following is world-wide, an ever-growing audience ranging from jazz enthusiasts to confirmed classicists.

The New York Times calls Garner "one of the more unalloyed joys in jazz today." To the Philadelphia Inquirer he is "the world's most creative piano man." Reported the New York Daily News: "He is by all odds the finest pianist in the popular field today and possibly the best ever." The San Francisco Chronicle said of a recent Garner concert: "one of the greatest and most exciting musical memories of this or any other year."

JACK AND THE BEANSTALK: Jack (Alan Goldbloom) is getting some not-so-friendly persuasion from Rafe Heywood (David Smith) while Jack's mother (Marsha Shulman) takes his part. The scene is from Dorothy Davis' and Violet Walters' production of Jack and the Beanstalk presented by the Children's Theatre at Victoria Hall on February 13 and 20.

Men's club to sponsor two talks

A large attendance is expected at the 33rd annual fellowship dinner meeting between Catholics, Jews and Protestants sponsored by the Men's Club of Temple Emanu-el, scheduled to take place Wednesday, February 17, at 6.45 p.m. in the new social auditorium.

The Hon. Jerome Gaspard, United States Consul General and Charles Peters, president, Canadian Press and the Montreal Gazette, will deal with the theme "North America and The International Community." The meeting will be chaired by the president, Abraham Izenberg and among head table guests will be leading citizens of the cultural, religious and industrial life of our community.

The Men's Club has written a testing chapter in the cause of better understanding through these annual conclaves which have been held in the Temple for the past 33 years.

Pierre Van Paassen to speak 3 times

It has been announced that Pierre Van Paassen, world renowned writer, lecturer and traveller, will speak to three different groups this week.

Mr. Van Paassen's speaking schedule is: February 14, Shaar Hashomayim Congregation, February 15, Adath Israel Congregation and February 16, Shaare Zion. The lectures are open to the public.

Outstanding photo exhibition set for Fraser-Hickson

An exhibition of the outstanding work of press and commercial photographers across Canada will be held in the Fraser-Hickson Institute, February 13 to 20 inclusive. The exhibition, free to the public, has been provided by the Commercial and Press Photographers Association and covers a wide variety of interesting subjects ranging from portraits to vivid spot news pictures and from sports to human interest and scenic material.

Dominion-Douglas

Contributions show increase

Increased contributions to missionary and other purposes highlighted the annual meeting reports of Dominion-Douglas United Church Westmount.

A total of $135,000 was raised by various organizations and funds of the church. Of this $61,000 went outside the Church to missionary and social service purposes.

Mr. E. A. Everson reported the membership of the Church as 1,610.

Members of the congregation were guests of the ladies of the Women's Association for dessert and coffee.

Devotions were conducted by the Ministers, Rev. R. Douglas Smith and Rev. Keith H. Eddy and assisted by Rev. A. Lloyd Smith.

The following new Elders were elected: W. Keith Barber, Dr. Lloyd A. Caswell, J. E. Brian Greaves and Arnold A. Schonbek.

The following were elected to the committee of stewards: James P. Anglin, Dr. Douglas Atack, R. David Bourke, K. Gilbert Cook, Dr. Roy Forsey, George S. Hart, Bonar Hodgson, Eric C. Laffoley, James E. Mitchell, David B. Munro, Gordon Schroeder, Ross M. Southward and James M. Stephen. B. W. Roberts was elected a trustee.

Kay Tremblay rehearses to acquire cockney accent

By MARGARET O'BRIEN

"I find myself talking cockney to my friends now," said Kay Tremblay, leading lady of "The Great Sebastians." For the last week she's been rehearsing for the comedy drama which opened at the Montreal Repertory Theatre playhouse, Closse street on Tuesday.

As Eliza Doolittle in reverse Kay actually had to lose her normal English accent and acquire a cockney one for the part of Essie.

"It's a wonderful part," she said. "Lynn Fontaine played it in the original cast with Alfred Lunt as Rudy. There are some splendid comedy lines and the tension of the last act makes the part a demanding one."

Trained as a ballet dancer Kay was with the Sadlers Wells company and she also acted with the Old Vic before she came to Canada. In Montreal she has acted for MRT, CBC television and La Poudriere. Recently she made a documentary film for the National Film Board — "I learnt my lines for 'The Great Sebastians' between takes."

Like all troupers Kay prefers a live show to the movie camera. "Film work needs a great deal of stamina, I think," she said. Anything may go wrong — lights, camera, sound — and the scene has to be retaken sometimes about 10 times. It's difficult to sustain an emotion under these conditions. In fact I wonder how film stars do it. On stage it's much easier to create an illusion and live the part."

Kay's two sons Michael and Anthony also act. Michael is at Lower Canada College and at the moment is rehearsing in a play for the Dominion Drama Festival. Anthony, a Westmount Junior High school boy is appearing in the TV series, "Chez Hélène."

Kay is also directing a play at Westhill High School. "It's called 'Death Takes a Holiday,'" she remarked, "though actually it's a comedy." When Kay's role as Essie is ended she still won't have time for a holiday.

MRS. KAY TREMBLAY, of Trafalgar avenue, Westmount, leading lady in "The Great Sebastians" takes a moment out to relax, after rehearsing for the comedy drama which opened on Tuesday.

Baby Donaldson is given names Robert Alexander

The christening of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Donaldson took place at Calvary United Church on February 7, 1960. The Rev. Charles R. Plaskett officiated at the service.

The baby, who is of the fourth generation, was given the names Robert Alexander. His great-grandfather is William Beveridge Donaldson, of Calgary, Alberta; his grandfather, Alexander Donaldson of Montreal and his father William Alexander also of Montreal.

The grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Donaldson entertained after the service at the home on Trenholme avenue.

Asian theme for nurses Alumnae Assn.

The Alumnae Association of McGill's School for Graduate Nurses enjoyed a most interesting program on "Nursing in Asia" at their regular meeting on February 9. Asiatic Nursing students attending the University presented a program with the assistance of staff advisor, Mrs. Helen Gemeroy. During a panel and the discussion period which followed, these students described nursing conditions in their own countries. Accompanying the program were displays of colorful native costumes and art.

These students are all advanced nurses in Thailand, Indonesia, and India and are attending McGill under the Colombo Plan and the World Health Organization. Increasing numbers of Asiatic nurses are coming to McGill for advanced study.

The theme chosen this year by the Alumnae Association of the McGill School for Graduate Nurses, under the chairmanship of Miss K. Dickson, is "Life in Asia." A further meeting in the late spring will complete this theme.

A Valentine

Have you heard of the Magic Cap?
There's only one, in the world,
It is called "The Happy Wishing Cap",
And is claimed by a mystic word.

This is the fable, told of old,
But we are wiser than they,
Each one of us, born into this world,
Has a cap of his own today.

Have you ever claimed your own, I ask?
So precious, it's locked in a vault,
But you, have the key, and no one else,
If opened not, 'tis your own fault;

No other can get it open for you,
Your word alone, turns the key,
But then, after that, all the good things and true,
Are yours, by the law, proved by me.

Two local artists exhibit paintings

Seventeen West End artists have entries in the Independent Art Association exhibition at the Val David Art Pottery Exhibition Hall, for a two-month period ending March 30. The exhibition was opened by Mayor O. Beaulieu of Val David.

Three prizes will be awarded to the artists whose works are selected by ballot as the most popular in the show.

Mrs. Betty Galbraith-Cornell, Westmount, regularly exhibits her work at Montreal galleries. Besides an exhibition at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, she has exhibited three times at the Arts Club, and in other Canadian cities. The latest show was held at the Queen Elizabeth Hotel last year.

"Portrait painting is something quite apart from landscapes," she commented. "Portraits require a fine sense of proportion and a natural understanding of the subject's mood." Portrait painting is her favorite, and she specializes in painting children.

Mrs. Galbraith-Cornell studied with Adam Sherriff Scott, RCA and with Mr. Beament at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts. She is well known for Nova Scotian and Laurentian scenes.

Walter Ferrier, a commercial artist, is a new member of the association. He trained at the Ontario College of Art, and took courses in commercial art at Quebec, Montreal and Toronto. Years ago he studied at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts. Well known as a cartoonist and designer, he carries on the tradition of his father J. Ferrier, of Verdun, who was a chaser on silver for many years for Henry Birks and Sons. Mr. Ferrier prefers landscapes and still life to portraits, and works in the outdoors, as much as possible, he takes photographs of the spot to finish his work at home.

Mr. Ferrier won the first award presented by the Art Directors Show held at the Ritz Carlton Hotel every year, for best commercial artist. His illustrations appear regularly in the Reader's Digest, MacLean's, bus cards, and other publications. This is the first time he is exhibiting with the association.

Mrs. John Forbes heads Unity Boys' Club auxiliary

The Unity Boys' Club Ladies Auxiliary elected Mrs. John Forbes of Westmount president of the Auxiliary for 1960 at an election meeting held recently at the Club.

The following slate of officers have been elected: Honorary president, Mrs. Maurice Mariasine; past president, Mrs. Stanley Simmons; president, Mrs. John Forbes; vice-president, Mrs. James Warren; secretary, Miss Crystal Cunningham; treasurer, Mrs. Douglas Norris; executive delegate, Mrs. Andre Lefebvre; executive delegate, Mrs. Arthur Prevost.

The new slate of officers will commence duties at the annual meeting which will be held on Monday, February 15. The principal topic on the agenda will be the laying of plans for the annual card party tentatively set for March 14.

The Unity Boys' Club Ladies Auxiliary has been rendering service to the Club in a variety of capacities during the past several years. The auxiliary has equipped the Club with dishes, cutlery, drapes, Staff Lounge furniture, costumes for the Talent Club and has supervised at banquets and dinners.

The Ladies Auxiliary welcomes new members. Plan now to attend the auxiliary annual meeting on February 15.

Puppet theatre goes on display

The Westmount Public Library announces that a puppet theatre built by seven grade six students of the Home and School art class at King's School is on display in the adult section of the library.

The puppets, costumes and scenery were also made by the children, under the direction of Eudice Garmaise, for Dicken's "Christmas Carol." The play was produced for a school assembly just prior to Christmas.

The theatre was designed by architect Harry Mayerovitch and MMFA graphics and drawing instructor, Moe Reinblatt, gave gen-

RMR Ladies' Committee elects Mrs. T.J. Kennedy

The 40th annual meeting of the Ladies' Committee of the Royal Montreal Regiment was held in the Armoury, St. Catherine street west, January 25.

The meeting was opened by the Commanding Officer, Lt. Col. Kennedy. The Rev. Capt. K. Keif read a list of names of officers who lost their lives in the last war, followed by a short prayer.

The President, Mrs. Kennedy, reviewed the activities of the past year, thanking the members for their co-operation and mentioning the success of the two rummage sales held during the year which together realized $658.11.

The treasurer, Mrs. P. Lloyd-Craig, reported receipts of $944.90, disbursements of $927.67, with investments totalling $1,994.55.

Mrs. H. Etheridge, in charge of welfare, reported a total of $307.00 was spent helping needy families during the year.

Reports were read by other conveners regarding hospital visiting, publicity, teas and correspondence, after which Mrs. R. Schwob thanked the out-going committee and seconded the adoption of the various reports.

As a special commemoration of this 40th anniversary meeting, Mrs. Victor Whitehead gave a brief review of the many welfare and social service activities carried out by this Ladies' Committee over the past 40 years — especially during the last world war.

Mrs. Ernest Walton, the founder of the Welfare Committee, also gave a brief resumé of the many services rendered over the past 30 years.

eral artistic advice. The children visited the Theatre Nouveau Monde in preparation for the project and were received by designer Robert Provost and actor-director Jean-Louis Roux.

The theatre will be on display until February 20.

Heather rink wins in U.S.

A Heather Curling Club rink skipped by Mrs. T. I. Bulboard won the Empire State Bouspiel in Schenectady, N.Y. With Mrs. Guilboard were Mrs. E. B. Baikie, Mrs. John Henderson and Mrs. Murray Reid.

The Heather rink went undefeated through the spiel, winning four games.

Mrs. Reid resides in Montreal West and the rest of the rink are residents of Notre Dame de Grace, Toronto and Shawinigan were the other two Canadian rinks. Toronto won the consolation.

In the 1949-1958 period Canada's Gross National Product increased by 97 per cent; in the same years total government spending increased by 156 per cent.

Mary Home, MBSC new president

Province of Quebec Ladies Squash Association named Mary Home of the MBSC as president at its annual meeting held at the MAAA clubhouse.

Mrs. Ruth Porter, MAAA was named secretary-treasurer and Timmy Gibbon, McGill University, a committee member.

The Association set March 1 as the starting date for the City and District Championships, held for the first time last year on the MAAA courts.

The 1960 tournament will be held again on Wheelers' courts. The defending singles champion is Kay Craib, an MAAA entrant.

Since organizing their own Provincial body the interest in squash among women players has increased at several city clubs.

MORE AND MORE DELIVERIES BRING O'KEEFE ALE

Delivery boys everywhere are noticing this new trend to O'Keefe. Every day more and more people are discovering mild O'Keefe Ale. Next time you order beer from your grocer, be sure to ask for O'Keefe — you'll enjoy its natural mild flavour.

THE O'KEEFE MILDNESS SECRET

Ever bitten into a grape seed? It's bitter, unpleasant. Grape growers found by experiment that they could develop seedless grapes with nothing to spoil the delicate flavour. It's the same with hops.

Ordinary hops contain seeds which give an unpleasant bitterness to ale. However, O'Keefe master brewers insist on costlier "Seedless Hops", result—there's no unpleasant bitterness, just the right, natural mild flavour.

Drink O'Keefe The Mild Ale! ...

Monklands win 49-40

In a western division cage tussle, Chappy Robinson's improved Monklands brigade chalked up their first win of the season, 49-40 over Lower Canada College.

Vilnis Auns sank 18 points for Monklands, while Herbie Finkelstein and Eric Wolff garnered 12 and 11 respectively.

ST. LEO'S SPORTS

By PETER RASSENTI and RAY MAYNARD

The seniors chalked up their second victory in three days, downing Westmount High 4-1 at Westmount Artificial rink. It was the most impressive showing of the year for the Academy boys, who hustled all the way in a fine display of teamwork. The passing was improved and the positional play sound.

John Rinfret, Bob Fournier, Pierre Leduc and Mike Johnson were the marksmen for the winners. George Spare was to the fore with three assists. The defence was solid throughout with Allan Keith and Pierre Leduc showing the way. John Bonneau in goal handled all chances well and the lone Westmount goal was well earned.

This game showed an upswing in attendance at school hockey, with a fine turnout giving their favorites vocal encouragement. Bill McNally's roving eye reported an exceptionally good representation of good lookers among the fair sex.

The bantams lost their first game in their last six starts but it was a big one costing them their lead at the top of the section. Loyola nosed them out 2-1 at Westmount artificial rink.

Tony Tyrell, playing a bang up game put the Saints ahead at the seven minute mark of the opening period but the Collegians rallied near the end of the first period on a hard low shot from fairly far out that appeared screened.

They went ahead on a 30 foot drive in the second period. Peter Johnson, Tony Tyrell and Fred Fisher were the best for the losers, who enjoyed at least an even share of the play but nullified their opportunities by failure to pass or shoot when in position. Peter Johnson on the Academy defence played a particularly brilliant game and probably the stand-out player on the ice.

Connie Nucci, leading scorer and a sparkplug in the teams rise to contention, was decidedly not at his best and tired badly in the later stages of the game.

Peter McCormick and Claude Servant, two regulars that played a prominent part in the teams previous successes, tried hard but could not seem able to untrack themselves as the hard skating Loyola forwards bottled them up. The loss was a bitter pill to swallow but the team members should not feel too badly, as they are having a fine season just the same.

The hockey teams would like to pass along their appreciation to Owen Kennedy

Pidduck, Leadbetter lead Trinity pin

The Trinity season's high triple is held by A. W. Leadbetter (555), followed by J. Pidduck (543), who rolled a single of 235 to claim the season's high single from C. Spencer and Leadbetter.

The 400 Club: H. Gosse 489, C. Dumeresq 484, H. Uppedine 425, E. Stirling 417, A. Howard 413 and C. Spencer 407.

Black are still on top with 85 points followed by Browns 76, Blues 65, Reds 63, Maroons 61, Whites 55, Tans 52, Greys 47.

Pitchers take rough treatment

Rough treatment of the hurlers featured a slugging duel in the Military Fastball League as Black Watch batters pounded out 31 hits in a 28-20 drubbing to Maisonneuve at the Kilties Bleury street armory.

Ian MacAuley, with five blows in six tries, and Tommy Litchfield, six for six, were the leaders on the attack against Dick Dorais, Jean Boileau and Claude Bastien. Ross Southward, Alastair Pryde and Tom Price were the Black Watch hurlers with Litchfield behind the plate.

Jules Tremblay and Paul Dorais, each with four hits in six trips, were top batters for the Maisonneuve soldiers.

The other game on the card at RMR armory showed the pitchers more in command as Fusiliers trounced Royal Montreal 7-3.

Batteries were: Gaston Proulx and Andre Baillant for Fusiliers, Marv Bergson and Rick Bergson for the home forces, Baillant with three for three and Andre Gohier, two for two, stood out at bat for the winners.

LCC cage team in 67-34 win

Ottawa. — Montreal's Lower Canada College Senior basketball team swept to a 67-34 victory over Ashbury College here in an exhibition contest.

Coach Chris Bryson's LCC cagers were in command throughout. They increased their 15-point halftime lead gradually in second half to finish on top by the wide margin.

Bob Bengough popped 18 points for the winners with Hugh Penton scoring 15 points.

In a hockey encounter between the same teams, LCC beat Ashbury 3-1; Fred McRobie, Ewing Attridge and Rick Moore scored for the winners.

There were 8,000 passenger cars in the United States in 1900; today, there are more than 56 million.

St. Leo's lose two to LCC curlers

Lower Canada College has moved into first place in the High School Curling League by virtue of two wins over St. Leo's.

The LCC rinks beat St. Leo's 12-5 in a double-rink competition at St. Georges Club.

Skip Mike Coristine's foursome won 6-4 and skip Mike Berrill's team won 6-1 for the combined 12-5 result.

St. Leo's holds second place in the standings with Loyola third and Westmount High fourth.

J. M. Spencer tennis head

J. M. Spencer was elected president of the Mount Royal Tennis Club at the annual general meeting at Victoria Hall, Westmount. He succeeds Jean Rinfret.

A. W. Fogarty was elected vice-president with J. G. Pike honorary secretary and R. M. McBean honorary-treasurer.

Named to the management committee were: F. A. Carpenter, B. O. N. Gallery, R. Gelhay, J. E. Gibbons, K. C. Hague, L. W. Holland, C. Irving, C. F. Reuter and G. St. Cyr.
